AT DAWSON'S PARTY—Vice President-Elect Hubert Hey arrived at the Gramercy Inn on Sunday just as his host, Cong. William Dawson wang. The event was the traditional Inaugura given by the Congresman. Mr. Humphey was delayed in arriving and on learning that Mr. Dawson had just left, he rushed out of the Inn to greet him and to mention how much he is needed in Congress. To the left is Mrs. William S. White of Detroit. (Cabell photo)

FIRST, JUSTICE was the promise that all who made the journey would share in the fruits of the land.

In a land of great wealth, families must not live in hopeless poverty.

In a land rich in harvest, children just must not go hungry.

In a land of healing miracles, neighbors must not suffer and die untended.

In a great land of learning and scholars young people must be taught to read and write.

For 30 years that I have served this nation I have believed this injustice to our people — this waste of our resources — was the enemy. For 30 years, or more, with the resources I have had, I have vigorously fought against it. I know it will not surrender easily.

Change has given us new weapons. Before this generation of Americans is finished, this enemy will not only retreat — it will be conquered.

Justice requires us to remember: when any citizen denies his fellow, saying: his color is not mine or his beliefs are strange and different, in that moment he betrays America, though his forebears established this nation.

LIBERTY WAS the second article of our covenant. It was self-government. It was our Bill of Rights. It was more. America would be a place where each man could be proud to be himself: stretching talents, rejoicing in his work. Important in the life of his neighbors and his nation.

It has become more difficult in a world where change and growth seem to tower beyond the control, and even the judgment, of men. We must work to provide the knowledge and the surroundings which can enlarge the possibilities of every citizen.

The American covenant called on us to help show the way for the liberation of man. That is today our goal. Thus if as a nation there is much outside our control, as a people.

* * *

CHANGE HAS brought new meaning to that old mission. We can never again stand aside—prideful in isolation. Terrific dangers and troubles we once called "foreign" now constantly live among us. If American lives must end, and American treasure be spilled, in countries we barely know, then that is the price that change has demanded of conviction and of our enduring covenant.

Think of our world as it looks from that rocket heading toward Mars. It is like a child's globe, hanging in space, the continent stuck to its side like colored maps. We are all fellow passengers on a dot of earth. And each of us, in the span of time, has really only a moment among our companions.

How incredible it is that in this fragile existence we should hate and destroy one another. There are possibilities enough for all who will abandon mastery over others to pursue mastery over nature. There is world enough for all to seek their happiness in their own way.

* * *

OUR NATION'S course is abundantly clear. We aspire to nothing that belongs to others. We seek no dominion over our fellow man, but man's dominion over tyranny and misery.

But more is required. Men wast to be part of a common enterprise— a cause greater than themselves. Each of us must find a way to advance the purpose of the nation, thus find new purpose for ourselves. Without this, we will simply become a nation of strangers.

The third article is union. To those who were small and few against the wilderness, the success of liberty demanded the strength of the union. Two centuries of change have made this true ag in.

No longer need capitalist and worker, farmer and clerk, city and countryside, struggle to divide our bounty. By working shoulder to shoulder together we can lighten the burden of all.

* * *

WE HAVE discovered that every child who learns, every man who finds work, every sick body made whole — like a candle added to an altar — brightens the hope of all the faithful.

Let us reject any among us who seek to reopen old wounds and rekindle old hatreds. They stand in the way of a seeking nation.

Let us now join reason to faith and action to experience, to transform our unity of interest into a unity of purpose. For the hour and the day and the time are here to achieve progress without strife and change without hatred: not without difference of opinion, but without the deep and abiding divisions which scar the union for generations.

Under this covenant — of justice, liberty, and union — we have become a nation; prosperous, great, and mighty. We have kept our freedom.

* * *

BUT WE HAVE no promise from God that our greatness will endure.

We have been allowed by Him to seek greatness with the sweat of our hands and the strength of our sprit.

I do not believe that the great society is the ordered, changeless and sterile battalion of the ants.

It is the excitement of becoming — always becoming. Trying, probing, failing, resting, and trying again — but always trying and always gaining.

In each generation — with toil and tears — we have had to earn our heritage again.

If we fail now, then we will have forgotten in abundance what we learned in hardship: that democracy rests on faith, that freedom asks more than it gives, and the judgment of God is harshest on those who are most favored.

* * *

IF WE SUCCEED, it will not be because of what we have, but it will be because of what we are; not because of what we own, but rather because of what we believe.

For we are a nation of believers. Underneath the clamor of building and the rush of our day's pursuits, we are believers in justice and liberty and union and in our union. We believe every man must some day be free. We believe in ourselves.

That is the mistake that our enemies have always made. In my lifetime — in depression and in war — they have awaited our defeat. Each time, from the secret places of the American heart, came forth the faith that they could not see or that they could even imagine. It brought us victory. It will again.

* * *

FOR THIS IS what America is all about. It is the uncrossed desert and the unclimbed ridge. It is the star that is not reached and the harvest sleeping in the seed.

Is our world zone? We say farewell. Is a new world coming? We welcome it — and we will bend it to the hopes of man.

And to those trusted public servants, and to my family and close friends of mine who have followed me down the long road, I repeat today what I said on that sorrowful day in November:

I will lead as best I can. But you must look within your own hearts — to the old promises and the old dream. They will lead you best of all.

For myself, I ask only in the words of an ancient leader: "Give me now wisdom and knowledge that I may go out and com: in before this people: For who can judge this, thy people, that is so great?"

FORMILTIMORE MAYOR Philip H. Goodman, cwas having the time of his life at the Mayfldotel ball. With him are Mrs. Margaret phy and Charles H. Wheatley, a Maryland-br.

EXPIOVICE — Mrs. Margurite Belaf of Washington, second from conducted a three-day Elegaroject at Morgan State Colleas a hair styling demonstration to Miss LeVerne Wallace, Miss Delores Watson and Miss Brenda Thompson. The project was one of a series of events held on the campus during Home Economics Week.
