DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (If known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The building is a 1-1/2 story, log house with a central hall and end chimneys. The logs are laid up with inverted V-notching; the hall partition walls are also of log and are notched into the exterior walls. The west fireplace has collapsed, but the framing around it is intact. On the interior, the walls have diagonally placed lath and plaster surface. Hewn second floor joists are notched into the log walls. The east room has a small interior chimney for a stove. The lath are applied horizontally and plastered over. The room was later ceiled below the second floor joists since the flooring above is painted.

The log walls attend up to the sills of the second floor windows; the walls are now lathed and plastered but were originally white-washed exposed logs. The loft is ceiled at the level of the collars above the height of the interior log walls; the partitions are vertical beaded boards.

The roof framing consists of rafters half-lapped and pegged at the ridge. The collars are half-lapped and pegged to the rafters.

The exterior sheathing is clapboard.
