By the way...

By Joe Black

In addition to the national administration's budget cuts people are talking about crime in the streets. Many judges are being labeled "bleeding hearts" because some people think they are being too lenient with the criminals. And throughout most of America people are buying guns as a form of protection.

The uneasiness should make us pause to wonder if this is 1981 of the 20th century, or have we regressed to the era of mighty crush the weak when people survived by adhering to self-preservation—the first law of nature. My friends, when we open our eyes we will find that it is 1981 and we all must bow our heads in shame because our apathy has helped to turn our streets into a jungle of muggings, robberies and killings. Oh, yes, we all must share in the blame.

It seems as though too many people have allowed themselves to forget things such as: "love thy neighbor"; "respect one another"; "I am my brother's keeper"; and Dr. King's challenge: "we must learn to live together as brothers, or perish as fools." Goodness is out and bad is in.

Years ago my friends, Jackie Robinson and Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. proved to the world that all victories are not through violence. And George Bernard Shaw wrote, "to meet hatred with retaliatory hatred can only intensify the forces of evil."

Black people, "if there is to be a healing in this land that we love, a love sometimes displayed by our bitter wrath, we must make ourselves visible and heard, non-violently. Let us put our voting power to use and prove that the pen is mightier than the sword. Let's get down to the serious business of writing letters to the president, congress people, senators, governors and mayors and remind them that they have a moral and civic responsibility to take action against the resurgence of the Klan and the Nazi party—two groups that are stressing racial strife rather than respect and economic growth. The antagonism can motivate Blacks to arm themselves and go into the streets.

I urge you not to do this because we must remember that most cities have trained riot squads who have been waiting 10 years to beat somebody over the head. And don't tell me that it is better to be shot than to live in this racist nation; because I haven't noticed any mass suicides.
