STEWART GRANGER and Haya Harareet, as husband and wife, face a domestic crisis in this scene from Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer's dramatic thriller, "The Secret Partner," now playing at the Harlem.

ELIZABETH TAYLOR and Rock Hudson co-star in one of Hollywood's mightiest productions "Giant" now at the Royal. "The Amazon Trader" is an added featurette.

ALDO RAY and Tina Louise declare their love for each other in "God's Little Acre." The film version of the controversial best-selling novel is now playing at the Met Theatre through United Artists release.

FIRST RUN FILMS

'SECRET PARTNER' PLAYS AT HARLEM

"The Secret Partner," now playing at the Harlem, a Metro-Goldwyn - Mayer's dramatic thriller, stars Stewart Granger, Haya Harareet and Bernard Lee in a story mixing sex and suspense, set against a background of modern London.

As Granger's wife, Miss Harareet plays her first film role since her triumph in "Ben-Hur," this time cast a sophisticated, chic and beautifully dressed society woman.

Granger is seen as John Brent, executive of a London shipping company — and a man of mystery.

Blackmailed because of an episode in his past, his wife threatening to leave him. Accused by Scotland Yard of a large scale robbery, he is left with the almost impossible task of proving his innocence, unaided and seemingly against impossible odds.

Miss Harareet is Nicole, unable to understand the strange behavior of her husband, believing him to be involved in an affair with another woman, and turning to Dr. Richford, who makes no secret of his love for her.

This emotional conflict is only one aspect of a dramatic picture that is as profound in its exposition of human relationships as it is exciting in its action.

'GOD'S LITTLE ACRE' PLAYING AT MET

With the publication of a twenty-fifth anniversary edition of two-million copies, Erskin Caldwells "God's Little Acre" reached the ten million mark, and with it the distinction of being the all-time best-selling novel.

This achievement coincides with the motion picture version of the earthy, lusty story of a Georgia farmer and his racy family. The film adaptation of "God's Little Acre" is now playing at the Met Theatre through United Artists release.

Robert Ryan and Aldo Ray share top starring honors in "God's Little Acre," and co-starring roles are played by Buddy Hackett, Jack Lord, Fay Spain, Vic Morrow and Helen Westcott and Lance Fuller, Rex Ingram, Michael Landon, and in a sensational film debut, the red - haired Tina Louise.
