DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Overlooking a large cove of Hudson Creek stands a typical early nineteenth century dwelling house which resembles the Howard Farm at the upper reaches of the Creek. Beside the two sections which characterize this area is a smaller wing on the opposite side from the kitchen. On the west facade is a screened porch across the center portion. There are two dormers on the west side of the 'A' roof with an exterior chimney on both gables. The wing seems to be three bays long and has a dormer on its 'A' roof and a chimney on the south gable.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Hardingham House is one of the best of the type on Casson Neck. Other buildings have a different form or have been so remodeled that it is impossible to determine if indeed it is an old house. Nothing is known of its history as there was no response from the owners and it has not been included in the tours sponsored by St. John's Chapel.
