INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 39 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparalleled, and successful manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral Incorruptible Teeth, and can confidently assert that they are superior to any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth forever retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. Be it also remembered, that Dr. W. proportions his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when PURE GOLD is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dentistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.

1. Artificial Teeth out of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.

2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.

3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carrat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as CHEAP WORK is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even SILVER is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent use in the mouth.

4. Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

5. Those individuals who cannot afford to pay the fee of 50 cents for extraction, can have this important operation performed any morning WITHOUT CHARGE, by calling between the hours of 8 and 9 A. M.

Individuals requiring the assistance of a Dentist, may avail themselves of Dr. W's services at any hour of the day throughout the year, to suit their own convenience.

TEMPERANCE MEDALS.

JACOB SEEGER has ready THIS DAY (Monday,) splendid MEDALS, got up expressly for the Grand Temperance Celebration on the 5th of April next, and for sale at his store, No. 2436 MARKET STREET.

DESCRIPTION. First side a beautiful representation of Resolution, surrounded with the motto "Temperance, the fountain of health, wealth, and happiness." On the reverse side, "Struck in commemoration of the Temperance Celebration, Baltimore, 5th April, 1841."

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 92 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.
P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

REMOVAL.

THOMAS M. CROUCH has REMOVED his Brush, Basket, and Wooden Ware Factory and Furnishing Store, from Baltimore street, to No. 6 CENTRE MARKET SPACE, (4th house from Baltimore street,) where he will be pleased to wait on his old customers and the public generally.

Persons commencing housekeeping, will find it to their advantage to call and select from my assortment of BRUSHES, BASKETS, TIN WARE, WOODEN WARE, &c. as I will make a liberal discount to those who make their general bill at my Store.

☞ Mr. JOHN S. BRASHEARS has a Tin & Sheet-iron Ware workshop in the rear of the Store, and will make and repair all kinds of Tin and Sheetiron work, Spouting, Roofing, &c. in a workmanlike manner, at short notice. His friends and the public are invited to patronize him. ap1-tf

BALTIMORE LOCKE DISPENSARY,
No. 17 HARRISON STREET,
Established for the cure of one class of diseases.

BY the use of that infallible remedy, Dr. HUNTER'S RED DROP, by an experienced physician of five years practice in New York. The nature of the medicine is such, that it drives every vestige of poison from the system, and so gentle, that the most intimate friend cannot detect the use of it—without pain or hindrance from business. One bottle is warranted to cure, or the money returned.

Price $1. Private Rooms attached. Advice gratis.

☞ The only place in this city, where the genuine Medicine can be obtained, is at No. 17 HARRISON STREET. All medicine sold elsewhere, under the name of Hunter's, is a base fraud. mh17-tf

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

ANNAPOLIS, April 2, 1841.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. Mr. Legrand presented the memorial of sundry citizens of the city of Baltimore, protesting against any further appropriation to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, which was read and ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Legrand presented the memorial of Henry and Amelia Goverman, praying an act to authorise the hearing of a certain appeal at the next term of the Court of Appeals, which was read and referred to the Committee on Grievances and Courts of Justice.

The report and resolutions in relation to the Constitutional rights of slave holders, and the case of Bemis and others, were sent to the Senate.

Mr. Gaither, from the Committee on corporations, made a favorable report upon the bill from the Senate supplementary to an act to authorize the New Castle and Frenchtown Turnpike Company to make a Rail Road from Frenchtown to the Delaware line, in a direction towards New Castle.

The House then took up the order of the day, being the bill to complete the Canal to Cumberland, and were engaged in the consideration thereof until the recess.

SENATE. In the Senate yesterday afternoon, Mr. Howard of Baltimore, reported a bill for the relief of Alexander Nisbet and wife, which was passed.

In the Senate to day, the bill to diminish the expenses of Government was rejected. Immediately after the rejection of the bill, a message was adopted, stating as the reason of the rejection of the bill, that the Senate were unable to amend it, and suggesting some amendments to the House.

Mr. Howard, of Baltimore, presented a memorial of sundry citizens of Baltimore to authorise the Mayor and City Council to appoint an Inspector of Gas.

The resolution relating to certain Wharves in the City of Baltimore was assented to.

LATE FROM TEXAS. By the arrival at New Orleans of the steampacket New York, Capt. Wright, there have been received Galveston papers up to the 23d. inst.

A letter has been received at Houston from Gen. Moorehouse, dated Franklin, March 5, who was then on an expedition against the Indians. He states that every thing is going on well, and that with 100 good men he could scour the whole Indian territory.

A Mr. Isaac Cade, was killed at Houston on the 21st inst. in a row.

They were still giving grand masquerade balls at Galveston.

The war schooner San Bernard has returned to Galveston, having left Vera Cruz on the 12th inst. after delivering to the Commander of the British sloop of war Comus the despatches brought out by Mr. Ikes for the British Minister.

The appearance of the San Bernard was by no means welcome at Vera Cruz, and batteries were erected and forces marshaled to beat off the formidable enemy—a single schooner and twenty men. Eight boats with about seventy men each were prepared to attack her, but the interference and promise of protection of a British sloop prevented any difficulty.

The Zavalla was left at Laguna on the 1st inst. her supplies of fuel and provisions not then having arrived from N. Orleans, though she is probably now on her way to this port, says the Galveston Gazette of the 20th inst.

A Mrs. Holliday was recently murdered at Austin and her husband has been arrested on suspicion of committing the deed.

SATURDAY, April 3.

CITY COURT. Mahala and Charlotte Travers, colored, charged with assaulting and beating Juliana Ballard, also colored, were tried before the Court this morning, and convicted. They were sentenced each to one week's imprisonment.

Moses Foulk, colored, charged with an assault on Ann Johnson, colored, was discharged, having been in prison some days.

Washington Norman, a youth about 19 years of age was tried for an assault on Samuel Bickley, to whom he is an indentured apprentice. The testimony in this case proved the defendant to be a reckless and incorrigible youth, acting in defiance of all moral restraint. He was adjudged guilty, and fined $15 and costs.

Elizabeth Kimberly was fined $1 and costs for an assault on Eliza Thompson.

Rosetta Appleby, colored, was tried for an aggravated assault on Elizabeth Barker, and threatening to dertroy her life. Found guilty, and sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs.

Henry J. Lynham, was charged with assaulting Wm. Gorsuch, at the fire on Friday evening last in Market alley. The defendant, it appeared, acted on that occasion as one of the pipemen of the New Market Fire Company, and after playing on the fire, turned his stream of water upon the complainant, President of the Howard Company, who was at that time standing at least ten feet from the flames. On complainant's demanding the reason for his being thus drenched, he was answered, with an oath, that the New Market would throw its water where it pleased, which led complainant and others to believe that the assault complained of was an act of mere wantonness. Some testimony was produced in order to show that the turning of the stream upon complainant was the result of accident, which, however, it failed to establish. The Court found defendant guilty and fined him $10 and costs.

John Atwell, Jr., charged with an assault on a negro named Hercules Seth, was ordered to be discharged. The Court then adjourned.

MELANCHOLY DEATH. William Boyd, Esq. superintendent of the Susquehanna & Tide Water Canal, as he was returning on the 1st inst. on the tow-path, accompanied by a young lady on a visit to his family, when, within about three hundred yards of the outlet lock, and half a mile of his home, his horse took fright, and leaped with him into the basin. Some persons on the opposite side of the basin, hearing his cries and the call of the lady, hurried over to his assistance. He could not have been more than five minutes in the water, which was between seven and eight feet in depth. His son Dr. J. J. Boyd, and Drs. Suppington, Evans and Hopkins, repaired as speedily as possible to the spot. Every effort which medical science could suggest was made for his recovery but without effect. The vital spark had fled. Thus has his family been deprived of its head, our community of one of its most prominent members, and the company of a faithful and efficient officer.

To Dr. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public papers over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences.

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY BY BULL & TUTTLE, No. 7 NORTH GAY STREET, BALTIMORE, Md.

VOLUME IV.] TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 6, 1841. [NUMBER 24.

ARRIVAL OF THE BRITISH QUEEN. LATE AND HIGHLY IMPORTANT FROM ENGLAND.

We are indebted to the New York Sun of the 4th April for the following highly important foreign intelligence.

☞ A special Messenger from London to Portsmouth, exclusively for the New York Sun. ☜

Great excitement in relation to the McLeod Affair—Naval and Military preparations against the U. States—Fierce for war—Panic produced by the news taken out by the George Washington in relation to the Bank of the U. States—Late news from China, India and Egypt by extraordinary express, and furnished by a special express to the Sun alone.

The British Queen, for which public expectation has been excited for a week past, arrived at quarantine about three o'clock this morning, bringing us full London and Liverpool files, and interesting letters from our correspondents, to the day of her sailing, 10th of March.

The Queen experienced a very rough and disagreeable passage, and on the 30th ult. having then been out 20 days, found herself obliged to put into Halifax for fuel. She left Halifax on the 1st, and made the passage to this port in three days.

The news she brings is of the most intense interest, and we hasten to lay it before an anxiously expecting public.

Our London agent started from London for Portsmouth and Spithead, on the morning of the 10th, with all the London morning papers of that date, and our usual files and letters from correspondents.

The people of England appear to have been panic struck at the intelligence which reached that country by the packets George Washington, United States and Westchester, from New York. The first named vessel took out the news of the stoppage of the United States Bank—the second that of the indictment of McLeod, and the Westchester Mr. Pickens' Report in Congress on the McLeod affair. These three causes combined, created a sudden panic among all classes of persons, and the funds at the Stock Exchange were materially lowered in consequence.

We find it utterly imposible in our limited space, to give at this moment even a synopsis of the comments of the press upon this intelligence, but upon Mr. Pickens' Report, which seems to have created the greatest shock, the Globe says—"The painful effect which this intemperate 'party document' must otherwise produce on the strongly cherished hopes of the people of this country, of an amicable adjustment of the dispute, will be much relieved by the tone of the principal speakers in the debate which ensued on the question of printing the report.

We see nothing in this manifesto of empty and unreasonable denunciations, qualified as they are by the strong expressions of dissent and reprobation with which it was received, to shake our belief that peace will be preserved,

The Morning Chronicle of the 9th says:—The publication of this report created considerable uneasiness. In this feeling, we confess, we do not altogether participate. The very men who drew up this document—it is plain upon the face of it—must have felt they were putting their names to a case upon which no nation would venture to enter upon hostilities. The language of the report is not the language of men who either were convinced that they had a good cause, or were determined to go to extremities in a bad one.

The Times says:—We shall not quote from this offensive and unjust tirade, but we earnestly invoke our readers to study it in extenso for themselves, and then judge themselves what chance exists of fair or just treatment for Great Britain from those authorities with which such a catalogue of insults could have originated.

If the Harrison Government be, as we believe it will be, against the report, is there not ground to fear that they might be too feeble to resist the war faction?

From the Money articles in the same papers, we find that this American news caused a panic in the markets.

The Dispatch says, "the stoppage of the U. S. Bank will cause a great deal of misery here as well as in America. Shares which brought two years ago £24, are now anxiously sold at £14 10s."

The Morning Herald says, "the financial and political news from New York produced a considerable impression on the Stock Market, but the depth of this impression would be ill measured by the actual decline merely in quotations of stocks, for it must be remembered that the funds were on the rise, and with a firm tendency to a greater rise still.

The Globe of the 8th says:—The arrival of the Westchester from New York, whence she sailed on the 16th February, brings certain information that the Congress of the United States, by the large majority of 103 against 68, had voted in favor of the report on the McLeod affair, which was calculated to excite hostilities with England. The subject being thus taken up by Congress, the government must of course act in conformity with the will of the majority, and therefore the chance of seeing the acts of the inferior jurisdiction of the state of New York overruled by the General Government no longer exists. It makes the danger of a collision more imminent than it was before.—Our citizens viewing it in this light, have shown a much greater degree of alarm regarding the question this morning, than they did on the receipt of the previous communication; and stocks fell 3-8 or 1-2 per cent. immediately after the opening of business.

CITY, 12 O'CLOCK.—The effect of the unfavorable news received yesterday from America is wearing off here; but we perceive that it is viewed in a serious light in Lancashire, where people have begun to purchase cotton largely, under the impression that some interruption to the trade with America may possibly take place, and that article has consequently advanced in price.

TWO O'CLOCK. Consols for money had reached 88 3-8, but they have again fallen to 88 1-8 to 1-4, and for the Account 88 1-2 to 3-8; New 3 1-2 per Cents, 96 7-8 to 97; and Exchequer Bills 7s. to 9s. premium. [Globe of 9th, P. M.

In the House of Lords on the evening of the 8th, reference to the Congress report, its effect upon the funds, &c., was made by the Earl of Mountchasel, who felt disposed to doubt the authority of the document, and appeared to suspect that it had been got up for stock-jobbing purposes. He thought that, if genuine, a document more violent had never been penned by one country respecting another; and he put the questions to Lord Melbourne whether her Majesty's government considered the document genuine or not, and whether any official information had been received on the subject.

Lord Melbourne replied that he was not able to answer these questions, but he apprehended that no doubt could be entertained of the authenticity of the document.

MOST IMPORTANT INTELLIGENCE!

A SQUADRON ORDERED TO AMERICA!!

The Times and other papers state as a positive fact that some part of the squadron, believed to consist of ten sail of the line, which had been engaged on the Coast of Syria, had been suddenly ordered off the Coast of America, to support the remonstrance of the British Minister, Mr. Fox, against the "judicial murder of McLeod."

INFANTRY FOR HALIFAX! The Times also states, that "three battalions had been put suddenly under orders for Halifax," and adds, "God knows how the home service of the realm could be furnished after their departure."

The Atlas says, "War with America must and will as surely follow upon the murder of McLeod as the light of morning follows the darkness of night; but then this war will be a war without any definite object, except revenge for an injury which cannot be atoned."

We cannot occupy any more space with this exciting subject at this time, but we promise to refer to it again hereafter.

The news from the Continent we find of very little interest.

In France every thing is as quiet as at our former dates.

TURKEY, EGYPT AND SYRIA. The Austrian Observer of the 26th ult. states that "intelligence from Constantinople of the 15th ult. informs us, that the Sultan's firman, granting to Mehemet Ali and his family the Pashalic of Egypt hereditarily, had just been prepared.

The firmans had been forwarded to Alexandria on the 14th ult. The first contained the order to invest Mehemet Ali with the Pashalic of Egypt, as likewise the rules and regulations to which the Pashas of Egypt are to be subjected. The second firman invites Mehemet Ali to send the arrears of tribute due for Arabia, Canadia and Syria, to Constantinople. The third firman places the provinces of Sennar, Nubia, and Ethiopia, provisionally under the orders of the "Governor" of Egypt.

It would appear, says the London Times, that the Turkish Government anticipate a refusal on the part of Mehemet Ali to accept the terms with which his recognition by the Sultan was accompanied.

The Ottoman Porte had addressed a circular to the ambassadors, announcing to them that the Egyptian affair being concluded, the blockade of the coast of Egypt was raised, and the liberty of commerce re-established.

The London Times states that a protocal has been signed by all the powers, party to the treaty of July, in which it is declared that the provisions of that convention are brought to their natural close in consequence of the fulfilment of the purpose which it was intended to accomplish; and that a definitive arrangement, to which France will be a party, may be the speedy and appropriate consequence of the expiration of the late treaty.

The letters of our correspondent we shall be under the necessity of publishing at some future day.

CHINA, INDIA AND EGYPT. By an extraordinary express from Marseilles, in anticipation of the overland mail from India, late intelligence from China, from the several presidencies of India, from Alexandria, and from most of the ports in the Mediterranean, was received in London on the morning of the 10th, and was brought by express to Liverpool by our agent at London, in season to be despatched by the British Queen.

The great object of interest in the intelligence received by this express is the state of the British relations with the Chinese Government. The negotiations up to the 10th of December, which is the latest date of the news from Macao, appear to have produced nothing, for the Chinese seem desirous of shuffling and delay.

On the 16th of November Admiral Elliot issued a notice at Chusan to the British there, stating that a truce had been concluded with the Chinese, binding them within certain limits, the British boundaries being Chusan and the small islands adjacent. This notice accompanied with a recommendation to endeavor to conciliate the Chinese. The other Plenipotentiary, Captain Elliot, issued a circular declaring that the interests of the British at Chusan should be attended to during the negotiations. In the mean time, a dreadful mortality diminished the troops there.

The Admiral, with a considerable portion of the squadron, arrived on the 29th of November at Tongkoo. On the 21st Captain Elliot proceeded in the Queen steamer towards the Bogue forts, in order to deliver a letter for Keshen. A boat was sent off with a flag of truce flying, but it was fired at by the Chinese from the fort. The boat returned, and several shots were fired at the steamer, one of which struck her. Two shells were thrown into the fort from the steamer, which then rejoined the squadron.

Captain Elliot went subsequently to Macao, and by some secret means contrived to send the letter. An apology was demanded for the insult to the flag of truce, which, after some delay, was assented to by Keshen.

On the 26th of November preparations were made for an attack on the Bogue forts, as Keshen was suspected of producing unnecessary delay.—He, however, made his public entry into Canton, having taken care to give previous notice of his arrival to the Admiral. On the 29th of November the Admiral, on the ground of serious indisposition from palpitation of the heart, resigned the command of the expedition to Com. Sir J. J Gordon Bremer, and sailed for England on board the Nolage.

The proceedings at Canton have since been strange. Keshen, on the ground that the people were opposed to his going to communicate in person with the outside barbarians, is said to have declared that he had no interview with them at Peiho, and sent two subordinate mandarins to confer with Captain Elliot. Some efforts were made to liberate Mr. Stanton, which were successful. Nothing is known of the other prisoners.

Threats are stated to have been used by the Commodore, whose nomination to the command has been hailed by all the British at Macao, that unless Keshen would begin the negotiations in reality, recourse would be had to hostilities.—The 14th and 17th of December had been named as the days of attack; but on the 13th, Captain Elliot went to Macao, and told the merchants that the negotiations were still open. Great anxiety is felt at Bombay about the results, for while some pretended that Keshen is sincere in his efforts to make peace, others denied the fact, and stated that hostilities would become imperative. A few days would decide.

Tranquillity prevailed in India, and the intelligence by the express brought nothing of importance from any of the presidencies.

The commander-in-chief of the Madras army, Sir S. F. Whittingham, died of apoplexy on the 19th ult. He has been succeeded, ad interim, by Major General Allen, during the absence of Sir Robert Dick, the senior officer. Great apprehension prevails respecting the Goleonda transport, which took soldiers for China from Madras, in September, and has not been heard of since she passed Singapore.

[From our Correspondent, by Express from London to Southampton.]

LONDON, March 10, 12½ o'clock! The greatest excitement prevails in the city, occasioned by the promulgation of the news by the overland mail from India and China. Tea has suddenly risen in price, and the stock market is very much depressed, and exhibits a downward tendency.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

ANNAPOLIS, April 3, 1841.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. Immediately after the reading of the journal, Mr. Randall submitted the following order:

Ordered, that the insertion upon the journal of the report of the Sergeant-at-Arms of the 24 April, was made more for the purpose of according with ordinary usage, than with any view to notice particularly the conduct pursued by the members from Somerset and Talbot in relation to their absenting themselves from the House, because it is believed their action was directed rather by momentary impulse than by any deliberate motive to treat this house with indignity.

Mr. Bowie offered as a substitute for said order, the following:—"Ordered, that the refusal of James L. Martin, Esq. a member of this House, to attend in his place after being summoned to do so by the Sergeant-at-Arms by order of this House, and the answer referred to by the said Sergeant-at-Arms to have been sent to the Speaker which appears upon the Journal, is a contempt of this House, and deserves the severest punishment (unless explained) which this House can inflict. And the neglect of Jehu Parsons, Esq. also a member of this House, to attend in his place after being summoned to do so by the Sergeant-at-Arms under an order of this House, and his departure from the seat of Government, deserves to be reprimanded; but for as much as the session is so near a close that it would be impossible to procure the attendance of the said persons, Jas. L. Martin and Jehu Parsons Esq's. in time to take any further proceeding in the premises, therefore, the House in this form express their sense of their misconduct. The order and substitute were both rejected.

Mr. Causin then submitted the following order:—"Ordered that the unexplained refusal of Jas. L. Martin and Jehu Parsons to obey the orders of this House, attempted to be enforced through the Sergeant-at-Arms, is a contempt of the rules, and deserves the censure of this House,—but as the session is so near its close, be it further ordered that no other proceedings be had in the premises.

Mr. Jones of Somerset offered the following as a substitute:—"Ordered that the members reported by the Sergeant-at-Arms be called on, when they next appear in this House, to render a reason why they disobeyed the order of this House." The substitute was rejected and the order offered by Mr. Causin was adopted.

The House then resumed the consideration of the order of the day, being the bill to complete the Canal to Comberland.

IN SENATE. Mr. Howard of Baltimore, presented the petition of the Gas Light Company of Baltimore, counter to the memorial of sundry citizens.

The supplement to the charter of the Patapsco Insurance Company was passed.

The resolutions in favor of the Maryland Hospital were rejected.

The bill to change the name of William Caldwell to William Quarll Caldwell of Baltimore was passed.

NEW POST OFFICE. A new Post Office has been established at Woodbine, Carroll county, on the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road—Wm. G. Shipley, Esq. Postmaster.

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Codey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

GENERAL AGENCY OFFICE,
BY GEORGE GELBACH,
N. W. Corner of Baltimore and Frederick-sts.

ALL PERSONS wanting HELP of any kind, either male or female, will find it to their advantage and convenience to apply at this office, where they will be supplied with the particular aid they may require with the utmost promptitude.

There has been a prevailing impression among some persons, that those who apply at an office of this kind are worthless and incompetent, and cannot obtain employment by any other means. This is a great misconstruction of the true merits of the case, altogether a wrong impression. Why censure them for obtaining employment by this convenient and speedy mode—which should be obviously more proper than advertising, thereby spending their money upon uncertainty, or to solicit employment from door to door. Nay, there is more certainty of obtaining worthy industrious persons through this office, than by any other possible means. No charge is made at this office, unless the object of their call is realized.

WANTED. Gardeners; Farm hands; Overseers and Managers; Coachmen; Waiters; Hostlers; Mechanics and Apprentices to various trades; Laborers; Barkeepers, Clerks, &c. to fill situations now vacant.

BOUGHT OR SOLD ON COMMISSION.

At Private Sale—Stores, Taverns, Bar Rooms, and all kinds of Business Establishments. SLAVES for life or a term of years, disposed of, and the very highest prices obtained. Those having Slaves they wish to sell, will find it greatly to their advantage to apply at this office.

LIME! LIME!! LIME!!!

THE subscribers respectfully inform their friends and the public, that they have on hand, and intend keeping a constant supply of superior Alum and Bottom LIME, (burned in a conical kiln, so highly recommended by our State Geologist, Professor Ducatel,) and that they are prepared to sell the same at the kiln at 33 1-3 cents per cask, for first quality. As our object is to furnish a first rate article at the lowest possible price, we respectfully solicit a share of public patronage.

We have also on hand, about 5,000 bushels Oyster Shell and Air Slacked ALUM LIME, which we will sell on favorable terms, for farming purposes.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M. reach	Baltimore	12 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M. "	Washington	8 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M. "	Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M. "	Richmond	5 P.M.

" Petersburg	7 P.M. "	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M. "	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M. "	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, which cannot be delayed, and is almost entirely a Rail Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads, Head Winds and Storms!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

THE MARYLAND ARCADE
Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hat: Splendid Russia Hats at $2.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3 00; Clipt Nutre Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be Ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door south of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2 50, fine Brush Hats $2 50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 6, 1841.

IMPORTANT FROM ENGLAND. The news furnished by the arrival of the British Queen has a hostile aspect; but we suspect that there is more smoke than fire. We do not believe that Great Britain will hazard the step indicated in the London papers, of sending either ships or troops to this country, for the purpose of intimidation.—Should she be guilty of such folly, she will soon discover the impolicy of the measure; for, though not as well prepared for war as we should be—(thanks to our wordy Congress,) we shall at least have the spirit to resist any attempt at dictation by a foreign Power. She will think twice before she acts once in this business. ☞See first page.

TEMPERANCE PROCESSION. In accordance with the notice heretofore published, the several Temperance Associations assembled yesterday morning and marched in procession through the streets designated. We counted the platoons as they passed the corner of Baltimore and Gay streets, and made the total number about four thousand. Time occupied in passing the place mentioned, at quick step, 25 minutes. The colours, flags, &c. were numerous and appropriate, and were dressed in mourning for the President's death. On halting at Mount Vernon Place, the assemblage amounted, as it was supposed, to near ten thousand. The Rev. Mr. Morris, after making the opening prayer, introduced the Rev. Mr. Hunt, who addressed the meeting for about three quarters of an hour, and the proceedings were closed by a prayer from the Rev. Mr. Webster.

At three o'clock, P. M. the societies reassembled in Monument Square, where they were addressed by Dr. D. M. Reese, of New York, the Rev. Mr. Hunt, and others.

We hope that the temperance ball will be kept in motion. It will decrease vice and immorality—improve the social and political condition—promote personal respectability, and insure domestic happiness. The reclaimed drunkard will be enabled to regain the position which he unthinkingly relinquished, and comfort and joy will be substituted for filth and misery. Let the noble efforts of the societies be unremitted, and the result of their labors will be most gratifying and beneficial.

The procession yesterday was a great moral exhibition, and the crowds which flocked to witness it proved the great interest which was taken in the proceeding.

THE TIMES. We counted in the papers of Saturday last, the names of twenty-six applicants to the commissioners of insolvent debtors for the benefit of the insolvent laws; one half of them for debts below fifty dollars. A casual observer might infer from the number of these petitioners, that, from the extreme pressure of the times, it was difficult to find employment. But there could not be a greater mistake. An industrious and prudent man can always find occupation and the means of support. It is the indisposition to work and the inclination to spend that produces distress, and too often compels a resort to the insolvent laws. If the laboring man be unable to find employment in town, there is generally abundance of it in the country, so that no one can have necessity as an apology for idleness. With the man who will not work the times will always be hard, whilst with the industrious and frugal every thing will be smooth and easy. Men who will play dice or dominoes, and drink in oyster cellars or taverns for hours each day, cannot expect to have money to lay by on Saturday night. They are on the road to ruin and their journey must soon terminate. What they lose by gambling or spend in drink is stinted to their unfortunate families, and the innocent are made to suffer for the guilty. It is this conduct that produces so many applications for divorce, and so many petitions to be relieved by the insolvent laws. To be married to a lazy drunkard is the next thing to being chained to a dead carcase: and we are not surprised that wives should prefer to rely for the support of themselves and children upon their own industry, to depending upon the precarious aid of a confirmed inebriate.

Extravagance and intemperance fill our papers with insolvent notices; our streets with beggars; and the penitentiary with convicts; and yet the times are held responsible by each class. Hard times, will be exclaimed by the man who will not do "a hand's turn" to better them. He will sit and complain, whilst he should be up and doing; and plead that he resorted to drink to drown care, whilst, had he been industrious, he would neither have had the latter, nor needed the former. We all seek an apology for our misconduct, and seldom take the blame to ourselves. In this, we resemble criminals who lay all their sins at the door of the devil, on the ground that, had he not tempted, they would not have been committed. It is by such subterfuges, that offenders of every description expect to whitewash themselves, and be exempt from the censure of criminality. The surest preventive of want and crime is industry. This gives activity to the body, buoyancy to the mind, and purity to the heart. The man who has these, may bid defiance to hard times; for he carries his independence about him. But, if he gamble at dominoes, or in stocks, and looks to chance for support—if he get intoxicated on old hock or new whiskey—he will be sure to be pressed by "hard times," until his name appear in the columns of the insolvent, or the calendar of the criminal.

PRESIDENT'S DEATH. On no former occasion, do we remember to have seen so universal a gloom pervading the community, as existed in this city on Sunday last, on the announciation of the President's death. A deep feeling of bereavement was manifest on every countenance, and was expressed by all classes of society, the political adversaries, as well as the friends of General Harrison. He had a strong hold on the affections of the people; and the manifestation of sorrow at the afflicting dispensation of Divine Providence was genuine and uncontrollable. The sad event was announced in the several churches in affecting terms. The impromptu address of the Rev. Dr. Johns on the occasion, was eloquent and thrilling, and bathed his congregation in tears. We never listened to a discourse more appropriate and touching, or better calculated to make a deep and lasting impression. In the other churches, we learn, the announciation was received with similar emotions. Such feelings exhibit the fair side of the human character, and are pleasing to contemplate.

Yesterday, at the meeting of the Circuit Court, Chief Justice Taney announced that, in consequence of the death of the President, no business would be transacted until after his funeral; and the court was accordingly adjourned until Thursday next. Baltimore County Court was also adjourned until the same day.

We would respectfully suggest that there be some public manifestation of respect paid by the citizens of Baltimore to the memory of the deceased President. It would be an honorable testimonial of our regard for his private worth and public services, and for his official character as President of the United States.

We copy from the National Intelligencer the notification sent to the Vice President, John Tyler, by the members of the Cabinet, and the report of the Physicians.

Immediately after the decease of the President, Mr. Webster, Jr., Chief Clerk in the Department of State, accompanied by Mr. Beall, an officer of the Senate, sat out for the residence of the Vice President, in Virginia, bearing to him the following letter:

"WASHINGTON, APRIL 4, 1841.

"To JOHN TYLER,

"Vice President of the United States.

"SIR: It has become our most painful duty to inform you that WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, late President of the United States, has departed this life.

"This distressing event took place this day, at the President's Mansion in this city, at thirty minutes before one in the morning.

"We lose no time in despatching the Chief Clerk in the State Department as a special messenger to bear you these melancholy tidings.

"We have the honor to be, with the highest regard, your obedient servants,

DANIEL WEBSTER, Secretary of State.
THOMAS EWING, Secretary of the Treasury.
JOHN BELL, Secretary of War.
JOHN J. CRITTENDEN, Attorney General.
FRANCIS GRANGER, Postmaster General."

REPORT OF THE PHYSICIANS.

WASHINGTON, APRIL 4, 1841.

DEAR SIR: In compliance with the request made to us by yourself and the other gentlemen of the Cabinet, the attending and consulting Physicians have drawn up the abstract of a report on the President's case, which I herewith transmit to you. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

THO. MILLER,
Attending Physician.

To the Hon. D. Webster,
Secretary of State.

On Saturday, March 27, 1841, President HARRISON, after several days' previous indisposition, was seized with a chill and other symptoms of fever. The next day Pneumonia, with congestion of the liver and derangement of the stomach and bowels, was ascertained to exist. The age and debility of the patient, with the immediate prostration, forbade a resort to general blood-letting. Topical depletion, blistering, and appropriate internal remedies, subdued, in a great measure, the disease of the lungs and liver, but the stomach and intestines did not regain a healthy condition. Finally, on the 3d of April, at 3 o'clock P. M., profuse diarrhœa came on, under which he sank, at thirty minutes to one o'clock, on the morning of the fourth.

The last words uttered by the President, as heard by Dr. Worthington, were these: "Sir, I wish you to understand the true principles of the Government. I wish them carried out. I ask nothing more."

THO. MILLER, M. D.,
Attending Physician.
FRED. MAY, M. D.,

ASHTON ALEXANDER, M. D.,
Consulting Physicians.

THE LATE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES. The National Intelligencer of yesterday, after giving the card from the members of the Cabinet, announcing the death of General Harrison, has the following observations on that melancholy event:

"The solemn event which is announced above, although the public will have been in some degree prepared for it, will be to the whole country an astounding blow. The uninterrupted health of the deceased patriot, his robust constitution and active strength, up to the last week of his life, had left his countrymen nothing to wish and nothing to fear in regard either to his bodily or mental capacity for the able discharge of the high trust to which he was called. The tens of thousands of citizens who assembled to witness the ceremony of his inauguration felt, in the clear tones of his trumpet voice, an assurance that he possessed health and strength equal to the arduous duties which lay before him. But this promise and this confidence were soon to suffer a sad reverse. The week before last, pursuing the practice of his active life, and his habit of early rising and exercise, the President, in the course of a long walk before breakfast, was overtaken by a slight shower, and got wet. The following day he felt symptoms of indisposition, which were followed by pneumonia, or bilious pleurisy, which ultimately baffled all medical skill, and terminated his virtuous, useful, and illustrious life, on Sunday morning, after an illness of eight days.—He expired a little after midnight, surrounded by those members of his family who were in the city, the members of his Cabinet, and many personal friends. Immediately after his demise, the members of the Cabinet retired, and drew up and signed the above announciation, and caused it to be published. In the course of Saturday, the President appeared so much better as to inspire hopes that his disease would be subdued, but about four P. M., a sudden and very unfavorable change took place, and he continued to sink until death closed the scene.

The last time the President spoke was at nine o'clock—a little more than three hours before he expired; and the words which he then uttered were so remarkable that they deserve to be recorded and remembered. While Dr. Worthington and one or two other attendants were standing over him, having just administered to his comforts, he cleared his throat, as if desiring to speak audibly, and, as though he fancied himself addressing his successor or some official associate in the Government, said: "SIR, I WISH YOU TO UNDERSTAND THE TRUE PRINCIPLES OF THE GOVERNMENT. I WISH THEM CARRIED OUT. I ASK NOTHING MORE."

These his last words were uttered in a distinct voice, and, as they were calculated to do, impressed the gentlemen present so solemnly that Dr. Worthington immediately wrote them down for preservation. They present a brief but impressive record of the thoughts which occupied the last moments of the departed patriot, and are characteristic of the Roman devotion to his country which animated him throughout his life, and shone forth even in the hour of death. Thus passed from life, and from the station on earth most worthy of a noble ambition, this good and wise and illustrious citizen. It is not for us to attempt to do justice to the solemnity of the occasion, or to the deep grief which pervades all hearts. As more fitting and adequate than any thing which we could say, we quote the impressive language uttered from one of our pulpits yesterday by an eloquent Divine:

"The intelligence of this morning, my Christian friends, has filled thousands of hearts, and will fill thousands more, with sadness and anxiety. The Chief Magistrate of our Union is no more!—One short month since, amidst the breathless attention of an immense multitude, with clear and solemn voice, he called God to witness that he would faithfully discharge the duties of his high office. He has now gone to appear in the presence of that God. The praises of his friends, the denunciations of his enemies, are alike awed into silence before this dispensation of mysterious Providence. Amid the busy schemings of man the Supreme ruler has manifested his power; and we read with trembling sadness his awful lesson, of the uncertainty of human life, the emptiness of earthly glory."

"You have seen—how recently and sadly seen, that the summit of human power affords no security from the shafts of death. The illustrious man, lately almost a nation's idol, now lies in the calm deep slumber which knows no waking till the final day. Those deeds of service to his country which were so familiar to the lips of thousands, and that fidelity to his country's good, lately so fervently expressed, and as we trust so sincerely felt—these and all else that graced his character have followed him to the bar of the just and the merciful Judge. Before that bar, my friends, we also are to appear. We know not how soon. May we so use the present time as to prepare ourselves for that awful hour."

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO CANAL. We give below the letter of a correspondent in Annapolis, in defence of the appropriation to the canal, and commendatory of the eloquence of Mr. Causin, who sustained the measure. We have no doubt of the ability displayed in the speech of Mr. Causin, for he possesses talents of a high order. But he has failed to convince us of the propriety of an appropriation at this time, or of the fallacy or unsoundness of the reasoning contained in the memorial sent from the city of Baltimore. Our citizens complain first of the increased burthen that must be imposed upon them. 2d. That if the canal be completed to Cumberland, prior to the construction of the cross-cut, the whole advantages of it will go to build up rival cities; and 3d, that if an appropriation must be made, it should be applied in the first instance to the cross-cut, so as to enable those who will have to pay the cost, to reap some of the benefits. We see nothing inconsistent or improper in these positions. We ask that the legislature shall forbear to make any appropriation, because we believe that the money cannot be raised on State bonds without great sacrifice; and because the taxes would be greatly increased. We say that the trade of the canal under present circumstances, cannot pay the interest upon the additional appropriation—and that, when that trade shall have been increased by the completion of the work to Cumberland, it will be impossible for Baltimore or the lower section of the State to derive any benefit from it, until the cross-cut canal shall be made by another appropriation. In the mean time, rival cities are to be built up by the outlay of our means. It is very natural that we should ask to be protected from this result. Suppose it to be the interest of Maryland to complete the canal from Cumberland to Baltimore, would it not be better for the State that there should be afforded to the product on the line of the canal, a choice between the Baltimore and District market, than to terminate the work at the latter place until it shall be finished to Cumberland; and, perhaps, for years afterwards? Maryland is asked to make the work—her citizens will have to pay the expense; and yet, if it be not connected with Baltimore, the whole cost will not only be a loss to the people generally of the State, but soon to increase the wealth of those who are alien to our interests.—So far as the work has progressed, it has been of no advantage to Maryland—on the contrary, we are now to be heavily taxed for its construction. And yet we are called upon to pay two millions of dollars more to finish it to Cumberland without the least prospect of being benefitted until we expend some three or four millions additional, to make the cross-cut. Under such circumstances, is it not reasonable and just, that we should ask of the Legislature to apply our money to the cross-cut in the first instance, so that we may have a fair chance for the trade of the canal as it progresses to Cumberland? We think that the ingenuity and eloquence of Mr. Causin will fail in the effort to demonstrate that this expectation is not founded in justice and reason.

In the embarrassed condition of the State finances, we think it injudicious to make any appropriation, either for the cross-cut or the continuation of the canal to Cumberland. At a happier period, the work may be completed—but we have a just claim to have the cross-cut made prior to any further appropriation to the upper section of the canal.

ANNAPOLIS, April 5, 1841.

MESSRS. EDITORS: The consideration of the bill to appropriate two millions to complete the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to Cumberland, is the all-engrossing subject now before the Legislature. It has received, as it justly merited, the undivided attention of the house for several days and nights, and has elicited the entire talent of that body in the range of discussion to which it has given rise. To-day an argument was pronounced in the house so abundantly thorough as to the true interest of Maryland in relation to this canal, as to render the passage of the bill certain.—Doubts and fears had alternately prevailed among the delegates for several days; but it was reserved for the distinguished member from St. Mary's (John M. Causin, Esq.) to dispel all doubt, and to dissipate all fears upon this momentous subject. This able representative of old St. Mary's—a county remote from any immediate interest in the works of internal improvement of the state, rising above all local or sectional considerations, when the interest of Maryland was at peril, and looking at the question as emphatically at this time one of finance only, he discussed the subject with an array of facts and reasoning utterly unanswerable. He shewed that, to halt now, in this great work, would be madness in Maryland, and an enduring monument of her folly. The part borne by the city of Baltimore in the progress of the canal, was graphically depicted. It was portrayed in juxtaposition with her present attitude to this work, and in tones of such eloquence and power, as to compel the city delegation to disavow openly the arguments of the memorial, as the basis of their opposition to the bill.

Mr. Causin, in the rebuke which he administered to your people, was courteous and respectful, disclaiming all unfriendliness to your city, avowing his pride, as a Marylander, in her greatness, and his willingness hereafter, as he had ever done heretofore, in his legislative capacity, to promote her interest, whenever that interest was not in conflict with the higher duty and obligation which he owed to the state at large. He dissected the memorial from Baltimore, and shewed that, while the citizens who signed the resolutions of the ward meetings, denounced the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal as a profitless undertaking, they yet argued that the same profitless canal would be certain to build up rival cities in the District, by the great trade which it would divert from Baltimore; that, while it invoked the state to make no further appropriation in view of the embarrassed finances of the state, was yet willing, if the state could appropriate three millions more to make the Cross Cut to a profitless work, to add to the embarrassed finances of the state. He claimed to act for Maryland, for the relief of her people; and that, regarding the tax bill as the precursor of the canal bill, he went for that measure, not as a perpetual system, but as a temporary one to redeem the honor of the state until the Canal could be finished to Cumberland, when its trade, if sufficient to build up rival cities in the District, would certainly be ample to pay the interest upon the debt, and relieve the further necessity of a direct tax. It was a masterly effort, rivetted the undivided attention of the house, and beyond all doubt, has secured the passage of the canal appropriation. Y.

P. S.—Since writing the above, the bill has passed, by a vote of 37 to 34.

PARTRIDGE SHOOTING. A very handsome painting, in a splendid gilt frame, denominated "Partridge Shooting," executed by Mr. A. C. Smith, a young and promising artist of this city, has been left at our office for exhibition. It has been highly spoken of, and much admired by various connoisseurs who have already called to see it.

It is the intention of Mr. Smith to dispose of this picture by raffle—25 chances at $5 per chance. Those desiring a handsome and valuable parlor ornament, should not omit the opportunity.

☞In digging out the foundation for the new warehouse of Messrs. Alridge, Higdon & Co., in German between Hanover and Charles streets, the workmen yesterday morning turned up the scull and bones of a human being, which, from the state they were in, leads us to believe that they have been there for nearly, if not quite, fifty years. Parts of a coffin were also found, the material of which, upon examination, was found to be yellow pine. How they came there, or who it is, we leave to conjecture.

REDUCING THE FARE. It will be seen by an advertisement in another column, that the authorities of the Washington Railroad have agreed to reduce the fare to Washington on Wednesday next, on the occasion of the funeral of the late President, to $3 for the trip—going and returning. This we are glad to perceive; it will enable many persons to witness the solemn funeral rites of the lamented Harrison, who otherwise might have been deprived of that mournful satisfaction.

LOUISIANA PURCHASE. Jefferson gave eleven millions of dollars for Louisiana, and the government have received, since the purchase, $14,537,271 for the sales of public lands—three and a half millions better than the purchase money, besides having on hand six millions of acres yet to sell, within the boundaries of the state.

ACCIDENT. A young man named Harrison Boon, was thrown from his horse yesterday in North street, and received considerable injury on the right arm and shoulder. The bruises were very severe, though no bones were broken.

ACCIDENT. As a gentleman named Norwood, residing a short distance on the Harford road, was coming to town yesterday morning in his wagon, he accidently fell under one of the wheels, which passing over his arm broke it in two places.

☞The alarm of fire about 11 o'clock yesterday morning, proceeded from the burning of a chimney in the neighborhood of the Howard Engine house in Paca street.

VERY PRETTY. An old colored man, upon hearing of the death of President Harrison, remarked—"May he have as many angels to attend him to heaven, as he had persons to witness his inauguration."

☞A fire occurred in New Albany on the 22d ult., which destroyed the large manufacturing establishment of Goulding & Co. Damages estimated at $70,000, on which the insurance was but small.

FIRE. A destructive fire occurred in N. York on Saturday. We learn from the Inquirer that 17 buildings were destroyed. There was but little insurance on any of the property.

ALTERED NOTE. A twenty dollar bill on the State Bank at Newark, N. J., altered to fifty, was detected in New York on Saturday.

There is also a Bar well filled with Cut Glass, Decanters, Tumblers, Wine, Champaigne, and a variety of other glasses. Also, a small stock of the best LIQUORS, and a few dozen of very fine old Sherry WINE. This establishment is now doing a fair business, and a person who would devote his whole attention to it, would, in a short time, realize a handsome return for his labor. Possession given immediately. For terms, and further particulars, apply to the proprietor, on the premises.

PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, by an Act of Assembly of this State, passed at December session 1832, it is provided, "that if a special or extra session of Congress should be called to commence at such period as to make it necessary in the opinion of the Governor and council, that the representatives in Congress from this State should be chosen before the time fixed by law for such election, then it shall be the duty of the governor, by proclamation," to appoint a day for the election of said representatives in Congress: AND WHEREAS the President of the United States has, by his proclamation of the 17th instant, an official copy of which has been received, convened the two Houses of Congress to meet on the 31st day of May next, I do therefore appoint Monday, the 17th day of May next, as the day for the election of Representatives from this State to serve in the Congress of the United States.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, this twenty sixth day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty-one.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 22 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months, I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh 9-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

LINES,

Written on hearing a beautiful and eminently virtuous young lady express the belief that she should shortly die.

Oh! leave us not, in youthful bloom,
But stay awhile, before thy flight,
'Twould be a melancholy doom,
To live without such spirits bright.

The world would be a desert spot,
Were all, like thee, swept from its face;
Man THUS might well deplore his lot,
Earth would become a dreary place.

Beings like thee are rare on Earth,
And lend our thoughts to God above,
Where kindred spirits, of celestial birth,
Hover around the sacred throne of love.

Such bright examples, as thou art,
Impart a sweet'ning zest to life,
Cheer its adversities, refine the heart,
And soften worldly cares and strife. ZARA.

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO CANAL COMPANY. We understand that the Stockholders of this Company assembled in general meeting at Frederick, on Thursday last, under the call lately made by the General Assembly of Maryland, and that, after a brief examination into the affairs of the company, the President and Directors then in commission were removed from office by the undivided vote of the meeting. The Stockholders then unanimously elected the following gentlemen to be President and Directors for the remainder of the term for which the late Board was elected:

MICHAEL C. SPRIGG, President.

DIRECTORS.

Frisby Tilghman,	Daniel Burkhart,
John R. Dall,	James M. Coale,
John O. Wharton,	John P. Ingle.

At this meeting nearly seven-eighths of the entire stock of the company was represented.

Resolutions were passed by the Stockholders expressing their strong disapprobation of the active interference on the part of officers of the company in party politics; a copy of which we will endeavor to procure for publication.—Nat. Int.

BETTING ON ELECTIONS. A bill has been reported to the Senate of Maine on the subject of betting on elections, which has the following provisions:—

1st. That any person who shall bet upon the election of any man to office, shall forfeit to the use of the town, city, or plantation in which he resides, a sum equal to the wager.

2d. That the person who shall receive money for any bet, shall be liable to have the amount recovered back in an action of debt by the person losing it.

3d. The third section makes it the duty of Mayors of cities, and Treasurers of towns and plantations, to sue for the sums forfeited by the first section.

4th. All goods, chattels, or personal estate so bet, are forfeited to the use of the city, town or plantation; and the persons mentioned in the last section are empowered to sue for the same.

5th. All deeds of real estate, or other conveyances to fulfill any bet, are declared void.

COTTON. Hunt's Merchants Magazine estimates the total amount of Cotton grown, at one thousand millions pounds—five hundred and fifty millions of which are raised in the United States. Of the entire amount England consumes for manufactures 350 millions of pounds; France 80 millions, and the U. States 150 millions, India and China it is stated use 250 millions, and the balance is used in the interior kingdoms of Europe, parts of S. America and Africa. The value of cotton manufactured in England is annually $175,000,000, in France $70,000,000; and in the U. States $60,000,000.

SAD OCCURRENCE THREE PERSONS DROWNED. On Friday afternoon during the heavy gale and storm which sprung up so sudden, a wherry was capsized in the Delaware on the Pennsylvania side, below Greenwich point, and three persons who were in it were drowned. Their names were James C. Britton, of Philadelphia, a Mr Mallock and Hinckman, of Gloucester Point, New Jersey. The body of Hinckman has not yet been found.

☞The Richmond and Fredericksburg Rail Road Company, not discouraged by the failure of their application to the last Legislature for aid to enable them to complete the small link of nine miles from Fredericksburg to Acquia Creek, have resolved to attempt its accomplishment by their own means. For this purpose they have added $1 to the price of travel between Richmond and Fredericksburg, which is now five dollars.

NEW BANK BILL. Mr. Miller of Adams county, Pa., introduced a bill providing that all demands against the U. S. Bank, and other banks of the commonwealth, shall be collected in the same manner as the same are by law collected from individuals, and authorising the banks to discount free from the penalties of the resumption resolutions of April 3d, 1840. The bill was referred to the committee on the banks.

MATHEW L. DAVIS. Mr. Curtis, the Collector of New York, has appointed Mr. Mathew L. Davis, long and favorably known as the Spy in Washington, one of his deputies. No writer from Washington has enjoyed a higher reputation than Mr. Davis

Dr. Chapman of Philadelphia, was sent for to see the President, and left that city on Saturday night at 12 o'clock for Washington. From the representations of the President's situation, the Dr. expressed a doubt, which was verified, that he would not be able to reach the Capitol in time.

☞A severe thunder storm was experienced in Boston and its vicinity on the 2d inst. A house occupied by Mr. Harden, in Chelsea street, was struck by lightning and much shattered. Fortunately none of the inmates were injured.

THE BANK BILL. It was reported in Philadelphia on Sunday evening, that Gov. Porter had vetoed the Bank bill recently passed by the Legislature of Pennsylvania. Not much confidence, however, was given to the report.

DIVIDEND. The Marine Bank of Baltimore has declared a dividend of three per cent. for the last six months.

MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

To Dr. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences.

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

TRUSTEE'S SALE By virtue of a decree of the High Court of Chancery of Maryland, the undersigned as Trustee, will on TUESDAY the 13th day of April next, at the Tavern of Benjamin Pain in Towson Town, Baltimore County, at 3 o'clock, P. M., offer at public sale, the following property, being part of the real estate of Solomon Bowen, deceased.

A LOT of clear land, part of Tracey's Park, near to Towson Town and adjoining the farms of Abraham Yost and Thomas Hillen, containing four and a half acres of land more or less.

ALSO A LOT of clear land, near to Towson Town, containing three rods, twenty seven perches of land more or less.

These LOTS will be sold subject to a right of dower therein.

The terms of sale are one-third cash and the balance in three and six months, with interest—the credit payments to be secured by approved bonds or notes.

Persons wishing to see the land are referred to Mr. Samuel Cole near Beatty's Powder Mill. The title may be examined on application to the Trustee.

NOTICE. The creditors of Solomon Bowen, deceased, are hereby notified to file their claims in the Chancery office, within four months from the day of sale. [mh15 eots] G. W. DOBBIN, Trustee.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Depository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

By order, R. JONES,
Adjutant General of the U. S. Army.

OFFICIAL.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, April 5, 1841.

It is with feelings of the deepest sorrow that the Secretary of War announces to the Army the death of the President of the United States.—WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON is no more. His long and faithful services in many subordinate but important stations, his recent elevation to the highest in honor and power, and the brief term allotted to him in the enjoyment of it, are circumstances of themselves which must awaken the liveliest sympathy in every bosom; but these are only personal considerations. The dispensation is heaviest and most afflicting on public grounds. This great calamity has befallen the country at a period of general anxiety for its present, and some apprehension for its future condition—at a time when it is most desirable that all its high offices should be filled, and all its high trusts administered in harmony, wisdom, and vigor. The generosity of character of the deceased, the conspicuous honesty of his principles and purposes, together with the skill and firmness with which he maintained them in all situations, had won for him the affection and confidence of his countrymen; but at the moment when, by their voice, he was raised to a station in the discharge of the powers and duties of which the most beneficial results might justly have been anticipated from his great experience, his sound judgment, the high estimation in which he was held by the People, and his unquestioned devotion to the Constitution and to the Union, it has pleased an all-wise but mysterious Providence to remove him suddenly from that and every other earthly employment.

While the officers and soldiers of the Army share in the general grief which these considerations so naturally and irresistibly inspire, they will doubtless be penetrated with increased sensibility, and feel a deeper concern in testifying, in the manner appropriate to them, the full measure of a nation's gratitude for the eminent services of the departed patriot, and in rendering just and adequate honors to his memory, because he was himself a soldier, and an approved one; receiving his earliest lessons in a camp, and, when in riper years, called to the command of armies, illustrating the profession of arms by his personal qualities, and contributing largely, by his successes, to the stock of his country's glory.

It is to be regretted that the suddenness of the emergency has made it necessary to announce this sad event in the absence of the VICE PRESIDENT from the seat of Government; but the greatest confidence is felt that he will cordially approve the sentiments expressed, and that he will, in due time, give directions for such further marks of respects not prescribed by the existing regulations of the Army as may be demanded by the occasion.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CIRCUIT COURT.

At a Circuit Court of the United States held for the County of Washington, District of Columbia, on Monday, the 5th of April, 1841, upon motion of General Walter Jones, in behalf of the members of the Bar and officers of the Court, the Court unanimously adopted and passed the following preamble and resolutions:

"Whereas this Court, in common with the Members of the Bar, the Officers of the Court, the Jurors, and all others attendant on its present sessions, cordially sympathize with the feelings which are pervading the nation at this moment in consequence of the recent demise of William Henry Harrison, late President of the United States; feelings of anxiety in a new and untried condition of the General Government; of grief at the untimely loss of a Chief Magistrate, cut off in the spring of the highest hopes of great national results from an Administration guided by the patriotism and wisdom of one in whom his public and private virtues, his enlightened mind, matured by long service and sage experience, had centered the highest confidence of the nation; whilst his benevolence and the kindliness of his nature had inspired an affection so general and so cordial for his person and character, that the mournful regrets of personal friendship mingle with all the public considerations which mark the event of his death a national calamity:

"Therefore, resolved, That this Court adjourn to Thursday, the 8th instant; that the Judges, Members of the Bar, and officers of this Court, attend the funeral of the late President of the United States on Wednesday next, and wear the accustomed badges of mourning for a month.

"Resolved, That the Chief Judge of this Court transmit a copy of the foregoing preamble and resolution, with a letter of condolence, to the widow of the deceased President.

GENERAL ORDER.

NAVY DEPARTMENT, April 5, 1841.

The Department announces to the officers of the Navy and Marine Corps the death of William Henry Harrison, late President of the United States, which occurred at the Executive Mansion, in the city of Washington, on the morning of the 4th instant, and directs that, uniting with their fellow-citizens in the manifestation of their respect for the exalted character and eminent public services of the illustrious deceased, and of their sense of the bereavement the country has sustained by this afflicting dispensation of Providence, they wear the usual badge of mourning for six months.

The Department further directs that funeral honors be paid him at each of the navy yards, and on board each of the public vessels in commission, by firing twenty-six minute guns, commencing at 12 o'clock M. on the day after the receipt of this order, and by wearing their flags at half-mast for one week. J. D. SIMMS,
Acting Secretary of the Navy.

NAVY DEPARTMENT, April 5, 1841.

The Acting Secretary of the Navy desires that all officers of the Navy, now at the seat of Government or in its neighborhood, will appear at the Navy Department in uniform, at 10 o'clock, A. M. on Wednesday, the 7th instant, for the purpose of paying funeral honors to the late President of the United States.

CORPORATION OF WASHINGTON.

The following Message was yesterday addressed by the Mayor to the two Boards:

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
Washington, April 5, 1841.

To the Board of Aldermen and Board of Common Council:

GENTLEMEN: A great calamity has befallen our country. William Henry Harrison, President of the United States, died on Sunday morning, the 4th instant, at the President's Mansion in this city, after a few days' illness. He had but just entered on the duties of the high office to which he had been called by an affectionate country, when it pleased an all-wise Providence to summon him to another world. His Funeral will be solemnized on Wednesday, the 7th inst., in this city. Participating, as I know you do, gentlemen, deeply and sincerely, in the grief which fills my own and all hearts, at this great public bereavement, I have deemed it proper to make to you this communication, and to express my readiness to unite with you in paying such honors to the memory of the illustrious and lamented deceased as you may consider it appropriate to direct.

Very respectfully, your ob't serv't,
W. W. SEATON.

Whereupon, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, &c. unanimously, That we bow with reverence, deep humility, and submission to the inscrutable Providence of our God, while we shroud our hearts in sorrow for the death of our late Chief Magistrate, William Henry Harrison, the honest and enlightened patriot, the faithful war-worn veteran, the pride and ornament of our country. That the event, so unlooked for, so astounding to the mind, so thrilling to the heart, has cast a shade of sadness over the bright aspirations of our fellow citizens, a cloud of deep gloom over their cherished anticipations of honor and usefulness on the part of the deceased under which we cower, while we commend them and ourselves to the care and protection of Divine mercy.

Resolved, &c., That from the depths of our souls we sympathize with the heart-stricken widow, the orphaned children, the relatives and friends of the deceased, and beseech our God to afford them pure and holy consolations under the bereavement such as this world cannot give.

Resolved, &c., That we recommend to our fellow-citizens, and adopt the recommendation for ourselves, to wear crape on the left arm (or other symbol of mourning) for the term of sixty days, and to abstain from all secular pursuits during the time of interment, in testimony alike of our sorrow and respect.

Resolved, &c. That the Corporate Authorities will, in a body, unite in the funeral solemnities of the occasion.

Resolved, &c., That the Mayor cause a copy of these resolutions to be presented to the family of the lamented dead, in the name of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council of the city of Washington.

Resolved, &c., That both Boards will adjourn forthwith.

FROM THE LEGISLATURE OF MARYLAND.

By the following letters to the Secretary of State, it appears that the Legislature of Maryland proposes to attend the funeral of the late President to-day, in a body:

ANNAPOLIS, April 5, 1841.

Hon. D. WEBSTER,
Secretary of State:

SIR: We are directed, by a resolution of the General Assembly of Maryland, to inform you of their determination to unite in paying a tribute of respect to the memory of the late President, by attending his funeral on Wednesday.

With great respect,
We are your ob't. serv'ts.,
RICHARD THOMAS,
President of the Senate of Maryland.
CHAS. STERETT RIDGELY,
Speaker of the House of Del. of Maryland.

Office of the Clerk of the Senate of Maryland,
ANNAPOLIS, April 5, 1841,
Half past 2 o'clock.

DEAR SIR: I have been requested to inform you that the Members of the General Assembly of Maryland propose to reach Washington by the train of cars arriving at about half past 11 o'clock, A. M., on Wednesday, the 7th instant, for the purpose of attending the funeral of the late President of the United States, the "Great and Good" Harrison. It is thought proper to communicate this information, that the Chief Marshal may have it in his power to assign the Members, 'as a body', their appropriate place in the procession immediately after their arrival.

I have the honor to be, sir, most respectfully and faithfully, your much grieved fellow citizen and servant, JOSEPH H. NICHOLSON,
Clerk Senate Maryland.

Hon. D. WEBSTER,
Secretary of State.

THE FUNERAL DAY

Of the late President, W. H. Harrison.

BY J. WILLS.

To-day unnumbered glittering tears,
Will fall for one who once could weep,
Who, rich in honors, ripe in years,
Exchanged the world for death's pure sleep.

The muffled drum and funeral knell,
Will bring sad music to the heart—
A nation's melting sorrow tell,
Which angel lips could scarce impart.

Oh! may the hero sleep in peace!
And spirits guard his place of rest,
Till God shall cause his sure release,
And pluck the laurels from his breast.

To-day a widowed nation mourns,
Her patriot-husband, head and chief,
To-day, to dust the father turns,
And leaves his children steeped in grief.

BUSINESS. The Pittsburg Advocate of the 1st inst. states that the opening of the canal has already had a beneficial influence on business.—Flour, in particular, is greatly more in demand and is looking up, though we do not hear of any advance as yet. In provisions, but little is doing and our quotations are nearly nominal. We do not hear of any transactions in Blooms or Pig metal. A considerable lot of the latter has arrived by the Allegheny and has been stored. Salt is coming in freely, and is down to $1.50. Ohio currency is improving.

NARROW ESCAPE. Last evening about dark, a horse which was rode by a boy, took fright in Lexington street, and proceeded with frightful speed down the hill to Calvert street, where he ran on the pavement. Two ladies who were passing at the time, narrowly escaped. The boy was thrown from the horse, but by holding fast to the reins, succeeded in stopping him: he was not injured.

KENTUCKY. In consequence of the call of an extra session of Congress, the Governor of Kentucky has appointed the 26th instant, and the two succeeding days, as the time for holding an election for members of Congress.

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a thorough overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good night's rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

GENERAL AGENCY OFFICE,
BY GEORGE GELBACH,
N. W. Corner of Baltimore and Frederick-sts.

ALL PERSONS wanting HELP of any kind, either male or female, will find it to their advantage and convenience to apply at this office, where they will be supplied with the particular aid they may require with the utmost promptitude.

There has been a prevailing impression among some persons, that those who apply at an office of th s kind are worthless and incompetent, and cannot obtain employment by any other means. This is a great misconstruction of the true merits of the case, altogether a wrong impression. Why censure them for obtaining employment by this convenient and speedy mode—which should be obviously more proper than advertising, thereby spending their money upon uncertainty, or to solicit employment from door to door. Nay, there is more certainty of obtaining worthy industrious persons through this office, than by any other possible means. No charge is made at this office, unless the object of their call is realized.

WANTED. Gardeners; Farm hands; Overseers and Managers; Coachmen; Waiters; Hostlers; Mechanics and Apprentices to various trades; Laborers; Barkeepers, Clerks, &c. to fill situations now vacant.

BOUGHT OR SOLD ON COMMISSION.

At Private Sale—Stores, Taverns, Bar Rooms, and all kinds of Business Establishments. SLAVES for life, or a term of years, disposed of, and the very highest prices obtained. Those having Slaves they wish to sell, will find it greatly to their advantage to apply at this office.

TO THE INSOLVENT.

Applicants can have their Papers on the lowest terms and all other arrangements accomplished.

MONEY procured on mortgages and other security.

LIME! LIME!! LIME!!!

THE subscribers respectfully inform their friends and the public, that they have on hand, and intend keeping a constant supply of superior Alum and Bottom LIME, (burned in a conical kiln, so highly recommended by our State Geologist, Professor DUCATEL,) and that they are prepared to sell the same at the kiln at 33 1-3 cents for cash, for first quality. As our object is to furnish a first rate article at the lowest possible price, we respectfully solicit a share of public patronage.

We have also on hand, about 5,000 bushels Oyster Shell and Air Slacked ALUM LIME, which we will sell on favorable terms, for farming purposes.

The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M. reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.

" Wilmington	1 P.M.	" Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection through, whilst it is evident that Foul Bacon WEATHER!! and STORMS!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS!

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hats: Splendid Russia Hats at $3.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3 00; Clipt Nutria Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be Ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2 50, fine Brush Hats $2 50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. FUNERAL OF THE LATE PRESIDENT.

The arrangements for the funeral of the late President, will be found on our first page, together with various resolutions, orders, &c. consequent upon his death. The funeral is to move precisely at 12 o'clock this day—and, from the feeling which universally prevails in this city, we have no doubt that numbers of our citizens will unite in paying this last tribute of respect.

It will be seen that both branches of the Legislature of Maryland have unanimously resolved to attend the funeral; and we entertained the hope that the corporate authorities of Baltimore would have manifested a similar feeling on the occasion. Had the Councils been convened we have no doubt that they would have adopted appropriate resolutions without a dissenting voice. It is now too late to adopt measures to be present in their official capacity; but we hope that measures will be taken to manifest their regret at the deeply afflicting event.

All the public offices in Washington have been closed, and the works on the public buildings suspended, until Thursday morning next.

Manifestations of respect. On receipt of the intelligence of the President's death in Philadelphia and New York, special meetings of the councils were called, to adopt measures suitable to the melancholy occasion. In the former city resolutions were adopted by the councils, directing the chambers to be hung with the customary emblems of mourning for twelve months; and inviting the right rev. Henry U. Onderdonk to preach a funeral sermon. The Mayor was also requested to call a public meeting of the citizens. The proceedings in New York have not reached us.

In Baltimore, where the proud column has been reared to the father of his country—in this city of monuments and patriotism—what has been done to give a public manifestation of regret for the bereavement which the country has sustained in the death of General Harrison? The councils have not been assembled, and no public meeting of the citizens has been called. Can the neglect of this duty arise from the want of proper feeling on the part of those who should act? We will not do violence to human nature by the supposition. It is an oversight; but still it is not too late to retrieve the error. Let us not be behind others in making known our regard for bravery and patriotism, and respect for the first officer in our government. Let the councils be forthwith convened, and a public meeting of the citizens be called, so that the nation may know, that the citizens and corporate authorities of Baltimore, without distinction of party, can mourn at the death of the chief magistrate of the nation, however they may have differed as to the propriety of his elevation.

The late President. It affords us great pleasure to copy the following article on the religious impressions of General Harrison, from the National Intelligencer. It was known previous to his election to the distinguished station he held at his death, that he was disposed to make an open profession of the Christian faith; but he was induced, from the purest motives, to postpone the act to a period when there could be no misconstruction of his motives—and we have no doubt, had he been spared, that he would have fulfilled his intentions. The National Intelligencer says: 'It is known that, for many years past, General Harrison had become daily more and more impressed with religious feelings, always treating serious things seriously, and showing himself mindful of his future accountability. A member of his family has stated that, for many months past, he has never omitted the reading of the Scriptures every night before retiring to rest, however harrassed by company, or worn down by fatigue. On Monday, the third day of his indisposition, and before he felt himself in any particular danger, he declared to those around him that he had long been deeply impressed with the truths of the Christian Religion, and regretted that he had not connected himself with the Church as a communicant.

'The occasion affords us an appropriate opportunity for republishing a paragraph from his Inaugural Address, which we know has been read with pleasure by thousands, and will now, we are confident, be perused again with increased interest. Already speaking from the tomb, how valuable are those sentiments of morality and religion, addressed to the living by the distinguished dead!'

"I deem the present occasion sufficiently important and solemn to justify me in expressing to my fellow-citizens a profound reverence for the Christian Religion, and a thorough conviction that sound morals, religious liberty, and a just sense of religious responsibility, are essentially connected with all true and lasting happiness; and to that good Being who has blessed us by the gifts of civil and religious freedom, who watched over and prospered the labors of our Fathers, and has hitherto preserved to us institutions far exceeding in excellence those of any other people, let us unite in fervently commending every interest of our beloved country in all future time."

Fine sport. Two boys were lately fighting in Natchez, Miss. when, to complete the tragedy, one bit the other's nose off close to the face.

Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. The bill appropriating two millions of dollars to this work has passed the Senate by a majority of one vote. The provisions of the bill are very different from what we had supposed them to be, and we doubt whether the appropriation will become available to the company. The bonds of the state are not to be sold under par, but the company can issue notes or orders on the bonds as is done by the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road, said notes or orders not to be of a less denomination than one dollar, and payable by the Treasurer out of the proceeds of the sale of the bonds—but previous to such issue it is required that contracts to be approved by the treasurer, shall be made to complete the work for the sum of two millions of dollars. We apprehend that there will be great difficulty in complying with this requisition, for we have little expectation that the work can be completed for the sum stipulated. But if this obstacle be removed, there are others which may be more difficult to overcome. Before the law can take effect it is required that the four Mining Companies of Jennings and Braddock's Runs, shall give bonds with satisfactory securities, that they will complete rail roads from their mines to the canal by the time the latter shall be completed to Cumberland: also, that two or more of the mining companies shall give bond, with such security as the treasurer shall approve, to pay annually to the state for five years, from six months after the completion of the canal, the sum of two hundred thousand dollars—which sum will be allowed in the tolls to be paid by said companies.

We are glad to learn that the bill also directs proceedings to foreclose the state's mortgage on the Canal, so that the work will become the property of the state.

It will be seen that the bill does not contemplate the levy of additional taxes at present; and we have no apprehension that taxes will become necessary, unless the holders of canal notes or orders shall think proper to convert them into stock, which we think unlikely.

As it is of the first importance to the city of Baltimore that the canal shall be continued to this city simultaneously with its completion to Cumberland, it will become necessary to ask of the legislature an issue of stock, with the privilege of issuing upon it, as in the case of the Canal Company, so that the work may be commenced as soon as possible. To this we presume the legislature can have no objection, as it will be a measure of justice, and the construction of a cross-cut has been always in contemplation, to render the canal a Maryland work. It will be time enough to move in this business at the next regular session of the legislature.

Fire. Foul Incendiary Attempt. Yesterday morning, about two o'clock, a fire was discovered in the premises owned by Columbus O'Donnell, Esq., at the northwest corner of Gay and Market streets. Fire was communicated to the building by means of an old rope, evidently saturated with rosin, which had been placed by the incendiary between the lathing of the partition dividing the entrance or passage leading to the up-stairs department from a room below, occupied by Messrs. Owen & Son as a bookstore, and ignited by a lucifer match.

In this building was the printing office and materials of Messrs. Jones, Sherwood, & Co., proprietors of the Baltimore Visiter, upon which there was no insurance. The book establishment of the Messrs. Owen was considerably damaged by water from the engines, though all loss was covered by insurance. The fire ran up between the plastering of the partition, and caught the upper stairway, which was partially destroyed. By the fortunate and timely arrival of the various fire companies, the flames were extinguished before any material damage was sustained. Our firemen deserve much praise; for, had it not been for their promptness, our city might have experienced a very severe conflagration. We hope the incendiary may be discovered and punished.

"To what base uses have we come."—What do you think, gentle reader—ye who have heard the dulcet notes of Ambroise, one of the most accomplished violinists in the country, or the neat cadences of Ramatta's flute, or the deep and powerful tones of Cassalani's contra-basso—what think ye? These three gentlemen last night performed some of their choicest pieces at the different public houses—the European Coffee House—Milhau's Colonade Baths—the Adelphi House, and Boyd's. Large contributions were raised for them amongst the gentlemen present, and their performances received well-merited applause. When Ambroise was asked why he had turned "Wandering Minstrel?" he answered that he wished to pay his honest debts—his violin was his support, and he did not wish it to remain idle. His resources at the Holliday street Theatre had failed, and he must live. We, amongst many others, regretted extremely that the talented trio should be reduced to such a low ebb. Why don't they give a concert?

Pennsylvania. The legislature has passed a bill limiting the service of the governor to one term of three years, and rendering him ineligible for the succeeding six years. Being an alteration of the constitution, if the bill be approved by the governor it has to be submitted to the vote of the people, and if sanctioned by them, must be approved also at a succeeding session of the legislature.

Arrival of Military. Last evening two military companies from Little York, Pa., the "York Riflemen" and "Washington Blues," arrived in this city on their way to Washington, to attend the funeral of the late lamented President. We give them honor for their spirit and praise for their patriotism.

☞Burglars are commencing their depredations in Cincinnati. Lately frequent attempts have been made to rob and plunder, and several merchants have suffered small losses.

THE BANK OF THE UNITED STATES—THE MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS AND REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE.

An adjourned meeting of the Stockholders of the Bank of the United States took place at the Banking House yesterday. The affair produced considerable excitement in our monetary circles, and thus, before 10 o'clock, the room assigned for the meeting was quite crowded, and many stockholders were still engaged in obtaining passtickets of admission. Samuel Breck, Esq., presided, and Messrs. Joseph R. Chandler, Chas. Gilpin, and Joseph Gratz, acted as Secretaries. The meeting was opened by Captain Stockton, who made some able remarks in elucidation of the history of the Institution, and the difficulties which had reduced her to her present unenviable condition. He was proceeding somewhat in detail, when the meeting manifested impatience for the long-talked-of and anxiously-expected Report. Many, however, were disposed to hear Capt. S. throughout, and thus, between the cries of "Hear" and the demand for the reading of the Report, no little confusion ensued. For a few moments, indeed, the scene was one of much disorder, and it required all the tact and energy of the speaker to reduce the excited elements into a condition of propriety and repose.

It was then ascertained that the Board of Directors had submitted a Report, and that the committee appointed by the Stockholders had also a report in readiness. The question was taken, when it was decided that the former should not be read, and that the latter should. The great desire, it would seem, was to get at the Stockholders' statement, especially as all sorts of rumors had been in circulation in regard to its alleged disclosures. This document was finally read by Mr. Chandler. The Report commenced by stating that every facility had been afforded to the Committee by the officers of the Bank, in furnishing and explaining books—and also by the Board of Directors. The Committee then proceeded to verify the assets, &c., of the statement of December 21, 1840, and they had found it correct. They had considered the amount, omitting the bonus for charter, and one or two other items, which were named to the meeting. They found it difficult and embarrassing to state probable losses on stocks—and also to report on the value of mortgages. Passing over the mass details of active and suspended debt, the Committee stated that but a small proportion of were regular mercantile transactions; and the report stated that under this head, 48 individuals and firms owed upwards of $20,000 each; 15 upwards of $50,000 each; and 9 upwards of $100,000 each. In another part it was said that 52 individuals had loans of more than 20,000 each, and that four others had loans amounting to $560,000. The totals of the amount of 21st of December were then named—and, as we understood, left a result of $14,820,000, to represent $35,000,000 of capital.

The relative states of the Bank were then given, for the years 1836—39—and 41. On loans of $12,000,000, raised in Europe, there was a loss of more than $1,000,000, produced mainly by the disadvantageous circumstances under which those loans were raised. Mr. Jaudon received $7000 a year as Cashier, and when he was appointed Agent in England, the Bank allowed him $5000, for loss on the sale of his furniture in this city, and more than $1000, for the expenses of himself and family in going to London. $20,000 was named in one place as having been paid to Barings. $1000 a year had been paid to Mr. Jaudon's brother for his services. The sums for foreign agent's expenses up to 1841, we understood to have been $178,044 7; and not to enter into details, we also understood that the whole sum for foreign Agency and loan expenses in Europe, from the appointment of Mr. Jaudon in England to the same date, was $335,975. The Bank had borrowed more money in Europe than it had of active debt in America. In one year, 1837—the loans had increased more than $7,000,000—while the discounts had decreased about $9,000,000.

Several officers of the Bank had engaged in large operations with money obtained from the Bank—and large sums had been loaned to speculations and undertakings by Companies, in which they had been engaged and large sums lost. Business men had not been assisted as they should have been. From March, 1835, the power had in a great measure passed from the Directors into the hands of the Officers of the Bank, who formed themselves into a kind of Exchange Committee. They did pretty much as they liked, and kept no books—very few vouchers—and much of the large business they transacted, did not appear on the discount books. In March, 1836, the bills receivable, were about $6,000,000;—in 1837, $8,000,000; in 1838, $7,000,000; in 1839, $6,000,000; in 1840, $4,041,700; and in 1841, they were reduced to only $176,954! These Bill accounts had been settled in various ways, or transferred under other heads. Included in the above, twenty-one individuals, firms and companies, had received $100,000 each and upwards; and one firm within a certain time, upwards of $4,000,000. The Report went on to cite particular cases, in which certain ex-officers of the Bank had become indebted to the Institution in very large sums, all of which were named, and had settled their accounts by stocks, railway shares, lands, &c.

The history of the great cotton speculations of the bank in connexion with the well known firms at Liverpool, was then entered upon. In 1837, up to July, we understood the amount advanced for the purchase of cotton was $2,188,000; and that the whole of the cotton transactions were $3,900,000. In the first periods of the great cotton speculations, a profit was realized—but by the last shipments, $900,000 had been lost.—Several of the ex-officers of the bank were described as having settled large amounts with Texas Bonds, Vicksburg stock, land lots and similar securities, mostly at par—when they were released from all liability. There had been large loans and transactions for years, on the part of the officers, without the sanction of the Directors. An ex-officer had taken a loan of $500,000 of the Reading Railroad, in his individual capacity, and the bank had afterwards assumed the responsibility. In the profit and loss account, an item in relation to bank notes, amounting to $400,000 was deemed by the Committee to be unsatisfactory. Another item of $600 000 had not been properly accounted for, and letters had been addressed to those of the ex-officers who were presumed to be in a condition to explain the mode in which the $600,000 had been expended—but no replies had yet been received.

Notwithstanding this picture, and it is but right to say, that the Report throughout seemed to us to aim almost too exclusively at the ex-officers, with but little allusion to the ex-Directors, whose business it was to check and prevent erroneous transactions—the Committee arrived at the conclusion that there is still more than $15,000,000 of the original capital left to the stockholders, and that the shares are worth about $46 each.

Several documents were read, and among them a letter from Mr. Cabot, of this city, vindicating his firm from any supposed improper agency in the cotton speculation.

On motion, 2000 copies of the report were ordered to be printed for the stockholders.

On motion, $500 were voted to Mr. George Sharswood, for his services as Secretary of the committee.

A resolution, offered by Richard Bayard, Esq. for the appointment of a committee to take into consideration the present condition of the Bank—to devise the best mode to be pursued to promote the interests of the stockholders—and to report at an adjourned meeting to be held on Thursday next—was adopted.

The Committee of Investigation was appointed to be such committee, with the addition of the following gentlemen:

S. Breck, of Philadelphia;
Col. W. Drayton, S. Carolina;
John S. Nicholas, Baltimore;
Mr. Swarries, New York;
Mr. Richard Bayard, Delaware.

A resolution of thanks was voted to the Committee of Investigation, for the able and faithful manner in which they had discharged their duties.

It was also resolved, that the list of shares transferred on the books of the Bank, from October 1, 1840, to April 1, 1841—should be prepared by the Cashier and published.

After these proceedings, the report of the Directors of the Bank was called for and read. This report gave the history of the resumption of specie payments—the suspension of specie payments—the late loans, negociations with other Banks, and indeed, all the recent events in the history of the Institution—the most important of which, by the the way, are already known to the public.

The meeting was then adjourned to Thursday next, at 10 A. M.

Below, we give an abstract of the arithmetical results of the Committee's Report, and shall be able in a day or two, to spread the entire documents, and probably some explanatory statements from the ex-officers before our readers. At present, it should be remembered we have but one side of the matter.

The Bank of the United States of Pennsylvania in account with its Stockholders.

BILLIARD ESTABLISHMENT,

FOR SALE. The subscriber having determined to make a change in his present business, offers for sale his BILLIARD TABLE, with the Fixtures appertaining, together with the FURNITURE of the whole establishment. The Table is from the well known firm of Penn & Moore, New York, and considered one of the best of their manufacture. The Saloon is situated in Baltimore street, on the north side, No 94, and has two entrances—one in Baltimore-st. adjoining the Lottery office, and the other in North-st. next door to the office of the Baltimore Patriot, and directly opposite the Franklin Bank. The Room is very airy and spacious and exceedingly well lighted, having 3 large windows fronting on Baltimore street, also well supplied in the rear. It has been fitted up in a handsome tasty manner, and is more advantageously located than any other in Baltimore, being situated in the most central and at the same time most lively and pleasant part of the city. The Furniture consists in part of Mahogany Tables; Cases; Sideboard; Venetian Blinds; Settees; Cane Seat Chairs, &c.; with Mirrors, and about 50 Pictures, a portion of which are very fine Engravings. There is also a Bar well filled with Cut Glass, Decanters, Tumblers, Wine, Champaigne, and a variety of other glasses. Also, a small stock of the best LIQUORS, and a few dozen of very fine old Sherry WINE. This establishment is now doing a fair business, and a person who would devote his whole attention to it, would, in a short time, realize a handsome return for his labor. Possession given immediately. For terms, and further particulars, apply to the proprietor, on the premises.

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING
THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 39 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparalleled, and successful manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral Incorruptible Teeth and can confidently assert that they are superior to any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth forever retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. Be it also remembered, that Dr. W. proportions his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when GOLD is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dentistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.

1. Artificial Teeth out of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.

2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.

3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carrat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as CHEAP WORK is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even SILVER is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent use in the mouth.

4 Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

5. Those individuals who cannot afford to pay the fee of 50 cents for extraction, can have this important operation performed any morning WITHOUT CHARGE, by calling between the hours of 8 and 9 A. M.

Individuals requiring the assistance of a Dentist, may avail themselves of Dr. W's services at any hour of the day throughout the year, to suit their own convenience.

☞ Residence No. 39 Fayette street, near the Post Office, and opposite the First Presbyterian Church.

C. T. BINCKLEY, having established himself in the above business at the CLIPPER OFFICE, No. 7 N. GAY STREET, respectfully offers his services to the public, for the execution of any orders with which he may be favored.

☞ All commands performed with neatness and celerity. He invites those who may wish to be assured of his ability, to call as above and examine specimens.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Locke, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 92 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, a light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh 6-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

THE PIRATE'S SERENADE.

See, the moon is brightly beaming,
On the lake so calm below;
List, the night breeze gently murmurs,
With thy lover haste and go.

See, the stars now lend their lustre
To guide us o'er the bright blue sea,
See, my bark stands in the offing,
And my boat, love, waits for thee.

Ha-te now, love, the breeze is swelling
To waft us o'er the moonlit wave,
Hasten, love, no longer tarry,
Come with me and rule the brave. H. J. J.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

ANNAPOLIS, April 5, 1841.

SENATE. Mr. Potts announced the death of the President of the United States to the Senate.

The Canal bill passed by a vote of 8 to 7.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. Mr. Legrand submitted a message, which was assented to and sent to the Senate. The message proposed to close the session to-morrow morning at twelve o'clock; it also proposed the appointment of a joint committee to wait on the Governor and request his attendance in the Senate to sign such laws as have been passed.

Mr. Weems reported a bill for the relief of David Grieves and Cornelius Ryan of Baltimore. The bill after having been amended, was passed and sent to the Senate. It also passed the Senate.

On motion of Mr. Randall, the house considered the bill reported by Mr. Legrand—authorizing certain alterations and repairs in Baltimore County and City Court rooms.

Mr. Legrand offered as a substitute for said bill a bill entitled an act providing for the payment of the costs of certain alterations in Baltimore County Court rooms.

The substitute was accepted, passed and sent to the Senate. It also passed the Senate.

On motion of Mr. Bowie, the House took up the bill reported by him, imposing a tax on protested bills of exchange and promissory notes. The bill was rejected.

On motion of Mr. Graves, the House took up for consideration the bill from the Senate to make valid a deed from Chas. B. Bland, of Baltimore County, to Helena Stewart, of Baltimore City. The bill was passed and sent to the Senate.

The House considered the bill supplementary to an act to regulate sales by public auction: The bill was at first rejected, but afterwards reconsidered and passed.

CITY OF BALTIMORE.

ORDINANCE No. 18.

AN ORDINANCE for the division of the City of Baltimore into fourteen Wards.

Be it enacted and ordained by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, That from and after the passage of this Ordinance the City of Baltimore shall be divided into fourteen Wards, bounded and described as follows, that is to say:

The FIRST WARD to comprise all that part of the city contained within the following bounds—Beginning on the centre lines of Market st. Fell's Point, with the water of the harbor; and thence along the line of said street to the centre line of Fleet street; and thence westwardly on said line to the centre line of Bond st.; thence on said street, northwardly to the centre line of E. Baltimore street; and thence eastwardly with said line and the Philadelphia road to the east line of the city; and thence with said line southwardly to the water of the harbor; and thence with said water to the place of beginning.

The SECOND WARD to comprise all that part of the city contained within the following bounds—Beginning on the centre line of Market street, Fell's Point, and the water of the harbor; and thence northwardly binding on said line to the centre line of Fleet street; and thence westwardly with said line to the centre line of Bond street; and thence northwardly with said line to the centre line of East Baltimore street; and thence westwardly on said line to the centre line of Canal-st.; and thence southwardly on said line to the city dock; and thence with the line of said water to the place of beginning.

The THIRD WARD to comprise all that part of the city contained within the following bounds—Beginning on the centre line of East Baltimore and Canal streets; thence northwardly on the centre line of Canal street to Pitt street, thence on the centre line of said street westwardly to Asquith street; thence northwardly on the said line to the centre line of the Harford Turnpike road, thence eastwardly on said line to the north line of the city; and thence on the north and east boundary line to the centre line of the Philadelphia road; and thence westwardly on said road and East Baltimore street, to the place of beginning.

The FOURTH WARD to comprise all that part of the city contained within the following bounds—Beginning on the centre lines of Pitt street and Jones' Falls; and thence on the centre line of Pitt street eastwardly to the centre line of Canal street; and thence on said line southwardly to the water of the city dock; and thence on said water westwardly to the centre line of Jones' Falls; and thence northwardly on said line to the place of beginning

The FIFTH WARD to comprise all that part of the city contained within the following bounds—Beginning on the centre line of Pitt street and Jones' Falls; and thence northwardly on said line to the centre line of Hillen street; and thence eastwardly on said line to the centre line of Monument street; and thence eastwardly on said line to Asquith street, and thence southwardly on said line to the centre line of Pitt street; and thence westwardly on said line to the place of beginning.

The SIXTH WARD to comprise all that part of the city contained within the following bounds—Beginning at the intersection of Hillen street and Jones' Falls; and thence on Jones' Falls northwardly to the limits of the city; and thence on said line eastwardly to the Harford road; and thence on said line south to the centre line of Asquith street; and thence on said line to the centre line of Monument street; and thence on said line westwardly to the centre line of Hillen street; and thence westwardly to the place of beginning.

The SEVENTH WARD to comprise all that part of the city contained within the following bounds—Beginning at the Belvidere bridge over Jones' Falls; thence along the centre of Jones' Falls to the mouth thereof at the north side of the basin; thence westwardly along the north side of the basin to Gay street; thence along Gay street to East Baltimore street thence westwardly on said street to North street; thence northwardly along said street to the place of beginning.

The EIGHTH WARD to comprise all that part of the city which is contained within the following bounds—Beginning at the Belvidere bridge over Jones' Falls; thence southwardly along the centre of North street to Baltimore street; thence eastwardly along the centre of Baltimore street to Gay street; thence southwardly on the centre line of said street to the water; thence westwardly running and binding on the water until the same intersects the south intersection of Bowly's wharf and Pratt street; thence west along the centre of Pratt street to Hanover street; thence north along Hanover street to Baltimore street; thence west along Baltimore to Liberty street; thence north along Liberty street to Saratoga street; thence west to the centre of College alley; thence along the centre of said alley to the centre line of Mulberry street; thence along Mulberry street eastwardly to Cathedral street; and thence northwardly along Cathedral street to the city limits; thence eastwardly to Jones' Falls; thence along Jones' Falls to the place of beginning.

The NINTH WARD to comprise all that part of the city contained within the following bounds—Beginning at the intersection of Hanover and Pratt streets; thence along the centre of Hanover street to Ostend street; thence west along Ostend street to the north side of the middle branch of the Patapsco, thence along the shores of the middle, main and northwest branch of the Patapsco to Light street; thence along the eastern side of Light street to Pratt street; thence along the centre of Pratt street to the place of beginning.

The TENTH WARD to comprise all that part of the city contained within the following bounds—Beginning at the intersection of Pratt and Hanover streets; thence southwardly along the centre of Hanover street to Ostend street; thence westwardly to the middle branch of the Patapsco; thence along the north shore of the middle branch of the Patapsco to the mouth of Chatsworth run; thence along the centre of said run to Cove street; thence south along Cove street to south Paca street; thence along Paca street to Pratt street; thence eastwardly along Pratt street to the place of beginning.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND, For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Stricture, Diabetes or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. CONSUMPTION! CONSUMPTION!!

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

LOOK OUT!!

"Caution" is the Parent of Safety.

AN ATTACK of the "PILES" may be positively prevented by using (when the premonitory symptoms are felt) the celebrated HAYS' LINIMENT. There are more than one thousand people in this city, and in the United States an immense number, who have suffered beyond endurance by this dreadful complaint, who keep themselves wholly free from attacks by applying this Liniment when they feel any symptoms of its approach—of this there is the most perfect proof.

VOLUME IV.] THURSDAY MORNING, APRIL 8, 1841. [NUMBER 26.

TO THE MEMORY OF
WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON,
Late President of the United States.
[WRITTEN ON WEDNESDAY MORNING.]

"I pause,
And enter, aw'd, the temple of my theme,
It is his death-bed." Shall I dare approach
And raise the pall that shrouds a nation's pride;
Gaze on the form below'd, that met our view,
With seeming health and proud ambition flush'd,
So lately moving 'mid admiring crowds,
By foes respected and by friends revered,
Now prostrate in the grim array of Death!
Mute is the voice, whose well-remember'd tones
Thrill'd thro' each Patriot's heart, as he assum'd
The highest gift the people's voice confers;
The loftiest station worldly rank could gain,
Or emulation reach. His Country knew
The Patriot and the Statesman at her helm,
And felt secure in honor and in fame.
E'en rancorous party was subdued and own'd
His worth establish'd and his virtue pure!
Alas! on all things earthly, written deep
Must sad mutation be! One little month
And Death in triumph makes a nation mourn!
"He loves a shining mark, a signal blow,
Which, while it executes, alarms
And startles thousands by a single fall."
Almighty God! and but that chasten'd hearts
Must bow submissive to thy stern decree,
Presumptious! daring, we would murm'ring say
Thy justice slumber'd, or thy love grew cold!
Forgetting mortals, finite as we are,
But dimly see as through a glass obscur'd,
Nor know the 'wherefore' of thy dread command:
Enough to feel that he is summon'd hence
Free from the toils of state, from turmoil free
He sleeps:—thousands this day will gaze,
And gaze their last upon his marble brow!
They come to pay the last sad rites to thee,
Thou matchless Hero! thou regretted man!
The songs of joy so lately pealing forth
In tones of gladness thro' the happy land
Had scarcely died upon the lip, ere woe
And wail funeral tell the mournful tale.
May Freemen long and deeply treasure up
Thy last instructions—words that fully told
The "amor patriæ" of thy noble heart!
Oh, that thy falling mantle may impart
Thy spirit to the honor'd man on whom
Our hopes now rest—oh, may he merit well
The legacy of love that thou hast left!
May he that proudly to the winds of Heav'n
Was chanted forth in unison with thee
Redeem each pledge—deserve, as thou hast done,
Thy Country's honor and her deep respect,
And thy regretted doom this truth impress,
"Earth's highest station ends in 'here he lies,'
And 'dust to dust' concludes her noblest song."

From the Ladies' Companion for April.

LUCY WIELAND.

"Will my daughter tell me the subject of her thoughts?" asked Mrs. Wieland, as Lucy sat gazing upon a summer's sky, whose azure tint had deepened into lurid gold, by the last rays of the setting sun. "I have been studying your countenance, and find melancholy and admiration mingled in its expression."

"I was thinking of my father," replied Lucy; "you know how he loved this hour; and how often we have watched the stars appearing one by one in the firmament, until it seemed a field of glory, studded with gems, whose numbers shamed our weak comprehensions, and made us feel our own insignificance, and the glory of Him who made us all."

"Those were indeed happy hours, Lucy, yet let us not be ungrateful, that although God has called our beloved to that bright land, 'where the sun and the moon are no more needed,' He has given us the light of His word, to be 'a lamp unto our feet,' until we join your father in the mansions of the blest."

Lucy Wieland was the daughter of a merchant who, having amassed considerable wealth, had married, late in life, a lady, whose amiable disposition and high mental endowments, united with the most humble piety, rendered her a meet companion to share his every pleasure, and to soothe the evening of his days; but it pleased the Giver of life, that this happy union should exist on earth but a short time, and after eighteen years of undisturbed felicity, his soul took its flight to that 'enduring City,' where parting is unknown, leaving his widow and only child not to mourn his loss, but to feel that 'their treasure is laid up in Heaven,' and that they will find him in God's own storehouse, in 'the day that he counteth up His jewels.'

On the evening alluded to, they were hourly expecting the arrival from New York, of their much valued friend, Elizabeth Willis; who, being deprived of her parents before she was old enough to appreciate their value, or to feel their loss, was left to the care of an uncle, the extent of whose guardianship consisted in supplying her pecuniary necessities, and an occasional glance at the progress of her education; and the heart of Elizabeth would often yearn toward the peaceful cottage in Whiteoyville, where her aunt and cousin were ever ready to meet her with smiles of affectionate greeting, which fell like sunbeams upon the chilled spirit, the more warmly welcome because so seldom felt.

The traveller will find much to admire and to interest him in his way through New Haven to Whiteoyville, which is about two miles and a half from that city. Here stand the venerable towers of old Yale, and there lies the beautiful burying-ground, where the dead are not indiscriminately laid in graves, dug at the risk of disturbing each other's remains, but in obedience to the command, 'let all things be done decently and in order,' have appropriated spots, enclosed in white paling, which gives it a neat and picturesque appearance; he will also be struck with the pervading stillness, which makes him feel as if each day were the Sabbath; no mobs, no rioting, and excepting in the one street appropriated entirely to business, no bustling or hurrying to and fro—thus it preserves a quietness truly characteristic of a city whose presiding spirit is intellect.

The conversation between Mrs. Wieland and Lucy, was interrupted by the arrival of Elizabeth, and as the latter sprang into the arms of her friends, she felt her heart expand and her spirits lighten with a buoyancy seldom felt in the chill and murky atmosphere of her uncle's home.

"Now tell me, Lizzy," said Lucy, to her cousin, the next morning, when she might reasonably be expected to feel refreshed after a long night of repose, (but those young ladies who have met after a separation of some months, can judge how much of it was devoted to sleep) "can it be you have made up your mind to marry Mr. Dayton, a widower, and with a child? how often have you said you would never be a stepmother; what can have induced you to change your mind?"

"Well, coz, when you shall have become acquainted with Mr. Dayton, I think you will not be surprised to find he is possessed of my highest esteem and regard, to say nothing of warmer emotions: during the two years I have known him, I have ever found the noblest traits of character, and at times, when I most needed consolation, have been soothed by the warmest sympathy, and the most tender anxiety for my happiness, and when he sought to be the guide and companion of my future years, could I refuse that which my own heart so earnestly advocated? I shall endeavor to supply the place of a parent to his little girl. She is a sweet child, about four years old, and does not recollect her mother, who died while she was an infant, and I, who have known the orphan's lot, will be careful that she shall experience as few of its trials as possible."

"Very soberly reasoned; you have quite raised my curiosity to see this great magician whose wand has changed my lively cousin to such a calm metaphysician; when shall I be gratified?"

"I think he will be here next week; he wished to have accompanied me, but he showed me a list of interesting papers, commencing 'City and County of New York ss.' which would necessarily detain him a few days; in the meantime, Lucy, may I not hope to be introduced to Mr. Seaver? for I will not believe all your account of him, until I have ocular demonstration of his beauties, and positive proof of his excellence."

"I fear you will have little opportunity to form your opinion, as my mother objects to my seeing him often, until he shall have taken orders, and he has nearly a year to study before he will graduate; sometimes he will join us in our walks, but I am convinced it is best we should meet but seldom."

"Are you not engaged to him?"

"No; nor has he made any profession of attachment, except by the silent language of the eye, and his frequent visits, until he conversed with my mother on the subject, and she told him she could not permit them under present circumstances."

We will leave the cousins enjoying their reminiscences and their anticipations of future happiness, and transport our readers to a little room in Yale College. There sits a young student, diligently perusing a valedictory he has prepared for the ensuing Commencement, and ever and anon the form of Lucy Wieland presents itself before his imagination, her mild eye beaming with exultation, and involuntarily sharing with him the approbation of his alma mater.

"Why, why should I dwell thus fondly on hopes which may never be realized?" exclaimed he to himself. "Years must elapse before I shall be in a situation to offer her my hand, and in the meantime may she not have formed other ties!—ought I—can I be so selfish as to wish her to sacrifice present opportunity of happiness, for what must be far distant? no, I will banish her from my mind, and devote myself to the pursuit of such knowledge as will qualify me for my sacred calling! good resolutions! alas, how vainly formed—the very effort will endear that image to my heart, until it seems almost inseparable with its existence."

Educated by missionary efforts, and feeling himself bound to dedicate his life to those duties for which they were preparing him—duties which would probably separate him from the object of his affections, Henry Seaver only obeyed the dictates of his generous mind, in endeavoring to conquer an attachment which he felt to be almost hopeless, and, as he was not wholly aware of the state of Lucy's feelings, he was thankful he had not involved another in the arduous task.

It was a beautiful morning, and our friends were preparing for a ride. Mr. Dayton had arrived, and Henry was to accompany Lucy on horseback, but not far would Mrs. Wieland trust her daughter; the mother's eye had detected weakness in Lucy's fragile frame, and she feared lest the exercise would be too much for her, but she was happy, and how often does the buoyancy of the mind and spirit rise above the ailings of this "mortal soil." Elizabeth was all smiles and animation—all she loved was with her; here was her "oasis" in life's desert; alas! she dreamed not the "simoom" breath had already reached one of the loved ones! But we will not anticipate; the future is hidden from us in mercy, that it may not cloud our present enjoyment; and, when evening found them returning to their home, a happier party was seldom seen than that which entered the parlor of Mrs. Wieland's cottage.

The next day Lucy was unable to leave her room. They hoped it was the fatigue of her ride but the glistening eye and crimsoned cheek, told too truly that Consumption had sealed its victim. We will not tell of the alternate hopes and fears which rent the bosoms of her friends, as they watched the progress of that dread disease; those who have traced its deceitful course can appreciate their feelings. Lucy was fully aware of her situation; for herself, she rather rejoiced, for she knew her union with Henry was doubtful, and she felt that earth had few ties for one who looked not on it as her "abiding place," and she daily strove to reconcile him to their separation. He was now her almost constant companion; all the hours he could spare from his studies, were devoted to her—his studies, did I say?—she was a leaf from the book of nature, stamped by the image of her God, the teaching of the heart, and it has been well said, "The proper study of mankind is man."

Oh! 'tis a dreadful thing to view the sudden illness and death of a dear one, but to see them sink gradually away by slow but sure decay—to watch, as it were, their life ooze out with every breath, pouring drop by drop from the "golden bowl," straining the "silver cord" yet more tightly, 'till it snaps asunder, and finds us still unprepared to meet the blows; the heart that knows its bitterness, best may tell.

'Twas the Sabbath morn; all nature seemed to partake of the universal rest; all was calm and peaceful, save the sighing of the wind through foliage, now beautifully varied by the autumnal tint, and the caroling of the feathered songsters, to their Maker's praise.

In the room where first we met our Lucy, behold her on the bed of death. No racking pain disturbs the sweet composure of that placid face; gently she is sleeping, and we fear lest her spirit may thus silently wing its way to "Israel's rest." But no; it lingers yet to emit one more ray of its generous nature to her anxious friends.

"Dear Lizzy, do not, on my account, defer your marriage; let it take place at the appointed time; and then will you not be to my mother all that her poor Lucy could have been? love her, Lizzy, and cling to her, and if my spirit may be permitted to witness your happiness—if (and we know not but that it is so) we are appointed guardian angels to those we love, I will be ever near you until I welcome you to the 'better land.' Henry, my beloved, God has willed us to part awhile; when you shall have 'finished the work which He gave you to do,' He will unite us at his altar above; you know our favorite author, Perceval, says, 'souls that would meet on earth, and cannot, they may meet in Heaven.' I would say to you as did our Saviour to his disciples, 'Behold my mother;' she is left alone in the world's wide wilderness; dear friends, protect her; dearest mother support my head, and let me breathe my last on the bosom of my first friend."

She ceased; the rising sun cast a crimson halo round her pale features, adding radiance to the happy smile already resting there; her spirit had ascended to the source of light.

We will not speak of the feelings of her friends; that is "hallowed ground," not to be trodden on by careless feet, or looked upon by the cold unfeeling eye of calculating worldlings. To those who knew and loved them, the subdued anguish and calm resignation of Mrs. Wieland's countenance told a tale indeed of the mother's woe, but the Christian's hope—"the peace which the world cannot give nor take away."

Mr. Seaver had received a professional call to Ohio, and he was desirous of uniting Mr. Dayton and Elizabeth before he left them. Theirs was a sad and quiet wedding, for their brightest star had gone to "the marriage supper of the Lamb," but they remembered her parting words, and were happy—one earthly drop embittered their cup of joy—one word—one pang—farewell—and with chastened spirit, but an aching heart, Henry Seaver bore his Father's message to the western wilderness.

THE NEW BRUNSWICK TRAGEDY. Extract from a private leter dated New Brunswick, April 3d:

"Robinson seems now to relent, and has confessed his crime in the most hideous form. He says he called upon Mr. Suydam the night before the murder and invited him to his house under the pretence of paying off the note and $300 on the bond and mortgage—that he was prepared to assault him on his entry, and had placed his hatchet in the side-light of the front door, intending as he passed it to seize it and make the attack; but Mr. Suydam came in the back door, which frustrated his plan. They went into the basement story, and Mr. S. entered into familiar conversation about the house, remarking that he was getting along well, and would soon be through, &c., but seemed to keep his eye on his guilty associate, who had taken up a mallet. They passed into the first story, and there Robinson said to Mr. Suydam that his wife had gone out for pen and ink and would soon return.

"Mr. Suydam replied, 'I'll walk out a few minutes and return again, by that time she may be in.' and advanced to the door. Robinson stepped behind him and struck the blow with the mallet, which threw off his hat and brought him on his hands and knees—a second blow brought him to the floor. He then went down to prepare the grave, and whilst digging he heard a noise up stairs, and returned, and found Mr. Suydam on his hands and knees, and at the moment took his hand and wiped the blood from his eyes and said, in a faint voice, 'oh! Peter, oh! Peter.'—These words, the convict says, ring continually in his ear. He then gave the fatal blow and carried him down stairs, and let him lay till the grave was finished."

SCOTT THE DIVER. This man, who lately hung himself by accident at London, was born at Philadelphia, and was in his 26th year. He was about five feet seven inches in height, of slender make. His penchant for swimming and diving displayed itself at a very early age. His performances were of a most daring and singular kind; and, as he contrived to dodge death by a mere hair's breadth for a long time, the eagerness of the mob to see how far he could go and not kill himself became intense. He once saved the life of a beautiful child in the Bay of Biscay, for which noble act the father, a General in the British army, frequently assisted him by donations of money. Scott asserted before his death that he jumped off a place below the Falls of Niagara, a height of five-hundred and ninety-seven feet! Whether this be true or false, he has leaped from a cliff at Port Isaac, in Cornwall, 348 feet high, into the sea; he has leaped from Bangor Bridge, the highest in England, 210 feet high; and has often, within a few months, jumped from the top-gallant masts of English and American ships into the Thames.—English paper.

BISHOP HEBER. On the 3d of April, 1826, fifteen years ago last Saturday, Reginald Heber, the Bishop of Calcutta, died at Trichinopoly, Hindostan, in the forty-second year of his age. He was the author of the beautiful missionary hymn, commencing with the words:

"From Greenland's icy mountains."

In 1803, his poem entitled Palestine, gained the prize for English verse at Oxford. His father who was present in the theatre, and had the felicity of witnessing the success of his son, then only nineteen years of age, soon after died, as it is supposed from excess of joy.—Bost. Transcript.

STEAM VESSELS FROM LAKE ONTARIO. The Oswego Palladium states that two vessels at that Port are about being fitted out with Ericsson propellers and the necessary machinery. One of them is a new vessel, the other, one of the Oswego schooners. An Oswego forwarding merchant affirms, that freights from New York by the Oswego route can be delivered at Cleveland as soon, or sooner than they can be delivered at Buffalo, and at less cost than the actual charges which must be advanced upon freights in their transportation from New York to Buffalo.

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

GENERAL AGENCY OFFICE,
BY GEORGE GELBACH,
N. W. Corner of Baltimore and Frederick-sts.

ALL PERSONS wanting HELP of any kind, either male or female, will find it to their advantage and convenience to apply at this office, where they will be supplied with the particular aid they may require with the utmost promptitude.

There has been a prevailing impression among some persons, that those who apply at an office of this kind are worthless and incompetent, and can not obtain employment by any other means. This is a great misconstruction of the true merits of the case, altogether a wrong impression. Why censure them for obtaining employment by this convenient and speedy mode—which should be obviously more proper than advertising, thereby spending their money upon uncertainty, or to solicit employment from door to door. Nay, there is more certainty of obtaining worthy industrious persons through this office, than by any other possible means. No charge is made at this office, unless the object of their call is realized.

WANTED. Gardeners; Farm hands; Overseers and Managers; Coachmen; Waiters; Hostlers; Mechanics and Apprentices to various trades; Laborers; Barkeepers, Clerks, &c. to fill situations now vacant.

BOUGHT OR SOLD ON COMMISSION.

At Private Sale—Stores, Taverns, Bar Rooms, and all kinds of Business Establishments. SLAVES for life or a term of years, disposed of, and the very highest prices obtained. Those having Slaves they wish to sell, will find it greatly to their advantage to apply at this office.

" Wilmington next day.	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the

As this Line carries the Great Mail, which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Post Route Waggons and Steamers!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon; and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

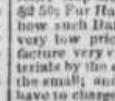
THE MARYLAND ARCADE
Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS!

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hats: Splendid Russia Hats at $3.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3.00; Capt Nutre Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be Ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

fe4-3m* FOLYDORE E. RILEY.



TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

THURSDAY MORNING, April 8, 1841.

THE LATE PRESIDENT'S FUNERAL. We conversed with several persons last night who had been in attendance upon the funeral solemnities of our late lamented President, WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, which took place at Washington yesterday. The scene is described as having been clothed with the most imposing solemnities. An immense body of people from all quarters where the sad intelligence of the President's death had reached, were in attendance.

The procession, with the deceased drawn by six white horses, left the White House precisely at the hour previously appointed, and proceeded up the Avenue to the burial ground. It, we have been informed, extended in length the entire way from the President's house to the Capitol, marching in accordance with the published order of proceedings. A more solemn procession, it is said, was never witnessed in America.

All business in Washington and Georgetown was entirely suspended. Every house and store almost throughout the two cities exhibited some appropriate emblem of deep heart-felt sorrow.—Hundreds were seen whose eyes could not but give vent to the heart's feelings in silent though copious tears. All Washington, we are told, was emphatically steeped in grief. The day was peculiarly favorable, and passed off, not without lamentation, but free from accident.

Many of the soldiery, and a large number of those who left our city yesterday to witness the last sad rites extended towards the remains of the honored hero, statesman and President (to some of whom we are indebted for our information,) returned last night about 9 o'clock in the cars, glad that they had paid the tribute of respect to him who had lately fallen from so exalted a sphere on earth, to join a brighter one in heaven.

THE FUNERAL. Notwithstanding the omission of the Mayor to convene the City Councils, and the neglect to call a public meeting, there was yesterday a spontaneous and highly gratifying manifestation of feeling by the citizens of Baltimore. At 12 o'clock most of the stores on Baltimore street were closed, and from that hour until three o'clock, minute guns were fired from the fort and on Federal Hill; the bells were tolled and the colors hoisted to half-mast on the vessels in our harbor. The cars in the morning conveyed military companies from Baltimore, Philadelphia and York, together with a large number of our citizens to Washington, to unite in the funeral ceremonies of the day. We are persuaded that, in no city of the Union is the feeling of regret at the death of the late President more fully and generally experienced than in Baltimore—and this without distinction of party. Indeed, the man who could carry his political hostility into the grave of his opponent, should lose cast among his fellow creatures, and be numbered among the savage beasts of the woods. It is the more proper that the unanimity of sentiment on this mournful event should be made known, as the failure on the part of the proper authority to have corporate action on the subject, might lead to a misconstruction of the feelings of the citizens of Baltimore. It is not the fault of either party that we stand the only city heard from, and probably in the Union, where the public functionaries have passed by the death of the Chief Magistrate of the nation without notice. Every city—every village—whatever may be the political sentiments of its rulers—will hasten to testify respect for the deceased President and for the distinguished office which he held. Baltimore, alone, will occupy the enviable position of having its council chambers closed to the general cry of lamentation. But, if these chambers be shut, it should not prevent the people from assembling to give formal expression to their feelings—and we hope that a public meeting will be forthwith convened for the purpose.

In order to shew what has been done in other cities, we annex the following proceedings:

HARRISBURG, April 5, 1841.

DEATH OF GEN. HARRISON—Proceedings in the Legislature.—Yesterday afternoon the citizens of this place were shocked by hearing of the death of Gen. William Henry Harrison.—A deep feeling of melancholy pervades both the citizens and the members of the Legislature. All business in the Departments is suspended, and on going through the streets I noticed several of the stores closed.

In the legislature nothing was done beside the adoption of resolutions on the subject, and the appointment of committees to report what further steps should be taken by the legislature to evince their feeling on the occasion of this great national calamity.

THE SENATE. This body being called to order, the Secretary of the Commonwealth was introduced, and presented the following message from the Governor:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN—Intelligence has been received that William Henry Harrison, President of the United States, has paid the debt of nature. He departed this life at the President's House in the city of Washington on yesterday morning.

The public services and private worth of the distinguished citizen who had just been elected to the highest station in the republic, call upon the General Assembly of this commonwealth, on behalf of our common constituents for the appropriate testimonials of public feeling which are inspired by the melancholy event.

DAVID R. PORTER.

Executive Chamber, April 5, 1841.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, }
Philadelphia, April 7, 1841. }

As this day, at 12 o'clock, M., has been fixed upon for consigning the mortal remains of our late much lamented Chief Magistrate to the tomb, the subscriber respectfully recommends that our places of business within the city of Philadelphia, be closed between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M., and 2 o'clock, P. M., as a token of regard to his memory.

JOHN SWIFT, Mayor.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, }
Philadelphia, April 7, 1841. }

The citizens of the city of Philadelphia, are respectfully invited to assemble in town meeting, at Independence Hall, this day, at 12 o'clock, M. for the purpose of making a public manifestation of regard and respect to the memory of our much lamented late Chief Magistrate of the Union.

The co-operation of the corporations of the county is earnestly requested, and the citizens at large are invited to attend the meeting.

JOHN SWIFT, Mayor.

COMMON COUNCIL CHAMBER, }
April 6th 1841. }

At a meeting of the joint Committees of the Common Councils of the cities of New York and Brooklyn, on the occasion of the decease of William Henry Harrison, late President of the United States, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, it is announced that the funeral of the late President of the United States will take place on Wednesday, the 7th instant, at 12 o'clock, noon, it is resolved by the joint committees of the Common Councils of the cities of New York and Brooklyn, That our fellow citizens of the said cities are requested to close their stores and places of business to-morrow, from the hour of 12 at noon until sunset, and also, all the public places of amusements in the respective cities to-morrow evening, that the bells of the several churches in the two cities and fire alarm bells, be tolled from noon until 2 o'clock, P. M. and that 68 minute guns (being the number of years of the late President) be fired from the Battery, and also from such place in the city of Brooklyn as the Committee from that city may designate—that the owners and masters of vessels in the harbour and the proprietors of all public places in the said cities are requested to display their flags at half mast during the whole day—and that our fellow citizens, are requested to wear the usual badge of mourning for 60 days.

Resolved, That the Common Councils of the cities of New York and Brooklyn will solemnize the death of the late President of the United States, by a civic and military procession, to be composed of the military and different societies and citizens of our respective cities, and that such procession take place on Saturday next.

Resolved, That the different societies, trades and associations and fire departments of our cities, are requested to send delegates to meet a committee of this body on Thursday next at 12 o'clock, at the Common Council Chamber, to make the necessary arrangements to carry out the views of the Common Councils in an appropriate manner.

Resolved, That the army and navy of the United States on this station are requested to cooperate with us in making the necessary arrangements, and that they are requested to send officers to represent them at the meeting to be held at the Common Council Chamber on Thursday, at 12 o'clock.

ELIAS L. SMITH, Chairman.

JOHN A. UNDERWOOD, Secretary.

PRESIDENT TYLER. It will be seen by the following articles from the National Intelligencer, that John Tyler, late Vice President, has taken the oath and assumed the responsibilities of President of the United States. His first act, after becoming President, was to continue the present members of the Cabinet in office. As to the general course of his administration we presume that it will be in accordance with the principles contained in the inaugural address of General Harrison, and upon which the result of the late election was determined. We think it not improbable that President Tyler will take occasion to state his sentiments in an address to the people of the United States. If not, the approaching session will afford him the opportunity to make them known. He is well qualified, by his talents and experience in public affairs, for the station he now occupies, and of his patriotism no doubt can be entertained:

"THE NEW PRESIDENT.

"By the extraordinary despatch used in sending the official intelligence to the Vice President at Williamsburg, and similar despatch by him in repairing to the seat of Government, John Tyler, now President of the United States, arrived in this city yesterday morning at 5 o'clock, and took lodgings at Brown's Hotel.

"At 12 o'clock, all the Heads of Departments, except the Secretary of the Navy, (who has not yet returned to the city from his visit to his family,) waited upon him to pay him their official and personal respects. They were received with all the politeness and kindness which characterize the new President. He signified his deep feeling of the public calamity sustained by the death of President Harrison, and expressed his profound sensibility to the heavy responsibilities so suddenly devolved upon himself. He spoke of the present state of things with great concern and seriousness, and made known his wishes that the several Heads of Departments would continue to fill the places which they now respectively occupy, and his confidence that they would afford all the aid in their power to enable him to carry on the administration of the Government successfully.

"The President then took and subscribed the following oath of office:

'I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States. 'JOHN TYLER.

'APRIL 6, 1841.

'City and County of Washington, } ss.
'DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA. }

'I, William Cranch, Chief Judge of the Circuit Court of the District of Columbia, certify that the above named John Tyler personally appeared before me this day, and, although he deems himself qualified to perform the duties and exercise the powers and office of President on the death of William Henry Harrison, late President of the United States, without any other oath than that which he has taken as Vice President, yet, as doubts may arise, and for greater caution, took and subscribed the foregoing oath before me. W. CRANCH.

'APRIL 6, 1841.'

"If we may be permitted, for a moment, to withdraw our thoughts from the afflicting dispensation which has so suddenly overwhelmed the country, and to cast a hasty glance at the future, we would seize the occasion of announcing the new PRESIDENT's arrival at the seat of Government, to congratulate the country that, under the happy operation of our system of Government, the chief Executive power devolves so quietly and peaceably from the hands of one citizen to those of another; and more especially to congratulate the country that he who now succeeds the late President HARRISON is not only a man of honor, of talent, and character, well known to the country, but that he owes his elevation to the high place he now fills to the prevalence of those same principles which put President HARRISON in that place before him. President TYLER is a Whig—a true Whig; and we risk nothing in expressing our entire confidence that he will fulfil, in all their extent, the expectations of the People when they bestowed on him an office from which it was possible, as they knew, he might be elevated to the Chief Magistracy of the Union. He is pledged to this, not only by his high character, but by his known sentiments and his unspotted patriotism.

"On the other hand, we risk as little in predicting that the great majority of the People of the country will give to him at once and in advance their full confidence and entire support, not doubting in any degree that he will prove himself a true exponent of those great principles for which they have so long struggled, and struggled at last successfully."—*Nat. OUTRAGE. Police officer S. McDonald, of the Second Ward, was very seriously injured on Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock, when attempting to arrest one of the U. S. Soldiers, of Fort McHenry, who was in a state of intoxication in the neighborhood of the Causeway. It is stated by the Patriot that officer McDonald was turned upon by the infuriated man, who aimed several blows at him, the third striking the officer on the head and inflicting a horrible cut three inches in length. A fourth blow from the sword nearly severed the thumb and three fingers of one of his hands. Notwithstanding the severity of his wounds, the officer closed with the desperado, and succeeded in disarming him. He then proceeded towards the watch house with his prisoner, and on his way thither, met with a watchman and received assistance. When they arrived at the watch house, officer McDonald sank from exhaustion and loss of blood. Surgical aid was procured as speedily as possible, and after having his wounds dressed, the injured man was taken to his residence, where he now lies extremely low. The soldier was yesterday morning taken before Justice Jones, who committed him for further examination.

LYFORD'S COUNTING ROOM CHART FOR 1841-2. Commencing April, 1841. This sheet contains a great variety of information which will be found extremely useful to merchants and men of business generally—and also to all persons in Baltimore, who may have occasion to seek information of a local nature. It has been got up with great care and labor, and the several articles are arranged with skill and judgment. We recommend it to public patronage. Mr. Lyford is well known to the citizens of Baltimore as the publisher of the "Weekly Commercial Journal," a paper devoted to the interests of the merchants and of the city generally.

POLICE. Alfred Blakeney and Wm. Taylor were taken up, charged with assaulting William Oyer on the night of the 5th inst. Released on security. Elizabeth Kimberly, charged with threatening Thomas Irons, giving security to keep the peace she was discharged. Peter Noel, charged with assaulting and threatening the lives of his wife and family, was committed to prison on Wednesday morning in default of security, by Justice Barnard. Lewis Harnsworth, charged with threatening personal injury to his wife, was arrested and taken before Justice Jones. Released on security.

GREAT RACE. The greatest race ever run in the United States came off lately over the Louisiana Course at New Orleans. The entries were Grey Medoc, Altorf and Denizen, four mile heats for the purse of $1000. Grey Medoc was the winner in four heats, having run 16 miles. The first heat was run in 7.35, and declared a dead heat between Grey Medoc and Altorf. The second heat was won by Altorf in 8.19. The third was won by Grey Medoc in 7.42, and the fourth in 8.17.

INCENDIARIES. We learn from the captain of the Middle District Watch that several attempts have lately been made to fire buildings. One attempt was made on a building in Balderston street near Light. The next was a carpenter shop of Mr. A. C. Riley, corner of Calvert and Saratoga streets, and another in an alley between North and Davis streets. These attempts should put our watchmen on the alert.

MUSICAL OLIO. Yankee Hill, the celebrated delineator of down east peculiarities, has announced to give a grand farewell musical benefit and entertainment at the Ladies' Saloon of Barnum's Hotel this evening. We refer the reader to the programme, which will be found in another column.

MARYLAND BANKS. The Legislature of Maryland has passed a Law releasing the Banks from the penalty of 12 per cent, incurred by the suspension of specie payments, until the year 1845.

☞The body of a young lady was found in the Susquehanna river a few days since, above Skinner's eddy, drowned. The body on several places bore evident marks of violence, which strongly lead to the belief that she had been murdered.

☞John C. Montgomery commenced discharging the duties of Postmaster for Philadelphia on the 6th inst.

CAMPHINE OIL. We give place to the following communication in the hope, that the queries put by our correspondent will be answered either by himself, or some other person competent to do justice to the subject. They embrace matters not within the range of our investigations, and with which we acknowledge ourselves to be unacquainted. We have the assurance of the agent, that the Camphine Oil will not explode, and is not, therefore, dangerous in use; and we have our own experience to prove that it makes a cheap and beautiful light. Nevertheless we should be pleased to have it subjected to experiment, that, if possible, all doubts of its safety, utility and economy may be removed.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Will you deign to throw a little light upon a light subject? or, in other words, reply to or comment upon some queries and remarks we design to make respecting a material becoming very popular amongst our good people, for the purpose of producing light, styled

CAMPHINE OIL.

We are well aware that an editor is not only expected Briareus like, to have a hundred hands, but to be a "universal genius;" he may sometimes in the course of a single day, be required to solve a mathematical intricacy—translate a passage of Arabic—to indite a paragraph upon the most approved manner of manufacturing sausages—preach a sermon—puff a pill—discourse knowingly upon Chemistry, Physic, Philosophy, Astronomy, &c., &c., and in fine, to be prepared upon any and every occasion, to reply to, and decide with confidence upon, almost every subject which may be bruited under the heavens.

Thus to be bored by queries is among the disagremens of an editor's life, and comes within the range of those many unpleasant things, to which he is subjected, by virtue of his position (which in good sooth is no sinecure) and which must be borne with the best possible grace; he deriving what satisfaction he may from the reflection, that these curious people, by seeking for his dictum, pay, perhaps unconsciously, a compliment to his superior wisdom or intellect.

But with simply disclaiming any connection either with the Gas Company, or the proprietors or venders of the Camphine Oil, and declaring that I am uninfluenced by either, but actuated by a sincere desire to be informed in the matter, I proceed to my queries:

First. Is the Camphine Oil a safe material for burning in lamps of the present construction? It has been asserted that Professor Lock, of Ohio, and the conductors of the 'Journal of the Franklin Institute,' have declared it to be so—both excellent authority—and who, doubtless, would not have committed themselves by this declaration, without some good and sufficient reasons based upon some fixed principle and confirmed by actual experiment. What are the grounds taken—what the experiments?

Second. Is it not a determined, well understood law or principle, that any fluid which will inflame by the application of a blazing matter, is liable to great and rapid expansion, and is only safe when in a situation to admit of it?

The camphine oil, upon the application of flame, becomes itself immediately inflamed, and burns fiercely; and if this query is replied to in the affirmative, to what peculiarity in the construction of the camphine lamp is its safety attributed? and in what respect does it differ from that extremely dangerous contrivance styled the spirit lamp, the use of which has so repeatedly resulted in the most melancholy consequences?

Third. If the lamp is safe, the material not explosive, can it not, by an improvement in the burner, be made to burn more steadily, more uniformly?

Observe one of these lamps in the act of burning, and you will in one moment perceive to what we allude; the flame at one moment subsides to half its volume and intensity, and as suddenly increases again, as if the wick was but partially supplied, or the connection between it and the body of the lamp imperfect. That this must be a serious objection to its general adoption no one will deny.

Fourth and last. May not some improvement be made in the composition of the oil (?) itself so as to deprive it of that extremely oppressive smell whilst burning?

If one or more lamps be made to burn in a close room, it will, in a short time, be filled with fumes resembling those of inflamed turpentine, than which there is nothing more oppressive and injurious to the lungs.

The light is beautiful and economical, and if the improvements suggested above could be effected, and the public assured of its perfect safety, there are thousands now in doubt respecting it who would instantly adopt it.

Inasmuch as this is a matter of vital importance, we would be pleased if you can find room for the above, which may possibly attract the attention of some of our scientific men, who may give us their views on the subject; and in default of which we may ourselves give you the results of an analysis of the oil, and of some tests to which we purpose to subject it. OUTIS.

LEGISLATURE. The extra session of the Legislature was closed yesterday morning.

SINGULAR. The New York Sun says: "that on the evening of the day upon which the venerable Herman Le Roy, (father-in-law of Daniel Webster,) died, a flaw of wind blew down three of the chimneys of his dwelling. The corpse was literally covered with mortar, whilst a large portion of brick fell at the feet of Mrs. Webster."

AFFRAY. An affray took place on the 25th ult. in New Orleans, between Col. Milton, a member of the New Orleans Bar, and a Mr. Morton. Morton discharged two pistols at Milton, one of which took effect—the ball passing through the thigh. The matter originated in consequence of ill treatment which Morton's sister sustained at the hands of Milton.

ARREST. The Natchez Cutter of the 25th ult. states that a letter was received in this city, night before last, from Gov. McNutt to the sheriff of Adams county, informing him that a person had been arrested in Scott county, in this State, supposed to be Morgan (the murderer of Isler) who escaped from our jail some time ago.

SUSPENSION. We were yesterday informed by a gentleman in this city, whose information was received directly, that the banks in Richmond, Va., had suspended specie payments.

A man named Jones, convicted of larceny and forgery in South Carolina, has been sentenced to be three times whipped for the former and hung for the latter. It is said he has petitioned that the hanging come first.

☞The British Queen is to sail from N. York on Saturday next.

COMMUNICATION.

MESSRS. EDITORS—I beg leave through the medium of your widely circulated paper to call the attention of the citizens of the western section of the city to the case of Mrs. FREDERICK, the poor widow with two little children, that was so suddenly deprived of every thing she possessed by the fire in Lexington street near the market, on Sunday morning last—she barely escaped with her life and children. She is an industrious and deserving woman, and has supported herself and little ones by taking in washing, and she only prays that through the kindness of the citizens she may be enabled again to support them in a similar manner. It is hoped the LADIES will notice her case as it is a peculiarly distressing one, and, if possible, furnish her with some necessary articles to furnish a little more. She can be seen by calling at JOHN H. T. JENKINS's Grocery, in Lexington near Green street, where any donations will be thankfully received.

GREAT REDUCTION.

NO. 7 LEXINGTON STREET.
Four doors west of Charles-st.

A. J. BROWN, SURGEON DENTIST, thankful for past encouragement, still continues to perform operations pertaining to DENTAL SURGERY and insertion of ARTIFICIAL TEETH at the following greatly reduced prices:

For making a whole set of Teeth,	$10 00
" inserting tooth on gold plate,	3 50
" " " silver "	2 00
" " " pivot "	1 50
" plugging tooth with gold,	1 00
" " " silver,	50
" destroying the nerve,	1 00
" filing teeth,	25
" extracting teeth,	25

☞ Mr. B. has no two or three prices for his operations, (or doing work inferiorly because the patient is not able to pay a high charge,) but one regular list of prices as annexed above, which are very low, so that it enables all who are in want of Dental operations to have the services of the subscriber, and in doing so he uses none but the very best of materials in all cases. The above operations are warranted to give satisfaction or the money returned.

The Teeth used by the subscriber are the MINERAL INCORRUPTIBLE TEETH, which have received the approval of the following medical gentlemen, whose respectability needs an encomium—Professors N R. Smith, J. T. Ducatel, R. W. Hall, S. K. Jennings, E. Geddings, G. S. Gibson, J. R. W. Dunbar.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Locx, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 92 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh16-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

GENERAL ORDERS.

HEAD QUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, April 6, 1841.

The death of the President of the United States having been officially announced from the War Department, the Major General, Commanding-in-chief, communicates to the Army the melancholy intelligence with feelings of the most profound sorrow. The long, arduous, and faithful military services in which President Harrison has been engaged since the first settlement of the Western country, from the rank of a subaltern to that of a commander-in-chief, are too well known to require a recital of them here. It is sufficient to point to the fields of Tippecanoe, the banks of the Miami, and the Thames, in Upper Canada, to recall to many of the soldiers of the present Army the glorious results of some of his achievements against the foes of his country, both savage and civilized.

The Army has on former occasions been called upon to mourn the loss of distinguished patriots, who have occupied the Presidential Chair, but this is the first time since the adoption of the Constitution it has to lament the demise of a President while in the actual exercise of the high functions of the Chief Magistracy of the Union.

The members of the Army, in common with their fellow-citizens of all classes, deplore this national bereavement; but, although they have lost a friend, ever ready to protect their interests, his bright example in the paths of honor and glory still remains for their emulation.

The funeral honors directed to be paid by the troops in paragraph 523 of the General Regulations will be duly observed, and the troops at the several stations will be paraded at 10 o'clock A. M. when this Order will be read, after which all labors for the day will cease; the national flag will be displayed at half-staff; at dawn of day thirteen guns will be fired, besides the half-hour guns as directed by the regulations; and, at the close of the day, a national salute. The standards, guidons, and colors of the several regiments will be put in mourning for the period of six months; and the officers will wear the usual badge of mourning on the left arm above the elbow, and on the hilt of the sword, for the same period.

By order of ALEXANDER MACOMB, Major General, Commanding-in-Chief.

R. JONES, Adjutant General.

ANNAPOLIS, April 6, 1841.

Mr. Forman submitted a message to the Senate proposing to rescind the message adopted yesterday in relation to the adjournment to-day at noon, and proposing to adjourn sine die on Wednesday morning the 7th instant. It also proposes to invite the Governor to sign the Laws at six o'clock this evening. The message was agreed to, sent to the Senate and the proposition concurred in by that body.

The object in deferring the adjournment is that the Legislature is a body may attend the funeral of the President. Both Houses design going to Washington, and an invitation has been given to the Governor, the public officers and all the citizens of Annapolis to accompany them. The Governor, owing to indisposition, cannot go.

The bill from the Senate relating to the Banking Institutions of the State of Maryland was amended by striking out the 2d and 4th sections (which allowed the issue of notes under five dollars) and passed.

Mr. E. A. Lynch reported a bill entitled an act to redeem the scrip issued by the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, which was rejected by a vote of 22 yeas to 38 nays.

SENATE. The bill supplemental to the act to regulate sales by auction, was rejected, yeas 7, nays 7.

The bill to change the name of Benedict Arnold of Baltimore to Geo. W. Arnold was passed.

The resolutions from the House in relation to the Constitutional rights of slaveholders, was assented to.

The committee to whom was referred the petition of sundry citizens relative to the appointment of an Inspector of Gas was discharged, for want of time to consider the subject.

Mr. Howard of Baltimore reported a bill to amend the Constitution so as to prohibit the Legislature from making loans which are not redeemable at the pleasure of the State, except by the act of two successive Legislatures. The bill was passed.

FIRST ARRIVAL FROM PITTSBURG. The first freight from Pittsburg, via the Pennsylvania Canals and the Baltimore and Susquehanna Railroad, arrived last evening, by Messrs. D. LEECH & Co.'s Line. The freight consisted of 52 hhds. tobacco, consigned to Messrs. Waters and Hall, and 7 hhds. to Wesley Starr. The above freight left Pittsburg on the 31st ult. and came directly through without any detention, thus proving beyond doubt that the Pennsylvania Canals are in successful operation.—Amer.

THE STORM. Several houses were struck with lightning in the neighborhood of Boston.—The Transcript of the 5th states that the house of Mr. Samuel Blake, in Danvers, was struck by lightning, about 5 o'clock on Friday evening, and considerably damaged. Several of the family were stunned by the shock, but were not seriously injured.

In Taunton, Mr. Hatch informs us, as Mr. Sherman Wood and another person were returning from a temperance meeting, in a wagon, when near Wittington village, the horse was instantly killed by lightning, and the forward axle of the wagon shivered into splinters. Mr. Wood was stunned, but neither himself nor his companion received serious injury.

The house of Mr. David Webster, in Haverhill, was also struck by lightning the same evening, and much damaged. The family escaped uninjured.

We learn from the Huntingdon Advocate, that an attempt was recently made to destroy the aqueduct on the Pennsylvania Canal, over the Juniatta river, at Jack's Narrows, by fire. The flames were happily extinguished by the snow and ice which remained on the structure, before much injury was done.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strong est and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

To Dr. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

☞The above Medicine may always be had in Baltimore of RICHARD NORRIS of WILLIAM, No. 254 Market street, who is the sole Agent for this Medicine in that city. All orders coming to Philadelphia, must be directed to DR. SWAYNE,

PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY BY BULL & TUTTLE, No. 7 NORTH GAY STREET, BALTIMORE, Md.

VOLUME IV.] FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 9, 1841. [NUMBER 27.

AN ACT for the completion of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to Cumberland.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That whenever the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, in a general meeting of the Stockholders assembled, shall assent and agree to all and each of the provisions of this act, and shall communicate such assent, approval and agreement under its corporate seal and the signature of the President to the Governor of this State, that then it shall be the duty of the commissioner of loans of this State to issue, at such time and in such sums of not less than one hundred dollars, as may be deemed convenient, certificates of stock, or bonds of this State to an amount not exceeding in the whole, the sum of two millions of dollars, irredeemable for thirty years, and redeemable thereafter at the pleasure of the State, and bearing an interest of six per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, at the loan office in the city of Baltimore, on the first day of January and July in each and every year, provided however, that no stock shall be issued until it will command par, and then only so much as shall have been actually contracted to be sold.

Sec. 2. And be it enacted, That so soon as the commissioner of loans shall have sold the said certificates of stock or bonds of this State, or any portion of the same, he shall pay the proceeds thereof into the Treasury of the Western Shore, and the Treasurer of the Western Shore shall set apart and apply the said proceeds, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the redemption of the certificates which may have been issued or directed to be issued by said Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, under the provisions of this act, a full and satisfactory statement of which shall be laid before the Treasurer by the said canal company; and should the proceeds of sales of said bonds or certificates of stock, exceed the amount necessary for the redemption of said certificates issued or directed to be issued, as aforesaid, the said Treasurer is hereby authorized upon the requisition of said canal company to pay the surplus to said company; provided, that in no one quarter of a year shall said Treasurer pay to said company more than four hundred thousand dollars.

Sec. 3. And be it enacted, That for the purpose of securing the payment of the interest upon the money by the preceding section authorised to be borrowed, the State hereby pledges her right to the tolls of said Canal, after such sums shall be deducted therefrom as will be sufficient to keep the said Canal in good condition, and repair for transportation, and officers' salaries, and expenses of the company, and the said Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, in such form as the charter, and the several laws applicable thereto, make necessary are hereby required, to increase the tolls for the transportation upon said Canal to the maximum charge fixed by the charter, immediately after the passage of this act, except upon the article of coal, which shall be increased to at least one cent per ton per mile immediately after the completion of the Canal to Cumberland, unless the agents appointed to represent the State in said canal company shall certify in writing to the President and Directors of said company, that their opinion and belief, the best interest of the State would be injured by such increase on the article of coal, and in case the said President and Directors fail or refuse to comply with this provision, it shall be the duty of the agents representing the State in joint stock companies to remove them at the next general meeting of the stockholders.

Sec. 4. And be it enacted, That for the purpose of providing for the payment of the principal of the debt by this act authorised to be contracted, the annual sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, to arise from the tolls upon the canal, are hereby appropriated, and set apart, which said sum of twenty-five thousand dollars shall be paid one half thereof on the first day of March, and the residue on the first day of September in each and every year after the canal shall have reached Cumberland, to the Treasurer for the Western Shore of Maryland, to be by him accumulated as a sinking fund for the purpose aforesaid, the said sum to be paid by the President and Directors of the canal company, out of the tolls to be received upon the said canal after paying the interest as directed by the second section of this act, and the expenses of the said canal, this appropriation of the profits and tolls of the canal, is in aid of the general faith, and credit of the State, which is hereby pledged in the fullest manner for the payment of both principal and interest on the money hereby authorized to be borrowed.

Sec. 5. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the president and directors of the said canal company, to pay to the Treasurer for the Western Shore of Maryland, the tolls and profits of the said canal as directed by the third section of this act, semi-annually, on the first Tuesday of March and the first Tuesday of September, in each and every year after the canal shall have reached Cumberland.

Sec. 6. And be it enacted, That the said sums so to be paid by the Treasurer of the Western Shore, under the provisions of this act, to the said Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, and for the redemption of the certificates authorized to be issued by this act, shall be considered, held and taken as a loan to the said company, and the said company shall issue and deliver to the said Treasurer, proper acknowledgments in form to be approved by him of the payment of said money, which said acknowledgments shall constitute a lien on all the property, and effects of said company, and upon its tolls and profits; and it shall be the right and privilege of the said State, whenever in the opinion of the legislature it may be expedient and proper so to do, to convert the the said loan into the capital stock of the said company at par in respect of which the said State shall be a preferred stockholder in the same way, and to the same extent, as is provided by the act of eighteen hundred and thirty-five, chap. three hundred and ninety-five.

Sec. 7. And be it enacted, That the maximum rate of tolls on the said Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, shall, from and after the first day of January, eighteen hundred and forty-four, except upon the article of coal, be raised to double the amount now authorised to be charged by the charter, provided the Congress of the United States and the Legislature of Virginia shall assent to the same, and the Governor of the State is hereby required to cause a copy of this act to be submitted to Congress and the Legislature of Virginia, at their next ensuing sessions, after the passage of this act, together with such representations in favor of its adoption as to him may seem reasonable and proper.

Sec. 8. And be it enacted, That before this act shall have any effect whatsoever, it shall be the duty of the President and Directors of the said Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company to contract for the Completion of the canal to Cumberland, at a sum not exceeding the amount herein before authorised and directed to be borrowed, and to secure the faithful performance of said contract, the said President and Directors are hereby required to take good and sufficient security from the contractor or contractors to be approved by the Treasurer of the Western Shore, that the work as contracted to be done, shall be fully executed within the time limited by said contractor or contractors.

Sec. 9. And be it enacted, That our Senators and Representatives in Congress, be and they are hereby requested to use their best efforts to procure the assent of that body to the seventh section of this act.

Sec. 10. And whereas, it is to be apprehended that the canal will reach Cumberland before any effective effort will be made to open and complete the several rail roads which are to connect the canal with the coal mines, in which case there is danger that the State may be compelled to make these rail roads at the public expense, therefore, be it further enacted, that before any contract shall be made for the completion of said canal to Cumberland, or bond or certificate issued under the provisions of this act, the Treasurer of the Western Shore shall certify, under his hand and seal of office, to the President and Directors of the said Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, that the companies hereinafter named, incorporated by the Legislature of this State, to wit, the "Boston and New York Coal Company," the "Maryland and New York Iron and Coal Company," the Maryland Mining Company," and the "Clifton Coal Company," have severally given satisfactory bonds to the State of Maryland, conditioned for the construction and completion of a rail road adequate to convey to said canal the products of their respective mines; the same to be completed, ready for use, simultaneously with the completion of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to Cumberland.

Sec. 11. And be it enacted, That if the bonds hereinbefore directed to be issued, cannot be sold in time to be immediately available, the said company may, and it is hereby authorised to issue certificates in sums of not less than one dollar, payable to the holder or order at the Treasury of the Western Shore, out of the proceeds of the sales of the said certificates of stock or bonds, Provided, nevertheless, that no such certificate shall issue until after the canal shall be put under contract, as directed by the eighth section of this act; and provided also, that not more than four hundred thousand dollars of said certificates shall be issued in any one quarter of a year.

Sec. 12. And be it enacted, That no part of this bill shall be operative until one or more of the Incorporated coal and iron companies in Allegany county, shall have entered into bonds with security to the State of Maryland, to be approved by the Treasurer of the Western Shore, to pay two hundred thousand dollars per annum for five years for the transportation of their own coal, iron or other materials or goods at the expiration of each and every year from and after six months, after the completion of said canal to Cumberland, Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to exonerate or release the said companies or owners and proprietors, from the payment of the full regular charge of tolls upon the whole amount of articles transported by them whenever the same shall, at the rate of tolls charged or to be charged by the canal company, exceed in cost the aforesaid sum of two hundred thousand dollars.

Sec. 13. And be it enacted, That the Attorney General of this State, is hereby required to institute proceedings to foreclose the mortgages, and enforce the liens, and pledges which the State now holds on the revenues, profits, tolls, and properties of said company, which have been made and executed under and by virtue of existing acts of Assembly.

Sec. 14. And be it further enacted, That the appropriation authorised by this act shall be applied exclusively to the future construction of the said Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to Cumberland, and to no other use or purpose whatsoever.

THE SAILOR IN COURT.

An English paper gives the following description of a scene in court:

Examination of the mate of the Prince of Wales, in a case for damage in consequence of being run foul of by the Lady Elizabeth, in the Downs.

'You have already stated that the wind had shifted in the evening. What time did the wind shift?'

'The latter part of the dog watch,' replied the witness.

'I ask not during which dog's watch it was—my question refers to time. What hour was it when the wind shifted?'

'About three bells.'

'Three o'clock, eh?'

'I never said three o'clock,' returned the witness, marking the lawyer's mistake. 'I said three bells—half past five, in the four to six watch.'

'Three bells—half past five—four to six,' reiterated Waddy. 'What a precious specification of time. Well, then, sir, at three bells—how was the weather then?'

'Greasy looking to the sow-west. Sun too looked wild and watery. Any one with half an eye, could a seed a breeze was abrewin.'

* * * * * *

'When the Lady Elizabeth cast anchor did she take up a position properly apart from the Prince of Wales?'

'She did, but—'

'Come, no buts, sir—answer the question direct.'

'Well, then, I says, when one takes into account the sarcumstances as might deceive the best man in taking up a distance, I must say as the barque might 'ave taken up a worse berth.'

'In what way could that deception arise?'

'Why, from our buoy not watching at the time.'

'The buoy not watching at the time—lazy dog! The murder's coming out,' said Waddy, exultingly, and then requiring the witness to reply direct to the next question which he was about to put to him, and above all, to be cautious of prevarication, he thus proceeded:

'I ask you, sir, as a seaman, on your oath, would matters have gone the wrong way with the Prince of Wales had their been a proper watch upon deck?'

The absurdity of this question, added to the pompous declamatory tone in which it was delivered, excited so much of noise and mirth amongst the nautical portion of the auditory, that it became necessary to eject from Court, a couple of Sunderland 'skippers.'—Upon the restoration of order and the repetition of the question, the witness replied;

'There was a watch upon deck.'

'My Lod,' said Waddy, turning to the bench, 'this is positively the grossest case of prevarication I ever met with. Do you persist in swearing,' he continued, interrogating the witness, 'that a proper watch had been on deck when the wind shifted?'

'I do,' said the mate in a firm and emphatic tone.

'Come you here, sir, to insult common sense! Is it possible you possess effrontery sufficient to tell those intelligent gentlemen, (pointing to the jury) that in a vessel situated as the Prince of Wales was—bad weather coming on withal—the watch should have devolved on a dumb animal?'

The witness looked blank.

'Do you hear, sir?' vociferated the bully.

'I doesn't understand you,' replied the deponent, with perfect composure.

The question was shaped anew.

'I ask you, sir, whether it was fitting to entrust a vessel exposed to the elements, as well as the privateers of the enemy, to the vigilance of a dumb animal, to the watch of a dog?'

'There was never a dog aboard,' said the witness bluntly.

'And yet, gentlemen of the jury, the witness has had the audacity to assert upon oath that the wind shifted during the latter part of the Dog's Watch.'

'Bill, let's bolt,' said an auditor, addressing a brother tar in the rear of the Court. 'By the Lord Harry, there's no standing that squinting beggar's lubberly lip.'

The judge had already decided that the witness was bound to state distinctly the description of the watch which had been left upon their brig's deck.

The witness said, 'James Thompson, my lord, had charge of the deck during the whole of the four-to-six watch. A better seaman never pudd-ened an anchor, hauled out a weather cat-ring, or took lead or helm in hand.'

'Then how comes it,' asked the lawyer of the witness, 'that this super-excellent seaman was not as competent to prevent the lady Elizabeth running aboard of the Prince as the boy of whom you boast?' (Some brat of his own,) added Waddy aside to the jury.

The witness not appearing to comprehend the question, the judge directed Waddy to repeat it.

'I ask the witness, my lud, if the boy whose dexterity in taking up a distance he so much extols, could have prevented the dangerous proximity of the Lady Elizabeth to the Prince of Wales—why, then, I ask, as a mere matter of precaution, was not this matchless, quicksighted lad put upon the watch?'

The mate remained mute.

'Put it more directly, Mr. Waddy, said the judge. Waddy bowed to the bench.

'Why was not the boy put upon the watch?'

'Because 'twanted bleeding,' was the acute reply.

'Had you a surgeon in the ship?'

At this question, the assumed gravity of the witness was put to the test. It was with difficulty he could refrain from laughing aloud—he, however, answered in the negative.

'No surgeon in the ship?'

'Sartingly not.'

'Then, how, sir, can you take upon yourself to give an opinion upon a medical point? Pray, sir, have you made physic, as well as seamanship, a study?'

'I can't abide physic—I never took a dose in my life.'

'Then upon what grounds do you assert that the boy wanted bleeding!

'Cause 'twas full o' water.'

'Gracious heavens!' exclaimed Waddy, with extended arms—'was ever greater ignorance betrayed! My Lud, the jury never can receive such testimony. Who ever heard of resorting to depletion in a dropsical case?'

'I say it again,' rejoined the witness, looking Waddy full in the face, 'the buoy wanted tapping.'

'Never, never was there an instance of grosser prevarication! Note this gentlemen of the jury—he first swears that the boy wanted bleeding, and now, that he finds himself in error, he turns from the operation of bleeding to that of tapping!'

'Well, I say so still—bleeding is just as proper a tarm as tapping—take the urns out of that if you can,' said the mate in a tone of defiance.

'I can't suffer you, my man, to be insolent to counsel,' said the judge, addressing the witness in a peremptory tone.

'I am not insolent, my lord; but where's the man, my lord, as can bear to be bullied and badgered about by a lubberly lawyer, as doesn't know the main brace from the captain's breeches?'

This burst of offended feeling excited in the Court a sensation not to be described. The sons of the sea were seen rubbing their hands with glee and delight, whilst expressions of surprise, and scowls of indignation betrayed themselves in the tell-tale features of the members of the bar.

SUICIDE BY A YOUNG WOMAN. Ellen Norris, of Sackett's Harbor, (formerly of Rutland,) took a large dose of corrosive sublimate on the night of the 12th inst. of which she died, on the evening of the 17th. She had been accused of purloining a ring from a friend, which so wrought on her mind as to induce the commission of suicide.

GOOD SENTIMENT. "The beginning, middle, and end of happiness is contentment. There is, therefore, no condition of life in which happiness is unattainable. It may be enjoyed by the peasant who delves the soil, no less than by this wealthy lord. The insect which satisfies its thirst with the dew-drop contained in the floweret's cup, has as much enjoyment as the elephant which drinks from the stream of some mighty river."

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good night's rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE!

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmasters General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads, Head Winds and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

THE MARYLAND ARCADE
Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS!

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hat: Splendid Russia Hats at $3.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $2.00; Clipt Nutria Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be Ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

fe4-3m* FOLYDORE E. RILEY.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

FRIDAY MORNING, April 9, 1841.

MAYOR'S COMMUNICATION. His honor, the Mayor of Baltimore, has favored us with a communication, (see another column,) assigning his reasons for not having convened the councils; and, as it would seem, in reply to some editorial strictures of ours. We do not know that any thing which we have said should have stirred the bile of his honor, for we merely jogged his memory, supposing that, in the multitude of his official business, he might have forgotten that such an event as the death of the President of the United States had occurred. But we are happy that our remarks have had the effect of producing this publication from his honor, because the motives of his conduct will be no longer liable to misconstruction. He conveys his censures of those who have not approved his course, in language not the most polished or gentle—and, loth as he is to have his own motives questioned, he has little delicacy in casting imputations upon those of others. We know not who is to be benefitted by the misrepresentation of his conduct, nor whom he designs to designate as slanderers. A free people will use their tongues freely, and it may sometimes be, too freely for the ear of official dignity—but with this we have nothing to do. His reasons for not convening the councils being now before the public, every one will be able to form an opinion of their correctness. To our minds they are not satisfactory, however conscientiously they may be entertained.

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO CANAL. We publish on the first page, the bill recently passed by the Legislature of Maryland, for the benefit of the Canal. The provisions are rigid, and care has been taken to make the appropriation as little onerous as possible, under any circumstances, to the people of Maryland.

We have heretofore stated some of the prominent provisions of the bill; but as a deep interest has been excited in this city on the subject of an appropriation to the work, we have thought that our readers would like to see the act in extenso. We have already intimated our doubts as to the practicability of carrying this law into effect; and we repeat that some of its provisions appear to present obstacles which, we apprehend, it will be found difficult to overcome. We refer to the 8th, 10th and 12th sections. By the 8th the whole work must be put under contract for the sum appropriated, or the act fails. Estimates have no doubt been submitted to the Legislature, shewing that this can be done; but estimates are very uncertain data upon which to limit an appropriation. We know that, heretofore, they have utterly failed to equal the actual expenditure; and we see no reason why they should, in the present instance, approximate nearer to the truth. But, if it be conceded that the work can be completed for the sum stipulated, the act is dependent upon other contingencies not less doubtful. The 10th section requires that certain mining companies shall give bonds and satisfactory security, to construct rail roads from their mines to the Canal, by the time the latter shall have been completed. The fulfilment of this obligation will depend upon the extent of such rail roads, and the ability of the companies to make them within the period limited. But if this difficulty be overcome, the 12th interposes another of a more formidable character. Said mining companies must furnish acceptable security for the annual payment of two hundred thousand dollars, for five years, to be allowed in their tolls. We have strong doubts whether the companies can comply with this requisition for the first five years after the construction of the Canal, as it will take time and a heavy outlay to get their mines into such successful operation as to afford the payment of so large a sum annually, without rendering their works unprofitable.

We shall be glad, however, if our doubts be found groundless, and that the act can be carried into effect. We were opposed, not to the completion of the Canal, but to the imposition of additional burthens at the present time. We believe that the work will prove productive and highly advantageous to Maryland, when completed to Baltimore; and to this object all our energies should be directed. The citizens of Baltimore have a right to ask that the eastern terminus of the Canal shall be at this city, as originally designed; and, by timely action, this can be accomplished simultaneously with the completion of the Canal to Cumberland. We call public attention to this portion of the subject thus early, that Baltimore may be prepared to enjoy a fair participation in a trade which she has mainly contributed to originate.

A NOBLE MANIFESTATION. We learn from the Lancaster Intelligencer that a very large meeting was called at the Court House in Lancaster, Pa., on the 5th inst., to express appropriate regret at the death of the late President. The meeting, it is stated, was attended without distinction of party, the Mayor in the chair, at which a resolution was unanimously passed that business be suspended and minute guns fired on the day of the President's burial, and that crape be worn for thirty days by the citizens.

CONNECTICUT ELECTION. Ellsworth is elected Governor over Nicholl. Ellsworth has received 13,549, and Nicholl 10,521—the majority for the former, so far, 3,028. So far as heard from, Brockway is elected to Congress by 700, Boardman by 900, and Trumbull by 1300 majority.

PUBLIC DEMONSTRATIONS OF RESPECT. The papers come to us filled with the proceedings of public meetings, corporate bodies and private associations, testifying their sorrow at the late national bereavement in the death of the President. We cannot copy them all, but content ourselves with publishing the following account of those in Philadelphia. We should like to be able to afford editors of other cities the opportunity of recording the resolutions of our corporate authorities and citizens on the melancholy subject. But our city seems destined to be a blank in the history of this interesting event, unless private individuals will assume the responsibility of calling a public meeting, which we hope will be done without farther delay.

[From the Pennsylvania Intelligencer.]

THE SOLEMNITIES OF YESTERDAY.

THE DEATH OF PRESIDENT HARRISON. The demonstration of popular sentiment which took place in Philadelphia yesterday, was honorable alike to the city, the country, and to human nature. The feeling of regret and grief seemed deep, universal and sincere. It appeared to pervade all bosoms and classes, all ranks and conditions of life, and the tear of sorrow trickled from many a manly eye. The whole community felt the great national loss which had just been sustained, and even many of those who had been most zealous in their efforts adverse to the late incumbent of the Executive chair, joined in the tribute to his memory, in the sincerest spirit. The recommendation of the Mayor, with reference to the closing of all places of business, was scrupulously complied with. Nearly every store in the city and county was closed, and so indeed, with regard to the dwellings of most of our citizens. Attached to the windows and doors of many, were pieces of crape and other emblems of mourning, while the Merchants' Exchange, our public buildings generaly, and all our principal boarding houses, were attired in the weeds of wo. At the Exchange, the portrait of General Harrison, painted by Sully, was to be seen attired in crape, and the flags of all our shipping, as well as those attached to the various liberty-poles, were at half-mast and in mourning. The Chinese and Philadelphia Museums were closed, and the general appearance of our streets was Sabbath-like and solemn, every thing like business having been postponed for the time.

Most of those who were out, assumed a demeanor of more than ordinary gravity, while the heart must have been cold and torpid indeed, that could have witnessed the various manifestations, and regarded the universal expressions of sympathy and regret, with feelings of indifference. Even the little children seemed to participate somewhat in the general sentiment, and by their artless inquiries and expressions, showed that no common occurrence had taken place. The meeting in Independence Square at 12 o'clock, was one of the largest ever held in Philadelphia. The multitude extended to thousands, and the order, gravity and propriety of deportment which marked the vast concourse, were altogether becoming and creditable. The remarks made by Messrs. Swift, Sergeant and Kane, were at once eloquent, touching and appropriate.—Many an eye grew dim as they were uttered, and many a heart thrilled with emotion, as the services and virtues of the illustrious dead were briefly but justly commented upon.

RIGHT FEELING. If the people of foreign nations ever entertained the idea, that the political differences in this country could induce either party to lose their feelings of national pride and attachment, they will be convinced of their error on observing the perfect unanimity with which the death of President Harrison has been mourned throughout the country. However violent may be the party contests; no matter how inflammatory the appeals on either side—no sooner is the contest determined, than the victors and the vanquished unite in sustaining the honor and dignity of their country, and in paying that respect to the chief Magistrate of the nation which is due from a free people to their chosen ruler. On the respect which has just been paid to the remains of General Harrison, the correspondent of the Republican justly observes:—"That man's sincerity may well be doubted upon subjects of major importance, who is not at all times ready to sacrifice personal or party feelings, to national credit and character." This is true—for the man whose mind is so contracted, or whose feelings are so obtuse, as not to permit him to sacrifice personal or party prejudices on such an occasion as has been, for the first time in this country presented within the present week, can have but an imperfect perception of his moral duties, and little regard for their fulfilment. We have read of fiends rejoicing over the tortures of the condemned, but the triumph of a partizan over the death of a political opponent exceeds the malignant joy of even the fiends. In the language quoted above, "that man's sincerity may well be doubted upon subjects of major importance."

We believe that the grief which has been universally expressed at the death of General Harrison, by political friends and opponents, has been felt in sincerity. There was nothing of hypocrisy in it, for it burst forth by a spontaneous impulse and could not be restrained. We honor the feeling which has been exhibited—and we hope that it may be long before party attachments can be so strong as to suppress the natural impulse of the heart, or repress the desire to weep over the grave of a benefactor of his country.

ROOKWOOD. The most extensive preparations, we learn, are being made by Mr. Ward, Manager of the Front street Theatre, to bring out this novel and splendid Equestrian Drama at the above establishment, in a style superior to any thing of the kind ever before attempted in this city. Rookwood has been played with almost unparallelled success both in New York and Philadelphia. From this we may justly infer for it a good run here. The Naiad Queen, we are told, was not a circumstance to what this will be. We are glad to find that this spectacle is about being produced in a Theatre so spacious as the Front Street, where all its beauties can be fully developed.

CONVICTION. A man named Harry Sisco has been convicted at Hackensack, N. J. of the murder of Alfred D. Myers, and sentenced to be hung on the 30th inst.

CURE OF THE EVIL. We have, on one or two occasions, submitted our views as to the propriety of having more rigid legal enactments to preserve the purity of elections; but, although the frauds committed are matter of general complaint, no measures have been adopted by the proper authorities to remove the evil. We will not do the injustice to any party to suppose that it can desire to have a system perpetuated, by which the freedom of elections can be controlled, and the choice of our rulers be determined in favor of that party which can bring to its aid the most fraud and corruption. But it is notorious that no election occurs in which illegal votes are not given. This should be prevented; but the present laws are found totally inefficient, and therefore the attempt to enforce them is seldom made.

The necessity of adopting more energetic means to punish illegal acts at elections is felt not only in Maryland but in other states; and the Senate of Ohio has taken the subject in hand in the right spirit. They have passed a bill to preserve the purity of elections, of which the following is a summary. It will be seen that some of the provisions of the act are similar to the suggestions heretofore made in this paper.

1st. No person is allowed to vote in any other place but the township of his residence.

2d. No county is considered a residence for any person if he has merely moved into it temporarily, without an intention of making it his permanent residence.

3d. Any person voting in any other township than his own, is subject to imprisonment for from one to six months.

4th. For voting in another county, the penalty is from one to three years' imprisonment in the penitentiary.

5th. For voting more than once, imprisonment in the penitentiary from one to five years. The same penalty for a person who is a resident of another State.

6th. For any person under age, or who has not been a citizen of the State one year, or who has been convicted of crime, imprisonment for from one to six months.

7th. For any person aiding a disqualified person as above to vote, a fine of from $100 to $500, and imprisonment.

8th. For any person procuring a voter from another county, imprisonment in the penitentiary for from one to five years.

9th. For imposing upon a person who cannot read, the same penalty.

10th. A naturalized citizen who has lost his papers, if challenged must take oath as to time and place of his having been naturalized.

11th. The judges are required to challenge any person whom they suspect to be not entitled to vote.

12th. The judges must publicly open the ballot boxes at the commencement of the election.

13th. For fraudulently putting in a ticket, imprisonment in the penitentiary for from one to three years.

14th. Judges are required to permit three of either or both parties to be present during the election.

15th. For breach of duty by the judges of election, imprisonment in the penitentiary for from one to five years.

16th. Judges of Courts are required to give the above in special charge to the Grand Jury.

Mr. Thomas L. Budd, son-in-law, we believe of Rev. John N. Maffit, who has for some time been a clerk in the Union Bank of Tennessee, at Nashville, and kept the Individual Ledger, has been arrested for making false entries, and embezzelling a large sum. He has confessed his crime and been committed to jail. Thus hath the bud blossomed in iniquity. Two packages of bills, consisting of notes payable in New Orleans, which had been redeemed by the Banks, and amounting to 18,500 dollars are missing.

It is but fair to state that a notice similar to the above appeared in the Patriot of this city on Wednesday last, without being credited to any paper, which lead many persons to suppose it had reference to the Union Bank of Baltimore.

A SLOW UP. An Albany paper tells the following, which, if true, is really an unfortunate blunder: "A son of the Emerald Isle left Dayton, Ohio, in a wagon, by the Union Road. He had a fur cap on his head, and in the cap a half pound of powder done up in a paper. He lighted his pipe on the commencement of his journey and smoked along the road until he was satisfied with the recreation, when he pulled off his cap and having deposited the pipe along with the powder, replaced it upon his head. In a few minutes the powder exploded, blew off the cap, singed nearly all the hair off his head, and burned his forehead and cheeks most wofully."

GAMBLING AWAY A DAUGHTER. "A few days since," says the Journal de la Meuse, "an inhabitant at Void, playing at billiards, staked the hand of his only daughter, a handsome girl of eighteen, against his adversary. The imprudent father lost, and the winner has since insisted on payment being made, claiming the young lady, fortune and all, or else a sufficient indemnity. The daughter, however, objects to the validity of the bargain, and gaming debts cannot be enforced by law."

A SUCCESSFUL AUTHOR. M. Gliech, a German author, lately died in Vienna, leaving a fortune of $10,000, gained entirely by his pen.—He had during his life written 215 romances, each from two to five volumes, 300 dramatic pieces, most of which were successful. He left an only daughter, a singer in one of the theatres.

MARK OF RESPECT. The Phil. Inquirer says: We noticed yesterday that the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Rail Road Company, as a mark of respect for our late venerated President, had their United States Mail and other Cars hung with black crape, and each of the sixteen horses attached thereto had crape attached to their bridles. This is highly commendable.

ESCAPE. Yesterday morning as officers Ridgley and Hancock were on their way to the jail from the District Court Room, having in charge a seaman named Thomas, committed for perjury, giving the officers leg bail, when in the neighborhood of the Calvert street Spring, succeeded, after a hard chase, in making his escape, and has not since been taken.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

MESSRS. EDITORS: I have noticed some editorials in your paper of yesterday and the day before, calculated to make the impression that I have not been mindful of the obligations due the feelings of this community, and impliedly an unfriendly feeling against the late President of the United States.

I may have erred in the course I have seen fit to adopt, in not calling the Councils together for the purpose of giving expression to the feelings of this community on the occasion of the death of the late President; but I do not think so. I am opposed to public pageantry on all such occasions. If a community has cause for mourning, let it be the heart that mourns; let the silent sorrowful countenance be the proper index to the feelings. Public display and frolic give the lie to the profession.

I can and do sympathize with the bereaved widow, the children and friends who have known and felt the kindly and generous emotions of his heart. To them it is in deed and in truth a calamity; one that is realized and felt in the secret recesses of the soul, not in the cold, canting, calculating, worldly sympathy. I would to God I could persuade others to exercise as much charity and sympathy as I feel myself for those who may differ with me politically or otherwise.

I am not ignorant of the important trust confided to me, and of the many besetments that surround me—of having every word and act construed in the most illiberal way to my injury, that others may be benefitted. I cannot believe that it is done for the mere love of slander.

Whenever an occasion is presented requiring the deliberation of the Councils for the public interest they will be called together, and not till then; for it is on such occasions, and such only, that authority is given to the executive to call the Councils together. Public sympathy can have no such claims. It belongs to the community as citizens, not the corporate authorities.

As an individual I will heartily co-operate with the citizens in any manner which may be thought most proper to give expression to the feelings of the community in relation to the death of the late President.

I am aware of a different course having been pursued in other cities. There the corporate authorities have harmonized without regard to parties to give expression to public feeling.—This was right.—They believed it right that corporate authority should act. I have acted under a different impression without the slightest political bias. I claim the right to judge of its propriety. Strange as it may appear yet such is the fact, but two gentlemen, Mr. Joseph White and James M. Buchannan, have called on me to request the Councils to be called together.

Respectfully, S. BRADY.

MADAM RESTELL. This woman was taken on the 6th inst., from prison to the residence of Mrs. Purdy, New York, where the District Attondy and Justice Lowns, with Mr. La Forge, the council of Mrs. Purdy, were in attendance to examine the latter in presence of the accused, in regard to all the matters with which the prisoner stands charged.

Mrs. Purdy reiterated all her former statements.

Madame Restell, on being asked whether she desired counsel, which she was told she could have, if she wished, drew out a written document, drawn by her employed counsel, protesting against the examination and the proceedings in all their parts. She sat unmoved, without the slightest trepidation, or apparent concern during the searching enquiries made—when she was reconducted to prison. Mrs. Purdy was greatly exhausted by the examination, which continued until about 4 o'clock, and appears to be rapidly sinking into the arms of death.

A sad accident occurred in Biddeford, opposite Saco, Me, on the 3d instant. A daughter of Mr. Robert Hooper, about eighteen years of age, was killed by the accidental discharge of a gun, in the hands of a young man. The contents of the gun passed through her neck, and she died almost instantly.

A BAROMETER IN MISSOURI. The Lexington (Mo.) Express of the 20th February says:—"There has not been a drop of rain during the whole winter, and only about four inches of snow, altogether. Our streets and roads are dry and in fine order. To take the season through, we never observed a milder or more delightful one, even in the Old Dominion."

☞The alarm of fire last night about 9 o'clock, proved to be false. A boy named Morton Manuel, when running with one of the reels in North Gay street, was run over by it, and had one of his legs very much bruised. The bone, though said to be fractured, was not broken.

☞The military companies from Little York left our city yesterday morning, on their return from the funeral of the President, in the 9 o'clock train. They were escorted to the depot by the Independent Blues, under the command of Capt. Lilly.

☞We learn, says the St. Louis Bulletin of the 29th ult. that the principal Iron Merchants in this city, have resolved to reduce the price on all sorts of iron, one cent per pound. This reduction to commence to-day.

POLICE. Adam and Catharine Beltzans, charged with assaulting and beating Ann Rallson, were arrested and taken before Justice Gorsuch yesterday. Giving security for their appearance they were released.

FRESHET. The canal at Lockport, New York, has been seriously injured by the rise of the waters. Loss to the contractors will be several thousand dollars.

THANKSGIVING. Governor Kent, of Maine, has appointed Thursday, 22d inst., to be observed as a day of public humiliation and prayer throughout that state.

☞A hot and strong decoction of tobacco juice is recommended to be poured about the floors of houses as a sure preventive of the gnawing of rats.

☞A special meeting of the Aldermen and Common Council of Boston was immediately called, upon receiving intelligence of the late President's death.

☞Letters from Washington express a belief that Mrs. Harrison will desire the removal of the body of the late President to North Bend.

☞At a Meeting of the WASHINGTON JUNIOR TEMPERANCE SOCIETY, held on Thursday evening, April 8th, 1841, the following resolutions were adopted:

RESOLVED, That the thanks of this Society be tendered to the ladies concerned in the presentation of the Banner on the morning of the 5th of April.

Resolved, That they be admitted as honorary members to this Society for life.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the daily papers of the city, with the names of the President, Vice-president and Secretaries, attached thereto.

PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, by an Act of Assembly of this State, passed at December session 1832, it is provided, "that if a special or extra session of Congress should be called to commence at such period as to make it necessary in the opinion of the Governor and council, that the representatives in Congress from this State should be chosen before the time fixed by law for such election, then it shall be the duty of the governor, by proclamation," to appoint a day for the election of said representatives in Congress: AND WHEREAS the President of the United States has, by his proclamation of the 17th instant, an official copy of which has been received, convened the two Houses of Congress to meet on the 31st day of May next, I do therefore appoint Monday, the 17th day of May next, as the day for the election of Representatives from this State to serve in the Congress of the United States.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, this twenty-sixth day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty-one.

By the Governor, WM. GRASON.

MEDICAL AID. The success that has attended the treatment of many thousand cases of Venereal Complaints for twenty years past, induces the subscriber to inform the public, that he may be daily seen and consulted on all cases of the kind, recent and chronic, and on diseases of the urinary organs generally. His treatment is speedy and certain, adapted to the various constitutions of his patients; the medicines are so mild that the most delicate may take them, without any restrictions in diet or occupation. Many cases that have resisted every other mode of treatment have speedily yielded to this, and many persons who have tried all the quack nostrums of the day are frequently calling on the subscriber to have the injuries they have sustained by their use relieved. An early application is advisable in all cases, which may be made at Dr. WARNER'S OFFICE, Albemarle street, one door north of East Pratt street. Medicines furnished in quantities to suit applicants. ap7-eo1m*

JAMES A HENDERSON, Begs leave to inform his friends and the public generally, that he has made such arrangements as will put him in possession of a constant supply of French, English, and American LEATHER, of the finest quality, which he would be pleased to manufacture in BOOTS, SHOES, or PUMPS, for those who may favor him with their orders. He takes pleasure in stating that he has secured the services of Mr. DAMERSON, (formerly in the employ of Mr. Ackland) who will attend especially to the Cutting Department. With those facilities, the subscriber promises to present his BOOTS, SHOES, and PUMPS, and all other articles in his line, with a neatness of workmanship that cannot fail to please those who may favor him with a trial. He would take this opportunity to return his sincere thanks to his customers for their liberal patronage for past years, and hopes, by a strict attention to business, a continuation of the same. [ap3-wslm No. 9 South GAY-ST.

C. T. HINCKLEY, having established himself in the above business at the CLIPPER OFFICE, No. 7 N. GAY STREET, respectfully offers his services to the public, for the execution of any orders with which he may be favored.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it a reality to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 22 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

REMOVAL.

THOMAS M. CROUCH has REMOVED his Brush, Basket, and Wooden Ware Factory and Furnishing Store, from Baltimore street, to No. 6 CENTRE MARKET SPACE, (4th house from Baltimore street,) where he will be pleased to wait on his old customers and the public generally.

Persons commencing housekeeping, will find it to their advantage to call and select from my assortment of BRUSHES, BASKETS, TIN WARE, WOODEN WARE, &c. as I will make a liberal discount to those who make their general bill at my Store.

☞ Mr. JOHN S. BRASHEARS has a Tin & Sheet-iron Ware workshop in the rear of the Store, and will make and repair all kinds of Tin and Sheetiron work, Spouting, Roofing, &c. in a workmanlike manner, at short notice. His friends and the public are invited to patronize him. ap1-tf

BALTIMORE LOCKE DISPENSARY,
No. 17 HARRISON STREET,
Established for the cure of one class of diseases.

BY the use of that infallible remedy, Dr. HUNTER'S RED DROP, by an experienced physician of five years practice in New York. The nature of the medicine is such, that it drives every vestige of poison from the system, and so secret, that the most intimate friend cannot detect the use of it—without diet or hindrance from business. One bottle is warranted to cure, or the money returned.

Price $1. Private Rooms attached. Advice gratis.

☞ The only place in this city, where the genuine Medicine can be obtained, is at No 17 HARRISON STREET. All medicine sold elsewhere, under the name of Hunter's, is a base fraud. mh17-tf1f

How to be Happy. If every one could live up to what is mentioned in the following sentiments, happiness would certainly be more abundant.

"How much would it conduce to our happiness to be select in our books and in our friends, to choose each more for their good sense than their knowledge, more for their being christians than philosophers; to be contented with a small but certain income; to have no master, and few servants; to be without ambition, envy, avarice, or a law suit; to preserve our health by exercise instead of medicine; to adhere to our religious opinions; to love and hate on just grounds; to let the pleasures of life pass by us without a murmur; and to wait with confidence for an eternal hereafter."

Advice to Letter Writers. The following piece of advice, which we find in a Mobile paper, may prove useful:

1. Date your letter with the name of the Post Office to which you desire to have the answer directed. If you place at the head of your letter a name unknown to the Post Office Books, you may reasonably expect that the answer will be directed accordingly and that it will never reach you.

2. Let the superscription of your letter contain the following particulars:—1 Name of the person written to. 2. Name of the Post Office at which he receives his letters. 3. Name of the county in which the Post office is situated. 4. Name of the state.

Dreadful Accident. A pedlar named Arnold Kluckhart, came to his death in a most shocking manner, on Monday afternoon on the Columbia Railroad. It appears that he was a passenger, and looking out of the window of the car, his hat blew off. He stepped out of the ear, on to the ground, by some means lost his balance, and fell between the cars in a diagonal manner across the track. The wheel of the hind car passed over his body, at the right hip, cutting off both legs, and also the left arm. The unfortunate man lived but a few moments after.

An Important Discovery. A citizen of this city, who has been long afflicted with the gravel, has discovered, what in his case, is a sovereign remedy for that distressing complaint.

Take the buds of the balm of Gilead tree gathered at the time they are expanding to form the leaf, put one pint of them in a quart bottle, fill it with old Holland Gin; in a few days it will be fit for use. In ordinary cases one table spoonfull three times a day taken in a tumbler of water, in extreme cases, increase the dose to the quantity of a wine glass full adding ten drops of laudanum; it dissolves the gravel and he believes will dissolve the stone.

Resigned. The Phil. Inquirer of yesterday states that Thomas Dunlap, Esq. sent in his resignation on the 7th instant. as President of the Bank of the United States, and that Mr. John S. Martin has been elected President pro. tem. This gentleman has been a director for some time.

☞The Saco factory girls at the latest advices, were still standing out for their rights. They had resolved, in case they were not immediately granted, to leave the place forthwith.

Naval. The U. S. schooner Porpoise was on 25th March, lat. 35 10, long. 75 5, on a cruise. All well.

The United States ship Warren, Commander Jamieson, arrived at Pensacola on 20th ult. All well.

A veto. Letters from Harrisburg, says the Intelligencer, inform us that a veto to the Bank Bill was expected from the Governor on Wednesday.

Melancholy Mementos. In an Indian camp, in Florida, from which the savages were driven by Captain Barnman, there were found an undress uniform coat, belonging to the late Lieut. Sherwood, and a lace collar which was the property of the unfortunate Mrs. Montgomery. A quantity of clothing taken from the body of slain soldiers was also discovered, and much plunder.

American Wine. The largest wine-producing State in the Union, is Ohio; amount, 161,000 gallons; next, Virginia—37,000; next, Pennsylvania—19,000; and next New York—14,000. Alabama produces 11,000—Maryland, 7,000—New Jersey, 9,000—Connecticut, 5,000 gallons.

Hail storm. A very severe hail storm was experienced in St. Louis on the 26th ult. A large number of windows and many sky lights were shattered.

The Pennsylvania Debt is said to amount now to the enormous sum of thirty-seven millions of dollars. Increase in less than three years, about twelve millions.

☞It is stated by the Petersburg Intelligencer that the Swedenborgians in that country number four thousand members and thirty-eight ministers. They have three periodicals. Twenty-five years have elapsed since their first introduction.

Gas Light. There is a company being formed in Petersburg, Va., for the purpose of introducing gas light into that borough.

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING
THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 39 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparalelled, and successful manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral Incorruptible Teeth, and can confidently assert that they are superior to any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth FOREVER retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. Be it also remembered, that Dr. W. proportions his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when PURE GOLD is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dentistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.

1. Artificial Teeth out of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.

2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.

3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carrat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as CHEAP WORK is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even SILVER is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent use in the mouth.

4. Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

5. Those individuals who cannot afford to pay the fee of 50 cents for extraction, can have this important operation performed any morning WITHOUT CHARGE, by calling between the hours of 8 and 9 A. M.

Individuals requiring the assistance of a Dentist, may avail themselves of Dr. W's services at any hour of the day throughout the year, to suit their own convenience.

MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

To Dr. Swayne.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,

ARRIVAL OF THE ACADIA.

EUROPEAN NEWS.

NINE DAYS LATER FROM ENGLAND.

The steam ship Acadia arrived at Boston on Wednesday morning. We are indebted to Harnden's Express—an enterprize, by the way, that is conducted with a degree of industry and ability, that entitles it to the most liberal praise and patronage—for English papers of the latest dates; and also for extras from several of the newspaper offices of Boston. The news possesses considerable interest and importance. As relates to this country and England, it is rather more pacific, although sufficiently threatening. The extracts given below, from some of the leading journals, may be referred to as sufficiently indicative of public opinion and feeling. The conviction and execution of McLeod would unquestionably lead to trouble. But we have no fears for such a result. The Hampshire Telegraph states that SIX BRITISH REGIMENTS HAVE BEEN DIRECTED TO HOLD THEMSELVES IN READINESS TO EMBARK FOR THIS COUNTRY—also, THAT TEN SAIL OF THE LINE HAD BEEN ORDERED TO THE SAME DIRECTION. These are certainly any but pacific symptoms. The Liverpool Mail is as violent as ever; and the Morning Chronicle (the official journal) states that Mr. Fox has received orders to withdraw from Washington, unless his first demand be immediately complied with.—The nature of those demands are not described.

Nothing later from China. Tea was high, and still rising.

The money market was somewhat better—but cotton was languid.

GREAT BRITAIN AND THE U. STATES.

THE WAR QUESTION.

Symptoms of War with America. We have this day learned that our government, in order to provide for any emergency that may spring out of the case of M'Leod (and if the republic execute him, we do not think that there is a man in the United Kingdom but will demand justice,) have directed six regiments to hold themselves in readiness to embark to North America—two of them are the 19th and 84th regiments, now in Ireland. It is also stated in private letters from the first circles in Paris, that Lord Granville, on the 17th ult., officially announced to M. Guizot that the English Government would find it necessary to send ten sail of the line to the same quarter. Of course a fleet of steamers will form part of such an expedition.—Hampshire Tel.

The quantity of money available for mercantile purposes is very small, and the demand being large, a further advance in the rate of interest has taken place—first rate merchants and bankers bills are not to be discounted under 5 per cent. Common bills are 7½ to 10 per cent.

[From the London Times, March 18.]

ENGLAND AND THE U. STATES.

By the arrival of the Columbia, which reached Liverpool yesterday morning, (having left Boston on the 1st inst. and Halifax on the 4th,) public solicitude in regard to our present uneasy relations with the United States will, in some respects, be rather increased than allayed. Not that the intelligence is of a very decided character either in one way or another; but that the state of feeling in America, unmodified by the last despatches from this country, (which had not come to hand when the Columbia sailed,) continued to exhibit the same portentous and warlike symptoms that have already threatened to disturb the good understanding she has so long maintained with the British Government. Those despatches, forwarded by the President steamer, will ere now have apprised the Americans, that how much soever the people of England may be divided on questions of home policy, their present unanimity in determining that Mr. McLeod must either be surrendered or avenged—a unanimity alike calm, cordial and firm—is probably without a precedent, and therefore ought not rashly to be driven to extremities. Devoutly deprecating as we do the possible contingencies of a war with the United States, less on account of its immediate or remote consequences to Britain than because of the irreparable evils it must inflict upon humanity at large, it is necessary, nevertheless, to contemplate these contingencies in a provident and reasonable spirit. We would consequently remind our transatlantic rivals, that, should those extremities occur, which they are so gratuitously endeavoring to provoke, they must find themselves at a disadvantage with this country heretofore unknown to them in any previous contest.

From the London Chronicle of March 14.

By the England packet ship from New York, papers to the 19th were received on Wednesday afternoon, detailing some further angry notices in Congress, which appear to evince a bad spirit towards England, and render it possible that a hostile collision between the two countries may result from the pending disputes; more particularly as it is understood that our ministers at Washington has received orders to withdraw unless his just demands be immediately complied with. It produced an immediate shock on the Stock Market, reducing the price of consols 1-2 to 5-8 per cent, before the close of business, but there was a slight re-action this morning, though confidence is not by any means re-established. The powerful party here, which has been speculating for a rise in consols during the last two months, coming forward after each depression to buy up the loose Stocks, are becoming alarmed, as they have not ventured to renew their operations since the receipt of the unfavorable intelligence yesterday; from which it is naturally inferred that they are disposed to abandon it as a hopeless speculation. Foreign Securities have followed the stream in a greater or less degree, but as they have been little dealt in of late, the effect upon them is not so strong as it is upon our own stock. Railway Shares are also flat, and people hesitate about making new investments until they see what course events will take.

From the Liverpool Mail of March 18.

It is impossible to tell what will be the results of Lord Palmerston's peremptory demands upon the government of the United States. If Mr. Fox be left by instructions forwarded by the President steamer to act upon the principles previously asserted by him in his correspondence with Mr. Forsyth, there can be no doubt that a rupture with that country is inevitable. If, on the other hand, the Foreign Secretary has had recourse to his tampering system, and accepts terms of compromise unworthy the dignity of England and the justice of the case, we may be prepared for the same disagreeable reverses as have followed the enterprises of the Elliots in China.

Some few people seem to think that England, in the present, as in other instances, ought to deal leniently and mercifully with our expatriated countrymen—that we ought to treat America as we would treat an illigitimate daughter—and concede a large portion of our just claims for the sake of charity and peace. Our view of the question is, that we have conceded too much already. We have yielded when we should have firmly resisted—we have surrendered when we should have been pointing our guns—and we have allowed robbery after robbery to be committed without evincing any resentment for inflicting any punishment. In this way we have encouraged the unscrupulous citizens of the United States to bully, menace and insult us with impunity. Now is the time to settle not only our north-east boundary question, but to bestow such chastisement upon her lawless citizens as shall be beneficial to them in a moral point of view, for the next fifty years.

THE FRENCH VIEW OF THE AMERICAN WAR WITH ENGLAND

The Journal des Debats contains the following reflections on the consequences of a war between Great Britain and the United States: "When we consider the important interests which connect Great Britain and the United States, the considerable mass of English capital engaged in America, the immense outlet which Great Britain finds for her manufactures in America, and whence she receives 1,500,000 bales of cotton annually, one is terrified at the consequences of such a war to Great Britain. The means of destruction employed against the Americans would in a great measure fall upon British property. The money and the blood expended by Great Britain in such a contest would definitely be drawn from herself, and her efforts would produce no other results but that of depriving of employment and food her immense population, already exhausted by the feudal system of property & the insatiable rapacity of the Anglician church."

Several Cabinet Councils have been held of late; when Her Majesty's principal Ministers and the Foreign Ambassadors were in conference for several hours. The nature of the business transacted is not stated.

The Duke of Sunderland and the Marquis of Westminster have been formally invested by the hands of her Majesty with the insignia of the Order of the Garter.

It is stated that the Marquis of Hertford is a heavy loser by the stoppage of the United States Bank. It is said, that, fearful of a war between England and France he sold out from the English funds not less than £500,000, and transferred it for better security to the United States Bank; and has become minus to this large amount.

Sir Jeremiah Dickson, K. C. B. is appointed to the command of the troops in Nova Scotia.

Admiral Paterson died on the 10th ult. at the advanced age of 85. In 1777 he was made lieutenant, and served in America during the whole of the last war under Lord Howe, becoming a master and commander in 1782. In this period of his life he assisted at the reduction of Long Island, and the capture of New York; in the expeditions up the North and East Rivers; at the taking of Philadelphia, and subsequently at the capture of St. Eustatia in the West Indies.

The Queen and Court still remain at Buckingham Palace.

Several papers contradict the announcement made by the London Globe respecting the "situation" of the Queen.

The boy Jones, it seems, made another entrance into Buckingham Palace on the evening of the 15th ult., but he was soon discovered and taken into custody.—He had been out of the House of Correction only two weeks. It is said that he will now be sent out of the country.

The Parliamentary intelligence is not of sufficient importance to require any synopsis of it at this time. Lord Stanley has postponed the second reading of his bill to the 28th inst.

Several Chartist meetings have been held in various towns, but they were thinly attended. A grand convention of Chartists is to be held in London on the 12th inst. Their object is to devise plans for the restoration of Frost, Williams, and Jones, for the release of all Chartist prisoners, and for making the charter the law of the land. The convention will sit for two weeks, and each delegate is to be paid £3 per week; the expenses to be defrayed by a weekly subscription of one half-penny from each Chartist.

The Lord Chancellor had so far recovered from his recent illness, as to be able to take his seat in the Chancery Court.

FRANCE. Rumors had gained strength that a protocol had been signed in London, which was originally said to have had for its intentoin the termination of the isolation of France, but it is now announced in the Paris journals that France has refused her signature, on account of the hard conditions recently imposed upon Mehemet Ali. Negotiations are, however, still going on.

The Committee appointed to investigate the supplementary credits of 179,707,435 francs, granted by ordinance to defray the expenses attendant on the increase on the land and sea forces, made in consequence of the Treaty of July 15th, have declared that the "situation of affairs in Europe, would not permit the Government to reduce the effective of the land and sea forces during 1841."

It is said that at the first news of the turn which things were taking in America relative to the affair of the Caroline, instructions were sent to the French Minister in the U. States to use all his efforts to maintain peace; and this course has been and is still adopted in all the intercourse between Gen. Cass and M. Guizot.

Epidemic complaints are raging in several parts of France.

The plague was increasing at Alexandria, where the small pox was becoming very destructive.

SPAIN. The capital is tranquil at present, though it is stated that the Madrid Regency Cabinet is tumbling to pieces. Espartero still hopes to be the only Regent named by the Cortes; but if he fails in this attempt he relies upon being president of the triumvirate, which it is now expected will be nominated. Senor Chacon has been with difficulty prevented from following the example of Senor Gamboa by resigning his office. The Ministry may hold together till the opening of the Cortes but it is by no means certain. Senor Ferrer, who holds the Ministry of Finance ad interim, is, as usual, to do wonders in raising the public credit of the bankrupt Government of Spain.

PORTUGAL. The Portugese Government have withdrawn altogether the unpopular project for reviving the feudal ground rents as a sure revenue.

ITALY—Attempt on the Life of the Queen Dowager of Spain.—Letters from Rome state that an attempt has been made at Rome on the life of the Queen Dowager of Spain, but on what day and in what place is not stated. A Carlist refugee is said to have attacked her Majesty and attempted to strangle her.

GERMANY—Obstruction of the Rhine.—The German Diet had ordered the Government of Hesse to remove the stone dyke it had recently constructed to divert the stream of the Rhine, and impede the navigation of the river up the harbour of Biberick. The misunderstanding that had arisen between the Governments of Hesse Darmstadt and Nassau would, in consequence, be amicably arranged.

SWEDEN—THE DETERMINATION OF THE GOVERNMENT. The differences with France, arising out of the Egyptian question, having caused fears of an interruption of peace, the Russian Cabinet applied to the Swedish Government to know what it would do in case of war. It answered that the situation of the country, the interests of all its subjects, and the progress of prosperty, prescribed strict neutrality; but that if unlawful means were adopted—for instance, if the tranquility of Sweeden should be menaced by a war of propagandism—it would not neglect to take measures for a vigorous defence.

SWITZERLAND. SWISS DIET. The Lozzanne Gazette expects a majority of 12 to 10 in the Swiss Diet against the abolition of the Argovian convents, but expresses its doubts as to the facility of compelling the authorities of Argua to restore the confiscated property of these institutions. The canton of Schaffhausen has joined the others in protesting against the spoilation and suppression of the convents.

AUSTRIA. The Austrian Government, with the consent of the Grand Duke, has just established a Cabinet noir in the capital of Tuscany. The court of Vienna has calculated that by this means it may be informed of every thing that is passing in Europe; and as the Grand Duke is only a vassal of Austria, the execution of the project has been attended with no difficulty. All letters coming from abroad are not only unsealed and read by the Austrian police, but they are irrevocably kept, if they contain the slightest equivocal phrase, however important the contents of the letter may be to the person to whom it is addressed.

At Vienna, on the 25th of Feb., was celebrated the marriage of his excellency Lord Beauvale, her Britannic Majesty's Ambassador to the Court of Austria, with Mademoiselle de Maltzahn, daughter of the Prussian Ambassador at Vienna. Prince Metternich and the whole of the resident foreign ministers were present at the ceremony.

PERSIA. The whole of Persia is in a most unsettled state. It is stated that the son of the late King of Persia is determined to strike for the throne, all the hill chiefs, and those in the south west of Persia, as well as the chief of the Chaub Arabs, and the people of Kerman, are in his favor, and will join him; besides this, he has all the priesthood of Persia with him.

RUSSIA. It is said that the Russian government is about to contract a new loan of 100,000,000 of florins in the Dutch market, notwithstanding that Messrs. Hope have hitherto disposed of only 15,000,000 out of the 50,000,000 of the previous loan. As the natural causes of this necessity are assigned the expeditions against Chiva and Circassia, the equipment of the fleet, both in the Euxine and the Baltic, the erection of many new buildings at the expense of the treasury (such as the palaces in St. Petersburg and Moscow,) the marriage of the Grand Duchess Maria, the journeys of the Imperial family, the stagnation of trade (particularly in Moscow, where there have been in a short time above 200 bankruptcies,) the bad harvest in the last two years, the great and expensive assemblages of troops; and, lastly, the large levies of recruits, by which numerous hands have been withdrawn from agriculture. Considering, however, the immense resources of the empire, there is no doubt that the finances will soon be in a better state, if only peace is preserved.

TURKEY, EGYPT AND SYRIA. The Turco-Egyptian question re-opened!—By the steamer Great Liverpool, from the Mediterranean, we have still later news from the East, she having left Alexandria Feb. 24th, and Malta 1st ult. It appears that Alexandria is again the scene of troublesome negotiation. Three firmans arrived from the Sultan on the 20th Feb. conveying the Pachalic of Egypt to Mehemet Ali, with succession to his descendants, on certain conditions.—These conditions are both numerous and stringent, and in case of the non-performance of any one of them, the inheritence would be revoked.

It is stated that Mehemet Ali absolutely rejected two of them, declaring, at the same time, that he looked to England, on whose good faith he always relied, to save him from the danger and disgrace involved in them.

THE MARKETS AND STATE OF TRADE.

MANCHESTER. If possible, a still greater gloom prevails since Tuesday, and though a slight advance has been obtained on cotton, the decline on goods and yarns throws a great shade of dulness over the market, and must render it decidedly worse.

LEICESTER. The demand is very dull for worsted and woollen hosiery; and we fear from the late news of the stoppage of banks, and consequent financial derangement in the U. States, there will be little if any export trade during the spring. Yarns and wool without change.

LONDON—EXPORT TRADE, &c. It is a general remark here, that the return of fine weather has not yet caused any revival in our export trade; whilst all general business continues in the worst state of dullness and depression. The failures which have occurred in London and elsewhere, have rendered people timid and suspicious, and the smallest irregularities are immediately magnified into serious occurrences.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET. The sales of the week ending March 13th were 36,570 bales; of this quantity we place 7500 American and 3000 Surat to speculators and 100 American and 50 Surat for export. The market closes steadily at an advance of 1-8d. to 1-4d. per lb. on the prices of this day week.

COTTON MARKET, 16th ult. A very limited business has been done in the cotton market this day; the sales comprise 1500 bales, chiefly of American descriptions. The market is very quiet, but prices are without alteration. The transactions are all to the trade.

The previous intelligence from America had some little effect upon the Liverpool cotton market, by creating an advance in prices of 1-8 to 1-4 per lb. but subsequent accounts have tended considerably to allay the excitement. To-day there has been again a dull sale, not amounting in fact to more than 2000 bales at receding rates of 1-8 per lb. since the quotation of Friday last. Speculators are wholly inactive, and for export nothing is doing.—(17th ult.)

The business done to-day was extremely limited by private treaty; the small public sales went with little spirit, but in prices no material variation took place. The arrivals were to a fair extent.

There was more life in the market to-day, and business to a fair extent was transacted at previous rates. Company's Congou 1s. 7½d. cash, buyers.—(March 17.)

MONEY MARKETS.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE. The arrival of the Columbia steamer has put us in possession of advices from New York to the 1st inst., at which time no alteration in political affairs had occurred; but it was imagined that a more pacific tone would be adopted when the Harrison administration came into power on the 4th of March; and the report that Mr. Clay is to come to England gives confidence to the friends of peace here. At the Stock Exchange these accounts are viewed in a favorable light, and have produced an advance of ¼ per cent. in Consols.—Globe, March 17.

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departue from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.

GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M. reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	" Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	" Fredricksburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	" Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	" Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	" Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	" Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	" Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads Weather!! and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

THE MARYLAND ARCADE

Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS!

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hat: Splendid Russia Hats at $3.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3 00; Clipt Nutre Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be Ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine Short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2 50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 10, 1841.

PUBLIC MEETING. One week has nearly terminated since the death of General Harrison, and no movement has taken place in Baltimore towards a call of the citizens to testify their sense of the afflictive event, and their regard for the private virtues and public services of the deceased. We therefore suggest that some of the elderly citizens of each ward authorize the call of a public meeting at Monument Square, or other suitable place, on Monday next, to adopt such measures as may be deemed appropriate to the occasion.

INDEPENDENT BLUES. This old and patriotic Company, has passed resolutions on the subject of General Harrison's death, which do them credit. It will be seen by their proceedings, which we publish, that they recommend a procession, and invite the Mayor to convene the Councils: and they also ask other associations to take the subject into immediate consideration.

☞ It will be seen by the advertisement that the BALTIMORE TYPOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY will hold a meeting THIS EVENING for the purpose of making arrangements to pay a proper tribute of respect to the memory of the late President of the United States.

THE OCEAN for this week, dressed in the appropriate mourning, with a full and detailed account of the death, funeral procession, burial, &c. of our late lamented President, Wm. Henry Harrison, besides other matter of a literary and miscellaneous character, together with the foreign news by the steamer Acadia, can be obtained at the counter, done up in wrappers or otherwise—price per single copy 6¼ cts. We recommend it to the reader upon the present occasion especially, as it contains the fullest account published in this city of the late President, hero, patriot and statesman.

EXTRA CLIPPERS. The foreign intelligence received yesterday by the steamer Acadia, which appears in this morning's paper, was issued from this office on an extra sheet in thirty minutes after the arrival of the mail.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE. The arrival of the steamer Acadia, at Boston, furnishes news nine days later from England. We consider the tenor of the intelligence brought by this arrival decidedly of a pacific character; and are convinced that Great Britain has no disposition to engage in a war with the United States. The report made by Mr. Pickens had naturally caused excitement in England, as it induced the belief that the government of this country was about to assume a hostile attitude towards that nation—but more recent information had allayed the irritation, and restored confidence that the amicable relations between the two countries would not be disturbed. We have not the slightest apprehension of an immediate war, nor do we think it probable that it will result from any existing ground of difference. It is true, the people and government of England appear to be very sensitive on the subject of M'Leod's arrest; and, should he be condemned and executed, it is possible that we may have some sparring—but, if acquitted, every thing will resume the usual tranquil course. The consequences of a war with the United States are too momentous to Great Britain to permit it to be lightly undertaken. In the present condition of that country, with considerable internal dissention; with a large portion of her population dependant upon the United States for the material by which they earn their bread—an immense amount of her capital invested in the stocks of this country, and her Irish subjects panting for emancipation—it would be madness to seek a contest with us. John bull will reflect well before he precipitates himself into a war, from which he cannot escape without the most serious loss.

As to what the French papers say on the subject, it is not to be regarded. It is well known that France looks upon England with an angry eye, and is eager to wipe off the disgrace of having seen England and the allies in possession of the French capitol. It is therefore natural, that the French journals should seek to foment the dispute between England and the United States, and to produce a rupture. We have no doubt that, in case of such an event, we should speedily have the aid of France; and the probability is, that a short time would involve all of the continental powers in the contest. We hope that prudence will prevent such an occurrence.

U. S. SHIP PREBLE. By letters received in this city, dated February 15, 1841, we learn that the U. S. Ship Preble arrived in the river Tagus, off Lisbon, after a severe and arduous passage of 31 days from Boston, eight of which were spent within about 60 miles of the mouth of the Tagus, in severe gales of wind, accompanied by constant rain. The officers and crew have suffered much since leaving port, not having had, during the whole passage, 24 consecutive hours of clear weather.

The Preble had obtained a reputation of being very crank, but she proved herself, says the writer, to be as stiff a ship as ever I sailed in, of which we have had an excellent opportunity to judge. She also sails well, having caught every thing we pursued, so that, in every respect, she has proved herself an excellent vessel. Our charge to Naples was a passenger. All well.

THE MAGNET. Accounts from Van Dieman's Land to the first of September state that the scientific expedition under Capt. Ross, consisting of the Erebus and Terror, has arrived at Hobart Town, after having been at the Cape of Good Hope, St. Helena, and Kerbuelen's Land. The magnetic experiments which Captain Ross was charged with making, had, it is said, induced him to entertain the idea that he could solve the problem of magnetic influence, in so far as to establish the position that it does not depend upon the earth.

We copy the above from an exchange paper, and think it somewhat extraordinary that Capt. Ross should now attempt to solve the problem of magnetic influence upon principles diametrically opposed to those which he had induced the scientific world to believe were firmly established by his experiments and observations in previous years. Whilst on the voyage with Sir John Ross, to discover a North West passage, he is said to have discovered the magnetic pole; and he gives its location with great precision and in terms of high exultation. He settled the question of the source of magnetic attraction very satisfactorily to his own mind, and not less conclusively to the minds of the philosophers and government of England, if we judge by the honors which were conferred on him in consequence of his discovery. And yet, if his present theory be correct, his former views were erroneous, and his magnetic pole a mere fancy of the imagination. We should like to see the principles upon which his new theory is based; for we are confident that he cannot shew that they are in accordance with sound philosophy or practical experience. We know that electricity pervades the atmosphere, but the polarity of the needle cannot be attributed to this cause. We are satisfied that polar atiraction ceases at a certain elevation above the earth.

Although we do not believe in the correctness of the new theory of Capt. Ross, we attach little credit to his discovery of the North Magnetic Pole—for we doubt its existence. We know that the needle is attracted to the North; but the variation shews that there are different sources of attraction. Every bed of iron ore or amber, or other good recipient of the electric fluid, is a magnet capable of attracting the needle—hence as the needle is brought in the vicinity of such local magnets, it inclines towards them. This is daily experienced by surveyors of land. Any substance charged with electricity becomes a magnet, of more or less power according to its size and the quantity of the fluid which it has absorbed. If there be a magnetic pole at 69 N. latitude, or at any other given point, it is evident that, on reaching a higher northern latitude, the position of the needle must change; but whalers have proceeded as high as 84, or perhaps higher, (if our memory be correct,) without this effect being produced.

PENNSYLVANIA BANKS. The Philadelphia Spirit of the Times of yesterday, says: "By the western mail which arrived last night, we received the gratifying intelligence that the governor had returned the Bank bill with his veto." The effect of the veto is to leave the banks subject to the law of 1840, unless they be relieved by some act of the present legislature, which can receive the sanction of the governor. If we are not in error, the effect of the act of 1840 is to cause the banks to wind up their concerns, or to resume specie payments. If the process of winding up be pursued, it will cause unexampled distress, and irretrievable ruin to many persons.

UNITED STATES BANK. We publish the proceedings at the adjourned meetings of stockholders, from which it will be seen, that the name of the institution is to be changed, and its capital stock reduced from thirty-five to fourteen millions of dollars. The branches are to be discontinued and the expenses retrenched. It is probable that, in its reduced form, it will be conducted with more prudence and safety, than in its former unwieldy shape and imposing title. It has, however, to pass the ordeal of the legislature, and to receive the sanction of the governor, before the proposed changes can be made. We refer to the proceedings for particulars.

POLICE. John Williams was yesterday arrested and taken before Justice Blair, charged with assaulting and threatening the life of Margaret Williams. In default of security he was committed to prison. Dianah Stewart, a colored woman, charged with stealing a shawl, the property of Charlotte Jackson, was yesterday committed to prison by Justice Barnard. John Clark, charged with assaulting and beating George Stormbergen, was brought before Justice Gorsuch—giving security for his appearance, he was released.—Daniel Bell, charged with threatening the life of George Stormbergen, was also brought before the same justice, and released on security.

DROWNED. The Patriot of yesterday states that a free colored man, belonging to the sloop Champion, lying at Bowly's wharf, from Centreville, Queen Anne's County, while walking this morning on a plank which extended from the sloop to the wharf, fell into the water—he arose only once, when the attempt to rescue him failed; and the body was not recovered for nearly half an hour. Dr. S. COLLINS was in attendance soon after the raising of the body, and applied the appropriate modes for resuscitation, but owing to the length of time he was under water, without effect.

FIRE. A fire broke out in St. Louis on the 29th ult. It commenced in the grocery store of Mr. Evans, on the north side of Market street, and, before its progress was arrested, entirely destroyed two or three wooden tenements. The principal sufferers are Mr. Evans, grocer, Mr. Hubert, upholsterer and cabinet maker, ——, turner, Sloper & Rimmer, milliners, D. Gazier, hatter, Chauvin & Maxfield, painters. A confectionary store adjoining, and the Exchange Coffee House, were materially injured.

[From the U. S. Gazette, April 9.]

ADJOURNED MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS OF THE U. S. BANK.

At a meeting of the Stockholders of the Bank of the U. States, held, by adjournment, (from Monday, the 5th of April) in the Banking House, on Thursday, 8th of April, 1841.

Samuel Breck, Esq. the Chairman, called the meeting to order at 10 o'clock.

Before the reading of the journal of the former meeting, the chairman stated that there were six vacancies in the Board of Directors, including Thomas Dunlap, Esquire, the late President, who had resigned. And to supply these vacancies, the following named gentlemen had been elected directors:

William Drayton,	Joshua Lippincott,
J. M. Claghorn,	William Rawle,
George Thomas,	John Cooper.

And that WILLIAM DRAYTON has been elected President.

The journal of the previous meeting was then read.

Richard Price stated that his name was on the printed ticket in January last, without his consent, that he did not accept the appointment, and had resigned.

On motion, Mr. Price's remarks were ordered to be entered on the journal.

Mr. Lippincott, from the committee of investigation, then reported a series of resolutions, which, after sundry amendments, were adopted, as follows:

The committee to which was referred the resolution of the stockholders of the 5th inst., directing that such measures should be reported as were deemed necessary to relieve the Bank from its present embarrassments, respectfully present to the meeting the following resolutions for its adoption:

1. Resolved, That the interests of the stockholders will be best promoted by preserving the corporate existence of the institution.

2. Resolved, That the change which has taken place in the administration of the Bank, meets the approbation of this meeting, and it is believed, will revive the confidence of the community.

3. Resolved, That it is expedient that the name of the institution should be changed, and its nominal capital reduced to fourteen millions of dollars, valuing each share at forty dollars.

4. Resolved, That the present committee be authorized to prepare, and cause to be presented to the Legislature, a memorial in the name of the stockholders, praying to be relieved from the residue of the bonds yet unpaid, from the obligation to make loans to the state, and from the penalties attached to suspension of specie payments, for a reasonable period of time, and for such modifications of its charter as are indicated by these resolutions.

5. Resolved, That a part of the assets of the Bank be placed in the hands of trustees as a pledge for the purpose of securing the ultimate payment of its post notes, circulation and deposits, in the event of an arrangement being made with the other city and county banks to receive its notes in payment and on deposit; and in case such arrangements should fail to be made, then in trust for the security of the present circulation and deposits.

6. Resolved, That it is expedient that the banking operations should be confined to the bank in this city, and that its agencies should be no longer maintained than is necessary for the interests of the institution.

7. Resolved, That the discounts of the Bank shall be confined to business paper, and that no permanent loans shall be made on stock or other security, and that no loans shall be made except at the board on the regular discount day.

8. Resolved, That the salary of the President of the Bank shall be reduced to five thousand dollars, and that a suitable reduction shall be made in the salaries of its other officers and agents.

9. Resolved, That no Director shall be permitted to become the surety for any officer of the Bank.

10. Resolved, That for the future no proxies shall be valid unless dated and executed within sixty days before the day of each general election of Directors, and such proxy or proxies shall be acknowledged before a magistrate or notary, and that no officer, director, or clerk of the Bank shall be allowed to vote a proxy.

Mr. J. M. Kennedy moved the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That when this meeting shall adjourn, it will adjourn to meet on the first Tuesday in May next, unless sooner called by the officers of the meeting, who are hereby authorized to make the call.

The following resolution, the result of some discussion and modification, was adopted:

Resolved, That the report of the Investigating Committee be referred to the Board of Directors, to ascertain whether any legal responsibilities have been incurred by the officers of this Bank; and if so, that they cause those responsibilities to be enforced by law.

Mr. Caleb Cope moved the following, which was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the Clerks of the Banks be released from the obligation of their oaths and affirmations of secrecy, touching the affairs of the Bank, in their communications with the Directors, and the Committees of Investigation.

SUPPOSED MURDER. A man named Peter Wilson, near Camden, N. J. has been taken up on suspicion of having murdered his brother. All the circumstances connected with the affair are of the most suspicious character. He is supposed to have cut his brother's throat with a razor, and afterwards set fire to the house in which he resided and burnt him up. The accused has been committed to jail for trial.

PROFITABLE BUSINESS. We are informed, says a Philadelphia journal, that the receipts on the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Rail Road, for the months of February and March last, were near one hundred thousand dollars! The receipts for March alone exceeded fifty-five thousand dollars. This looks like making dividends.

On receipt of the melancholy intelligence of the President's death at Richmond, (Va.) on Sunday evening, the public bell was tolled until night, and, in accordance with the action of the Governor and Council, was continued from sunrise to sunset on Monday, and one hundred guns fired at regular intervals throughout the day.

ANOTHER BANK GONE. The Union Bank, says the Mississippian, may now be set down as a perfect Brandon case, its last and most respectable prop has fallen—Mr. Grayson, the Cashier, is about resigning, and all the clerks but two have quit the concern—they are right!

BALTIMORE MARKET,
April 9, 1841.

Flour. There has been some improvement in Howard-st. Flour since our last quotations. Sales of good common brands have been made at $4.62½. At this rate some two or three thousand barrels have changed hands. The stock in the market at present, however, is rather light. There has also been an advance in the wagon price; we quote at $4.50. The transactions in City Mills Flour have been limited—last sales we quote at $4.62½. There have been some arrivals of Susquehanna Flour, and sales made at from $4.56 to $4.68.

Grain. The transactions in Grain have been small. We quote Maryland red wheat at 90a 100 cts., according to quality. In whites there has been nothing doing. We quote Md. Rye at 48a50 cents. The last sales of Md. white Corn were made at 46 cts., and yellow do. 49a50. Oats are quite scarce. Virginia may be quoted at 25a26 cents. Md. do. 29a31 cts., as per quality. Timothy Seed, $3. In Cloverseed there has been but little doing. We quote at $4.50a $4.56.

Provisions. This market for the past week has been rather active, though with but little variation in prices. Baltimore Mess Pork continues at $12.50; No. 1 $10.50, and prime from 8 to $8.50. Sales of Western Bacon have taken place at 6a6¼c. per lb.; Hams do. 8a9c.; Middlings 6¼c. and Shoulders 6¼c.; prime Balt. cured Hams we quote at 10c. and Sides do. 8¼c. Western Lard, No. 1, 8c. for cash. There is hardly anything doing in Western Butter. Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in mixed lots have been sold at from 6 to 7c. In Glades there is nothing doing.

Cattle. This market is inactive. Nothing doing to warrant a fair quotation.

Whiskey. We quote hhds. at 20c. and bbls. 22c. The wagon price exclusive of the bbls. is 18c., which is a small reduction.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Thinking it due to the honor of our city, as well as to give the Ladies an opportunity of manifesting their grief in common with our fellow-citizens, for the decease of our late President, I would suggest that the ladies wear black Crape Veils for the space of six months. It will be acting in unison with our sister cities, and the gross neglect of our Mayor (I can call it by no softer name,) to convene the Councils for the purpose of making suitable arrangements, will, if my suggestion be adopted, in part obviate and ameliorate the otherwise seeming indifference of our citizens.

I would also recommend the citizens generally to wear crape on their left arm for thirty days.

Yours, SYMPATHY.

[We publish the suggestions of "Sympathy," though we have no doubt that measures will be taken by the military, fire companies and citizens at large, to give a public demonstration of feeling on the late melancholy occurrence. The patriotic spirit of the ladies of Baltimore will dispose them to participate in any manner which may be deemed advisable, in the expression of regret for the loss which the country has sustained in the death of General Harrison.]

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Through the medium of your paper, I would respectfully recommend to the Ladies of Baltimore, the propriety of their wearing black kid gloves as a mark of respect to the memory of our beloved and lamented President, William Henry Harrison.

MARY ——.

We give the above for the consideration of the Ladies. We admire not only the name of Mary, but the truly patriotic spirit of her communication. The old lamented Hero had a temple in the secret shrine of many female hearts, and now since he has retired from earth, crowned with laurels, we doubt not but his name will live long in the pure paradise of their remembrance. Ladies, thy will be done.

The following gentlemen, as PALL-BEARERS, were designated to represent the several States and Territories which are attached to their names at the Funeral of the late PRESIDENT:

R. Cutts, Esq. for Maine; Hon. C. Cushing, Massachusetts; W. B. Lloyd, Esq. Connecticut; Gen. John Granger, New York; M. Willing, Esq. Pennsylvania; David Hoffman, Esq. Maryland; Hon. E. D. White, N. Carolina; Gen. D. L. Clinch, Georgia; Col. Rogers, Tennessee; M. Durald, Esq. Louisiana; Ander'n. Miller, Esq. Mississippi; Dr. Perrine, Alabama; A. W. Lyon, Esq. Arkansas; Hon. J. D. Doty, Wiskonsin; Hon. W. B. Carter, Iowa; Hon. J. B. Moore, New Haven; M. St. C. Clarke, Esq. R. Island; Hon. Hiland Hall, Vermont; Hon. G. C. Washington, N. Jersey; Hon. A. Naudain, Delaware; Major Camp, Virginia; John Carter, Esq. South Carolina; Thos. Crittenden, Esq. Kentucky; Mr. Graham, Ohio; Gen. Robert Hanna, Indiana; D. G. Garnsey, Esq. Illinois; Major Russel, Missouri; Gen. Howard, Michigan; Hon. C. Downing, Florida; R. Smith, Esq., District Columbia.

We regret to learn that further intelligence has been received from Pensacola which confirms the melancholy fears that have been entertained of the unfortunate fate of Mr. George Johnson, late of this place, his wife, and wife's sister, ladies from Prince George's county, Maryland. There is no longer a doubt but that the vessel in which they sailed from St. Joseph's for Pensacola encountered a fearful gale, was wrecked and that all on board perished.—Alex. Gaz.

☞ Duncan Buie, Esq., aged 82 years, of Fayetteville, N. C., suddenly fell and expired on the 12th ult. The Observer says he could boast of what no other man in the country could. He had just completed taking the census of the county for the fifth time. He had performed that duty in 1800, 1810, 1820, 1830 and 1840.

OFFICIAL. We are authorized to say that, under the pressure of the public business, increased by recent events, as well as by the approach of an extra session of Congress, the President finds it indispensable to make some arrangement for the employment of his time. He proposes, therefore, to see his fellow-citizens, who may wish to call on him, from 10 to 12 o'clock every day in the week, except Sunday.—Nat. Int.

SHIPPING. The Philadelphia Ledger of yesterday states that there is more shipping in that port at present than there has been for some years past at any one period of time. As these vessels do not come here with empty holds, it is to be presumed that business commences to stir.

ARMORY INDEPENDENT BLUES,
BALTIMORE, APRIL 8, 1841.

☞ At a meeting of the INDEPENDENT BLUES, held at their Armory on Thursday Evening, the following preamble and resolutions were offered and unanimously adopted:—

Whereas, It has pleased the all wise Ruler of the Universe, in whose hands are the issue of life and death, to remove from the cares and vexations of life, the late illustrious Chief Magistrate of the United States, and whereas, while it becomes us to bow with deep humility to the inscrutable decrees of Providence, it is nevertheless our duty to testify our respect for the memory of the deceased, and the exalted station which he held in the nation, therefore,

Resolved, That the Armory of the Independent Blues be clothed in mourning for the space of sixty days, as a mark of the regret we feel for the loss sustained by the nation in the sudden and afflicting dispensation which has called from among us General WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, President of the United States.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this corps, that a public demonstration, for the purpose of honoring the illustrious deceased, by procession, &c., should be made by the citizens of Baltimore.

Resolved, That the several Military Corps, Fire Companies, and other Associations of this city, be invited to take the subject into consideration at as early a day as convenient.

Resolved, That a Committee consisting of Captain Lilly, Lieut. Ford, Serg't. Robinson, Messrs. Hailand and Reid, be appointed to confer with similar committees from other Associations, to make arrangements for such demonstration.

Resolved, That his honor the Mayor be respectfully requested to convene the Councils, that they may take such action as to them would appear just and right, for testifying their feelings upon the death of the President of the United States, and that this resolution, attested by the Chairman and Secretary, be forthwith transmitted to him.

On motion, it was further resolved, that the proceedings of the meeting be published.

RICHARD LILLY, Capt.
J. D. REID, Sec. pro. tem. ap10-1t

Baltimore, April 9, 1841.

JOSEPH SMITH, President of the Baltimore Typographical Society.

☞ SIR—The undersigned, members of the Baltimore Typographical Society, earnestly request an early meeting of their body, in order to take into consideration the propriety of passing resolutions expressive of the mournful bereavement they have met with, in common with the whole American community in the death of WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, late President of the United States; and also make such arrangements as may be necessary to join any procession that may take place on account of the same.

William Betts,	Wm. K. Boyle, Jr.
Wm. Holliday,	Wm. H. Peak,
Wm. S. Sherwood,	Thos. C. Pinkind,
Rufus B. Gallup,	J. F. Coleman.

☞ In compliance with the above request, a meeting of the Baltimore Typographical Society will be held on THIS (Saturday) EVENING, April 10, at the Society's Room, Military Hall, at 8 o'clock.

In view of the subject to be deliberated upon, (that of an expression of the feeling of the Society, at the sudden and lamented demise of the late venerated and beloved President of our country,) the undersigned are assured of a full attendance of the members to participate in the proceedings. JOSEPH SMITH.

MISSIONARY FAIR.

☞ "The Sewing Society of the Second Presbyterian Church" respectfully announce, that their Annual Fair for the sale of fancy and useful articles will commence on MONDAY EVENING NEXT, the 12th inst. in the Lecture Rooms of the Church, at the corner of East Baltimore and Lloyd streets, and be continued throughout the following days and evenings of Tuesday and Wednesday, or until the whole of the articles are disposed of.

From the arrangements made, it is confidently expected, that this sale will be more than usually attractive, and as the society have in this way sustained a missionary in India, for a number of years past, and stand pledged for his permanent support, it is hoped that the present appeal will be promptly and generously responded to by all who are friendly to the cause of missions—especially as it is known to all who read the religious publications of the day that HENRY R. WILSON has at the present moment, in addition to his other labors, upwards of one hundred native Orphan Children under his care, who, if the means of education be now extended to them, may become instrumental in spreading the knowledge of salvation throughout that vast and benighted Empire.

"Come over, therefore, and help us." ap10-4t

THERE IS A PLACE OF REST.

(BY SAMUEL H. ELLIS.)

Far, far away, there is a place where spirits seek repose,
Where Night's dark wings are never spread, daylight will never close;
There angels tune their golden harps, to sing their happy lays,
To tell the joy that they have found, to last through endless days.

Oh! who would wish to stay on earth, when there's a place like this,
Where tears of grief will cease to flow, and all is perfect bliss;
Oh, had I some kind spirit's wings, soon would I soar above,
To find this far off happy Home, where all is peace and love.

Oh! how I long to roam among fair Eden's lovely bowers,
Enjoy the fragrance that exhales from never dying flowers;
Or stand on Jordan's fertile banks, and listen to its roar,
As on its tranquil bosom it bears happy spirits o'er.

And as they land what joy then must fill and glad each breast,
As sounds of sweetest music bids them welcome home to rest.
Oh! speed the time when all shall meet on, Canaan's peaceful shore.
To sing God's praise for ever there, where parting is no more.

Baltimore, April 1841.

THE SHEPHERD'S DOG.

A shepherd, who inhabited one of those valleys or glens which intersect the Grampian mountains, in one of his excursions to look after his flock, happened to carry along with him one of his children, an infant of three years old.—This is not an unusual practice amongst the Highlanders, who accustom their children from the earliest infancy to endure the rigors of the climate. After traversing his pasture for some time attended by his dog, the shepherd found himself under the necessity of ascending a summit at some distance, to have a more extensive view of his range. As the descent was too fatiguing for the child, he left him on a small plain at the bottom, with strict injunctions not to stir from it till his return. Scarcely, however, had he gained the summit when the horizon was darkened by one of those impenetrable mists which frequently descend so rapidly amidst these mountains, as in the space of a few minutes, almost to turn day to night. The anxious father instantly hastened back to find his child, but owing to the unusual darkness, and his own trepidation, unfortunately missed his way in the descent. After a fruitless search of many hours, he discovered that he had reached the bottom of the valley, and was near his own cottage. To renew the search that night was equally fruitless and dangerous, he was therefore compelled to go home, although he had lost both his child and his dog, who had attended him faithfully for many years. Next morning, by break of day, the shepherd, accompanied by a band of his neighbors, set out in search of his child; but after a day spent in fruitless fatigue, he was at last compelled by the approach of night, to descend from the mountain. On his returning home to his cottage, he found that the dog, which he lost the day before, had been home, and on receiving a piece of cake, had instantly gone off again.

For several successive days the shepherd renewed his search for his child, and still, on returning home disappointed in the evening, he found that the dog had been home, and on receiving his usual allowance of cake had instantly disappeared. Struck with this singular circumstance, he remained at home one day, and when the dog, as usual, departed with his piece of cake, he resolved to follow him, and find out the cause of this strange procedure. The dog led the way to a cataract at some distance from the spot where the shepherd had left the child. The banks of the cataract almost joined at the top, yet, seperated by an abyss of immense depth, presented that appearance which so often astonishes and appals the travellers that frequent the Grampian mountains. Down one of those rugged, and almost perpendicular descents, the dog began without hesitation to make his way, and at last disappeared by entering into a cave, the mouth of which was almost level with the torrent. The shepherd, with difficulty followed, but on entering the cave, what were his emotions when he beheld his infant eating with much satisfaction the cake which the dog had just brought him; while the faithful animal stood by, eyeing his young charge with the utmost complaisance! From the situation in which the child was found, it appeared that he had wandered to the brink of the precipice, and then either fallen or scrambled down till he reached the cave. The dog, by means of his scent, had traced him to the spot; and afterwards prevented him from starving, by giving up to him his own daily allowance.

A MORNING GALLANT.

William Frederick Augustus Blummell was yesterday brought up before the Recorder for improper conduct in the street, early on Tuesday morning. William Frederick Augustus is one of those individuals in whose head nature has left a very considerable vacuum, and fortune, by way of counterbalancing the defect, has supplied him with a plethoric purse. The ingenuity of his tailor is taxed to make him look the man of fashion; he has succeeded in making him a fop, but has signally failed to make him a gentleman.—He could never be mistaken for a well-bred man; the very highest niche in the temple of fame which an observant eye would accord him is the office of lacquacy to an English lord, or a gentleman's gentleman. If the vaults of the United States Bank had been as well supplied with specie as he is with impudence, it would never have suspended; and the interior of his head is such an airy nothing that it is thought, by a proper disposition of ballast, he could be converted into a living balloon, and made to navigate the atmosphere.

"Bridget Monahan!" said the Recorder.

"Here, your Honor; I'm here," said a clean looking Irish girl, with red cheeks and a shawl to match and a cap as white as a new-laid egg.

"William Frederick Augustus Blummell," said the Recorder.

"I have the onaw to bear the patwonymic of Blummell," said Master Frederick, promenading trippingly up to the bench, clapping his glass to his eye, looking first at the Recorder, then at Bridget, and next at every one in the court in general and at no one in particular. His dress was in disorder, and he looked as if he could sleep without a narcotic.

"This woman charges you with insulting her," said the Recorder.

"It is a pwerfect impossibility, I pledge you my onaw," said William Frederick Augustus, and here he glass-ified Bridget more circumspectly than before—"No, sir, that is decidedly one of the weaker sex; she is a woman; and 'he who would raise his hand to a woman save in the way of kindness is'—not William Frederick Augustus Blummell, I most positively assure you."

"Silence, sir!" said the Recorder; "you have not been brought here to expatiate on your gallantry in general, but to answer for your non-observance of it on a particular occasion. Let us hear your story," said he, adressing Bridget.

"Yes, sir," said Bridget, catching hold of the corner of her apron and putting it through a process of friction between her fingers; "You see, sir, I was goin' to the market—this is God's truth—and I had the basket under my arm—"

"Never mind about the basket," said the Recorder.

"Well," resumed Bridget, "I was goin' to the market, and it was no more, so it wasn't, than just daylight, and I meets this man, and faiks, he was so polite intirely to me that I mistook him for a gintleman or some dacent person. 'Good mawnin', Mary,' said he"—and here Bridget mimicked the notable Augustus—'Good mawnin', Mary,'—"just as if his edication was neglected and he didn't larn to pronounce accordin' to grammar. So you see, I thought I'd show my manners, and I sed, good morrow to you, kindly, sir I, but you have a slight advantage of me; the priest christened me Bridget, I was told by those that witnessed the sarmony, and it isn't since that I've got it changed."

"No matter what you were christened," said the Recorder; "how did this person offend you?"

"Why," siz he, "allow me to carry your baskit," siz he.

"I won't," siz I.

"Let me take your arm," siz he.

"I won't do no sich thing," siz I.

"I'll go with you to market," siz he.

"Not the fust stip," siz I; "but if you don't clear off I'll call the powlice and have you put into the calybose; with that sir, who should come up at that blissid minnit but this gentleman, (the lieutenant of the watch;) and he took him off and bound me over to come here to prosecute him."

The lieutenant corroborated the main facts of Bridget's statement, and said the prisoner was quite abusive to him because he did not take his card instead of himself. So strong did the case now appear against William Frederick Augustus Blummell, that we thought we heard the creaking of the iron door of the calaboose as it opened to receive him.

"You're a pretty fellow—are you not?" said the Recorder.

"Why, the fact is, youa onaw," said William Frederick, "I was nevaw considawed decidedly 'andsome, but I flattaw myself I have a degagee aiaw, a ee'tawin polish of behaviow about me that rendaws me rathaw attwactive with the faiw sex, youa onaw unde'stands me—eh?"

"Perfectly," said the Recorder; "and although I cannot indite you for an assault, I'll fine you $15 for your impertinence to this woman."

"I shall dischawge the obligation with the greatest pleashaw imaginable," said the man with three names, and extracting an X and a V from his well-filled purse, he laid them before the clerk and withdrew.—Pic.

STATE OF THE LAW IN JAPAN. An inhabitant of Yedo, named Fiyosamenon, a widower with two children, a girl and a boy, was called to a distance by business. He was poor; he knew not how to provide for his children during his absence, and resolved to take both with him. Accordingly, he dressed his daughter in boy's clothes, and thus passed the Fakone guard unsuspected. He was rejoicing in his success, when a man, who knew what children he had, joined him, congratulated him on his good luck, and asked for something to drink. The alarmed father offered him a trifle; the man demanded a sum beyond his means; a quarrel ensued; and the angry informer ran back to the guard to make known the error that had been committed. The whole guard was thunderstruck. If the informer spoke truth, and the fact were detected, all their lives were forfeited; yet, to send a party to apprehend the offender, and thus actually betray themselves, was now unavoidable. The commanding officer, however, saw his remedy. He delayed the detachment of reluctant pursuers sufficiently to allow a messenger with a little boy to outstrip him. The messenger found Fiyosamenon and his children refreshing themselves at an inn; he announced the discovery made, and the imminent danger; offered the boy as a temporary substitute for the disguised girl, and told the father that, when the falsehood of the charge should have been proved by both the children appearing to be boys, he might very fairly fly into such a rage as to kill his accuser. The kind offer was, of course, gratefully accepted. The wilfully dilatory guard arrived, surrounded the house, seized upon Fiyosamenon and the children, and gladly pronounced that both the latter were boys. The informer, who well knew Fiyosamenon's family, declared that some imposition had been practised, which the accused indignantly resenting, drew his sword and struck off the informer's head. The delighted guard exclaimed that such a liar had only met his deserts, and returned to their posts.—Manners and customs of the Japanese.

To DR. SWAYNE.
Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not accommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Locx, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it a ready to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.
The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:
New York, March 23, 1840.
DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.
Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

Baltimore Clipper.

PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY BY BULL & TUTTLE, No. 7 NORTH GAY STREET, BALTIMORE, Md.

VOLUME IV.] MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 12, 1841. [NUMBER 29.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

To ——.

There's beauty in the evening sky
As the last tints of daylight flee,
Then fancy radiant mounts on high
To wean her thoughts of poetry.

There's beauty in the Summer flowers
And in the Autumn's mellow shades,
When crimson sunsets gild the hours
And throw sad glory o'er the glades.

There's beauty in the morning's glow,
Trembling in gold hues round the sea,
But, ah! such beauty earth ne'er knew
As lives, sweet Alexine, in thee.

Thy form, thy eyes, the silver ring
Of thy gay laugh upon my ear,
Thy auburn curls which thou dost fling
In glitt'ring waves upon the air.

They come before me like a dream
Of loveliness unearthly fair,
And as I watch the hazel beam
Of those dark orbs now smiling there.

A wish that thou might'st ever be
The brilliant picture now thou art,
Is floating up to Heaven for thee,
To guard from flight thy merry heart.

A prayer is o'er thee Alexine,
Oh! may a talisman it be
That changing years no cares may bring
To mar thy happy destiny. EMILY.

OFFICIAL.

To the People of the United States.

FELLOW-CITIZENS: Before my arrival at the Seat of Government the painful communication was made to you by the officers presiding over the several Departments of the deeply regretted death of WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, late President of the United States. Upon him you had conferred your suffrages for the first office in your gift, and had selected him as your chosen instrument to correct and reform all such errors and abuses as had manifested themselves from time to time in the practical operation of the Government. While standing at the threshold of this great work, he has, by the dispensation of an all-wise Providence, been removed from amongst us, and by the provisions of the Constitution the efforts to be directed to the accomplishing of this vitally important task have devolved upon myself. This same occurrence has subjected the wisdom and sufficiency of our institutions to a new test. For the first time in our history the person elected to the Vice Presidency of the United States, by the happening of a contingency provided for in the Coartitution, has had devolved upon him the Presidential office. The spirit of faction, which is directly opposed to the spirit of a lofty patriotism, may find in this occasion for assaults upon my administration. And in succeeding, under circumstances so sudden and unexpected, and to responsibilities so greatly augmented, to the administration of public affairs, I shall place in the intelligence and patriotism of the People my only sure reliance. My earnest prayer shall be constantly addressed to the all-wise and all-powerful Being who made me, and by whose dispensation I am called to the high office of President of this Confederacy, understandingly to carry out the principles of that Constitution which I have sworn "to protect, preserve, and defend."

The usual opportunity which is afforded to a Chief Magistrate upon his induction to office of presenting to his countrymen an exposition of the policy which would guide his administration, in the form of an inaugural address, not having, under the peculiar circumstances which have brought me to the discharge of the high duties of President of the United States, been afforded to me, a brief exposition of the principles which will govern me in the general course of my administration of public affairs would seem to be due as well to myself as to you. In regard to foreign nations, the groundwork of my policy will be justice on our part to all, submitting to injustice from none. While I shall sedulously cultivate the relations of peace and amity with one and all, it will be my most imperative duty to see that the honor of the country shall sustain no blemish. With a view to this, the condition of our military defences will become a matter of anxious solicitude. The Army, which has in other days covered itself with renown, and the Navy, not inappropriately termed the right arm of the public defence, which has spread a light of glory over the American standard in all the waters of the earth, should be rendered replete with efficiency.

In view of the fact, well avouched by history, that the tendency of all human institutions is to concentrate power in the hands of a single man, and that their ultimate downfall has proceeded from this cause, I deem it of the most essential importance that a complete separation should take place between the sword and the purse. No matter where or how the public moneys shall be deposited, so long as the President can exert the power of appointing and removing, at his pleasure, the agents selected for their custody, the Commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy is in fact the Treasurer. A permanent and radical change should therefore be decreed. The patronage incident to the Presidential office, already great, is constantly increasing. Such increase is destined to keep pace with the growth of our population, until, without a figure of speech, an army of officeholders may be spread over the land. The unrestrained power exerted by a selfishly ambitious man, in order either to perpetuate his authority or to hand it over to some favorite as his successor, may lead to the employment of all the means within his control to accomplish his object.

The right to remove from office, while subjected to no just restraint, is inevitably destined to produce a spirit of crouching servility with the official corps, which, in order to uphold the hand which feeds them, would lead to direct and active interference in the elections, both State and Federal, thereby subjecting the course of State legislation to the dictation of the Chief Executive Officer, and making the will of that officer absolute and supreme. I will, at a proper time, invoke the action of Congress upon this subject, and shall readily acquiesce in the adoption of all proper measures which are calculated to arrest these evils, so full of danger in their tendency.—I will remove no incumbent from office who has faithfully and honestly acquitted himself of the duties of his office, except in such cases where such officer has been guilty of an active partisanship, or by secret means—the less manly, and therefore the more objectionable—has given his official influence to the purposes of party, thereby bringing the patronage of the Government in conflict with the freedom of elections. Numerous removals may become necessary under this rule. These will be made by me through no acerbity of feeling.

I have had no cause to cherish or indulge unkind feelings towards any, but my conduct will be regulated by a profound sense of what is due to the country and its institutions; nor shall I neglect to apply the same unbending rule to those of my own appointment. Freedom of opinion will be tolerated, the full enjoyment of the right of suffrage will be maintained as the birthright of every American citizen, but I say emphatically to the official corps, "thus far and no farther." I have dwelt the longer upon this subject, because removals from office are likely often to arise, and I would have my countrymen to understand the principle of the Executive actions.

In all public expenditures the most rigid economy should be resorted to, and, as one of its results, a public debt in time of peace be sedulously avoided. A wise and patriotic constituency will never object to the imposition of necessary burdens for useful ends; and true wisdom dictates the resort to such means, in order to supply deficiencies in the revenue, rather than to those doubtful expedients, which, ultimating in a public debt, serve to embarrass the resources of the country and to lessen its ability to meet any great emergency which may arise. All sinecures should be abolished. The appropriations should be direct and explicit, so as to leave as limited a share of discretion to the disbursing agents as may be found compatible with the public service. A strict responsibility on the part of all the agents of the Government should be maintained, and peculation or defalcation visited with immediate expulsion from office and the most condign punishment.

The public interest also demands that, if any war has existed between the government and the currency, it shall cease. Measures of a financial character, now having the sanction of legal enactment, shall be faithfully enforced until repealed by the legislative authority. But I owe it to myself to declare that I regard existing enactments as unwise and impolitic, and in a high degree oppressive. I shall promptly give my sanction to any constitutional measure which, originating in Congress, shall have for its object the restoration of a sound circulating medium, so essentially necessary to give confidence in all the transactions of life, to secure to industry its just and adequate rewards, and to re-establish the public prosperity. In deciding upon the adaptation of any such measure to the end proposed, as well as its conformity to the Constitution, I shall resort to the fathers of the great republican school for advice and instruction, to be drawn from their sage views of our system of government and the light of their ever glorious example.

The institutions under which we live, my countrymen, secure each person in the perfect enjoyment of all his rights. The spectacle is exhibited to the world of a Government deriving its powers from the consent of the governed, and having imparted to it only so much power as is necessary for its successful operation. Those who are charged with its administration should carefully abstain from all attempts to enlarge the range of powers thus granted to the several departments of the Government other than by an appeal to the People for additional grants, lest by so doing they disturb that balance which the patriots and statesmen who framed the Constitution designed to establish between the Federal Government and the States composing the Union. The observance of these rules is enjoined upon us by that feeling of reverence and affection which finds a place in the heart of every patriot for the preservation of union, and the blessings of union—for the good of our children and our children's children, through countless generations. An opposite course could not fail to generate factions, intent upon the gratification of their selfish ends; to give birth to local and sectional jealousies, and to ultimate either in breaking asunder the bonds of union, or in building up a central system, which would inevitably end in a bloody sceptre and an iron crown.

In conclusion, I beg you to be assured that I shall exert myself to carry the foregoing principles into practice during my administration of the Government, and, confiding in the protecting care of an ever-watchful and overruling Providence, it shall be my first and highest duty to preserve unimpaired the free institutions under which we live, and transmit them to those who shall succeed me in their full force and vigor.

JOHN TYLER.

CEREMONIES IN MEMORY OF WM. H. HARRISON.

At a meeting of the various Committees appointed to make arrangements for the ceremonies in honor of WM. HENRY HARRISON, held at the Girard Buildings on Friday evening, the 9th inst., Joseph R. Chandler was appointed Chairman, and Samuel F. Reed, Secretary.

On motion, Isaac Elliott, John T. Smith, Geo. P. Mercer, Wm. Little, Geo. K. Childs, John H. Dohnert, and Saml. F. Reed, were appointed a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting—who reported the following, which were unanimously adopted, and ordered to be published.

1. Resolved, That the Military of the 1st Division, the different public Corporations and Societies, the Officers of the U. S. Army and Navy, the Fire Department, and the Citizens generally, are invited to unite in the procession on Tuesday next, in paying honor to the memory of the departed WM HENRY HARRISON, late President of the United States.

2. Resolved, That all Bodies, Societies, &c. intending to join in the procession, be requested to report to the Sub-Committee, at a meeting to be held on Saturday evening, at half-past seven o'clock, at the Girard Buildings.

3. Resolved, That the Sub-Committee in conjunction with Committee of the Councils, cause to be published as early as possible, a programme of the route, and such necessary arrangements as they may adopt.

4. Resolved, That it be recommended that on the day of the ceremonies, all dwellings and places of business be closed—the bells of Churches and public buildings muffled and tolled—the flags of the shipping and all public buildings be at half mast, and that Divine worship be performed in the different Churches, with appropriate discourses, at such times during the day as will not interfere with the ceremonies.

5. Resolved, That the Governor of the State, the Rev. Clergy, the Officers of the General and State Governments, the Commissioners and Officers of the incorporated districts, the Magistrates of the city and county, the Judges of the Courts, the Officers of the Army and Navy, and all other invited guests, be requested to assemble at Independence Hall, at 11 o'clock, A. M., and to wear the usual badge of mourning.

JOS. R. CHANDLER, Chairman.

SAML. F. REED, Sec'ry.

TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF THE LATE PRESIDENT.

At a general meeting of Ministers and Elders connected with the Presbytery of Philadelphia, to take into consideration the propriety of adopting some measures in reference to the recent death of the President of the United States, held at the Lecture Room of the Sixth Presbyterian Church, on Thursday afternoon, April 8th, the Rev. Ashbel Green, D. D., was called to the Chair, and the Rev. John McDowell, D. D., was appointed Secretary. The following preamble and resolutions were then offered by the Rev. Mr. Boardman, and after due consideration, adopted:

The Ministers and Elders of the Presbytery of Philadelphia, participating in the general grief occasioned by our great national bereavement, adopt the following minute as expressive of their sentiments under this afflictive dispensation:

1. In the death of our late venerated President, WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, within a brief month from his inauguration as the Chief Magistrate of this nation, we reverently acknowledge the hand of an all-wise and sovereign God, "who doeth his will in the army of heaven and among the inhabitants of the earth," and who rightfully claims our submission to his chastisements, even when "clouds and darkness are round about his throne."

2. When we consider the numerous virtues with which the character of General HARRISON was adorned, the confidence reposed in him by his countrymen, and the general expectation of great and manifold benefits from his administration, we cannot but look upon his early removal as alike a national calamity and a national judgment.

3. We submit it, therefore, with all due respect, as well to our fellow Christians and fellow citizens generally, as to the congregations with which we are immediately connected, whether it does not become us, as a Christian people, to humble ourselves before Almighty God under this solem rebuke, to confess before Him our aggravated sins, and seek forgiveness for the same through the atoning blood of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

4. We tender our Christian sympathies to the afflicted family of our lamented President, and especially to his lone widow—whom, with her children, we devoutly and affectionately commend to the tender care and sympathy of Him who has revealed himself as a "Judge of the widows and the Father of the fatherless in his holy habitation."

5. In harmony with various measures recommended by our municipal authorities on this melancholy occasion, we advise that the pulpits of the several churches connected with the Presbytery of Philadelphia, be hung with mourning for the space of one month, and that every Pastor endeavor to improve our great bereavement to the spiritual edification of his people and the general furtherance of piety and good morals in the community.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be published in the daily papers of this city, and that a copy of the foregoing minute, duly attested, be transmitted to the family of the late President.

ASHBEL GREEN, Chairman.

JOHN MCDOWELL, Secretary.

At a meeting of the corporation of the German Reformed Church, held on the 9th inst. the following proceedings were directed to be published in the public papers.

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God to remove by death the Chief Magistrate of this nation; and whereas, from the peculiar circumstances of this Providence, we cannot but regard this dispensation as a national calamity, and being desirous of testifying our sorrow, and acknowledging the hand of God in this bereavement—Therefore,

Resolved, That the Church be put in mourning for one month, as a testimony of respect to the memory of the late President of the United States, and that the Pastor be requested to preach a discourse [illegible] next Sabbath evening, improving the mournful event of his death.

CONRAD LEIDY, President pro. tem.

CHARLES SCHNEIDER, Secretary.

HOW TO INSTRUCT. Pour in knowledge gently. Plato observed, that the minds of children were like bottles with very narrow mouths; if you attempted to fill them too rapidly, much knowledge was wasted, and little received; whereas, with a small stream, they were easily filled. Those who would make young prodigies, act as wisely as they who would pour a pail of water into a pint measure.

SUICIDE. We learn, says the Petersburg Intelligencer of the 8th inst., that Mr. Wm. Blow, late Clerk of the Superior County Court of Greenville, put an end to his existence on Sunday night by cutting his throat.

LARGE CROP. The crop of Tobacco raised in Kentucky last year amounted to two and a half millions of dollars in value.

A whale of the right whale species was killed on the 25th ult. off the South shore of Edgartown, by some enterprising whalemen of that town. It is said it will make from 40 to 45 barrels of oil.

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good night's rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

JNO C. MOALE,
General Agent Baltimore Steam Packet Company.

Passage (and fare on board) to Weldon, $14 00

GREAT SOUTHERN

UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,

DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE!

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connexion throughout, whilst it is evident that Foggs, Rocks, Weather, and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

President Tyler's address. We issued this address in an extra sheet on Saturday morning last, in a short time after the arrival of the Southern mail, and the avidity with which copies were sought, shewed the anxiety which was felt to become acquainted with the principles upon which the new president intended to administer the government. So far as we have been enabled to collect public sentiment, this address has made a favorable impression. President Tyler is sufficiently explicit upon the several points of policy which he introduces. He expresses anxious solicitude that the army and navy shall be put in a condition "replete with efficiency," so as to be prepared for any event—but assumes as the groundwork of his policy towards foreign powers, "justice on our part to all; submitting to injustice from none." In this position he will be sustained by the American people. In regard to the public moneys; the restriction of public officers from improper interference with elections; and a rigid economy in expenditures, he takes the ground previously occupied by general Harrison. He refers the currency question and financial matters generally, to the consideration of congress, with the promise, that he will sanction any constitutional measure which congress may adopt to restore the currency and to protect the public funds.

We do not see any thing in this address to which the president's friends or opponents can take just exception.

Bank of the United States. We publish an abstract of the veto message of the Governor of Pennsylvania; from which it appears, that whilst he would preclude the citizens of other states from enforcing the extraordinary penalties against the banks of that state, he would continue to the citizens of Pennsylvania the advantages of existing laws. If the Legislature adopt this advice, it will be giving an unjustifiable preference of one creditor over another.

From an examination of the governor's message, we are satisfied that there will be great difficulty in continuing the operations of the Bank of the United States. He thinks the authority given to reduce the capital of the bank unwise and unnecessary in its present form—objects to release the bank from its obligations to make loans to the state—and states that, according to the constitution, the charter of the bank cannot be renewed or extended, unless six months previous notice be given. From these indications we infer, that no law making the proposed alterations in the charter of the Bank of the United States, will receive his sanction. We therefore think it not improbable that the bank will be compelled to wind up its concerns.

Broke Jail—Three Prisoners Escaped.—On yesterday morning, about 8 o'clock, three of the prisoners, who were confined in our jail for criminal offences, effected their escape, by breaking through the wall of room No. 4, and getting into the sewer as on former occasions, thereby passing towards the Falls where the final release was obtained by making a hole through the wall and passing out. Their names are George Cordery, Augustus Brown and Abraham Howard. Howard, however, was captured by one of the jail officers soon after his escape, in the neighborhood of Howard street. Cordery and Brown are yet at large. Cordery is rather stout built, has a nose crooking somewhat to the one side, bad countenance, dark hair, dark eyes, about five feet eight inches in height and probably 28 or 30 years of age—he is a desperate character. Brown is a thick set, dark hair, dark eyes, rather good looking, about 22 years of age, and also a bird of iniquitous bearing. It is to be hoped these desperate villians will be brought back to justice. They were without much doubt candidates for the penitentiary.

A Bank Burnt. We learn from a western paper that the Banking house of the Branch Bank of the State Bank of Illinois at Galena, was consumed by fire on the 28th of last month. The fire originated in the Cashier's room.

Peace warrant. A man named William Woollen was taken before Justice Miltenberger on Saturday last, charged by Sarah A. Hortsman and Eliza J. Jones, a grass widow, with threatening violence upon them. It appeared that the two females in question occupied a house in Burgundy alley, near Paca street, and that in their regular routine of scolding, talking, &c., they made some noise which neighbor Woollen did not like. He therefore stated he would have them routed, if not by fair means, by foul. The females also threatened an action for defamation of character, stating that Woollen had put reports in circulation about them derogatory to their characters. They plead their own cause like Trojans. They each stated that they had beaux, decent and genteel beaux, and that they would not be without a beau upon any account. The grass widow stated that she had gotten a divorce and turned her husband off, because she didn't like him, but that she guessed she had as good a right as any one else to have another beau, and if he didn't behave himself she would give him his "walking papers" too. She thought it a hard case that females, whether grass widows or not, should be prohibited from having their lovers, merely because they lived in another person's house. As for herself, come what may, she wouldn't be twenty-four hours without a beau if one could be had. Thus ended the speech.—Mr. Woollen was held in security to keep the peace.

City Court. Saturday, April 10th, 1841.—John Torrick, the U. S. dragoon, charged with assaulting police officer McDonald, of the second ward, on the night of the 6th inst. with sword in hand, was brought before the Court this morning. Officer McDonald testified to the facts of the outrage substantially as heretofore given, whereupon the Court directed that the prisoner be bound over, in order that the affair might receive the proper investigation before the Grand Jury at the June term.

William Ball was tried for assaulting Thomas Hopkins, at the corner of Bond and Thames sts., and fined $10 and costs.

John Noel, a German, was tried for beating his wife, and found not guilty.

John Williams, imprisoned some days for a similar offence, was discharged by Justice Blair.

Several cases of assault were postponed to the next sitting of the Court.

Attempt to Murder. The Mobile Register of the 29th ult. says—On Saturday night about 9 o'clock, Mr. W. H. Hull, of the firm of L. Hull & Son, of this city, while riding on the Spring Hill road, three and a half miles from the city, was fired at by a man on the outside. The assassin fired at the distance of ten or twelve paces, just as he was opposite to him, and the ball struck the bridle arm, midway between the shoulder and elbow, and glanced across his breast in front. The position of the arm in holding the bridle, alone, providentially saved his life, for if the arm had been down in its natural position, the shot would have entered the body in its most vital part. The night was dark, and Mr. H. saw the figure of the man and the flash of the pistol, and being unarmed, expecting another fire, and apprehending from the concussion, that he was badly hurt, he fled to the next house.

An Earthquake in Italy. A French paper publishes a lettter from Italy, of the 4th of March, stating that the city of Reggio, in Calabria, was nearly destroyed by an earthquake on the 22d of February. The shocks were fifteen in number, the street of the Marine was converted into one heap of ruins, most of the houses were thrown down, and the rest were so damaged as to be altogether uninhabited; the palace of the governor, the tribunal, the prison, the barrack of St. Augustine, the cathedral, five other churches, and various other public buildings, were entirely destroyed. The inhabitants had sought refuge partly at Messina and partly at Naples.

President Harrison's Estate. The correspondent of the Journal of Commerce says General Harrison's expenditures connected with his removal to this city, and a month's occupation of the Executive mansion, were enormous; so much, indeed, as to leave his family in a very embarrassed condition. The expenses of the household were very great, there being a continual crowd of company, all of whom were entertained in the most liberal and hospitable manner. Under these circumstances, it is hoped that Congress will see fit to grant his family his salary, at least to the end of the first year of his term. This is no more than what the Senate has done in reference to one of their own officers.

Tribute of Respect. In another column will be found an account of the preparatory arrangements made in Philadelphia, for a procession in that city on to-morrow, "to pay honor to the memory of the departed William Henry Harrison, late President of the United States."

We also publish the proceedings of the Ministers and Elders connected with the Presbytery of Philadelphia—and of the Corporation of the German Reformed Church.

John Bendle's Sleigh Ride, Courtship and Marriage. Messrs. Cushing & Brother have sent us a copy of this small volume. It is an amusing work of the Jack Downing order, and was originally published in a Portland paper in numbers. It is attributed to Capt. McClintock, of the U. S. Army.

Rookwood. To-night the splendid equestrian drama of Rookwood is to be brought out at the Front street Theatre. As every body almost in Baltimore talks of 'going, we shall do ourself the pleasure likewise; and if pleased (which from representation we cannot be otherwise,) shall make it known upon some future occasion. Persons wishing to secure good seats should go early.

GENERAL HARRISON'S FAMILY.

The following relatives of Gen. Harrison were present in the city on the day of the Funeral, viz:—Mrs. Jane Harrison, of Ohio, (son's widow,) and two sons. Mrs. Taylor, of Virginia, (niece,) a daughter and two sons. Pike Harrison, (grandson,) son of J. C. S. Harrison, and grandson of Gen. Pike. Mr. D. O. Coupeland, of Ohio, (nephew.) Mr. Benjamin Harrison, of Berkeley, Va. (nephew.) Henry Harrison, (grand nephew,) son of the preceding, who has acted as confidential Secretary of the President. Dr. John Minge, of Charles city, Va. (nephew.)

We may also add the name of Mrs. Findlay, of Ohio, who adopted Mrs. Jane Harrison as a daughter, and who almost invariably occupied the right hand of the President at his table.

The following are the surviving relations who were absent:

Mrs. Harrison, the General's bereaved widow.
John Scott Harrison, the only living son.
Mrs. Judge Short, eldest daughter.
Mrs. Dr. Thornton, daughter.
Mrs. Taylor, daughter. All these are living at or near North Bend.

Mr. Taylor and his wife and family were expected to become members of the President's family for the whole term of his service.

The following are the names of the deceased members of the family:

Lucy Harrison, a daughter, married Judge Este.
J. C. S. Harrison, a son, Married Miss Pike. Both dead.
Wm. H. Harrison, Jr. married Miss Jane Irwin. His widow presided at the President's table, and her personal graces have commended her to the affections of all who have had the pleasure to know her.
Dr. Benjamin Harrison, a son. Died the last summer.
Carter B. Harrison, a son, who was a lawyer of fine talents, and accompanied Gen. Harrison to Columbia. Died two years ago. All of the sons left children.—Madisonian.

Phenomenon. The letter from an officer on board the Preble, dated "River Tagus, off Lisboa, Feb. 15th, 1841," from which we were permitted to make an extract for Saturday's paper, contains the following item, which we publish for the information of those who may be pleased to trace the cause of the phenomenon mentioned. The writer says, "we entered this place on Friday in moderate weather, and had scarcely got our anchor down before it began to rain and puff in squalls, and by midnight it was blowing heavily, and the rain descended in torrents. Now, Monday morning, it still continues without any appearance of its holding up. The country is said to be inundated, and the water alongside, and within three miles of the bar, (which is about 12 miles below the city,) is perfectly fresh, a thing not known before to the oldest inhabitants.

Latest from Florida. By the Charleston Transcript of the 6th instant, we have the following:—

"St. Augustine, April 1.

"By the arrival yesterday of the steamer De Rosset, from Tampa Bay, we learn that "Wild Cat" has come in, and brought his warriors with him, and has gone out again after Sam Jones, to try and induce him to come in.

"A letter received here from an officer of the army at Tampa, expresses the opinion that there will not be another gun fired by the Indians in Florida. God grant that it may prove correct; but we can scarcely rely upon it as yet. The shipment of from two to three hundred Indians is confirmed."

Money Found. The Rochester Advocate of the 24th ult. states that the money lost sometime since at Auburn, by Mr. Arnold of Chautauque county, some $11,000, has been found at Auburn under the steps of the Presbyterian Church, as also the 8 or $10,000 lost at the same time, by the Cashier of the Bank of Orleans, and 3 or $4,000 by Mr. Wilkie, formerly of Brockport. The person who had charge of the baggage car, in connection with the one who took tickets, abstracted the several sums of money and hid them as above stated. The baggage man confessed to the theft and the money was recovered—in amount about $25,000.

Badge of Mourning. The ladies of New York have adopted a neat and appropriate badge of mourning. It consists of a slip of black crape, tied in a knot, and worn on the left wrist. This strikes us forcibly as being a very unique and beautiful emblem of sorrow. We suggest that the ladies of this city adopt it without further ceremony.

We learn from the Norfolk Beacon that Drake, the murderer of Mr. James Scott and family, in Southampton county, some few months since, was tried on Friday of last week, and the case given to the jury in the evening of that day, who after an absence of ten minutes, brought in a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree.

☞ Our exchange papers thus far, without a single exception, have come to us with their columns dressed in mourning for the lamented death of our late venerated President. This, however simple in appearance, shows a universal manifestation of high-toned regard for the virtues of the departed hero.

☞ The true name of Williamson, the great Boston burglar, turns out to be James Webb.—He has been impleaded in three indictments for burglaries in that city. Constable Clapp has also been indicted by the grand jury, for his tampering with the rascal.

Most Melancholy. A Mrs. Henry Knapp and her sister of N. York, when crossing at the ferry in a boat from Hoboken on the evening of the 9th, inst. fell from the boat into the water, through the carlessness of the boatman, when the young lady found a watery grave. Mrs. Knapp, was through much difficulty rescued.

Suicides. On Monday evening last, says the York Press, a son of Mr. William Dick, of Shrewsbury township, not more than twelve years of age, committed suicide by hanging himself. A slight whipping given him by his father, is said to have been the cause of this act.

BALTIMORE TYPOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY.

☞ At a Special Meeting of the Baltimore Typographical Society, held on SATURDAY EVENING, 10th inst., the following preamble and resolutions were adopted unanimously:

Whereas, It has pleased an all-wise Providence to remove from the people, and from the exalted seat to which their confidence had but recently elevated him, William Henry Harrison, late President of the United States—who expired at the city of Washington, on the morning of April 4th, 1841—by which mournful dispensation the citizens of the Republic are overwhelmed with affliction: And, whereas, the Baltimore Typographical Society, unfeignedly participating in the general bereavement, and sincerely desirous of bearing testimony to the distinguished military and civil services, as well as private virtues of the deceased—Therefore

Resolved, That this Society, in unison with the feelings that surround us, entertain the most profound and heartfelt sorrow for the mournful calamity which has overspread the Republic, in the death of our late illustrious President, William Henry Harrison.

Resolved, That the noble ambition to "serve his country," which, for a period of nearly half a century, successfully distinguished our departed National Benefactor, has won for him a name that will endure as long as the love of constitutional Liberty shall abide in the breast of man.

Resolved, That the examples of incorruptible integrity, exalted patriotism, and Christian benevolence, so pre-eminently characteristic of the life of our late President—evidenced in the service of the nation and in the rural shades of domestic retirement—are worthy the grateful remembrance and the emulation of his countrymen.

Resolved, That we tender our humble condolence to the bereaved and sorrow-stricken family of the deceased, who, in this day and this hour of their calamity, are alone sustained by the consciousness that the spirit of their illustrious friend has realized, in exchange for earth, a Heavenly immortality.

Resolved, That this Society will cordially unite with other associations of their fellow citizens, for the purpose of devising further public demonstrations of sorrow for the death, and respect for the memory, of our late beloved Chief Magistrate.

Resolved, That Messrs. R. B. Gallup, Fred'k. Young, J. W. Peregoy, H. D. Peak, and G. E. Taylor, be appointed a committee on the part of this Society, to co-operate with such other committees as may be appointed on the part of other Associations, in carrying into effect the objects contemplated in the preceding resolution.

Resolved, That the Hall and Banner of the Society be hung in the customary badge of mourning for a period of sixty days, and that crape be worn on the left arm of the members during the same period.

Resolved, That a copy of these proceedings, signed by the Officers of this Society, be transmitted to the family of our late virtuous Chief Magistrate, as a brief evidence of our sympathy—for we cannot obtrude upon the afflicted the language of overflowing hearts, when the eloquence of grief is silence.

Holliday street Theatre opens to-night with Mr. Hackett. To the best of our knowledge we have never seen this gentleman, and are therefore unprepared to speak of his merits or demerits.

Starring. A colored woman named Rebecca Peach, ripe in iniquity, was brought up to the police office on Saturday, charged with stabbing Robert Meade. She was committed to jail by Squire Gorsuch.

Mons. Alex. Vattemare is now in Boston, promulgating his system of international exchanges. By the way, what has been done with the extensive resolutions passed in this city last fall in reference to the gentleman's great enterprize.

☞ It is stated in the New York Sun that the British Queen will take out the largest mail of letters and papers to Europe the present voyage that has ever been taken by any steamer.

☞ We have a rumor that Mr. N. Biddle is preparing an address to the public, in relation to the affairs of the United States Bank.

☞ The alarm of fire about 2 o'clock on Saturday morning, was caused by the burning of a carpenter shop on North Calvert st. near the public fountain.

Suicide. A young gentleman named Chester Powers put an end to his life in New York on the 8th inst.

MARYLAND CADETS' ARMORY,

BALTIMORE, April 10, 1841.

☞ At a meeting of the MARYLAND CADETS, held at their Armory on Saturday evening last, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted and ordered to be published:

Resolved, That this Company highly approve of the patriotic preamble and resolutions of our fellow soldiers "the Independent Blues," and that we will cordially unite with them and our fellow citizens generally in carrying out their suggestion of a public demonstration of the regret we feel for the loss sustained by the nation in the sudden and afflicting dispensation which has called from among us Gen. William Henry Harrison, late President of the United States."

Resolved, That Capt. A. Newman, Jos H. Williams, Levi Pohlenstock, Wm H. Heckman and J. C. Manning, be and they are hereby appointed Delegates from the Company to act in conjunction with other committees as may be appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the proposed ceremonies.

MISSIONARY FAIR.

☞ The Sewing Society of the Second Presbyterian Church respectfully announce, that their Annual Fair for the sale of fancy and useful articles will commence on MONDAY EVENING NEXT, the 12th inst. in the Lecture Rooms of the Church, at the corner of East Baltimore and Lloyd streets, and be continued throughout the following days and evenings of Tuesday and Wednesday, or until the whole of the articles are disposed of.

From the arrangements made, it is confidently expected, that the sale will be more than usually attractive, and as the society have in this way sustained a missionary in India, for a number of years past, and stand pledged for his permanent support, it is hoped that the present appeal will be promptly and generously responded to by all who are friendly to the cause of missions—especially as it is known to all who read the religious publications of the day that Henry R. Wilson has at the present moment, in addition to his other labors, upwards of one hundred native Orphan Children under his care, who if the means of education be now extended to them, may become instrumental in spreading the knowledge of salvation throughout that vast and benighted Empire.

Dr Small, a gentleman of few words, Mr. BOWERS.
Balthazar, an old Gipsy, Mr HARE
Driscoll, a dealer in Cabbages, Mr. THOMAS.
Postilion, Mr. BRENAN.
Peter Bradley, Sexton of Rookwood, MATTHEWS
Luke Bradley, his grandson, Mr. PENNO
Jerry Juniper, a hopeful pupil of Turpin always reforming, yet occasionally indulging in his former habits, Mr. KEACH.
Landlord, Mr. GEORGE.
Gipsies, Country people, Soldiers, &c.
Sybil, Flower of the valley, Miss ROCK.
Barbara, Queen of the Gipsies, Mrs. A. KNIGHT.
Hanassah, a Gipsey girl, Miss ELLIS.
Eleanor Mowbray, betrothed to Ranulph, Miss MATTHEWS.
Lady Rookwood, the wife of the late Lord of the Castle, Miss SHAW.
Mrs. Mowbray, mother of Eleanor, Mrs. SLATER.
Gipsies, Gipsy Children, &c.

Synopsis of Scenery, Incidents, &c.

ACT I.

SCENE 1. The exterior of ROOKWOOD CASTLE by Moonlight. The Game is spoiled this time—Jerry Juniper in a dilemma—"The Hawks are upon us, and we must mess"—interruption—Invitation to the Vault of the Dead—"Can't I do the thing?"

SCENE 2. THE VAULT OF THE DEAD, and the last Home of the Rookwoods." The midnight meeting—the Sexton's instructions to his Grandson—the Thunderbolt—the Human Arm and Discovery.

SCENE 3. A LANDSCAPE. The rescued females—Sybil, the flower of the valley—"The moss clad rock is our throne, our sceptre a limb of the tall oak, our bed the green sward of the valley, where the free winds of liberty sing us to our slumbers."

Scene 4. An apartment in Rookwood Castle.

Scene 5. A Chamber in Rookwood Castle. The Guth of Lady Rookwood made manifest. The Secret Pannel. The Robbery.

Scene 6. BANQUETTING HALL. The Encounter of the two brothers—the Struggle—the Skeleton Hand. Wedding Ring placed upon the breast of the body—"rest there forever." Palmer obtains possession of an important document—Luke's protection of a female—Jack Palmer proves to be the famed English Highwayman Dick Turpin—his good night to the party rent from a well-discharged pistol, and his escape upon BONNY BLACK BESS.

ACT II.

SCENE 1. The HOME of the GIPSIES. The Flower of the Valley on the Alpine Peak. The return of the Wand'ring tribe—Arrival of Luke and his grandsire—the blasted hopes of the Sybil, on hearing her lover's claims to the fatal house of Rookwood—Turpin gallops up the mountain, his attack upon the Travelling Coach—Encounter with the Postilion—the Hunter's Horn—his escape of Tom King and Turpin—the rescue of Eleanor Mowbray by Luke Bradley.

Scene 2. A LANDSCAPE. Jerry Juniper—nobody can slip a card better—nobody likes Brandy better, and nobody can sing a song better.

Scene 3. Ancient HALL in the PRIORY. The Gipsy Queen surrounded by her tribe—Sybil's Appeal—the Owl deserts its perch—a good omen.

"When the stray rook shall perch on the topmost bough,
There shall be screeching and screaming I trow,
But of right and of rule of the ancient nest,
The rook that with rook mates shall hold him possessed.
So runs the Prophecy—"Blood! Blood!! Blood!!!

Scene 4. A LANDSCAPE.

Scene 5. Exterior of a COUNTRY INN. Tom King and Dick Turpin are seized by the constable—King called on Turpin to fire—Turpin replied "if I do, I shall hit you." "Fire if you are my friend," said King—Turpin fired, but the ball took fatal effect in King's breast, Dick stood for a moment in grief, but self-preservation made him urge his Mare forward to evade his pursuers—is followed by Titus Tyrconnel and the rest—Soldiers appear. BLACK BESS, unimpeded by her course, dashes on undaunted by a volley musketry.

ACT III.

SCENE 1. A VILLAGE STREET. Bonny Blk. Bess continues her course—Tu pin then struck into a bylane, through Tottenham and Edmonton, and coming up to a man with a Donkey Cart, who not being able to get out of his way, stood in the middle of the road. An encouraging word made BONNY BLACK BESS clear the driver and cart.

Scene 3. HORNSEY TURNPIKE BY NIGHT. He now passed on to Hornsay and Duval Lanes, where a crowd attempting to intercept him, he presented a pistol in each hand, and bore down all before him. Old Horsey Toll Bar had then a "chevaux de frieze" in the upper rail, and the toll man bearing the cries of STOP HIM! had shut the gate, but Dick patting his Mare's neck, BONNY BESS Clears the Gate! Jerry Juniper appears as the Turnpike Woman, recognizes and exclaims "Good night Dick!"—"Good night Jerry—Keep the leaks in patter!" Jerry's great good fortune places him in possession of a Crown.

Scene 4. VAULTED CHAMBER in the Priory.

Scene 5. The VAULTED CHAPEL in St. Cyprian's Cell. The Altar—the Priest—the Wedding—the twice used Ring Beware thy Bridal day—Confession of the murder of Susan Rookwood.

Scene 6. HALL in the Priory. The determination of Sybil to save Eleanor Mowbray from the sacrifice.

Scene 7. GOSHERBY HILL by Moonlight. The Highwayman. Turpin's attention was now drawn to a gibbet near to the road—he drew aside, to look and reflect a little. Pursuit continues. The whole neighborhood being alarmed by the cries, and by the tramp of horses, the men of Hornsey rushed into the road to seize the fugitive, "A Highwayman! a Highwayman!" cried the voices. Stop him! stop him!

Scene 8. DEATH OF BONNY BLACK BESS. Bess reached feebly, reeled forward and fell—her heart had burst—Police and soldiers enter. "Ah! the Gipsy prophecy is fulfilled!" Death of TURPIN.

GOVERNOR PORTER'S VETO MESSAGE.

AN ABSTRACT.

We are indebted to attentive friends at Harrisburg for copies of Governor Porter's Veto Message in relation to the Bank Bill. It occupies five columns of the Harrisburg Telegraph, and does not possess sufficient general interest to authorise its publication in our columns. The Governor says that some things in the bill he would gladly approve; but he cannot believe that the penalties imposed on the Banks, so far as relates to the citizens of this Commonwealth, ought to be repealed, or that the issue of notes under the denomination of five dollars by the banks, to an amount of six millions of dollars for the term of five years, should be authorised.

He then proceeds to analyse the bill in detail. He says that the sections repealing the penalties and forfeitures are peculiarly objectionable, inasmuch as no time is prescribed when the repeal would cease to be operative. He refers to his former opinions with regard to small notes, and says—"if such notes are issued, we might despair of seeing a single dollar of specie in circulation." He is opposed also to Post Notes, and to various other provisions, particularly to that which authorises the United States Bank to reduce its capital to $14,000,000. He says he retained the bill as long as possible, to ascertain the opinions of practical men, and he doubts, if it should become a law, whether one-tenth of the Banks of the Commonwealth would accept of its provisions. The late bank suspension is alluded to in a moderate spirit, and attributed in a great measure, to a combination abroad. He concludes with this language:

I would most cheerfully approve of any measure that will protect the banks of this Commonwealth from being crippled in their operations, and from the forfeiture of their charters by combinations of brokers and sharpers of other States, and of Europe, to exact the penalties which were originally designed for the safety and security of the people of this Commonwealth. Let those persons having demands against our banks be deprived of no civil remedy which can be afforded by the law; let our Courts remain open to them; let them recover judgments and enforce them by execution, with such interest as is allowed in other like cases of debt; but the penalties, which can be exacted only at the hazard of creating embarrassment and difficulty among our citizens, should be reserved to be enforced by our own citizens, who are so deeply interested in the consequences. Let those who are to feel the effects, judge who thus will strike the blow. Such a law as this, would be a measure of self preservation, and could give no just ground of complaint to those who would be deprived of no legal right they now enjoy, and of no privilege, but that of annoying and disturbing their neighbours, without obtaining any benefit for themselves.

In all our Legislative acts we should remember that without encroaching upon the rights of the citizens of other States, our first and highest duty is to take care of the interests of Pennsylvania. This is expected from us by the people, and less than this would be an unpardonable shrinking from our duty.

THE SLING USED BY DAVID.

The weapon selected by David to combat with his powerful opponent of Gath, was the sling, an instrument of warfare which, both among the Greeks and Hebrews, has been a powerful offensive weapon. It is composed of two strings and a leathern strap; the strap is in the middle, and is the place where the stone or bullet lies. The string on the right end of the strap is firmly fastened to the hand; that on the left is held between the thumb and middle joint of the forefinger. It is then whirled two or three times round the head; and when discharged, the finger and thumb let go their hold of the left end string. The velocity and force of the sling are in proportion to the distance of the strap where the bullet lies, from the shoulder joint. Hence the ancient Baliares, or inhabitants of Majorca and Minorca, are said to have had three slings of different lengths; the longest they used when the enemy was at the greatest distance; the middle one, on their near approach; and the shortest when they came within the ordinary fighting distance. The shortest is the most certain, though not the most powerful. The Balearians are said to have had one of their slings constantly bound about their head, to have used the second as a girdle, and to have carried the third always in the hand. In the use of the sling it requires much practice to hit the mark; but when once this dexterity is acquired, the sling is nearly as fatal as the musket or bow. The stone from David's sling smote Goliath in the forehead, and upon this fact Dr. Clarke remarks that, excepting his face, the giant was every where covered with strong armour. Either he had no beaver to his helmet, or it was lifted up so as to expose his forehead; but it does not appear that the ancient helmets, unlike those of after times, had any covering for the face. The Septuagint, however, supposes that the stone passed through the helmet, and sank into his forehead. To some this may appear improbable, but we are assured by ancient writers that scarcely any thing could resist the force of the sling.

Diodorus Siculus says:—The Baleares, in time of war, sling greater stones than any other people, and with such force that they seem projected from a catapult. Therefore in assaults made upon fortified towns, they grievously wound the besieged; and in battle they break in pieces the shields, helmets, and every species of armour by which the body is defended. And they are such exact marksmen that they scarcely ever miss that at which they aim. The same historian accounts for their great accuracy and power, in the use of sling, from this circumstance:—"They attain to this perfection by frequent exercise from their childhood; for while they are young and under their mother's care, they are obliged to learn to sling; for they fasten bread for a mark at the top of a pole, and till the child hit the bread he must remain fasting, and when he has hit it, the mother gives it to him to eat."

CONSUMPTION! CONSUMPTION!!
MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.
To DR. SWAYNE.
Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences.
Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.
FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Locke, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clear, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as their register correctly and in plain English.
☞ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.
N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 92 Market street, P. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.
P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:
New York, March 23, 1840.
DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMPS, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.
Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh.6-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING
THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 39 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparalelled, and successful manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral Incorruptible Teeth, and can confidently assert that they are superior to any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth forever retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. Be it also remembered, that Dr. W. performs his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when gold is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dentistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.
1. Artificial Teeth out of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.
2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.
3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carrat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as spurious gold is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even silver is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent use in the mouth.
4. Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

MEDICAL AID. The success that has attended the treatment of many thousand cases of Venereal Complaints for twenty years past, induces the subscriber to inform the public, that he may be daily seen and consulted in all cases of the kind recent and chronic, and on diseases of the urinary organs generally. His treatment is speedy and certain, adapted to the various constitutions of his patients; the medicines are so mild that the most delicate may take them, without any restrictions to diet or occupation. Many cases that have resisted every other mode of treatment have speedily yielded to this, and many persons who have tried all the quack nostrums of the day are frequently calling on the subscriber to have the injuries they have sustained by their use relieved. An early application is advisable in all cases, which may be made at Dr. WARNER'S OFFICE, Albemarle street, one door north of East Pratt street. Medicines furnished in quantities to suit applicants. ap7-colm

LIME! LIME!! LIME!!!
THE subscribers respectfully inform their friends and the public, that they have on hand, and intend keeping a constant supply of superior Alum and Bottom LIME, (burned in a conical kiln, so highly recommended by our State Geologist, Professor DUCATEL,) and that they are prepared to sell the same at the kiln at 33 1-3 cents for cash, for first quality. As our object is to furnish a first rate article at the lowest possible price, we respectfully solicit a share of public patronage.
We have also on hand, about 5,000 bushels Oyster Shell and Air Slacked ALUM LIME, which we will sell on favorable terms, for farming purposes.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

"A dream,
Which was not all a dream."

I.

A hearse voice shouted, "Arise! arise!
The nations are mustered and armed for war;
Red shadows troop thro' the stormy skies,
And earth is restless and thirsts for gore!

"Lo! round your altars on land and lake
The leaguer is gathering stern and strong;
Have ye learnt like cowards to sit and quake?
Will ye bow in silence to scorn and wrong?

"Will ye pipe the songs of a shepherd's life
When the Lion roars in his island lair?
Will ye dream of peace in the years of strife,
And babble of hope in a time of fear?

"Sire and son, are your good swords bright?
Mother and wife, are your partings done?
Does the watchfire blaze in the moonless night?
Are the matches lit by the pointed gun?"

II.

A calm voice whispered, "Rest, rest, rest,
The portents of evil will pass away
On the forest breeze of the quiet west,
Nor banner nor war-shot shall float to-day.

"The cannon's scorching and fiery breath
Shall parch not the Summer heath again,
And the unbidden guests at the feast of death,
The kite and the crow, shall shriek in vain.

"The low of kine and the reafer's song
Shall not be drown'd in the trumpet's blast,
Red war hath reign'd upon earth full long,
His power is waning, his rule is past."

GENERAL HARRISON AND HIS WIFE.

A touching reminiscence, connected with a visit made by the vocalist, Mr. Russell, to North Bend last summer, is given in the New York Express of Thursday.

The vocalist, like every other friend, found a warm welcome at the hospitable mansion of Gen. Harrison. Among the songs sung was a plaintive domestic one, happy in its thoughts and touching in its language, entitled "My Old Wife." The language was strikingly adapted to the happy life and loves of General Harrison and his "old wife," both of whom found in the society of each other the most perfect happiness which it is possible to enjoy. The music was overpowering at the time, recalling as it did the events of years of uninterrupted domestic bliss. Mrs. Harrison wept like a child, and as tears are contagious when the fountains of sympathy are not dried up, the husband of the "old wife" could not refrain from weeping also. The remark of Mrs. Harrison, in excuse for what she deemed a woman's weakness, was the dread of change, which of necessity must come—a change of residence from North Bend to Washington, and in a change of condition from the humble citizen superintending his farm to the President of a nation, with the cares and responsibilities of Government upon his shoulders. "I wish," said Mrs. H., "that my husband's friends had left him where he is, happy and contented in retirement." General Harrison's heart, in the hour of social quiet, surrounded by the remnant of his family, responded to the sentiment, and doubtless felt the vanity of all things earthly. Alas, how fully have been the dark forebodings of the wife realized! She who a week since was "the good old wife," is now the lone widow, and before the eyes of the reader are fixed upon the paragraph we write, relating the simple story of a pious and good woman, her's are filled with tears at the loss of one dearer to her than life.

From the National Intelligencer.

MESSRS. EDITORS: It is a kindly and creditable feeling that prompts the living to recall the history of the lamented dead, and to seek among the fresh reminiscences as they come sadly up some passage, some incident, which may give us the comforting assurance that the subject of our griefs while living had not been unmindful of the life beyond the grave. Concern on such a point indicates an interest in the departed that reaches beyond and above sympathy with his physical suffering, pain for his mental agony. It looks to the hope that the disengaged spirit has found rest for ever, and a happy home in Heaven. These are the kind offices of a true and rational friendship, and from such may spring much of the only real consolation that can come to the hearts crushed by recent bereavement.

It was with some such reflection as this that I looked over an allusion in your paper of this morning to the religious feelings expressed by the lamented President Harrison in his last illness. An incident which occurred at Pittsburg, while he was there on his way to Washington, will further illustrate the constancy with which he recognised his duties as an accountable being.

At the hotel where General Harrison was lodged, a child, in which he manifested a very strong interest, was ill, and a well-known medical gentleman of Pittsburg was brought about 9 o'clock in the evening to see the little patient.—The visit concluded, Dr. ——— was notified that General Harrison had desired to be informed of the condition of the little sufferer, and would be anxious to hear his report. Proceeding to the General's chamber, Dr. ——— found him deeply occupied with the Bible—so intent upon the page before him, that it was not until accosted he withdrew his eye from the sacred volume. Begging pardon for the seeming discourtesy, the consequence of a moment's abstraction, he listened to the report of his little friend's case; that stated, Dr. ——— was about to withdraw, but General Harrison invited him to take a chair, and to the Doctor's expression of surprise that he should be occupied reading when he must need repose, after the fatigues and annoyances of an entire day devoted to receiving and shaking hands with crowds that seemed to increase as he met them, he replied, "It has grown to be a fixed habit with me now to read a portion of the Scriptures every night. I am never so late retiring or so weary as to intermit that practice. It has been my habit for twenty years—at first as a matter of duty, but it has now become a pleasure. I read the bible every night."

WASHINGTON, April 6, 1841.

☞The citizens of Richmond, Va., have unanimously agreed to wear the usual badge of mourning in respect to the memory of W. H. Harrison, late President of the United States.

From the Richmond Enquirer of Tuesday.

Death of the President of the United States.

A new and extraordinary event has come to darken the annals of our country. The struggle is over, and William Henry Harrison, in the 69th year of his age, sleeps with his fathers! Although this venerable man, the President of the United States by a great majority, was not our choice, yet we respect him for his military services—we respect him for his love of country—we esteem him for his kind heart and his social qualities. His sudden loss comes upon the nation as an event, full of regret, full of profound themes for moralizing upon the instability of all human fortunes, and the worthlessness of the objects of human ambition. As so often quoted from Burke, it shows us "what shadows we are, and what shadows we pursue." But twelve months ago, suppose it had been predicted amidst the contests of an excited campaign, "this man will be elected to one of the highest offices in the world; and in one short month after his Inauguration, he will be gathered unto his fathers"—what heart would not have shrunk within itself, at the idea of passing so rapidly from a private life to the Presidential chair, and from that eminent station to the silent tomb? In honor of the Chief Magistrate of our common country, thus elevated by the voice of the people, and thus suddenly struck down in the midst of his sympathizing countrymen, we have shrouded our columns in mourning.

It is, indeed, a sudden, most unexpected, and extraordinary event. The confederated republic of the United States has now been in operation for 52 years—during which time it has seen nine Presidents elected in succession—most of them old men—five of them serving eight years each—and yet not one of them has died during his Presidency, except the last. He has been in office but one short month, from the 4th of March to the 4th of April, when he breathes his last, amid his prayers for the success of the true principles of the Constitution. The four Virginia Presidents who were living in Virginia, (all serving out their eight years,) survived till the end of their terms, but now are all no more. Three of the others are still living.

It is more wonderful, indeed, that more of them have not perished in office, than that General Harrison should be the first to die. The regret at his death comes, perhaps, with a more awful force, on account of its singularity.

A NOBLE EPITAPH.

The following epitaph, found upon a cannon in the Island of Jamaica, near the spot where the remains of Bradshaw, the chief of the regicide judges, was interred, and published in a newspaper is this country in 1775, is the noblest production of its kind I ever met with. The reader will find in the closing line that great maxim which has hitherto been erroneously ascribed to the immortal Thomas Jefferson.

STRANGER!
Ere thou pass, contemplate this cannon:
Nor regardless be told,
That near its base lies deposited the dust of
JOHN BRADSHAW,
Who, nobly, superior to all selfish regards,
Despising alike the pageantry of courtly splendor,
The blast of calumny and the terrors of vengeance,
Presided in the illustrious band of heroes and patriots
Who fairly and openly adjudged
CHARLES STUART,
Tyrant of England,
To a public and exemplary death:
Thereby presenting to the amazed world,
And transmitting down, through applauding ages,
The most glorious example
Of unshaken virtue, love of freedom, and impartial justice,
Ever exhibited on the blood-stained theatre of human action.
O! Reader,
Pass not on till thou hast blessed his memory;
And never, never forget,
That rebellion to tyrants is obedience to God.

FOREIGN ITEMS. The sickness among the British troops at Chusan, is exceedingly severe, and the mortality very great.

On Thursday week, the Clyde, the first of a line of steamers built under contract with Government for the Royal West India Steam Packet Company, was launched from the building yard of Messrs. Robert Duncan & Co., Glasgow.—The engines of 500 horse power, and the ship measures 1840 tons.

Advices from the Falkland Islands to 15th December last state that the first party of settlers had arrived at Port Louis, Berkley sound, which they describe as a most splendid harbor, and that Lieutenant Tyson, the officer in command, was spoken of in the highest terms by the settlers, who were daily looking for a farther arrival from London with additional stores and emigrants—amongst the settlers were a party of Scotchmen, who were spoken of in high terms, as industrious and frugal.

Since the arrival of Ali Pacha at Damascus at the head of 6000 men, the Christians have suffered the most vexatious treatment, and especially, from the Jews. Bands of the Jews from without, have paraded the town, and under pretext of rejoicing have fallen on the Christians and insulted them grievously, cursing aloud Christ, the Cross, and the priests—and this seems to be confirmed by an address from several of the Vicars and American Catholics, to the different Consuls at Damascus, remonstrating against such conduct.

EDUCATION IN PENNSYLVANIA. It is gratifying to find that the Common School System is extending its benefits into every portion of this State. There are now 254,900 children in the Common Schools of Pennsylvania, and 282,400 pupils in all the literary institutions in the State. Ten years since there were not 30,000 children in the free schools, and education then, compared with what it is at the present day, was vastly inferior. In New York the system exists in greater perfection than in Pennsylvania. In 1839, there were 10,769 school districts, and 572,995 children receiving instruction. The average expense of each child is $3,35, and yet in New York, the whole operation of Common Schools is much inferior to some of the eastern States.

A BARBER SHOP SKETCH. We were so forcibly struck with the truth and aptness of the following graphic sketch of a barber's shop, that we determined to transfer it from the columns of the Philadelphia Chronicle to those of the Clipper.

"Something of human life can be learned in almost any place, but the shop of the barber brings it down to a small compass. You see it there as if you were looking through the large end of a telescope, and the whole mass is comprised in little space, but yet it appears as distinct and life-like as if the telescope was reversed, and the small end applied to the eye. One with scrutinizing optics and philosophic judgement cannot but find food for the mind while sitting in the chair and undergoing the operation of being shaved. Politics are discussed with as much, if not more, warmth than they are in Congress—the affairs of the nation are settled to the satisfaction of the speakers—scandal finds a ready tongue, and the characters and business of absent ones are talked about without ceremony. If any thing has occurred after the sun has arisen from his bed, and washed his face, up to the very minute your nose is in the grasp of the thumb and forefinger of the barber's left hand, you are sure to be made acquainted with all the attending circumstances. The one who follows the profession of removing the beard and clipping the hair is expected to be a living epitome of history, and be able to give an account of what has happened, as also what is expected to happen, and to do it in a subdued and interesting style, being neither overbearing or dogmatic in his operations.

Those who perform their toilet duties at home, know but little of the luxuries of life. Scraping the face with a dull razor on a cold morning, is not the exact thing; but when you can sit down comfortably, after having divested yourself of your coat and cravat, catch cat-naps while the razor is being drawn over your phiz, and between the naps hear all the gossip of the day told you, which saves the trouble of poring over the newspapers—that's what we call luxury, and not to be sneezed at, especially by those who have no notes for the barber to handle. Imagine yourself installed in the chair, head thrown back so as to allow of your looking at the ceiling, your face well covered with lather, (dog't talk while the brush is being passed over your face, or you may get a mouthful of suds) the gentle touches of the razor when wielded by a scientific hand—poh! you can't imagine—go and realize it.

ENIGMA. The following is from the N. York Signal, a paper read and admired more by the ladies perhaps, than any other in the Empire State. We give it so that some of our own fair creatures may put their wits to work and solve the mystery.

"Who, of our fair readers will guess the following?

"I am a fragile thing, and so delicate I seldom survive a second touch—yet so great is my power, I compass sea and land, and there are but few who dare to disturb me while on my way to my owner—my figure is round, and often of a most transparent and gay coloring, though too frequently I go about in mourning. I am doomed to a wayward fate—oftentimes my presence is hailed with joy, and I am kissed in a transport of pleasure; and again I am snatched from my resting place to be rudely torn asunder and cast away for ever! I am so feeble the tear of an infant would dispel me from being, and yet so strong I hold the law of life and death. Sometimes I grasp that which causes eternal hatred, and often I open to reveal sentiments of purest love! You who are reading me, have used me at your will, but the secrets I have held you can never know, though I am wholly in your power."

CAST IRON CHURCH. The following is extracted from the London Mechanics' Magazine:

"St. George's Church, Liverpool, is an object of considerable interest for its taste, and as having been nearly the first cast iron church erected in Great Britain.

"The whole of the frame work of the windows, doors, groins, roofs, pulpit, and ornamental enrichments, are of cast iron. The length is 119 feet; the breadth 47. It is ornamented by a splendid cast iron window of stained glass."

It is not, perhaps, generally known that a great proportion of the large manufactories erected in England within the last ten years, are all iron except the walls. And within two years past, several cottages and country villas have been put up near London, which are exclusively cast iron; walls, doors, steps, roof, chimneys, sash, &c.

In England, where wood is dear and iron cheap, the first cost of such buildings is less than those of timber. In durability and in beauty, they are, of course, unequalled. When once finished, such buildings require no repairs; and the most finely carved ornaments cost little more than plain castings. From the manner of their construction, additions or subtractions can be made without injury to the materials, or to the appearance of the building, at any time.

SPLENDID METEOR. About twenty minutes before eight o'clock, on the evening of Monday, the 15th of March ult., a magnificent meteor was seen by several persons in the vicinity of New Haven. Its apparent size was five or six times that of Venus, and its splendor was so great that it illumined the whole visible hemisphere. When first seen it was in altitude 15°, azimuth S. 62 W., it moved obliquely downwards towards the West, and flashed out in altitude 11°, azimuth S. 68 W. Just before its disappearance it seemed to explode, and one observer listening, heard about two minutes after, a report which, as he thought, resulted from this explosion. The meteor's motion was slow; the time of its visible flight occupying five seconds.

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and NEWERS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departue from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

" Wilmington	1 P.M. "	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Fogs! Rough Weather!! and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon; and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine Short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2 50, fine Brush Hats $2 50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in the market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 13, 1841.

GREAT PUBLIC MEETING.

There was a great movement of the citizens of Baltimore yesterday. A town meeting had been called to adopt measures to testify respect for the character of the late President, and regret for his death—and, notwithstanding that the inclemency of the weather prevented numbers from attending, the clock had hardly struck twelve, (the hour of meeting,) before the rotunda of the Exchange, was well crowded. We knew that our fellow-citizens would not be deficient, when the opportunity was afforded, in the manifestation of their sympathy in the feeling of sorrow which has been so universally evinced at the recent national bereavement.

COLUMBUS O'DONNELL, Esq. called the meeting to order, and nominated Col. SAM'L. MOORE as President, who was unanimously chosen.—On taking the chair, Col. Moore made a short, but appropriate and feeling address, in which he referred to the mournful dispensation of Providence which had deprived the country of its venerable Chief Magistrate, and the duty which now devolved upon the citizens of Baltimore, to evince in a most solemn and public manner, their sense of the public services and private virtues of the illustrious deceased.

On motion, ROBERT GILMOR, Esq., and Col. SOLOMON HILLEN, Jr., were unanimously appointed Vice Presidents, and SAM'L. T. THOMPSON and WILLIAM H. COLE, Jr., Secretaries.

On motion of Z. COLLINS LEE, Esq., it was resolved unanimously that a Committee, consisting of one from each Ward, be appointed, to retire and draft resolutions expressive of the feelings of the citizens of Baltimore for the melancholy bereavement sustained by the death of the late illustrious President. Whereupon the Chair appointed the following gentlemen to compose the Committee:

1st	Ward—	Capt. JAMES FRAZIER.
2nd	"	Capt. WILLIAM H. WATSON.
3rd	"	Capt. RICHARD LILLY.
4th	"	Gen. S. C. LEAKIN.
5th	"	ISAAC M. DENSON.
6th	"	WILLIAM G. BOLGIANO.
7th	"	ROBERT M. WELCH.
8th	"	Gen. C. O'DONNELL.
9th	"	Col. SAMUEL LUCAS.
10th	"	DANIEL A. PIPER.
11th	"	Z. COLLINS LEE, (Chairman.)
12th	"	LEVI FAHNESTOCK.
13th	"	WILLIAM P. STEWART.
14th	"	HENRY SNYDER.

The Committee then retired, and on its return to the meeting, the Chairman, Mr. LEE, read the following preamble and resolutions, prefacing them with a few feeling and eloquent remarks. They were unanimously adopted.

WHEREAS, the people of Baltimore, participating deeply in the general sorrow which the death of their late beloved and lamented chief magistrate, WM. H. HARRISON, has produced—have assembled in town meeting this day to express their keen sense of the bereavement the country has sustained, at a time when the sage experience—tried patriotism—and unsullied virtues of the illustrious deceased were most needed to conduct the administration of public affairs.—And also to adopt such measures as are proper for the expression of their feelings at this mournful event—therefore,

Resolved, That as the long life of our late honored and venerated President has been distinguished by the most signal services to his country, on the field of battle, and in the public councils, at periods which "tried men's souls"—and his career in private life, illustrated by the exercise of the kindest affections and purest principles of the heart—we now realize more truly his loss, for independent of all official rank and worldly honor, he will be remembered as a good man, whose bosom overflowed with benevolence and charity, and from whose bright example future generations may derive instruction and encouragement.

Resolved, That after a faithful devotion to his country, in many subordinate military and civil capacities, we beheld him called by the voice of that country to preside over her destinies, and witnessed the spontaneous and heartfelt applause which heralded him to that exalted station—as an earnest of the attachment and respect of all classes of the people to his character and person.

Resolved, That but one short month had elapsed since that elevation—alas! too brief! but long enough for his own glory and rewards, already complete and consecrated by a Nation's highest honors—when, by an all-wise and inscrutable Providence, he is snatched from the affections of a whole People, and the hearts of a mourning circle of kindred to receive yet higher honors and more imperishable glory, among the band of patriots, and fathers of our land, who, like him, having been first in war and first in peace, will ever remain first in the hearts of their countrymen.

Resolved, That we most sincerely condole with the bereaved widow and afflicted family, who now deplore the death of a husband, father, benefactor and friend, and whose tears are mingling in the cup of a nation's grief.

Resolved, That in testimony of our regard for the illustrious dead, the citizens of Baltimore and the State of Maryland, be requested to wear the usual badge of mourning for ninety days and that in this sad office, the ladies of our city and State be also requested to unite.

Resolved That a Committee be appointed by the chair, consisting of two from each Ward, to prepare the Programme of a public civic and military procession—bearing all the insignia of mourning, and commemorative of the death of Gen. WM. H. HARRISON; and to invite all Societies and other bodies who may desire to unite in this solemn ceremony; and that the procession and funeral ceremonies shall take place on MONDAY, the 26th inst.

Resolved, That a copy of these proceedings be enclosed to the family of the late President of the United States, accompanied by a letter from the committee expressive of the feeling of condolence and sorrow which the citizens of Baltimore and State of Maryland entertain on the occasion of this their melancholy bereavement and affliction.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be published in all the papers of the City and State.

N. B. The papers throughout the Union are requested to publish the above.

SAMUEL MOORE, President.

ROBERT GILMOR, SOLOMON HILLEN, Jr. } Vice Pres'ts.

SAM'L. T. THOMPSON, WM. H. COLE, Jr. } Secretaries.

☞The following gentlemen compose the committee of arrangements for the procession in honor of the late President, W. H. HARRISON. The committee will meet THIS EVENING, 13th inst. at 7 o'clock, at Military Hall, North Gay street.

SAM'L. MOORE, Chairman.

LIBERAL. We learn that Mr. Hugh Cunningham, has tendered the gratuitous use of his numerous carriages and horses for the procession in memory of the late President. This is an instance of meritorious liberality, which speaks the feelings of the heart.

"THE INDEPENDENT PRESS." We have received two numbers of a tri-weekly paper, published at No. 12 North street, under the above title. The paper professes to be independent and fearless in the expression of its sentiments, and we hope that its course may comport with the title it has assumed—for we are great admirers of editorial independence. In fact a paper must be independent, to be respectable, for an editor who will suppress his opinions from fear, or change them for gain, is a contemptible animal whom no one can respect. We regret, however, that the religious warfare which had ceased, has been recommenced. Religion is too solemn a text to be made the subject of anonymous newspaper comment.

"Family Library," Nos. 128 and 129. From Cushing & Brother. No. 128, contains the Life and Travels of Bruce. When these travels were first published in England they caused some sensation, in consequence of the author's account of his discovery of the source of the Nile, which he locates in Abyssinia. We believe that this and some other marvellous discoveries which he says he made, caused the whole narrative to be doubted. His history of Abyssinia, and, indeed, the whole account of his travels, will be found entertaining.

No. 129, contains the lives of Jay and Hamilton. The conspicuous stations held by those distinguished statesmen—their public services and fine talents—their commentaries on the constitution of the United States, &c., must make it desirable for Americans to possess their biographies from an authentic source. Those, in particular, who aspire to be statesmen should avail themselves of the present publication.

"Corse de Leon, or the Brigand," in 2 vols., by James, author of the Robber, &c. &c.—From Cushing & Brother. The title of this work should give it a ready sale, did not the name of the author guarantee that it will be found worthy of perusal. The inclination of the age is for the horrible, deeds of piracy and the like—and therefore, a book bearing the attractive title of "the Brigand" will not remain idle on the shelf.

"The Standard Library," No. 8, contains the continuation of the "Stories of Waterloo," and the commencement of "the Subaltern;" both articles well worth reading.

"The Dollar Magazine" for April; as "cheap as dirt," but well filled with stories, comic plates, &c. These two periodicals can be had of W. Taylor, 12 North street.

"The Christian World," T. H. Stockton, editor, Philadelphia. This is an excellent monthly publication, and costs only $1.25 per annum. We should be glad to see it liberally patronized, as it contains much information valuable to the Christian community.

CORRESPONDENTS. On mature consideration, we have thought it advisable to omit the communication from "a subscriber." It is well written, and contains a just condemnation of certain conduct; but, the writer will see that, under existing circumstances, it would be as well to refrain from comment on what has passed. Perhaps "sober second thoughts" may produce a change of views and of policy.

"Washington," on the proceedings at a Literary Institution, might produce injury. We have no doubt that the error committed will be amended hereafter.

TIDE WATER CANAL. A correspondent of the Patriot, dated Havre de Grace, April 11th, 1841, says that the Engineers assure me the water will not only be in the Canal, but it will be ready for business by the 22d of this month.—We are getting on bravely, and shall have in from ½ to 2 feet water by next Saturday (weather permitting) which will greatly facilitate our operations. We have about 130 men at work (the majority of whom are good laborers) and 26 carts. I shall write you more fully the middle of the coming week.

HOME. The Hon. Henry Clay arrived at his residence in Ashland, Ky., on Wednesday, the 31st March, with his health perfectly recovered.

PATRIOTISM. We cannot envy the feelings of any man whose attachment to his country is so feeble as to be dissolved for trifling and insignificant causes—or whose patriotism evaporates when it is supposed to be in opposition to some transient individual interest. The union of these states was formed upon the principle of compromise; and, if it be perpetuated, must be continued by like forbearance. The assumption of authority by any state to annul the acts of congress, and to withdraw from the union, whenever whim, caprice or passion may dictate such measures, will not be tolerated by the country. Nor would any man who possessed genuine American principles—who considered himself one of this great national family—intimate the desire to array his state in opposition to the government of the country. He who would seriously advocate a dissolution of the union, is a traitor in feeling and principle, and should be spurned by every patriot.—But, unfortunately, men in high places have accustomed themselves to speak with indifference upon the subject of a forcible separation, and the public have become familiarized to the topic; but are far from having been made converts to the opinions which leaders have avowed. We despise those politicians who, upon every occasion when they cannot dictate the measures of government, utter their threats of dissolving the union. They must know, or should be made to know, that such threats are impotent, and that they are held in detestation. They are almost exclusively used by a few madmen of South Carolina, who arrogate to themselves the right to control the whole operations of government. We are tired of this dictatorial spirit—of this assumption of authority by individuals, who, if we judge from their fiery course, would "Sooner rule in hell than serve in Heaven."

As a specimen of this gasconading disposition, we give the following article—premising, that we suspect that the governor will resort to other advisers than this Hotspur, who is better suited to be the companion of Don Quixotte, than to be counsellor to the governor of a state.

From the Charleston Mercury, March 31.

Would it not be advisable for the Governor to call an extra session of the Legislature? The alarming condition of the country seems to us to require it. When Charleston was partially burnt down, the emergency was universally deemed of sufficient importance to assemble the Representatives of the People in extraordinary convention. But what was the destruction of a few millions of property compared to the dangers that overhang us from the approaching extra session of Congress, and which might be averted by the exercise of A TIMELY FIRMNESS? Let the Legislature meet, PUT THE STATE UNDER COMPLETE MILITARY ORGANIZATION, and instruct the Governor, in case a National Bank or Protective Tariff is enacted by Congress, to summon forthwith a Convention of the People of South Carolina to deliberate on the measures necessary to be taken in defence of their liberties. There should be no hesitation—no delay. Every thing depends on their bold, uncompromising decision. His Excellency has pledged himself to the world to meet the crisis, should it arrive, as it ought to be met. His responsibility is great. Let him take no counsel of timid and interested politicians. The People—the People, whose servant he is—expect him to do his duty. A DEMOCRAT.

CHEMICAL SCIENCE. We copy the following notice from the National Intelligencer. We know nothing of the abilities of Dr. Page, more than is stated by the writer, but the subject which he has chosen for his lectures is interesting and practically important. The science of chemistry is little understood, except by those who have made it their particular study; and when the opportunity is afforded to become acquainted with its principles through the medium of lectures and experiments, it should not be neglected. Professor Aikin, of this city, holds a distinguished rank for chemical knowledge, and is now engaged in the delivery of a course of lectures, at the Chemical Hall of the University of Maryland, which we hope all who desire to become acquainted with this beautiful science will attend.

"Lectures are every where getting in vogue, and as a means of conveying instruction to the people at large, where the subjects are well chosen and the lecturers well informed, their public utility can hardly be overrated—especially is this true of experimental lectures, to which applies forcibly the remark of Horace, that

Segnius irritant animos demissa per aurem,
Quam quæ sunt oculis subjecta fidelibus.

"I had the pleasure of listening, a few evenings since, to a lecture upon the subject which forms the caption of this notice from Dr. CHARLES G. PAGE, in which he traced with much research and ability the origin and progress of Chemical Science. The same lecture, I understood, was delivered before the NATIONAL INSTITUTE in this city, but, owing to a WRONG announcement in the papers, and perhaps to the multiplicity of fairs and other sources of excitement at the time, the audience was extremely limited.

"Dr. PAGE has thought of giving a course of experimental lectures in Washington; he is a young man who has acquired honorable distinction in the ranks of science on both sides of the Atlantic, and I sincerely hope if he does visit Washington with this intention that his efforts may not be swallowed up in the vortex of that political maelstrom. MEDICUS."

FRONT STREET THEATRE. The first representation of the grand equestrian drama of ROOKWOOD was witnessed last night by a crowded audience, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. The piece is well got up, full of thrilling incidents, and the extraordinary performance of the mare Bonny Black Bess, with the daring of Dick Turpin the highwayman, gives to the whole a novel appearance seldom attempted on the stage. It will be repeated again this evening—and we shall take an opportunity of noticing the piece more at length.

THE WEATHER. On Saturday evening last we had a light fall of snow. On Sunday morning there was considerable ice, and the weather remained cool throughout the day. During Sunday night it commenced snowing, and continued without intermission during the whole of yesterday. As the snow melted rapidly, walking in the streets was disagreeable. We apprehend that some damage has been done to the early fruit and vegetables.

FRIENDSHIP FIRE COMPANY.

☞ At a special meeting of the FRIENDSHIP FIRE COMPANY held at the Hall of the Engine House, on Monday evening, April 12th, 1841, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

The mighty ruler of the Universe, in whose hands are the destinies of nations, having in the dispensation of his all-wise Providence, removed from the cares and anxieties of life the late illustrious Chief Magistrate of the United States, William Henry Harrison, and while we bow in due reverence to the divine will, and submit in all humility to the chastening hand that has so heavily afflicted the nation, we deem it proper to testify our gratitude for the services rendered his country, and our respect for his memory, and the high station he held in the nation. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That the members of the Friendship Fire Company will unite in the contemplated funeral procession on the 26th inst. and respectfully request our brother firemen to unite with us on the mournful occasion.

Resolved, That as a mark of respect to the deceased Patriot, the Hall of the Engine House be clothed in mourning for the space of six months.

Resolved, That a Committee, consisting of Messrs. Wm. G. Warner, Danl. Super, William Craggs, Erasmus Uhler, Wm. Ward, Geo. W. Pryor and J. Isaac, be and they are hereby appointed, to make any arrangement that may be deemed necessary, and to represent this Company in any meeting of delegates of the other Fire Companies or other associations, or the citizens at large.

Resolved, That as a further mark of respect the front of the Engine House be hung in mourning on the day of the Funeral Procession.

Resolved, That the President and Vice President act, ex officio, as part of the Committee of Arrangement.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be signed by the Chairman and Secretary and published in the papers of this city.

THE U. S. CALCULATOR. On casting our eyes hastily over this volume, we thought that it deserved a more elaborate notice than our time would permit, and we placed it in the hands of a friend well skilled in the science of figures, who has politely furnished us with the following opinion of the merits of the work.

The Americans are a calculating people. Their genius is emphatically commercial, and a broad field lies constantly open on every side, inviting their enterprise and offering full scope to their energy, ingenuity, mechanical skill or scientific attainments. For such a people, a sound preparatory education is indispensable; and no branch has so many claims upon their attention, either for its especial uses or as a means of mental discipline, as that of the mathematics.

A good arithmetic, then, is a work of the utmost importance to the American teacher. We hail with peculiar pleasure an addition to our large list of good school books in the shape of an arithmetic by Mr. John McNevin, just published, a copy of which is before us; and we regard it with the more gratification, because we wish to see Baltimore contributing her share to those standard works by which the mind and morals of the youth of our country are to be formed.

It may be said, we are already overrun with arithmetics. It is true they are numerous, and many of them possess commendable features; but none are perfect. There are several points in which the work before us is superior to those we have heretofore seen, and as a whole, it appears, to our judgment, a work well arranged and judiciously executed.

We are pleased to see inserted the tables for Addition, Subtraction, and Division, as well as that for Multiplication. They are all absolutely essential, and if other works had contained them, we should see less of that trick of counting fingers, which now disgraces so many of our schools. The explanations and rules are generally clear and well expressed. That on Interest, however, on page 183, might be modified. It says "compute the interest to the first time a payment was made"—and afterwards—"subtract the sum paid at that time, together with the preceding payments, if any," &c. How could there be any payments "preceding" the time when the first payment was made? But this is a trifle, that will, of course, be corrected in future editions, of which we hope there may be many. We wish, also, that the author had entirely excluded the answers from his work. We are persuaded that it is better both for teacher and pupil to have them omitted in the body of the work, and collected in a key for the especial reference of the former.—If this be too expensive, let each teacher, as he goes along, prepare a key for himself.

We ought to have mentioned that one peculiar feature of this work, is its use of Federal currency to the exclusion of sterling money, which is used so extensively in other treatises, and which the author has very properly considered at large under the head of Exchange and Reduction.

The book is from the press of Mr. James Young, and is neatly printed. We commend it to teachers and those interested in education, and wish it success. By the way, will the accomplished author, or some other mathematical friend, explain to us, why "forty feet of round timber, or fifty feet of hewn timber, make a ton or load." We confess the statement puzzles us, and we should like to know the "reason of the thing."

JOSEPH WATSON, ESQ. We regret to announce, says the Philadelphia Chronicle of yesterday, the death of this gentleman. He was formerly Mayor of the city, and gave great satisfaction during his mayoralty. For a few years past he has been President of the Lehigh Coal Company. His integrity of character and amiable disposition endeared him to all who knew him.

FRANKLIN BANK STOCK. Thirty-two shares of Franklin Bank Stock were yesterday sold at the Exchange by John I. Gross for $5 37½ per share, cash. Some State Stock was also offered but not disposed of.

GENERAL JACKSON was 74 years old, on Monday, 15th March, 1841.

WASHINGTON TEMPERANCE SOCIETY, April 12, 1841.

☞Whereas, at a very large and respectable meeting, held on this day at the Exchange, it was resolved, that in order to manifest their regret for his decease, and testify their respect for our late venerated Chief Magistrate, Gen. Wm. H. Harrison, that it be recommended to the citizens of Baltimore to unite in a civic and military procession on the 26th inst; and whereas, said recommendation extends to all the different societies in the city—be it

Resolved by the Washington Temperance Society, That this Society unite with their fellow citizens in the funeral procession contemplated.

Resolved, That the committee of arrangements of the 5th of April procession be a committee to meet any committee or committees of other Temperance Societies or Military or Fire Companies, or committee on the part of the citizens, and make such arrangements for the Society as may be deemed suitable for the solemn occasion.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the different Temperance Societies that they appoint committees to meet the above and other committees, to unite with us in paying honor to the illustrious dead. By order.

MISSIONARY FAIR.

☞ "The Sewing Society of the Second Presbyterian Church" respectfully announce, that their Annual Fair for the sale of fancy and useful articles will commence on MONDAY EVENING NEXT, the 12th inst. in the Lecture Rooms of the Church, at the corner of East Baltimore and Lloyd streets, and be continued throughout the following days and evenings of Tuesday and Wednesday, or until the whole of the articles are disposed of.

From the arrangements made, it is confidently expected, that the sale will be more than usually attractive, and as the society have in this way sustained a missionary in India, for a number of years past, and stand pledged for his permanent support, it is hoped that the present appeal will be promptly and generously responded to by all who are friendly to the cause of missions—especially as it is known to all who read the religious publications of the day that HENRY R. WILSON has at the present moment, in addition to his other labors, upwards of one hundred native Orphan Children under his care, who if the means of education be now extended to them, may become instrumental in spreading the knowledge of salvation throughout that vast and benighted Empire.

Lady Rookwood, the wife of the late Lord of the Castle, Miss SHAW.
Mrs. Mowbray, mother of Eleanor, Mrs. SLATER.
Gipsies, Gipsy Children, &c.

Synopsis of Scenery, Incidents, &c.

ACT I.

SCENE 1. The exterior of ROOKWOOD CASTLE by Moonlight. The Game is spoiled this time—Jerry Juniper in a dilemma—"The Hawks are upon us, and we must mess"—interruption—"Invitation to the Vault of the Dead—"Can't I do the thing!"

SCENE 2. THE VAULT OF THE DEAD, and the last Home of the Rookwoods." The midnight meeting—the Sexton's instructions to his Grandson—the Thunderbolt—the Human Arm and Discovery.

SCENE 3. A LANDSCAPE. The rescued females—Sybil, the flower of the valley—"The moss-clad rock is our throne, our sceptre a limb of the tall oak, our bed the green sward of the valley, where the free winds of liberty sing us to our slumbers."

Scene 4. An apartment in Rookwood Castle.

Scene 5. A Chamber in Rookwood Castle. The Guilt of Lady Rookwood made manifest. The Secret Pannel. The Robbery.

Scene 6. BANQUETTING HALL. The Encounter of the two Brothers—the Struggle—the Skeleton Hand. Wedding Ring placed upon the breast of the body—"rest there forever." Palmer obtains possession of an important document—Luke's protection of a female—Jack Palmer proves to be the famed English Highwayman Dick Turpin—his good night to the party sent from a well-discharged pistol, and his escape upon BONNY BLACK BESS.

ACT II.

SCENE 1. The HOME of the GIPSIES. The Flower of the Valley on the Alpine Peak. The return of the Wandering tribe—Arrival of Luke and his grandsire—the blasted hopes of the Sybil, on hearing her lover's claims to the fatal house of Rookwood—Turpin gallops up the mountain, his attack upon the Travelling Coach—Encounter with the Postillion—the Hunter's Horn—the escape of Tom King and Turpin—the rescue of Eleanor Mowbray by Luke Bradley.

Scene 2. A LANDSCAPE. Jerry Juniper—nobody can sing a card better—nobody likes Brandy better, and nobody can sing a song better.

Scene 3. Ancient HALL in the PRIORY. The Gipsy Queen surrounded by her tribe—Sybil's Appeal—the Owl deserts its perch—a good omen.

"When the stray rook shall perch on the topmost bough,
There shall be screeching and screaming I trow,
Rat of right and of rule of the ancient nest,
The rook that with rook mates shall hold him possessed.

So runs the Prophecy—"Blood! Blood!! Blood!!!

Scene 4. A LANDSCAPE.

Scene 5. Exterior of a COUNTRY INN. Tom King and Dick Turpin are seized by the constable—King called on Turpin to fire—Turpin replied "if I do, I shall hit you." "Fire if you are my friend," said King—Turpin fired, but the ball took fatal effect in King's breast, Dick stood for a moment in grief, but self-preservation made him urge his Mare forward to elude his pursuers—is followed by Titus Tyrconnel and the rest—Soldiers appear. BLACK BESS, unimpeded in her course, dashes on undaunted by a volley musketry.

ACT III.

SCENE 1. A VILLAGE STREET. Bonny Blk. Bess continues her course—Turpin then struck into a by-lane, through Tottenham and Edmonton, and coming up to a man with a Donkey Cart, who not being able to get out of his way, stood in the middle of the road. An encouraging word made BONNY BLACK BESS clear the driver and cart.

Scene 3. HORNSEY TURNPIKE BY NIGHT. He now passed on to Hornsey and Duval Lanes, where a crowd attempting to intercept him, he presented a pistol in each hand, and bore down all before him. Old Horsey Toll Bar had then a 'chevaux de frieze' in the upper rail, and the toll man hearing the cries of STOP HIM! had shut the gate, but Dick patting his Mare's neck, BONNY BESS clears the Gate! Jerry Juniper appears as the Turnpike Woman, recognizes and exclaims "Good night Dick!"—"Good night Jerry—Keep the leaks in patter!" Jerry's great good fortune places him in possession of a Crown.

Scene 4. VAULTED CHAMBER in the Priory.

Scene 5. The VAULTED CHAPEL in St. Cyprian's Cell. The Altar—the Priest—the Wedding—the twice used Ring. Beware thy Bridal day—Confession of the murder of Susan Rookwood.

Scene 6. HALL in the Priory. The determination of Sybil to save Eleanor Mowbray from the sacrifice.

Scene 7. GONERBY HILL by Moonlight. The Highwayman. Turpin's attention was now drawn to a gibbet near to the road—he drew aside, to look and reflect a little. Pursuit continues. The whole neighborhood being alarmed by the cries, and by the tramp of horses, the men of Hornsey rushed into the road to seize the fugitive, "A Highwayman! a Highwayman!" cried the voices. Stop him! stop him!

Scene 8. DEATH OF BONNY BLACK BESS. Bess neighed feebly, reeled forward and fell—her heart had burst—Police and soldiers enter. "Ah! the Gipsy prophecy is fulfilled!" Death of TURPIN.

BILLIARD ESTABLISHMENT,

FOR SALE. The subscriber having determined to make a change in his present business, offers for sale his BILLIARD TABLE, with the Fixtures appertaining, together with the FURNITURE of the whole establishment. The Table is from the well known firm of Penn & Moore, New York, and considered one of the best of their manufacture. The Saloon is situated in Baltimore street, on the north side, No 94½, and has two entrances—one in Baltimore-st. adjoining the Lottery office, and the other in North-st. next door to the office of the Baltimore Patriot, and directly opposite the Franklin Bank. The Room is very airy and spacious and exceedingly well lighted, having 3 large windows fronting

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

☞The following from the Philadelphia Daily Chronicle though an acrostic, is certainly entitled to praise.

ACROSTIC.

Weep! weep! for the Chieftain has gone to his home,
Immortal!- the halo that burns o'er his tomb;
Lo! deep in the warm beating bosoms that glow,
Lives the Patriot's name, unsullied as snow,
In perils he shrunk not, but barred his bold breast,
As a rock that yet stands with its billow lashed crest,
'Mid the heaving of ocean, oh! fearless he stood,
High as that rock o'er the dark surging flood.
E'en the foes that assailed him will honor his name,
No son of the free would tarnish his fame.
Record it, ye lovers of freedom and truth,
Ye silver crowned fathers, and hope blooming youth.
Hushed is that voice in silence and night;
And quenched is that eye lately beaming and bright;
Rest, warrior, rest, for thy warfare is o'er,
Rest, statesman, rest, on freedom's own shore;
In the loud acclamations of earth thou did'st share;
So may the patriot band greet thee there.
On the plains that are fadeless, where discord & strife
Never darken or redden the pure streams of life.

A SUGGESTION. As frequent and lamentable accidents have happened of late to some of those attached to the fire department, while running to fires, and being run over by the engines, we would suggest the propriety of having some kind of a break or stop attached to the apparatus, so that the "tongue men," as they are called, might, by touching a certain spring or lever, check the progress of the engine instantly, on perceiving any one attached to it accidentally fall in its way.

We throw out the above hint for the consideration of machinists, hoping that they may be able to discover its practicability. It strikes us that some kind of a check or stop might be attached to fire engines as well rail road cars.

HONORS NEGLECTED. If the following from the Boston Transcript be true, we must only say we are truly sorry for it: "In this city we do not learn that any effective measures have been taken by our authorities to notice the melancholy event in a suitable manner. We understand that the inhabitants of several of the Wards are about to make arrangements for paying a proper respect to the memory of the deceased President, in the absence of the action of the city government in the case, they not having, we believe, so far noticed his death as to cause the bells to be tolled." Oh! Boston, is the heart of thy Mayor made of adamant?

WEALTH OF EUROPEAN SOVEREIGNS. The three wealthiest sovereigns in Europe are Louis Phillippe of France, the Elector of Hesse, and the old King of Holland. Louis Phillippe is the richest, though the Elector of Hesse is not far behind him. The latter derived his wealth from the sale of Hessian soldiers to England for her wars in America, Ireland, and on the continent. With part of the proceeds of this unhallowed traffic in the blood of his subjects the Elector built near Hesse a magnificent chateau, which is called by the people in the vicinity "the Castle of Blood." The personal property of the King of Holland, the least wealthy of the three, amounts to nearly fifty millions of dollars.

ROBBERY. A letter from Mr. Robert McCutcheon, of Pittsburg, says the Patriot, dated Chambersburg, 2 o'clock, Saturday morning, states that his trunk was cut from behind the stage and robbed of its contents, near Chambersburg on Friday night. Among other things taken, were two letters one from Poindexter, Rhey & Co., for James Beatty, and one for James Wilson, of Baltimore. Both letters contained Bank notes and drafts, therefore, the public is cautioned against receiving either that may be presented under suspicious circumstances. Other letters were in the trunk, but their contents are not known.

CONVICTION OF MURDER. The trial of Frederick Fritz, on an indictment charging him with the murder of Eleanor Davis, who resided on the bank of the Canal, in Frederick county, came on before the Carroll County Court, whence it had been removed on Wednesday last. After hearing the testimony in the case and the arguments of counsel, the jury retired, and after an absence of about an hour, returned into Court with a verdict of "guilty of murder in the first degree."

GLOWING DESCRIPTION. The N. York Trumpet speaks of women as the most glorious work of the Almighty, and next to him the proper object of love and worship. With a form of beauty and a heart of tenderness; an eye of light and bosom of rapture; blushing cheeks and rosy lips; winning smile and voice of melody; the model of perfection, the pure embodiment of ideal beauty.

SHIPWRECK. A large British Indiaman, called the Heroine, from China, for London, was totally lost on the 14th ult. near Cape Spartel. Out of sixty persons on board, about thirty-four are believed to have perished, principally Lascars.—The vessel was a total wreck.

The Cincinnati papers announce the death, on the 1st instant, of BENJAMIN DRAKE, Esq., of that city, formerly editor of the Cincinnati Chronicle, and author of the "Life of Black Hawk," and other publications.

☞A public meeting of the citizens of Frederick, Md., without distinction of party, has been called for the 17th inst., to adopt measures of respect to the memory of the lamented Harrison.

Hon. LEVI WOODBURY, late Secretary of the Treasury, arrived in Boston on the 9th inst. and took lodgings at the Tremont House. He left the following day for Portsmouth.

ONTARIO LAKE OPEN. The Rochester Democrat of the 3d inst. says, that two schooners from Canada arrived at that port the previous week.—The same paper of the 6th, mentions the arrival of the steamboat Gore, Captain Carr, from Toronto.

C. C. JAFFRAY, Esq. has been appointed Assistant Cashier in the Bank of Baltimore.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.
DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND

For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Strictures, Diabetes or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, cure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP of WILD CHERRY.

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

MR. BIDDLE'S LETTER—U. S. BANK.

We copy from the Philadelphia National Gazette of Saturday, the following letter from Nicholas Biddle, Esq., to the Hon. John M. Clayton, in reference to a matter mentioned in the recent report of the Committee of Investigation:

ANDALUSIA, Bucks County, April 8, 1841.

Hon. John M. Clayton, Dover, Delaware:

My Dear Sir: During your late visit to Philadelphia, you were good enough to express your opinion of the peculiar hardship of my position in respect to the late meeting of the Stockholders of the Bank of the United States. For sixteen years I had been the President of that institution, which up to the hour I left it enjoyed a long career of prosperity. Two years afterwards it fell into great trouble, and it seems to be the desire of those now connected with it to ascribe all its misfortunes, including the fatal resumption a few weeks ago, entirely to my administration. Had this been done in a fair and open and manly way, no one would have been more ready than myself to meet that question. But instead of this, what was the course pursued? A committee of stockholders has been for three months at work with all the books and papers of the Bank under their control, raking up every thing which by distortion may injure my administration, or revenge their own personal griefs, or pander to the morbid appetite which prevails abroad about banks and those connected with them. From all communication with that inquisitorial body I was studiously excluded; and I understand that a proposal to invite my attendance or to apprise me of what they were doing, was rejected. They ended at last by reporting exparte and partial statements in regard to myself, and, as you saw at the meeting no opportunity was given to let the accused be heard before he was condemned, and the report is widely circulated with an air of official authority in distant places, where no explanation of mine can ever follow it.

Now all this seems to me a signal act of injustice. I know that misfortune has a right to be querulous: but this summary condemnation without a chance of explanation, or defence, a privilege never denied to the humblest criminal, cannot fail to be regretted even by those who have joined in it when the passions of the moment shall subside. I deeply regret it—less on my own account, however, than because I think such an act of injustice inflicts a severe injury on the Bank itself—I regret it still more because although separated from the Bank, I felt a sincere interest in its fate and had prepared with great industry what I deemed the means of reviving its prosperity, which I meant to subject to the stockholders.

All that, of course, is over now. But as I know you are desirous of ascertaining the truth, I shall proceed to explain to you as a personal friend several matters, very simple in themselves but which have been strangely misrepresented. For instance

You heard in the report a long and complicated story about cotton purchases, and it is so often said, that many begin to believe it—that the bank of the United States speculated largely in cotton, and lost a great deal of money by it. It seems unkind to disturb so established a fact—but the truth is, that during my connexion with the Bank, it never owned a bale of cotton—and will not I believe lose a dollar by any operation in Cotton, unless by great mismanagement hereafter. That whole matter has always been to me a source of so much pride, from its benefits to the Bank and to the country, that I take pleasure in stating the real history of it.

In the year 1837, the Bank went to the relief of the city of New York, by issuing its bonds payable in London. The question was how to provide the means of paying those bonds. Hitherto the only mode of doing it was by the purchase of bills drawn at the South on shipments of produce—but the difficulty now was that in the general prostration of credit at the South, there was great danger in taking private bills drawn there—while many of the Liverpool Houses on whom these bills were usually drawn were themselves embarrassed. It occurred to me, therefore, that the only mode of avoiding these dangers was to purchase no bills at all except founded on direct shipments of produce under the control of the Bank. I accordingly urged the mercantile part of the Directors to engage in that operation, but finding none of them disposed to large operations, I determined that as it must be done I would do it myself. I accordingly requested Messrs. Bevan and Humphreys to carry out the plan, which was simply to let their Agents at the South draw on them domestic bills, for which they would receive the notes of the Bank, purchase the produce and send it to France and England: then as their domestic bills came to maturity in Philadelphia, to pay the Bank, by sterling bills on the Houses in England and France, to whom produce was sent, and by whom it was sold.—This was the whole operation, which lasted from the summer of 1837 to the fall of 1839. It was undertaken without the least idea of any pecuniary advantage, and the only understanding on that subject was a mere verbal assurance from me—that after repaying those advances to the Bank there should be any excess, as the Bank could not by its charter buy this produce, or of course take any profits arising from it, such excess should be given to those who encountered the trouble and the responsibility. Nor was there the slightest desire to conceal it. On the contrary all the correspondence and entries I believe passed through the Bank—it was announced over and over again in publications known to come from the Bank—and it was particularly described in a published letter of mine to Mr. Adams on the 10th of December, 1838, of which the following is an extract:

"In like manner the derangement of the currency placed the staples of the South entirely at the mercy of the foreign purchaser, who could have dictated the terms of sale to the prostrated planter. It was thought proper to avert that evil by employing a large portion of the capital of the Bank in making advances on Southern produce. This had two effects: The first was to provide remittances to pay its own bonds in England issued to New York merchants in their extreme distress, for as the Bank could not purchase these staples it made advances upon them in the South, receiving in exchange bills on Europe—the second was to introduce into the market a new competition and thus prevent the unconditional subjection of the planter to the foreign purchaser. These advances were made not as in past years on the mere personal security of the merchants, which the confusion of all private credit would have rendered too hazardous—but on the actual shipment of the produce to an American house in England willing and able to protect American property from the reckless waste with which it has been often thrown into the market with an entire disregard of all American interests. The combination of these causes—the application of capital on this side, and the prudent reserve on the other—has saved to the planting interest an amount which it is difficult to estimate below ten or fifteen millions of dollars. I believe too, that nearly one-half of the commercial debt of this country to Europe has been paid by the mere difference between the actual sales of the securities and staples, and the price they would have realized had they been thrown unprotected into the hands of Europeans. These measures were essentially of a temporary nature—they were measures of emergency, adopted in the midst of a public calamity and to be discontinued with the necessity which caused them. As soon, therefore, as the capital and industry of the country had time to subside into their accustomed channels, these operations were relinquished, and now they have totally and finally ceased."

In the meantime the benefit was very great alike to the Bank and to the country. To the Bank, because it got the advantage of a large circulation of its notes—it got the premium of its drafts from the South—it got the funds in Europe without the least risk, and a large collection of its Southern debts. What is more important still, the possession of these funds abroad was the means of protecting and saving the agent of the Bank, and, of course, the Bank itself, from prostration. Of this the most decisive evidence is a declaration made by the President of the Bank himself, in a letter to Messrs. Bevan & Humphreys, of the 5th Feb. 1840, in which he says: "The state of the debt due by the Bank to the Messrs. Humphreys & Biddle of Liverpool, has been for some time the subject of great anxiety. These gentlemen have, with a zeal in favor of the Bank, for which our thanks are particularly due, sustained Mr. Jaudon in many periods of his late struggles with the aid not merely of their funds, but with all they could raise on their credit, and have enabled him to meet his payments, when, but for their assistance, he would not have been able to extricate himself."

Finally the operation was of great use not merely to the Bank but to the whole country.—The total prostration of all means and all credit in the South at the time placed the whole crops at the mercy of the foreign purchaser. The purchases made to provide bills for the Bank obliged these foreign purchasers to give something more like the real value to Southern produce—it made an actual difference in favor of the Southern states of at least twenty or twenty-five millions—which gave them facilities in the discharge of their debts to the Northern states as well to the Bank itself.

While these operations were in progress, I left the Bank—about two years ago—and the whole matter was of course to await the extent of these sales—to be treated as a mere ordinary mercantile transaction, which it in fact was. After I had left the Bank, a statement was presented to me by Mr. Cabot, of the house of Messrs. Bevan & Humphreys, who was then a Director of the Bank, and did this whole business as the intermediary between the Bank and his house.—His statement was as follows:

Sales advised in Liverpool,
33,000 bales at say	3s.	35,000
5,860 "	8	16,000
19,000 "	10	75,000
6,000 "	12	30,000
9,000 "	15	54,000
18,500 "	20	165,000
91,000
Estimating exchange at 10%,		375,000
Profit on 91,000 bales sold in Liverpool,		360,000
Do. 45,000 do. on hand,		450,000
Sales in France and Holland (100,000 francs,)		50,000
6,000 bales on hand in France,		80,000
45,000 " new crop,		600,000
		1,400,000
Deduct for interest over estimate, &c.		200,000
Estimating French exchange at 5.25,		1,200,000

From this account it appeared that the profits realized, and confidently expected amounted to $1,400,000, and that after paying $800,000 and reimbursing all the advances to the Bank, there would still remain a sum of $600,000 in the Bank, to be enjoyed by the Bank in any way permitted by the charter. And now what possible disposition could be made of this excess? If there had been no profit at all, I should have been content, for profit was no object in the operation. But if there was a profit, whether of five dollars or five millions of dollars, the Bank could take no part of it, for having no right to purchase the produce itself, to take the least portion of gain upon it would involve an ownership which was forbidden by the charter, and all that the Bank could do was to receive back its principle and interest and exchange with the collateral benefits of the operation. I had never known any thing whatever of the accounts or details and being wholly unconnected either officially or individually with the Bank, when I received this statement I presumed that the result of the matter was correctly stated, and it was so settled accordingly, leaving the margin of 600,000 dollars to provide against all possible contingency.

Eighteen months after I had left the Bank, however, I received a letter from the Cashier, stating that on winding up this concern, it was found that there was an over advance of $631,390 97, and that the portion which it belonged to me to return, was $315,695 44. This, of course, was a fair charge, and intending to be wholly responsible, and that the Bank should be exempt from loss, I should have paid it at once, but for this consideration. I found upon examining the case, that this loss was in fact occasioned by the sacrifice of this property, in order to sustain the Bank in Europe from embarresements brought on wholly by the Bank itself: and it became a question, how far, looking at it, as a simple commercial operation, the only possible light in which it could be regarded, I a stranger, no longer connected with the Bank, ought to bear the burden of this sacrifice. The nature and the cause of it were soon discovered. It was thus:

Messrs. Humphreys & Biddle, of Liverpool, on the first of June, 1840, addressed a private and confidential letter to Messrs. Bevan & Humphreys, in which they reply to an enquiry by the latter as to their reasons for paying over so much money to Mr. Jaudon, that it was impossible for them to resist the repeated and anxious requests of Mr. Jaudon for assistance.—Thus they say that their advances to Mr. Jaudon were at one time as high as 260,000*l* besides being parties to bills on London houses which were then running for 226,000*l*. They then quote from Mr. Jaudon's letter to them extracts like these. On the 22d of August, 1839, he writes as follows.

"I must look to you for 50,000*l* to make up the sum. If I do not get this, I get none; for all are contingent on my making up my estimates, every thing therefore turns upon what you can do—for here I am exhausted. You must therefore work your hardest for me—life or death to the Bank of the United States is the issue. If 5000 bales of cotton must go, let them go, be the loss what it may—it cannot be so great as the loss from a protest, and must be borne by owners or Bank as they may settle the matter between them.—I leave all to you, knowing that you will leave nothing untried that may save me—the sale of 5000 bales would do the business, and there can be no doubt as to the choice of this evil rather than the other."

And on the 23d he says further:

"I wrote you yesterday stating the absolute necessity of my relying upon you for 50,000*l*. to help out my list without which the whole must fall through, the large sale of cotton will help to provide this I hope. I now want your further aid for another 50,000*l*. in bills on Hueth & Co."

They conclude these extracts by saying:—"In this dilemma we had no alternative but to make your cotton available for the desperate emergency,"—and again "We have deemed it necessary to make this full and unreserved communication by which you will see that free sales of the cotton shipped by you were absolutely necessary to refund the immense sums of money we had borrowed from bankers and brokers for the use of Mr. Jaudon."

So manifestly wrong was it to throw upon them the loss upon this Cotton, that the President of the Bank himself, in a letter to Messrs. Bevan and Humphreys, of the 5th of February, 1840, actually assumed this loss. His letter was as follows:—

BANK OF THE UNITED STATES, February 5, 1840.

Messrs. Bevan and Humphreys, Philadelphia:

Gentlemen,—The state of the debt due by the Bank to Messrs. Humphreys and Biddle, of Liverpool, has been for some time the subject of great solicitude. These gentlemen have with a zeal in favor of the Bank for which our thanks are particularly due, sustained Mr. Jaudon in many periods of his struggles, with the aid not merely of their funds, but with all they would raise on their credit, and have enabled him to meet his payments when, but for their assistance, he would not have been able to extricate himself. We now learn by the last advices that their own credit will suffer unless they are relieved from their heavy responsibilities on his account. We are therefore extremely anxious to pay them—but in the present state of the Bank it is impracticable to do it by direct remittances. We understand, however, that they have still on hand a quantity of merchandize shipped by you, some of which they have already been obliged to sell to meet their most pressing engagements on account of Mr. Jaudon. As the only remaining method of acquitting the debt due to them, I have to request that you will direct them to raise funds by the sale of any or all the merchandize consigned by you to them, and if this sale should be attended by any sacrifice on its cost, we will make up the difference, and that the same difference will be made up on what they have already sold. Having no other method of paying a debt of so sacred a character, we must submit to any merely pecuniary loss it must occasion.

With great respect, yours,
T. DUNLAP, President.

Here then was the positive evidence—first that this loss was incurred by sacrifices for the benefit of the Bank, and second, that the loss was recognised and assumed by the Bank.

Fearful that my own judgment might mislead me I determined to consult some eminent gentleman, out of Philadelphia, who would look at the matter with candor and impartiality, and I therefore submitted the whole case to Chancellor Kent. That gentleman's answer was as follows:

NEW YORK, Sept. 17, 1840.

Nicholas Biddle, Esq.:

Dear Sir,—I have carefully perused the papers you sent me yesterday, containing the draft of your letter to the President and Directos of the Bank of the United States, and a copy of Mr. Dunlap's letter to Messrs. Bevan and Humphreys, of the 5th of February, 1840.

I am of opinion and most decidedly, that you are founded in law and equity in your claim to have deducted from the account, the difference between the cost of the cotton sold at Liverpool Liverpool by Messrs. Humphreys and Biddle to repay ther advances to Mr. Jaudon and the proceeds of the sales. The letter of Mr. Dunlap, as President of the Bank, directing the sale at all events and at any sacrifice to save Mr. Jaudon, and exempt the Bank from discredit—and stating that the Bank would make up the difference if there was any sacrifice on the cost, and that the assurance should apply to the merchandize already sold as well as that to be sold, puts an end in my judgment to all doubt and difficulty as to the question of the responsibility of the Bank, and of your claim to indemnify against the sacrifice. The letter with its assurances is retrospective as well as prospective, founded on the equitable consideration and justice of the case, that sacrifices made at the pressing solicitations of Mr. Jaudon, as the Agent of the Bank to relieve it, ought to be borne by it.

I am, dear sir,
Yours very respectfully,
JAMES KENT.

It was then manifest to me that my property had been sacrificed to the necessities of the Bank—brought on by the conduct of the Bank after I left it—brought on by the efforts to break down the Bank of New York,—the real cause of all the disasters of the Bank of the United States,—which now called upon me to repair the injuries its own conduct had inflictrd. To these persons I denied all right to make any such call. I would not consent that I should be made to suffer from their mismanagement. At the same time, I desired to avoid all controversy especially with the Bank.

With these impressions I put the whole matter into the hands of a friend, second to none in this city for intelligence and character, and requested him to settle it in any manner which he might deem just and proper.

He has authorized me to make the following statement:

"I began by informing the Committee that you believed your property had been sacrificed by the Bank to meet it necessities, and that you would not consent to any loss growing out of that transaction. I had several interviews with the Committee—they ended by the gentlemen composing it expressing a wish that the matter in dispute should be amicably closed. To this I answered that under all the circumstances you did not recognize the claim to anything, and that you would pay it merely from an unwillingness to have a controversy with the Bank. Among the securities mentioned on the occasion were some sterling bonds of Texas payable in London, and as the Committee were strongly impressed with the belief, in which Mr. Jaudon then recently from London concurred, that these bonds would by the expected success of the Texan loan be forthwith paid in London, and be equal to cash there—they preferred these to the other securities, and they were accordingly given.

"In a subsequent interview, after discussing various kinds of securities, the Committee asked whether you could not furnish the whole amount or the balance in the same Texas securities.—This, after consultation with you, was agreed to, and the arrangement was so concluded. The principal points of it were:

"1st. That it was maintained by you that the Bank had no claim upon you.

"2d. That the payment was yielded to by you for the sake of peace.

"3d. That these particular securities were selected by the Committee themselves."

Accordingly the dificiency was provided for in that way—the other parties settled for their respective shares, and thus the whole over advance was refunded by giving securities which may be more or less easily convertible, but which cannot fail, I should think, to replace the whole of the over advance. As to the securities—those of Texas—they are at this moment worth far more than the stock of the Bank itself, and it happens, opportunely enough, that I have this very day heard from Europe of the success of the Texan loan which secures the payment of these bonds as Mr. Jaudon anticipated.

Now this payment of mine was wholly gratuitous. I would not pay until I had ascertained and asserted my rights—and having done that I voluntarily yielded them. The Committee said that they wished it settled amicably. Undoubtedly they did—for they knew that unless I chose to pay they could never receive a dollar. I actually paid these 320,000 dollars, which I was not under the slightest obligation to pay,—which Chancellor Kent declared neither law nor equity made it necessary to pay,—and in doing it, I thought I was giving a strong proof how far ancient and kindly recollections of the Bank prevailed over all selfish considerations. Perhaps I should have been wiser—certainly I should have been richer—had I abstained from a generosity which has been so ill requited.

Such is the history of this cotton operation. It consisted merely in this—that the bank, accustomed to buy bills of exchange on private credit, resolved for greater precaution when private credit was very unsafe, to buy only from a known party on real shipments of produce. This lasted about twelve months, and when it is over, it being found that the bank had advanced for these cottons more than they realized, in consequence of the conduct of the Bank itself, the parties interested refunded the money. Yet this transaction, simple, straightforward and public, is perverted into a mysterious and ruinous speculation.

To-morrow I will explain to you another matter and in the meantime remain with great respect and esteem. N. BIDDLE.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT.

OFFICERS OF THE CUSTOMS.

COLLECTORS. James Perrine, Mobile, Alabama, in the place of John B. Hogan.

Edward Brooks, Detroit, Michigan, in the place of John McDonell.

Jonathan Roberts, Philadelphia, vice Calvin Blythe.

SURVEYOR. J. Washington Tyson, Philadelphia, in the place of George W. Riter.

NAVAL OFFICER. Belt Badger, Philadelphia, in the place of John Horn.

MAD. CELESTE A WRITER. The Yew York Herald says, "we have seen a letter from Madame Celeste, in which she states that she is finishing a book of travels or American customs, in French, to be entitled Souvinirs de l' Amerique, in which she gives several graphic sketches of society and manners in the United States. Many conspicuous characters are introduced, and some smartness and talent displayed."

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	6 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fred'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'sburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads, Weather, and Steamers must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of
STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office,

THE MARYLAND ARCADE
Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS!

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hat: Splendid Russia Hats at $3.50; fine Short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3.00; Cipt Nutre Hats $4; Chipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be ironed over and put in shape free of charge.
fe4-3m* FOLYDORE E. RILEY.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2 50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 14, 1841.

TO CORRESPONDENTS. We yesterday declined publishing the communication of "Washington," which was upon the same subject as that commented on by "A Member," who has since favored us with his remarks. We think that it would be injudicious to bring the matter spoken of before the public—and it is possible that both our correspondents may have misapprehended the tenor of the observations to which exception is taken. The publication of either communication would probably lead to a controversy, which we desire to avoid, for reasons which will readily suggest themselves to our correspondents.

MR. BIDDLE'S LETTER. Justice demands that we should publish the letter of Mr. Biddle, explanatory of certain transactions with the Bank of the United States, which were the subject of comment in the report recently submitted by the committee of stockholders. This report was calculated to convey the idea that Mr. Biddle had acted dishonorably in the discharge of his obligations to the Bank, and of course to do him serious injury. As we published so much of the report as implicated Mr. Biddle, we cannot do less than to lay his letter of explanation also before our readers, and to ask that it may be attentively read. It will be found on the first page of to-day's paper.

The second letter of Mr. Biddle will be published to-morrow.

CORRECTION. We are reproved by a correspondent in York, (Pa.) for an inadvertent error committed in our paper a few days since. We certainly did not mean to disparage the ancient borough of York, or to offend any of its inhabitants, by prefixing an adjective to the name of their town. We take the reproof of "Marcus" in good part, and shall be cautious not again to use a little word to which so much importance may be attached.

THE PROCESSION. Although, from peculiar causes, the citizens of Baltimore have been rather more tardy than those of other cities in a public manifestation of their feelings on the recent melancholy event, yet we have no doubt that the approaching poocession will prove that those feelings are as intense and general, as in any city of the Union. The procession does not originate in the desire for idle exhibition—for the purpose of display or "pageantry"—nor do we believe that the heart of any one who will participate in the solemnities of the day, will have the least disposition for "frolic." No.—We anticipate nothing of this character. On the contrary, we presume that all the ceremonies will be of a serious cast, such as will be suitable to the lamentable event which they are to commemorate. The procession will probably be as large as any ever witnessed in our city—and will unite all parties as mourners for the dispensation which has deprived the country of a brave, wise and good ruler; and his family of a tender, humane and affectionate protector.

FAMILY OF THE LATE PRESIDENT. We have seen suggestions in various papers, that Congress should make a liberal appropriation to the family of the late President. We presume that no man would deem it just to confine the family to the receipt of the salary for the month which the President was in office. This would be inconsistent with justice to say nothing of liberality. We have not the least doubt that Congress will do what is right in the premises—and that our country will not be subjected to the reproach of having acted parsimoniously towards the widow and relatives of the lamented Harrison. We think that the people, who deeply sympathize with them in their bereavement, would gladly see their representatives act in this matter with a spirit of becoming liberality.

UNITED FIRE COMPANY'S BALL. To all whom it may concern, we announce that the United Fire Company's Ball will take place to-night at the Assembly Rooms. It, we are persuaded, will be a very fine affair. We shall do ourself the honor of being present, some part of the time at least. There will be, we understand, an abundant turn out of pretty ladies.

THIS EVENING. The committee of two gentlemen from each ward, appointed to carry out the views of the town meeting on Monday last, will meet this evening, at 7 o'clock, at Military Hall, Gay street.

CROSS-CUT CANAL. A Pittsburg paper says that great preparations are being made for an early and active business from Pittsburg, all along the canal to Cleveland and on Lake Erie to Detroit, and all the intermediate ports.

A FIRE occurred at Huron, which destroyed the office of Mr. Gray, of the Huron Commercial Advertiser. A portion of the printing materials saved. This is the second misfortune of the kind that has befallen his establishment at Huron.

ARREST. Augustus Brown, one of the persons who made his escape from jail last Sunday, was arrested yesterday at Havre de Grace, and brought back to this city and remanded to prison. Cordery has not yet been taken.

☞ J. B. Morris, Esq. has resigned the Presidency of the Branch Bank of Mobile and Edmund Harrison has been appointed in his stead.

CITY DEATHS. The number of interments in Philadelphia last week, was 119, of whom 37 were under two years of age.

PRESIDENTIAL RECOMMENDATION. It gives us great pleasure to publish the recommendation of President Tyler, that the fourteenth day of May next be observed as a day of Fasting and Prayer, for the affliction which the country has suffered from the death of General Harrison. It is incumbent upon a Christian people to have set days for humiliation and thanksgiving; and the recent bereavement offers an appropriate occasion for humbling ourselves before the Throne of Grace. In the death of General Harrison the country has undoubtedly sustained a great loss.—Not only was he the hero and the statesman, but what constituted the most estimable part of his character, he was a Christian. It is therefore highly commendable in his successor, to recommend that the people of the United States observe a particular day by such religious services as may be suitable to the occasion; and we have no doubt that the day named will be devoted to the purposes recommended.

OFFICIAL.

To the People of the United States:

A RECOMMENDATION. When a Christian People feel themselves to be overtaken by a great public calamity, it becomes them to humble themselves under the dispensation of Divine Providence, to recognise His righteous government over the children of men, to acknowledge His goodness in time past, as well as their own unworthiness, and to supplicate His merciful protection for the future.

The death of WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, late President of the United States, so soon after his elevation to that high office, is a bereavement peculiarly calculated to be regarded as a heavy affliction, and to impress all minds with a sense of the uncertainty of human things, and of the dependence of Nations, as well as of individuals, upon our Heavenly Parent.

I have thought, therefore, that I should be acting in conformity with the general expectation and feelings of the community in recommending, as I now do, to the People of the United States, of every religious denomination, that, according to their several modes and forms of worship, they observe a day of Fasting and Prayer, by such religious services as may be suitable on the occasion; and I recommend Friday, the fourteenth day of May next, for that purpose; to the end that, on that day, we may all, with one accord, join in humble and reverential approach to HIM, in whose hands we are, invoking him to inspire us with a proper spirit and temper of heart and mind under these frowns of His Providence, and still to bestow His gracious benedictions upon our Government and our country.

JOHN TYLER.

WASHINGTON, April 13, 1841.

A SUGGESTION. In the Courier des Etats-Unis, we observe an article, on the McLeod affair, copied from an English journal called the Argus, which, after the grossest abuse of our government, courts of justice and the grand jury which found a true bill against McLeod, concludes by suggesting that, if McLeod be executed, the American Minister, Mr. Stevenson, should be hung in satisfaction by the people of London.—The writer remarks that Mr. Stevenson has a neck which a cord would remarkably embellish, and a countenance which would look more agreeable in a night cap. And he thinks that our Ambassador would have no cause to complain at such treatment. Were it not for the harsh epithets which are profusely applied to the institutions and people of the United States, we should be disposed to view the whole article as a piece of pleasantry, designed to reprove the excitement which the case of McLeod has given rise to.—We know nothing of the personal appearance of Mr. Stevenson, but think that he will not be likely to agree with the English writer, that the length of his neck or the shape of his face, shall constitute just grounds for applying a halter to the former or a cap to the latter.

SINGULAR COINCIDENCE. It is remarkable that Mr. Tyler, who now becomes President of the United States, should for the third time step into a high public trust by the death of the incumbent. He was made Governor of Virginia by the death of the Governor, he being Senior Councillor—he was made a Senator by the death of one before his time expired—and now he becomes President by the death of the only man under whom he could ever have been elected a Vice President.

ROOKWOOD. We had the pleasure of witnessing the performance of this novel and beautiful equestrian drama on Monday night last, at the Front Street Theatre. Our mind, previous to going, was prepared for something good and thrilling; we can say that the piece fully met our most sanguine expectations. There were, to be sure, some few drags, which are always to be looked for upon the opening of so intricate and complicated a piece as Rookwood, but these were excused, when the mind became absorbed in the bold and daring adventures of Dick Turpin, with his "Bonny Black Bess." The performances of this animal are truly astonishing. Her ascent to the mountains holds the spectator in awe and astonishment—her descent is equally terrific.

The scenery, dresses, &c. of Rookwood are no only rich and beautiful, but the piece itself contains an admirably laid plot, which rivets the attention from the commencement to the close with the most intense anxiety. The final and fatal capture of the highwayman, in the last act, where his Bonny Black Bess is shot by the pursuers and feigns to die, is doubly thrilling. It is astonishing to perceive how perfectly this dumb animal is trained. Her dying scene is nature itself—the last agonies of death appear to be in her every movement. We have neither room nor time to attempt a full description of the above drama, but would advise the lovers of novelty to go and judge for themselves.

THE FUNERAL OBSEQUIES IN N. YORK. We extract the following account of the funeral procession which took place in New York on Saturday last, in honor to the memory of our late lamented President, from the Courier & Enquirer:

"The mournful ceremony took place in accordance throughout, with the arrangements before made by the committee of this city and Brooklyn. The pageant was more extensive and imposing than any before witnessed in this city or country.

"The number of individuals who composed the procession is variously estimated at from 20 to 30,000. Probably a medium number would come near the truth. The parade of Military was very large, and presented a splendid appearance. But for the inclement state of the weather, the procession, large as it was, would have been more than double in extent. The streets through which the procession passed, were filled with a dense mass of spectators.

"The city throughout presented one scene of sorrow and solemnity. There was an utter cessation of business. Stores, dwellings, and public buildings were closed, and the fronts generally shrouded in black. Flags were flying at half mast and dressed in mourning likewise. The procession begun to move about half past 1 o'clock up Chatham street from the Park. At about five o'clock, having passed over the prescribed line of march, the head of the column re-entered the Park by way of Broadway. In consequence of the cruel severity of the storm, the religious ceremonies and delivery of the oration, were deferred to another day. A requiem, written by Gen. Morris, was sung by the N. Y. Academy of Music and with this the crowd dispersed and returned to their homes. Not the slightest accident occurred throughout the day. All parties united on the occasion, and for the time all bitterness and acerbity of feeling was laid aside. The mourning was general, and the grief evinced in the features of all who witnessed or participated in the ceremonies was sincere, unfeigned. It was a universal expression of sorrow, as if every being present was a brother or a sister of the same family, and all lamenting the loss of a common Father."

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT. At a full and joint meeting of the Session and Trustees of the 4th Presbyterian Church, Washington, held on Monday, the 12th of April, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That while we, in common with the People of this country, mourn over the great and unexpected loss which our city and nation have sustained in the death of our late venerated President, General William Henry Harrison, we bow as Christians to the will of our Heavenly Father, saying "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord."

Resolved, That in this event we are taught to feel our dependence upon the God of Nations, and to seek more than ever his grace, and pray that the dispensation may be so sanctified that this great People shall learn righteousness.

Resolved, That we tender to the widow and family of our deceased Chief Magistrate our heartfelt sympathies, and pray that the consolations of our holy religion may sustain them in this their time of need.

Resolved, That, as a public expression of our feelings on this dispensation of Divine Providence, we will hang our Church edifice in mourning for the space of sixty days.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the National Intelligencer and Madisonian, and a copy sent to the family of our deceased President. JOHN C. SMITH, Moderator.

J. GIDEON, Clerk of Session.

FIRE IN SACO, MAINE. The Saco Democrat states that a barn attached to the house of Henry S. Thatcher, of Saco, was destroyed by fire on Sunday afternoon. Loss about $2000.

While the barn was burning, Capt. Christopher Howe, formerly of South Berwick, was standing by, and was observed to falter. Some gentlemen immediately assisted him. He revived a little, and then fell, a corpse! He was 69 years old.

FIRE. The fire on Monday night broke out in the turning shop of Mr. Charles Young, South-east corner of East and Eden streets. By the timely arrival of the firemen the flames were soon extinguished. The damage done to the building was covered by insurance. The stock of tools were a total loss. Supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

AN INCIDENT. In the course of a sermon delivered on Sunday last, in Philadelphia, by the Rev. Mr. Brainard, he stated that about two years ago, a friend of his, who was preaching in the broad valley of the West, requested those present who desired to receive the prayers of the congregation, to stand up. General William Henry Harrison, our late Chief Magistrate, was the first to respond to the call, and from that time commenced his religious Career.

☞ THE FRESHET. The damage sustained by the north branch extension of the Canal from Athens to Lackawana, Pennsylvania, a distance of ninety miles, will amount, it is said, to $20,000. The guard lock and bank of the Canal at Towonda, is also injured to the amount of $8000.

The British Queen took out President Tyler's Inaugural Address, as well as Mr. Biddle's first letter. She did not sail on Saturday, owing to the inclement weather, but left New York on Sunday at 10 o'clock, A. M.

MAINE BANKS. The Legislature of Maine have repealed the charters of the Citizens', Globe and Frankfort Banks, and the Governor and Council have appointed Receivers for said Banks.

FUNERAL HONORS DEFERRED. The funeral honors which were to have taken place in Philadelphia yesterday in memory of General Harrison, have been postponed until Tuesday, the 20th inst., owing to the inclemency of the weather.

RECOVERED. The body of Miss Elizabeth Knapp, who was drowned at the Hoboken Ferry on Friday, was recovered the same night.

DIED,

On the 11th inst., after a lingering illness of nearly three years, which she bore with Christian fortitude, MRS. MARY, consort of Capt. James Coffey, in the 49th year of her age. Her friends and acquaintance are respectfully invited to attend her funeral, from her late residence in Fountain Row, Spring-st. this morning, at half past 10 o'clock.

On the morning of the 12th instant, after a protracted illness, which she was enabled to bear with true Christian fortitude, MISS JANE EDWARDS, in the 20th year of her age—for whom death had no terrors. She departed this life in joyful anticipation of a glorious immortality.

Her funeral will take place from the residence of Joseph Tucker, No. 20 Market Space, this afternoon, at 3 o'clock—her friends are respectfully invited to attend, without further invitation.

On Monday morning, 12th inst., after an illness of a few weeks, JOHN WESTWOOD, a soldier of the Revolution, in the 93d year of his age, and for more than half a century an esteemed citizen of Baltimore.

O. I. O. F.

☞ It having pleased an all-wise Providence, for the first time in the history of this nation, to visit the American People with a great National bereavement, in the death of General WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, late President of the United States, it becomes a great community, while they bow in Christian submission to the afflicting dispensation, to evidence their veneration for the many public and private virtues of the illustrious deceased, and their high regard for the exalted place which he was called to fill—therefore, be it unanimously

Resolved, by the Grand Lodge of Maryland of I. O. O. F. that in unison with the feelings of the people of the U. States at large, we mourn the death of the late Chief Magistrate as a great national bereavement.

Resolved, as a tribute of respect for the high character and distinguished public services of the deceased, and in commemoration of a calamity not the less sudden than national in its character, that this Grand Lodge Room, and the Lodge Room of each of her subordinates throughout the State of Maryland, be hung in mourning for the space of one year.

Resolved, That deeply sympathising with the afflicted widow and relatives of the deceased, at the irreparable loss which they have sustained, we unite our voice in the general wail of a great people at so mournful an event.

Resolved, That this G. Lodge unite with their fellow-citizens in the public manifestation of respect for the memory of the deceased, contemplated to take place on Monday, the 26th of April—and that the subordinate lodges and encampments in Maryland and the adjoining States are hereby respectfully invited to co-operate on the occasion.

Resolved, That the Grand Secretary be and he is hereby directed to transmit forthwith to each of the subordinates in our jurisdiction a copy of the aforegoing resolutions.

W. G. COOK,

BILLIARD ESTABLISHMENT,
FOR SALE. The subscriber having determined to make a change in his present business, offers for sale his BILLIARD TABLE, with the Fixtures appertaining, together with the FURNITURE of the whole establishment. The Table is from the well known firm of Penn & Moore, New York, and considered one of the best of their manufacture. The Saloon is situated in Baltimore street, on the north side, No. 94½, and has two entrances—one in Baltimore-st. adjoining the Lottery office, and the other in North-st. next door to the office of the Baltimore Patriot, and directly opposite the Franklin Bank. The Room is very airy and spacious and exceedingly well lighted, having 3 large windows fronting on Baltimore street, also well supplied in the rear. It has been fitted up in a handsome tasty manner, and is more advantageously located than any other in Baltimore, being situated in the most central and at the same time most lively and pleasant part of the city. The Furniture consists in part of Mahogany Tables; Cases; Sideboard; Venetian Blinds; Settees; Cane Seat Chairs, &c., with Mirrors, and about 50 Pictures, a portion of which are very fine Engravings. There is also a Bar well filled with Cut Glass, Decanters, Tumblers, Wine, Champaigne, and a variety of other glasses. Also, a small stock of the best LIQUORS, and a few dozen of very fine old Sherry WINE. This establishment is now doing a fair business, and a person who would devote his whole attention to it, would, in a short time, realize a handsome return for his labor. Possession given immediately. For terms, and further particulars, apply to the proprietor, on the premises.

PROCLAMATION.
WHEREAS, by an Act of Assembly of this State, passed at December session 1832, it is provided, "that if a special or extra session of Congress should be called to commence at such period as to make it necessary in the opinion of the Governor and council, that the representatives in Congress from this State should be chosen before the time fixed by law for such election, then it shall be the duty of the governor, by proclamation," to appoint a day for the election of said representatives in Congress: AND WHEREAS the President of the United States has, by his proclamation of the 17th instant, an official copy of which has been received, convened the two Houses of Congress to meet on the 31st day of May next, I do therefore appoint Monday, the 17th day of May next, as the day for the election of Representatives from this State to serve in the Congress of the United States.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, this twenty-sixth day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty-one.

Synopsis of Scenery, Incidents, &c.

ACT I.

SCENE 1. The exterior of ROOKWOOD CASTLE by Moonlight. The Game is spoiled this time—Jerry Juniper in a dilemma—"The Hawks are upon us, and we must mass"—interruption—Invitation to the Vault of the Dead—"Can't I do the thing?"

SCENE 2. THE VAULT OF THE DEAD, and the last Home of the Rookwoods." The midnight meeting—the Sexton's instructions to his Grandson—the Thunderbolt—the Human Arm and Discovery.

SCENE 3. A LANDSCAPE. The rescued females—Sybil, the flower of the valley—"The moss-clad rock is our throne, our sceptre a limb of the tall oak, our bed the green sward of the valley, where the free winds of liberty sing us to our slumbers."

Scene 4. An apartment in Rookwood Castle.

Scene 5. A Chamber in Rookwood Castle. The Guilt of Lady Rookwood made manifest. The Secret Pannel. The Robbery.

Scene 6. BANQUETTING HALL. The Encounter of the two Brothers—the Struggle—the Skeleton Hand. Wedding Ring placed upon the breast of the body—"rest there forever." Palmer obtains possession of an important document—Luke's protection of a female—Jack Palmer proves to be the famed English Highwayman Dick Turpin—his good night to the party sent from a well-discharged pistol, and his escape upon BONNY BLACK BESS.

ACT II.

SCENE 1. The HOME of the GIPSIES. The Flower of the Valley on the Alpine Peak. The return of the Wandering tribe—Arrival of Luke and his grandsire—the blasted hopes of the Sybil, on hearing her lover's claims to the fatal house of Rookwood—Turpin gallops up the mountain, his attack upon the Travelling Coach—Encounter with the Postillion—the Hunter's Horn—the escape of Tom King and Turpin—the rescue of Eleanor Mowbray by Luke Bradley.

Scene 2. A LANDSCAPE. Jerry Juniper—nobody can slip a card better—nobody likes Brandy better, and nobody can sing a song better.

Scene 3. Ancient BALL in the PRIORY. The Gipsy Queen surrounded by her tribe—Sybil's Appeal—the Owl deserts its perch—a good omen.

"When the stray rook sha l perch on the topmost bough,
There shall be screeching and screaming I trow,
But of right and of rule of the ancient nest,
The rook that with rook mates shall hold him possessed.
So runs the Prophecy—"Blood! Blood!! Blood!!!

Scene 4. A LANDSCAPE.

Scene 5. Exterior of a COUNTRY INN. Tom King and Dick Turpin are seized by the constable—King called on Turpin to fire—Turpin replied "if I do, I shall hit you." "Fire if you are my friend," said King—Turpin fired, but the ball took fatal effect in King's breast, Dick stood for a moment in grief, but self-preservation made him urge his Mare forward to elude his pursuers—is followed by Titus Tyrconnel and the rest—Soldiers appear. BLACK BESS, unimpeded in her course, dashes on undaunted by a volley musketry.

ACT III.

SCENE 1. A VILLAGE STREET. Bonny Blk. Bess continues her course—Turpin then struck into a bylane, through Tottenham and Edmonton, and coming up to a man with a Donkey Cart, who not being able to get out of his way, stood in the middle of the road. An encouraging word made BONNY BLACK BESS clear the driver and cart.

Scene 3. HORNSEY TURNPIKE BY NIGHT. He now passed on to Hornsey and Duval Lanes, where a crowd attempting to intercept him, he presented a pistol in each hand, and bore down all before him. Old Hornsey Toll Bar had then a 'chevaux de frieze' in the upper rail, and the toll man hearing the cries of STOP HIM! had shut the gate, but Dick patting his Mare's neck, BONNY BESS Clears the Gate! Jerry Juniper appears as the Turnpike Woman, recognizes and exclaims "Good-night Dick!"—"Good-night Jerry—' Keep the leaks in patter!" Jerry's great good fortune places him in possession of a Crown.

Scene 4. VAULTED CHAMBER in the Priory.

Scene 5. The VAULTED CHAPEL in St. Cyprian's Cell. The Altar—the Priest—the Wedding—the twice used Ring. Beware thy Bridal day—Confession of the murder of Susan Rookwood.

Scene 6. HALL in the Priory. The determination of Sybil to save Eleanor Mowbray from the sacrifice.

Scene 7. GONERBY HILL by Moonlight. The Highwayman. Turpin's attention was now drawn to a gibbet near to the road—he drew aside, to look and reflect a little. Pursuit continues. The whole neighborhood being alarmed by the cries, and by the tramp of horses, the men of Hornsey rushed into the road to seize the fugitive, "A Highwayman! a Highwayman!" cried the voices. Stop him! stop him!

Scene 8. DEATH OF BONNY BLACK BESS. Bess neighed feebly, reeled forward and fell—her heart had burst—Police and soldiers enter. "Ah! the Gipsy prophecy is fulfilled!" Death of TURPIN.

GRAND DENOUEMENT.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

BALTIMORE MARKET, }
April 13, 1841. }

Flour. We quote Howard-st. Flour at $4.62½ for good common brands. The wagon price continues at $4.50 and receipts small. Sales of City Mills have been made at $4.75, and of Susquehanna at $4.62½.

Grain. Sales of Maryland white Wheats were made at 105a112½ cts.. We quote reds at 95a100 cts. Some sales of Penna. Rye have been made at 52a54 cts. Md. yellow Corn we quote at 48a49 cts., and white do. 46a47. Oats are in good demand. We note sales of Md. at 31a32 cts., and of Va. at 28 cts. Cloverseed we quote at $4.25a$4.50 from stores, and Timothy Seed from $2.75 to $3.

Provisions. This market for the past week has been rather active, though with but little variation in prices. Baltimore Mess Pork continues at $12.50; No. 1 $10.50, and prime from 8 to $8.50. Sales of Western Bacon have taken place at 6a6½c. per lb.; Hams do. 8a9c.; Middlings 6½c. and Shoulders 6½c.; prime Balt. cured Hams we quote at 10c. and Sides do. 8½c. Western Lard, No. 1, 8c. for cash. There is hardly anything doing in Western Butter. Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in mixed lots have been sold at from 6 to 7c. In Glades there is nothing doing.

Cattle. Beef Cattle on the hoof we quote at $7.75a$8.25 per 100 lbs. Live Hogs are plenty, and will bring from $5.50 to $5.62½ per 100 lbs.

Whiskey. We quote hhds. at 20c. and bbls. 22c. The wagon price exclusive of the bbls. is 18c., which is a small reduction.

NEW COUNTERFEITS—Just issued. Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank, Philadelphia—10's spurious, altered from the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank, Burlington, N. J. Vignette, a female holding in one hand a sickle, leaning on a sheaf of wheat. Engraved by Burton & Gurley, N. Y. The words "State of Penn'a." at top, and "Philadelphia," in centre of the bill, much paler than any other part of the note. The signatures of the officers, W. Patton, Jr. Cash., J. Tagert' Pres't., are poorly done. The genuine notes of this Bank read thus: "The Farmers' and Mech's.' Bank promises to pay, &c."—the spurious bills read "The F. and M. Bk. will pay" &c.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE BANK, N. YORK.—10's letter B, pay to T. Jones, dated March 1, 1840, others pay R. Benson, January 1, 1840, signed W. M. Vunnher, Cash. (instead of W. M. Vermilye,) Peter Stagg, Pres't. Vignette—a steamboat, on the top of which are the words, city of New York; on the right end is the denomination of the note, and on the left margin locomotive, &c. Purport to be engraved by Rawdon, Wright, Hatch & Co., New York.—Paper dark—engraving poor and light.

☞When intelligence of the death of President Harrison reached Cincinnati, it produced a most profound sensation among the whole population. A great meeting of the citizens was held, at which, among other appropriate resolutions adopted, was one, resolving that on the following day all business should be suspended within the city, and that it should be set apart and observed, as a day consecrated to the remembrance of the lamented dead. The Mayor of the city accordingly issued his proclamation recommending such solemn observance of the day.

HARFORD COUNTY COURT, which was to have been held yesterday 13th inst., by Judges Magruder and Purviance, for the trial of the Canal cases, has been adjourned over until Wednesday, the 31st, when the special session for this purpose will take place. Baltimore County Court, now engaged in the trial of the business of the County, will still continue its session until both the criminal and civil business can be disposed of.—American.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 22 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING
THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 39 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparalleled, and successful manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral Incorruptible Teeth, and can confidently assert that they are superior to any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth FOREVER retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. Be it also remembered, that Dr. W. proportions his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when PURE GOLD is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dentistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.

1. Artificial Teeth out of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.

2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.

3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carrat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as CHEAP WORK is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even SILVER is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent use in the mouth.

4. Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

5. Those individuals who cannot afford to pay the fee of 50 cents for extraction, can have this important operation performed any morning WITHOUT CHARGE, by calling between the hours of 8 and 9 A. M.

Individuals requiring the assistance of a Dentist, may avail themselves of Dr. W's services at any hour of the day throughout the year, to suit their own convenience.

SALE OF VALUABLE PROPERTY.

UNDER an order of the Orphans' Court of Baltimore County, the subscribers, as administrators, will offer for sale at public auction on SATURDAY, 24th of April at 4 o'clock, P. M. on the premises part hereinafter described, the following property:

1. The Lot of Ground beginning at the North East corner of Howard and Saratoga streets, running thence Northerly on Howard street 40 feet 6 inches, thence Easterly 105 feet parallel to Saratoga street to an alley 12 feet wide; thence 40 feet 6 inches on said alley, to Saratoga street, and parallel to Howard street; thence westerly on Saratoga street to the beginning—subject to a yearly ground rent of $14 and 40 cents. This lot is improved with a large brick BUILDING used for stores and a dwelling. It may easily be divided into two dwellings—and now rents yearly for $432.

2. A ground rent of $147 per annum; charged on a piece of ground at the South West corner of Eutaw and Saratoga streets, subject to a prior rent of $30, making the nett ground rent $117. The piece of ground binds on Eutaw street 60 feet, and extends with that breadth westerly 140 feet—and is well improved. The rent of $147 is paid in the portions of $50, $17, $25, and $25, by the several owners of the improvements.

The terms of sale are, that one-fourth of the purchase money be paid on the day of sale, and the residue in three equal instalments in 6, 9, and 12 months with interest from said day—and all the payments to be secured by bonds or notes, with security, to be approved by the administrators.

MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences.

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

☞The above Medicine may always be had in Baltimore of RICHARD NORRIS of William, No. 254 Market street, who is the Sole Agent for this Medicine in that city. All orders coming to Philadelphia, must be directed to DR. SWAYNE,

BANK OF THE UNITED STATES.

Second Letter from Nicholas Biddle, Esq. to the Hon. John M. Clayton.

ANDALUSIA, Bucks County, April 9, 1841.

Hon. John M. Clayton, Dover, Delaware:

My Dear Sir:—You are aware that it is now two years since the state of my health compelled me to leave the service of the Bank. From that moment I have been wholly occupied with other matters, and have had not the slightest direction of its affairs, as both my inclination and my duty concurred in the propriety of leaving to those who had the responsibility, the entire control of its management. This total abstinence of mine does not seem to be understood or appreciated, for since the misfortunes of the Bank, I find myself reproached for things of which I knew nothing, and denounced as the cause of all the troubles which have befallen not only the Bank of the U. States but every man in the whole country. Being very indifferent to popular clamor, and never suffering myself to be influenced by it to do what I disapprove, I have contradicted nothing and explained nothing, because I could do neither without injury to the interests of the Bank; but its present prostration relieves me from that fastidiousness, for its pecuniary affairs will scarcely suffer from any explanation of mine. Accordingly I now feel at liberty to say and to prove to you that when I left the institution, two years ago, it was in a safe and prosperous situation, and that whatever misfortunes have since come upon it, my administration can in no wise be charged with them.

To this I now proceed.

For thirteen years, from 1823 to 1836, I was President of the Bank of the United States. The great object of my labors was to secure to the whole country the blessings of a sound and uniform currency, and now that the subbject is historical, I think I may venture to say that the currency and the exchanges of the United States attained a degree of perfection scarcely known elsewhere. It was of that system the Committee of Ways and Means of the House of Representatives of the United States said in 1830: "It may be confidently asserted that no country in the world has a circulating medium of greater uniformity than the United States." And again, "It gives to the national currency that perfect uniformity, that ideal perfection to which a currency of gold and silver in so extensive a country could have no pretensions."

It was of that system that the Committee of Finance of the Senate of the United States said,

"That the United States are in the enjoyment of a uniform national currency not only sound and uniform in itself and perfectly adapted to all the purposes of the Government and the community, but more sound and uniform than that possessed by any other country. It is not easy to imagine, it is scarcely necessary to desire any currency better than this."

The Bank closed its affairs in 1836—when a Board of Valuation of the Stock was formed, composed of a committee of the late Bank of the United States, consisting of Caleb Cope, Robert Ralston, Jr., and John Bohlen, and

A Committee of the present Bank of the United States, consisting of Ambrose White, Matthew Newkirk, and Richard Price;

Who called to their aid three disinterested citizens, John Mose, Benj. W. Richards, and Robert Toland.

This Committee in its negotiation with the Commissioners of the Government began by offering for every share of $100 the sum of $111 47. The Commissioners declared that "they estimated the stock to be worth $115 69 per share, cash valuation;" adding that this was considerably below their former estimates, and positively the lowest point at which they would fix the valuation." Finally, the Bank agreed to pay $115 58 per share. This was done by a Board of Directors, consisting of

Joshua Lippincott,	Caleb Cope,
Manuel Eyre,	John Bohlen,
John R. Neff,	Thomas Dunlap,
William Platt,	J. J. Vanderkemp,
Ambrose White,	May Humphreys,
Matthew Newkirk,	Cheyney Hickman,
Richard Price.

Thus far, at least, every thing was safe and prosperous.

The Bank then became merely a state institution—and although it had to encounter the hostility of the dominant party of the United States, and the violence of local and rival opposition, still it was able to maintain itself against all these obstacles, with unimpaired resources and credit. This will be obvious by examining the statement of its affairs, prepared about the time I left the Bank, as it is reported by this Committee.

Discarding an array of figures which would not be intelligible, that statement shows clearly these results:

Its whole liabilities were on the 1st of April, 1839—

For Circulation,	$11,571,124
Deposits,	4,473,595
All other debts,	19,376,892
	$35,421,611

Its means were—

Discounts,	$29,854,004
Stocks and due by the state,	18,358,705
Real Estate and Mortgages,	1,718,435
State Bank Notes and Debts,	8,748,084
M. King and the United States,	45,412
Specie,	3,069,580
Resulting balances,—say due by Agencies,	3,047,345
	$74,841,566

being more than two dollars for one of its liabilities. Comparing this with the last statement of the Bank of England which I have seen, that of the 1st Feb. 1841, it is to the advantage of the United States.

Thus the Bank of England had—

Circulation,	16,230,000	Securities,	22,595,000
Deposits,	7,365,000	Bullion,	3,816,000
	23,595,000		26,411,000

While the Bank of the United States, throwing out to make the comparison accurate, the debts on one side, and an equal amount of securities on the other, would present these points:

Circulation,	11,571,124	Securities,	52,395,166
Deposits,	4,473,596	Bullion,	3,069,508
	16,044,710		55,464,674

If the extraordinary revulsion of the last two years has caused a depreciation in the state stocks that is a misfortune, not a fault. They were at the time of my retirement worth at least what had been paid for them.

Take for instance the rates of American stocks at January and Feb'y, 1839, as they were known here in March.

Pennsylvania 5s,	93	Illinois 6s,	93
Mississippi 5s,	93	Kentucky 6s,	94
Ohio, 6s,	99	Louisiana 5s,	95

Add to these prices an exchange of eight or nine per cent., and these stocks were all above par,

In March, 1839, moreover, there was nothing to disturb the repose of the moneyed world. The general ease of moneyed affairs was apparent. In England the Bank actually reduced the rate of its discounts to three per cent., and the following quotations from the London Mercantile Journal, which happens to be at hand, will show how uniform and low was the rate of discount there:

January 14—"Discounts on Bankers' bills have been 3½ per cent."

February 19—"Discounts on the first paper continue at 3½ per cent."

On the 25th of March, 1839—"Money on bankers' bills has been available at the same terms as quoted last week. First merchants' paper has been 3½ to 4¼ per cent. discount."

April 2—"Bankers' bills have been currently done at 3¼ to 3½ per cent."

April 9—"Money has been rather plentiful than otherwise, and discounts continue at from 3½ to 4 per cent."

May 7—"Money has been more plentiful. Still discounts continue at 3½ to 4 per cent. on bankers' bills."

In this country stocks were high, and what was more important, the internal exchanges were low and uniform, and the foreign exchanges did not require any exportation of specie. Take for instance the prices of those securities then most sought after and since so much depreciated.

	Thus in March, 1839.	In March, 1841.
Bank of the U. States,	116	17
Pennsylvania 5s,	106	72
Bank of Philadelphia,	106	75
Planters' Bank of Natchez,	92	10
Vicksburg,	69	5
Schuylkill Navigation 6s,	125	65
Lehigh Canal,	90	19

The domestic exchanges were all perfectly settled, and very reasonable. That with New Orleans was at from par to ¼ per cent. prem.; that with Natchez at par to ¼ discount; and the highest rate of charge for drafts at sight from the most distant parts of the country did not exceed 4 per cent.

Finally, the Bank had just closed its struggles with the General and State Governments. It had arranged its debt to the United States, arising out of its parnership in the Bank, and Congress had adjourned.

The Legislature of Pennsylvania too had finished its efforts to repeal the charter by a report which assured its tranquility against attacks, and that Legislature had adjourned.

Then, for the first time during many years, I found a moment when I could seek the retirement I desired, and accordingly resigned.

Collect now, all these elements of prosperity. Here was the Bank.

With 74 millions to pay 35.

With the highest character and credit.

Dividing eight per cent., yet laying up something every year.

Its stock selling at 116.

The foreign exchanges easy.

The domestic exchanges low and uniform.

All its controversies with the General and State Governments settled.

With peace at home and abroad.

And one can see nothing to create a doubt of its safety. So thought and so declared all the Directors of the Bank, who, by numerous committees and in successive Boards, unanimously united in repeated and strong assurances that the bank was then in a condition of undoubted strength and prosperity.

On the 1st of January, 1839, the Board of Directors consisted of the following gentlemen:

Joshua Lippincott,	John Bohlen,
John R. Neff,	Caleb Cope,
John A. Brown,	Cheyney Hickman,
Wm. Platt,	Joseph R. Ingersoll,
Lawrence Lewis,	Lewis Waln,
J. J. Vanderkemp,	John Connell,
	Joseph Cabot.

Of these gentlemen a dividend Committee was appointed on the fourth of January, 1839, consisting of

Joshua Lippincott,	Lawrence Lewis,
J. J. Vanderkemp,	Joseph Cabot,
	John Connell.

This committee made a report to the meeting of the Board, at which were present Messrs.

Lippincott,	Lewis,
Vanderkemp,	Bohlen,
Cope,	Hickman,
Brown,	Cabot,
Waln,	Connell,

who unanimously adopted it. Now this report stated that there was "an aggregate of net profits amounting to $3,344,707 99," that declaring a dividend of 4 per cent. would "leave the amount of the surplus profits of the Bank $2,944,707 99." "From these several statements," they proceed, "it will appear that the estimated probable loss on real estate and suspended debt is $76,050 51 less than the estimate of July last, and that the contingent fund is $92,661 75 more than the estimate of probable loss." They conclude by saying that the net profits of the last six months were $1,528,020 19, which, after deducting the dividend of four per cent., $1 400,000, "would leave $128,020 19 as the surplus profits of the last six months."

Up then to the 7th of January, 1839, there was no doubt in the minds of the Directors of the perfect safety and prosperity of the Bank, since they had a surplus profit on the last six months' business of $128,020 19, a total surplus of $4,344,707 99, a decreasing loss on suspended debt, and an excess of nearly $100,000 of the contingent fund above the losses it was destined to repair.

On the 7th of January, 1839, came in the new Board of Directors for that year. It consisted of

Manuel Eyre,	Joseph Cabot,
John A. Brown,	Cheney Hickman,
Richard Alsop,	Lewis Waln,
Caleb Cope,	Ambrose White,
J. J. Vanderkemp,	J. R. Ingersoll,
Richard Price,	Matthew Newkirk.

Now, what did these gentlemen declare of the situation of the Bank?

In March, 1839, on the day of my retirement the Board unanimously adopted several resolutions—in one of which they describe me among things as one "who having performed so much and so faithfully, leaves the Institution with which he is identified prosperous in all its relations—strong in its abilities to promote the interests of the communities by which it is surrounded—cordial in its associations with sister establishments and secure in the respect and esteem of all who are connected with it in foreign or domestic intercourse."

In transmitting to me these resolutions, the committee, consisting of Messrs. Ambrose White, Caleb Cope, and J. R. Ingersoll, say: "In every emergency you have given it efficient support, and now that your official connection has ceased you have the rich consolation of knowing that you leave it entirely prosperous."

Nor was this all.

In July, 1839, four months after I left the Bank, the dividend committee consisted of

Ambrose White,	Richard Alsop,
Matthew Newkirk,	J. J. Vanderkemp,
	Richard Price.

They reported that the Bank had "an aggregate of surplus profits amounting to $4,421,289 32," and they therefore declared a dividend of four per cent. This report was ratified unanimously by the following members then present:

Manuel Eyre,	Joseph Cabot,
Richard Alsop,	Lewis Wain,
John Bohlen,	Ambrose White,
J. J. Vanderkemp,	Richard Price,
Cheyney Hickman,	Matthew Newkirk.

That these gentlemen should make a dividend of four per cent., unless they believed the situation of the Bank justified it, cannot be presumed.

Further than this.

In December, 1839, nine months after my retirement, Mr. Jaudon submitted to the creditors of the Bank the following official statement published in London:

"A special committee, consisting of five members of the Bank of the United States, (Messrs. Richard Alsop, Lewis Waln, Richard Price, John Connell, and J. J. Vanderkemp,) was appointed on the 12th of November, to examine into the situation of the Bank. On the 15th of November, (the day before the sailing of the Great Western steamer,) they made a report that the limited time allowed them precluded an investigation of all the items of the account, and that they therefore directed their attention to the least perspicuous items. The other items, however, had been investigated by the committee on the state of the Bank, (on which were Messrs. Richard Alsop, Ambrose White, Matthew Newkirk and C. Hickman.) The following is given as the result." The details are then mentioned, and the statement concludes thus:

"Probable surplus beyond the capital of $35,000,000, $1,071,004 54—It should be recollected that the bonus of $2,500,000 paid in cash for the charter has already been charged to the surplus fund, and that if this had been distributed in annual payments over the whole period of the charter as was done by the late Bank of the United States, this fund would stand $2,000,000 higher than it now does."

Still more:

On the 1st of January, 1840—ten months after my resignation—another dividend committee, consisting of

Caleb Cope,	John Bohlen,
Joseph Cabot,	Richard Price,
	Matthew Newkirk,

made a report concluding thus:

"From the foregoing statements exhibiting a surplus of $5,278,925 71, the committee are of opinion that a dividend could now be declared by the Bank—and strong inducements to suggest that course would press themselves on the committee, if they considered only their wishes to meet the very natural expectations of the stockholders of the institution who have looked with great confidence to a regular distribution of the profits, at the accustomed period. But upon mature consideration of the subject, they are induced to believe that the permanent interest of the institution and ultimate benefit of the stockholders themselves will be promoted by withholding a dividend for the present. The actual condition of the Banks of this State, and respect for the Legislature now on the eve of assembling, furnish additional motives for this course."

This report was unanimously adopted by the Board, consisting still of

Manuel Eyre,	John Bohlen,
Richard Alsop,	J. J. Vanderkemp,
Lewis Waln,	Cheyney Hickman,
Caleb Cope,	Richard Price,
John A. Brown,	Matthew Newkirk,
	T. Dunlap.

Now what shall we infer from all this? Here are successive Boards of Directors—Dividend Committees—Special Committees over and over again declaring the existence of large surpluses and making dividends, and asserting the soundness and prosperity of the bank.

On the 1st of January, 1839, declaring a dividend of four per cent., and announcing a surplus of more than four millions.

On the 29th of March, 1839, asserting that the Bank was prosperous in all its relations.

On the 1st of July, 1839, declaring a dividend of four per cent., with a surplus of more than four millions.

On the 15th of Nov. 1839, after a detailed examination by two committees, asserting still a surplus of three millions.

On the 1st of January, 1840, exhibiting a surplus of more than five millions, and abstaining from making the dividend which they might do, merely from prudential considerations, in respect to the Legislature.

After this exhibition can any one deny what I proposed to prove, that when I left the Bank in March, 1839, it was in a safe and prosperous condition?

It remains to show by what causes the whole of that scene is changed into the present total prostration of the Bank. Some of them are unhappily too obvious.

I have just stated that the winter of 1838-9 was a season of great abundance and ease, in moneyed concerns both in England and in this country; but England was soon after startled by the discovery that the grain crop was deficient, and a demand arose for specie to export for grain, combined with some continental loans, that changed the whole surface of affairs. The Bank of England itself, after borrowing ten millions of dollars from the Bank of France, was still so much drained for coin that it was forced into very severe restrictive measures, which raised the interest of money to twice or three times its usual rate. The most injurious effect was on the stocks of this country; which were no longer convertible in England except at great sacrifices.—These causes immediately reacted on this country, producing the usual effects of embarrassment in the community and alarm among the Banks. These troubles, such as they were, like many which had been met and overcome in former times by the Bank, might perhaps have been again surmounted by an exertion of the means and credit of the Bank, but for a circumstance which is thus described in a letter from the late Cashier of the Bank, to whom I applied for information as to the causes which had brought on these misfortunes. His answer is as follows:

MARCH 23, 1841.

N. Biddle, Esq., Philadelphia.—My Dear Sir: The queries you have propounded to me have occupied no small share of my thoughts. The utter prostration of the Bank of the United States passes, I confess, my comprehension; I may, however, point out some of the causes that, in my judgment, have mainly contributed to bring about its present painful and humiliating condition. The consequences of the premature resumption of cash payments after the first suspension by the Banks, and the efforts of the Bank of the United States to make that resumption universal, required in the administration of its affairs the utmost wisdom and experience in finance—and in alluding to a measure adopted by those gentlemen most prominent in its management after your retirement, I do not mean to impugn their merit. After the feverish excitement consequent on this too speedy effort to return to cash payments had in a good degree subsided, another crisis was anticipated, and it was feared that the Banks generally would be obliged again to suspend. This was unhappily too soon to be realized, for the storm was then ready to burst, but instead of meeting its full force at once, it was deemed best to make it fall first upon the banks of New York. To effect this purpose, large means were necessary, and to procure these resort was had to the sale of foreign exchange. The state of the accounts of the Bank with its agents abroad did not warrant any large drafts upon them, especially that of the Messrs. Hottinguer, in Paris.

This difficulty, however, it was thought might be avoided, by shipping the coin to be drawn from the New York Banks, immediately to meet the bills. Accordingly large masses of exchange, particularly bills on Paris, which were then in great demand, were sent to New York to be sold without limit. Indeed the bills were signed in blank, and so sent to New York, and although a large book was thus forwarded, it was soon exhausted, and application was made to the Agent of the Paris House in New York for a further supply, who drew a considerable amount besides. The proceeds of these immense sales of exchange created very heavy balances against the New York Banks, which, after all, signally failed in producing the contemplated effect. The bills not being provided for, nor even regularly advised, as had uniformly been the custom of the Bank, were dishonored, and although the agent in London did every thing which skill and judgment could accomplish, the credit of the Bank was gone, and from that day to the present, its effects upon the institution have been more and more disastrous. Other causes might be adverted to—the connection with the Commonwealth—the over estimates of the value of the charter—and various matters, all, however, subordinate to the particularly unhappy measure that I have thus hastily brought to your notice,—which Mr. Jaudon and myself equally deplored as the immediate cause of the disasters which have afflicted him. Very respectfully,

J. COWPERTHWAIT.

Here then is revealed the real and secret cause of the disasters of the Bank. Now, without meaning to say a single word about the object of these drafts, and without intending the slightest censure of any one, it is impossible not to see in this single circumstance the solution of many of the difficulties of the Bank. The Bank, as I understand, suddenly draws an immense amount of bills on Messrs. Hottinguer & Co., without having a dollar of funds in their hands—without having any authority to draw for a dollar—without a line of explanation as to the nature and extent of these unexpected drafts—and without even the commercial notice that such bills had been drawn. Messrs. Hottinguer & Co could not, as prudent men, do otherwise than protest these bills; and thus the Bank, in the very fullness of its high credit, was suddenly disgraced in the eyes of all Europe. The talents of Mr. Jaudon repaired to a certain extent this disaster; but it obliged him, in order to protect the drafts drawn on himself as well as Messrs. Hottinguer & Co., to make loans and to pledge stocks which were thus, instead of being sold, locked up to await the depreciation which has since overtaken them. And now let me ask in all fairness whether this secret wound—this neglect, or inadvertence, or omission—call it by whatever name you choose—to apprise Messrs. Hottinguer & Co. of these drafts—a thing which belonged to the interior details of the Bank—can be charged upon my administration which had ceased long before that time? Yet these two officers, as we see in the above letter, regard that "as the immediate cause of the disasters which have afflicted the Bank."

Even after this shock, such was the vitality of the Bank that I have no doubt it might have revived and prospered, but for the late fatal resumption of specie payments.

It is undoubtedly true that the only lawful and proper banking is the payment of specie. But where by any cause a suspension once takes place, the time of resumption is a question of expediency, depending on many circumstances, on the position of the Bank itself—the position of its neighbors, the position of other banks in other sections of the country, just as health is the natural condition of men, but if by accident we are sick, prudence must decide when we may venture out without the danger of relapsing. The Bank of England continued its suspension for twenty-five years, and, if it had been forced into a premature resumption, would have certainly fallen a second time. Now neither the banks nor the community of Philadelphia, nor the banks nor the communities with whom Philadelphia principally deals, were ready for resumption, and in my judgment the project and the execution of it were equally unfortunate.

I was in town during that period, though merely as a private spectator, and it seemed to me that the true position and the only safe policy of the Bank was this:—The new administration of the government of the United States will find itself on the 4th of March with very small funds, and its policy will be if possible not to encounter at once the debateable question of a national bank, whatever may be its disposition hereafter. If, then, the Bank of the United States is in a position to do the public business temporarily, it will, from its extensive connections throughout the union, be more useful than any other existing institution, and thus may gradually become one of the fiscal agents. To accomplish this, it must be in a situation of strength on the 4th of March, 1841, and should reserve its powers for that period. Hitherto the banks believed that they had been contending against an administration of public affairs hostile to the interests with which banks are most connected. A great political change has taken place, but the effects of it on the public interests cannot be seen till the new men come into power. Wait, then, for that moment, see what the new administration intends to do for the country, what relief it means to afford, and then concurring with its measures, you may resume permanently.

Until then the Bank of the United States was not obliged to resume. The Legislature had declared of all the banks, that if they did not resume on a given day, their charters were liable to forfeiture, but that did not affect the Bank of the United States. When the charter of that institution was passing through the Legislature, the provision common to all other banks, authorising the Legislature to alter or repeal it at pleasure, was inserted. But I then declared that I would not receive it on such terms, and, unless that provision was stricken out, the bill need go no further. Accordingly it was stricken out, and when this very question, whether the Legislature had a right to declare a forfeiture for the non-payment of specie, was recently brought before the courts, the Judges unanimously decided against the power of the Legislature, on the very ground of this rejection of the clause.

The Legislature, it is true, had fixed the 15th of January as a day of resumption. But that day had been so fixed because they were in session, and had wants which the banks alone could relieve, so that the Legislature was much more in the power of the banks than the banks were in the power of the legislature. How easy was it for the banks to say to the Governor, you want to borrow 800,000 dollars—the State breaks on the 1st of February unless you can borrow it only from us—and if we lend to you and resume specie payments, we inevitably break ourselves. Let us agree that neither shall break. Authorise a suspension beyond the 15th of January, and we will protect you on the 1st of February. This would have been wise and easy. But instead of this course the banks resumed—then lent the 800,000—and then broke down immediately.

Believing the resumption unnecessary as well as inexpedient, I think that all the borrowings of the bank, both at home and abroad, for the purpose of resumption, were very unfortunate. They complicated the affairs of the bank, they embarrassed the other banks, and were at last wholly ineffectual.

One of the reasons which made them ineffectual, was the publication of the report of the 1st of January, 1841, giving a particular list of its assets without the means of estimating them, and calculated to inspire doubt and suspicion of its solvency. In fact, just on the eve of attempting to resume specie payments, a state of the Bank was put forth which made every body believe that the Bank could not resume permanently, and induced the creditors to come immediately for their money before it was too late.

These counsels I could only offer as a private citizen. Had I occupied the position I once did, I most certainly would not have permitted that resumption; and though it may seem rash to say so, I have not the least doubt that but for that act of insanity, the city would have been spared the sufferings of the last two months, the Bank would at this day have been strong and safe—that it would have obtained a large portion of such Government business as was done by banks, and that its Stockholders, instead of deploring as they now do its prostration, would have found its condition prosperous, and its stock worth five times as much as it now is.

I began by saying that I would prove that the Bank when I left it was strong and prosperous—and that its present prostration cannot in the remotest way be ascribed to me.

Do you not think I have proved it?

With great esteem, yours,

N. BIDDLE.

ATTEMPT TO DROWN. The New York Signal of the 13th, states that a young female named Ann McClusky, under the influence of excited feelings caused by disappointed love, threw herself into Hudson river at the foot of Harrison street between 7 and 8 o'clock on Sunday night, with intent to drown herself. The cold bath she took and the prospect of a watery grave, however, so completely cooled her ardor and dissipated her desires for dying, that she concluded it was best to live, and screamed lustily for assistance. This was found in the person of Capt. Van Wart of the schooner Francis, lying at that place, who caused the girl to be rescued from the water and conducted to the watch house. There she was dried and taken care of until morning, when she was taken before Justice Matsell, who after remonstrating with her on the folly of her conduct, drew from her a willing declaration, that if he would permit her to depart, she would return to her home and never attempt to drown herself again for love. Leave was granted, and she made her exit in a trice.

PHILOSOPHY. If the signification of this word were confined to love of wisdom, the school of modern philosophers would not be so full, as a great portion of those who now arrogate to themselves the title of philosophers, would abandon the use of the term as totally inapplicable to their pursuits and inclinations. Almost every thing is now classed under the head of philosophy. The avowed atheist, and the beardless sceptic deem it true philosophy to deny the existence of God, or to dispute his powers—and affect to think that it exhibits superiority of intellect to talk of chance and fate, or to require that Deity shall manifest himself in accordance with their own ideas of propriety. They bewilder themselves that they may endeavor to puzzle others—and, belonging to what they assert to be the true philosophic sect, are willing to hazard their own safety and to overturn society, that they may enjoy the vain appellation of philosophers. With such men reason is professed to be every thing, and yet they cannot give a rational ground for their own belief. But it is not with regard to this class of people alone that the use of the term is abused. The Mormonites, the "Holy Rollers" and other similar sects are philosophers, according to the modern acceptation of the term. A criminal at the bar who hears his sentence with callous indifference, is said to bear his fate with philosophic resignation—and even the child becomes a philosopher in his obstinate resistance of command. The improper application of this term may be thought, at first view, of little consequence; but it has a most pernicious effect, particularly on the young. A philosopher is deemed vastly superior to ordinary men, and the ambitious youth aspires to attain the character by the easiest means. These are readily presented in the school of the sceptic—and when he hears infidelity dignified by the high-sounding title of philosophy, he eagerly seizes the opportunity to become, as he supposes, a disciple of wisdom, before he has taken the pains to acquire common sense. We have known persons of maturer years who have been fascinated with this bastard philosophy, and enrolled themselves among what they imagined were the luminati of the age. It is known how difficult it is to eradicate errors contracted in youth, and how easily the ductile mind of the young yields to the dictates of ambition. Is it not then, highly injurious to tempt the young to infidelity by holding out to them the lure that, by embracing such opinions, they are at once metamorphosed into philosophers? They are misled at an age when they most need safe guidance; and have to struggle in after life to correct the errors which ambition and misplaced confidence implanted in earlier days.

We must not be misunderstood. We would not inculcate blind faith, but the contrary. Truth fears not the investigations of reason; but prejudice may warp the intellect and subvert the judgment. It is to prevent this forestalling of reason that we would take from infidelity its alluring title of philosophy. Whatever proposition is presented for our assent, should be subjected to the scrutiny of reason—but then the mind must be properly enlightened and disciplined to prevent false conclusions; and above all, there must be honesty of purpose.

IMPORTANT. Apparently light and insignificant matters sometimes become of great national importance. Thus we have an authentic account of two villages and at last two nations becoming involved in a sanguinary war on account of a trifling dispute between two insignificant individuals. (For this fact search all history.) And we know that the famous Troy was laid in ashes because one man took a liking to another's wife. The revolution which cost Charles the Second his head, was probably owing to his having refused Cromwell and others the liberty to emigrate to the then Colonies of America; and the condemnation of McLeod may produce a war between England and the United States. Thus we see that great events arise from small causes. John Tyler is President of the United States, and we are now informed that he owes his elevation to the chance suggestion of an individual, who will no doubt lay claim to the credit of having foreseen that events would issue in placing Mr. Tyler in the presidential chair. "Honor to whom honor is due." It is certainly of vast importance to the nation, to ascertain by whom the name of Mr. Tyler was first suggested—and, if we had not been forestalled in the claim, we had some thoughts of letting the President know that we were the knowing persons to whom the lucky idea of his nomination first occurred. But our intended crow is silenced by a more vociferous chanticleer—and so there is an end to our honors.

DAY OF HUMILIATION AND PRAYER.—Bishop Onderdonk, of the New York Diocese, has appointed Friday, the 23d inst., as a day of Humiliation and Prayer, to be observed in the Episcopal Church throughout that Diocese, in token of reverential submission to the chastening hand which has fallen so heavily on the nation, in the death of its Chief Magistrate.

CREDITABLE. In the funeral procession at New York, on Saturday last, were the British and French Consuls in an open carriage, each bearing the flag of his nation shrouded in crape. This token of respect, it is said, was adopted at the suggestion of Mr. Buchanan, the British Consul.

DR. DUNBAR'S LECTURE. We had the pleasure of being one among the many who listened to the classic and very admirable lecture of Dr. J. R. W. Dunbar, delivered before the Mercantile Library Association on Tuesday night last. His subject was, as the reader may be aware, the "Philosophy of beauty and its connection with health."

The Doctor was most happy in all his efforts. He exhibited not only an accurate conception of symmetry and beauty as applicable to the human form, but of those gems more enduring which exist in the human mind. It was plainly manifest that he had not only studied the philosophy of beauty as having reference to health alone, but as applicable to the choice of language and beauty of sentiment, which like a golden chain ran from the commencement to the close of his address.

The leading feature of the Doctor's lecture went to prove that beauty, symmetry of form and feature, as well as health, were dependent upon correct deportment, virtue and morality. He spoke of our degeneracy in point of physical perfection, and to prove the fact had recourse to history. Those, he argued, in the earlier stages of man's existence, to all accounts, approached nearer the established philosophical lines of beauty than do the inhabitants of the world at the present age. This was attributed to the fact that they had not given up so much to surrounding temptations—that fashion in former times did not require so much the contortions of the body, and that the idea had then prevailed that nature had formed the most finished model of admiration.—To the ladies a most delicate allusion was made relative to the evil of that practice which induces a compression of the waist, through a false ideal of improving the form and pleasing the eye. Disease and premature death were shown to be its consequences.

The lecture was finally concluded by an appropriate, beautiful and encouraging eulogium upon the members and those interested in the Mercantile Library Association. The Doctor is certainly a finished lecturer, and one to whom we have always listened with pleasure. The auditory upon the occasion was large, and to all appearance, retired from the lecture-room, regretting nothing but the brevity of the lecture with which they had been entertained. Thus closed in triumph the series of lectures which had been announced by this institution; and we are peculiarly happy in stating that the association is now in a very flourishing and prosperous condition. It commands a large and respectable number of both active and honorary members, has an extensive library, and funds in bank to meet future exigencies. There are many who will look back upon the time spent in this association with feelings of the purest pleasure, and contemplate the future, when they shall again be proffered a course of lectures under its supervision, with no ordinary degree of satisfaction.

BANK OF THE UNITED STATES. Every matter which tends to elucidate the causes of the present condition of this institution is of interest—the letters, therefore, of Mr. Biddle upon this subject will be generally read. We publish his second letter this morning, and think that it will exonerate him, with impartial persons, from all censure for the mismanagement of the Bank. He proves conclusively, that he left the institution in a flourishing condition, with perfect ability to discharge its obligations, inclusive of those for stock, and leaving a considerable surplus. He also points out in a satisfactory manner, the errors which have led to the insolvency of the Bank. Whatever may be the prejudice against Mr. Biddle, he is entitled to have his expositions examined with candor, and to stand or fall in public estimation, according to the weight of testimony he may adduce. Unless the evidence he has so far submitted be contradicted by indisputable facts, we think that it will be difficult for those who have had the management of the Bank since his resignation as President, to escape condemnation.

[Communicated for the Baltimore Clipper.]

Extract of a letter from an officer of the U. S. ship Preble, dated

"GIBRALTAR, Feb. 26.

"It affords me great pleasure to apprize you of our safe arrival here yesterday afternoon, from Lisbon, in a fine run of two days. In a few hours we shall be under way to join the squadron at Mahon.

"Every attention was paid and great hospitality extended to us by the Portuguese; and, as we happened to be in port during "Carnival time," the officers fully enjoyed themselves at some private or public party; at one of which (Count ——,) I was present, but must defer until my next, an account of this splendid affair. All well."

SPEECH TO THE DUMB. A great discovery has recently been communicated to the Medical Academy of Paris. It is no less than a process, purely magnetic, by which the deaf and dumb can be made to hear and speak. Baron Dupotet is the author of this astonishing discovery. He cured a deaf mute, ten years of age, before making his invention known, and afterwards, in presence of a committee from the Academy, was equally successful on a child five years old, in three sittings. He has since cured nineteen persons in the same miraculous way. Magnetism may now be considered the "philosopher's stone."

GENERAL JACKSON. We find the following in one of our western exchanges, the Louisville Journal.

"A few weeks ago, we saw a very long letter from General Jackson, to a gentleman who had drawn on him for one hundred dollars. He acknowledged that the money was due, but stated that he was so miserably embarrassed by his security debts as to be utterly unable to raise even the small sum necessary to meet the draft. He said he had some blooded stock which he was willing to give up to the drawee of the draft, but that $100 in money was out of the question."

PETER ROBINSON. To-morrow this unfortunate man is to expiate his offence on the gallows. The New York Herald affirms that it has got the only true and genuine confession of Robinson. May be so. The New Brunswick correspondent of that paper also says that Robinson is as hardened and impenitent as ever. He thinks he will not be hung on Friday next, but he is mistaken. The execution will be private. The body of the criminal is not in this instance to be given to the surgeons for dissection. Peter has a great horror of surgeons and phrenologists, and as it was not part of his sentence, he is not to be dissected. He has coolly fixed upon his burial place, and selected the men who are to watch his grave for a length of time sufficient to foil the resurrectionists.

Among the confessions he has made lately, is one that about thirty years ago he lived with a farmer up the North river, who whipped him for some bad deed. "Peter set fire to his master's barn, and ran away by the light of it. This was about his first movement in the grand career of crime which he has since ran through. Some few years since, it appears that a neighbor of his had laid in a very large quantity of very fine salt pork in his cellar. Peter found it out, and being too poor to buy any, he determined to steal some of the pork. Accordingly he entered the cellar, and began rifling the casks. The owner heard him; entered the cellar with a light; Peter hid behind a cask, determined to knock his neighbor on the head if he could get a chance. Fortunately the light went out; the owner returned up stairs to re-light it, and Peter made his escape ad interim. He tells this pork story with great glee."

On Sunday night, Peter said to the barber who went to shave him, "I think that me and General Jackson are the two greatest men now living in the United States!" "Why so?" said the barber. "Because," replied Peter, "he put his veto on the United States Bank, and I put my veto on the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank." And then he laughed heartily at his own remark.

Last night his little boy was taken to his cell to see him prior to their final separation in this life, as the boy went to his future home in Newark to-day. Peter was much moved by the interview, and indeed it was the only time that his sympathies seemed affected since he has been in jail. The boy left the cell, and Peter remembered when too late that he had not bidden the child farewell. He cried out, "I didn't wish him good bye! I shall never see him again in this world;" and he burst into tears, sat on the floor of his cell, and wept bitterly for over two hours. This morning he is as cold and indifferent as ever.

AN EXTRANEOUS BODY IN THE EAR. We yesterday morning, says the Philadelphia Spirit of the Times, examined at the Police office, a small chip, a quarter of an inch long, and about the sixteenth of an inch in diameter, which was removed on Wednesday last from the ear of a little son of Samuel S. Smith, one of the silent watch. The chip had been put into the boy's ear when he was between four and five years old, by another urchin at school, and had remained there for more than three years. The child never experienced pain, except for the first few days after the extraneous body entered. The removal of the body was effected by the mother with a pin. The wood seemed to have undergone no change whatever.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—I have been repeatedly asked by many of my female acquaintances what badge of mourning we are to wear, and have been unable to answer. Will you be so kind as to inform us, as we would like to be uniform. I think and hope all females will be dressed in black, as far as convenient, on the day of the procession. If nothing should have been determined upon thus far, I would (having consulted with many other females,) suggest black net shawls or crape, and black gloves, as appropriate badges of mourning. I make these remarks through your valuable paper, as being the first which so nobly stepped forward to vindicate the honor, character, and feelings of our good and fair city. VIRGINIA.

[We presume that the ladies will be left to determine for themselves the fashion of their mourning badge. We give the recommendation of our fair correspondent on the subject, but are under the impression that the articles she names will be found too expensive to be generally adopted. We think that a neat and appropriate badge of mourning, (somewhat similar to that used in New York,) might be adopted by the ladies, which would cost a mere trifle—but the matter must be left entirely to their discretion.]

For the Baltimore Clipper.

The learned editors of this paper will please to observe, that agreeably to an act of Parliament for regulating weights and measures, passed in 1266, it was directed that three grains of barley taken from the middle of the ear, should be equal in length to an inch, 12 inches equal to one foot, &c. In like manner, the American Congress in 1792 settled the weight and purity of the American dollar equal in value to one hundred cents. So that my esteemed friend need not be "puzzled" any longer at the idea that 40 feet of round timber, or 50 feet of hewn, make a ton or load. JOHN M'NEVIN.

SINGULAR. We extract the following from a foreign journal.

About twelve months since a single woman, about 36, who for years had suffered from a bad constitution, was seized with the gradual loss of the use of the left leg, commencing at the toes, which extended itself until it reached between the calf and the knee, the whole leg being perfectly useless, and becoming callous. About a fortnight since, previous to the medical attendant calling upon her, she was in the act of being moved out of bed, when it was found the leg had separated three inches below the knee, causing no pain, and no hemorrhage following. The disease, divested of surgical phrases, is called dry mortification. The leg is in the possession of W. Ward, Surgeon, of Huntingdon, who attended the patient, and is in a perfect state, the flesh and toe-nails remaining entire, but the color a dark brown, the surface of the foot bright as though polished with a brush.

WESTERN LYCEUM OF BALTIMORE.

☞ At a regular meeting of the Western Lyceum held on Tuesday Evening, April 13th, 1841, at their room, W. Lexington st., the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, In the order of an all-wise and inscrutible Providence, the people of these United States have been deprived of the services of their late lamented Chief Magistrate, Gen. WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, whose unexpected decease has cast a gloom upon the country and filled the hearts of his countrymen with mourning, and it is the proper prerogative and duty of freemen to honor those who have, by their own exertions, rendered themselves illustrious. AND WHEREAS, the deceased has perilled life amid the dangers of war, and sacrificed ease and comfort for the benefit of the nation in times of peace—Therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the death of our beloved President so recently after his elevation to the highest place in the gift of Freemen, an eminence unequalled in dignity by the position of princes, and more honorable than the throne of the wealthiest and most powerful monarchs, the Almighty Governor of the Universe, who controles the destiny of nations and of men, has given a memorable instance of his superior authority and mysterious designs, and that it becomes us in calmness and composure, to bow with respectful humility to his inscrutible decree.

Resolved, That the Western Lyceum unite with the kindred institutions of the land in mourning the sad event which has deprived a happy family of their friend and adviser, and the confederated States of their Executive Chief.

Resolved, That Jas. S. Piper, C. C. Burford, John Jarvis, and Thos. Rayburn, act as a committee to cooperate with other committees of the various Societies, to make such arrangements as they may deem necessary, to pay the last sad tribute of respect to their late Chief Magistrate.

Resolved, That these proceedings be signed and published. THOMAS BROWN Pres't.

"HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE."

☞ At a stated meeting of the "Monumental Lyceum," held on Wednesday evening, the 14th inst. the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:—

WHEREAS, our fellow citizens in town meeting assembled, and several of the associations of this city, (civic and military,) have by prompt and united action, at their stated or special meetings, resolved to unite in getting up a procession in honor of our late and justly much lamented chief magistrate; and whereas we esteem it an imperious duty with all true lovers of their country to make some public demonstration of regret at the truly national affliction with which they have been visited in the death of WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON—a name dear to every American, and which will be handed down to posterity as a pattern of excellence to "generations yet unborn," and shall continue when "monumental marble, unsteady to its steel, and worn on the edge of time, shall crumble to its fall," therefore

Resolved, That the Hall of this Association be shrouded in black for the space of sixty days, and that the members wear the usual badge of mourning on the left arm for the same space of time.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the Chair, for the purpose of making such arrangements as may be necessary to insure this Association a participation in the procession of the 26th inst.

Resolved, That the above preamble and resolutions be signed by the President and Secretary, and published in the "Clipper" and "Sun."

Previous to adjournment, the Chair announced Messrs W. S. Brunner, Wm. Perry and C. A. Hinckley as the committee authorised by the second of the above resolutions. JOS. C. NIMMO, President.

☞ At a Special Meeting of the "Washington Junior Temperance Society," held at their Hall, corner of Hanover and Camden streets, on Tuesday Evening, 13th inst. a committee of five was appointed to draft Resolutions expressive of the feelings of this Society at the death of Gen. WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, late President of the United States. The committee retired and reported the following Preamble and Resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The people of this land have lost one of their most prominent statesmen in the death of their late and much lamented chief magistrate, we have deemed it necessary, as other societies have done, to co-operate with the people of Maryland in paying the last tribute of respect to one who was the first to start from his cabin to draw his sword in driving from the west a ruthless and savage foe—Therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Society wear the usual badge of mourning for 6 days.

Resolved, That we participate in the funeral procession on Monday, 26th inst., and that a committee of five be appointed to confer with other similar committees on the subject, in paying the last tribute of respect to one who was "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

Resolved, That these proceedings be signed by the President, Vice president, and Secretaries, and published in the Clipper, Sun and Argus.

☞ At a meeting of the "Marion Total Abstinence Society," convened on Tuesday evening, 13th inst. at Temperance Hall, Eutaw-st., the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Marion Total Abstinence Society, wishing to participate in the general sorrow which the death of their late lamented chief magistrate WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, has produced—Therefore,

Resolved, That David Pollard, Sam'l J. Penta, Thos. Wooden, Daniel Hubbard, and Wm. H. H. Turner, act as a committee on the part of this Society, to co-operate with such other committees as may be appointed on the part of other Societies, in carrying into effect the objects contemplated in the preceding preamble and resolution.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be signed by the President, Vice-presidents, and Secretaries, and published in the Clipper and Sun.

DIVISION ORDERS.

HEAD QUARTERS, 1st Light Division, M. V.
BALTIMORE, April 14, 1841.

THE Citizens of Baltimore having determined in Town Meeting assembled, (on Monday, 19th inst.) to manifest in a public manner their grief at the bereavement of the nation by the death of the late venerated and lamented WM. H. HARRISON, President of the United States, have received that there should take place a Grand Civic and Military Procession, commemorative of that sorrowful event.

In conformity to this determination, the First Light Division is ordered to parade on MONDAY, 26th April, at 8 o'clock, A. M. wearing the usual badge of mourning, and provided with three rounds of blank cartridges. By order of Maj Gen STEWART.

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a thorough overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good night's rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

GENERAL AGENCY—Intelligence Office. To Capitalists, Merchants, Manufacturers, Mechanics, and the public generally. Also, to industrious and enterprising Foreigners, arriving in the U. States. The subscriber having 7 years experience in the general agency and intelligence business, during which time I have become very generally acquainted with the inhabitants and business of this large and flourishing city, and to a very considerable extent of the neighboring towns and country. I will procure buyers and sellers for all kinds of property; places for clerks, manufacturers, mechanics, farmers, laborers, and all classes of persons willing to labor, or to be actively employed in some lawful and expedient business.

I will collect rents, pay taxes, buy and sell bank stocks, obtain insurance on all kinds of property, procure partners and agents, and furnish merchants and others with every consistent facility, information or advice. To Emigrants arriving in Baltimore, or wishing any intelligence therefrom, the most prompt attention will be paid; employment procured for themselves or their families. Farms or houses purchased or rented, and every compatible advice and accommodation given.

It is earnestly requested that all communications addressed to this office requiring information, or any other business, shall be precisely and explicitly worded, and the wants of the writer clearly expressed, in order to prevent doubt or misunderstanding of their contents—the commission and charges moderate. All letters on business, post paid, will be promptly attended to.

☞NO MISTAKE. Change your habits, oh ye idle! and ye who are industrious keep on in the even tenor of your way—ye both shall prosper. Call at Lewis F. LINES BY J. N[illegible]S.

There is in death's mysterious sleep,
A lesson that may profit all;
And while we sad'ning vigil keep,
There is a voice that seems to call.

In accents low, yet full of meaning,
It tells us of our frail abode;
That while we boast, on strength we're leaning
That strength will rapidly corrode.

How few who heard the kindly warning,
Though they know life's but a span;
And fleeter than the rays of morning,
Is the race allowed to man.

GEN. HARRISON'S LAST LETTER. The letter which will be found below, introduced by the New York Commercial, is in all probability the last letter written by Gen. Harrison:

On Saturday, a hardy, weather-beaten, but very respectable looking seaman presented himself to the Collector, at the Custom House, and inquiring for Mr. Curtis, said, "Gen. Harrison told me to give this letter into your own hand. He told me to give his kind respects to Mr. Curtis, and said, Mr. Curtis was his friend, and would be my friend." Mr. Curtis opened the letter, and found it to be, from its date, one of the last, if not the very last letter, written by Gen. Harrison. It bears date of the day when his illness commenced. The reader will see, from a perusal of it, that amidst all the cares and troubles of his high position, he was true to the humblest of his old friends. Tucker says, the General made him come to the dinner table with the great folks, and when he hesitated and intimated that he had better go below for his dinner, the General said, "Tucker, you and I have been shipmates, and a long time together. You are an honest man; come and eat your dinner with me, and come here again to-morrow morning and get your breakfast with me."

Tucker says the General invited him to stay in Washington, and told him he would take care of him, but his wife and children being in New York, Tucker preferred to return. He says Gen. H. followed him into the grounds on the East side of the White House, and then walked with him arm-in-arm—that the General had no hat on, and when Tucker adverted to his liability to take cold, he waived the remark by saying he was already unwell. Having received the letter from the General, Tucker says he followed him to the door and shook him by the hand, saying "go to my friend Mr. Curtis, and after you have been to him don't forget to write to me that you and your wife and children are happy again."

Tucker says he had no money to come home by land, but he did not let the General know that, for he knew he would give it to him in a minute, and he did not wish to take money from the good old man who had been so kind to him. And so Tucker went on board the schooner L. L. Sturges, at Alexandria, and worked his passage home to New York. When he came to the custom house he had not been ashore thirty minutes, and having first heard the sad news of the death of his kind benefactor as he passed up the Old Slip dock, the abundant tears that fell down his hardy cheek testified that his is no ungrateful heart.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Curtis immediately appointed Mr. Tucker an inspector of the customs.

"WASHINGTON, 20th March, 1841.

"DEAR SIR—The bearer hereof, Mr. Thomas Tucker, a veteran seaman, came with me from Carthagena, as the mate of the brig Montidia, in the year 1829. In an association of several weeks I imbibed a high opinion of his character—so much so that (expressing a desire to leave the sea) I invited him to come to North Bend and spend the remainder of his days with me.—Subsequent misfortunes prevented his doing so, as he was desirous to bring some money with him to commence farming operations. His bad fortune still continues, having been several times shipwrecked within a few years. He says that himself and family are now in such a situation that the humblest employment would be acceptable to him, and I write this to recommend him to your favorable notice. I am persuaded that no one possesses, in a higher degree, the virtues of fidelity, honesty and indefatigable industry; and, I might add, of indomitable bravery, if that was a quality necessary for the kind of employment he seeks.

"Yours very truly,
"W. H. HARRISON.

"EDWARD CURTIS, Esq.
"Collector, &c., New York."

The Revue de l'Orust mentions a most extraordinary instance of ignorance and prejudice which occurred at Champdeniers near Nantes, a few days since. An elderly man went out in the evening from home with a rope in his hand, and shortly after was found with the rope swung over a wall, having a heavy stone tied to it at one end, and himself hung by the neck with it at the other. The person who found him went and fetched the man's son, between whom and his father a bad understanding had long subsisted, and they both saw the unfortunate man moving his legs and arms. On the man's proposing to cut his father down, the son said that they had better not do this, but go and apprise the mayor, otherwise it might be thought that they had murdered him. They went to the mayor's house, which was some distance off, and returned with that functionary in half an hour's time. The body was perfectly motionless, but the village Solon decided that he had no right to cut it down, and that the juge de paix must be sent for. Four men were, therefore, left to watch the body, and messengers were sent to the juge de paix. The latter did not arrive till next evening, and the body of the unfortunate man was thus left hanging on the wall for twenty-four hours—this, too, in France, and in the nineteenth century!

SALE OF VALUABLE PROPERTY.

UNDER an order of the Orphans' Court of Baltimore County, the subscribers, as administrators, will offer for sale at public auction on SATURDAY 24th of April at 4 o'clock, P. M. on the premises part hereinafter described, the following property:

1. The Lot of Ground beginning at the North East corner of Howard and Saratoga streets, running thence Northerly on Howard street 90 feet 6 inches, thence Easterly 165 feet parallel to Saratoga street to an alley 12 feet wide; thence 40 feet 6 inches on said alley, to Saratoga street, and parallel to Howard street; thence Westerly on Saratoga street to the beginning—subject to a yearly ground rent of $14 and 40 cents. This lot is improved with a large brick BUILDING used for stores and a dwelling. It may easily be divided into two dwellings—and now rents yearly for $432.

2. A ground rent of $147 per annum; charged on a piece of ground at the South West corner of Eutaw and Saratoga streets, subject to a prior rent of $30, making the nett ground rent $117. The piece of ground binds on Eutaw street 69 feet and extends with that breadth westerly 143 feet—and is well improved. The rent of $147 is paid in the portions of $50, $75, $25 and $25, by the several owners of the improvements.

The terms of sale are, that one-fourth of the purchase money be paid on the day of sale, and the residue in three equal instalments in 6, 9 and 12 months with interest from said day—and all the payments to be secured by bonds or notes, with security, to be approved by the administrators.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave	Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
"	Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
"	Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	12 M.
"	Fred'ksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
"	Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
"	Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
"	Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
"	Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Fogs! Rough WEATHER!! and STORMS!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

THE MARYLAND ARCADE
Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS!

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hats: Splendid Russia Hats at $3.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3 00; Capt Nutre Hats $4; Capt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3 50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be Ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

fe4-3m* POLYDORE E. RILEY.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine Short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2 50, fine Brush Hats $2 50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,

THE PROPRIETORS OF THE GAY-ST. CHAIR WARE ROOMS, would inform their friends and the public generally, that they have now on hand, a very splendid assortment of Parlour and other CHAIRS, comprising Mahogany, Maple, Walnut, and a variety of imitation wood colours. They would request persons, disposed to purchase, to give them a call, as their assortment is not surpassed if equalled by any establishment in the city.

They would also inform Shipping Merchants that they have on hand a large assortment of Cane and Seat-back KNOCK DOWN, suitable for the West Indies or South American market, among which is a large proportion of very rich colored white tops—all of which they are willing to sell on the most accommodating terms. se1—dtf A. & J. JOSHUA VANSANT, P. M.

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 30 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparalleled, and successful manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral Incorruptible Teeth, and can confidently assert that they are superior to any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth FOREVER retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. Be it also remembered, that Dr. W. proportions his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when PURE GOLD is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dentistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.

1. Artificial Teeth out of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.

2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.

3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as CHEAP WORK is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even SILVER is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent use in the mouth.

4. Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

5. Those individuals who cannot afford to pay the fee of 50 cents for extraction, can have this important operation performed any morning WITHOUT CHARGE, by calling between the hours of 8 and 9 A. M.

Individuals requiring the assistance of a Dentist, may avail themselves of Dr. W's services at any hour of the day throughout the year, to suit their own convenience.

☞ Residence No. 19 Fayette street, near the Post Office, and opposite the First Presbyterian Church.

CHANCERY SALE. Under a decree of the Court of Chancery, the subscribers, as Trustees, will offer for sale at public auction on SATURDAY, 1st May at 5 o'clock in the afternoon on the premises, a LOT OF GROUND, in fee simple, near Trinity Church, (being Lot No. 436 on the Plat of the addition of Philpot's Point) beginning at the distance of 40 feet from the North West corner of Polly and Exeter-sts., running thence Westwardly 40 feet on Polly-st., and having a depth parallel to Exeter-st. of 100 feet.

Terms of sale, one fourth of the purchase money on the day of sale or on ratification of sale with interest from said day, and the residue, with like interest, in three equal instalments in four, seven and ten months from said day. All payments to be secured by bonds or notes with security to be approved by the Trustees.

RANDLE MOALE,
ap12 eots CHARLES F MAYER. Trustees.

COUNTRY SEAT FOR SALE.

The subscriber, as agent for the owners, will offer for sale at public auction, at the Exchange, on SATURDAY, 1st May, at one o'clock, unless previously sold at private sale, for which it is now also offered, the COUNTRY SEAT of the late Mr. Philip Laing. It has four acres of land, and is improved with a comfortable BRICK DWELLING Stable, Gardner's House, Milk House, &c. It borders on the city limits, being on the Windsor Mill Road, about half a mile from the Baltimore-town Turnpike. There is a productive Orchard and a good Garden on the place. The terms will be accommodating.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M. reach Baltimore		2 P. M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	" Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	" Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	" Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	" Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	" Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	" Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is more of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foul Rough Weather!! and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office,

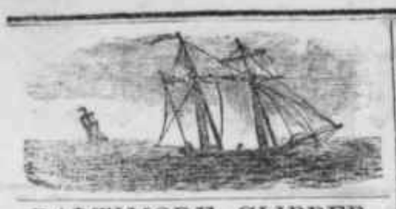
THE MARYLAND ARCADE
Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS!

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hat: Splendid Russia Hats at $3.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $2.00; Clipt Nutre Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be Ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

fe4-3m* POLYDORE E. RILEY.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Beaver Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered over sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

N. B. The trade supplied with HATS in the rough of all qualities. mh30-3m



BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 16 1841.

NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW, No. CXI. This review stands, we believe, at the head of the literary publications of this country. Though charged occasionally, as works of such a character will be, with dullness, it is regarded by the great body of literary and scientific men as a publication of force, dignity, learning and fairness of criticism, and as a most powerful auxiliary in the work of elevating the feelings, improving the taste, and increasing the mental resources of our people.

The English literati have affected to look with scorn on the efforts of our scholars, the productions of our writers, and the labors of our reviewers; and yet, with all their pride and contempt, they have not scrupled to steal, ad libitum, from each of these classes and to put forth under their own imprint the writings of American authors, without so much as dreaming of giving credit or even an intimation as to whom they are under obligations for their borrowed plumage. A singular instance of this is given in a very able and learned article in the number before us on the Cochin Chinese language, (which, we presume, is from the pen of John Pickering, Esq. of Boston, one of the first philologists of the country;) and which we will quote in the words of the author himself. He had already contributed an article to the North American on the same subject, and, after looking for a long time in vain for some review or notice in the English or French publications, was at length gratified to see it announced that the London Monthly Review for December 1840, would contain an article expressly upon the work under review. "Upon opening the London Journal," says he, "what was our astonishment to find, at the first glance, that the review was taken from our own article; and upon a closer comparison, to discover that with the exception of a few paragraphs, (which in their original form had American badges attached to them,) the entire London article was a reprint, without any acknowledgment, from our own!"—The author leaves the reader to make his own reflections upon this literary piracy; and to our mind, while it is an evidence that meanness will sometimes find its way into the high courts of letters as well as of politics, it is also a proof, the stronger because unwillingly given, that American opinions are worth much more even among European scholars than they are willing to allow.

But the strength of national feeling is leading us away from the main object of this article, which was, to notice in terms of commendation, the present number of the Review. There is a goodly variety in the subjects of the different papers, and some of them are of public interest and importance. Among these we may notice the article on the early Provincial Congress of Massachusetts, and that on the oft discussed but still fruitful and interesting Boundary Question.—For the lover of the arts, there are two pleasing articles; one on "Architecture," and the other on "Music in America." For the scholar, there is an admirable review of Quincy's History of Harvard College, (a noble work, by the way, in all respects,) and the article on the Cochin Chinese language, above alluded to. For the poet, there is a review of Lowell's Poems,—and with a rather singular coincidence of names, a notice of the "Lowell Offering,"—a publication issued under the auspices of the girls employed in that "Manchester of the United States." A poetical article is quoted from it, which we can hardly believe came from the pen of a factory girl, would confer honor upon many ladies, aye, and gentlemen too, who are looked upon as possessing no small share of talent. We will endeavor to publish it, that our fair readers may see what can be done by industry, and that too, by those who are busy from morning till night in the labors of a noisy, clattering cotton mill. How a soul could be attuned to the harmony of verse, or inspired with poetic fervor after such a day of din, is almost too much for our comprehension. We must give over these prolonged remarks, by referring to Mr. Hickman, those who are minded to enjoy the rich intellectual treat afforded every three months by the North American Review.

THE UNITED FIRE COMPANY'S BALL. This ball was numerously attended by both ladies and gentlemen. Every thing went off in good order, while enjoyment reigned queen of the night. We had the pleasure of being present for a few moments, which time was appropriated to the admiration of bright eyes and fairy forms. A hornpipe was executed by two youths, pupils of Mr. Spies, which exhibited considerable cultivation of the heel. The greater portion of the gentlemen appeared in firemen's equipments and presented a very neat appearance. There were many particular stars who might be designated, but we must forego the pleasure, wishing all happiness to the measure of their enjoyment.

PENNSYLVANIA BANKS. A bill is before the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, which it is supposed will be passed by a large majority, which provides for the repeal of the penalties against the Banks for five years—for the issue of small notes, to be redeemed in specie when presented in sums of one hundred dollars or upwards—and for the imposition of a tax of one per cent. on the property of deceased persons. The bill does not include the Bank of the United States.

JOHN WHITE. This man was executed near Louisville, Kentucky, on the 9th instant, for the murder of two men, but protested to the last that he was innocent of the crime for which he was convicted. In a letter to his father he gives a circumstantial narrative of the murders, and charges two men who were with him as the guilty parties. Immediately after he was executed his body was subjected to galvanic experiment, the extraordinary results of which we publish in another column. It is the first time, we believe, that muscular motion has been so far restored after death, as to enable the person to rise and walk. But this is not the most surprising effect of the experiment. If the statement be true, sensation and mental action were also restored. A minute account of the experiment will probably be given by the physicians; which, if in accordance with that now published, will no doubt give rise to a series of experiments to ascertain the practicability of effecting, through the agency of galvanism, a complete restoration to life, where the death has been sudden and violent, or where disease has not incapacitated the body for resuscitation. It will open a wide field for investigation, and may lead to important results. By some of the ancients it was held, that the principle of animal life was distinct from the soul—that the former was a subtle fluid which pervaded the system, whilst the latter was the controlling power, or the mind. It is not our purpose to discuss these metaphysical points, for we doubt whether it is permitted to man to solve the mysteries of his own existence. But philosophical experiments are within the scope of human capacity, and may tend to ameliorate the condition of mankind.

THE INDEPENDENT PRESS. There is an article in this paper of yesterday on the subject of neutral papers, which we can hardly suppose was designed to embrace the Clipper—because we cannot believe that even an anonymous correspondent would make charges so entirely groundless, if intended to apply to us. We have encouraged no controvery; excited no discord; nor in a single instance set neighbor against neighbor. It is true, that we do not permit battles, political, personal or religious, to be fought through the columns of our paper at our expense. If men will fight publicly they must pay for the weapons; and we should think it just as reasonable to request a grocer to furnish our families gratuitously, as that the proprietor of a paper shall find hands, types, paper and ink, for other persons to carry on a controversy in which said proprietor has no interest. Every man expects to live by the profession or trade which he follows—and he must be destitute of honorable principle who would ask the printer's labors for nothing. Some men consider the independence of the press to consist in the gratuitous and indiscriminate admission of whatever may be desired—but we think that as much independence is exhibited in the rejecting as in the publication of articles. One man is anxious to exhibit his controversive talents to the public—another wishes to sell his goods—both are influenced by self-interest; and each should pay alike for the space he occupies in the columns of a newspaper.

NEUTRALITY. Notwithstanding our professed and practical neutrality in party concerns, some people will insist that we are like the leaning tower at Pisa, and incline a little to one side. This is owing to their obliquity of vision—they do not see straight, or they would discover that we are as free from bias as Cleopatra's Needle. We keep "the even tenor of our way," sometimes using the right hand and sometimes the left, hitting this or that party, as we may think they deserve—but he who receives the blow is prompt to charge us with having enlisted on the side of his opponents—so that we are alternately placed with the Vanites or Whigites, when, in fact, we are steering right betwixt them. We presume that those who grumble at our course act upon the principle that "he who is not for, is against us;" but we protest against its application to us. We want to keep the Clipper in smooth water, and shall take the liberty of discharging a shot from either side of our vessel as occasion may justify. We pride ourselves upon our rigid neutrality, and will not let any one "bare our head to the peltings of the pitiless storm." Let any man of any party offer us an advertisement, accompanied by the cash—if we reject it, he may set us down as belonging to what party he may please.

COUNTY COURT—State vs. James Brown.—This case, which has occupied the attention of Baltimore County Court for several days, was this morning abandoned by the Prosecuting Attorney, after a patient examination of all the witnesses for the prosecution. From part of the testimony for the defence, it was shown conclusively that the female who brought the accusation against the accused had contradicted herself before the Court, her testimony not agreeing with that given by her to the Grand Jury. The Court then enquired of the Jury whether they considered the traverser guilty or not guilty? Not guilty was the reply. The case having excited considerable interest, a large audience was in attendence, who gave vent to feelings of approbation at the result of the proceedings.

ASSASSINATION OF A MAYOR. It is reported in an exchange paper, that Mr. Eli Abbott, late Mayor of Columbus, Miss., was recently found in his bed with his head cut off. He killed a young man named Pryor about four years ago, and he has lived in constant dread of his relations, since, some of whom, it is supposed, have at length revenged themselves upon him.

SUICIDE. A woman by the name of Dowees, residing in Philadelphia, committed suicide on the 14th, by hanging herself. No cause assigned for the commission of the fatal act.

FUNERAL PROCESSION.

COMMITTEE OF ARRANGEMENTS.

At a meeting of the Committee of Arrangements, held pursuant to public notice at Sutton's Military Hall, Gay street, on Wednesday evening, April 14th, Col. Samuel Moore took the Chair; and on motion, it was resolved, that the Secretaries of the meeting held on Monday last, at the Exchange, be requested to act as the Secretaries of this committee. A communication was laid before the Committee by the Chairman, from Hugh Cunningham, offering the use of his carriages and horses for the contemplated procession, which was unanimously accepted; and the Chairman requested to address a note of thanks to Mr. Cunningham for his kind and liberal offer.

On motion, Charles M. Keyser, Esq. was unanimously selected as Chief Marshal.

On motion, it was unanimously

Resolved, That Roger B. Taney, Chief Justice of the U. S. be requested to deliver the Funeral oration, and the Rev. John Johns and the Rev. Thos. Sargent act as Chaplains on the occasion.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That the Secretaries be directed to request all the associations in this city and State who intend forming in the procession, to report the same as soon as practicable to the Chief Marshal.

On motion, it was

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to confer with the Chief Marshal, and to publish the programme of the procession, &c.

The following gentlemen constitute said committee:—Z. C. Lee, Sam'l K. George, Major Jas. Anderson, Capt. Wm. H. Watson, Dr. John L. Yeates.

On motion, the following gentlemen were appointed as a Finance Committee:—J. J. Turner, Hon. Jas. Carroll, Gen. C. O'Donnell, Capt. Jas. Frazier, Sterling Thomas, Wm. P. Stewart, H. Hughes Armistead.

On motion, the Committee adjourned to meet again on Friday evening next, at 7½ o'clock, at Sutton's Military Hall, Gay-st.

SAM'L MOORE, Chairman.

SAMUEL T. THOMPSON, } Secretaries.
WM. H. COLE, Jr. }

To the Honorable ROGER B. TANEY,
Chief Justice of the United States.

SIR:—The committee appointed by the citizens of Baltimore, to make arrangements to commemorate by a procession and funeral obsequies, the lamented death of the late President of the United States, General WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON—have deputed us to call on you and inform you that you were unanimously selected to deliver on that occasion, an Oration in honor of the distinguished dead—and we beg to assure you that your compliance with their wishes, will greatly enhance the interest of the ceremonies, and afford to the citizens of Baltimore much satisfaction.

With high regard, we are your ob't serv'ts,

SAMUEL MOORE,
S. C. LEAKIN,
JAMES CARROLL,
Z. COLLINS LEE,
COLUMBUS O'DONNEL.

Baltimore, April 15th, 1841.

BALTIMORE, April 15, 1841.

GENTLEMEN:—I sincerely regret that it is not in my power to comply with the wishes of the committee in delivering an oration at the celebration of the funeral obsequies of the lamented General HARRISON, late President of the United States. But I am only now recovering from an illness, under which I suffered during the late winter, and have not the physical strength to deliver an oration to a crowded audience. I am ready, however, to unite most cordially with my fellow-citizens of Baltimore, in paying the honors so justly due to the memory of the distinguished dead, in any other station in which the committee may think proper to place me.

I am, gentlemen, with high respect and regard, R. B. TANEY.

To Samuel Moore, S. C. Leakin, James Carroll, Z. Collins Lee and Columbus O'Donnell, Esqrs.

A CRASH. Yesterday afternoon while some persons employed by the water company, were digging for the purpose of raising a pipe which ran near the corner of a house in Pitt st occupied by Mrs. Miller, they carelessly undermined the wall, when the whole building tumbled to the ground with a tremendous crash, and is now in ruins. A question, we understand, has already arisen, relative to who shall repair the damages. About this, in our humble opinion, there should be no parleying. A magnanimous corporation would never ask a second question, especially when an injured lady is in question. It is to be hoped the water company will repair the damages instanter.

LATER FROM FLORIDA. Via. Charleston S. C. we have intelligence from Florida to the 4th inst. which is less pacific than previous accounts. Thus the correspondent writes:

An express has this morning arrived at Pilatka from Fort King, stating that the Indians have exhibited a hostile attitude this day within one mile of Fort King. A party of seven warriors suddenly emerging from the hammock, attacked a small party of soldiers who were out hunting, fired upon them and killed private Thompson, company "H." 2d Infantry. This occurrence took place at 12, M. A detachment of the command at Fort King immediately left in pursuit. Another item to add to the pleasing prospect of closing the war. These Indians are supposed to be of the same party which left Fort Clinch yesterday about the time the express started from that station for Fort King. It is now the full of the moon and you may expect shortly to insert in your columns an article headed "bloody massacre." Yours, &c.

NEW YORK CITY ELECTIONS. The Signal of the 14th, states that Mr. Ex-Recorder MORRIS has been elected Mayor of the City by some 500 or 600 majority, and the Whigs have probably gained two members in each board of the Common Council; making the parties stand 10 Democrats to 7 Whigs. The whole number of votes is estimated to be several thousands below that taken at the last election. We have seldom known less excitement on such an occasion.

STRAWBERRIES IN APRIL. The Editor of the Newark Daily Advertiser has received a present of ripe strawberries, very fine ones, too, from the conservatory of Mr. Wm. Rankin, of that city.

The LUMBER, above described, must be well seasoned and dry, of the very best description and free from all defects—such as sap-wood, bad knots, and windshakes.

The Axles—To be of the very best description of iron, and accurately forged to pattern. Any person proposing to furnish the axles, will be required (without cost to the Company) to accompany his proposal with a sample of the article, with a description of the mode of manufacture, and character of the iron of which it was made.

The Bolsters—Must be fagoted, of the best description of bar iron, and accurately forged to pattern.

The Baltimore Strap and Bar Iron——To be of the best description of refined rolled iron.

The Spring Steel——Must be of the best quality, well trimmed at the ends and free from defects of any description.

The Shear Steel—To be of the best English manufacture.

Proposers for furnishing the Baltimore Strap and Bar Iron and Spring Steel, will state whether or not the article proposed to be furnished is of English or American manufacture.

The delivery of the materials above enumerated to commence on or before the 15th of July next, and continued in equal and regular monthly instalments, so as to complete the delivery of the whole of the Poplar, Cherry and Walnut Lumber, and the whole number of the Bolsters and about one half of the balance on or before the first of November next, ensuing.

The delivery of the remainder to commence on or before the first of April, 1842, and to be regulated in like manner as above, so as to complete the delivery of the whole quantity on or before the first of October, 1842.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered, and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid—reserving to the company the option of paying the said four-fifths in Baltimore City six per cent. stock at par, or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to contract.

If the materials contracted for or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one fifth due on any which may have been already delivered. No payments will be made on account of materials delivered before the times specified for the delivery of the same.

The payments will be made at the Company's office in Baltimore. By order of the President and Directors.

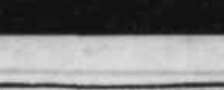
DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,



THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a thorough overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " P. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good night's rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.
JNO C. MOALE,
General Agent Baltimore Steam-Packet Company.

Passage (and fare on board) to Weldon, $14 00
Passage and fare to Richmond, 10 00
Passage and fare to Norfolk, 8 00

STEAM BOAT LINE FOR PHILADELPHIA,

Via Newcastle and Frenchtown Rail Road,

The Boats & Cars of this Line being in complete order, will commence their regular route on MONDAY NEXT, 19th April, leaving Bowly's wharf, Baltimore, EVERY DAY, (except Sunday) at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, or immediately after the arrival of the Western and Southern Cars, due at that hour.

By this route, passengers leaving Barker's Ferry and Frederick City in the morning, and Washington at mid day, may be in Philadelphia same evening.

☞ Merchandize and other Freight by this Line as usual, with care and attention. Shippers will be punctual in having the same at the wharf by 10 o'clock, each day, to insure its leaving by the Boat that evening.

☞ Passengers landed and taken off at Ford's Landing, Elk River, going and returning.

Passage through $4—Supper 50 cents.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Lock, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 22 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.
P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh 9-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

LAST WEEK BUT ONE.

AS I SHALL REMOVE from my present place of business in the course of ten days, to the store recently occupied by Mrs. Clifton, in Baltimore st. LEWIS F. SCOTT'S

Old Established Mercantile, Intelligence, Accommodation, Brokers & Slave Agency Office,

HAS REMOVED his office from No. 2 W. Fayette street, the Basement of Barnum's City Hotel, to the BASEMENT STORY of the Baltimore Temperance Hotel in FAYETTE STREET, one door from St. Paul's Lane, a few doors from the old stand.

GENERAL AGENCY—Intelligence Office. To Capitalists, Merchants, Manufacturers, Mechanics, and the public generally. Also to industrious and enterprising Foreigners, arriving in the U. States. The subscriber having 7 years experience in the general agency and intelligence business, during which time I have become very generally acquainted with the inhabitants and business of this large and flourishing city, and to a very considerable extent of the neighboring towns and country. I will procure buyers and sellers for all kinds of property; places for clerks, manufacturers, mechanics, farmers, laborers, and all classes of persons willing to labor, or to be actively employed in some lawful and expedient business.

I will collect rents, pay taxes, buy and sell bank stocks, obtain insurance on all kinds of property, procure partners and agents, and furnish merchants and others with every convenient facility, information or advice. To Emigrants arriving in Baltimore, or wishing any intelligence therefrom, the most prompt attention will be paid; employment procured for themselves or their families. Farms or houses purchased or rented, and every compatible advice and accommodation given.

It is earnestly requested that all communications addressed to this office requiring information, or any other business, shall be precisely and explicitly worded, and the wants of the writer clearly expressed, in order to prevent doubt or misunderstanding of their contents—the commission and charges moderate. All letters on business, post paid, will be promptly attended to.

☞ NO MISTAKE. Change your habits, oh ye idle! and ye who are industrious keep on in the even tenor of your way—ye both shall prosper. Call at Lewis F. Scott's where situations may be filled for Clerks; Bookkeepers; Teachers; Bar-keepers; Porters; Waiters; Cooks; Coachmen; Chambermaids; wet and dry Nurses; wanted daily. I have an registry, some valuable Houses, Lots, and Country Seats for sale or lease. Apply without delay. ap14

WHITE'S RESUSCITATION, OR WONDERS OF MAGNETISM.

It is generally considered that White's execution, yesterday, was not in the most approved style, for the mere pleasure of the operation. The knot by some manœuvre instead of being fixed by his ear, where it would have facilitated the breaking of his neck, happened to come in his face, by which means, the choking was of the most imperfect sort. He hung squirming and kicking a long time, before he surrendered, and occasionally gave forth blasts from his mouth and nostrils.

After hanging about twenty-two minutes, he was cut down and conveyed away to be experimented upon by Philosophers and Anatomists. He was an excellent subject for experimenting upon, as the execution was such, that no disorganization had taken place. The face of the corpse did not look so bad as they generally do, and, in fact he was considered not much different from a man twenty minutes drowned.

The poles of a powerful Galvanic pile, which had been prepared for the occasion, were immediately applied to him, and to the unutterable joy of all present, with the most perfect success. On the first application of the fluid to his body, which was quite warm and trembling, a universal tremor seemed to to pass over his frame, and fancy, if fancy you can, the surprise the astonishment of all, when of a sudden he arose upon his bench to a sitting posture, and with great eagerness and impatience raised his hands to his neck, trying to grasp the sear in his fingers and tear it from his throat!—He first snatched at it with great rashness, as though the rope was yet around his neck, and then continued some moments picking at the seam with his fingers, as though it was something that adhered to his throat, giving him great uneasiness. But this symptom was soon forgotten, for almost the next moment, he arose upon his feet, raised his arms level with his breast, and opening his blood shot eyes, gave forth from his mouth a most terrific screech, after which his chest worked as if in respiration, in a very violent manner. Every one at this minute was as mute as death, every breath was for a moment suspended, when Dr. D. exclaimed, "by heavens, he's alive!" Too great was the excitement, too intense and absorbing was the interest; and wonder, enjoyed and felt by all, to allow time or attention for a reply to the remark.

Every eye was rivetted upon the agitated and shaking corpse. The operator continued to let upon it a full quantum of the galvanic fluid, till the action upon its nerves became so powerful that it made a tremendous bound, leaping, by a sort of imperfect plunge, into a corner of the room, disengaging itself entirely from the wires which communicated the galvanism.

All immediately drew around the body. For a moment after its fall, it seemed perfectly motionless and dead. Dr. D. approached, and taking hold of his arm, announced that he thought he felt a slight, though single beat of the pulse. The galvanic operator was just going to arrange his machine to give him another charge, when Dr. D. again exclaimed, "he is—he is alive! he sighs! he breathes!" And, true enough, he did sigh, he gave a long gasp, at the same time raising and gently waving his right hand. His sighs continued for a couple of minutes, when they ceased entirely. His whole frame seemed to be somewhat agitated. His chest heaved, his legs trembled, and he occasionally raised his right arm. These effects were supposed to be caused by the powerful influence of the galvanic fluid upon the nerves. None of those movements were yet supposed attributable to the action of life. It was considered that the animating principle of nature had left his frame, and could never be again restored. Why not?—Are not people who have been longer deprived of life than he had been, often times restored?—Then why may he not be resuscitated? were questions that seemed to engage the minds of all. In the very height of anxiety and suspense, Dr. D. announced that he could feel feeble pulsations. A piece of broken looking glass was immediately held before his nostrils, which was instantly covered with a cloud. 'He breathes! he breathes!' was the unanimous shout. All was the most intense anxiety for some seconds, when the motion of his chest, as in the act of respiration, became visible. "His pulse," said Dr. D., "does now certainly beat—lo!" he at the same instant exclaimed, "he opens his eyes!"

And horrible, indeed, were those eyes to look upon! He rolled them wildly in their sockets, occasionally closing them, and giving most terrific scowls. In about five minutes his breathing became tolerably frequent—probably he would give one breath when a healthy man would give four. His breathings, however, rapidly increased, in frequency and strength. Dr. D. began to speak to him, but he gave no indications that he heard a word. He looked upon the scene around him with the most deathlike indifference, seemingly alive to nothing. A pin was tried upon his foot. He moved his foot, though not very suddenly, and resented the act with a horrible frown, but a frown containing something of sadness.—His action soon began to take on a more energetic character. He began again to feel of his neck and work his body, as though in the severest agony. Young L. a medical student of Dr. S. approached him and taking hold of his arm and shoulder, White rose upon his feet, took two steps being thus supported, and seated himself in an arm chair. On seating himself, he gave a slight groan, his muscles seemed to relax, and he appeared somewhat overcome with the exertion he had made. A bottle of hartshorn was immediately applied to his nose, which revived him much; but his life seemed to be that of a man much intoxicated. He seemed upon one occasion, to try to give utterance to some feeling, but, from an unknown cause an impediment, probably by an accumulation in the throat occasioned by the execution, he was unable to give utterance to a word. We are satisfied that he made an effort of this kind, for immediately on the exertion, he gave a sorrowful shake of the head, which signified, if we rightly understood the language, that he meant something he could express.

His system was critically examined, and tho' he was pronounced to be perfectly alive, it was announced by Dr. D. that he could live but a few minutes, for congestion of the brain, which had not yet happened, was rapidly taking place. Every method was adopted to equalize the circulation of the blood, and save the patient from the terrible consequence of so sad a catastrophe, but in vain. The bloodvessels of the head were enormously distended, and his eyes appeared to be balls of clotted blood. His system was immediately thrown into direful spasms, and he died in a few minutes in the most excruciating agonies.

Other experiments were tried upon him, which, together with the one I have here imperfectly sketched, will be put before the public in a few days in a more minute form. I have here suppressed the names of the operators, fearing I should not do the operation that justice, what will be done it by the proper reporter whose report will not be ready for some time. Q.

The following are the most prominent phrenological phenomena of the culprit White, as observed on examination during his imprisonment.

Perceptive faculties, remarkably small.
Calculation, entirely missing.
Ideality, none.
Very large Firmness.
do Destructiveness.
do Secretiveness.
do Acquisitiveness.

His being ill at the time of our visit, allowed us to make but a very superficial examination.

MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

To Dr. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

☞ The above Medicine may always be had in Baltimore of RICHARD NORRIS of WILLIAM, No. 254 Market street, who is the Sole Agent for this Medicine in that city. All orders coming to Philadelphia must be directed to DR. SWAYNE,

A MOTHER'S LAMENT.

Elegiac Lines in memory of an interesting boy who accidentally fell into the Basin and was drowned.

Ah! had he died by fierce disease,
Or fever's scorching blight;
By slow degrees had pined away
Before my aching sight—

I then had watch'd his languid eye
Bent fondly on mine own;
I could have raised his aching head
And heard his faintest tone.

The ready hand, the silent foot,
Had hover'd near my child,
And many an act of tender love
His anguish had beguil'd.

Some solace to a mother's heart
To catch the latest sigh,
In silent grief the form compose,
And close the dying eye.

His features, lovely e'en in death,
I then had gazed upon;
And, humbled, bow'd beneath the rod,
And breath'd "Thy will be done."

But, ah! one instant in my sight,
Buoyant with health and glee—
The cheek all bloom, the eye all fire,
The spirit bounding free!

The next—oh, God! my shrinking heart—
My boy is with the dead!
A livid and discolored corpse!
A sight of fear and dread!

Well may the heart with frenzy fraught,
In impious warmth declare,
'Tis human nature tax'd too far
For human pow'r to bear!

One moment on the treach'rous shore,
No voice to whisper doom,
With playful bound, he falter'd, fell,
And found a wat'ry tomb!

Emerging, wildly shriek'd for aid,
In vain did he implore,
The "whelming waters" o'er my child—
He sank to rise no more!

Oh, God!—thro' whose dread word of pow'r
This deep affliction came—
Oh! grant it wean our hearts from earth,
Our wayward spirits tame.

Omniscient in thy high behests,
In love dost thou chastise—
Oh! may this wound, our healing prove!
A blessing in disguise!

In deep submission let us view
Trials in mercy giv'n,
And cherish hope, when life is past,
To meet our boy in Heav'n!

"POSSESSION IS NINE POINTS IN LAW."

A curious illustration of this once occurred in Western Illinois. A young farmer had been settled for a few years there, and had selected for his residence a beautiful spot near the banks of the Wabash, and erected a very neat little farm house. As the neighborhood was very quiet, it was frequent for whole families to go visiting, leaving the house to take care of itself, barely taking the precaution to turn the key in the door. It was that beautiful season in autumn immediately following the harvest, when the farmers' hearts, as well as their labors, are lightest, and being a pleasant evening, farmer S. and his young wife had gone out to neighbor W's, to attend a little frolic. It so happened that in the gray of the evening, just when "the glimmering landscape began to fade from sight," an Irish emigrant, one of the first that had made his appearance in that region with his family, fortune, wife, pigs, goods, chattels, and in fact all his worldly substance, stowed away within the boundaries of one of those long travelling wagons, then a novelty, but now as common in the West as hackney coaches in the Strand, drove along the road. Having halted in the skirts of a neighboring wood, and made his necessary preparations for the night, Pat thought he would make some explorations in the vicinity, and seeing the cottage of farmer S. through the trees, he thought he would go in and make some enquiries as to the sittlement.

Having advanced to the house and finding no one at home, and every thing being apparently deserted, the heart of the poor wanderer leaped within him like a frog at the sight of St. Patrick, and he really thought Providence had kindly smiled on him at last, and guided him, as the children were led to the promised land, to a house already prepared for his reception. Overjoyed, Pat hastens back to the wagon, where he found his Biddy sitting on a log, with a half dozen young 'exiles of Erin' clamoring round her for the 'wee bit o' bread.'

"Biddy! Biddy!" says Pat, giving a leap into her presence like an opera dancer's last jump on a farewell benefit; "Och! my darling Biddy—but ye're a lucky moo, and Johnny McGraw's a lucky woman as he is—for I've fount a house that we ken gang right intil, and there's never a bodie to say a word agenst it."

"Och, here, Johnny, what's this ye're sayin" —away wid ye that 'ud play thricks wid a puir hungered, tired wifie, wha, an' 'twere na for ye, Johnny, wad hae been a widdy lang ago. Hout, mon! awn wie your clishmaclaver, an' come, ate a wee bit o' bread, an' take a wee dhrap o' wiskey to stay yer stomach, for the night's gettin' right chillish, so it is."

"Arrah, my hinnie! come along wid me, and it's Johnny McGraw jist, that'll show ye a bonnie wee house as iver was seen in a' the braidth of green ould Ireland; God bless her frae St. Patrick day till noo! Come alang wid me, an' let the poor childers be hoosed wunst more."—There was no more to be said, so Johnny taking in his arms the two weests little 'uns, and Biddy leading by the hands a couple "of a larger growth," they trotted off to the house.

On arriving there, it was but a few minutes work for Johnny to raise a good fire in the kitchen, where he found plenty of materials prepared —and in half an hour the night had closed in, the fire was cheerily burning, the children were making rare sport among the farmer's moveables, and Biddy and Johnny sat in the corner comfortably smoking, and commenting on their good fortune, with all the warmth of feeling peculiar to the Irish. Many were the plans they had laid for their future management, and many a dream of riches and prosperity had now received a "local habitation"—and they were to write home "to ould Ireland to tell them that Ameriky was sure enough a free country, that they found houses ivery where readdy to live in for the poor emigrants"—when all on a sudden who should enter but farmer S., with a huge hickory stick in his hand, ready and apparently willing to fell poor Pat at a blow, for thus intruding on his premises; while Mrs. S. had timidly shrunk behind the door in the entry, after vainly endeavoring to dissuade her husband from entering, until he had called in the neighbors. Johnny stood aghast—Biddy instinctively seized a broom —while the children huddled up in the corner, so frightened that their eyes protruded as though they had been squeezed half to death.

"Who are you, sir?" said S., advancing furiously on our hero. "Who are you, and what are you doing here, you vagabonds?" But Johnny couldn't say a word. Half through bodily terror, and partly from the effects of this terrible blight of his prospects, he stood like one bewildered, with hands and knees trembling like an aspen. "Johnny! are ye spachless?" said Biddy, who had the presence of mind to perceive the situation of things at a glance, having all the while been "summut" duberous of this state o' things. "Tell the gintleman, Johnny, the mishtake ye have made, and maybe's, honey, he'll forgive it ye." "Ye see, sir, we cam to the hoose, thinking to get some knowledge of the country jist, when we sees nae bodie here jist, and we thinks of course the hoose was untenanted, and we took possission, as maybe ye'd a' doon yersel, sir, had ye been the likes o' us puir bodies—and surely ye'll no harm us far that." The appeal of Biddy had the desired effect.—The whole matter was explained, and S., who till now filled with rage, had not noticed the grotesque appearance of the group, burst out into a hearty laugh, and thus it terminated.—New Orleans Crescent City.

JOHN TYLER,

President of the United States of America.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

Satisfactory evidence having been exhibited to me that John H. Brower has been appointed Consul of Texas for the port of New York, and Francis Carney Smith, Consul of Texas for the port of Philadelphia, I do hereby recognise them as such, and declare them free to exercise and enjoy such functions, powers, and privileges as are allowed to the Consuls of the most favored nations in the United States.

Given under my hand at the city of Washington, the 8th day of April, A. D. 1841, and of the Independence of the United States of America the sixty-fifth.

JOHN TYLER.

By the President:
DANIEL WEBSTER, Secretary of State.

THE PUBLIC FEELING. As a steamboat was about leaving Wheeling, crowded with passengers, a heartless man observed that he regarded the President's death as a public blessing. The remark startled those who heard it, and, for a time, deep silence was the only answer which was made. At length a man, venerable in appearance and years, in a voice stifled with grief, said, such wanton levity was not consistent with a true American, and that he would not travel with any one who could so speak. All the passengers concurred in this opinion, and the heartless wretch was ordered on shore as being unfit to associate with men.—Cincinnati Republican.

PRETTY GOOD. A gentleman by the name of Towle, was frequently praising an interesting young lady by calling her the belle, &c. A facetious female friend observed to him that he had been ringing that belle long enough, and to be frank, she would advise him now to make her Towle.

☞We learn, says the Norfolk Beacon, by a letter from the Purser of the U. S. sloop of war Concord, that Lieut. Algernon S. Worth died at sea on the 3d of February, 1841. He has left a wife in Portsmouth, Va., to mourn his loss.

☞THE BOSTON MAIL comes to us considerably enlarged, but without any improvement in typography. Its modesty is only equalled by its paleness.

GEN. GAINES, lady and infant, arrived in N. Orleans on the 4th inst. and took lodgings at the St. Charles.

MESSRS. EDITORS: I am much obliged to your correspondent for his reply to my question concerning round and square timber; but, with all deference to his superior knowledge, I do not think he has met the point which I made. I wished to know the reason of the thing; and it is not a sufficient answer to say that the English Parliament decreed so and so in regard to this measure. That body decided on the barley corn as the lowest element of a measure of length—and also that 12 inches shall make a foot;—but had they determined that any thing more or less than 144 square inches should make a square foot, no act passed by them could have made it reasonable or correct.

So with the measure under discussion. It is not, it seems to me, one of simple length, but belongs to solid measure. If it is merely an arbitrary measure, and confined to length only, it is ridiculous and useless; for what point of comparison is there between round and hewn timber in the statement as now enunciated? According to the view of your correspondent, a cylinder of timber 40 feet long and 3 feet in diameter may make a ton or load; while a piece of timber 30 feet long and but 6 inches square will likewise amount to the same quantity. This is absurd.

There must, then, be some relation between the size of the round and that of the hewn timber in order to make a fair and satisfactory measure. I did think it was intended to compare a square piece of timber and a round log, from which a square piece of equal size could be hewn; but on making the calculation, I find that the round piece of 40 feet length would contain many more solid feet than a square piece of timber into which it is susceptible of being hewn, even though 50 feet long. Besides, in buying round timber, the purchaser, instead of getting less, always gets more than he would if it were hewn. I must say, I am still "puzzled" to know what the statement means. S.

SINGULAR. One of the workmen attached to the Baltimore Shot Tower, while passing through Howard's Park, at an early hour yesterday morning, heard a flock of wild geese passing over him, and looking up saw something white descending towards the ground. He took off his hat containing his handkerchief, and was thus enabled to catch unbroken a large goose egg, which had been sent down by one of the aerial party referred to.—American.

We should be pleased to see the egg—we should like to be informed of its weight, dimensions, &c.—we should like to know what kind of a crown that hat had—we should like to know from what altitude the egg fell—we should like to see a vote of thanks to the gentleman who caught it, for his astonishing presence of mind—could there not be an express sent after the wild goose? We should like to know if the egg had have fallen on the gentleman's head, what would have been the consequences—we should like to know if the whole affair is not like the three pieces of coin which only make one dollar on the first of April!

BROOKLYN. Cyrus P. Smith, Esq., has been re-elected Mayor of Brooklyn, by a majority of 721.

FLORIDA. The National Intelligencer says:—"Our information, we are sorry to say, leads us to the belief that there is a mischievous influence at work among certain persons in Florida other than Indians, which, prompted by merely mercenary considerations, counteracts the dispositions of the Indians for pacification, and prompts them to keep up hostilities when they would otherwise find their interest in giving up their arms. It is difficult to believe in the reality of conduct so detestable; yet it is positively affirmed in private letters received in this city. We express only what we are sure must be the universal sentiment when we say that those white savages are infinitely more criminal and more worthy of punishment than the red men whom they practice upon."

We think it very probable that the Indians have been instigated to their course by white men who make a profit by the continuance of the war. We hope that measures will be adopted at the extra session of Congress to bring the Florida contest to a speedy close. There appears to have been great imbecility in the management of this Indian war, or local obstacles are greater than we apprehended. It has already cost the nation some twenty millions of dollars—and, notwithstanding hopes are occasionally held out that the contest is approximating to a termination, yet we can have little expectation of that event so long as the Indians can be influenced by interested white men, who seek, for their own advantage, to prolong the war. Effectual steps should be immediately taken to apprehend and punish, in the most exemplary manner, those white savages who are thus engaged in the traffic of blood, and to prosecute the war against the Indians with the utmost rigor. The repeated acts of treachery, of which the enemy has been guilty, render it unsafe to confide in any profession; and the sooner an efficient force is sent to compel their submission, the better will it be for themselves and the country.

BALTIMORE MARKET,
April 16, 1841.

Flour. Business in Howard-st. flour during the past week has been rather limited. Sales have been generally made at $4.62½ from stores for good common brands. Some transactions have been made during the latter part of the week at $4.57. A fair quotation may be made at $4.60. We continue to quote the wagon price at $4.50. City Mills continues at $4.62½. The stock on hand is light. Sales of Susquehanna are still made at $4.62½, though the market generally as regards flour is dull.

Grain. We quote Penn. wheat at 100a102c, reds we quote as at last quotations, 90a100c, according to quality, and prime 108c. Penn. Rye 54a55c, and Md. 50c. Corn—A fair quotation for Md. white is 45a47 according to quality, and of yellow do. 47a49c. Oats are scarce and in demand. We note last sales of Maryland at 33 a 35 cents, and of Virginia at 33 cents.—The transactions in cloverseed are small, the article being partially out of demand. We quote at $4.28 a 4.50. Limited transactions have been made in timothy seed from stores at $2.62½ a 3, as to quality.

Provisions. In the provision market we note no material change. For the past week transactions have been tolerable. We quote mess beef at $12.50, No. 1 at $10.50 &c. according to quality. Baltimore Mess Pork continues at $12.50; No. 1 $10.50, and prime from 8 to $8.50. Sales of Western Bacon have taken place at 6a6¼c. per lb.; Hams do. 8a9c.; Middlings 6¼c. and Shoulders 6¼c.; prime Balt. cured Hams we quote at 10c. and Sides do. 8¼c. Western Lard, No. 1, 8c. for cash. There is hardly anything doing in Western Butter. Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in mixed lots have been sold at from 6 to 7c. In Glades there is nothing doing.

Cattle. Beef Cattle on the hoof we quote at $7.75a$8.25 per 100 lbs. Live Hogs are plenty, and will bring from $5.50 to $5.62½ per 100 lbs.

Whiskey. We quote hhds. at 20c. and bbls. 22c. The wagon price exclusive of the bbls. is 18c., which is a small reduction.

THE MARYLAND ARCADE

Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS!

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hats: Splendid Russia Hats at $3.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3.00; Clipt Nutria Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

fe4-3m* POLYDORE E. RILEY.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

SATURDAY MORNING, April 17, 1841.

The Ocean for the present week is peculiarly interesting, containing numerous accounts of the funeral ceremonies occasioned by the death of President Harrison, poetry, original and selected; proceedings of the great meeting at the Exchange; interesting tales; scientific articles; United States Bank; Mr. Biddle's letters in full; Miscellaneous foreign items by the last arrivals; President Tyler's address to the people of the United States; Proclamation—a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer; Editorials; and a great variety of other matter of a useful and entertaining character. Subscriptions received as usual, at $1 50 per annum—or $1 00 for six months—always payable in advance. Extra copies can be obtained at the office with or without envelopes—price 6¼ cents each.

Female Education. Nothing has had a greater tendency to elevate the female character, and to give to woman her natural position in society, than the introduction of christianity; for the march of civilization has accompanied the progress of the christian religion—yet, notwithstanding the general recognition of woman's equality, by enlightened nations, the necessity of her intellectual improvement has not been so universally admitted, nor the important influence which she exercises in human affairs properly appreciated. We had the pleasure of hearing an eloquent and convincing discourse on this subject on the evening of last Sabbath. The learned bishop by whom it was delivered urged a great variety of considerations which should induce more strict attention to female education. He very properly contended that, inasmuch as in the tender years of childhood the earliest, and perhaps, the most enduring impressions of the mind must be derived from the mother, nothing could be more important to the welfare of society, religiously, morally and politically, than to have the mother properly prepared by education for the responsible task she had to assume. The opinion has too generally prevailed, that it is sufficient to have a female instructed in reading, writing, and a smattering of arithmetic, and in these only superficially. This the learned bishop thought a radical error, productive of much mischief; because a female thus slightly educated could not be well qualified to watch the developments of the infantile intellect; to control its aberrations and to guide it in a safe course. We heartily responded to every sentiment he uttered upon this subject. It is impossible that a vain, frivolous and ignorant mother can give a proper direction to the mind of her infant, or rear it to become a useful, much less a prominent member of society. Man is an imitative being, and is disposed to follow the example of those by whom he is surrounded; and is more particularly inclined to imbibe the principles and adopt the practices of those to whom he is entrusted in his infantile years. He is the creature of education, and it is not therefore, a matter of indifference whether his earliest instruction be given by a person morally and intellectually competent, or by one disqualified by habit and education. By some people the female is assigned a station little superior to that of the brute; and wherever this occurs, we discover the absence of intelligence and refinement, and the prevalence of barbarism, cruelty and superstition. Christianity has raised woman from degradation and slavery, where she was only the instrument of pleasure or profit, and placed her as the equal of man, in the protection of her person and the maintenance of her civil rights—but she fails to be instrumental, to the extent of her capacity, in benefitting society, because unjust prejudice has prohibited the expansion of that capacity by proper education. It was urged with great propriety and force, in the discourse which we have mentioned, that this restrictive policy should be abandoned, and that a more liberal system of instruction shall be extended to females. In a wife the husband should look for a rational companion, and the child should have in the mother a safe and intelligent guide; but in both there must be disappointment, if the education of the female be confined to lighter accomplishments, to the neglect of those of more solidity and usefulness.—The case of Washington was referred to in illustration of the agency which a mother has in the formation of the future character—and the exalted virtues and distinguished talents of that great man, were attributed to the early lessons impressed upon him by his mother—and such no doubt was the fact to a considerable extent. Had he been left to the care of one who was either incompetent or disinclined to implant into his infantile mind, those excellent principles which were subsequently so conspicuously exhibited, it is possible that our beloved Washington would have passed through life as an ordinary, individual, and that the war of independence would yet remain to be fought.

Front Street Theatre. Mr. Laforest, the daring representative of the celebrated highwayman, Dick Turpin, with his mare Bonny Black Bess, is announced for a benefit this evening, when the last representation of the grand Equestrian Drama of Rookwood will be given. The piece has been performed to full houses every night during the present week, and we apprehend there are yet many who have not had the opportunity of seeing it. Let all such go to-night—those who have seen it will be sure to go, and to those who wish to secure good seats, we would say go early. The house will be crowded.

State Debts. The sums due on bonds issued by the several states of the Union amount, according to a schedule given in an exchange paper, to the enormous aggregate of $218,103,179. The principal part is due to the capitalists of Europe. It is estimated that there is due from cities, banks, and other corporations, about one hundred millions of dollars, making, with the above, upwards of three hundred millions of dollars! This appalling debt has been contracted by imprudent legislation, and can only be liquidated by retrenchment of expenditure and oppressive taxation. But, notwithstanding the heavy burthen which will necessarily have to be imposed upon the people of some of the states to discharge the principal and interest of these debts, we can by no means sanction the opinion expressed by the editor from whom we quote, that there is no moral obligation upon the states to pay them. It will not answer to draw a distinction between the acts of the state legislatures and those of the people of the states. Legislators are the agents and representatives of the people; and if the latter make injudicious selections of their agents, it would be a strange perversion of justice to disclaim their authority, and make innocent parties suffer for their ignorance or misconduct. We hope that no state will be guilty of so gross a violation of the plainest principles of honesty and good faith, as to attempt to get rid of their solemn obligations by so base a subterfuge. In proportion to extent of territory and population, Maryland is probably as largely indebted as any other state; and her legislators might, perhaps, be as justly chargeable as others with having acted imprudently—but we are certain that a proposition to spunge off her debt, as suggested by the editor before mentioned, would be treated with scorn by every citizen of the state. In this state the crisis has been met with firmness and integrity—and the people will submit to taxation, however burthensome, in preference to sacrificing the credit of their state. We regret that a contrary course should have an advocate any where; for so soon as states cease to regard their contracts as inviolable, all confidence must be extinguished. We trust that that period will never arrive.

Truly Melancholy News—North Bend burned to the ground! Attached to the U. S. Mail way bill from the West yesterday morning, is the following letter from Wheeling:

Post Office,
Wheeling, (Va.) April 14.

We learn by this morning's mail from the West, that the residence of General Harrison, at North Bend, Ohio, was burned to the ground on Sunday night last, the 11th inst.

L. S. DELAPLAIN, Assistant P. M.

We have also the following from the Cincinnati Republican:

Cincinnati Republican Office,
Monday Morning, April 12, 1841.

Fire at North Bend! The Captain of the steamer New York reports that when he passed North Bend, at 6 o'clock last night, the West wing of the Mansion House of Gen. Harrison was on fire—the roof was covered with persons with axes and buckets of water,—the windows of the house were taken out and the furniture had all been removed out upon the green in front of the house. The Captain thinks the main building will be saved.*

The Mail Boat has not yet arrived—perhaps detained on account of the above.

*Since burnt to the ground.

Fire. A fire broke out yesterday afternoon about half past 5 o'clock, in the Livery Stable of Mr. Thomas Dunlevy, fronting on Frederick, and running through to the coach yard on North Gay street, nearly opposite Fayette street. The entire upper part of the building with its contents were consumed. At the breaking out of the fire a number of horses were in the stable, all of which were fortunately gotten out before the devouring element had progressed to any considerable extent. A house in Frederick st. adjoining the stables, occupied by Mr. Richardson, and owned by Mr. Abel Spencer, caught fire on the roof but was soon extinguished by the activeness and energy of our firemen. The dwelling of Mr. Dunlevy was also in imminent danger, as well as the chair factory of Mr. Mathiott, and several other adjoining buildings. No damage, however, of any account was sustained by either, except the stable, the loss on which we learn is covered by insurance. The fire originated in the hay loft, and was unquestionably the work of an incendiary.

Our firemen deserve much praise for their promptness and energy in extinguishing the flames, otherwise our city might have sustained a most disastrous conflagration, the surrounding property being of so combustible a nature.

Rioters. A party of watchmen entered a colored ball room night before last at half past eleven o'clock, in the Western District, and brought out the following 'darkeys,' charged with dancing and rioting, viz:—Henry Jones, Henry Williams, John Dorsey, Wm. Dunine, Nicholas Knight, George Matthews, Wm. Cook, Samuel Johnson, John Brown, James Wright, Fanny Floyd, Jane Gamble, Ann Weeks, Louisa Knight, Mary Jane Logan, Sophia Williams, Sarah Knight, Louisa Jane Parks, Mary Wilks, Louisa Waters, Maria Waters, Henrietta Smith, Ann Williams, and Mrs. Nancy Williams, the latter mistress of the ceremonies. They were all conducted to the watch-house, and in the morning 'reprimanded' and permitted to depart.

Launch. The new barque Creole, built for B. Buck & Son, will be launched this afternoon at 4 o'clock, from the ship yard of Messrs. Cooper & Abraham, Fell's Point.

Most Atrocious Act. We learn from the Boston Times that an act of the most fiendish and diabolical character was perpetrated last week in Cambridge Port. The circumstances are thus related: A young man named Mortimer Tappan, about twenty years old, (son of the Rev. Mr. Tappan, an Orthodox clergyman, residing at Cambridge Port) who has been employed as clerk in the store of Messrs. Cushing & Wilkinson, of Boston, had been paying his addresses to a young lady by the name of Nancy Felton, the daughter of a poor but respectable mechanic of Cambridge Port. The parents of young Tappan, it is said, objected to the match.

On Fast evening, Tappan called on Miss Felton, and invited her to take a walk, which invitation she accepted. During the walk, he observed that he had some excellent figs, which had been sent to him by an uncle or some friend at a distance, and offered her one—which she took and commenced eating it. She soon noticed that it tasted very peculiarly, and remarked so to Tappan, who replied that the fruit was a new and very fine kind. She had eaten about half of the fig; the other half she preserved. During the walk she began to feel ill, and on her return home was taken violently sick. A physician was sent for, who, from the symptoms manifested, declared that she had been poisoned. The half of the fig was produced, and on examination it was found to contain a large quantity of Spanish Flies.

Tappan was held in security to the amount of $1000. He was unfortunately a member of the Orthodox church at Cambridge Port. Later accounts state that the young lady is yet dangerously ill.

Splendid Badge. Mr. C. T. Hinckley, a young and promising artist of this city, has shown us a badge, gotten up in a very unique and beautiful style. It is intended to be worn in the approaching funeral procession of our late lamented President, W. H. Harrison. It is on fine white satin ribbon, upon which is represented a monument and tomb, having the following inscription:

W. H. HARRISON.
BORN FEBRUARY 9, 1773.
INAUGURATED
MARCH 4, 1841.
DIED APRIL 4, 1841.

This is certainly a very chaste emblem of mourning, and one in every respect adapted to the solemn and imposing occasion for which it is intended. We would suggest the propriety of societies giving this badge their attention. The artist, we learn, will make known further particulars by advertisement.

Police. Daniel Maines, charged with assaulting and cutting with a knife police officers Duvall and Myers, was on Thursday brought before Justice Barnard, and in default of security for his appearance at the City Court, committed to prison. Amanda Williams, charged with assaulting Heurietta Scott, was committed to prison by Justice Gorsuch. Margaret Curtis, charged with disturbing the peace, was committed to jail by Justice Barnard. Robert Easton, for assaulting Nicholas Meads, was committed by Justice Gorsuch. Henry Barnes was arrested, and brought before Justice Jones, charged with assaulting Westcourt Lewis, and required to give security for his appearance at the City Court.

Mitchell, the Forger. A gentleman from New Orleans via Cincinnati, reports that Mitchell were seen going down the Ohio River, on board the N. York steamer, a very fast boat, and that about one hundred miles astern of Mitchell, was seen his pursuers, headed by Robert W. Bowyer, the N. York police officers, who were making the most strenuous exertions to come up with him. The latter party were on board of a fast boat, but it was doubtful whether they would overtake the fugitive.

☞The alarm of fire yesterday morning between two and three o'clock, was entirely false. These frequent repetitions of false alarms show most conclusively the want of a fire alarm bell, which shall in no case be rung unless the fire is visible. By such a bell, and such a one alone, should the fire department be governed in getting out their engines.

CONGRESS—Extra Session.—We beg leave to suggest, that the vote of the convention, this day, at Ellicott's Mills, be concentrated on our distinguished fellow citizens, Alexander Murdock, Esq. and Dr. Stephen Collins. The first has been long known to us, as an eminently liberal, talented and accomplished merchant, familiar with the wants of the community, and endowed with ability eminently suited to the crisis. Of the latter, it can with propriety be said, that few men in this community stand higher, for all those qualities calculated to make him distinguished as a representative—eloquence, knowledge, and a modest and unassuming bearing, which is always the accompaniment of merit. The bursts of enthusiasm with which the names of these gentlemen have been received on all hands, show fully that their nomination will go far, to create a political millenium, and place the legislative standing of our city upon higher grounds than it has been for many years. It will be received with acclamation by Thousands.

WASHINGTON HOSE COMPANY.
BALTIMORE, April 15, 1841.

☞At a special meeting of the Washington Hose Company, held at the Hall of the Engine House on Wednesday evening, the 14th inst., the following Preamble and Resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased Divine Providence to call from this life our late venerated and beloved Chief Magistrate, Gen. William Henry Harrison. And whereas, this Company is desirous of testifying their regard and respect for the memory of the great and good man—Therefore,

Resolved, That the members of the Washington Hose Company of Baltimore unite with their fellow-citizens in deploring the death of the late President of the United States—a Patriot whose life has been devoted to his country, and whose services in war and peace contributed in a great degree to secure the blessings of union and free institutions amongst us.

Resolved, That with unaffected grief we saw him taken from his high office, but yet confidently believe that he has been thus taken in the maturity of his character and virtues, to receive the reward of an enduring crown—"a crown not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

Resolved, That we condole most deeply with the bereaved family of the deceased, and tender to them our warmest sympathies on this occasion of their affliction.

Resolved, That we will unite with our fellow-citizens and brother firemen in the ceremonies proposed to take place on the 26th inst. in honor of the illustrious dead, and take such post as may be assigned us in the procession.

Resolved, That the front of the Engine House be clothed in black on the day of the funeral procession, and that the bell be tolled during the morning of the said procession.

Resolved, That as a further mark of respect, that the Hall of the Company be clad in mourning, and that the members thereof wear crape on the left arm for the space of ninety days.

Resolved, That B. Dorsey Berry, A. Jackson Levering, William C. Simms, Luther Manship, William H. Addison, William H. Thrush, and George D. Reese, be a committee of arrangements appointed by the company, with power to represent this Company in any convention that may be called on the subject.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be signed by the President and Secretary, and published in the daily papers of this city.

COLUMBIAN FIRE COMPANY.

☞At a special meeting of the Columbian Fire Company, held on Thursday evening, 15th instant, the following Preamble and Resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, In the dispensation of Divine Providence, Gen. William Henry Harrison, the great and good President of these United States, hath been transferred from this to another and a better world, which event the nation now mourns: And whereas, we bow in humble submission to the will of the Almighty disposer of all things, and propose to rely implicitly upon the Goodness of this mighty mind, which has made and preserves us as a nation—governed by a sense of propriety, and urged by sorrowful feelings, we desire to offer publicly our humble tribute of grateful respect and attachment to the memory of our late beloved President—Therefore, be it unanimously

Resolved by the Columbian Fire Company, in meeting assembled, That in the death of the President of the United States, William Henry Harrison, we deplore a national calamity.

Resolved, That we will unite with other associations civic and military, in solemn procession, on Monday, 26th inst.

Resolved, As a mark of respect to the deceased patriot, the hall of the Engine House be clothed in mourning for the space of six months, and that the front of the Engine House be hung in mourning on the day of the procession.

Resolved, That John Henderson, H. W. S. Evans, Thomas Bond, Thomas Benyan, and W. Leary, be a committee to carry the foregoing resolutions into effect.

VIGILANT FIRE COMPANY.

☞At a special meeting of the Vigilant Fire Company, held at their Hall on Thursday evening the 15th inst., the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Whereas, it has pleased the Almighty Ruler of the universe, in whose hands are the destinies of all nations, to remove from the troubles of this life our venerated chief magistrate, General William Henry Harrison, and while we bow in all humility to His mandates, we deem it proper to testify our respect to the memory of the deceased for the services rendered his country, and the high station to which he had been elevated by his fellow countrymen—therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the Vigilant Fire Company, will heartily unite with our brother firemen and fellow citizens, in the contemplated funeral procession on MONDAY, the 26th of April, in honor to the deceased.

Resolved, As a mark of respect that our Hall be shrouded with black for the space of six months, and the members of this Company wear the usual badge of mourning for sixty days.

Resolved, As a further mark of respect, that the front of the Engine House be hung with black, on the day of the funeral procession.

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to carry the above resolutions into effect—also, to confer with other committees of fire companies or associations, or the citizens at large. In conformity with the above resolution, Messrs. J. Trimble, Wm. Clagett, H. Kennedy, C. C. Egerton, jr. and E. Mitchell were appointed said committee. On motion, it was Resolved, That the members of this Company appear equipped with hats or badges of the Company, with crape on the left arm.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THIS perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow-citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. BOOZ,
No. 9 Fleet street.

To Correspondents. Poetical communications have accumulated upon our hands of late, with an increased ratio. This, however, may be accounted for. It is owing to the approach of spring; or, in other words, that season so congenial to the inspiritings of sentimentality, love, courtship, sublimity, beauty, &c.

There are some of our correspondents who no doubt mean well in their attempts to poetize, but unfortunately fall into the inexcusable error of putting together, in a very awkward way, what may be termed very indifferent rhyme. A want of correct measurement and a frequent repetition of rhyming words in a short piece shall always insure its rejection. Poetry, to be readable, must contain ideas, and not old ones either, but those of a novel character handsomely expressed. The subject should be apropos and the production, whether prose or poetry, commensurate with it. Agreeably to the above rule, we are necessarily compelled to refuse the publication of a number of pieces now upon our table.

"The Beauties of May," by W. L. G. shall be kept on file until the ushering-in of that delightful month, when they shall be presented to the reader. A second perusal of a piece on temperrance, by the same author, has caused its rejection.

"Impromptu," by "Cosmo," shall appear.

Stanzas by "Francis," have been approved.

To "The Bride." This is a production by Emily. We think it very pretty and shall give it a place in our columns. Also, her lines on the death of Gen. Harrison.

"A Traveller" shall have a place.

Stanzas to Miss S, by "S." are altogether objectionable. The writer must have been lost in love—his thoughts ran too much upon kissing—his piece is a horrible jumble—out of measure, rhyme and every thing else except sickening sentimentality.

"G. W. M." must be patient. His piece, however, on the death of our late lamented President is faulty. It contains some pretty ideas, but is interspersed with lines having the seeds of condemnation. We therefore lay it aside.

"H. J. J." on the same subject is refused.

A prose production by "S." attempting to show off a descent from the sublime to the ridiculous, fails in its object. The writer has overshot the mark.

We are much obliged to our correspondent "Domesticus," at Washington, D. C., for his letter, but it came to hand rather late.

The production of our esteemed poetess H. L., amounting in substance to a rebuke upon certain authorities, though handsomely written, is laid aside, subsequent movements having superceded the necessity of its publication.

"Switch" is informed that our friend "Chips" has turned his attention to music, and is now so thronged with scholars that he has hardly time to treat the Muses with common courtesy, even when they make him a friendly visit. He has promised, however, to give us a touch when he gets the key note in order.

"W. M. F. P." has done tolerably well, but his piece is objectionable.

"Think of Me," by E. F. B. of Washington, D. C., is very poor indeed. If the author will remunerate us for damages sustained in paying the postage, he can have his document returned.

The Impromptu by "Ringwood" is not poetry—it is words made to rhyme after a fashion. It is rejected.

"J. D." is very clever in his way, but we presume he does not intend his production for publication.

The Ode by T. C. R. has some very pretty expressions, but with them there are faults too numerous to be looked over. We must therefore be excused from publishing. The same faults may be found with another piece, having no signature, which commences—

"And the muffled drum rolled on the air."

The temperance candidate shall have a place.

"The Shower" is in our humble opinion too dry for so moist a subject. T. L. W. will therefore think better of us when informed that it cannot be published.

Thus have we finished a very delicate and precarious task. Those of our correspondents who have been unfortunate must not "give up the ship." We shall be happy to hear from them all, and give publicity to such of their productions as we may be induced to believe will please and edify the reader, provided they meet our approbation.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

TATTLING.

How contemptible is the character of the habitual tattler, who, to indulge his desire to tell tales, will resort to the most mean-spirited and ignoble means. Such a man will be found repeating confidential conversations, magnifying the most innocent remarks, so as to give them the appearance of maligaity; he will not hesitate to become the base medium of communicating unguarded expressions, uttered while under the influence of passion, or to avail of any mean advantage to collect and distribute this sort of information; even though his disclosures may blast the reputation of his best friend, he will not repress them. He is, without provocation, continually sowing the seeds of discord, creating dissentions and destroying good feeling, wherever his pestiferous breath is emitted. His presence is as much to be dreaded as that of disease; indeed more so, for that can be cured, or its effects are confined to its immediate victims, and cease with its removal—while the hatreds, jealousies, petty spites, malice, and all kinds of embittered feeling which are the fruitful offspring of tale-bearing, remain for indefinite periods; strengthen with age, and often terminate with life only.—The tale-bearer produces more mischief and destroys more happiness than the thief, who steals but "trash," and injures but the purses of a few; while the former stoops to the same means, to steal words, which can in no way benefit him, but which he uses to the injury of many. A tale-bearer is a stinking, pusillanimous, unhappy, much to be dreaded wretch—and should be shunned when known as one of the greatest pests and evils with which society is afflicted.

MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

To Dr. Swayne.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences.

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,

ON THE DEATH OF THE LATE

GENERAL WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON.

Sound, sound a requium for the dead,
Peal it o'er land and sea,
For let the mourning dirge be spread
Among the brave and free,
For a nation's pillar prostrate lies,
A Hero ceased to be.

He came in glory and in might,
With martial music's sound,
And hearts beat glad with wild delight
As thousands thronged around,
Gazing upon the hoary head
With untold virtues crown'd.

Loud shouts were ringing thro' the air
Hailing the meteor light
Which came to shed a halo there
Around his country's night,
And myriads blessed the beacon sent
To guide their steps aright.

One month has past, and shrouded now
Within those halls he lies,
The calm of death upon his brow,
Its seal upon his eyes,
A sun from out the western world
Set, never more to rise.

Sound, sound the knell, the battle's o'er,
The strife of earth is still,
And foremost to the charge no more
That Patriot voice shall swell,
Yet long his name with sad regret
Our mourning hearts shall fill.

EXECUTION OF PETER ROBINSON.

NEW BRUNSWICK, April 16, }
11 o'clock, A. M. }

This morning, in accordance with the sentence of the court, Peter Robinson, the murderer of Mr. Suydam, suffered death at New Brunswick, N. J. He was executed within an enclosure immediately in front of the jail, extending out 6 or 7 feet, and the whole width of the jail front, some 20 or 30 feet. The gallows was made after the plan adopted and used in New York, and so arranged by weights and pulleys as to raise the criminal up by a sudden jerk. The principal part of the arrangements were fully completed yesterday.

It was erected in one corner of the enclosure, and consisted of two heavy uprights with a cross beam at the top, through the centre of which, over a pulley, ran the rope which was to suspend the unfortunate man. This rope ran over one corner of the upright, at the end of which were tied five 56 lb. weights, elevated some three or four feet from the ground, and kept in that position by a strong cord running through another pulley, and fastened to a transverse piece of the gallows frame. The principal part of the arrangements having been fully completed yesterday, there was but little to do this morning, so that at the hour designated in the death warrant to the Sheriff every thing was in readiness.

At the request of the prisoner, made last evening, the Rev. Dr. Howe, of the Dutch Reformed Church, visited him, in cell, this morning, and with several religious individuals, continued with him in prayer and other religious exercises, until the moment he was taken from it. He himself made, during the morning, a very fervent prayer. This was about 9 o'clock, at which time the Court House bell began to toll; its doleful peals, reaching the precincts of the wretched man's cell. About 10 minutes after ten o'clock, the Sheriff and jailer, with one or two assistants, proceeded to his cell, for the purpose of arranging his dress and bringing him forth to undergo his punishment. The jailer having unlocked the shackles upon his feet, proceeded to unlock the manacles upon his hands with the same key, when Robinson remarked to him, "you have not got the right key." The jailer persisting in his efforts to take them off, Robinson again said, "you have not the right key; why don't you go and get it!"

As soon as his shackles were entirely removed, his dress, which was a white muslin shirt, was put on, (thrown over his other shirt and a common pair of pantaloons,) when he asked leave to pray, which he did in an audible tone and with much apparent feeling.

He then wanted to shake hands with all present, which he did; and when shaking the hand of the jailer he said, "You have used me like a father—may the Lord bless you and your family!"

Every thing being fully ready, he was conducted by the Sheriff and jailer, from his cell, through the entry, to the platform at the gallows—during which time he manifested no hesitation or fear, but walked with a steady and firm step.

Placed under the gallows the rope was adjusted around his neck, and in one moment the cord which suspended the weight was cut by the Sheriff with a hatchet, when the wretched man was raised from the platform upon which he stood the full extent of the rope, at which instant a great contraction of the legs upwards and backwards was visible, when, to the horror of all the persons present, the knot in the rope uniting the noose around the neck to the main rope slipped, and he was precipitated to the ground. He was instantly raised upon his feet, and stood with but little assistance and without any manifest discomposure for the space of a minute and a half, in which time the rope was properly and securely adjusted; when, with the words "Lord have mercy upon me," the fatal stroke was given, and the unfortunate and unwept victim of the law was launched into eternity, at 22 minutes after ten o'clock.

Although he seemed anxious for the prayers of his friends, and entered into the exercises, he still maintained something of a callous and unrelenting character. Last night, his wife and sisters-in-law took leave of him about nine o'clock, which, on his part, was done in an exceedingly cool and careless manner. His wife appeared to be but little affected.

His brothers, James and William were with him all night, and at parting William was most deeply distressed. Robinson did not close his eyes in sleep the whole night.

Robinson died without a murmur and without a struggle; two or three convulsive motions were observable, a few seconds after he was raised up.

His body was left hanging for about 30 minutes, and then taken down and placed in a common coffin, subject to the disposition of his friends, who had made arrangements to have him buried a short distance over the river.

This wretched man, throughout the whole period, from his arrest to a very short period before his death, has evinced a strange and unnatural peculiarity of character. Ignorant, credulous and passionate, he has been the butt of jeers and taunting in the society he kept, and giving credit to statements in relation to the incumbrance on his property, he has suffered the worst passions of his nature to overcome him, and fearfully has he paid the penalty of his wickedness. It is to be feared the counsels of his Christian advisers, with all their holy and affectionate efforts in his behalf, did not successfully produce that deep contrition of soul so necessary to one in his situation.

During the morning, an individual, an acquaintance, came into his cell and took a seat beside him, but had not been seated long before Peter rather tartly desired him to go away, as he smelt so strong of liquor. The whole arrangements for the execution were well designed; and the solemn scene enacted without any thing to reflect discredit upon the sheriff or any of the officers having charge of the business. Between 30 and 40 persons were admitted within the enclosure, among whom were Messrs. Molleson and Van Dyke, the prosecuting attorneys on Robinson's trial, Mr. Wood, one of his counsel, two or three of the inferior judges and one or two of the jurors who decided the fate of the prisoner.

One or two females, with some small children, had places at the windows of the jail, on the side occupied by the family of the jailor, and witnessed the execution. In the second story room, the windows of which with heavy iron gratings overlooked the spot where the gallows was erected, a number of shoemakers confined for debt were located, most of them acquaintances of Robinson's, who all with earnest gaze took a view of the last moments of the poor criminal. One of them had been a witness against Robinson.

Several hundred persons were assembled on the outside in front of the jail, many of whom manifested much dissatisfaction, because they could not witness the execution. Two companies of volunteers were stationed in front of the door leading from the enclosure, and kept the crowd from pressing upon or breaking the fence.

During last night, Robinson declared that the confession he had made was true. At one time, while the party with him were praying, he expressed in joyful terms that he felt happy, that if his chains were taken off he would not go away, and longed for the hour of his death to come.

Thus in one moment, and in the most ignominious manner, has a young man been taken away from life and all its enjoyments, a sad example to those who survive him to beware of a too great love of money, which is the root of all evil.

It is said Robinson's house and lot is worth $3100, subjected to a mortgage of about $1000, with near $200 outstanding debts, which he has left to his wife during her widowhood.

From the New York Herald Extra.

IMPORTANT FROM CHINA—NINETEEN DAYS LATER.

The Panama, Captain Benjamin, has arrived from China. She sailed from Whampoa on the 6th January. She came out by special passport from Admiral Bremer.

The English merchants were very indignant in consequence. They waited upon the Admiral and represented the injustice of permitting a foreign vessel to depart whilst the coast was under blockade. Admiral Elliot has such a very high respect for the American flag, that he would not listen to them.

The following is a copy of the decree permitting the Panama to pass:

Mr. A. A. Ritchie, a citizen of the United States of America, and merchant trading at Canton, having made oath on the 31st day of Dec., 1840, before his Excellency, Charles Elliot, Chief Superintendent of Trade of British subjects in China, that to his certain knowledge the whole of the cargo now borne on the ship Panama, of New York, in the said United States, whereof D. P. Benjamin is master, is the property of Messrs. N. L. and G. Griswold, and other merchants of New York, and the master of the said ship Panama. These are, therefore, to certify that under the special circumstances which attach to the said ship Panama, I have thought fit to permit her to depart from the port and river of Canton, in the prosecution of her intended voyage to New York aforesaid, and the respective Captains, Commodores, and Commanding officers of Her Britannic Majesty's ships, are to take notice thereof accordingly, and to permit the said ship Panama to proceed on her intended voyage without obstruction or molestation.

Given under my hand, on board H. B. M. ship Wellesly, of Chicapee, 2nd January, 1841.

(Signed) GORDON BREMER,
Commodore of the First Class, and Commander in Chief of H. B. Majesty's Naval Forces in the East Indies.

We learn verbally that the Bogue forts were to have been bombarded on the 7th of January, the next day after the Panama sailed. Every thing was in readiness on board the British squadron.

The trade is not to be re-opened. The Panama and the Kosciusko were the only ships allowed to depart with cargoes of teas.

Ships Lema and Lintin had not arrived.

ACCIDENT AT NEW LONDON. The steamboat Charter Oak, on Monday evening, on her way from Norwich for New York, the night being dark and tempestuous, the captain determined to go into New London until the storm abated. The boat on entering the harbor struck the schooner Saluda, which had taken shelter there; the schooner immediately careened and filled. The mate and sailors succeeded in getting on board the steamboat. The captain and his son were thrown into the water but recovered their hold of the wreck. The steamboat no sooner cleared the wreck of the Saluda than she ran foul of another schooner, and swept down three of the state rooms, but fortunately did no other injury. The captain and son were rescued by a revenue cutter, under Lieut. Pease; the captain lost $500 in money, besides a valuable cargo. A contribution was taken up on board the steamboat for the relief of the sufferers.

THE STRATAGEM.

"I really don't know which I love best," said Jane Mauvers to her friend Marian Westell, as she returned from a splendid party where she was "the admired of all admirers," "William Stanton or Frederick English. Out of a host of admirers that my fortune, now that I am an heiress, has brought to my feet, I have selected them. They are neither rich—both are filled with sentiments of honor as far as expressions and general conduct go. Both love me. Neither have expressed it in strong terms—but either only wait for the necessary encouragement, I am sure, to pop the question. To either, my fortune would be an advantage. They may—it is an ungenerous thought—but I cannot help entertaining it, love my fortune, and not me. Do you know, Marian, I have strong thoughts of putting their love to the test?"

"How can you do it?"

"I have thought of a way. You may remember that I had a cousin who was supposed to be lost at sea, and the property which had made a poor unnoticed girl so much courted, was to be his, if he were living."

"Yes, but you have had the full and positive proofs of his decease."

"I know it, but the world does not, nor can my two favored lovers be acquainted with the fact. I therefore propose to state in the papers that my cousin is not dead as was supposed.—To give up for a time my splendid establishment, and to retire into comparative poverty.—It is said that kings and heiresses rarely hear the truth from the flatterers by whom they are surrounded. This will at least test my friends. What think you of my plan?"

"Excellent—try it, by all means."

The idea was acted upon, and it was curious to see how Jane's admirers dropped off one by one. Her two lovers waited upon her at first in her retirement, and Jane was more puzzled than ever which to choose. Frederick English's visits in a short time became more like angels'—that is, few and far between—while William Stanton's were constant.

Upon one of them he said, "My dear Miss Mauvers, I have known you long. In the days of your prosperity—surrounded as you were by many lovers who were affluent, I did not dare to disclose to you a passion which I had felt from the moment I knew you, and which has grown and strengthened with my acquaintance. Now that you are poor, like myself, the difference which had else hermetically sealed my lips from divulging my heart's passion, is removed. I am not affluent, but I can support you with respectability at least, and if you will accept for your husband one who loves you devotedly, I do not think that you will ever regret the hour that makes you mine. At least I will try never to give you cause."

"I believe you, dear William," said Jane, "and if you will accept a beggar, for I am little better ——"

"Say not so dearest—I cannot listen to such wrong even from your lips."

"Your fortunes will now suffer by the union."

"That they never can. When shall our marriage take place?"

"Next week, if you will."

"At your lodgings here?"

"No, at the house of a friend. Call for me, and we will proceed together there."

At the day appointed, William was in readiness, accompanied by Frederick English. They were both surprised at the magnificence of Jane's attire, and thought it somewhat out of character with her circumstances, but how much more surprised were they when stepping into a carriage with Jane and Eliza, they were driven to Jane's former residence, and found her still the mistress and the heiress, and learned the plot by which she had tested her lovers. The way Frederick cursed himself and his fortune was not slow.

Girls, you who possess money, make it a point of finding out, before the irrevocable knot is tied, whether you are loved for yourselves or your fortunes.—N. O. Picayune.

NINE CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH. In the St. John Gazette of the 8th inst. we find the following melancholy paragraphs:

On Monday last a very melancholy catastrophe occurred at Margaret's Bay—four children, belonging to Mr. John Coolan, were burned to death, during the absence of their mother, who had gone to the river for water. The premises of Mr. Coolan, were entirely consumed—he has also lost £17 in cash, and is left perfectly destitute.

The premises of Mr. J. G. Nelson, of Truro, were burned to the ground on Wednesday last, and melancholy to relate, three of his children, an apprentice and servant girl, perished in the fire. Mr. Nelson and his wife barely escaped participating the fate of their unfortunate offspring and servants.

A slip from the office of the Newport Republican contains the following:—"Tuesday Morning, April 13, Wind N. E. snow over a foot deep on the level, and still snowing."

SOLITUDE. "Perfect solitude is doubtless of advantage to some minds, but far more so if not carried to an extreme and relieved by some little intercourse with society. If we do not behold our fellow men our affections become restricted to too confined a circle and we begin to dislike all others; while if we continue in communication with an ordinary number we learn to regard the whole of mankind with affection."

The population of France, as estimated by La Presse, amounts to 35,000,000, of whom 200,000 are electors; and, according to the same authority, of those 200,000, one-fourth know not how to read or write.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT.

LAND OFFICERS.

Garret Elkin, Register of the Land Office at Springfield, Ill., vice Marvellous Eastham.

John Beard, Receiver of Public Moneys at Crawfordsville, Ia., vice Ambrose Whitlock, (appointed in the place of Marks Crume,) who declines the appointment.

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING
THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 39 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparalleled, and successful manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral Incorruptible Teeth, and can confidently assert that they are superior to any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth FOREVER retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. Be it also remembered, that Dr. W. proportions his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when PURE GOLD is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dentistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.

1. Artificial Teeth out of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.

2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.

3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carrat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as CHEAP WORK is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even SILVER is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent use in the mouth.

4. Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

5. Those individuals who cannot afford to pay the fee of 50 cents for extraction, can have this important operation performed any morning WITHOUT CHARGE, by calling between the hours of 8 and 9 A. M.

Individuals requiring the assistance of a Dentist, may avail themselves of Dr. W's services at any hour of the day throughout the year, to suit their own convenience.

☞ Residence No. 39 Fayette street, near the Post Office, and opposite the First Presbyterian Church.

GREAT REDUCTION.

NO. 7 LEXINGTON STREET.

Four doors west of Chs. st.

A. J. BROWN, SURGEON DENTIST, thanks for the past encouragement, will continue to perform operations pertaining to DENTAL SURGERY and insertion of ARTIFICIAL TEETH at the following greatly reduced prices:

For making a whole set of Teeth,	$30 00
" inserting tooth on gold plate,	3 50
" " " silver "	2 00
" " " pivot "	1 50
" plugging tooth with gold,	1 00
" " " silver,	50
" destroying the nerve,	1 00
" filing teeth,	00
" extracting teeth,	25

☞ Mr B. has no two or three prices for his operations, (or doing work inferiorly because the patient is not able to pay a high charge,) but one regular list of prices as annexed above, which are very low, so that it enables all who are in want of Dental operations to have the services of the subscriber, and in doing so he uses none but the very best of materials in all cases. The above operations are warranted to give satisfaction or the money returned.

The Teeth used by the subscriber are the MINERAL INCORRUPTIBLE TEETH, which have received the approval of the following medical gentlemen, whose respectability needs no encomium—Professors N. R. Smith, J. T. Ducatel, R. W. Hall, S. K. Jennings, E. Geddings, G. S. Gibson, J. R. W. Dunbar.

COUNTRY SEAT FOR SALE.

The subscriber, as agent for the owners, will offer for sale at public auction, at the Exchange, on SATURDAY, 1st May, at one o'clock, unless previously sold at private sale, for which it is now also offered, the COUNTRY SEAT of the late Mr Philip Lurig. It has four acres of land, and is improved with a comfortable BRICK DWELLING, Stable, Gardner's House, Milk House, &c. It borders on the city limits being on the Windsor Mill Road, about half a mile from the Reisterstown Turnpike. There is a productive Orchard and a good Garden on the place. The terms will be accommodating.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M. reach Baltimore		2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	" Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	" Richmond	3 P.M.
" Richmond	3 P.M.	" Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	" Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	" Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	" Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads, Weather and Storms must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Rail—the traveller being also subjected to sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon; and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

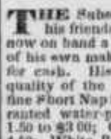
THE MARYLAND ARCADE
Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS!

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hats: Splendid Russia Hats at $2.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3.00; Cript Nutre Hats $4; Cript Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to 3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

fe4-3m* POLYDORE E. RILEY.



TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 19, 1841.

OUR IDEAS OF INDEPENDENCE, NEUTRALITY, A NEUTRAL PAPER, &c. Independence, as regards truth and patriotism, is among the noblest of the Christian virtues; and he who has it not, is a crouching slave, subject to the caprice of an overbearing world—a vassalating menial, whom to look upon is repulsive even to the most sensitive and forgiving sympathy. Much has been said and written in reference to the independence of the press, of politicians and of men in general, —more, indeed, than has ever been put properly into practice. We often find that those who talk most and boast the loudest of this admirable quality, are farthest from its enjoyment. Their opinions are frequently based upon uncompromisable prejudices and their minds are chained down by contracted and illiberal sentiments, which do really seem to preclude even the possibility of investigation. An eclipse overshadows the mental eye, which in revered language, causes them to "grope their way in darkness," or to continue a life time, seeing only "through a glass darkly."

Independence, as we understand it, invites free discussion, opens the avenues to truth, "gives honor to whom honor is due," despises an attempt to shackle in any way the arms of liberty, allows thought to glide smoothly on in its own channel and always observes a strict adherence to prudence. It must be admitted that there are two sides to all questions, and he who would advocate openly the leading features of both, is not only be a bad logician, but a fool, a knave and a hypocrite. The automaton trumpeter can be made, by touching a certain spring, to perform "Hail Columbia," and in the next breath, in like manner, greet the ear with "God save the king." This by some would be called a good figure by which to represent independence; and we should agree with them, if that quality could exist without either motive or volition. No man can be either independent, a good member of society, or in fact honest, who smothers the pure, legitimate conversions of his own breast, for the purpose of giving place to those diametrically adverse to experience, common sense and mature judgment.

A strange, incoherent and contemptible idea seems to have entered the minds of many relative to neutrality, the spirit of neutral papers and the manner in which they should be conducted. There are those who cry out for independence in such journals, who, when an opinion is advanced contrary to their own, think that therefore the editor has, like a wild goose in a fog, lost his course. We would be illiberal in not allowing such individuals to think as seemeth to themselves best; this is their prerogative, and upon equipoise argument, the same is ours. Can an independant man shrink from truth, when virtuously convinced that the promulgation of that truth may redound to the benefit of his fellows? Shall he withhold the proper encomiums due to merit because, perchance, some sycophantic political demagogue may chose to construe them into partizan measures? We answer emphatically "no." There is no independence but that which spurns hypocrisy and springs from a heart conscious of moral rectitude.

There are those who, from grovelling motives, would, if they could, trammel the freedom of the neutral press by throwing in its way the rubbish of modern partial politics. But in this they are happily foiled; for minds so small have influence only commensurate with their own meagreness. It should be the object, and must be, of every honest, respectable journal, to give such intelligence as may tend to general good. And because this thing may be considered political, or that, does it follow that the reader therefore is to be kept in ignorance? Or if one man or set of men be engaged in something positively derogatory to the standing, virtues and reputation of a whole community, is the neutral press to have its voice hushed, because in repudiating there may be an unfounded suspicion of political bias? Out upon such stuff! "Independence now and independence forever"—aye, and the neutral press the one where it is to be found in its nearest proximity to perfection.

☞The National Intelligencer of Saturday states that the President has taken up his residence in the Mansion assigned to his official station, and, at the appointed hours, has received his friends there during the last two days. Among the visitors who on Friday paid their respects to him were ex-President Adams, and the Hon. Mr. Southard, President pro tem. of the Senate, now on a visit to that city.

Mrs. Harrison, junior, and her Sons, with Mr. Coupeland and Mr. Henry Harrison, nephew and grand-nephew of the late President, still remain at the Presidential Mansion. Colonel Chambers and Colonel Todd left this city a few days ago.

COL. ALEXANDER MCLEOD, it is stated, is the eldest of a family of eight, all of whom, at different periods, with their parents, emigrated to Canada from the county of Forfarshire, in Scotland. McKenzie and a colleague of his, came from the same county. McLeod was under-sheriff of the district of Niagara, and on the breaking out of the rebellion, was chosen colonel of the volunteers. A younger brother, Augustus, was one of the volunteers, who encountered and defeated McKenzie and his partizans before Toronto at the first outbreak of the rebellion.

PUBLIC JUSTICE. A writer in Saturday's Republican, who assumes this imposing signature, has forgotten, that public justice cannot be promoted by the infliction of private injustice. He has thought proper to represent the senior editor of this paper as "a lurking whig," and to charge him with having said, whilst editor of the Chronicle, that "he would prefer the Devil to general Jackson as president." The senior editor has never been either "a lurking whig," or a skulking one. There is no man in this community whose political sentiments have been more openly avowed, and more generally known. His position as a writer for the Clipper is that of a neutral; but as a private individual he will always take the liberty to express his political preferences. He is not aware that he ever did, upon any occasion say, that "he would prefer the Devil to general Jackson," because he never has desired to have any intimacy with his Satanic Majesty or to become his subject. He eschews "the Devil and all his works," and would even assist to save the author of "Public Justice" from the fatal grasp of Old Nick. In whatever the editor has said of the Mayor of Baltimore, he has been respectful, if not over-polite. He bears his honor, personally, no ill-will; but shall take the liberty to judge and to speak of his official conduct according to the honest convictions of his mind.

NEW INVENTION. Some Yankee down east has inventen a missile for killing whales, which it is supposed will much lessen the risk attendant upon the whale fishery. The harpoon strikes the whale in the common way, and holds him so sure as it hits him, for it parts its prongs the moment it strikes the black skin, so difficult to penetrate. The two portions of the barbed instrument open by means of certain simple springs which operate at the moment of contract, and thus render it next to impossible for the rope to pact from the whale—the lance cannot draw out, as it is apt to do with those now in use. But in addition to this, in the act of entering the whale a shell is sent into the flesh of the monster, which will almost kill him instantly.

THE SHERIFF OF MORGAN COUNTY ABSCONDED. Charles F. Alden, sheriff of Morgan Co., we are informed by the Ohio Whig Standard of the 1st inst., has decamped, leaving his sureties and creditors to bear the loss of some fifteen hundred to five thousand dollars. He wrote a letter to his wife which was mailed from Columbus, in which he said he was going to Kingston, in Upper Canada; but it is generally believed, among his friends, that he has gone to Texas.

Our corresponden who is so tenacious about the typographical error which accidentally occurred in one line of his poetry, and in one word only, is informed that he can correct it by taking a pen or pencil and going to each of our twenty thousand subscribers, then and there erasing it, and substitute what seems to himself more appropriate.

SHIPWRECK. It is stated in the Norfolk Beacon of the 15th inst. that the schr. Patriot, Cook, of Providence, ten days from Boston in ballast, bound to Bush River, (Chesapeake bay) went ashore at the False Cape, near the Wash woods, on Monday morning last, in a heavy blow, crew saved. The vessel had not bilged when the captain left the beach.

☞A fire occurred in Cincinnati on the 14th, which consumed two houses. While the firemen were endeavoring to extinguish the flames, another occurred over the canal between Third and Fourth streets, burning to the ground the large flour mill of the Messrs. Fagins, and destroying a large amount of property.

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL. The Frederick Herald says: "We are pleased to learn that a considerable revival has taken place in the Lutheran Church in this place. From twenty to thirty persons were added to the number on Sunday last."

FISH. The Alexandria Gazette says: "More shad have been caught this season, at the Fishing Landings on the Potomac, than usual; but the quantity of Herrings (good) has not been so great. The fish, however, have all been very fine and large."

THE MOON. An English paper gives the result of Dr. Robinson's observations on the appearance of the moon, as seen through Lord Oxmantown's immense telescope. One of its mountains is nearly 17,000 feet in height above the plain from which it rises. Generally, however, they are about 5,000 feet.

GEN. SCOTT arrived at Rochester on Friday evening in the railroad cars, on his way from Buffalo, East. We regret to learn that the General is in a delicate state of health, not being able to leave the house during his stay in Buffalo.

NOMINATION. The Whig Convention, composed of delegates from Baltimore city, Annapolis and Anne Arundel county, assembled at Ellicott's Mills on Saturday last, and nominated John P. Kennedy and Alexander Randall, Esq'rs. as candidates for Congress from the fourth Congressional district. The election is to take place on the 17th May next.

CREDITABLE FEELING. The Kingston (U.C.) Chronicle of the 10th inst. reached us in mourning, in consequence of the death of President Harrison. This bespeaks a highly creditable feeling on the part of our neighbors, which we take pleasure in noticing.

FINED. George Spalding, a schoolmaster at Lowell, was the other day mulcted in a fine of $10 and costs, for overwhipping one of his scholars, on whom he inflicted from 40 to 60 blows with a leather strap.

☞Anne Arundel County Court commences its regular term this day at Annapolis.

ORDER.

☞The Aids and Assistant Marshals of the FUNERAL PROCESSION in honor of the late President of the U. States will assemble at the Hall of the Mechanical Fire Company, S. Calvert street, on TUESDAY EVENING, 20th instant, at 7½ o'clock. It is expected that they will be punctual in their attendance.

Col. W. F. Giles,	John H. O'Donnell,

Chief Marshals of the Fire Department, Order of Odd Fellows, and Temperance Societies, will attend the above meeting.

☞The PROGRAMME OF THE PROCESSION is in a state of forwardness, and will be published on Thursday next if the various Associations and Societies report before noon on Wednesday to the Chief Marshal, which they are earnestly requested to do.

BETROTHED VS. MOTHER. A singular and painful litigation has recently been in progress at Boston; one which to all kindly hearts must cause regret, although none can fail to sympathize with the feelings in which it originated. The suit was in replevin—brought by a mother to obtain possession of a watch and portrait formerly belonging to her dead son. The defendant was a young lady to whom the son was betrothed, and it was clearly proved that the watch and picture had been given to her by the deceased just before embarking for the voyage on which he was lost. The verdict was in favor of the betrothed; but one hardly knows whether the most to rejoice with her, or grieve with the mother, at this issue of a contest for the sad memorials so highly prized and so eagerly desired by them both.

SPECIE. The New York Express states that a few days since there was a general call for specie among the banks of that city, and a consequent shifting of balances. The call commenced with the Bank of Commerce, and before it was finished the specie drafts went through all the others. Those most in debt, as a matter of course, had to pay up. This call did not arise out of any demand abroad, or from other states, for there is no demand of this sort, but merely to settle up. There is now no arrangement of interest between the several institutions, therefore there is no benefit to a bank to let other banks be much in their debt. The occasional settlements that are made, are highly necessary to keep things in a sound and healthy condition.—To pay is as necessary as to receive, and banks as well as individuals are kept strict by short reckonings.

DISTRESSING. The Columbia Spy of the 17th, states that on the 16th inst. a hat with some papers belonging to Mr. Christian Yeamish of this borough, was found floating on the river near the bridge. He was in a melancholy state for a few days previous to Thursday night, at which time he left his own house, and has not since been seen. The supposition is that he has put an end to his existence by drowning.

It is stated in the Wheeling Gazette of 14th inst., that Mr. Curry, the distinguished individual who robbed the Ithica, N. Y. Bank, left that city on Sunday last for New York. He was in fine spirits.

The same paper states, that the river is in fine navigable order, there is about fourteen feet water in the channel, and rising, the arrivals and departures of steamboats have been numerous.

☞It is stated in the Norfolk Beacon that a detachment of U. S. Marines, 78 in number, under the command of Lieut. Maddox, arrived there on the 15th, in the steamer Columbia from Washington. A part of them are intended for the Delaware, and the balance as a guard for the Navy Yard.

A TUMBLE. A preacher in Boston went to sleep while sitting in his pulpit a few Sundays since—he fell against the door of the pulpit, and then tumbled down into the aisle, but fortunately woke up without sustaining any serious injury. This is a strong admonition against sleeping in church.

ATTEMPT TO DROWN. A middle aged woman attempted to drown herself on Saturday afternoon last, by jumping into the Falls. She found the experiment, however, to work badly, and cried out lustily for help, after getting a cool dip, which was procured and her life saved.

☞The alarm of fire yesterday afternoon was false. A number of individuals, whom we hope for the sake of honor, were not firemen, collected in Market st. at the corner of Gay, and indulged in a disgraceful riot.

☞We invite attention to a card which will be found in another column headed "Partridge Shooting." We take pleasure in adding our testimony that the painting referred to is one of peculiar merit and beauty.

☞We learn from the New Orleans papers that Gen. Hamilton has been successful in negotiating a loan, which has been for some time talked of, for the republic of Texas.

☞We see it stated in the St. Louis Pennant that Mr. Koch of that city has sold the bones of the animal which he calls the Missourium, for the sum of fifty thousand dollars.

MEETING OF THE BUTCHERS.

☞Pursuant to notice through public print, from the Baltimore Butchers Association, a large assemblage of Butchers met on Thursday, 15th inst. at the Bazzar in Harrison-st. when the President of the Association briefly stated the object to be, whether those present ought to join as a body in the procession to take place on Monday, the 26th inst. in commemoration of the lamentable death of the Chief Magistrate of this Republic; upon which Mr. Charles Myers was called to the Chair, and M. Wolf was appointed Secretary. On motions of several gentlemen, the following resolves were passed with the greatest degree of unanimity:

1st. That we do turn out as a body.
2d. To appear on horseback.
3d. To have the following badges of distinction—National and emblamatic Banners both shrouded in mourning; Pole, Axe and Clever trimmed in black; each man wear a white apron, tied up with black crape; black gloves and crape round the left arm; horse's saddle to be covered over with a cloth and trimmed with black, bridle also to be trimmed with black.
4th. The Chair to appoint emblem bearers; for which were named, Hy. Smith, Emblematic Banner; Andrew H. Wells, the National Banner; John Muckelroy, the Axe; Wm. Blacklar, the Clever.
5th. To elect a Chief Marshal by ballot, with power to appoint ten assistants.

Mr. Charles Myers was elected by a large majority, and named the following Aids; Messrs Stirling Thomas, J. M. Turner, F. Hoover, J. Elmore, E. Moon, J. Nicholson, H. F. Turner, M. Wolf, J. Poppler, and Wm. Carmichael.

6th. Recommendation to all the Butchers of not selling meat in market on the 26th.
7th. Arrangement for music, namely, two bugles and one trumpet. Committee therefor, (of superintendence,) F. Super, F. Cook and Sam'l Pentz.
8th. That all old and retired Butchers from business be invited to the turn out.
9th. A committee to procure a saddle dressed for exhibition; consisting of Moon, Hoover and Hy. Smith.
10th. A finance committee; consisting of Hoffman, Hoover, Moon, H. F. Turner and Chas. Myers.
11th. The above proceedings to be published.

The meeting adjourned, to meet again on Wednesday, 21st inst. at 3 o'clock, P. M., at this place.

ap19-1t MARCUS WOLF, Sec'y.

☞At a meeting of the Tailors of the city of Baltimore, held on Friday evening last, at Union Hall, to make arrangements for joining the military and civic procession to take place on Monday, 26th inst., in paying the last tribute of respect to our late venerated and lamented chief magistrate, Gen. Wm. H. Harrison, Nicholas D. Ruckle was called to the chair, and Joseph P. Watkins appointed secretary, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, it has pleased Divine Providence to remove from this world and our fond affections our venerable and beloved chief magistrate, William Henry Harrison; and whereas we are desirous of testifying our regard for lamented worth, therefore

Resolved, That the Tailors of Baltimore will unite with their fellow cititzens in paying the last tribute of respect to our late worthy President of the U. States.

Resolved, That we respectfully invite our fellow tradesman to unite with us on that solemn occasion which is to take place on Monday, the 26th inst.

Resolved, That this meeting adjourn to meet at Union Hall, on MONDAY EVENING, 19th instant, at 7½ o'clock. NICHOLAS D. RUCKLE, Chairman.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will there find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. MEDICAL AID. The success that has attended the treatment of many thousand cases of Venereal Complaints for twenty years past, induces the subscriber to inform the public, that he may be daily seen and consulted on all cases of the kind, recent and chronic, and on diseases of the urinary organs generally. His treatment is speedy and certain, adapted to the various constitutions of his patients; the medicines are so mild that the most delicate may take them, without any restrictions in diet or occupation. Many cases that have resisted every other mode of treatment have speedily yielded to this, and many persons who have tried all the quack nostrums of the day are frequently calling on the subscriber to have the injuries they have sustained by their use relieved. An early application is advisable in all cases, which may be made at Dr. WARNER'S OFFICE, Albemarle street, one door north of East Pratt street. Medicines furnished in quantities to suit applicants. ap7-eo1m*

To Dr. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertized in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton: no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

☞ The above Medicine may always be had in Baltimore of RICHARD NORRIS of WILLIAM, No. 254 Market street, who is the Sole Agent for this Medicine in that city. All orders coming to Philadelphia, must be directed to DR. SWAYNE,

WAR IN THE WEST. The Little Rock (Ark.) Gazette of the 24th, states, on the authority of a gentleman from the Indian territory, that a war had commenced between the Choctaw and Kickapoo Indians. It is stated that the Kickapoos have, for a number of years, been encroaching on the Choctaw lands, and had been frequently requested to desist, to which they paid no attention. A few weeks since, the Choctaw council deemed it expedient to pass a law commanding them to leave their territory, which the Kickapoos refused to do, but assembled their tribe, numbering twelve hundred warriors, determined to resist the execution of the Choctaw law. They have, in addition to this, sent the war hatchet to the numerous wild and savage tribes who inhabit the extensive tract of country lying between the Choctaw line and the Rocky Mountains.

It is also said, that all the traders who had been residing among the Indians, were busily engaged in removing their goods to the vicinity of Fort Towson for protection.

THE FIRE AT NORTH BEND. We are glad to learn, by the Cincinnati papers received this morning, that the injury to the mansion house at North Bend, as reported on Saturday was greatly exaggerated. The Cincinnati Gazette of Thursday says:

"Great uneasiness was caused in this city yesterday morning, by a report that General Harrison's dwelling house, at North Bend, had been destroyed by fire the previous afternoon. Direct information, however, arrived before noon, and quieted all apprehensions. The building was on fire, but only the upper story of the west wing sustained any material damage. The roof and this were destroyed, but without, we understand, the loss of any furniture, or seriously inconveniencing the afflicted family.

The Cincinnati Daily Times of the 15th, states that the main building was only saved by the tearing away of the hall, which connected it with the part destroyed, which was effected by the timely and active exertions of the Irish laborers at work on the canal near, and of the other neighbors.

The following extract of a letter from Col. Taylor, the son-in-law of the deceased occupant, shows the extent of their services, and how highly they are appreciated:

"We are indebted to the active and noble exertions of Irishmen for the preservation of the house. They not only gave the alarm, but worked as I never saw men work before. They deserve the highest praise, as they have the warmest gratitude of the family and myself for their generous aid. Only a few articles were lost—a trunk of Mrs. Harrison's clothing, a great coat, two silver urns, &c."

ATTEMPT AT MURDER AND SUICIDE. A colored boy attempted to murder his master, by stabbing him with a large butcher knife, a short time since, while on board the steamer Clipper, on her way from New Orleans to Bayou Sara.—The boy succeeded in inflicting two or three severe wounds in his master's neck while asleep in his berth, and then making his escape, jumped overboard and was drowned. The gentleman's name was Tiernan, an old and respectable planter.

The following Banks in South Carolina, says the Hamburg Journal, have accepted the provisions made at our last Legislature, respecting the suspension of specie payments:

The Bank of the State; South Western Rail Road Bank; Union Bank, and the Planters' and Mechanics' Bank.

The following have refused to come into the measures:

The Bank of South Carolina; Bank of Charleston; State Bank; Commercial Bank of Columbia; Bank of Camden; Merchants' Bank of Cheraw; Bank of Georgetown, and the Bank of Hamburg.

The LUMBER, above described, must be well seasoned and dry, of the very best description and free from all defects—such as sap-wood, bad knots, and windshakes.

The Axles—To be of the very best description of iron, and accurately forged to pattern. Any person proposing to furnish the axles, will be required (without cost to the Company) to accompany his proposal with a sample of the article, with a description of the mode of manufacture, and character of the iron of which it was made.

The Bolsters—Must be fagoted, of the best description of bar iron, and accurately forged to pattern.

The Bolt Strap and Bar Iron——To be of the best description of refined rolled iron.

The Spring Steel——Must be of the best quality, well trimmed at the ends and free from defects of any description.

The Shear Steel—To be of the best English manufacture.

Proposers for furnishing the Baltimore Strap and Bar Iron and Spring Steel, will state whether or not the article proposed to be furnished is of English or American manufacture.

The delivery of the materials above enumerated to commence on or before the 15th of July next, and continued in equal and regular monthly instalments, so as to complete the delivery of the whole of the Poplar, Cherry and Walnut Lumber, and the whole number of the Bolsters and about one half of the balance on or before the first of November next, ensuing.

The delivery of the remainder to commence on or before the first of April, 1842, and to be regulated in like manner as above, so as to complete the delivery of the whole quantity on or before the first of October, 1842.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered, and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid—reserving to the company the option of paying the said four-fifths in Baltimore City Six per cent. stock at par, or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to contract.

If the materials contracted for or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered. No payments will be made on account of materials delivered before the times specified for the delivery of the same.

The payments will be made at the Company's office in Baltimore. By order of the President and Directors.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are inspired as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it a ready to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have turned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 29 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh19-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND,

For the cure of Gonorrhea, Gleets, Strictures, Diabets or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethe of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. Also, of L. S. THOMAS, corner of Briton and Forest streets—with full directions accompanying each bottle at $1 per bottle.

☞ For sale in Washington city by ROBERT PATTERSON, cor. 9th street and the avenue, and CHAS. C. STOTT, corner of 7th street and the avenue; and by H. WADE, on 7th street.

BANK OF THE UNITED STATES.

Third Letter from Nicholas Biddle, Esq. to the Hon. John M. Clayton.

ANDALUSIA, Bucks County, April 14, 1841.

Hon. John M. Clayton, Dover, Delaware:

My Dear Sir:—I am about to explain to you some singular details of what would otherwise be unintelligible—the origin and nature of the late proceedings touching the Bank of the United States.

To you who have been wholly unconnected with either the old or new Bank of the United States—to you who have never borrowed a dollar or received a favor from either—nor been responsible for a dollar as principal or surety to either—what concerns the Bank possesses but little interest—but the story should be preserved, not merely to show to the suffering stockholders the influences which have misled them, but as a curious illustration how obscure and insignificant causes may produce great disasters. I pray you therefore to follow me down through these mysteries.

On the docket of the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia—on the Equity side—is the following entry.

Cheyney Hickman for the use of the President, Directors and Company of the Bank of the United States, and the President, Directors and Company of the Bank of the United States, vs. Manuel Eyre & Charles Massey.	Dec'r. Term, 1840. No. 1.

Here is a suit the purpose of which is to decide a claim for a sum varying from 15,000 to $40,000, according to an account which the Bank wishes to compel the parties to render.

Without meaning to give any opinion about that case, the simple fact that the Bank had just brought a suit against Mr. Charles Massey, was of itself sufficient to prevent his being a member of that Committee of Investigation. Before any tribunal he would have been rejected as a juror, and a sense of propriety should have induced him instantly to decline the appointment. His partner, Mr. Manuel Eyre, had been a director in 1840, but in consequence of complaints against him was left out of the Board at the last election—a source of keen disappointment. These feelings found other stimulants to support them. Mr. Eyre is understood to be the largest stockholder in the Schuylkill Navigation Company, of which Mr. Lippincott is the President, and these three persons, Mr. Massey, Mr. Lippincott, and Mr. Eyre, and their friends, are believed to have nearly all their fortunes dependent on the success of that work, while they have no interest in the Bank—Mr. Massey owning only two shares, Mr. Eyre three, and Mr. Lippincott five. It was at one period thought a profitable speculation, but every day it is encroached on by later improvements, and more especially by a railroad going directly to the very mouth of the mines, so that its stock which was sold at 170 or $180 a share, is now on its decline, and has already reached 65 or $60. These parties are extremely sensitive on the subject of every new improvement which may interfere with them, and they are more particularly bitter against this Reading Rail Road, which, when completed, will probably supersede the river navigation. Now the Bank of the United State has been obliged to take for debts a large number of shares in the Reading Rail Road, and with a view to protect its own interests has given facilities to finish the road so as to make it productive; some of the officers and Directors were also holders of shares in the road, and what was still more criminal, Mr. Jaudon while in England negotiated some loan or got some iron for the company. Now the owners of the Navigation Company saw clearly that if these persons should be rendered odious, if the Bank of the United States could be broken down, it would carry down this Reading Rail Road, and thus increase the profits of the company. This is really the foundation of the whole of this attack upon the Bank. It is the vengeance of the Schuylkill Navigation Company against the Bank of the United States for lending money to the Reading Rail Road.

Of that intrigue the Stockholders of the Bank have been already the dupes, and I am very much afraid will be the victims.

To carry it on, availing themselves of the confusion of the annual meeting in January, Mr. Lippincott proposed a Committee, of which he was of course made Chairman, Mr. Massey, another member, and four others completed the committee, which had power to fill their own vacancies. Three out of the six members declined serving, the remaining three filled their places, and as of these remaining three Mr. Lippincott and Mr. Massey were the majority, the committee is in fact a committee of the Schuylkill Navigation Company. All this our gallant friend Capt. Stockton began to explain to the meeting, but he was silenced, as you saw, by the impatience of the crowd. Very soon after they began their labors, which were originally confined to an examination of the Assets of the Bank, came the last suspension of specie payments—and then for the first time they received from the Board of Directors a resolution declaring "that the Board is ready to afford them every facility in the prosecution of any investigation which the Committee may be willing to make of the affairs and transactions of this Bank and the causes of its actual situation, and that it is the wish of this Board that the Committee should make such investigation." Up to the date of the suspension, and while the Board believed that they could go on continuing specie payments, they determined to keep this Committee of Investigation to their proper sphere of verifying the assets, and had so instructed the Committee of the Board appointed to meet the Committee of Investigation. But the moment they found that they could no longer continue specie payments—in the alarm and confusion which followed they appealed to the Committee of Investigation and begged them now to examine the causes of their prostration. That the purpose of this was to relieve themselves by throwing the blame on their predecessors, cannot be doubted, nor is it less evident that the Committee as perfectly understood it as if it had been in the resolution, for the most remarkable character of the Report is this—that from the beginning to the end there is not censured, nor scarcely mentioned any transaction of the Bank within the last two years. There seems to have been a tacit understanding that the Committee might investigate what they pleased if they would only abstain from touching the present Board. "We commenced," says the Committee, "an examination of the affairs and transactions of the Bank, and the causes of its actual situation"—and yet they find no cause, no transaction, no reason for the actual situation of the Bank that is not at least two years old. It seems to me as if my administration had been sold to the Committee by these Directors at the price of their own safety. Had they nothing to say about the protest by Messrs. Hottinguer & Co.—nothing of the injury to the credit of the Institution by the sales of Post notes in the fall of 1839—nothing of the publication of the 1st of January—nothing of the resumption—nothing of the third suspension! Not one single word. The Stockholder wanted to know why his stock was reduced from 116 in March 1839, to 17 in March 1841. Well—the protest by Messrs. Hottinguer & Co. reduced the stock $16 a share—that was a loss of $5,000,000—the publication of the 1st of January, 1841, brought it seventeen dollars a share lower—that was a loss of about $6,000,000—the suspension in February still further reduced it thirty dollars a share—that was a loss of about $10,000,000. None of these trifles seemed worthy of these anxious enquirers after truth—but having at last obtained permission to examine the private accounts they repaid it by confining their attention to those only whom they hoped to injure, and abstained from all serious notice of what concerned those in power at present. Accordingly during these three months inquisition, they could find nothing more interesting than to seek, microscope in hand, the accounts of certain officers and parade them before a crowd of irritated stockholders to excite their indignation—accounts, moreover, finally settled and therefore incapable of yielding any thing but reproaches, and on which, according to their own showing, it is impossible that a loss of any magnitude can be sustained.

Accordingly, when they have finished these gossipings they seem to have done their work, and all that they have to say of the general administration of the Bank is that during the existence of the late Bank of the United States on the 6th of March, 1835, the Committee of Exchange was authorized to make stock loans at five per cent. and they object;

That such a power ought not to be delegated;

That the Committee made too large loans to individuals and firms;

That they ought not to discount bet—only buy bills of Exchange.

That they kept no minutes but gave verbal orders to the officers of the Bank; and that

Their transactions "were never submitted to the Board at its regular meetings nor is it any where mentioned on the minutes as having been reported to that body for their information or approbation."

Now, what I mean to prove is this—

1st. That these exchange committees have been in use since the foundation of the bank—very beneficially to the Bank.

2d. That the Board have from time to time granted to other Exchange Committees the same powers here delegated in 1835.

3d. That the Board have instructed them not to confine themselves to exchanges—but to make discounts, and expressly exempted them from the necessity of reporting their proceedings to the Board.

4th. And finally, I mean to prove that of all the Directors of the Bank, from its commencement to this hour—the man who has been the most decided in his support of the doings of the committee of Exchange—the man who again and again declared that the Committee of Exchange should not confine itself to mere bills, but should make discounts, and should not report its proceedings to the Board—that person is the very identical Mr. Joshua Lippincott, who now, as Chairman of the Investigating Committee, denounces these Committees and Boards for not doing this very thing, which he himself insisted they should not do. I shall at the same time prove that next to Mr. Joshua Lippincott, the individual who was most zealous in the same cause, is Mr. Manuel Eyre, the real member of this Committee, through his partner, Mr. Massey.

1. With regard to the Exchange Committee; in the year 1834, a committee of the Senate of the United States was appointed to investigate the Bank of the United States, and of that Committee Mr. Tyler was the chairman. The recent elevation of this gentleman to the Chief Magistracy could not induce me to say it, but shall not prevent me from saying it, that no man ever went into that Bank with a more sincere disposition to seek the truth, and to expose what he should find wrong; but then his inquiry, though thorough and severe, was conducted in a tone so decided and at the same time so gentlemanly, that it was a pleasure to give him every information he sought. One of the objects of his enquiry was the history and formation of the Exchange Committee. He traced it from its beginning in 1817 to its more regular form in 1821, and he concludes with this: "The Committee on Exchange was created at the same time with the committee on the offices and other committees, has continued ever since, and exists as your committee believes not only in strict conformity with the charter but with advantages to the Bank and convenience to the public."

2d As to the power heretofore conferred on such committees.—On the 9th of July, 1830, on motion of Mr. Alexander Henry,

Resolved, That the Committee of Exchange be authorized to loan on the collateral security of approved public stocks large sums of money at a rate of discount not lower than five per cent.

On the 17th of September, 1830, this power was extended by a resolution offered by Mr. J. C. Fisher, as follows:

Resolved, That a resolution adopted by the Board on the 9th day of July last, authorizing the Committee of Exchange to loan on the pledge of public stock, be so modified as to permit such loans to be made on the same, or other approved securities, at a rate of interest not less than 4½ per cent. per annum.

Now let us see what was done by this Committee of Exchange of which Mr. Eyre himself was Chairman. Under this resolution of 1830, a loan was made which happened to attract the attention of the Committee of Congress, in 1832, on which occasion Mr. Manuel Eyre, made, under his own hand, the following startling statement:

"The Board of Directors passed resolutions authorizing the Exchange Committee to make investments at any rate of interest not less than four and a half per cent. As chairman of that committee I called upon Messrs. T. Biddle & Co. several times and particularly requested them to make all their great operations with us, and urged them to take two or three millions of dollars or more at five per cent., and for as long a time as they wished.—They were not willing to take the loan for as long a time as the Committee wished, but reserved the right of paying off as might suit their convenience. The committee upon undoubted security loaned them upwards of 1,100,000 dollars at 5 per cent.—which loan is now reduced, as your committee has observed, to $6,000,000, and will pay an interest of six per cent. It was thought a very advantageous arrangement to obtain such a large investment at 5 per cent. on such undoubted security, when the committee were authorized to loan at four and a half per cent. I have always regarded this operation as one in which the bank was the favored party, and I think it may be safely and truly said that the account of Messrs. T. Biddle & Co. has been one of the most advantageous accounts in the Bank. MANUEL EYRE.

April 5, 1832."

Here is a chairman of a Committee of Exchanges, who urges a single house to take two or three millions of dollars or more for as long a time as they wished, and by an odd coincidence, this very house on whom Mr. Eyre urged a loan of two or three millions of dollars or more, at five per cent., and for as long a time as they wished, is the very house the amount of whose loan is the subject of complaint by the Committee of Investigation.

3. The next complaint is that the committee made discounts as well as purchase of bills. Now this was done in consequence of instructions in fact given by Mr. Lippincott and Mr. Eyre themselves, of which the proofs is as follows:

On the 12th of April, 1833, the following preamble and resolution were offered:

"Whereas it is proper that the ordinary business of the Board should not be transacted by a smaller number of directors than that required by the charter and the business of discounts can be conveniently transacted as heretofore it has been at the meeting of the Board. Therefore,

Resolved, That the duties of the Committee of Exchange shall not extend to the business of discounts."

On this resolution you will of course suppose that these great champions of loans exclusively by the Board would have heartily embraced this proposal.

Well—

This resolution was made the order of the day for the 19th of April, on which day it was called up, when, strange to say,

Mr. Eyre moved that said resolution be postponed to the day have for the consideration of the Rules of the Bank, and said motion, equivalent to a rejection, was agreed to by yeas and nays, as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Eyre, Lippincott, White, Henry, Sergeant, Fisher, Newkirk, Lewis, Holmes, M'Kim, Biddle—13.

NAYS—Messrs. Macalester, Gilpin, Sullivan, M'Eldery, Wager—5.

On the 2d of May, 1833, the Board proceeded to the order of the day, the consideration of the new rules and regulations for conducting the business of the Bank, [being the same which were adopted and are now in force in April, 1841.]

On that occasion, the following amendment was offered:

"The Committee of Exchange shall act as a daily committee to the Bank, and afford their aid and advice in all cases relative to the interest and affairs of the institution, but their duties shall not extend to the business of discounts. They shall lay before the Board at every stated meeting, a statement of their proceedings, which shall be read before the discounts of the day are settled."

This amendment was rejected by yeas and nays as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Sullivan, Wager, Gilpin—3.

Nays—Messrs. Lippincott, Eyre, Bevan, White, Fisher, Chauncey, Newkirk, Macalester, Lewis, Holmes, Potter, Biddle—13.

At the same sitting, this amendment to the rules was proposed:

"A statement of the proceedings of the Committee on Exchange since the last stated meeting shall be reported in writing and read," which was rejected by yeas and nays by the same inflexible haters of loans by the Committee of Exchange The votes were—

Yeas—Messrs. Gilpin, Wager, Sullivan, Willing, White, Macalester, Potter—7.

Nays—Messrs. Lippincott, Eyre, Bevan, Fisher, Chauncey, Newkirk, Lewis, Holmes, Biddle—9.

The decision by this vote, was in fact an instruction to the committee that they ought to include discounts in their business, and that they need not report their doings to the Board.

Mr. Lippincott and Mr. Eyre as members of the Committee of Investigation, think it wrong for the Exchange Committee to discount—still more wrong for a Cashier alone to discount—and they would doubtless have added, if they had thought such an enormity conceivable, that the extremity of wrong would be for a director to obtain discounts from the Cashier without the knowledge of the Board—yet I am assured by the late Cashier that both Mr. Lippincott and Mr. Eyre, while sitting as directors, frequently asked and obtained from him large loans which they did not submit either to the Board or to the Committee. These acts of kindness ought to have prevented any very violent indignation on their part against loans by the Cashier.

But say the Committee, the Exchange Committee keep no minutes—make no entries—but having decided any thing, give verbal orders to the officers to carry it into execution. Well, in what other way do committees act? Mr. Lippincott has been I believe a Director for more than twenty years, has been a member of many of the Committees, and Chairman I believe of them. Did he ever keep minutes? Did he ever propose such a thing—think of such a thing? Does any Exchange Committee of any bank in Philadelphia keep minutes? And now at the end of these twenty years he comes to reproach his ancient colleagues with not doing what he did not do himself.

And now we come to the final and most important part of this report.

In a year or two after the veto of the bill rechartering the bank in 1832, it prepared by degrees to retreat back to Pennsylvania by the gradual sale of the branches, and by the concentration of the assetts in stocks which might at any time be available in any aspect of its affairs, either to wind up or to expand under a new charter.

Accordingly on the 6th of March, 1835, there is the following entry on the minutes:

"The president submitted to the board a general view of the situation of the bank; its means and liabilities; its circulation and deposits; and the probable future demands upon it; showing its ample resources and power of expansion—

"Whereupon, on motion of Mr. Coxe, seconded by Mr. Henry—

"Resolved, That the committee of exchange be authorised to make loans on the security of the stock of this bank or other approved security—and if necessary, at a lower rate than six but not less than five per cent. per annum."

Let us see then who are the persons composing these exchange committees to execute this resolution. They were according to the appendix to this report:

In 1836—March 4. Messrs. Platt, White, Newkirk. Oct. 7. White, Lewis, Price.

In 1837—Jan. 6. Messrs. Lewis, Price, Platt. July 11. Cope, Humphreys, Vanderkemp.

In 1838—Jan. 5. Platt, Cabot, Waln. Oct. 9. Waln, Lewis, Vanderkemp.

In 1839—Jan. 11. Vanderkemp, Price, Cabot. July 5. Cabot, Cope, Waln.

In 1840—Jan. 7. Price, Lewis, Newkirk. July 7. Price, Cabot, Handy. Oct. 13. Waln, Handy, Cabot.

This then was the settled course of policy of the bank until its future fate could be ascertained. No one can deny that this was the true course for the bank. Now this, according to the committee, is the source of all the disasters of the institution—and they assign as reasons the size of the loans made, and the want of minutes by the committee, which I have already answered, and finally it is declared that the business done by the committee "was never submitted to the examination of the board, at its regular meetings, nor is it any where entered on the minutes, as having been reported to that body, for their information or approbation."

"The established course of business," say they, "seems to have been for the first teller to pay on presentation to the counter, all checks, notes, or due bills, having endorsed the order or the initials of one of the cashiers—and to place these as vouchers in his drawer for so much cash—where they remained until just before the regular periodical counting of the cash by the standing committee on the state of the bank. These vouchers were then taken out and entered as 'bills receivable,' in a small memorandum book under the charge of one of the clerks." And then we are led to imagine that these irregular loans having once got into this gulph of bills receivable, lay hidden from every human eye.

This was undoubtedly what this committee would have persuaded the stockholders—this is what they meant to insinuate without asserting it. But by one of those lucky accidents which sometimes defeat the worst designs, this very committee have inadvertently and unconsciously put forth a statement, which not only flatly contradicts the whole of their report, but convicts their chairman, Mr. Lippincott, of the grossest negligence or connivance. As long as the committee wished to prove that the officers of the bank and the exchange committee were guilty, it suited their purposes to represent these persons as concealing their proceedings. But having accomplished this, there were still some directors—some stockholders probably of the Reading rail road—who were to be punished, and they therefore turn short round, and declare that these very proceedings were constantly before the directors, who, they insinuate, are guilty of neglect in not examining and stopping them. Thanks to this blind rage for more vengeance, they thus reveal what completely answers all that they have previously written, and never, certainly, was seen at the quarter sessions, any witness caught more completely in his own trap. All this is seen in the following extract from the report:

"By the thirteenth standing rule of the bank, it is provided that the committee on the state of the bank, composed of five members, and elected by ballot every three months, should 'at least once during their time of service examine and count the discounted notes; and compare the amount thereof with the balance of the amount of bills discounted in the general ledger; they shall also count the cash, and the printed and unprinted paper in possession of the cashier—examine the evidences of the public debt and property of the corporations, make an inventory of the same, to be compared with the books in order to ascertain their agreement and report to the board.' The custom appears to have been for this committee to confine their examination exclusively to the cash, bills discounted on personal and other security, the issues, and the printed and unprinted bank paper on hand. The account, however, of the general state of the bank, submitted to the directors at every stated meeting, contained the items of 'bills receivable on bank stock and other security,' which included as well the bills receivable for sale of branches as the loans made in the manner heretofore adverted to, and 'foreign bills of exchange,' under which head was contained the advances on shipments of merchandize. Thus, on June 28th, 1839, on which day an examination was reported by the committee on the state of the bank, there stood to the debit of 'Bills Receivable' the sum of 13,106,074 dollars; 55 cents, and of 'Foreign Bills of Exchange' the sum of 7,216,109 dollars, 34 cents."

This is truly astounding. Here it appears by the declaration of this committee itself, that at every stated meeting of the Directors for many years, all these loans now deemed so secret—all these advances on Cotton—every species of investment which is the subject of reproach was submitted to the Directors. Every day did these Directors see on the table before them this statement of loans and advances, and any Director who wished for the particulars had only to ask for it and the whole details would have been immediately brought into the Director's Room. Not merely might every Director examine it—but there was a committee whose special duty it was to examine it, according to the by-laws, every three months.

Now who were these committees on the state of the bank, whose business it was to control the Exchange Committees? They were:

In 1836—March 4. Lippincott, Neff, Brown, Trotter, Beylard. October 7, Neff, Troth, Beylard, Newkirk, Cope.

In 1837—January 6. Newkirk, Lippincott, Bohlen, Vanderkemp, Hickman. April 14. Newkirk, Lippincott, Bohlen, Lewis, Hickman.

In 1838—January 5. Lippincott, Lewis, Bohlen, Brown, Connell. October 9. Cope, Neff, Cabot, Alsop, Hickman.

In 1839—January 11. Waln, Hickman, Alsop, White, Newkirk. July 5. Alsop, Hickman, White, Newkirk, Ingersoll. December 17. White, Newkirk, Cabot, Cope, Price.

In 1840—January 7. Waln, Neff, Connell, Handy, Cabot. July 7. Waln, Taylor, Alsop, Neff, Brown. October 13. Neff, Lewis, Martin, Eyre, Brown.

But more especially let us follow Mr. Lippincott.

We have just seen by the above extract from the Report of the Committee that on the 28th of June, 1838, on which day an examination was reported by the Committee on the state of the Bank, there stood to the debit of "Bills Receivable," the sum of $13,106,074 55, and of "Foreign Bills of Exchange," the sum of $7,216,109 34.

Here then was every item of all these loans and cotton purchases before a committee whose bounden duty it was to examine them. Who was this Committee? What Directors were they, so lost to their duty as not to have examined these doings and exposed them? Who, above all, was the Chairman of that Committee, the natural leader of that great reform? Alas, for human infirmity. In the appendix of the Committee's report is a list of all the Committees for several years, from which it appears that on the very 28th of June, this vigilant committee on the state of the bank, stands recorded, and at their head is

JOSHUA LIPPINCOTT, as Chairman.
Lawrence Lewis,
John Bohlen,
John A. Brown,
John Connell.

And now when this Mr. Lippincott goes before the stockholders to complain of abuses, let him be asked by some independent man what he did on that occasion. Say to him did you examine these statements? If you say no—then you betrayed your duty—then you were faithless to us. If yes—then why did you not stop these proceedings, which now nearly three years afterwards you come to us to denounce. You are unjust to us in either way, and we fear that all this pretended zeal in our service is but a mask to conceal your own selfish purposes. Let any stockholder say that to him, and see what he will answer.

On the whole, my belief is, that this movement is a conspiracy got up by the managers of Schuylkill Navigation Company, aided by a few weak persons who did not see that they were the dupes of their selfish associates—that to carry their objects, they have by misrepresentations irritated the stockholders into measures which cannot fail greatly to injure their interests, and that the Bank of the United States has been sacrificed to the jealousy and the despair of the Schuylkill Navigation Company.

And now I have occupied you long enough with these miserable intrigues, and will release you with the assurance of the sincere respect of, Your's,

N. BIDDLE.

THE MARYLAND ARCADE
Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hats: Splendid Russia Hats at $3.56; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3.00; Clipt Nutre Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be Ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $3.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

TUESDAY MORNING, April 20, 1841.

FOREIGN NEWS EXPECTED. Two steamships are now due. The Great Western, which sailed from Bristol for New York on the 3d inst., and the Caledonia, which sailed from Liverpool for Boston on the 4th inst. Should the news arrive by this evening's mail, it will be issued from this office on an Extra sheet immediately after its arrival.

BANK OF THE UNITED STATES. Mr. Biddle's third letter will be found on the first page of our paper. The disclosures made in regard to the management of this Bank shew, that the grossest errors (to use mild language) have been committed. Indeed, there would seem to be some radical defect in the whole banking system of the country. The business is overdone; and in jostling against each other, some must go to the wall. But, besides the injury sustained by the improper multiplication of these institutions, the defalcations and misapplication of funds by bank officers have excited general distrust. It will be impossible for the banks of the Union to sustain themselves creditably under existing circumstances.—Some must wind up their concerns, and others be reformed in their management. The system wants remodelling, so that security may be afforded to the stockholder that his money will not be misused and lost. Bank explosions are too frequent for the credit of the country, and are ruinous to thousands—and, whilst the facilities for the commission of frauds are so great, there will be little disposition to make investments in the stock of these institutions.

PENNSYLVANIA BANKS. The bill for the relief of these institutions, (including the Bank of the United States,) has been passed in the house of representatives; and, it is supposed, will also pass the Senate; but it is doubtful whether it will receive the sanction of the governor. The bill "authorizes the Governor to issue negotiable certificates of State stocks to the amount of three millions of dollars, to be deposited in the different banks of the Commonwealth, and upon which they are to issue, in proportion to the amount of their capital, small notes for five years. The suspension is legalized for that period, and the Bank of the United States is to participate alike in the benefits of the provision, as are all the other banks. The act of April, 1840, legalizing the suspension until the 15th January last, is repealed, and all the penalties imposed by existing acts are suspended for five years.

HUMANITY. We like to see the finer feelings of our nature exhibited; and therefore take delight in recording instances of distinguished humanity. We have chronicled various cases where men have perilled life for the preservation of others, and received, as they deserved, the applause of mankind. But there are other cases in which humanity may be exercised, where it is not less deserving of commendation. An instance of this kind occurred on Saturday last in Baltimore County Court. A little white girl was tried on an indictment for setting fire to the stable of Mr. William Beach, of Baltimore County. She had been taken from the poor house and bound to Mr. Beach. She was in a friendless condition, and Reverdy Johnson, Esq., volunteered his services as her counsel, and she was acquitted. It had been shewn during the trial that she was cruelly treated in the family of Mr. Beach; and as Mr. B. stated that he did not wish to retain her in his service, if he could be released from his obligation to maintain and instruct her, Mr. Johnson promptly tendered himself as security for any amount that might be required. The girl was placed under the care of Mr. Disney, warden of the jail, until she can be provided with another home. The interest which Mr. Johnson took in the fate of this destitute orphan, was highly creditable to his heart, and is worthy to be recorded as a distinguished instance of disinterested benevolence. The girl expressed her gratitude for his kindness in the most touching manner.

LOUNGERS. We are not about to constitute ourselves censors of manners or morals in the city of Baltimore; and yet we may be permitted to condemn practices which we think inconsistent with the one or the other. We have heretofore taken occasion to recommend industry as a preventive of vicious habits; but some of our young men are guilty of practices, which, although not criminal, are contrary to good manners, and for which we will suggest the remedy. We allude particularly to the practice of lounging in front of churches on the Sabbath, and commenting on the personal appearance of ladies as they pass in and out of the church. The remedy for this abuse of time as well as of decorum is, for the youngsters to take the inside instead of the outside of the church. We would have them "assume a virtue if they have it not"—for, however disinclined they may be to worship, they should at least pay so much respect to religion, as not to make churches the places of rendezvous for purposes of ribaldry or licentious remark. We marvel that any youth can so far forget his self-respect as to be guilty of this indecorum, to say nothing of his more solemn responsibilities; and we hope that, in future, those who get as far as the door of the church will take another step and place themselves within it. By so doing, if they fail to be improved, they will at least avoid the violation of decency and good breeding.

CONGRESSIONAL ELECTION. The Whigs of the fourth congressional district have placed their candidates in the field, and their opponents will be prompt to enter the lists. This is a party contest, with which, as a neutral print, the Clipper can have nothing to do. We shall take the liberty, however, of making a suggestion for the benefit of both parties. It is, that the contest be conducted with mildness and moderation, in perfect good humor, omitting all personality and abuse of candidates. We have no doubt that four respectable and intelligent gentlemen will be presented to the consideration of the voters; and, being brought out by their parties, they will be entitled to be treated as gentlemen. Their political sentiments and their capacity to discharge the duties of the station for which they are candidates, are fair subjects of examination and comment, as well as the principles of the parties to which they are severally attached. But we do hope that unnecessary excitement will be avoided. Let each party stimulate its members to exertion—this will be right; but this can be done without producing ill-blood or harshness. Whilst every man claims for himself the right of voting his sentiments, let him not be angry with another for exercising the same privilege. We wish to see the contest proceed quietly, and with those good feelings which ought to exist among fellow-citizens, who, however widely they may differ as to men and measures, unquestionably have the same object in view—the advancement of the glory and prosperity of their common country.

GRAND CONCERT. The Baltimore Choir will give a grand Music Concert at the Assembly Rooms this evening—Mr. H. Dielman leader, and Mr. R. Shaw conductor.

The lovers of music may expect a splendid treat, as the best musical talent in the city is engaged. The programme is full of the choicest selections. We perceive in it a new quartette Dirge, composed by J. H. Hewitt, Esq. on the death of Wm. H. Harrison, late President of the United States. It is said, by those who have heard it, to be peculiarly effective.

As upon former occasions the concerts of this association have been most numerously and fashionably attended, we may likewise expect the same to-night. We would therefore suggest that persons go early, not only for the purpose of securing comfortable seats, but in order that they may not be disappointed in hearing all the pieces.

TIDE WATER CANAL. From a correspondence dated Havre-de-Grace, April 18th, 1841, we learn that the repairs on the Tide Water Canal progress rapidly; the embankment which was injured by the late freshet, is now of sufficient height to admit twenty-six inches of water in the Canal. We expect in a very few days to see the Basin covered with boats laden with the rich product of the Susquehannah. There is at this time upwards of fifty boats above the break, waiting to pass down.

A letter from Cincinnati says:—Mrs. HARRISON had reached that city on her way to Washington the morning on which the intelligence of the President's death reached there. Her bereavement has been sad indeed—but she bears it, I am informed, better than, in her infirm state of health, could have been hoped. Most of her family are near her, to support and comfort her, and if the sympathy of a whole nation can avail, we may hope that her loss will not be altogether irreparable.

AN OLD SALT. One of the English papers received by the Columbia states, that there is now residing at York a messmate of Captain Cook and Lord Nelson, in the shape of an old salt 89 years of age. He sailed with Captain Cook, and is supposed to be the only tar living who can make such a boast. In consequence of having taken a part in the mutiny at the Nore, he is without a pension. His name is John Bennett Welsh.

NOMINATION. The Democratic Convention, composed of delegates from Baltimore city, Annapolis and Anne Arundel County, assembled at Ellicott's Mills yesterday, and nominated James Murray and Francis Gallagher, Esqr's. as candidates for Congress from the fourth Congressional District. The election is to take place on the 17th May next. Mr. Murray is now Secretary of State—Mr. Gallagher a member of the Legislature.

THE PEACH TREE WORM. The Western Farmer and Gardener gives the result of some experiments made to protect peach trees from the moth-like worm which destroys them. Tansy and wormwood were planted nearly in contact with the body of the tree, and kept off the worm as effectually as tobacco, camphor, &c. protect clothes from the moth.

The Steamer Barger says the Boston Times, ran into a schooner on Monday morning last near White Head and sank her. The crew consisting of three men, was saved. The schr., was the ——Capt. Ward of Mt. Desert, bound to this city. No blame can be attached to the steamer, as the schr. suddenly changed her course and thus caused the collison.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT. While Mr. Martin Mikesell, of Cambria county, Pennsylvania, and his wife, were absent from home at a sugar camp, their house took fire and was totally destroyed, with all its contents. When they returned they found their dwelling in ruins, and that three little children left in it had perished in the flames.

The Houston Star of the 3d inst. states, that twelve Americans were taken prisoners not long since by a party of Mexicans, near the Rio Grande, and that they were taken into Matamoras, and by order of the authorities of that place sentenced to be shot, which order was promptly carried into execution.

Correspondence of the Baltimore Exchange.

NORFOLK, April 16, 7 P. M.

DEAR SIR—Our Borough wore a melancholy aspect to-day, being the day which the citizens, through their committee, appointed to commemorate by a funeral procession, the death of Gen. WM. H. HARRISON, late President of the United States.

The procession was large and very imposing. After marching through several of the principal streets, it halted opposite St. Paul's Church and was dismissed.

The Juniors and Rifle Companies, and the members of the Washington, Lafayette and Harmony Lodges I. O. O. F., with several of the order from Portsmouth, attended the Methodist Church, where an excellent discourse, suited to the occasion, was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Nolley.—The day was remarkably pleasant, and all the stores, shops, &c. were closed.

FLATTERY IN RAGS. We lately came across an anecdote in an English paper, which furnishes a fine lesson in the study of human nature. A miserable looking beggar, in piteous accents, implored the charity of a well-dressed lady who was passing by, but he was not graciously received. "I have no small change," said she, with a repulsive look. "Then, most charming madam," said the philosopher in rags, "allow me the privilege of kissing your beautiful, lily-white hand!" "No, my friend," replied the pleased fair one, with a smile, "I cannot do that, but there's half a crown for you!"

EXPLORING EXPEDITION. By the arrival of the ship Lausanne, says the New York Sun, we have dates from the Exploring Expedition up to 2d of December, 1840. The Exploring squadron was to sail for North West coast, to survey the islands in that latitude; and it was expected they would return to the United States in May, 1842. The death of Lieut. Henderson and Midshipman Wilkes is spoken of as a great loss in the squadron, and they both are much lamented. A funeral service was preached on board the flag ship Vincennes by Chaplain Elliott.

STAGE ACCIDENT. Owing, as is said, to the intoxication of the driver, the Maysville stage was overturned, on the night of the 10th inst. when a few miles from that city, and several of the passengers seriously injured. The driver, perhaps, suffered the most injury. He fell from the box, and the stage passed over him, breaking both legs. Of the passengers, Henry Waller, Esq. of Maysville, his lady and child, were all seriously injured.

DEATH OF MR. RICHARD HAUGHTON, Editor of the Boston Atlas. This distinguished editor died very suddenly on Saturday last, 17th inst. He had announced in his paper of that day his intention to visit Europe, and about 12 o'clock, when making arrangements for his departure in the Acadia, apparently in good health and spirits, was suddenly attacked with apoplexy, and almost instantly expired, in the 45th year of his age.

MONOMANIA. Some old writer says that monomania is produced by continually dwelling upon one thought. We have heard of a physician who, having attained some distinction by an essay against the use of blisters, became so devoted to his theory that he allowed it to mix even with his theological speculations, till he maintained that future punishments consisted of an endless series of blisterings, and that Belzebub's true figure was that of a large Spanish fly.

The National Intelligencer says:—On Saturday last the price of fine shad at the fish wharves was, as we are informed, about $6 per 100; it had, however, been much lower than this during the preceding week. Herrings, although not so plentiful this season as shad, have sold at reasonable prices. The price for herrings last Saturday at the fish wharves was from $1 50 to $2 25 per 1000.

INCIDENT. In the funeral procession at New York a woman who must have been nearly ninety years of age, and almost bent double, leaning on a staff, followed the procession through the entire route. She appeared deeply affected, and in reply to a gentleman who made the inquiry, she said that she had known and nursed General Harrison when he was an infant and never thought to have lived to witness his funeral.

VERY GOOD—IF TRUE. Bennett's Herald says that orders have been received in New York from the War Department to arm all the fortifications in that harbor, which are not now in a condition for defence. The thing is to be pushed forward with all practicable despatch. This is right.

SUDDEN DEATH. On Friday evening, Alderman George Rehn, of the 6th Ward, Northern Liberties, Philadelphia, fell near the corner of Front and Brown streets in a state of paralysis, and died during the night at his residence.

FATAL ACCIDENT. A little son of John Duncan, at Princeton, N. J., was instantly killed at that place on Friday. A cart was passing thro' the street with a roller attached. The little fellow jumped upon the roller, and failing before it, was crushed to death. He was nine years old, and a child of great promise.

THE JUVENILE MIRROR. Vol. 1, No. 1, a new series of this very excellent work has been handed us by Master Hickman, editor. It is neatly printed and covered, contains 24 pages, and is to be published monthly. Its reading is well suited to the young mind. We are anxious to see this work prosper.

SECOND CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT. James A. Pearce, Esq., of Kent, was nominated on Thursday last, as the Whig candidate of the Second Congressional District, composed of the counties of Cecil, Kent, Queen Ann's, Caroline and Talbot.

BALTIMORE FEMALE ORPHAN ASYLUM, BALTIMORE April 14th, 1841.

☞ At an annual meeting of the subscribers to the Baltimore Female Orphan Asylum held this day, the following Ladies were elected managers for the ensuing year—

Mrs. BAYNARD, President.
" H. BOYLE, Treasurer.
" WM. McKIM, Recording Secretary.
" MYERS.
" LUCAS.
" J. S. NICHOLAS.
" Dr. McCULLOH.
" McCLURE.
" J. S. HOLLINS.
" T. IRWIN.
" R. P. BROWN.

WM. MORRIS was appointed Trustee to fill the vacancy occasioned by the decease of Samuel Harden.

During the past year there have been 14 children admitted, 7 bound out, present number in the Asylum 61.

In order to extend the usefulness of this excellent Institution the managers have engaged the services of an experienced Seamstress to instruct and superintend the sewing department, and any work that may be sent, or ordered, will be executed on reasonable terms, and in a satisfactory manner. A share of public patronage would be very acceptable and advantageous. Under this arrangement the girls are retained longer in the Institution than formerly, which it is believed will be attended with the happiest results as regards the welfare of all concerned. A select library has recently been presented, and placed in the establishment, comprising 121 volumes of moral and instructive books; a taste for reading may be classed among the very best sources of amusement to attract the attention of children; for whilst they are pleasantly led to prize the privilege granted them as a recreation they are at the same time deriving the benefit of improving their minds. It is to be regretted that this excellent charity is dependent upon public bounty for support; more annual subscribers are much needed, as the expenses have been augmented in consequence of the increased number of inmates, (61,) which is said to be the largest number that the Asylum has ever contained previous to the present time. A visit to the Institution in Mulberry-st. is respectfully solicited, where ample opportunity will be afforded to every friend of humanity of enlisting on behalf of the Orphan, the kindest feeling of the heart. ap20-1t

☞ At a special meeting of the PATAPSCO FIRE COMPANY, held on Thursday evening, 17th instant, the following Preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted and ordered to be published.

WHEREAS, The Patapsco Fire Company, fully participating in the general regret occasioned by the lamented death of General WM. HENRY HARRISON, late President of the United States, who departed this life at the city of Washington on the 4th of the present month—and to evince for themselves the respect due to the memory of the Chief Magistrate of the nation, and to the virtues of the deceased Patriot, as well as in compliance with the recommendation of the Baltimore United Fire Department—Therefore, be it unanimously

Resolved, That the Company will unite with the Funeral Procession, to take place in this city on the 26th instant.

Resolved, That the Company assemble at the Engine House at the hour which may be designated by the Chief Marshal.

Resolved, That the officers and members appear in their equipments with crape on the left arm, and bearing their respective badges in mourning costume.

Resolved, That the Banner of the Company be borne in appropriate mourning emblematic of the sad occasion.

Resolved, That the flag on the Company's building be displayed at half mast during the day, and that the bell be tolled during the movement of the procession.

Resolved, That the front of the Engine House be hung with mourning on the day of the procession, and that the like mark of respect be continued in the meeting room for the space of six months.

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to confer with the Chief Marshall of the Department upon all matters contemplated, and that said committee have power to make all arrangements necessary to carry out the foregoing Resolutions.

☞ The committee appointed under the seventh resolution consists of Messrs. E. H. Stewart, J. G. Wilmot, E. G. Gould, T. H. Rice, and W. R. Jones.

J. I. COHEN, Jr. President.

A CARD—To the Ladies of Baltimore.

☞ A deep sense of gratitude makes it incumbent upon me at this time to return to the Ladies my most grateful acknowledgments for the very kind and liberal patronage they have extended towards me, commencing business as I did, under the most adverse circumstances, almost without the hope of success, yet through their kindness and support I have been sustained; therefore, wherein I have failed to give entire satisfaction either in punctuality or quality of article, let them be assured those failures have resulted from causes entirely uncontrolable by myself, for it has always been my greatest pride to meet their expectation in both particulars. I am still at my old stand, Pearl street, near Franklin, where more experience and better facilities in business will enable me to do ample justice to their future favors. THOS. H STANFORD.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From a very Respectable Farmer.]

STAFFORD COUNTY, VA. SEPT. 7th, 1840.

Dear Sir:—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I thought I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhubarb and soda three or four times every day for these many years, with little or no relief, and my legs and ankles were so much swelled that I was unable, at times, to attend to my business. But since you made me a present of a box of your Family Pills I have taken 1 or 2 of them at night in going to bed, and now my acid stomach is relieved, the swelling in my legs has nearly disappeared, and I do not think that I have been hindered one day with the pain in my head since I began to take your valuable medicine. I think the Lord directed you to Fredericksburg, to administer to my relief. (Blessed be his holy name, I am greatly relieved.) There is living in my neighborhood a poor old woman who had been sick for a long time and could not get relief; at length I purchased a box of your pills and gave them to her, after awhile I saw her out and about her business, and she said that the one box had cured her. I have spread the fame of your valuable medicine amongst my acquaintances, and many have purchased. Now, as it respects myself, my friends tell me when I go to town, that they have not seen me look so well for many years, and I say to them, 'I will tell you the secret why; a short time ago I met with a Dr. Davies in town, and he gave me a box of pills, and they have made me look as you now see me.' And now, my friend, I hope that the Lord will continue to be with you, and make you useful to your fellow creatures, as he has hitherto done. I remain with respect,
CHARLES BRUCE.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. BOOZ,

No. 9 Fleet street.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

☞Some poets deal in the imagination, but the following from the Philadelphia Spirit of the Times is characteristic of truth. It is right down good—a soliloquy without sentiment:

TO A BANK NOTE.

I will not take thee ragged elf,
In payment for my labor—
Your villany's revealed itself,
You've robbed myself and neighbor.

Your very face is all a lie,
Your promise but a bubble;
You raise the price on all I buy,
And plunge mankind in trouble!

And when we ask you for our cash—
How well the matter's mended!
We find your Bank is "broke to smash,"
Or, hang you! you're suspended!

The following interesting intelligence we take from the New York American.

RIO JANEIRO, Feb. 17, 1841.

This morning, the young Emperor appeared in his splendid barge, rowing across the harbor, and was greeted by the ships of war with salutes, bands of music, &c. His coronation is to take place in May, and, they are making preparations on a large scale for the celebration. With his two sisters, his cabinet, maids of honor, and gentlemen attendants, &c., this morning he visited the English, French, and American Flag ships. I was on board of the Potomac when he visited her. The yards were manned, and a second salute for the Emperor was fired, besides giving him three cheers. This was also done by every vessel of war in the harbor, therefore there was a roar of cannon for several hours. The people of this country are fond of pageantry of every description, and seem to be never so happy as when under the blaze of an illumination or the roar of artillery. Lieut. Ogden leaves here in a day or two in charge of the prize brig Malek Adhel, about which so much has been said in the newspapers. She has been firing into several vessels, American, English and Portuguese, endangering the lives of the crew and passengers, and was finally captured by Lieut. Com. Goldsborough, of the Enterprize; in the harbor of Bahia or St. Salvador. She is to go to Baltimore.

LATER FROM TEXAS. By the arrival of the steam packet New York, Capt. Wright, at New Orleans, we have Galveston dates up to the 7th inst.

The merchants of Houston appear to entertain favorable opinions as regards the ability of the Government to redeem its issues, and also of a rapid advance in the price of the money. At a large meeting of the principal men, held on the 4th inst., the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That the present decline of Texas Treasury Notes in New Orleans is, in our opinion, temperary, and the result of a temporary cause; and that there is no substantial reason why they should depreciate in value, but on the contrary, good reasons exist why they should and must shortly increase in value, and we confidently look for so desirable an event as near at hand.

Resolved, That we will continue to take the Treasury Notes of this Republic at the rate of six for one, par funds.

The rumor of another invasion by the Mexicans has almost died away. The President of Texas, however, has taken precautionary steps to ascertain Arista's movements, by sending out several spy companies to the frontiers.

Three companies of mounted volunteers, under Capt. Lewis, were to leave Austin about the 20th March, on an expedition against the Camanches.

The editor of the Galvestonian strongly recommends the Government to survey and offer the Cherokee lands for sale in order to extricate itself from its present embarrassing pecuniary difficulties.

It is stated also, that the news of the success of Gen. Hamilton in effecting the Texian loan, has produced a considerable rise in the value of the bills of that Government. Treasury notes, which were purchased last week at 12 and 14 cents, were sold yesterday at 26 and 27. Some of the bonds brought 29 cents on the dollar.

☞The Petersburg Intelligencer of the 17th thus notices the funeral solemnities in that Borough.

"On yesterday, the last sad tribute of respect was paid to our departed and venerable Chief Magistrate, by the citizens of Petersburg. All business was suspended, and the several places of public worship were thronged by a mourning people who assembled to lament over the bereavement which the Nation has sustained, and to supplicate the blessings of the Almighty Disposer of events on our afflicted country."

ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC CANAL. A large meeting of American merchants was held in Rio Janeiro, in February last, to take measures to further the construction of a ship canal through the Isthmus of Darien. The meeting was of opinion that as the whole credit of this enterprise ought to belong to the United States, they should undertake it without delay, before other nations interfere to snatch from them the profit and credit of so great an enterprise.

☞A Doctor named Hough, of New Orleans, formerly a respectable physician, was taken before the recorder, examined, and committed to jail for further examination, upon the charge of having committed violence upon a young girl ten years of age, a daughter of the gentleman to whom Dr. Hough was the regular family physician.

☞We are particularly obliged to our attentive friend and correspondent, G. R. Shomaker, of Texas, for files of papers, &c.

☞The detention of the Washington cars on Sunday morning last, was caused by the locomotive coming in contact with a cow, which was instantly killed.

A FATAL RENCONTER took place at Marians, Florida, recently, between B. R. Bell and John Randolph, which resulted in the immediate death of the latter. The parties were both recently of Edgecombe, North Carolina.

The Charleston Courier says—We learn with much and painful regret that our distinguished Senator Col. Preston and his family have suffered severely from indisposition since their return to their residence in Columbia.

Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 22 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

SALE OF VALUABLE PROPERTY.

UNDER an order of the Orphans' Court of Baltimore County, the subscribers, as administrators, will offer for sale at public auction on SATURDAY, 24th of April at 4 o'clock, P. M. on the premises part hereinafter described, the following property:

1. The Lot of Ground beginning at the North East corner of Howard and Saratoga streets, running thence Northerly on Howard street 40 feet 6 inches, thence Easterly 165 feet parallel to Saratoga street to an alley 12 feet wide; thence 40 feet 6 inches on said alley, to Saratoga street, and parallel to Howard street; thence westerly on Saratoga street to the beginning—subject to a yearly ground rent of $14 and 40 cents. This lot is improved with a large brick BUILDING used for stores and a dwelling. It may easily be divided into two dwellings—and now rents yearly for $432.

2. A ground rent of $147 per annum; charged on a piece of ground at the South West corner of Eutaw and Saratoga streets, subject to a prior rent of $30, making the nett ground rent $117. The piece of ground binds on Eutaw street 60 feet, and extends with that breadth westerly 140 feet—and is well improved. The rent of $147 is paid in the portions of $50, $47, $25, and $25, by the several owners of the improvements.

The terms of sale are, that one-fourth of the purchase money be paid on the day of sale, and the residue in three equal instalments in 6, 9, and 12 months with interest from said day—and all the payments to be secured by bonds or notes, with security, to be approved by the administrators.

CHARLES F. MAYER,

CHANCERY SALE.

UNDER a Decree of the Court of Chancery, the subscribers, as Trustees, will offer for sale at public auction, on the premises, on MONDAY, 3d of May, at 4 o'clock, P. M. ALL THAT PIECE OF GROUND, which is described as follows:

Beginning on the north side of Conway st. 87½ feet east from the north-east corner of Howard and Conway sts. running thence east on Conway st. forty-seven feet four inches to the centre of an alley three feet eleven inches wide, with the privilege of said alley and the right of building over it; then north parallel with Howard st. along the centre of said alley seventy-five feet; then west parallel to Conway-st. two feet nine inches or thereabouts to ground conveyed in fee to Peter Bankard by John Eager Howard, then north on said ground about two feet to the part of said ground conveyed by said Bankard to Leonard Foreman, thence west binding thereon thirty three feet, more or less to the ground leased by said Howard to said Bankard; then north binding on the last mentioned ground seven feet or thereabout to the part thereof assigned to Peter Bankard, Junior; then north on said part eleven feet seven inches; and thence with a straight line to the beginning. The improvements on this property are two comfortable Brick DWELLINGS.

The terms of sale are, one-fourth of the purchase money be paid on the day of sale, or on ratification of the sale, with interest from said day; and the residue in three equal instalments, in six and nine and twelve months from said day, with interest therefrom, secured by bonds or notes with security to be approved by the Trustees. "AN EXTRACT FROM MY JOURNAL."

NO. I.

Berlin—its approaches.—The mode of Travelling in Germany.—The Court-Yard of a German Post Office.—The Railway.

The approaches to Berlin (the capital of Prussia,) are three, according as you arrive from the Saxon, Silesian or northern quarter. The two latter are over Macadamized roads, made in the most approved manner, and belonging to the government, or, (as they say here,) to the king—by whom the tolls are farmed out at high prices. As I have nowhere else in my diary noted down the mode of travelling upon the high-roads in this and the neighboring kingdoms, a few words on this subject would not be out of place. The different ways in which the whole of this continually-moving population is transferred from one portion of the kingdom to the other, are thus:—You are either hurled along at a rapid pace over beautiful roads, almost as smooth and as level as the surface of a polished table, in a coach carrying the mail, and called the "Eilwagen," (or fast coach,) attended by a "conducteur" and a driver, both in the livery & colors of the country to which they belong. These "eilwagens" are handsome coaches, built for comfort as well as utility, and capable of holding nine passengers inside. A box, closed on all sides, and fastened by lock and key, is attached to the rear, and forms a portion of the coach, occupying the same relative position as the "boots" of our stages. This appendage is designed to contain the baggage, of which each individual is allowed forty pounds and must pay for all "over weight"—the government being responsible for its safe delivery at the appointed place. The seats inside the coaches are numbered, and each is entitled to and claims the seat marked upon his receipt (or cassen schein.) The duty of the conducteur is to see that each passenger is deprived of none of his rights—to superintend the transfer of baggage—to order the stoppings and startings of the "eilwagen"—to attend to the mail, and to listen to the complaints of passengers, and apply the proper remedies. We always found them in Prussia very polite and attentive, when treated and spoken to in a proper manner.

The second mode is in what are called "Extra Post"—Coaches sent expressly to convey a certain person or set of persons from one station to another—and which conveyances can always be obtained, at any moment of the day, by proper application to the proper authorities.—These coaches, though conducted by a liveried driver and under the direction of the government, are subject to the orders of the passengers hiring it, who direct the times of starting, and pay according to the distance. This is the dearest method of travelling, and is only employed in cases of urgency, or by the noble and rich, who are willing to pay an extra sum for the satisfaction of selecting their own companions, or of wrapping themselves up "in the midst of their own solitude." Here very few individuals travel in their own carriages. A few days since, we passed one of the blood royal, (a brother of the present king,) travelling "extra post," unattended except by the post-boy—and his pipe.

The travelling in the "eilwagens" or fast coaches, and by "extra post," is, as mentioned above, under the direction of the government and immediately connected with the post office department, where you apply for seats, and at which your baggage is weighed, your fare paid, and the coaches laden. The scene in the open court of a German post office is one that would strike a stranger at first sight as all "bustle and confusion." A closer attention and longer acquaintance correct these impressions. You enter the open court-yard—the stages are coming in on one side, and on the other they are departing for all portions of the kingdom—the liveried officers of the P. O.—the conducteurs—the drivers with their whips—the postillions with their long boots covering the knee and their peculiar caps—the passengers for the different coaches, all running to and fro, jostling each other, some with their baggage on their arms and pipes in hand, others following close at the heels of some "knecht" (servant)—every thing apparent confusion. Suppose yourself at Dresden.—"At what time," says the little man in black, with a wart on the end of his nose and care on his brow, in the Austrian dialect, "at what time does the 'eilwagen' start for Prague?" "At half after three this afternoon." "Are all the seats taken?" "Mynheer, if you will allow me," interrupts a self-sufficient, tall man, with mustaches and epaulettes, "have my baggage weighed for the coach to Berlin." "Conducteur! holla! Conducteur!" cries out the bustling, broad chested fellow in the white smock, "I took number 2, the corner seat on this side, and it is occupied." "Madame," says the conducteur, with a significant nod and great politeness of phraseology, "you will permit me to ask you to have the goodness to move; Mynheer has engaged the seat you occupy." "Conducteur!" cries out the stage officer from the window, "are all the passengers arrived?" "No! Fraulein Schweinfurt's name's entered, and she is not here."

Presently there comes waddling along Miss Schweinfurt, with a "breadth of back" and a size, that frighten the passengers, on whose seat her place is reserved—the rest thanking their stars that Miss Schweinfurt belongs to the opposite side. With much ado and by great exertion on the part of herself and the conducteur, she is thrust into the door of the coach—finds her place, almost annihilates her neighbors and begs pardon that she has kept them waiting a single moment. The number is completed. The door locked.

"All right!" cries the conducteur. Crack goes the whip, and away rolls this Eilwagen, in one direction, while half a dozen more are getting ready for other routes—and a score are entering the Court yard from all directions. Then comes the selection of baggage—the inquiries for the best or cheapest hotels—the importunities of the agents from the different public houses—the delivery of passports, and the porters. Conceive all this—the arrival—the preparation—and the departure, taking place at the same time—and throughout the whole day, within the circumscribed limits of the Post office yard, perhaps already crowded with the anxious expectants of letters and papers from all quarters of the globe, and you have a conception of a German Post office Court yard, in a large city. And yet all is regularity!

The third and last method of stage travelling in the German Empire is in the Familien-wagen, (or family coach,) a long coach generally shaped like our Omnibuses—having seats running the whole length of the sides, and moving lazily along at the creeping pace of two and a half English miles per hour, that goes from one country town to another for a very moderate compensation. The drivers, who are as stubborn and as self-willed as one can readily conceive, believe it sacrilege to move out of the accustomed jog—to stop to water or to feed at an unusual place—or to stay less than two or three hours at the accustomed houses. In these "wagens" the poorer class, the mechanics and the burgher of leisure, move from place to place. They sit as much at ease and as unconcernedly in these "wagens" as at their own doors. Some poke up their feet on the opposite seat, (when there is room—which, by the way, is seldom the case,) pull out their spunk and steel—light their pipes, (never-failing companions,) and puff their smoke in your face, without thinking of the annoyance to others—and crack their jokes.

I remember that we once entered one of those "wagens" at Braunschweig, in the month of July, on the road to Magdeburg; at a little distance from the town there came in a man of about 30 years of age, good looking, and rather more genteel than the class travelling in these conveyances. He placed himself with perfect nonchalance in one corner of the "wagen," stuck his feet up on the opposite side, and, though there were females present, unbuttoned his vest, loosened his suspenders, and made himself perfectly at ease—took up his pipe, lighted his spunk and then his pipe, and puffed away—amusing himself between times, with light and trifling conversation and rude jokes, in which he exhibited a tact and information much beyond his companions.—We felt some curiosity to know something more about our fellow-passenger—we entered into conversation—talked on various subjects—and were approaching the point of his destination when he informed us that he was a "Theologue"—a minister in the Lutheran Church, and was about preaching on the morrow at Halberstadt. We wished him success in his ministry. He answered that his profession was getting worse and worse every day—that he could scarcely now make a living by it—and thought of undertaking some other more profitable employment. He gave us his benediction and we bade him adieu!

With the exception of the Return Coaches, these are the three modes of Stage conveyance by which strangers and travellers are thrown into the great city of Berlin. We came from the Potsdam-side—and of course made our entrance from the "city of Palaces," Potsdam, into Berlin, "The Palmyra of the Desert," upon the noble railway, lately constructed. But more of this in our next. H.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE. We find the following account of a strange affair in the London Globe of 12th of March, which, if true, furnishes another striking illustration of the uncertainty of circumstantial evidence, and the terrors, surpassing all of which imagination can conceive, that environ the miserable wretch doomed to a public execution:

"A French paper called the Audience contains a letter from a private correspondent, dated Gibraltar, the 28th ult. which states that an opulent British merchant, named James Boxwell, long resident there, had been tried and convicted of the murder of his daughter on circumstantial evidence, and that on his way to execution the convict saw in the crowd another Englishman named John Keats, who had been extremely active in collecting evidence against him. The convict expressed a desire to die in peace with all mankind, and to pardon this person, whom he had considered his greatest enemy. When the convict reached the scaffold, the executioner was preparing to execute the sentence of law, when a voice from the crowd was heard exclaiming—"It is I that am guilty, and not the convict." This exclamation was made by John Keats. He confessed that it was he who had carried off Jas. Boxwell's daughter; that he had cut off her head during her sleep, and stolen one of her dresses, which he steeped in blood; and that the generous pardon granted to him by his victim had caused him to reflect on the enormity of his crime. The executioner immediately withdrew the rope from the convict's neck and the cap from his face, when it was discovered that he was dead from the effects of terror. The atrocious John Keats was conducted to prison amidst the execrations of the populace, who wished to tear him to pieces."

SERIOUS TIMES IN DETROIT. The following is taken from a correspondence of the Cleveland Herald:

Saturday was a season of despondency and gloom in Detroit. News of the protest of the drafts on the Bank of the United States to the amount of $183,000, the April instalment of the $5,000,000 loan, reached the city in the morning, blighting the hopes and expectations of many of the business men of Detroit, as well as the friends of the credit and character of the State. A special message was sent to the Legislature by the Executive on the subject, in which he recommended that an agent be sent to Philadelphia at once, to look to the rights and interests of Michigan. It was understood that the Bank offered to pay the instalment in its own notes at a discount of 4 per cent. What would be the action of the Legislature was matter of doubt. Some supposed that the proposition of the Bank would be accepted—others that State Bonds would be issued to meet the crisis.

At half past one o'clock the steamboat Gen. Scott arrived with colors at half mast, and in a few moments the melancholy intelligence of the Nation's Bereavement became generally known in the city. The moist eye and choked utterance as the sad tidings passed from man to man, evidenced the deep feeling of all classes and professions. The flag floating over the Capitol was lowered to half mast. The shipping displayed similar tokens of woe. At four o'clock the bells were tolled—the stores and business places closed—and a sorrowful solemnity pervaded the city.

On the meeting of the Legislature in the afternoon, the Executive announced the mournful intelligence to both branches. An immediate adjournment followed. The scene in the Senate was strikingly solemn. After the message was read the Senators sat for some moments in silence, when a Senator arose and in a tremulous voice moved an adjournment. Never before did we so fully feel the force of Milton's line,

"Come, then, expressive silence, muse His praise!"

FUNERAL HONORS TO THE LATE PRESIDENT. From the Norfolk Beacon we extract the following notice of the funeral solemnities in that Borough:

The funeral obsequies of the late President were solemnized in our Borough on Friday last, the entire arrangements having been carried out in exact conformity with the published programme, and the most perfect order prevailed throughout the imposing ceremonies. We have never seen so large a procession in the Borough of Norfolk, nor an occasion on which the countenances of the people of all ranks and ages were so marked by gravity and sorrow. As the procession moved on under the mournful sound of muffled drums the eloquent tear of woman ever and anon arrested the attention and touched a sympathetic chord in the heart of the beholder.

Black draperies were suspended upon the fronts of stores and dwellings and the flags of the shipping floated at half mast, as did they also from various points of the Borough.

The Navy of the United States was fully and ably represented on the solemn occasion, and the manly and splendid appearance of its representatives was gratifying to the friends of that corps, as did their presence evince their just sense of what was due to a departed patriot and hero, who was the friend and associate in times of peril of their own gallant Perry.

The Military made a full turn out and their appearance was soldier-like and imposing.

The Cadets belonging to Capt. Partridge's Military Academy formed a part of the procession and excited great interest.

The procession after marching through the principal streets agreeably to the programme was dismissed, and those who had composed it repaired to the various churches where eloquent and appropriate discourses were delivered. The day was in our Borough a funeral Sabbath.

CURIOUS ANTICIPATION. In the words of Roger Bacon, who wrote in the thirteenth century, may be found an anticipation of the invention of the steamboat, locomotive engines on rail roads, the diving-bell, the suspension-bridge, and, it might almost be said, of the recent events at St. Jean d'Acre. His own words are these: "Men may construct for want of navigation such machines that the greatest vessels, directed by a single man, shall cut through the rivers and seas with more rapidity than if they were propelled by rowers; chariots may be constructed which, without horses, shall run with immeasurable speed.—Men may conceive machines which could bear the diver, without danger, to the depth of the waters.—Men could invent a multitude of other engines and useful instruments, such as bridges that shall span the broadest rivers without any intermediate support. Art has its thunders more terrible than those of heaven. A small quantity of matter produces a horrible explosion, accompanied by a bright light; and this may be repeated so as to destroy a city or whole battalions."

In the night of Thursday before Gen. Harrison's death, he repeated the following verse from Isaiah, to one of his relations, at his side, remarking that it had made an impression on his mind, which he had never been able to efface, nor fully comprehend:

Isaiah 21 chap. 11 and 12 verses.

'He calleth to me out of seir. Watchman, what of the night?'

The watchman said, the morning cometh, and also the night; if ye will inquire, inquire ye: return, come.—Madisonian.

A LAWYER IN LIMBO. "A nice young man" named B. S. Farr, Esq., Attorney and Counsellor at Law, in the city of St. Louis, was taken into custody on a requisition from the Governor of New York to Governor Reynolds of that State. He is charged with grand larceny, committed in Batavia, N. Y. It will be recollected that he was tried some four months ago before Judge Lawless for mal-practice but acquitted, and no doubt the publicity given to the circumstances of the case, has disclosed his location, and led to his apprehension. "The way of the transgressor is hard."

LOOK OUT WIDOWS. The Biter Bit.—A young physician in Indiana had been courting a buxom, blooming, and rich widow for some length of time, and under the expectation of marriage made her many rich presents: the widow took the presents, kept up her engagement with the Doctor, till a richer and handsomer man came along, when, presto, and away she goes, leaving the Doctor with a large sized flea in his ear, and a bag to put it in. The Doctor, however, was spunk to the back-bone, he couldn't cowhide a woman, and so he turned round and sued her in $2,000 damages.—Lowell Adv.

THE SEA COW. Col. Harney, in his recent exploration of the Everglades, has made some important geological discoveries, and killed two of the animals called mis-i-tee, or sea cow, whose existence was deemed fabulous. The animal is thus described: "The sea cow, or something between a porpoise and a seal, about 18 feet long, with head like a cow, and two small flippers—neat weight about 2500 lbs. It cannot leave the water, feeds on the grass on the margin, and propels itself forward by a broad tail."

CURIOUS FACT. The smallest bird in America is the humming-bird, and of Europe, the golden-crested wren. The smallest quadruped in the world is the pigmy mouse of Siberia. The most diminutive plant is the arctic raspberry, which is so small that a six ounce vial will hold the whole—branches, leaves and all.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2 50, fine Brush Hats $2 50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

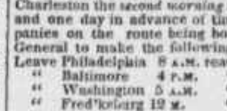
" Weldon	1 A.M. "	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M. "	Charleston	at 5 the next day.



As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is more of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Fogs! Rough Weather! and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road.

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. will run their Boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 6 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving there in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

LIME! LIME! LIME!!!

THE subscribers respectfully inform their friends and the public, that they have on hand, and intend keeping a constant supply of superior Alum and Bottom LIME, (burned in a conical kiln, so highly recommended by our State Geologist, Professor Deca-tur,) and that they are prepared to sell the same at the kiln at 33 1-3 cents per cask, for first quality. As our object is to furnish a first rate article at the lowest possible price, we respectfully solicit a share of public patronage.

We have also on hand, about 5,000 bushels Oyster Shell and Air Slacked ALUM LIME, which we will sell on favorable terms, for farming purposes.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, April 21, 1841.

Foreign News expected. Two steamships are now due. The Great Western, which sailed from Bristol for New York on the 3d inst., and the Caledonia, which sailed from Liverpool for Boston on the 4th inst. Should the news arrive by this evening's mail, it will be issued from this office on an Extra sheet immediately after its arrival.

☞ We have been promised a series of extracts from the journal of a highly intelligent young gentleman of this city, who has recently returned from a tour in Europe. The first extract appears on the first page of to-day's paper, and the others will be published as received. The gentleman's familiarity with the languages of the people among whom he travelled, will enable him to give additional interest to his sketches.

Home Mission. We have received the report from the Rev. Daniel McFilton, addressed to the President, officers and Managers of the Western Home Missionary Society, in which he gives a very interesting account of his labors. We believe that most of the churches have home missionaries, who are engaged in rendering to the necessitous spiritual and temporal aid; and it is evident that agents of this character must produce extensive benefit. They visit, relieve and advise the poor; they "feed the hungry and clothe the naked," and instruct the ignorant in their religious duties. There are many cases of destitution, where the lone widow and her helpless children pine in want and misery sooner than seek relief from the cold hand of charity. They are sought out by the home missionary, and privately relieved. The funds for this benevolent purpose are raised by voluntary contributions; and surely there is no object which has a stronger claim to our sympathy and charity. Foreign missions may enlighten the Heathen and make them turn from their false gods, and hence deserve encouragement—but the appeal in behalf of home missions is more emphatic and more urgent; for they are based upon charity in its most extensive signification. They carry support and consolation to the destitute and afflicted—and demonstrate the efficacy of faith in the performance of works. Humanity and religion demand that these missions shall be sustained; and we are persuaded that there is no object to which the citizens of Baltimore will more liberally contribute.

McLeod. A resolution is before the Assembly of New York, requesting the Governor to communicate to the House, "the correspondence which had taken place between the Executive authority of the United States and of New York, and whatever arrangements had been entered into by the said department in reference to the case of McLeod, now in prison." This resolution gave rise to a warm debate, in which McLeod was defended "on the ground that he had done no more than any citizen of New York would do under like circumstances." A motion was made by a Mr. Hoffman, to refer the resolution to the committee on the judiciary, with instructions directing the Attorney General to enter a nolle prosequi in the case of McLeod. The matter is not yet disposed of, the House having adjourned without having come to any determination.

We have not the slightest expectation that McLeod will be convicted, and we doubt whether he will even be brought to trial. We think that events indicate a determination to release him; and if this be so, it would be as well that a nolle prosequi should be entered at once. It will, however, be an extraordinary instance of forbearance, if the authorities of New York permit him to escape without trial. We cannot recognize the validity of the plea put in for him by the British minister, that, acting under the orders of his superiors, he is not responsible. If this be admitted, criminals from either side of the Lakes can commit murders with impunity—for there will never be wanting those in authority who will sanction their acts. War would be much more likely to result from such a condition of things, than from the rigid enforcement of the local laws.

Mourning Badges. We have been shown some very beautiful and appropriate badges gotten up by Weber & Co., intended to be worn by both ladies and gentlemen upon the approaching funeral procession, to the memory of Gen. Harrison. One contains a miniature likeness of the hero, set in crape rosetts. This is already adopted by many of the fair mourners and worn upon the left wrist. The other is upon white satin ribbon, having also a very good likeness of Gen. Harrison, and intended more especially for the gentlemen. For particulars, we refer to Weber & Co's advertisement in another column.

Drowned. Col. James Means, and a son of Mr. Wm. H. Douglas, aged 15 years, were drowned at Chillicothe on the 3d inst. Col. M. had driven a buggy to which a span of horses were attached into the stream for the purpose of watering the horses and cleaning the carriage, when the horses took fright, and ran into the strong current. Col. M. sprang out to stop the horses, but after struggling with them for some moments, he received a blow from one of them in the back part of his head and immediately sunk. The boy left the buggy and attempted to reach the shore by swimming, but failed.

Novel Case. The Boston Times of the 17th relates the following interesting case, tried in the Court of Common Pleas of that city. The circumstances which led to the suit were as follows:—"Ezra S. Winsor, Captain of the ship Coliseum, paid his addresses to a young lady, named Adeline P. Thompson, and engaged to marry her. In 1837, previous to going on a voyage to Antwerp, he presented her with a gold watch as a token of remembrance, and his love. He also promised to have his portrait painted and sent to her. While in Antwerp he fulfilled this promise by getting his portrait painted and sending it to her. On his return the ship was cast away and he was lost. His mother, Keziah Winsor, was appointed administratrix of his estate, and in settling up the affairs claimed the watch and portrait of the young lady which she properly refused to give up. The mother brought a suit of repleven to recover the property.

The mother and sister of the young lady bore testimony that the watch was a present to her from Captain Winsor. The portrait it was contended by the plaintiff was intended for her and not for the young lady. The defendant proposed putting letters into the hands of the jury to show that this portrait was intended for her, but which were not submitted, as they would not be proof unless read in open court. As to the watch, the plaintiff contended that it was left merely in deposit until the Captain should return.

So far as the portrait was concerned, it would appear that a mother's feelings were sufficient excuse to take all honorable measures to obtain it, especially as it was a good likeness and the only one in the family of the lamented captain. The jury gave a verdict for the defendant, declaring that she had title to keep the articles."

A Touching Scene. At a recent meeting of the committee in Cincinnati to agree upon suitable measures to express the public feelings on the melancholy occasion of General Harrison's death, a motion was made and unanimously adopted, that Judge Burnet be requested to deliver the eulogy upon the late President. The Judge was present, being Chairman of the Committee. He declined the request—and "never," says the Cincinnati Republican, "did we witness deeper feeling or listen to truer eloquence than in the remarks he made. "I cannot accept, said he: I could not speak. I knew Harrison forty-six years ago; he was a brother to me then; we have been brothers ever since; our hearts were knit together, and I would choke were I to attempt to speak of him. He is the last of the little band who started this city. I am alone now, all alone, and I cannot talk of my friend, I cannot." And the manly tears fell down his cheeks, and the sobs which were heard coming alike from the aged and the young of both parties, told the deep sympathy which all felt. The scene was touching. It overcame all who witnessed it.

Business Convention. It is proposed to hold a convention of the business men of Pennsylvania, at Harrisburg, on the 25th of May, "to consider the present condition of the various branches of industry pursued within the limits of the State; to examine their immediate and prospective resources; inquire into the measures most suitable for their relief from the pressing embarrassments, and for their future protection, and to lay the result before the People for their consideration."

Such a convention would probably be found serviceable in Maryland. There is one subject which would merit the consideration of a business convention in this State: we mean the Banking system, which, we think, would admit of great improvement. The representations of such a convention would no doubt receive the favorable attention of the Legislature.

Saloon of the Museum. This evening is set apart for the benefit of Master Wood, who has been delighting the visitors at this establishment during the present week, by his clever performances. The entertainments offered are of a very attractive and interesting nature; the excellent melodrama of the "Forest of Boudy, or the Dog of Montargis," which affords full scope for the developement of the wonderful sagacity of "man's trustiest friend," will be presented. The performances of the Dog Brain are truly wonderful. This, with dances by Master Wood, and a Concert, in which Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Brunton, Mr. Walton, and Mr. Brunton are engaged, renders the bill an exceedingly attractive one.

Another insult of the American Flag by a British Man-of-War. Capt. Wyse, of the Leonidas, at this port, from Rio de Janeiro, states, that on the 16th of March, in lat. 9 30 S. long. 35 47 W. he was fired into, and brought to, by the British sloop of war Rose; the boat sent on board, the papers demanded and examined, under the plea of supposition that she was a slaver. After detaining him for some time she was allowed to proceed.

A National Bank. A special meeting of the New York Chamber of Commerce will be held to-day, at 2 o'clock, P. M. at the Merchants Bank, N. Y., to take into consideration the expediency of appointing a committee to prepare a petition to the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, for the incorporation of a National Bank.

Accident. A German girl 12 years of age was very seriously burnt in Philadelphia.—She had been engaged in hawking lucifer matches.—They by some accident caught fire which was communicated to her clothes, and almost burnt her to death before assistance could be procured.

☞ The Hon. Alexander H. Everett has been appointed President of Jefferson College, St. James' Parish, Louisiana, and has accepted the appointment.

Our Provincial Neighbors. The intelligence of the death of President Harrison was announced in the Kingston (Canada) Chronicle on the 9th inst. and the editor, in publishing it, put his columns in mourning.

The flags of the shipping at St. Stephen, N. B. were displayed at half mast on the arrival at that place of the news of the death of the President. The commander of the steamship Acadia, upon his arrival at Boston, put his flag at half mast instantly, on hearing of the death of General Harrison.

Court House Burnt. The St. Louis Gazette informs us that, on the evening of the 21st ult. the new brick Court House in Oregon City, Ogle county Ill., was entirely destroyed. The jail stands 30 or 40 feet from the court house, in which six men were confined at the time for counterfeiting; and it is supposed to have been fired by their accomplices at large, who hoped thereby to communicate fire to the jail. A rain prevented the roof of the jail from taking fire, and though the prisoners were removed, yet they were securely guarded.

We learn from the Frederick Herald that Elwood Morris, Esq. having sent in his resignation as Chief Engineer of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, Charles B. Fisk, the former Chief Engineer, has been reinstated in that office.

Samuel Tyler, Esq., having resigned the office of Treasurer, Robert Barnard, Esq., the old Treasurer, was again elected. A few removals were made along the line, and the old officers reinstated.

Mexican Gulf Railroad. It is stated that this road has now reached within a half a mile of the settlements of Terre-aux Bœufs, and yields a revenue of about $200 weekly. Next year it is expected to extend to the shores of Lake Borgne, and offer the shortest route for reaching the counties of the State of Mississippi which lie east of Pearl river.

From Mexico. The schr. Byron arrived at New Orleans on the 10th inst. from Matamoras, bringing $40,000 in specie consigned to different houses in that city. The news is of little importance save that every thing was quiet through the country and business was rather brisk than otherwise.

Mysterious. The body of a man about twenty-five years of age, and very well dressed, was found in a sink, at the rear of Crosby's Restaurateur, in Lyndall street, Boston, on Saturday morning last. Although life was extinct, the body was yet warm when found. How it came there is yet unexplained.

The Trenton & Philadelphia Railroad Co. are about to lay new rails upon their road In the mean time the pilot line will leave Philadelphia every morning at seven o'clock, by steamboat, and the mail line by the Camden Railroad to Bordentown, and thence to Trenton, &c., at five o'clock, P. M.

The Dr. Hough Case. This individual, of whom mention was made yesterday, as having been charged with an outrage upon the person of a young girl in New Orleans, was again brought before the Recorder, when he had a further hearing and was remanded to prison under security of $3,500 to appear at the Criminal Court.

Drowned. Three persons, named John Kennedy, Thomas Bass and Stephen Morton, were upset in the North River on Sunday, having become entangled in a shad net. The bodies of Kennedy and Bass were picked up by some fishermen, and that of the former was resuscitated. Morton's was not found.

Just come and gone. An Irish woman named Mary Deary, 60 years of age, just landed from a ship from Liverpool, fell into the dock at New York, on Sunday morning, and was drowned.—She left three sons and two daughters on board the vessel.

The steamship Acadia, Captain E. G. Lett, (Captain Miller being sick) sailed from Boston on the afternoon of the 17th inst. at four o'clock. She carries out seventy passengers to Liverpool, 16 to Halifax, about 9000 letters, and nine large bags of papers, &c.

Mitchell, the forger. Bowyer, the New York police officer, has returned without catching the knavish ex-member of Congress, for whom he was in search. He followed Mr. Mitchell into Ohio, and then found out that he was pursuing the wrong man.

The Philadelphia Gazette is offered for sale. The editor and publisher, W. G. Clark, Esq. has long been in ill health, and has been persuaded by many of his friends to try the effects of a milder climate. The establishment is one of the oldest and most respectable in the city.

Burnt to Death. An aged lady named Martha Wood was burnt to death in her own house, in Westmoreland, (N. H.) on the 3d inst. She was forced out of the room once or twice, but returned once too often with the object of rescuing her property.

☞ Proposals have been made for carrying the great Commercial Mail from New York to Boston in such a manner that it will arrive at Boston twelve hours sooner than it now does.

No doubt of it. The citizens of Newburyport since the failure of the Newburyport Bank, say they wish they had never understood the word Deposit. They have cause to remember it.

☞ The Mobile papers of the 12th inst. announce the death of the late President, with the circular signed by the members of the Cabinet, and yet are doubtful as to its truth.

The brig Smyrna, at Boston, passed on the 13th instant, lat. 39 57, long. 69½, steam ship British Queen, hence for Liverpool.

BALTIMORE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

☞ The Baltimore United Fire Department was called together by order of the President, Jesse Henry, esq on Friday evening, April 16th. The meeting was organized by the President taking the chair. The roll being called, all the companies appeared by their representatives. The Chair explained the object of his having convened the Department, and invited the members generally to suggest such action as would be proper for the Department to take in relation to the funeral honors about to be paid by the citizens of Baltimore to the memory of the late President of the United States, Gen. William Henry Harrison. Whereupon, A. B. Wolfe, esq. moved that a committee of one from each company be appointed by the chair to consider and recommend such measures as would suit the occasion, which motion was unanimously adopted. The Chair appointed the following gentlemen to constitute said committee, viz, Messrs. Wolfe, Locke, Hope, Super, Dutton, Vansant, Rodgers, Stewart, Bottimore, Henderson, Thompson, Miltenberger, Wickersham, Needles and Cohen. The committee, upon consultation, reported the following preamble and resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, it has pleased the Almighty Ruler of the Universe, in the manifestation of his Divine Will, to remove from the exalted situation, to which the suffrages of his fellow citizens had placed him, our lamented and honored late President, William Henry Harrison, the Baltimore United Fire Department deems it proper to evince their sense of the loss which the country has sustained in the death of its Chief Magistrate, and profess their profound regret for the loss of a valuable citizen, and their sincere condolence with the bereaved family of the deceased. And also desirous of participating with their fellow citizens in the approaching ceremonies; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Department recommend that the different Fire Companies of this city unite with their fellow-citizens in the contemplated ceremonies in honor of our lamented late Chief Magistrate, William Henry Harrison.

Resolved, That the officers and members be requested to parade with their equipments, banners, &c. without their apparatus.

Resolved, That the Department be represented by their President, a Marshal, and four Aids, mounted; and that they be a committee to confer with Charles M. Keyser, esq. Chief Marshal, and make all necessary arrangements for the occasion.

Resolved, That the several Companies having Bells, be requested to have the same tolled during the time of the procession; and have their flags half-masted during the day.

Upon motion of Gen. Anthony Miltenberger, it was unanimously

Resolved, That the Hall of the Department be dressed in mourning for six months.

Upon motion of Mr. Edward Needles, it was

Resolved, That the association denominated the Watchman Fire Company, be invited to unite with the Firemen of the city of Baltimore upon the approaching occasion.

The Department then unanimously elected General Anthony Miltenberger their Marshal.

Upon motion it was

Resolved, That the proceedings be published in the daily papers, signed by the President and attested by the Secretary JESSE HUNT, Pres't.

Wm. H. Watson, Sec'y.

The different Fire Companies are hereby directed to report to Gen. Miltenberger. ap21-1t

NORTH BALTIMORE T. A. SOCIETY.

☞ At a meeting of the North Baltimore Total Abstinence Society, held at the New School Room, Exeter street, on Monday Evening, 19th instant, the following Preamble and Resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased Divine Providence to remove from this life our late venerated Chief Magistrate, Wm. Henry Harrison. And whereas, this Society is desirous of testifying their regard and respect for the memory of the deceased—Therefore,

Resolved, That we will unite with our fellow citizens in the ceremonies proposed to take place on the 26th inst. in honor of the illustrious dead, and take such post as may be assigned us in the Procession.

Resolved, That we wear crape on the left arm for ninety days.

Resolved, That when we adjourn, we adjourn to meet on FRIDAY EVENING, 23d inst. and that all Temperance men (whether members or not,) be requested to attend and join us in the procession.

By order, NICHOLAS BREWER, Pres't.

NOTICE.

☞ The FRENCH CITIZENS of Baltimore are requested to meet THIS EVENING, 21st inst. at half past 7 o'clock, at Mr. Deroche's Saloon, in the Law Buildings, Lexington street, to adopt measures to procure a full attendance of the natives of France, resident in this city, with proper badges of mourning, in the procession which is to take place on Monday next. It is greatly desired that the countrymen of La Fayette and the descendants of the compatriots of D'Estaing and Rochambeau, should repair to a celebration designed to do honor to the memory of the great and good Harrison. It is therefore hoped that every Frenchman in Baltimore will accept this invitation and repair to the meeting.

MEDICAL AID. The success that has attended the treatment of many thousand cases of Venereal Complaints for twenty years past, induces the subscriber to inform the public, that he may be daily seen and consulted on all cases of the kind, recent and chronic, and on diseases of the urinary organs generally. His treatment is speedy and certain, adapted to the various constitutions of his patients; the medicines are so mild that the most delicate may take them, without any restrictions in diet or occupation. Many cases that have resisted every other mode of treatment have speedily yielded to this, and many persons who have tried all the quack nostrums of the day are frequently calling on the subscriber to have the injuries they have sustained by their use relieved. An early application is advisable in all cases, which may be made at Dr. WARNER'S OFFICE, Albemarle street, one door north of East Pratt street. Medicines furnished in quantities to suit applicants. ap7-eo1m*

THIS IS TO GIVE NOTICE, That the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Baltimore county, letters of administration on the estate of SAMUEL YEALDHALL, late of Baltimore County, deceased. All persons having claims against the said deceased, are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof, to the subscriber on or before the 17th day of September 1841, or they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons indebted to the said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. BOOZ,

No. 9 Fleet street.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From a very Respectable Farmer.]

STAFFORD COUNTY, VA. SEPT. 7th, 1840.

DEAR SIR:—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I think I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhubarb and soda three or four times every day for these many years, with little or no relief,

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

BALTIMORE MARKET,
April 20, 1841.

Flour. A number of sales of Howard-st. flour were made during this week at $4.56. The store price to-day is $4.52a$4.56, as to quality. There has been a slight decline in the receipt price. We quote from wagons at $4.37½. In City Mills, we have not been advised of any transactions. The stock on hand is light; holders continue to ask $4.62½. Sales of Susquehanna were made at from $4.56 to $4.62½.

Grain. Maryland white Wheat may be fairly quoted at 100a109 cents. Reds do. 95a98 cents. One sale of Susquehanna Red was made on Monday at 101 cents. Md. Rye we quote at 50 cents. Pennsylvania 54 cents. Corn, Maryland yellow, 51a52 cents. White do. 48a49 cents. Maryland Oats 33 a 35 cents. Virginia do. 31a32 cts. The transactions in cloverseed are small, the article being partially out of demand. We quote at $4.28 a 4.50. Limited transactions have been made in timothy seed from stores at $2.62½ a 3, as to quality.

Cattle. Beef Cattle on the hoof we quote at $7.75a$8.25 per 100 lbs. Live Hogs are plenty, and will bring from $4.25 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.

Provisions. In the provision market we note no material change. For the past week transactions have been tolerable. We quote mess beef at $12.50, No. 1 at $10.50 &c. according to quality. Baltimore Mess Pork continues at $12.50; No. 1 $10.50, and prime from 8 to $8.50. Sales of Western Bacon have taken place at 6a6¼c. per lb.; Hams do. 8a9c.; Middlings 6¼c. and Shoulders 6¼c.; prime Balt. cured Hams we quote at 10c. and Sides do. 8¼c. Western Lard, No. 1, 8c. for cash. There is hardly anything doing in Western Butter. Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in mixed lots have been sold at from 6 to 7c. In Glades there is nothing doing.

Whiskey. We quote hhds. at 20c. and bbls. 22c. The wagon price exclusive of the bbls. is 18c.

CHOKING OFF A LAWYER. The best and most effectual check ever given to a verbose pettifogger occurred in a well-known western city, and is within our own knowledge as a fact. Much against his will, a shrewd, plain spoken, straight forward citizen was called from his business and forced upon a jury to pronounce a verdict over some trivial point of litigation. He sat some time patiently until he got the merits of the case and saw that the matter was just worth the toss of a red cent, and far worthier of being so decided than thrust into a court of justice. Yet a pedastic looking small lawyer got up, having an ostentatious display of law books before him, and giving every indication that he was going to commence a prolix fanfaronade, a kind of forensic oratory for which he was somewhat celebrated among the different justices courts and other bars of the place. After several pompous hems and haws, he commenced—

"Gentlemen of the jury"—

"Look here," said our juryman, rising and pulling out his watch—"I've just one remark to make before you go on. If you talk more than five minutes I'll give my verdict against you!—Now you see the less you say the better."

The lawyer took the hint, consented to be choked off, and was rewarded by the paltry verdict he wished to gain.—Pic.

BIGOTRY. A lady, whose brother had altered his religious opinions, being told that he was still as good a man, replied—"that the devil was so sure of him for his want of faith, that he did not trouble himself about corrupting his morals."

MAJOR GEN. W. SCOTT was one of the Pall bearers in the Funeral Procession at Rochester, on Saturday, the 10th instant, in honor of the memory of the late President.

WHY IS IT? We are desirous of knowing why it is that the pumps in S. Gay st. near Market are out of pumping order? Where is our correspondent Pump-handle? These things should be seen to.

In consequence of an obstruction in the schute of the dam at Columbia, something like a thousand rafts of lumber have been detained between this place and the dam.—Harrisb'g Keystone 17.

ROBBER CONVICTED. Wm. H. Griswold, the young man who robbed the Bank of Western New York of $500 a few weeks ago, was tried by the Circuit Court on Wednesday, convicted and sentenced to the Auburn prison for 4 years.

THE FUNERAL. The pall and funeral car which were used at Washington, at the burial of President HARRISON, have been obtained by Mr. Z. C. LEE, Esq., and forwarded to Baltimore, for the procession on Monday next.

☞ A young man whose name was not ascertained, had his arm accidentally severed from his body in Cincinnati on the 15th, by coming in contact with the paddle wheel of a steamboat.

NOMINATION. The Democrats of Rhode Island have nominated Messrs. Dorr and Thornton for Congress.

THE PHILADELPHIA STANDARD. We are informed by this paper of the 17th inst. that it is to be hereafter united with the North American.

☞ A fourth letter from Mr. Biddle has been received by the editors of the National Gazette, and will appear in a day or two.

THE METHODISTS. The increase of membership in the Philadelphia Conference during the present year amounted to 1033.

☞ Gen. Jos. W. Brown was arraigned before the legislature of Michigan on the 14th inst. for contempt offered to that body.

☞ Frequent attempts have recently been made by incendiaries to fire the city of Cincinnati.

NORTHERN FRONTIER. Gen. Scott represents the frontier as tranquil.

MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

☞ The above Medicine may always be had in Baltimore of RICHARD NORRIS of WILLIAM, No. 254 Market street, who is the Sole Agent for this Medicine in that city. All orders coming to Philadelphia, must be directed to DR. SWAYNE,

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it a entry to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING
THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 39 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparalelled, and successful manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral Incorruptible Teeth, and can confidently assert that they are superior to any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth FOREVER retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. Be it also remembered, that Dr. W. proportions his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when PURE GOLD is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dentistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.

1. Artificial Teeth out of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.

2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.

3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carrat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as CHEAP WORK is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even SILVER is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent use in the mouth.

4. Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

5. Those individuals who cannot afford to pay the fee of 50 cents for extraction, can have this important operation performed any morning WITHOUT CHARGE, by calling between the hours of 8 and 9 A. M.

Individuals requiring the assistance of a Dentist, may avail themselves of Dr. W's services at any hour of the day throughout the year, to suit their own convenience.

" " " silver "	2 00
" " " pivot "	1 50
" plugging teeth with gold,	1 00
" " " silver,	50
" destroying the nerve,	1 00
" filing teeth,	25
" extracting teeth,	25

☞ Mr B. has no two or three prices for his operations, (or doing work inferiorly because the patient is not able to pay a high charge,) but one regular list of prices as annexed above, which are very low, so that it enables all who are in want of Dental operations to have the services of the subscriber, and in doing so he uses none but the very best of materials in all cases. The above operations are warranted to give satisfaction or the money returned.

The Teeth used by the subscriber are the MINERAL INCORRUPTIBLE TEETH, which have received the approval of the following medical gentlemen, whose respectability needs no encomium—Professors N. R. Smith, J. T. Ducatel, R. W. Hall, S. K. Jennings, E. Goldings, G. S. Gibson, J. R. W. Dunbar.

THE BRIDE.

She stands at the altar, that face so fair
Is shaded by tresses of golden hair,
While the crimson sunset a glory sheds
Of rosy lustre 'round that bright head:
Oh! beautiful one in your guileless youth,
With a heart all gushing with love and truth,
A breathing picture of bliss art thou,
With thy blushing cheek and spotless brow,
Which seems in its gleamings as purely pale
As the floating folds of the bridal veil;
Thy voice is low, yet its deep, rich tone
Sounds like soft harp notes the breeze has blown
From the trembling strings as it wanders by,
Awaking a half-breath'd melody.
The prayer is spoken, the rites are o'er,
And the lovely girl is a girl no more;
She looks on the walls of her childhood's home
As she leans on the arm of her chosen one,
And cherish'd mem'ries come stealing by
Of her early years 'neath that sunny sky,
And tears are falling the white lids through
Dimming the light of the eyes so blue.
Yet he is near her, his voice can chase
All shades of sorrow from that dear face,
She has dried from her eyes all trace of tears
As he points to visions of coming years,
And a beautiful smile 'round her red lip plays
As she dreams of the brightness of future days.
Oh! woman! woman! such is thy dower,
A heart too trusting where one has power
To move its pulses to grief or glee,
And rule by love thy destiny!

Balt., April 10, 1841. EMILY.

FUNERAL SOLEMNITIES IN HONOR OF THE LATE PRESIDENT HARRISON.

The Philadelphia Chronicle of yesterday says:

The display yesterday, in this city, was one that deserves record in all its minutiæ—one that will be remembered by those who witnessed it—one that speaks loudly in praise of the deeds of him whose memory it was intended to commemorate. The blighting breath and withering touch of Time may crumble the marble monument into dust—but they can never remove from our national history the name and fame of those who repose beneath it.

The sky was overcast with clouds that occasionally emitted smart showers of rain, yet the long procession moved slowly and sadly on to the measured cadence of the plaintive dirge, while anon the deep toll of the muffled bells, and the roar of heavy artillery, spoke loudly to the ear. It was, in fact, one of the most gloomy days we have had during the season, and one well calculated to throw a dampness upon the spirits.

This, in conjunction with the thought that him whom we loved and whose honors were won meekly, though bravely, was enough to sadden the heart and add a solemnity to the scene.

The arrangements that had been made by the different committees were carried out to the fullest extent, without any jarring or difficulty. So nice and precise were they that each body fell into column precisely according to the orders that had been given. Too much praise cannot be conceded to the Marshal and his assistants for the promptitude and activity they displayed in forming and guiding the procession. Every part and particle, from the beginning to the end, was in proper keeping, the utmost order preserved, and each one seemed to be impressed with the responsibility that rested upon him, and did his duty accordingly.

The stores in the city were closed, and all business suspended. The windows, doors, area railings, and columns of the porticos of the different dwelling houses and stores, that lined the streets through which the procession passed, were festooned with crape and other appropriate insignia. The hotels were also closed, and a majority of them displayed the emblems of grief.—We noticed in particular Jones' Union Hotel, which was splendidly and appropriately decorated; on the top of the portico was placed a white marble urn encircled with a wreath of cypress, just below the urn a white tablet with the words "In Memory of Harrison," and on the right and left of the urn were displayed the National and State banners. The public buildings were clothed in drapery, and the greatest taste was shown in the arrangement. The Harrison & Tyler Head Quarters, of Dock Ward, Col. C. B. Reese, proprietor, attracted particular attention, the National and State flags being at half mast, and over the hall door was a beautifully gilded eagle, completely and tastefully covered with crape, bearing in its beak a large festoon enclosing the letter H in white. The windows of the Exchange were closed, and the lower part of the dome had four National flags suspended in the form of a square; they were festooned and shrouded with crape. Philadelphia, Wilmington, and Baltimore Rail Road Office, a black silk flag with the name of the company upon it in silver letters, the borders festooned with black crape and white lawn, and decorated with white rosettes. The Arch Street Theatre was also decorated, the balustrade in front being covered with black drapery, which hung in graceful festoons, and over the central entrance a large bronze eagle being placed, which held in its beak a wreath of roses shrined in black, the whole being surrounded by National flags, and showing the motto—

"He gave his honors to the world again,
His blessed part to Heaven, and sleeps in peace."

We noticed several other buildings both public and private, that are worthy of being noticed, but for want of time and space are compelled to forbear giving a description of their appearance.

During the route, the windows were filled with beauty, eager and anxious to witness the great display; the roofs were covered, and the side walk, filled with a dense mass of human beings. It is conjectured that the city of Philadelphia never contained so many people before as were to be seen yesterday. Young and old, grave and gay, the countryman and the denizen of the city were all commingled, and such a mixed up group of humanity we have seldom witnessed. They came from hill and valley—from palace and hut—from the ploughed field and paved street—to witness the testimonials of respect that were being paid to their late chief magistrate.

The firemen appeared in great numbers and showed to good advantage. It is seldom that we see so many of those men together, who make it their duty and pride to battle with one of the most destructive elements, and upon whose exertions and watchfulness we safely rely. The military was out in great force, and each individual connected with it showed that he was acquainted with the drill and discipline which constitutes the perfect soldier. The different literary associations appeared in full numbers, each body having its appropriate banners shrouded in crape. The different Lodges of Odd Fellows, as well as the Masonic Lodge, helped to swell the long procession.

The day has passed and the ceremonies are over—the tribute has been paid, and the last honors rendered—the muffled bell, and the hoarse cannon are no longer heard;—but the memory of him that gave rise to the pageantry will live so long as our republic exists—his deeds, a bright example to the rising generation, and his fame and name component parts of our country's history.

PERSEVERANCE.

They tell me, that there is a plant which thrives the most when trodden upon. A plant which one of our revolutionary heroines designated as the "rebel plant."—There too is a noble trait in man, which is worth all the gold in the world, and will, if followed up, lead to honor and fame, happiness and the good of mankind. It is Perseverance.

The youth who clings to this prize, will rise above the frowns of the world, no matter how poor he may have been in the start. Without this, and the twin-sister virtue, none need expect to soar above the vulgar crowd that daily throng his path.—It was by perseverance that our noble statesman and scholars have risen to the high station they enjoy. Without wealth and but few friends, they have cleared out their road, and now have reached the desired station. Wealth is a necessary evil, but it is a poor recommendation to perseverance. Thousands have been deluded, whereas, on the other hand, the majority of our star characters have risen without it. Choose ye an object and persevere with all thy might, and ye shall obtain it. Falter not on the way and the prize is yours. If you meet with misfortunes, and should you lose all that you have gathered, do not be discouraged, but make the best use of it you can, and you will rise. There is nothing can keep down a persevering mind. The more the man is persecuted and reviled, the stronger will be his hopes, and he at last will have the pleasure of seeing his enemies confounded, and himself their superior.—Hamburg Journal.

The Rising Generation. We once "visited" a country school in Pumpkinville, kept by a Mr. Obadiah Snooks, between a clump of alder bushes and a noted frog pond. The object of our visit was, of course to see what progress the "rising generation" was making in the walk of literature and science, and we can assure the reader that we came away highly gratified, and much more amused.

Having seated our dignified self in the master's arm chair, we threw one leg over the other, looked as serious as a psalm book, and waited for the first exhibition.

"Fifth class take their places to read," was the grand signal for an attack on our gravity; at which command, out scampered into the middle of the floor an interesting looking lot of urchins, truly—unwashed, unshod, unshorn and uncombed was the general aspect. After they had writhed, twisted and squirmed through the reading of the monosyllables, came on to the spelling. Tim Titmouse, whose tow frock and cheek apron ornamented the foot of the class, was a "buster" at spelling. Witness his efforts.

"Timothy, spell honx."
"H, o, e, hoe, a, x, ax—hoe-axe."
"The next, &c.
"Toe the mark, Timothy, and spell goat."
"G, o, g, o, a, t,—go-it."
Next came a class in parsing.
[Master reads.] "Boys are less studious than girls, Ichabob parse boys."
"Boys is an indefinite article—imperative mood, singular tense, objective case, and agrees with girls."
"Give your rule."
"Conjunctions always connect sexes and all kinds of genders."

We sat as composedly as a keg of oysters all the while they were committing an assault and battery upon poor Lindley Murray, and never uttered a word in his defence.

"Class in geography," was the next move.
"What are the chief productions of Connecticut?"
"Onions, red flannel sassingers and wooden clocks," cried by a fuzzy-faced goslin from a back seat.

We then began to think about making tracks; but Mr. Snooks said he should like to have us hear his first class read—and so we halted. A chapter in the New Testament was selected—all went on smoothly and eloquently till some Johnny Raw came to a certain verse which he rendered thus—"He saw Abraham afar off and Leather-ears in Boston."

We grabbled our hat, and shot out of the school house like a streak; and have ever since kept clear of those places where they teach young ideas how to shoot so outrageously.

☞-General Harrison, in his last out-door exercise, was engaged in assisting the gardener in adjusting some grape vines. The gardener remarked that there would be but little use in training the vines, so far as any fruit was concerned, as the boys would come on Sunday, while the family was at church, and steal all the grapes; and suggested to the General, as a guard against such a loss, that he should purchase an active watch-dog. "Better," said the General, "to employ an active Sabbath school teacher; a dog may take care of the grapes, but a good Sabbath school teacher will take care of the grapes and the boys too."—New York Signal.

A short Sermon from a Lay Preacher.
Text: "Owe no man anything."

Keep out of debt. Avoid it as you would war, pestilence, and famine. Shun it as you would the devil. Hate it with a perfect hatred. Abhor it with an entire and absolute abhorrence. Dig potatoes,—lay stone wall,—peddle tin ware,—do any thing that is honest and useful, rather than run in debt. As you value comfort, quiet, independence, keep out of debt. As you value good digestion, a healthy appetite, a placid temper, a smooth pillow, sweet sleep, pleasant dreams and happy wakings, keep out of debt. Debt is the hardest of all task-masters, the cruellest of all oppressors. It is a mill-stone about the neck. It is an incubus on the heart. It spreads a cloud over the whole firmament of a man's being. It eclipses the sun, it blots out the stars, it dims and defaces the beautiful blue of the sky. It breaks up the harmony of nature, and turns to dissonance all the voices of its melody. It furrows the forehead with premature wrinkles, it plucks the eye of its light, it drags all nobleness and kingliness out of the port and bearing of a man. It takes the soul out of his laugh, and all stateliness and freedom from his walk. Come not under its accursed dominion. Pass by it as you would pass by a leper, or one smitten by the plague. Touch it not. Taste not of its fruit, for it shall turn to bitterness and ashes on your lips. Finally, we say, to each and to all, but we speak especially, to you, young men, KEEP OUT OF DEBT.—Exchange paper.

The Malek Adhel. This piratical looking brig, which created some months since so much excitement, while on her voyage from the port of New York to San Salvador, arrived at this port on Tuesday from Rio de Janeiro, in charge of Lieut. Ogden, of the U. S. Navy. It will be recollected that the Malek Adhel, in consequence of illegal piratical acts, was taken possession of on her arrival at San Salvador by one of our government ships, and Lieut. Ogden placed on board by order of Commodore Ridgely. On her arrival the marshal of this district went on board, and brought before the Circuit Court nine of her crew, consisting of the first and second mates, six sailors and a Portuguese boy, sent hither on a charge of piracy. After some preliminary proceedings, they were committed for trial by Chief Justice Taney. Z. Collins Lee, is engaged for the defence. The captain of the M. A., named Joseph Nunez, succeeded in effecting his escape in the Brazils.—Patriot.

Circuit Court. In the case of the U. States vs. John Carter, indicted for disobedience and mutinous conduct on board the brig Helen Mc Leod, on her voyage from this port to Rio de Janeiro, the Jury on Tuesday returned a verdict of not guilty, it being ruled by the Court that a seaman is not bound to obey any illegal orders of the Captain, and is not punishable for such disobedience. Wm. Spencer and Henry Baxter, indicted for the same offence, were in like manner acquitted. The District Attorney appeared for the U. States, and J. M. Campbell, Esq., for the traversers.—Patriot.

A man named John Whipple employed on the Stone train of the Western Railroad, was killed on Thursday of last week, between the Springfield and Palmer Depot. Two other hands were slightly injured. The cause of these accidents was the stoppage of the train to prevent running over a cow.

City Mortality. The City Inspector of N. York reports 163 interments in that city last week—44 men, 35 women, 53 boys, 31 girls—53 under 2 years of age—deaths by consumption 29.

In Philadelphia there were 98 deaths; adults 47, children 51.

In Boston there were 25 deaths.

Rail Road. The City of Hartford, (Conn.) has determined to make an application to the Legislature of that State, for authority to loan the credit of the city to an amount not exceeding $200,000, to aid in the construction of the Hartford and Springfield Railroad.

An editor flogged. George R. Young, Esq. gave the editor of the Halifax Herald a cudgelling in the public street one day last week. The editor acknowledges the compliment in his paper, with no small degree of acrimony.

Jamaica. By advices from Jamaica, W. I. to the 22d ult. we learn that there had been great suffering on the Island, by reason of a drought—so much so that water was doled out by masters of plantations, to their hands, in very short allowances.

☞-The new Governor of the Island of Cuba, has taken active measures for suppressing gambling, not only in Havana but throughout the Island. At the latest accounts the police were very vigilant in ferreting out and arresting all offenders.

Pointed, very! The following is from an exchange paper: "I wonder how any one can eat his breakfast before reading a newspaper?" said an old borrower of this article. "I wonder how any one can eat his breakfast after reading a borrowed paper?" said his more conscientious wife.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave	Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
"	Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
"	Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	10 M.
"	Fred'ksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
"	Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
"	Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
"	Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
"	Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston, at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads, Weather and Steamers!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞-The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞-This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞-Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office,

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good night's rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, by an Act of Assembly of this State, passed at December session 1839, it is provided, "that if a special or extra session of Congress should be called to commence at such period as to make it necessary in the opinion of the Governor and council, that the representatives in Congress from this State should be chosen before the time fixed by law for such election, then it shall be the duty of the governor, by proclamation," to appoint a day for the election of said representatives in Congress: AND WHEREAS the President of the United States has, by his proclamation of the 17th instant, an official copy of which has been received, convened the two Houses of Congress to meet on the 31st day of May next, I do therefore appoint Monday, the 17th day of May next, as the day for the election of Representatives from this State to serve in the Congress of the United States.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, this twenty sixth day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty-one.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

THURSDAY MORNING, April 22, 1841.

Foreign News expected. Two steamships are now due. The Great Western, which sailed from Bristol for New York on the 3d inst., and the Columbia, which sailed from Liverpool for Boston on the 4th inst. The vessels will bring very important intelligence. The Boston Times speaking of the arrival of the Columbia, now hourly expected at that port says—"She will bring very late, very interesting, and probably very important intelligence, though we are inclined to think, nothing decisive of the all-absorbing question of peace or war. It will be recollected that the last news from England informed us of the fitting out of a fleet destined for America, and the Columbia will probably bring something decisive on the subject. In all our experience, we never remember a foreign arrival being looked for with so much interest and anxiety by all classes of people."

Should the news arrive by this evening's mail, it will be issued from the office of the Clipper on an Extra sheet immediately after its arrival.

Public Schools. We have the gratification to state, that Public Schools Nos. 1, 2 and 3, male and female, have as many pupils as they will contain, and that the commissioners are about to erect other school-houses for the accommodation of applicants. There was great prejudice against the public school system when it was first introduced into Maryland, and in some counties it has not yet been adopted. In this city it has been in successful operation for many years, and has been ably and judiciously conducted by commissioners and teachers. It has placed the benefits of education within the reach of all, so that no one can have a just plea for raising a child in ignorance.

An enlightened population is more necessary under our system of government than any other, intelligence being absolutely essential to the proper exercise of those rights confided to the people by the constitution. Until the introduction of public schools, however, numbers were precluded by poverty, from participating in the advantages of instruction; and hence they were condemned to a state of ignorance and degradation. A more just and humane policy having been adopted, the path to distinction is open to all without exception; as, in addition to the schools devoted to the inferior branches of education, we have the high school, with experienced and competent instructors, in which pupils who have distinguished themselves in the lower schools are admitted to the benefits of classical learning. This admirable arrangement has the tendency to beget a spirit of emulation, and consequently to promote improvement, intellectually and morally.

Mourning Fans. We have examined a seasonable and beautiful article manufactured by C. Y. Haynes & Co., No. 52 N. Exeter st. It is a mourning fan, decorated with appropriate devices and inscriptions. In the centre is a monument surmounted with an urn and wreath, inclosed by a circular border in which is inscribed, "Ladies, ever first to pay the tribute of respect to the memory of a departed hero." "His fame has ever-lasting years." On the monument appear the words, "Wm H. Harrison, born 9th Feb. 1773—died 4th of April, 1841." On one side of the monument is Fame with the trumpet—on the other the Goddess of Liberty, with the wreath of glory. Below stands the Temple of Liberty, with the Genius lamenting over a tomb. The bordering is remarkably tasty, and the fan is really a handsome article, and would be an appropriate present to a lady. Near the handle is stamped, "Remember the Giver."

We have no doubt these fans will meet with a rapid sale.

Funeral Procession. It is anticipated that the procession which is to take place on Monday next, will be the largest ever witnessed in this city. It is supposed that the President of the United States and heads of Departments, will unite in the ceremonies; and we believe that the various associations, civil and military, will be present. Our esteemed and distinguished fellow-citizen, Jonathan Meredith, Esq. will deliver the funeral oration.

The programme of the procession will probably appear in our paper of to-morrow. We know not whether the committee of arrangements will recommend the decoration of the fronts of houses on Baltimore street in mourning, but think that such a tribute of respect would be appropriate.

Funeral Solemnities. The Philadelphia papers have minute details of the interesting funeral solemnities which took place in that city on Tuesday last, in honor of the late President Harrison. The assemblage of citizens exceeded in number the highest expectations, and the whole ceremonies were conducted in a becoming spirit and with impressive solemnity. The sermon delivered by the right rev. bishop Onderdonk, is spoken of in terms of the highest admiration. The mayor and city council of Philadelphia appeared as chief mourners. We have only room for a summary account of the proceedings.

A new move. There was a celebration on Saturday at Providence, R. I. by those who are in favor of the extension of the right of suffrage. A procession was formed and paraded through the streets of the city, and an ox was roasted upon Jefferson plains.

Early impressions. It will be recollected by the reader that a man named Robinson, was executed a few days since, in New Jersey, for the deliberate murder of Mr. Suydam. It is said that Robinson made use of this impressive remark in regard to the manner in which he had been raised by his father: "If he had brought me up properly, I should not have been here." There can be no doubt that parents frequently render themselves morally responsible for the offences of their offspring, either by setting them bad examples, or by neglecting to instil into them virtuous and religious principles. It is natural that every parent should feel solicitous for the welfare of his child; and we presume that there are few fathers or mothers who are destitute of parental affection; but this feeling is too often misdirected, or permitted to slumber, until it is too late to render it effectual for good. We know nothing of the character of Robinson's father, but it is evident from the expression above quoted, that he was neglectful of his duty as a parent, and that his son has become the victim of this remissness. And how many parents could be justly reproached with the like neglect! Our streets are filled with youths who are left to the free indulgence of their passions; and the consequence is, that idleness, blasphemy and dissipation are indulged in to a fearful extent. It cannot be too frequently impressed upon parents, that it is their duty to train up their offspring with industrious habits; for industry is generally a preventive of vice and crime, whilst idleness too often induces their commission. There are few persons who will apply themselves zealously to business, who cannot rise to some distinction in their profession or trade; and the example of those who have been most successful by the exertion of their own energies, should be constantly impressed upon the minds of youth. When the mind has been properly disciplined in youth, and sound principles duly inculcated, it is not often that the early impression is eradicated in after life—for, however such person may occasionally deviate from moral rectitude, there will be a controling influence imperceptibly exerted, which will compel the individual to return from the error of his ways. But where this early culture has been neglected by the parent, there is no restraining power felt, and a single error may lead to irretrievable ruin. Had Robinson's father faithfully discharged his duty, it is probable that the son would have had the fortitude to resist the evil suggestion which led him to commit murder: but his uninstructed mind yielded to the temptation, and he attributes to this neglect of his parent, the crime which he had to expiate with his life.

The great error of the age is, an over-anxiety for wealth. This leads to many false notions and criminal acts. Children witness the eager struggles to accumulate money, and are taught that its possession is essential to respectability and happiness; and hence they are early inflamed with the desire to acquire it, not by laborious personal exertion, for that process is deemed too tedious, but by some coup de main, some bold and adventurous speculation. Their minds are engrossed with this one object, and where they fail to attain it by honorable means, other modes are too frequently resorted to, and reputation, and sometimes life, (as in the case of Robinson,) becomes the sacrifice. Wealth honorably acquired and usefully employed is a blessing—but where it has been obtained by honest labor, it is too often used to instil false notions and nurture pride. And herein parents misdirect the minds of their children, and place them on the road to ruin. We could enumerate many instances where the wealth of the honest and laborious father has proved the destruction of his child. Taught from infancy to consider himself independent, and to hold industry as disgraceful to the character of a gentleman, the son becomes that pest of himself and society, an idle man; and, to prevent the ennui to which he is subject, he plunges into dissipation, then into crime—until he finally terminates his career in contempt, if not in infamy, like Robinson.—We care not what may be the pecuniary circumstances of men, they cannot release themselves from the moral obligation to "train up their child in the way it should go;" and this obligation is violated when that child is taught to base its claims to superiority upon its father's wealth.—There is no pride more censurable, more contemptible than that which is founded upon wealth. The man should be spurned who would presumptuously advance such a claim to distinction; and yet it is a claim that too often supersedes talents and merit. It has been said, that, if you "plate sin with gold it will be worshipped." Worshippers at such a shrine are not competent instructors of youth, and consequently must misdirect the minds of their offspring. The only safe guide for parents to adopt, in the government of their children, is that which instructs us to love our neighbor; walk humbly; do justice and love mercy.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

Defenders of Baltimore. It is hoped that the Committee of arrangement will assign some place in the line of procession on Monday next, for those who bore arms in defence of the city during the late war; and that a respectful invitation be given to our fellow-citizens at a distance who came to our aid in the hour of peril, to take part with us in the solemnities of the day. It is related in the history of Ancient Greece, that on public celebrations, the old men were placed at the head of their processions—bearing a banner, with this inscription—

"Once in battle bold we shone."

Next followed the men of middle age, with

"Try us our courage is not gone."

And last the youth, with this motto—

"The palm remains for us alone."

Much depends on taste and arrangement—and it is to be hoped that a keen eye will be kept on the light fingered gentry. A Veteran.

[We approve of the above suggestion, and hope that the committee of arrangements will adopt it. We should not be remiss in attention to those who gave us their aid in the time of necessity.]

Robberies. The dry goods establishment of Messrs. Marriott & Hardesty, Baltimore-st., No. 209, was entered on Tuesday night last, and robbed of negotiable notes and drafts, which were abstracted from the vault by means of false keys, to the amount of $5,916 71. A reward of $500 is offered for the goods and thief or thieves.

The auction ware-room of Mr. Columbus E. Cook was likewise entered on the same night, and robbed of two pieces of cloth, sundry watches, guard chains, &c. to the amount in value of about $300. The thieves entered the building through the window on the second floor, by cutting out the triangular transparency which projects into the street, and there being no lower sash in the window, no difficulty was experienced in effecting an entry.

Other attempts were made on the same night to plunder the stores of our citizens, and the stock of a respectable widow lady, who resides on Market Space, was entirely swept off.

We would particularly advise our citizens and police to be on the look-out. It is thought that our city is at present infested with a desperate band of thieves.

☞A correspondent of the New Orleans Bulletin writes to that paper that it was mistaken in publishing that Arista had offered to resign his command of the Northern Division. He says Gen. A. is ambitious, and would as soon lose his right hand as give up the command of the army, though it is believed this latter event will ere long happen. He adds that there is one man attached to the Northern Army, and only one, who is fit to command; but the fact that he is a foreigner is alone sufficient to destroy him in the opinion of the present government. Much dissatisfaction is exhibited in the Northern department because the late federal leaders have been appointed to offices as a reward for their abandonment of the Texans and submission to Arista; among others, Cardenas, late President of the Republic of Rio Grande, has the place of Prefect of the Department of Tamaulipas.

The Anchor states that a steamboat is about being purchased in the U. States for the navigation of the Rio Grande, and anticipates great aid to the growing commerce of Matamoras from such an enterprize.

Shipwreck and Loss of Life. By Captain Chamberlain, of the schooner Francis, says the New York Sun of the 20th, arrived yesterday from Pensacola, we learn the melancholy intelligence of the loss of the brig Opulence, together with a passenger, cook and four hands. She sailed from this port on the 28th ult., bound for Apalachicola, and on the 3d inst. was struck by a squall which threw her upon her beam ends; every thing was let go immediately, but she filled and went down in a few moments. As she was sinking, a sea washed off the upper part of the cabin deck, which Capt. Hawkins and the mates succeeded in reaching, the crew, consisting of four men and cook, and a passenger were lost. The following are the names of those on board, at the time of the disaster. Mr. G. H. Miller, passenger; Capt. Hawkins; first mate, John B. Norton; second mate, A. C. Peters; P. Hawkins, of New York; H. Thompson, of do; Isaac Hicks, of do. and Peter, of Manilla, all seamen, and Robert Truxon, steward, of New York.

Mr. Luccheni's Concert. The Concert of this gentleman, who is well known in this city as a professor of music of talent and industry, is to take place at the Saloon of the Assembly Rooms this evening. He has a large circle of friends who, no doubt, will not be wanting on this occasion. The bill offers a rich treat, and as the price of tickets is fixed to suit the times, we have every reason for believing that the room will be well filled.

We have been requested to state that the Dirge composed by Mr. Hewitt, and sung so effectively at the Concert of the "Choir," will be, by request, repeated this evening.

Singular Marriage. A few days since, in New York, a young and beautiful Jewess, named Delia Phillips, sued a young Israelite, named Steinberg, for breach of promise of marriage, laying her damages at $5000; the faithless swain was lodged in the debtors' prison, in default of bail. There he had time to reflect, and then agreed to marry, when the lady refused, but the counsel and friends of both parties interposing they became re-united again, and, proceeding to the police office with their witnesses, were duly married by Justice Matsell.

Honors to the Dead. The Gazette, of that borough says:—The citizens of York, on Saturday last, testified their respect for the memory of the late President of the United States, by a civic and military procession. The ceremonies were well attended; and the Lutheran Church was crowded, to hear an Eulogy upon the deceased Chief Magistrate, delivered by Charles A. Barnitz, Esq.

The public observances in reference to the death of President Harrison, are to take place, and the funeral oration to be delivered, at Gettysburg, Pa. to-day.

Rabid. The editors of the Boston Times and Boston Mail have gotten into a real snarl. The Times man especially is as rabid as a "Towser." The cause of dispute is as follows:—The editor of the Mail, bought one of the Times' extras containing President Tyler's address, for two cents, and published an extra in a half hour afterwards. Gentlemen do not punish your enlightened readers with such trifling stuff.

Good Luck. We learn that Mr. T. R. Scott, lottery vender, No. 56½, Baltimore street, did, really, on last week, sell to a very fortunate individual, the capital prize of $12,000 in the Town Hall and State Armory Lottery. This is doing business with a big auger. See his advertisement in another column.

COMMUNICATION.

☞Messrs. Editors—You are aware that a course of Lectures are being delivered in the Rev. J. M. Duncan's Church, growing out of the death of Mr. Geo. Steward, a very highly esteemed and pious young man. As that eloquent divine, the Rev. R. J. Breckenridge, is among the lecturers, great anxiety exists in the minds of many, to know what night has been set apart for his discourse. It has been published in several of the papers, but so long since that it is now forgotten—and although it was given out from the pulpits of seven or eight churches, it was not generally heard by those for whom these lectures are intended, from the melancholy fact that but a small number of our young men attend the "House of Prayer." By inserting this and the annexed Card, you will oblige many Subscribers as well as READERS.

A CARD.

BALTIMORE U. FIRE DEPARTMENT.

BALTIMORE, April 20, 1841

The Department having resolved to participate in the ceremonies of the 26th, the several Companies will assemble at their Engine Houses on Monday next, at 7 o'clock, A. M. The members will be fully equipped, and wear a badge of mourning on the left arm; the Banners, Flags, Hose Pipes, Axes, and Torches, borne in the procession will be covered with black crape.

Each Company will appoint a Marshal and assistants, who will act on foot, and be designated by a scarf.

The line will be formed at 8 o'clock, A. M., two deep in sections of eight, in North street, resting on Fayette street.

On approaching the place of formation, each company will halt at the corner of Fayette and North sts., and report to the Chief Marshal, who will assign its proper position; priority will be given according to seniority of company.

☞The "Watchman Hose Company" having been invited to join in the ceremonies of the day, will be escorted into the line by the "Washington Hose Company," which has been detailed for that duty.

Companies procuring music will be entitled to retain it in column.

In calling on the Firemen of Baltimore to participate in the mournful ceremonies about to be paid to a departed and much honored Chief, the Chief Marshal anticipates a strong representation from each Company, a well regulated discipline, and strict conformity to the order of the day.

Junior Howard Temperance Society.

Whereas, In the dispensation of Divine Providence, Gen. Wm. Henry Harrison, the great and good President of these United States, hath been transferred from this to another and better world, which event the nation now mourns: And whereas, we bow in humble submission to the will of the Almighty Disposer of all things, and propose to rely implicitly upon the goodness of this mighty mind, which has made and preserves us as a nation—governed by a sense of propriety and urged by sorrowful feelings, we desire to offer publicly our humble tribute of grateful respect and attachment to the memory of our late beloved President—Therefore, be it unanimously

Resolved, That the members of the Junior Howard Temperance Society unite with other Associations, civic and military, in solemn procession on Monday, 26th instant.

Resolved, That as a further mark of respect, the members wear the usual badge of mourning sixty days.

Resolved, That James Bureau, Joseph H. Anodoun, Thomas Keathley, Edwin Frazier, and David Kirkland, act as a committee to wait on all other committees. [ap22-1t] JOHN H. BURNUP, Ch'n.

RAIL ROAD NOTICE.

TO THE PUBLIC. Whereas, the PORTSMOUTH AND ROANOKE RAIL ROAD COMPANY having contracted to sell to the PETERSBURG RAIL ROAD COMPANY one half of the Bridge over the Roanoke at Weldon, and being unable to make the said Company a fee simple right to the same, are attempting to force them to buy the bridge on such terms as they choose to dictate, by refusing to take up and set down passengers at Garysburg:—This is to notify travellers going south, that the only consequence of such a refusal is that the Petersburg Rail Road now connects with the Wilmington and Charleston Rail Road and Steamboat Line, by one and a half miles of Steamboat, instead of two and a quarter miles of Rail Road, and the line is as expeditious and pleasant as ever it was, and probably safer, as the aforesaid Portsmouth Company, to prevent persons even from walking over the bridge, have taken up the floor, and in case of accident there is nothing but the rail between the cars and the river, fifty feet below.

The travelling public may rest assured that however the Portsmouth Company may advertise their road as the only line connecting with the Wilmington Rail Road, the connexion of the Petersburg Rail Road, will always be kept up, and the great mail line through Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond and Petersburg, is now, as it always has been, the most expeditious, safe and certain route to the South. It is thirty miles shorter than the other, and nearly all Rail Road. The other line has two hundred miles of Steamboating, and to compete with the Mail Line in point of expedition, they must force their Boats to the very top of their speed. Which is the safest and most certain means of conveyance, the Rail Road or a racing Steamboat? The public can best judge.

Passengers going to the interior of North Carolina, or to the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road, are particularly warned not to trust to the representations of the Agents of the Portsmouth route, as, if they go to Weldon that way, they will have to retrace their steps thirty miles over the Petersburg Rail Road and lose two days by the operation, without counting the increased cost.

Baltimore, April 21, 1841.

☞See advertisement of the Marshal, below.

☞MARSHAL'S SALE. By virtue of a writ of Fieri Facias to me directed, from the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of North Carolina, H. C. Wiatt against the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, will be sold to the highest bidder, (for cash,) in front of the Court House, in the city of Raleigh, on Wednesday the 12th of May next, the interest of the aforesaid Company in and to the Bridge across the Roanoke, at the town of Weldon; together with a quantity of Iron Railing, purchased for the same. Also, the interest of the said Company in the Ware Houses at Weldon, and the fixtures pertaining to the same. Also, all that portion of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, lying and being within the limits of the State of North Carolina, and Warehouses situated on and belonging to the same. SPLENDID MOURNING FAN.

C. Y. HAYNES & CO. have got a beautiful embossed FAN dedicated to the memory of our late illustrious President, WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, intended as a suitable emblem of mourning at the approaching solemnities on Monday next. All that can be made are wanted in other cities; but as ever grateful feeling for the Ladies of Baltimore, for their former patronage, has induced the proprietors to supply their own market first. And it is hoped that the Ladies will lose no time in supplying themselves with the most tasty and appropriate article ever got up in the United States.

As there is an increasing demand for the celebrated Log Cabin Fans, all orders for either kind will be promptly attended to at the manufactory, No. 52 North Exeter-st. ap22 3t
