ernment was ratified

by this ſtate; the convention expreſſed in the ſtrongeſt terms, their opinion, "That certain amendments and alterations in the ſaid conſtitution, would remove the fears, and quiet the apprehenſions of many of the good people of this commonwealth, and more effectually guard againſt an undue adminiſtration of the federal government, and that the ſame convention did therefore, in the name and behalf of the good people of the commonwealth, enjoin it upon their repreſentatives in congreſs at all times, until the alterations and proviſions (propoſed by the convention) ſhould have been conſidered agreeably to the fifth article of the conſtitution, to exert all their influence, and to uſe all reaſonable and legal methods to obtain a ratification of the ſaid alterations and proviſions in ſuch manner as is provided in the ſaid article."

"Theſe injunctions will be conſidered by the ſenate and repreſentatives of the commonwealth, as ſacredly binding upon them, their faithfulneſs and prudence in this reſpect will quiet the fears of thoſe of the community who have hitherto reſted ſatisfied with thoſe ſolemn aſſurances. I was very ſincere in the part I took upon this important ſubject in the convention. I diſclaim all other but open undiſguiſed politics, and can aſſure you, that although I would by all means avoid another general convention, yet I am no leſs in favour of amendments, than I was when I held a ſeat in the convention of this ſtate. Your reſolves on this point in the preſent ſeſſion, upon the communications of our ſiſter ſtates, will undoubtedly expreſs the minds of our conſtituents, quiet the apprehenſions of the people, and give aſſurances to the other ſtates which have written to you on the ſubject, as well as to thoſe which have not as yet accepted the general government, that although this commonwealth are zealous for an efficient general government, yet we will not fail in our endeavours to provide ſuch checks and barriers as are neceſſary to the freedom and ſecurity of each individual in the great republic."

BALTIMORE, January 23.

A writer in a late London newſpaper obſerves, that the French are determined to be free; that the flame of liberty had burſt forth among them, and the general language of the people is, "We have ſhed blood to eſtabliſh the freedom of America, and why ſhould we ourſelves be governed any longer arbitrarily?—We ſhould be unworthy of the name of Frenchmen if we did not reſume our rights and liberties, and become as free as any other nation on the face of the globe."

Annapolis, February 5.

By the SENATE, December 20, 1788.

RESOLVED, That no application whatever, from any county or counties, relating to their particular policy or government, or from one or more individuals, although the ſtate be concerned, ſhall be taken in conſideration during any future ſeſſion, unleſs the ſame be preferred within ten days after the firſt meeting of the general aſſembly; provided always, that this reſolution ſhall not extend to any caſe where the ſubject matter, or any material circumſtance thereof, ſhall ariſe or happen during the ſeſſion in which the application is made, and after the time limited as aforeſaid.

RESOLVED, That no bill or reſolution grounded on any application included within the above reſolution ſhall be taken into conſideration by either the ſenate or houſe of delegates, unleſs the ſame ſhall be tranſmitted from the houſe in which it originates within fourteen days after the expiration of the ten days given for making applications as aforeſaid.

RESOLVED, That the above reſolutions be immediately publiſhed for ſix weeks in the two Baltimore news-papers, and the Annapolis Gazette, and for the ſame number of weeks in every year next immediately preceding the day on which the general aſſembly ſhall meet.
