THE PUBLISHER OF THE BALTIMORE DIRECTOR.

After a lapse of a little over two years, with their thrilling vicissitudes of weal and woe, again presents its patrons particularly, and the public generally with a new edition of the book, and in yielding to the almost imperative habit of making some prefatory remarks on such occasions, will be as brief as practicable. The multifarious task of compiling a register of householders' names, with their occupations and locations, is under any circumstances, monotonous, laborious and tedious, and but ill requited, but where the general mass are intelligent, courteous and desirous from a thoughtful appreciation of having such a work as unexceptionable as practicable cheerfully impart the required information, the labor and monotony is greatly alleviated; not that we complain of discourtesy generally, by any means. The head of the family cannot always be at home, and we must take the required information from illiterate servants or children, &c., and in the absence of proprietors of stores, workshops and professional men, we are in no better dilemma. In no case have we ever depended on any other means of getting the information for the Director than by visiting from house to house, though we have endured the ignorant calumny of compiling it from other sources. We barely make these remarks, (unnecessary for discreet, intelligent persons, who are thoughtful enough to consider the difficulties of getting out the work,) and desist from harping on a subject fully and frequently explained here and elsewhere.

We have endeavored to obtain discreet and intelligent men to collect the names, business and location of every householder, have personally transcribed the names in alphabetical order, which has occupied us many tedious months; have gone to the expense of a New Map of the entire city, handsomely printed and colored, and believe the publication as correct and useful as it was practicable to make it, and during the process of printing we have had standing invitations in the newspapers to those who had moved, changed business, &c., to furnish us with their address for insertion, and are in no sense accountable for their neglect to avail themselves thereof; but we have been buffeted by unforeseen and uncontrollable disasters unnecessary to detail, which has defeated some intended arrangements for further improvements in this edition, as well as delayed its appearance before the public somewhat, though we stipulated no given time for its appearance.

This Director contains 30,000 names, 2500 more than the last. In addition to the names, there is a Brief Sketch of Baltimore, which will be interesting—also, a variety of Business cards, which, we judge will be mutually beneficial to those who ordered their insertion, and strangers visiting the city on business, as well as those who reside here in facilitating their knowledge of where they can be accommodated in making purchases, or getting mechanical work done to the greatest advantage.

For the advance in our subscription list, over former editions, we feel grateful, and have printed but few copies over, which we hope to sell. Subscribers, however, will be served with their copies before the work is generally offered for sale.

A SKETCH OF THE CITY OF BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, the third city in the United States in size and population, is situated on an arm of the Patapsco river, 14 miles from its entrance into Chesapeake bay; and 175 miles from the ocean. Its latitude is $39^{\circ} 17' 23''$ N.—longitude $76^{\circ} 37' 30''$ W. from Greenwich, and $0^{\circ} 26'$ from Washington. It is 40 miles N. E. from Washington; 97 S. W. from Philadelphia; 185 S. W. from New York; 398 S. W. from Boston; 160 N. N. E. from Richmond; 228 E. S. E. from Pittsburg; 311 E. S. E. from Wheeling; and 590 N. E. from Charleston.

The arm of the Patapsco on which the city is built, is about three miles long, and varies in width from one-eighth of a mile to a mile and three-quarters, having its greatest width opposite to the eastern extension of the city, called Canton. It affords an easy access to the city, and a harbor sufficiently capacious to contain two thousand vessels. The harbor consists of an outer bay between Fell's Point and Canton, on the north and east, and Whetstone Point on the south, and the inner basin a circular body of water at the head of the stream. The basin is navigable to vessels drawing only ten or twelve feet of water, but the outer portion of the harbor is sufficiently deep to float ships of the largest class. From the facilities afforded by the depth of the water at Fell's Point, it is the seat of the principal ship yards, from which some of the finest and fleetest vessels of the American Marine have been launched. The entrance to the harbor is defended by Fort McHenry, which is situated at the point of the peninsula running between the harbor and the Patapsco river. It is memorable for the successful defence against the British fleet in 1814. A larger fort is now in process of erection at Sollers's Flats, some eight miles below the city.

In 1662, Mr. Charles Gorsuch, a member of the society of Friends, took up and patented fifty acres of land on Whetstone Point. This was the first land patented within the present limits of the city. In 1663, Mr. Charles Mountenay took up two hundred acres on each side of Harford run, and called it Mountenay's neck. In 1663, Mr. John Howard patented the land lying between the heads of the middle and north branches of the Patapsco; and, in the same year, Thomas Cole received a patent for a tract of five hundred and fifty acres extending from Mountenay's neck across the north side of the river one mile; and northwardly from the river about half a mile. He called the tract Cole's Harbor. It was rhomboidal in form, and divided into nearly equal parts by the stream subsequently known as Jones's Falls. Other patentees followed Gorsuch, Mountenay and Cole, and considerable tracts were taken up, from which additions were subsequently made to the original limits of the city.

The first settlement was made in 1652 by David Jones, who became the owner of Cole's Harbor, and gave his name to the stream of water that divided it. His residence was on the north side of the stream, near its junction with tide-water. In 1711, Mr. Jonas Hanson erected a mill near the corner of Holliday and Bath streets, and in 1726, Mr. Edward Fell settled on the east side of the Falls. By a return of the surveyor of Cole's Harbor, this year, it appears the improvements upon the present site of the city were the mill mentioned above, two dwellings, with tobacco houses, out houses, &c.

In 1706, Whetstone Point was made a town, probably in consequence of its proximity to North Point, where the trading vessels generally anchored, so as to be accessible from the different rivers and from the other side of the bay. As the trade increased on the Patapsco, the head of tide seemed to be preferable as a site for a town, and it was proposed to establish a new town at Moale's Point, (Spring Gardens,) between the middle and south branches of the Patapsco. Application for the necessary power was made to the legislature, but Mr. Moale, the proprietor of the ground on which it was contemplated to erect the town, and a member himself of the legislature, preferring to work the iron mines upon his property, defeated the measure.

Excluded thus from the level land, which would have proved an inconvenient location, the site of the new town was sought under the hills and around the marshes of the north-western branch of the Patapsco, and accordingly in the session of 1729, the Assembly passed an act entitled "An Act for erecting a Town on the north side of the Patapsco, in Baltimore County, and for laying out into lots, sixty acres of land in and about the place where one John Flemming now lives."

The homestead of this gentleman was on the east side of south Charles street, one hundred and twenty-five paces from the corner of Market street, near where James R. Williams's dyeing establishment stands. On the 12th of January, 1730, commissioners and the county surveyor laid off the town, which was called Baltimore, in compliment to the proprietary, who had received the name from a seaport in the county of Cork, in Ireland.

About the same time Mr. William Fell, a ship carpenter, and a brother of Edward Fell, bought a tract east of the Falls, called Copus' Harbor, including the present Point, and having built a house on Lancaster street, called the place Fell's Point, from his own name.

In 1732, a new town of ten acres, in twenty lots, was laid out on the east of the Falls, on the part settled by Edward Fell, and was called Jonestown, in honor of David Jones, the first settler. As a settlement had been made here, prior to the laying out of Baltimore, it was called Old Town. Baltimore and Jonestown were united in 1745, under the name of the former, and, in 1747, the legislature enlarged the limits of the town by extending Baltimore proper eastwardly as far as the Falls. In the act by which the addition was made it was expressly provided, that nothing in the act should be construed into a right "to elect delegates to the Assembly, as representatives from the town." We have in this act the beginning of that jealousy of Baltimore, which has always manifested itself in the legislation of the State.

In 1752, Baltimore contained twenty-five houses, and about two hundred inhabitants, after a lapse of twenty-three years. A drawing of the town was made at this time by Mr. John Moale, a son of him who had opposed the location of the town upon his grounds; and this primitive sketch is still preserved in the rooms of the Historical Society of Baltimore.

In 1756, the "neutral French" deprived of their property in Nova Scotia by the British, at the close of the French war took refuge in Baltimore, and were kindly received. They established themselves in rude cabins on south Charles street.

In 1767, Baltimore became the county town, and the courts and records were accordingly removed from Joppa, which had, before that time, been the seat of justice. In 1768, provision was made for the erection of a court house and prison. The former was located on the site of the Battle Monument, and continued till 1808; the latter was on Jones's Falls near St. Paul's lane, and stood till the present jail was erected in 1800.

In 1769, the Mechanical Fire Company was organised, and purchased an engine for $250. This was the germ of our extended Fire Department. In 1773, Mr. William Goddard commenced the first newspaper in Baltimore—"The Maryland Journal and Baltimore Advertiser." A line of packets and stages to and from Philadelphia, was this year established. A theatre also was erected on Albemarle street.

In 1775, Baltimore contained 561 houses, and 5,934 inhabitants. "The Maryland Gazette" was established this year, by Mr. John Dunlap. Forced to flee from Philadelphia in consequence of its possession by the British, Congress removed to Baltimore in December, 1776, and assembled in Mr. Jacob Fite's building on the south-east corner of Baltimore and Liberty streets.

In 1780, a custom house was opened in Baltimore; before that period, Annapolis was the place where registers and clearances were obtained. Thomas Sollers was the naval officer.

The old Market House near the corner of Market and Gay streets being found insufficient for the wants of the community, it was proposed in 1784 to erect a new and larger one, but as they could not agree upon a location that would suit the different views of the inhabitants, it was finally agreed to erect three different houses, the Hanover Market House, the Central or Marsh Market, and the Fells's Point Market. The same year, the streets were lighted, and three constables and fourteen watchmen appointed for the security of the city.

After the close of the war, the trade and commerce of the city increased rapidly, and required increased facilities of communication; and the establishment of lines of packets and stages followed soon after. In 1787, turnpikes to Washington, Frederick and Reistertown were authorised, which were not completed, however, till 1809.

In 1789, a new channel for the Falls was cut, from Bath street to Gay street bridge, and the old course which had run along by the site of the present Court house, was filled up.

In 1792 an accession to the population was made by the arrival of refugees who had escaped from the massacre at Hispaniola.

In 1796, the town having advanced to a high station as a political community, was erected into the City of Baltimore, and the corporation is known as the "Mayor and City Council of Baltimore." James Calhoun was the first Mayor under the new organization.

Perhaps no City in the Union presents more inducements for settlement than Baltimore; the facility for trade and manufacture, which it offers; the beauty of its situation, and its proverbial salubrity, all conspire to render it desirable as a place of business and abode. As laid out, the city includes four miles square, but the part which is compactly built does not exceed about two miles square. The streets are regularly laid out, and generally cross each other at right angles. They are, with few exceptions, of ample width. Baltimore or Market street, is the principal street for the retail trade, and is 86 feet wide. Other streets range from 50 to 100 feet in width. The most fashionable residences are in the neighborhood of the Washington Monument, and on Charles, Franklin and Madison streets.

The population of Baltimore has rapidly increased; in 1790, it was 13,503; in 1800, it was 26,514; in 1810, 35,583, in 1820, 62,738; in 1830, 80,625; in 1840, 102,313, of whom, 21,166 were colored; 17,967 free, 3,199 slaves; in 1850, 169,054, of whom 140,666 were whites, 28,388 colored, 25,442 free, and 2,946 slaves. Of the free inhabitants, 130,491 were born in the United States, and 35,617 in foreign countries.

Education has always attracted much attention in Baltimore, and the number and excellence of her literary institutions afford ample facilities for the mental improvement of the rising generation.

In 1791 St. Mary's College was established, and in 1803 the charter of Baltimore College was obtained. In 1809 Drs. Davidge, Shaw & Cocke, were authorised to raise funds, by lottery, to erect buildings for the Medical College, which had been opened in 1800. The College in Lombard street, was commenced the same year, and completed in 1812. Robert Cary Long, was the architect. Subsequently the Medical School and Baltimore College were united, and raised to the rank of a University, known as the University of Maryland. The Academical Department, and the School of Medicine alone have been put into operation. The latter has always ranked among the best Medical Institutions of the country.

The Washington University was founded in 1828, the Medical School is the only one that has been organised. The Newton University was established in 1845; and the Faculty of Arts organized. In 1849, the Baltimore Female College, in St. Paul street, an institution for the liberal education of young ladies, was chartered by the State of Maryland. Its course of study and arrangement of classes are similar to those of Colleges for gentlemen. The Convent of the Visitation, in Park street, and the Carmelite Nunnery, also have large schools attached to them. Besides these, are many private Seminaries of a high order. In 1829, the first public school was opened, and now there are forty-one schools, with nine thousand eighty-one pupils. The Central High School for Males, and the Eastern and Western Female High Schools afford the means of a liberal education to pupils who have passed through the lower Public Schools.

From her beautiful Monuments, to the memory of the illustrious dead of our country, Baltimore has received the name of the "Monumental City." In 1809, permission was obtained from the Legislature of the State to raise $100,000 to erect a monument to General Washington. It was erected at the intersection of Charles and Monument streets, on a lot given for the purpose by Col. John E. Howard. It is a beautiful Doric column rising from a base fifty feet square, and thirty-five feet high. The shaft of the column is one hundred and sixty feet high, and is surmounted by a colossal statue of Washington, fifteen feet high, making the entire height one hundred and eighty feet. Inscriptions upon the base indicate the date of the important events, in the life of the Father of his Country. The Battle Monument, in the centre of Monument Square, formed by the intersection of Calvert and Fayette streets, was erected to the memory of the citizens who fell in the defence of the city on the 12th and 13th of September, 1814. It is built of white marble, and consists of a square base, with a pedestal ornamented at the four corners with a sculptured griffin. A facial column rises from the centre, with bands, upon which are inscribed the names of those who fell in defending the city. A statue, representing the Genius of Baltimore, with a laurel crown in her right hand, and her left leaning on an ancient helm surmounts the column. The entire height of the Monument is 52½ feet. It was executed by Capellano, an Italian. A third, but much smaller Monument, stands in the enclosure of the City Spring, in Calvert street. It was erected to the memory of Colonel George Armstrong, the gallant defender of Fort M'Henry, in 1814.

Shortly after the war, considerable inconvenience was experienced from the want of some institution of discount and deposit, which led to the establishment of the bank of Maryland, in 1790. In 1792, a branch of the U. S. bank was located in Baltimore. In 1795, the bank of Baltimore was chartered; in 1801 the Union Bank of Maryland; in 1806 the Mechanics' bank; and in 1810, the Franklin, Marine, Farmers and Merchants', and the Commercial and Farmers'. The other banking institutions were chartered within the years 1824, '35 and '36. The Savings' bank of Baltimore was commenced in 1817, and incorporated some years after.

In 1813, the first steamboat, called the Chesapeake, was put on the line to Philadelphia, via French Town, since which time they have multiplied, until they now ply the bay and all the considerable rivers of Maryland. On the 4th of July, 1828, the venerable Charles Carroll laid the corner-stone of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. On the 8th of August, 1829, the corner-stone of the Baltimore and Susquehanna Railroad was laid, on the occasion of a centennial celebration of the settlement of the city. In 1835, a meeting of congratulation was held on account of aid granted by the legislature to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, and the Susquehanna Railroad. The passage of the bill for the Tide-Water Canal by the legislature of Pennsylvania caused like rejoicing in Baltimore. In 1836, the railroad to Philadelphia was projected, and sometime after a railroad to Annapolis, connecting with the Washington branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Many of the public buildings are quite an ornament to the city. The Baltimore Exchange, in Gay street is a magnificent building, and the largest in the city. Its cost was about $600,000. It contains the Custom House, Baltimore Post Office, Merchants' Bank, Exchange Reading Rooms, and sundry offices. The Athenæum, on the corner of Saratoga and St. Paul streets is a noble structure, erected for the accommodation of the Historical Society of Maryland, the Baltimore Library, and the Mercantile Library Association. The Masonic Hall, in St. Paul street, is a beautiful building, erected by the Masonic fraternity in 1813. The Oddfellows' Hall, and Temperance Hall, in Gay street, and the Calvert Hall, at the S. E. corner of Baltimore and Calvert streets, and the Museum, on the N. W. corner, are all handsome structures. Calvert Station, the new depot of the Baltimore and Susquehanna Railroad is an imposing edifice. It stands in North Calvert street and is 315 feet long, 120 feet wide, and supported by 42 granite columns.

The "Mechanics' Institute," over the Centre Market, is a magnificent structure. It was erected by the members of the "Maryland Institute for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts." The building is 355 feet long, by 60 wide. The three story edifice fronting on Baltimore street, contains the Library, Committee Rooms, Offices, &c. The main Hall, which is devoted to exhibitions of American Industry, is 260 feet long. The cost of the structure was about $60,000.

Many of the churches are beautiful specimens of architecture. The Roman Catholic Cathedral is a magnificent building. It is in the form of a cross, and is entirely of hewn granite. It is 190 feet long, and 177 feet broad at the arms of the cross. It is surmounted by a beautiful dome 69 feet in diameter, and 95 feet in height, from the floor to the centre of the arch. Its Organ is the largest in the United States. The other churches most worthy of note are, the Unitarian Church, corner of Franklin and Charles streets, 108 feet long and 78 feet wide; Church of St. Alphonsus, corner of Saratoga and Park streets, Gothic style; St. Paul's Episcopal Church, corner of Saratoga and Charles streets; Grace Episcopal Church, a beautiful gothic structure, on Monument street; the Charles Street Methodist Church, corner of Charles and Fayette streets, and the Presbyterian Church, on the corner of Franklin and Park streets.

Baltimore is celebrated, also for her beautiful Fountains, embowreed with trees, and laid out in handsome walks. They are the Eastern Fountain, on Pratt street; the Calvert street Spring, and the Fountain, in Charles street. In 1809, the Fountain, in Calvert street was erected; and in 1817 the city purchased and improved the Springs in Pratt and Charles street, and placed a Fountain at the head of the Centre Market.

PURE ANTHRACITE COAL, FROM THE CELEBRATED MINES OF
MESSRS. R. FAGELY & CO., SUNBURY, PENNA.

The subscribers have been induced, by the increasing demand for their Coal, to open a Yard for its sale on

Eden street, between Baltimore and Lombard,

Where Families and Manufactories can be supplied with Large, Lump, Broken, Egg and Nut sizes, free from dirt or slate, and at the lowest market prices.

The great superiority of this Coal over all others for family use, consists in its easy ignition, its great purity, burning entirely out without clinker, and the small quantity that can be used at a time gives it a decided advantage over any other Coal in the market, as the quantity used can be regulated to suit the changes of the weather. For generating Steam it cannot be surpassed, and needs only a trial to satisfy the most skeptical.

ELIGIBLE
 FOR
 COUNTRY RESIDENCES, COTTAGES, &C.
 ON THE "HOMESTEAD," HARFORD ROAD,
 1³/₄ MILES FROM THE COURT HOUSE, BALTO.

Public attention is invited to this beautiful suburban village, situated on the Harford Road, where eligible building lots 16x90, fronting on 50 feet streets, and running back to 20 feet alleys, are now selling in fee, without ground rent, or any incumbrance whatever, at prices varying from 75 to $200.

The situation is one of the most beautiful, most healthy, and most convenient of access in the neighborhood of Baltimore, being immediately contiguous to Clifton Park and Darley Hall, the splendid residences of Johns Hopkins and Dr. Troupe on the East; to the estates of the late Wm. Tiffany, Gibson, Taylor and Tinge on the North; to Edward Patterson's and Frisby's on the South, and Huntingdon Village on the West. It is about 300 feet above tide-water and commands views of the city and bay in the distance.

The property extends from the Harford to the York Turnpike Roads, and is intersected by the Quaker Road or Simonton Lane, and by Greenmount or Jenkins's Lane, about $\frac{1}{4}$ of a mile above Greenmount Cemetery. A 60 feet wide street, (Gorsuch Avenue,) is now being laid out the entire length of the property, nearly one mile, preparatory to being graded and paved.

A number of Cottages and Country Seats have already been erected, and many other improvements are in contemplation. A beautiful Protestant Episcopal Church is now erected, to which a School House is attached. The proprietors have also in contemplation, by presenting sites for churches, the accommodation of other religious denominations, and making such other conveniences as a respectable suburban population may require.

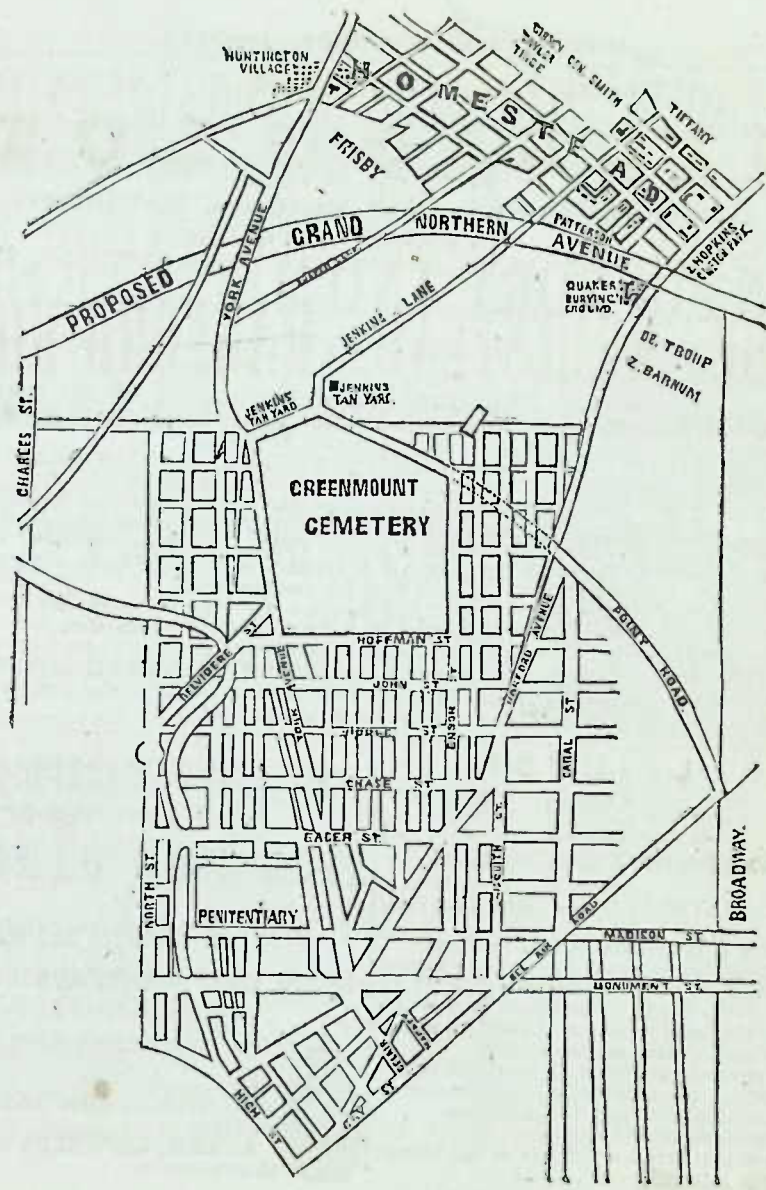

The Surveys for the grand Northern Avenue are laid off within a few hundred feet of the village.

No better investment can therefore be made than by purchasing lots on the "Homestead." The terms of sale, viz: by instalments, extending over two years, are also so easy as not to preclude any one from buying a portion of this eligible property.

The Office of the Association is at No. 1 Fayette street, above Gay, where subscribers for lots can obtain certificates.

JOHN FOX, SECRETARY.

The accompanying plat will show, roughly, the relative position of the Homestead to the city.

DR. J. THORNE,

VETERINARY

FRONT STREET,
BETWEEN GAY AND HILLEN STREETS,
ADJOINING THE BULL'S HEAD TAVERN,

Dr. THORNE does not wish to enter into any detail of where he has been, or what he can do, but for the benefit of those who may be unacquainted with his character as a Veterinary Surgeon, he would simply say, that he commenced his professional career in an English establishment, at the age of 16 and remained till 20; then coming to this country he studied with his late Brother in this city, and after having visited several Veterinary establishments in New York and Philadelphia, he at length settled in the latter city; after an extensive practice of 3 years, he came to Baltimore in 1845, and has carried on an extensive and well known practice in this City, during which time he studied human medicine, which has aided him in the Veterinary Art.

Being thankful for past patronage, he would still ask for a continuation of that practice, on the grounds of ability and moderation; he claims to be able to apply the most energetic and successful remedies, on the grounds of being an accurate observer of the trains of morbid phenomena in horses, aided as he is by the lights of human and comparative anatomy and physiology. And he is determined that none shall exceed him in moderation, as he is not under heavy expenses.

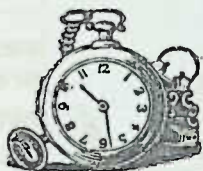

He is happy to announce that his accommodations are second to none, as in the erection of his Infirmary, his sole aim was convenience, facility, and ventilation. His box stalls and wards for sick and lame horses, are the best in the city. Horses can be exercised off the pavement and unexposed to public view.

P. S. Those wishing to avoid expense, can obtain medicine and advice on moderate terms before 9 o'clock A. M.

Cases can be admitted at all hours as the ostler lives on the premises. *

ly informs the citizens of Baltimore, that he is prepared to treat all Hernial difficulties and the diseases to which women are exposed. His arrangements with Mr. SANDERSON proprietor of Dr. HOOD'S TRUSS, as improved, and Dr HOOD'S SUPPORTER, the most simple and effective Instrument in use enables him to meet the several difficulties with full confidence of differs from all other instruments of the kind, is a simple adaptation of the lever to the shape of the body, and to the indications of the disease. Its action from the centre towards the sides, meets the protruding bowel and by compressing the whole of the canal, closes it and the internal opening prevents further protrusion. The SUPPORTER

Which acts upon the same principle of leverage, and by avoiding the rectus abdominus and the several organs immediately located behind it, the pressure is thrown where the support is wanted, and of course the viscera prevented from encroaching upon the organs of the Pelvis. This action which is peculiar, and alone obtained from this instrument, removes one of the principle and most irritating causes of the disease, and by holding the viscera of the abdomen within the cavity, enables them to perform their several functions, and of course the action of the remedies employed in the treatment.

HOISTING MACHINES FOR WAREHOUSES.

The subscriber continues, at his IRON FOUNDRY, to make HOISTING MACHINES of the most improved kind, and guarantees to hoist as much as any other wheel in use. The names of a few firms and individuals are annexed, out of some eighty or ninety for whom I have put up these machines. Refer and look for yourselves.
