A CARD—To the Ladies of Baltimore.

☞ A deep sense of gratitude makes it incumbent upon me at this time to return to the Ladies my most grateful acknowledgments for the very kind and liberal patronage they have extended towards me, commencing business as I did, under the most adverse circumstances, almost without the hope of success, yet through their kindness and support I have been sustained; therefore wherein I have failed to give entire satisfaction either in punctuality or quality of article, let them be assured those failures have resulted from causes entirely unconntrollable by myself, for it has always been my greatest pride to meet their expectation in both particulars. I am still at my old stand, Pearl street, near Franklin, where more experience and better facilities in business will enable me to do ample justice to their future favors. THOS. R STANFORD.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

THE CONCERT. We were present at the grand concert given by the Baltimore Choir in the Assembly Rooms, on Tuesday night last. Although the evening was unfavorable, owing to the inclemency of the weather, still the auditory was large and highly fashionable.

We are no judge of scientific music, yet from what we do know of its abstract philosophy, are prepared to add our testimony in behalf of what we heard. Every thing went off well and seemed to satisfy those of the spectators who we have reason to believe were good judges.

We might be deemed unfashionable or wanting in taste were we to hint that some music writers of the present age, in aiming at harmony and what is termed finished science (otherwise modern over-strained fashion, if you please,) forget the importance of melody. Their productions also exhibit a want of design and originality.—The most classical words, finished sentences and perfect English can be arranged in either prose or verse. This it is true will please the tasteful reader; but it is without eloquence. It may be instructive, though it moves not that fountain which awakens the sentiments and gives life, animation and delight to both soul and body. So with music.—A most perfect arrangement of sounds may be produced, yet they are dry and artificial, having no semblance to that rich, melting melody which lives in, and may be read from, the book of nature. Music is intended to appeal to our nobler feelings and passions—to touch the chords that vibrate around the heart and not the calculating, mathematical organs of philosophy. If it fails in this, it has failed in its legitimate object, and is not music. Let an American be in the deep solitude of the Alpine mountains, and hear all at once, reverberating from cliff to cliff, the choice notes of his native air, "Yankee Doodle," or "Hail Columbia," and if his heart does not thrill with ecstatic delight then we have mistaken his character. So with the Frenchman on hearing the "Marseilles Hymn," or the son of Scotia when listening to the plaintive melodies of his Highland home. This, indeed, is universal—and why? Simply because the author in arranging such music was moved, as it were, by the inspiration of nature. Words are only eloquent in proportion to the ideas they convey, and those which are the simplest are often the most effective. From this let our musicians take a lesson. An anatomist, in describing technically to those who could not understand, would be out of place. So we would say when scientific men adhere to all the technical phrases, let them have a scientific auditory. And, likewise, we would say, when music writers compose for the purpose of showing alone the intricacies of the science, let them have those to hear who admire the artificial not the real—those of modern fashionable taste, and not those who admire melody or music.

We are disposed to find fault with some vocalists who in singing mince their words so as to hide both the words and sentiment of poetry. If there is beauty in poetry at all, let it be heard, if not, don't repeat it, because it would not only be superfluous but discordant. Poetry and music are twin sisters, if one is beautiful, it adds to the other—the more distinctly annunciated, therefore, the better.

We cannot close these observations before referring to two pieces performed at the above concert; one, a march composed by Mr. H. Dielman, performed at the funeral of the late President, and the other a dirge, by J. H. Hewitt, Esq. on the death of the venerated hero, W. H. Harrison. The former is said to be a highly finished piece of composition. The only fault we found with it was, that it did not please us, and seemed to be wanting in the particular object: It has the frame-work, but the soul is left out. The latter was listened to with marked attention. It not only manifested that the author's feelings had been inspired by his subject, but that he had been successful in transmitting those feelings through the soft, harmonious and delicate channel of pure melody to the hearts of others. It accomplished its object and caused the bright tear to drop from more than one fair eye upon the occasion of its performance.

THEFT. A gentleman at the Railroad depot in Providence had his pocket picked on Thursday of a copy of the New Testament, the thief probably, from its size and form, mistaking it for a pocket book. It is to be hoped that the fellow may learn a useful lesson from the spoils which he thus dishonestly obtained.

OHIO RIVER. The Pittsburg Gazette of Saturday states that the River is yet in fine order and likely to continue so for some considerable time. Boats are running daily up and down both the Monongahela and Alleghany, many are continually going and coming on the Ohio, and the two daily lines of steam and canal boats to Cleveland are doing a good business.

As referring to the business of Pittsburg, it is stated in the same paper that a much larger amount of transportation business had been done there, the present season, than during the same period last year.

HAVRE DE GRACE, April 20, 1841.

The Tide Water Canal is now open for navigation from Wrightsville to this place; two boats arrived last night from Peachbottom, having passed through that port under repair, one loaded with slate for that place, and the other loaded with grain for the Baltimore market.—Pat.

BANK ROBBED. In the Savannah papers of Saturday, it is announced by the Cashier, that the Planters' Bank of Georgia, located in Savannah, has been robbed of $37,000. The money was abstracted from the vaults, and consisted entirely of the notes of the Planters' Bank of the State of Georgia, of various denominations, but principally of notes of Fifty Dollars and Twenty Dollars.

MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP or WILD CHERRY.

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences.

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

☞ The above Medicine may always be had in Baltimore of RICHARD NORRIS of WILLIAM, No. 254 Market street, who is the Sole Agent for this Medicine in that city. All orders coming to Philadelphia, must be directed to DR. SWAYNE,

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Locx, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 92 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh16-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

CHANCERY SALE.

VOLUME IV.] FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 23, 1841. [NUMBER 39.

ARRIVAL STEAM SHIP COLUMBIA, AT BOSTON.

16 DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

The steam ship COLUMBIA, Captain Judkins, arrived at her moorings in Boston harbor, on Monday evening the 18th instant, at 7½ o'clock, P. M. She left Liverpool on the 4th.

The Columbia came up the harbor with the American flag at half mast—the captain having been informed by a pilot of the death of the late President.

We find in our papers no news of great importance; in fact, the press of England appears to have been discussing, for a long time, the McLeod question with great deal of ardor.

The arrival of the packet ship Patrick Henry, with General Harrison's address, and the arrival of the steamer Britannia, with despatches for the British Government, tended to allay a most feverish excitement which had prevailed in all classes, and our last advices show a much better feeling towards this country, and a rapid advance in the money markets.

From the following it will be seen that the Great Western was not to sail until the 8th, and likewise that it was at first ordered to call at Halifax, from fear of difficulties arising between this country and England. It is extracted from the Liverpool Mail of the 3d.

STEAM SHIP GREAT WESTERN. The public will observe, on reference to our advertising columns, that the directors have altered the day of sailing of the above ship from the 3d to the 8th of the present month. The intention of calling at Halifax is also relinquished in consequence of the peaceable advices recently received from the United States.

THE PRESIDENT. This steam ship, which seems destined, every trip she makes, to painfully keep alive public anxiety respecting her safety, has not yet made her appearance. The New York packet ship Virginian, which sailed on the 14th ult., three days after the President, arrived yesterday. The steamer has on board important despatches from our Minister at Washington, and her arrival must be no anxiously looked for by the Government as it is by the public.—Liverpool Chronicle, 3d.

Mr Orr, one of the engineers on board of the Columbia, informs us that it was supposed in England that she had either encountered an iceberg, or that she had gone into the Western Islands for coal. The greatest anxiety prevailed in England at the time of the departure of the Columbia, at the non-arrival of the President; fearful anticipations were entertained that she had met with some serious accident.

The Royal Mail Steamer Britannia, Captain Cleland, arrived at Liverpool on March 31st, in fourteen days and eighteen hours from Boston. She experienced heavy gales through the whole passage.

A notice was up at Lloyd's for transports to convey 1,600 troops to Halifax, where 4,000 are shortly to be sent to reinforce the battalions already here.

There was much less excitement in Great Britain respecting the relations between that country and the United States.

Steamship from New York had not arrived at Liverpool on the 3d, having then been out twenty-four days. The Orpheus, packet ship, which sailed in company with her, reached Liverpool, on the 1st inst.

It is said that Admiral Elliot of Chusan celebrity, is to succeed Sir William Parker at the admiralty. Though unfit to do his work abroad, he is well enough, it seems, to fill a place at the "Family Board."

A Constantinople letter speaks of the approaching retirement of Reschid Pacha, sweetened by a present from the Sultan of 1,000,000 of piasters. It also says that a steamer has left for Alexandria, bearer, as it was thought, of an unfavorable answer to Mehemet Ali.

The examination of the election returns had not yet terminated at Madrid. The question seems to be not yet determined in the preparatory meetings of deputies whether there is to be one or three regents.

The British press has evidently cooled down in its tone towards the United States. The only pugnacious article of consequence is the following from the Liverpool Mail:

"We understand that government have received despatches from Mr. Fox, the British minister resident at Washington, intimating that his demand for the release of Mr. McLeod has been received in a most conciliatory spirit by the new president and the American cabinet, and that the strongest assurances have been given him that the unfortunate and much injured gentleman will be safely restored to his friends, and ample compensation made him for the insult he has sustained and the sufferings he has endured.

All this is satisfactory enough, as far as Mr. McLeod is concerned; but what reparation is to be made to England for the past, and what indemnity given for the future, in a matter deeply affecting the honor of this country and the laws of civilized nations? We cannot see how the release of McLeod alters the complex nature of the question at issue. If the state of N. York is permitted to claim the right of arresting, imprisoning, and trying for life, every Canadian subject of her Majesty, who, in the discharge of his duty, may fire a musket at an American citizen acting piratically, or assisting pirates on the lines, no man's life or liberty would be safe for a moment upon a disturbed frontier. After all, we are only at the beginning of this business.

The supplement to the Liverpool Journal of April 3d contains the following paragraph on this subject:

UNITED STATES. The Times states that government received despatches from Mr. Fox by the Britannia steamer, and that those despatches leave no doubt of an amicable and immediate settlement between the United States and Great Britain, as far as regards the question of McLeod. Mr. F. had received a communication to that effect from the American government, couched in the most conciliatory language. We think (adds the Times) that the public mind may be at rest on this point.

The Liverpool Mail of April 3d, says:

THE UNITED STATES. "The uneasy feeling existing relative to our relations with the United States has been a good deal diminished by the arrival of the Brittania. No idea of the possibility of war seems to be entertained in America, nor are there the smallest signs of any preparations to meet it. It is admitted that the States are defenceless, and that there is every appearance that Mr. Fox is conducting his very delicate mission in such a way as to obtain satisfaction, not by injurious threats, but by friendly and respectful negotiations."

The packet ship Patrick Henry captain Delano, arrived at Liverpool after a remarkable short passage of 15 days and 10 hours from New York. She carried out General Harrison's Inaugural Address. The London Globe thus speaks of the effect of the effect of the address:—"The Inaugural Address of the new President is considered decidedly pacific. No new fact connected with the disputes, is recorded, but it was generally believed in America that McLeod would be given up, and thus the danger of an immediate rupture would be avoided."

The Times of the 2d inst. says: "Government received despatches from Mr. Fox which leaves no doubt of an amicable and immediate settlement between the United States and Gt. Britain as far as regards the question of McLeod. Mr. Fox had received a communication to that effect from the American Government, couched in the most conciliatory language.—We think the public mind may be at rest on this point.

The Morning Chronicle of the same date says: "the news from the United States, by the Brittania steamer may be looked upon in a two-fold character—political and commercial. In regard to the first, the contents are considered very favorable, and the best evidence of that is, that the funds have risen in consequence 1-2 per cent. The only points considered to be at issue now are, the time and manner of McLeod's liberation, for all fears for his safety, or indeed conviction, are at an end.

"The commercial intelligence from America is not so gratifying as the political. The Money Market was very much depressed; capitalists represented as desirous to limit their liabilities, and the masses as evincing an inclination to hoard. It must be kept in view, however, that when the Britannia sailed the Americans were not aware that the bills drawn upon the three London houses by the Bank of the United States had been accepted—we may reasonably look for some revival of confidence and appearance of better things when this shall have become known."

An extraordinary excitement appears to have prevailed previous to the arrival of the Brittania, but it will be seen by the extracts rom the leading London papers, that this panic had ceased immediately after her news became known.

ANARCHICAL MOVEMENT AT MARSEILLES.—The Marseilles papers of the 25th, contain the following account of an anarchical movement in that city:

"For some days the vigilance of the authorities was excited by several extraordinary meetings held by the republican leaders, and by the men affiliated to the secret societies in the south of France. It was accordingly inferred that they intended some machination, and anonymous letters and half disclosures, made by some of the conspirators who were frightened at the project in which they were to be actors, led to the discovery of the plot, which had for its object to set fire to the vessels in the harbor, and whilst the population would be engaged in extinguishing the conflagration, the conspirators were to have plundered the banks, the office of the receiver general, &c.

The Marseilles anarchists had been told that their friends at Avignon, Nismes, Carpentras, Montpellier and Carcassonne, would repair to their assistance. The latter was to furnish the largest contingent for their crusade of terrorists.

"The day or rather night, chosen for the execution of this abominable project, was that of the 22d. They expected also to be joined by the laborers employed in the construction of the Marseilles canal, who had been tampered with to that effect.

"The authorities, however, adopted measures to prevent the co-operation of the latter. Gendarmes were stationed at the meeting of the roads leading to the canal, and police agents in disguise kept a watch on the house which was to serve as the general rendezvous of the conspirators. This house was the tavern known by the name of Le Polonais. About 11 o'clock at night they began to arrive by bands of five and six at the house, and in the course of a short time the tavern and the adjoining enclosure were occupied by between 250 and 300 individuals. The police, aided by the armed force, half taken such efficient measures that not one of them could have escaped, when a mounted Gendarm having approached a group of five, who were coming down by the lane des Crottes, received a discharge of three pistols, to which he replied, and that moment orders to act were given.

"The report of the shots unfortunately spread the alarm among the conspirators, and before the troops of the line could come up, they were seized with a general panic, and fled in every direction. The police found the doors of the tavern closed, and when they were burst open by the Sappers, not an inmate was discovered in it. But the soldiers, accompanied by the commissaries of police, having set out in pursuit of the fugitives, arrested fourteen, who were still armed with pistols, poinards, sabres, &c.

"During the expedition, the police arrested three other individuals, belonging to a band which presented itself at the tavern of l'Ascension, at the extremity of the Boulevard des Trios Journees, another rendezvous of the conspirators.

"Yesterday four more were arrested. The prisoners belonging to the lowest class of society. With the exception of one who is 54 years of age, they are all under 30, and only one of them is a native of Marseilles."

A large meeting is announced to take place in Glascow soon, which will embrace the broad general question of the duties on every description of goods and produce imported into the United Kingdom, including, of course, the duties levied upon corn and provisions.

It is now stated that Sir Wm. Parker will succeed Admiral Elliott in China.

FRANCE. Some alarm was again created on the Rourse by the financial expose made by M. Humann during the debate on the supplementary credits. The minister said, that if the government did not bring forward during this session a bill for the construction of extensive lines of railroads, it was, because it was about to negotiate a loan of 450,000,000f., and that it could not think of raising a competition in the market at the time of its realization; but next year, should circumstances improve, and the situation of the country be prosperous, if the loan found purchasers on good terms, then the government would see no danger in undertaking those great works.

From the Liverpool Mail.

The gigantic absurdity of enclosing Paris within permanent fortifications, continues to occupy the public mind of France. The bill, authorising it, is now in its course through the Chamber of Peers, and, though condemned by almost every man of military or literary eminence which the chamber contains, is expected to become a law by a considerable majority. That the wall and fortifications would be any defence against a victorious external enemy no one really believes, whatever may be professed. The object of the construction is entirely a political one, and, by a remarkable concurrence of circumstances, and the great dexterity of Louis Phillippe, three distinct parties coincide in it.

The king and his friends wish for it, in order to give him and his successors the military command of Paris, should the throne be menaced by revolt; Mr. Odillon Barrot and the ultra war party support it, in the hope of establishing a military domination, and an aggressive position, controlling the body politic by a formidable military excitement; M. Thiers supports it out of consistency as its reputed author; M. Guizot and Marshal Soult, the latter of whom is notoriously averse to it, support it as the price of the exclusion of M. Thiers, and of peace with Europe. To this hopeful combination are opposed Count Mole and the constitutional conservative party, with La Martine, Passy, and the moderate and reasonable and well informed men of all parties, unfortunately few in number. The measure will be accomplished, if not delayed indefinitely by want of funds, which is far from improbable.

From the London Sun.

EXTENSIVE ROBBERY AT WINDSOR CASTLE.—On Friday night, a mounted express arrived at the private residence of the commissioners of police, Whitehall-place, bringing information that a robbery of a daring and most extensive nature had been committed at Windsor castle. The information we have been able to collect is meagre, in consequence of the police authorities wishing to keep the matter a profound secret.—We have, however, ascertained from a source we can place implicit reliance on, that a gentleman holding a very responsible situation in the castle, and the nature of which enabled him at any time to have access to the crown plate and jewelry, has absconded, taking with him property of the above mentioned description, to the amount, it is said, of some thousands.

The person against whom strong suspicions are entertained is a porter in the stores' department, in whom great reliance had been placed. The property stolen is stated to consist of upwards of one cwt. of silver articles, and portions of silver furniture of various descriptions. Among the latter is a splendid solid silver table, highly chased. The four solid silver legs have been wrenched off, and likewise the top, by means of a chisel (the marks of which are clearly perceptible,) from the wood to which it was secured.

It is likewise stated that some massive silver looking glass frames have been partially stripped, and a portion of the silver of which they were composed forcibly dragged off, and that several valuable articles are missing from the plate room.

A report has just reached Windsor that he was apprehended this morning in the neighborhood of Holborn by the metropolis police, and that he has implicated several others in the robbery.

GREECE. We learn from Athens that the Chevalier Prokerk Von Osten, Austrian Minister at that Court, has given assurance to the Greek government that the Cabinet of Vienna will use its good offices in endeavoring to settle the differences which exist between Greece and Turkey, as soon as the Eastern question is finally resolved.

SWITZERLAND. The affair of the convents does not appear to have been definitively settled. It is said, that the difficulty is likely to lead to an armed intervention.

POLAND. Accounts from Poland state that the Russian forces concentrated in that country did not exceed 60,000 men, 30,000 of whom were stationed in and about Kalisch, and the rest were distributed throughout the kingdom. Between 60,000 and 80,000 more were quartered beyond the Bug, so that in a very short time an army of 120,000 men could be easily assembled. Austria had ordered 18,000 recruits to be levied in Gallicia, which was three times the number raised in ordinary times.

HOLLAND. The accounts from Holland speak of a great fermentation, which, as they state, manifests itself among the Protestant population of all classes, in consequence of the resolution announced by the King to carry into effect the concordant concluded in 1828 with the Court of Rome.

BELGIUM. Advices from Brussels announce that all the Ministers have submitted to his Majesty the alternative of the accepting their resignations or dissolving the Senate.

[From the London Times.]

Eastern Affairs.—Our readers will see, that the news from Egypt is perplexing. The turbulent and stubborn propensities of the Pasha are likely to give the European Powers rather more work than they have laid their account for. In reference to the Sultan's announced declaration, that he reserves to himself the right (when occasion shall arise) to appoint to the Pachalic of Egypt any member of Mehemet Ali's family he may choose to prefer, it appears that his humbled vassal, if such he can yet be termed, has openly declared to Commodore Napier his firm determination to resist the Sultan's decree, as being calculated to generate jealousies and feuds among his descendants.

Thus the Eastern question, generally believed to have been finally settled, appears to be reopened in a new form, which, under certain possible contingencies, depending upon the views of France, may occasion more serious consequences than any that have yet attended it.

TURKEY. The intelligence from Constantinople is to the 11th ult. On the 6th ult. despatches arrived there from Alexandria, referring to certain modifications which Mehemet Ali wished to be introduced in the Hatti-Scheriff of investiture. Immediately after the receipt of these despatches the Ministers and high functionaries of the Porte held an extraordinary council, at which it was resolved to consult the representatives of the Powers parties to the treaty of the 15th July, before they adopted any decision.

The Augsburg Gazette of the 28th ult. publishes a private correspondence from Constantinople, which states that the French Ambassador there earnestly supported the representations made by Mehemet Ali, relative to the firman issued by the Sultan, investing him with the government of Egypt, and even threatened that France would adopt coercive measures unless the hereditary government was granted to the Viceroy. Lord Ponsonby, it was said, had declared that Mehemet Ali was a rebel, and deserved no consideration The Russian Charge d'Affaires kept aloof, although he appeared to coincide with Lord Ponsonby. The Prussian and Austrian Ambassadors wished to induce the Porte to adopt moderate measures. The Divan wished to temporize, and to take advantage of the course of events.

France, England, Austria and Prussia have signed at London a treaty, whereby all ships of war not belonging to the Sultan are interdicted from entering the Dardanelles or the Bosphorus. The Russian Envoy Extraordinary declared that he could not sign the treaty without fresh instructions from his Court. It is believed that those which he will receive will not be at variance with the pacific views of the above four Powers.

It is said that Lord Ponsonby will not continue long in the post of Ambassador.

MANCHESTER, Friday Evening, April 2.—It has been found, since the arrival of the Britannia, that both the goods and yarn markets are lower than they were on Tuesday, though that was then deemed to be almost impossible. The best printing cloths suitable for the United States market, have been the most affected by the arrival, and may be had at 2¼ per ct. lower. Cloth generally must be quoted at nominal prices, no sales to any extent have been made for the last two or three days. There has been tolerable business done for the India market in goods and yarns, but at prices below all former precedent.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET. The sales of the week, ending the 27th ult., were 15,650 bales; 2570 Upland at 6¼ to 7 3-8; 3000 Mobile, &c., 6 1-4 to 7 3-8; 5500 New Orleans, 6¼ to 8¼.

The sales of the week, ending April 3d, are 18,700 bales, of which 1700 of American are placed to speculation account, and 1300 of various descriptions for export. There was also forwarded into the interior unsold last month 1020 bales. We quote the prices of all descriptions 1-8d to 1-4d lower this week, with a flat and heavy market at the decline.

BANK OF ENGLAND. Quarterly average of the Weekly Liabilities and Assets of the Bank of England, from Jan. 5 to March 30:

Liabilities.		Assets.
Circulation	£16,537,000	Sec'ties	£23,328,000
Deposits	7,212,000	Bullion	3,339,000
	£23,749,000		£26,667,000

FASHIONS FOR APRIL. Small patterns, stripes and checks will be fashionable this season, in mourning dresses; and for the promenade, poplins brochees, watered silks, l'armure prairie, in small brochee flowers, on light green ceru, or lilac grounds; orientales, peu de soie, fleur de lis; velvet ailes de mouche, is the prettiest novelty, and derives its name from possessing the softness of velvet, with lightness and variety of its tints; the armure rocaille is also admired. Tight sleeves cannot be considered very general, in light materials they will not be admitted; flounces are not much in favor, skirts continue to be made long, and the bodies are still pointed. Fancy head buttons are much used on ball dresses, and it is expected they will be fashionable on redingotes this season.

For ball dresses, crapes, gauzes, watered silks, with double and treble skirts, guimp trimmings, marabants, and flowers ornament them, the corsage a la Grecque and the short sleeves full trimmed. Black has been very fashionable in Paris, whether in velvet, satin, watered silk, crape, or face dresses ornamented with diamonds or flowers. Redingotes of silk are trimmed with folds, edged by a narrow fringe, or with small chicerees. Scarfs of the same material as the dress, are much admired in Paris; the ends are fringed, and the folds are confined on the shoulders; they are worn in silks, mousselines de leine, &c. &c. Scarfs of shaded silk, orange glacee, with white or blue glacee, are trimmed with point d'Alencon; black lace scarfs, as well as those of point lace, mechlin, muslin, china crape, and foulard, are all in the fashion.

A new shaped berthe has appeared, with four points, one reaches to the point of the body, the others are on the shoulders and back.

Barets, toques of black velvet, with marabout, turbans resille, mure hats a la creole, a la belle poules; turbans of gauze, embroidered in gold, with crowns of velvet sprigged with gold, or of mockemire, with scarfs of point lace and tassels, Algerin. Caiffires Madona, a la Louis XIV. small toquets de page, due a la marquise, are all now in demand.

Straw bonnets are preparing in Paris, a jours with liserees of velvet, others with filets of chenille; also close capotes of Leghorn and paille de riz. Capotes of crapes are very fashionable just now in Paris, in pink, green, lilac, with marabouts of the same color, or wreaths of roses, mixed with heart's ease.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From a very Respectable Farmer.]

STAFFORD COUNTY, VA. SEPT. 7th, 1840.

Dear Sir:—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I think I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhubarb and soda three or four times every day for these many years, with little or no relief, and my legs and ankles were so much swelled that I was unable, at times, to attend to my business. But since you made me a present of a box of your Family Pills I have taken 1 or 2 of them at night in going to bed, and now my acid stomach is relieved, the swelling in my legs has nearly disappeared, and I do not think that I have been hindered one day with the pain in my head since I began to take your valuable medicine. I think the Lord directed you to Fredericksburg, to administer to my relief. (Blessed be his holy name, I am greatly relieved.) There is living in my neighborhood a poor old woman who had been sick for a long time and could not get relief; at length I purchased a box of your pills and gave them to her, after awhile I saw her out and about her business, and she said that the one box had cured her. I have spread the fame of your valuable medicine amongst my acquaintances, and many have purchased. Now, as it respects myself, my friends tell me when I go to town, that they have not seen me look so well for many years, and I say to them, 'I will tell you the secret why; a short time ago I met with a Dr. Davies in town, and he gave me a box of pills, and they have made me look as you now see me.' And now, my friend, I hope that the Lord will continue to be with you, and make you useful to your fellow-creatures, as he has hitherto done. I remain with respect,

CHARLES BRUCE.

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 39 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparalleled, and successful manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral Incorruptible Teeth, and can confidently assert that they are superior to any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth FOREVER retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. Be it also remembered, that Dr. W. proportions his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when PURE GOLD is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dentistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.

1. Artificial Teeth out of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.

2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.

3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carrat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as CHEAP WORK is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even silver is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent use in the mouth.

4. Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

5. Those individuals who cannot afford to pay the fee of 50 cents for extraction, can have this important operation performed any morning WITHOUT CHARGE, by calling between the hours of 8 and 9 A.M.

Individuals requiring the assistance of a Dentist, may avail themselves of Dr. W's services at any hour of the day throughout the year, to suit their own convenience.

COUNTRY SEAT FOR SALE.

The subscriber, as agent for the owners, will offer for sale at public auction, at the Exchange, on SATURDAY, 1st May, at one o'clock, unless previously sold at private sale, for which it is now also offered, the COUNTRY SEAT of the late Mr. Philip Laug. It has four acres of land, and is improved with a comfortable BRICK DWELLING, Stable, Gardners House, Milk House, &c. It borders on the city limits, being on the Windsor Mill Road, about half a mile from the Reisterstown Turnpike. There is a productive Orchard and a good Garden on the place. The terms will be accommodating.

MEDICAL AID. The success that has attended the treatment of many thousand cases of Venereal Complaints for twenty years past, induces the subscriber to inform the public, that he may be daily seen and consulted on all cases of the kind, recent and chronic, and on diseases of the urinary organs generally. His treatment is speedy and certain, adapted to the various constitutions of his patients; the medicines are so mild that the most delicate may take them, without any restrictions in diet or occupation. Many cases that have resisted every other mode of treatment have speedily yielded to this, and many persons who have tried all the quack nostrums of the day are frequently calling on the subscriber to have the injuries they have sustained by their use relieved. An early application is advisable in all cases, which may be made at Dr. WARNER'S OFFICE, Albemarle street, one door north of East Pratt street. Medicines furnished in quantities to suit applicants. ap7-eolm*

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

FRIDAY MORNING, April 23, 1841.

☞From respect for the day, and in order to enable all persons in our employment to participate in the funeral ceremonies, the Clipper office will be closed after 9 o'clock on Monday morning next, and remain closed during the day, consequently no paper will be issued on Tuesday.

☞The drawing which will be seen in the programme of the procession as published in our paper of to-day, is correctly taken by C. T. Hinckley, from the funeral car upon which the remains of the late President were borne to the tomb in Washington, and which will be in the procession on Monday next.

Foreign news. We yesterday morning issued in an extra sheet, all the items of foreign intelligence received by the steamer Columbia, at Boston. Although the information brought by this arrival is sixteen days later than we previously had, there is nothing of importance. We waited until a late hour on Wednesday night in expectation of this arrival, in the hope that we should have been able to present the news in the Clipper of yesterday morning; but the large edition of our paper compelled us to go to press before the arrival of the steamboat from Philadelphia.

On a careful examination of the intelligence brought by the Acadia, some time since, we expressed our conviction that there was no cause to apprehend a rupture between Great Britain and the United States, and the news by the Columbia confirms the impression. It will be seen that the English journals consider McLeod's release as certain, and we have no doubt that they are right. The general government has probably interfered so far as to request of the executive of New York that a nolle prosequi shall be entered; and we have reason to believe that this will be done—and thus the dispute about McLeod will be terminated; for we have no idea that the British government will be guilty of the folly, indicated in one of the English papers, to demand satisfaction for what the British editor is pleased so denominate the insult offered in the arrest of McLeod. We are not very belligerant in our disposition, but we should have preferred risking the consequences of McLeod's trial, and of his punishment also, if found guilty—for we have no idea that the authority of any government shall be considered a justification of the murder of our citizens.

The difficulty about McLeod being removed, the only remaining cause of serious difference between England and this country is the boundary question; and this, we apprehend, can be satisfactorily adjusted without recourse to arms. It is probable that the matter will be referred to the decision of an umpire—for we believe that both governments are indisposed to war; and it is certain that both would be serious losers by a contest.

The French government appears about to engage in an extraordinary undertaking—that of enclosing Paris within permanent fortifications. In ancient times, before the invention of gunpowder, and when battering rams were in use, walls were not always found to be a safe protection to a besieged town—and at the present day, they would form but a slight impediment. But it is one of the whims of a whimsical people, and may gratify pride, though it will afford little security.

The dispute between the Sultan and the Pasha of Egypt presents a speck of war. But should the combined powers of Europe, (excluding France,) side as heretofore with the Sultan, Mehemet Ali will have to succumb, however justifiable may be the position he occupies.

It seems that English manufactures have depreciated in value in consequence of the decreased demand for them from this country. This is the point in which England can be the most easily affected—and it is the policy which is dictated to us by safety and patriotism. Import less—encourage domestic industry—and we keep our money at home; sustain our own population; and strengthen our means of national defence—at the same time that we render England less competent to do us harm at a future period.

The Forgery. The Cincinnati Chronicle of the 17th remarks that, "the particulars of the late extraordinary forgery, was a most perfect forgery of letters with a certificate of deposites, from a bank in New Orleans to the bank of Kentucky at Louisville, and the Lafayette Bank of Cincinnati. From the former the villian obtained $13,000, and from the Commercial Bank here (to whom he sold the certificate) $13,000. He is described as an Englishman, and if so, we have no doubt he is the very man mentioned in the English papers as the 'most adroit rogue in England,' and who had gone to the U. States. He was very particular in all his transactions.—He paid the Cashier of the Bank of Kentucky the postage on the New Orleans letter, and took an hour to count the money! If he has been equally cunning in his subsequent movements it will be difficult to capture him. The banks offer a reward for the recovery of the money."

☞We understand that Capt. Mills' volunteer company from Ellicott's Mills will arrive here on Monday morning next, to take part in the ceremonies of the day.

Gratifying. Not a single intoxicated individual was seen in Philadelphia during the late funeral procession.

House of Refuge. Some years ago there was nothing more popular in Baltimore than the project for a House of Refuge. Suddenly, however, the zeal in behalf of that institution subsided, and the undertaking has been permitted gradually to sink into oblivion, until it may be considered, we fear, as totally abandoned. We hope not—for the sake of the rising generation, we hope not; and we therefore, publish with great pleasure, the report of the Grand Jury of Baltimore city and county upon the subject, in the hope that public feeling may be resuscitated, and that the desirable object may yet be accomplished. If any one desires to have convincing evidence of the necessity of a House of Refuge in which to place juvenile delinquents, let him visit the jail, where he will find the youthful offender—the mere infant, in free association and fellowship with the veteran criminal. If "evil communication corrupts good manners," the present system of policy is well calculated to make felons of those who are yet too young to appreciate the heinousness of crime—for the jail is a school in which the innocent and uninitiated may be fully instructed in all the mysteries of knavery and transgression. If the law designed to multiply the number of criminals, it could not be more effectually done than by the intermixture of young and old which is necessarily permitted at the jail. It is unjust and cruel thus to throw mere children into the way of temptation, and to permit their young minds to be perverted and corrupted. It is a matter of deep interest to society to give to the young, particularly, the chance to reform, and to become honest and useful citizens—but this is out of the question under the present system—we might as well expect to preserve a young female virtuous by placing her under the control of the most corrupt of her sex. The necessity of separating young from old offenders was seen and felt, at the time that a House of Refuge was first suggested, and will be admitted now by every man of reflection—but the excitement has passed away, and a general lethargy on the subject has succeeded—in the mean time the process of manufacturing criminals is continued; and the happiness, and perhaps, in some instances, the lives of those who might have been saved by timely interposition and instruction, will become the sacrifice. This is a matter of vast importance, and we desire to enlist public feeling once more in its behalf. Nor is the object so difficult of achievement as might be supposed. Funds to the amount of from twenty to twenty-five thousand dollars, are, we understand, attainable for the purpose; and the deficiency can surely be raised by subscriptions or otherwise. We think that we should consult true economy in the erection of a House of Refuge—for, in the ratio of the diminution in the number of criminals would be the decrease in the levy for jail expenditures. But it should not be placed upon the footing of a mere calculation of dollars and cents; it is a solemn duty which we are called upon to discharge; and philanthropy and humanity demand that our action shall be prompt.

We subjoin the proceedings of the Grand Jury, to which we would direct attention, in the hope that measures may be taken to carry their views into effect.

The Grand Jury of Baltimore County, to the Honorable the Judges of Baltimore County Court, Represent, That in obedience to the requisitions of law, they have visited the Jail, and although the condition of the building is not distinguished for that perfect neatness for which it has been heretofore remarkable, yet that is extenuated by the fact of the very recent assumption of the direction of the Institution by the present Warden, and owing to the protracted season in which the building is cleansed after the winter, and the unusual insubordination of the prisoners, (to quell which, a resort to fire arms and the death of one of them was found necessary,) and the actual presence of workmen in repairing breaches in the walls, through which some of the prisoners effected their escape.

They cannot commend too highly the promptitude of the Warden, by which most of the prisoners that very recently escaped were recaptured, even when they were at large; and the Jury would here remark, that the walls of the building are utterly inadequate to the safety of its inmates, distinguished, as they are in this age, for the possession of ingenuity only equalled by the deliberation with which it is applied, and with a confidence in that application as to evince that villainy has become a science that must be met by means of security other than those that were deemed sufficient when that building was erected.

But if the walls of the building were constructed in reference to a past age, immeasurable are its arrangements behind the present. In commons, in the same ward, and in an uninterrupted intercourse for months, are found the hoary-headed veteran of fifty years' career of crime, with the child of fourteen. Under the most favorable circumstances it is found difficult to raise the grade of human nature, but under these, its degradation must be as great as it is certain; and although the Jury are under the impression that a better classification of the prisoners might be made even in the present building, yet the evil will ever exist, unless there is such an institution established in our city as is known in other cities as Houses of Refuge. The grounds of the Jail are amply sufficient for such a building, and the superintendance of both might be given to the Warden, with one or two additional keepers; or a still more advantageous site might be found in the appropriation to this object of a portion of the large farm attached to the Alms House of the county and city, where health may be attained by labor bestowed in the fields in producing the means of their own support, and the security of the persons insured in the same manner as is done in the case of paupers bound to the trustees of the Alms House, and with this advantage, that confidence may be bestowed on individuals commensurate with their apparent amendment.—This may be deemed a suggestion beyond the legitimate duties of the Jury; but as the investigation and punishment of crime is the peculiar object, it deems its prevention not inappropriate. If Philanthropy slumbers over objects at its own hearth and dreams of those in other hemispheres, society should be roused to its own interest in saving its juvenile delinquents from fatal contamination with its own incurable pests. If public spirit is directed to other and very commendable objects, the Jury, to your honors, will venture to point out this very great defect in our system for the prevention and punishment of crime.—Which is respectfully submitted.

Great Fire. A very destructive fire occurred in Williamsport, Lycoming County, Pa.—The fire occurred on Saturday night last. It is said to have been the greatest calamity ever visited upon that town. Property to a very large amount was destroyed. The people of the village have been left in great distress. It originated in a stable, and was the work of an incendiary.

An Earthquake at Ammerapoora. This city is said to have been almost entirely destroyed by an earthquake, which happened on the night of the 23d of March, 1840; 300 persons were killed. The shock lasted two or three minutes, and extended from north to south. The cities of Ava and Tragain are also said to have been destroyed, with many neighboring villages.

We notice our fellow citizens in Boston by a list of names published there, we learn that 125 individuals in that city are assessed over $500 annually—41 pay upwards of $1000 each—22, $1500—10, $2000—6, $2500, and 1, $700.

Postponement. The concert of Mr. Lucchesi, advertised to take place last evening, was postponed until next week, on account of the inclemency of the weather.

Found at Last. Dr. William Darlington of West Chester, Pa. is said to be the gentleman who first nominated Mr. Tyler to the Vice Presidency. Wrong—It was "quid pro quo."

Served them Right. Two negroes of Philadelphia were fined $15 each, for swearing in a Squire's office.

Tolerable Number. There are only 855 taverns in Philadelphia. This gives one tavern to every 50 heads of families.

A young man named Edward Shaw has been arrested in New York for embezzlement.

☞It is estimated that 19,000 persons were in the late funeral procession at Philadelphia.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever and ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a no supper no ice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

WILLIAM SHEPPARD.

BALTIMORE General Intelligence and Accommodation Office, W. Fayette street, Basement story of the Baltimore Temperance Hotel, one door from St. Paul's Lane. The proprietor of this Institution is fully aware that its success depends entirely upon the manner in which it is conducted, and begs leave to recommend it to the notice of the public. There is scarcely any institutions more truly valuable in any community than an Intelligence Office. Here the citizen, whom chance or misfortune has bereft of employment, may find a comfortable or lucrative situation. Strangers, though far from their native land, can be supplied with employment, and in short every person with industrious habits, in this happy land of freedom, can obtain a livelihood by applying at Lewis F. Scott's Intelligence Office.

CLERKS, Book-keepers, Bar keepers, Waiters, Ostlers, Laborers, Teachers, Agents, Cooks, Chambermaids, Wet and Dry Nurses, &c. wanted daily at this office. Strangers in the city would do well to call.

WANTS. A young man brought up to the Mercantile business in the city of New York, wishes a situation as Clerk at the South or West—he is of steady regular habits, and can give the best of recommendation as to character, &c. Apply at

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

THE NEW PRESIDENT. The Wheeling Gazette states that "JOHN TYLER was born in Virginia in 1790, and is therefore about 51 years of age. He graduated at William and Mary college, at 21 years of age, and was chosen a delegate to the State Legislature, in which capacity he served several years, until he was elected Representative in Congress. After a service of four years, he became again a member of the Virginia Legislature, and was soon chosen Governor of the State.

"At the expiration of his constitutional term as Governor, Mr. Tyler was elected to the United States Senate, to serve from the 4th of March, 1827, in the place of the late John Randolph, of Roanoke, whom he beat. He was re-elected in 32-33, and continued until the Legislature gave him instructions which he could not obey, when he resigned."

FUNERAL PROCESSION
OF THE LATE
PRESIDENT OF THE U. STATES.

The Committee of Arrangements appointed at a Town Meeting, held at the Exchange on Monday the 12th instant, to prepare the Programme for a public Civic and Military Procession, in commemoration of the death of General WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, late President of the United States, have adopted the following order:

Captain CHARLES M. KEYSER has been unanimously selected as Chief Marshal, who has appointed the following Assistant Marshals, viz:

SPECIAL AIDS.

Col. S. Hillen, Jr.	S. T. Thompson,
Saml. K. George,	Capt. Joseph Willey,
Capt. W. H. Watson,	Capt. J. H. Millikin.

ASSISTANT MARSHALS.

Capt. C. Howard,	Col. Owen Bouldin,
Capt. J. O. Law,	Capt. J. W. Watkins,
J. J. Turner,	Col. A. Smith,
Lot Ensey,	R. M. Welch,
C. H. Pitts,	T. E. Hambleton,
J. H. Lee,	R. A. Dobbin,
David Cushing,	W. G. Bolgiano,
Col. J. E. Stansbury,	Col. H. McKinnell,
O. C. Tiffany,	W. H. Browning,
C. H. Armistead,	C. D. Slingluff,
D. A. Piper,	W. Booth,
W. H. Norris,	H. R. Lauderman,
Levi Fahnestock,	Henry Snyder,
Col. W. F. Giles,	John H. O'Donnell,

The Committee respectfully recommend their fellow-citizens to suspend all business on the day of the Funeral Procession, and that the Banks, Custom House, Post Office, &c. to be closed at as early an hour as practicable, and that all public places of amusement be closed during the day and evening.

They also request their fellow-citizens to shroud the fronts of their houses in mourning in such manner as the occupants may judge to be appropriate, particularly in the streets through which the Procession will pass; and that the flags upon the public buildings and shipping be at half-mast and dressed in mourning, from sunrise [illegible] sunset. Also that [illegible] persons having charge of the different Churches and fire alarm bells cause the same to be tolled during the movements of the Procession, and that salutes be fired at such points as may be designated by the Chief Marshal.

The Committee positively forbid the introduction of any banner into the Procession bearing political devices or inscriptions, neither will any band of musicians be admitted into the Procession but such as are approved of by the Chief Marshal.

They invite the citizens of Baltimore owning private family carriages to tender them to the Chief Marshal to be used in the Procession.

The Committee respectfully request all public and private carriages and vehicles not used in the Procession, to be withdrawn from the streets through which the Procession will pass.

The various Societies, Associations, Fire Department, &c. are requested to assemble at their usual places of meeting, and repair to such point as may be designated in the Order of Procession, under the direction of Assistant Marshals detailed for that duty by the Chief Marshal. They will respectively appoint as many Foot Marshals as they may deem necessary.

The order of formation will be in sections eight abreast. The Marshals of Societies and Companies are requested to be particular in conforming to the above order.

Citizens not attached to any of the various associations are requested to organize in their respective Wards and appoint each a Marshal on foot, who will report to the Marshals assigned to them respectively.

The COMMITTEE OF RECEPTION are—Z. Collins Lee, esq., gen. S. C. Leakin, J. M. Buchanan, esq., Dr. John L. Yeates, Sterling Thomas, maj. J. M. Anderson, D. A. Piper, capt. J. Frazier, Dr. J. B. Owens, Wm. P. Stewart, Isaac M. Denson, Joseph Hook, W. H. Cole, jr.

The CEREMONIES OF THE DAY will take place in the following order:

1st. PRAYER, by the Rev. Dr. JOHNS.

2d. FUNERAL ORATION, by JONATHAN MEREDITH, Esq.

3d. REQUIEM, by the Musical Association.

4th. PRAYER, by the Rev. Mr. SARGENT.

After which, the Military Escort will fire three vollies.

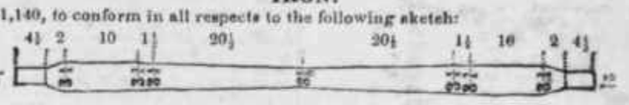
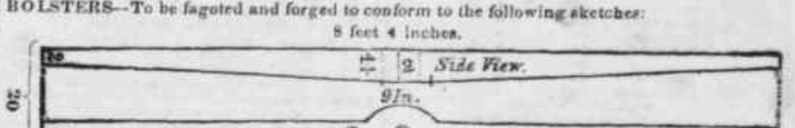
IRON.

AXLES—1,140, to conform in all respects to the following sketch:



Whole weight of Axles, about 215,000 lbs.

BOLSTERS—To be fagoted and forged to conform to the following sketches:



Whole weight of Bolsters about 12,000.

Bolt Iron—Of various sizes, from 3-8 of an inch to 1¼ in. in diameter, 192,000 lbs.

Strap and Bar Iron—From 3-16 of an in. to one inch thick, and from 1 inch to 4 inches wide, 175,000 lbs.

Whole weight of Bolt, Strap & Bar Iron, 367,000 lbs.

STEEL.

Spring Steel, 4x¾ inches,	145,500 lbs.
English Shear, 3x3-8 inches,	5,845 lbs.
Whole weight of Steel,	151,345 lbs.

The LUMBER, above described, must be well seasoned and dry, of the very best description and free from all defects—such as sap-wood, bad knots, and windshakes.

The Axles—To be of the very best description of iron, and accurately forged to pattern. Any person proposing to furnish the axles, will be required (without cost to the Company) to accompany his proposal with a sample of the article, with a description of the mode of manufacture, and character of the iron of which it was made.

The Bolsters—Must be fagoted of the best description of bar iron, and accurately forged to pattern.

The Bolt, Strap and Bar Iron—To be of the best description of refined rolled iron.

The Spring Steel—Must be of the best quality, well trimmed at the ends and free from defects of any description.

The Shear Steel—To be of the best English manufacture.

Proposers for furnishing the Bolt, Strap and Bar Iron and Spring Steel, will state whether or not the article proposed to be furnished is of English or American manufacture.

The delivery of the materials above enumerated to commence on or before the 15th of July next, and continued in equal and regular monthly instalments, so as to complete the delivery of the whole of the Poplar, Cherry and Walnut Lumber, and the whole number of the Bolsters and about one half of the balance on or before the first of November next, ensuing.

The delivery of the remainder to commence on or before the first of April, 1842, and to be regulated in like manner as above, so as to complete the delivery of the whole quantity on or before the first of October, 1842.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered, and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid—reserving to the company the option of paying the said four-fifths in Baltimore City Six per cent. stock at par, or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to contract.

If the materials contracted for or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered. No payments will be made on account of materials delivered before the times specified for the delivery of the same.

The payments will be made at the Company's office in Baltimore. By order of the President and Directors.

STANZAS.

Who hopes in happiness to live,
Must never seek to live alone,
For lonely hours few pleasures give,
And lonely hearts are sorrow's own.

Nor must he seek to win a friend,
To share with him his joys and woes,
When gained may be some selfish end,
The open heart on him shall close.

Nor must he turn to seek in love,
That which he cannot find elsewhere;
Should riches fail, and men reprove,
Then that hath fled which made him dear.

Nor learning seek, for then the more,
Will sorrow swell his withered heart,
And wisdom's self bid him deplore,
Of her great gifts, his little part.

Since this is so, pray there to die,
Earth hath not one poor joy to give,
'Twere better far from hence to fly,
Than share the woes of those who live.

FRANCIS.

A MOST SINGULAR CHARACTER.

We extract from Memoirs of the Life of Roscoe the following very curious account of a human phenomenon now living, which has no equal in the records of philology:

"Nearly at the same time with the Illustrations of the Life of Lorenzo de Medici, the little memoir of an extraordinary person appeared, under the title of a 'Memoir of Richard Roberts Jones, of Aberdaron, in the county of Carnarvon, in North Wales, exhibiting a remarkable instance of a partial power and cultivation of intellect.'—This most singular person, who is still living, and who continues to display a love of learning and an extent of erudition seldom exhibited within the walls of schools or universities, united with a want of common sense amounting almost to idiocy, and a squalor and wretchedness of appearance of which a common mendicant would be ashamed, was first introduced to the notice of Mr. Roscoe in the early part of the year 1806.—The impression which his extraordinary appearance and acquirements made upon Mr. Roscoe at this time is described in the following letter to Dr. Parr, who had unfortunately left Allerton just before the appearance there of the Welsh scholar:

"'Your letter found me in conversation with one of the most extraordinary beings that ever occurred to my notice—a poor Welsh fisherman, as ragged as a colt, and as uncouth as any being that has a semblance of humanity. But beneath such an exterior is a mind cultivated not only beyond all reasonable expectation, but beyond all probable conception. In his fishing boat on the coast of Wales, at an age little more than twenty, he has acquired the Greek, the Hebrew, and the Latin Languages, has read the Illiad, Hesiod, Theocritus, &c., studied the refinements of Greek pronunciation, and examined the connexion of that language with the Hebrew. He reads Latin with the utmost facility, and translates it either into Welsh or English. I asked him if he knew Italian? Yes, he could read it. I spoke to him in French; he answered me, and we carried on our conversation in that language.

"'He is well disposed, modest, truly pious, and intelligent, but in his exterior motions is certainly like no other creature on earth. He has just entered the room with a wallet of books in all languages, and, on my speaking to him, he saluted me with a sort of courtesy instead of a bow. Yet the expression of his features speaks his mind; and, if shaved and decked, he might not appear so frightful as at present. He has now left the country, where he says he is persecuted, and thrown himself upon our benevolence, of which he thinks he had some proof on one of his visits here with some fish. What I shall do with him I know not; but I have promised him help and protection, which he shall have; and, if I find I can assist in rendering the very extraordinary talents with which God has been pleased to endow this humble child of indigence useful to himself or others, I shall have no small pleasure in doing it. If, on further experience, I find him as deserving as he seems to be at present, I shall most probably take advantage of your friendship, and intrude upon you for your advice respecting him. At present, I assure, I think it one of the most extraordinary circumstances that ever fell in my way; but, as first impressions are often incorrect, and I have yet seen but little of him, I will trouble you no longer respecting him at present, than to request your kind permission to mention him to you again, should I find him entitled to your advice and favor.'

"This extraordinary being was immediately taken by Mr. Roscoe under his protection. His rags were replaced by decent clothing, and a comfortable bed was prepared for him at night. So little, however, was he accustomed to the usages of civilized life, that instead of getting into the bed, he crept under it. Such, also, was his attachment to the squalid habits in which he had lived, that it was with the utmost difficulty he could be persuaded to submit to those ablutions which were absolutely necessary to render a near conversation with him agreeable, or indeed safe.

"At Allerton many persons of distinguished learning had an opportunity of witnessing the extraordinary attainments of Richard Roberts, who never failed to leave an impression of the singular powers of his intellect upon their minds. It was during the visit of Mr. Coke and Dr. Parr at Allerton, in the year 1815, that the following incident related in the memoir occurred:

"'One of his friends happened to have a party to dinner, several of whom were persons of considerable literary distinction; when, by the misunderstanding of a message after dinner, the door opened, and, to the equal surprise of both the host and his guests, Richard entered the room, his whole dress and appearance being grotesque in the highest degree. The curiosity of the company was excited; and, after the mistake to which his introduction was owing had been explained, he was asked several questions in French, to which he gave ready and correct answer. The conversation was then changed to Italian, in which he acquitted himself with equal readiness. To this succeeded an inquiry into his knowledge of Latin and Greek, in which languages he read and translated some passages to the satisfaction of the persons present. One of the party then proceeded to examine him more particularly, when the following dialogue occurred:

"'Q. As you seem to have made no little proficiency in languages, pray tell me what means you take in acquiring a language?

"'A. It is according to what the nature of the language is.

"'Q. How would you set about acquiring a modern language?

"'A. If it was Spanish, for instance, I would take a vocabulary of the language, and examine what words correspond with or resemble the words in any other language with which I was acquainted; as, for instance, the Latin, French, or Italian; and those words I would strike out of the vocabulary, learning only such as were the original or peculiar words of the Spanish tongue; and then, by the assistance of a grammar, I should soon be able to attain a knowledge of that language.

"'All the party admitted that this was a most judicious and excellent method; and Richard withdrew, with expressions of approbation from all present.'

"It was on a previous day, during the same visit, that Richard had an interview with Dr. Parr, who immediately plunged into the darkest recesses of ancient learning. The refinements of the Greek language, and the works of the critics who had illustrated it, were entered into, and gradually the conversation changed to the Hebrew, its peculiar construction and analogous tongues. Here Richard had evidently the advantage; and, after an attempted inroad into the Chaldee, the doctor rather precipitately retreated, leaving a token of his liberality in the hands of the poor scholar. Richard, being afterwards asked what he thought of the learned person with whom he had been conversing, replied, 'He is less ignorant than most men.'

"Many are the singular and amusing anecdotes recorded of Richard in this memoir, which concludes with a short comparison between the subject of it and the famous Moses Mendelsohn and the learned Magliabaci."

EXTRACT FROM MY JOURNAL.—No. II.

Railways.—Entrance to Berlin.—Construction of the Houses.

Railways on the continent of Europe are as yet in their infancy. There is one extending from Frankfort on the Main to Wiesbaden; a second from Brussels to Liege; a third from Paris to Versailles; a fourth from Dresden to Magdeburg; a fifth from Brunn to Vienna, and a sixth between Potsdam and Berlin. And these, I believe, are all the roads in operation on the whole continent, running over a distance of about one hundred German or nearly 500 English miles.—It was gratifying to find upon most of these roads —(even in scientific Prussia)—American steam engines; a strong testimonial of the mechanical skill and ingenuity of our countryman, Wm. Norris, of Philadelphia.

The regulations upon these rail roads, which are nearly the same throughout Europe, are frequently troublesome, without real utility. Here, as in stage travelling, you are restricted as to baggage, and pay pretty extravagantly for all "overweight." I remember that between Mayence and Frankfort, a m., the surplus weight upon a trunk of eighty pounds, that we had with us, cost as much as our fare—and yet had no better accommodation than on American roads, where a reasonable amount of baggage is allowed to travel gratis. The cars are of four kinds or classes, depending upon the style of the inside finish, the cushions on the seats, the covering, &c., and varying in price accordingly. He who would loll at ease in the cars and sit in an elbow chair, enters the first class and pays the highest price. The second class have no division in the seats. The third class have no cushions; and the fourth no roof, and are exposed to the weather. In the first are found a few English, who, coming over to the continent in the summer, are always to be seen, wherever the largest amount of money can be gotten rid of in the shortest time—and now and then a young stray American sent over to finish his education by learning to smoke a pipe and smatter broken German to an Englishman. The second class convey the more wealthy or noble of the Germans—the third class the burgher—and the fourth the peasantry and the poor. To each class of cars is attached a conductor, who, dressed in the peculiar livery of rail road officers, attends the car. Your ticket and receipt for your baggage obtained, an officer directs you to a room to which your ticket gives you admission. Here the passengers of all the classes are huddled together—the rich and poor, the noble and ignoble—all crowding towards an opposite door, leading into the depot yard, where the trains are in readiness. Five minutes before the time of starting, the door is opened—a general rush takes place. The seats are taken—doors locked—phiz! phiz!!—and off scuds the steam engine at the rate of four German or nineteen English miles per hour. At short intervals upon the road, men, in livery, are stationed with red flags in their hands, the different positions of which indicate to the engineer whether or not it is safe for him to proceed farther.

We left Potsdam in the cars at eleven o'clock, and in forty-five minutes we arrived at the beautiful depot at the entrance of the Leipsic gates. After passing through the country from Magdeburg to Brandenburg, and from Brandenburg to Berlin, a country productive of nothing but pine hills and sand—almost as barren as the deserts of Arabia—with a population as coarse and as rough as the hoosiers of the west, the traveller is surprised to find breaking upon his view, in this wilderness of sand, the splendid, the polished city of Berlin—and is equally rejoiced with the wanderer over the trackless desert, when the distant sight of the oasis bids his heart leap for joy. It may be literally said of this noble city—the second in splendor in all Europe—

"That from out the sand her structures rise,
As from the stroke of the enchanters wand."

One of the first peculiarities that strike the attention of the English or American traveller, is the construction and division of the continental houses. You pass the Leipsic gate and the attractive crescent at its entrance, and you find yourself in the splendid street, called Leipziger Strasse, more than three English miles in length, broad, and lined on both sides with houses, not less than sixty feet wide each, and five or six stories high. With American notions, you would be inclined to fancy this the court end of Berlin, and to imagine these costly and impressive buildings the residences of Bankers or foreign Ambassadors only. You are soon undeceived.

Each building forms a large hollow square, the square inside being the common yard of all the inhabitants and containing the pump, &c. A wide and arched court, some ten or twelve feet broad, closed generally by double gates, forms the entrance to the whole building, and runs, in the centre of the house, from the street to the square yard. From this court a common staircase runs up the centre of the whole construction to the different stories—and branches off to the wings of each side. Each story and each wing form one or more separate and complete establishments, containing a suit of rooms, (six or seven, opening into one another, a kitchen and all other conveniences upon the same floor,) secured from the rest of the building by a grated-door or some more substantial division. In a building, the outlines of which I have attempted to describe, may reside at least twenty different families, (or two hundred souls) ascending daily the common staircase and diminishing in respectability or wealth, as they approach the upper regions. In one of the wings of the "belle etage" may live a rich Banker, a Nobleman or a Professor in the University. The second story may afford a comfortable dwelling place to the family of a respectable merchant, or a "Doctor Juris" not overrun with clients—and so on, up, till you reach in the sixth story the almost undiscoverable lurking place of some cobbler, who, like the red-capped "sans culottes" of the French revolution, has not previously left his garret or seen the light of day for the last generation—save the window, patched with paper, lent a ray. Inverting the law of nature that causes the purest atmosphere to ascend to the greatest height, the purest blood of the inhabitants of this mansion is found on its lowest floors. All these in dwellers of the same house pass each other daily twenty times, perhaps, and yet know no more of and feel no more interest in each other's welfare than the inhabitants of the opposite extremes of a large city. From one wing may be conspicuous the sad evidences, that the King of Terrors has performed his last melancholy duty—while the "Imperial waltz, imported from the Rhine, intoxicates the heedless heart and wakes to wantonness the willing limbs" in another quarter of this spacious mansion.

Indeed, our Ambassador at the Court of Prussia, Mr. Wheaton, resides in one wing of the third story of a house in Behren Strasse, and I well recollect that we ascended story after story, till the limbs of my companion were wearied, in search of the American Consul at Frankfort, on the Main. H.

From the True Issue, Jackson, Mississippi.

MYSTERIOUS.

On Tuesday last, our attention was attracted by an unusual throng in front of the Capitol; upon inquiring into its cause, we were informed that a man named Clark, had procured a "habeas corpus," in order to obtain his liberation from prison, in which he had been confined under a charge of murder.

The facts of the case, as developed in testimony, as well as some portions which we learned afterwards, compose as strange a tale of romance, as is often presented in real life. The individual said to be the murdered, was an old man, aged about 60, named Genet, and said to be a son of the French minister of that name, who had some notoriety in the early history of our country. The parties all reside in Rankin county, in this State, and the individuals charged with the murder, are the prisoner, Clark, a negro man named Bowman, who belonged to Genet, and the wife of the deceased. The State's most important witness, is the daughter of the wife charged with the murder of the deceased. We do not feel at liberty to give any of the testimony, lest it tend to prejudice one side or other of the cause, but will merely state, that as against Clark, it was entirely circumstantial, yet of such a character as to induce the judge to require him to give bail, in a penalty of five thousand dollars. A portion of the facts having no immediate connexion with the guilt or innocence of the prisoners, but which led to their apprehension were as follows:—

About fifteen months since, the deceased disappeared quite suddenly, so much so, indeed, as to arouse suspicion of foul play, although his absence was accounted for by the statement that he had gone to South Carolina, where he once resided. Time rolled on, the deceased was forgotten, his property was divided among his heirs, and among other things, a negro woman, who had belonged to him, was carried and sold in Texas. A few months since, a neighbor of the deceased visited Texas, and saw the negro woman, who told him that Genet had not gone to South Carolina, but was murdered—and to have Bowman, who had been her husband arrested, and he would tell all about it. The gentleman came home, and the result has been, the arrest of the prisoners, together with a discovery of the bones of the old man, which his daughter identified. As before stated, we do not feel at liberty to give any of the testimony in the case, nor are we willing to pronounce upon the guilt or innocence of the accused—but there is a degree of mystery connected with the whole transaction, as disclosed by the evidence as well as the floating rumors and "negro statements," that we have seldom seen occur in real life.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT.

Land Officers. Ralph Guild, Receiver of Public Moneys at Jackson, Missouri, vice Felix G. Allen.

Nathan Webster, Receiver of Public Moneys at Natchitoches, Louisiana, vice Benoits Laurents.

Heavy robbery. Some negroes on Monday last broke into the office of the Long Island Rail Road, at Brooklyn, and carried off the iron chest and all its contents.

Fights. Two fights occurred at Columbia, Mo., on the 21st ult., which resulted in the death of Owen McKinney and Samuel Dingle.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND.

For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Stricture, Diabetes or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the uretha of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. Also of L. S. THOMAS, corner of Briton and Forest streets—with full directions accompanying each bottle at $1 per bottle.

☞ For sale in Washington city by ROBERT PATTERSON, cor. 9th street and the avenue, and CHAS C. STOTT, corner of 7th street and the avenue; and by H. WADE, on 7th street.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From a very Respectable Farmer.]

Stafford County, Va. Sept. 7th, 1840.

Dear Sir:—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I think I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhubarb and soda three or four times every day for these many years, with little or no relief, and my legs and ankles were so much swelled that I was unable, at times, to attend to my business. But since you made me a present of a box of your Family Pills I have taken 1 or 2 of them at night in going to bed, and now my acid stomach is relieved, the swelling in my legs has nearly disappeared, and I do not think that I have been hindered one day with the pain in my head since I begun to take your valuable medicine. I think the Lord directed you to Fredericksburg, to administer to my relief. (Blessed be his holy name, I am greatly relieved.) There is living in my neighborhood a poor old woman who had been sick for a long time and could not get relief; at length I purchased a box of your pills and gave them to her, after awhile I saw her out and about her business, and she said that the one box had cured her. I have spread the fame of your valuable medicine amongst my acquaintances, and many have purchased. Now, as it respects myself, my friends tell me when I go to town, that they have not seen me look so well for many years, and I say to them, 'I will tell you the secret why; about the ago I met with a Dr. Davies in town, and he gave me a box of pills, and they have made me look as you now see me.' And now, my friend, I hope that the Lord will continue to be with you, and make you useful to your fellow-creatures, as he has hitherto done. I remain with respect,

CHARLES BRUCE.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cures have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever and ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. BOOZ,

CHANCERY SALE.

UNDER a Decree of the Court of Chancery, the subscribers, as Trustees, will offer for sale at public auction, on the premises, on MONDAY, 3d of May, at 4 o'clock, P. M. ALL THAT PIECE OF GROUND, which is described as follows:

Beginning on the north side of Conway st. 87½ feet east from the north-east corner of Howard and Conway sts. running thence east on Conway-st. forty-seven feet four inches to the centre of an alley three feet eleven inches wide, with the privilege of said alley and the right of building over it; then north parallel with Howard st. along the centre of said alley seventy-five feet; then west parallel to Conway-st. two feet nine inches or thereabouts to ground conveyed in fee to Peter Bankard by John Eager Howard, then north on said ground about two feet to the part of said ground conveyed by said Bankard to Leonard Foreman, thence west binding thereon thirty-three feet, more or less to the ground leased by said Howard to said Bankard; then north binding on the last mentioned ground seven feet or thereabout to the part thereof assigned to Peter Bankard, Junior; then north on said part eleven feet seven inches; and thence with a straight line to the beginning. The improvements on this property are two comfortable Brick DWELLINGS.

The terms of sale are, one-fourth of the purchase money be paid on the day of sale, or on ratification of the sale, with interest from said day; and the residue in three equal instalments, in six and nine and twelve months from said day, with interest therefrom, secured by bonds or notes with security to be approved by the Trustees. CHARLES F. MAYER,

ap13-eots BRANTZ MAYER.

SALE OF VALUABLE PROPERTY.

UNDER an order of the Orphans' Court of Baltimore County, the subscribers, as administrators, will offer for sale at public auction on SATURDAY, 24th of April at 4 o'clock, P. M. on the premises part hereinafter described, the following property:

1. The Lot of Ground beginning at the North East corner of Howard and Saratoga streets, running thence Northerly on Howard street 40 feet 6 inches, thence Easterly 165 feet parallel to Saratoga street to an alley 12 feet wide; thence 40 feet 6 inches on said alley, to Saratoga street, and parallel to Howard street; thence westerly on Saratoga street to the beginning—subject to a yearly ground rent of $14 and 40 cents. This lot is improved with a large brick BUILDING used for stores and a dwelling. It may easily be divided into two dwellings—and now rents yearly for $432.

2. A ground rent of $147 per annum; charged on a piece of ground at the South West corner of Eutaw and Saratoga streets, subject to a prior rent of $30, making the nett ground rent $117. The piece of ground binds on Eutaw street 60 feet, and extends with that breadth westerly 140 feet—and is well improved. The rent of $147 is paid in the portions of $30, $47, $35, and $35, by the several owners of the improvements.

The terms of sale are, that one-fourth of the purchase money be paid on the day of sale, and the residue in three equal instalments in 6, 9, and 12 months with interest from said day—and all the payments to be secured by bonds or notes, with security, to be approved by the administrators. CHARLES F. MAYER, ap13-eots JAMES BLAIR.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

SATURDAY MORNING, April 24, 1841.

☞From respect for the day, and in order to enable all persons in our employment to participate in the funeral ceremonies, the Clipper office will be closed after 9 o'clock on Monday morning next, and remain closed during the day, consequently no paper will be issued on Tuesday.

☞ We are compelled to omit several articles prepared for this day's paper, in order to make room for our advertising friends. The programme of the procession will be republished in Monday's paper. We have not room for the proceedings of several meetings relative to the procession, which were intended for publication in this paper.

The Ocean for this week, containing all the choice matter of the daily, latest intelligence from every quarter, tales, poetry, editorials, &c. can be had at the counter this morning, or any time during next week, done up in wrappers, or otherwise. Price 6¼ cts. per single copy; $1.50 in advance per annum.

News from the Sun. Some years ago, the New York Sun published, what was subsequently called the "Moon Hoax," in which Herschell was said to have discovered inhabitants in the Moon. It was perfectly consistant with reason and philosophy to believe the Moon to be inhabited; and when the "men-bats" of that planet were described in the aforesaid publication, the marvel was, not that human beings should be found to exist there, but that they should be so different from those of our earth. A little reflection would have shewn that this was not sufficient to discredit the story, for the variety in habits, dispositions, conformation and manners of the people upon our own globe, might cause the like amazement. But this Moon discovery is a "mere matter of Moonshine," to the disclosure which we are about to make. By the very latest accounts from the Sun we have the fact indisputably established, that its inhabitants are of similar stature to our own, but are complete Ishmaelites in disposition, superadded to which they are the most avaricious and envious devils in existence, continually snarling at and backbiting each other, and ready to lend themselves to any purpose that can "put money in their purse," or aid in the injury of their neighbors. In fact, the great Luminary is sometimes darkened by the intensity of their passions, which may be the reason why spots are occasionally seen on its disc. These extraordinary beings are alternately swayed by vanity and meanness—boasting or cringing as may best suit their selfish purposes. Thus it will be seen, that the Sun is the abode of beings who would be rejected as companions by the conscientious and respectable among the inhabitants of the earth.

News. ☞"Strange to say, not one word is said about the cotton market."☜

Thus saith a luminary of the press, who deceives by giving a false light, the extra Clipper having sailed with the whole cotton concern on board.

The Ladies' Mourning Badge. Mr. Weber, lithographist, shewed us one of the most unique and beautiful mourning badges, intended expressly for the ladies, that we have yet seen. It is a small, but admirably correct miniature likeness of Gen. Harrison, printed upon fine white satin, and neatly set in a black crape rosette. We would particularly direct the attention of the ladies to this tasteful badge. It can be had at the establishment of the lithographist, corner of Light and Baltimore sts.; Mr. Mann's Baltimore st.; Mr. Schaper's, Balto. near Gay st.; Mr. Scheldt's, corner of Gay and Front st.; Mr. Mitnacht's, Lexington st. and Mr. Middleton's, Balto. st.

☞The reader is referred to the advertisement of Mr. C. T. Hinckley, who has got up a very neat and appropriate Mourning Badge, intended to be worn in the procession on Monday. To prevent disappointment on Monday morning, badges should be procured to-day.

☞The reader is referred to the advertisement of Mr. T. R. Scott for information relative to gentlemen's mourning badges; and also to H. A. Turner.

Our streets. The rain which has fallen for some days past, had rendered our streets so muddy that we were apprehensive that the persons on foot in the procession on Monday next, would have a disagreeable time—but the Mayor has, with great promptness, set the scrapers to work, and the streets promise to be in fine order, if the weather continues to be clear.

☞ A well dressed female of Philadelphia attempted to commit suicide on Thursday last by jumping into the Delaware. She was fortunately rescued before the fatal deed was fully consummated. When asked, she would give no satisfactory reason for the rash act, but expressed a regret that she had been foiled in her undertaking.

Making Ready. The London Naval and Military Gazette says that sixteen war steamers are ordered to be built, six of the first class and ten of the second, all to be armed with guns of ten-inch calibre. Several of these will be laid down immediately, and the frames of the whole covered without delay, so as to be ready against the engines are prepared.

Opinions of Foreigners. Some of the English Journalists speak of our members of Congress in no complimentary terms; and this is not surprising, as the course pursued by the last Congress was so discreditable, as to leave a very unfavorable impression of the respectability of members upon the minds of the American people who are disposed to judge without prejudice. The various disorderly scenes which were witnessed in the House of Representatives, were calculated to wound the American character abroad, and to give foreigners an erroneous opinion of our institutions. There can be no sufficient apology for ungentlemanly conduct in a representative; but it should be recollected that members of Congress cannot divest themselves of their partizan feelings, and the excitement attendant upon a political conflict, any more than other persons; and trifling deviations, therefore, from the rigid rules of order, may be pardoned. But the transgression in this respect, on the part of some members of the late Congress, was carried to an unwarrantable and disgusting length; and English editors did not fail to seize the occasion to abuse our republican system of government, and to class our members of Congress among the most infamous of mankind. As American citizens, we were mortified at the occurrences in Congress, and freely reprobated the conduct of representatives, as disgraceful to themselves and their country; and we believe the whole community entertained like feelings and sentiments. The London Atlas expresses itself in the following terms:—"The American House of Representatives is formed too much of the scum of political agitation. The wages they receive are a prize to small demagogues—men without property; and with egregious vanity—men with so little interest in their native city that they would set it on fire, in order that their figures might stand out in bold relief as they put themselves in attitude in front of the flames."

This is harsh language, and was uttered under the excitement produced by Mr. Pickens' report; but the editor's denunciation of the members of Congress as "the scum of political agitation," was no doubt caused by his perusal of the proceedings in the House of Representatives.

The station of a representative in Congress is one of great responsibility and respectability; and the individual holding it should never forget, that in degrading it he reflects dishonor upon his immediate constituents. As opinions of our national character are apt to be founded upon the proceedings of Congress, the people cannot be too particular in the selection of their representatives. Liberal education, sound judgment and gentlemanly deportment, are essential qualifications—to which should be added, business habits and untiring industry. "Political agitation" may sometimes elevate to this dignified situation, men of a different class—of little education, less judgment, and no discretion—and the fruits are, abuse, violence and disorder.

The Baltimore Typographical Society's Banner. We last evening called at the studio of Mr. T. C. Ruckle and were shown a new and splendid banner intended for the above society. The design is beautiful. Upon one side is represented the press, with an eagle perched upon its top holding a scroll, inscribed upon which are the words, "The Tyrant's Foe, the People's Friend." Underneath, upon a similar scroll, is this appropriate and significant motto—"Printing, the art preservative of all arts." This side of the banner is a pale delicate green.

On the other side is the bust of Franklin resting upon a pedestal, on the base of which is the birth and death of the immortal printer and philosopher. At his left is Minerva directing attention to him with an uplifted arm. His right is guarded by the goddess of fame, bearing in one hand a trumpet. The American eagle is seen in the foreground, its pinions partly spread and its head looking upward. This side of the banner white, its top bearing the words—"Franklin, our guide." Below is written—"Baltimore Typographical Society, instituted A. D., 1831." The banner is five feet by four and a half in dimensions, bound round with fringe and appropriate trappings. We cannot but congratulate our typographical friends upon having so choice and elegant a motto of their most honorable profession. It will be borne in the procession on Monday next.

Tidewater Canal. The Philadelphia United States Gazette states, that on Thursday, two new and fine canal barges, belonging to "Miller & Weaver's Susquehanna Line," arrived at our wharves from Havre de Grace, having been towed from there by the boats (Linnæus and John Jay) of the Philadelphia and Havre de Grace Steam Tow Boat Company, in a little over twenty-four hours, notwithstanding the rough Weather they encountered on the Chesapeake and Delaware.

Phoenix & Budget. The May number of this monthly publication is before us, and possesses its usual variety and excellence. It is published by Messrs. Jones, Sherwood & Co., 24 N. Gay street, at $1.50 per annum. We have nothing to object to this work but its title, which we dislike—perhaps with about as much cause as the man had for his exception to the name of Doctor Fell.

☞The Cincinnati Chronicle of the 17th inst., states that Edward Layton, the young man, who had been arrested on the charge of having caused the death of Mr. Griswell, a Baptist Preacher, was brought before the Mayor for examination. After hearing the testimony in the case, he was committed for trial on the charge of murder.

One more. It is stated in the Philadelphia papers that Mr. Biddle has written a fifth letter in reply to the committee of investigation. The fourth letter was to be published in that city yesterday.

[Reported for the Baltimore Clipper.]

COUNTY COURT.

Friday, April 23. Present—Judge Archer.

The first business before the Court was an action brought by Alexander Grate against Lovering Ricketts, to recover damages for an assault on him about a year ago. It appears the parties met on the road, when Grate asked Ricketts to pay him, (Grate,) some money he owed him.—Ricketts, who is a farmer, and in whose employ the plaintiff had been, refused; when the other other said, if you do not, you are a d—d rascal. Ricketts then drew a pistol, but subsequently put it up without using. Grate intimated that he was not afraid of his pistol. Some further angry words passed on both sides, when Ricketts struck Grate with a large stick which he had in his hand four or five severe blows, and in consequence the prisoner was disabled for several weeks. The jury found a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $116.

In the case of Joshua Hitch, for an assault on ——, a German woman, the Court fined him $20 and costs.

The next case was that of officers Campbell and Potee, for an illegal arrest of the celebrated Dr. F. H. Knapp, President of the Baltimore Savings Fund. Dr. Knapp and his wife, it appears, had started in the Frederick cars for the West, she taking her seat at the depot in Pratt st., and he had repaired to the outer depot. Officer G. R. Campbell hearing that he was about to leave the city, went to Squire Schaffer's that (Sunday) morning, having in his possession about $200 of Knapp's issues. Squire Schaffer asked him what he was going to do with them, as he could not serve an execution on a civil suit on the Sabbath. He said he knew that; that his intention was only to try and collect them. He then produced two executions, of which Potee was the officer, and on which Knapp had ruled trial for the Monday following. These executions were at the suit of —— Klinefelter, amounting to about $50. He stated that Klinefelter, the plaintiff, had demanded special bail, and he wished it so endorsed on the back of the executions. The justice replied that he had not so understood it, and declined. Campbell then stated that Mr. Klinefelter himself would be there in the course of the morning. Mr. K. shortly after arrived, and on making oath that he had demanded special bail, it was so endorsed on the executions. With these Mr. Campbell departed, previously having been expressly told by Squire Schaffer that he could not arrest the Dr. on that day. He said he was aware of it, and intimated that it was his intention to follow him to Frederick and arrest him there. It appears further, that he, in company with Potee, then proceeded to the outer depot, and there saw Dr. Knapp, whom they arrested, as was testified to by the Dr. himself and others; that the Dr. protested against the arrest, as he had been informed previously that such an arrest could not be made, but finding all his remonstrances vain, he then proposed to compromise with them by offering to pay Klinefelter's claim, which was then in the possession of, and had been produced by Potee.

This was refused. Dr. Knapp got into the car and the two officers followed. The negotiation was further continued on the platform of the cars, when they succeeded in getting a hundred dollars and a gold chain, valued at $35, from Dr. Knapp, when he was released; and they, after the cars reached the Relay house, got out and returned to the city.

The case was, after some remarks by one of the counsel for the traversers, (Z. C. Lee, Esq.) submitted to the court.

The court remarked that from the evidence, there had evidently been a combination between the officers, and that the arrest was actually made, as much so as if they had seized the person of Dr. Knapp, which was not necessary to constitute an arrest; and that the party believed himself in their custody. That they being officers of the State, and knowing the law had knowingly acted contrary to the law, and were therefore guilty.

The court imposed a fine of $20 on each, and required them to give security in the sum of $300 for their good behaviour for six months. There is also an indictment against these officers for obtaining money from the same party under false pretences.

Counsel for the State, I. Nevett Steele and W. F. Giles, Esqs. For the traversers, Z. Collins Lee and A. B. Wolfe, Esqs.

Stage Robbery. A Chambersburg paper of the 17th, states that the boot of one of the western stages was cut, on Friday night the 9th inst. a few miles west of that place, and robbed of a trunk belonging to one of the passengers, containing upwards of $1100. And that a person has been arrested in Westminster, Md., on suspicion of having committed the robbery.

Return of a Forger. Curry, who obtained $2,500 from the Bank of Ithaca, (N. Y.,) by means of forgery, and who has been the subject of much correspondence between Gov. Seward and Gov. Gilmer, of Virginia, passed through Buffalo a few days ago, in the custody of an officer. $2,000 of the money have been recovered.

☞Herman Hinman, a young man about 15 years of age, in Southbury, Conn., hung himself with a bridle, in his chamber, a few days since, from mortification at being charged with a petty theft, of which he was innocent.

☞Joe Smith, the leader of the Mormons, has been compelled to absquatulate. His successor is another of the Smith family. We would advise him to join the "Holy Rollers" and become a "Sweezyite."

☞The Louisville Journal states that a diving bell company have succeeded in recovering from the wreck of the Rienzi, at the bottom of the Mississippi, most of the cargo of that steamer, wrecked a few weeks since.

A Mean Thief. During a recent fire at St. Louis, some individual went into a cabinet maker'sshop and stole a coffin. Such a man should be buried alive.

Whale Fishery. During March last, there were imported into the United States 15,815 bbls. or 498,172 gallons sperm, and 36,850 bbls. or 1,116,775 gallons whale oil.

Sentenced. A young man has been sentenced by the Supreme Court of Rhode Island, for selling counterfeit lottery tickets, to two years imprisonment in the Penitentiary.

A Maiden Lady. A Miss Mary Prince, aged 100 years and 1 month, lately died at Philadelphia, having attained that advanced age in a state of "single blessedness."

☞The Baltimore Temperance delegates are making a strong and bold push in Boston.

NOTICE.

☞The Aids and Assistant Marshals appointed by the Chief Marshal for the Funeral Ceremonies on Monday next, are particularly requested to meet at the Hall of the Mechanical Fire Company, S. Calvert street, THIS EVENING, at half past 7 o'clock, punctually.

ap24-1t CHARLES M. KEYSER, Chief Marshal.

☞COCKADES AND CRAPE to be worn by the Defenders of Fort McHenry and Officers and Soldiers of the Battle of North Point, can be procured of J. H. NORFOLK, No. 70 Market-st. near Holliday. ap24-1t

VIGILANT FIRE COMPANY.

☞Meet at the Engine House on MONDAY MORNING 26th inst. at 7 o'clock precisely.

ap24-1t R. T. STEWART, Marshal.

☞THE JEFFERSON TEMPERANCE SOCIETY will hold a public meeting in Schroder's woods, west Saratoga street, TO-MORROW AFTERNOON, at half past 4 o'clock, provided the weather be favorable. Those desirous of joining the society and the public generally are invited to attend. By order, ap24-1t A T. J. WOLFE, Sec'ry

SAILMAKERS.

☞NOTICE. The Sailmakers of this city are requested to meet at J. Walker's School Room, Exeter street, on MONDAY MORNING next, 26th inst. at 7½ o'clock, to join in the contemplated procession in honor of our late President, Gen. Wm. H. Harrison.

ap24-1t* By order of the Marshal.

☞The citizens of Baltimore friendly to joining the contemplated procession of our fellow citizens on Monday next, met at Military Hall on THURSDAY EVENING 22d, when on motion Samuel Hart was called to the Chair, and Walter J. Wills was appointed Secretary. The following preamble and resolutions were adopted.

Whereas, it has pleased an Almighty and inscrutable Providence to remove from our midst the late lamented and venerated Chief Magistrate, Wm. H. Harrison, and whereas the citizens of Baltimore, in common with their fellow-citizens throughout the country, feeling deeply the loss sustained by their common country, have

Resolved, That they will unite with the Military and other Associations in paying the last tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased, by joining the proposed funeral procession, on Monday, 26th instant, and will take such place in the line as may be assigned them by the Chief Marshal, C. M. Keyser, Esq.

Resolved, That all citizens who may not be attached to any Military or other Association, and who may feel a disposition to unite with them on this occasion, be invited to assemble on Monday morning next, at 8 o'clock, at the corner of Gay and Fayette streets, with badges of mourning on the left breast and arm.

Resolved, That through respect for the memory of the illustrious dead, they will wear the usual badge of mourning on the left arm for the space of sixty days.

Resolved, That Capt J. C. Neide be appointed Chief Marshal with power to appoint 14 deputies.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

BALTIMORE U. FIRE DEPARTMENT.
BALTIMORE, April 20, 1841.

The Department having resolved to participate in the ceremonies of the 26th, the several Companies will assemble at their Engine Houses on Monday next, at 7 o'clock, A. M. The members will be fully equipped, and wear a badge of mourning on the left arm; the Banners, Flags, Hose Pipes, Axes, and Torches, borne in the procession will be covered with black crape.
Each Company will appoint a Marshal and assistants, who will act on foot, and be designated by a scarf.
The line will be formed at 8 o'clock, A. M., two deep in sections of eight, in North street, resting on Fayette street.
On approaching the place of formation, each company will halt at the corner of Fayette and North sts., and report to the Chief Marshal, who will assign its proper position; priority will be given according to seniority of company.
The "Watchman Hose Company" having been invited to join in the ceremonies of the day, will be escorted into the line by the "Washington Hose Company," which has been detailed for that duty.
Companies procuring music will be entitled to retain it in column.
In calling on the Firemen of Baltimore to participate in the mournful ceremonies about to be paid to a departed and much honored Chief, the Chief Marshal anticipates a strong representation from each Company, a well regulated discipline, and strict conformity to the order of the day.

SPLENDID MOURNING FAN.

C. Y. HAYNES & CO. have got a beautiful embossed FAN dedicated to the memory of our late illustrious President, WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, intended as a suitable emblem of mourning at the approaching solemnities on Monday next. All that can be made are wanted in other cities; but an ever grateful feeling for the Ladies of Baltimore, for their former patronage, has induced the proprietors to supply their own market first. And it is hoped that the Ladies will lose no time in supplying themselves with the most tasty and appropriate article ever got up in the United States.
As there is an increasing demand for the celebrated Log Cabin Fans, all orders for either kind will be promptly attended to at the manufactory, No. 52 North Exeter-st. ap22 3t

The funeral ceremonies in Boston on Tuesday were truly impressive. The Journal says:

This was a mournful pageant—and presented a striking contrast with the proceedings on the 10th of September last, when every countenance was radiant with hope—when flags, symbols of joy and triumph were waving from the windows, the trees, and the house tops—when the mighty host of freemen from every quarter of the Union who followed the significant banners which floated thro' the streets, were greeted by the smiles of beauty, and the loud and reiterated shouts of congratulating countrymen. It was then a time of rejoicing—it was a time of gladness, and every heart seemed buoyant with hope, for a ray of effulgent light seemed to rest on the future. But such was not the case yesterday. There were no symbols of joy and gladness; care and sorrow seemed stamped on every face—and although every balcony and window in the streets through which the procession passed, was filled with the lovely daughters of our land, yet there were no greetings of welcome, no sunny smiles, and cheering gestures.

But there were symbols of mourning and desolation. The banners were entwined with crape; the music was slow and solemn, the balconies and windows were hung with black, the mournful boom of the minute gun was heard, and the deep voice of the tolling bell, as the procession passed a place of public worship, struck sadness to the heart—and solemnly proclaimed a nation's loss.

The address of the Hon. Rufus Choate was a chaste piece of eloquence.

FROM TAMPICO. By the arrival of the schr. Doric, at New Orleans, information has been received that the efforts of the Federalists to capture Tampico have failed. Several of the leaders have been captured and are in prison.

A late number of the Diario del Gobierno, frankly acknowledges the inability of the Mexican Government at present to raise funds for another campaign against Texas. But it still clings to the hope that the future has better fortune in store for the Mexicans—that after the Comanche Indians are extirpated, and the national coffers replenished, their banner will float proudly on the banks of the Sabine! It winds up, however, by stating, that when every thing is taken into consideration, the Texians are not the demons some have represented them to be—that they always respected their own Government, and never stirred up fratricidal war.

One of the Yucatan revenue schrs., the Ocean, was lately wrecked near Vera Cruz. Five of the bodies of the unfortunate crew were washed ashore off Goazacoalcos. The vessel is a total loss.

The Desengano, of Tampico, states that the Prefect of the department and the military commandant are about to have a road made between that city and the Bar. It is expected the commerce of Tampico will be greatly benefitted by it.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 92 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

F. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

☞ The above Medicine may always be had in Baltimore of RICHARD NORRIS of WILLIAM, No. 254 Market street, who is the Sole Agent for this Medicine in that city. All orders coming to Philadelphia, must be directed to DR. SWAYNE,

Baltimore Clipper.

PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY BY BULL & TUTTE, No. 7 NORTH GAY STREET, BALTIMORE, Md.

VOLUME IV.] MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 26, 1841. [NUMBER 41.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

"The burden of Dumah. He calleth me out of Seir, Watchman, what of the night? Watchman, what of the night? The watchman said, the morning cometh, and also the night: if ye will inquire, inquire ye: return, come."

Isaiah, xxi—11, 12v.

The burden of Dumah—a vision of sleep—
He was called—and the summons was solemn and deep;
As a tone from the spirit-land wildly it came!
As a voice from Jehovah it thrill'd thro' the frame!
He heard it, the sage—ere his spiritual flight,
'Twas 'watchman—ho! watchman, what o' the night?'
As a warden, aloft on the tower he stood,
And gave forth his answer o'er valley and flood—
The Eternal hath said it—God speaketh alone—
Out of Seir have I called thee, return thou and come!
The morning approacheth, and also the night,
Ye that will may inquire—can ye read it aright,
The words of deep meaning—that breathe in each line,
Can aught of mere earth the enigma define?
Why rests on the soul those wild sounds of affright,
Of 'watchman—ho! watchman—what o' the night!'
To the rich and the dying—it spoke of the gloom,
Of the terror that shroudeth the sight of the tomb!
To the couch of the Hero—it came as the word
By memory treasured—oft thought of—oft heard—
Yet defined not—and now, oh! who can unfold
The feelings prophetic—the vision foretold!
No awe blanched the cheek of the Patriot brave,
He feared not—he feared not the night of the grave!
While Hope pointed, smiling, aloft to the skies,
And Faith whisper'red—faint not—thy morn shall arise!
To the spirit who gave, must the spirit return,
"Out of Seir have I called thee"—oh haste to thy bourne:
Thy faithful heart lingers around thy loved home,
"Out of Seir have I called thee—return thou and come!"
Perchance, as the eye that we gazed on grew dim,
The page of the Future was open'd to him!
His mantle he saw, like Elijah's, descend,
And the honors that wait him, another attend;
The station attained—he was not to adorn!
And his girdle of State by another be worn;
That God had ordained it, in wisdom, to show
The pride of the Earth could be humbled and low;
That in sackcloth, lamenting, a nation should mourn
Of their idol bereav'd—to His worship return!
He knew and he felt—he was passing away,
But love for his country rekindled the clay;
He spoke—and his words, on the pages of fame,
Shall endure while their Freedom inscribeth her name;
Remember them well, while his death ye deplore:
"To your country be faithful—he asks you no more!"

H. L——.

When I first read the thrilling passage of Scripture that so peculiarly attracted the attention of our lamented President, I was deeply impressed with the mysterious vein of prophecy that runs throughout the conclusion of that chapter and the whole of the succeeding one. In his case it has been remarkably fulfilled—and I think you will agree with me after an attentive perusal, that our beloved Harrison has been the instrument by which "the Lord of Hosts hath purposed it, to stain the pride of all glory, and to bring into contempt all the honorable of the earth"—Isaiah, chap. xxiii.—9th. The morning cometh—let us hope that he hailed its approach with joy—that he triumphantly passed through the "valley and shadow," the gloomy night of death. His spirit has returned to Him who gave it—he has obeyed the injunction, "come." "Requiescat in pace."

BIDDLE AND THE U. STATES BANK.

The fourth letter from Nicholas Biddle, Esq. to the Hon. John M. Clayton, has been published. He says, "since my private concerns were thus paraded before the country, the whole statement of them from the beginning to the end is a tissue of misrepresentations." He then explains where the misrepresentations exist. The second item in his account, as stated by the committee, is as follows: "January 3, 1841.—His note due January 6, 1842, with interest—originally a debt to the Bank, guaranteed by Mr. N. Biddle, and never assumed by him, $100,000.

Mr. Biddle states in regard to this item, that "when the committee made this statement, they had before them my own note payable in January next, with ample collateral security, forming as good and safe a debt as any in the Bank, and which will be certainly paid at maturity," and explains the reason why such a note ever came into the possession of the Bank.

"In my zeal to promote objects of improvement, I determined some years ago, with one or two public spirited gentlemen, that there should be made a Railroad from Philadelphia to Baltimore. A large portion of the funds was borrowed from the Bank, and with a view to ensure its completion, I became personally the guarantee to the Bank for the safety of about 400,000 dollars of the loan.

Well, the Road is now finished—Philadelphia and Baltimore are both in the full enjoyment of it, and the whole of the money, principal and interest, is repaid or secured to the Bank. Of the part guaranteed by me all has been paid except the 100,000 dollars, which is not due till January, 1842."

Mr. Biddle gives the following as a reason why he did not answer the letter addressed him by Mr. Cowperthwaite, about which, so much talk has been had.

"Here is a committee who assume to examine the private affairs of every man, who for twenty years has had any dealings with the Bank.—They publish garbled statements of his accounts, and when the accused goes to the Chairman of the committee and delivers to him a written statement, the Chairman makes the committee deny they ever received any communication from him, and turn his very appearance into a crime."

On the charge of favoritism, Mr. Biddle completely exculpates himself by the testimony of Messrs. Wilson, McIlvaine, and General Cadwallader. They all aver that in all his transactions they do not know of his ever having shown any favor, preference, or partiality, and Mr. McIlvaine testifies

"Whenever the Bank has been the purchaser of bills of Exchange from Thomas Biddle & Co., the President always appeared to make the best practicable bargain for the Bank."

Mr. Paul Beck, Jr., in answer to the question:

"Have you ever known the President of the Bank to manifest any partiality towards Thomas Biddle & Co., in any of the transactions of the Bank?"

He says—

"No, never. I have seen him treat them as hard as any body. In time of press brokers and auctioneers' paper was always discounted last, mechanics' and traders' always discounted first. I have very often seen the Board willing to do more for Mr. T. Biddle & Co. than the President would allow."

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the Committee, Messrs. Clayton, R. M. Johnson, Thomas, Cambreleng, Adams, McDuffie and Watmough.

"Resolved, That the charges brought against the President of lending money to Thomas Biddle & Co., without interest, and of discounting notes for that house, and for Charles Biddle, without the sanction of the Directors, are without foundation, and that there does not exist any ground for charging the President with having shown, or manifested any disposition to show, any partiality to these individuals in their transactions with the Bank."

In speaking of the Committee, at the close of the letter, he says:

"They have alienated many persons who were able and willing to serve the bank—they have rendered it odious, and the Legislature of Pennsylvania will either cut the bank adrift and leave it to its fate, or else, if it affords any relief, will do it only on condition that it will give up its independence, and place itself at the mercy of the Legislature, so that its charter may be at any time repealed without assigning a single reason.

"Such are some of the blessed fruits of the labors of this Committee, and if hereafter the bank is destroyed, if its whole capital is exhausted in consequence of the discredit now thrown upon it by the Committee—if the citizens of Philadelphia are to lose the use of the remaining sixteen millions of capital, which the Committee say is yet safe, and are to be forced to pay up their debts, let the stockholders of the bank and the citizens of Philadelphia know to whose financial ability and disinterestedness their gratitude is due."

We are obliged to be as brief as possible, and cannot, therefore, do as we wished—publish the whole letter. The above is about the sum and substance of it. It is not denied but there has been the grossest misconduct somewhere, but who are the guilty ones, it remains yet to be seen. These letters may have a tendency to elucidate the subject and unravel the mystery.

MR. BIDDLE'S FIFTH LETTER. We received yesterday the National Gazette, containing the fifth letter of Nicholas Biddle, Esq. It is addressed to the Hon. John M. Clayton. The substance of the letter is an attempt to justify Mr. Jaudon, the agent of the Bank, in London, and to defend that gentleman against the attack of the committee. After going into the investigation of various facts, he concludes thus:

"Do you not begin now to perceive that after deducting for his expenses these $28,000, he has paid to the Bank every dollar he has received from it. Do you not see that he has been working out his debt to the Bank by valuable services—services which he performed at much less cost than any foreign merchant would have charged—and that every dollar the Bank has allowed him has gone to pay up this old debt. Does not every body see that this gives an entirely new aspect to the whole question—for after all what other debtor of the Bank has paid so much or so well during that time? I doubt whether there is one single man who has paid in any thing like the same proportion of his debt—$393,000 paid, and the remaining $117,080 perfectly well secured and in a course of reduction. If he has been an imprudent borrower, he has certainly been a prompt and large payer—and he has nobly struggled to repair the consequences of his indiscretion in purchasing stocks which have since depreciated.

If this denunciation of him has been unjust in itself—it seems little less than madness as regards the Bank. He has long been the confidential agent of the Bank. His character is identified with it, his talents necessary to it, and yet in the midst of its embarrassments, at the very moment when he was most needed, it sends to Europe a public denunciation of him, which whatever mischief it may do to him, recoils tenfold on the Bank.

The whole case then of Mr. Jaudon seems to be simply this. He owed a large sum of money to the Bank—the Bank employed him in a most important service and gave him a liberal compensation—all of which he returned to the Bank in payment of his debt. His conduct in that respect seems to be rather very uncommon than very atrocious. With great respect, yours,

N. BIDDLE."

OFFICIAL.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT.

Thomas W. Newton, to be Marshal for the District of Arkansas.

John G. Miller, to be Postmaster at Columbus, Ohio.

Justin Butterfield, to be Attorney for the District of Illinois.

While Mr. Charles Kean was performing the part of Richard, at Exeter, in England, his favorite dog came on the stage to take his part, barked at Richmond and the audience, and licked the face of the dying warrior.

RESPECT. All business was suspended in New Orleans on the 16th inst., in honor to the memory of our late President, Wm. H. Harrison.

ARRIVAL OF THE GRAT WESTERN.

We are indebted to the 2w York Sun Extra of the 24th inst. for the follwing important foreign intelligence.

By a SPECIAL EXPRESS fra London to Bristol and Kings Road, ran EXCLUSELY FOR THE NEW YORK SUN, we are in possion of our regular files of papers, letters fromour Foreign Correspondents, and the London piers of the 8th, the day of the steamer's departe.

The Great Western arrivi at about 1 o'clock this afternoon, having madehe passage in sixteen days—a very short ouer this season of the year.

We are greatly indebtedo Captain Hosken, and the directors of the Gat Western Steam Ship Company, for the ve polite manner in which they detained the stener for the arrival of our Express, and also forendering valuable facilities to our London Age in getting our despatches on board.

The news brought by thegreat Western will be read with deep interest.

NON-ARRIVAL OF TE PRESIDENT.

Up to the closing of the nil from Liverpool to London on the 7th inst., he Steamer President had not arrived, and it ill be seen by the following extracts from the Indon Courier that the most painful anxiety pivailed concerning her fate.

A rumor prevailed here esterday and was pretty generally credited, tt the President, about which such painful surmises are afloat, had been seen making for the Azors, in order to procure fuel. The statement turi out to be incorrect, but as yesterday was Suay, it was almost impossible to trace it to its orin. Two vessels arrived here yesterday from t. Michael's, one of the Azores—the Lynx, an the Star of the West. They sailed in compay on Thursday week, and arrived by the samedate. The crew of both vessels say that from th time of sailing until reaching the Channel, the saw no steamer whatever. This is conclusive ato the falsehood of the report. There can be a doubt that the President experienced the samdurricane which the Caledonia steamer encountied on the 13th and 14th ult., which is describ by some old captains on board as being one of the most severe they ever witnessed in the Atantic. In the meantime public anxiety is stched to its utmost tension respecting her fateand it also forms the most exclusive subject of coversation.

The Liverpool Albion say—othing whatever has been heard of the Presidentsteamer. If she has run to the southward, and nde for the Western Isles, for the purpose of replenishing her coal, she is not yet due, the Liverpool steamship, when, in the winter of 1839, compelled to run to the same islands to replenish he coal, having been 27 days on the passage fromNew York to Liverpool, via Fayal. The prevaent opinion is, that the President must have run to the Western Isles, and that she may be expectd to arrive in a few days.

THE CAROLINE QUESTION.

Mr. Hume made a motion on th 6th inst., in the House of Commons, for copiesof the correspondence between the legation of the U. States in London and the Secretary of Stat for the Foreign Department, in relation to the destruction of the steamboat Caroline.

Lord Palmerston requested the Hon. gentleman, in respect to the state of thehouse and the excited feeling prevailing on the abject, to postpone a discussion which might have a tendency to prevent the affair being brough to that amicable termination which both Governments desired.

Mr. Hume immediately consented to postpone the motion until after the recess.

Both houses then adjourned tilthe 22d April.

REVENUE RETURNS. The evenue returns for the year and quarter, show tat the decrease upon the whole year, ending April 5th, as compared with the similar return to the same date for 1840, amounts to £309,280; for the quarter this year, as compared with the corresponding quarter of last year, to £70,514. The decrease mainly arises in the customs and post office departments; from the former the less receipts being £301,042 for the quarter; for the latter, £333,000 for the year, and £27,00 for the quarter. The Excise shows an increse of £489,259 on the year, but a decrease on the quarter of £44,526. In Stamps the increase for the year is £172,722, and £19,216 on the quarter; in Taxes £275,019 for the year, and £43,987 on the quarter.

THE ROBBERY AT WINDSOR CASTLE—THE SUSPECTED PARTY IN CUSTODY.—Windsor, Monday afternoon, April 5th.—Thismorning Richard Lovegrove, the party suspected of being concerned in the extensive depredations at the Castle, and who was advertised in the Police Gazette of Friday last, arrived at Windsor by the 8 o'clock train from Paddington, with the High Constable of Windsor and another person named Needham, to whom, it is stated (but from the secrecy observed, it is impossible, at present, to obtain the correct particulars,) he gave himself up in the course of yesterday.

Thomas Stevenson, Ex-Mayor of Stafford, has been examined and held to bail on a charge of forgery.

A dreadful fire occurred at the Elephant and Castle public house, Whitechapel Road, London, on the 5th, loss £1500. Also, another at a floor cloth manufactory, Clarkenwell, loss £4000.

An extensive fire occurred on the 4th at Knowl hill, near Reading, consuming eight houses.

An absurd rumor, says the Limerick Chronicle, was current here, of an Embargo on passenger vessels to New York. There is no impediment whatever to navigation to the United States or Canada.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer has appointed Friday, the 30th of April, as the day on which he intends to bring forward his annual financial statement, known as the "Budget."

Count Survilliers (Joseph Bonaparte) has been alarmiogly ill, but was considered better at the last accounts.

FRANCE. There is very little news of importance in the Paris papers, which are still occupied to a great extent with the Fortification Bill. The journals the most opposed to the project seem to think that even now some means may be devised to prevent it from being carried into execution.

Lord Granville had a serious attack of paralysis, but at the last dates was recovering.

The mother of Downes had been arrested, but after a short interrogatory was set at liberty.

The Movement at Marseilles. In consequence of the events at Marseilles, domiciliary visits were made at Carcassonne, and in the environs. Some arms and a pretty considerable quantity of cartridges were seized. The police were informed on the 26th that a rising was prepared for the 27th in the evening. M. De Villeneuve, Commissary of Police, whose activity is incessant, succeeded in making himself acquainted with the whole plot, which, thanks to him, is defeated.

The copy right bill has been rejected by the Chamber of Deputies. The ultra principle of the bill was to give the family of an author or artist an exclusive interest in his works for 30 years after his decease. This principle appeared at one moment to be agreed to; but other difficulties arose, and the bill, after a fortnight's discussion, has been lost.

There is a report here that a general political amnesty is to be granted on the occasion of the baptism of the Count de Paris, and that Prince Louis Napoleon is to be included in it.

The preparations for the baptism are on a scale of magnificence which is almost unprecedented during the present reign, and the King has resolved on making great sacrifices from his privy purse.

According to La Presse preparations were being made to forward the works of the fortifications of Paris with the utmost rapidity. 3,000 wheelbarrows were ordered, and 30,000 laborers would be engaged, indepeodently of the troops to be employed for the same purpose.

THE WAR IN FRENCH AFRICA. The Moniteur Algerien of the 23d. ult. says. "After 12 days absence, the Governor General returned to Algiers on the 18th, from his tour to the East. The Duke d'Aumale arrived at Algiers on the 19th, as has been already announced. Lieut. General Bugeaud has issued the following decree, dated Algiers, March 19. 'All the points occupied by the French troops in Africa are declared to be in a state of war.' This decree having caused consternation amongst the population, the Moniteur Algerian has endeavored in a supplement to dispel the uneasiness. It says "that the danger of war is not more serious than usual, and that the decree has only for its object to render the services of the African militia more regular and more military.

SPAIN. Our accounts from Madrid are to the 28th ult. The Regency question becomes more and more a topic of excitement, which has not been diminished by a letter written on the part of the Duke of Victor to the Eco del Comercio. It is couched in rather vague terms, but it seems to indicate that the Duke will be sole Regent or not at all.

SWITZERLAND. We take from the Constitutional the following correspondence relating to Switzerland. It is dated Berne, April 1. "The first article of the project of the Committee has been accepted by the strictly necessary majority of 12 votes. This article is couched in the following terms:—The decree of the great consul of the canton of Argovia of the 18th of January last, which suppresses all the convents in its territory, is declared to be incompatible with the 12th article of the Federal compact. Four articles remain to be discussed, on two of which it is thought there will be no majority.

GREECE. Athens, Feb. 28. The King, by this present steamer, sends to M. Mavrocordato his recall from London, and his appointment to the Presidency of the Council of Ministers (when the King does not preside in person) and Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

M. Tricupi returns to London as Minister of Greece to our Court.

The Candiots have all gone away from Greece to revolutionise their own country. Carabousa is the rendezvous of the insurgents, and they have already committed some acts of piracy.

ITALY. The ex-Regent of Spain, Maria Christina, arrived at Milan on the 24th ult.

A private letter from Naples of the 20th ult. states that the King of Naples had contracted with an English company to construct a railroad from Naples to Caserta—the Versailles of Naples.

AFFAIRS OF THE EAST.—TURKEY. We have advices from Constantinople of the 17th ult. The Ottoman fleet returned to that capital on the 16th, and had resumed its former station along the European bank of the Bosphorus.

In a conference held at Therapia, at Lord Ponsonby's house, the reply of the Porte to the petition of Mehemet Ali had been discussed. The result of this conference is affirmed to be that the Porte is left to the alternative of yielding the modification sought by Mehemet Ali of that part of the hatti scheriff which relates to the hereditary succession to the pashalic, or of relinquishing any claim Powers in favor of Turkey. The Divan, it is therefore supposed, will conform to the wishes of the Ambassador. This state of things is generally regarded as equivalent to a settlement of the Eastern question. Thus far we report from a well informed Constantinople correspondent.—Upon his statement we need only remark that the united influence of the four Powers upon the decision of the Divan cannot fail of success, that influence being exercised in support only of the reasonable petition of the Pasha.

THE NEW TREATY. The treaty or convention initiated (paraphe) on the 15th ult. by the representatives of the five great European Powers and the Ambassador of the Porte, contains:

A preamble of considerable length, stating and recognizing the rights of the Ottoman Porte as an independent power in her relations with the other European nations.

Articles 1 and 2, which stipulate the closing of the Dardenelles against all foreign ships of war, without distinction.

Article 3, which consists of an invitation to all friendly Powers, not parties to the treaty, to accede to it; and

Article 4, which relates merely to the exchange of the ratifications within a given time.

The above are the entire contents of this important convention.

THE MARKETS.

LIVERPOOL, Monday evening, April 5.—Cotton Market. The market to-day has been quiet, and the sales amount only to 2500 bags. Cotton is freely offered for sale, but there is no change in prices since Fr day last. The sales consist of 170 Bahia, 8d to 8¼d; 70 Maranham 7¾d to 8¼d; 50 Pernam 8 7-8d; 200 Surats, 4¼d to 5¼d; and the remainder American, 6¼d to 7 1-4d.

6th.—We have had a dull market to-day, and the sales small, being only about 2000 bags, but without any change in prices; 200 N. Orleans at 3d have been taken for export.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE. The public securities have not supported, with buoyancy, the quotations of Saturday, sales having been made on account of the Hebrews, who commence their Passover to-morrow, when they can enter into no further operations. For immediate transfer Consols have realised 89 7-8 to 80 5-8, and for the Account 90 1-8 to 89½.

Exchequer Bills have been marked 9 to 11 premium, and East India Bonds par to 2s. prem.—The New Three-and-half per cents have been at 98 7-8 to ½, and Bank Stock for the opening is firm at 172 to 173.—London Courier, 5th.

"The sales in the English Stock Market still predominate, and there has consequently been no rally from the slight reduction in prices to which we alluded yesterday. The deficit exhibited in the revenue return is not calculated to produce a favorable effect upon prices. For immediate transfer Consols have realized 89 5-8 to 89 7-8, and for the 15th inst. 89½ to 89 7-8. Exchequer bills have remained steady at 9s. to 11s. prem.—and East India Bonds at par to 2s prem.—Bank Stock is now quoted 168½ to 170, ex-dividend, and the Reduced Three and a Half per Cents have been done at 97¼ to ¼, ex-dividend. New Three and a Half per Cents are worth 98½ to ½.—Courier 6th.

7th, P. M.—"The accounts received from Liverpool this morning describe the excitement existing on account of the President to exceed any thing of the kind ever remembered in connexion with shipping. As yet we have nothing on which to found any satisfactory opinion respecting the cause of delay.

"The usual number of flying reports are in circulation respecting the overland mail. Among other statements is one to the effect that the arrival of the steamer at Marseilles has been telegraphed to Paris."

Two o'clock—"Three per cent. consols are 89½ to 7-8 for money and time. Spanish Active Bonds are 22 7-8 to 23. Shares are much the same as quoted.

"We have nothing to add respecting the steamer or the overland mail.

STATE OF TRADE.

HOLMFIRTH. There has been a steady improvement in our general business throughout the past month, though the unsettled state of American affairs has caused those manufacturers who are chiefly engaged in producing goods for that country so to curtail their operations, that some of their workmen have been thrown out of employment. The fancy trade still continues brisk, and there has been more doing, both in kerseymere and thick kerseys.

As this is the time of the year when extensive purchases are usually made for the American trade, considerable anxiety is entertained respecting the final issue of the matters in dispute with that country. If an amicable arangement be speedily accomplished, we anticipate a very brisk spring trade, as the stock of goods in the hands of the manufacturers is extremely light.

HUDDERSFIELD. No variation of importance has marked our market since our last report. The attendance of buyers was good, and there was an animated demand for light fancy goods; a good business was also doing in plains. Great anxiety is felt on account of the non-arrival of the President steamer. Goods well adapted to the spring trade are ready of sale at late prices. Low heavy plain cloths meet a dull sale, and prices a turn easier. Stocks are heavy. Wool is dull of sale, buyers evidently awaiting fresh importations. Business in the warehouses rather promising.

Passengers in the Great Western, from Bristol:—Mr Shipley, W S Packer, Wm Schar, A W Bales, P Foestell, Joseph Honni, Mrs Honni, Miss Honni, A Coston, W Rathbone jr, J S Clegpham, G H Oppenheim, Mrs Oppenheim, Mr W Heine, K Preston, A Newbow, Mrs V Harrison, Miss E Harrison, G B Morewood, H P Sturges U S Consul, Mrs Sturges and servant, M Sturges, S Sturges, Jas Manilla and servant, Rev Dr Wayland, J Davis, J Coyden, S Bate and servant, Mrs Bate and servant, E Sulty, F Newbury, Miss Jaudon, Mrs Wells, J Lindon, L Windsor, Mrs Lysurney, Mr King, Mrs Schonawar, Thos Pierce, Sir J D C Laffan, Thos West and servant.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

MONDAY MORNING, April 26, 1841.

☞From respect for the day, and in order to enable all persons in our employment to participate in the funeral ceremonies, the Clipper office will be closed after 9 o'clock this morning, and remain closed during the day, consequently no paper will be issued to-morrow.

To Advertisers. The press of very important matter received by the mails of yesterday afternoon, which will all be found in this morning's paper, has compelled us to leave out a number of advertisements, which shall receive particular attention hereafter.

☞Our readers in Washington, Georgetown, and Alexandria, D. C., York, Pa., Frederick and Annapolis cities, Md., will receive no paper until Wednesday next, there being a general suspension of business here to-day, in consequence of paying funeral honors to the late President of the United States.

Funeral Car. The Funeral car in which General Harrison was conveyed to the grave was deposited at the coach-house of Mr. Child, N. Gay street, on Saturday morning, where it was examined by numbers. We give the correct representation of the Car in the programme published on the fourth page of to-day's paper.

Mr. Biddle's fourth and fifth letters. In our paper of to-day will be found a condensation of Mr. Biddle's fourth and fifth letters. For the fourth we are indebted to the Philadelphia Chronicle. These letters are not so interesting as the preceding ones. Their substance therefore will, we have no doubt, satisfy the reader.

☞Our readers are referred to the poetical production in another column of to-day's paper from our esteemed correspondent H. L., upon the mysterious passage of scripture which Gen. Harrison spoke of a few days previous to his death.

We also publish the Funeral Hymn to be sung this day by the Baltimore Musical Association, at the ceremonies to take place at the Washington Monument.

Arrival of the Great Western. In another part of our paper of to-day will be found full and complete details of foreign intelligence by the steamer Great Western. We have not room for comment at present. The news, however, is of a pacific order. The non-arrival of the steamer President had created great excitement and much uneasiness. Serious doubts are being entertained of her loss, she having been out twenty-seven days.

☞We shall have the pleasing spectacle presented to-day of a people perfectly united in offering their testimonials of respect and affection for departed worth. All party feeling will be buried, and the political elements will repose in tranquility. This is the spirit which should always prevail on so melancholy an occasion, as it shews, that, however American citizens may differ in their appreciation of men as politicians, they are willing to honor them as patriots, and to award to their memories the just measure of fame.

"Our countrymen," says the Biographer of Alexander Hamilton, "although often hurried by their passions into acts that a cool reflection disapproves; although fickle in their affections to the living, whom they alternately exalt above and depress beneath their true level, still they have rarely failed to awaken to a just sense of their duties and interest, and to render finally to the departed patriot the praise to which his acts, while living, ought to have entitled him."

There can be no doubt that, in violent party conflicts, injustice is often done to meritorious individuals—but the feeling which prompts the injury seldom outlives the controversy. This has been manifested on various occasions, and we have a first evidence of it in the funeral solemnities of to-day. Political enmities are happily short-lived, whilst the recollection of patriotic services is enduring. Whilst the better feelings of our nature thus succeed the ebullitions of passion, political differences may be indulged without apprehension for the permanency of our free institutions.

☞In Hall's Life of Wm. H. Harrison, it is stated that, when in command of the North Western Army, Gen. Harrison was making active preparations for a descent upon Canada—and "the 9th of September having been appointed by the president at the request of congress, as a day of humiliation and prayer," the day was duly and decorously observed by the whole army, and employed by many, in exercises of sincere devotion. In allusion to this historic fact, so creditable to the religious principles and feelings of the commanding general, it is demanded by the Philadelphia North American—"who shall say what influence this day of rest and of devotion had in controlling the result, or in shaping out the victory, gained a few days after, over Proctor and his savage allies?" At all events (says that paper) this impressive duty was not neglected either by Washington or Harrison; and after its performance the inscrutible result was in the hand of a Higher Power.

Resignation. We learn that James Murray, Esq., who was nominated a few days since a candidate for Congress for the fourth congressional district, has resigned the office of Secretary of State.

Arrest of robbers. Police officers Zell and Ridgely, who have for some time been on the alert for the perpetrators of the robberies lately committed in this city, have succeeded in arresting three persons whom they suspected of robbing the store of Messrs. Marriott & Hardesty.—Their names are Thomas Scott, alias Thomas Walker, George Wilson, alias Alexander Dugan, and Harry Brown. Thomas Scott, alias Walker, was arrested on Thursday last in Pratt street, and George Wilson, alias Dugan, was arrested on Friday morning in the house of Brown in Franklin street, above Cove-st. Brown made his escape through the back way. The two, after a hearing before Squire Snyder, were fully committed.

On Saturday evening Brown was seen in Camden street by Mr. Shelden, a city constable, who immediately gave information to Mr. Ridgely of his whereabouts. Mr. R. instantly started in pursuit, saw Brown on horseback, who, when he saw the officer, started at full speed. Mr. R. borrowed a horse of a gentleman who was passing and after a hot chase succeeded in arresting him and brought him before Squire Snyder, who committed him for a further hearing. We understand that notes and negotiable paper to the amount of about $50,000, and $1,287 50, identified as part of that stolen, have been recovered. Twelve hundred and fifty dollars of money was found in Walker's house, situated in an obscure place in the eastern part of the city, and $37.50 was found on the persons of Walker and Dugan. The notes and papers were found in the Catholic burying ground at the western extremity of the city. Too much praise cannot be bestowed on the officers for their untiring and successful exertions in ferreting out and arresting these daring villains who have so long infested the community.

The Malek Adhel. The crew of this vessel appeared in Court on Saturday last, and were discharged by Mr. Chief Justice Taney, from confinement, as participants in the piratical acts committed by the vessel, it appearing that the captain who escaped at Bahia with a confederate, was alone guilty, and that the seizure of the brig was altogether owing to the information given by the crew, voluntarily. They were however detained as witnesses to testify before the District Court, in the matter of the libel for condemnation, filed by the District Attorney, against the Malek Adhel. A claim, it is understood, will be put in by Messrs. Harmony, of New York, the ostensible owners—and we are likewise informed that the seamen will claim for capture and wages. N. Williams, Esq. District Attorney for the U. S. Jonathan Meredith, Esq. counsel for the Messrs. Harmony, and Z. Collins Lee and S. Teackle Wallis, Esqrs. for the seamen.

Virginia Election. From the Richmond papers we learn that Mr. Botts, for Congress, and Mr. Lyons for State Senate, were ahead in that city. R. T. Daniel stood ahead of S. Taylor, both Whigs, 182 votes.

In the county, McRae beat Barker and Goddin, by a large vote—lower precincts not yet heard from.

In Petersburg, Cary, Democratic candidate, was one ahead. The Democratic candidate for the Legislature was also ahead—likewise in Sussex. In Norfolk Borough, Mallory, (Whig) for Congress, had 323 votes—scattering 33 votes. Taylor and Madden (W.) for House of Delegates had, the former 320, the latter 66 votes, and 6 scattering. In Norfolk Co., Mallory 174, and Atkinson, Democrat, 127. The Whig delegate ticket also ahead. The Whig delegate ticket was ahead at the "Great Bridge."

☞The Cincinnati Times of the 19th states that a most unfortunate accident happened at the Theatre, during the performance of the last piece at Mr. Conner's benefit on Saturday night. By the accidental discharge of a gun, in the hands of one of the actors, during the play of Paul Jones, or the Pilot, Mr. Altemus received a severe injury. Being immediately behind the weapon at the time of its going off, the charge, (which, we learn, fortunately was a light one, or the consequences might have been more serious,) took effect upon the upper portion of his face. The sight of Mr. Altemus is seriously injured and fears are entertained that it is destroyed. No blame is attached by the parties to the person who was the accidental cause of the unfortunate occurrence.

Fire. An alarm of fire was given about three o'clock yesterday morning, which proceeded from the burning of a mill belonging to Messrs. Joseph White & Sons, about two and a half miles from the city, on the Falls road. The mill, with the contents, we understand, was entirely consumed. There was, we learn, an insurance to cover all the loss, with the exception of about five hundred bushels of grain, on which there was no insurance. Supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

National Bank. The following gentlemen, says the N. York Journal of Commerce, compose the Committee appointed by the Chamber "to prepare a petition to Congress for the incorporation of a National Bank, and to report to the Chamber at a subsequent meeting."

John R. Hurd, James D. P. Ogden,
James Brown, Jonathan Goodhue,
William H. Aspinwall.

All of them are understood to be in favor of a National Bank. The vote of the Chamber for the appointment of such a committee was 38 to 18.

Correction. By an omission which will occasionally occur in the hurry of newspaper printing, our paper on Saturday appeared under the date Friday.

☞The wretch Madam Restell has at length been indicted by the Grand Jury. Justice has been as chary of touching this woman as if afraid of burning her fingers.

Funeral obsequies. From time immemorial it has been the custom to pay funeral honors to the distinguished dead—a custom no less salutary to the living than respectful to the departed. That man must destitute of the finer feelings of human nature he can be indifferent whether his memory be aerated or despised; and hence the respect shewn to the dead begets a motive in the living to so conduct themselves as to leave an affectionate reflection of them when they shall have been deposited in the tomb.

The citizens of Baltimore will this day commemorate the virtues, the talents and the patriotism, of the departed hero and statesman, William Henry Harrison. And in the ceremonies which are about to be performed will be mingled, not simply the respect which is due to a distinguished public agent, but the warmer feeling of attachment to the memory of a good man. Upon such an occasion, it my not be deemed inappropriate, to say a few words of the Christian character of the deceased President, for when men in the most elevated places openly adopt the meek principles of the Christian religion, they add a lustre to their dignity, and present a spectacle of unsurpassed moral grandeur.

On the subject of General Harrison's religious feelings, we may the following extracts from a recent publication by the Rev. William Hawley, Rector of St. John's church, Washington. After having given a brief account of the late President's inauguration, he passes to

HIS RELIGIOUS CHARACTER.

The next morning (the 5th of March) Gen. Harrison walked down on the avenue and purchased a Greek Bible and Book of Common Prayer, which he carried home with him, and directed the servant to place in his bed-room, where I saw them on the night of his death—thereby indicating that he had chosen that Holy Book for the rule of his faith and guide of his life in the execution of the important trust committed to his charge. This Bible he was seen reading early every morning and late every evening.

In his first letter to Mrs. Harrison after his inauguration, I states that, after he had returned from the Capital to the President's Mansion, as soon as he could command any time, he retired to his room and fell down upon his knees before his Maker, thanking him for all his mercies, and supplicating his gracious guidance in the faithful discharge of the duties of his high station to his country and his God.

On Sunday morning, the 7th, Benjamin Harrison, Esq., of Virginia, at the request of the President, called at my house, desiring to know whether he could be accommodated with a pew for himself and family for that day, and expressing a wish to obtain the one recently occupied by Mrs. Madison—which the owner accorded to him. In the public worship of the church he conformed to all her rituals in the audible responses of the service, and, with that humility so expressive of devout feelings and humble devotion, bowed himself on his knees before the Majesty of Heaven, and supplicated that mercy of which as a sinner, however highly exalted his station, he stood so much in need. Thus following the example of the pious rulers of Israel and the illustrious men in every age who have adorned the doctrine of God their Saviour."

The following day he purchased the pew, and regularly attended the service of the church every Sunday morning until prevented by his last fatal sickness.

His high regard for the Sabbath was such, that, of late years, he always avoided travelling on that holy day, unless from absolute necessity; and during the short period he occupied the President's Mansion, carefully avoided all company on that day, and dined at an early hour, that he might attend public worship in the afternoon with his family some of whom belonged to the communion of he Presbyterian Church.

His high estimation for the "people of God" was most ably shown in kindness to his Ministers. On a recent occasion, he said to a brother clergyman of mine, with whom he had been for some time acquainted, whom ill health prevented from the performance of his clerical duties, and on whom he had within a few weeks conferred a vacant clerkship until his health would enable him to resume the duties of his ministerial office: 'I see no company on Sunday, and dine in a plain way; but I shall be always happy to see you at my table, for I love to have the Clergy with me on Sunday."

In this connexion it may be proper to state that, at his own hospitable mansion at North Bend, when the infirm health of Mrs. Harrison would not allow her to attend public worship elsewhere, Gen. H. would often obtain the services of a clergyman for the day, and remunerate him liberally. It has also been stated to me by a member of the family that, some years since, he accidentally became acquainted with a young Minister of the Methodist Church in indigent circumstances, whose native talents and powers of mind promised extensive usefulness if properly cultivated. Gen. H. kindly invited him to become a member of his family, and offered him the use of his library until well prepared for the exercise of his ministry. This young clergyman is now a distinguished and successful laborer in the vineyard of our Lord.

Of late years, notwithstanding his having erected, mostly at his own expense, a church in his immediate vicinity, yet, not being able to support a clergyman for the regular services of the church, he was in the habit of leaving home on Saturday afternoon for the sole purpose of attending the church in Cincinnati, of which the Rev. J. T. Brooke is Rector, twice or thrice a day. He also frequently attended a stated weekly lecture.

From the day of his Inauguration, it was his invariable practice to rise with the dawn of day, and, after reading the Scripture, to take a walk for exercise; and seldom did he breakfast or dine without some old friend or acquaintance partaking of his hospitality. In this manner his whole time was occupied. Occasionally, if for a moment disengaged from his official duties, and the press of visitors, he would steal away from his family, and visit some of his old acquaintance, with all that cordiality and generous good feeling so characteristic of the warm hearted soldier and devoted friend.

* I am authorized from unquestionable authority to say, that the closing part of his Inaugural Address, especially that part in which he so reverently expresses his regard for the Christian Religion, was penned by him in the room in which he was born, and where he had often kneeled beside his pious Mother, who earnestly implored the rich blessings of Heaven on his future life. W. H.

TRUSTEES SALE of valuable real estate in the city of Baltimore. By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court of Maryland, the undersigned as Trustee, will expose to sale at auction on WEDNESDAY, the ninth day of June next, commencing at 12 o'clock, A. M. on the premises

ALL THAT VALUABLE PROPERTY heretofore conveyed by William Russell to the trustees for the poor of Baltimore City and County, by indenture bearing date on or about the fifteenth day of June seventeen hundred and ninety-two, and recorded among the land records of Baltimore County Court in liber W. G., No. K. K., folio 4 &c., and which is said deed is described as follows, viz—Beginning for the same at the intersection of Biddle and Price sts., and on the west side of said Biddle street, and running and bounding on the west side of said Biddle street north fifty-four degrees, east forty eight perches and the half of a perch, then north fifty two and one half degrees, west thirty four perches to a parcel of ground heretofore sold to a certain William Gibson by the said William Russell, then running and bounding on said ground south forty four degrees, west forty four perches to Price street, then bounding on said street south easterly thirty four perches to the place of beginning, containing nine acres and one half of an acre and thirteen square perches of land more or less.

The above property adjoins the Rose Hill estate and is in the neighborhood of the outer Depot of the Baltimore and Susquehana Rail Road; it lies beyond the limits of direct taxation and is exempt from the payment of City Taxes; the whole property will be divided into a large number of Lots of such dimensions as will enable those of moderate means to become purchasers. Madison street, which forms its Southern boundary, has been well paved along its entire front and beyond, and has been built upon up to Biddle st., which forms the Eastern Boundary, Morris Alley, Gibson street, Jordon Alley, and Gordon street, pass through it from east to west. A better opportunity than the present rarely occurs either for investment or speculation, especially when the very liberal terms of payment are taken into consideration.

The terms of sale prescribed by the decree are that the purchasers shall pay one-sixth cash, one sixth in ninety days, one sixth in six months, one-sixth in nine months, one-sixth in twelve months, and one sixth in fifteen months from the day of sale, the credit instalments to be secured by notes with one or more sureties to be approved by the Trustee and to bear interest from the day of sale.

MEDICAL AID. The success that has attended the treatment of many thousand cases of Venereal Complaints for twenty years past, induces the subscriber to inform the public, that he may be daily seen and consulted on all cases of the kind, recent and chronic, and on diseases of the urinary organs generally. His treatment is speedy and certain, adapted to the various constitutions of his patients; the medicines are so mild that the most delicate may take them, without any restrictions in diet or occupation. Many cases that have resisted every other mode of treatment have speedily yielded to this, and many persons who have tried all the quack nostrums of the day are frequently calling on the subscriber to have the injuries they have sustained by their use relieved. An early application is advisable in all cases, which may be made at Dr. WAGNER'S OFFICE, Caroline street one door north of Wilk street. Medicines furnished in quantities to suit applicants. ap7-eolaw*

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

HYMN

To be sung by the Baltimore Musical Association at the Harrison Funeral Solemnities, Baltimore, April 26, 1841. Written for the occasion, at the request of the B. M. A. by Rev. S. P. Hill. [The whole assembly are invited to unite in singing.]

Hark! a nation's wail of grief
On each passing breeze is borne!
For a nation's honored chief
From its bleeding heart is torn.

He who lately near us stood,
Ripe in honors as in years,—
He,—the wise, the great, the good,—
Claims the tribute of our tears.

Like a transient tale that's told,
Like a dream of yesterday,
Like the pageant we behold,
He from earth has pass'd away.

From his highest sphere of fame,
Midst his country's joyous breath,
Softly,—suddenly he came
To the silent shades of death.

Where the patriot fathers sleep
In their well-deserved renown—
Where the sons of freedom weep,
Chieftain! we have laid thee down.

God! that rulest over all,
God! that livest while we die,
Let thy dread upon us fall,
Let us on thyself rely.

Thou! who wast our fathers' God;
Thou! who since hast been our own;
Tho' we feel thy chast'ning rod,
Still we seek thy gracious throne.

FUNERAL PROCESSION
OF THE LATE
PRESIDENT OF THE U. STATES.

The Committee of Arrangements appointed at a Town Meeting, held at the Exchange on Monday the 12th instant, to prepare the Programme for a public Civic and Military Procession, in commemoration of the death of General WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, late President of the United States, have adopted the following order:

Captain CHARLES M. KEYSER has been unanimously selected as Chief Marshal, who has appointed the following Assistant Marshals, viz:

SPECIAL AIDS.

Col. S. Hillen, Jr.	S. T. Thompson,
Saml. K. George,	Capt. Joseph Willey,
Capt. W. H. Watson,	Capt. J. H. Milliken.

ASSISTANT MARSHALS.

Capt. C. Howard,	Col. Owen Bouldin,
Capt. J. O. Law,	Capt. J. W. Watkins,
J. J. Turner,	Col. A. Smith,
Lot Eaney,	R. M. Welch,
C. H. Pitts,	T. E. Hambleton,
J. H. Lee,	R. A. Dobbin,
David Cushing,	W. G. Bolgiano,
Col. J. E. Stansbury,	Col. H. McKinnell,
O. C. Tiffany,	W. H. Browning,
C. H. Armistead,	C. D. Slingluff,
D. A. Piper,	W. Booth,
W. H. Norris,	H. R. Lauderman,
Levi Fahnestock,	Henry Snyder,
Col. W. F. Giles,	John H. O'Donnell,

The Committee respectfully recommend their fellow-citizens to suspend all business on the day of the Funeral Procession, and that the Banks, Custom House, Post Office, &c. to be closed at as early an hour as practicable, and that all public places of amusement be closed during the day and evening.

They also request their fellow-citizens to shroud the fronts of their houses in mourning in such manner as the occupants may judge to be appropriate, particularly in the streets through which the Procession will pass; and that the flags upon the public buildings and shipping be at half-mast and dressed in mourning, from sunrise till sunset. Also that persons having charge of the different Churches and fire alarm bells cause the same to be tolled during the movements of the Procession, and that salutes be fired at such points as may be designated by the Chief Marshal.

The Committee positively forbid the introduction of any banner into the Procession bearing political devices or inscriptions, neither will any band of musicians be admitted into the Procession but such as are approved of by the Chief Marshal.

They invite the citizens of Baltimore owning private family carriages to tender them to the Chief Marshal to be used in the Procession.

The Committee respectfully request all public and private carriages and vehicles not used in the Procession, to be withdrawn from the streets through which the Procession will pass.

The various Societies, Associations, Fire Department, &c. are requested to assemble at their usual places of meeting, and repair to such point as may be designated in the Order of Procession, under the direction of Assistant Marshals detailed for that duty by the Chief Marshal. They will respectively appoint as many Foot Marshals as they may deem necessary.

The order of formation will be in sections eight abreast. The Marshals of Societies and Companies are requested to be particular in conforming to the above order.

Citizens not attached to any of the various associations are requested to organize in their respective Wards and appoint each a Marshal on foot, who will report to the Marshals assigned to them respectively.

The COMMITTEE OF RECEPTION are—Z. Collins Lee, esq., gen. S. C. Leakin, J. M. Buchanan, esq., Dr. John L. Yeates, Sterling Thomas, maj. J. M. Anderson, D. A. Piper, capt. J. Frazier, Dr. J. B. Owens, Wm. P. Stewart, Isaac M. Denson, Joseph Hook, W. H. Cole, jr.

The CEREMONIES OF THE DAY will take place in the following order:

1st. PRAYER, by the Rev. Dr. JOHNS.

2d. FUNERAL ORATION, by JONATHAN MEREDITH, Esq.

3d. REQUIEM, by the Musical Association.

4th PRAYER, by the Rev. Mr. SARGENT.

After which, the Military Escort will fire three vollies.

CHAS. M. KEYSER,
Chief Marshal.

A MAGNIFICENT PROJECT. The Journal of Commerce says that four steam ships are to be built forthwith, in this port, to be employed in navigating the Atlantic Ocean, and to be each of the capacity of two thousand five hundred tons. Persons who understand the plan, have no doubt that in speed and every good quality, these ships will be found quite superior to any of the vessels hitherto employed in this service. The cost will be about three millions of dollars. The projectors of the plan proposed to the late and present Administration to confer on the government the right to take these ships in case of war, at a fair valuation, if only the Administration would procure such a modification of the present post office law, as to allow the owners to collect an inward postage on letters. The law now requires all letters brought by vessels to be deposited in the post office at two cents each. This most important proposition, upon a plan which would furnish a Navy without cost in peace, and of the greatest possible efficiency in time of war, we are sorry to say, neither the past or present Administration has found time to determine.

NAVAL. The U. S. ships Potomac, Com. Ridgely, Constellation, Com. Kearney, Concord, Commander Bocrum, Marion, Commander Belt, and Decatur, Commander Ogden, were at Rio de Janeiro 1st. March.

The U. S. brig Porpoise, was spoken near Chain Island, Dec. 7th, by the ship Martha Potter, arrived at Newport, from the Pacific Ocean.

☞ The bill for the incorporation of the Lancaster County Bank was passed in the Legislature of Pennsylvania on Wednesday last.

BALTIMORE CITY COURT.

SATURDAY, APRIL 24th.

Present—Judges Brice, Nesbit and Worthington.

Edward Topen, colored boy, charged with throwing a brickbat at, and otherwise assaulting John Sternwood. Not guilty.

Francis Steen and Edward Jenney, charged with creating a riot on Sunday last, were fined $10 each and costs.

Barney Manly, charged with obstructing Jesse Sumwalt, an officer, while in discharge of his duty, fined $1 and costs.

John O. Price, for an assault on Jas. McCormick, a porter. It appeared in evidence that McCormick had used very provoking language, and therefore the traverser was only fined $1 and costs.

Lewis Peck, colored, charged with entering the house (tavern) of Wm. Jones, a colored man, in Harrison-st., assaulting and beating him, and breaking his furniture. Fined $1 and costs.

Robert Easton charged with assaulting and beating Edward Meads. They were both drunk at the time. Not guilty.

Jas. Snider, charged with beating his sister, Catharine Snider. She not appearing against him, he was declared not guilty.

Charles Lockwood, charged with assaulting and beating Mary Green, a "lady," whom to suspect would not be treason. It appears that the fair one cursed him, and when asked why she did it, replied because she could do so. Fined 25 cents and costs.

[Reported for the Clipper.]

COUNTY COURT.

SATURDAY, APRIL 24. Present, Judge Archer.

SEDUCTION CASE. Andrew Jackson, vs. John G. Rider. The plaintiff in this case was a tenant of the father of defendant, a farmer, living in Baltimore county. Some five or six years ago, defendant, who is a young man about 23 years of age, commenced his visits to plaintiff's house, and, as was believed by plaintiff's family, was addressing plaintiff's daughter as an honorable suitor. About three years ago, he succeeded in seducing her. The present action was brought by the father of the young lady to recover damages for the loss of services, expense, and destruction of the peace and happiness of the parent.—The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff for $450. [The young lady may still institute a suit for a breach of promise of marriage.] The case was ably and eloquently argued for plaintiff by Messrs Gill and G. R. Richardson, and for defendant by Messrs J. Wilson and W. H. Collins.

In the case of the State, vs. Geo. R. Campbell, being an indictment for obtaining money and property under false pretenses, to which we alluded on Saturday, the deputy attorney general this morning had the indictment entered as quashed. Campbell and Potee were this morning dismissed from their situations as constables, by the City Court.

EXTENSIVE FORGERY. In addition to what we have already published respecting the forgeries in Cincinnati and New Orleans, we find the following in the New York American of the 23d:

Some time last week the Cashier of the Bank of America received a letter from the New Orleans Bank, enclosing the half of a certificate for 23,000 Mexican dollars, which he was to deliver to a Mr. Britton, on presentation of the other half, and recommending Mr. B. to Mr. Thompson's consideration as an English gentleman of fortune, who had deposited the money with the New Orleans Bank. Mr. Britton appeared on Thursday, and received the half of the certificate, which he took to Jacob Little & Co's, who cashed it for him by a check on the Union Bank which was paid in 1000 dollar notes. At a late hour in the day another person, evidently an accomplice, came to Mr. Little to buy sovereigns, and purchased 2000 sovereigns, which he paid for in the notes of the Union Bank. The next day the steamer for England sailed. There seems to be no doubt that this is but a part of the plan by which the Banks have been swindled. Mr. Little has offered $5,000 reward for the recovery of the money. To show the coolness of the villain, when he presented himself at the Union Bank, the check being drawn to his order, payment was refused on the ground that Mr. Britton was a stranger. He immediately returned to Mr. Little and asked him to accompany him for the purpose of satisfying the Bank. Mr. Little not being able to go, the Cashier of the Bank of America went with him and the money was accordingly paid.

☞ We are indebted to the "Charlestown Free Press" for an extra slip, dated 24th inst., giving partial election returns from Jefferson, Berkley, Frederick and Clarke counties, Va., in which it is stated that the Whigs have been so far successful.

The Axles—To be of the very best description of iron, and accurately forged to pattern. Any person proposing to furnish the axles, will be required (without cost to the Company) to accompany his proposal with a sample of the article, with a description of the mode of manufacture, and character of the iron of which it was made.

The Bolsters—Must be fagoted, of the best description of bar iron, and accurately forged to pattern.

The Bolt Strap and Bar Iron——To be of the best description of refined rolled iron.

The Spring Steel——Must be of the best quality, well trimmed at the ends and free from defects of any description.

The Shear Steel—To be of the best English manufacture.

Proposals for furnishing the Bolt, Strap and Bar Iron and Spring Steel, will state whether or not the article proposed to be furnished is of English or American manufacture.

The delivery of the materials above enumerated to commence on or before the 15th of July next, and continued in equal and regular monthly instalments, so as to complete the delivery of the whole of the Poplar, Cherry and Walnut Lumber, and the whole number of the Bolsters and about one half of the balance on or before the first of November next, ensuing.

The delivery of the remainder to commence on or before the first of April, 1842, and to be regulated in like manner as above, so as to complete the delivery of the whole quantity on or before the first of October, 1842.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered, and four-fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid—reserving to the company the option of paying the said four-fifths in Baltimore City Six per cent. stock at par, or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to contract.

If the materials contracted for or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered. No payments will be made on account of materials delivered before the times specified for the delivery of the same.

The payments will be made at the Company's office in Baltimore. By order of the President and Directors.

PROCESSION

IN HONOR OF THE MEMORY OF

General WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON,

LATE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

From the preliminary arrangements it was anticipated, that the procession on Monday last, to testify the respect of the citizens of Baltimore for the memory of the late President, General Harrison, would be large and respectable, but it very far exceeded general expectation, surpassing, greatly, any procession heretofore witnessed in this city. The feeling which impelled this honorable manifestation was universal. The people of Baltimore appeared as but one family testifying their sorrow for a recent bereavement. Not only were the individuals decorated with appropriate badges of mourning, but nearly the whole city was clothed in black. Most of the public edifices, the engine houses, and the stores and dwellings throughout the whole extent of Baltimore and other streets through which the procession passed, had their fronts shrouded in mourning, some of them arranged with great taste. The likeness of General Harrison, with appropriate decorations, were seen suspended from several houses, but that which was most calculated to affect the spectator was the platform at the City Hotel, from which the deceased but a short time since addressed the citizens of Baltimore. So vivid was the remembrance of his presence on that stand, that, in viewing it, the mind instantly replaced him in the position he then occupied. The stand was dressed in black encircled with the flag which floated at Fort McHenry during the bombardment of 1814.—Washington's Monument was also clad in mourning, as also the columns and front of many of the Churches. The colors of the shipping and various public edifices were hoisted at half-mast, and the bells tolled throughout the ceremonies, whilst minute guns were fired from detachments of artillery.

The stores throughout the city were closed, and there was an entire cessation of business of every kind.

There was a slight sprinkle of rain early in the morning, and it was generally apprehended that the weather would become unfavorable; but, on the contrary, it proved most auspicious, it being cloudy and cool during the greater part of the day.

The procession was formed on Baltimore street, the right resting on Charles street. Between ten and eleven o'clock, it moved in the following order:

FIRST DIVISION—Charles M. Keyser, Chief Marshal—Aids, Col. S. Hillen, jr., Lieut. Saml. K. George, Capt. Wm. H. Watson, S. T. Thompson, Esq., Capt. J. Willey, Capt. J. H. Milliken.

MILITARY ESCORT, consisting of—Capt. Ringgold's Troop of U. S. Light Artillery. City Horse Guards, commanded by Capt. J. G. Davies. 1st Light Division of Maryland Volunteers, consisting of the 1st Brigade, under command of Brig. Gen. Benj. C. Howard. 2d Brigade, under command of Colonel J. S. Nicholas. Troops from neighboring cities, in line with the 5th Regiment, under command of Col. Hickman, and in the 53d Regiment, Lieut. Col. S. O. Hoffman. The whole under the command of Maj. Gen. G. H. STEUART.

The military turned out in great strength and made a handsome display. They marched in the following order:

Maryland Cadets, Capt. Newman.
The Invincibles, Capt. ————
Yagers, with band, Capt. Freiderick.
National Guards, Capt. Prestman.
Patapsco Patriots, Capt. Swain.

James Howard, Esq., Gen. Wm. H. Marriott, Sam. Boyd, Sr., Esq., Peter Leary, Esq., J. K. Stapleton, Esq., John I. Donaldson, Esq., Hugh Birkhead, Esq., T. Baltzell, Esq.

Capt. Owings' Troop of Horse posted upon the flanks, as a guard of honor.

FIFTH DIVISION.—Assistant Marshals—Col. W. F. Giles, C. H. Pitts.

Barouches, in which were the Hon. Mr. Ewing, Secretary of the Treasury; Hon. Mr. Granger, Postmaster General; the Hon. R. B. Taney, Chief Justice of the U. States; Hon. U. S. Heath, U. S. Judge of the District of Maryland; His Excellency, Wm. Grason, Governor of Maryland; Major Gen. Scott, Brig. Gen. Towson, Adjutant Gen. Jones, of the Army; Commodore Ballard, Captain Mayo and other officers of the Navy, and distinguished citizens, accompanied by the committee of reception.

President Tyler, and the other Heads of Departments, had been invited to attend, but were unable to do so from the pressing demands made on their time by the public service.

SIXTH DIVISION.—Assistant Marshals—Col. Alexander Smith, Wm. H. Norris, Capt. G. D. Spurrier.

U. S. Senators and Members of Congress.
Senators and Members of the Legislature of Maryland.
The Society of Cincinnati.

SEVENTH DIVISION—Assistant Marshals—R. A. Dobbin, C. D. Slingluff.

Indep'nt Order of Odd Fellows—Capt. S. Lucas, Chief Marshal.

The Lodges marched with Banners, and the paraphernalia of the order shrouded in mourning, and comprised the following:

Union Lodge, with Band of Music.
Jefferson do
Marion do
Harmony do
Gratitude do
Band of Music.
William Tell Lodge
Columbia do
Franklin do
U. S. Marine Band.
Encampment of Patriarchs, with Banner.
Grand Lodge of Maryland do.

The several Lodges were numerously attended, and the order occupied a large space in the procession. On return the front was halted at the Hall in North Gay street, the lodges faced inwards, in single file, when the Grand Lodge, &c. proceeded uncovered between the lines, the lines wheeling in succession as they were passed, so that the order of procession was reversed.

Baltimore Typographical Society.

With a new and beautiful Banner, painted by RUCKLE, a young artist of this city, a description of which we published in our paper of Friday last.

The members of the craft wore, on the left breast of the coat, a black rosette, with a very good likeness of our late venerated President, to which was suspended the insignia of the craft, a silver rule, with the name of the Society engraved on it, and the time when formed. They also wore a black scarf on the hat, and were dressed, for the most part, in full suits of black.

Mercantile Library Association.

French Citizens' Association.
Bearing tri-colored Flag.

EIGHTH DIVISION.—Assistant Marshals—W. Cowles, O. C. Tiffany.

Monumental Lyceum.

With a new and beautiful banner, painted by Mr. Voigt, artist, of this city. Its design is a muse sitting at the foot of Mount Parnasas, her arm resting on the Castilian fount—her right hand pointing to a starry pen ascendant on the left, whose rays are scattering the clouds of superstition and ignorance. At her right in the fore-ground are various objects illustrative of the arts and sciences, while the Cornucopia designates the plenty attendant on their cultivation. A monument, from which the society takes its name, is also represented in bold relief. The drawing is upon pale blue satin, five by five and a half feet.

Patrick Henry Lyceum.
With Banner.
Elkridge Landing Lyceum.
With Banner.
Band of Music.
Madison Lyceum.

The fire department was fully represented, and each company had an appropriate banner, clothed in mourning.

Wrecker Club No. 1.

Laurel Factory Delegation, with a splendid banner.

ELEVENTH DIVISION—Assistant Marshals—Capt. J. W. Watkins, J. A. Lee.

Washington, Franklin, Baltimore City, Marion and Howard Temperance Societies.

TWELFTH DIVISION.—Assistant Marshal—J. W. Randolph, B. H. Richardson.

Maryland Catholic Temperance Society, with its Junior Societies.

THIRTEENTH DIVISION.

Assistant Marshals—Geo. Rex, Francis Burns.

North Baltimore, Whatcoat, Western Franklin, Washington Junior, Western Franklin Junior, Mount Vernon, Marion Junior, and other Temperance Societies.

The most of these Societies had banners, and made a most gratifying appearance for numbers and respectability—extending to a great length; there were bands of music placed at proper intervals.

FOURTEENTH DIVISION.

Assistant Marshals—Col. John E. Stansbury, W. G. Bolgiano.

Citizens of the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, and 6th wards.

Schools, located in these several wards.

Strangers.

FIFTEENTH DIVISION.

Assistant Marshals—R. Howard, M. C. Jenkins.

Citizens of the 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th wards.

Schools located in these several wards.

Strangers.

SIXTEENTH DIVISION.

Assistant Marshals—Henry Snyder, T. E. Hambleton.

Citizens of the 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th wards.

Schools located in these several wards.

Strangers.

SEVENTEENTH DIVISION.

Assistant Marshals—Washington Booth, Maj. Joshua Dryden.

Baltimore Butcher's Association—mounted—with banners and flag.

Citizens from Baltimore county and other places, mounted.

The procession proceeded according to the programme heretofore published, and occupied one hour and a quarter in passing our office. The number of persons in it has been variously estimated at from ten to fifteen thousand; and we presume that there were not less than ten thousand. A gentleman who counted the sections as they passed states, that, of the firemen there were 168, and of all others 889, estimated at eight to each section, which would give 8456; but to this number is to be added those who rode in carriages, and others who were not in the sections.

The procession having passed through the several streets designated, arrived at Mount Vernon Place about three o'clock. Within the railing of the Washington Monument a stand had been erected for the officiating clergymen and the orator, whilst the platform of the Monument was occupied by the Musical Association.

The ceremonies were opened by a fervent and impressive prayer by the Rev. Mr. JOHNS, who was succeeded by JONATHAN MEREDITH, Esq., who occupied about half an hour in the delivery of an appropriate and eloquent funeral oration—then followed the Requiem, and the closing prayer, by the Rev. Mr. SARGENT.

The following hymn was sung by the Baltimore Musical Association in a most effective manner. There were about fifty voices belonging to the Association, these were aided by three or four hundred from the immense mass of people collected around the base of the monument. This tremendous chorus swelled on the breeze which bore the strain to a great distance. The effect was truly impressive, and the Association deserve much credit for the manner in which the musical portion of the ceremonies was conducted.

HYMN

Sung by the Baltimore Musical Association at the Harrison Funeral Solemnities, Baltimore, April 26, 1841. Written for the occasion, at the request of the B. M. A. by Rev. S. P. HILL.

Hark! a nation's wail of grief
On each passing breeze is borne!
For a nation's honored chief
From its bleeding heart is torn.

He who lately near us stood,
Ripe in honors as in years,—
He,—the wise, the great, the good,—
Claims the tribute of our tears.

Like a transient tale that's told,
Like a dream of yesterday,
Like the pageant we behold,
He from earth has pass'd away.

From his highest sphere of fame,
Midst his country's joyous breath,
Softly,—suddenly he came
To the silent shades of death.

Where the patriot fathers sleep
In their well-deserved renown—
Where the sons of freedom weep,
Chieftain! we have laid thee down.

God! that rulest over all,
God! that livest while we die,
Let us on thyself rely.

Thou! who wast our fathers' trust;
Thou! who since hast been our own;
Tho' we feel thy chast'ning rod,
Still we seek thy gracious throne.

The company of United States Flying Artillery, under command of Capt. Ringgold, having been stationed on Chase's Hill, to the north-west of the monument, when the ceremonies had ceased, fired three vollies from their four brass pieces with a precision which surprised every one. The simultaneous discharge was like the report of a single gun. At the conclusion of the ceremonies at the monument, the procession again formed and marched down Charles to Baltimore street, where it was dismissed.

The military, generally speaking, presented a fine appearance. The ranks were full, and we saw amongst them some old corps whom we had long since placed amongst "the things that were." A great number of bands were requisite for the occasion; they were judiciously distributed thro' the different divisions, and performed exceedingly well.

We cannot help noticing particularly the unique appearance of a dwelling house in Eutaw street, the window sashes were taken out and the sombre dress of mourning hung from the roof to the basement—this, however, was almost general, but what made the expression singular, was the appearance of the ladies seated at the windows, every one of them being clad in deep mourning.

The U. S. Revenue Cutter was anchored off the wharf at the foot of Caroline street, Fell's Point, with her shrouds and spars dressed in mourning and her yards manned, the men standing as immovable as statues, while she fired minute guns.

The decorations of the engine houses were generally tasteful and appropriate; many of them evinced much labor and a desire to excel in an expression of grief for our departed Chief Magistrate.

Be it said to the credit of Baltimore, that during the whole route of the procession there was not a single intoxicated individual seen. There appeared to be but one feeling, and one way of showing it.

The concourse of strangers was great, and the assemblage at Mount Vernon Place was immense.

We have not heard of a single incident of a disagreeable nature, nor was there a single occurrence to mar the general harmony. The congregated multitude seemed properly impressed with the solemnity of the occasion which had assembled them together, and united in paying the mournful tribute of respect to the departed friend and benefactor of his country.

MR. FOX. It is intimated that Mr. Fox, the British Minister, is about to marry a sister of the Russian Minister's lady; Miss Williams. The bridegroom in this match, should it occur, will be aged about 60, the bride about 16.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND,

For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Strictures, Diabets or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and two, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, April 28, 1841.

The United States Bank. It was very currently rumoured on Saturday night, says the Philadelphia Inquirer, and as we believe with some foundation, that the United States Bank had determined to place a portion of its assets in the hands of Trustees, for the benefit of the Philadelphia City Banks, which hold five millions of dollars of its Post Notes. The names of the following highly respectable gentlemen have been mentioned in connection with this Trusteeship: James Dundas, Esq.; Robert Howell, Esq.; M. D. Lewis, Esq.; Samuel James, Esq.; Robert Pittfield, Esq

We learn also, that Thomas Taylor, Esq. has been elected Cashier, in the place of A Lardner, Esq. resigned.

The above is confirmed by later intelligence. We learn that the Board of the former institution have determined to place in the hands of Trustees, securities adequate to the redemption of other Post Notes not in the hands of the Banks, the deposits and Bank balances.

Fatal affray. The Boston Times of the 24th inst. says. A man from the south, named William Emmons, who has been in this city several weeks, went to the Theatre last night, and after leaving that place, went to the boarding house of Mr. James Carleton, in Richmond street, where he was acquainted. On going into the house, being as is supposed somewhat intoxicated, he made an assault on Mr. Carleton's wife. One of the children ran out into the street and called for help, and a young man named Charles Reed, in the employ of Mr. John Wright, in Ann street, as a hack driver, came in and succeeded in getting Emmons away from Mrs. Carleton. He then followed Reed into the street, attacked him, and a scuffle ensued, during which Emmons stabbed him with a bowie knife in the abdomen, literally cutting him open, so that his intestines came through the wound. Reed succeeded in reaching his boarding house, (Mrs. Reed's, in Ann street) which was but a few steps distant. He was placed on a bed and medical aid was called, but no hopes are entertained of his recovery.

Emmons was soon afterwards arrested by the watchmen, and this morning was brought before the Police Court, where he underwent a short examination, and was then fully committed for a further examination on Wednesday next, as it is probable that Reed will not survive till that time, for murder.

Murder and arson. We learn, says the Louisville Gazette of the 22d instant, that two young men, one a clerk of Messrs. Vonphul & McGill, by the name of Wm. Weaver, the other a clerk of Messrs. Simonds & Co. by the name of Jesse Baker, were murdered on the night of Saturday last, in the store of Messrs. Simonds & Co. and the store burned. It was said that the stock of the Simonds establishment was about $50,000, only $10,000 of which was covered by insurance. The Banking establishment of Messrs. Collier & Petters, adjoining, was also burned; but whether the vault of the same had been robbed, or not, was not known, as it was too hot to be approached when the steamer left. The buildings burnt were three stores. Whole loss supposed about $100,000. The Mayor of the city offers $5,000 reward for the apprehension of the perpetrators, and a reward of $15,000 is offered by individuals. The two young men were sleeping in the store of Simonds & Co. The body of one was found with the mark of a ball in his forehead, and with three fingers cut off. The other was supposed to be burned. Some of his clothes had been found in his room. It was supposed they were defending the property.

More Seizures of Slaves. The Boston Democrat of Saturday says:—"Capt. A. Ward of Salem, who came passenger from Manilla, in the ship Grotius, bound to this port, which vessel was off Gay Head yesterday afternoon, informed Mr. Hatch, of the Express, that when the ship left St. Helena, there were seven vessels, with seven hundred slaves, at that place, prizes to Her Britannic Majesty's cruisers. The last of the seven arrived on the 2d of March, and had thrown overboard sixty dead slaves in sight of St. Helena." This is indeed dreadful. The poor African is first deprived of liberty, and then he is placed in a situation which involves a sacrifice of life.

Harmonic Society. It will be perceived that the first Concert of the Harmonic Society is to take place at the Assembly Rooms on Thursday evening. The members of this association have been industrious, and, as there is a choice selection of talent amongst them, we have every reason for believing that the first musical treat offered by them will prove acceptable to the public. Miss St. Luke, a young lady of fine vocal talent, and Mr. Boucher are to assist on the occasion. The price of tickets is only 50 cents.

Important Arrest. A man calling himself John Smith, was arrested at Cincinnati, on Wednesday night last, when in the act of setting fire to the stable of Mr. Woses, on Sycamore st. He was considered a suspicious character and the eye of the police had been recently upon him for more than two weeks before he was arrested. Smith was required to give bail in $2000, in default of which he was committed to prison.

VIRGINIA ELECTION.

Returns of the late elections in this State are incomplete. So far as accounts have been received the following persons appear to be elected members of Congress.

Whigs.	Dem.
Francis Mallory,	John W. Jones,
Henry A. Wise,	George R. Cary,
John M. Botts,	Linn Banks,
John Taliaferro,	W. O. Goode,
Cuthbert Powell,	E. W. Hubbard, gain—5
T. W. Gilmer,
R. W. Barton, (gain.)
A. H. H. Stuart, (gain.)
G. W. Summers, (gain,)—9.
R. M. T. Hunter, (independent) is re-elected.

This is a nett Whig gain of two members.

State Senate. Parties were equally divided in the last Senate. Eight Senators were to be elected to supply the place of those whose terms had expired. Of these three were Whigs and five Democrats. The three Whigs have been re-elected, so that it is probable that the Senate will stand as before.

House of Delegates. Here the tables appear to have been turned against the Whigs.—The last house was composed of 71 Whigs and 63 Democrats. In the recent election, as far as heard from, the Whigs have lost six members, which will give their opponents a majority in the house and on joint ballot.

A small note case. An action was brought yesterday, by summons, before Squire Schaeffer, against the Western Mechanics' Savings institution of Baltimore, (a chartered institution,) by Josiah Kroesen, for two dollars, purporting to be part of a deposite made by ——— and bearing on its face the stamp of being redeemable in Rail Road stock orders. The counsel for the defendants, Mr. Baker, contended that the $2 Rail Road order which was tendered some time since, when the demand for payment was first made and again to-day, in payment, was in accordance with the contract as expressed on the face of the certificate.

The counsel for the plaintiff, Mr. A. B. Wolf, contended that it was not according to the contract, on the ground that the certificate purported to be for two dollars, and went forth to the community as such. The certificate, he contended, was for two dollars in Rail Road orders, and could only be paid in orders equivalent to $2. That the tender that had been made in the first instance was only one dollar and ninety-six cents; and in the second one dollar and ninety-seven cents; as in the first instance they were at a discount of two, and in the second one and a half per cent., which fact was proven by brokers.

Squire Schaeffer held the case under advisement.

Police. Wm. D. Hatfield was yesterday committed to jail by squire Gorsuch, in default of security, to answer to the charge of striking Jas. H. Pearce, the son of Mr. Pearce, residing in Orleans-st. The facts, as we could learn them, were that Hatfield got into some dispute or quarrel with Mr. Pearce, which drew several persons to the spot. Hatfield, after a little, withdrew a short distance, picked up a brickbat, and threw it at the window of Mr. Pearce's house, through which it passed, breaking the sash and inflicting a very severe, if not dangerous wound on the forehead of Jas. H. Pearce, a child, who was looking through the window at the time.

Ann James and Mahala Baily were charged with fighting, rioting and disturbing the peace in the neighborhood of Guilford alley. Committed to jail by squire Barnard for want of security to keep the peace.

Mark McNevin, a vagrant, was sent to the alms house by A. H. Pennington, Esq.

Grand Hoax. The Louisville Gazette, in answer to the Maysville Eagle, a paper which like many others, copied the astounding account relative to the galvanic experiments, and resuscitation of John White the murderer, says.

You are fairly sucked in, Mr. Collins. That account of the resuscitation of White, was the veriest humbug that has been done up lately.—We did not warn the reader at the time, against the deception, because we thought he would at once perceive the fabulousness of such a monstrous story, got up for the express purpose of taking off the morbid appetite so prevalent, for the marvellous and horrible. But you have company, Mr. Collins.

Arrest of the Great Forgers. Two men have been arrested in Philadelphia, supposed to be the persons engaged in the late extensive bank forgeries. The name of one of them is Draper. He answers the description given relative to the person suspected of robbing the Cincinnati and New Orleans banks. He has been imprisoned for further investigation.

While the officers were in search of the above individual, it seems they started up another, who upon being caught, paid over $15,000, and was permitted to go his way.

Shipwreck. The Norfolk Herald of the 22d inst. states that the brig Tidal, Cousins, of Bangor, from St. Johns, P. R., with a cargo of Sugar and Molasses, bound to Baltimore, went ashore nearly abreast of Cape Henry, on Monday night last, having a pilot on board at the time. The brig was perfectly tight last evening, and hands were employed in discharging cargo.

The trial of Waupatuck, for the murder of Potter, in the U. S. Circuit Court, says the St. Louis Bulletin of the 15th inst., was closed day before yesterday—the jury finding the Indian guilty of manslaughter. His term of imprisonment is eighteen months.

Shipwreck. The ship Susan Drew, of Boston, Capt. Babbage, from Liverpool, the 8th ult., for Boston, went ashore on Milk Island, near Cape Ann, a few days ago. She cost $70,000.

WATCH RETURNS.

Eastern District, April 24th. William Austin was brought in at half past two o'clock, charged with assaulting and beating Margaret Winegan. Released on giving security for his appearance at Court, and for his future good behaviour. A seaman brought in at 11 o'clock for rioting and disturbing the peace. April 25th. John Wright brought in, charged with fighting. John Cowglasher, drunk and rioting in the street. Francis Glenn, a black, found drunk in the street. Reprimanded. April 26th. Harriet Evans brought in before police hours, found in the street drunk. A Spanish seaman brought in for lodgings. Geo. Warfield, Sarah Warfield, Matilda Blades, Ruth Watson and Jane Ellis were brought in at half past 11 o'clock, charged with fighting and disturbing the peace. A Dutchman was found in the streets so drunk he could not give his name. Thomas Pritchard found asleep, and if not drunk, so near it as plainly to show what society he was a member of.

Middle District. Eliza L. Wallace brought in at a quarter before 11 o'clock, at the request of her husband, James Wallace, who charged her with an attempt on his life, with a fresh fork. Considering his life in danger, he claimed the security of the peace. Committed. Mary Stevenson, black, brought in at 11 o'clock, for strolling. Reprimanded and released in the morning. Elizabeth Bladen, a black, brought in at a quarter past 11 o'clock, drunk. Reprimanded and released in the morning. Michael Newman brought in at 12 o'clock for lodging. 25th—Peter Bodel came in for lodgings. P. Butler, and pray sir, how came you drunk? Do you intend to bid defiance to the temperance cause, or is it your weakness that was overcome. Or perhaps, Mr. Butler, you were in one "melting mood." Fie on you, man. Go and join the tee-totalers, you may then keep out of the watch reports. 26th—Four men and two women came in during the night for lodgings. Benjamin Richardson was brought in at 12 o'clock for strolling the streets. Reprimanded.

Western District, April 24th. Chas. White was brought in at half past 9, drunk. John Bacon brought in at a quarter before 11 o'clock charged with dangerously assaulting and beating watchman James Christopher, while in discharge of his duty; in consequence of which his ward had to remain vacant for the remainder of the night. Daniel Iseley was brought in at 12 o'clock drunk. One white woman came in for lodging. 25th—John Brady, and James Stark, both drunk.

Later from Texas. The steam ship Savannah, capt. Wade, arrived at New Orleans, bringing Galveston dates as late as the 13th inst.

We learn from all parts of the country, says the Houston Telegraph, that most extensive crops of cotton will be put in this season. On the Brazos and Colorado more than twice the amount planted last year has already been put in; and every settler, new or old, has given his attention to cotton raising. We hail this improvement as the harbinger of better times.

The steam ship Zavala, capt. Lothrop, had arrived at Galveston from Laguna. The Galveston Courier says:—"Our relations with the people of that portion of Mexico are of the most amicable character, and every courtesy and kindness was extended to the officers and crew of the Zavala."

Judge Webb was about leaving Galveston for Mexico, in the schr. of war St. Bernard, in search of peace. The editor of the Courier, in commenting upon this move, says:—"How much better it would be if the government had appointed com. ——— the whole fleet. We could then have treated and coerced alternately, according to circumstances."

The Houston Morning Star of the 10th inst. says there has been another fight with the Indians about fifty miles above Austin, in which eight Indians were killed and 30 horses captured. The expedition was under the command of capt. Dolson who was badly wounded.

The editor of the Galvestonian gives the steamer Friend a friendly but rather equivocal puff.—He says she is the oldest boat in Texas.

Mail Robbery. The Albany Argus of Saturday evening says:—"Yesterday the way mail from N. York, which left that city on board the North America, was cut open and robbed of its contents. The first intimation of the robbery, was brought by express from Stuyvesant, where several of the letters were found in the river. What letters have been taken, or whether money or drafts, is not yet known."

Fire. The alarm of fire on Monday night about 10 o'clock originated in the store of Mr. Kennard, Baltimore-st., near McClellan's alley. The flames were soon extinguished, though a considerable amount of goods were damaged by the water.

The Legislature of Maine, on hearing of the death of President Harrison, met in convention and adopted a resolution to repair in a body, immediately after adjournment, to one of the meeting houses of the town, and attend prayers, that the dispensation of Divine Providence might have its proper influence upon the people of the State and of the nation.

Another change. It is stated in the Philadelphia Chronicle that Mr. Lardner, the cashier of the United States Bank, resigned the situation on Saturday afternoon last, and that Mr. Thomas Taylor, one of the principal clerks, was appointed to the office thus vacated.

Sudden Death. Robert Riddle, Esq., late cashier of the Planter's Bank at Vicksburg, died very suddenly a few days since. He was in good health, had just left the supper table and was in conversation with a gentleman in his parlor, when in a moment he sank lifeless, without a groan or a struggle.

Supposed Murder. The body of a man was found on Tuesday last, in the pond of a factory, at Mamaroneck, Westchester county, N. Y., having his throat cut from ear to ear.

Honor to an Editor. The friends of the late editor of the Boston Atlas have resolved to erect a monument to his memory, in Mount Auburn.

Madame Restell. The Grand Jury of New York have found an indictment against Madame Restell for manslaughter.

Death. Captain Fanning, the oldest Ship master in the United States, died in New York on Friday last.

HEISLER'S HEAD QUARTERS.

☞PRIZES! PRIZES!! Our friends on Saturday feasted largely among the prizes. A gentleman from the Point pocketed comb. Nos. 2 22 24, entitled to $1,000; a gentleman in Pratt street, 24 31 42, another $1,000; and a lady, Nos. 25 43 51, a prize of $500; we also sent per letter to a gentleman in Fort Lafayette, Md. a prize of $500 in a whole ticket. This is the way all are accommodated with handsome prizes who purchase their tickets from Heisler. It is a fact—and we refer any one to the Managers who doubt it—that we have sold more splendid prizes since we commenced business than any venders in the Union in the same space of time. We intend to continue to supply all who purchase from us with fortunes, or at least good prizes. Therefore, lose no time in addressing your communications and securing a ticket from Heisler & Co. PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, by an Act of Assembly of this State, passed at December session 1832, it is provided, "that if a special or extra session of Congress should be called to commence at such period as to make it necessary in the opinion of the Governor and council, that the representatives in Congress from this State should be chosen before the time fixed by law for such election, then it shall be the duty of the governor, by proclamation," to appoint a day for the election of said representatives in Congress: AND WHEREAS the President of the United States has, by his proclamation of the 17th instant, an official copy of which has been received, convened the two Houses of Congress to meet on the 31st day of May next, I do therefore appoint Monday, the 17th day of May next, as the day for the election of Representatives from this State to serve in the Congress of the United States.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, this twenty-sixth day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty-one.

By the Governor, WM. GRASON.

MEDICAL AID. The success that has attended the treatment of many thousand cases of Venereal Complaints for twenty years past, induces the subscriber to inform the public, that he may be daily seen and consulted on all cases of the kind, recent and chronic, and on diseases of the urinary organs generally. His treatment is speedy and certain, adapted to the various constitutions of his patients; the medicines are so mild that the most delicate may take them, without any restrictions in diet or occupation. Many cases that have resisted every other mode of treatment have speedily yielded to this, and many persons who have tried all the quack nostrums of the day are frequently calling on the subscriber to have the injuries they have sustained by their use relieved. An early application is advisable in all cases, which may be made at Dr. WARNER'S OFFICE, Caroline street, one door north of Wilk street. Medicines furnished in quantities to suit applicants. ap7-eo1m*

HYDRANT WATER.

THE following rule of the Baltimore Water Company will be strictly enforced:

No person who is or shall be supplied with HYDRANT WATER is on any account to permit Water to be drawn and carried from their pipes or hydrants for any purpose except for the use of their own families, nor wilfully to draw and waste the Water, under the penalty of having the supply stopped, which cannot again be returned without a new application to the Company, and the payment of a fine of ten dollars at the time of applying. W. WINCHESTER, fe20 2aw6m* Superintend't B. W. Co.

THIS IS TO GIVE NOTICE, That the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Baltimore county, letters of administration on the estate of FRANKLIN W. POLLITT, late of said county, deceased. All persons, having claims against said deceased, are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof, to the subscriber, on or before the 19th day of October 1841, they may otherwise be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons, indebted to the said estate, are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand, this 19th day of April, 1841.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

TERRIBLE STEAMBOAT ACCIDENT. An Extra from the N. York Herald states that on Saturday night last, as the steamer South America was about 10 miles above Poughkeepsie, on her trip to Albany, under full steam, the shaft broke, the connecting machinery gave way, the piston was forced through the cylinder at the top and bottom, scattered the fragments of machinery in every direction. The steam rushing into the cabins, the passengers jumped out of their births naked, and some were horribly scalded. The steamboat Diamond came up soon after, and took the whole 97 passengers on board. They ched Albany about ten A. M. yesterday, and the wounded were taken ashore.

The shacklebar, falling, perhaps fifty feet from its place, passed through the deck of the state-rooms, through the second deck, and striking a colored man belonging on the boat, severely wounded him in the head.

The South American is a new and splendid boat, having made but three or four passages. Her machinery is said to be literally a wreck, and the damages from $20,000 to $30,000.

The following are the names of the persons injured.

Mr. Conant, Ballston, Spa; Mr. Glen, Schenectady; Mr. Jones, Rensselaer; Mr. Garwin, Troy; L. Taylor, do.; Solomon Smith, Fort Plain; George Warwick, Amsterdam; James Steer, Hartwick. Another, a resident of Hyde Park, and left on board. A colored man, a hand on board.

All but one are expected to live.

SPLENDID ERUPTION OF A VOLCANO. We are indebted, says the New Ark Daily Advertiser, to an officer of the Exploring Expedition for files of the Polynesian, a useful little paper published at the Sandwich Islands; and transfer the following extract from a full account of the last remarkable volcanic eruption, which was briefly referred to by our correspondent in a late letter, as having been witnessed by the officers of the squadron:

Several days before the eruption, smoke was seen by the natives rising from the direction where the lava afterwards burst out, but it was attributed to brush on fire. At two o'clock on Sunday, the last day of May, a bright light was seen from Hilo towards the south, which spread with great rapidity, and increased to such an intensity that it was immediately attributed to a volcanic eruption. This the reports of the natives soon confirmed. It was judged to be thirty miles distant, and at night such was the brilliancy of the light, that the finest print could be easily read at that distance. This noon-tide brightness, converting night into day, continued for two weeks, and is represented by eye witnesses to have been a spectacle of unsurpassed sublimity. It was like the glare of a firmament on fire, and was seen for upwards of a hundred miles at sea. It also rose and spread itself above the lofty mountain peaks, so as to be distinctly visible on the leeward side of the island, where the wind drove the smoke in dense and massy clouds.

The lava continued flowing towards the sea which it reached on Thursday, four days from its first egress. At times it would rush forward with a velocity of four or five miles per hour but for a short distance only, then become very sluggish, and move heavily and slowly on. Its general movement was in immense semi-circular masses, owing to its great consistency. These would roll on, gradually accumulating, until the mass had become too heavy to hold itself together, while the exterior was partially cooled and solidified; then bursting, the liquid interior flowing out would join a new stream, and thus aid in forming another. By these accelerated progressive movements, the wave-like ridges were formed, which are every where observable on the older currents. At times, it forced its way under the circumjacent soil, presenting the singular appearance of earth, rocks and trees in motion like the swell of the ocean. Mr. C. was standing near the stream and watching its progress, when the land beneath him began to rise, and in a few minutes he was ten feet above his companions, who were but a short distance from him.—He had barely time to leave this dangerous situation when the earth opened, and lava gushed out. The color of the whole stream was of the deepest crimson. On the windward side its heat was not so powerful, but that persons could approach and plunge sticks into the fiery mass and draw forth specimens. So great was its viscidity, that large rocks were seen floating down the current, like cork upon water. In one night the stream spread from a few rods to half a mile in width.

The spectacle when this burning mass reached the sea, must have been awful and sublime in the highest degree. The conflict between the two antagonist powers, fire and water, was on a scale which the eye of man but seldom witnesses. The heavens were lit up in one intense blaze, while streams of fire like lightning glanced about in every direction. Ashes and sand were thrown to a great height into the air, and descended for miles distant in showers of fiery spray. Volumes of smoke and stream rolled heavily up, rendering the lurid glare still more powerful, while the heavy detonations and loud reports of exploding gases, and the roar of the conflicting elements were distinctly heard twenty-five miles off, like discharges of artillery.

With such rapidity and to such a degree was the water heated that the following day (June 5th,) the fish floated when dead, as far as Kwaau, fifteen miles distant, where the water was hot to the touch.

SALE OF VALUABLE PROPERTY.

UNDER an order of the Orphans' Court of Baltimore County, the subscribers, as administrators, will offer for sale at public auction on SATURDAY, 24th of April at 4 o'clock, P. M. on the premises part hereinafter described, the following property:

1. The Lot of Ground beginning at the North East corner of Howard and Saratoga streets, running thence Northerly on Howard street 40 feet 6 inches, thence Easterly 165 feet parallel to Saratoga street to an alley 12 feet wide; thence 40 feet 6 inches on said alley, to Saratoga street, and parallel to Howard street; thence westerly on Saratoga street to the beginning—subject to a yearly ground rent of $14 and 40 cents. This lot is improved with a large brick BUILDING used for stores and a dwelling. It may easily be divided into two dwellings—and now rents yearly for $472.

2. A ground rent of $147 per annum; charged on a piece of ground at the South West corner of Eutaw and Saratoga streets, subject to a prior rent of $30, making the nett ground rent $117. The piece of ground binds on Eutaw street 60 feet, and extends with that breadth westerly 140 feet—and is well improved. The rent of $147 is paid in the portions of $50, $47, $25, and $25, by the several owners of the improvements.

The terms of sale are, that one-fourth of the purchase money be paid on the day of sale, and the residue in three equal instalments in 6, 9, and 12 months with interest from said day—and all the payments to be secured by bonds or notes, with security, to be approved by the administrators.

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING
THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 39 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparalleled, and successful manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral Incorruptible Teeth, and can confidently assert that they are superior to any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth FOREVER retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. Be it also remembered, that Dr. W. proportions his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when PURE GOLD is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dentistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.

1. Artificial Teeth out of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.

2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.

3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carrat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as CHEAP WORK is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even SILVER is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent use in the mouth.

4. Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

5. Those individuals who cannot afford to pay the fee of 50 cents for extraction, can have this important operation performed any morning WITHOUT CHARGE, by calling between the hours of 8 and 9 A. M.

Individuals requiring the assistance of a Dentist, may avail themselves of Dr. W's services at any hour of the day throughout the year, to suit their own convenience.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it ; really to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR.—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

The Axles—To be of the very best description of iron, and accurately forged to pattern. Any person proposing to furnish the axles, will be required (without cost to the Company) to accompany his proposal with a sample of the article, with a description of the mode of manufacture, and character of the iron of which it was made.

The Bolsters—Must be fagoted, of the best description of bar iron, and accurately forged to pattern.

The Bolt. Strap and Bar Iron——To be of the best description of refined rolled iron.

The Spring Steel——Must be of the best quality, well trimmed at the ends and free from defects of any description.

The Shear Steel—To be of the best English manufacture.

Proposers for furnishing the Bolt, Strap and Bar Iron and Spring Steel, will state whether or not the article proposed to be furnished is of English or American manufacture.

The delivery of the materials above enumerated to commence on or before the 15th of July next, and continued in equal and regular monthly instalments, so as to complete the delivery of the whole of the Poplar, Cherry and Walnut Lumber, and the whole number of the Bolsters and about one half of the balance on or before the first of November next, ensuing.

The delivery of the remainder to commence on or before the first of April, 1842, and to be regulated in like manner as above, so as to complete the delivery of the whole quantity on or before the first of October, 1842.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered, and four-fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid—reserving to the company the option of paying the said four-fifths in Baltimore City Six per cent. stock at par, or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to contract.

If the materials contracted for or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered. No payments will be made on account of materials delivered before the times specified for the delivery of the same.

The payments will be made at the Company's office in Baltimore. By order of the President and Directors.

MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,

PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY BY BULL & TUTTLE, No. 7 NORTH GAY STREET, BALTIMORE, Md.

VOLUME IV.] THURSDAY MORNING, APRIL 29, 1841. [NUMBER 43.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

ADDRESS TO THE DEITY.

Father of all and everlasting God!
First cause omnipotent, immutable,
Thou who didst speak, and at thy first command
Creation from chaotic night stood forth:
Help me, Oh, God! to strike the string to thee,
And bend the knee in homage to thy throne,
While nature, tho' inanimate, proclaims
And speaks with bursting eloquence a God!
Shall man, thy noblest work, regard thee not?
Great God, forbid, touch ev'ry tongue with praise
Till pole to pole re-echo with thy name.
Is man so blinded as to see thee not?
Creation is an index to thy throne:
In all things I behold thine awful name,
And hear thy voice in ev'ry moving sound.
I view my hand, I see thy name thereon,
I see it stamped on all that strikes my sight;
I hear thy voice in the soft murmuring stream,
I hear it in the cataract's deep roar,
I hear it in the songster's melting strains,
And hear it in the thunder's deaf'ning sound.
Oh, God! when thus I contemplate on thee
And view thy might, thy majesty set forth,
Oh, what is man? I tremble at the thought,
And into nothing, less than nothing sink.
Thou who dost sit Great Governor of all,
Darkness thy footstool and thy throne the skies,
Thunders like slumbering harmless at thy feet,
And lightnings rest upon thine awful brow:
Thou who dost scan Creation with a glance,
And at whose nod earth to her centre shakes;
Thy voice shakes the dismal depths of hell,
And devils tremble at thine awful frown;
Thy presence spreads immensity throughout,
Still thou canst dwell within the human heart.
Thine arm outstretched supports the universe;
Those pond'rous orbs are balanced on thy hand;
Yon blazing sun is midnight in thy sight;
Thy hand withdrawn, Great God! the awful tho't,
Worlds rush on worlds, and suns in contact come,
Drive headlong down, and into atoms crush.
Thou rid'st in grandeur on the raging storms,
While flaming lightnings gild thy cloudy car,
And rolling thunders bellow at thy feet,
Archangels stand astonished at thy might,
And in deep rev'rence cast their sunlike crowns
Down at thy feet, wake up their harps to thee,
And at thy glory hide behind their wings.
Art thou a monarch whose exalted throne
Shall fall beneath the iron arm of Time?
No—thou are Lord, Creation's mighty God,
Great King of Kings, and Lord o'er all, thou art.
Time never lifts his arm against thy throne,
But trembles, powerless, beneath thy feet;
Yon blazing sun shall cease to spread his light,
And yonder mighty orbs shall cease to roll,
But thou shalt be the same, thy throne shall stand
When all Creation slumbers in the tomb.

ATKINSON.

From a late London paper.

FAUNTLEROY,

WHO WAS HANGED FOR FORGERY ALIVE.

It may seem strange, but no less true, that there are strong opinions abroad that Fauntleroy, the banker who was several years ago convicted of and hanged for forgery, is now living with his son in America. So strong are the opinions on that point, that about nine months past his executors, in an answer to a bill of equity, filed against them respecting his property, put in an affidavit praying time to inquire after him, as, from report and hereSay, they believed he was alive. It appears that the proprietor of a large hotel in Marylebone, whose name was Pearce, died childless, bequeathing his property to his nephews, and appointing Fauntleroy executor. The nephews, who were wild young men, were, at the period of their uncle's death, either in the army or navy. The friends of the nephews, mistrusting Fauntleroy, insisted upon him vesting the money left by the uncle in the funds. This Fauntleroy did; but afterwards sold it out with the exception of £140. After Fauntleroy's supposed execution one of the nephews returned, and having been informed that a legacy had been bequeathed him instituted proceedings against Fauntleroy's executors to account for that property. A bill was consequently filed against them in the Vice Chancellor's Court, and the executors, in reply, stated their belief that Fauntleroy was not hanged to death, but that he was alive with his son in America. Having put in an affidavit to that effect, the Court granted nine months to make the necessary inquiries. The nine months will terminate next term.

It is said most confidently that Fauntleroy had a protection around his neck against the rope; that he was suspended but for a very short period, and that as soon as he was cut down he was immediately conveyed to a house in West Smithfield, where the necessary restoratives were immediately and successfully applied. All this, it is supposed, was done with the privity of the Government and the officers of justice. Be the report well founded or not, the affidavit was made, and the time alluded to was granted for instituting the necessary inquiries respecting the existence or non-existence of a wretched man, around whose neck, it is said, the rope virtually was for 14 years previous to his conviction, as he was a forger for that period.—[This is a strange story. Fauntleroy may be be alive, but we saw him executed, and saw him hanging for sometime. If the answer to the bill be not put in till Fauntleroy be found alive, we fear the delay will be longer than even a Chancery suit.]—Morning paper.

A Scotch weaver by the name of C. M'Gregor, was wounded immediately above the left clavicle, with a ball, on the 5th of May, 1811, at the action of Fuentes d'Honor. One half of the ball was extracted at the time, but the other half remained in his body for the space of 29 years and 10 months, and during that time travelled round from his breast to his back. The ball, when extracted, was taken from his back, below the scapula.

The large span of the viaduct of the Edinburg and Glasgow Railway, that crosses the Union Canal near Tanfourhill had the Keystone put into it on the 4th inst. This is said to be the largest stone arch in Great Britain of so low an elevation. The length of the span is 130 feet, the height from the springers is twenty-four feet six inches, and the height from the ground underneath thirty-five feet.

LATEST FROM FLORIDA. The Savannah Republican of Thursday, the 22d inst. says: We yesterday received several letters from our attentive correspondents in Florida, forwarded by the steamer Gen. Clinch, Capt. Brooks. We are pained to learn that the Indians are again at their work of death.

We hope the report of the Indians having left Tarapa will not prove true.

The officer alluded to by one of our correspondents, whose death was momentarily expected, has since died. We regret to learn that it is Lieut. C. E. Woodruff, 2d Infantry.

The despatches which passed through town yesterday to the Adjutant and Commissary General, were perforated by a bullet shot from the rifle of the Indian who murdered the express rider mentioned in one of the subjoined letters:

FLORIDA, April 17, 1841.

GENTLEMEN: The express rider from Tampa Bay to Pilatka, has not been heard of since he left Annutiliga on the 12th inst. He is doubtless killed by the Indians, as his horse has been found with his saddle bags, two bullet holes through them. So the war is ending!

PILATKI, April 19.

GENTLEMEN: I am sorry to inform you that the war has broken out anew. I have just learned that all the Indians, say about twenty, have left Tampa—among them Wild Cat and in fact all of any note. They have killed a couple of express riders. The bag containing the mail has been found perforated with two bullets, one of which was found in a package of letters. I fear we shall hear bad news shortly from these Indians.

SENTENCE OF DEATH ON A PROTESTANT CLERGYMAN. Richard Sandes was indicted at the Carlow Assizes, on Wednesday last, for that he, being a degraded clergyman of the Church of England, did perform a marriage between John Lalor and Sarah Howard, both Protestants. Mr. Clarke, Crown Solicitor, said this prosecution was grounded on a very old Act, the 12th Geo. I, cap. 3, by which it was made penal for Popish priests and degraded clergymen of the Church of England to celebrate a marriage; it was a felony, and such a Popish priest or degraded clergyman should suffer death without the benefit of clergy. It has been repealed as to Catholics; it refers only to degraded Protestant clergy.—The fact of Mr. Sandes having been in orders was proved by one witness, and his degradation by another, the Judge sent the case to the Jury, when the prisoner produced a priest's license, bearing the seal of the Prelate, and signed by the Lord Bishop of Killala. His Lordship having summed up, the Jury returned a verdict of guilty, after which the Court rose. On Thursday his Lordship came into Court at half past ten o'clock, and proceeded to record sentence of death on Richard Sandes. The prisoner begged of his Lordship to allow him to say a few words. The sentence of degradation had been passed upon him without his knowledge. The Court of Carlow were adverse to him; it had its eye on him as keen and as searching as the glance of Kehama on Kehuried.—English paper.

THE DAYS OF CHIVALRY. A letter from Athens mentions that there have been lately taken out of the sea, near the port of Chalcis, several complete suits of armor, which are believed to be of the times of the Crusades. The writer remarks on the enormous weight of the casques, some of which amount to 30 pounds.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT.

DEPARTMENT STATE, April 26, 1841.

Information has been received from our Charge d' Affaires at Stockholm, that a light-house has been erected, consisting of a high tower of stone, bearing a fixed light of the third order, visible at the distance of three sea leagues, on the Island of Winga, at the entrance of the harbor of Gottenburg; and that two other lights will also be placed, one at Buskaret and the other at Botta, as guides for vessels in passing through the channel of entrance to the harbor.

All these arrangements will be completed in the course of the ensuing summer.

AFFRAY IN GRAND GULF. The Advertiser mentions an affray in front of the Messrs. Smiths' Exchange Hotel. A private misunderstanding having arose between Sugars Turner, Esq. of Assumption Parish, La., and H. W. Barnes, Esq. of that county, Mr. Turner was in the act of drawing a pistol when he was shot down almost instantly by his antagonist, five buckshot having entered his forehead immediately above the eyes, glancing over the skull bone and coming out in five different places on his head.

A SAILOR'S NOTION OF A SERMON. A Nantucket sailor was asked to give an opinion of a sermon to which he had just listened. He said it was a handsome sermon, but he would have liked it much better if it had stuck the harpoon into the conscience of the sinner.

A FACTORY DESTROYED. On Friday night last the store of Charles Sacriste, Esq. on the Brandywine near Brake's Cotton Works, was destroyed by fire, together with nearly all its contents. The property was partially insured, though the loss must be heavy.

☞ Seven petitions for divorces were presented at the Vice Chancellor's Court of New York on Tuesday last—five of which were made by the softer sex.

☞ Curry, the forger and fugitive from justice, who was demanded by the Governor of New York from the Governor of Virginia, has been safely returned to prison at Ithaca, New York.

☞ The Lancaster Intelligencer contradicts the reports of Gen. Jackson's insolvency, "by authority."

LITERARY CURIOSITY. The author of a work recently published in Paris, entitled Le Livre des Singularites, gives the following ingenious study on the names of Napoleon and Robespierre.

With regard to the former, he has discovered that by reducing Napoleon, letter by letter, from the left, the following Greek words are produced, viz:—

Napoleon, apoleon, poleon, oleon, leon, eon, on.

And these words, being arranged into a sentence, stand thus:

Napoleon, on oleon leon eon apoleon poleon
Napoleon, exant le lion des peuples, allait destruisant desoites,
Napoleon, being the lion of the people, went destroying cities.

On this, the writer remarks:

"Do not such results induce the belief that there is a reality in the mysterious influence formerly attributed to numbers and letters?

"But the following is still more remarkable. Shortly after the revolution of July, a memorable vote of 221 members against 181 established the new government. This number recalled to mind a great victory of the patriotic party under the Restoration, and it was therefore generally received as a propitious event. The legitimists, however, felt a little pardonable soreness on the occasion, for, to them, the 221 suggested the idea of la queue de Robespierre, and the 181, that of les honneles gens.

"Now, in one of the provinces, an ingenious Carlist undertook a cabalistic study of the hated numbers; and after great labor discovered that, by giving to each letter in the two phrases a numerical value corresponding to the rank it holds in the alphabet, and then taking the sum of such numerical value for each phrase respectively, the number 221 is produced as applicable to the name attributed by his party to the Liberals; viz: la queue de Robespierre: and the number 181 is made out of the term that the enemies of the constitutional government appropriated to themselves; viz: les honnetes gens."

It is thus demonstrated:

It may, perhaps, be necessary to explain that what is meant by giving a "numerical value to the letters of the alphabet," is simply to number the lettters in their alphabetical order—as A 1, B 2, C 3, D 4, E 5, and so on—after which, each letter, whether transposed from its alphabetical order, or not, retains the number so affixed to it.

This Livre des Singularites is a very interesting and remarkable book, and might, we believe, if well translated, prove a good speculation for some of our publishers.

ARRIVAL OUT OF THE SULTANEE. By the Brenda, at Salem, from Bombay and Zanzibar, advices have been received of the arrival out of the Muscat ship Sultanee, on the 7th of December last, after a passage of 120 days from New York, and 29 from the Cape of Good Hope. Captain Drinker, who went out as navigator, returned in the Brenda. Capt. D. had strong inducements held out to him by the Sultan to remain in his service, such as the command of the best frigate in his navy, with the prospect of a voyage to New York within a year, &c., but he declined. The Sultan also endeavored to retain by tempting offers the four American seaman who went out with Capt. Drinker; but one, however, accepted his proposals. His navy is composed of many fine ships, all built at Bombay, of teak wood; but they are entirely neglected and suffered to go to pieces. The inhabitants are described as a very filthy, half-naked, slavish race, and the town a collection of hovels scarcely fit for dog kennels.

FROM HAVANA. The steamship Natchez, Capt. Swiler, says the New Orleans Picayune of the 20th inst., arrived yesterday from Havana with dates to the 15th inst. She brought over 70 passengers.

By the Courier of last evening we learn that a few hours previous to the departure of the Natchez, intelligence reached Havana that 62 negroes from Jamaica, believed to be abolitionist emisaries, had effected a landing on the South side of Cuba. Thirty of those black subjects of Queen Victoria had been arrested, and ordered to be shot. The Spanish authorities were in pursuit of the others. Otherwise every thing was tranquil on the Island.

The New York Commercial Advertiser mentions the death of Capt. Fanning. On Wednesday he followed to the grave the wife of his youth, with whom he had lived fifty-one years, and on the Sunday following he was laid in the tomb by her side. He died of a broken heart. Lovely and pleasant were they in their lives, and in their deaths they were not divided.

TO MAKE NAMES GROW IN FRUIT. When peaches and nectarines are about half ripe, cover the side exposed to the sun with strips or specks of wax, in any desired shape or form, which hinders the sun from coloring the parts covered; and when the fruit is ripe, and the wax removed, it will be found marked in the manner desired.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

STAFFORD COUNTY, VA. SEPT. 7th, 1840.

Dear Sir:—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me, whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I think I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhubarb and soda three or four times every day for these many years, with little or no relief, and my legs and ankles were so much swelled that I was unable, at times, to attend to my business. But since you made me a present of a box of your Family Pills I have taken 1 or 2 of them at night in going to bed, and now my acid stomach is relieved, the swelling in my legs has nearly disappeared, and I do not think that I have been hindered one day with the pain in my head since I began to take your valuable medicine. I think the Lord directed you to Fredericksburg, to administer to my relief. (Blessed be his holy name, I am greatly relieved.) There is living in my neighborhood a poor old woman who had been sick for a long time and could not get relief; at length I purchased a box of your pills and gave them to her, after awhile I saw her out and about her business, and she said that the one box had cured her. I have spread the fame of your valuable medicine amongst my acquaintances, and many have purchased. Now, as it respects myself, my friends tell me when I go to town, that they have not seen me look so well for many years, and I say to them, 'I will tell you the secret why; a short time ago I met with a Dr. Davies in town, and he gave me a box of pills, and they have made me look as you now see me.' And now, my friend, I hope that the Lord will continue to be with you, and make you useful to your fellow-creatures, as he has hitherto done. I remain with respect, CHARLES BRUCE.

Our prices are well known, and are as follows: Splendid Fashionable Russia Hats for $2.50, of the same quality as those selling elsewhere for $3. Also, fine fashionable Silk Hats at $2.50, warranted on Russia bodies, and generally selling elsewhere for $4 or no sale. And our old customers will please bear in mind that the well known KEEVIL removed from the Maryland Arcade some six months ago. So come one and all to 66½ Baltimore street, between Gay and Holliday-sts. for good and cheap Hats. Don't forget now!

W. H. KEEVIL & CO'S,
No. 66½ Baltimore-st., opposite Tripolett's alley,
And 4 doors W. of Bool's well known Auction Store.

THE MARYLAND ARCADE
Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are unexampled low for the quality of the Hat: Splendid Russia Hats at $2.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3.00; Clipt Nutre Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be ironed over and put in shape free of charge.
fe4-3m* POLYDORE E. RILEY.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.
N. B. The trade supplied with HATS in the rough of all qualities. mh30-3m

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

THURSDAY MORNING, April 29, 1841.

Monument to Harrison. In a letter from James E. Harvey, of South Carolina, to the editors of the National Intelligencer, he says: "The Delegation of the State of South Carolina to the National Convention of Young Men held at Baltimore on the 4th of May last, have, by their Vice President, (Mr. E. Gamage,) desired me to suggest to the members of that body, through your columns, the propriety of erecting at Baltimore, Washington, or North Bend, a Monument to William Henry Harrison, late President of the United States."

There is one great error generally committed in such matters—men are too quick to undertake and too slow to execute. We should have no objection to have Monuments erected to all the Presidents, either by subscriptions or by Congress. It would not be necessary to construct them on the magnificent and expensive scale of the Monument to Washington in this city. Should the suggestion of the South Carolina Delegation be adopted, we would recommend that the Monument be placed adjacent to that of Washington; in which case we are sure that the subscription in Baltimore would be most liberal from the citizens generally.

Belvidere bridge. Some correspondent has written us a note complaining of the dangerous condition of said bridge—it being out of order, &c. We have not seen it for some time; but if our correspondent informs us correctly we would respectfully suggest that the bridge be repaired as speedily as possible. The propriety of so doing is self-evident.

A snag. An iron lamp-post has been broken off at the north-east corner of E. Baltimore and Exeter streets, within some six or eight inches of the ground, which leaves a fine snag over which people may break their limbs. Root it up altogether. That done, pass to the south side of Baltimore street, and keep on east until you come to some planks placed over a run, where you find as pretty a trap for the legs of pedestrians of a dark night as heart can desire.

Late Collector of Baltimore. The Republican of yesterday morning contains a note from William Frick, Esq., late Collector of this port, denying the truth of a report published in the New York Herald, that he is a defaulter to government. Mr. Frick's note is the first intimation we have had of such a report being in circulation; and that there is no foundation for it every person in Baltimore would readily believe, without the contradiction now published.—We have never heard Mr. Frick spoken of otherwise than as a prompt and faithful officer, and an amiable citizen.

M. Jeffers. It will be recollected that Mr. Jeffers was last fall indicted for an alleged attempt to introduce men from Philadelphia to vote at the Mayor's election in this city. His trial had been removed to Annapolis, and was expected to have taken place last week. We are informed that he appeared in Court, and stated through his counsel, that he was prepared for trial, and anxious that it should not be delayed. The witnesses for the prosecution being absent, with the exception of one, the State's Attorney caused the case to be postponed until the next term.

Lady's Book for May. The proprietor shares no expense to make this work acceptable to the ladies; and the present number fully equals preceding ones in interest. "The Milliner's Apprentice; or, the False Teeth"—and "Love after Marriage," are excellent. These only we have had time to read attentively—but we have no doubt the succeeding articles are equally good, being from the pens of Miss Leslie, and other authors of merit. Agent for the Lady's Book, W. N. Harrison, 28 North Gay, and 74 Baltimore street.

☞ By the latest New Orleans dates we learn that Gen. Hamilton has sold $7,000,000 of Texas Bonds in Paris. The conditions of the sale have not been made known, as some negotiations are yet pending between the Commissioner and the French Government—the only difficulty appearing to be that in case a certain object is effected the bonds are to be sold at a less discount than they will otherwise bring. There is no doubt the bonds have been sold.

The next Steamer for England. The Columbia, Capt. C. H. E. Judkins, commander, will leave Boston on Saturday next for Liverpool. It is said that a large number of ladies and gentlemen have already secured state rooms, and that the Columbia will no doubt have her full complement of passengers. The next steamer from Liverpool will be the Britania, Capt. Cleland, and will probably arrive at Boston on Wednesday, May 5.

Arrest. Mr. Mitchell, a member of the last Congress from the state of New York, (an account of whose forgeries we published some time since,) has been arrested in Canada, notwithstanding his boast that he would blow his brains out before he would be taken. He will no doubt be brought on to New York for trial.

Virginia election. As each party claims to be triumphant in the recent elections in this State, we shall wait for full returns, when our readers will be made acquainted with the actual state of parties, without any guess-work.

Report of the death of Gen. Jackson. The Mobile Journal of the 19th inst. states that a painful rumor has been current in the city during the day, of the death of the venerable Andrew Jackson. It comes from New Orleans, where it is also spoken of as a report brought down the river by a passenger, and as needing confirmation.

The Journal, it will be seen, gives but little credit to the report. Such a rumor was in this city on Monday last. It is to be hoped the venerable old hero is yet breathing the pure atmosphere that surrounds his hermitage. We have seen nothing in relation to the above report in any of the New Orleans papers. It is remarked in the Journal of the 21st that "the report of the death of Gen. Jackson, mentioned yesterday, is not confirmed."

We have also the Commercial Register of the 22d, in which no mention of the above rumor is made.

Another murder. From the Richmond Star we learn that a murder was committed at Dinwiddie Court House, on the day of the late election, upon the body of a Mr. Harman, formerly of Petersburg, by a person whose name is not mentioned. It appears that Harman was engaged in contest with an elderly man, and had him down upon the ground, when the man's son rushed up and stabbed him in ten or twelve places with a dirk knife, causing death very soon after. He then started to escape, but was seized by a gentleman, whom he threatened to kill if he approached; but a cold argument in the shape of a bowie knife being presented, he promptly surrendered. It is said that there was an old grudge between the parties. The murderer is safe in prison.

Slavers. The British brig Wasp, says the New York Sun, arrived at this port on Sunday, left at Sierra Leone, about fifty days ago, twelve prizes, slavers, belonging to different nations.—Left at Rio Nunez, 1st January, U. S. schooner Grampus, and U. S. brig Dolphin—came there to demand satisfaction from King Sara for some damages he had done to an American vessel.—The dispute was amicably settled. Capt. Ward, a passenger on board the ship Grotius, below at Boston, from Manilla, and last from St. Helena, reports that seven vessels, slavers, had arrived at St. Helena, with 700 slaves, prizes to H. B. M. cruisers on the West coast of Africa. The last that arrived (March 2d) threw overboard sixty dead slaves in sight of St. Helena.

Police. Titus Pearce, charged with assaulting and threatening to kill Eliza Sanks, was committed to jail, for want of security to keep the peace, by squire Barnard.

Ann Baily, charged with rioting, fighting and disturbing the peace, released on giving security to keep the peace for six months.

Ellen Welsh was brought before squire Snyder, charged with assaulting and stabbing Elijah Ward. Released on giving security in the sum of one hundred dollars, to answer the charge at the City Court on Saturday next.

It was too good to talk about. The ladies are always engaged in a good cause. Yesterday some dear creature belonging to the Fair sent us a slice of pound cake, accompanied by a full glass of ice cream, which could only be equalled in chasteness and beauty by the smiles of the donor. Ladies, we thank you much, and will take cognizance of your good works, not forgetting to recommend your present laudable enterprize to public favor.

☞ A fire occurred in New Orleans on the 19th inst., which consumed four houses, one a looking glass establishment, the other a boarding house, kept by Mrs. Lane, and two others on Old Levee street, one in the occupancy of Thomas Poole & Co. as a ware room, and the other by Messrs. Calvin & Dyer, as a wholesale boot store.

Attempt to set fire. An attempt to fire the premises in the rear of Randolph & Co's store, Richmond, was made on the 25th inst.; but fortunately was discovered in time to prevent any serious result. The attempt was made by firing a bed in the kitchen.

Concert. The lovers of exquisite music are reminded that the Baltimore Harmonic Society will give its first concert at the Assembly Rooms to-night. We are convinced that the entertainments will be of the very highest musical order. The programme can be seen on reference to our advertising columns.

A Financier Arrested. A man named Jas. Brown, from Akron, Ohio, was arrested in New York on Monday, by Mr. Smith, of that city, and Mr. Blaney, of Philadelphia, on some charge of forgery or financiering. Particulars not given.

☞ The New London Gazette advertises that there are in that city not less than three hundred unmarried ladies, between the ages of sixteen and thirty years, handsome, well educated, and accomplished.

What a distressed town it must be!

More Burnings on the Frontier. The Toronto Patriot of the 26th last., says, on Saturday night last, the 10th inst., "the Gothic Cottage Inn," opposite Clifton House Hotel, at the Falls of Niagara, was burned by an incendiary.

Fire. The alarm of fire yesterday morning, about 2 o'clock, was caused by the burning of a frame house, in Fayette-st., near Run alley.—The building with its contents were destroyed.

☞ Dr. W. B. Duffield, one of the oldest and most respectable physicians in Philadelphia, died there on Saturday last.

☞ James C. Churchill, Esq., was on the 20th, elected Mayor of the City of Portland, Me., by the Common Council.

City Mortality. In the city of New York last week there were 140 interments—in Philadelphia 132, and in Boston 48.

Hoax. Dealing in the marvellous is said to be the privilege of travellers; and so many have availed themselves of it to exhibit their inventive talents, that such narratives are now generally received with some grains of allowance for exaggeration. It was probably to ridicule this propensity to the marvellous even in scientific men, that the following article was written—for we can hardly believe it possible that it was ever seriously published as the result of actual experience. Frozen flame is a capital idea, equalled only by the frozen music, which, after being congealed all winter, played delightfully in the thaw of the spring. And then, we have the sledge running away from the travellers by the force of attraction, and probably continuing its flight about "the end of the world," to the present time. These were amusing incidents in the journey of the Russian traveller with the unpronouncable name. The next occurrence was of a more awful cast, as he and his companions found themselves so irresistibly forced towards the North Pole, that they were in danger of taking the leap into Symmes' hole, had they not fortunately encountered a negative current of magnetism which threw them back into a place of safety! We will venture to say, that these travellers will not be troubled with the rheumatism for a half century to come.

We give the article for the amusement of our readers, and hope, that, should any of them design to explore the regions about the North Pole, they will previously divest themselves of all metals, and carry their victuals ready cooked.

PHENOMENA AT THE NORTH POLE.

FROM A LATE ENGLISH PAPER.

A St. Petersburg periodical, Le Journal Scientifique et Literaire, publishes a very extraordinary narrative of an expedition to the Artic region, under the command of M. Nidjnei Nitigoiwosneseuk. The narrative says:

"About the 88th degree of latitude yielded us one of the most curious discoveries that have enriched the physical sciences in latter times. It occurred thus: For some days we had made no fire for want of wood, when, in searching our box of provisions, I found some Lyons chestnuts which M. Arago had sent me as a souvenir. I took it into my head to roast them. We put together some shavings which we still had, and kindled them. A bright flame forthwith arose, and we were anticipating the sweet sensations it was about to yield us, when suddenly an incomprehensible phenomenon manifested itself. The flame, at first so bright and crackling, seemed struck with immobility, and was gradually covered with a solid crust—it was congealed.

"Our astonishment baffles description. (A scientific description of the ice thus produced then follows,) I broke a bit of it and put it into my mouth. Contrary to my expectation, the sensation which resulted was most agreeable; just fancy a little taste of barley sugar extremely refreshing, though accompanied by a light burnt smell. I am persuaded that when such ice shall be produced by artificial means, confectioners will turn it to great account.

"A little further on another phenomenon, not less remarkable, awaited us. We had for some time perceived an increased rapidity in the progress of our sledge, though we used our iron hook but little. The phenomenon was soon explained; one of us having dropped his hook, the moment he attempted to pick it up we saw it gradually remove from us, flee before us, and ultimately whiz as it split the dense atmosphere around us. Though already accustomed to the wonders which those mysterious regions had presented to us, as it were, at every step, we stood mute with astonishment, but were soon roused from our amazement; our sledge, which is almost wholly made of iron, seemed pushed on by a fatal, irresistible, and invincible power, such as that which draws a light boat towards a cataract; we tried to stop it, but could not succeed, and were compelled to leave it to the mercy of Heaven.

"The magnetic power of the pole produced its effect, and, after a few hours of that fantastic progress, we were enabled to perceive, by the light of an aurora borealis, the sombre and mysterious extremity of our globe. It consisted of enormous mountains, probably of pure loadstone, divided into huge strata of various colors, green or blue. One would have fancied the back of a gigantic zebra was rising before us. Alas! unless Providence vouchsafed us unhoped-for assistance, we must soon be dashed to pieces against it. Impelled by the proud demon of science, we had tempted Heaven, and already did we feel its hand suspended over our heads ready to crush us.

"Nevertheless, thus isolated in that vast frozen solitude, and fatally dragged to destruction, we were calm and resigned, so great is the power of the grand mysteries of Nature over man! Some tears only flowed in silence, and I heard beloved names uttered, when suddenly, a sort of barrier of icebergs, heaped over one another, made us deviate from our course, and at the same moment, and in a few seconds, a force as powerful as that which had made us before devour space in front of us made us roughly recede.—We had just fallen into a negative magnetic current. We were saved, and saved carrying away with us the most awful secret of Nature. It was enough to run mad with joy. We raised our hands to Heaven."

Nominations. James W. Williams, Esq., of Harford county, has been nominated by the Democratic convention, a candidate for Congress from the third district.

Augustus R. Sellers, Esq., of Calvert county, has been nominated by the Whig convention, a candidate for the seventh Congressional district.

Baptist Convention. The Convention of the Baptist Ministers commenced its session yesterday morning, in this city, in the Baptist Church, corner of Lombard and Sharp streets. A large number of delegates from different parts of the Union are in attendance.

The Catholic Fair. We invite attention to the fair which is now being held by the ladies of the Catholic Church, at the Assembly Rooms. Their tables are magnificently spread with various beautiful and useful articles.

☞ We are much pleased with the poetical production of "Adkinson," which will be found in another column of to-day's paper. We shall be pleased to hear from him again.

☞ The property of the North Hampton (Mass.) Silk Company, in Northamptor, was disposed of at auction on the first of April, for $22,250.

☞ Orders have been received at New York to put the harbor of that city in proper posture of defence.

More of the appalling murder and incendiarism at St. Louis. An extra slip from the Evening Gazette, dated April 18th, 12 o'clock, brings additional particulars relative to the late revolting murder in that city, of which we had a notice yesterday. The extra says:

Nor yet is our record of the destruction of life complete! After the fire had been subdued, a portion of the wall, fronting on Pine street, fell to the ground, and crushed to death an Engineer of the Union Fire Company, Mr. Ambrose Kimball.

Mr. Kimball has left a wife and several young children in narrow circumstances.

Baker and Weaver were reputed to be quiet young men, and are highly spoken of. There is much conjecture as to the purpose of the foul incendiary assassins, how they entered the premises, attained their object, &c. Prompt and immediate action was taken by the Mayor and City Council for the purpose of detecting the blood-stained murderers. A reward of $5,000 has been offered for their detection by the corporate authorities of the city, besides other considerable sums by various citizens.

We would advise the police in every city throughout the Union to be on the look-out. Indeed there is a probability that the murderers may have made their way already as far as Baltimore.

Sugar in Texas. By late Texas papers we learn that the planters on the Colorado are turning their attention more and more to the cultivation of sugar. A sufficient quantity was raised last year in the neighborhood of the Egypt Settlement to supply that populous neighborhood.

TEMPERANCE NOTICE.

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS REWARD.

ABSCONDED from the subscriber, on Monday, 26th inst., a negro woman named CHARLOTTE JOHNSON. She is 20 years old, stout made, about 5 feet two inches high, black complexion, nose rather large, soft voice, and when spoken to has a pleasant countenance. Her arms are much bowed, not being able to straighten them from birth. She has a scar on both hands at the first joint of her little fingers, and is pigeon-toed. Had on a green and red plaid linsey dress, coarse laced shoes, cotton head handkerchief, and white apron. She is a general house servant, cooks, washes, and irons—the latter with her left hand, being what is termed left-handed. I have reason to believe she has gone or will go into service in the city. I will give the above reward if taken out of this state and delivered, or $20 if taken out of this county—if taken in the city $20. All persons are hereby warned not to harbor or employ said negro woman upon pain of prosecution.

INVALUABLE!

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNES'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

PROCESSION. In our account of the Funeral procession yesterday, we stated on the authority of another paper, that Governor Grason was present. This was an error as will be seen by the Governor's letter below. The following letters were received by the Chairman of the committee of reception:

WASHINGTON, April 24, 1841.

Dear Sir: It is a matter of deep regret with me that I find myself so circumstanced as to be denied, what otherwise, I would so anxiously desire, the occasion of visiting the city of Baltimore, and uniting with its citizens in those solemnities, to which they propose to devote themselves on Monday, the 26th inst. I followed as one, in that sad and numerous procession which attended the remains of the late President to their final resting place near this City—and I beg to be permitted, although absent, to mingle in sympathy with you at the heavy bereavement which we have all sustained in the death of that illustrious citizen. The weighty pressure of public business, to despatch which is the best evidence I can give of devotion to his memory, will plead my apology for my absence.

I tender to you assurances of my sincere respect.

JOHN TYLER.

Mr. Lee.

WASHINGTON, April 24, 1841.

My Dear Sir: I have cherished, to a late hour, the hope that I might be able to be in Baltimore on Monday, to attend the funeral solemnities to be celebrated on that day. But I am at last compelled to send an apology, as indispensable duties will keep me here.

I pray you to make my best respects to the committee, and signify to them the regret I experience in finding myself unable to comply with their invitation.

Yours with great respect,

DANIEL WEBSTER.

Z. Collins Lee, Esq.

WASHINGTON, April 22, 1841.

Sir: I have received your favor inviting me to be present on Monday, the 26th inst. at the funeral solemnities in honor of the late President of the United States.

It would entirely accord with my feelings to be present, and to unite with the citizens of Baltimore in the mournful solemnities of that day, but the pressure of public business puts it out of my power to do so, and compels me reluctantly to decline the invitation.

I am respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN BELL.

Z. Collins Lee, Esq.

A similar letter from Mr. Badger, the Secretary of the Navy, was received.

HEAD QUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
Washington, April 23, 1841.

Z. Collins Lee, Esq. Chairman of Committee:

Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your polite and obliging communication of April 19th, 1841, inviting myself and staff, and also the Adjutant General, to attend the funeral ceremonies, which will take place in Baltimore on Monday next, the 26th inst. in honor of the late President of the United States, with the desire that I should extend the same invitation to all such officers of the Army as are now in Washington, and the heads of all the Bureaux connected with the military department.

I regret that the press of business now before me will prevent my attending on this occasion, but hope that, their duties permitting, there will be many officers present to represent the Army, which, with the citizens at large, sympathise in the loss our country has sustained. I have the honor to be, sir, your ob't serv't,

ALEX. MACOMB,
Major General Commanding-in-chief.

ANNAPOLIS, April 24, 1841.

Dear Sir: I have received your letter, inviting me, in behalf of the citizens of Baltimore, to attend the ceremonies, which are to take place on Monday next, in honor of the late President of the United States. I have delayed my answer, in the expectation that it would be in my power to accept the invitation, and unite with the citizens of Baltimore in testifying their respect for the memory of the deceased, and their sorrow for an event which has naturally excited a general feeling of sympathy and regret. But I have been very unwell for two or three weeks past, and have not yet sufficiently recovered to be able to take a part in the procession, or to witness the ceremonies.

I am, very respectfully, your ob't serv't,

WM. GRASON.

Z. Collins Lee, Ch'n of Com, &c. Balt.

BENEFIT OF EARLY RISING. There is a class of people in London, whose profession it is to rise before day, and commence their perigrinations about the city, searching for objects lost the previous night and eve by the million and a half who swarm the streets. These persons often make fortunes.—Exchange paper.

If they are allowed to keep all they find, we should think they might make fortunes. Many reputations are lost; and if the early riser should find some of them, it would be a glorious prize.

LIBERAL REWARD. A Western editor offers $1000 to any one who will furnish satisfactory evidence that any female subscriber to a newspaper has ever neglected to pay up her subscription regularly.

We are happy to inform the editor that we cannot claim the reward. If we are not mistaken, almost every lady in Baltimore, Washington, Georgetown, Alexandria, York, Pa. Frederick, besides a large number in various other towns, villages, &c. throughout the United States takes our paper, and not one of whom have neglected the important duty of paying up punctually. There are occasionally a few among our fifty thousand gentlemen readers who are not quite so conscientious, but we have no reason to complain.

USEFUL INVENTION. A thermometer for measuring and graduating love has been invented by a Frenchman. The individual has only to place a finger on the top of the instrument to ascertain whether the heart is affected with slight love, tender love, constant love or passionate love. The instrument is considered a very useful invention, and one that will save many a heart from the cheats that fancy is apt to impose upon it.

The younger member of our corps has long fancied himself to be in love, and should be happy in testing it by the above thermometer.

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING
THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 39 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparalleled, and successful manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral Incorruptible Teeth, and can confidently assert that they are superior to any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth FOREVER retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. Be it also remembered, that Dr. W. proportions his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when PURE GOLD is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dentistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.

1. Artificial Teeth out of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.

2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.

3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carrat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as CHEAP WORK is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even SILVER is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent use in the mouth.

4. Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

5. Those individuals who cannot afford to pay the fee of 50 cents for extraction, can have this important operation performed any morning WITHOUT CHARGE, by calling between the hours of 8 and 9 A. M.

Individuals requiring the assistance of a Dentist, may avail themselves of Dr. W's services at any hour of the day throughout the year, to suit their own convenience.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 20 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection through out, whilst it is evident that Foggs! Rogue Weather!! and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office,

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

To Dr. Swayne.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences.

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,

EVENING MUSINGS.

Written in a young lady's Album—June, 1838.

I love to sit at close of day
Beside some rippling brook,
And watch the sun's last golden ray
Receding whilst I look:

'Tis then I think on days gone by,
Of happier hours that's fled,
For dear departed ones I sigh,
Now slumb'ring 'mongst the dead.

I love to look upon the moon,
The fair, mild "queen of night,"
As o'er the fragrant flowers of June
She spreads her silv'ry light:

'Tis then I'd wander forth, to view
My sister's lonely grave,
And mingle with the falling dew
Tears which affection crave.

I love to walk beneath the light
Of yon bright, twinkling star,
As of a soft unclouded night
Its beams reflect afar.

'Tis thus, alone, I oft would stray
Amid dark evening's shade,
To drop a tear upon the clay
'Neath which my brother's laid.

I love to bow the suppliant knee
To God, in fervent prayer,
To look away to Heaven, and see
My dear Redeemer there:

'Tis then a hope inspires my breast,
I'll meet my friends again,
In yonder world of endless rest,
Beyond the reach of pain.

I love, by faith, to soar above
The fading things of time,
To traverse yon bright sphere of love,
Heaven's more congenial clime.

'Tis there, when life's dull dreams are o'er,
I'd find an endless home;
There parting sighs are heav'd no more,
There Death can never come.

Roll on thy waters babbling brook,
Fair moon still shed thy light,
Bright star from Heaven on earth still look,
To cheer the gloom of night.

Far brighter scenes attract my view,
On worlds of light I gaze,
And swift my onward course pursue
To Heaven, my destined place.

A MATRIMONIAL ADVENTURE OF GOVERNOR WENTWORTH.

The Knickerbocker for April has been published for some time. It contains much agreeable matter, a sample of which we subjoin. It is an anecdote of Governor Wentworth, the last of the Colonial Governors of New Hampshire, and is still related by the aged people of the neighborhood in which he lived:

"He had, it seems, married a very pretty little girl, some thirty years his junior, who, like most young wives, was fond of gaiety, and liked better to pass the evening in strolling through the woods by moonlight, or in dancing at some merry-making, than in the arms of her gray haired husband. Nevertheless, although she kept late hours, she was in every other respect an exemplary wife. The governor, who was a quiet, sober personage, and careful of his health, preferred going to bed early, and rising before the sun, to inhale the cool breeze of the morning; and as the lady seldom came home till past midnight, he was not very well pleased at being disturbed by her late hours. At length, after repeated expostulations, his patience was completely exhausted, and he frankly told her that he could bear it no longer, and that if she did not return home in future before twelve o'clock, she should not be admitted to the house.

"The lady laughed at her spouse, as pretty ladies are wont to do in such cases; and on the very next occasion of a merry-making, she did not return till past two in the morning. The governor heard the carriage drive to the door, and the ponderous clang for admittance; but he did not stir. The lady then bade her servant try the windows; but this the governor had foreseen; they were all secured. Determined not to be out-generaled, she alighted from the carriage, and drawing a heavy key from her pocket, sent it ringing through the window into the very chamber of her good man. This answered the purpose. Presently a night-capped head peered from the window, and demanded the cause of the disturbance. 'Let me into the house, Sir!' sharply demanded the wife. The governor was immoveable, and very ungallantly declared she should remain without all night. The fair culprit coaxed, entreated, expostulated, and threatened; but it was all in vain. At length becoming frantic at his imperturable obstinacy, she declared that unless she was admitted at once she would throw herself into the lake, and he might console himself with the reflection that he was the cause of her death. The governor begged she would do so, if it would afford her any pleasure; and shutting the window, he retired again to bed.

"The governors now instructed her servants to run swiftly to the water, as if in pursuit of her, and to throw a large stone over the bank, screaming as if in terror, at the moment of doing it, while she would remain concealed behind the door. The good governor, notwithstanding all his decision and nonchalance, was not quite at ease when he heard his wife express her determination. Listening, therefore, very attentively, he heard the rush to the water side—the expostulations of the servants—the plunge and the screams; and knowing his wife to be very rash, in her moments of vexation, and really loving her most tenderly, he no longer doubted the reality.

"'Good God! is it possible!' said he; and springing from his bed, he ran to the door with nothing about him but save his robe de nuit, and crying out 'save her, you rascals!—leap in, and save your mistress!' made for the lake. In the mean time his wife hastened in-doors, locked and made all fast, and shortly afterwards appeared at the window, from which her husband had addressed her. The governor discovered the ruse, but it was too late; and he became in his turn the expostulator. It was all in vain, however; the fair lady bade him a pleasant good night, and shutting the window, retired to bed, leaving the little man to shift for himself, as best he might, until morning. Whether the governor forgave his fair lady, tradition does not say; but it is reasonable to presume that he never again interfered with the hours she might choose to keep."

A GOOD STORY.

PLEASANT AND INSTRUCTIVE.

Mrs. W., consort and help-mate of Mr. W., merchant of New York, was a very economical woman, and, if the eulogist was not mistaken, had a very strong apron. The circumstances narrated by the friend of Mrs. W. was as follows:—Mr. W. was a merchant in affluent circumstances, did a very heavy business, and conducted all his affairs with the utmost regularity. Every department of business was completely systematized; every family expenditure was restricted to regular daily appropriations, and no surer is the sailing master of a ship to make his observation, work his traverse, and ascertain his exact latitude and longitude every noon, than was Mr. W. to have his accounts nicely balanced, and ascertain his exact whereabouts in business every night. But wise, prudent, and punctilious as he was, he could not withstand the temptation to overtrading during one of the great expansions; and when the revulsion came, he found himself embarrassed beyond all his efforts to extricate himself. He has stood firm as a rock while many of the most reputable houses tumbled to ruins around him, he could not collect money due him from his best customers, and there was one remaining note of ten thousand dollars, that would fall due in a few days, and he could devise no way to meet it. The notice came from the bank, but three days remained, and every resource failed. The first of these three days was spent in fruitless attempts to borrow. The second was as fruitlessly spent in trying to force a sale of goods. Nobody had any money to purchase goods at any price. Failure presented itself before him with all its frightfulness.

The day of grace arrived, and horror was depicted in his countenance. Mrs. W. knew nothing of his troubles, and on perceiving him evidently in great distress of mind, she insisted on knowing what was the cause of his trouble. It was folly to conceal his ruin from her, and he condescended to make her acquainted with the cause of his misery. How much, she enquired, will save you from failure? Ten thousand dollars, he replied, will pay my last note in the bank; but for want of this I must suffer the disgrace of having my note protested, assign my property for the benefit of my creditors and suffer my name to go on the world as a bankrupt. Is this all? said she. Why bless me, my dear Mr. W. I can supply you with that sum without going out of the house. Not waiting to hear the question he was prepared to ask, she tripped up stairs, and in less time than I have occupied in telling the story, she returned with seventeen thousand dollars all in change, which she had saved within a few years from the daily allowance of market money.

All who heard the recital of this circumstance by the friend of Mrs. W. were highly delighted with it, save one sharp-nosed, slab-sided yankee, who would not believe, though an angel had told it; he had applied the test of figures to it, to ascertain its probability. As he finished his calculation and was in the act of returning his pencil to his pocket, he burst into a roar of laughter. All eyes were turned upon him, and the narrator demanded what he meant by such uncivil deportment. "Nothin' at all, stranger," said the calculator, "only I was thinkin' what a tarnal strong apron that ere woman must a had on to bring seventeen thousand dollars worth of change down stairs. I've ciphered it out on this here paper, and it will weigh jist half a ton, if there aint a single copper among the whole on't."

CASUALTY—A NARROW ESCAPE. The following letter from the Savannah Georgian, if carefully perused, may prove a useful lesson to those who are in the habit of using fire arms carelessly.

HARRIS' NECK, April 21, 1841.

Mr. Bulloch:

Dear Sir:—I write these lines to advise you of a circumstance which took place in my house yesterday evening, which, if published in the Weekly Georgian, may prove a benefit to some one who may be in the habit of using fire arms too carelessly.

I loaded my gun in the house, with a view to go into my field to shoot birds. Passing through the house with her in my hand, I was examining her lock, and put my thumb on the cock to ascertain if it was in its place, when I sprung it a little; my thumb slipped from it, when the gun went off. The contents passed through the partition, and through the room tearing to pieces a window sash at the opposite end of the room, passed through the kitchen door and lodged in a window on the opposite side of the kitchen, and now hear the wonderful escape of my family. I had five children in the room and two servants; two servants were standing in the kitchen door and others inside; a son in the room, about ten years of age, was standing about the middle of the room—he received two shots, one in his arm, the other in his side just under the breast, which passed only through the skin leaving a cut of two inches long; four shot entered the head of a daughter, about eleven years of age, struck just above the forehead and glanced round the skull, two of which passed out, the other two are still in the head; it being somewhat swollen the physician could not find them, but thinks there is no danger. Two children and a servant were standing against the window that was torn to pieces, every pane except three is the window were broken out by shot. The room was soon stained with blood; the screams of the wounded ones were enough to cause feeling in a heart of stone, much less in the heart of a loving parent. You may judge what were my feelings on the occasion. Any person acquainted, like myself, with the circumstance cannot possibly see how they escaped as well as they have, for no human understanding could have directed the shot the course they went, without killing some—more than one of the children. I feel that I cannot be sufficiently thankful to a kind God for the preservation of my children, for it is miraculous indeed.

CAN SHE SPIN? This question was asked by King James 1st when a young girl was presented to him, and the person who introduced her, boasted of her proficiency in the ancient languages. "I can assure your Majesty," said he, "that she can both speak and write Latin, Greek and Hebrew." "These are rare attainments for a damsel," said James, "but pray tell me, can she spin?"

Many of the young ladies of the present day can boast of their skill in the fine arts and polite accomplishments, in music, painting, dancing, but can they spin? or what is perhaps more appropriate to the times and the modern improvements in labor-saving machinery, it may be asked, can they perform the domestic duties of a wife? Do they understand the management of household affairs? Are they capable of superintending, in a judicious, prudent, and economical manner, the concerns of a family?

A young lady may be learned in the ancient and modern languages, may have made extraordinary proficiency in every branch of literature; this is all very well, and very creditable, and, to a certain class of the community, who are not obliged, as was St. Paul, "to labor with their own hands," is all that is absolutely requisite, but to a much larger portion of the community, it is of far greater consequence to know whether they can spin?

It is of more importance to a young mechanic, or a merchant, or one of any other class of people who depend upon their own industry and exertions, if he marries a wife, to have one who knows how to spin or perform other domestic duties, than one whose knowledge does not extend beyond a great proficiency in literature and the fine arts.

It has been often said that the times are strangely altered; and certain it is that the people are. It was once thought honorable to be constantly employed in some useful avocation; but now-a-days it is thought more honorable to be idle.—People complain of the high prices of all the necessaries of life, and with much truth. But if the amount of idleness could be calculated accurately throughout the community, allowing the drones half price for the services which they might perform, and which others are paid for, it might be a safe calculation to estimate it equal to all that is expended for provisions and marketing in the United States. So it is not a little inconsistent to hear parents complain about the price of provisions, while they bring up their daughters to walk the streets and expend money?

Let the fair daughters of our country imitate the industrious matrons of the past. The companions of those who fought in the Revolution were inured to hardships, and accustomed to necessary toil, and thus did they educate their daughters. Health, contentment, and plenty smiled around the family altar. The damsel who understood most thoroughly and economically the management of domestic affairs, and was not afraid to put her hands into the wash-tub, or to "lay hold of the distaff," for fear of destroying their elasticity, and dimming their snowy whiteness, was sought by the young men of those days as a fit companion for life, but in modern times to learn the mysteries of the household would make our fair ones faint away; and to labor comes not into the code of modern gentility.

Industry and frugality will lead to cheerfulness and contentment, and a contented wife tends greatly to soften the asperities and smooth the rough paths in a man's journey through life. It has been truly said, a pleasant and cheerful wife is a rainbow in the sky, when the husband's mind is tossed with storms and tempests; but a dissatisfied and fretful wife, in the hour of trouble, is like a thunder-cloud, charged with electric fluid.

OBITUARY. Among the eminent men whose decease we are often called upon to record, there are few who have departed from us more entitled to the gratitude and esteem of the American people than the subject of this notice. The venerable WILHELM WILLINK, the friend of Washington, and of many of the distinguished men which the events of our Revolution called forth to the aid of America, died at Amsterdam on Saturday the 13th of February last, at the advanced age of nearly ninety-one years. He was distinguished for the virtue and integrity which is characteristic of his countrymen, and his love of rational liberty and good government. At the most eventful period of our revolutionary struggle, and when to aid us with money might well have been deemed an act of folly and or rashness, it was he who, looking upon a suffering country, came forward and raised the drooping spirits of America by furnishing the means to recruit and support a broken and dispirited army. Washington and Franklin never failed to speak of him as one of the first and best benefactors of the infant Republic; and he lived to see the infant become a giant, and take its place amongst the most glorious nation of the earth.

The first assistance, by way of loan, obtained in aid of our cause was the work of this venerable patriot; nor was Washington ungrateful for his assistance. Not only did he return him his thanks in repeated letters, but constituted his house at Amsterdam the bankers of the United States for the Continent of Europe. To these letters and this mark of confidence Mr. Willink always adverted as the most cherished recollections of a long and eventful life. He clung to to them with the affection which is ever inspired in a virtuous mind when it turns back to the acts of the great and good who have departed from amongst us, and with whose regard we have been honored. Nor was his own country unmindful of him. During the eventful period which grew out of the wars of the French Revolution he was always at his post. In the successive changes which his country was destined to undergo, and particularly when the iron heel of Napoleon was planted on her bosom, this virtuous and enlightened man was always turned to by her patient and suffering people as one to whom their destiny could at all times be trusted.

The defender of national liberty and responsible government, the good opinion of his countrymen successively called him to many important stations; and he was one of those who framed the present constitution of Holland, under which the late King William was called to the throne. At Amsterdam—indeed throughout Europe—his house has always enjoyed the highest repute, his son having, some years ago, succeeded to it at the advanced age of his parent, and was continued banker of the United States until displaced by Gen. Jackson about the period of the removal of the deposites from the late Bank of the United States. M. National Intelligencer.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 175 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

STAFFORD COUNTY, Va. SEPT. 7th, 1840.

Dear Sir:—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I think I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhubarb and soda three or four times every day for those many years, with little or no relief, and my legs and ankles were so much swelled that I was unable, at times, to attend to my business. But since you made me a present of a box of your Family Pills I have taken 1 or 2 of them at night in going to bed, and now my acid stomach is relieved, the swelling in my legs has nearly disappeared, and I do not think that I have been hindered one day with the pain in my head since I began to take your valuable medicine. I think the Lord directed you to Fredericksburg, to administer to my relief. (Blessed be his holy name, I am greatly relieved.) There is living in my neighborhood a poor old woman who had been sick for a long time and could not get relief; at length I purchased a box of your pills and gave them to her, after awhile I saw her out and about her business, and she said that the one box had cured her. I have spread the fame of your valuable medicine amongst my acquaintances, and many have purchased. Now, as it respects myself, my friends tell me when I go to town, that they have not seen me look so well for many years, and I say to them, 'I will tell you the secret why; about three ago I met with a Dr. Davies in town, and he gave me a box of pills, and they have made me look as you now see me.' And now, my friend, I hope that the Lord will continue to be with you, and make you useful to your fellow-creatures, as he has hitherto done. I remain with respect, CHARLES BRUCE.

LOOK OUT!!
"Caution" is the Parent of Safety.

AN ATTACK of the "PILES" may be positively prevented by using (when the premonitory symptoms are felt) the celebrated HAYS' LINIMENT. There are more than one thousand people in this city, and in the United States an immense number, who have suffered beyond endurance by this dreadful complaint, who keep themselves wholly free from attacks by applying this Liniment when they feel any symptoms of its approach—of this there is the most perfect proof.

FRIDAY MORNING, April 30, 1841.

To our friends in Washington Citt, D. C. Our Agent in Washington requests us to state, for the information of all concerned, that subscribers to the Clipper will be served regularly, by leaving their names at the following places, viz: Mr. H. R. Robinson's Print Store, Penn. Avenue, between 3 and 4½ streets, or at the Book Store of Mr. Kennedy, Penn. Avenue, between 12th and 13th streets, at which places books are provided for the purpose of registering the names of subscribers.

Compromise Act. From remarks in some of the public papers, it seems to be apprehended, that an effort will be made at the next session of Congress to unsettle the Compromise Act, and to throw the whole subject of a protective tariff once more open to discussion. We entertain no such opinion, although we are free to avow that we are in favor of protecting the industry and skill of our own country, in preference to fostering those of foreign nations. But no attempt will be made, we presume, to disturb the Compromise Act by an increase of the duties therein specified—nor can it be considered an infringement of that act to levy a duty upon such articles as are now admitted free, particularly those of luxury.—Sound policy, as well as the necessities of the treasury, will dictate this measure; nor can we see any rational objection which can be urged against it. Public sentiment is favorable to the adoption of such measures by Congress as will place the country in a proper condition for defence, which cannot be done with the present limited revenue. If then, we desire to be prepared to resist aggression, we must furnish the means. This can be done by either of three modes—borrow the sum necessary; collect it by taxation; or raise it by duties upon articles of luxury. If we adopt the first method, we only postpone the day of taxation—if the second, the burthens, which are already heavy upon the people, will be increased, and may become perpetual. By the third, (duties,) we tax the wealthy only, and leave all other classes of society untouched. The complaint against the tariff heretofore laid, was that it enhanced the value of articles of necessity, and thus bore oppressively upon the poor. Whatever of justice there may have been in this objection, the case is now reversed and the same principle will not apply.—Wines, brandies, silks, and the like, are not articles of necessity, but purely of luxury, and those by whom they are used, can best afford to contribute the amount of duty towards the protection of their country. And yet we are told in some of the public prints, that the present policy of admitting articles free of duty should be persisted in as advantageous to the people of this country. The farmers, mechanics and laboring men of the nation—nine-tenths of the population, can dispense with the use of these articles without inconvenience or regret, and care little or nothing whether they be imported or not. To the wealthier and more ambitious classes—to those who aspire to take the lead in fashion and folly, they may be considered indispensible. But they can hardly expect to be indulged with cheap luxuries at the expense of high taxes to the rest of the community. It appears to us the extreme of folly to oppose the imposition of duties upon articles of this character, when the alternative is, either to raise the necessary means in this way, or by a direct levy upon ourselves. We wish the people to seriously consider this subject, and not permit it to be drawn into the party disputes of the day. It is not a matter of party, but of national policy, and it is of the greatest importance that the action of Congress upon it shall be governed by considerations of public interest alone. Unless we wilfully seek to keep our country in a defenceless state, or to tax ourselves heavily for the establishment of defensive works, &c. we must give our sanction to the proposed duty upon foreign luxuries. We feel assured that if the proposition to this effect be seriously and impartially considered, the universal decision will be in favor of its adoption.

Minor Case. A case was tried yesterday before Squire Walter, which may serve as a warning to those who are in the habit of dealing with minors, and perhaps may go far to suppress the many frauds that are committed upon them. The practice of selling boys such articles as they of right have no use for, is wrong, and the persons so offending should be exposed. The present case was an action brought by Matthias Fisher by his next friend William Dall, against Henry Iuman, a trafficker in second hand articles of almost every description, to recover fifty cents, the price paid by Fisher, who is quite a small boy, for a pistol which proved to be worthless. It appeared that the boy (Fisher) had retained the fifty cents out of his wages which was sent by him to his mother.

Squire Walter gave judgment against the defendant, remarking that the practice of thus dealing with minors was calculated to tempt them into dishonesty, and he hoped the defendant would be warned against it in future.

Horrible. Moses Butterfield, hitherto a respectable citizen of Sumner, Oxford county, Me. lately murdered his wife and two youngest children in a fit of religious phrenzy, alleging that he wished to save them from eternal ruin at the approaching end of the world. Two others of the family saved themselves by flight.

Literary Associations. It augurs favorably for the rising generation that public attention has been so greatly attracted to the organization of literary and scientific societies—for, independent of the intellectual improvement which will result from the establishment of these institutions, they will exert a great moral influence over the minds of the young. Almost every village has now its Lyceum, to which the population resort as a place of rational amusement. The most comprehensive association of this character is the "National Society of Literature and Science," established at New York, of which the Hon. Theodore Frelinghuysen is the President. This society issues a publication under the title of "The Monthly Lecturer of the National Society of Literature and Science;" which is to contain unpublished lectures delivered before any literary institution.—The first number of the Monthly Lecturer is before us, and contains a lecture by Benjamin Franklin Butler, on "Popular lectures, as a means of diffusing knowledge;" another by Rev. Edward Y. Higbee, on "the adaptation of revealed truth to the nature and condition of man;" and a third by G. Collingwood Dixon, "on the objects and designs of the National Society of Literature and Science." Some four or five hundred associate societies have been established in various States, six of which are located in Maryland.—These associates are supplied by the parent society with various periodical works at subscription prices, so that each may have a local library of its own.

We are pleased to notice the progress of this Association, because we believe that its labors will prove highly beneficial in the diffusion of useful knowledge, and in the impetus which it will give to mental cultivation.

Mr. Hickman is the agent of the Society in Baltimore.

Puffing. We remember to have read the narrative of a traveller, who, coming suddenly upon a lion in a desert place, beat a piece of iron which he carried into the shape of a spoon, with which he threw sand into the animal's eyes, when the king of beasts retreated, and left the traveller in safety. This, and other marvellous stories, sold the book, which was all the writer desired. We know some editors who act upon the same principle, and make their papers, like Pindar's razors, for sale and not for use. One morning they boast of their exceeding accuracy, and puff their extraordinary industry; and the next they occupy an equal space with corrections of their misrepresentations. Like the traveller just mentioned, they attempt to blind by throwing dust in the eyes. But there is one thing which no one acquainted with their disposition would believe, viz: that they do not know the difference betwern steel and silver; and yet they make the members of the Typographical Society to have worn in the late procession, rules of the former instead of the latter. We thought that they would have known the genuine from the base metal by instinct. These veracious editors may be classed with the veritable traveller whom we have quoted—and of either it may be said, "Lord, how this world is given to lying."

Steamboat Accident. The Steam Towboat, Henry Eckford, while lying at the foot of Cedar street in New York, on Tuesday afternoon blew up, killing one man and wounding several others. She was about to take in tow one of the Canal Boats and while the crews of both vessels were busy with the lashings, the boilers burst with a terrific noise, scattering iron, lead, planks, benches and human bodies in every direction, leaving her a perfect wreck. Capt. Tice, standing near the wheel house at the time, was thrown some distance into the water, but was rescued by Captain Patchin of the canal boat. When hauled out of the water it was discovered that one of his legs was broken, and his hand horribly mangled.

Amos Belcher, of Palermo, Oswego county, one of the crew of the canal boat, was on board the steamer, was blown up with her, throwa to a distance of more than twenty feet from the steamer to the canal boat, and instantly killed. His was the only life lost so far as known. A piece of lead weighing upwards of one hundred pounds, which was ripped up from the steamer, was found near him. It is said that the Henry Eckford and South America, were owned by the same company.

The American Prisoners at Van Dieman's Land. The Albany Argus publishes a letter from one of the American pensioners at Van Dieman's Land, dated in Feb. 1840, and also a list of the prisoners, with their place of residence. The greater portion of them were from Jefferson, St. Lawrence, Oswego and Onondago counties, although there were several from various other places. There are about 150 in all, and there labor and fare at Van Dieman's Land are described as of the hardest nature. Most of these men are young, and of reputable families, and deserve the commisseration of our government more than McLeod does that of England. We trust that those in authority will do all in their power to relieve from thraldom those who have been ignominiously sent to a convict colony.

Christian Slemmer, Watchman, vice M. H. Keene.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

Gentlemen: We are exceedingly annoyed by a neighbor, an elderly gentleman, (if a newspaper borrower and lounger can be so called) who visits us every morning as regularly as clockwork to borrow our papers. He first lights a stinking cigar, reads the Clipper, then the American, and remains lounging about the counting-room for an hour or two. Now you are of course aware that nothing can be more disagreeable and provoking than to have loungers about your place of business, when you frequently wish to converse in private, diverting your attention from your duties by asking a thousand foolish questions. These things, coupled with reading your papers at the very moment that you want them yourselves, together with a stinking cigar, is an intolerable nuisance.

Our object in requesting you to insert the above remarks in a conspicuous part of your paper, is, that they may be noticed, as they cannot fail to be understood, by him for whom they were intended, and thereby be the means of ridding us of the annoyance complained of.

☞The city of St. Louis is at present under very great excitement, caused by the late revolting murder which we have recently noticed. The funeral of the two young men who met their premature and melancholy end by the blood-stained hands of the yet undiscovered assassins, took place on the 20th. It is spoken of as having been very large and imposing.

The Bulletin of the 20th mentions another murder committed on the person of an infirm old lady, in Florisant township, near Owens Station. The perpetrator of the crime has been committed to prison.

The United States Bank. The Pennsylvania Intelligencer of yesterday says: "We are indebted to an attentive friend at Harrisburg, for a copy of the Relief Bill, as it passed the Senate. It occupies twenty-three pages, and was to be presented to the House for its concurrence, on Tuesday morning. As the Bill passed the Senate, it provides for a loan of $3,000,000—authorizes the issue of small notes—makes various appropriations—imposes taxes on certain persons, and provides for closing up the Bank of the United States, &c., should the stockholders so determine."

Naval. The latest accounts from the Mediterranean squadron, state that the ship of the line Ohio, Com. Hull, and the frigate Brandywine were at Mahon in the early part of March, and all were well on board both vessels. The sloop of war Preble had not then arrived. The Ohio it was expected would sail for the U. S. in June or July, by which time it was supposed the Delaware, under Com. Morris, would be there to relieve her.

Professor Espy. This gentleman has returned to Philadelphia after a highly gratifying visit to England and France. He speaks in the warmest manner of his reception on the other side of the water, and of the kindness and courtesy which were every where extended to him. He lectured at all the principal towns and cities with much effect, and to large audiences.

As this distinguished lecturer is said to possess the power to cause rain, perhaps some people may attribute the late wet weather to his return.

Drowned. Franklin Clapp, a young man about 22 years of age, son of Mr. Aaron Clapp, hatter, of this city, was drowned on Tuesday last, in the Chesapeake Bay, off Sandy Point.—He had gone, in company with some others, on a fishing excursion, and while encountering a slight gale, was struck on the head by the jib-boom of a vessel, knocked overboard, and sunk to rise no more with life. His body was not found at the last advices. An advertisement in reference to the melancholy event will be found in another column.

Another murder. Bennet H. Martin, of Pope county, Arkansas, recently killed a man by the name of Simons with a knife, at Clarksville, Johnson county. Court being in session at the time, the grand jury found a true bill for murder. Martin is well known throughout the state. He is a lawyer, and was the Whig delegate from that state to the Harrisburg Convention, which nominated General Harrison for the Presidency.

Barnaby Rudge—By Boz. We have received No. 4, from Messrs. Knight & Colburn, and if we had the preceding numbers could pronounce with more certainty, upon the merits of the work. We will take it for granted, however, that it is not inferior to the other publications of of the same author. This number contains various illustrations by G. Cattermole and H. K. Browne.

One Dead. The N. Y. Sun says Mr. Garwin, of Troy, one of the passengers on board the South America at the time of the disaster on Saturday night, has since died of the injuries he received on that occasion. Those under treatment at Albany are doing well, with a prospect of speedy recovery.

Shipwreck. The St. Augustine Herald of the 16th inst. says: The schooner Antelope, Gifford, in Government employ, without cargo, capsized near the St. John's Bar in a squall on Monday. The captain and crew were saved in a boat.—The wreck drifted ashore about 20 miles north of that place.

Hint to Sick Wives. A popular author has said, "I am strongly of opinion that sick wives are very interesting for a short time, and very dull for a long one. It is of great importance that females of all classes should reflect upon this distinction, and not abuse a privilege most readily granted them, if exercised within the bounds of moderation."

Gambling. The new Governor of the Island of Cuba is adopting vigorous measures for suppressing gambling throughout the Island. He is causing the gamblers to be arrested wherever found.

Recent elections in Canada. These elections appear to have been held amidst riot, mobbing and bloodshed. They were characterized throughout by scenes the most disgraceful and reprehensible. It is stated, says the New York Commercial Advertiser, that at the Terrebonne contest, one of the candidates appeared at the hustings, headed by a large body of his countrymen, armed with murderous weapons; such as short sticks with a strong leather bag fastened by nails to the end, and filled with pieces of rough lead. This was a favorite sort of weapon.—Bayonets, case-knives, pistols and slings for stones were also employed, and the effect was to intimidate the weaker candidate, and induce him to withdraw from so sanguinary a struggle. In another district, various cowardly outrages were perpetrated, and at St. John's, where the Chambly election was held, club law was resorted to, a battle with sticks took place, hand to hand, which lasted about five minutes; the polls were closed, the troops were called out, and one or two lives were lost. The Toronto Patriot of the 23d contains a still further account of a savage riot that took place at the struggle in that city. We subjoin this account at length, as the Patriot has long been in the habit of denouncing the American Union in the spirit of vindictive and malignant toryism.

Dreadful riot. It is our most painful duty to record the occurrence of the most dreadful riot which has ever disgraced this city. Yesterday, Messrs. Dunn and Buchanan were escorted in triumph round the streets, according to immemorial custom. They had numerous banners and devices, and a long array of carriages. We observed a number of persons standing at the corner of Church and King streets, apparently waiting to see the procession. As soon as the head of the column began to pass, these persons commenced groaning, hissing, and flinging dirt at the carriages. Soon after, we saw them strike with bludgeons the horses of one of the vehicles.

Mr. Sheriff Jarvis, who was standing at a window, immediately rushed in among them, and assisted by two or three gentlemen, did his utmost to keep them back—entreating them to desist, and forcibly tearing several of the miscreants away from the carriages. In a few minutes a reinforcement came to the succour of those in the procession, and the fight became general, and a terrible scene of riot ensued; the combatants scattering all over the streets and through the burial ground. In the meantime, the head of the procession had arrived opposite a tavern, kept by a man named Allan, where a flag hung out. Some groaning and shouting followed—dirt and stones were thrown on all sides, and a man thrust a pistol out through the window, and shook it threateningly at those outside. A dreadful uproar commenced—the windows of the house were broken, and four or five shots were fired from within. One man named James Dunn, a tailor, was killed on the spot. A second, the coachman of the Receiver General, (but not in the carriage of that gentleman,) received a ball in the lungs, but, we understand, is recovering. A son of Mr. Cathcart was shot through the thigh, and a constable, named Davis, was struck in the hand, the ball piercing his coat.

An express started immediately for the military, and in a very short time, a company of the 24th was on the spot. The riot act was read, and the soldiers cleared the streets. The house was immediately forced, and wq soon beheld eight men, one of them much wounded, escorted by the sheriff and a party of the military on their way to jail. These fellows were of the party who fired from the tavern, and will, doubtless, be tried at the assizes. More troops arrived, and order was soon restored.

One gentleman is prepared to swear that he saw the man who appeared with the pistol struck in the head with a stone before he fired.

We have since learned from gentlemen present, and have also heard it sworn on the coroner's inquest, now sitting, that Allan's house was furiously attacked with stones, and the windows, &c. demolished before the first shot was fired."

Supposed murderer arrested. The skeleton of a female, it was mentioned a few days ago, had been found in the woods in Salem county, N. Jersey. We now learn, through the Woodbury Constitution, that an individual residing in the neighbourhood of the place where the bones were found has been arrested, under the following suspicious circumstance:

It appears that a short time since a female while on her way to some relattves, stopped at the house of a colored person in the vicinity with the intention of remaining over night. She was however induced by the persuasion of the person arrested, to accompany him to the house of his mother for that purpose, taking with her a cloak, which was loaned her, to be returned next morning. The cloak was not returned for several days, which excited some remarks, when it was brought back by a brother of the person arrested and thrown down, he saying—there's your —— cloak, I suppose you're satisfied. On inquiay it was ascertained thet the woman had not been at the house of the mother; and she had not since been heard of. These circumstances lead to the belief that after suffering the most horrible treatment, she was murdered and interred as above described.

Anecdote of Henry Clay. He was travelling in Virginia and late one evening arrived at a fashionable hotel, in a very plain farmer-like dress, and stepping to the bar he enquired of the spruce bar-keeper if he could give him a room. He was told that the rooms were all occupied, but that he could have a bed in a room with several others. 'Very well' said Mr. Clay, and was shown up three or four pair of stairs in a room with several common sort of people, already snoring. He 'turned in' and was soon sound asleep. In the morning he arose, and sitting on the side of his bed he kept his companions in a roar of laughter, relating humorous anecdotes and jokes. Some of them enquired of the barkeeper when they went down what 'funny old cock' he had put in their room. He could not tell them, but at the breakfast table they were alike surprised, when a gentleman boarding there recognized, and saluted him with profound respect as Henry Clay the Senator. The poor barkeeper was in great confusion and lost no time in preparing the best room, always reserved for the President and members of Congress, and with many apologies informing him that his room was ready. 'Never mind sir,' said Mr. Clay, your rooms are all occupied, I am perfectly satisfied with my present accommodations.—Exchange.

Iowa. This interesting young territory is increasing in wealth, population and importance with a rapidity truly astonishing. Settled, as it were, but yesterday—at the close of the Black Hawk war in 1833—it now contains a population of about 50,000 souls, with a soil unrivalled for its agricultural productions, and no less rich in its mineral wealth.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold, having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

CITY COUNCIL—EXTRA SESSION.

FIRST BRANCH, April 29, 1841. The Branch met pursuant to a call from the Mayor. Present, all the members except Messrs. Keyser, Hutton, and Pinkney.

On motion of Mr. Cole, the Branch went into an election for Chief Clerk, to fill the place of Col. S. Moore, deceased. The votes being taken, Henry W. Gray, Esq., was duly elected by a unanimous vote.

On motion of Mr. Bender, it was agreed to appoint a joint select committee to wait upon his honor the Mayor, to inform him that the councils had organized and were ready to receive any communication he might have to make. The committee consisted of Messrs. Bender and De Loughrey, and Mr. Hook of the Second Branch.

The following communication was received from the Mayor:

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
Baltimore, April 29th, 1841.

To the members of the First and Second Branches of the City Council:

GENTLEMEN: You have been convened to comply with the requirement of an act for the general valuation and assessment of property in this state, and to provide a tax to pay the debts of the state, which was passed by the General Assembly of Maryland at the extra session of 1841. The bill will be found on each of your desks.

The 19th section of an ordinance for restraining gaming, and licensing and regulating theatrical and other public exhibitions within the city of Baltimore; (page 104 revised ordinances,) requires modifying so as to secure the penalty for a violation of the law. The theatres are sometimes leased for a term of years to individuals, who are in law the only responsible persons; and it has happened, and will no doubt continue to happen, that, in a pecuniary sense, they are totally irresponsible. I would suggest the propriety of so altering the law as to make the property or the lessor, and not the lessee, responsible for the fine.

I would suggest the propriety of modifying the second section of ordinance 27, page 74 revised ordinance; instead of ten dollars for a license to sell oranges, I would make it three dollars; and that instead of ten dollars fine, I would say not over two dollars, nor less than one dollar.

I find, in the attempt to execute the law, that three-fourths of those fined are unable to pay, and the alternative is, either to remit or send to Jail: in both cases the city is chargeable with the cost—and I am sure the Councils never intended that any poor person should be imprisoned for striving to make a living at a calling so innocent as that of selling of oranges.

I believe it will be more to the interest of the city to reduce the license and fine to the sum named, than to continue the present charges.

The many false alarms of fire are becoming a serious evil to the peaceable and good orderly portion of the citizens. I think the evil may be measurably abated by enacting a penalty of one or two dollars for every offence of giving alarms of fires, when done for mere sport or mischief.

I am aware of the difficulty of proof in such cases, but if the police were authorised to arrest and summon witnesses, it would tend much to arrest the evil.

Very respectfully,
SAMUEL BRADY, Mayor.

Which, upon motion of Mr. Cole, was sent to the Second Branch, and subsequently referred to a joint select committee, consisting of Messrs. Cole, Gorsuch and Hanson. Second Branch, Messrs. Lucas and Wight.

Mr. Bender presented the petition of Michael Gross, relative to the situation of a frame house on his premises. Referred to committee on fire companies.

Mr. Ramsey presented the petition of Mr. Briggs, relative to the erection of a sign. Referred to the committee on police.

A communication was received from the City Commissioners, which, upon motion of Mr. Cole, was referred to the committee on claims. Also, a communication from the Assessors, relative to the direct tax. Referred to the committee on ways and means.

Mr. Bender presented the petition of Mr. James Duhamel, praying permission to have the porticos of his houses remain as they have been built.—Referred to the joint committee on police.

Mr. Gorsuch offered a resolution requesting the City Commissioners to examine the condition of a portion of Forrest street, near the Bel Air market, which was passed.

A message was received from the Second Branch, being a report from the joint select committee to whom was referred the Mayor's communication. The report recommends that so much of the communication as refers to the tax bill, passed at the extra session of the Legislature, be referred to the joint select committee on ways and means; that relative to theatrical performances, and the reducing of licenses of lemmon hucksters to the joint committee on police; and that relative to the false alarms of fires to the joint committee on fire companies.

The following preamble and resolution were offered by Mr. Cole and unanimously adopted.

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God, in the dispensation of his Providence, to call from among us Gen. Wm. H. Harrison, President of the United States, at a time when he had just entered upon the exalted station, to which he had been elevated by the suffrages of a free people—and, whereas, it is our duty to honor and respect while living those who have been chosen to administer the affairs of the government under which we live, we conceive that it is equally our duty to pay due respect to departed worth; be it therefore Resolved, by the first and second branches of the City Council of Baltimore, that a joint select committee be appointed to prepare resolutions appropriately expressive of our regret at the death of the late President of the United states.

On motion of Mr. Cole, the Council adjourned until to-morrow afternoon at half past 3 o'clock.

CHANCERY SALE.

UNDER a Decree of the Court of Chancery, the subscribers, as Trustees, will offer for sale at public auction, on the premises, on MONDAY, 3d of May, at 4 o'clock, P. M. ALL THAT PIECE OF GROUND, which is described as follows:

Beginning on the north side of Conway-st. 87½ feet east from the north-east corner of Howard and Conway-sts. running thence east on Conway-st. forty-seven feet four inches to the centre of an alley three feet eleven inches wide, with the privilege of said alley and the right of building over it; then north parallel with Howard st. along the centre of said alley seventy-five feet; then west parallel to Conway st. two feet nine inches or thereabouts to ground conveyed in fee to Peter Bankard by John Eager Howard, then north on said ground about two feet to the part of said ground conveyed by said Bankard to Leonard Foreman, thence west binding thereon thirty-three feet, more or less to the ground leased by said Howard to said Bankard; then north binding on the last mentioned ground seven feet or thereabout to the part thereof assigned to Peter Bankard, Junior; then no th on said part eleven feet seven inches; and thence with a straight line to the beginning. The improvements on this property are two comfortable Brick DWELLINGS.

The terms of sale are, one-fourth of the purchase money be paid on the day of sale, or on ratification of the sale, with interest from said day; and the residue in three equal instalments, in six and nine and twelve months from said day, with interest therefrom, secured by bonds or notes with security to be approved by the Trustees. CHARLES F. MAYER,
ap13 eots BRANTZ MAYER.

TRUSTEES SALE of valuable real estate in the city of Baltimore. By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court of Maryland, the undersigned as Trustee, will expose to sale at auction on WEDNESDAY, the ninth day of June next, commencing at 9 o'clock, A. M. on the premises

ALL THAT VALUABLE PROPERTY heretofore conveyed by William Russell to the trustees for the poor of Baltimore City and County, by indenture bearing date on or about the fifteenth day of June seventeen hundred and ninety-two, and recorded amongst the land records of Baltimore County Court in liber W. G., No. K. K., folio 4 &c., and which in said deed is described as follows, viz—Beginning for the same at the intersection of Biddle and Price sts., and on the west side of said Biddle street, and running and bounding on the west side of said Biddle street north forty-four degrees, east forty eight perches and the half of a perch, then north fifty two and one half degrees, west thirty four perches to a parcel of ground heretofore sold to a certain William Gibson by the said William Russell, then running and bounding on said ground south forty four degrees, west forty four perches to Price street, then bounding on said street south easterly thirty four perches to the place of beginning, containing nine acres and one half of an acre and thirteen square perches of land more or less,

The above property adjoins the Rose Hill estate and is in the neighborhood of the outer Depot of the Baltimore and Susquehana Rail Road; it lies beyond the limits of direct taxation and is exempt from the payment of City Taxes; the whole property will be divided into a large number of Lots of such dimensions as will enable those of moderate means to become purchasers. Madison street, which forms its Southern boundary, has been well paved along its entire front and beyond, and has been built upon up to Biddle st., which forms the Eastern Boundary, Morris Alley, Gibson street, Jordan Alley, and Gordon street, pass thro' it from east to west. A better opportunity than the present rarely occurs either for investment or speculation, especially when the very liberal terms of payment are taken into consideration.

The terms of sale prescribed by the decree are that the purchasers shall pay one-sixth cash, one sixth in ninety days, one sixth in six months, one-sixth in nine months, one-sixth in twelve months, and one sixth in fifteen months from the day of sale, the credit instalments to be secured by notes with one or more sureties to be approved by the Trustee and to bear interest from the day of sale.

GEO. GORDON BELT, Trustee.

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 39 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparralleled, and successful manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral Incorruptible Teeth, and can confidently assert that they are superior to any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth FOREVER retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. Be it also remembered, that Dr. W. proportions his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when PURE GOLD is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dentistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.

1. Artificial Teeth out of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.

2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.

3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carrat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as CHEAP WORK is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even SILVER is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent useftn the mouth.

4. Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

5. Those individuals who cannot afford to pay the fee of 50 cents for extraction, can have this important operation performed any morning WITHOUT CHARGE, by calling between the hours of 8 and 9 A. M.

Individuals requiring the assistance of a Dentist, may avail themselves of Dr. W's services at any hour of the day throughout the year, to suit their own convenience.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 23 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

MEDICAL AID. The success that has attended the treatment of many thousand cases of Venereal Complaints for twenty years past, induces the subscriber to inform the public, that he may be daily seen and consulted on all cases of the kind recent and chronic, and on diseases of the urinary organs generally. His treatment is speedy and certain, adapted to the various constitutions of his patients; the medicines are so mild that the most delicate may take them, without any restrictions in diet or occupation. Many cases that have resisted every other mode of treatment have speedily yielded to this, and many persons who have tried all the quack nostrums of the day are frequently calling on the subscriber to have the injuries they have sustained by their use relieved. An early application is advisable in all cases, which may be made at Dr. WARNER'S OFFICE, Caroline street, one door north of Wilk street. WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, & the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washingt Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reachi Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimo and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Co panies on the route being bound by the Postmas General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.
" Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington next day.	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that FOGS! ROUGH WEATHER! and STORMS!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of
STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office,
d19-tf PRATT STREET, Baltimore.

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at	4 o'clock,	P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at	7	"	A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at	8	"	A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at	4	"	P. M.

Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP or WILD CHERRY.

TO DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,

JOSHUA VANSANT, P. M.

WANTED DAILY, at the City Intelligence Office, N. W. corner of Baltimore and Frederick-sts., white and colored female Cooks; Chambermaids; Nurses; Dairy Maids; Travelling Maids; Housekeepers; Seamstresses, &c. to fill good situations in the city and country.

WANTED TO RENT, at all times, Dwelling Houses; Stores; parts of Houses; Farms; Country Residences, &c. &c. Persons about to have their premises vacant, will be able to obtain careful and responsible tenants by the day they become vacated by applying at the City Intelligence, Real Estate and House Letting Office, corner of Baltimore and Frederick sts.

Wanted to rent immediately, a number of Dwellings renting from $100 to $250 per annum. Also, parts of Houses. Apply as above. ap22

THE PROPRIETORS OF THE GAY-ST. CHAIR WARE ROOMS, would inform their friends and the public generally, that they have now on hand, a very splendid assortment of Parlour and other CHAIRS, comprising Mahogany, Maple, Walnut, and a variety of imitation wood colours. They would request persons, disposed to purchase, to give them a call, as their assortment is not surpassed if equalled by any establishment in the city.

They would also inform Shipping Merchants that they have on hand a large assortment of Cane and Slat-back KNOCK DOWN, suitable for the West Indies or South American market, among which is a large proportion of very rich colored white tops—all of which they are willing to sell on the most accommodating terms. se1—4tf A. & J. B. MATHIOT.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND,

For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Fluorcums, Diabets or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethe of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. Also, of L. S. THOMAS, corner of Briton and Eutaw streets—with full directions accompanying each bottle at $1 per bottle.

☞ For sale in Washington city by ROBERT PATTERSON, cor. 9th street and the avenue, and CHAS C. STOTT, corner of 7th street and the avenue, and by H. WADE, on 7th street.

In Georgetown, by JOHN L. KIDWELL.

66 BALTIMORE-ST. HATS AGAINST 62 THE WORLD. No! Not all the World but the Word of Hamburgs! Call at our Store and we will prove that we sell the cheapest Hats in Baltimore, to point of Beauty, Durability, and Fashion. Our prices are well known, and are as follows: Splendid Fashionable Russia Hats for $2.50, of the same quality as those selling elsewhere for $3. Also, fine fashionable Silk Hats at $3.50, warranted on Russia bodies, and generally selling elsewhere for $4 or no sale. And our old customers will please bear in mind that the well known REEVIL removed from the Maryland Arcade some six months ago. So come one and all to 66½ Baltimore-st., between Gay and Hanover-sts. for good and cheap Hats. Don't forget now!

W. H. REEVIL & CO'S,
No. 66½ Baltimore-st., opposite Tripolette alley,
And 4 doors W. of Beath's well known Auction Store.

THE MARYLAND ARCADE
Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hats. Splendid Russia Hats at $3.75; fine Short Nap Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3.00; Clipt Nutria Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

6t4-3m* POLYDORE E. RILEY.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

N. B. The trade supplied with HATS in the rough of all qualities. mh30-3m

FASHIONABLE BOOTS.

W. L. McCAULEY, Gentleman's FASHIONABLE BOOT MAKER, No. 6 LOMBARD STREET, cor. of Franklin Lane, near South-st., makes BOOTS at $3.50 per pair, and Foots them for $2.75, of the very best Leather and Workmanship. Being a Practical Boot Maker, and Inventor of the Pegged Cork Sole BOOTS, which have given so much satisfaction to the wearer, gentlemen may rely on getting good and handsome work. Give me a call, and I will endeavor to please, for my Boots shall be behind none in this or any other city. [ap21-tf] W. L. McCAULEY.

CARPETING.

No. 76—For CASH ONLY—MARKET-ST.

THE attention of persons in want of CARPETING, is now invited to the subscriber's present Stock. It consists of Brussels Three Ply superfine and common Ingrain 4 4, 3-4, 5 8, and 2 4, Venitian, Hemp, Cotton, and Rag CARPETING; Green and Fancy Figured BAIZES; Fancy Piano Covers; Table do; Brussels and Tufted Rugs; Stair Linen; Windsor Blinds; Door Mats; Stair Rods, low priced; Table and Piano Covers of every description. His Carpeting, at 62½ cents, is superior to any heretofore sold at 75 cents, and he has a lot of the best quality of English and Domestic, which will be sold at $1 per yard. His Three-ply and Brussels are offered at equally reduced prices. Likewise all the different widths and qualities of Matting, both white and colored; English and Domestic Oil Cloths, for floors and tables; white and colored Carpet Chain, &c. &c. WILLIAM JEFFREYS,

No. 76 Market-st. corner of Holliday.

N. B. A lot of remnants of OIL CLOTH on hand, suitable for door pieces, will be sold very low. mh20

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 1, 1841.

To our friends in Washington City, D. C. Our Agent in Washington requests us to state, for the information of all concerned, that subscribers to the Clipper will be served regularly, by leaving their names at the following places, viz: Mr. H. R. Robinson's Print Store, Penn. Avenue, between 3 and 4½ streets, or at the Book Store of Mr. Kennedy, Penn. Avenue, between 12th and 13th streets, at which places books are provided for the purpose of registering the names of subscribers.

The Ocean of to-day is full of interest. It contains a full and correct account of the great funeral procession in this city in honor of the late President of the United States—the 4th and 5th letters of Mr. Biddle—the Latest Foreign News by the Great Western—Tales—Poetry—Proceedings of City and County Courts and City Councils—Editorials—all the News of the past week—Review of the Baltimore Markets, &c. &c. Single copies can be obtained at the counter, price 6 cents. Subscriptions received at only $1.50 per annum, or $1.00 for six months.

McLeod. The resolution introduced into the Legislature of New York, instructing the attorney general of that state to enter a nolle prosequi in the case of McLeod, has been abandoned. This would seem to indicate a determination to let the law take its regular course, which would be right; but we still adhere to the opinion that McLeod will never be tried. The assumption of his offence by the British government will, we fear, be held to exonerate him from penalty, and the matter be made a subject of negotiation.—This is a novel and extraordinary doctrine, and, if admitted as obligatory among nations, will be productive of much injury and continual wars.—Under its sanction ever description of crime may be committed, and the law will be paralyzed in its effort to punish. The assassin will escape unpunished, provided his government choose to assume the responsibility of the crime. We hope that if McLeod is to be released, it may be done without recognizing so abominable a principle; for, if once admitted, it will have to be recognized in all future cases. We think it very possible that McLeod is not guilty of the offence charged against him; and that, if permitted to stand his trial, he will be honorably acquitted.—But the British government insists upon his being discharged without trial, as he acted under its authority. In this aspect of the case, the guilt or innocence of the prisoner is not to be a subject of examination: he is to be held acquitted by the mere assumption of the act by his government. This is the ground assumed by Great Britain to protect a British subject, who is charged with the deliberate murder of one or more American citizens within the jurisdiction of our laws; and we are told that we must yield to this assumption under the penalty of war. We hope that our government cannot be intimidated into the commission of the gross error of interfering in the case, and that the authorities of New York will not permit such interference if attempted.—We are conscious that war is a dreadful resort, but it is preferable to dishonor. On the part of the general government there should be no action in the case. If the authorities of New York think proper to release McLeod by nolle prosequi, or otherwise, it is an act which they are competent to perform, and by which the general government will not be committed on the principle contended for by England.

The Cathedral Fair. We again call attention to the ladies' fair now being held at the Assembly Rooms. We had the pleasure of visiting it, and are prepared to add our testimony in behalf of the superior style in which it has been gotten up, and the very circumspect manner of its management.

The object, it is no doubt known, is for the purpose of raising funds to complete that elegant structure, the Cathedral. The accomplishment of this will add much to the beauty and general appearance of that part of our city in which the noble and classic edifice is situated. This consideration should be a strong incentive to property holders, in that vicinity especially, to encourage largely the present fair, as they may be repaid by an enhancement in the value of their property.

We were struck with one very unique affair which is to be disposed of by lottery. It is a beautiful silver vase, having upon one side a representation of the Cathedral, and otherwise chastely ornamented. With it, is a costly gold pencil, both having been presented to the ladies by a gentleman of this city. We saw a pair of black eyes which we should be happy to purchase, or take a chance in.

Welcome to thee, Flora. To-day Flora, the fair queen of flowers, receives her rich coronet and will reign until shorn of her honors by the old grim, grey-bearded Frost King. To the little misses, the young lads and lasses, who have gone "a Maying," to participate in the luxuriant feast which the modest queen has spread out before them, we wish much happiness. May they live long to revel amid flowers underneath whose delicate leaves no thorn shall be found.

☞Reed, the young man stabbed at Boston, as mentioned in this paper on Monday, died of his wounds on Sunday. The murderer's name is Simmons, not Emmons. He is a native of Maine, but was last from Norfolk, Va.

Harmonic Society Concert. The cultivation of and taste for music appear to be on the rise in this city. The quick succession of Concerts recently, and the attendance of full and fashionable audiences, give proof that we are not entirely destitute of that refinement so essential to the well being of society. The first Concert of the Harmonic Society on Thursday night, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, was well and fashionably attended. This is a young association, though many veteran professors are enrolled among its members—their chief and only study is instrumental music, though their Concerts are to be embellished with the aid of such vocal talent as can be obtained. In conjunction with the Musical Association, whose forte is vocal music, they have already given a musical character to our city, and will yet do much towards the development of talent, provided they can preserve a nationality and cultivate a feeling of harmony amongst themselves so essential to the musical fraternity, and yet, we regret to say, so seldom found where by nature it should be.

The concert went off with unusual eclat, and the audience testified their respect for the performers and their good taste by the strictest attention. Three overtures, Massaniello, Il Pirata and Zauberflaute were performed in masterly style by an orchestra consisting of about thirty professors and amateurs; the parts were, generally speaking, well filled, and in Il Pirata particularly the effect was brilliant and the applause well merited. Mr. Allen was leader for the evening, and acquitted himself handsomely. Miss St. Luke was well received. We are amongst those who are not too easily won over by the wild and ranting Italian school of singing, and are bold enough to confess our abhorence for what are termed "recitatives," or half speaking and half singing. The young lady has, it seems, adopted the Italian school of singing; we regret it, for she has talent, though it is rough and unpolished, and would probably do better were she to turn her attention more to ballads. Her song of "Rapture Swelling" was heartily encored—though the selections from Norma were scarcely noticed.

Mr. Dielman's solo on the violin was a very happy effort; it was full of grace and expression, and was received with tremendous bursts of applause. The piano solo of Mr. Meineke and the flute solo of Mr. Lucchesi were also finely executed. A beautiful vocal quartette entitled "The Chapel" wound up the evening's performance; it was sung with great expression by two tenore and two bass voices, members of the German Leiderkrantz

The Concert, on the whole, was a rich treat, and we sincerely hope that it will be repeated, as numbers were unable to attend on account of the rain.

Oratorio of David. For some months past the Musical Association of this city have had this splendid oratorio of Nukumm's in rehearsal. It will be produced for the first time in this city on Monday evening next, with a powerful vocal cast, and a full and efficent orchestra. We have heard the rehearsal and can insure the lovers of music a rich and rare treat. It is to be hoped that the friends of the Association, and all those who have the musical reputation of the city at heart, will not be backward in sustaining the society in their efforts to cultivate a refined taste for the "harmony of sweet sounds." The association, we are sorry to learn, needs the helping hand of the public—let it be extended in the proper direction, for without something more substantial than bare praise, it most wither away.

Police. Francis Hagan, who about eight days ago arrived in this country from Ireland, was brought before Squire Jones charged with committing an assault on several persons in Wilk st., with a knife, among the rest a man named E. W. Robinson. Released on giving security in the sum of $100, to answer the charge at the city Court on Saturday next.

Alfred Patterson, negro, was committed to jail by Squire Jones, charged with assaulting and beating Caroline Stevens.

John Riddack, charged with assaulting John Drum. Released on giving security before squire Pechin to answer the charge at the city court.

Wm. Wright, charged with rioting, fighting and disturbing the peace in Guilford alley, was committed by squire Barnard.

Lottery case. Several suits were yesterday brought before a magistrate by the commissioners of lotteries in the name of the State of Maryland, against several individuals for disposing of tickets in the Town Hall Lottery, as considered contrary to law. By agreement of the attorneys of the respective parties, judgments pro forma were entered in favor of defendants in each case, with the view of taking them up to the next term of Baltimore County Court.

Fatal Accident. A colored man named Robert, about 26 years of age, carter for Mr. Barnard, N. Gay street, and a slave to Dr. James Prigg of Harford, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon. He had been driving a cart, when the horse attached to it ran off and dashed him against a large sycamore tree in Exeter street near Gay, producing instant death. An inquest was held over the body by Seth Pollard, coroner, and verdict of the jury, "death by accident."

☞At Mr. Spies' Grand Fancy May Ball, held on Thursday night last, at Washington Hall, the gas suddenly went out, and left the whole company in total darkness, when in the midst of a Spanish Dance. We would recommend Mr. Spies to light up with Webb's Camphine Oil, in the burning of which there is no mistake.

☞We perceive that Mr. Lennox is rigging up the little Adolphi in a very neat and handsome style, and will open next week under the title of the "National Theatre."

CITY COUNCIL—EXTRA SESSION.

First Branch, April 30, 1841. The Branch met pursuant to adjournment. Present, all the members except Mr. Keyser.

A communication was received through his honor the Mayor, from the President and Directors of the Baltimore and Chespeake Steam Towing Company, praying a loan of $10,000 from the City Treasury, for the purpose of repairing steam tow boats, &c. On motion of Mr. Dallam, the document was referred to the next annual session of the Councils.

The report of the joint committee on markets, relative to the erection of an additional market house at the Centre Market, was called up by Mr. Cole, and referred to the same committee.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Peregoy, authorizing the City Collector to advertise in other papers than those authorized by law.

A message was received from the Second Branch, returning the preamble and resolution of the First Branch, in relation to the death of the late President, endorsed concurred in, and appointed on their part Messrs. Frazier, Hook and Lucas. This branch appointed Messrs. Cole, Donovan and Dryden.

A resolution was received from the Second Branch in favor of David Clinton, authorizing him to remove a frame building. Passed.

The committee on police, by Mr. Gorsuch, made an unfavorable report on the petition of Jas. Duhamel.

A communication was received from Jesse Hunt, Register, asking that the city's proportion of expenses of the new record office be provided for, which, on motion of Mr. Dallam, was sent to the Second Branch to be referred to the joint committee on claims.

A petition from the lessees of the theatre in North street, asking to be exempt from taxes on the nights of performance, was received. On motion of Mr. Cole, referred to the committee on police.

On motion of Mr. Fields, the Council adjourned until Monday evening next at half past three o'clock.

BALTIMORE MARKET,
April 30, 1841.

Flour. The business in Howard-st. Flour during the week has been light. We quote common brands at $4.50. The wagon price continues at $4.37½. We have not been informed of any transactions in City Mills. The asking price is $4.50.

Grain. We quote Md. red Wheat at 86a90c., as to quality. Sales of Pa. red have been made during the week at 93c. We quote Md. white Corn at 44a47c., and of yellow do. at 50c. Rye—we quote Penna. at 56½, and Md. do. 54c. Clover seed we quote at $3.50a$4.20. Timothy Seed $2.60a$2.74. Oats, Md. 36a38c.; Va. do. 32a33c.

Cattle. Beef Cattle on the hoof we quote at $7.75a$8.25 per 100 lbs. Live Hogs are plenty, and will bring from $4.25 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.

Provisions. In the provision market we note no material change. For the past week transactions have been tolerable. We quote mess beef at $12.50, No. 1 at $10.50 &c. according to quality. Baltimore Mess Pork continues at $12.50; No. 1 $10.50, and prime from 8 to $8.50. Sales of Western Bacon have taken place at 6a6½c. per lb.; Hams do. 8a9c.; Middlings 6½c. and Shoulders 6½c.; prime Balt. cured Hams we quote at 10c. and Sides do. 8½c. Western Lard, No. 1, 8c. for cash. There is hardly anything doing in Western Butter. Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in mixed lots have been sold at from 6 to 7c. In Glades there is nothing doing.

Whiskey. We quote hhds. at 20c. and bbls. 22c. The wagon price exclusive of the bbls. is 18c.

We give below the decision of Justice Schaffer in the small note case, an account of which we gave a few days ago.

Isaiah Kroesen vs. the Western Mechanics' Savings Institution of Baltimore, incorporated 1839. Action brought before said Justice by plaintiff, to recover of the Institution the sum of two dollars other than "Rail Road stock orders," said orders having been tendered according to the tenor of the certificate of deposite. Trial on the 27th April, 1841; held under consideration to the 30th April, 1841.

In this case I have come to the conclusion, that it is an express contract made between the Institution and the receivers of their certificates of deposites. Of the form sued on in this case, I am of opinion, that the plaintiff, having received the certificate of deposite (of $2) bearing on its face the words "Redeemable in Rail Road stock orders," became a party to the contract, and bound himself, by so receiving, to the specific contract set forth by the Institution, and was bound to comply according to the tenor of said agreement. A tender of the Rail Road stock orders having been made by the counsel for the institution in compliance with their contract, and paid to await the decision, I therefore adjudge that the plaintiff is not entitled to recover. Nonsuit—judgment that the plaintiff pay costs.

Wm. George Baker, Esq. counsel for defendant. Alexus B. Wolf, Esq. counsel for plaintiff.

☞The young men of Boston, have taken an active and lively interest in forwarding the system of international exchanges as proposed by Mons. Vattemare. They have had a large meeting, adopted various resolutions, and seem determined to go ahead.

Balm of Gilead Buds. The Salem Gazette says:—"Those persons who have for many years kept a junk bottle of buds steeped in spirit, say that no one who knows the efficacy of this liquid for healing wounds, would be without the article. Now is the season, before the buds begin to open, to pick them."

☞Frederick Fritz, who has been convicted of murder in Carroll County, is to expiate his offence on Friday the 7th day of May. The ceremony if to be performed publicly in front of the jail.

To correspondents. We have a number of communications on hand which we have been prevented noticing from a press of other engagements. This must form our excuse for a want of earlier attention.

"The Gambler Justly Punished," translated from the Italian, by W. S. Buckminster, is approved, and shall appear.

Lines, by the "Union Bard," came to hand too late—also his requium.

"Columbia," by G. W. M. shall have a place.

H. A. M. who has written some stanzas on "Friendship," wishes us to point out the faults if refused. The rythm is altogether out of order. The style of his poetry requires that the lines should rhyme alternately. In the second verse "liyn" is made to stand in rhyme for "then." It won't do.

To Miss C. E. C., by "Jurat," is refused.

"The ode on Death," by "Truth," is well enough, but it don't suit at this time.

Lines to Miss M. V. L., by P., are faulty. The measure is incorrect. There are other objections—"sip" does not jingle well with "exquisite." This is enough.

"Juvenis" is refused—also E. A. F.

If T. L. Wise had have written with a pen instead of a pencil the lines would have received a consideration.

"Magdalene," by Emily, shall have a place.

"Spring Gales" are good, and shall have a place.

The copied stanzas by J. R. B. do not please us, though they are a quotation.

G. W. shall be attended to.

Here is a touch of the sublime which we extract from a refused production:

"The helpless infant, as I say,
Was torn to pieces and devoured,
And its little bones were carried away,
To the height of yon mountain and scoured."

"Augustine" must write a better hand, we cannot make it out.

We shall take it as a favor to hear again from our young, promising poet and correspondent Atkinson.

We have not time to point out all the faults in the pieces rejected, but if the authors will take the trouble to call, we will give them satisfactory reasons why judgment has been thus passed. We would say, however, do not be discouraged. "The world was not made in a day," nor is the mystery of poetry to be discovered in an hour.

Naval anecdote. There are many incidents in the early Naval History of our country worth preserving, among which is the following anecdote of the heroic Tingey. When he commanded the Ganges, in 1799, being off the Cape Nicola Mole, he was boarded by a boat from the English Frigate Surprise, and all the Englishmen on board were demanded, and also permission to examine the protections of the American seamen. Capt. Tingey returned the following manly and noble answer. "A public ship carries no protection for men but her flag. I do not expect to succeed in a contest with you, but I will die at my quarters before a man shall be taken from the ship." The crew gave three hearty cheers, hastened with alacrity to their quarters, and called for Yankee Doodle. The Captain of the Surprise, on hearing of the determination of the Yankees, chose rather to pursue his course, than to do battle for dead men.—Norfolk Herald.

Resuscitation. On Monday last, a son of Mr. S. Aylsworth, of Utica, fell into a well, where he remained some time before being discovered. When taken out of the water, all animation had ceased, and many supposed the child dead. He was, however, by judicious and unremitting applications, soon brought to, and restored again to life and consciousness.

Military and Naval Power of France.—The forces of France, by sea and land, amount to 493,671 men, and 112,774 horses, for the army; and for the navy to 225 armed vessels, viz: 20 ships of the line, 22 frigates, 43 corvettes, brigs, &c., and 25 steamers—manned by 46,418 seamen, besides 4,359 artillerymen, and 18,551 infantry, to defend the ports, arsenals, and colonies.

An Aged Nun. A Madrid paper mentions that a nun died lately in the Franciscan convent at Albacetta, at the age of one hundred and nine years. She was born in 1731, during the reign of Philip V. She entered the convent at the age of fourteen, made her profession at fifteen, and consequently had worn the garb ninety-two years.

Interesting fact. The Rev. Mr. Bacon, in an address on the death of President Harrison, at New Haven, mentioned the fact that General Harrison was a descendant of Major General T. Harrison, one of the members of the British Parliament who signed the death warrant of Charles the 1st. The announcement of this fact caused a very visible sensation—and the minds of most present probably reverted to the circumstance that within a rod of the pulpit from which the reverend orator was speaking were reposing the bodies of Goffe, Dixwell and Whalley, three other members of the same parliament, and signers of the same death warrant against the British King!—Charles was beheaded on the 30th of January, 1648.

Shipping of the Different States. Massachusetts owns 526,000 tons of shipping—New York 468,000—Maine 282,000—Maryland 110,000; Pennsylvania 112,000—Louisiana 109,000.

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY,

No. 17 HARRISON ST.

"NO CURE NO PAY."

HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

☞ Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

JAMES A HENDERSON, Begs leave to inform his friends and the public generally, that he has made such arrangements as will put him in possession of a constant supply of French, English, and American LEATHER, of the finest quality, which he would be pleased to manufacture in BOOTS, SHOES, or PUMPS, for those who may favor him with their orders. He takes pleasure in stating that he has secured the services of Mr. DAMERSON, (formerly in the employ of Mr. Ackland) who will attend especially to the Cutting Department. With those facilities, the subscriber promises to present his BOOTS, SHOES, and PUMPS, and all other articles in his line, with a neatness of workmanship that cannot fail to please those who may favor him with a trial. He would take this opportunity to return his sincere thanks to his customers for their liberal patronage for past years, and hopes, by a strict attention to business, a continuation of the same. INVALUABLE!

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with bleeding from the Lungs, coughing night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

[From the National Gazette.]

BANK OF THE UNITED STATES—SIXTH LETTER FROM NICHOLAS BIDDLE, ESQ. TO THE HON. JOHN M. CLAYTON.

ANDALUSIA, Bucks County, April 25, 1841.

Hon. John M. Clayton, Dover, Delaware.

MY DEAR SIR:—I am going to tell you, this morning, a very strange and true history about this Committee.

At the close of their report, they say, "it must be also mentioned that among the expenditures of the Bank there is entered at various dates, commencing May 5th, 1836, sums amounting in all to $618,640 15, as paid on the receipts of Mr. N. Biddle and J. Cowperthwaite," and "Cashier's Vouchers—As the Committee were unable to obtain satisfactory information upon the subject of these expenses from the books or officers of the Bank—application was made by letter to Mr. N. Biddle and J. Cowperthwaite, from whom no reply has been received."

On reading this, no one could fail to understand that there were 618,000 dollars, which I had obtained from the Bank, and on being questioned about it had declined giving any answer, from which the natural inference was that these funds were never accounted for. This is evidently what the Committee intended to be understood—this is what every body does understand.

Now, what I am about to say is so incredible that I would not say it unless I could clearly prove it. It is—

First, that at the moment of charging me with these 618,000 dollars, the Committee knew perfectly well, that nearly three hundred thousand dollars of that sum had been expended since I left the Bank—and

Second, that the remainder had been regularly passed by the Board of Directors on the report of a committee of which the Chairman, Joshua Lippincott, was the identical Joshua Lippincott, Chairman of this very Committee of Investigation.

You are surprised at this. You will be shocked when you see the proofs of it.

1. In this sum of 618,000 dollars, are included two sums, one of $181,000 and the other, 99,000

Making, $280,000

The first of these sums was passed to the Profit and Loss account on the 6th of January, 1840, on the same vouchers described in the report—and it was so passed on the recommendation of the Dividend Committee of the following Directors:

Messrs. Newkirk, Cope,
Bohlen, Price,
Cabot.

The second was passed in like manner to the Profit and Loss account on the 6th of July, 1840, on the report of a Dividend Committee consisting of

Messrs. Eyre, Taylor,
Martin, Neff,
Connell.

You naturally ask, is it possible that the Committee of Investigation could have known this fact? I answer, not only did they certainly know it, but it is impossible that they should not know it. The same page which contains the account of these expenses, up to a certain period, continued it down to the latest period. It is one continuous list of expenses, and he who could see the expenditures during my time must unavoidably see those since that time.

But this knowledge shall be brought directly home to them.

Take, for instance, the sum of $99,000. On the 16th March, 1841, the Committee of Investigation wrote to the President of the Bank, asking him for information, among other things, about that specified sum, covered by the vouchers of A. Lardner, Cashier. The President answered in writing, that that sum of $99,000 was disbursed under the direction of a Committee of the Board of Directors, appointed on the 3d of March, 1840.

This Committee then had the minutes of the Bank before them—they read the resolution—they saw the names of the Committee of Directors who had disbursed the money—they were all Directors of the Bank at the moment when this committee were making their investigations; they were almost daily under the same roof—and yet knowing all this, the Committee never say one single word to these Directors—they never say one single word of them—but they suppress all these circumstances, and throw the whole odium of these identical $99,000 upon me who had left the Bank fifteen months before.

Look nearer at the injustice of this conduct.

They say that they could get no "satisfactory information from the officers of the Bank."—Why, was not Mr. Dunlap, the President, an officer of the Bank, and did he not in writing approve them that this money was disbursed by the Committee of Directors? Was not that information?

Mr. Cowperthwaite, the Cashier, went to the Chairman of this Committee of Investigation and gave him a written explanation of what relates to him. Was not this information?

"I called," says he, "upon Mr. Lippincott, and expressed my anxiety to give to the Committee any information I possessed on that or any other subject, stating to him the fact that I had been refused permission to see these vouchers. I then stated to him what my recollection was respecting them. He requested it might be put down in writing, and a short memorandum was accordingly made."

They saw the minutes of the Bank, where this committee of Directors was appointed, who, they were assured by the President of the Bank, made these disbursements. Was not that information? Are not the minutes books?

Yet, in defiance of all this, they declare that they were "not able to obtain satisfactory information upon the subject of these expenses, from the books or officers of the Bank."

In the same way with regard to the $280,000 charged in January, 1840. They saw the names, the dates, the sums. If they were in Mr. Cowperthwaite's time, he had gone to the Chairman and offered the explanation—if they were since Mr. Cowperthwaite's time, Mr. Dunlap had explained to them that this Committee of Directors were the persons to apply to. But this Committee would do nothing. They did not ask the Committee of Directors; they would not listen to Mr. Cowperthwaite. One thing, however, at last, was perfectly certain, that whoever made these disbursements, I could by no possibility have had any thing to do with them. And yet they fasten the whole on me, and make every one believe that these expenses were incurred by me. Observe, too, the artifice by which this conclusion is made to be believed. "Among the expenditures of the Bank," say the Committee, "there is entered, at various dates, commencing May 5, 1836, sums amounting in all," &c. &c. Commencing May 5, 1836, but they do not say where ending. That important fact is studiously hidden, because it would have been seen at once where my responsibility ended, and that these $280,000 were disbursed after I left the Bank.

You see then, that this Committee of Investigation, knowing perfectly well that these $280,000 could by no possibility be imputed to me, have deceived the stockholders into the belief that I had received the money.

You see again that this committee declare that they could get no information from the books and officers of the Bank, when the books with the facts were before them, and both Mr. Dunlap and Mr. Cowperthwaite had given the information in writing.

You are astonished at all this. Be more astonished at what follows. In all these various disbursements for the Bank my agency was one rather of form than of substance. When necessary for any purpose, some committee or some duly authorized person made the disbursement, and the vouchers to pass the account were signed by myself, without of course receiving or having any thing to do with the sums in question, but merely as an evidence that such sums might be or had been disbursed. That, for instance, was the case with the sum of $99,000; the cashier giving his voucher, and the committee giving their authority in writing, though it was more commonly done by verbal instruction, as in the case of discounts by the committees. Of course after a lapse of years an officer would find it difficult to recall what was the object of any particular disbursement, or after many changes in the boards of Directors, to show any written authority or receipt from any committee; but still, this confidence in verbal orders is so natural on the part of those engaged together daily in a great multiplicity of transactions, that written orders and instructions are not habitual. Knowing little of the details of these disbursements, my confidence was that all of them would pass through some revision by a competent committee before they were finally disposed of.

Accordingly, with regard to these identical disbursements, made during my administration, the whole of them were duly examined, reported upon by a committee, and confirmed by the Board before I left the Bank; the chairman of the committee so reporting them being the same individual who is now chairman of the committee of investigation.

On the 2d July, 1838, the Dividend Committee, consisting of Messrs. Lippincott, (chairman,) Wain, Cabot, Lewis and Vanderkemp, made their report.

They presented the Profit and Loss account, which the leading item was—

1838.	DR.
July 2. To bonus and permanent expenses,		$3,510,694 29
This consists of two items—
The Bonus,	$2,822,662 30
And the permanent expenses,	688,031 99
Making exactly the		$3,510,694 29

The Committee say that "the amount of profits arising from discounts, exchange, interest and other sources during the last six months is $1,992,202 02. Deducting from this sum all the expense and charges of the institution for the same period, amounting to $492,758 55, the net profits will amount to $1,479,443 47." So much for the current expenses. Now for the permanent expenses. After giving some details of the business of the Bank, the Committee proceeds: "These sums, together with $5,255,972 02, the balance remaining to the credit of Profit and Loss, as reported by the last Dividend Committee, form an aggregate of $7,727,382 09. Against which there are now charged the bonus paid for the charter, and the permanent expenses of the Bank, amounting together to $3,510,694 29, leaving a balance of net profits of $4,216,687 80." And having so settled it, the Committee propose "that a dividend of four per cent. be now declared on the capital stock of this Bank.

"Signed, JOSHUA LIPPINCOTT,
"Chairman of the Dividend Committee."

Here, then, is the report of the Dividend Committee, who, before making the dividend, are of course to examine the expenditures. Those merely current they deduct at once from the current profits—those not arising from current expenditures—and to be gradually spread like the bonus over the whole surface of the charter, are put with the bonus, and form an item of Profit and Loss. Mr. Lippincott and the Dividend Committee report both—they have of course examined both, and recommend to the Board what to do with both. The Board adopts the report, charging the current expenses against the current profits, and charging to Profit and Loss the expenses of a more durable character under the head of permanent expenses.

Remark the phraseology—"against which are now charged"—that is, for the first time charged. These disbursements were recorded as "Permanent Expenses," on a book called the "State of the Bank," which was on the table of the Directors every day they met. And now the Dividend Committee for the first time transferred them to the Profit and Loss account. It is this very transfer—this change of place—this handling these accounts and vouchers, which proves that the Dividend Committee, with Mr. Lippincott at their head, had examined them and assigned them to a new place. That he and the Committee should not have examined all these expenses with their vouchers is incredible—and what makes the case much stronger is that at that very time he was actually Chairman of the Committee on the State of the Bank, in which other capacity it was made his duty to examine these vouchers and expenses.

Now this sum of $688,031 99 thus charged by the Board to Profit and Loss, contained all the expenditures made during my administration included in this sum of $618,000.

I repeat, therefore, what I began by asserting, that the Committee knew perfectly well that nearly three hundred thousand dollars of these expenses which they ascribe to me, were made since I left the Bank, and that the remainder was charged to Profit and Loss by the Board of Directors on the recommendation of this very Chairman of the Committee of Investigation himself.

And now, my dear sir, let me ask, did you ever hear of any thing like this on the face of the earth—any thing so ungenerous—so unfair—so unjust?

With great respect, yours, N. BIDDLE.

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 39 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparalleled, and once-safe manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral incorruptible Teeth, and can confidently assert that they are superior to any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth FOREVER retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. It is also remembered, that Dr. W. proportions his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when PURE GOLD is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dentistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.

1. Artificial Teeth out of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.

2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.

3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as CHEAP WORK is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even SILVER is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent use in the mouth.

4. Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

5. Those individuals who cannot afford to pay the fee of 50 cents for extraction, can have this important operation performed any morning WITHOUT CHARGE, by calling between the hours of 8 and 9 A. M.

Individuals requiring the assurance of a Dentist, may avail themselves of Dr. W's services at any hour of the day throughout the year, to suit their own convenience.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 169 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Locx, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no names to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as these register correctly and in plain English.

For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever and ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description Sick headache, heartburn dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will there find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedules:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	8 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fred'ksburg	10 P.M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection through, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads, Weather, and Steamsail must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of
STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office.

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the south via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.

Will there unite 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.

Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whenever they uniformly arrive before dark—if in rare instances detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point south of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good night's rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.
[From a very Respectable Farmer.]

STAFFORD COUNTY, VA. SEPT. 7th, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I think I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhubarb and soda three or four times every day for these many years, with little or no relief, and my legs and ankles were so much swelled that I was unable, at times, to attend to my business. But since you made me a present of a box of your Family Pills I have taken 1 or 2 of them at night in going to bed, and now my acid stomach is relieved, the swelling in my legs has nearly disappeared, and I do not think that I have been hindered one day with the pain in my head since I began to take your valuable medicine. I think the Lord directed you to Fredericksburg, to administer to my relief. (Blessed be his holy name, I am greatly relieved.) There is living in my neighborhood a poor old woman who had been sick for a long time and could not get relief; at length I purchased a box of your pills and gave them to her, after awhile I saw her out and about her business, and she said that the one box had cured her. I have spread the fame of your valuable medicine amongst my acquaintances, and many have purchased. Now, as it respects myself, my friends tell me when I go to town, that they have not seen me look so well for many years, and I say to them, 'I will tell you the secret why; about three ago I met with a Dr. Davies in town, and he gave me a box of pills, and they have made me look as you now see me.' And now, my friend, I hope that the Lord will continue to be with you, and make you useful to your fellow creatures, as he has hitherto done. I remain with respect. CHARLES BRUCE.

THE BEAUTIES OF MAY.

Sweet May, gentle May, is again drawing near,
And spreading its beauties around,
Aurora's gay smile on thy flowers appear,
To kiss all the gems that are found.

The brooks of the valley now open their streams,
And softly they murmur away,
While Heaven's pond mirror adorns with its beams,
The blossoms of flowery May.

The fields and the meadows—O, sweet is the scene!
To the eye as it wanders along,
And birds seem to welcome their mantle of green,
With notes of their warbling song.

The pure and fair lily, that emblem of Spring,
Adorns the Earth's emerald toe,
And yields up its fragrance to nature's high king,
The sweets of its sainsture race.

The dew drop of Heaven looks sweet on its lips,
When morn's rosy colours appear,
And brightly it shines till the warbler sips,
The last of the sparkling tear.

The spangles of Heaven seem shining more bright,
When nature's gay works are discerned,
And landscapes of beauty more dear to the sight,
For Spring, lovely Spring has returned.

THE ENGLISH SEAMAN IN CHINA.

LOVE MAKING IN CHINA. I was poking about the deserted town the day after we were assigned to our several locations, when, in a street any thing but a principal one, and at a window of a house any thing but an inferior one, I saw, or thought I saw, a pair of eyes peeping from over a screen, and a pair of hands resting upon the top thereof. The house had its gable end to the street in which I was, and the window was the first round the corner. I caught the vision as I passed. I returned and returned, and the eye and hands were still there. Somehow or other I concluded that they belonged to a female; but as it was clearly possible they might not, it would have been unsatisfactory to go away wondering. I therefore looked over my shoulder, and, no one being in sight, I very quietly slippid round to the door, and not thinking it necessary to wait till it was opened, (I had no very distinct idea how I was to express my wish on the subject, for there was neither knocker nor bell,) I applied my shoulder decisively to it, and it yielded to the persuasion. I had hardly got inside the threshold, when the eyes and hands I had seen made their appearance, in company with the rest of the proprietor, the whole figure in a state of evident trepidation. I believe you know I do not speak Chinese, so I made no attempt to explain myself by words. I dropped on my knees, and would have kissed the young lady's foot, but she drew back, and I therefore kissed the ground two or three times, after which I placed myself on one knee, and concluding that Chinese have hearts as well as other people, and, probably, in the same place, I pressed mine with intense earnestness, and looked—I am not exactly sure how I looked, but I soon saw that a woman is a woman all over the world, for her little eyes sparkled, and her little hands put back a little veil that was worked in gold thread, and her little feet pattered towards me a step or two; I cannot say my goddess walked, and altogether she appeared as much impressed with my appearance as a modest man could reasonably expect. I never was so surprised in my life at the ease with which I reassured her, for, between ourselves, I expected, being of China, the precious porcelain would break to pieces from very fright. I had only knelt two or three minutes, struck my left side three or four gentle slaps, and clasped my hands, just, by the by, as you squeeze a lemon, when I saw I was any thing but a monster in her eyes. I would have given all possible promotion and prize money just to have been able to say a word or two in Chinese, but it was out of the question. I had therefore but one resource; I spoke English to her, and told her, of course, she had nothing to fear, that no one living should harm her, and that I considered she was a celestial of the first water, and no mistake, left for the express purpose of striking into dazzled bewilderment with her radiant beauty the without savages. All this, I have no doubt, she fully comprehended. In return, she told me, in Chinese, that all her family had fled in terror, she supposed, for that, on coming home late one evening from a tea party, she found the house empty; she was preparing to follow, and had got nearly out of the western gate, when her heart failed her at the sight of some of our men, and she returned. She added, that there was not a soul in the house but herself, and that she had been very frightened, but she was not frightened any longer. Have you ever seen La Etuette di Portici? Of course you have. Very well, then you know how I got all this. The house was a very neat affair, indeed it looked like a large toy: there were five or six apartments leading from one another, and upstairs, not exactly what we mean by upstairs, but yet above the others, (the ascent was little more than a gentle plane,) as many more. My little friend refreshed me with a luscious liquor, which she gave me in a small glass globe, covered with filagree work, and standing on a carved ivory stem, in shape not unlike our modern champagne glasses. I think it must have been decidedly intoxicating in its effects, for, though I took but two glasses, I felt an affectionateness very soon after. I might have gone to sleep, but the curiosity of my fair hostess kept me awake; and, finding that I was a very harmless thing to play with, she pulled me about almost as much as if I had been one of their own puzzles. I think I remained nearly two hours with her, ransacking, in a quiet way, every thing in the house, which she allowed me to do, seeing the pleasure the novelty gave me. This whole affair appeared to me when I returned home like a dream. If women all over the world are not riddles, what are they? The girl made me understand as perfectly as if she had been brought up in the finishing academy near London, that I was not to tell a soul of her existence. She showed me provisions, dried fruits, and cakes, and wines, that would last her ten years; and, seeing that I understood I was to be mum, which I made her do by pretending to sew my lips together, at which she laughed heartily and clapped her hands, she invited me to call again, to which I said yes, by slipping behind a screen, springing forward, and seizing her foot, which, this time, she did not withdraw, but rather allowed me to examine, and I can confidently say it was more like a small bag of walnuts than any thing else. I intend to keep my promise, and if I am not "found out," I don't think she will be, while things stand as they do at present. I have hardly time to add that I am, "my dear ——, yours, very sincerely."—Extract of a letter from Chusan.

THE GAMBLER JUSTLY PUNISHED.

From the Italian.

BY W. J. BUCKMINSTER.

A certain person being one night in Paglia, happened to meet three companions at an inn.—Two were from Pistoia, the third from Prato. After supper they began to play. In a short time one of the Pistoians losing what he had staked, was left without a farthing; he began to fret, curse and blaspheme frightfully; thus raving he went to sleep.

The other two, having played some time, thought they would play a trick upon the one that had gone to bed. Perceiving that he was asleep, they put out all the lights and covered up the fire: then they began to talk loudly and make a great noise, pretending to dispute about the game—one saying "you have taken away the lower card." The other denied it, saying "you have given me a false one; the cards shall be dealt again," and the like, with so much din that the one who was sleeping awoke, thinking they were playing and talking as if they saw the cards. Not seeing any light in the room he said "what the deuce will you gain by bawling all night?" Again he lay down as if to sleep.

The two companions gave him no answer, but went on in the same way, so that the third being more awakened began to wonder within himself: and seeing neither fire nor light, although they were playing and disputing, he said "how can you see the cards without any light?" One of the two replied "you must have lost your sight together with your money. Do you not see the two candles we have here?" The one in bed rose on his arm and almost angry said, "Either am I drunk and blind, or you tell lies." The others went groping to the bed, pretending to believe he was making game of them; but he still replied: "I say I do not see you."

At last the two pretended to be greatly surprised; and one said to the other, "Alas! it seems to me that he speaks truly; give me that candle and let us see if his sight is not destroyed."—The poor fellow thought he had certainly become blind; and weeping bitterly, said, "Oh! my friends, I am blind." He immediately began to call upon "our Lady of Loretto," and pray her to pardon the oaths and maledictions he had uttered after losing his money.

His friends comforted him, saying "it is not possible that you do not see us; it is a fancy you have taken into your head." "Oh! dear," replied the other, "it is no fancy; I do not see you any more than if I never had eyes in my head."—"You have, however, clear sight," resumed the two as they said to each other. "See, how well he opens his eyes—how clear they are. Who would believe that he cannot see?"

The poor fellow wept all the while and prayed for mercy. At last they said to him, "Make a vow to go to "our Lady of Loretto," devoutly, barefoot and uncovered: for this is the best remedy one can have; and we, meanwhile, will go to Acqua Pendente or to some neighboring place to look for a physician; we will not fail you in any thing possible." The poor fellow knelt down in the bed, and with many tears and bitter repentance for having blasphemed, made a solemn vow to go to "our Lady of Loretto" and offer her a pair of silver eyes—not to eat meat on Wednesday, nor eggs on Friday—and to fast on bread and water every Saturday, in honor of our Lady, if she would grant him the favor of restoring his sight.

The two companions entering another room, lighted a candle and came back with great laughter into the presence of him they had frightened. As you may suppose, however, though free from so great a misfortune, he was so much astounded by what had passed, that he could neither laugh nor speak. The companions did nothing but provoke him, saying he was bound to pay all these vows because he had obtained the favor.

We extract the following lamentable tale of depravity from the Gazette des Tribunaux:

"About six months ago a lady named Irroy, living in the Rue Lavoisier, lost a suit at law, whereby she was deprived of the greatest part of her fortune. She, however, still continued to keep up the same establishment, and made no diminution in her expenditure. She was 38 years of age, and had two daughters, the eldest of whom is 17, and has left school with an accomplished education. The youngest, Mille. Claire, has scarcely attained her 13th year, and is still at a first-rate school in the Rue de Clichy. About 10 in the evening of the 2d inst. Mme. Irroy and her two daughters entered the shop of M. Aubree, watchmaker, at No. 134 Rue Saint Honore, desiring to be shown some high-priced watches, the mother wishing to make a present of one to each of the young ladies. The customers were presented with chairs—the mother took her seat at a rather remote part of the shop, while the two sisters drew close to the counter. They were very difficult to please, and occupied a long time in discussing the beauties and merits of the various watches presented to their choice—the mother occasionally, but rarely, interfering with her advice and opinion. While the discussion between M. Aubree and his young customers was going on, the door was opened, and M. Crochard, a watchmaker in the Rue Dauphine, entered, and, with much agitation, exclaimed to the ladies, 'You did not take so much time in robbing me.' Mme. Irroy and her daughters were for a moment astounded, but soon recovered their self-possession, and demanded an explanation; but, in a moment afterwards, Mlle. Claire, the youngest, suffered to drop from her muff a watch she had attempted to conceal. Scarcely had this incident occurred, when the shopman of Mme. Baillet, another watchmaker in the Rue de l'Ancienne Comedie, entered, and accused the three ladies of having committed a similar theft in her house the preceding evening. These accumulated charges could not be overlooked, and Mme. Irroy and her two unhappy children were forthwith conducted before the commissary of police of the quarter. Here the mother and eldest daughter made a firm denial of any participation in the crimes imputing to them, but Claire, the youngest, confessed them, protesting that she alone was guilty. The magistrate, doubting the truth of this avowal, ordered the mother and elder sister to be taken into another room, and by his further interrogatories elicited from the poor deluded child that, for three months past, she and her sister, at the instigation of their mother, had committed repeated robberies in watchmakers' and jewellers's shops, and that in accusing herself alone she had but obeyed the injunctions of her mother, who assured her that no harm would come to her, as she was under the age of discernment. The mother, on being called in, and hearing a repetition of the declarations of her child, confessed that they were true, but attempted to exculpate herself on the ground of mental alienation caused by the distress created by what she called the unjust decree which deprived her of her property. On her residence being searched a box was found containing a large quantity of stolen jewelry, besides numerous tickets for pledges made at Mont-de-Piete. Mme. Irroy and her eldest daughter have been committed to the Prefecture of Police, and the youngest was sent back to the school, in the Rue de Clichy there to be detained till called forward as a witness against her mother and sister.

THE U. S. BANK. We learn that the papers are now in preparation, with regard to the Trusteeships that have been determined upon by this Institution. One of these is intended to secure the city banks that hold $5,800,000 in post notes—the other is designed for the benefit of the circulation and depositors. Real estate, stocks, &c., will be placed in the hands of the Trustees; and we may presume that the circulation and deposits will be paid as speedily as possible.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

☞ The circulation of the U. S. Bank at the present time, is estimated at $2,700,000. The money deposits in the Bank in this city are under $300,000. The Directors are making every effort in their power, to effect an arrangement, to enable them to liquidate both these claims at the earliest moment possible.—Ib.

☞ The following lately appeared in the New Bedford Register as an advertisement. Friend "B." certainly has a quaint, queer way of doing business, and "Robert" had better look out for breakers:

Robert I tell thee again, if that dollar is not paid this week, which thou borrowed to pay for posting thy wife, I will tell the two first letters of thy name next week, and it may appear that it was the man that ought to have been posted, and not the woman.

LAKE CHAMPLAIN. It is said that loaded teams were crossing Lake Champlain at Plattsburgh on Friday last. There are three feet of snow only ten or twelve miles west of the Lake. The farmers are nearly all out of hay, and their cattle are in a starving condition.

FRESHET. The Connecticut has been greatly swollen by the late rains. Yesterday the water came to a stand, being nearly into Commerce-st., and filling all the cellars on the east side of said street.—Hartford Courant.

ARREST OF A MURDERER. Willis G. Carroll, the supposed murderer of the Rev. Mr. Lindsey, near Hendersonville in Sumner county a few days since, has been arrested in the Indian Territory, west of Arkansas.

FORGER ARRESTED. Robert Cragin, a lad of 19, on Monday drew from the Shoe and Leathers' Bank, at Boston, $241 on a forged check, in the name of Grant, Daniell & Co. He was, however, secured.

☞ The New York Times says: "One of the men engaged in the recent great forgeries, it is said, has a small defect or blemish in one of his eyes.

The New York Express says that the quantity of produce that has been received in that city this season by land, will no doubt be greater than in any former year.

THE STOCKHOLDERS of the U. S. Bank are to hold another meeting on the 4th of May.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

MEDICAL AID. The success that has attended the treatment of many thousand cases of Venereal Complaints for twenty years past, induces the subscriber to inform the public, that he may be daily seen and consulted on all cases of the kind, recent and chronic, and on diseases of the urinary organs generally. His treatment is speedy and certain, adapted to the various constitutions of his patients; the medicines are so mild that the most delicate may take them, without any restrictions in diet or occupation. Many cases that have resisted every other mode of treatment have speedily yielded to this, and many persons who have tried all the quack nostrums of the day are frequently calling on the subscriber to have the injuries they have sustained by their use relieved. An early application is advisable in all cases, which may be made at Dr. WARNER'S OFFICE, Caroline street, one door north of Wilk street. Medicines furnished in quantities to suit applicants. ap7-eolm*

INTEREST ON CITY TAXES.

RESOLVED by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, That the collector of the taxes which have been levied prior to the year 1841, and remain unpaid, be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to charge interest for all such unpaid bills from the 31st December of each year for which said levies were made, until such bills are paid; and the interest so charged, when collected, to be returned to the Register, with a statement showing in what account said interest is to be credited: Provided, nevertheless, that in case all delinquents pay their respective bills to the collector on or before the 1st day of May next ensuing, then in that case, interest shall not be charged. (Signed)

HENRY SNYDER, President First Branch.
ROB. HOWARD, President Second Branch.
Approved March 19th, 1841.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.
DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND,
For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Stricture, Diabetes or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail in effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. Also, of L. S. THOMAS, corner of Briton and Forest streets—with full directions accompanying each bottle at $1 per bottle.

☞ For sale in Washington city by ROBERT PATTERSON, cor. 9th street and the avenue, and CHAS. C. STOTT, corner of 7th street and the avenue, and by H. WADE, on 7th street.

THE MARYLAND ARCADE
Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS!

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hat: Splendid Russia Hats at $2.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3.00; Clipt Nutria Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be ironed over and put in shape free of charge.
fe4-3m* POLYDORE E. RILEY.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

N. B. The trade supplied with HATS in the rough of all qualities. mh20-3m

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

MONDAY MORNING, MAY 3, 1841.

To our friends in Washington City, D. C. Our Agent in Washington requests us to state, for the information of all concerned, that subscribers to the Clipper will be served regularly, by leaving their names at the following places, viz: Mr. H. R Robinson's Print Store, Penn. Avenue, between 3 and 4½ streets, or at the Book Store of Mr. Kennedy, Penn. Avenue, between 12th and 13th streets, at which places books are provided for the purpose of registering the names of subscribers.

Adversity and Prosperity. It has been declared that one of the most interesting objects in nature is "a brave man struggling against the storms of Fate." The interest excited in this case arises from the impression that it requires extraordinary moral fortitude to enable a man to sustain himself in the depths of adversity—and it is undoubtedly true, that misfortune is too often attended by despondency, if not despair.—Some persons, on slight reverses of fortune, relinquish exertion and deem it impracticable to recover their former position. This exhibits a weak mind and an unconfiding heart: for that which we consider misfortune, not unfrequently proves to be of the greatest advantage. If the mind be properly disciplined and the man be duly impressed with his responsibilities, he will possess an intellectual elasticity which will enable him to bear up against adversity, and to overcome obstacles which are apparently insurmountable. We admire the individual who, if his house be burned to-day, is seen clearing away the rubbish to-morrow; for he exhibits a fortitude which must insure his success, and sets an example which may be of advantage. Another in his situation, and destitute of proper energy, would sigh over his misfortune, and, perhaps, seek to bury the recollection of it in intoxication. How often is misfortune offered as the apology for intemperance—and it is because so many yield under slight pressure, that he who encounters adversity with a manly spirit becomes an object of admiration.

It has been supposed by moralists that the disposition is more truly developed in adversity than in prosperity; but we think this doubtful.—In adverse circumstances we are apt to assume humility, though pride may rankle at the heart. Our deportment is controlled by our condition—our aspirations are suppressed by the apparent impossibility of their ever being realized. We treat others with respect because we need their confidence and support, and because we have never been placed in a situation to draw forth the worst passions of our nature. Interest and comfort combine to keep us in an even course, and it requires no great exertion of fortitude to prevent our deviating. Having never trod "the flowery paths" of the wealthy, the propensities of our nature have lain dormant—and we fancy ourselves strong, because we are untried. A bad man, under such circumstances, may move through life, without eliciting much of censure or observation. If we would desire to know the true character of an individual we must place him in prosperity—give him wealth and power. It is in this situation that his latent feelings will be brought into action; and here we shall have the true test of his disposition. We think it more difficult to bear prosperity than adversity, with equanimity—for the inclination is too general, when we "feel power" to "forget right." We have known many who, having slowly and humbly crawled to the highest round of the ladder, have instantly kicked the dirt off their feet into the eyes of those who assisted in their elevation. It is difficult to look from an eminence without becoming dizzy. If then he who nobly struggles to overcome "the storms of Fate," presents an object of interest and admiration—we think him excelled by the man, who, amidst power and splendor, preserves himself free from pride and vainglory, and restrains his passions within the limits of morality and religion.

Musical Association. This evening the magnificent Oratorio of David will be performed for the first time in this city. The members of the Musical Association have been at much trouble and expense in producing this splendid effort of one of our most popular modern composers. The choruses are full and powerful and the orchestra mostly composed of members of the "Harmonic Society." We trust there will be a general attendance of the lovers of music.

Harmonic Society. This society repeated their concert on Saturday night to a select though not a crowded audience. If any thing the performances were better than at their first concert, and the audience gave many loud testimonials of their approbation.

In our notice of the first concert we neglected to mention that Mr. B. Nessinger performed a solo on the violin with his usual neatness and expression.

From the Pacific. By the ship Osage, from Valparaiso, letters have been received from the U. S. ship Constitution to the 27th of January last—officers and crew are all well—only four of the five hundred composing the crew have died. The steam ships between Callao and Valparaiso have stopped running for want of coal of the proper quality. The U. S. ship St. Louis had sailed for the Marquesa and Sandwich Islands and the Coast of Mexico.

Mr. Biddle's Letters. These letters, independent of their dissection of the report made by the committee of stockholders of the Bank of the United States, contain some wholesome observations on Banking. In the fifth letter, Mr. B. says, "officers of Banks ought not to be borrowers at all—never large borrowers." This is true, but is unfortunately contrary to the usual practice. In the Bank of the United States, the officers appear to have been unrestricted in their accommodations; and we fear that the example has been followed in many of the state banks.—Where these facilities are afforded to bank officers, the general benefit of the institutions is impaired, and a direct encouragement given to gambling speculations. Officers of Banks should not be engaged in stock-jobbing, much less should these institutions supply them with the means of pursuing such business. The temptation to fraud is too great, and we have recent instances where it has proved irresistable.

The expositions in relation to the Bank of the United States and other institutions have been of a startling character, and have greatly diminished public confidence in the Banking system.—It is universally conceded that there must be a thorough reformation and reorganization, before the Banks can regain the stand they once occupied; and the sooner the work is commenced the better will it be for the community. It is impossible that the present unsettled and deranged condition of things can be permitted to continue—for the ruinous losses sustained by the depreciation of bank-stocks have produced a general disinclination to hold them at any price; and an anxious solicitude that something shall be done to give them greater stability, by affording more ample security that the Banks will not be mismanaged. Under present circumstances, the strongest and best conducted Banks are liable to like suspicion with those which are weak and badly managed. Uncertainty attaches to all, and prevents each from becoming useful to the full extent of its capacity. The heaviest weights upon these institutions are the large borrowers. In some instances a few individuals are permitted to sweep the entire capital, and in many the loans are so large as to paralyze all efforts to place the institutions in a sound condition. In the Bank of the United States a few officers obtained loans to an enormous amount; and, having failed in their speculations, the Bank was compelled to receive payment in depreciated property; and such will be the case with other institutions where officers are permitted to help themselves.

Banking, when carried to excess, is injurious, even if the Banks be conducted with prudence. It begets extravagance, and disinclines men to rely upon honorable labor. We have not only the evil of an excess, but bad management superadded; and are writhing under the infliction consequent upon this state of things, without hope of relief except by the reduction of the number of Banks and correction in their management.

Melancholy disaster. The New Orleans Picayune of the 22d ult. says: We obtain the following particulars from the manifest of the steamboat Victoria, which arrived on the 21st from Batesville, (Arkansas.) When about 25 miles above the mouth of Black River, they picked up a woman and child who were on a snag in the middle of the river, and had been in this situation for four or five hours. The woman gave her name as Litterell. She stated that she was moving from her former residence at Powhattan, and having put all her furniture and about 500 lbs. of bulk bacon in two canvass bags lashed together—she, with her daughter aged 15, a young lad, her son, the child saved with her, and a baby—all her own family—there was also a young man named Pebert and a lad named J. Gray, who managed the boat; that the boat struck the snag on which she was found and instantly capsized, drowning the five persons who were on board with her.

They brought her down to Elizabeth, and raised a subscription of fifty dollars for her. She was a widow and lost all her little property by the accident.

Shocking Accident at Barnstable. The Barnstable Patriot relates a distressing accident at Osterville, in that town. Mr. Joseph Robbins, a painter, was boiling oil over his kitchen fire, when the oil took fire, the liquid was spilt, and the fire was suddenly communicated to the furniture, and the house filled with smoke and flames. Mrs. R. who was three days before confined, with the assistance of her nurse, was just able to make her escape with her infant and a child four years of age, but a third child, 2 years old, perished in the flames. Mr. R., in attempting to rescue it, was severely burnt, and came near losing his life.

United States. We have received the first number of a weekly paper bearing the above name. The reader will understand us better when informed that the "United States" is but the late Philadelphia Weekly Ledger enlarged to the mammoth size. It is unquestionably a very cheap, handsome and useful paper. The subscription price is but two dollars per annum. Its reading matter is principally made up from that of the daily Ledger, a paper of high repute throughout these states, designated by the title of the journal before us. Desirous that all men should live and let live, we therefore bid a welcome prosperity to the "United States."

General Jackson. The General is quite indignant at the recently circulated stories about his pecuniary embarrassments; and has written a letter which appears in one of the Tennessee papers, to say so. He avers to the effect that his financial affairs are O. K.; and that if he owes any man any thing, all the lucky individual has to do, is to present his bill at the counter, and it will be liquidated forthwith.

Simmons, the Murderer. According to the Boston Post, William Simmons, who is charged with the murder of Charles Reed, was born on the little Pee Dee river, North Carolina, has no father or mother living, or brother or sister, but has uncles, who are too proud to help him. He arrived at Boston, in the Tribune, from Norfolk, Va., on the day of the funeral procession of Harrison, and that was his first voyage. He says he has no recollection of the affray with Reed, and attributes his total oblivion of memory on that subject to the effect of liquor, which he had drank freely on Friday.

The Season. We hear, says the Wheeling Gazette, the remark frequently made that there never was such a backwark spring as the present. It is a mistake; the springs of 1835—'36, and '37 were more backward—in '37 there was not a peach blossom unfolded until the 28th of April, nor a morella cherry blossom until the third of May. This spring the peach trees were in bloom on the 18th inst.

The wheat looks well, with the exception of some fields, which were sown early, and suffered by the fly in the fall. We have no complaints of the fly this spring.

Death of Mrs. Purdy. This unfortunate lady, says the N. Y. Tattler, the victim of the depravity of that notorious person, Mrs. Lohman, alias Madame Restell, died on Wednesday evening, in the 22d year of her age. For many weeks her sufferings had been so dreadful, that her death was a relief to her friends; and thus an absolute murder has been added to the long catalogue of the crimes of the "Female Physician."

New Orleans trade. The Picayune of the 22d remarks that "more produce arrived at the Levee last week than was ever known before in the same length of time. Upwards of a hundred flatboats came to the wharf in the course of five days. The way business is flourishing about town upon a high-pressure principle is quite edifying to all who feel desirous of making fortunes."

☞The New York Sun says, a demand will be made by Gov. Seward, for Alexander Dugan, Henry Brown and Thomas Walker, the persons arrested in this city a few days ago, charged with robbing the store of Messrs. Marriott & Hardesty. They are supposed to have been accomplices of Francis Williams, and assisted in robbing the store of Mr. Delavan, in New York, more than a year ago.

Dreadful Accident. At Alton, (Mi.) last week while the citizens were firing the cannon in honor of the late President, two men were so injured by the premature discharge of the cannon, that there is no hopes of their recovery. At the third discharge one of the gunners had his arm shot off—shortly after, others re-commenced the firing, and in a few minutes another gunner had both his arms shot entirely off!

The cause. We find in the Philadelphia Baptist Record, the cause and manner of the murder of the Rev. Mr. Griswold, at Cincinnati. A profligate young man, who became enraged because he had been made a subject of special prayer by a profligate companion, threw a stone at the man who had prayed for him, as he passed out of the church. The stone struck the head of Mr. Griswold, who was at the same time near the door and fractured his skull. He died in the course of a few hours.

A Tolerable Tumble. At the summit works of the Western Railroad, in Berkshire county, Mass., an Irishman the other day being "half seas over," tumbled down a precipice sixty feet into the canal, lodged upon a solid rock and was not hurt, worth speaking of.

In a publication by Dr. Shattuck, of Boston, it is stated, that forty-three per cent., or nearly one-half of the deaths which have taken place in Boston during the last nine years, are of persons under five years of age; and the proportional mortality of this age has been increasing.

The Fair. The fair still continues in progress at the Assembly Rooms. The goddess of fortune, we learn, has been peculiarly prolific in the bestowment of her gifts. There is nothing like being in the way of good luck. Yes, and when there may be a feast upon bright eyes, not only those particular black ones, but of all colors.

Pennsylvania Revenue and Relief Bill. In both branches of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, during the afternoon session of Thursday, the report of the Committee of Conference on the Revenue and Relief Bill was made, in the Senate by Mr. Reed, and in the House by Mr. Johnson; and the consideration of it postponed until next day. The vote in the House, to postpone until Friday, was, ayes 53, nays 35.

☞Major Burns, son of the celebrated Scottish bard, has recently returned to England from India, after an absence of twenty-six years. He is now in the factory commission, and at the last advices was investigating the condition of the operations in the paper and other manufactories at Maidstone. He is said to bear a strong resemblance to his illustrious father.

Another breach in the navigation of the Erie Canal has occurred—the aqueduct, a mile above Fort Plain Village, Montgomery county, having given way on Thursday, in consequence of the rise in the river.

☞A man named Charles Winterton was found on the 26th ult., near Cincinnati, with his throat partly cut. He told various tales of himself, but finally confessed he had become tired of living.

☞Messrs. Bartlett & Delavan will open the Front street Theatre on Wednesday next, with their celebrated Equestrian company and stud of horses from the Bowery Theatre, New York.

Extensive burglary. When the steamer Maid of Arkansas was about leaving St. Louis on the 21st ult., two scoundrels went on board and robbed a passenger of $5000 in cash and $10,000 worth of notes and drafts. The thieves were quickly pursued and captured, the filched property restored to the owner and they conducted to prison.

Melancholy. The Louisville Gazette states that on Saturday, the 24th ult., while her husband was absent at Brownsboro, Mrs. Caleb Dorsey, the wife of one of the wealthiest farmers in that county, eluded the vigilance of her attendants, and shot herself with a rifle.

The French in the Red Sea. It is said that the French have obtained possession of a place called Eyd on the Abyssinian coast, said to be thirty-eight miles in length and ten in width.—It is supposed to be their intention to form a settlement for commercial purposes.

A hit. One of our exchanges has a fair hit at the too common custom now-a-days of making no interval between childhood and mature age, by saying there are no female children now as there used to be. It is either "baby" or "young woman," right smack off.

More roguery. We have been informed, says a New Orleans paper, that the sum of two thousand dollars has recently been extracted from the vault of an establishment of note, in this city, and that during a week past there has been considerable of an internal hubbub about the matter.

Damaged. The Hudson River, owing to the late heavy rains, has swollen much. The wharves at Albany are covered with water some two to three feet deep. Considerable damage has been occasioned and much delay and inconvenience experienced from this cause.

☞A young man, said to be of one of the first families in New York, has been arrested and committed for obtaining $100 worth of dry goods from a merchant under false pretences, stating he was in business when he was not.

Mrs Sigourney. This lady, one of the editors of Godey's Lady's Book, has returned in the Great Western. We understand that she has made extensive arrangements with the best lady writers of England, to contribute to the book over which she presides.

☞A man by the name of Nichols, on the 26th instant, put at end to his life at Springfield, Mass. by shooting himself through the head with a musket. He called his little son, about 6 years old, to witness the tragedy.

Another defaulter. A person named J. W. Peterson, in the service of the Camden (New Jersey) Bank, employed to bring to Philadelphia the money necessary to the redemption of the notes at the office of the Bank in Church alley, has turned out a defaulter to the amount of about thirteen thousand dollars.

Enlargement. The Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post came to us much enlarged, dressed in new type, and otherwise improved. This paper ever has been one among the very best in the country. We always read it with pleasure, and are glad to be informed of its merited prosperity.

Fire. A destructive fire broke out in Alleghany town, near Pittsburg, on Monday evening last, about eight o'clock. It began in the tavern of Mr. Gochriag, on Federal-st., and before it was subdued, destroyed that and six or seven other buildings.

Justice in Canada. Bills of indictment, for murders committed by the Tory party at some of the late elections, have been found against several individuals in the Gore District. We are informed by the Montreal Times that the individuals indicted have all been admitted to bail!

Fatal Affray. We learn from the Providence, Journal, that Levi Bennett was arraigned on Saturday, on a charge of stabbing John Buxton on the 23d of April, to which he pleaded not guilty. Buxton died of the wounds on Saturday morning, Rum was the immediate cause of the affray.

A mistake. A man was recently arrested in Boston on suspicion of having been one of the extensive financiers who committed the late bank forgeries. It turned out that he was a highly respectable merchant of a neighboring place.

☞It is whispered in Philadelphia that the Camden (N. J.) Bank was in a very critical state of doubtfulness.

Fire. The dust mill attached to the brick yard of Mr. W. Rider, on the Washington road, was consumed by fire yesterday morning, between the hours of one and two o'clock.

Dividend. The Bank of the State of New York has declared a dividend of three and a half per cent. for the last six months, payable after the 10th May.

☞Four buildings were lately consumed by fire in St. Louis, three of which were small frames, the other a large building at the corner of Floyd and Market streets.

☞The Baltimore City Court for the purpose of trying appeal cases from the decision of Magistrates, and other civil business of the city, commenced its Session on Saturday last.

Robbed. The store of H. Bailey & Co. No. 15 Court st. Boston, was entered on the 29th ult. and robbed of $150.

Canal tolls. The amount of tolls received at Albany on the first day of canal navigation, Monday, was $3,532.

Baltimore, Pennsylvania, and the West.

☞An Address will be delivered on TUESDAY EVENING, 4th inst. in the Musical Saloon of the Assembly Rooms, Fayette street, on the Resources of Pennsylvania and the West, and the Relations of Trade which the City of Baltimore now holds in reference to them. The subject is of the first importance to this community, and it is hoped that men of business in all branches, whether mercantile, trading, or manufacturing, will feel it to be their duty and interest to be present. The Chair will be taken at a quarter before 8, precisely, and it is desirable that gentlemen should be in attendance before that hour.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption. I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

CITY COURT.

SATURDAY, May 1, 1841.

Present—Judges Brice, Nesbit, and Worthington.

The case of John Raddick was compromised. Also that of Francis Hagan, for an assault on E. W. Robinson.

Ellen Walsh, charged with stabbing Elijah Ward. It appeared Ward went to the store of the mother of Miss Walsh, who occasionally has a dance at her house, on Monday last, and asked her if there was any music for that evening. She replied "no"—that in consequence of the procession there would be none. He then used very abusive language, at which she ordered him out of the store. He refused to go—when she attempted to put him out. He then picked up a pitcher, and as she thought, to throw at her, which Ellen W. took out of his hand, and retreated a short distance—that in the scuffle she (the mother) inflicted the wound, but thought at the time she had only cut his coat. This was confirmed by another witness, a young man, who saw it. Not guilty, and the prosecutor to pay the costs. For the State, F. Pinkney, Esq. For the traverser, W. H. Collins, Esq.

Elias Thompson, for an assault on Solomon Whittingham, was fined $1 and costs.

Betsy Dennison and John Dennison, for assaulting Samuel Dennison. This case grew out of a quarrel about the right to the use and control of an alley which runs between the houses of the two Dennisons, who are brothers. Samuel Dennison testified, he sent a man to pave one half of the alley claimed by him, who John Dennison ordered away—he (Saml. D.) then came out of his house, and went to work on it himself, when Betsy, the wife of John D., came out with a pan of hot water, and after some abusive words, threw it on him. John D., who was in his house at the time, hearing his wife call, came out, seized him, got him down, and commenced beating him, and Betsy D. also beat him on the head with the pan while down—that John D. bit one of his fingers nearly off. Mr. Thompson saw the water thrown before any violence was offered on the part of Saml. D.—saw John D. clinch him. Mr. Jenkins was standing in his own door—saw as testified by the above witness. Mr. Irons heard Mrs. D. say to Saml. "d—n you, I'll scald your eyes out, if you don't stop filling up this alley"—saw her throw the water—saw them have him down, and saw them both beating him. Mrs. Hitzelberger on part of defence—Saw Saml. hit at Mrs. D. with the spade, and then the water was thrown, &c. Mr. Woods did not see the commencement, only saw the scuffle between the two men.

Samuel Dennison (cross case) for assaulting John Dennison. John D. testified he had remonstrated with Samuel when he found he was going to pave half of the alley. Samuel persisted, and afterwards set a black man to work on it. Samuel, when he found the man had quit, went to work himself. His wife went out, returned, and told him he (S.) was at work—that he told her, never mind he could not bother with the disagreeable fellow. Wife went out again, came in directly and said Samuel had hit at her with a spade—went out, remonstrated with him, when he (S.) seized him, but he (John) got him (S.) down—the finger was bit while the other was trying to scratch his (John's) eyes out. Mrs. D. said Samuel struck at her first, and then she threw the water. Samuel also commenced the assault on her husband. Mrs. Walker saw both soon after. John was much more scratched in the face and hurt than Samuel. Mr. McKinly only saw the end of it—both on the ground, John was uppermost. The Court remarked that it was strange two brothers could not live neighbors without quarrelling and fighting, that the case was certainly very disgraceful to both parties, and that they should have been ashamed to bring it into court. John Dennison fined $5 and costs; Eliza Dennison, not guilty.

In the case of Samuel Dennison for assaulting John, not guilty, and the prosecutor to pay costs.

Horatio Lafaure and G. F. McLaughlin were each fined one dollar and costs for assaulting Alex. Thompson, a bailiff, while in discharge of his duty.

POLICE. Charles Lockwood charged with stealing three hundred and ten dollars from Saml. McPherson, was committed by Squire Barnard for further hearing. Mary Ann Barry alias Bramble, charged with stealing one piece of calico, the property of Rebecca M. Howland, was committed by Squire Barnard.

Elizabeth Wilson, alias Simpson, charged with stealing a quantity of calico, the property of R. Moore, was committed by Squire Barnard. Edward Jaury, charged with stealing three hundred and ten dollars, in conjunction with C. Lockwood, from S. McPherson, was committed by Squire Barnard. Mary Lowry, alias Green, charged with being concerned in robbing Mr. McPherson, was committed for further hearing.

James Peregoy was arrested by officers Duvall, Shuck and Myers, charged with assaulting Patrick Smith. Committed by Squire Gorsuch.

"NO CURE NO PAY."

HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

☞ Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. m1-tf

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING
THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 39 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparalleled, and successful manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral Incorruptible Teeth, and can confidently assert that they are superior in any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth FOREVER retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. Be it also remembered, that Dr. W. proportions his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when PURE GOLD is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dendistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.

1. Artificial Teeth out of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.

2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.

3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carrat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as CHEAP WORK is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even SILVER is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent use in the mouth.

4. Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

5. Those individuals who cannot afford to pay the fee of 50 cents for extraction, can have this important operation performed any morning WITHOUT CHARGE, by calling between the hours of 8 and 9 A. M.

Individuals requiring the assistance of a Dentist, may avail themselves of Dr. W's services at any hour of the day throughout the year, to suit their own convenience.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All these desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it really to their advantage by calling on the subscribe. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 92 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superio to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's principal office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. WINTER ARRANGEMENT.

GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	" Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	" Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	" Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	" Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	" Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	" Charleston at 5
next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Fogs! Rough Weather!! and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap to the Bay route to Weldon and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office,

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.

Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.

Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connection certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From a very Reputable Farm r.]

STAFFORD COUNTY, VA. SEPT. 7th, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I think I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhubarb and soda three or four times every day for those many years, with little or no relief, and my legs and ankles were so much swelled that I was unable, at times, to attend to my business. But since you made me a present of a box of your Family Pills I have taken 1 or 2 of them at night in going to bed, and now my acid stomach is relieved, the swelling in my legs has nearly disappeared, and I do not think that I have been hindered one day with the pain in my head since I began to take your valuable medicine. I think the Lord directed you to Fredericksburg, to administer to my relief. (Blessed be his holy name. I am greatly relieved.) There is living in my neighborhood a poor old woman who had been sick for a long time and could not get relief; at length I purchased a box of your pills and gave them to her, after awhile I saw her out and about her business, and she said that the one box had cured her. I have spread the fame of your valuable medicine amongst my acquaintances, and many have purchased. Now, as it respects myself, my friends tell me when I go to town, that they have not seen me look so well for many years, and I say to them, I will tell you the secret why; about a short time ago I met with a Dr. Davies in town, and he gave me a box of pills, and they have made me look as you now see me.' And now, my friend, I hope that the Lord will continue to be with you, and make you useful to your fellow creatures, as he has hitherto done. I remain with respect, CHARLES BRUCE.

THE BOY OF THE MILL.

BY C. C. COX.

I know a boy who rides along,
Our neighbor's road:
And never do you meet that boy
Without his load;
A rusty bag each side askew
An old grey hack,
With close cropped mane and snubby tail,
And bony back.

The horse is one score years and ten,
(The rustics say;)
The boy was just ten years of age
The other day,—
And strung astride that stalwart beast,
But three feet five.
They form the strangest looking group
You've seen alive.

Our mill boy wears a hat, the same
He always wore,
Three ventilating rents behind,
And one before;
The coat is knit, with many a patch,
Against the breeze;
The pantaloons (not made for him)
Just reach his knees.

So soon as he had learned to ride,
He went to mill—
And from the barn-yard to the mill
He rideth still;
A picture grown, that horse and boy,
In every weather,
Come jogging o'er the same old road,
In peace together.

But though he dream not of a world
Beyond his own—
Though all his fare be crust of bread,
Or famished bone;
Though only one poor regged suit
His wardrobe hath,
And nought disturbs the changeless mien
Which marks his path—

Turn not aside thy head in scorn;
Nor be forgot
That boy, whate'r his mission, hath
A human lot;
Within that heart shall wake the springs
That move thy breast,
And he, like thee, when life is o'er,
Shall take his rest.

TRIBUTE OF A FOREIGNER TO THE MEMORY OF GENERAL HARRISON.

To the editors of the National Intelligencer:

SIRS: A Sermon was preached among us here last Sunday, which had the somewhat singular feature of being a foreign clergyman's hearty tribute at once to our national loss and our national institutions.

Dr. CURTIS, the Preacher, has lately, and we hope finally, domiciliated himself with us in the South. I have procured for your paper a paragraph or two, which, as embracing some striking points of the case, (especially as from a stranger,) I think will be interesting to your readers.

THOMAS B. SLADE.

Mercer University, Penfield, Geo.

"In the case before us, the quiet citizen, the unobtrusive cultivator of his own acres, had his cares for this life limited to moderate possessions, a few declining years, and a family not large. He had learned, it would seem, contentedly, how little man really 'wants' here below. He had begun to feel, we are told, religiously, that he could not want it 'long.' God had granted to him both parts of the instructive prayer of Agur. He was 'removed far from the vanity and lies' of a high station. He had 'neither poverty nor riches,' but 'convenient food.' The retrospect of his life presented such traces of public usefulness as the Christian, we believe, may be permitted humbly to dwell upon. As one of the tried servants and brave defenders of his country, he could not have died unlamented nor unhonored in the retirement from which we called him. The passion of ambition must have been cooled within him. The well-regulated principle of it alone remained. As a man and as a patriot, he had only to desire, like Cæsar, to gather the robe of his well-earned honors about him, and leave becomingly so restless a world.

"But we called him forth. It is no disparagement to him to say, that it was not in the power of General HARRISON, nor any single individual, to have 'taken to himself' the new honors which now awaited him—those which, borne on every wind, made him, alas! their victim rather than their object. To the forbearance, the noble concurrence rather, of some equally prominent men, and the zeal of more—a mighty multitude—in this irresistible call, the many of this world will variously attribute his exaltation. From our solemn position, of the sacred desk, planted in the neighborhood of his bier, I will call you to look to its higher causes. I will contend for our comparative unanimity as the blessing of the Almighty on the fair working of our institutions.—Is there no sense in which elective 'powers that be,' with all their ramifications and results, 'are ordained of God?' Does he 'raise up' to power an Egyptian Pharaoh, and not an English Alfred? An arbitrary monarch, and not a limited one?—A Nero or a tyrant, and not a Washington or a Harrison? Who shall limit Israel's Holy One in his way! If 'distress of nations and perplexity' are his judgments, his frowns upon them, are not happiness and unanimity to be gratefully regarded as his smiles? God forbid we should think otherwise. Here, then, was the Sovereignty of God. Here the steppings and the influences of his stately and irresponsible power, working with our responsibilities and warm-breathing efforts, to prosper and disappoint them—to raise us up and to cast us down! Here the beginning of the lamented end over which we meet. * * *

"Our lamented President of last month was an unique exhibition of the power of Death—a solitary victim, in some striking points of view, on the chronicles of that mighty Leveller. Again, and yet again will his shafts, we know, be hurled in this direction. (God only knows how soon, and may he spare us in this regard as mercifully as he has done!) But a President, without a predecessor in this gloomy path to the tomb, cannot again traverse it. Let us endeavor to catch some glimpses of the light which God would scatter upon it, through his agency. It is His method to make the first case of a series particularly instructive. Death, as we shall contend, never before aimed quite so high among the rulers of the world.

"Does the best arbitrary monarch represent more than the outward fates and fortunes of men; the subordination of their bodies and external condition to his sway? He does not personate, as did our late beloved President, the will, as well as the condition, of intelligent millions.—The many live not in him, but for him. In that monarch's fall, then, it is demonstrated (among other useful lessons) over how little of men's minds he bore sway. In that of the President of a free People's choice, it is impossible to forget over how much. Here, therefore, Death has stricken higher. Here, if the mind is superior to the world's highest outward gifts, a nobler victim has fallen. * * *

"Let the class of men that stood round the fallen Chief of his country attend to the voice of this scene! God never speaks by such an event until other modes of addressing us are unavailing. As an event in some respects unparalleled, it upbraids, I should fear, the unparalleled obduracy and infidelity of some of this class. Could we be supposed to make our humble interpretation of it reach their ears, we should say, 'Among you, Senators and party leaders and proud men of this world, has he been struck down! While you catch him in your arms as your falling glory or your personal friend, fall with him on your knees before a chastising God!' "

THE CHINESE OPIUM SMOKER. "One of the objects that I had the curiosity to visit was the opium-smoker in his heaven; and certainly it is a most fearful sight, although perhaps not so degrading to the eye as the drunkard from spirits, lowered to the level of the brute, and wallowing in his filth. The idiot smile and death-like stupor, however, of the opium debauchee has something far more awful to the gaze than the bestiality of the latter. Pity, if possible, takes the place of other feelings, as we watch the faded cheek and haggard look of the being abandoned to the power of the drug; while disgust is uppermost at the sight of the human creature levelled to the beast, by intoxication. The rooms where the Chinese sit and smoke are surrounded by wooden couches, with places for the head to rest upon, and generally a side room is devoted to gambling. The pipe is a reed of about an inch in diameter and the aperture of the bowl for the admission of the opium is not larger than a pin's head. The drug is prepared with some kind of conserve, and a very small portion is sufficient to charge it, one or two whiffs being the utmost that can be inhaled from a single pipe; and the smoke is taken into the lungs as from the hookah in India. On a beginner one or two pipes will have an effect, but an old stager will continue smoking for hours. At the head of each couch is placed a small lamp, as fire must be held to the drug during the process of inhaling; and from the difficulty of filling and properly lighting the pipe, there is generally a person who waits upon the smoker to perform the office. A few days of this fearful luxury, when taken to excess, will give a pallid and haggard look to the face; and a few months, or even weeks, will change the strong and healthy man into little better than an idiot skeleton. The pain they suffer when deprived of the drug, after long habit, no language can explain; and it is only when to a certain degree under its influence that their faculties are alive. In the houses devoted to their ruin, these infatuated people may be seen at nine o'clock in the evening in all the different stages. Some enter half distracted, to feed the craving appetite they had been obliged to subdue during the day; others laughing and talking wildly, under the effects of the first pipe; while the couches round are filled with their different occupants, who lie languid, with an idiot smile on their countenance, too much under the influence of the drug to care for passing events, and fast verging towards the wished-for consummation. The last scene in this tragic play is generally a room in the rear of the building, a species of dead house, where lie stretched those who have passed into that state of bliss the opium eater madly seeks—an emblem of the long sleep to which he is madly hurrying."

FROM THE SANDWICH ISLANDS. The New Haven Register has received from an officer of the Exploring Expedition, several numbers of the Polynesian, a paper printed at Oahu, in the Sandwich Islands. A paper of the date of June, 1840, contains an interesting account of the loss of a small vessel which was on a trip to an island about a hundred miles distant. Most of those on board were natives—several of whom saved their lives by swimming twenty or thirty miles. The following is an extract of a letter to the editor, giving an account of the calamity. Mauae is the name of a native missionary, who was, with his wife, on board of the boat.

'You will be afflicted to learn that friend Mauae is among those who were lost. His wife was saved, and they both swam twenty-five miles together before he died. What is wonderful beyond description, is that his wife carried him when he could no longer swim himself, and carried him till after he was dead. When she found he could go no further, she bid him him hold to the hair of her head, and so she dragged him; but soon his hand slipped, and she tried in vain to arouse him. She told him he must pray; he commenced, but could only utter a sentence or two.—She then put his arm around her neck, held him with one hand and swam with the other. When within a quarter of a mile of the shore, after swimming twenty eight or thirty hours, she found he was dead and left him.'

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT.

Richard Coe and Samuel Spackman, to be Appraisers of Merchandize at Philadelphia.

John B. Dade of Virginia, to be Warden of the Penitentiary in the District of Columbia.

Thomas Sewall and Thomas Donoho, of Washington, and Bernard Hooe, of Alexandria, to be Inspectors of the Penitentiary in the District of Columbia for the year commencing on the 4th instant, when the previous year's commissions expire.

POSTMASTERS. James W. Coburn, at Maysville, Kentucky.

Keiland Tyner, at Macon, Georgia.

Dress a vagabond in genteel garments and he will be dubbed a gentleman by those who only judge by appearances. This has been said a thousand times, and out of the fact the bees of philosophy have sucked the honey of wisdom, and declared that appearances are deceitful.—But the best illustration we have seen of this for a long time, was at a late lecture, where four honest bricks stood prominently upon the speaker's table to support the lights. Now four bricks are not exactly the thing for ornament to a lecturer's table, and this fact, those who managed the matter, well knew; so they just wrapped the bricks neatly in paper, and probably not five individuals present noticed them at all. Yet had the bricks been undressed, they would have caught the eyes and elicited remarks from all.—From this we gather two sound maxims. Appearances are deceitful—but don't despise appearances.—Richmond Star.

ACQUITTED. Our readers will remember an altercation between Clement T. Hilleary and Albert Magruder, which took place in Prince George's county some months since, and in which the latter was killed. We find in the Marlboro' Gazette a statement that the trial of Hilleary, who had been indicted for murder, was terminated on Saturday last, having occupied the court and jury six days without intermission.—The case was given to the jury on Saturday evening, who in about half an hour returned with a verdict of "Not guilty."

P'S AND Q'S. The origin of the phrase, "Mind your P's and Q's," is not generally known. In Ale-houses, where chalk scores were formerly marked upon the wall, it was customary to put these initial letters at the head of every man's account, to show the number of Pints and Quarts for which he was in arrears; and we may presume many a friendly rustic to have tapped his neighbour on the shoulder when he was indulging too freely in his potations, and to have exclaimed, as he pointed to his score, "Giles, Giles, mind your P's and Q's!"

A HAPPY MARRIAGE. Oh! conceive the happiness to know some one person dearer to you than your own self, some one breast in which you can pour every thought, every grief, every joy! One person who, if all the rest of the world were to calumniate and forsake you, would never wrong you by a harsh thought or an unjust word, who would cling to you the closer in sickness, in poverty in care, who would sacrifice all things to you, and for whom you would sacrifice all, from whom, except by death, night nor day can you ever be divided, whose smile is ever at your heart, who has no tears while you are well and happy, and you love the same.—Bulwer.

A western paper says a rumor is afloat that Joe Smith, the Mormon Prophet and High Priest, lately took a ride with Rigdon, his second in command, and having returned without his lieutenant, the citizens of Nauvoo enquired what had become of him, and Joe replied that Rigdon had been translated to Heaven. If Joe himself had been left behind, it would have been a more natural conjecture that he had been translated to a tavern.

HAVRE DE GRACE, May 2, 1841.

TIDE WATER CANAL. We have intelligence this morning from the line of the Tide Water Canal, the most gratifying to the business community. The navigation which has been suspended for some days is now in good order, the breach at McCall's ferry having been repaired. There is at this time upwards of fifty boats on their way to this place.—Patriot.

SAVAGES. The Boston Mercantile Journal quotes the following, as a prayer used by the inhabitants of Madagascar—people whom we call savages.

"O Eternal! have mercy upon me, because I am passing away. O Infinite! because I am weak. O Sovereign of Life! because I draw nigh to the grave. O Omniscient! because I am in darkness. O All Bounteous! because I am poor. O All Sufficient! because I am nothing."

AN INVISIBLE LIFE PRESERVER has been invented by some person in Providence, which is so made as to be sewed to the vest, so that the person has it always ready for use.

THE BERMUDA LINE OF STEAMERS. The new line of steamers are to commence operations in October next: they are to call at Bermuda twice a month on their homeward voyage from Nassau, N. CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep at my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

MEDICAL AID. The success that has attended the treatment of many thousand cases of Venereal Complaints for twenty years past, induces the subscriber to inform the public, that he may be daily seen and consulted on all cases of the kind, recent and chronic, and on diseases of the urinary organs generally. His treatment is speedy and certain, adapted to the various constitutions of his patients; the medicines are so mild that the most delicate may take them, without any restrictions in diet or occupation. Many cases that have resisted every other mode of treatment have speedily yielded to this, and many persons who have tried all the quack nostrums of the day are frequently calling on the subscriber to have the injuries they have sustained by their use relieved. An early application is advisable in all cases, which may be made at Dr. WAGNER'S OFFICE, Caroline street, one door north of Wilk street. Medicines furnished in quantities to suit applicants. ap7-eolm*

Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS!

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hats: Splendid Russia Hats at $3.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3.00; Clipt Nutre Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 4, 1841.

WANT OF TIME. It is very customary for persons to apologize for omissions of duty by pleading want of time. They promise themselves that at a future day they will have more leisure, and therefore postpone to "a more convenient season" what should be done at once.—There are few individuals who have not been guilty of this censurable procrastination. We have known those who had furnished themselves with valuable books, and yet never read a volume—for want of time. But these same men we have seen idle for hours together. The journey of life is too short to misapply time. All men who have attained distinction have had to labor diligently in their vocation. The minister who has no time to study his subject, will fail to impart instruction—and the attorney who alleges want of time as an excuse for the loss of his case, will not be overburthened with business. In all the concerns of life prompt action is essential to success. The blacksmith who pauses between the strokes of his hammer to talk politics, will find his iron cool, and will soon want time to pay his debts. It would surprise any man to have the amount of time which he has wilfully lost summed up: but then, what we lose to-day we resolve to make up to-morrow; but unfortunately the morrow brings its excuse for further postponement. It is in the power of every man by a proper and diligent application of his time to improve his condition—and what is termed misfortune can generally be traced to our own negligence or imprudence. A youth will spend hours in an oyster-house or tavern in unimproving conversation, and yet complain that he has no time to cultivate his mind. Men from the most indigent condition have risen to wealth and importance by the proper use of time and of their own energies—and what one has achieved can be done by another in most cases. Man cannot remain stationary: he must either advance or retrograde; and idleness is the first backward step; for as idle man can never advance. It is of the greatest importance then, to be constantly occupied, mentally or physically. It is in vain that the young promise themselves, that in after life they will make up for the deficiencies of their youth. They might as well expect to reap without sowing. The disposition to procrastinate in youth, will scarcely be corrected by age, when time seems to fly with increased velocity. He who is slothful when young, will be ragged when old; and such have the poor-house as their portion. It is a great mistake to suppose that lost time can be recovered, for the useful employment of every moment of our time is a duty. We do not mean that men shall be geared up like horses, and never be relieved from the harness. Relaxation is as necessary as labor—and it can be indulged in without losing time.

Every man would find it beneficial to review at night the transactions of the day—to keep a kind of debit and credit with Time. This would exhibit the errors of the past, and, perhaps, induce us to correct them—if not, they would remain as a standing reproach to us. We have examples of men who have made a regular division of time, devoting so much of each day to a particular employment; and there is not a single instance within our recollection, where the person who has adopted and diligently pursued this practice has failed of success. Men in humble stations of life, who labor for their daily subsistence, are too often impressed with the belief that it is impossible for them to reach higher than their present avocations, and therefore make no effort. But let them count the time they lose in frivolities, or in uninstructive amusements, and they will be astonished to discover that, had it been employed in useful reading, they would have been able to accumulate a large amount of information. We have seen that a laboring blacksmith, by devoting his spare hours and even minutes to study, has acquired a knowledge of some forty or fifty languages. Now it is not to be expected that every one can accomplish this—but he who makes the effort, although he fall far short of the learned blacksmith, will acquire information which he would not otherwise possess; and the fruits of his exertions will prove a solace if not a profit to him. He will not walk in the path of ignorance. We are commanded to "get wisdom; to get understanding;" but we shall never obtain either whilst we admit want of time as an excuse for not making the attempt. We desire to arouse a proper ambition in every man—for, as our free institutions place office and distinction within the reach of all who may deserve them, that man is culpably negligent who supinely reposes in ignorance without an effort to improve the faculties with which he has been endowed by his Creator. To serve one's country is a duty; and it is a laudable ambition to endeavor to become qualified to serve it in any capacity.

But, if loss of time is prejudicial to temporal interests—it is fatal in regard to those of eternity: and unfortunately want of time is more frequently urged to extenuate neglect of these than any other concerns. The bare allusion to this part of the subject must suffice, for we do not feel qualified to pursue it to advantage.

☞Dr. Robert M. Bird has been appointed to the chair of Institutes and Materia Medica, lately vacated by the death of Dr. Colhoun, in the Pennsylvania Medical College of Philadelphia.

IMPORTANT MEETING. The meeting called for this evening at the Musical Saloon of the Assembly Rooms, is in aid of an object of vital interest to the citizens of Baltimore. Although publications on the subject of the connexion of this city, by means of the Tide Water Canal, with the internal improvements of Pennsylvania, have been frequent, yet there are few persons so minutely acquainted with the details, as to be able to appreciate the immense benefits which must result to our city from such connexion. It requires a knowledge of location, production and a great variety of other matters, to comprehend the whole bearing of the subject, demanding more time and attention than can be spared by the generality of persons; and yet it is desirable that the people at large shall be convinced of the great utility of the Tide Water Canal. The opportunity of obtaining the requisite information will be afforded at the meeting this evening. Wm. Bose, Esq., who has devoted much time, labor and expense to the subject, will address the meeting; and we have no doubt will give such clear and perspicuous explanations and illustrations, as will satisfy all present, that the Tide Water Canal is one of the most important works ever projected, to this city. We hope that there will be a general attendance, as we think the object of the highest interest to this community.

ATTENTION THE WHOLE! Notwithstanding orders were issued by the Colonel of the Fifth Regiment for a parade yesterday, according to law, though none came from the Major General of the First Light Division, yet we observed no indication of the existence of the least spark of military spirit. Some members of the First Baltimore Light Infantry were visible, and one of the major general's aids, in his dashing uniform, appeared on the ground—he stood "alone in his glory." Where does the fault lie?—is it with the commanding officers or the men? At the earnest solicitation of the volunteer corps of Baltimore, the legislature some years since passed a militia law, but that law seems to have become a dead letter and those who were most active in procuring its passage now seem to be the most regardless of it. We regret this lukewarmness on the part of our citizen soldiery, and the time may not be far distant when they will regret it themselves. The relations between our country and England are by no means of a pacific character, and it behooves every good citizen to encourage military enterprize amongst our young men. Let the ranks of our volunteer corps be full, and the public will repose in security, for, without the militia, what is the defence of our country?

WIDOW MORRISON. This is a small volume, but it abounds with pathetic scenes and interesting incidents. It is from the pen of our gifted townsman, Mr. Arthur, who is favorably known to the public as the author of the "Insubordinate," &c. The scene of the story is in Baltimore—and whether the incidents be the product of the author's imagination, or representations of real life, they are such as too frequently occur. False pride causes the fatal step to be taken by others than the Widow Morrison; and similar results from this false pride are matters of every day's experience. This "little book" may be of great service to young ladies who will properly read and inwardly digest its contents—as it may save them from the regrets that embittered the life of the Widow Morrison. We hope that Mr. Arthur will keep his pen going, as his productions are moral and instructive, and his characters delineated with spirit and fidelity.

"Arcturus, a Journal of Books and opinion"—No. 5, from Knight & Colburn. Some of the articles are very good, particularly that on city pauperism. We have not had leisure to read the whole contents.

"United States Military Magazine"—Agent, A. R. Wright, 31 West Pratt street. The present number contains an account of the Battle of Plattsburg Bay, with a plate of the vessels engaged, and the likeness of a captain of infantry in full dress, &c. Among the contributors to the pages of the work is Major Gen. Gaines.

BALTIMORE TYPE AND STEREOTYPE FOUNDRY. The proprietors have made great improvements. Their specimen book which has just been published, presents a great variety of large and small, plain and ornamental types and borders, surpassing in beauty of cut and impression any that we have ever seen. Figures of almost every description required in newspaper or job printing, from the steam car to the insect, are contained in the volume. We are pleased to see these improvements in the typographic art, and particularly by the enterprising proprietors of the Baltimore Foundry. There can certainly be no necessity to go abroad for types whilst this Foundry is so amply supplied with every material required, and of unsurpassed excellence and beauty. We think it but an act of simple justice to recommend the Baltimore Type Foundry to the patronage of printers throughout the country. The Specimen Book is got up in the very best style of workmanship, by Messrs. WOODS & CRANE, book and job printers, of this city, and reflects the highest credit upon the mechanical skill and ingenuity of these gentlemen.

VETO. The Governor of Pennsylvania has vetoed the Revenue and Relief Bill, recently passed by the Legislature of that state. His message assigning the reasons for disallowing the bill is long, and would be of no particular interest to our readers. Subsequent to the veto, the bill was taken up in Senate, and passed by the constitutional majority of two-thirds. Should the house pass it by a similar vote, it will become a law notwithstanding the veto of the governor. If, however, it be not passed, and the legislature adjourn without adopting some measure of relief, the banks and individuals of that state will suffer great embarrassment, if not ruin.

NONSENSE. A small periodical is published in Philadelphia, by Thomas Hague, who styles himself Astro-Meteorologist. His is attempting to re-establish the pretended science of Astrology; but will find few proselytes, even amongst the illiterate. An almanac maker knows as much about casting nativities and prognostications of weather as the best astrologer in the land, and an observant farmer or seaman will give a shrewder guess as to the weather, than either. Mr. Hague may induce fools to believe that the stars exert an influence over individual actions; but men of common sense will reject his ridiculous theory with scorn and contempt. We make the following extract from the "Horoscope," which will probably exhibit more than Mr. Hague designed, viz: his party predilections.

PRESIDENT TYLER. Upon examining a figure cast for the time President Tyler took the oath, we were glad to perceive the aspects were more favorable for the country, for a period. The situation of the Planets, however, from the 4th of March to the last of July, are treacherously fixed for permanency—and indicate a deal of trouble and anxiety to the President. From the 5th to the 8th, 19th, to 21st, and 24th June—July 6th, to the 8th, 18th, to 19th, and 21st—there are strong indications of trouble in the affairs of the Cabinet—especially in the Treasury department. We shall not be surprised to hear of removals and resignations. The stars are positive in assuring us, that if the President follows the whims and dictates of his advisers, he will bring disgrace upon himself, and difficulty. Let him follow the dictates of his own mind, and we fear not for the result. We are not so positive that Tyler will serve the full term—but should he not, woe to his successor.

The aspect representing the landed interest, and defence of the country seem to be the most evily transited—for which we judge that no small excitement will fall on these subjects.

The southern and eastern parts of our country will be more active than the northern and western. Many meetings will be held, and important steps taken. We judge so from the congregation of planets in the signs that govern those quarters.

Singular—The day before Tyler took his seat, Daniel Webster's ruling star run retrograde!!

TREMENDOUS CRASH—LIVES LOST. The Philadelphia U. S. Gazette of yesterday states, that on Saturday morning, between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock, a dreadful accident occurred at the colored Methodists' Church, in Sixth street, near Lombard, whereby five beings were suddenly hurried into eternity. The church is being taken down, and the roof having been removed, the work of demolition was commenced on the walls. Five workmen were upon the southern wall, when it suddenly gave way, and falling upon two small frame houses, literally crushed them to the earth, burying the inmates in the ruins. The five workmen, whose names are John W. Ritter, Robert Thompson, John Trull, John Morrison, and James Neally, were all so much injured, that it was found necessary to carry them to the Hospital. An aged colored woman, named Fanny Thompson, and a colored child, named Sarah Osborne, aged seven years, were, after a few moments, rescued from the ruins, and conveyed to the Hospital, where the woman now lies in a very dangerous state, and not expected to live. When found, a stove was lying across her body. Immediate and active exertions were made to clear away the rubbish, and in the course of an hour, a colored woman, whose name we have heard to be Harrison, and two children, were taken out quite dead. Another person, whose name we did not learn, was also killed by the fall. A large crowd collected around the place, and every exertion made to ascertain whether any more bodies could be found, but fortunately there were none.

The Boston Transcript of the 1st inst. states that a letter from Cohasset, dated yesterday morning, 9 o'clock, states that the Sloop Warsaw, (of Southport, Conn.) Godfrey, from Salem, for New York, with Coffee, &c., was stranded about daylight, on Gull Ledge, two miles from that place, and with her cargo, became a total loss.—Capt. Godfrey was lost. The crew, five in number, were saved by the life boat placed at Cohassett by the Humane Society. One of the men had his shoulder dislocated, and all were unable to speak. The boat worked remarkably well, but was somewhat injured among the rocks.

The schr Emeline, (of Charlestown, Mass.) Thompson, from Bucksport, Me., with lumber, went ashore on Point Alderton, bilged, and filled with water. A passenger, name not ascertained, and the cook were drowned. Captain and remainder of the crew saved by the life boat from Hull.

HEAVY GALE. Quite a heavy gale of wind was experienced in Washington on Sunday afternoon last, as well as in this city. The Intelligencer of yesterday morning states that, "the great derrick, 98 feet high, used for elevating the massive blocks of marble upon the new General Post Office, now erecting, and which has withstood the severe and sudden storms for which this spring has been remarkable, was blown down at 2 o'clock, P. M. yesterday (Sunday, the 2d inst.) during a violent gale of wind, but, as we are glad to learn, without doing much injury to the individuals or property. The derrick was standing well secured by strong ropes on 7th street, at the northeast corner of the building, and fell in a southerly direction, slightly fracturing some of the splendid caps and cornice of the building."

ELLEN TREE. Not only has the rumor of the marriage of this talented lady with Charles Kean been contradicted, but it is now said that all chance of any such occurrence is passed. We are informed however, that the lady is engaged, and about to be married, to a gentlemen whose property will relieve her from any necessity of appearing on the stage. Previous to her marriage she re-appears at Covent Garden.

BURGLARIES are becoming the order of the night in Louisville. Three rather extensive ones were perpetrated a short time since.

FIRES AND LOSS OF LIFE. On the morning of the 23d ult. a fire broke out in the carriage establishment of Messrs. H. Beach & Co. No. 46 Royal st. New Orleans, which with a valuable stock was consumed. Mr. Beach, Mr. M. S. Clark, Mr. Elliott W. Beach, (both relatives of Mr. H. Beach,) and Mr. B's. slave Sam, all lodged in the upper story, and were asleep when the fire broke out. Mr. B. himself, although sick at the time, succeeded in escaping to the roof of an adjoining house, whence he was taken down; but the other persons, either were suffocated by the smoke, or being bewildered, did not follow him and perished.

The fire then communicated to the next building, occupied by Hagedorn & Cramer, importers of German dry goods, Holland gin, &c. &c. which was also destroyed, with nearly the whole of its valuable contents.

About 3 o'clock another fire broke out in a large frame building situated at the corner of Orange and Religious streets, kept as a tavern by Mr. Verloin. This house and two small ones adjacent were consumed.

The total loss is estimated at about $125,000, which was mostly covered by insurance.

ANTIQUITY OF AUCTIONS. Most of the usages of life, social, commercial, and martial may be traced to the remotest antiquity. Who would suppose that a sale by auction, and the red flag which marks the place of vendue, could, by the wildest stretch of fancy, be assimilated with the Roman General, wielding his baton or truncheon the symbol in all ages of military command. And yet they are the same, as far as their functions, with regard to sales, are concerned. The system of sale by Auction originated with the Romans, who sold their spoils in war under a spear fixed in front of the General's tent. The spear was decorated with a crimson flag, indicating the tent of the supreme Commander. This is, indeed, an antithesis—Sugar.—Rum. Lumber and Dry Goods, versus, Victory, Conquest and Fame!—Raleigh Register.

NATIONAL HUMILIATION. We learn that the most reverend Archbishop Eccleston has addressed a circular to the Clergy of the Roman Catholic Churches, requesting them and the congregations under their charge, duly to observe the Fourteenth of May, which the President of the United States has recommended to be set apart as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer by the people thereof.

The Right Rev. Bishop Whittingham has also addressed a circular letter to the Clergy and congregations of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Maryland, enjoining upon them the due observance of the same day, according to the recommendation of President Tyler.—American.

MORE BANK FRAUD. The N. Orleans Crescent City of the 24th ult. states that recent examinations of the individual ledgers of the State Bank of this city, show a deficit by allowed overdraft of nearly $50,000. The book-keeper in charge of the accounts where these over-drafts were found, we understand has absconded. This is the third instance of a breach of trust at that institution within a few years past. We learn that investigations are going on, and it is possible that still larger amounts may be found wanting.

MORE OF IT. The N. O. Crescent City of the 24th ult. states that on the day previous a deposite certificate, calling for $21,000 in specie, was received from a Philadelphia Bank, by the cashier of the Commercial Bank of New Orleans, with a request to have it put to the credit of the distant bank. On referring to the No. denoted by the certificate, it was found to be drawn to the order of this same rascal, and issued for $125 only. It had been negotiated in Philadelphia, and the whole $21,000 received in silver.

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT. Lieut. Wm. B. Lyne, of the U. S. Navy, says the Norfolk Beacon of the 1st inst., while on duty on board of the U. S. ship Pennsylvania, during the middle watch on Thursday night, fell from the fore chains overboard and was drowned. His body was dragged for on yesterday and found.

Lieut. Lyne was an accomplished officer, and leaves a wife and child and numerous friends to lament his untimely fate.

POLICE. John Collins was arrested on Saturday last, on the oath of Saml. Hughes, for an assault on him in a house at the lower end of Bond street. Released on giving security to appear at Court, by squire Jones. And yesterday morning Saml. Hughes was arrested on the oath of John Collins, for assaulting him some days previous.—Released on giving security to appear.

FIRE. About five o'clock yesterday morning a fire was discovered in a cellar in Harrison street near the Bazaar, which was soon extinguished without doing much damage. The promptness of the fire companies on this occasion, in all probability prevented a very disastrous fire, as the place was surrounded with a large quantity of combustible material.

THE CROPS. We learn by the New York papers that the wheat crops and grass in Dutchess county look uncommonly fine. In consequence of the late rains, the farmers had been prevented from sowing their oats. This is also the case in a number of the counties in the vicinity of Dutchess. Last year oats were up at this time.

U. S. SHIP PEREIL. This vessel arrived at Mahon on the 6th March, in 8 days from Gibraltar. During her passage she experienced a considerable gale of two days continuance. On the 12th she sailed thence for Toulon, and anchored in the bay at noon on the 15th. All well.

☞THE NATIONAL THEATRE, in North street, will be opened to-night under the management of Messrs. Lennox & Singer. We are of opinion that there will be a real crowd.

RELIGIOUS MEETING.

☞A meeting will be held in Dr. MONROE'S institute, Ann street, Fell's Point, on WEDNESDAY EVENING, at half past 7 o'clock. By particular request, Rev. Mr. STRIGLEY will preach a discourse from Acts vi, 7—"And the word of God increased; and the number of the Disciples multiplied in Jerusalem greatly; and a great company of the priests were obedient to the faith." At the close of the meeting, one or more gentlemen, now believers in the final holiness and happiness of all men, who were formerly members of the Methodist denomination, will give their reasons for having embraced more exalted views of the Divine character. m4-1t*

☞O. I. O. F. The P. G's and Representatives of the Grand Lodge of Maryland are requested to attend an adjourned meeting on WEDNESDAY EVENING 5th inst. at 8 o'clock. By order,

CAUTION. Hatters, Tailors, Shoemakers, and others, will do well to keep a sharp look out for a man by the name of JOHN H. BARNARD, who was formerly a City Bailiff, and at present I believe engaged in the Lime and Feed Business in Gay near Exeter street, (old town.) He may endeavor to obtain credit from you for goods and pay you off with a discharge under the Benefit of the Insolvent Laws, (where his name can be seen among the list of applicants of last week,) for the truth of which my books will show. Again I say, mechanics and others, keep a good look out for him! GEORGE R. HOLT,

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

WILLIAM SHEPPARD.

SALE OF VALUABLE PROPERTY
On Eutaw street, near the Lexington Market.

WILL BE SOLD by the subscriber, executrix of the late will and testament of Robert R. Richardson, deceased, the following Property, on THE PREMISES, on SATURDAY, the 15th day of May, 1841, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

All that valuable Lot of Ground, situated on the north east corner of Eutaw street and Wagon alley, fronting 22 feet on Eutaw-st. and extending back eastwardly about 92 feet to a twenty foot alley. The improvements on this lot consist of two two-story Brick DWELLINGS—one fronting on Eutaw street and occupied as a store, and the other in the rear thereof, fronting on Wagon alley.

Also, the Lot adjoining the above and to the north thereof, fronting on Eutaw st. 22 feet and extending eastwardly about 92 feet to a twenty foot alley. This lot is improved with a one story Frame Dwelling, and has the benefit of the brick wall of the adjacent house on the north.

Each of the above lots is subject to a ground rent of $30.09—thirty dollars and nine cents.

The situation, near to the market and in a fast improving thoroughfare, is a very desirable one.

The terms of sale will be, one third of the purchase money cash, one-third at six months, and one third at twelve months from the day of sale—notes with approved security will be required for the deferred payments. The payments to bear interest from the day of sale.

☞ For further particulars, apply to JOHN H. B. LATROBE, Calvert street, opposite City Hotel.

Mr. Bender, from the committee on ways and means, offered a report and resolution directing that the time for collecting taxes may be further extended without additional interest being charged—passed and sent to the Second Branch.

The Council adjourned to meet on Thursday evening next.

From the N. York Journal of Commerce.

FROM BUENOS AYRES.

By the ship Eliza & Susan, at this port, we have a Buenos Ayres paper, of Feb. 20th.

The number of foreign vessels in port on the day previous, was 157; of which 53 were British, 23 American, 20 French, 14 Sardinian, 11 Brazilian, 7 Danish, 6 Spanish, 5 Swedish, and 18 of other nations.

The weather was warm—the mercury sometimes rising to 85.

No American vessels of war in port.

Buenos Ayres, February 20, 1841.

The Montevidean Government has issued a decree, declaring that all vessels taken under the Argentine flag, on the rivers Uraguay, Parana or Plata, after ten days from the date of the decree, will be considered as good prizes, vessel and cargo. The ten days expire to-morrow, consequently our lightermen have taken the alarm, and refuse to go to the outer roads. Three of the Montevidean vessels of war have been in front of the town for some days. They sent their boats into the inner roads one night and attempted to cut out a schooner which passed over to this government a few days ago, but did not succeed. The Committee of British Merchants have written to the Minister, Mr. Macdeville, to know what steps are to be taken; but as yet we have not heard his reply, nor do we know whether or no a foreign agent can interfere in the matter.

Produce has declined a little since our last, and Exchange on England advanced to 2 5 8d per $1. We think it will still go a little higher—but that this rise will not be maintained for any length of time.

Freights still low, $7 per ton to the States, and many vessels would be glad to take even this low rate.

South American Antiquities. Mr. Stephens, the celebrated American traveller, is lecturing in New York on the antiquities of Palenque, a city of Central America, which is said to possess a deeper interest than that of Memphis in Egypt.

Court Martial. Lieut. Maitland, of the 4th Incorporated Militia, has been tried by Court Martial in Toronto, and cashiered, for embezzling £6 5s., being the amount of the subscription of certain officers of the 43d regiment to the Toronto Race Fund, and for publishing scandalous reports respecting Major Magrath. The Governor General has approved of the finding of the Court.

Quarantine Regulations. The Board of consulting physicians in Boston have expressed an opinion that the total abolition of the present system of quarantine regulations is demanded by the public good.

The Grace Brown. A letter to the Exchange from Norfolk, dated Saturday, says:—The admiralty Court commenced its session to-day—Judge Mason presiding. The case of the ship Grace Brown is before the court. Several witnesses were examined, and the court adjourned until Monday morning 10 o'clock.

Adjournment. The Legislature of Pennsylvania adjourns finally to-day.

"NO CURE NO PAY."

HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

TRUSTEES SALE of valuable real estate in the city of Baltimore. By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court of Maryland, the undersigned as Trustee, will expose to sale at auction on WEDNESDAY, the ninth day of June next, commencing at 9 o'clock, A. M. on the premises

ALL THAT VALUABLE PROPERTY heretofore conveyed by William Russell to the trustees for the poor of Baltimore City and County, by indenture bearing date on or about the fifteenth day of June seventeen hundred and ninety-two, and recorded amongst the land records of Baltimore County Court in liber W. G., No. K. K., folio 4 &c., and which in said deed is described as follows, viz—Beginning for the same at the intersection of Biddle and Price sts., and on the west side of said Biddle street, and running and bounding on the west side of said Biddle street north forty-four degrees, east forty eight perches and the half of a perch, then north fifty two and one half degrees, west thirty four perches to a parcel of ground hereinafter sold to a certain William Gibson by the said William Russell, then running and bounding on said ground south forty four degrees, west forty four perches to Price street, then bounding on said street south easterly thirty four perches to the place of beginning, containing nine acres and one half of an acre and thirteen square perches of land more or less.

The above property adjoins the Rose Hill estate and is in the neighborhood of the outer Depot of the Baltimore and Susquehana Rail Road; it lies beyond the limits of direct taxation and is exempt from the payment of City Taxes; the whole property will be divided into a large number of Lots of such dimensions as will enable those of moderate means to become purchasers. Madison street, which forms its Southern boundary, has been well paved along its entire front and beyond, and has been built upon up to Biddle st., which forms the Eastern Boundary, Morris Alley, Gibson street, Jordan Alley, and Gordon street, pass thro' it from east to west. A better opportunity than the present rarely occurs either for investment or speculation, especially when the very liberal terms of payment are taken into consideration

The terms of sale prescribed by the decree are that the purchasers shall pay one-sixth cash, one sixth in ninety days, one sixth in six months, one-sixth in nine months, one-sixth in twelve months, and one sixth in fifteen months from the day of sale, the credit instalments to be secured by notes with one or more sureties to be approved by the Trustee and to bear interest from the day of sale.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Locx, of Ohio, on "Webb's Camphine," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it really to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed Joshua Atkinson Agent, No. 92 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

Dear Sir—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 90 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave	Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
"	Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
"	Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	12 M.
"	Fred'ksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
"	Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
"	Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
"	Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
"	Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection through, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads Weather and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ This is the only Daily Line to Richmond and Petersburg.

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.

Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.

Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.

Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.
[From a very Respectable Farmer.]

Stafford County, Va. Sept. 7th, 1840.

Dear Sir—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I think I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhubarb and soda three or four times every day for these many years, with little or no relief, and my legs and ankles were so much swelled that I was unable, at times, to attend to my business. But since you made me a present of a box of your Family Pills I have taken 1 or 2 of them at night in going to bed, and now my acid stomach is relieved, the swelling in my legs has nearly disappeared, and I do not think that I have been hindered one day with the pain in my head since I began to take your valuable medicine. I think the Lord directed you to Fredericksburg, to administer to my relief. (Blessed be his holy name, I am greatly relieved.) There is living in my neighborhood a poor old woman who had been sick for a long time and could not get relief at length I purchased a box of your pills and gave them to her, after awhile I saw her out and about her business, and she said that the one box had cured her. I have spread the fame of your valuable medicine amongst my acquaintances, and many have purchased. Now, as it respects myself, my friends tell me when I go to town, that they have not seen me look so well for many years, and I say to them, 'I will tell you the correct why; a short time ago I met with a Dr. Davies in town, and he gave me a box of pills, and they have made me look as you now see me.' And now, my friend, I hope that the Lord will continue to be with you, and make you useful to your fellow creatures, as he has hitherto done. I remain with respect, CHARLES BRUCE.

MONSIEUR TONSON.

There liv'd, as fame reports, in days of yore,
At least some fifty years ago, or more,
A pleasant wight on town, ycleep'd Tom King,
A fellow that was clever at a joke,
Expert in all the arts to tease and smoke,
In short, for strokes of humor quite the thing.

To many a jovial club this King was known,
With whom his active wit unrivall'd shone—
Choice spirit, grave free-mason, buck and blood
Would crowd, his stories and bon mots to hear,
And none a disappointment e'er could fear,
His humor flow'd in such a copious flood.

To him a frolic was a high delight—
A frolic he would hunt for day and night,
Careless how prudence on the sport might frown;
If e'er a pleasant mischief sprang to view,
At once o'er hedge and ditch away he flew,
Nor left the game, till he had run it down.

One night, our hero, rambling with a friend
Near fam'd St. Giles', chanc'd his course to bend
Just by that spot, the Seven Dials height;
'Twas silence all around, and clear the coast,
The watch, as usual, dozing on their post,
And scarce a lamp display'd a twinkling light.

Around this place there liv'd the num'rous clans
Of honest, plodding, foreign artizans,
Known at that time by name of refugees—
The rod of persecution, from their home
Compell'd the inoffensive race to roam,
And here they lighted like a swarm of bees.

Well—our two friends were saunt'ring thro' the street,
In hopes some food for humor soon to meet,
When, in a window near, a light they view;
And, though a dim and melancholy ray,
It seem'd the prologue to some merry play,
So t'wards the gloomy dome our hero drew.

Straight at the door he gave a thund'ring knock,
The time, we may suppose, near two o'clock.
"I'll ask," says King, "if Thompson lodges here."
"Thompson!" cries t'other, "who the devil's he!"
"I know not," King replied, "but want to see What kind of animal will now appear."

After some time, a little Frenchman came,
One hand display'd a rushlight's trembling flame,
The other held a thing they call culotte;
An old strip'd woollen night-cap grac'd his head,
A tatter'd waistcoat o'er one shoulder spread,
Scarce half awake, he heav'd a yawning note.

Though thus untimely roused, he courteous smil'd,
And soon address'd our wag in accents mild,
Reading his head politely to his knee—
"Pray, sare, vat you vant, dat you come so late,
I beg your pardon, sare, to make you vait;
Pray tell me, sare, vat your commands vid me?"

"Sir," replied King, "I merely thought to know,
As by your house I chanced to-night to go—
But, really, I disturbed your sleep I fear—
Lear, I thought that you perhaps could tell,
Among the folks who in this street may dwell,
If there's a Mr. Thompson lodges here?"

The shiv'ring Frenchman, though not pleased to find,
The business of this unimportant kind;
Too simple to suspect 'twas meant in jeer;
Shrugg'd out a sigh that thus his rest should break,
Then with unalter'd courtesy he spake— here."
"No, sare, no monsieur Tonson lodges

Our wag begg'd pardon, and towards home he sped,
While the poor Frenchman crawled again to bed,
But King resolved not thus to drop the jest:
So the next night with more of whim than grace,
Again he made a visit to the place,
To break once more the poor old Frenchman's rest.

nock'd—but waited longer than before,
ootsteps seem'd approaching at the door;
Frenchman lay in such a sleep profound:
with the knocker, thundered then again,
n his post determined to remain;
oft indeed he made the door resound.

t King hears him o'er the passage creep,
ering what fiend again disturb'd his sleep;
wag salutes him with a civil leer.
drawling out to heighten the surprise,
the poor Frenchman rubb'd his heavy eyes;
there—a Mr. Thompson—lodges here!"

Frenchman faltered, with a kind of fright—
sare, I'm sure I told you, sare, last night," d here he labored with a sigh sincere,
monsieur Tonson here in the world I know,
nonsieur Tonson here—I told you so:
ndeed, sare, dere no monsieur Tonson here."

ne more excuses tender'd off King goes,
d the old Frenchman sought once more repose,
The rogue next night pursued his old career;
'Twas long indeed before the man came nigh,
And then he utter'd, in a piteous cry,
"Sare, 'pon my soul no monsieur Tonson here."

Our sportive wight his usual visit paid,
And the next night came forth a prattling maid,
Whose tongue indeed than any jack went faster;
Anxious she strove his errand to inquire,
He said, "'tis vain her pretty tongue to tire,
He should not stir till he had seen her master."

The damsel then began, in doleful state,
The Frenchman's broken slumbers to relate,
And begg'd he'd call at proper time of day;
King told her she must fetch her master down,
A chair was ready, he was leaving town,
But first had much of deep concern to say.

Thus urged, she went the snoring man to call,
And long indeed was she obliged to bawl,
Ere she could rouse the torpid lump of clay;
At last he wakes—he rises—and he swears,
But scarcely had he totter'd down the stairs,
When King attacks him in his usual way.

The Frenchman now perceiv'd 'twas all in vain,
To this tormenter mildly to complain,
And straight in rage began his crest to rear;
"Sare, vat the devil make you treat me so?
Sare, I inform you, sare, three nights ago,
Got tam, I swear, no monsieur Tonson here!"

True as the night, King went, and heard a strife
Between the harrass'd Frenchman and his wife,
Which would descend to chase the fiend away;
At length, to join their forces they agree,
And straight impetuously they turn the key,
Prepar'd with mutual fury for the fray.

Our hero, with the firmness of a rock,
Collected to receive the mighty shock,
Utt'ring the old inquiry calmly stood;
The name of Thompson rais'd the storm so high,
He deem'd it then the safest plan to fly,
With, "well, I'll call when you're in gentler mood!"

In short, our hero, with the same intent,
Full many a night to plague the Frenchman went,
So fond of mischief was the wicked wit;
They threw out water—for the watch they call,
But King expecting, still escapes from all,
Monsieur at last was forced his house to quit.

It happened that our wag, about this time,
On some fair prospect sought the eastern clime,
Six lingering years were this his tedious lot;
At length, content, amid his rip'ning store,
He treads again on Britain's happy shore,
And his long absence is at once forgot.

To London, with impatient hope, he flies,
And the same night, as former freaks arise,
He fain must stroll, the well-known haunt to trace;
"Ah! here's the scene of frequent mirth," he said,
"My poor old Frenchman, I suppose, is dead—
Egad, I'll knock, and see who holds the place."

With rapid strokes he makes the mansion roar,
And while he eager eyes the op'ning door,
Lo! who obeys the knocker's rattling peal?
Why e'en our little Frenchman! strange to say,
He took his old abode that very day!—
Capricious turn of sportive fortune's wheel!

Without one thought of the relentless foe
Who, fiend-like, haunted him so long ago,
Just in his former trim he now appears;
The waistcoat and the night-cap seem'd the same,
With rush-light as before he creeping came,
And King's detested voice, astonish'd, hears.

As if some hideous spectre struck his sight,
His senses seem'd bewilder'd with affright,
His face, indeed, bespoke a heart full sore—
Then starting, he exclaim'd in rueful strain,
"Begar! here's Monsieur Tonson come again!"
Away he ran—and ne'er was heard of more!

AN ELOQUENT EXTRACT.

From a copy of the Funeral Address delivered before the citizens of Burlington, (N. J.) at the request of the Common Council, on the 13th ult., by the Right Rev. George W. Doane, on occasion of the death of the late President of the United States, we make the following extract, constituting the opening of the Address, for which we feel sure that our readers will thank us:

"It is a dark December day. A deep snow clothes the ground. A sharp and cutting sleet drives with the wind. Against the blinding storm and through the deepening drifts a youthful soldier, with his knapsack on his back, pursues his steadfast way. A stripling of nineteen, of slender frame and feeble health, he is an ensign in the army of America, with WASHINGTON'S commission, and he marches, with his small detatchment, on his first service. It was a patriot and a christian duty. There are those before me who remember well what, in my young days, was yet a nursery word, at which the mother pressed the infant to her bosom, and children gathered closer to the fire—ST. CLAIR'S DEFEAT. It was to the battle-field, to inter the bones of its six hundred slain, that our young ensign hastened with his troop. And though it was a patriot and a Christian duty, how much more sternly than the fiercest onset of the heavy fight must that still forest field, the lowering sky, the howling wind, those gallant men butchered by savage hands, and all the recollections and foreboding of that most disastrous day have tried the spirit of a youthful soldier on his first campaign!

"It was a chill November night, when a small army of Americans encamped themselves upon a point of land between the Wabash and a tributary stream. They were the gentlemen and yeomen of the country, who had enrolled themselves under the territorial Governor to defend their homes against the inroads of the hostile tribes, and to chastise their insolence. A long and tedious march, through a most dreary wilderness, brings them at last to where their wily foes await them, and on their proposition for a conference and treaty, hostilities are intermitted for a day. Slowly and cheerlessly the night wears off, within that guarded camp, with clouds and rain. But weary men will sleep, whatever may betide them; and now, for hours, no sound has stirred the stillness of the scene, save the lone sentry's guarded step. But what is that which, through 'the misty moonbeam's struggling light,' is seen, not heard, as it glides through the prairie grass? Is it a snake that winds his stealthy way? No; but a subtler Indian; and in one instant he is dead! Another, and the savage yell starts every sleeper from his cold, damp couch, and death begins his work. And was this sleeping camp deceived, surprised, betrayed? Was their Commander faithless to his trust? No; every man had slept where he must fight, his clothes on, and his gun loaded. And he, while yet the night was young, sat by his tent-fire, till the hour should come to rouse his weary comrades. In a moment he was mounted. Where the fight was hottest there was he. A ball, with no commission for his life, flies through his hair. In vain his officers remonstrate with him for his fearless hazard of himself. He thinks of brave St. Clair and of the gallant victims of that fatal field. He thinks of wasted towns and blazing homes, and mothers slaughtered with their infants. And the morning dawns not till the victory is won!

"Along the banks of the Ohio spreads a smiling farm. A plain and modest mansion rises from a sloping lawn. Its owner, having filled with credit to himself, and honor to his country, almost every station but the first—fought its battles, governed its Territories, served it in both Houses of Congress, and represented it abroad—wears out in frugal industry his green old age, a plain Ohio farmer: his house the very home of hospitality; his name the refuge and the salace of the poor, the stranger, and the orphan; his style the noblest that is known to nature's heraldry, a patriot, and a patriarch!

"It is a gusty day in March. Before the morning dawns, the Federal city is alive with men. It seems now full to overflowing; and yet every hour brings hundreds, thousands more. A cavalcade is formed. Bells ring and cannons roar. Fair women and brave men throng every window of that noble Avenue. Not a State of the whole twenty-six that is not represented in that long drawn line. It is the nation's jubilee. All classes, all conditions, both sexes, every age, partake the general joy. A grave, plain man, arrayed in modest black, that rides, uncovered, on the steed more conscious than himself of the occasion, is the magnet that attracts all eyes, and touches every heart. He reaches the Capitol. He ascends the steps. He stands, majestic in his meekness and simplicity, before the immeasurable multitude who have brought up with them the homage of the nation. The highest officer of Justice administers to him the most magnificent oath that ever rises up to Heaven. And the youthful ensign, the gallant general, the laborious farmer is PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

"'One little month' has passed. It is a fitful April day. Again the Federal city is astir.—Cannons are heard—but these are minute guns. The bells peal out—but 'tis the funeral knell. The streets are thronged—but every face is sad, and every voice is still. Once more a long procession passes down that noble Avenue—but yew and cypress take the place of nodding plumes, and muffled drums beat time to aching hearts.—Again that grave, plain man is there, no more erect and tall, the pillar of the State, but in his grave clothes, stretched upon the funeral car.—He enters not the gate, as when we last beheld him, to that glorious Capitol, but turns aside to the still spot where sleep the honored dead, and 'earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust' concludes the story and the scene. Never had man a funeral so sublime. Never for chieftain fallen did a whole nation so pour out its heart. Was it not beautiful—and just as it was beautiful—that he who on that sleety day began his public life with pious rites for St. Clair's butchered host should find himself such sepulchre?"

THE BANK OF THE UNITED STATES. We learn, says the Pennsylvania Inquirer, that the partial assignment recently made by the U. S. Bank, is now on file in the Recorder's office.—The trustees named on the part of the Philadelphia Banks, are as already stated in our columns, Messrs. James Dundas, Mordecai D. Lewis, Samuel W. We learn that the other arrangement with regard to the circulation and deposits is now in progress, and will be perfected as speedily as possible.

We find in Galignani's (Paris) Messenger, the subjoined remark, upon the treatment proper for the insane:

"Several eminent doctors have at times, made use of theatrical representations as a relief, and even a cure, in certain cases of lunacy. The following is a late example of success. The first physician of the lunatic hospital, at Peggio in Naples—the Abbe Ballouia—who has always considered manual labor and games suited to the tastes, habits, and characters of his patients, as one of the most effectual means of cure, made the experiment of sending twenty-six of them, properly attended, to the principal theatre of the town, he himself being at the back of the boxes in which they were placed. He, at the same time, took the precaution of having distributed among the audience a notice of the presence of his patients, entreating that no notice might be taken of them, nor any thing said or done that might tend to irritate or excite them. The performances were selected by M. Ballouia himself, and were listened to by his proteges with attention, and without their interchanging a single word, even between the acts. The entertainments are said to have made a deep impression upon the minds of the whole twenty-six. Next day an improvement in their maladies was more or less visible, and they are said to have since made rapid progress towards a complete return to reason."

If we mistake not, this is the plan adopted in Worcester, Massachusetts, with great success, and, within proper limits we believe it to be the right one—undoubtedly in all cases of insanity, kindness is the law of action, on the part of the sane. To bear and to forbear, to avoid recrimination and as far as possible avoid coercion—treat gently, even though firmly—seek to draw away the mind from itself, turn it outward, and it will heal.—U. S. Gazette.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From a very Respectable Farm r.]

STAFFORD COUNTY, VA. SEPT. 5th, 1840.

Dear Sir:—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me, whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I think I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhuburb and soda three or four times every day for these many years, with little or no relief, and my legs and ankles were so much swelled that I was unable, at times, to attend to my business. But since you made me a present of a box of your Family Pills I have taken 1 or 2 of them at night in going to bed, and now my acid stomach is relieved, the swelling in my legs has nearly disappeared, and I do not think that I have been hindered one day with the pain in my head since! I began to take your valuable medicine. I think the Lord directed you to Fredericksburg, to administer to my relief. (Blessed be his holy name, I am greatly relieved.) There is living in my neighborhood a poor old woman who had been sick for a long time and could not get relief; at length I purchased a box of your pills and gave them to her, after awhile I saw her out and about her business, and she said that the one box had cured her. I have spread the fame of your valuable medicine amongst my acquaintances, and many have purchased. Now, as it respects myself, my friends tell me when I go to town, that they have not seen me look so well for many years, and I say to them, 'I will tell you the secret why;' a short time ago I met with a Dr. Davies in town, and he gave me a box of pills, and they have made me look as you now see me.' And now, my friend, I hope that the Lord will continue to be with you, and make you useful to your fellow-creatures, as he has hitherto done. I remain with respect, CHARLES BRUCE.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

ENVY. We are taught to pray to be delivered from "envy, hatred, and malice, and all uncharitableness." Of these passions envy is the most despicable and the least excusable. The envious man repines at the prosperity of his neighbor, and is gratified at his misfortune. Envy includes the other passions; for it is a malignant and uncharitable disposition alone that can induce the envy of another's possessions, character, talents or elevation. Envy is always allied to meanness, ignorance and narrowness of soul. It is adverse to virtue, honesty and integrity, and never sees a shining light without having the desire to extinguish it. It preys upon its possessor, rendering him a miserable wretch—an object abhorrent to men of feeling and correct principle. It loathes excellence, and, like the Sun, would cause all things to act in subordination to its control. It is supposed that it was this fiend-like passion that influenced Satan when he tempted the inhabitants of Paradise; and also impelled Cain to take the life of his brother. Well may we be taught to pray to be exempted from it; for it is a levelling passion, which, after reducing him who entertains it to the lowest state of degradation, would drag all others down to the same level. It is always restless, and never satisfied. It cannot be quieted by wealth, nor honors, nor distinction; because it is excluded from the enlightened mind and the liberal heart. It deals not with charity and benevolence; nor does it hold communion with any of the precepts of Christianity. It expels from the bosom every feeling but that of selfishness, a selfishness which can never be satisfied. From such a passion we say in sincerity, "Good Lord deliver us."

FUN. The Philadelphia Spirit of the Times contains the picture of a guillotine, with a man lying in the position for decapitation, whilst two others are engaged in forcing a poor fellow upon the platform. The executioner who stands ready to let the knife fall on the necks of his victims, is smoking a segar with great sang froid. Under the guillotine are the words of Richard, "Off with his head." Now this may be a matter of merriment to editors, but to the custom-house and other officers who are being discharged, it is no joke.

It seems that the new collector and postmaster in Philadelphia are using their brooms very freely, having swept out most of the late incumbents. Considerable dissatisfaction appears to exist as to those who have been substituted, and it is proposed to call a town meeting to deliberate upon the subject. Can it be possible that the Spirit of the Times is correct in designating some of the newly appointed officers "the outpourings of the penitentiary!"—the very scum of the political cauldron!" These are harsh expressions, and should not be used unless they can be fully justified. But if such men have been admitted into either the custom-house or post-office, the officers who have appointed them deserve the severest censure if not dismissal.

Jefferson said of public officers, "few die, and none resign," and he could not, therefore, gratify his political friends. But times have improved since his day, and both parties now "push men from their stools" sans ceremonie.

THE SPEAKERSHIP. The National Intelligencer of yesterday, publishes the following list of gentlemen who have been named for the station of Speaker of the House of Representatives of the next Congress. William Cost Johnson, Esq. of Maryland, has distinguished himself by his talents and business habits, and is highly esteemed by political opponents as well as friends, and we have no doubt would discharge the arduous duties appertaining to the station of Speaker, with credit to himself and satisfaction to the House:

George N. Briggs, of Massachusetts.
John M. Botts, of Virginia.
Caleb Cushing, of Massachusetts.
Wm. C. Dawson, of Georgia.
Millard Fillmore, of New York.
Thomas W. Gilmer, of Virginia.
Wm. Cost Johnson, of Maryland.
Joseph Lawrence, of Pennsylvania.
John White, of Kentucky.
Henry A. Wise, of Virginia.

EXPLOSION. We are informed that on Monday last, after Professor Aikin had concluded a Lecture on Chemistry, accompanied by experiments, in Madame Bujac's Academy, Aisquith street, he requested that the apparatus might not be touched. He had been absent, however, but a short time, when a young lady applied a lighted candle to some gas, which instantly exploded, injuring her considerably, and breaking the glass of the windows, a looking glass and some furniture. The young lady is said to have made a very narrow escape, by springing back at the moment of applying the light.

McLEOD. If the New York correspondent of the National Intelligencer be correctly informed, the case of McLeod will soon be brought to a termination. He states that the prisoner is to be brought to the city of New York for trial forthwith, before the Circuit Court. The writer also says—"It is among the possibilities, also, that after the trial has commenced a new issue may arise, which will result in the acquittal of McLeod—the United States, through the District Attorney, appearing in Court with the official evidence of the fact that Great Britain authorized the burning of the Caroline, and that McLeod, supposing him guilty, acted but as the authorized agent of his Government. I have but heard, and that rather as a suggestion than a fact, that this may be the course pursued. The effect would be to make a new party to an old complaint, and, as the prisoner can prove his innocence, the new question would be one that must result in a prolonged and unhappy controversy. Better for all that the law should have its course without the interposition of either the United States or Great Britain. McLeod, if he is tried here under a change of venue, is tried at his own request."

We perfectly agree with the writer, that it would be better to let the trial take the ordinary course. Interference on the part of the General Government may affect the release of McLeod, but it will perplex the relations between the British and American Government—for, if he be acquitted on account of the assumption of responsibility by his government, we shall be compelled to demand redress for the aggression, and to enforce the demand if not promptly complied with. And what redress can we obtain? An act of direct and wanton insult and hostility has been committed, for which a paltry pension to the relatives of our murdered citizens would be no compensation—and we doubt whether any thing further could be peaceably obtained. The writer says that McLeod can prove his innocence. If so, where is the necessity for interference? Let him shew that he is guiltless of the crime charged against him, and the matter will be concluded so far as regards him, and the supremacy of the laws will be maintained. But if we sneak out of the case by adopting the course insisted on by the British Government, it will not be the last instance in which violence and murder will go unpunished. We shall invite a repetition of the scene of the Caroline. Far better would it be to maintain the ground taken by Mr. Forsyth in his correspondence with the British Minister, and leave McLeod responsible to the law which he is supposed to have violated. We regret to see the least exhibition of pusillanimity—for the maxim of General Jackson is correct—"to ask for nothing that is not right; and submit to nothing that is wrong."

As McLeod was expected in New York on Monday last, a day or two will confirm or disprove the report of the New York letter writer; and we shall look to the result with considerable interest.

After the above had been put in type, we received the following confirmation of the report mentioned. From the statements below, it seems probable that the whole matter in controversy, between England and the United States, will be amicably settled:

From the New York Journal of Commerce.

McLEOD IN NEW YORK.

McLeod arrived here last night or this morning from Lockport, in custody of the sheriff of Niagara county. He has been brought here on a writ of habeas corpus, issued by the Supreme Court, which commenced term in this city this morning.

We understand that nothing further will be done in the case until Thursday next, when an application will be made to the Court to discharge McLeod from custody. Mr. Joshua A. Spencer, Attorney for the United States, Northern District, and Mr. Gardner, of Buffalo, are engaged as counsel for McLeod; and Mr. Hall, the Attorney General of this State, and Mr. Wood, District Attorney at Lockport, will act as counsel on the part of the People.

On the authority of private advices from Washington the N. York Commercial Advertiser thus speaks:

If we are rightly informed it has been agreed between Mr. Fox and the Government of the United States that no further opposition shall be made by the former to the trial of McLeod. That trial is to go on, under the jurisdiction of N. York, without interference either by the British Minister or the National Government.

If acquitted, as is most probable, McLeod will be discharged, of course, and the matter thus be disposed of. If convicted, the national government will then take the necessary steps to afford him that measure of justice and protection which all the circumstances of the case may require.

As to the boundary, we learn that a convention has been signed on the part of Great Britain and the United States, which provides for the appointment of six commissioners, three for each party to the dispute.

These six, if they can agree, are to give a final decision on the question. If they cannot agree, they are to appoint three others, and a decision by the majority of the nine is to be conclusive.

IMPORTANT TO MARINERS, SHIPPING MASTERS, AND OTHERS! A case was tried in the Baltimore County Court yesterday, and as the decision given on it is contrary to the rule heretofore established in like cases, it is therefore of great importance to those who are concerned in similar occupations to those of the parties to this case.

An action was brought by a shipping master to recover back the advance made to a seaman, who, after he had signed the shipping articles, and before being rendered on board, was disabled by an accident, and taken to the Hospital, where he died.

The Court held that, "inasmuch as it had been rendered impossible by an act of God for the sailor to be rendered, the advance money could not be recovered."

FIRE AT ANTIETAM. The Frederick Examiner says: A destructive fire occurred a few days ago at the Antietam Iron Works in Washington county, owned by JOHN MCPHERSON BAIEN. The nail factory and other property to a large amount were destroyed.

ANOTHER SMALL NOTE CASE. John C. Street against J. I. Cohen, jr. & Brothers—before Wm. A. Schaeffer, Esq. This action was brought by plaintiff on two one dollar issues of defendant's, to recover two dollars in current notes, rail road stock orders having been tendered. Trial, May 3d, 1840—held under consideration to 4th. Mr. Glenn, counsel for defendants, contended that the tender having been made of rail road notes or stock orders by defendants, were such notes as the contract implied on the face of the issues of defendants, and were current, and that small sums of said notes or orders were received by the banks of Baltimore on deposite, as well as being sanctioned by the Act of Assembly of 1840, do constitute current notes, as tendered by defendants. The following is the decision of Justice Schaeffer:—"I am of the opinion that the only proper and legal construction that can be placed on the words 'current notes,' is all notes that are at par value, worth one hundred cents in the dollar. As to the rail road notes or orders being partially received by the banks, still, in my opinion, goes farther to show, that said notes or orders are not by them deemed current notes in the legal sense. With these views of the case, I give judgment for the plaintiff for two dollars and costs."

LENNOX'S NATIONAL THEATRE. This Theatre, heretofore known as the "Little Adelphi," has been undergoing a thorough repair for several weeks past, and was opened last evening to a crowded audience, under the management of Messrs. Lennox & Singer. The house is fitted up in a very neat and handsome style, after the manner of the minor theatres of New York, and we have no doubt will attract more attention than any other place of amusement in this city. It is lit up in the most brilliant manner with Webb's Patent Camphine Burners, and we were much pleased to see that the managers had adopted this cheap and beautiful light in preference to gas. The stock company is a shade better than we have had at either of our theatres for some seasons past, and the prices of admission are reduced to nearly one half. Lennox is a sterling actor, and from his known industry, the public have a guarantee that he will leave nothing undone to cater for their amusement.

WHEAT AND FLOUR TRADE OF THE WEST. A late number of the Cleveland Herald contains a very interesting article upon the wheet and flour trade of the west, from which we gather that the export of wheat from the basin of Lake Erie has increased in fourteen years from 14,045 bushels in 1826 (the year after the Erie canal was finished,) to 7,809,908 in 1840. Nor is a tenth part of the choice wheat land in Michigan, Wisconsin and northern Indiana and Illinois yet put under the plough.

The article also exhibits the fact that the difference between the duty on American wheat and flour, when carried to Great Britain from a provincial port instead of a port of the United States, is no less than $864,960 on the amount sent by way of Canada the past season.

IMPORTANT INVENTION. The Leesburg (Va.) Genius of Liberty states, that Messrs. Philips & Jackson have invented and patented a machine for cleaning wheat, which will separate garlick, cockle, chest and all impurities from the grain. It is said that the machine can be furnished at a price within the reach of any one who may require the use of it. This invention, if it answer the purpose stated, will be of essential use to farmers, as the great difficulty, and indeed impossibility, of separating garlick, &c. from wheat and rye, has deducted largely from the value of their crops. We have no doubt the machine will be introduced into general use.

THE ORATORIO. The Oratorio of David was performed at the Assembly Rooms on Tuesday night last, to a very large and highly fashionable audience. So crowded was the saloon that many were unable to obtain seats. The merits of the piece performed are known, and the performance of it in our humble opinion was of a very superior order. We have heard many persons express a strong desire to hear it repeated, which we have no doubt will be complied with.

THE ATLANTIC STEAMERS. The Great Western sailed from New York on Saturday with over a hundred passengers, and an unusually large mail. The Columbia also left Boston, with 62 passengers, 14 for Halifax. She had 6000 letters, and five large bags full of newspapers.

The steam packet Acadia arrived at Halifax on the 19th ult. at 7 P. M., in fifty hours from Boston, and sailed next day for Liverpool, with 71 passengers.

ANOTHER VICTIM. We regret to learn from the Albany Argus, that Mr. Conant, of Saratoga, who was one of the sufferers on board the steamboat South America, died on Friday evening, at the Fort Orange Hotel, Albany. Mr. C. was a worthy young man of twenty-two, formerly of Schenectady.

STABBING. We understand, says the Frederick Herald of the 1st inst., that Mr. Frederick Hawman, the bar-keeper at Dorsey's Hotel, was stabbed badly in the shoulder on Wednesday evening last by Mr. Singleton Sprigg, in consequence of a quarrel arising from the former calling the latter a loafer.

Mr. Sprigg was committed to Jail by Justice Bartgis, in default of bail to the amount of $2000

THE SWINDLER. Dr. Lockwood, alias Colonel Digby, says the Philadelphia Chronicle, who was arrested on Thursday last, for swindling, had a hearing before Alderman Hay on the 3d instant. Twenty persons or more, among whom were store keepers, proprietors of hotels and boarding houses, &c., whom he had in various ways, cheated and swindled, identified him.

STRAWBERRIES. This delicious fruit has made its appearance in Boston market.

THE LATE DARING FORGERIES. The following statement, from the Louisiana Advertiser of the 24th ultimo, will not only explain the means by which the late forgeries on the Kentucky, Cincinnati, and New York bankers, were effected, but also relieve the public mind from every suspicion having a tendency to implicate any officer in the New Orleans Bank as an accomplice in the knavery:

"The march of rascality and wickedness is onward. A fellow by the name of Matthew Draper deposited four several amounts in the Commercial Bank of New Orleans, between a hundred and seven and a hundred and twenty dollars each, on or about the 20th of March, and received certificates of deposite therefor. With this anchor to windward, the scoundrel obliterated the figures and the words, and inserted 'twenty-one thousand Mexican dollars,' in the body of the certificate; and at the bottom, in the left hand corner, are the figures $21,000.

The alteration is not a perfect fac simile of the original filling up, though it is near enough to deceive.

The check was sold to the Girard Bank, in Philadelphia, and is now sent here for payment, endorsed by W. D. Lewis, the cashier of that institution.

There can be no doubt that there are three other such checks afloat.

If forging were punished by solitary imprisonment for life, it would be well for the cause of honesty."

POLICE. Richard McAlister, charged with fighting, rioting and disturbing the peace, was committed for want of security, by Justice Barnard.

Elizabeth Brian, Mrs. Downs and Mrs. Graves, charged with assaulting and beating Edward Burnham, was released on giving security.

Wm. Charlton, charged with assaulting and beating Edward Burnham, was released on giving security, by Squire Barnard.

Wm. Brown was committed by Squire Jones, for assaulting and beating John Harvy.

THE BETTER WAY. The sons of the poor die rich—while the sons of the rich die poor. What encouragement to toil through life in acquiring wealth to ruin our children! Better to go with our money as we go along—educate our sons—secure their virtue by habits of industry and study, and let them take care of themselves.

LATEST FROM CENTRAL AMERICA. We learn that no definite arrangement has been arrived at with respect to the British claims against Central America; but from the willing disposition of the President and authorities of Guatemala to enter upon a fair adjustment, we anticipate that little delay will now be experienced.

DISTILLERIES. There are 9,657 distilleries in the United States, manufacturing yearly 36,343,236 gallons of spirits. North Carolina alone has 2,798 distilleries, Virginia 1,450, Tennessee 1381, Pennsylvania 707, Kentucky 890, several states from one to four hundred, and New York but thirty-eight.

PORT OF BOSTON. During April there arrived at the port of Boston 502 vessels, 364 of which were coastwise and 138 foreign. There cleared in the same time 341, of which 231 were coastwise and 110 foreign.

☞ Gov. Polk, of Tennessee, has formally refused to call the Legislature together for the purpose of electing a United States Senator, arguing that the called session of Congress is unnecessary.

VIRGINIA ELECTIONS. The Whig party has gained two members of Congress, and have carried both branches of the Legislature, by a majority of two in each house.

KENTUCKY ELECTIONS. Partial returns are received; but we shall await the result before publishing.

A dreadful fire occurred at Antigua, on the 8th ult. causing the destruction of property to the amount of $500,000. Among many valuable buildings destroyed was the Custom House.

☞ The National Intelligencer of yesterday states that ice was found in the city of Washington and the surrounding neighborhood on Monday last.

Wm. L. McKenzie, the sui disant patriot, has established a weekly paper at Rochester called the Volunteer.

The case of Gen. Gaines and wife, is now in course of argument before the U. S. Circuit Court for the Eastern District of Louisiana.

FRONT STREET THEATRE.

☞ NEW YORK CIRCUS. We are happy to announce the opening, This Evening, of the highly popular Equestrian Establishment of Messrs. BARTLETT & DURAVAN at the above Theatre, which has been most extensively arranged for the exercises of this distinguished Company. It would be superfluous to eulogize the feats of horseman-ship exhibited by the present members of this Circus at the Bowery Theatre last winter at New York, and the successful tide of popular feeling that was there universally manifested. The majority of the ladies and gentlemen have arrived here as the bills announce, and in addition, our old Baltimore favorites and genuine Negro, Joe Sweeney, his Banjo and Pupil, has reached in time to appear This Evening in his celebrated opera of "Oh Hush!" Mr. Otto Motty, the most extraordinary and accomplished German rider, and whose fame is notorious in all parts of Europe, has also joined the Circus and will be immediately announced.

COMMUNICATION.

☞ We understand F. B. SCHAEFFER No 156 Baltimore street, has sold another handsome Capital Prize. It was sold to a lady—the first ticket she ever bought. It would be well for those who have a desire to try their fortunes, to call on him TO-DAY, as there is a splendid Scheme to draw in this city. There are a number of magnificent Prizes, such as $30 000 $5,000, &c. &c. His office surely must be the "flood" in that "tide in the affairs of men" which leads on to fortune—for it appears to be a daily occurrence with him to sell one or more of the Capitals.

GOOD FORTUNE.

☞ A gentleman stepped in at HEISLER & CO'S Office, No 1 N. Calvert street, a few days since, and purchased a share of a ticket which cost him $2 50, for which he received, the next morning, $1062 50; the lucky Nos. were 2, 61, 67—on receiving his cash he purchased another, for which he paid $5, and yesterday he pocketed $850 more—the lucky Nos of this ticket were 12, 16, 70. We advise this gentleman to continue at HEISLER'S, and in a short time he will have cash enough. The fact is, HEISLER & CO. lead the van in selling the handsome prizes—they are dealing out the prizes by thousands and enriching all who purchase their tickets at No. 1 N. Calvert-st.

INDIVIDUALS REQUIRING THE BEST INCORRUPTIBLE

WOULD DO WELL to call on Dr. WILCOCK, No. 39 FAYETTE STREET, near the Post Office, and examine his ingenious, unparalelled, and successful manner of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is acknowledged by all who have tested the work as surpassing every thing of the kind they have ever seen. He has in process of manufacture many thousands of improved Mineral Incorruptible Teeth, and can confidently assert that they are superior to any made in this city, whether for strength, durability, or their extremely natural appearance. These Teeth FOREVER retain their color and purity in the mouth, are fixed without pain or the injurious effects of wires or ligatures, thereby greatly improving mastication, utterance, and the general health. Be it also remembered, that Dr. W. proportions his charges to the circumstances of his patients, and when the excellence of his mechanism is taken into consideration, it will be seen that the public study their own interests when employing him in his professional capacity. The Plugging of decayed teeth, when PURE GOLD is used, will insure to the patient their preservation to the latest period of human existence. The various operations pertaining to dentistry will meet with the proper treatment each case may require.

1. Artificial Teeth put of repair, restored equal in durability to their former state at a very trifling charge.

2. By the skilful use of very improved instruments, assurance is given of the instantaneous and safe removal of any tooth or fang (however decayed) without injuring the jaw or leaving behind any portion of the roots.

3. In all cases where gold is required, none other than 20 carrat is ever used. Bear this in mind, as CHEAP WORK is often thrown out as a bait, and inferior materials used; sometimes even SILVER is recommended, a metal totally unfit for permanent useSin the mouth.

4. Platina or Gold Plates fixed in the mouth, so as to completely restore defective utterance.

5. Those individuals who cannot afford to pay the fee of 50 cents for extraction, can have this important operation performed any morning WITHOUT CHARGE, by calling between the hours of 8 and 9 A. M.

Individuals requiring the assistance of a Dentist, may avail themselves of Dr. W's services at any hour of the day throughout the year, to suit their own convenience.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

SALE OF VALUABLE PROPERTY

On Eutaw street, near the Lexington Market.

WILL BE SOLD by the subscriber, executrix of the late will and testament of Robert R. Richardson, deceased, the following Property, on THE PREMISES, on SATURDAY, the 15th day of May, 1841, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

All that valuable Lot of Ground, situated on the north east corner of Eutaw street and Wagon alley, fronting 22 feet on Eutaw-st. and extending back eastwardly about 92 feet to a twenty foot alley. The improvements on this lot consist of two two story brick DWELLINGS—one fronting on Eutaw street and occupied as a store, and the other in the rear thereof, fronting on Wagon alley.

Also, the Lot adjoining the above and to the north thereof, fronting on Eutaw st. 22 feet and extending eastwardly about 92 feet to a twenty foot alley. This lot is improved with a one story Frame Dwelling, and has the benefit of the brick wall of the adjacent house on the north.

Each of the above lots is subject to a ground rent of $30.09—thirty dollars and nine cents.

The situation, near to the market and in a fast improving thoroughfare, is a very desirable one.

The terms of sale will be, one third of the purchase money cash, one-third at six months, and one third at twelve months from the day of sale—notes with approved security will be required for the deferred payments. The payments to bear interest from the day of sale.

BALTIMORE MARKET, May 4, 1841.

Flour. The Flour market continues rather inactive. The last sales of Howard street were made at $4.37½, for good common brands from stores. The wagon price remains unsettled. Some purchases have been made at $4.30. City Mills is held at $4.62, though we have not been informed of any transactions.

Grain. We quote Md. white Wheat at 85a90 cents. We have not been informed of any Pennsylvania being in market. Md. red is also quoted at 95a90 cents. We quote yellow Corn at 50 and white at 47 cents. There has been a slight decline in Maryland Oats. We quote at 35 cents, and Va. do. at 30a33 cents. We note no sales of Rye.

Wool. We observe a sale of common Wool at 30 cents per lb.

Cattle. Beef Cattle on the hoof we quote at $7.75a$8.25 per 100 lbs. Live Hogs are plenty, and will bring from $4.25 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.

Provisions. In the provision market we note no material change. For the past week transactions have been tolerable. We quote mess beef at $12.50, No. 1 at $10.50 &c. according to quality. Baltimore Mess Pork continues at $12.50; No. 1 $10.50, and prime from 8 to $8.50. Sales of Western Bacon have taken place at 6a6½c. per lb.; Hams do. 8a9c.; Middlings 6½c. and Shoulders 6½c.; prime Balt. cured Hams we quote at 10c. and Sides do. 8½c. Western Lard, No. 1, 8c. for cash. There is hardly anything doing in Western Butter. Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in mixed lots have been sold at from 6 to 7c. In Glades there is nothing doing.

Whiskey. We quote hhds. at 20c. and bbls. 22c. The wagon price exclusive of the bbls. is 18c.

THE MALEK ADHEL. This vessel is now in the custody of the Marshal, two informations having been filed against her by the District Attorney of the U. S. One for piratical aggressions on the high seas, and the other on the ground of foreign ownership. We understand that she is claimed by the very respectable house of Peter Harmony & Company, of New York, and that J. Meredith, Esq., has been retained as their counsel. The trial will take place during the approaching June term of the District Court.—Patriot.

The Attorney General of South Carolina has issued process against the recusant banks in Charleston, viz. the State Bank, the Bank of Charleston, and South Carolina Bank; and it is at the option of those institutions whether the cases shall be tried at the approaching session of the Court, or whether, by insisting on their right of imparlance, the trial be postponed to the next session. Process against the recusant country banks had not been issued, and would probably be postponed to the next term.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT.

J. F. Cox, Henry Naylor, Nathan Lufborough, Joshua Peirce, Lewis Carbery, John Cox, and Robert White, to be members of the Levy Court for the County of Washington, in the District of Columbia.

A severe shock of an earthquake was felt in the city and harbor of Port au Prince on the evening of the 13th inst.

BLOWN DOWN. The wall of an unfinished brick house, corner of Dugan and Spruce streets, Philadelphia, was blown down on Tuesday morning, during the violent gale.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE!

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	" Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'sburg	12 M.	" Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	" Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	" Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	" Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	" Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is out of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads Weathers and Storms must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of
STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office,
412-tf PRATT STREET, Baltimore.

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY,
No. 17 HARRISON ST.
"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

☞ Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. m1-tf

TRUSTEES SALE of valuable real estate in the city of Baltimore. By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court of Maryland, the undersigned as Trustee, will expose to sale at auction on WEDNESDAY, the ninth day of June next, commencing at 9 o'clock, A. M. on the premises

ALSO THAT VALUABLE PROPERTY heretofore conveyed by William Russell to the trustees for the poor of Baltimore City and County, by indenture bearing date on or about the fifteenth day of June seventeen hundred and ninety-three, and recorded amongst the land records of Baltimore County Court in liber W. G., No. K. K., folio 4 &c., and which in said deed is described as follows, viz—Beginning for the same at the intersection of Biddle and Price sts., and on the west side of said Biddle street, and running and bounding on the west side of said Biddle street north forty-four degrees, east forty eight perches and the half of a perch, then north fifty two and one half degrees, west thirty four perches to a parcel of ground heretofore sold to a certain William Gibson by the said William Russell, then running and bounding on said ground south forty four degrees, west forty four perches to Price street, then bounding on said street south easterly thirty four perches to the place of beginning, containing nine acres and one half of an acre and thirteen square perches of land more or less.

The above property adjoins the Rose Hill estate and is in the neighborhood of the outer Depot of the Baltimore and Susquehana Rail Road; it lies beyond the limits of direct taxation and is exempt from the payment of City Taxes; the whole property will be divided into a large number of Lots of such dimensions as will enable those of moderate means to become purchasers. Madison street, which forms its Southern boundary, has been well paved along its entire front and beyond, and has been built upon up to Biddle st., which forms the Eastern Boundary, Morris Alley, Gibson street, Jordan Alley, and Gordon street, pass thro' it from east to west. A better opportunity than the present rarely occurs either for investment or speculation, especially when the very liberal terms of payment are taken into consideration.

The terms of sale prescribed by the decree are that the purchasers shall pay one-sixth cash, one sixth in ninety days, one sixth in six months, one-sixth in nine months, one-sixth in twelve months, and one sixth in fifteen months from the day of sale, the credit instalments to be secured by notes with one or more sureties to be approved by the Trustee and to bear interest from the day of sale.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clear, brilliant, and economical light, will find it really to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 93 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh16-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

Proposers for furnishing the Bolt, Strap and Bar Iron and Spring Steel, will state whether or not the article proposed to be furnished is of English or American manufacture.

The delivery of the materials above enumerated to commence on or before the 15th of July next, and continued in equal and regular monthly instalments, so as to complete the delivery of the whole of the Poplar, Cherry and Walnut Lumber, and the whole number of the Bolsters and about one half of the balance on or before the first of November next, ensuing.

The delivery of the remainder to commence on or before the first of April, 1842, and to be regulated in like manner as above, so as to complete the delivery of the whole quantity on or before the first of October, 1842.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered, and four-fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid—reserving to the company the option of paying the said four-fifths in Baltimore City six per cent. stock at par, or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to contract.

If the materials contracted for or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one fifth due on any which may have been already delivered. No payments will be made on account of materials delivered before the times specified for the delivery of the same.

The payments will be made at the Company's office in Baltimore. By order of the President and Directors.

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Colley; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a thorough overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 4 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good night's rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

SPRING GALES.

We come like the morn's returning light,
Flowers are springing to grace our flight:
As we move on, o'er mountain and vale,
Sounds of rejoicing rise on the gale;
From primrose nooks, where the wild vine creeps,
From craggy glens where the torrent leaps,
From flow'ry dingles and lawny hills,
From dalsied plains and murmuring rills.

We've broken the charm of winter's reign,
And dissolv'd to flow'rs his icy chain,
With vines we've mantled the peasant's cot,
A grateful shade o'er the humble spot,
Where, hiding within its leafy rest,
The martin builds his secluded nest;
Beneath the thatch are as sweetly blest,
Laborious toil and blythe content.

Summer is coming, we must away,
For our course is marked and we obey,
To the polar clime we hasten forth,
To rend the bonds of the icy north;
Oh! then adieu to the sunny glades,
Where doves are wooing in myrtle shades,
We've woven o'er all a fairy spell,
To joy we leave it—farewell, farewell!

There is over all a mind supreme,
Who directs the storm and solar beam,
He dwells in regions of light above,
His hand is justice, his heart is love,
Surrounded by a seraphic band,
Who dispense his goodness o'er the land;
In Him then, oh! thou of mortal dust,
Learn to rely and confide thy trust.

JOACHIM MURAT; OR, THE MUTINEERS.

From the French—by Robert Hamilton.

At Florence, at the Grifloni Palace, after the piano had ceased playing the delightful strains of Bellini, the intimate friends of the Countess Lipona would form themselves into little coteries, and with tale and anecdote beguile the hours, till the dawn of morning. There was an inexpressible charm about these midnight parties; the saloon was exactly as it had been during the concert and ball, but the dancers and singers had departed. The music lay scattered around upon the desks, the lights were waning in their sockets, and the orchestra was vacated. At such a time these little groups assembled, and so fascinating were they that no one ever thought of retiring till the rays of the sun were often struggling through the casements. The Countess, herself, was ever present at these assemblies, and among the last to retire. "Three hours' sleep," she would say, "is for me sufficient; it is a habit I learned from my brother, the Emperor, and an excellent one it is." The company, it is almost needless to say, were too happy to follow any example which came from Napoleon, and in going from the palace, it frequently happened that the sun was illumining the colonade and burnishing the dome of San Spirito.

Sometimes the Countess would relate some charming anecdote, with that half Italian manner, which she never totally abandoned. The illustrious heroine had assisted in many of them herself, and she was, therefore, never destitute of material when she condescended to contribute her share to the circle of amusement. One night when we had drawn ourselves closer than usual around the chair of the Countess, the noble lady announced to us that she had a tale of some interest to impart, and it was evident, from the working of her countenance and the calm and solemn tone of her voice, that it was one of sorrowful recollection. She respectfully solicited our silence, which having been obtained, she spoke as follows:

"At the time that Italy was under the dominion of France, a seditious spirit was manifested in one of the regiments then quartered in Leghorn. It was not an affair of a common nature, but marked with the most frightful and daring acts. The Emperor, when apprised of it, was wroth in the extreme, and determined to make a most summary and severe example to the deterring of future offenders. The execution of it he committed to my beloved husband, Joachim, and the orders which he received from Napoleon were peremptory and terrible—no council of war was to be summoned, but immediate execution to take place.

Joachim, having arrived at Leghorn, summoned the regiment to appear before him in the square of the garrison, and announced the orders he had received from the Emperor, with his own determination that he should see them fully executed. His angry speech, his imperious gestures, his menaces, and above all, the terror of his name, soon quelled the rebellious spirit of the troops. They threw themselves upon their knees and in the most humble accents supplicated for mercy. Joachim was moved, for he was himself kind and generous, but his orders were decisive, and disguising his emotion, he cried in a voice of anger—"Of every tenth man I shall make an example!"

As it may be conceived, the consternation was awful. The regiment was ordered back as prisoners to their barracks, to await the decimation, each soldier regarding himself already as one of the doomed. Many were the deputations sent to solicit pardon. Officers and men swore to sacrifice themselves in the very first battle under the eyes of the Emperor, if Murat would spare them the death of degradation. For a long time he was inflexible, at least in his appearance—but at last his commiseration was excited, and he sought to find an excuse for evading the orders of the Emperor—but in vain. The crime was one of the most dangerous, and to forgive it, even if he had been inclined, would have been setting a most injurious precedent to the whole army. After a severe struggle between his feelings and duty, he decided that three of the greatest mutineers should atone with their lives for the offence of the regiment. Three victims were accordingly selected, and conducted to prison, with the order that their execution should take place early the following morning.

In the middle of the night, the jailor, in whose discretion and confidence Joachim could confide, was directed to bring the three soldiers to his presence. When they approached him they were bathed in tears, thinking, no doubt, that their hour was come. Murat regarded them with pity, while he said—

'It is fit that you prepare yourselves for death, and by your meeting that death in a heroic manner you will, in the world's eye, wipe away the stigma of treason which now rests upon your regiment. If you have aught you wish to leave to your wives, children, or parents, I promise it shall be faithfully conveyed to them.'

The poor fellows could not reply—their grief stifled their utterance, and they fell in each other's arms and wept aloud.

'Alas!' continued Murat, 'how proud and happy would they have been had you fallen in battle before the enemy—but thus, to die the death of the felon. Unhappy men, farewell. I shall send you a priest to administer to you the comforts of religion. Let your last prayer be for France and to your God for pardon. You have nothing further to do with life—Farewell!'

The soldiers fell at the feet of Joachim, not to sue for mercy, but to implore his forgiveness before dying. The heart of Joachim was touched, it was granted—and the prisoners were on the eve of being conducted back to prison—when he ordered them again to approach him.

'Hearken!' said he to them. 'If I grant you life, will you promise to be brave and virtuous men for the future?'

The soldiers regarded him with astonishment for a few moments, then their faces met each other—but not a symptom of thankfulness or joy seemed to irradiate them. At length one of them replied—

'No, General, we are ready and willing to die. We have deserved death, and we bow to the justice of our sentence.'

'How!' cried Murat, 'if I am willing that you should live, wherefore should you wish to die? I have never yet given the order to fire against the enemy, and certainly I am not willing to give it against you who were my brethren in arms, my countrymen, even although you be guilty!' And Joachim wept like a very woman, and what brave man would not have done the same?

A deep silence ensued, while not an eye of the company was dry at the mention of her heroic spouse by the widowed Countess. After a pause, she continued—

'Hearken to me,' said Joachim. 'You are guilty, and deserving death, but you are willing to die for your crime, and that in my eyes is punishment enough. We have been fellow-soldiers on the field of battle. I have seen and know your bravery. I respect it, and by your living you may yet serve me much. But to effect this with safety to yourselves and me, it is necessary that you be thought dead by the world—and especially by your own regiment. Listen. To-morrow, as night closes in, you will be conducted to the gate of Pise close to the glacis. The platoon who will execute judgment upon you, will be placed at twenty paces from your person.—Unknown to them they shall receive a charge of blank cartridge, and as they discharge their muskets, you will fall as if dead. At that moment, your regiment will pass on the heights to behold the supposed fulfilment of your sentence, which the darkness of the night will the more easily enable us to accomplish. A man to whom I have given instructions, will then place you in a cart and convey you to the cemetery, where you will receive disguises as sailors, and a thousand francs each. From thence you be will conducted to a hotel, where you will remain in safety for some days, until an American vessel now in port for New Orleans, is ready for departure. Once in another land, you will be at liberty, and the world before you to live in, and I trust as honest men. For your families, fear nothing, I shall take care that they are provided for. Farewell! Be prudent and docile, and Heaven will prosper you.' The poor fellows could not reply, but falling at the feet of Joachim, bathed them with their tears.

All came to pass as Joachim had contrived—the severe example was thus given to the rebellious regiment, and the Emperor was pleased, and thanked my husband that he had acted so prudently in only sacrificing three human beings in place of the whole regiment. This generous ruse was always concealed from the Emperor, and saving myself and a few faithful friends, to whom Murat had entrusted the secret, it was never made known. Circumstances now render concealment no longer necessary, but believe me, this is a truth and not a fiction that I have told you.

After this narration, the noble lady, overcome by her feelings, retired to her apartment. The recital had imparted to the guests a mingled feeling of melancholy and love—melancholy for the remembrance of the gallant soldier, and love for his generosity of soul. Neither of us could speak, but as it were, instinctively cast our eyes upon a magnificent portrait, by Gros, representing Murat as King of Naples, on horseback, on the brink of the Neapolitan gulf. The sky and water were tinged with the light of Vesuvius, which was in the distance, sending forth his volcanic fires. It was a happy thought of the artist—Murat and Vesuvius, face to face—two volcanoes!

Months had vanished, and still the recollection of this little history clung to my memory with a vividness that was almost painful, when happening to be at Rome, chance threw me in the way of a friend, who had at one period lived in terms of the closest intimacy with the imperial family. To him I related the anecdote, when he furnished me with its sequel, and but that I know it to be based upon truth, I should be inclined to regard it little better than the denouement of a romance or a drama. It is as follows:

On the precincts of a forest in the neighborhood of New Orleans, in the autumn of 1830, a young hunter knocked at the door of a beautiful farm cottage, to request shelter from a violent storm then raging. The door was opened by an aged female, who politely requesting him to enter, conducted him into a little parlor simply yet neatly furnished. Around the walls were displayed engravings and lithographic prints, principally representing the most famous victories of Napoleon. The young man beheld them with delight and emotion, as he exclaimed in the language of France—

"It would appear that my good star has conducted me to the dwelling of a countryman."

"Indeed!" said the female, "I rejoice to hear it—a real Frenchman!"

"Yes, madame, and a good Frenchman too, and if I guess rightly, I have also a parent here—in this very parlor."

The old woman looked surprised, while she replied—

"My son sir, is in the garden. I will call him, I am certain he will be very glad to see a countryman."

"Is your son also French?" inquired the stranger.

"Ye—ye—yes, sir." This answer was given with a little hesitation, but recovering her composure, she added with more confidence—"He is a Frenchman by birth, but for many years has resided in this country, where, under the blessing of God, he has no cause to repent it. This dwelling, and the land around it, are his own. I am his mother—our industry has won for us independence and comfort, and we are content and happy." At this moment the master of the farm entered the apartment. "My son," said the mother, "here is a gentleman who requests our hospitality 'till the storm ceases—he is your countryman, a son of beloved France!"

The master of the farm saluted the stranger with a military air, and stammered forth a few words of civility. The figure of the young man seemed to recall some strong remembrance, for he was so much moved that he could only gaze with the most intense scrutiny upon him. At length, after a pause, with painful diffidence, he said—

"Sir, you may think my behaviour strange and the question I am about to ask as rude and suspicious—but your figure is like to one of whom I bear a grateful remembrance, and your face, that—pray excuse me—may I know your name?"

"My friend," replied the hunter, "that is the only question to which I cannot reply. It would be easy to deceive you by giving a false name—but I prefer rather to conceal mine than utter an untruth. He whose name I bear was never known to utter a lie, and never shall it be tarnished in my being. I am sincere in my answer—perhaps uncourteous. If you will grant me your hospitality, I shall feel grateful—if not, I am ready to quit your roof—"

"No, no!" exclaimed the master, "were the whole world mine, something tells me that it would be my duty to give it you," and his breast heaved heavily and the tears started into his eyes.

"This is singular," said the hunter. "Though I have refused to favor you with my name, doubtless you have no cause to conceal yours?" The master of the farm replied not. "It appears that you are also unwilling to reveal your name," added the hunter.

"You are right, sir," replied the master.—"That which I bear in this country is not my real name, and to reveal it to you could be of no importance. Suffice it that I am known here by that of Claude Gerard."

"At least, sir, be assured that my son has no cause to blush for his name," said the mother. "There are reasons that—"

"It is all one to me," said the stranger. "I tell my name to none but whom I consider worthy of my confidence—and, as at this moment I believe you to be so. Know that I am Achille Murat, son of the King of Naples!"

Claude and his mother, as if stricken by a thunderbolt, fell prostrate before him. While the Prince, (who was then a citizen of the United States,) beholding them weep, could not comprehend the cause of their grief and singular behaviour. For a long time neither Claude nor his mother could speak, but pointed to a portrait of Murat hanging against the wall, richly framed and encircled with a wreath of bays.

"Behold your glorious father—my General, my friend, my benefactor," said Claude. "It is to him I owe all—this home, these fields, happiness, life!"

"Your life?" responded the Prince. "What mean you?"

"I mean," cried Claude, "that your royal father was my preserver. It chanced that I was doomed to die, and the noble Murat saved me."

"On the field of honor?" asked Achille.

"No! on the field of dishonor! Two comrades and myself were, for the crime of mutiny, condemned to death. It was a rightful sentence, and its execution was confided to your noble father—but his heart was touched with mercy, and at the sacrifice of his duty, he preserved our lives—furnished us with gold and the means of escape to America. My two comrades have since died, but under the blessing of God, I still live and prosper. To your generous father I owe all. I have toiled and my labor has been rewarded with affluence. My mother, who now stands before you, and who believed me dead, shortly after my arrival in America received from me a letter, which called her to the home and bosom of her son. You now behold us happy—rich.—But, if the son of my benefactor requires it, my wealth, my life, all are at his service."

"I believe it, my honest friends. The generous Joachim!" cried Achille, his eyes suffused with tears at the sight of the friends of his father's mercy.

"He was ever generous!" said Claude, "no one ever appealed in vain to his mercy."

"True, true, but he appealed in vain to the mercy of others!" said Achille. "Father! thy son will yet revenge your death!" And he knelt in reverence before the picture of his parent.

"Amen!" ejaculated Claude and his mother, as they beat beside the son of their benefactor, and breathed in silence their prayer of gratitude to the God of Heaven!

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From a very Respectable Farmer.]

STAFFORD COUNTY, VA. SEPT. 7th, 1840.

Dear Sir:—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me, whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I think I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhubarb and soda three or four times every day for those many years, with little or no relief, and my legs and ankles were so much swelled that I was unable, at times, to attend to my business. But since you made me a present of a box of your Family Pills I have taken 1 or 2 of them at night in going to bed, and now my acid stomach is relieved, the swelling in my legs has nearly disappeared, and I do not think that I have been hindered one day with the pain in my head since I began to take your valuable medicine. I think the Lord directed you to Fredericksburg, to administer to my relief. (Blessed be his holy name, I am greatly relieved.) There is living in my neighborhood a poor old woman who had been sick for a long time and could not get relief; at length I purchased a box of your pills and gave them to her, after awhile I saw her out and about her business, and she said that the one box had cured her. I have spread the fame of your valuable medicine amongst my acquaintances, and many have purchased. Now, as it respects myself, my friends tell me when I go to town, that they have not seen me look so well for many years, and I say to them, 'I will tell you the secret why; a short time ago I met with a Dr. Davies in town, and he gave me a box of pills, and they have made me look as you now see me.' And now, my friend, I hope that the Lord will continue to be with you, and make you useful to your fellow creatures, as he has hitherto done. I remain with respect, CHARLES BRUCE.

THE MARYLAND ARCADE

Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS!

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hats: Splendid Russia Hats at $3.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3.00; Clipt Nutre Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

fe4-3m* FOLYDORE E. RILEY.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now office ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

INTERNAL IMPROVEMENT MEETING. The meeting at the Musical Saloon of the Assembly Rooms on Tuesday evening last was well attended, which shewed that the importance of the subject to be considered was properly appreciated. After the appointment of a chairman and secretary, William Bose, Esq. addressed the meeting. He had provided himself with a large map made for the occasion, on which was correctly delineated the various canals and rail-roads in Pennsylvania and New York, and exhibiting the connexion of the former with the Tide Water Canal of Maryland. This map was illuminated to facilitate explanations, and to enable the audience to comprehend the references which would be made to it in the course of the address. The address of Mr. Bose was necessarily elaborate, inasmuch as it embraced minute particulars in relation to the productions and resources of a vast extent of country, and pointed out their natural tendency to seek a market in the port of Baltimore. No item which could illustrate the importance of securing this trade to our city, was omitted by the speaker; and every point touched was elucidated in the clearest and most satisfactory manner. The address exhibited talent, tact and laborious and judicious investigation. As the speaker progressed in his discourse, referring to points on the map in illustration of his positions, the mind was irresistably convinced, and the audience yielded a ready assent to the reasoning employed. It was a masterly performance; and as the address contained a mass of facts which could only be accumulated by unremitted diligence and close observation—and, as it is important that these facts should be known by the citizens of Baltimore, we hope that some order will be taken to have the address published in pamphlet form, accompanied by a lithograph copy of the map. We think this due not only to the speaker, who has been so indefatigable in his zeal to promote the Tide Water Canal connexion with the canals and rail-roads of Pennsylvania, and thereby to advance the interests of Baltimore; but it is necessary to enable our citizens to duly appreciate the advantages which are to accrue to themselves by the further measures contemplated to secure all the benefits within their reach.

In the hope that the address will be printed as just suggested, we refrain from attempting a sketch of it from memory, as we should assuredly do injustice to the speaker.

For other proceedings we refer to the official account.

☞ In the report of the case in yesterday's paper in regard to the right to recover back a seaman's advance wages when he is prevented from rendering himself on board by the act of God, the reporter was mistaken in supposing the decision of the Court to be in opposition to former decisions, either here or elsewhere. The question, as far as is known, is new; but is in accordance with principles previously established in regard to wages after the sailor has rendered himself on board, and when he is prevented by sickness from doing duty. This decision only applies principles previously well settled, to another state of facts, adopting the same rule in case of sickness where the sailor has signed the shipping articles, and received his advance, and is prevented from going on board by the act of God, as has long prevailed in case of sickness after the voyage has begun.

THE TRUTH. A new two-penny paper with the above rare and significant title, published in New York by E. A. Theller, Esq., has come to us. It is of a large size, handsomely printed and well conducted. It claims the whole world as its party, and declares a full, firm and undaunted determination to sustain the natural, inherent rights of man. It is eloquent in patriotism from the jump, which induces us to believe that the veritable Dr. Theller of Canadian memory is its editor. If its name don't belie it before another annual sun sinks upon its career, then we shall only have mistaken the truth.

TIDE WATER CANAL. A correspondent at Havre-de-Grace, dated the 4th inst. writes that, within the last two days about thirty Canal boats have arrived at the basin, freighted with flour, wheat, bacon, tobacco, and pig iron—most of them have transhipped, and are on their return. The steamboat Leonidas, of the Philadelphia tow-boat line, has been here since Sunday. I understand out of the number of boats arrived, there is one to be towed to Philadelphia, and one to your city. The largest portion of the produce is destined for the Baltimore market.

☞ The Eastern Argus says, that the only penalty for usury in Maine is, that the excess of interest over 6 per cent. may be recovered back in a suit at law, with costs.

DARING ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY. An attempt was made in Boston on the evening of the 3d inst. to rob the store of Henry, Baily & Co. The robber, after making his way into the store, proceeded to his work of burglary. He brought with him a large pistol, which he laid on the counter. The young man who was in the store at the time on the watch, had a pistol also. He watched from a place where he had secreted himself, to see what the sable assassin intended doing, and was about raising to fire upon him when the robber caught his eye, and immediately discharged his pistol at him, but the ball did not take effect. He started for the back door, and as he was going through the young man discharged his pistol at him, and it is thought wounded him. He made his escape and has not yet been heard from.

THE LADIES' COMPANION. We are indebted to Mr. N. Hickman for the May number of this very popular and excellent work, an interesting tale from which will be found on the first page of to-day's paper. Besides the variety of tales, poetry, &c., which the present number contains, is an admirable steel engraving, representing the "Young Chief's first ride." It is altogether worthy of being framed.

We also acknowledge from the same gentleman the April number of Bently's Magazine, in which, with other and instructive matter, will be found a continuation of the historical romance of Guy Fawkes. We commend it the reader.

The Dollar Magazine for May has been handed us by Mr. Taylor, No. 12 North street. This work is cheap and amusing.

REVENUE AND RELIEF BILL. This bill, after having undergone various mutations, passed both houses of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, on the 29th of April, and was vetoed by the Governor on the first of this month. It was again passed in the Senate by a vote of two thirds, but failed of receiving a constitutional majority in the house of representatives. We believe that the failure of this bill leaves the banks of that state open to the operations of the law of 1840, by which they can be compelled to wind up their concerns forthwith. Should there be no further legislative action on the subject, it is probable that the banks will be proceeded against without delay, and that great suffering will be the consequence.

CONGRESSIONAL ELECTION. The election for members of Congress is close at hand, and, as yet, both parties are "as cool as cucumbers;" and no wonder, for the weather has been such as to chill the most hot-blooded. From our independent and neutral position we can look on the contest "as calm as a summer morning;" and should we observe any "pipe-layers" abroad of either party, we shall not fail to lay them by the heels, as we are resolved that it shall be a fair fight.

As wagering money on the result is prohibited by law, we hope that some two of the combatants will bet a bouquet of Feast's most fragrant flowers, and make us stake-holders.

MORE FORGERY. A check, says the N. York Sun, for $1,700, drawn in the name of S. J. Sylvester, upon the Phenix Bank, alleged to be a forgery, was presented at the counter of that Bank on Saturday, and was paid. It is said to have been extremely well executed, and he thinks that the signatures were imitated by tracing it from a genuine one. The forged check was presented at the same time with a genuine one for $170, which Mr. Sylvester had paid out, by particular request of a stranger, from whom he had purchased some uncurrent money.

THE TRADE OF NEW YORK. The total number of commercial houses in the State of New York engaged in foreign trade is 459; of which 417 are in the city. The total number of commission houses is 1049, of which 919 are in the city. The capital invested in foreign trade in the Empire State is $48,808,461. That invested in retail dry goods, grocery and other stores $41,481,551. That invested in lumber yards $2,495,077. That invested in the business of victuallers $2,839,216.

NATIONAL THEATRE, North street. We invite attention to the bill of this Theatre to-night. The managers offer a "bright particular star" in the person of Miss Helen Matthews, who will make her first appearance this evening.

POLICE. James Peacock, charged with disturbing the peace, was arrested and brought before Justice Barnard. Released on security.

Edward Baldin, John Gonnerwell, Wm. Warden, Elias Green, and Robert Grieves, negress, were arrested for rioting, and committed to jail by Squire Barnard.

RESPITE. A messenger passed through this city on Tuesday night, bearing a respite, from the Governor, for Frederick Fritz, who was to be hanged on Friday next, in Carroll county. The respite is granted on what is supposed to be a well-grounded opinion that Fritz is and was insane at the time he committed the murder.

"THE GONDOLIER'S SERENADE." We perceive by the bills that the new song, written by John H. Hewitt, Esq., under the above title, is to be sung this evening at the National Theatre, North street.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT. A little girl named Hines, residing in Duke street, Northern Liberties, while playing with a brass stair rod, fell upon it and ran it clear through her body. The rod entered under the arm pit and came out on the opposite side. The child was alive on Tuesday.

CONSECRATION. The new Catholic Church in Queen street, near Second, Southwark, Philadelphia, is to be consecrated by Bishop Kendrick on Sunday next. St. Philip is the name of the new place of worship.

MR. LIPPINCOTT'S REPLY.

The following is the paper read at the meeting on Tuesday:

To the Stockholders of the United States Bank:

Mr. Nicholas Biddle, late President of the Bank, has written and caused to be published sundry letters, on the subject of the report of the Investigating Committee, in which he has assailed me with a desperate violence, indicative of self condemnation, making charges that are groundless, with a view no doubt of diverting the public mind from the real causes that have brought the Bank to its present unfortunate situation.

I had determined not to condescend to notice his remarks respecting myself, until he had first answered the letter I addressed to him as chairman of that Committee, and acquitted himself of the accusatory matter arising from the facts disclosed in the report to the stockholders of the Bank. But while I feel it due to my own self respect, to make no reply to him, it seems proper to explain to my constituents at this meeting, in as brief a manner as possible, the leading points in his attack upon me personally, and so far answer them, that any false impression he may have made shall be removed.

In the first place I will furnish you with a copy of my letter to him, which has been inadvertently omitted in the Committee's Report. It is as follows:

BANK UNITED STATES, March 24, 1841.

To N. Biddle:

SIR: The Committee of Investigation, appointed at the meeting of the Stockholders of the Bank of the United States, have found among the items of expenditures an amount of 398,544 10, (a copy of the items, composing which, with their dates respectively, enclosed,) paid on your receipts and charged to an account, denominated "Permanent Expenses," and that the sum of $400,000 was paid you on the Cashier's orders, for which an entry was made, crediting, as cancelled, the 1st March, 1836, that amount of parent bank notes.

The Committee have applied to Mr. Dunlap, President of the Bank, to be informed as to the purpose for which said expenditures were made, and he has replied that he is unable to give any information upon the subject, and they have requested me therefore, to address you this note, in order that as these expenditures were made during the period of your presidency of the institution. You may furnish the Committee with any explanation you may deem proper.

Yours, respectfully,
(Signed) JOSHUA LIPPINCOTT.

The particular points to which I refer and to which I shall confine myself, are as follows, viz:

1st. Mr. N. Biddle in his second letter, says:—"I am assured by the late Cashier, that both Mr. Lippincott and Mr. Eyre, while sitting as directors frequently asked and obtained from him, loans which they did not submit to the Board or Committee."

In reply to this assertion, I will state the following facts: That I had several accommodation notes regularly discounted by the Board of Directors, while Mr. Biddle was President, some years back, and on accepted collateral security of 550 shares of Schuylkill Navigation Stock, which notes were renewed from time to time by the Board, and reduced agreeably to the reduction required of others. In one or two instances I accidentally neglected to offer my note for renewal on the day previous to its falling due, as was customary, and presented to the Cashier on the day it fell due, who, after examining the regular Discount Book, and finding that the amount I had to pay had been entered there, and thus provided for by the Board, he caused my note to be regularly entered in my Bank Book, to pay or renew the one then due. This Bank Book contains all my transactions with the Bank, and has been carefully examined with the regular Discount Book of the Bank, and found to correspond in every particular.

I will further remark that all my liabilities to the Bank have long since been paid off in full MONEY; since which my 550 shares Navigation Stock have been re-transferred to me.

Mr. Biddle in his 3d letter, after commenting largely on the Reading Railroad, the Schuylkill Navigation Company, myself, &c. &c., winds up by asserting the following:

"This is really the foundation of the whole of this attack upon the Bank, it is the vengeance of the Schuylkill Navigation Company, against the Bank of the United States for lending money to the Reading Railroad.

"Of that intrigue the stockholders of the Bank have already been the dupes, and I am very much afraid will be the victims."

In all this tirade, Mr. Biddle has exercised his usual ingenuity. But let us look at even the probability of his preposterous assertions.

Instead of the Managers of the Navigation Company conspiring against the Bank, such was their confidence in it that there was $9207 standing to their credit on deposit on the day of the first meeting of stockholders, (4th January,) and on the day of suspension there was $10,574 83, previously placed there for the purpose of providing for the next dividend to be made in February. Up to the time of the suspension, the Investigating Committee had so far progressed in their examination as to have discovered the prostrate condition of the Bank.

Further, As President of the Board of Managers of the Schuylkill Navigation Company, and conversant with their transactions, I will assert, and it is due to the Board of Managers, and the Stockholders of that Company to declare, as I now do, that the assertions made by Mr. Biddle in his letter referred to, ARE ENTIRELY UNTRUE, and that I mean this denial to be PLAIN, POSITIVE, EXPLICIT and ENTIRE.

On the 4th January last, I attended the meeting of the Stockholders at the Bank, and after an ineffectual attempt to adjourn had been made, and other matters disposed of, after some confusion, (on the spur of the occasion) I ventured to offer a resolution for the appointment of a committee of investigation, which was adopted with a single dissenting voice, and six gentlemen were appointed with power to fill vacancies; three of them subsequently declined serving, and their places were supplied by appointing Mr. Edward Coles, Jas. L. Newbold and John Bacon. These three gentlemen, with Mr. Kempton, who had been appointed by the Stockholders, (forming a quorum of the Committee,) neither of them own a share in the Stock in the Schuylkill Navigation Company, or to my knowledge have any interest in its concerns.

Mr. Biddle's remarks on this subject are not supported by a single fact, indeed there is not the slightest ground to justify him in making them, and I feel confident they must meet that indignation which they justly deserve.

There is another circumstance to which I will advert, however painful.

Mr. N. Biddle, in his 3d letter, quotes several resolutions that were offered in the year 1833 at the Board of Directors of the late Bank of United States, chartered by Congress, in which he mentions their names and the votes for and against those resolutions. This was at a time of great political excitement, when the government Directors were believed to be acting under special instructions from the city of Washington.

If there was any inconsistency in the votes given by myself and other Directors chosen by the stockholders (as he Mr. Biddle attempts to prove) it was through a zeal to support his administration in whom at that time they placed implicit confidence, which has since proved to have been unmerited and Mr. N. Biddle, had he possessed a spark of honor, would have been the last man to impugn the acts of those who sustained him in that trying time.

The next remarks of Mr. Biddle to which I shall refer are those contained in his fourth letter, on the following quotation from the investigating committee's report.

"That not being able to obtain satisfactory information upon the subject of these expenses, &c. (referring to the $400,000 and $618,640 for monies drawn from the Bank, not satisfactorily accounted for) application was made by letters to Mr. Biddle and Joseph Cowperthwait, from whom no reply has been received." Upon which Mr. Biddle, after confessing that he had not answered my letter himself, exultingly remarks "now contrast this with the truth," and observes that Mr. Cowperthwait had addressed to him a letter in which he asserts that he had called on Mr. Lippincott, and in his presence and at his request drew up a written account of the transactions and gave it to him.

To which I will reply, now contrast the contents of this written account of the transaction (as stated below) with Mr. Biddle's statement and it will be discovered who really tells the truth.

Mr. Cowperthwait did call upon me at the office of the Schuylkill Navigation Co., and observed that he had received a letter from me as Chairman of the Investigating Committee, and that he had called at the Bank and was unable to obtain the vouchers of the expenditures. This I wrote on a scrap of paper myself and handed it to him, with a request that he would add such explanations as he thought proper, and he wrote thereon as follows, "that he was willing to give any explanation to the committee he was possessed of," and he then returned the paper to me without his signature.

This was all the paper contained or that passed between us on the subject; he was not in the office over ten minutes; I have not seen or heard from him since.

His paper as above quoted was on the same day presented to the gentlemen composing the Investigating Committee, was examined by them and considered by all, as not containing anything like explanation or reply to the subject of my letter to him, and was so treated by them.

The sixth and last letter of Mr. Biddle, that I have yet seen published, adverts to a dividend committee of the Bank in 1838, and consisting of Lippincott, (Chairman) Waln, Cabot, Lewis, and Vanderkemp, and after recapitulating some of the contents of their Report to the Board, and adverting to the profit and loss account; also, the phraseology of the Report (as if it had been written by the committee) winds up his letter to Mr. Clayton as follows: "And now, my dear sir, let me ask, did you ever hear of any thing like this on the face of the earth; any thing so ungenerous, so unfair, so unjust?"

For the information of those not conversant with the portion of the business of the Bank referred to by Mr. Biddle, I will state that these reports were always previously prepared by the officers of the Bank, (and as now appears,) VERY ARTFULLY, AND WITH GREAT CIRCUMSPECTION, and being neatly copied by a clerk in the Bank, were handed to the Dividend Committee for their examination and comparison, with numerous documents accompanying them. These reports were also usually compared with the general ledger, and if found to correspond therewith, also (which was always the case,) were signed by the Chairman of the Committee and presented to the Board.

Whether the gentlemen composing the Dividend Committee as above referred to, or those of the Committee on the State of the Bank in their half yearly examinations, had the particular vouchers for the large sums of money drawn out of the Bank, and mentioned in my letter to him, and a portion of which were probably charged in the Expense Account, and reported to and confirmed by the Board, I cannot say, but I will here positively assert that I never saw them; they were carefully kept out of my view.

In the performance of this and other official duties, an unsuspecting committee may easily be deceived and entrapped, as Mr. Biddle has shown.

Nor is it surprising that such a committee should rely much upon the fidelity of officers of the Bank, whose integrity they had no reason to doubt, and which they felt ought to be confirmed and assured by the unreserved confidence of both Stockholders and Directors which had always been given to them. If I have inadvertantly committed an error here in common with other honorable men who served with me on the several committees while a Director of the Bank, it will not acquit Mr. Biddle, and I feel assured it will not confirm his charges against me.

Nor is it surprising, that while I was acting with the Committee on the State of the Bank, those vouchers for moneys drawn out were not exhibited to me, when I state that the Investigating Committee, in their critical and arduous examinations, learned with astonishment from the clerk in whose possession they ought to have been, THAT THEY HAD BEEN DESTROYED.

By whose orders and why the destruction of vouchers for the payment of so large an amount of money had been effected was not learned, nor did that Committee (to my knowledge) inquire under whose administration it took place.

In fine, the difficulty of detecting an intended concealment of a particular transaction, in this examination of accounts in all its various details, in a concern of seventy millions of dollars or more and necessarily embracing so large a mass of papers and books, may be readily conceived when I state a circumstance that came to the knowledge of the Investigating Committee, as follows:

That portion of the amount of monies drawn from the Bank and referred to in my letter to Mr. Biddle, amounting to $400,000, (was stated on the document exhibited to the Committee to have been paid to Mr. Biddle on Cashier's orders, without detailing to whom or the object for which they were applied,) was finally charged to parent Bank Note account under the old charter. This entry made the balance of that account on the wrong side in the ledger, and shewed the extraordinary result that more notes of the particular denomination has been redeemed than had been originally charged as issued and required another entry.

These were ten notes of $40,000 each, the last on the record of the late Bank, and were said to have been marked as not issued. They have since been destroyed with other cancelled notes.

Why these expenditures should have been charged to the parent Bank note account, instead of permanent expense account, must be left to conjecture.

I have thus adverted to all the circumstances contained in Mr. Biddle's several letters respecting myself, &c. that I consider worth noticing, and in all of which he has (to use his own expression) "garbled" the statements, and I will add, sophistically perverted the truth.

Very Respectfully,
May 4, 1841. JOSHUA LIPPINCOTT.

CAUTION. Hatters, Tailors, Shoemakers, and others, will do well to keep a sharp look out for a man by the name of JOHN H. BARNARD, who was formerly a City Bailiff, and at present I believe engaged in the Lime and Feed Business in Gay near Exeter street, (old town.) He may endeavor to obtain credit from you for goods and pay you off with a discharge under the Benefit of the Insolvent Laws, (where his name can be seen among the list of applicants of last week,) for the truth of which my books will shew. Again I say, mechanics and others, keep a good look out for him! GEORGE H. HOLT.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

SALE OF VALUABLE PROPERTY
On Eutaw street, near the Lexington Market.

WILL BE SOLD by the subscriber, executrix of the late will and testament of Robert R. Richardson, deceased, the following Property, on THE PREMISES, on SATURDAY, the 15th day of May, 1841, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

All that valuable Lot of Ground, situated on the north east corner of Eutaw street and Wagon alley, fronting 22 feet on Eutaw-st. and extending back eastwardly about 92 feet to a twenty foot alley. The improvements on this lot consist of two two-story Brick DWELLINGS—one fronting on Eutaw street and occupied as a store, and the other in the rear thereof, fronting on Wagon alley.

Also, the Lot adjoining the above and to the north thereof, fronting on Eutaw st. 22 feet and extending eastwardly about 92 feet to a twenty foot alley. This lot is improved with a one story Frame Dwelling, and has the benefit of the brick wall of the adjacent house on the north.

Each of the above lots is subject to a ground rent of $30.09—thirty dollars and nine cents.

The situation, near to the market and in a fast improving thoroughfare, is a very desirable one.

The terms of sale will be, one-third of the purchase money cash, one-third at six months, and one third at twelve months from the day of sale—notes with approved security will be required for the deferred payments. The payments to bear interest from the day of sale.

☞For further particulars, apply to JOHN H. B. LATROBE, Calvert street, opposite City Hotel.

HUDSON'S Super

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

The following decision lately made in the case of an absconding apprentice, wherein J. H. Bradley, Esq. appeared as counsel for the plaintiff, and Messrs. Brent & Hoban as counsel for the defendant, is deemed by many persons of so much importance that we have been requested to publish it:—Nat. Int.

WILLIAM EASBY vs. ARCHIBALD FLETCHER. In this case, it appearing to the Court that the respondent, Archibald Fletcher, was, on the 19th day of February, 1838, lawfully bound out by his father as an apprentice to the petitioner, William Easby, he the said Archibald being then of the age of 19 years and 11 months; and that, by the terms of the said indenture, the time which he had to serve expired on the 18th day of January, 1840: and that, during the said time which he had to serve as aforesaid, he absconded from his said master, and absented himself from the service of his said master from the 26th day of March to the 20th of May, 1839, and from the 27th of August, 1839, to the 18th of January, 1840—making, in all, 170 working days.

The Court, therefore, on this 27th day of April, 1841, upon the petition of the said William Easby, and upon the appearance of the said Archibald Fletcher, and upon full hearing of the parties by their counsel, doth award and order that the said Archibald Fletcher make compensation to the said William Easby for his loss of the services of the said Archibald Fletcher, by serving him, the said William Easby, as an apprentice for the term of one hundred and fifty working days, commencing on the 3d day of May next.

And in case the said Archibald Fletcher should refuse to obey this order, the same Wm. Easby will have leave to apply to this Court for an attachment of contempt or other process to enforce the same: for which purpose this cause will be continued from term to term, until the further order of the court. By order of the Court.

Test: W. BRENT, Clerk.

The jury were dismissed last Saturday from further attendance at this Court during the present term, and the Court was adjourned until Monday, the 17th inst.

LATEST FROM FLORIDA. By the barque E. M. Capt. Proctor, says the Charleston Transcript of the 30th ult. we have received the St. Augustine News to the 23d inst.

The Indian War not ended. The following extract of a letter says the News, from an authentic source, intimates that there is, as yet, no prospect of a termination of our Indian difficulties:

"TAMPA BAY, (E. F.) April 12, 1841.

"Cosa-Tustenuggee has just started out after Haleck-Tustenuggee. He says if he cannot bring him in, the game is up.—The last of this month will test it. Coa-coo-chee is also to report progress about the same time. If he backs out, a new operation will commence. So stands the affairs; and no person can judge until the time arrives. I only believe things when I see them."

From the South. The steamer Wm. Gaston, Capt. Griffin, arrived here on Wednesday last from Southern Posts, bringing Company 'K' 3rd Artillery, under the command of Lieut. Boyd, and shortly after proceeded up the North River. They are intended for the establishing of a Post about eighteen miles North of this city.

Four negroes, captured some time since by Maj. Childs, were brought up by this boat.

We learn, by this arrival, that numerous Indian fires were discovered along the coast.

Major M'Clintock, Lieuts. Fields, and Rankin, 2d Artil., also came passengers in the Gaston. We regret to say that the health of Lieut. Rankin, who so nobly distinguished himself in the late expedition of the Everglades, is very feeble.

Indian Signs. We learn by a passenger in the Gaston, from the South, that though the Indians have yet shown no hostile demonstrations, they are still in the country, and prepared for michief, if so disposed. Their fires were seen at various points, and under circumstances which leave no doubt that they were kindled with the view of menacing the whites.

A RAILROAD AT AUCTION. The Raleigh (N. C.) Register has a Marshal's advertisement, exposing for sale to the highest bidder, the property of the Portsmouth & Roanoke Railroad Company, embracing the interest of the said Company in the bridge across the Roanoke at the town of Welden, certain warehouses and their fixtures, &c. &c. The whole of the debt for which this sale is made, amounts only to $1300!

☞The State Bank at New Orleans has succeeded in obtaining possession of property in the hands of one of the men allowed to overdraw there, amounting to $20,000. Some entertain the opinion that all may eventually be made good.

☞A man named James Sullivan, was found dead in Cincinnati a few days since. A warrant has been issued against one Patrick Khoo, suspicioned of being his murderer.

DISTINGUISHED ARRIVAL. A granite pillar for the Exchange Bank at Richmond was lately drawn up the streets of that city by twenty-six horses. Its weight is fourteen tons. May the vaults of the institution never contain a less weight of the rhino.

It is stated in the St. Louis Bulletin of the 26th ult., that a pocket book, containing $9,000, in counterfeit money, was yesterday picked up on a piece of plank, which had floated down the river. The finder felt very rich until he called on a broker and ascertained its value.

The Mississippi River at Natchez, was on the 23d ult. very full. It had risen about six inches every 24 hours, and was gradually edging closer up to some of the stores located near its bank.

NIGHT AND MORNING. The plot of this celebrated novel, it is said, was suggested to Bulwer by an incident which occurred in the family of the Earl of Berkeley, one of the oldest houses in England. Philip Beaufort, the elder is represented as being the prototype of the old earl.

BODY FOUND. The body of a well dressed and very beautiful female was found floating, on Monday, in the North River. An inquest was held, but no explanation respecting her mode of living, or the manner of her death, could be elicited.

MURDERER CONVICTED. The trial of Davis, colored man, for the murder of Massey, closed on the 29th ult. at Rochester, N.Y. The jury returned a verdict of guilty.

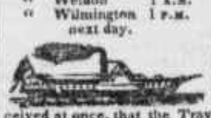
WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE!

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Peteraburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M. reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M. "	Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M. "	Fredk'sburg	10 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M. "	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M. "	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M. "	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M. "	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M. "	Charleston	at 5 the next day.



As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foos! Rough Weather!! and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.

"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

☞Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. m1-tf

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it a reality to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good night's rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

MY NATIVE MOUNTAINS.

My own native mountains! wherever I go
Your sides of bright verdure and summits of snow,
Shall dwell in remembrance as fondly as when
I climb'd to the peak or reposed in the glen.
On your eagle-fam'd tops in my boyhood I stood,
And my voice waked the echo of valley and wood,
While I chaunted the songs of the proud and the free,
And gave my heart's tribute, Columbia, to thee!

My own native mountains! how proudly ye rise,
Your grey summits piercing the bright western skies;
The eaglet is fledging its wings on your peaks,
While wildly above ye the parent bird shrieks.
Again and again on your dark brow I stand,
By the rising sun warm'd and the southern sun fann'd;
My songs still I chaunt—the songs of the free,
And I give my heart's feeling, Columbia, to thee.

LOVE AND LETTER WRITING.

Yesterday a most romantic looking young gentleman made his appearance at the police office—an unsealed note which came "greeting" from the Recorder politely commanding him to "be and appear" there at ten o'clock, and answer to the complaint of Mrs. Martha Williamson, and which ended by a hint to "fail not at his peril," bringing visions of the calabouse before his excitable imagination—was the immediate cause of his presence in that particular temple of justice. His face was overhung by a profusion of coal-black hair, which he wore in ringlets—he called them hyperion curls—and his face was as pale and pensive as if he were preparing to act the ghost in a melo-drama. He gazed through his eye-glass with an air of supercilious scorn, and seemed even to regard the Recorder as some fellow beneath his dignity. He looked like one who breakfasted on love-sonnets, who dined on sentiment, supped on serenades, and slept on romance. He seemed, in a word—

"——The very extacy of love;
Whose violent property forbodes itself,
And leads the will to desperate undertakings,
As oft as any passion under heaven
That does affect our natures."

When Mrs. Martha Williamson was called, a woman entering the sere and yellow leaf of life made her appearance. Though her eyes had lost some of their pristine brilliancy, their glances were still quick and subtle, and evinced a distrustful watchfulness of all over which she had control. She was told by the Recorder to state the complaint she had to make against Theophilus Travere—and this let us into the secret of the romantic gentleman's nomenclature.

The old, or rather the more than middle aged woman, before commencing a recital of her wrongs, adjusted her gloves and threw back her black veil over her bonnet, leaving the margin of it to hang gracefully over her forehead as so much drapery:—"O, sir," said Mrs. Williamson, cooling her temples with an artificial current of air created by the motion of her fan—"O, sir, I wants to have this here man put in the penitentiary."

"In the penitentiary!" said the Recorder, with surprise; "why, what has he been doing?"

"There's what he has been a doing," said Mrs. Williamson, drawing a pocket-book from her retticule and drawing from the pocket-book some half dozen letters, fancifully folded, some in diamond shape, and others in the form of a triangle.—"There's what he has been a doing; writing love letters to my daughter till he has fairly turned her head."

They were addressed to Miss Clementha Clarinda Lavina Williamson, and were "sure enough" love letters, as full of rhapsody and romance, of poetry and plighted vows, as a balloon is full of gas.

The Recorder was proceeding to open these missives, forged in Cupid's arsenal and aimed at the heart of the amiable and interesting Clementha Clarinda Lavina Williamson, when Theophilus Travere entered his protest against such a proceeding in the following words:

"I waise my pwotest against any man, even the Recawdaw of this onowable court weading my pwiwate lettaws or papaws."

"It is necessary I should read them," said the Recorder, "in order to discover the nature of your offence."

"Well then, to save the coast twoble," said Thsophilus, "I at once admit I am the awthaw of those productions. I have, fo' the first time, felt the tendaw passion fo' the admiwable Miss Williamson, and have made these bwief epwistles the medium of communicatwing to my soul's idol the intensity of my passion."

Here is one of the billet deaux, which we think should find a place in the next "Ready Letter Writer."

No. 17, —— street, March, 1841.

"Doubt thou the stars are fire;
Doubt that the sun doth move;
Doubt truth to be a liar;
But never doubt I love!"

Angelic Clementha Clarinda Lavina—

Fairest of creation's fair! most adorable of thy sex! my soul's best idol! will not love, pity or compassion move you to grant me an interview? Will the admonitions of a morose mother, prevail over the ardent solicitations of your impassioned lover? Can it be a soul enshrined in a form so lovely as yours, is insensible to the influences of the platonic passions, and that eyes beaming with such beauty will apply no salve to the wound which they have, unconsciously no doubt, made? O, dearest Clementha Clarinda Lavina! I am being consumed by the wasting fire of love, which your charms have enkindled in my bosom, and unless you form some scheme of seeing me ere long, you will leave me like the phœnix in my nest to burn!

"Alas! that love, so gentle in his mien,
Should be so tyrannous and rough in proof!"

Adorably ever thine,
THEOPHILUS TRAVERE.

P. S. I send this by the negro woman Dinah, who will wait on you this afternoon for an answer. T. T.

P. S. S. Don't let that petrified piece of mortality, your anxious mother, see this. T. T.

P. P. S. S. My name is not signed with red ink, but with my blood—my heart's blood. Is not that a proof of the sacrifice I am prepared to make for your sake. T. T.

The Recorder having perused this document and the others which were of a similar import, facetiously smiled and informed Mrs. Williamson that, so far as he could judge from the letters before him, Mr. Theophilus Travere was not guilty of a penitentiary offence, or indeed of any offence at all of which the law could take cognizance, unless writing nonsense might be considered a capital offence—a supposition which any thing he read in "the books" did not warrant him in coming to. He discharged the case, but cautioned Theophilus against doing any thing that would disturb the peace of Mrs. Williamson's family.

Theophilus bowed and retired. Mrs. W. retired without bowing.

THE HORRORS.

Among "the ills that flesh is heir too," this known in familiar parlance as "the horrors" is one for which no medical charlatan has yet offered an infallible remedy. It is not classed or considered as a disease, and victims are not in the habit of taking physic for it. Yet perhaps poor humanity suffers under no complaint that could be so speedily and effectually relieved by a dose of medicine. When bad vapors are in the head there are generally foul humors in the stomach that want dispersing. Some authority that we cannot now name, but we think it was Byron, said, when and thing was heavy on his mind he was always convinced there was something uncomfortable weighty upon his stomach. There is a great deal of truth in this, and it is something worthy of far more extensive consideration than it has yet received.

We have a notion that many a suicide might be prevented by the use of common medical preparations. When a man has a propensity to cut his throat, if he will just postpone it for a day and in the mean time swallow a tumbler of salts, or any other of the list of potations that are more beneficial to the stomach than agreeable to the palate, we will risk a trifle that he gives up the notion the next day. So we are of opinion that the "horrors," "vapors," "hyps," or "blue devils," as the malady is variously designated, may be driven off with medicine, and we cordially advise any person so troubled just to try our prescription.

Well had the complaint been called "the horrors!" It is a thing all full of fear and dread and helplessness and dark despair. It is a sort of waking night-mare! It is the intoxication of misery! The whole aspect of life is changed, and blessings that are around us seem things of venom made only to torment us. Earth has no happiness, the sky no beauty, death has no sting, nor seems there a charm left in life!

"Weary, stale, flat and unprofitable
Seem to be all the uses of this world!"

It is, too, so strangely fickle a complaint. You will see men to-day all mirth and buoyancy, jesting, laughing, and seemingly full of hope and pleasure, and to-morrow they are changed so singularly you will almost fear to know them.—Unutterable sorrows and afflictions seem suddenly to have oppressed them, and, folded away in despondency, they seem to shrink from even the sympathy of other men. A man might better lose a leg or an arm than fall a habitual victim to this malady. It chills the heart, blunts the affections, wears the body, oppresses the mind, and even disturbs the reason. It is generally looked upon as a trivial complaint, that every body must have now and then, severe sometimes while it lasts but never mortal; but who shall say that suicide and crime in its darkest variety of shade do not often arise from the workings of this melancholy affliction called 'The Horrors!'—N. O. Pic.

ACCOMPLISHED SWINDLING.

A LARGE BUSINESS ON A SMALL CAPITAL.—One of the most extraordinary cases of swindling—as ingenious and daring as extraordinary—which has been for some time developing itself, is now creating great excitement in this community. The exploits of Stith, Himes and King are completely eclipsed, and the climax of rascality has been attained in the present instance—the particulars of which we give as follows.

Two men, calling themselves Chambers and Mackey, were some months ago residing in this city. They had originally a capital of about $1,000, out of which they have managed to raise something more than $100,000 by means of swindling! One is said to be a native of New York and the other a Scotchman. Chambers appears to have been "head devil," and his cunning, cool impudence and knowledge of finances combined, stand unprecedented in the annals of crime. He was once arrested in Baltimore on behalf of the Charleston Banks for frauds committed on them, and sent to the Penitentiary, where he served out his time.

While here, Mackey kept an account with the City and Commercial Banks, depositing and drawing small sums frequently, and on one occasion he overdrew at the City Bank for $4000.—After this he kept out of the way for several days, but he was finally arrested, when he said it was an unintentional mistake, refunded the money and had the matter hushed. From Mobile he corresponded with Mr. Hall, Cashier of the Commercial Bank, on the subjects of finance, exchanges, &c. From this bank he obtained two certificates of deposite—one for $60, the other for $1,000 in specie. The $60 he raised to $1,000, which was presented by a man in company with Mackey. The paying teller refused to pay it, saying it was not in the handwriting of the receiving teller, who, on being called, at first said it was not in his writing. Mackey, laughing, said to him—"What, deny your own handwriting!—Don't remember having given me that certificate the day of its date?—Refer to your books." This was done, and the date, number and amount of the certificate were found to agree. The money was paid and nothing more then thought about it. The genuine certificate for $1,000 was retained by the villain, and is supposed to have been altered to a much larger amount and sold.

Mackey afterwards got several other certificates from the same bank on specie deposites, which have all been altered, and the Cashier is already advised of seven which were never negotiated by the bank. One for $13,000 was sold at Louisville; one for $13,000 at Cincinnati; one at Philadelphia for $21,000; and one at New York for $23,000, besides others not recollected.

The mail from New York on Saturday last brought to the address of a commercial house in this city a certificate of deposite purporting to be No. 422, for $23,000 specie in the Commercial Bank, which had been altered, probably, from $125, and sold to a broker in New York. This is the last which has been discovered, but it is probable many more will yet come to hand.

Pursuit has been made after the swindlers from Louisville, Cincinnati, Mobile and this city. A young Scotchman, who can identify them, was despatched from this city a week since for Canada, where it is thought they intend to go.—N. O. Pic.

The following, which we find in the Boston Post is almost incredible.

On Saturday we called to see two little boys, who have been treated with almost incredible cruelty for some months, by the Superintendent of the Farm School, an individual named Locke. Their bodies are covered with scars and wounds, inflicted with a raw hide, which lacerated the flesh in a most shocking manner. They are marked and cut from head to foot—before and behind—on the ribs, and even on the inner side of the thigh. In addition to this, in the winter they were compelled to go bare-foot on the frozen beach and farm, as a punishment and in consequence their feet became frozen. They were also subjected to the torture of having several buckets of cold water dashed upon them, with their heads tied, so as to keep their faces upward, to receive the shock. These airocious punishments were inflicted for some alleged violation of the discipline of the Institution; but no offence which a lad could commit, could justify the cruelty practised upon the boys in question. Their awful condition was discovered by their friends by sheer accident last Monday. Locke superciliously refuses to answer any questions put to him on the subject. The parents of the children, George McLennan and his brother, Broad street, opposite Arch Wharf, paid a dollar a week for their board.

MORE ROGUERY. The Plaquemine Gazette gives an account of a genteel young man, who left the steamboat Maid of Kentucky on the 12th instant, while she was wooding a few miles below that town, and went to the plantation of Major Butler, and directed one of the servants to say that 'a gentleman wished to speak with him,' on entering the parlor, the stranger introduced himself as Mr. Wilson, of Illinois; said he was a merchant, that he had $15,000 worth of produce on board the steamer, which he had directed to proceed to New Orleans and await his arrival, and that he had called for the purpose of looking at Major Butler's sugar.

He was shown to a room, and informed by Major Butler, early the next morning, that he was then going to the races at Donaldsonville, but that Mrs. B. would entertain him, and that the overseer would show him the sugar after breakfast. Major B. then gave him a letter to his agent, Mr. Charles Clegg, of New Orleans, and took leave of him.

During the day he went on board a flat boat, lying at a neighboring plantation; purchased ten barrels of potatoes, and gave the captain a one dollar Illinois note, which he had altered to fifty, and received the balance ($36) in good money. He then sold the potatoes to some Irish ditchers, and gave an order for them over the signature of John Butler, and, finally, after being reproached by the captain with having intentionally defrauded him, he protested his innocence, invited the captain to return with him to Major Butler's, and, whilst passing through the yard, escaped amidst the shrubbery.

MOST INFAMOUS. The New Orleans Bulletin contains a caution, stating that a short time since Mr. P. Bertus of the 1st Municipality, on the representation of Dr. Puissan, had a great quantity of cheese seized on the Levee, which was supposed to be of a poisonous description. This examination took place from the circumstance that Mr. M. Blache and family had been taken ill on eating some cheese of the same kind, which Dr. P. had declared to be tinctured with the poison of hemlock. The cheeses however were returned to the owners, and now again Dr. Puisan has written to the Recorder, stating that thirteen persons are lying ill from the same cause. There is a rumor too, of the death of one man.

MORE INDIAN TROUBLES. Advices from Wisconsin under date of April 10th, are that large bodies of Sioux were gathering in the neighborhood of Fort Snelling, with the design, as we supposed of making an attack upon it. One of the tribe it seems being drunk and disorderly within the limits of the garrison, and resisting an attempt to remove him, was shot down, hence the hostile aspect of the tribe. Two companies from Forts Winnebago and Crawford had been ordered to Fort Snelling.

HEAVY REWARD. Upwards of $20,000 are now offered for detection of the execrable assassins and incendiaries who perpetrated the recent diabolical deeds in St. Louis—$5000 are offered by the city, and various other large sums by the relatives, employers and friends of the deceased. This should bring the villains to justice, and every man of feeling and honesty must hope to see the utmost vengeance of the law fall upon them.

SHIPWRECK. The ship Susan Drew, of Boston, Capt. Babbage, from Liverpool, for Boston, went ashore on Milk Island, near Cape Ann on Friday night. The forecast is gone and she is in a very dangerous situation. She is a large and valuable ship nearly new, and cost $70,000. She has a cargo on board worth $150,000.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From a very Respectable Farmer.]

STAFFORD COUNTY, Va. SEPT. 5th, 1840.

DEAR SIR:—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me, whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I think I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhubarb and soda three or four times every day for these many years, with little or no relief, and my legs and ankles were so much swelled that I was unable, at times, to attend to my business. But since you made me a present of a box of your Family Pills I have taken 1 or 2 of them at night in going to bed, and now my acid stomach is relieved, the swelling in my legs has nearly disappeared, and I do not think that I have been hindered one day with the pain in my head since! I began to take your valuable medicine. I think the Lord directed you to Fredericksburg, to administer to my relief. (Blessed be his holy name, I am greatly relieved.) There is living in my neighborhood a poor old woman who had been sick for a long time and could not get relief; at length I purchased a box of your pills and gave them to her, after awhile I saw her out and about her business, and she said that the one box had cured her. I have spread the fame of your valuable medicine amongst my acquaintances, and many have purchased. Now, as it respects myself, my friends tell me when I go to town, that they have not seen me look so well for many years, and I say to them, 'I will tell you the secret why; a short time ago I met with a Dr. Davies in town, and he gave me a box of pills, and they have made me look as you now see me.' And now, my friend, I hope that the Lord will continue to be with you, and make you useful to your fellow-creatures, as he has hitherto done. I remain with respect, CHARLES BRUCE.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND,

For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Strictures, Diabets or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the uretha of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 7, 1841.

☞ Advertisers are respectfully informed that THE LINES in this paper are called one square, and in all cases where an advertisement exceeds a square, the charge will be five cents for each and every line over ten. We are compelled to adhere strictly to this regulation, as the space set apart for advertisements is entirely filled, making every line of the utmost importance to us. All advertisements are payable in advance. ☞ See terms of advertising on the first page of to-day's paper.

EXTRAORDINARY. A public meeting was called for Tuesday evening last, to deliberate on a subject deemed of vital interest to the citizens of Baltimore. The names of a number of the most respectable and responsible of our citizens were attached to the notice. The meeting was numerously attended, and an address was delivered replete with information of an important character, and yet not the slightest editorial allusion to the proceedings of the meeting is to be found in a majority of the daily papers of this city. This is extraordinary, particularly when we consider with what avidity trifling incidents are sought for as matters worthy of publication. It is true, that a favorable notice of the proceedings could hardly be expected from those migratory editors, who have a more direct interest in diverting the trade from Baltimore to Philadelphia—but we should suppose that courtesy to their subscribers would impel even them to state the fact of the meeting having taken place.

The editorial corps has been considered equal in liberality of feeling to any other denomination of men; and yet the neglect in the present case would seem to imply, that the silence as to the address delivered, arises from the circumstance that one of the editors of the American was the speaker. We hope that we are mistaken in the supposition, for we should be sorry to find that a feeling so unbecoming conductors of the public press, is entertained by a single editor of this city. It is the only instance, we believe, in which the like silence has prevailed in regard to the proceedings of a meeting called under the names of responsible gentlemen; and some curiosity exists to know the motive for it in this case.

MORE BANK FRAUDS. It seems as though the demon of swindling has been let loose in the banking institutions of the country. Scarcely a mail arrives that does not bring an account of some act of roguery in a bank; and what is worse, in almost every instance, the perpetrators of these acts escape being brought to justice. It cannot be denied that there is a considerable deterioration in the standard of morality, occasioned by the frequency of crime, and the impunity with which it is committed. We now read of bank robberies without emotion, they being considered pretty much as expected events; and their quick succession leaving no time for reflection on any particular offence. A bank fraud creates as little sensation as the rapid passage of a steam car.

The New Orleans papers furnish us with an account of the robbery of the Bank of Louisiana by two of the clerks, to an amount variously estimated at from $80,000 to $160,000. It seems that the receiving teller pocketed deposites as they were made, to the amount of $80,000, when he and his companion in roguery decamped—and this will probably be the last we shall hear of them. But it is apprehended, that other banks in New Orleans have also suffered from roguish officers. One of the papers says:

"A deep game has been playing for a long time among some of the banks down town, and we hear that efforts are making to smother another flagrant breach of trust somewhere—we know not exactly. The whole age is rotten and corrupt with crime; virtue is discarded; honor bereft of charm; character a play; morality a farce, and poverty a crime! We hope that investigation will be put on foot in every bank in this city.—The innocent owe it to themselves, and the guilty owe it to the public. Let us have an exposition from the State Bank and the Bank of Louisiana. Give the public the amounts of the over-drafts, and the names of all scoundrels. Let us know if possible who in the city is honest, if we wish to remain a decent community."

It appears to us that there should be frequent, perhaps daily, examinations in Banks, to detect these monstrous frauds. There is something radically wrong in the present mode of conducting banking business, which must be corrected before public confidence can be restored. Bank affairs are now kept too much in the dark. Even the directors are not admitted into the secrets of the system, under the plea that private accounts are not to be examined. We cannot see any just reason for this course. The directors of a bank are the trustees of other persons' property, and are entitled to know every thing in regard to the disposition of it. They are morally responsible that it shall not be misapplied, and cannot, with propriety or justice, devolve their responsibility upon others. We therefore think, that they should inspect every transaction, by committee or otherwise, and be particular in examining the assets of the bank, so that detection might follow close upon acts of misdemeanor.

It was expected that a motion would be made in the New York Supreme Court, in favor of McLeod, in the course of yesterday.

REVENUE BILL. After this bill had been passed by the legislature of Pennsylvania; vetoed by the governor; passed again in the Senate by a constitutional majority; rejected in the house; reconsidered and again rejected—it was finally, on the afternoon of the 4th instant, reconsidered, and passed in the House, by a majority of two thirds, the vote being ayes 62, noes 28; so that the bill has become a law notwithstanding the governor's veto. Many of the previous votes had been strictly partizan, but on the final trial thirteen of the Van Buren members voted in the affirmative; four of the same party were absent, and two are accused of having dodged the question.

The Philadelphia Spirit of the Times, in publishing the account of the passage of this bill, uses the severest terms of denunciation against the members of his party who supported it, and the paper appears clothed in mourning. The editor says that the state should be henceforth called Banksylvania, as the people "have no longer any laws but such as the banks choose to prepare for their obedience." He publishes, surrounded by black lines, the names of those of his party who supported the bill on its final passage, (though they had previously voted against it,) and designates them "traitors to the people." He intimates, in very plain terms, that they have been bribed by the banks.

Now all this is wrong. The members may have been honestly convinced that strict adherence to party discipline, would be highly injurious to the interests of the people; and if so, they were bound as honorable men, to sacrifice their party feelings for the public good. We should despise a man who, "knowing the right, would yet the wrong pursue;" and are not willing to denounce every one as a traitor and a scoundrel who has the independence to throw off the shackles of party.

After the passage of the revenue bill, some other business was transacted, among which was a bill authorizing the governor, in order to prevent the possibility of a failure to meet the interest on the loan falling due in August, to call on the banks, under their charter, for the necessary sum, in case the other means should fail. This bill was passed by both houses and sent to the governor. At 11 o'clock, P. M. the legislature adjourned sine die.

THE CATHEDRAL FAIR. We again invite attention to the Ladies' Fair yet in progress at the Assembly Rooms. It will continue, we are informed, during to-day and to-morrow, when it will be finally closed by selling such articles as may have been left on hand at public auction.—The object which the ladies have in view is certainly highly commendable, and calls loudly upon their friends, especially those of the Catholic persuasion, for liberal support. The improvements contemplated from the proceeds of the present Fair, will most assuredly add much to the beauty of our city. This should be an inducement for persons to act in concert with our fair friends. Every thing calculated to please may be found upon the richly-spread tables.

Eyes too are there of raven hue,
Of hazel and of gray,
Then blue ones clear as morning dew,
And laughing as the spray:
Cheeks tinted with a crimson glow,
And forms of fairy mould,
All chaste and pure as Alpine snow,
More winning far than gold.

Those identical dark rolling orbs which have heretofore been the subject of inquiry, do most certainly verify the language of Byron, in that there is nothing so charming as the "light of a dark eye in woman."

FIRE AND SERIOUS ACCIDENTS. A postscript in the Charleston Transcript, dated 3d inst. says: A fire broke out this morning between 12 and 1 o'clock, on Magwood's South wharf, in a three story brick Warehouse, containing between 800 and 1000 bales Cotton, the greater part of which together with the warehouse, was destroyed by the flames. The warehouse was not insured, the greater part of the Cotton was covered by insurance.

We are sorry to state that Mr. Peter Roulain, attached to the Company of Charleston Fire Axemen fell, it is supposed, through the scuttle hole on the roof of the adjoining building and cut his head severely.

P. S. We are also pained to learn that Messrs. A. Decamp and C. Denny, attached to the Ætna Fire Engine Company, were severely hurt by the falling of the wall. The former seriously injured.

FIRE. The extensive stable and cow-house belonging to the Green Mount Cemetery, together with a valuable horse owned by the Company, were consumed by fire yesterday morning.—The fire was discovered between half-past three and four o'clock, and had then made considerable progress. It was evidently the work of an incendiary, for the superintendent informs us that a light is never carried into or near the stable, and that on the previous night, between 9 and 10 o'clock, as he is in the habit of doing, walked around the different buildings, and found every thing secure. It is to be hoped the author of this act may be found and punished as he deserves; for base indeed must be his heart, who would for any cause desecrate this spot consecrated for the sacred repose of the dead.

MURDER. An Indian by the name of Rufus Thompson, living on the Cattaraugus Reservation, murdered his wife a few days since in a most barbarous manner, literally cutting her into many pieces with an axe. The wretch has not been arrested.

MR. LUCCHESI'S CONCERT. We invite attention to the Grand Benefit Concert which is to be given by Mr. Lucchesi, at the Assembly Rooms, to-night. It is to be hoped he will have a full attendance.

BALTIMORE—PENNSYLVANIA—AND THE WEST.

At a numerous and respectable meeting of the citizens of Baltimore, convened agreeable to public invitation on Tuesday evening, the 4th inst., at the Assembly Rooms, HUGH BIRCKHEAD, Esq. was called to the chair, and JAMES J. S. DONNELL appointed Secretary. An Address, on the subject of the "Resources of Pennsylvania and the West, and the Relations of Trade which Baltimore now occupies in reference to them," was delivered by WILLIAM BOSE, Esq. At its conclusion the following Resolutions were offered by him, and adopted by the meeting:

WHEREAS, it appears that a line of Tow Boats has been completely organized for the purpose of towing Canal Boats between the basin of the Tide Water Canal at Havre de Grace and the City of Philadelphia, without transhipment of cargo; and whereas it is manifest that without similar facilities are provided by the citizens of Baltimore, the trade of the Susquehanna Valley and the great West may to a greater or less extent be diverted from this city—be it therefore Resolved, By the merchants, traders, manufacturers, mechanics and property holders of Baltimore, in general meeting now assembled, that it is incumbent on them forthwith to adopt such measures as will secure the facilities of a systematic, certain and frequent steam towage of Canal Boats between Havre de Grace and Baltimore during the season of navigation.

Resolved, That the Chairman of this meeting appoint a committee to obtain subscriptions to the fund which is indispensable to carry out this object.

Resolved, That Thomas Wilson, Alex. L. Boggs, Hugh Birckhead John Gibson, Jos. C. Wilson, and Wm. G. Harrison be an Executive Committee, with power to take the steps which may be deemed necessary to give full effect to the measure contemplated in the first resolution, including the employment of a suitable steamboat, the regulation of the rates of charge for towing, and all matters connected therewith; and that the subscriptions collected by the Committee under the second resolution be placed at the disposal of said Executive Committee; and that at the close of the season of navigation they present a statement of their proceedings to the contributors to the fund, and divide among the said contributors, in proportion to the amount of their several subscriptions, the sum which may remain in the hands of the said Executive Committee.

The meeting then adjourned.

HUGH BIRCKHEAD, Chairman.
JAS. J. S. DONNELL, Secretary.

☞ In conformity with the second resolution, the Chairman has appointed the following gentlemen as the Collecting Committee:

Jacob Albert,	John Herr,
Samuel Riggs,	Wm. C. Shaw,
Richard Lemmon,	Enoch Pratt,
Columbus O'Donnell,	Thos. M. Locke,
David S. Wilson,	Robert Howard,
Hugh Jenkins,	George Norris,
James George,	James L. D. Gill.
Lott Ensey,

☞ The gentlemen appointed on the above Committee, as also those on the Executive Committee, are requested to attend a meeting THIS AFTERNOON, 7th instant, at five o'clock, in the office of the Baltimore Insurance Company.

THE KNICKERBOCKER for the present month has been handed us by Mr. N. Hickman. We have perused with much interest, and would especially commend the present number to all who are fond of literature.

Upon our table is also Graham's Lady's and Gentleman's Magazine, presented us by Mr. W. N. Harrison, No. 28 N. Gay street. This work is likewise highly meritorious. It contains a beautiful steel engraving, a plate of the latest fashions, besides a variety of choice original tales and poetry. We shall make some extracts from it as soon as practicable.

BARNABY RUDGE, No. 5, by Boz. Having received the whole of the preceding numbers, together with the present, from Messrs. Knight & Colburn, 174 Baltimore street, we could now speak to the merits of the work, if it were necessary to say any thing in favor of the writings of Boz. But he is the favorite author of the day, and of course Barnaby Rudge, notwithstanding his uncouth name, will have abundance of male readers, and be sure to find favor with the ladies. We purpose to attend him to his journey's end, now that we are enabled to ascertain his starting place.

CITY TEMPERANCE. The New York Sun says: This cause, in our city, we are gratified to learn, was never more successful than at present. Drunkards are reforming by hundreds, and moderate drinkers, so called, by thousands. There appears never to have been a period since public attention was turned to reform, in which so much could be achieved by the same amount of exertion.

A FORGER ARRESTED. A man has been arrested in Chicago, in whose possession was found some $5000 in forged certificates of deposite, chiefly on the Bank of Syracuse. They were dated Feb. 26, '41, and in sums of $100, $300, and $500 each. In his possession were similar drafts on the Banks of Mississippi and Wisconsin, forming altogether an abundant and various invoice, "suitable to the wants of Western customers."

POLICE. Rigby Downs was yesterday brought before Justice King, charged with dangerously assaulting and beating Samuel Mitchell with an iron shovel. Committed for want of security to answer the charge at the City Court on Saturday.

Samuel Marshall, a lunatic, who was found strolling in the streets destitute and without any home or means of support, was yesterday committed to the alms house.

CLERGYMEN IN THE FIELD TO-DAY. The Abolitionists of the 5th Congress district in Massachusetts, have nominated Cyrus P. Grosvenor, a Baptist clergyman of Worcester, as a candidate for Congress, in opposition to Charles Hudson, a Universalist preacher.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

GENTLEMEN: I noticed an editorial in the Clipper of May 3d on "Adversity and Prosperity." You are correct in your remarks on the dispositions of men, if I can judge correctly, though I judge from experience. In 1833 I was possessed of property to say 40 to $50,000, and in a good and profitable business. In 1834 I was reduced to poverty and $3000 worse than nothing, by endorsing and other losses. I had a large family all young, eight in number. I lived in a fashionable street and good house, plenty of company, and as I thought, friends—but, alas, not one amongst them, as the statement will prove. I was thrown out of business, and no money, for that was all gone to my creditors. I gave all up; not one dollar had I left. I looked at my little ones and shed tears, for how was I to get bread for them? I tried to get employment, but could not succeed. I moved out of my house, and rented one and commenced a boarding house, and soon had my house full: but oh! my children were driven from the table, and my wife a menial servant. Heretofore high-spirited, I was now as meek as a lamb. My friends professing great friendship were willing to help me if I could get into some business. I found a boarding house would not support my family, and undertook a business I did not like. I asked one of my friends to loan me two or three hundred dollars—the answer was, I have not got it. Then your note for 90 days—oh, no I cannot let my note go out. I thanked him for his friendship. I commenced business with a capital of $7.68 cash, and another friend offered to help me, if I would obtain the benefit of the insolvent act. My answer was, what debts I now owe are debts of honor, and I must pay them if I can. I owed a man $1000—This man I had employed in my store, and had set him up in business, and he had accumulated considerable property: he threatened to put me in prison and keep me there until I paid him. I promised him I would pay him as soon as I could make the money, and he did not trouble me further than by dunning me often. I paid nearly all. He is now dead, and no children to leave his money to. I had a relation that was rich, and wanting to raise $1000, I asked him to endorse a note for me, which he declined. All these men had borrowed money from me when I had money to lend. I have devoted my time for seven years to the payment of my debts and support of my family, and have not got through yet, but hope I shall in the course of another year. I am blamed for not frequenting their houses. My former spirit is not completely subdued, but is in a great measure. We agree in opinion as respects a man in adversity, that he ought to exert himself, and it is a duty commanded, for "he that doth not provide for his own household is worse than an infidel." There is not a man who has assisted me to the value of one dollar.

I could say much more, but one man's misfortunes are never worth listening to by another.—If you should condescend to read this, please excuse the scribbler, and say to him as his rich relation did, "I want nothing to do with you." I am a subscriber to your paper, but what of that.

P. S. I regret that I ever was worth any thing—then I should never have known the feeling of coming down. There is the rub.

Yours, respectfully, POVERTY.

["Sweet are the uses of adversity." The experience of our correspondent proves the correctness of our position, that it is more difficult for a man to preserve his balance in prosperity than in poverty. Adversity is a severe school, but its discipline is generally wholesome, inasmuch as it produces self-examination, and leads to a correction of errors. The experience of our correspondent is that of thousands; for, if men will imitate the frog in the fable, and attempt to swell themselves beyond their natural dimensions, they must share the fate of the frog. It requires some strength of mind not to be influenced by the sycophantic adulation attendant on wealth; and those who yield to the weakness are apt to fall. We are told in the Bible, that "when the rich man openeth his mouth to speak, the people cry hear him—hear him: but when the poor man riseth up, they ask what fellow is that?" If the wealthy man would therefore stand firm, he must be able to discriminate between the applause bestowed because of his money, and that acquired by his merit.]—Editors Clipper.

LAUNCH. The splendid ship Mississippi was launched at Philadelphia on Wednesday last in the presence of many thousands of persons. The whole scene is minutely described by the various papers, and is said to have been a magnificent spectacle. The Mississippi is said to surpass in many respects the Pennsylvania, which was launched from the Navy Yard some years since.

NAVAL. The sloop of war Fairfield, in about to proceed to sea from New York. She is to carry some of the celebrated Paixhan shells of a size suited to her battery. Com. Morris, the Sun says, has left the Navy Board at last, and will henceforth superintend in person the fitting out of his flag ship at Norfolk.

A late Liverpool paper says, "There are thirty vessels in the London St. Catharine docks fitting out to convey emigrants to Sydney, New York, Canada, and New Zealand. In Scotland, too, there is a great move among the people.—Some of the most respectable of the middle class of farmers and many manufacturers residing in the neighborhood of Glasgow, are about to try their fortunes in the United States."

A man named Pike has been committed to prison in Chester county for forging a check on the bank at West Chester, and selling it to a storekeeper. He came to Philadelphia, and wrote for his wife to meet him in a neighboring wood. She not being able to reae, took the epistle to a neighbour, who discovered the whole, and placed the proper officers on the track.

WINTER LINGERING IN THE LAP OF MAY.—Nearly two and a half inches snow fell in Boston on Saturday night last, and on Tuesday morning the citizens of that place were favored with another very respectable snow storm.

THE MURDER OF A CLERGYMAN. It appears that the stone which killed the Rev. Mr. Griswold, in Cincinnati, was thrown at another person. It struck the clergyman accidentally, and caused his death in a few moments.

COMMUNICATION.

☞ Our friend SCHAEFFER, No. 156 Baltimore st. it appears never will stop dealing out the cash, for since the prize sold to the lady, we again have heard of his success—that he had had the pleasure of paying to gentleman the handsome sum of EIGHT HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS NETT!! in the Maryland Lottery drawn on Wednesday. Truly we cannot help exclaiming with the Poet, who loves to laud merit:

O why will men complain of want!
Their wants may cure be brief—
'Tis SCHAEFFER bids ill luck avaunt,
Then go THERE for relief.

It will be observed he has a $10 000 Prize to dispose of TO-DAY, besides the $25,000, and 58 Prizes of $1,000. To morrow give him a call. m7-1t

DIED,

On Tuesday evening, 4th instant, aged four years, AARON B. son of Capt. Aaron B. and Electa C. Smith. The friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral to day, 7th inst. at 3 o'clock, P. M. from No. 60 Marsh Market Space.

Thus has the lovely and beautiful Aaron passed away in the bud of life—thus has Death selected as his victim the dear child bound to his parents by the closest ties, and wound around their hearts by the tenderest sympathies. The suggested and kindest parental affection—the most skilful and attentive medical aid—the kindest and best attention from friends and strangers, could not hold him here. God, the great giver and dispenser of all events, has called him from earth to heaven, and they feel assured his spirit rests with him in peace. Death has all weapons for his own—all seasons of the year contribute to his melancholy harvest—the heavy lock and the wrinkled brow, are not a more fit offering upon his altar, than the lovely child with blushing and rosy cheek. Yet, though all are alike to him, there are seasons when his appearance is attended with peculiar anguish to the living. Still there is consolation in this sudden and unexpected affliction—that when the bud of childhood, shrinking from its first contact with the world, perishes in its purity and innocence, we know that it has attained the joys of heaven, without enduring the trials of earth. There is, therefore, consolation that comes from a purer source than human sympathy, and from deeper convictions than those of human reasoning—it is to be found in the truth, that though he cannot come to them, they can go to him—though Heavan will not give back its own, its portals are not closed upon the living.

Boston papers will please copy.

On Tuesday evening, 4th instant, Mrs W. A. PAINE, consort of Allen Paine, in the 49th year of her age.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription: in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 175 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents JAS. BOOZ,
No. 9 Fleet street.

CITY COUNCIL—EXTRA SESSION.

FIRST BRANCH, April 6th, 1841. The branch met, present Mr. Snyder, President, and all the members except Messrs. Hutton and John T. Brown.

A petition was presented by Mr. Hanson—referred to the committee on streets.

A petition was presented by Mr. Keyser from the Washington Hose Company, asking permission to sell a lot—referred to the committee on fire companies.

Mr. Barns, from the committee of conference, made a report and resolution in respect to building a bridge across Chatsworth run; read a first and second time, and passed.

Mr. Gorsuch presented a petition from the stockholders of the Front Street Theatre, praying that their license may be reduced—referred to the committee on police.

Mr. Pinkney, from the committee on claims, presented a report and resolution in favor of an appropriation for the city's proportion of expense of furnishing desks, &c. for the new record office—concurred in.

Mr. Gorsuch offered a resolution authorising the commissioners on streets to enquire into the condition of the Belair road—read a first and second time and passed.

Mr. De Loughrey, from the committee on health, presented an unfavorable report and resolution in respect to the petition of Mr. Suter, asking permission to erect a slaughter house—read and laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. Gorsuch, the bill in relation to regulating the license of sellers of oranges and other fruit through the streets, was taken up and passed.

Mr. Peregoy offered a resolution that an ordinance be passed making it the duty of the harbor master to carry into effect an ordinance relating to the cording of wood on the wharves. Read twice and concurred in.

Mr. DeLoughrey offered a resolution that the city commissioners ascertain what expenses are necessary for the Hanover market. Referred to committee on markets.

Mr. Gorsuch, from the committee on police, made an unfavorable report on the petition of Wm. Lee, asking that he may be permitted to paint the posts in front of his door as a sign. Concurred in.

The resolution offered by Mr. DeLoughrey, in reference to the Hanover market, was, on motion of Mr. Cole, reconsidered and the subject left with the city commissioners,

Mr. Gorsuch, from the joint committee on police, made an unfavorable report on the petition of Samuel Briggs. Concurred in.

Mr. Dryden, from the joint committee on markets, offered a favorable report and resolutions on the petition of Joshua Taylor and others, asking that an additional market be erected adjoining the Centre Market. Read twice and laid on the table. Also, an unfavorable report on the petition asking for the purchase of a lot for the use of the Lexington market. Laid on the table.

A communication was presented by the President from the city commissioners. Referred to the committee on markets.

Mr. Bender, from the joint committee of ways and means, reported an ordinance for carrying into effect the new tax bill, passed by the extra session of the General Assembly, which was laid on the table. And on motion of Mr. Bender, the branch adjourned until to-morrow evening at half past three o'clock.

LATE FROM TEXAS. The steam packet ship New York, capt. Wright, arrived at New Orleans on the 26th ult. from Galveston, with dates from that city up to the 24th.

The French frigate Sabine, Cosmao du Manoir commander, arrived at Galveston on Friday last from Pensacola.

Col. John S. Evans, a well-known citizen of Texas, died at Galveston on the 22d inst. and was buried with military honors.

Business appears to be brisk at Houston. The Telegraph of the 21st ult. says:—"Our streets are crowded with country wagons, carrying the merchandize concentrated here, to the most distant parts of the Republic."

A line of stages has been established between Houston and Austin by Messrs. Smith & Jones, which will be of great convenience to those visiting the seat of government.

Geo. H. Flood, esq., our charge d'affaires to Texas, had entirely recovered his health.

Not one of the papers received by us makes any mention of the rumored invasion by the Mexicans. Every thing was quiet on the frontier.

The news of the negotiation of the Texan loan in Paris created no little excitement at Galveston and Houston. Many of the merchants and others were offering to take the Treasury notes at 3 for 1. But little doubt appears to exist that the money will ultimately be good.

The expedition to Santa Fe is expected to leave about the 20th May. The Texans think they will be able to divert much of the Santa Fe trade to the new Republic, as the distance is shorter and can be travelled at all season.

Some of the Texan journals appear to think that the administration of gen. Lamar has been inefficient; but the country has rapidly advanced in every respect since he came in power. The independence of the country has been recognized in France and England; favorable commercial treaties have been negotiated with different powers; loans have been effected; the Mexicans have been awed and kept at bay; the Republic is respected abroad, and even more flourishing at home than could be expected.

It is expected there will be a called session of congress about the first of June.

☞According to the late census, the population of New York is 2,428,921; Pennsylvania 1,724,022; Ohio 1,519,467; Virginia 1,239,797.—No other state reaches a million. The total population exceeds 17,100,572.

☞A car house 100 feet long, at Bedford, belonging to the Long Island Rail-road Company, was blown down on Sunday by the gale.

SALE OF VALUABLE PROPERTY On Eutaw street, near the Lexington Market.

WILL BE SOLD by the subscriber, executrix of the late will and testament of Robert R. Richardson, deceased, the following Property, on THE PREMISES, on SATURDAY, the 15th day of May, 1841, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

All that valuable Lot of Ground, situated on the north east corner of Eutaw street and Wagon alley, fronting 22 feet on Eutaw-st. and extending back eastwardly about 92 feet to a twenty foot alley. The improvements on this lot consist of two two-story Brick DWELLINGS—one fronting on Eutaw street and occupied as a store, and the other in the rear thereof, fronting on Wagon alley.

Also, the Lot adjoining the above and to the north thereof, fronting on Eutaw st. 22 feet and extending eastwardly about 92 feet to a twenty foot alley. This lot is improved with a one story Frame Dwelling, and has the benefit of the brick wall of the adjacent house on the north.

Each of the above lots is subject to a ground rent of $30 09—thirty dollars and nine cents.

The situation, near to the market and in a fast improving thoroughfare, is a very desirable one.

The terms of sale will be, one-third of the purchase money cash, one-third at six months, and one third at twelve months from the day of sale—notes with approved security will be required for the deferred payments. The payments to bear interest from the day of sale.

☞For further particulars, apply to JOHN H. B. LAZARUS, Calvert street, opposite City Hotel.

TRUSTEES SALE of valuable real estate in the city of Baltimore. By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court of Maryland, the undersigned as Trustee, will expose to sale at auction on WEDNESDAY, the ninth day of June next, commencing at 9 o'clock, A. M. on the premises

ALL THAT VALUABLE PROPERTY heretofore conveyed by William Russell to the trustees for the poor of Baltimore City and County, by indenture bearing date on or about the fifteenth day of June seventeen hundred and ninety-two, and recorded amongst the land records of Baltimore County Court in liber W. G., No. K. K., folio 4 &c., and which is said deed is described as follows, viz—Beginning for the same at the intersection of Biddle and Price sts., and on the west side of said Biddle street, and running and bounding on the west side of said Biddle street north forty-four degrees, east forty eight perches and the half of a perch, then north fifty two and one half degrees, west thirty four perches to a parcel of ground heretofore sold to a certain William Gibson by the said William Russell, then running and bounding on said ground south forty four degrees, west forty four perches to Price street, then bounding on said street south easterly thirty four perches to the place of beginning, containing nine acres and one half of an acre and thirteen square perches of land more or less.

The above property adjoins the Rose Hill estate and is in the neighborhood of the outer Depot of the Baltimore and Susquehana Rail Road; it lies beyond the limits of direct taxation and is exempt from the payment of City Taxes; the whole property will be divided into a large number of Lots of such dimensions as will enable those of moderate means to become purchasers. Madison street, which forms its Southern boundary, has been well paved along its entire East and beyond, and has been built upon up to Biddle st., which forms the Eastern Boundary, Morris Alley, Gibson street, Jordan Alley, and Gordon street, pass thro' it from east to west. A better opportunity than the present rarely occurs either for investment or speculation, especially when the very liberal terms of payment are taken into consideration.

The terms of sale prescribed by the decree are that the purchasers shall pay one-sixth cash, one sixth in ninety days, one sixth in six months, one-sixth in nine months, one-sixth in twelve months, and one sixth in fifteen months from the day of sale, the credit instalments to be secured by notes with one or more sureties to be approved by the Trustee and to bear interest from the day of sale.

"Caution" is the Parent of Safety.

AN ATTACK of the "PILES" may be positively prevented by using (when the premonitory symptoms are felt) the celebrated HAYS' LINIMENT. There are more than one thousand people in this city, and in the United States an immense number, who have suffered beyond endurance by this dreadful complaint, who keep themselves wholly free from attacks by applying this Liniment when they feel any symptoms of its approach—of this there is the most perfect proof.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

F. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY, No. 17 HARRISON ST.

"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

☞Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.

GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave	Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
"	Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
"	Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	12 M.
"	Fred'sburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
"	Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
"	Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
"	Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
"	Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is *sure of a connection through*out, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads Weather and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the south via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.

Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.

Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY BY BULL & TUTTLE, No. 7 NORTH GAY STREET, BALTIMORE, Md.

VOLUME IV.] SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 8, 1841. [NUMBER 51.

IN ADVANCE OF MAIL.

IMPORTANT NEWS—THE CHINA DIFFICULTIES SETTLED—THE STEAMSHIP PRESIDENT NOT ARRIVED—GREAT FALL IN TEAS.

The Steamship Britannia, Capt. R. B. Cleland, arrived at Boston on Thursday morning at 2 o'clock, bringing intelligence from England up to the 19th ult. She left Liverpool on the 20th at 1 o'clock, P. M., arrived at Halifax on Tuesday, the 4th inst. at 6 o'clock, A. M., and left at 2 P. M. the same day; making the passage from Liverpool to Boston in 15½ days. She brings papers from London to the 19th ult. and Liverpool to the 20th. She brought 50 passengers to Halifax, and 29 to Boston; and took in at Halifax, for Boston, ten.

The Cotton market at Liverpool on the 17th and 19th was dull, and sales small, at a decline of 1-8d.

The Queen of Naples has been delivered of a prince. Queen Victoria's health remained as good as usual.

The steamer President had not arrived out, and great excitement prevailed in Liverpool and London in consequence. Nearly all hopes of her safety were given up, and insurance could scarcely be effected on her at any rate.

The Duke and Dutchess of Richmond and family are in a painful state of suspense as to the fate of their second son, Lieutenant Lord Fitzroy Lennox, who is on board the President steamer. His lordship, who has just exchanged from the 42d regiment to the 10th dragoons, and Mr. P. Courtenay, M. P. for Bridgewater, are the only officers in the British army who had taken their passage in that vessel.

SETTLEMENT WITH CHINA.

By the overland mail, which arrived at Marseilles on the 4th ult. and reached London on the 8th, intelligence has been received of the settlement of the dispute with the Chinese authorities at Canton. This was not effected until two of the forts at the passage of the Bogue had been stormed by the British forces, the fleet of war junks destroyed, and the batteries higher up the river bombarded by the fleet. Then the Governor of Canton, seeing that the time for procrastination was passed, sent to beg for a suspension of hostilities, and commenced the negotiation, which speedily led to a settlement of the dispute, at least so far as he had the power of setting it. The following are the terms agreed upon:

1. The cession of the island and harbor of Hangkong to the British Crown. All just charges and duties to the empire upon the commerce carried on there to be paid as if the trade were conducted at Whampoa.

2. An indemnity to the British Government of six millions of dollars, one million payable atonce and the remainder in equal annual instalments, ending in 1846.

3. Direct official intercourse between the countries upon an equal footing.

4. The trade of the port of Canton to be opened within ten days after the Chinese new year, and then to be carried on at Whampoa till further arrangements are practicable of the new settlement.

The details of the settlement of the China question are not fully given, but so far as they were understood, it appears they are not unsatisfactory to the English merchants. A correspondent of the Morning Chronicle, under date Bombay, March 1st, says:

"As will be supposed, the terms of arrangement agreed upon by Captain Elliott and the Imperial commissioner have been made the subject already of a great deal of discussion. The prevailing feeling is decidedly that of dissatisfaction, but this may be in some degree attributable to the dislike as generally entertained of Captain Elliot."

Macao, Jan. 21, 1841. Chusan, it is understood, will be evacuated, and no port will be open to the northward. The future course of the opium trade does not seem to have formed a subject of discussion; but we understand opium may be imported into the new settlement although still contraband in China.

The general trade, this season, is to be carried on at Whampoa; and until we learn the proposed measures of the British Government with regard to Hong Kong, we cannot pretend to say when it is likely to be diverted to the new settlement.—Altogether we look upon the arrangement as a very unsatisfactory description of compromise; and we fear the only real and tangible result will be payment of 6,000,000 dollars within the specified time, possibly collected by some additional imposts on the foreign trade. We do not learn that any reduction of the existing heavy duties is in contemplation, or any modification of the objectionable Hong system; but we trust, when the details of the arrangement are promulgated, we shall find these matters will be properly arranged and some hope be afforded of a more secure system of trade for the future.

The East India China Association had held a meeting, and adopted a letter to Viscount Palmerston, expressing their dissatisfaction at the arrangements entered into between Capt. Elliot and the Chinese authorities. This letter was signed by all the heads of all the houses engaged in the China Trade at Liverpool, and forwarded to London. Lord Palmerston had appointed the 2est ult. as the day to receive a delegation from the merchants on the subject.

The National, a French journal, makes the following observations on the news from China. France may well look upon the planting of John Bull's standard on the Island of Hong Kong, with jealousy:

"The most important clause of the new treaty is that which stipulates for the cession of the Island of Hong Kong to Great Britain. England thus realizes her dream of two centuries. In 1760, after several fruitless attempts in the Chinese Seas, she established a factory at Formosa. She then attempted to dislodge the Portuguese from Macoa, and to create an establishment in the Island of Amoy; but this project failed. The authority given to England in 1689 to establish a factory at Canton did not satisfy, and, consequently, she never ceased intriguing at Pekin, in order to obtain permission to instal herself more solidly on the territory of the Chinese Empire. In 1755, the English appeared at Ningpo, and, in the course of the same century, they set foot on the soil of Tchou-Chan (not Chusan,) but they were soon compelled to abandon both. From that time they were unable to succeed until they called opium to their aid, and now they triumph.—Hong-Kong, or more properly speaking, the archipelago of Hong-Kong, is situated in the bay of Canton, opposite the river of that name, and about three myriametres (rather more than six English miles) to the east of Macao. This group occupies so small a space in the possessions of the Chinese Empire, that we only find it in very large maps, and even there only the two largest islands are laid down. The largest of the two, that which gives its name to the archipelago, is only two myriametres long, taken at its longest part, and its mean breadth is about a myriametre and a half. These islands are barren, and are scarcely inhabited; their position constitutes all their importance. The English are not the first to appreciate the advantages which they offer in a military and commercial point of view.—They have long served as a nest of smugglers and pirates. We can easily conceive the value of this acquisition. In future, the English will be no longer compelled to place ther ships under the protection of the Portuguese guns. Whilst nominally within the dominions of the Emperor of China, they will be at home, this is all they wanted. In 1611, they obtained permission from the Great Mogul to found an establishment at Surata. This served as their point d'appui for the conquest of India, and the Emperors of Delhi soon learned to their cost, that to surrender a single inch of ground to the English, is to furnish them with the means of stealing an entire kingdom. What the English did on the banks of the Ganges, they will do in China. They know, to use the words of Lord Napier, that they have to do with a people who are without the means of defence, and they will lay hold of the first opportunity for throwing off the mask. In the meantime, they will continue to gain ground and strength according to their praiseworthy custom, until some fine day the anger of the Emperor will break forth, and give rise to a new war and new concessions on the part of the Chinese.—This is the history of all the invasions of the English."

Canton Beggars. During the first month of this year upwards of 120 beggars died about the streets of Canton, in consequence of the severe cold and continual wet.

Her majesty was to return to Buckingham Palace from Windsor Castle, April 20th, at which time also the House of Commons would assemble.

The steamer Caledonia made the entire passage from Boston to Liverpool, in 13 days & 18 hours, out of which time she was detained 28 hours at Halifax waiting for the Canadian mails.

Accounts from Trebisonde, received at Constantinople, state that all differences between Great Britain and Persia are arranged.

Admiral Stopford is appointed master of Greenwich Hospital.

Commodore Napier arrived at Liverpool from Egypt in the steamer Oriental, on Sunday, the 18th, and was received on the following day by the Mayor, Aldermen and Burgesses, who presented him an address. On the same day a dinner was given in honor of him, at which he sat down with seven hundred gentlemen.

United States Bank shares sold in London on the 16th ult at about £5 10s.

Mr. Reynolds, the distinguished Dramatist, died at his house in Warren street, London, on the 16th ult. in his 77th year. Mr. R. was the most popular and successful writer of his day, and has died full of honors, both in public and private life.

No less than 16 steam frigates are ordered to be immediately built at the different dock yards in England.

McLeod. We find nothing of importance in the English papers in relation to the case of McLeod. The course of the British Government appears to be too pacific to suit some of the rabid Tory prints. The London Morning Herald of the 17th ult., in a fiery article on the McLeod affair, says:

"England inverts at the present day the great maxim, 'Parcere subjectis et debellare superbos.' She exercises a patient endurance of insults towards such states as Russia and America, who are somewhat acquainted with the art of war, but lavishes her thunders upon Chinese and Egyptians, who are infants when opposed to the array of European battle, with all its vast and varied means of scientific destruction."

U. S. Bank. The London Standard of April 15th says—

The arrangement with the holders of the United States Bank debentures, part of which will become due to-morrow, will be effected in the following manner: The whole amount, which is 800,000*l.* is already secured by a deposite of $2,662,000 Pennsylvania Five per cent. Stock, $900,000 Michigan Six per cents, and $888,000 Mississippi Five per cents, amounting altogether to 4,450,000 dollars. For the portion which falls due to-morrow—namely £400,000, an additional deposite of $225,000 Pennsylvania Five per cents. has been made, and this additional security procures the consent of the holders to postpone their claims.

With respect to the half-yearly coupons attached to the debentures, they will be paid to-morrow, as usual. The remaining £400,000 of the principal debt falls due on the 15th of April, 1842. The application of so large an amount of assets belonging to the "United States Bank" as security for only an inconsiderable portion of their debts, proves how completely the whole must have passed beyond the reach of the shareholders and the more immediate claimants upon them.—London Standard of the 15th.

France. The news from France is destitute of interest, the violent debates on the supplementary credits for 1841 have ceased, and there is no other topic which gives the same excitement.

The Courrier Francais makes a bitter attack on Marshal Soult, for demanding, as President of the Council, for the expenses of reception, 20,000f. a year. Marshal Soult before received 30,000f, like the other Ministers, and 20,000f for frais de representation, as chief of the army. He has 40,000f as marshal, and 10,000f as grand cross of the Legion of Honor; total 150,000f. The 20,000f additional was voted.

Bank of France. The Bank of France has published the quarterly account of its situation up to the 31st ult. The specie on hand belonging to the bank at that date was 245,097,496f, the amount of commercial bills 132,981,024, the amount advanced on deposites of bullion and coin 14,473,100f, and the loans made on public securities 6,221,841; on the other hand, the amount of notes in circulation was 233,500,000f, notes payable to order 1,219,310f, credits on accounts current 62,518,059f, orders at sight 4,434,500f, and amounts due to the treasury 90,950, 412. The advances to the branch banks of capital and accounts current were 26,332,514f. During the quarter the bank discounted commercial bills amounting to 186,946,800f, and advanced upon bullion and coin 48,206,800f, on public bills 3,426,200f, and on orders of the mint 2,593,000f.

The celebrated Mdlle Mars took a final leave of the French stage on Thursday night, April 15th at Paris, after a career of brilliant success for nearly 40 years.

Augsburgh, April 1. The Malta papers contain the following news from Constantinople:—"News has just been received from Circassia that the Russians, taking advantage of a heavy fall of snow, had made an attack on Zibel, with 3,000 Georgians and Mingrelians, and 2,000 regular troops. The Circassians attempted to defend the place, but were put to flight, with the loss of two of their chiefs, 300 killed, and 300 prisoners.

[Allgemeine Zeitung, April 2.

Turkey. The following appears in the Austrian Observer, the official journal of Vienna: "Advices from Constantinople of the 29th, received by express, state that Reschid Pacha has been dismissed from his post as minister of foreign affairs, and that he is replaced by Rifat Bey, formerly ambassador of the Porte at Vienna. The Minister of Commerce, Zeihi Achmet Pacha, has been replaced by the Captain Pacha Said Pacha, and Tahir Pacha, has been appointed captain Pacha in his stead." These changes are said to be attributed to Russian influence.

Egypt. By letters from Alexandria, 24 hours later than those brought by the Oriental, we gather that Ibrahim Pacha was indefatigably occupied with the organization of the Egyptian army. The 14 regiments returned from Syria, originally comprising 48,000 men, will still supply 17,847 efficient soldiers, who are to be organized into skeleton regiments; namely, 13 of infantry, 3 of cavalry, and 2 of artillery. These regiments, when recruited to their full strength, will furnish an army of 60,000 men. Beside this imposing force, there are numerous corps of artillery for the service of the forts along the coast, which are to be maintained upon a different footing. The Egyptian sailors are to garrison Alexandria, assisted by six regiments of National Guards, to be recruited to their full strength of 3200 men each. Nothing was known at Alexandria of the intentions of the Divan, but Mehemet Ali appeared to look with some confidence for a decision in his favor.

The news from Beyrout, which comes down to March 19, supplies a more favorable report from the mountains. The ten Emirs, who had been taken prisoners to Egypt, after the first insurrection of the mountaineers, had returned, accompanied by a son of Commodore Napier. The plague had broken out in several towns along the coast. At St. Jean d'Acre, from 15 to 20 died daily of it. It was also raging with considerable violence at Jaffa, Seyd, Sour, Damascus, and several villages of the mountain. It had, moreover, appeared at Geitroun, a village of Lebannon.

The Oriental Observer, in its Alexandrian correspondence, states that out of a caravan of 6000 slaves recently brought from Cordafou into Egypt, 2000 died of small pox on the road.

Fanny Elsler. The London Standard says: "Mademoiselle Fanny Elsser has written to a friend in Paris, giving a glowing account of her success at the Havana. She says she cleared more than $6,000 by her benefit, and was invited to a grand supper by the authorities, to which she was escorted by deputation of 24 of the wealthiest gentlemen of the island. She appears to be astonished at the enthusiasm which she creates, as well she may, for it is very unusual for a sylphide of 36, who has a son 18, to excite such rapture as a dancer."

The Cashier of one of the most respectable commercial houses of Paris has absconded, leaving deficit in his accounts of more than a million of francs, and that, in consequence of this, the house had been forced to stop payment.

Mr. Macready has become the lessee of Drury lane Theatre. The house to be opened in October.

Bank of Asia. The shares allotted to Bombay have been apportioned, and a request is to be transmitted home for a further quantity. The applications are said to have amounted to 4,000 shares, many of the parties being induced to apply, it is supposed, under the impression that they will soon be saleable at a premium.

National Bank for Greece. Letters from Patras of the 25th ult. state that the proposed establishment of a National Bank for Greece occupied much attention; and although it had received royal sanction, it was feared it could not be carried out, in consequence of the scarcity of money. The King had, it was said, sent a deputy to Amsterdam to persuade the capitalists there to take shares in the project, but his mission was unsuccessful.

The Tea Market. A very severe shock has been experienced in the tea market—the deliverance in London having fallen off within a short time to the amount of 380,000 lbs.

LIVERPOOL CORN MARKET—April 18.

During the last seven days we have had a large arrival, upwards of 11,200 quarters of Wheat from the English coast, with a moderate supply of every other article of the corn trade. Trade generally has continued dull. All descriptions of Wheat have sold slowly, and barely sustained their value.

A slight improvement has been experienced in the state of trade at Manchester.

London Money Market, April 18. Saturday evening. The Stock Market has been very quiet to-day, and prices with very little variation. Consols 94¼ for money, and 90 3-8 to ¼ on account. Bank Stock 172 to 3. India Stock 255 to 6. Exchequer Bills 13s to 15s premium.

The Foreign Market was in the same quiescent state. Two and a half per Cents 52 to ½, the Five per Cents 98¾ to 9¼. Belgian 102 to 3. Spanish Active with the Coupons 23 to ½. Portuguese Five per Cents 38½ ½, the Three per Cents 20 to ½. Brazilian 69 to 70. Mexican 30¼ to 1. Colombian 22½ to 3½.

Liverpool Cotton Market, April 19. A limited business done to-day, only 2500 disposed of, for the most part Am. Dealers and spinners have been the only buyers, and the middling and inferior qualities of Am. are lower by ¼d than on Friday, but holders offer freely.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From a very Respectable Farmer.]

Stafford County, Va. Sept. 7th, 1840.

Dear Sir:—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I think I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhubarb and soda three or four times every day for these many years, with little or no relief, and my legs and ankles were so much swelled that I was unable, at times, to attend to my business. But since you made me a present of a box of your Family Pills I have taken 1 or 2 of them at night in going to bed, and now my acid stomach is relieved, the swelling in my legs has nearly disappeared, and I do not think that I have been hindered one day with the pain in my head since I began to take your valuable medicine. I think the Lord directed you to Fredericksburg, to administer to my relief. (Blessed be his holy name, I am greatly relieved.) There is living in my neighborhood a poor old woman who had been sick for a long time and could not get relief; at length I purchased a box of your pills and gave them to her, after awhile I saw her out and about her business, and she said that the one box had cured her. I have spread the fame of your valuable medicine amongst my acquaintances, and many have purchased. Now, as it respects myself, my friends tell me when I go to town, that they have not seen me look so well for many years, and I say to them, 'I will tell you the secret why; about time ago I met with a Dr. Davies in town, and he gave me a box of pills, and they have made me look as you now see me.' And now, my friend, I hope that the Lord will continue to be with you, and make you useful to your fellow creatures, as he has hitherto done. I remain with respect, CHARLES BRUCE.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND,

For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Stricture, Diabetes or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums, as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. Also, of L. S. THOMAS, corner of Bridge and Forest streets—with full directions accompanying each bottle at $1 per bottle.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2 50, fine Brush Hats $2 50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 8, 1841.

☞The Ocean of to-day is of unusual interest. Besides the current news of the past week, tales, poetry, anecdotes, &c. &c., it contains the entire letter of Mr. Lippincott, in answer to those of Mr. Biddle, relative to the United States Bank; Great Internal Improvement meeting; and all the latest foreign intelligence received by the steamship Brittania, at Boston, which was received by last night's steamboat, in advance of the mail.—Persons wishing to send this interesting paper to their friends at a distance, can procure it at the counter, enveloped, at 6¼ cents per single copy. Yearly subscription only $1.50, or $1.00 for six months, always payable in advance.

ARRIVAL OF THE BRITANNIA.

We are indebted to the New York Herald extra, received last night, in advance of the mail, for highly important foreign intelligence, (to be seen on our first page,) by the steamer Britannia, Capt. R. B. Cleland, which arrived at Boston on Thursday morning, 6th inst. at 2 o'clock. With much labor, expense, and midnight toil, we have been enabled to give a fuller and more minute account than that given by any other paper in this city. It will be seen that the tea market has sustained a considerable depression. The most important and appalling intelligence, however, is, that the steamer President has not yet been heard from. The greatest anxiety prevails relative to her fate throughout many parts of Europe. Nearly all hopes of her safety are abandoned.

McLeod. We learn from the New York Herald that McLeod was brought into court on the 6th instant, had a hearing, and his case postponed for further investigation until Saturdry. He was remanded to prison.

Appointments. The Philadelphia Spirit of the Times, in reply to some observations of ours on recent appointments in that city, states, that it is not mistaken in asserting that men recently from the state prison have had offices conferred on them. We regret this, for we think that in all cases, reference should be had to the character, talents and integrity of applicants for office. In making changes the public interests should be carefully guarded; for it is far better to have a competent and honest political opponent in office, than an ignorant and dishonorable political friend. It is, therefore, the duty of the appointing power, on removing an opponent, to be prepared to supply his place with a person as well qualified to discharge the duties of the office.

The Spirit of the Times says, that a remonstrance against some of the appointments will be forwarded to the President. We feel assured that if he be convinced that the Collector of Philadelphia has made an improper selection of officers, he will cause them to be discharged.

"Gems of Irish Eloquence, wit and anecdote," by James Heban, Esq., of the Washington Bar. We have received a copy of this volume from Cushing & Brother. Before speaking of the merits of the work, we will take occasion to say that it is bound in very handsome style by Mr. Joel Wright, of this city. The first department of the book contains some of the finest specimens of eloquence by the most distinguished Irish orators and patriots. It may suffice to mention the names of Emmett, Sheridan, Curran, Grattan and Phillips. The reader of Irish history will readily recall the exciting occasions on which the eloquence of some of these gentlemen was displayed, and their noble exertions in defence of their own and their country's rights. Of that portion of the volume which embraces Irish wit and Anecdote, it is unnecessary to say more than that the reader will find a rich treat of both wit and anecdote. We consider the work a valuable addition to our library, and commend it to public patronage.

We have also received from the same publishers, No. 5 of Barnaby Rudge, by Boz. This work we noticed in yesterday's paper.

Dirge on the death of Gen. Harrison. We have received from Mr. George Willig, the publisher, a copy of the beautiful dirge, written and composed on the death of Gen. Harrison, by J. H. Hewitt, Esq. The publisher informs us that it is to be sung at a number of the churches in this city and Philadelphia on the 14th, the day set apart for humiliation and prayer. This dirge we have heard, and can speak unhesitatingly of its aptness and beauty.

The Seamen's Benefical Society. We take pleasure in calling especial attention to this praiseworthy and philanthropic association, the proceedings of the first meeting of which will be found in another column. The object of this society is plain, and appeals directly to the sympathies of every noble heart. It asks protection and charity for the disabled and indigent seamen—for the brave sons of Neptune, who after they have long battled with the storm, have at last become shipwrecked in adversity. Let us see our citizens come forward and support this Society. By so doing they may be instrumental in bringing gladness to the sailor's breast, and save him ere he is finally overwhelmed by the beating tempest.

Valuable Cargo. The British ship 'Speed' cleared from Mobile on the 28th April, for Liverpool, with 2750 bales of Cotton, weighing 1,215,640 pounds, and valued at $140,647 60.

Native American Society. The St. Louis Pennant and Native American advocates the exclusion of all foreigners from participation in the political privileges of this country, after they have become naturalized citizens. The editor would admit them to the protection of our laws, but argues that their attachment to their native country should disqualify them for the enjoyment of the rights of American citizens. We took occasion some time since to enter our dissent to the doctrines of the Pennant, and in reply the editor uses the following language:

"We have said that the hearts and attachments of emigrants are still with their native land. Is it not so? If not, whence come their distinct national organization—the St. Patrick, St. Andrews and St. George societies—the German political associations—the Repeal Associations for the avowed object of separating Ireland from England, and thus dismembering a country with which the United States are at peace? What absurd folly it is to pretend that foreigners lose the habits of thought and the associations which they acquired in their native land! Those habits and those associations lose not their hold upon the heart this side the grave."

The editor certainly misapprehends the nature of the societies which he mentions. The St. Patrick, St. Andrews, St. George, and German societies, are not political, but benevolent institutions—and were not organized for the purpose of operating in England, Ireland, Scotland or Germany, but in this country, and for the relief and guidance of distressed emigrants. The formation of such associations in this country, instead of being an exceptionable measure, upon which to base a law excluding foreigners from the rights of citizenship, is in the highest degree praiseworthy. It must necessarily occur that, of the numerous emigrants who arrive in this country, some will require assistance and others advice, and who could more properly give the one or the other than their countrymen, who have made themselves acquainted with our institutions and the routine of business, the advantages of location &c., of our country. But the editor objects that the existence of these societies is evidence, "that the hearts and attachments of emigrants are still with their native land." Doubtless every man will retain an attachment for the soil of his birth—even for the very spot of his nativity—but is this attachment incompatible with their love or their duty to the land of their adoption? Certainly not. With the strongest feelings of attachment for their native land, they may entertain the utmost dislike of the government which controls it. We presume that there are few emigrants who would desire to change our system of government to that which they left. In general they seek this country in consequence of the freedom which is to be enjoyed under our institutions; and to participate fully in the advantages of our system of government, they desire to be naturalized as citizens. We will go as far as the editor of the Pennant, in preventing foreigners from intermeddling with our political concerns before naturalization, as we would prohibit a minor from exercising the elective franchise. The foreigner should undergo probation to become qualified to discharge the duties of a citizen. But we cannot assent to the doctrine that he is to be totally excluded from the American family. It is illiberal, and to our minds, unjust.

The Repeal Associations, of which the editor speaks, are not confined exclusively to natives of Ireland—numbers of the members are of American birth. The object of these associations is not to subvert the government of this country, nor to involve it in war with a foreign power—but to aid an oppressed and gallant people, in the struggle for their rights—not by sending troops to their assistance; but with advice and pecuniary means. At least such we have understood to be the object. Now to this we can see no more objection than in granting relief to the Greeks when oppressed by the Turks. It is natural that Irishmen in this country should sympathize with their distressed countrymen at home—nor is it extraordinary that native Americans should feel like sympathy—for they cannot forget the many noble Irish hearts and brave hands that assisted to achieve the independence of this country.

Foreigners come among us, acquire property, and raise families. Their interests and their feelings must necessarily become identified with those of the natives. If denied the rights of citizenship, their children will be entitled to them, and why create this distinction between parent and child? In case of war the difference of situation would be severely felt. In short, although natives of the country, we are disposed to welcome the foreigner to our shores, who comes with the intention of uniting his fortunes and his fate with those of the American people. But, whilst we say this we must further observe, that we heartily condemn any clannish disposition which would induce naturalized citizens to give the preference in elections to candidates of their own country, without reference to their qualifications. We hope that no such disposition does or ever will exist, for it would immediately give rise to associations to counteract such influence; and we should soon be divided into factions, instead of being united as a liberal and free people.

National theatre. Messrs. Lennox & Singer are doing a neat, handsome and encouraging business at the little National. To-night will be represented "A Tale of Blood," "The enraged Politician," and "Cramond Brig." Those who wish to enjoy first rate fun, suitable to the times as well as the pocket, will no doubt embrace the opportunity. The performance will conclude with the Scotch drama of "Cramond Brig." Miss Helen Matthews will also make her second appearance this evening.

Sudden Death. A man named Howett suddenly fell down on the pavement in New York on the 3d inst., and expired instantly.

Respite of Fritz the Murderer. The Westminster Carrolltonian of the 7th inst. states that representations having been made to the Governor, by letter, that doubts existed in the minds of some persons in relation to the insanity of Fritz, he has, by his warrant, a copy of which is annexed, respited his punishment to Friday the fourth of June next. It may be as well for us here to state, (says the Carrolltonian,) that the mass of our citizens, including the sheriff, the clergyman who regularly visits him, and others who have frequent opportunities of conversing with Fritz, that they one and all believe him to be a sane man with a most ungovernable temper, and somewhat mystical when he wants to be so!

State of Maryland—To the Sheriff of Carroll county, Greeting: I have, in consequence of an application of Mr. Isaac Van Bibber, of Carroll county, in this state, thought proper to suspend the execution of Fred'k Fritz, which was to take place on Friday the 7th day of May instant, by virtue of my warrant, dated the 20th day of April, in the year of our Lord, 1841, until Friday the 4th day of June next, at which time you are to execute my said warrant of execution unless otherwise directed by lawful authority.

Signed by Wm. Grason, Governor.

A new Swindling Operation (says the N. Y. Tattler,) came off in that city, on Monday. A genteelly dressed man called at the extensive dry goods establishment of Birdsall & Borroughs, corner of Grand and Centre streets, and purchased over forty dollars worth of linens, which he ordered to be sent to the dwelling of Mr. L. M. Hoffman, 127 Hudson street. Mr. Hoffman, being a well-known citizen of the house of Hoffman & Co., Wall street, of course the drygoodsmen did not hesitate to send the goods as ordered, and leave them without the pay. Shortly after the goods were left, a person called and inquired for them, stating that they had been left there by mistake. The family of Mr. H. readily delivered the goods, and thus the swindler got off with his booty.

Very Proper. The Mayor of the city of Lancaster has offered a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of any person or persons who raise false alarms of fire.

Such a course should be adopted in our city. We would much prefer that every alarm of fire should prove false, but so frequent have they been of late, that our firemen can hardly have confidence when a real alarm is given. The injurious tendency of creating false alarms cannot but be apparent to all. The apparatus sustain great injury, the companies are apt to come into collision and quarrel—indeed a thousand reasons might be assigned, showing the necessity of making a strenuous effort to detect and punish effectually those who are instrumental in producing false alarms.

New Jersey Railroad. The Philadelphia United States Gazette states that this road is a remarkable instance of steam on land, competing with steam on water,—and successfully too.—Although but 34 miles long, this Road cost the extravagant sum of $1,900,000, of which, $253,000 was paid for land, damages, or right of way, being more than $10,000 per mile. Yet it has generally yielded a good dividend. The omission to make one last January, was occasioned by the burning of Hackensack bridge, and some further loss of property by a freshet. On the Railroad, (except the early trains,) passengers pay 75 cents between New Brunswick and New York, while by steam-boat the charge is only 25 cents. Yet the railroad gets a larger share of the passengers.

From New Grenada. Advices from New Grenada have been received at New York up to the latter end of February. A decisive battle had been fought between the government troops, under General Herran, and the insurgents, which resulted in the entire discomfiture of the latter, with the loss of 1000 prisoners and a large number killed, several of them chiefs and officers. The insurgents, who are 2000 strong, have been again routed, and it was supposed the rebellious Provinces would soon be reduced to subjection. Hopes were entertained that tranquillity would soon be restored.

The Stranger. We learn from the Eastern Argus that there was quite a "rumpus" among the ladies on board the steamer Portland, recently, the result of which was, that the boat brought one more passenger into Portland than she took from Boston. What, with the din of machinery and the whistling of the wind, the "little stranger" must have thought this was rather a noisy world. As he arrived after the bell was rung for fares, we presume he got his passage without calling at the "Captain's office to settle." His Christian name should be Steamboat.

A Fast Recommended. At an adjourned meeting of the Third Presbytery of Philadelphia, held on the 15th of April, it was resolved that "the Presbytery regards as a token of good to their country the recommendation of the President of the United States, appointing Friday the 14th day of May to be observed as a day of Humiliation, Fasting, and Prayer; and the Presbytery hereby recommend it to all the churches under their care to observe said day in a manner appropriate to the solemn occasion."

Nefarious Transaction. During the launch at the Navy Yard, Philadelphia, on Thursday, Com. Charles Stewart ordered the guns to be examined previous to firing, when they were found to contain several grape shot, supposed to have been deposited there by some malignant villain subsequent to the loading. Had it not been found out in time, there is no telling the number of human beings that would have been "launched" into eternity.

The Hamburg Journal of the 1st instant states that on Wednesday of last week, an atrocious murder was committed near Talbotton, Georgia, on the person of a gentleman by the name of Hammock.

The Oldest Republic on Earth. The American Quarterly Review contains a letter from G. W. Erving, Esq. giving a sketch of his visitt to San Marino, a small Republic in Italy, between the Appenines, the Po, and the Adriatic. The territory of this State is only 40 miles in circumference, and its population about 7000. The Republic was founded more than 1400 years ago, on moral principles, industry and equality, and has preserved its liberty and independance amidst all the wars and discords which have raged around it. Bonaparte respected it, and sent an embassy to express his sentiments of friendship and fraternity. It is governed by a Captain Regent, chosen every six months by the representatives of the people, 66 in number, who are chosen every six months by the people.—The taxes are light, the farm houses are neat, the fields well cultivated, and on all sides are seen comfort and peace, the happy effects of morality, simplicity, liberty and justice. Mr. Erving was received by some intelligent citizens in the most hospitable and affectionate manner; they were delighted with him because he was an American. They professed a profound attachment to our country, and look to it as the preserver of their own pure principles; they were intimately acquainted with our institutions and affairs, and had a library well furnished with books and pamphlets relating to America.

Canal across the Isthmus of Darien.—Advices have been received from Panama, that the obstacles heretofore interposed, by the clashing of the local and general governments, with regard to the proposed canal across the isthmus, have been effectually removed, and that the work seems at length in a fair way to be accomplished through the medium of the Franco-Granadian Company, established at Paris. The funds are already provided and operations will soon be commenced.

Rumored duel. The Louisville Gazette of the 2d inst. says: "It has been mentioned here for several days past, that R. Wickliffe, Jr. and C. M. Clay, Esqrs., of Lexington, had crossed the Ohio at some convenient point, for the purpose of ending some personal feud by an appeal to arms. It was said that the marshal of the state had made ineffectual efforts to intercept them. The result, it is feared, will prove fatal to at least one of them."

More forgery. The Charleston Transcript states that a check for three hundred dollars on the Union Bank of that city, dated 16th January last, was received from Macon on Thursday last, by an exchange dealer, which proved to be a forgery. The check purports to be drawn by the Mayor, Jacob F. Mintzing, Esq., in favor of C. Green, or bearer.

The Ozark Standard of the 10th ult., states that Major John S. Shanks, of Springfield, Mo., on the previous Saturday, shot Elijah W. Davis, through the head, of which he instantly expired. Mr. Shanks was arrested and committed. Davis was a young man from Smith county, Tenn.

The Grace Brown. It is stated in the Norfolk Beacon of the 6th inst. that the Federal Court adjourned on yesterday to meet at ten o'clock to-day. Mr. Nelson, of Baltimore, will conclude the argument on behalf of the owners of the Grace Brown.

Press for Sale. Mr. Blackford, the editor, offers for sale the Political Arena, of Fredericksburg. The paper is of several years standing, and has been conducted with ability by Mr. B.—He also says the terms will be accommodating.

County Court. The case of the Lottery Commissioners, in the name of the State of Maryland, against several individuals for selling tickets in the Town Hall Lottery, as deemed by them in violation of the law, was commenced yesterday in this Court. We will give a notice of the case as soon as it is decided.

Observance of the Sabbath. The Mayor of Philadelphia has caused to be put in force a hitherto neglected ordinance of the city councils, prohibiting hacks and all other public vehicles from occupying their stands or running on the Sabbath.

Travelling Gratis. A fellow without money, having a considerable distance to travel, fastened a chain and padlock to his legs and lay down in a field. He was apprehended on suspicion of his being a convict, and conveyed gratis to a jail in the town whither he desired to go.

Heavy Reward. The Mayor of Boston has offered a reward of $10,000 for the apprehension of the individual who a few days since made a daring attempt to rob the store of Messrs. H. Baily & Co.

The Carrolltonian says that William Thompson, who was recently arrested, charged with having committed the late robbery near Chambersburg, has been given up to the Sheriff of Franklin county, and is by this time no doubt secured in prison at Chambersburg.

In the court room this morning, says the N. Y. Truth, McLeod seemed totally indifferent at what was going on, and appeared more anxious to ogle some ladies that were there, and pay attention to the folds of the ruffles of his shirt than any thing else.

There were slain by sea and land, as we learn from the Boston Journal, during the last war between England and France, 2,100,000 men. The cost to England was £1,058,000,000—and the greater part of which is still unpaid in the national debt.

The Governor of Maine has issued his proclamation, uniting in the recommendation that the 14th of this month be observed as a day of national fasting humiliation and prayer.

Drowned. Mr. P. McQueen, Postmaster at Sho-ko-kon, Illinois, was drowned in the Mississippi, opposite that place, on the 25th ult. by the upsetting of a canoe.

The tobacco establishment of Messrs. Wood & Eggleston, Richmond, Va., was destroyed by fire on the 3d inst. Mr. Robinson's factory adjoining was also somewhat injured.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 175 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. BOOZ,
No. 9 Fleet street.

CAUTION. Hatters, Tailors, Shoemakers, and others, will do well to keep a sharp look out for a man by the name of JOHN H. BARNARD, who was formerly a City Bailiff, and at present I believe engaged in the Lime and Feed Business in Gay near Exeter street, (old town.) He may endeavor to obtain credit from you for goods and pay you off with a discharge under the Benefit of the Insolvent Laws, (where his name can be seen among the list of applicants of last week,) for the truth of which my books will show. Again I say, mechanics and others, keep a good look out for him!

MEDICAL AID. The success that has attended the treatment of many thousand cases of Venereal Complaints for twenty years past, induces the subscriber to inform the public, that he may be daily seen and consulted on all cases of the kind, recent and chronic, and on diseases of the urinary organs generally. His treatment is speedy and certain, adapted to the various constitutions of his patients; the medicines are so mild that the most delicate may take them, without any restrictions in diet or occupation. Many cases that have resisted every other mode of treatment have speedily yielded to this, and many persons who have tried all the quack nostrums of the day are frequently calling on the subscriber to have the injuries they have sustained by their use relieved. An early application is advisable in all cases, which may be made at Dr. WARNER'S OFFICE, Caroline street, one door north of Wilk street. Medicines furnished in quantities to suit applicants. ap7-e&lm*

Cassimeres and Cloths,

To Correspondents. We are particularly desirous of knowing the proper names of those who have been or may be so kind as to favor us with their productions. This request is not made for the purpose of attaching the names, unless desired, to such pieces as we approve and publish, but merely to know with whom we converse, and who shall be responsible, provided we are called upon at any time for an explanation of that which appears over an anonymous signature.

"Justice" has written very well, but the subject of his choice has been harped upon so often, that we fear it would now be uninteresting.

The "Scene at Sea" by Emily, is very good, but we think it too prolix.

H. L. is approved, and shall be attended to in due time.

"Sonnet on Life" by W. G. is approved.

A. McC. has been inspired by strange muses—he can't write poetry. This, however, is no fault—nor will he lose any thing by it.

"Ellen" is welcome—she has our compliments.

"Cozma" is certainly indefatigable. We shall publish "Lines to Miss L." but would suggest that they might yet be improved.

Lines by our young and promising poet "Atkinson" are beautiful. We are indebted to him for them.

[Reported for the Baltimore Clipper.]

CITY COUNCIL—EXTRA SESSION.

Friday, May 7, 1841.

First Branch. The Branch met pursuant to adjournment.—Present, the president and all the members except Messrs. Myers, Hutton, Blakeney, Bradshaw and Pinkney.

Mr. Bender presented a petition from the Howard Fire Co., praying for a special appropriation. Referred to committee on fire companies.

Mr. Keyser, from the joint committee on fire companies, reported an ordinance for the prevention of false alarms. The ordinance imposes fines on those detected in raising false alarms. Read a first and second time, and passed.

Also a report and resolution favorable to the petition of the Washington Hose Co., asking permission to sell a lot. The resolution which authorizes the mayor to sell the lot and pay over the proceeds of sales to the company, was read a first and second time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. Bender, the bill to carry into effect the general Tax bill was taken up, and amended by filling up the blank with $100, as the salary per annum of the appeal tax court for each of the three members, the blank fixing the salaries of clerks to the assessors was filled by inserting $300, and the blank fixing the salaries of assessors was filled by inserting $100. The bill was then passed, and sent to the Second Branch for concurrence.

The resolution authorizing the erection of an additional market, on the space adjoining the Centre Market, was then taken up, and an amendment was offered by Mr. Dryden, fixing the appropriation at $6265, and providing for the sale of stalls. The whole subject was here laid on the table on motion of Mr. John S. Brown.

The resolution in favor of the claim of Columbus Evat was passed.

The Tax bill was returned from the Second Branch, endorsed "concurred in."

Mr. Gorsuch, from the committee on police, reported an ordinance designating certain duties to be performed by the city counsellor. Laid on the table.

Mr. Gorsuch offered a supplement to an ordinance for the keeping of gunpowder within the city. Laid on the table.

A motion was made by Mr. Dallam that a message be sent to the Second Branch, proposing that when the Councils adjourn they adjourn to meet on Monday next. Adopted.

The bill in respect to huckstering wood was, by special order, on motion of Mr. Hanson, taken up. On motion the blank was filled up, allowing the harbor master 25 per cent. on fines recovered from hucksters for violations of law—which was adopted, and the bill was passed.

A message was received from the Second Branch, dissenting from the proposition of this Branch to adjourn till Monday. The Councils then adjourned until to-morrow evening.

BALTIMORE MARKET,
May 7, 1841.

Flour. Business in Howard street Flour during the week has been limited. Sales have varied from $4.32 to $4.37½. The latter may be put down as the quotation price of to-day. The latest purchases from wagons have been made at $4.25. We note no transactions in City Mills. Sales were made during the first part and middle of the week at $4.50. Numerous sales of Susquehanna have been made during the week at prices varying from $4.33 to $4.37½ a $4.50, as per quality.

Grain. We quote Pena. white wheat at 85a90 cents. We note some sales of Virginia at 91 cts. We quote Md. reds at 84a90 cents. We quote Pennsylvania Rye at 54a57 cents, and Md. do. at 52a53 cents. Maryland Oats at 35 cents, and Va. do. at 31a32 cents. Md. white Corn at 46a47 cts. Yellow do. 47a49 cents.

Cattle. Beef Cattle on the hoof we quote at $7.75a$8.25 per 100 lbs. Live Hogs are plenty, and will bring from $4.25 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.

Provisions. In the provision market we note no material change. For the past week transactions have been tolerable. We quote mess beef at $12.50, No. 1 at $10.50 &c. according to quality. Baltimore Mess Pork continues at $12.50; No. 1 $10.50, and prime from 8 to $8.50. Sales of Western Bacon have taken place at 6a6½c. per lb.; Hams do. 8a9c.; Middlings 6½c. and Shoulders 6½c.; prime Balt. cured Hams we quote at 10c. and Sides do. 8½c. Western Lard, No. 1, 8c. for cash. There is hardly anything doing in Western Butter. Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in mixed lots have been sold at from 6 to 7c. In Glades there is nothing doing.

Whiskey. We quote hhds. at 20c. and bbls. 22c. The wagon price exclusive of the bbls. is 18c.

Consumption of Coffee. The culture of Coffee, which about fifty years ago was nearly unknown throughout the whole continent of South America, now produces in Brazil alone, the enormous quantity of 135,000,000 pounds, or something more than one half of what annually finds its way from all quarters into the European markets; the English West Indian colonies contributing but a twelfth part to the three hundred million of pounds at which the yearly consumption of this commodity has been rated.

SALE OF VALUABLE PROPERTY. On Eutaw street, near the Lexington Market.

WILL BE SOLD by the subscriber, executrix of the late will and testament of Robert R. Richardson, deceased, the following Property, on THE PREMISES, on SATURDAY, the 15th day of May, 1841, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

All that valuable Lot of Ground, situated on the north east corner of Eutaw street and Wagon alley, fronting 22 feet on Eutaw-st. and extending back eastwardly about 92 feet to a twenty foot alley. The improvements on this lot consist of two two-story Brick DWELLINGS—one fronting on Eutaw street and occupied as a store, and the other is the rear thereof, fronting on Wagon alley.

Also, the Lot adjoining the above and to the north thereof, fronting on Eutaw st. 22 feet and extending eastwardly about 92 feet to a twenty foot alley. This lot is improved with a one story Frame Dwelling, and has the benefit of the brick wall of the adjacent house on the north.

Each of the above lots is subject to a ground rent of $20 60—thirty dollars and nine cents.

The situation, near to the market and in a fast improving thoroughfare, is a very desirable one.

The terms of sale will be, one third of the purchase money cash, one-third at six months, and one third at twelve months from the day of sale—notes with approved security will be required for the deferred payments. The payments to bear interest from the day of sale.

☞ For further particulars, apply to John H. B. Latrobe, Calvert street, opposite City Hotel.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Locke, of Ohio, on "Webb's Camphine," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed Joshua Atkinson Agent, No. 22 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 22, 1840.

Dear Sir—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY, No. 17 HARRISON ST. "NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

☞ Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. m1 tf

LOOK OUT!!

"Caution" is the Parent of Safety.

AN ATTACK of the "PILES" may be positively prevented by using (when the premonitory symptoms are felt) the celebrated HAYS' LINIMENT. There are more than one thousand people in this city, and in the United States an immense number, who have suffered beyond endurance by this dreadful complaint, who keep themselves wholly free from attacks by applying this Liniment when they feel any symptoms of its approach—of this there is the most perfect proof.

GREAT SOUTHERN

UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,

DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE!

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave	Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
"	Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
"	Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	12 M.
"	Fred'ksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
"	Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
"	Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
"	Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
"	Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads Weather!! and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office,

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sexton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.

Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.

Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 2 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

JNO. C. MOALE,
General Agent Baltimore Steam-Packet Company.

Passage (and fare on board) to Weldon,	$14 00
Passage and fare to Richmond,	10 00

MAGDALEN—A SKETCH.

He sat, the Holy Seat of Heaven,
While those dark eyes in pity dwelt
Upon the bending graceful form
Which at his feet in suppliance knelt:
Her round white arms were rais'd to Heaven,
Her low voice murmur'd forth a prayer,
And ne'er in beauty's brightest hour
That sinful one seem'd half so fair.

She bowed her head unto the dust,
While perfum'd odors breathed around,
And throwing loose her glittering hair,
The golden tresses swept the ground:
She wiped his feet with its rich folds,
While o'er her eyes celestial hue
Repentance tears had cast a mist,
Making more eloquent their blue.

The Saviour saw those falling tears,
He mark'd the anguish of her tone,
And tho' her life was dark with crime,
Still penitence could all atone.
And oh! how sweet that music came
Unto the heart by sorrow riven,
When Jesus to the sinner spoke—
"Go sin no more, thou art forgiven."

EMILY.

A LOVE CONFIDENCE.

[FACT.]

Some years ago, at one of Dr. Y's soirees at Paris, I met a gentleman whose name was not O'Sullivan, but whom, for the sake of concealment, I shall so designate. I had never seen him before, nor were we upon that occasion introduced to each other; but this ceremony he soon rendered needless by introducing himself.

"I beg ten thousand pardons, sir; if I am not greatly mistaken, your name is Fidkins." I take the same privilege of concealment, under an assumed name, as I have allowed to my new friend.

"Fidkins is my name"

"I beg ten thousand pardons again, sir; but if I am not greatly mistaken, you have lately published a novel called 'The Scheming Lover.'" (My novel, like my friend and myself, travels incog.)

"I have, sir."

"Why, then, sir, upon my honor and conscience, that is a mighty pretty thing to be able to say."

He smiled, bowed, and withdrew, and I, as in duty bound, was much amused at the oddity of the proceeding. Late in the evening at Mr. O'Sullivan's especial request, Dr. Y—— 'favored' him with a formal introduction to me.

On the following morning, at an hour much earlier than is usual for paying visits of ceremony, my servant brought in Mr. O'Sullivan's card with Mr. O'Sullivan's most earnest request that I would grant him a quarter of an hour's interview. The rule being granted, as a lawyer would say, the gentleman entered; and after exhausting no inconsiderable portion of his time in preparatory "hems" and "haws," he thus began:

"I beg ten thousand pardons, sir; sir, I am the most unfortunate of existing creatures, and I come to beg your kind assistance. I have the misfortune, sir, to be most miserably in"——

"Debt," I expected he would have added, and accordingly made the most amiable preparations for expressing "my regret at my utter inability," &c.; but he continued—"Love."

It is astonishing with what celerity the sluices of our sympathy are opened, and how copious is the stream, when it is not required to flow Bank ward. "Sir," said I, "I should be happy to be serviceable to you in any manner in the world; but really it seems to me that in a case of this nature ——"

"Pardon me, sir, but that is the very thing: you are the very person of all others to assist me. As I said, sir, I am most awfully in love; but unluckily, sir, I—I am bashful."

"And so, sir, you come to borrow a little of my superfluous impudence? I am flattered by the compliment."

"Don't misunderstand me, sir; pray don't. No, sir; the case is this: your book is full of love schemes, (and, upon my honor and conscience, very clever they are!) but it so happens there is not one among them that suits my particular case."

As I consider a character always worth humoring, I resolved to humor this.

"Well, Mr. O'Sullivan, have the kindness to state your case, and if I can serve you I will."

"Why, then, sir, in the first place the lady is a widow—she's thirty-five or thereabouts; no great disparity between us, as I am thirty-two."

"Is the lady handsome?"

"Why—that's a mere matter of taste, but—why yes, in my eyes she—I think she is handsome. But now for the difficulty; she has eight hundred a year of her own."

"A difficulty perhaps, but surely no objection, Mr. O'Sullivan."

"Why, yes, and it is. If I propose to her, people will say it is for the dirty lucre, when, if you could read my heart, Mr. Fidkins, you'd see that—besides, have I not exactly eight hundred a year of my own—in Ireland—setting aside for the last three years the rent wont come in—so as for her money you see—but to make an end, sir, I am cruelly in love with her, and if she won't marry me, I'll die."

"But it seems you have not yet proposed to the lady. Now it strikes me that, as a preliminary step, you should do so; at least you should sound her affections; for should they be engaged in another quarter——"

"Don't talk of that, sir; the very thought of that drives me mad. But I'll follow your advice; I'll see her to-day, and, should she refuse me, let nobody think I'll live any longer."

On the following day he came to me again; the upshot of his interview with the lady had been a flat rejection. Upon many subsequent occasions he repeated his address, invariably with a similar effect; and upon each occasion I received the honor of his confidence, together with the very alarming assurance that at length his heart was broken, and that for him the sun had risen for the last time.

It was in vain that I remonstrated with him on the folly of indulging a hopeless passion, and that I endeavored to persuade him to try, by a change of scene, to forget the cruel fair one—to quit Paris, and go to Rome, or Nova Scotia, or to carry out a stock of pigs, paupers, and poultry, and colonise some newly-discovered land. His parting phrase still—"'Tis all of no use; she won't marry me; I'm the most miserable of earth's creatures, and now I'll die."

Business suddenly called me to England. I had neither seen nor heard of, and had almost forgotten "the most miserable of earth's creatures," when, one day, about two years and a half afterwards, as I was going along Pallmall, I met him. He came up to me, and shaking me, violently by both hands, exclaimed—"My dear sir—my dear friend—at last I see you again.—This is the happiest moment I have enjoyed for many a day! You remember that unhappy attachment of mine? I was the most miserable man alive then? I'm a million times more miserable now!"

"For shame, Mr. O'Sullivan," said I, "be a man and forget her."

"Is it forget her, you say? And how the devil will I forget her, when we've been married these two years, and the devil a sixpence has she got any more than myself."—Court Journal.

THAT HANDKERCHIEF.

Othello was once enacted by a little band of comedians, who were out on a summer stroll, away from the regular theatre to which they belonged. Unfortunately, though the piece was tolerably well cast in the male line, the company was utterly destitute of a Desdemona, for the line of the leading lady was comedy, in which the was attractive and exceedingly clever, besides being entirely too smart to risk her reputation by appearing in any thing like a serious character. So an innocent supernumerary girl, not bad looking, but wholly unburdened with the slightest shadow of talent for the stage, and utterly incapable of studying or repeating six lines of blank verse without transposing and confusing words and rhythm into most delectable and incomprehensible disorder, was thrust into the piece to represent the gentle and beautiful heroine, Desdemona.

As it was not expected that the young lady would be able to study the part she was only directed to speak a line here and there, where it could not possibly be dispensed with, and the rest of poor Desdemona was doomed, for this occasion only, to be stricken out.

The play went on very well till the handkerchief scene came round, when the sudden passion and vehemence of Othello frightened the feminine novice almost out of her wits. The actor playing the jealous Moor was a young man of fine genius, and the startling and natural fervor of his acting, which he had not displayed at rehearsal, took the poor girl completely by surprise, causing her to forget even the few stray words she had made herself acquainted with.

After describing the terrible handkerchief which an Egyptian had given to his mother, Othello passed, and there stood Desdemona, looking at him with a most ridiculous and terrified stare. Seeing there was no prospect of her speaking, he went on with the next speech, and paused again for the reply. No answer came, and Othello being then in the "very torrent, tempest, and (as we may say) whirlwind of his passion," there was no pausing, and the scene went on as follow: Othello raging, the prompter in an agony, stamping and whispering the words to Desdemona, and the poor girl herself almost paralyzed with confusion and alarm.

OTH. Most veritable; therefore look to't well.

DES. ——

OTH. Ha! wherefore? [Speak for Heaven's sake!]

DES. ——

OTH. Is't lost! is't gone? speak, is it out of the way? [For God's sake say something!]

DES. ——

OTH. Say you?

DES. ——

OTH. Ha?

DES. ——

OTH. Fetch't me, let me see it.

DES. ——

OTH. Fetch me that handkerchief; my mind misgives. [Speak! Speak!]

DES. ——

OTH. The handkerchief! [Say something.]

DES. ——

OTH. The handkerchief! [Say any thing.]

DES. ——

OTH. The handkerche-e-eef!! [Damnation.]

"It's in the wash, Othello!" shrieked the terrified girl at last, making a desperate effort to "say something," as Othello requested.

Never was a tragedian so completely knocked off of his tragedy legs and plunged over head and ears in the ludicrous, as was Othello on this occasion. The handkerchief "spotted with strawberries," and ——"Died in mummy, which the skillful Conserv'd of maid-ns' hearts," was in the wash! and there was he foaming and fuming about it in a lofty sublimity of jealous phrenzy! The audience screamed and shouted and jumped upon the benches and screamed again in ecstacies of laughter, and Othello, after struggling a moment to maintain his dignity, went off in a paroxysm himself, and led poor Desdemona from the stage, that he might let his laugh loose behind the scene.—N. O. Picayune.

BALTIMORE CITY COURT.

SATURDAY, MAY 8, 1841.

Present—Judges Brice, Nisbet and Worthington.

Rigby Downs was tried for an assault on Samuel Mitchell, a colored man. It appears Downs is a wheelwright and Mitchell a blacksmith—that they both work for the same establishment; that some dispute arose respecting work sent to the blacksmith shop; that afterwards Downs went into the shop where Mitchell was, took up an iron shovel, with which he beat him severely, inflicting several severe wounds on the head and face, so much so as to render him unable to come into court. Fined $10 and costs. The court subsequently remitted $5 of the fine on account of traverser having a wife and children.

Barney Goulder was fined $1 and costs, for beating his wife.

James Peregoy, charged with an assault, totally unprovoked, on Patrick Smith, a porter at Barnum's. Smith, it appears, was passing the corner of Bath and Calvert streets, when Peregoy seized him by the throat. He, however, got away and met an officer, who arrested Peregoy. The occurrence took place on Sunday. The court fined the traverser $5 and costs. He also gave security in the sum of $100 to answer the charge of being engaged in a riot some time previous, at the June term.

In Patterson, the other day, a Miss Jane Hartley obtained a verdict for $1500 damages against Joseph Henry, in an action for breach of marriage promise.

TIGHT PANTS. A dandy sort of a chap, who wore tight pants over a pair of knock-kneed legs, which looked like two wheelbarrow handles, lately fell in love with a country girl. On going to claim her with the said pants on, the girl's mother put a quietus on the whole matter by saying, "Peggy, if Peter can't afford stuff enough to make a decent pair of trowsers, he won't be able to buy the child a frock;" and raising the broomstick, she forthwith beat a retreat. Peter did retreat and has not been heard of since.

BACHELORS. An English lady, discussing various methods of promoting matrimony, recommends that the estate of obdurate bachelors should be confiscated. With part of the proceeds, almshouses are to be erected, where the bachelors may reside, with one old woman to wait on every two. They are to be allowed one coat, with a yellow badge, per annum. "And," says the lady, "as bachelors have no love for the flesh, they may be fed with water gruel, barley broth, potatoes, turnips, carrots, parsnips, and other vegetable diet."

We observe in the Vermont papers notices of the recent death of Rev. Asa Lyon, at North Hero, in that State. Mr. Lyon had been for many years a minister of the Gospel, and had also held many political offices of great trust.—He was for some time a member of the State Legislature, and for a brief period Representative in Congress.

A new Episcopal Church is about to be erected at Hartford, Conn.

THE CONNECTICUT LEGISLATURE met on Wednesday last, at Hartford.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT.

Thomas Finley, to be Postmaster at Baltimore, Maryland.

Henry Curtis, Surveyor of the Revenue at Madisonville, La. vice W. Batterson, deceased.

Thomas J. Charlton, Collector of the Customs at Edenton, N. C. vice R. M. Noxen.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From a very Respectable Farmer.]

STAFFORD COUNTY, VA. SEPT. 7th, 1840.

DEAR SIR:—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I think I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhubarb and soda three or four times every day for the se many years, with little or no relief, and my legs and ankles were so much swelled that I was unable, at times, to attend to my business. But since you made me a present of a box of your Family Pills I have taken 1 or 2 of them at night in going to bed, and now my acid stomach is relieved, the swelling in my legs has nearly disappeared, and I do not think that I have been hindered one day with the pain in my head since I began to take your valuable medicine. I think the Lord directed you to Fredericksburg, to administer to my relief. (Blessed be his holy name. I am greatly relieved.) There is living in my neighborhood a poor old woman who had been sick for a long time and could not get relief; at length I purchased a box of your pills and gave them to her, after awhile I saw her out and about her business, and she said that the one box had cured her. I have spread the fame of your valuable medicine amongst my acquaintances, and many have purchased. Now, as it respects myself, my friends tell me when I go to town, that they have not seen me look so well for many years, and I say to them, 'I will tell you the secret why; about time ago I met with a Dr. Davies in town, and he gave me a box of pills, and they have made me look as you now see me.' And now, my friend, I hope that the Lord will continue to be with you, and make you useful to your fellow creatures, as he has hitherto done. I remain with respect, CHARLES BRUCE.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption. I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND,

For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Strictures, Diabets or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. Our prices are well known, and are as follows: Splendid Fashionable Russia Hats for $3.50, of the same quality as these selling elsewhere for $5. Also, fine fashionable Silk Hats at $2.50, warranted on Russia bodies, and generally selling elsewhere for $4 or no sale. And our old customers will please bear in mind that the well known KEEVIL removed from the Maryland Arcade some six months ago. So come one and all to 66½ Baltimore street, between Gay and Holliday-sts. for good and cheap Hats. Don't forget now!

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

FASHIONABLE BOOTS.

W. L. McCAULEY, Gentlemen's FASHIONABLE BOOT MAKER, No. 6 LOMBARD STREET, east of Franklin Lane, near Southst., makes BOOTS at $3.50 per pair, and Foots them for $2.75, of the very best Leather and Workmanship. Being a Practical Boot Maker, and Inventor of the Pegged Cork Sole BOOTS, which have given so much satisfaction to the wearer, gentlemen may rely on getting good and handsome work. Give me a call, and I will endeavor to please, for my Boots shall be behind none in this or any other city. [ap23-tf] W. L. McCAULEY.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

MONDAY MORNING, MAY 10, 1841.

STATE DEBTS. We have received a printed address from Joseph W. Ormsbee, Esq. a member of the House of Representatives in Illinois, to his constituents of Scott county. The following is endorsed on this address in writing:—"The talk now seems to be favorable to the idea of the General Government paying the debts of the States. Illinois is inclined to think her bonds are 'bills of credit,' and that, therefore, she is not legally bound to pay them." This would be an extraordinary position for a State to assume, and is analogous to that taken by some of the shinplaster manufacturers of this city, who, when called upon to redeem their issues, plead their illegality. It is a principle of law and of justice, that no man shall take advantage of his own wrong, and is just as applicable to the transactions of State, as to those of individuals. But the plea would be futile on the part of Illinois or any other State, for the bonds of a State are not bills of credit within the contemplation of the constitution. But the very suggestion of such a plea denotes a laxity of moral feeling, and we are sure that it will never be formally put forth by any State of the Union. As to the assumption of the State debts by the General Government, we are not disposed to sanction the measure, nor are we aware that an effort to that effect is contemplated. Most of the States have run wild on the subject of Internal Improvements, and have extended their credit beyond safe and prudent limits. But they cannot repudiate their obligations, whatever may be the burthens of the people. On this subject the St. Louis Pennant remarks—"A State is like an individual: no matter how much he may wish to pay his debts, he cannot, without the means—and a bankrupt law is just as necessary to an honest bankrupt corporation or State as to an honest bankrupt individual." If we were to admit the cases to be parallel, (which we do not,) the question would arise, when is a State bankrupt? Her bonds are issued not upon a pledge of the amount which may then be in the treasury, nor upon the then accruing revenue; but upon the responsibility of the whole resources of the State, and these must be entirely exhausted before bankruptcy can be pleaded. The property of the people where the debt is contracted must be taxed, no matter how heavily, to meet the engagements of the State. In the case of the insolvent individual, his property must be sold for the benefit of his creditors; and to entitle a State to plead bankruptcy, it is possible that the whole property of the people of the State would have to be subjected to the like process; for, it is upon their responsibility, individually and collectively, that the debt has been contracted. But it is useless to argue upon this subject. No State will be so shameless as to attempt to escape the payment of its honest debts by the plea of bankruptcy.

The address of Mr. Ormsbee takes a proper view of this matter, and insists upon the indispensible necessity of preserving the faith of the State of Illinois inviolate.

There is one measure which can afford legitimate relief to the States, and which we hope to see adopted, viz: a distribution among them of the money arising from the sales of public lands. Whatever deficiency in the treasury may result from this measure will be supplied by a duty upon imported luxuries. The States have a right to ask of Congress this distribution of the land fund. The public lands are common property, and it is evident that, if some permanent law be not speedily adopted to afford to each State its equitable portion of the fund arising from their sale, the advantage will be lost to the old states forever. We care not a button for any party view of this subject. We disconnect it from all partizan feeling, and go for it as a measure of pure justice—and urge it more particularly at this moment when it is so necessary to relieve the people of Maryland from a portion of the onerous taxes which they will have to pay to meet the engagements arising from improvident legislation.

POSTMASTER. The appointment of Thomas Finley, Esq. as Postmaster of Baltimore, is officially announced. A more worthy and deserving gentleman could not have been selected; and we have no doubt that the duties of the office will be promptly and efficiently discharged.

It is but justice to the gentleman who retires from that situation to say, that he faithfully and punctually performed his duty, and was remarkably polite and attentive to all who had business with him. He was universally considered an excellent officer.

ORATORIO OF DAVID. This exquisite and thrilling performance will be repeated to-morrow evening, at the Musical Saloon of the Assembly Rooms, by the Baltimore Musical Association. There will be of course a crowded audience, and for the gratification of those who may attend, we shall publish in to-morrow's paper the entire words of the Oratorio. Extra numbers of the paper will be published on this occasion, which can be had at the counter of this office.

☞It will be seen by the proceedings of the City Council that an entire suspension of business is recommended on the 14th inst., the day set apart by President Tyler, for humiliation and prayer, in respect to the memory of the late President.

ENGLAND AND CHINA. We laid before our readers on Saturday last, the conclusion of the difficulties between these two Powers, by which it was seen that England has succeeded in compelling China not only to make compensation for the expenses of the war, but to yield a portion of her territory to British control. This is but the commencement, and the Chinese government will find that hereafter the encroachment will be continued upon the slightest offence being given.—We have no doubt that the British government aspires to regulate the commerce with China to her own exclusive benefit as far as practicable, but the disposition will not be plainly manifested until she gets a more secure foothold. We suppose that the opium trade will be revived, and that the subjects of China will continue to be poisoned, that those of England may make a profit. This grasping disposition has justly excited some feeling in France, and we should not be surprised to find Russia taking the alarm. The territory already possessed by England in Asia is immense, and the trade to that quarter of the globe is pretty much under her control. The facility with which she has scattered the Chinese forces and dictated conditions to the government, will embolden her to enlarge her projects, possibly to the subjugation of the Chinese empire. It may be supposed that the undertaking is too extensive for her power or ambition: but it must be recollected that the Chinese are a feeble and unwarlike people, not equal in skill or bravery to those of India who have fallen under the British dominion. Should she contemplate the conquest of China, the attempt will kindle a flame which will not soon be extinguished.

STEAMSHIP PRESIDENT. An intense interest is felt on both sides of the Atlantic as to the fate of this vessel. She left New York on the 11th March, and we have had accounts of boisterous and stormy weather for some time after her departure. There is a bare possibility of her being safe. The English papers contain many conjectures, none of which are calculated to afford much hope of her safety. Her late commander, Capt. Fayrer, has published a letter in which he states the likelihood of her having reached Bermuda—others suppose that she may have arrived at Madeira. Had she reached Bermuda the fact would have been known here long since, so that that hope must be relinquished; and we fear that the expectation in regard to Madeira is not much better founded.

We notice that a letter was received in Dublin by the way of Havre, which was directed to be sent by the President, and was post-marked in New York three days before she sailed. This has excited the hope that her passengers and crew may have escaped though the vessel be lost. But we have no reliance upon this source of consolation, as it is probable that the letter was sent direct from New York to Havre. It is possible that she has been carried by the gales and ice farther south than has been supposed, and may have made a harbor; but this is almost a forlorn hope.

REVOLTING. We are informed, says the Richmond star of the 6th., by a gentleman who came passenger in the steamboat from Norfolk on Tuesday, that there is lying on the shore at the water's edge, about eight and a half miles down the river, the dead body of a white female, apparently a young woman. He was told by some of the officers of the boat that this body has been lying on the same place for three weeks past without any one's appearing to trouble themselves in the least about it. At the time the boat passed, there was a man ploughing in a field about three hundred yards off, and at the same time, buzzards were tearing and devouring the dead body. This account, extraordinary and almost incredible as it may appear, comes to us in such form that we can hardly doubt its correctness, although it would seem impossible almost that such a horrible tale could be true.

THE ST. LOUIS TRAGEDY. The Gazette states that the town is again in a state of excitement owing to rumors of discoveries connected with the late burglary and murders. It is proper to say that if anything has been ascertained, the information has been judiciously confined to the breasts of the authorities; and that at any rate such reports as have got wind are not to be implicitly relied upon.

Further investigation may establish their truth; while it is altogether possible that they may prove to be in every material particular without a shadow of foundation.

We may add to the above that the disclosures are of such a nature and extend over so much ground that their truth or falsity can be made apparent with very little trouble.

ANOTHER EXTENSIVE ROBBERY IN BALTIMORE. The hardware establishment of Messrs. Thomas & Co., 196 Baltimore-st., was entered yesterday morning early by some rogue or rogues and $1500, about one thousand of which was in gold and silver, taken from a vault in which it had been placed for safe-keeping. With this was also taken $250 in counterfeit bank notes, which in the course of business had accumulated and been placed in a separate drawer. Strange to say, the rogues made their entrance by climbing on the roof and getting through the trap door.—We refer the reader to an advertisement in another column, where it will be found that a reward of $500 is offered for the detection of the nefarious villains.

☞We were shown on Saturday by H. Wigman, Exchange Broker, a new counterfeit five dollar note, on the Wilmington and Brandywine Bank, made payable to Wm. S. Hagany, dated No. 4. 1839, letter A. The public are cautioned to be on their guard, as the counterfeit is well calculated to deceive, and may only be detected by a close examination of the engraving, which is somewhat coarser than the genuine ones.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE IN NEW YORK. A fire broke out in a four story store, No. 146 Pearl st. New York, on Saturday morning, between 12 and 1 o'clock, A. M., which destroyed five large stores, three on Pearl st. and two on Water st., all of them from four to five stories high. The loss of goods, exclusive of buildings, is estimated at from $150,000 to 200,000. The following particulars are taken from the Journal of Commerce:

Soon after midnight, the four story store No. 146 Pearl st., East side, fourth building South of Wall st., was discovered to be on fire, and in a few minutes the flames burst furiously from the roof and rear, where was a small open area, which gave them access to the stores No. 114 and 112 Water street, both which, as well as that in which the fire originated, were entirely destroyed, with most of their contents. Also the stores No. 148 and 144 Pearl st., next adjoining 146—the wind being moderate from the North East. Total, five stores, viz: three on Pearl st. and two on Water.

No. 148 belonging to the estate of Zachariah Lewis, and was occupied on the first floor by Messrs. Richards, Bassett & Aborn, as a dry goods store, and in the upper part by Samuel Cochran, as a lace store.

No. 146 Pearl st. was occupied below by H. B. Howard, as a dry goods store. The upper part was unoccupied.

No. 144 Pearl st. was occupied in the upper part by Adshead & Co., dry goods importers, in the lower part by N. W. Sandford, a shoe dealer.

No. 142 Pearl st. occupied in the lower part by J. & W. Kelly, dry goods dealers, and in the upper part by Pierpont Philips, clothier. The building extending through to Water st. being substantially erected, presented a formidable barrier to the raging element, which enabled the firemen lo stay the progress of the fire without much damage to the building. The contents of the building were considerably damaged by water.

The contents of No. 140 Pearl street, occupied by W. F. & S. Fanning, dry goods dealers, was partially damaged by water.

The contents of No. 151 Pearl-st., occupied in the lower part by Booth & Tuttle, dry goods dealers, were considerably damaged by water.

The fire communicated to the rear of the five story brick building No. 112 Water-st., owned by E. Coles, and occupied by Wm. Rust, as a drug store, and by S. Durand & Co., who had an office in the second story; building and most of its contents entirely destroyed. The four story brick building, No. 114 Water-st., occupied by Rufus Chase & Co., in the lower part, and Foster & Easton, in the upper part.

Mr. S. Cochran's loss is estimated at about $60,000, said to be insured. Richards, Bassett & Aborn's loss estimated at about $40,000—insured. Wm. Rust's loss about $5,000; S. Durand & Co's loss in notes and valuable papers is estimated from $15,000 to $20,000—no insurance; the loss on the buildings about $20,000. We have not heard any estimate made of the other losses.

☞The Boston Transcript states that the Britannia brought about 11,000 letters in her mail. The same paper also observes—"A gentleman who came home in her informs us that passengers in the mail steamships should be cautious not to take letters to be delivered in England, for by doing so they render themselves liable to a heavy penalty. The fine for a person who carries the letter is £5, and for the person who receives it £20. An English gentleman who recently went out as passenger, took a considerable number of letters, and after he had delivered them he was so incautious as to boast of having eluded the officers and escaped detection. This got to the ears of the government agents, and he was arrested and fined £50 for his evasion of the Post Office laws. All the letters must be put into the mail bags.

"On the 25th, 26th, and 27th, the Britannia experienced very severe gales, and on Sunday the 26th she shipped a sea which stove the bulwarks on the larboard bow, and broke the leg of one of the crew. The passengers immediately raised a subscription, and £21 were collected for his relief."

THE GLENTWORTH CASE. The New York Signal says: In the case of the demurrer of the Counsel of the accused to the seven indictments against James Glentworth, for misdemeanor, for frauds at the elections, in November, 1838, and April, 1839, in this city—in bringing or causing persons from other States to be brought hither to vote illegally at those elections—the Recorder delivered at length the opinion of the Court, giving judgment in favor of the people, and against the demurrer, to the indictment at Common Law, and sustaining that indictment; and also giving judgment in favor of the demurrer to the other six indictments under the statute, against those indictments, which were declined to be had.

Judge Lynch also read a long and able opinion concurring with that delivered by the Recorder, declaring the demurrer to the six indictments under the statute, to be well taken, and those indictments to be had; and declaring the indictment at Common Law to be good; and that the demurrer to this indictment was not well taken, and could not be sustained.

The accused was then ordered to answer over, or in other words, to plead to the indictment.

THE MORMONS. The steamer Marmion, arrived day before yesterday, and brought a large number of Mormons on their way to Nauvoo.—We learn that this fanatic tribe are growing to an unparalleled extent, and that they are sending out missionaries and establishing Jo Smith Bible Societies. The credulity and gullibility of human nature are enough to turn the heart sick, and lead an intelligent man to inquire of himself whether it be possible that he really belongs to the same race of beings as these wretched creatures.—St. Louis Pennant

CORRECTION. The Phila. Gazette says their informant was in error in regard to several shot having been deposited in the guns at the Navy Yard. It appears that it was a single stone, supposed to have been deposited there by a young lad not more than 12 years of age.

☞One hundred and nine deaths occurred in in Philadelphia last week.

PLANETS. Three of the finest planets of our system are now visible every clear night, namely: Venus, Mars, and Jupiter.

Venus, which has been visible in the West, as the glorious "Evening Star" for several months, now sets soon after the Sun.

Mars, which may be known by his large size and reddish color, is on the meridian ("souths") at a quarter past ten.

Jupiter, of a large size and very white in lustre, presents a magnificent appearance in the South East between 11 and 12 o'clock; but is not on the meridian until 2 in the morning.

THE GRAIN CROPS. The Germantown Telegraph speaks of the fine appearance of the wheat and rye in that neighborhood and the adjoining counties. Farming operations generally are, however, delayed by the inclemency of the weather. Not more than one half the oats which is frequently sown in March, is yet in the ground, and the ground has not yet been commenced to be prepared for the corn. Very few potatoes are yet planted. The Telegraph thinks the coming season will be a great one for fruit especially the apple.

A MERITED COMPLIMENT. The British Consul at New York has complimented a French sea captain, named Delor, with a nautical telescope, as a testimonial of his meritorious, humane, and successful efforts, in rescuing from awful suffering and death, the master, mate, and one seaman, the only survivors from the wreck of the Belvidere, of Yarmouth, N. S., bound to Antigua.—The telescope was presented to him through the French Consul, who replied in a very polite letter. These international courtesies are praiseworthy.

GREAT FRESHET IN MISSISSIPPI. By the Columbus Democrat of the 3d inst. we learn that immense damage has been sustained in Northern Mississippi by the heavy rains which have fallen there. All the low lands on the Yallobusha were entirely submerged, and at Columbus the river was about two miles wide. There has been no estimate of the extent of the losses sustained, but they were supposed to be very great on the plantations on that river and on all the other large water courses.

FIRST ARRIVAL FROM SEA AT QUEBEC. On the 29th of April, the ship Vere arrived at Quebec from Poule, and the next day the barque Great Britain from London. The captains of those vessels report they met large quantities of ice on the Banks, and never saw the gulf so full of ice.

EXTENSIVE RAISE. We learn says the Picayune that some thief robbed a passenger on board the Sultana on her last trip up, of a large package of money, containing $15,015, which, unfortunately for the rascal, turned out to be, with the exception of $15, all in notes of the Brandon Bank.

☞The weather in New Orleans has been extremely backward. An exchange paper says, never have we seen a winter and spring pass off with just such weather as we have had in New Orleans for the last five months.

STEAM BOAT COLLISION. The steam boats Oregon and Tennessee came in contact on Monday evening, 26th ult., 10 miles above St. Louis. The boilers of the latter were knocked down, and her Engineer and two or three other persons scalded. The Oregon took her in tow to St. Louis.

ILLINOIS AND MICHIGAN CANAL. We learn by the papers in that quarter, that an effort is making by the Contractors to continue the work on the Canal. Meetings of the Contractors have been held, and resolutions passed to go on and trust to future legislation to repay them.

MARRIAGES IN THE WEST. Between August 23, 1836, and March 15th, 1841, there have been within the county of Cook, Illinois, containing about ten thousand inhabitants, not less than six hundred and five marriages, besides an immense number of citizens who have married out of the county.

LITERARY PIRACY. A life of Mahommed, written by an American clergyman, and published about twelve years ago, has lately appeared in London as the production of a clergyman of the Church of England.

MELANCHOLY. The New Bedford Register states that the smack Wave of New-London, went ashore on the south end of Nantucket in the gale on the night of the 29th ult., and the crew all perished.

LOOK OUT FOR AUGUSTUS ROBERTS.

☞We warn our friends and the public against the impositions of a colored man who commonly goes by the name of GUS. ROBERTS, and who some time since got up exhibitions, which were held in the basement room of a church in St. Paul's street. He was assisted in his performances by ourselves and several others, all of whom he has cheated in the meanest kind of a way. Each of us were at an expense of six dollars a piece to furnish suitable dresses to represent our different characters. The money expended for these dresses was to have been refunded to us by this living, despicable, and contemptible fellow, Roberts, out of the proceeds of the second exhibition, which amounted to $26.50. Roberts gave as an excuse for not paying us, that he did not receive enough of money during last performances to meet his expenses. This we know to be a palpable untruth. His whole outlay for both exhibitions was, in all, only $26. The full receipts for the same were $51 50. Here it is conclusively shown that he had a balance of $25 50 clear profit, which, through his unmanly and ungentlemanly conduct, he was enabled to put into his pocket at the expense of those to whom it properly belonged.

Now, if this boasted tragedian, Roberts, is so mean (which we fully believe he is) as to keep the money he has swindled us out of, he can do so; but we must beg the privilege of warning all our friends, and every honest man, from having any thing to do with him in future. He has descended to that which ought, and which will disgrace him so long as a button is on his coat. We would advise him to gather up his rags and make tracks out of Baltimore. He may, perhaps, have some of our money left, which will enable him to "cut stick." Shoulder arms, nigger, and "streak it." His place of sojourn for the present is at Green's, the barber, No 4 Light street. Oh! you white-eyed baboon, be off! [m10-1t*] TWO OF THE SPEAKERS.

UNITED STATES' CALCULATOR.

☞The following testimony in favor of this publication, has been received from D. RING, Esq. Principal of the East Baltimore Female Institute.

J. MCNEVIN, Esq.

Sir—I have examined your "United States Calculator," and do not hesitate to say, that I consider it the most truly PRACTICAL system of Arithmetic now before the public. As a Mercantile Assistant, it is greatly superior to any other work with which I am acquainted; and, as applicable to common school instruction, I believe its equal cannot be found. In the revision of the work which you purpose, with a view to publishing another edition, you will, I am satisfied, add greatly to its value; and I have little doubt that it will supersede, as it deserves to do, many of the ill-arranged and imperfect works on the science, which are now so extensively in use. Yours, respectfully,

TWO PRIZES OF $500. Besides 1 of $100 sold in the Md. Lottery on Friday last. Thus it will be seen we are still moving on in the grand march towards pre-eminence, as a prize-seller, realizing those exquisite words by a young American writer:

"Pre-eminent, above the yelling
Of those who say they're "fortune's agents,"
We have the proof in prizes selling,
Proof worth all of their vain pageants!"

And for which proof friends, call at No. 156 Baltimore street, where we have the following splendid Scenes to be drawn this week:

PUBLIC PLACE OF RESORT.

THERE are but few of these in or about Baltimore; of these the subscriber flatters himself one of the most conspicuous for its pleasing location is his place—WASHINGTON GARDEN. It is situated just a pleasant afternoon's ramble out on the Pennsylvania Avenue, little more than a bow shot above St. Mary's Seminary. I can gratify every taste of the bon vivant; a call will bring before him the WINES of sunny France or romantic Rhine. For those who are not admirers of the rites of Bacchus there is provided TEA, COFFEE, CHOCOLATE, CAKES, and REFRESHMENTS of every and the choicest kinds; besides FRTIT and Flora's gifts, who is now in her May morn beauty. The subscriber has also erected, with great expense, one of the best TEN PIN ALLEYS in his Garden. Gentlemen fond of the exercise will be pleased. The Alley will be rented only by the hour. For terms apply at the bar. All disorderly persons and boys will be immediately ejected. There will be a female to attend to lady visiters. He is sincerely thankful for past patronage.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 175 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. BOOZ,

No. 9 Fleet street.

WONDER OF THE WORLD!
AND GLORY OF THE AGE.
PELION UPON OSSA!
A double—double Yankee Nation—
Enough to double all creation.

THE Publishers of the Universal Yankee Nation, encouraged by the unprecedented success of the two Double Sheets which they have issued, are now preparing to issue a DOUBLE DOUBLE YANKEE NATION! on a scale of magnificence totally unapproachable by any other press in the WORLD; and although the enterprize will throw upon our shoulders

"Double, double, toil and trouble—Fame is NOT an empty bubble!"— and we are determined to make it emphatically "the glory of the age and wonder of the world." The sheet will measure EIGHT THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED AND FORTY SQUARE INCHES.

The list of contents for this magnificent publication will be on a scale with the paper itself. They will consist in part of FORTY COMPLETE TALES of various descriptions.

The publication day will be fixed as soon as we obtain the requisite quantity of paper for an edition of 50,000 COPIES!

It will probably be issued as early as the 25th of May if not earlier.

As our press is the largest ever yet built, so we are determined to PRINT THE LARGEST PAPER WHICH CAN BE PRINTED, cost what it may. WE CAN do it—and we WILL do it.

CITY COUNCIL—EXTRA SESSION.

FIRST BRANCH, May 8, 1841. Present—the President and all the members except Messrs. Hutton, Blakeny, John T. Brown and Bender.

On motion of Mr. DeLoughrey, the bill in respect to slaughter houses, &c. in the city, was taken up. The bill imposes a fine on those who may permit blood to flow from slaughter houses. Mr. DeL. moved to fill the blank with $20 as a penalty on each offence. Mr. Bender moved to refer the whole subject to the next annual session—which, after considerable debate from Messrs. DeLoughrey, Bender, Peregoy and Keyser, was carried.

On motion of Mr. John S. Brown, the resolution relating to the erection of a market adjoining the Centre Market, was taken up, and amended by providing also for the erection of an additional market on Federal Hill district. The amendment was adopted, and the resolution passed.

A message was received from the Mayor, stating he had approved and signed the ordinance providing for carrying into effect the new tax bill.

On motion of Mr. Gorsuch, the bill entitled an ordinance supplementary to an ordinance for the safe-keeping of gunpowder was taken up. [The bill provides for the prevention of persons keeping gunpowder on board of vessels in the harbor.] Amended and passed.

On motion of Mr. Bender, a message was sent to the Second Branch, proposing that when the Councils adjourn they adjourn sine die. Assented to by the Second Branch.

On motion of Mr. Fields, a message was sent to the Second Branch, inviting them to a conference. Messrs. Fields and Bradshaw were appointed to wait on the Second Branch. The following resolution was received from the Second Branch.

Whereas, It has been recommended by the President of the United States, that the 14th of May, instant, be observed as a day of Fasting and Prayer. Therefore,

Resolved, by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, That it be recommended to the citizens at large to close their stores and places of business on that day, and observe the day as becomes the solemn occasion on which it was proclaimed.

Mr. Dallam, from the committee on streets, offered a report on the petition of Benjamin Hardesty and others, recommending its reference to the next session. Adopted.

Mr. Gorsuch, from the joint committee on police, made a report and ordinance in favor of reducing the license paid by theatrical exhibitions. Read and laid on the table.

The Branches met in convention for the purpose of confirming certain nominations before them.

The resolution to make certain appropriations for the repairs which have been made on the Reservoir and pump at the Point market being under consideration, was resumed, after some debate, passed.

A message was received from the Second Branch, proposing that a joint committee be appointed to wait on the Mayor and inform him that the Council is about to adjourn, and asking him if he has any further business to lay before the Council. Adopted. Messrs. Bender and Myers were appointed on the part of this Branch. Mr. Lucas was appointed on the part of the Second Branch.

The committee reported that they had waited on his honor, the Mayor, and that he desired them to say he had no further business to lay before them.

The Council then adjourned sine die.

APPOINTMENTS. The following nominations by the Mayor were confirmed by the City Council on Saturday evening last:

Assessors under the new Tax Bill.—1st District, Levi Williams and Wm. C. Spindler; 2d do. T. B. Scully; 3d do. Joseph Barling and John Patrick; 6th do. Joseph Shane, Thomas Evans and James Essender.

Appeal Tax Court.—George Myers, Joseph Brown and John B. Seidenstricker.

Collector of State Tax.—Jno. B. Seidenstricker.

SALE OF VALUABLE PROPERTY On Eutaw street, near the Lexington Market.

WILL BE SOLD by the subscriber, executrix of the late will and testament of Robert R. Richardson, deceased, the following Property, on THE PREMISES, on SATURDAY, the 15th day of May, 1841, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

All that valuable Lot of Ground, situated on the north east corner of Eutaw street and Wagon alley, fronting 22 feet on Eutaw-st. and extending back eastwardly about 92 f. et to a twenty foot alley. The improvements on this lot consist of two two story Brick DWELLINGS—one fronting on Eutaw street and occupied as a store, and the other in the rear thereof, fronting on Wagon alley.

Also, the Lot adjoining the above and to the north thereof, fronting on Eutaw st. 22 feet and extending eastwardly about 92 feet to a twenty foot alley. This lot is improved with a one story Frame Dwelling, and has the benefit of the brick wall of the adjacent house on the north.

Each of the above lots is subject to a ground rent of $30 00—thirty dollars and nine cents.

The situation, near to the market and in a fast improving thoroughfare, is a very desirable one.

The terms of sale will be, one third of the purchase money cash, one-third at six months, and one third at twelve months from the day of sale—notes with approved security will be required for the deferred payments. The payments to bear interest from the day of sale.

☞ For further particulars, apply to JOHN H. B. LATROBE, Calvert street, opposite City Hotel.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed Joshua Atkinson Agent, No. 92 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh19-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY, No. 17 HARRISON ST.

"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

☞ Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. m1 tf

GREAT SOUTHERN

UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,

DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave	Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
"	Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
"	Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredericksburg	12 M.
"	Fred'ksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
"	Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
"	Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
"	Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
"	Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 3 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads Weather and Steamsail must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expence or trouble with their luggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—185 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office,
d12-tf PRATT STREET, Baltimore.

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the south via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.

Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.

Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 4 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

DAVID,
AN ORATORIO.
BY CH. SIGISMOND NEUKOMM.

WORDS BY THE REV. JOHN WEBB, A. M.

Part I.

No. 1. INTRODUCTION.

A Desert near Bethlehem—Music representing the quietude of Pastoral Scenery and the Shepherd's Pipe.

No. 2. RECITATIVE. DAVID.

Dear partners of my peaceful toils, ye know
My Father bids me to the camp repair:—
Yet, ere we part, our voices let us raise
In humble supplication to our God.

No. 3. Choral Hymn of Shepherds, &c. 4 Choirs.

O Lord, thy guardian care we own:
Our life, our all is thine:
We bow before you heav'n's thy throne:
Almighty! power divine!

Look down, O Lord, in mercy from on high:
Our flocks, our homes from every ill defend:
Our sins forgive: our daily wants supply:
And guide thy wanderers safely to the end.

No. 4. AIR. David takes his leave.

My flock, my friends, farewell!
May heav'n your store increase:
Content be where you dwell;
And all your paths be peace.

O for the rescue of my father's land!
Steel'd be my heart and nerv'd my youthful hand.
'Tis done:—no fears, no dangers shall appal,
I feel the impulse, and obey the call.

No. 5. RECITATIVE. SISTER OF DAVID.

'Tis well, my brother, that our father's will
Be cheerfully obey'd.—Forget not thou,
Amid the camp's wild tumult, the delight
Of tranquil scenes and pastures left afar;
Remember these thy friends:—remember me,
Whose love shall follow thee, with earnest pray'r,
That thou may'st speedily in joy return.

No. 6. AIR.

Return, O David, return.
Let not the war allure thee,
The glittering helm and shield:
Let not the sword delight thee,
The plume and the tented field.
O think of these pastures! till thou shalt return,
E'en the stream of the valley thine absence shall mourn.

No. 7. The Valley of Elah—The Camps of the Israelites and the Philistines—The symphony and accompaniments, representing the noisy shout and bustle of armies approaching each other.

CHORUS. ISRAELITES.

Behold the Giant swelling in his pride!
His trumpet sounds afar;
His towering crest how vast! his stride
The terror of the war.
Behold his beamy spear,
That armies clave asunder!
Hark! how his voice upon the ear
Breaks forth like distant thunder!

No. 8. RECITATIVE. GOLIATH.

Ye men of Israel! why are ye come out
To set your battle in array? Again
I challenge all your host. Thus I defy you:
Give me a man, that we may fight together.

RECITATIVE. DAVID.

Who is this Philistine that he should thus
Defy the armies of the living God?
Let no man's courage fail because of him.
Myself will go and fight this boasting heathen.
The Lord, who from the bear and lion saved me,
He will defend me.

RECITATIVE. GOLIATH.

I cannot war with boys;
Yet if thou needs must prove my wrath, thine head
Shall bow to Dagon on his hallow'd floor.

No. 9. GOLIATH.

Come unto me:—thy youthful boast
Shall quickly feel its due reward.
The wolves of evening shall devour thee:
The vulture's beak shall rend thine heart.

DAVID.

I come to thee:—the Lord of Hosts,
Of Israel's hosts, shall be my guard:
His mightier arm shall soon o'erpower thee:
Vain are thy terrors, vain thine art.

[GOLIATH AND DAVID—jangling.]

Come unto me, and cease thy war of words.
I come to thee, the battle is the Lord's.

No. 10. Symphony representing the hurried motion to arms, and concluding with a phrase imitating the running steps of David, the slinging of the stone, and the falling of Goliath.

CHORUS.

He falls, the monster falls—they fly. Victory!
Up and pursue:—smite and divide the spoils,
Ons ard!—to Gath, and Ekron drive them home;
Till night close in upon the fields of blood,
And darkness veil the slayer and the slain.

[Music here receding and dying away in the distant pursuit.]

No. 11. RECITATIVE.

Daughter of Saul in the Palace of Saul at Gibeah.

Our fears are o'er. Hasty messengers,
Successive bear good tidings. Great Goliath
A stripling champion slew, and brings his head
In triumph. Through each city as they pass,
The women welcome them with song and dances.

No. 12. AIR.

Mighty Jehovah! boundless thanks we owe
To thee, whose arm, upheld o'er all our ways,
Exalts the meek, and brings the haughty low;
Deign to receive our sacrifice of praise.

No. 13. RECITATIVE.

See where the throng are pressing to the gate,
Haste we to meet them, and rejoice before them.

No. 14. Entry of the army of the Israelites into Gibeah—triumphal march heard rising in the distance.

SEMI CHORUS—Daughters of Israel,
Lo! the hosts advance,
Strike the bright cymbol;
Lead forth the dance

[Music assumes the character of dancing.]

FULL CHORUS—Hail! to Saul and David,
Songs triumphant raise,
They come—they come victorious;
Swell your notes of praise.

Saul hath his thousands
In the battle slain,
David with ten thousands
Strew'd the battle plain.

No. 15. Quartette—High Priest, David, Daughter of Saul and Jonathan.

Who can proclaim thy wond'rous acts O! Lord
Or shew forth thy praise?

No. 16. GRAND CHORUS—(FUGUE.)

Thou art a God of wonders;
Thou reignest triumphant for evermore.

Part II.

PALACE OF SAUL.

No. 17. Sym.—Music representing Saul's disturbed emotions.

No. 18. RECITATIVE—(SAUL.)

Ah me! what cares oppress me! For without
Is open war:—within are secret foes,
E'en now a viper, that I cherished
Within my bosom, sheds its venom there.
Oh! for an hour of undisturbed calm!

No. 19. AIR.

Come gentle sleep, and lull me in thine arms,
Sleep such as soothes the wearied soldier's toil,
His war-worn limbs reclining on the earth,
And sinking to repose.

[Music here is very delicate throughout, effecting to get repose—but abruptly starts up into feverish wakefulness.]

No! 'twill not come!
My pulses beat:—my brain is all on fire,
A thousand spectres dance before mine eyes,
Arm'd with red lightnings and uplifted spears.
Beyond is nought but darkness, cloud and storm.

No. 20. RECITATIVE—(JONATHAN.)

See how the evil spirit is strong upon him!
David, come forth. Thy harp hath power to soothe
My Father's anguish.

No. 21. PRELUDE, HARP—(DAVID.)

I will lay me down in peace and take my rest:
For it is thou, Lord, only, that makest me
To dwell in safety.—Psalm iv. 9.

No. 22. RECITATIVE.

Saul in a burst of rage.

Who talks of peace and safety, when my crown
Wrings my gall'd temples, and my very throne,
Assail'd by traitors, to its centre shakes?

No. 23. AIR—DAVID.

When fairest on a monarch's brow
The gems of virtue shine:
How bright, doth his example glow,
How noble! how divine!
But, should the soul-consuming power
Of sin his heart enthral,
How dim his crown! how dark his hour!
From what a height his fall!
Now therefore, O ye Kings, be wise;
Serve ye the Lord in fear.
Then, as the light
From eastern height,
Blazing abroad, o'er morning skies,
Your glory shall appear.

No. 24. RECITATIVE—SAUL.

I'll hear no more. Who bade thee thus intrude
Thy hateful lessons on a monarch's ear?
I know thine aim, to wrest my sceptre from me,
Shall a base shepherd, whom my bounty raised,
By rebel arts traduce my people's love,
And scorn me to my face? Die! traitor—die!

No. 25. Chorus of male and female attendants urging David to leave Saul.

Haste thee away, ere death o'ertake thee here,
Nor further tempt his fury and thy fate;
Seek out some distant wild and dwell in peace;
There may'st thou pour to God thy hymn of praise;
And gales of heaven shall waft it to his throne.

No. 26. Hall in the palace—Daughter of Saul—David and Jonathan.

RECITATIVE. Daughter of Saul to David.

Though, in fulfilment of his royal word,
As unto him that should Goliath slay,
My father gave me to thee, and should love thee
E'en as his offspring; though my brother's heart
Be one with thine; yet peril is at hand:
Saul's bitter envy thirsteth for thy life:
Ah! woe is me! thou must not tarry here.

No. 27. TERZETTO. Daughter of Saul.

Dearer to me than all below!
Though for a little while we part,
The hours will linger sad and slow,
Till thou return to bless my heart.

JONATHAN.

Go, and the will of heaven obey.
Friend of my soul, while life shall last!
These clouds of woe shall roll away,
And all our pangs will soon be past.

DAVID.

Partner of all my joy and pain!
Friend of my soul! let sorrow cease.
Hope whispers, we shall meet again
Restored to safety, love and peace.

DAUGHTER OF SAUL AND JONATHAN.

Blessed be the man whom heaven and men approve,
Sheltered by friendship and sustained by love.

DAVID.

God be my guide, and all my deeds approve!
God bless thy friendship, and reward thy love!

ALL THREE.

Farewell!

No. 28. Camp near Mount Gilboah—music highly descriptive of the sentiment of the verse.

RECITATIVE. SAUL.

Wretch that I am, that impiously I sought
To hags and wizards whom my soul abhorr'd!
Th' unearthly voice still vibrates in mine ear:
And withers all my hopes. Said he "TO-MORROW?"
Spirit of Samuel! rise again! away
Those fatal words that doomed a king to die.

No. 29. DUET. SAUL.

O Jonathan! thy father's heart is rent
With mortal agony. My joys are gone:
The crown is fallen from my brow. My glory
Is all departed. And I and thou to-morrow
Must pass through slaughter to the gates of death.

JONATHAN.

What dreams are these that overwhelm thine heart?
Let not Philistia triumph,
That Saul, the warrior king of Israel,
Trembled before them.

BOTH.

Lo where they come! the foe is nigh.
Shall Israel's monarch yield?
No:—on my { love and sword } rely:
{ heart and arm }
Thy son shall scorn } to fear or fly:
Thy father scorns }
On to the battle field!

*No. 30. BATTLE SYMPHONY—in which Saul and his son are slain.

No. 31. RECITATIVE. Messenger.

No. 32. CHORUS. The depth of gloom in this piece is perfected by the startling dismal peal of the gong struck near the close.

O Israel, mourn!—their course is o'er,
The brave the mighty are no more:
Let all your streams of sorrow flow.
Saul slain'd;—they fell. He scorn'd his God;
They died beneath the avenging rod.
O day of bitterness and woe.
Ah! how shall I proclaim
The tale of woe? Upon Gilboa's mount,
The battle join'd. Philistia is victorious:
Saul and his sons are slain!

No. 33. Hebron—the High Priest—David—the People.

RECITATIVE. HIGH PRIEST.

Saul and his cruel house have ceased to reign.
Bring David hither, and anoint him king.
His God is with him; and his way shall prosper.
Give the loud trumpet breath to sound his praise.
May he who led thee up prolong thy days;
Make thee a happy monarch, good and great,
The pillar of Judea's falling state.

No. 34. Grand chorus of the people.

Hail to thee, David, God's anointed king;
All hearts rejoice, all tongues triumphant sing!
Heaven bless thy reign; and Israel's state restore;
Thy throne—thy race abide for evermore!

No. 35. AIR. DAVID.

Glory to God alone shall be my song.
Blessed for ever be his holy name,
Whose hand sustains the weak, and quells the strong.
My lips his truth,—his mercy shall proclaim.

*No. 36. GRAND CHORUS.

Hail to thee David! from thy loins shall spring
A glorious Lord, an everlasting King,
Man to redeem and endless bliss restore;
When earthly thrones shall cease, and time shall be no more.

*No. 37. CELESTIAL CHORUS. A soprano solo, attended by treble and alto voices.

Blessed be he that cometh in the name of the Lord.
Hosanna in the highest.

No. 38. GRAND CHORUS—FINALE. (FUGUE.)

Blessed be he that cometh in the name of the Lord.
Hosanna in the highest.
Praise the Lord for evermore.
Hosanna!

* Nos 36, 36, and 37 will be omitted in the performance for the sake of brevity.

LOVE IN AUSTRALIA. This is a curious matter.—The lover goes to a neighboring tribe, fixes his eagle glance upon the maid that fills his eye, watches her movements with perseverance day by day, until she happens to stray in some retired spot, by grove or rivulet, then, in a transport of ardor, rushes upon her with a rough club or wooden sword, knocks her down, beats her over the head until she is senseless, then drags her off to his own tribe, and receives the blushing confession that her heart is won. They then become man and wife. A complete illustration, this custom, of the saying that "a faint heart never won fair lady." But we should like to catch them courting our yankee girls in that style. We reckon there would be some clapper-clawing. Don't you think so, my dear?—Exchange Paper.

An English paper gives the following instance of the voracity of the Boa Constrictor, which occurred not long since at the Zoological Gardens in the Regent's Park. Two large fine tiger Boa Constrictors were brought over by Capt. Redman, from Calcutta, and presented by him to the Menagerie on the 5th of September last. They were respectively 11 feet and 9 feet in length, and had lived in harmony together in their cage until last week when the smaller one being sickly, would not eat at the usual time of feeding.—The larger one had just eaten a rabbit and three guinea pigs, when it appears he made a gorge of his more weakly companion, which was proved by the sudden disappearance of the latter, and the more bulky size of the former, which exceeded three feet in diameter in the greatest proportion of his body.

OUTRAGE. Three desperadoes in New Orleans decoyed a respectable country farmer into a dark retired street, knocked him down and filched his pockets of all his money.

A GOOD ONE. "N. of Arkansas," the humorous correspondent of the New York Spirit of the Times, thinks it would have been an excellent speculation had the United States Bank engaged Fanny Elsler's services for twelve months, as she might have saved it!

The Cincinnati Chronicle thus coolly deliberates upon the state of the weather in that region:

"After twenty-four hours of raw, cutting northwesters, we were treated last night to a most orthodox thunder storm, and this morning are again in statu quo. From all accounts, however, we have been favored in these parts with more of the smiles and fewer of the tears of the season than other quarters.

A man named Isaac Borallack, a native of England, committed suicide in New York on Friday by taking laudanum.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From a very respectable Farmer.]

STAFFORD COUNTY, Va. SEPT. 7th, 1840.

Dear Sir:—I write to let you know that the Lord has done great things for me, whereof I am glad. When I saw you in Fredericksburg, I think I said that I had been afflicted with a very acid (sour) stomach, and subject to a violent pain in my head for more than twenty years, for which I took rhubarb and soda three or four times every day for these many years, with little or no relief, and my legs and ankles were so much swelled that I was unable, at times, to attend to my business. But since you made me a present of a box of your Family Pills I have taken 1 or 2 of them at night in going to bed, and now my acid stomach is relieved, the swelling in my legs has nearly disappeared, and I do not think that I have been hindered one day with the pain in my head since I began to take your valuable medicine. I think the Lord directed you to Fredericksburg, to administer to my relief. (Blessed be his holy name, I am greatly relieved.) There is living in my neighborhood a poor old woman who had been sick for a long time and could not get relief; at length I purchased a box of your pills and gave them to her, after awhile I saw her out and about her business, and she said that the one box had cured her. I have spread the fame of your valuable medicine amongst my acquaintances, and many have purchased. Now, as it respects myself, my friends tell me when I go to town, that they have not seen me look so well for many years, and I say to them, 'I will tell you the secret why; a short time ago I met with a Dr. Davies in town, and he gave me a box of pills, and they have made me look as you now see me.' And now, my friend, I hope that the Lord will continue to be with you, and make you useful to your fellow creatures, as he has hitherto done. I remain with respect, CHARLES BRUCE.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of Dr. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 11, 1841.

EQUAL JUSTICE. The St. Louis Bulletin has a sensible article on the "present state of society in the United States." The editor notices the extraordinary increase in crime, notwithstanding the multiplied sources of instruction and moral improvement, and expresses great surprise that among the wealthy, or those reputed to be wealthy, criminal acts should have become as tenfold to what they were twenty, or even ten years ago. This he attributes to the great desire to acquire money, and the profligate use made of it when obtained. He is, in part, right. There can be no doubt that society has undergone a wonderful change, and that, from a sedate and industrious people, we have become a nation of stock-jobbers and speculators. The disposition to acquire wealth by other means than industry and frugality, is almost universal; and this disposition is owing to the great deference that is paid to wealth. Fashion has introduced an extravagance which cannot be maintained by the proceeds of an ordinary business. The humblest individual in society must have splendid ottomans, pier tables, glasses, and every other article to correspond; and the general consequence is, that a young man in mediocre circumstances, on commencing house-keeping, is soon ruined in the effort to keep pace in style with his more wealthy neighbor; or resorts to hap-hazard speculations with the hope of being able, by one master stroke, to procure the means of supporting his extravagance. The great misfortune is, that we look, not with our own, but with other people's eyes, and place our happiness not upon ease and comfort, but upon folly and show. Hundreds are led to the commission of crime in order to sustain the false position they have assumed. Like drowning men they catch at straws—and unfortunately, too often, in their desperate struggle to maintain themselves in fashionable life, sink themselves and families into degradation and misery. Extravagance is the natural parent of crime, and hence the unusual increase of it within a few years past. But there is another reason for this increase of it in the wealthier portion of the community. It is the impunity with which it can be practised—and herein the laws are not equally administered. If we think and speak harshly of the British government for its oppressions and aggressions, we cannot but admire the unflinching sternness and impartiality with which her criminal laws are enforced. There the elevated criminal cannot escape by the influence of friends—here he cannot be punished. It is natural then, that men in high stations shall commit crimes when they know that they can set the laws at defiance. Indeed, so well is it now understood that the law was made for petty offenders only, that little or no effort is made to apply it to others. The man who steals a hundred dollars may find a berth in the penitentiary—but let him make the sum a hundred thousand, and justice is blind and mute.—The success of the elevated criminals induces imitators among those of an inferior sphere; for it is natural that the humble individual should anticipate a mild fate for an inferior offence, when he finds that great crimes go unpunished; and thus the lax administration of justice introduces immorality and crime.

There is another cause why men are extravagant and regardless of consequences. He who has spent his time in idleness and in luxurious living, upon a reverse of fortune, becomes an object of compassion, and is placed in public office on the plea, that, being unaccustomed to work he cannot earn a livelihood by his own industry. He is preferred to one who has applied his time diligently and faithfully, and maintained himself honorably and respectably. And why? Because the latter is a working man. Thus industry and prudence are frequently urged against a man, and made to constitute an obstacle to his elevation. And thus, the genteel loafer, who has eaten the bread of idleness during his past life, insists that his indolence and dissipation entitle him to be fed at the public crib for the time to come.

Society is certainly in a melancholy condition. It is upon the high-pressure principle, without the necessary steam to continue it in motion.—Banks and individuals have expanded beyond their natural limits, and the consequences are only beginning to be experienced. The bladders upon which we have been swimming, are bursting under us, and the struggle for life will be hard. We have, it is true, the means of safety if we choose to employ them—they are, retrenchment and reform. Down with extravagance, and up with industry, and we may defy storms—but this will never be done so long as honest labor is looked upon with contempt. It would be better to scrape the streets for a livelihood, than to eat the bread of dependence, or to make creditors pay for it. "Better is a dinner of herbs" honestly acquired, "than a stalled ox," with the sheriff to disturb your meal. To mend the times we must first mend our own ways; and if we will but be content for a time, with those things which are necessary, we may take the load from our backs and again walk erect. Our imaginary wants quadruple our real ones—and by attempting to supply the former we increase the latter.

"There are three things, yea a fourth" which are indispensible to bring society back to a wholesome state—honesty, industry, economy, and the equal administration of justice to rich and poor. The first will restrict our desires within our means—the second will enable us to procure what may be necessary to our comfort—the third will secure what we obtain—and by the fourth we shall have the assurance that wealth affords no protection from punishment.

TIDE WATER CANAL. We copy with pleasure, the following remarks from the United States Gazette, on the subject of the late public meeting held in this city in relation to the Tide Water Canal. They are written in the proper spirit, and shew the importance of the late movement in Baltimore. The Philadelphians are alive to their interests, and do not sleep over the means of advancing them. They have provided tow boats for the purpose of securing to Philadelphia as much as possible of the trade which passes through the Canal. This is right—they should make every effort for so important an object; and they could not fail to succeed to the utmost of their wishes, were the citizens of Baltimore to continue idle spectators—but this they have resolved not to be, and there will be a fair competition. The address made by Mr. Bose at the late meeting awakened attention to the subject, and the resolutions which were adopted will produce immediate action.

Trade of the Tide Water Canal. Our brethren of Baltimore appear to be wide awake to the importance of the Tide Water Canal to their business, and of the effect of the line of steam tow boats between Philadelphia and Havre-de-Grace. They have held a meeting on this subject, and listened to a most instructive address from Mr. Bose, of the American, and are now, we believe, determined to make a new effort to "carry" the business of that canal. Well, we like that. We have no objection to fair, honorable competition, and in this case the Philadelphians have got a little ahead, thanks to the determined exertions of a few of our merchants, and the liberality of others. We shall have the competition for the business and in the business; but we know the parties on this side, and we know of the parties on the other side. All will be conducted in the proper spirit, and all will profit by the enterprise. It was bad enough for Philadelphia to be compelled to go into Maryland to contend for the trade of northern Pennsylvania, for which she had contributed millions to have it brought to her own wharves; but that may not now be mourned, and, submitting to the necessity, we are most happy that she contends worthy of herself wherever invited by business, and contends with admitted and gratifying success.

BALLOONING. A Paris correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser says: "The lovers of aerostation, and indeed the lovers of science in general, will rejoice to hear that a mode of navigating the air in balloons, by giving them any direction that can be desired, even against the wind, has been adopted. An experiment has been recently exhibited near Saint Denis, to illustrate this important fact. The balloon, at the height of 250 yards, was worked in every direction by the person in it, even in the teeth of an adverse wind. It also ascended without the throwing out of ballast, and again descended.—These evolutions lasted three hours, after which the intrepid aeronaut returned to earth and alighted as comfortably as he would have done from an ordinary carriage."

ORATORIO. We invite attention to the performance of the Baltimore Musical Association, which is to take place this evening, at the Musical Saloon of the Assembly Rooms. The Oratorio of David, which has excited universal admiration, will be performed with great effect by the Musical Association, and cannot fail to give the highest gratification to the audience. The words of this Oratorio will be found on the first page of to-day's paper, extra copies of which can be had at the counter of this office.

BRUTAL OUTRAGE. A Mr. Thos. Bowers, of Philadelphia, when returning from church on Saturday evening last in company with his sister, was brutally attacked with clubs, very much injuring his head and face, by three colored men, whose intention, no doubt, was to murder him, a design which they might possibly have effected, but for the heroic conduct of his sister and the efficient aid she rendered him.

SUPPOSED FORGER ARRESTED. A letter received on Friday, at New York, from the Cashier of the Union Bank at Montreal, dated the 4th of May, states that "a man named Brittou, so said, and thought to be the one engaged in the great forgeries at New Orleans, was yesterday arrested, and is now safe in custody with the authorities in this province. Col. Thomas, of Burlington, Vt., is here, (in Montreal,) and says that he has no doubt that this is the forger by the description."

IMPORTANT LEGAL DECISION. The Philadelphia Ledger states that it was on Saturday decided by the Judges of the District Court, for the City and County of Philadelphia, in the case of Croft vs. Reiff, that in a case where a check drawn payable to bearer, and loaned by the drawer to the payer for his accommodation, and by the payer passed to a third party, in payment of a bona fide debt, the holder could not recover thereon.

MURDER. We learn, says the St. Louis Bulletin of the 1st inst. that a barbarous murder was committed on Tuesday last in Pike county, by a negro man—a slave—on the person of his master. They were at work on the farm, the negro assailed his master, and cut his throat. The story which he told not seeming probable, a close investigation was had, and the evidence of the negro's guilt obtained.

AN AWFUL REVENGE. Mr. Eli Abbot, formerly Mayor of Columbus, Miss., was recently found in his bed, with his head cut off. It is stated that, about four years ago, he killed a young man, named Pryor, and that he has ever since lived in the constant fear of his relatives, some of whom, it is supposed, have at length revenged themselves upon him.

COUNTY COURT—THE LOTTERY CASE. This case was resumed on Saturday noon, when I. N. Steele, Esq. (one of the counsel for the lottery commissioners, in the name of the State of Maryland, appellant,) commenced the argument on the points contended for in the opening of the case:—1st, that the commissioners of the Town Hall Lottery cannot sell tickets without a license; 2d, if so, they cannot confer the power to sell tickets to others without license; 3d, that licensed dealers cannot be considered agents in the Town Hall Lottery who buy tickets at a discount and sell them at a profit; 4th, that those having a license cannot sell tickets in this lottery without a commission from the proper authorities.—Mr. Steel occupied the whole of the evening until about three o'clock, when the Court adjourned, in referring to the different acts of Assembly on the subject, showing the establishment of the Lottery Commissioners, their authority to inquire into and prosecute offences against the different acts of the Assembly relating to the lottery system, &c. Yesterday morning the case was resumed, and Chas. F. Mayer, Esq. commenced the argument for the appellee, contending that this was a special act granted by the Legislature for the benefit of the city of Baltimore; and that the State also reserved to herself a benefit from it, as she required the city to appropriate the ground on which the building was to be erected by the proceeds of this lottery; and reserved the right of a certain portion of the building for the purpose of being used as a State Armory.

He contended that in the 1st section of the act creating this lottery, where the words "without being subject to any tax whatsoever," meant, not as was contended for on the other side, exempt only from a tax known as 5 per cent. tax, on schemes, paid to the State, but it meant, in its broad sense, all tax whether in the shape of license or otherwise; for, contended the counsel, a license is nothing more than taxing a man's business or profession, &c. He contended further that the commissioners under this grant had an undoubted right to sell the tickets, and avail themselves of all the facilities of selling those tickets, whether by appointing agents under them or otherwise. R. Johnson, Esq. followed on the same side, and had not concluded when the court adjourned.

PROMISSORY NOTE CASE. A case was tried yesterday before Justice Miltenberger, in which Mary Smith was plaintiff, and Alexander Applegarth and Thomas Faulkner, trading under the firm of Applegarth & Faulkner, were defendants. The case originated in a note for $65, drawn by a certain W. R. Nimmo, and made payable to Messrs. Applegarth & Faulkner, (with "no order.") The note was endorsed by them and passed to Mr. Coboura, agent for M. Smith, for a piano. Above the names of Messrs. A. & F. was an erasure which was done so effectually as not to be made out. Mr. R. M. Welch, a witness for plaintiff, stated that Mr. Applegarth had called on him and told him he had a note which he wished to pass without being responsible as endorser, and asked him how it should be done; that Mr. A. then produced the note, and he (W.) wrote on it "without recourse to us;" will not be positive whether the note was then endorsed, and he wrote this over the names of the firm, but thinks Mr. A. endorsed it afterwards. Mrs. Coboura was then called. The counsel objecting, Mr. C. took the oath that he had no pecuniary interest in the case. He swore Mr. A., after passing the note, had borrowed it of him on some pretence, that when he returned it, it had on it the words "without recourse to us;" that he told A. he had no business putting that on the note, and took a pen and made the erasure in the presence of A. The counsel for the plaintiff contended that as there was no evidence to rebut that of Mr. Coboura, he would on his evidence ask judgment for plaintiff—that defendants had evidently gotten value for the note, and should, therefore, as endorsers of the note, be liable for its payment. The counsel for the defence, after reverting to the aspect of the testimony, the appearance of the erasure, &c., (which erasure to all appearance had been made with a knife and then blotted,) rested his claim for non-suit of plaintiff, on the ground that the note was not a regular negotiable one, but was a "single promissory bill," and as such in law, the endorser could not be proceeded against, until all recourse against the drawer of the bill had been exhausted.

Justice Miltenberger held the case under advisement. Counsel for plaintiff, Mr. Buchanan. For defendants, Mr. W. H. Collins.

A "RAT" SUIT. A suit was tried in the Common Pleas, New York, a day or two ago, in which Charles Andrews was charged with a libel, for having published Lorenzo Q. Gibbs, a printer, as a "rat." Andrews was chairman of the rat committee of the Typographical Association, and on behalf of the Society published Gibbs, who was working under the regular journeymen's prices fixed by the association, as a "rat." The Court did not regard the term "rat," or any other term which merely charged a person with working for under prices, as the testimony proved the term "rat" to mean, to be libellous. There were other terms, however, used in the advertisement, to wit—"animal," "vermin," which were libellous. The jurors found a verdict for the plaintiff, $25 damages and six cents costs.

TOWANDA BANK. We learn that the notes of the Towanda Bank will hereafter be redeemed at the office of the Manufacturers' and Mechanics' Bank of the Northern Liberties, Philadelphia, and that the arrangement is permanent.

THE BOY JONES. The boy Jones, who has made himself notorious, by his frequent intrusions into the Queen's Palace, in London, has obtained the epithet of In-i-go Jones.

LATEST FROM TEXAS. We have dates from Galveston to the 28th April, from Houston to the 24th, and from Austin to the 14th.

The Tonkaways are said to have driven in from a Caddo camp, which they discovered on the Yegua, upwards of one hundred horses, and among them the race horses which were stolen from Austin in Feb. last.

Commodore Dumanoir and other officers of the French frigate Sabine visited Houston a few days ago, and were invited to a collation, at which the Mayor presided, and in the name of the City Council tendered them the freedom of the city.

The Galveston Herald of the 27th says that should the dry weather continue a short time longer it is feared the cotton crop will be materially injured. In the Brazos the cotton is also suffering from the drought.

Gen. Samuel Houston arrived at San Augustine on the 8th ult., said to be in fine health.

On the frontiers every thing appears to be quiet. No further news of Indian or Mexican invasions.

EMIGRATION OF THE SWISS. The Swiss journals state that a great number of the inhabitants of Chamaunix, although in the enjoyment of a certain degree of wealth, are disposing of their property with the intention of emigrating with their families to New York, others to Louisiana, where many of their fellow countrymen have made successful settlements.

The emigration from Great Britain is expected to be very great this season. The owners of the old line of Liverpool packets made arrangements to insure about 150 steerage passengers in each of their ships bound to New York, from the 1st March last to the 31st Oct. next, which is 25 per cent. more than the average emigration to N. Y. in 1840.

There were rumors in town, says the Nashville Whig, of forgeries to the amount of six or seven thousand dollars in the notes discounted of the principal bank of Tennessee. The spurious notes were manufactured in the adjoining counties of Wilson and Rutherford, and sent in for discount last fall, with the forged recommendation, in pencil, of the county directors, who, it was known by the parties engaged in the villainy, would not be in attendance at the board to detect the fraud. Other particulars we do not feel at liberty to go into, until the facts can be thoroughly sifted by the officers of the bank.

ONE OF THE ST. LOUIS MURDERERS CAUGHT. It is stated in the Cincinnati Chronicle of the 5th inst. that an officer from St. Louis, with the aid of some officers of Cincinnati, succeeded this morning in arresting a negro supposed to be one of the murderers of Baker and Weaver, of St. Louis. He made a good deal of effort to prevent being taken, but without effect.

The Times of a later date says he is to be tried to-day (6th,) and that no doubt exists of his being one of the murderers.

The N. O. Picayune of the 2d remarks that a report was in town last evening, stating that Messrs. Harper and Wiggins, of the police, had arrested two of the young men concerned in the recent heavy bank defalcations, and that they were coming up to the city on board the tow boat Star. They were arrested on board the steam ship Natchez, and her detention at the Balize was probably owing to this circumstance.

INJUDICIOUS CAUTION. It was stated yesterday in a small morning print "that the notes issued by the Baltimore and Ohio R. R. Co. will not be exchanged and are consequently rendered worthless if the acceptance, which it will be observed is immediately under the vignette on the left margin of the note, be torn off."

We are credibly informed that the above statement is entirely unauthorised and likewise untrue.

In alluding to the late destructive fire in Antigua, the New Haven Herald says, on the authority of recent letters, that a great portion of the business part of the town was destroyed—the damages estimated at between four and five hundred thousand dollars, and adds, that the blacks were very troublesome, and pillaged a large amount of property.

RESPECT. The Boston Transcript states that a meeting of the passengers in the Britannia was held on board the ship when she was off Cape Ann yesterday, and it was unanimously voted to request Capt. Cleland to accept a piece of plate as a memorial of their great regard for him as a gentleman, and of their confidence in his skill and efficiency as a commander.

FOUND GUILTY. The Philadelphia U. S. Gazette states that the jury in the case of Thomas Shuster, charged with the murder of his wife, after being out some time, returned into Court late on Saturday evening, and delivered as their verdict that Thomas Shuster was "Guilty of murder in the first degree."

NATIONAL THEATRE, North street. The "Burning of the Caroline" was produced last night at the National for the first time in this city, to a crowded and delighted audience; the piece has been got up with some pains, and the characters throughout were admirably sustained. It will be repeated to-night.

THE NATIONAL FAST IN BOSTON. The Boston Atlas says—"We understand that by general consent of the religious societies and pastors of the city, there will, on the day of the approaching national fast, be one service in each of the churches, commencing at 11 o'clock, A. M."

NAVAL. The American squadron was signalized at Gibraltar on the 8th ult beating down with the wind W., supposed for Cadiz. The wind had blown from the same quarter for some time, and many vessels were wind bound in the bay.

☞ At a Special Meeting of the INDEPENDENT FIRE COMPANY, held at their Hall on Saturday evening, 8th inst. the following Preamble and Resolutions were adopted, viz:

WHEREAS, It is the opinion of this meeting that there exists a coalition between certain members of two Fire Companies in this city, the object of which is to control and keep up a disgraceful warfare against this Company: AND WHEREAS, it is evident, from the testimony before this meeting, that the outrageous attack upon the members and apparatus of this Company on the night of the 6th inst. was the result of a premeditated arrangement of this coalition: And WHEREAS, it is the sincere desire of the members of this Company, that an end should be put to said disgraceful scenes, which not only detract from the character of Firemen, but reflect severely upon the reputation of our city for peace and good order: And WHEREAS, it is evident, from the character of those who compose the coalition, that there is no hope of this being effected by any sense of honorable feeling on their part, for they have shown themselves, in this attack, to be both destitute of those feelings which should actuate Firemen or gentlemen, as of all other correct motives—Therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Delegates of this Company, to the Baltimore United Fire Department, be requested to bring this subject before that body, and request their early and decided action on it.

Resolved, That if the Baltimore United Fire Department fail to render prompt justice in this matter, the President be authorized to call a meeting of the Company to take the matter in their own hands, and adopt such measures for their own protection and the preservation of the apparatus, as the circumstances of the case may require.

Resolved, That a reward of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS be offered for any information which will lead to the detection and conviction of the miscreant who defaced and injured the apparatus on the night of the 6th instant.

Resolved, That these proceedings be published in the Clipper and Sun. JAS. C. LAW, President.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of a most every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the excessive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. BOOZ,

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

THE ST. LOUIS TRAGEDY.—Important Disclosures. By an extra from the St. Louis Gazette office, dated May 1st we learn that disclosures have been made by a colored man named Edward Ennis, who has been for some time in the company of a barber of that city, relative to the murder of Messrs. Baker and Weaver, and the burning of the store of Messrs. Collier and Pettus, which have dissipated the gloom heretofore hanging over the mysterious and bloody tragedy.

The communications it seems, were made to Ennis, by one of the parties, that Ennis being uneasy about it and yet afraid, because of the excitement, and also of the murderers, to tell what he knew, went on Friday last to Butcher, a yellow man, who resides in Brooklyn, on the opposite side of the river, and told him what he knew and asked his advice. Butcher refused to give any advice: on Sunday he went over again and went to Alton, when Butcher communicated the facts to two constables who arrested Ennis, and after taking his statement, came here with the expectation of catching one of the parties, (Warrick,) but he had left before their arrival.

The circumstances of this horrible affair, as detailed by Ennis, are as follows: About 10 o'clock on Saturday night, Ennis went from the barber shop to his boarding house, kept by Leah, a free yellow woman, and Peter Charleville, a free man, on Third, between Market and Walnut-sts. Shortly after he had gone to bed, a negro slave named Madison, came to the door, knocked and was admitted. Soon after being admitted, Madison exclaimed, "G—d d—n the luck," and on an inquiry why, he stated "I have done more murder to night than I ever did before and have not been paid for it;" and after remarking, that there would be an alarm of fire shortly he stated in substance, that he and three yellow men, viz: James Seward, alias Sewell, Warrick, and Brown, had gone on that night to Mr. Pettus' counting room, that the door was unlocked; Madison entered alone, Mr. Baker was sitting down with his boots off, reading a newspaper, Madison walked up and presented a bank bill to him, and asked him if it was good, and as Baker turned to look at the bill he struck him over the head with a short bar of iron which he had concealed under his arm; the others then came in, and they repeated the blows until he was quite dead, his skull and one side of the head completely mashed; after searching the body for the keys, they rolled it up in the bed clothes and placed it in the bed.

They secured the door and went to work on the vault to open it. Whilst at their work, Mr. Weaver came to the door and knocked, and called to Jesse, (Mr. Baker) to let him in. Some dispute ensued between Brown and Madison, which should kill Weaver; and it was insisted that Madison should, as he had killed Baker, but he refused, saying that he had done his share and would do no more. Brown opened the door and placed himself behind it, and as Weaver passed into the room, struck him over the head with the bar of iron; on the second blow he fell, and attempting to rise Brown thrust a sharp iron bar through his knee. Ennis in his statement, does not confirm the report of the firing of the pistols, but says, that having heard that Weaver was shot, he asked Madison about it, and he told him that no pistol had been fired and that they had no occasion but the bar of iron mentioned. From the statement it would seem that all of them had beaten Weaver.

After some further effort at the vault, finding they could not get into it Madison left; Warrick, Sewell and Brown remained a short time, then fired the house in five different places, came out, locked the door and went up the alley north from the house, and threw the key away. Brown took with him a gold watch and a blue cloak, which he said he had thrown away for fear of detection.

It seems from the statements, that Ennis, on the morning following, was in company with all of them and many of the facts he got from others besides Madison: Warrick and Sewell said but little about it. Madison had with him on the morning following, the bar of iron with which the deed was executed, and Ennis having learned the office it had performed, took it and threw it into a privy in the rear of Leah's house. The vault was yesterday searched and the bar found. We understand it proves to be an instrument used in opening dry goods boxes; a chisel on one end and claws on the other, one of the claws partly broken, agreeing fully with Ennis's description. There are many other minor statements but the above is the substance. The communication of Madison appears to have been made without solicitation, and without any injunction to secrecy.

Leah and her husband confirm Ennis' statement as to the time he came home, and the time Madison came in. They heard the conversation, but not sufficiently distinct to understand it. It may be well, however, to remark, as a further confirmation of Ennis' statements, that yesterday Madison's coat was found in the loft of Leah's house besmeared with blood. From all that we can gather, it does not appear that the scheme had been long concocted, or that they had very well matured their plan of operations.

[From the London Court Journal of 17th April.]

FASHIONS FOR THE ENSUING WEEK.

DIRECT FROM PARIS.

The changes of fashions so looked forward to from the fete of Longchamps have not been so remarkable as might have been anticipated, in consequence of the inclemency of the weather; indeed, many of our fair elegantes still keep to their winter habiliments; we may mention, however, that the reign of scarfs is entirely established, whether it be for the promenade or for evening dress, the only difference being in their texture. For the former they are of poult de soie both black and colored; and for the latter, of light gauze or blonde. There is a great degree of uniformity in the present fashion; the hat, the dress, and the scarf, are all of velvet, and of the same shade.

Several of the dresses are ornamented with brandenbourgs, or rows of buttons, with gimp trimming crossing from one row to another, forming a sort of ladder over the bust, and sometimes going down the skirts. The corsages are still worn flat, and the sleeves remain much the same as they have been for the last two or three months. For evening dress, the corsage is made pointed and very long. The upper part is ornamented with folds; and the sleeves, which are mancherons, very short, have engageantes, which fall below the elbow. For visiting dress, pink levantine is much in vogue, the bottom trimmed with three tucks, bound with fringe; over the neck, a scarf of the same. Rose color velours epingle is also much worn in dress. For full dress, skirts of tulle illusion are also worn, trimmed with an embroidery of chenille in colors. The same ornament is placed on the corsage and sleeves.

All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it ready to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 21 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh16-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY, No. 17 HARRISON ST.

"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

☞ Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. m1 tf
