Description

The house located at 22 South Main Street, opposite the Hess Mill site is a two story, three bay L-shaped brick structure which appears to date from the 1890s. A low stone retaining wall separates the house lot from the street. Bricks are laid in common bond and openings are topped with segmental arches, typical of the 1890-1910 period. The front elevation first story windows are double. Windows have two over two or single pane sash. The entrance is located in the center bay and a porch extends across the front, supported by doric columns and with a turned balustrade.

The roof is covered with standing seam sheet metal and chimneys are located inside the end walls.

This house shows typical turn of the century period brick construction for the region.
