Haiti discounts Dejoie's threats, gets surplus food help from CARE

By MOSES NEWSON

Haiti has been assured that no area country will provide Dr. Louis Dejoie, Cuba-exiled would-be president, with the necessary support for his threatened invasion, a Haitian official said Wednesday.

Brushing off Dejoie's radio threats from Cuba as "a war of nerves," Ernest J. Bonhomme, Haiti's ambassador to the United States, told the AFRO:

"His threat cannot materize unless he gets support from some foreign government. I have assurances that he will not receive that support.

"Such support (for Dejoie) will not come from the United States, it will not come from Cuba nor any of the others in the area."

* * *

IN RECENT weeks, Dejoie, who was an unsuccessful presidential candidate in Haiti's last national election, has intensified his threats to march into Haiti with a 12,000-man army.

He has also predicted that the country's government, which has had a series of presidents mount and tumble, and other outbursts of political fury in the last two years, would fall within a month.

Ambassador Bonhomme said the tiny nation, currently beset with other serious problems, including a severe drought in the northwestern section, will weather the storm.

"The government will stand because it has the support of the people. It came out of a free election—though it was very harsh— and it has the support of the masses," Mr. Bonhomme said.

"Before this," he added, "there was the feeling that politics was an oligarchy. Income or social standing was the main thing."

* * *

MEANWHILE, IN Haiti there were rumors that Dejoie had been ousted from Cuba.

And in New York dissension among his followers was revealed when Dr. Camille Lherisson was removed as secretary general of the Haitian Democratic League and Jacques Balince, acting secretary general, said it was because Dr. Lherisson had "exceeded his authority."

Good news this week for Haiti was the announcement that CARE was dispatching within a few days 3,150,000 pounds of U.S. surplus foods to the country.

Bruce H. McDonald, chairman of the Maryland Committee for CARE, said the food supply would be sufficient to feed 75,000 people for six months in the famished northwestern sector of the country.

First shipments are to leave CARE's Philadelphia warehouse by April 15.

Foods being shipped will include milk powder, corn meal and flour.

Three CARE representatives will administer the program in cooperation with the Haitian Coordinating Council for Voluntary Assistance.

The Haitian Army will provide CARE with trucks and mules to transport the foods into rural areas where roads are non-existent.

Contributions, marked Haitian relief, may be sent to CARE, Monadnock, Baltimore 15.

* * *

THE HAITIAN government has been seeking to get the United States to support a crash program of aid to help ease the crisis in the northwestern sector where lack of rain last year has brought extreme hardship to the natives. Washington observers have concluded that the government will decide to take a course less keyed to the emergency aspect in granting assistance.

Acting in this more normal manner, the U.S. would not leave the impression that government representatives therenow on assistance programs are failing.

Ambassador Bonhomme said his country is "most grateful" for the assistance it is receiving.

However, he said this is not the eventual answer and Haiti must some how get its production and economy in line with 20th Century standards.

Recalling the 1955 hurricane when Haiti had to call for help from other nations, he said: "Any country should have a leeway. Presently, any emergency catches us with our own pants down, all the time with our backs against the wall."

He blamed this situation on over population and the lack of modern machines and methods and a need for greater financial investment in the country.

* * *

THE BIGGEST problem facing the foods program now, Mr Bonhomme explained, is getting it distributed in the mountain areas where there are bad or no roads.

Mr. Bonhomme was in Baltimore to speak at Wednesday morning's student assembly at Morgan State College.

He told the students to place their emphasis on group freedom rather than individual freedom.

Mr. Bonhomme was introduced by Bertine Edmund, a Morgan student from Haiti. Dean George C. Grant officiated.

Also present for the assembly program were Mrs. Bonhomme; Gaston Weel, minister counselor, Haitian Embassy, and Mrs. Weel, and Dr. Joseph H. Thomas, of Haiti's Baltimore consul, and his son, Joseph Jr.

One of the things Mr. Bonhomme made a special point of seeing was Fort McHenry, where the American flag was flying in battle when Francis Scott Key wrote the Star Spangled Banner.

THEY DID IT AGAIN. — Two Morgan State College debaters who last year won the top negative team trophy at Dickinson College, last week won the top affirmative team honors and trophy at The University of Pittsburgh Spring Novice Debate Tournament. The debaters, shown with their trophy, are Hughbye Pierce and Frances Nicholson, both sophomores.

Morgan enrollment spirals despite tougher standards

A more rigorous academic diet and higher standards have apparently proved palatable to Morgan State College students. President Martin D. Jenkins disclosed today.

Dr. Jenkins revealed that enrollment at the college has increased since the new program upgrading standards was introduced despite the fact that over the past three years 808 applicants were denied admission for academic reasons and 985 students were either dropped for poor scholarship or withdrew while on probation.

Moreover, Dr. Jenkins disclosed that a greater percentage of students are now making a more satisfactory academic performance.

The educator's disclosures are contained in a statement in which he reports on the effects of the experimental program upon scholarship and enrollment.

* * *

GENERALLY, the program establishes a mild selective admissions policy, provides for the screening of borderline students at the end of the sophomore year, and requires the dropping of upperclassmen who fail to maintain a "C" average.

A unique feature of the program is a three-track freshman curriculum designed to provide experiences suited to the achievement levels and abilities of students—who may range from those with weak preparation for college to those showing superior potential.

Developed by the faculty over more than ten years of study and experimentation, the program is designed to meet student needs. It was commended by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools when that body re-affirmed the accreditation of Morgan last year.

Dr. Jenkins' report revealed that this year enrollment has reached an all-time high, with 2,273 students registered over 2,171 last year, an increase of nearly 5 per cent.

This increase, Dr. Jenkins notes, has occurred despite the fact that a higher percentage of students who fail to meet entrance requirements are being rejected.

Entrance requirements stipulate that students must have been graduated in the upper three-fourths of their classes or may be admitted by entrance examination.

* * *

THIS YEAR 410 of the 1,770 applicants for admission were rejected for academic reasons, Dr. Jenkins said.

The rejection rate represents a considerable increase over the last five years. In a table accompanying his report, the educator gives these figures on rejections:

144 for 1954-55; 235 for 1955-56; 198 for 1956-57; 210 for 1957-58; 410 for 1958-59.

In commenting upon the increase in enrollment which has accompanied the higher standards, President Jenkins said: "While the findings are not yet conclusive—it seems clear that making our program qualitatively superior is attracting more students and better prepared students to the college."

Figures reveal the enrollment of the institution has been constantly on the increase over the past ten years, jumping from 1,436 in 1947-48 to the present 2,273.

Comparing the Morgan increase with school enrollment increases nationally, as reported by the United States Office of Education, President Jenkins explains that over a ten-year period enrollment at Morgan State College has increased about 2 per cent, almost twice the rate of enrollment increase for colleges generally.

"It seems safe to predict that our enrollment should exceed 3,000 in 1968," Dr. Jenkins said.

He pointed out also that more students are making the honor roll and that freshman classes are scoring higher on entrance work once enrolled in the college.

First salutatorian at Eastern High

MISS HERMIONE HARDIN

Today's children!

There was the day when beauty was enough for any healthy - minded 16-year-old girl, but today, they want brains too.

Filling both these requirements — for good looks and brains — is Miss Hermione Hardin, our first salutatorian at Eastern High School.

A February graduate, Miss Hardin's academic record was almost completely filled with E's (for excellence).

"I was quite happy and quite thrilled, but I didn't expect that much," she said.

"A LOT OF people thought I should have had the top place (valedictorian) but I don't think that's so. I was always given the chance to do so many things at school," she explained.

Although she "didn't expect that much," perhaps you can imagine Hermione's surprise during the last few days of the semester:

"They told me I was one of the top three, but they never tell you your exact standing until it is announced at graduation — that's the tradition there.

"My graduating average was 93.8. The highest was Rosalie Selvage. She got 94. She was a very hard worker — she deserved what she got," said Hermione.

* * *

THE DAUGHTER of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hardin of 2028 Boston Ave., Hermione was a member of the Glee Club at her Alma Mater. She also accompanied the group at the piano at her graduation exercise.

She said she just loved that, too.

During her high school days, she was also a member of the Senior Science Club.

"I was just lover too. When the AFRO arrived "Mistress 'Mugs,' the family's Boston Mastiff, answered the door with his mistress.

Hermione has been accepted at the University of Pennsylvania and plans to enter in the fall.

She wants to be a physicist like her dad, a physicist with the government: at the Army Chemical Center, Edgewood.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Reckling Sr. He is a retired Baltimore school principal.

FRANK D. REEVES, Washington attorney, told Morgan State College men Saturday that their responsibility is to achieve success that will mean leadership for others. Though not yet the time approaches when all men will be judged on worth alone, Mr. Reeves said. Occasion was the annual Men's Day dinner.

Nursing classes

A free class in mother and baby care will be sponsored by the Baltimore Regional Red Cross Chapter Nursing Services beginning Tuesday, April 14, at chapter headquarters, 23rd and St. Paul Sts.

The class will meet once a week for six weeks from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Certificates will be awarded to all those who complete the course.

Indoor tennis classes at YM

Fifteen young tennis enthusiasts are regularly participating in the Druid Hill Avenue Branch YMCA Indoor Tennis Program.

They include Patricia Jones, Mary Pegues, Rose Williams, Etta Petty, Ruth Hunter, Lora Lee Pritchett, Joan Bryant, Jane Harrison, Brookie Davis, Betty Turner, and Evelyn Crockett, all of whom are student nurses at Provident Hospital.

Under the watchful eyes of Wesley Stubbs and his two coworkers, Irvington (Rip) Williams and Joseph Boston, this group of nurses along with Marian Yarborough, Eleanor Pearson, Richard Hobson, and William Dorsey form the nucleus for the tennis program this year.

The group meets on Monday nights from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. for instruction in tennis skills and practice. Persons interested in participating in this year round program may arrange to do so by contacting the Physical Education Department of the Druid Hill Avenue Branch YMCA.

Call Lafayette 3-4464 and ask for Mr. Jubilee or Mr. Freeman.

Dr. Fleming will speak at Howard alumni meeting

Dr. G. James Fleming, professor of Political Science at Morgan State College, will speak during the regular meeting of the Baltimore Chapter of the Howard University Alumni Association at 8 p.m. on April 10, Chesapeake Club, 2216 Eutaw Place.

Dr. Fleming is scheduled to speak on aspects of citizen politics.

Dr. Fleming, veteran researcher, editor of Who's Who in Colored America, a former regional director of the President's Committee on Fair Employment Practice and a present member of Equal Employment Opportunity Commission of Baltimore, has recently been appointed to direct an experimental program of Education and Leadership Training in Public Affairs under the sponsorship of Ford Foundation.

The Association will also make final plans for its annual Baby Contest to raise funds for scholarships.

City schools schedule spring registration

The Baltimore City Public Schools will hold a spring registration on Thursday, May 7 and Friday, May 8, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., and 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m., to permit parents to enroll new pupils for the next school year in the public elementary schools.

Applicants for admission to kindergarten must be five years of age on or before December 31, 1959. Applicants for first grade must be six years of age on or before December 31, 1959.

Parents who plan to register their children on these dates should bring to the school which the child will attend a birth certificate and a vaccination certificate.

Parents who wish to register their children this spring, but who find it inconvenient to do so on either of the above dates, may call the principal of the school concerned for information concerning other registration opportunities.

In addition to the spring registration, there will be an opportunity for registration of new pupils just prior to the opening of the schools in the fall on Sept. 1 and 2.

Improvement funds for U. of Maryland

COLLEGE PARK — A $3,093,100 University of Maryland capital improvement budget for the academic year 1959-60 has been approved by the Maryland General Assembly.

The university's Baltimore campus will receive $1,010,400 for the purchase of building sites and land use planning in general campus development, and $343,500 will go into projects at Maryland State College at Princess Anne.

Of the $1,805,000 approved for the university's College Park campus, $1,134,000 will be used to construct a new dormitory for men, and the first phase of an attached dining hall unit.

Other approved funds include $125,000 to equip the new College of Business and Public Administration Building, $440,000 for the construction of a new Academic Building for the College of Arts and Sciences, $5,000 for renovations and an addition to Taliaferro Hall, and $100,000 to reinforce and extend underground utilities.

CAMPUS NOTES

'The Beatniks'—for them or against them?

By LAVANIA RICE

The previous holiday was kept in a festive mood by several way out "Bohemian" style parties.

To start the ball rolling Leroy Hawthorne gave a set, the sounds were real cool, and the host was the most.

All who attended this little gathering had a boss time.

They were namely: Frank Boston, Helen Flemings, John Quentent, Peggy Parker, Arthur Waters, Jesse Bowers, Anita Brisco, Bernard Bell, Patricia Gales, Francina Bean, Robert Owens, McNair Taylor, Dorsey Skinner, Augusta Williams and Estella Strong.

May be you have never heard of a "Bohemian" Picnic, but if the weather had permitted Easter Monday several of you would have been a witness to one.

The old saying the show must go on, so must the fun. What's wrong with an in-door picnic?

Well that's what Mickey Taylor had. All of the gang had a great deal of fun eating their lunch on the floor, and of course enjoying Mickey's fine collection.

Those were there were Barbara Goldsmith, Beverly Johnson, Barbara Allen, Bernard Stokes, Brenda Bowe, Betty Dawson, Elenora Johnson, Jeanette Eady, Charles Miller and Martha Wainwright.

* * *

PRO AND CON

The newest trend today seems to be, for the males that is, van dykes, dark shades and odd-ball attire. To complicate matters they call themselves "Beatniks."

I decided to ask several young ladies around the campus their opinion of this new trend in dress.

DOLORES HUNT.—"It depends upon who is wearing it (the beard) and also the features and shape of the fellows face."

Delores turned con when speaking of the way the Beatniks dress. She said their attire is sloppy, flashy and "way out."

PATRICIA LOGAN — "I think Beatniks are the swingingness things to hit town. I also think that what this town needs is something different."

The Sigma Omicron Phi, better known as the "Score-Trais" are giving a Bohemian dance on May 1 at the Morgan Christian Center.

The Omega Phi Phi frat at Morgan sponsored a jam show on Saturday at which the Singbads were the featured attraction.

At present the members are preparing for probation and the election. Some of the members hold very important offices on the campus.

Matthew Gillette, president of junior class; Ronnie Owens, quite active in government affairs and a member of the Agelinic Council; Jimmy Ward, president of the senior class.

Personality of the Week—Betty Ann Campbell. Betty is a graduate of Douglass and is now a junior at Baltimore City College.

An arts and science major she is planning to teach elementary school after graduation. Among Betty's hobbies are piano playing and reading. Especially known for her fabulous attire and great personality, she is also an expert badminton player.

Something new in summer fun

Something new has been added to summer pleasure.

It is the Howard Hills Family Vacation Country Club located just 20 minutes from northwest Baltimore in beautiful Howard County near Ellicott City.

The club is for every member of the family and is open seven days a week, June through Labor Day.

Offered at the club are a concrete swimming pool, luxurious beach, bridle path, kiddie playgrounds, canteen, ball field, a well stocked fishing lake and many other attractions.

For a small fee, regardless of the number in a given family, every member of that family can use the facilities of the club all season long.
