School 138 kindergarten closing

What a big day it was for the Kindergarten children at School No. 138 when they had their closing activities. The program included songs, poems and dances that were the highlights of each month since they came to school last September.

Each child marched proudly to the front and received his certificate of Merit that enabled him to go to the first grade. Mrs. Osie Curbeam called the names while Mrs. Delores Young shook each child's hand and presented the certificate. Miss Gladyce Gardner, principal made the closing remarks.

Over 40,000 enroll in Summer School

School for some boys and girls is over until next fall. For many fortunate youngsters and oldsters, however, their educational growth began again Monday.

Summer programs and projects will be conducted all over the city from the outskirts of Patapsco Ave. to the heart of the city, at Saratoga and Mount St.

Over 40,000 youngsters are involved in activities conducted in 110 of the 215 Baltimore City Public Schools.

"Kids" from four to eighty-four are participating in one of the many programs. One such project is called Early Admissions.

Here, four-and five-year olds limited in their development by environmental factors beyond their control, are provided stimulating experience which will accelerate their intellectual growth.

Another project is the Parent Involvement Program (PIP) created for parents of pupils attending schools funded by the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA).

Its purpose is to motivate children by involving their parents in the school programs where they attend.

* * *

MOST OF the summer programs and projects consist of a variety of activities designed for improvement of reading, speaking, writing, and listening skills. Tours of interesting places such as Fort McHenry and Cylburn Gardens have been planned.

Children will also be given the opportunity to enjoy culturally enriching performances by such renowned groups as the Baltimore City Ballet, Boswell Puppets, and the Lyric Ensemble.

Through all of these experiences, it is hoped that youngsters will gain a better self-image and understanding of the world in which they live.

Funds estimated for the operation of the many summer programs and projects amount to approximately $4.2 million.

The bulk of these funds is provided by the Elementary and Secondary Education Act Title 1 (federal aid for economically deprived and educationally disadvantaged children and youth). Other sources include nonfederal grants and Baltimore City tax monies.

Employment of a staff of over 3,000 including teachers, librarians, nurses, doctors, dentist, psychiatrists, psychologist, audiometrists, social workers, food service personnel, and aides will be working together to assure youngsters of a profitable summer experience.

The Last Vietnam.

We talk of Vietnam as we once talked of Korea.

"Let us drag ourselves from this quagmire, and we will live happily ever after..."

I am afraid that the next President will not escape so easily.

I say, learn from Vietnam or be doomed to repeat it.

Our Vietnam policy was meant for the 1940's, for Western Europe, for the defense of democracies.

Yet we apply it in the 1960's, in Southeast Asia, in defense of a people who do not know what democracy means.

And in wrapping this policy around Vietnam, we blinded ourselves to the real Vietnam. We assumed the enemy meant to seize land. We were wrong. He meant to disrupt government.

We sent troops in overwhelming number. We were wrong. We shattered a small country's sense of responsibility.

We were preoccupied with the changing premiers and presidents in Saigon. We were wrong. It was in the village and countryside where government failed.

Now, peace talks give us a time to right those errors.

To stop turning this war into an American war. To move Saigon toward reform. To build a strong and trusted village government. To secure the people from terrorism.

And in Paris, to work patiently and persistently for peace.

At home, we must have candor and trust. Americans must believe in government again, and government must believe in Americans. The day must pass when press officers say, "The people I work for don't want to hear bad news."

I say, face the truth. Trust the people with the truth. I say, do not fight change. Guide change.

I say we can make this Vietnam the last Vietnam.

And this is one reason why I run for President.
