Economy meals for good eating

Let's hear it for the underdog.

In this case, that means rice. Whereas some foods — like sauces — are good over other dishes, rice is one food that works wonders under other dishes. Under chicken, turkey, beef, or pork a bed of steaming rice is a perfect mate for gravies and herbs.

In November, rice heads the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Plentiful Foods List. This year's rice production is large and slightly above last year's, being estimated at 84 million hundredweight.

* * *

Economical rice is an excellent food buy. To conserve its vitamin and mineral content, don't wash or rinse rice before or after cooking. And cook it in only just enough water.

As a base for other dishes, rice can easily be dressed up to add new appeal. Before serving, combine the rice with sauteed onions, peas, or — for a touch as colorful as tasty — cranberry sauce (use the wholeberry type).

Besides soaking up gravies so that their wonderful flavors aren't wasted, rice really comes into its own in soups, puddings, salad molds and side-dishes. Now is the time to be inventive.

Here are some rice storage tips from USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service:

Uncooked rice keeps well at room temperature when placed in a glass or metal container with a tight-fitting lid.

* * *

Freezing: Rice can be frozen plain or with any foods that will freeze. It keeps well for about six to eight months.

The following menu provides a day's good eating and makes use of rice and other plentiful, moderately-priced foods:

BREAKFAST
Prune-Cranberry Juice Cocktail
Scrambled Eggs
English Muffins
Milk
Coffee or Tea
LUNCH
Tomato Soup
Pear and Cottage Cheese Salad
Milk
Coffee or Tea
DINNER
Roast Chicken
Creamed Corn
Green Beans
Chocolate Angel Puff
Rice Pudding

Coffee or Tea

It wouldn't be a bad idea to memorize the recipe for Chocolate Angel Puff Rice Pudding; there'll be so many calls for encores.

The recipe requires 1½ cups cooked rice, ½ cup milk, ¼ cup sugar, ¾ teaspoon cinnamon ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 16 oz. pkg. (1 cup), semi-sweet chocolate morsels, reserve 1 tablespoon for decoration-optional), 2 egg yolks, 1 cup milk, and ¼ teaspoon salt.

Preheat oven to 325 degree F. Combine rice, milk, sugar, salt and spices, and bring just to boil over moderate heat stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in semi-sweet chocolate morsels till melted. Beat in egg yolks one at a time. Stir in milk.

Pour into 1½ quart casserole. Bake at 325 degrees F. 40 minutes. Remove from oven, stir pudding to distribute rice. Prepare meringue.

Make a meringue with 2 egg whites, ¼ cup sugar, and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Combine egg whites and vanilla, and beat till stiff but not dry. Grdually beat in sugar till stiff and glossy. Drop by teaspoonfuls around edge of pudding. Sprinkle reserved chocolate morsels over meringue. Bake at 325 degrees F. 15 minutes.

Yield: servings.
