BO - 427 STEPHENSON A.M.E. CHURCH - 1892 - South side of Quaker Bottom Road, west of York Road at Philopolis. Church is an outgrowth of a cemetery established in 1855 by Azahel Stephenson and other trustees. A deed of 1866 mentions a church. Present cornerstone reads: "Stephenson Chapel, Sept. 18th, 1892 Rev. T. H. Keets, Pas." Church is frame, in two segments; gable roof, small open belfry. Walls covered with two kinds of formstone. Vernacular style.

BO - 428 HUFF HOUSE - 1879 - Northside of Quaker Bottom Road, 0.1 mile west of York Road. Also called Trujay, this granite, hip-roofed structure in functional style was a former schoolhouse (School 9, District 8) built on land acquired in September 1879, from Josiah Price and auctioned off as surplus to John S. Huff in 1960. Built as 24 x 36 feet. Excellent condition. Location called Shaneybrook's in 1879.

BO - 429 JOHN HUFF TENANT HOUSE - 1800-1850 - 14824 York Road, 0.1 mile north of Quaker Bottom Road, opposite Price Store at Philopolis. Small, two-story stone house, three bays wide in vernacular style; gable roof; frame back building. In 1930s or so it was fitted with a frame Greek Revival two-story portico with Doric columns. Holes surviving in the front wall indicate existence of a former second-story gallery. This house was bequeathed along with nine acres by Josiah Price to his servant Mary J. Beatty in 1885. Reacquired by Price family in 1918. Acquired by John S. Huff in1945. Part of 1988 subdivision called "Stoddard," Lot 14.

BO 430 PRICE'S STORE - c. 1833 - (Eastside of) 14821 York Road, immediately north of Quaker Bottom Road, Philopolis. This property has been a one-acre lot since 1833 when Israel Price bought part of tract called "Alfred" from Christopher C. Love. Improvements were assessed at $450 in 1833. It was shown on 1850 map as I. Price's store; on his death in 1861, it passed to his sons, who operated as Price Brothers. In 1876, the brothers made title over to Mary A. and Matilda J. Price, who were unable to pay off a mortgage and were sued by the German Bank. The trustee for the sale advertised: "The improvements are a well built three story brick store and dwelling house used as a grocery dwelling and Philopolis post office." The 1877 atlas shows this as T. R. Price's store, but by then Anton Weiskittel had become highest bidder.
