Pedestrians warned on safety

Fifteen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the State Police.

Eight of those killed were drivers, one was a passenger, and six were pedestrians. Alcohol was a contributing factor in three of the deaths, speed in three, and "driver error" in eleven.

"Last week six pedestrians were killed on Maryland roads," noted Lt. Col. W. H. Conroy, deputy superintendent of the State Police, "and in four of the cases the person walked directly into the path of the vehicle.

"Pedestrian safety is a very important area of the overall highway safety picture," continued Lt. Col. Conroy, "and pedestrians, as well as drivers, have a responsibility to obey the rules of the road and the rules of common sense."

Group seeks sales tax hike

A group called the Committee For Fair Taxation is urging an increase in the state sales tax of from three to five percent, to guard against an expected property tax increase.

Petitions are being circulated among citizens for signatures to be forwarded to Mayor Thomas J. D'Alesandro 3rd, the City Council, Gov. Marvin Mandel and the General Assembly.

Committee's plan on the proposed increase is to have the additional two percent returned to the subdivision in which it was collected for use "as their budget requires."

The group's headquarters is at 425 E. 31st St. BE. 5-4446.
