...show how we may collect means for supporting the industries and enterprises now in existence and establishing new ones. If the Negro wishes his children to ...ve preference in business houses and manufacturing establishments, the fathers and mothers of to-day must make the sacrifice, lay a foundation for themselves. If we do not do this for our own children, can we expect white men to build business houses and turn their children out and put theirs in? No political party will ever

Feed and Clothe Us.

We must learn a lesson of economy and protection from the other races with which we come in contact.

You say you are educating your boy, and you want him some day to fill an office. What are you doing to make that office? Do you expect the office to grow out of the ground or descend from the skies?

Or would you have your son some day to occupy a well-furnished office, clerking for a successful business built up at the expense of others' lives, and looking back on your grave say, "My father never did anything to provide employment for his children, he did not even give his patronage to help the infant industries of his race."

You may have money to leave your son, but ...at to build up business houses that he may have an opportunity to invest.

Quit Your Nonsense. Stop Your Fooling and Try to Make a Way for Your Children.

What can a poor man do for his son? He can send him to school, bind him ... trade, and support the infant industries that are now being brought forward, and when he is in his grave his son will call him blessed." Let us put aside all ... and move as one body for the common good. As has been said, we ... fine halls and the churches, and fine dwelling houses. Why can't we ... workshops and large factories, and teach our childrens' hands to administer unto their necessities? The North says, I have helped the Negro long enough, it is high time he had learned to walk. We all had better walk.

The remedy always on hand should be carron oil (equal parts of lime water and linseed oil), common baking soda, arnica, a salve, anti septic gauze, together with absorbent cotton, old linen, cheesecloth bandages and a pair of scissors. Carron oil is a sovereign remedy for burns and scalds, and should always be on hand; baking soda is another very good remedy, and in burns from hot lard will often give relief much sooner than the oil. It is used either dry, or made into a strong solution with water.

Anti-septic gauze is useful in case of cuts. After washing thoroughly to remove any foreign substance, draw the edges firmly together and cover neatly with the gauze. Salve is for slight burns, etc., and serves merely to exclude the air from the tender surface.

Absorbent cotton can be used for burns and scalds serious enough to need bandaging, and should be kept in place by cheesecloth bandages. Other simple remedies may also go in the drawer. Paregoric and peppermint for stomach ache, a never ending complaint among the smaller fry. Jamaica ginger for cramps, hartshorn liniment for sprains, etc. It can be duplicated with good effect in the nursery, and may have added croup medicine from a reliable doctor, flannel bands, a hot water bottle, small syringe and castile soap, good sweet oil for physic, bottle of soda mint and a small collection of the teas which old-fashioned nurses cling to. The small expenditure of time and money necessary to equip these emergency drawers will be repaid a hundred fold in many cases where time is a valuable factor in cures.

Suppose One Can't Sneeze.

Chinese dentists rub a secret powder on the gum over the affected tooth and after about five minutes the patient is told to sneeze. The tooth then falls out. Many attempts have been made by European dentists to secure this powder, but none have ever succeeded in doing so.

Lime.

For heavy land there are few better correctives or disintegrators than lime. It is also useful on light soils, but on clays and marls its effect is most marked. A moderate quantity sprinkled over the clods of clay in trenching will crumble them up as nothing else will do except frost.
