IMPORTANT NOTICE

TO WATER CONSUMERS IN THE NORTHWEST AREA OF BALTIMORE CITY AND BALTIMORE COUNTY

A new 54-inch water main has been installed in the Distribution System, and it will improve water service to all of the consumers in the Northwest area of Baltimore City and Baltimore County. Current water restrictions will be removed as of Wednesday, August 10, 1966 except for those consumers living in the area northwest of the Baltimore County Beltway between Liberty Road and Greenspring Avenue—Worthington Avenue, where alternate day restrictions will be placed in effect on a trial basis. That is, consumers living in even numbered houses will be permitted to use hose streams on even numbered days, and those living in odd numbered houses will be permitted to use hose streams on odd numbered days.

If future tests indicate that the water system in Baltimore County can supply adequate service to the affected area, then all restrictions on water use will be lifted at a later date.

—Deacons coming here

during his career as a merchant seaman — which he has dropped in interest of the "cause,"— revealed a surprising knowledge of the city and of the current seething racial picture.

"We probably would have been here before now but things seemed sorta quiet in Baltimore, so we decided to stay where we were needed most.

"But now . . ." the speaker's voice trailed off into silence.

He explained that the 'but now' has reference to the recent activities of the National State's Rights Party's activities and the frequent appearance of the Ku Klux Klan in the city.

Further indication of his awareness of current affairs was shown in Mr. Smith's knowledge of the present noisy controversy which has brought praise and condemnation on Interim Police Commissioner George M. Gelston.

"I see 'them people' are trying to get the head man in the police department. I understand they don't like the way he's running things.

"You know what that means. Yep, we'll be needed."

The rapid-talking stranger who had found his way to the third floor City Room after all efforts to locate him failed, following reports that he was in the city — was asked how does his group plan to help and why does he think, their help is needed.

"Oh, I don't know," he hesitated. "we just think maybe that when 'they' start chasing us up and down the alleys we just might find an old rusty pistol nearby. it might 'accidentally' go off" he said without changing his facial expression.

HE STRENUOUSLY denied that the Deacons are violent, while mildly protesting that "we just protect ourselves."

Asked if his group had any connection with riots in other cities or the growing popularity of domestic guerrilla warfare, he thought momentarily.

"I wouldn't say that, but if any of us happened to be near the scene we might have stumble over an old wet book of matches which started burning or something . . ."

Like in his address, Mr. Smith was mum on his plans or those of his associates as to steps and the time element involved in their locating here.

"There's just one thing I can say, we've got to move fast," he confided. "As you know they are working on a bill in Washington that would keep us from crossing state lines.

"We must get set-up before it's passed.

Mrs. Smith also denied that the Deacons will be affiliated with any local rights groups in Baltimore.

"A lot of those groups do a lot of talking and issuing press releases. We can't afford to talk. We have to act."

Asked where he could be reached while "surveying" Baltimore, Mr. Smith said wryly:

"Don't you call me I'll call you." He said he was awaiting 'authorization papers' to set up the proposed branch and expected to receive them within a few days.

He also declined to disclose how he expects the document to arrive in Baltimore.

ASKED IF he was met with any civil rights leaders since arriving here, Mr. Smith answered:

"No, we move too fast. You see, the NAACP, CORE, Urban League, and people like that don't bother us and we don't bother them. We likee it that way."

He was asked why he decided to link up with the militant organization.

"It's something I feel inside. It's something I must do. I feel that my life is at stake anyway, so I might as well do what I have to do."

He was asked what if any, material benefits he receives from the organization.

"It's bigger than that. And all of my associates know that if anything happens to me they are to use my body as a stepping stone and keep going."

The self - described emissary of the Deacons arrived in the city at a time when reports are rampant that the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM) is also eyeing Baltimore as a possible branch location.

"No, I haven't heard about it," Mr. Smith answered a question. "I would like to know if they have such plans I like the way they operate."

A reporter, dubious of the 'unusual' name of John Smith, asked to see some credentials.

He took from his pocket a greenish card.

Carrying a Bougaloosa place line and signed by a Joseph R. Henry, secretary, the card showed a $10 fee. Also inscribed was this message:

"Emancipation Dues For Deacons."

Prior to his illness, he was a truck driver for a lumber firm.

Funeral services will be held 1 p.m. Saturday at First Abyssinia Church.

Pert secretary seeking 'Miss Beaux Arts' title

As balloting increases in the Miss Beaux Arts contest, jointly sponsored by the Baltimore Urban League Guild and The F. and M. Schaefer Brewing Co., finalists are participating in a series of motorcades through the Baltimore community to garner their share of the votes.

This week the six young and attractive contestants took their campaign directly to the voters. They will on Aug. 13, 20, and 27; Sept. continue personal vote-getting on Aug. 13, 20, and 27; Sept. 10, 17, 24; and Oct. 8.

The winner will inherit the crown from last year's winner, Miss June Thorne, and will also receive a career headstart with a one-year modeling and personal appearance contract from Schaefer plus a $1,000 cash award.

Among the six finalists is lovely Mrs. Shirley Pollard, a native Baltimorean. Mrs. Pollard's childhood ambition was to become "a top flight fashion model."

After graduating from Western High School she attended the Precola Devore School of Charm in Washington, and has done some modeling.

SHIRLEY'S QUALIFICATIONS are not limited to her physical attributes. She has completed a course in medical terminology and anatomy at the Johns Hopkins Hospital and has also helped administer psychological testing at Johns Hopkins University.

Giving a sample of her philosophy, Mrs. Pollard said, "I am and always have been interested in helping people in whatever way I can."

This interest led her to her present position as secretary to Parren J. Mitchell, director of the Community Action Agency.

In spite of her myriad of interests, Mrs. Pollard still makes sure that her role as She is married to a career a wife and mother come first. soldier stationed at Ft. Meade, and they have a seven-year-old son.

Balloting in the Miss Beaux Arts contest will continue through Oct. 8. The winner will be announced at the Beaux Arts Ball Oct. 28.

Come see Tecumseh

Tecumseh is probably the most famous Indian this side of Sitting Bull. His reservation, in case you didn't know it, is the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis.

There is so much for the whole family to see and enjoy in this colorful old town. You can delve into history, or take a sail on the serene Severn.. Walk the picturesque docks or stand before John Paul Jones' crypt. Explore the State House, the oldest state capitol still in use, or the graceful old mansions of another age. Name your pleasure . . . and Annapolis has it!

There are many delightful places to stay in and around Annapolis, but be sure to call ahead for reservations. After 8 p.m. weekdays and all day Sundays, you can make a three-minute station call to any place in Maryland for only 40 cents or less.

This summer, come to Annapolis—for a weekend or vacation. And be sure to bring your camera. Chances are, you'll want to take Annapolis back with you.

Prize Fund falls short

With a little more than one week to go before prizes are to be distributed at the closing ceremony of the 32nd annual AFRO Clean Block Campaign, the Prize Fund stood at a disappointing low of only $1,253.75.

Directors of the campaign were pleading late Thursday for a splurge of last minute contributions that will push the total to at least $2,000.

Closing exercises will be held at the Prince Hall Masonic Temple Aug. 21, 1301 Eutaw Pl.

WITH THE HOPE that a large number of civic-minded citizens will come to the rescue, Mrs. Jeanette B. Leath, director, has designated this week as "Dollar Week."

"A response of 300 or 400 persons giving $1 each would give a real shot in the arm to the badly sagging Prize Fund," she said.

MAIL ALL contributions to AFRO Clean Block, 628 N. Eutaw St., 21201.

Help for the Prize Fund this week comes from adams Realty Brokers, $10; Mr. and Mrs. Granville Winborne $5; William Mercer Jr., $10; Elroy O. Wilson, $5; Emmanuel C. Linda Davis was kept busy at the refreshment stand. Joseph House, assistant manager, was also present. Robert Colbert Jr., was projectionist and Norman Jenkins ushered.

Clean Blockers will be treated to another movie at the Biddle on Thursday.

BLOCKERS GATHERED Wednesday at the Harlem Theatre, Gilmor St. at Harlem Ave. where they were greeted by Harold Grott, manager, and Harry Manley, assistant.

Three cartoons "Tom and Jerry," "Woody Woodpecker" and "The Sound of Racing," plus "Somewhere In The South Pacific," made up the bill of fare.

Projectionist was William Carter. Thelma Williams was at the concession stand while Meredith Gilmore served as usher.

Parents who are unable to register their children on one of these days may do so at any time when the school office is open for business.

Pupils who will be five years old on or before Dec. 31, are eligible for kindergarten enrollment and those who will be six years of age on or before Dec. 31, may register for Grade 1.

Old Taylor Presents: Ingenious Americans

#2 in a series

Garrett A. Morgan (1877-1963)

It took a disaster to prove his invention.

On July 25, 1916, a tunnel explosion trapped over twenty men working 218 feet below Lake Erie. The huge clouds of smoke, gases, dust and debris made it impossible for anyone to search for survivors. Just as it seemed hopeless, someone remembered hearing about a man named Morgan and his invention. It seems Garrett A. Morgan had been trying to interest Ohio manufacturers in his device for a long time. It was the "gas inhalator," or gas mask, as we know it today.

Morgan was summoned and quickly arrived with his brother and two gas inhalators. Together they descended into the suffocating blackness. The crowd waited silently at the surface. Could anyone penetrate the smoke and gas and come out alive? Finally, Morgan emerged carrying a survivor. Again and again he returned to the hole until he had saved over a score of workmen. This remarkable feat not only drew publicity to his invention, but marked him a hero as well.

Morgan didn't stop there. In 1923 he patented another device—one that may annoy us at times, but has undoubtedly saved many lives—the electric stop light. He sold the rights to a large corporation.

Morgan was awarded a gold medal by Cleveland for his heroism in the tunnel explosion, and settled down in that city where he continued the work he loved.
