Church sponsors calendar

A 1974 calendar featuring the works of 12 prominent Baltimore black artists has been published and is for sale in the area.

A first of its kind, it is ideal as a date book and directory of significant local black events, luminaries' births and deaths and traditional holidays.

The calendar is sponsored by St. Francis Xavier Church, and sold on a non-profit basis by Hutzlers downtown, Towson and Westview stores; Joseph House Gifts, 227 Park, and Newman Book Shop, 212 N. Liberty at $1 each.

Woodlawn HIGHlights

By MARJORIE R. GREEN

MRS. GREEN

Thursday, November 29, 1973 was a day that will be remembered by Albert Jones Case Control Analyst in SSA. It was the day that the Security Toastmistress club proclaimed him an honorary member. Al Jones is the first man to be so honored.

The proclamation read that he had taken a particular interest in the Security Toastmistress club since its inception. It mentioned the many times he had given his time, money and talents to make the club programs successful.

It also recalled how he had assisted members in receiving recognition from Management by involving the Toastmistress club in Toastmaster - Management sponsored Student Aid and Principles of Speech courses as instructors; and how he actively recruited new members for the club.

For this outstanding record of service the club unanimously decided to proclaim Al Jones, Honorary Member of the Security Toastmistress club for the year ending July 31, 1974.

Terri Nowinski, 2nd vice president in charge of new members, made it known in her introduction that the club expected Al to be an active honorary member. This was emphasized clubs manuals and magazines.

when she presented him with the

In response to Ms. Nowinski's request that he say a few words, he demonstrated his Toastmaster training when he opened with "A good speech is short enough to be attractive and long enough to cover the essentials, but I didn't come prepared to make a speech today."

The club members and visitors listened intently as he quickly and quietly expressed gratitude for the honor bestowed upon him.

Al is a Charter member of the BDI Toastmasters Club and is currently serving as publicity chairman for the D'strict.

Visitors joining in the discussion and refreshments that followed were Dorothy Joyner, Karen McGlothern, Mary B. Jones, Paula Franklin, Samuel Danoff, Wes Sterns and John Krofka.

Among members present were two past presidents: Mesdames Betsy Lutz and Pat Heilmann who presided.

Other club members attending were, Mesdames Mary Briley, Genevieve Wilson, Antonia Sharp, Sylvia Williams, Anna Christmas, Mae Dickoff, Margaret Lee and Gwen Reid, treasurer; also Shirley Thornton, president, Jackie Tallaferro, 2nd Vice President, Alma Dolin and Elnora Aquilla.

Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett and John Cappelletti a 'soul shake' for an Italian winner

Blacks in Heisman voting don't win but create stir

By Sam Lacy

John Cappelletti won the 1973 Heisman Trophy with little difficulty.

The Penn State running back, who will be on view against LSU in the Orange Bowl, Ne Year's Day, swept three of the five sections of the country in the balloting, thus running up a lusty margin over the contending field

But black candidates for the honor, which symbolizes the best in collegiate football, created quite a commotion in the wild scramble beneath the Italian winner.

(1) They produced the first interior lineman in 13 years to pose a serious threat to win in Ohio State tackle John Hicks;

(2) They garnered six of the ten top positions in the point totals;

(3) They were thwarted only by Cappelletti in the bid to put together back-to-back wins for black athletes;

(4) They included among the candidates a freshman, one of only three ever considered in the 39-year history of the balloting.

Hicks finished as runner-up to Cappelletti. The senior blocker who was responsible for much of the success of the explosive Buckeye runninz game, gained the highest ranking for an interior lineman since 1960, when Minnesota's Tom Brown finished second to Heisman winner Joe Bellino of Navy.

Joining Hicks among the top ten point-getters were: Roosevelt Leaks of Texas, third; Archie Griffin of Ohio State, fifth; Lucious Selmon of Oklahoma, seventh; Woody Green of Arizona State, eighth, and Kermit Johnson of UCLA, tenth.

Had any of these men won, it would have marked two Heismans in succession for blacks. Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska, was the 1972 choice.

Just outside the circle of ten was Tony Dorsett, the talented young freshman running back from Pittsburgh.

Never has a first-year player won the award, and rarely has one been sufficiently well rewarded to be even nominated.

As Cappelletti is scheduled for an Orange Bowl appearance, five of the others mentioned here are listed for post-season play.

Hicks and Griffin are members of the Ohio State team that will battle Southern California in the Rose Bowl.

Leaks' Texas teammates will meet Nebraska in the Cotton Bowl, but he may not play because of a knee injury.

Green of Arizona State, and Dorsett of Pittsburgh will be on opposite sides of the fence in the Fiesta Bowl, Dec. 21, at Tempe, Ariz.

A special meeting of The Maryland Conference of the American Association of University Professors will be held on the Goucher College campus Saturday, Dec. 8.

IF EVERYONE DIALED DOWN 6°, IT WOULD SAVE 22 MILLION GALLONS OF HEATING OIL A DAY.

AND THERE WOULD BE COMPARABLE SAVINGS OF NATURAL GAS AND ELECTRICITY, TOO.

The President of the United States has urged all Americans, whether they heat with oil, gas or electricity, to dial down their thermostats 6° to help conserve heating fuel. If everyone does – homes, offices, factories, schools, government – the savings would be immense. On a cold day, heating oil consumption alone would be reduced 22 million gallons. A tremendous amount of natural gas would also be conserved and could be used to relieve the shortage of petroleum products. That's enough to make the difference between a serious shortage and a moderate one.

DIAL DOWN TO 68°

For every degree the thermostat is set above 68°, it increases fuel consumption about 3%. So, if you keep your thermostat at 68° during the day, you're conserving a substantial amount of heating fuel.

If you dial down even lower when you go to bed at night, you'll be saving even more. And, if you go away over the holidays, dial down to 55° so you don't waste fuel overheating an empty house.

THE GASOLINE SHORTAGE: WE BEAT IT WHEN EVERYONE USED A LITTLE LESS

Last summer, most people hardly felt the effect of the gasoline shortage. Many questioned if there really was a shortage after all.

The fact is, the shortage never got as bad as feared because people did conserve gasoline. Little things – like driving slower, avoiding jackrabbit starts and combining trips – reduced consumption enough so that few people ever experienced serious difficulty in getting gasoline.

If it worked last summer, it can work this winter. If each of us just uses a little less, there'll be more for all of us. Enough, hopefully, so that no one need suffer.

THE ALTERNATIVE: EMPTY SCHOOL ROOMS AND FACTORIES

If we don't conserve, something has got to give. There just won't be enough fuel to heat everything that needs heating.

Schools will close. Businesses will be forced to shut down.

And, since many electric utilities use heating oil to generate electricity, the shortage of fuel may cause brown-outs. Especially over the holidays when Christmas trees and more cooking and baking increase the demand for electric power.

WHAT AMOCO IS DOING TO EASE THE SHORTAGE

We are producing as much heating oil as we can, and investing heavily to produce even more.

We spent more money in 1973 exploring for new sources of oil than in any other year in our history. And, in 1974, we'll top that record.

We're currently adding 4 huge tankers to our fleet and recently announced plans to add 7 more.

An $88 million investment is being made in our Texas City, Texas, refinery to increase its capacity for handling foreign crude.

A $2.5 million investment is being made to increase pipeline capacity. We're enlarging our storage capacities for heating oil in those areas of the country where extremely cold weather is likely to occur. We are telling all Amoco employees to dial down, both at home and at work. We are urging other businesses to dial down, too. We are reducing the electric lighting in our offices.

And, we're running ads like this one, urging everyone to conserve heating fuel wherever possible. The ads can't create more oil, but they can help make the oil there is go farther.

MAKE YOUR NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION EARLY: DIAL DOWN NOW

Every day people don't conserve there's just that much more heating fuel used, and that much less to get us through the really severe winter months.

So dial down today. And stay dialed down until the threat of shortage has passed. And, check your home for other ways to conserve. For a free booklet, on what to do, contact your Amoco heating fuel man, or write: Heating Fuel Conservation, Amoco Oil Company, MC 1506, P.O. Box 6110A, Chicago, Illinois 60680.
