A black and white photograph of a piece of aged, stained paper. The paper is heavily textured with various stains and a large, irregular tear on the right side. Several instances of the word "off" are written in a cursive, handwritten style. The word is written in a fluid, connected manner, with the "f" having a long, sweeping tail. The word "off" appears multiple times, some of which are partially obscured by the tear or other markings. The overall appearance is that of a historical document or a collection of handwritten notes.

Lines

Written on the sudden Death of Capt. D.C. -

And thou art gone for ever
From earth and us to worlds on high
Times fondest ties awhile you sever
And rise in triumph to the sky
No more shall we on earth behold
Thy form no more shall grasp thy hand
Thy once warm bosom now is cold
Thou hast obeyed Gods dread command
No more thy manly voice we hear
No more with thee lifes comforts share
Thy voice once full lies silent there
Deaths livid hue is on thy life
He who can think but yesternight
Who do live and move as mortals do -
Is now no more from mortals sight

Do not be vain
Vice thou wert chained by mortal
To life. Do hope to worldly care
But all the mysteries of death
Unto thy vision now are bare
Farewell blest spirit fare thee well
A few more hours I linger here
A few more hours He who can't tell
To me shall now appear

And then by justness we'll meet
In heaven, and chaunt with joy
In ancient milder in music sweet
Our glad some voices we will raise
Drotes
