Bride Was Cautious.

The marriage of Mrs. Annie Mary C. Zahm, 32 years old, and Thomas Wood Stein, 42 years old, by Justice Murphy recently in Jersey City, might not have occurred if Stein had not, just before the ceremony, made a will bequeathing to his wife several pieces of unimproved real estate in Flushing.

Mrs. Zahm said to the justice: "I love Mr. Stein, but I can not marry him unless he makes his will. Life is too uncertain."

Stein remarked that a "willful woman must have her way," but said he would make the will.

Mrs. Zahm declared she was not "willful, but cautious."

Plant That Keeps Off Mosquitoes.

There would appear to be some hope for those who suffer from flies, gnats, and wasps in summer time. Capt. H. D. Larymore, who has recently presented a growing specimen of the "mosquito plant" to Kew Gardens, writes thus in the Times concerning it:

"I can personally testify to the extraordinary effect which is produced on mosquitoes by the pleasant odor of its fresh leaves, and by placing two or three growing pots of the plant in each room and along the windward veranda, a house can be kept practically free of those insects.

I am really anxious to know whether the aforesaid "mosquito plant" will flourish out of doors and in this country. If so, its proprietors will probably make a fortune. The "mosquito plant" would be invaluable; but I am terribly afraid we shall presently hear that it will not flourish in the open air in this country.—London Graphic Remarkable Natural Bridge.

Recently a man prospecting in the mining regions of Arizon found a remarkable natural bridge. It spans a deep canyon forty-five feet in width. The bridge is made by a great petrified tree that lies across the gorge. Scientific men say that many ages since this tree was prostrated by some terrific storm and fell across the canyon. By the effects of the water and of time it has passed through many stages of mineralization, and is now a wonderful tree of solid agate. And there it lies, making an agate bridge over which men may pass from side to side.
