AMERICAN FINANCES.

From the London Times.

The destiny of America is either to undergo an enormous financial disaster, or to found on the ruins of the old a new school of political economy. Her present system of finance is entirely irreconcilable with the principles of what Mr. Carlyle delights to call "the dismal science," and either that dismal science or the present state of things in America must be overthrown. The world is not wide enough to hold them both. Every mail that reaches us from America, though it brings with it abundant proof of the very sensitive nature of the New York stock market and the upward tendency of gold, is filled also with reproaches addressed to us by the American Press for doubting the stability of a state of things which has obtained the support of the people of the United States, which still commands their unlimited confidence, and has certainly been able to maintain itself and the war, of which it is at once the parent and the offspring, in a manner quite unexampled in the history of the world.

The American Press does not, indeed, give itself the trouble to refute the reasoning by which its English contemporaries seek to prove the instability of the vast fabric of credit which has been reared in the United States; they content themselves with an appeal to facts:—"You talk of depreciation. Look at our share list. See how we have been able, without embarrassment to anybody, and to the great gain and advantage of many well deserving citizens, to raise our army from 17,000 to 700,000 men, to create a flotilla which has blockaded the coasts and swept the rivers of a continent, and to carry on war on a scale of which the world has hitherto seen no example. You talk of depreciation and discredit. The confidence of the public in our stocks is inexhaustible. We have just issued 30,000,000*l.* sterling of inconvertible notes, and are about to issue 30,000,000*l.* sterling more, most of the latter being for small amounts, and destined to supplant the use of silver even in the transactions of ordinary life. We have discovered a vast mine in our own confidence and our own ingenuity. Let the States of the Old World embarrass themselves with the gold and silver, and chill the martial ardor of mankind by the imposition of taxes; America scorns such antiquated expedients. Has she not paper and a printing press? Does not promising to pay do just as well as paying, and cost much less? France may repine at her deficit of 40,000,000*l.*, England may murmur over her Army and Navy Estimates, Austria may evince unmistakeable tendencies towards bankruptcy, but America smiles at the weaknesses of old and enfeebled States, and is able to dance under burdens which bow the heads of the old and decrepit nations of Europe to the very earth."

What are we to say to all this? We have but our old-fashioned creed and our Old World experience. Let us, as some palliation for the errors into which we are so confidently alleged to have fallen, state a few of the doctrines which have reduced us to this pitiable state, and drawn upon us the general contempt of the papers that enlighten and represent the public opinion of America.—We have, then, we freely confess it, up to the present time always believed that wealth is the accumulated result of human labor; that the wealth of a nation is the aggregate of the wealth of its individual citizens; and, consequently, that a nation is rich in proportion as it is laborious and parsimonious, and poor in proportion as it is idle and extravagant. We have always believed that a nation's credit was in proportion to its wealth, and that it is impossible, for any long period, to found credit on any other basis. We have always supposed that nobody would be willing to exchange wealth except for wealth, either in possession or prospect. We thought money meant gold and silver, or paper, as their representative, convertible at any time into gold or silver; and we have ventured to hold that paper not convertible into gold or silver, though it may circulate without depreciation up to a certain point, is in itself worthless, and exposes the nation that puts its trust in it to the most dreadful calamities. We have further observed that there are some uniform features which mark every financial crisis. There is an unreasonable confidence in some particular kind of investment, and there is, from some cause or other, either from the indiscreet operations of banks or from some other inflation of the circulating medium, or from undue individual credit, a great facility of obtaining the means for such purchases. These are in the main, expressed briefly, the principles which have led us to doubt the stability of American finance, and we confess even now, after their triumphant refutation by the New York Press, and the severe censures which have fallen on ourselves, we cannot but think they have a considerable plausibility.

Let us now turn to the state of things we have found in America, and see whether, if these principles be true, there was not enough to justify their application. We saw a great country too recently settled over a great part of its surface to admit of any great accumulation of capital in the hands of its population. We saw that population flinging aside a highly productive industry, in order to lead a life divided between an inert consumption and the active and wasteful destruction of the capital of the country. We observed that the persons thus withdrawn from the production and accumulation to the consumption and destruction of capital were rewarded for this wasteful application of their energies at an enormous rate, the pay of a common soldier being equal to that of an officer of the European army. We conceived that this great destruction of wealth, attended with this vast increase of expenditure, must be destructive to the national credit, and, in fact, the mere prospect of it, before the process of destruction and expenditure began, had that effect; but when the contest grew warm and the passions of mankind were fairly aroused the credit of the country improved. We observed that while the expenditure was estimated at £1,000,000 sterling a day, but was probably at least double that amount, the people availed themselves only of their credit, and did not take, and have not up to the present moment taken, upon themselves any burden whatsoever.

We knew that military success was one thing and financial security another, and we thought taxes would be a better security for revenue, and consequently for payment of the interest, than victories. We had, besides, and have still, the gravest doubts as to the ability of the Central Government to enforce upon so many almost independent States the payment of a heavy amount of taxes. We thought we saw reason for believing that the West, poor and warlike, would think it had done enough in breaking the long line of the Confederates, and would refuse to bear its share in the heavy general burden, and we were confirmed in this view by remembering how very light is the taxation to which America has hitherto submitted, and how totally new and unprecedented is the notion of the payment of a direct tax to the Central Government. We had also great misgivings—first, as to the power of the North to subdue the South, and then, supposing that feat accomplished, as to the possibility of raising any revenue from that exhausted territory, or of reducing establishments imperiously required to keep down a population annexed by the sword and chafing under the feelings of subjection and degradation.

Such was our view of the financial position of America. With the exception of the absence of taxation, most of these evils were inevitable, and not on that account the less real or the less formidable. But to these inevitable evils the Government of the United States, with, so far as we can see, the unanimous assent and approbation of the people and the Legislature, has seen fit to add other evils of its own creation. The disorder of the financial departments has rivalled the peculations and irregularities in the departments of expenditure.—The revenue has been raised, some of it by the issue of stock, and a good deal by the circulation of certificates of indebtedness, to the amount of which there seems to be no check whatever. The Government has, besides, issued its promises to pay to the amount of 30,000,000*l.* and seems to contemplate the issue of 30,000 000*l.* more. The Banks, determined not to be outdone in the race, are all issuing inconvertible currency, at the rate, it has been computed, of two dollars for every one issued by the Government. This enormous creation of a fictitious circulating medium, neither valuable itself nor convertible into anything else that is valuable, coincides with a point of time at which trade is at a standstill, manufacture is paralyzed, agriculture is deprived of its needful hands, and commerce is stagnant. There is no legitimate use for all this vast creation of money, but Government has found for it an employment. It has created vast quantities of worthless stock, and it has created vast quantities of worthless counters to gamble with. The whole activity of the nation, which ought to find a legitimate development in the promotion, production, and accumulation of wealth, is employed in purchasing the right to become creditors of a ruined State with the worthless imitation of money.

We cannot regard this as a sound, and we do not believe it will be a permanent, condition of affairs. The whole basis rests on credit, and that credit on the strangest and most unlikely suppositions. It is not likely that millions of inconvertible money, issued in rivalry of each other by the State and the Banks, will create a currency proportionate only to the wants and necessities of the country. Should a depreciation commence, it will require still larger issues to carry on the business of the State, and these issues will aggravate the depreciation which caused them. As soon as capital can find other outlets, it will naturally be withdrawn from gambling in public securities, and a fall of prices must ensue. This also has a tendency to increase itself, and the wish to realize, when once expressed, is very apt to be contagious. We have seldom seen a financial position so full of peril. Its worst faults are aggravated by political difficulties, and are sure, in their turn, to react upon them.—This is no time for triumph or self-gratulation, unless it could be shown that wealth can be created without labor, and money made to circulate without value; that people will be inclined to trust when there is little chance of their being paid, and that the credit of a country is increased the more her resources are wasted, her industry neglected, and her commerce reduced. We cannot doubt that the state of the United States is one which ought to produce serious alarm, instead of empty boasting and exultation.

CIGAR AND TOBACCO STORE,

Established in 1840.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of Smokers and Chewers to the well selected stock of CIGARS and TOBACCO of Mr. J. C. SMITH, 153½ Baltimore street, opposite the Museum. This gentleman has, by his thorough knowledge of his business, and personal attention thereto, obtained a well deserved reputation for the finest goods in his line, and we confidently recommend all who desire a really fine "imported" HAVANA CIGAR and superior CHEWING TOBACCO, SNUFF &c., &c., to give him a call. The fact of his having been twenty two years in his present place of business, we regard as the at ongest evidence to what we have said in reference to his reliability in furnishing the best in his line of business. jy22 1m

SEVENTY MILES SAVED IN GOING TO CAPE MAY.—We would say to persons visiting Cape May, that by laying over in Wilmington, instead of going on to the city of "Brotherly Love," they can save seventy miles of travel, and have their baggage taken care of by a responsible person, thereby securing a night's rest. After partaking of an excellent breakfast at the Indian Queen Hotel, Fifth and Market streets, they can take the cars at 9.30 A. M. for Newcastle, and arrive there at 12 M. for the boat.

INDIAN QUEEN HOTEL.—Travellers speak Highly of the Indian Queen Hotel, Wilmington, Del. There is no better conducted public house, it is said, this side the Atlantic seaboard. Everything that a guest may wish may be had at small cost, together with the kindest possible treatment. The house is well ventilated, the beds soft and downy, and the latest modern household conveniences to be met with in every direction. The table groans with luxuries, and the bar is filled with the purest and best of liquors. If any of our readers should stop in Wilmington over night, they would be much pleased, we know, by stopping with Mr. CHAS. M. ALMOND, of the Indian Queen.

GREAT REDUCTIONS IN MANTILLAS, ETC.

We shall commence TO-DAY, to reduce our entire STOCK of MANTILLAS In Silk and Lace Goods, all of which are new and very desirable. Great inducements are offered to those in want of choice MANTLES, as we are determined to close the stock at immense sacrifice from the original cost. ☞Call and examine, as it will well repay a visit to this immense stock.

LATEST FROM KENTUCKY.

LOUISVILLE, KY., June 17, 1862.

GEO. PEARSON, Esq.

Dear Sir—I feel it a duty to express to you my sincere acknowledgments of the benefit derived from the use of a package of your MEDICATED TAR DROPS.

I was suffering with a SEVERE COUGH and SORE THROAT, when a friend presented me with a package of your celebrated TAR DROPS, and when I used them, I was free to confess it was more to gratify my appetite for sweetmeats than the idea of deriving any good from them; but really, the rapid allaying of the irritation and subsequent entire cure of the cough, induces me to thank you, and I take great pleasure in recommending to the public so effective a compound. Respectfully yours, J. E. SMITH, M. D., Assistant Surgeon Artillery Brigade U. S. A.

PEARSON'S MEDICATED TAR DROPS are prepared and sold by GEO. PEARSON, No. 5 North Liberty street, Baltimore, at 50 cents per package. Sold also by all the principal Druggists. je21-tf

THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS PARTIALLY RESTORED.—After an involuntary absence of about three months, during which time we were made familiar with the classic and once hallowed grounds of Fort Hellenry—we again resume, partially, our old vocation of "enlightening the world with lamp-black." Our Press, being deemed dangerous by the Government, has been kindly limited, and, for the future, instead of publishing "THE SUN, or any other paper, without consent of the Commanding General," we shall modestly labor in the humbler department of the "mat preservative of all arts," by executing every description of BOOK AND JOB PRINTING, hoping thereby that medium to sustain ourselves and those dependent upon us and would respectfully appeal to our friends to favor us with their patronage. We have prepared our JOB PRINTING DEPARTMENT to execute all kinds of printing neatly, expeditiously and cheaply, and solicit a call at our old buildings. SAMUEL S. MILLS, BOOK AND JOB PRINTER. JOHN S. REESE & CO.,

DEALERS IN CONCENTRATED FERTILIZERS AND IMPORTERS OF SOMBRERO GUANO, &c.

Office 74 SOUTH STREET, BALTIMORE.

GUANO WORKS COR. LANCASTER AND WOLF STS.

We are prepared to furnish to the farmers of Maryland and adjoining States, our well known and ESTABLISHED PHOSPHO PERUVIAN (or Manipulated) GUANO, WARRANTED ONE-HALF PERUVIAN GUANO.

Seven years' use of this Guano has rendered it a staple fertilizer. Its quality has been maintained with rigid exactness for such a series of years, and it may be relied upon in the future, as in the past, for uniformity of effect. It contains NO AMMONIA and IMPORTANT OF LIME THAN ANY FERTILIZER SOLD IN THIS COUNTRY, and is therefore of greater real value. Experience proves its great utility in promoting the set, while its immediate effects are fully equal to the best Peruvian Guano. It is the most convenient, economical and permanent fertilizer in use.

We also offer to consumers REESE & CO'S SUPER PHOSPHATE OF LIME.

This article is tried and reliable. It is manufactured exclusively for our sales, under guarantee and forfeiture of $1,000, to be of given standard. We offer it to consumers for exactly what its name imports, a REAL SUPER OR SOLUBLE PHOSPHATE, rendered so by the liberal use of acid, in compliance with all the conditions required to insure complete solubility. We therefore recommend this article with confidence.

SOMBRERO GUANO,

Containing 75 to 80 per cent. Bone Phosphate of Lime.

This remarkable article is imported from SOMBRERO ISLAND, and is unquestionably the cheapest and richest source of Phosphate of Lime known. The whole Island is a bed of this rich material, and its value to agriculture cannot be overestimated. It is sold in a perfectly fine powder and is admirably adapted for combining with PERUVIAN GUANO. Jy23-10

Education.

CHESTNUT HILL SCHOOL FOR YOUNG GENTLEMEN, Three Miles North of Baltimore, Md. This Institution has been in full operation since November, 1848. It is a classical school in a private family, offering, in the refining influence of domestic intercourse, a substitute, so far as may be, for parental care and home associations. Pupils are received at ten years of age and upwards and thoroughly prepared for College or for Business. The number of pupils is limited to thirty, which conduces to the personal comfort of the boys, their sound intellectual and moral training, faithful supervision, and individual improvement. Chestnut Hill is a Country Seat of 130 acres, and is unsurpassed in natural beauty and entire healthfulness. There is but one session in the year, beginning on the FIRST WEDNESDAY IN FEBRUARY, and ending the last Wednesday in June. For admission or for Circulars, address the Rector, Rev. FREDERICK GIBSON, M. A., Je18-eo5f Baltimore, Md.

MRS. WM. STUART APPLETON'S BOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, Will open on MONDAY, 8th September. For further particulars apply at 52 Madison street, between Calvert and St. Paul. Circulars may be had at J. S. Waters' and Cushings & Bailey's. jy15 1m
