NAB raises money for labor training

The National Alliance of Businessmen has acquired an $89,000 Department of Labor contract for the Skills Development Organization to train 28 disadvantaged persons for the construction industry.

On-the-job training is provided by local contractors while the Skills Development Organization supplies special education, orientation, transportation, and medical and dental services for those enrolled.

The contract became effective April 6 and is slated to run through October of 1972. Norman Sheer, executive director of the SDO, said in announcing the grant that the primary goal of the program is the training and retaining of employees.

"We are concerned with helping persons learn a trade and then keeping them working at it. As soon as a man begins training he is an employee of a contractor and when his learning period is over, he still has a job," said Mr. Sheer.

The local NAB aids businessmen interested in applying for a JOBS '70 contract from the Department of Labor. The cost of training and supportive services are covered by the grant. Seven other contracts have been awarded in the Baltimore area, the NAB reports.

Employers interested in a JOBS '70 contract may contact NAB headquarters at Suite 607, 1100 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore, 21201.

Now, a Chrysler priced $112* less than a Chrysler.
Royal.
Every inch a Chrysler. Yet with Royal, the deal starts $112 less than Newport, previously our lowest-priced series.
A full-sized Chrysler.
The Royal is just as big as our most luxurious New Yorker. And bigger than its competition—Buick LeSabre and Olds Delta 88.
Bigger outside.
Bigger inside.
With a bigger trunk.
And a bigger engine. Royal's 360 V-8 delivers more power, too. Power for freeway cruising without strain. Power for safe passing. All on regular gas.
What's Royal got that Buick LeSabre and Olds Delta 88 don't have?
Royal also gives you a better suspension system: torsion bars instead of coil springs.
The ride is firmer.
More controlled.
On a trip to the supermarket, you might not notice the difference. On a quick expressway lane change or a tight turn, you surely will. The Royal won't sway or lunge.
Outside of Chrysler products, only two American cars have torsion bars—Cadillac Eldorado and Oldsmobile Toronado.
Another difference: Royal's body is welded into a single solid Unibody. It's the strongest way to build a car. And there are no body bolts to work free and rattle.
Buick and Olds use the old body-bolted-to-frame technique.
A Chrysler priced to introduce you to Chrysler.
Yet for all this extra value, Royal is priced just about the same as LeSabre and Delta 88.
Royal.
Coming through with everything you expect of a Chrysler. At a price you don't.
You owe it to yourself to look at Chrysler.
*Based on comparison of manufacturer's suggested retail price of standard Chrysler Royal and standard Chrysler Newport. Including options pictured. Price excludes state and local taxes and destination charges.

My husband just bought me a piece of the Rock.
Our neighbor is a Prudential agent, that's how we found out how little protection we really had.
Now that we have Prudential life insurance, I know the kids and I are protected. We could continue to stay in our own home, and the kids would have enough money for college. Things wouldn't be the same without my husband but... we'd make it. Owning a piece of the Rock is having Peace of Mind. With Prudential... we've got it.
