Boston man abducts bus

BOSTON (UPI) — An unidentified man driving a stolen Greyhound bus led police on a wild chase through Boston, destroying at least a dozen cars before police fatally shot him in the city's Jamaica Plain section, officials said.

The man stole the bus from a lot in either Bristol County or Rhode Island earlier in the evening then drove to Boston, where he was pursued by Boston and Metropolitan Police at about 11 p.m., said Boston police spokesman Jim Jordan.

"He entered the city, where he was pursued by Metro officers and led police to a dead end street, where they thought they had him stopped," Jordan said. "But he backed the bus over four cruisers . . . backed down onto Forest Hills Avenue and kept going."

The program is one of the key events on the Library's Black History Month calendar.

Ms. Walker's career as a published writer spans more than fifty years. She has written five books of poetry, including the best seller, "For My People," several works of nonfiction, and the widely acclaimed novel, "Jubilee," which won the Houghton Mifflin Literary Fellowship Award in 1966.

The focus of her talk in February will be "Richard Wright," Daemonic Genius," which is also the title of her latest work, just published by Warner Books and already hailed as the definitive biography of one of America's great Black authors.

Donald Woods to speak

Self-exiled South AFrican journalist Donald Woods, whose books Biko, Black and White and Asking For Trouble reviled the apartheid system in his native country, will speak at Loyola College February 9, 1989 at 8 p.m. in McGuire Hall.

His appearance is sponsored by the Office of Student Activities and is part of Black History Month at Loyola College. It is free and open to the public.

Since his escape from South Africa in 1978, Woods has traveled extensively around the world and on American campuses, urging divestment as a means of bringing economic pressure on the South African government to end apartheid.

Woods is a fifth-generation white South African who became Editor-in-Chief of the South African newspaper, the "Daily Dispatch," in 1965 at the age of 31. He became increasingly sensitized to the plight of blcks in his country and his editorial attacks on the racial policy of apartheid drew fire from the South African government and from his fellow white countrymen. During 12 years at the helm on the newspaper he was prosecuted in court seven times under South Africa's strict publication laws.

Herbert M. Frisby Historical Society

The Herbert M. Frisby Historical Society, Inc. will sponsor the Arena Players in "In Splendid Error," on Friday, February 10, 1989, at the Arena Playhouse, located at 801 McCulloh Street. A special reception will be held at 7:30 p.m., and curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

"In Splendid Error" is a historical drama about the life of Frederick Douglass, his escape to New York and his meeting of John Brown. The author of the play is expected to appear.

The artwork of Reva Lewie, one of Baltimore's renowned artists, will be displayed in the lobby. Further information 448-0051 or 243-4231.

Black Memorabilia Show and Sale

Towson State University's Office of Minority Affairs and Ethnic Treasures, Inc. will host a Black Memorabilia and Black Collectibles Show and Sale Thursday, February 23 through Saturday, February 25, in the Potomac Lounge of the University Union on the TSU campus. Admission is free.
