Eastern Hi helps Mrs. Santa

Ten Eastern High School students, in want to raise the schools academic standards and increase its involvement in community affairs, donated $25 to the AFRO's Mrs. Santa Campaign last week.

Nine members of the 9th grade class and one 12th grade student from the all girls school presented their donation to Mrs. Santa, who used the money to help needy families during the yule season.

According to Miss Precious Tindal, a history teacher and sponsor of the group known as Powerful Eastern People (PEP), the teen d raising campaign began Nov. 15.

Fund raising activities included cookie sales and a donata break which were held at the school.

Miss Tindal revealed, "We hope this activity will encourage other young people as well as organizations to play an active role in the community."

Members of the PEP are Tanizahn Jackson, Missa Jeanette Bowden, Michelle Coburn, Brenda Perry, Gillie Redding, Joanne Thomason, Robin Mc Murray.

Also: Misses Denise Sparrow, Rosemary Segers, Carolyn Simms all 12th graders and Miss Carolyn Wiggins, junior counselor.

TO MAKE OTHERS HAPPY—AFRO's Mrs. Santa, who is really Mrs. Marie P. Cooke, spot checks 150 baskets of goodies from Pantry Pride which will make some needy families on her lists very happy on Christmas Day. Also shown are (L to R): Sidney Miller, Sherman Lewis, manager; Mrs. Santa, Master Sgt. Lloyd Scott, Sp/4 Timothy Riley and PFC Sherman Bumderry.

Mrs. Borsier dinner hostess

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Borsier of 2731 Raynor Ave., and Mrs. Pauline Hicklin were hosts at a family dinner on Christmas Day.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Claiborne and sons, Mark and Morris; Mrs. Mobel Dulles and son, Morris Dulles, Miss Carolyn Dulles, Leon Brown and Harry Jones.

"Faith in God, each other," under girded Wilkins union

A rededication service and reception, held in Israel Baptist Church, marked the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilkins . . . a marriage, they say, which has been undergirded with faith in God and in each other.

Mrs. Wilkins is the former Josephine Miller. She and Mr. Wilkins were married in ... and have been ardent workers in Israel Baptist Church for 47 years. Mr. Wilkins serves on the Usher Board. His wife is a member of the Missionary Society and the James H. Williams Memorial Club. Apart from their church activities, Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins enjoy spending time visiting the sick and spreading cheer to others less fortunate than themselves.

Participating in the anniversary program were Mrs. Bernice Meade, who led the Thanksgiving service; the Rev. Edmond D. Meade, who gave the prayer; Mrs. Estelle Massenburgs, soloist; Mrs. Bernice Walker, accompanist; and tributes by Mrs. Julia Jolly for the Wilkins children; and Mrs. Annie Claborne and Mrs. Virginia Goldsmith, for the 150 guests who attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins are parents of six children, 14 grandchildren and three

Baskerville-White wedding in Union Church, Sunday

with Lula Mackay

Mr. and Mrs. George (Bernice) White stopped this morning, took long, deep breaths, and sighed with relief. Wedding plans for their daughter, Marlene Lenora and James Baskerville had been neatly wrapped up . . . and in record time. Miss White and Mr. Baskerville will exchange vows in Union Baptist Church, Sunday, at two in the afternoon.

Out of a clear sky the Whites had received a call from Mr. Baskerville from Barston, Calif. He wanted, he said, to get their consent to his and Marlene's marriage. The ... gave consent (they are ... said, quite fond of Mr. Baskerville and had known of his and their daughter's friendship for some time), and said they would discuss plans later.

"No", said the eager young man. "I'm lonesome here. She's lonely there. We want to be married right now. Miss White had something of the same idea. She could, she explained, fly out to Vegas, where he would meet her, and they could be married there.

That's where the "no's" came from Mr. and Mrs. White. They wanted their daughter married at home.

So, Mr. Baskerville will fly in Friday. The bride-elects' sister, Myra, flew back from Kingston, Va., Wednesday, to be attendant. The wedding ensemble was quickly assembled; a beautiful whitesilk crepe, maxi length, with a skirt that curves up the front, outlined with ruffles. Little strapped slippers, a cap of seed pearls, and the order is for an old-fashioned nosegay.

A reception following the church ceremony, will take place at the family's Mondawmin Ave. home.

Mr. Baskerville is the son of Mrs. Mildred Baskerville, and is a Bendix trainee at the Space Tracking station at Barston. He is a junior technical engineer. He studied at Morgan State College.

Miss White, who studied at the University of Maryland and the Community College of Baltimore, is a computer programmer at the Eastside Center.

They will fly to California Sunday night.

On the 23rd, the annual tour of homes decorated in the spirit of Christmas by the talented members of the For-Wan-Ash Garden club began at the lovely home of Dr. and Mrs. Albert Laforest of Hilton Road.

The gardens were nestled all smug in peat moss, but the homes of members were wide open to members and visiting guests.

YOU'RE A VIP WHEN YOU TRAVEL BY AIR.

by Mark Hammond

Chances are, you'll be riding in a super-expensive "limousine" of the air. No matter where you're sitting, up front in First Class or in Economy or Coach. In any seat, you're a Very Important Person.

Your air and ground crews are very important people themselves but they're working for you. Ever notice how the pilots, stewardesses and ground-crew people carry themselves with an air of confidence and competence? Well, they should. Those people are all carefully chosen, expertly and expensively trained. Man, you can go to college for a year with what it costs for just one hour of pilot training on a Boeing 747.

And don't forget the white-coveralled mechanics. Those guys are real professionals. All licensed by the government, before they can even take the written test for a license. They need at least 30 months of special schooling or an equivalent amount of supervised on-the-job training.

Your "limousine" of the air gets VIP (Very Important Plane) service, too, you know! Airline maintenance uses expensive computers to monitor every functioning part of a plane and its engines. Each plane has a regular schedule of checks. Over its lifetime the average jet gets five man-hours of inspection and upkeep for every single hour in the air.

Your low-priced ticket even includes high-priced VIP service. Before you get aboard, about eight service people prepare for your comfort and convenience. They make sure there's a fresh supply of newspapers, magazines, pillows and blankets. Also postcards, playing cards, headsets for stereo or movies. All of the little things to make you happy. If you're a parent traveling with a baby, the stewardess has disposable diapers and powder. If you're a man wanting to tighten-up a bit, the stewardess will lend you an electric razor.

So, if you're planning to go somewhere, travel by air. And be a real VIP.
