GEORGIA, September 21.

The following reſolutions were paſſed at the town of Waſhington, on the 21ſt inſtant, by the repreſentatives from the reſpective puiſne bodies of the combined ſociety.

Reſolved,

THAT all that tract of country, ſituate, lying and being ſouth of the river Oconee, and bounding by a line running from the Appalachee river (or ſouth fork of Oconee) to the head or ſource of Flint river, thence down Flint river, to its confluence with the Cattahouchee, thence in a direct line to the head or ſource of the river St. Mary's, thence to the confluence of the Oconee and Oakmulgee, thence up the river Oconee, to the place of beginning, eſtimated to include about 8000000 of acres, which is intended to be made a purchaſe of from the ſtate of Georgia by the combined ſociety, ſhall be nominated and known by the name of the Oakmulgee Company Purchaſe: and, that the whole of the combined friends or members of the combined ſociety, ſhall be co-equal, as tenants in common in the ſaid Oakmulgee Company Purchaſe; except the claims heretofore provided for by the ſaid ſociety.

And be it further reſolved,

That the ſaid ſociety will not make any proviſion for, or eſtabliſh any ſurveys heretofore made within, the aforeſaid boundary.

Reſolved,

That a committee be appointed to draw up a publication in ſupport of the ſtate rights to the lands about to be applied for and purchaſed by the ſociety from the ſtate of Georgia.

CHARLESTON, September 29.

A project has been long on foot for joining the Santee and Cooper rivers, which may be done by digging a canal of eight miles. The Santee company (as they are called) have this matter much at heart; but have ever been thwarted in this public ſpirited attempt from obſtructions thrown in their way by ſelfiſh individuals. One great argument brought by the oppoſers of this ſcheme is truly frivolous, but at the ſame time ſhews the powerful influence of prejudice in oppoſition to public good. This argument is no other than that the channel over Charleſton bar will be entirely obſtructed if a junction is formed between the Cooper and the Santee.

RICHMOND, October 28.

The American wild allſpice we are happy to inform, is in all probability a ſhrub, which may ſave the United States many a pound; a gentleman in Montgomery county, has made ſo great improvements in the raiſing of this very uſeful ſpice, that we are in hopes ſoon of depriving the Weſt-Indies of an article which hitherto has conſtituted a principal portion of their revenue.

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 4.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman at Alexandria, to his friend in Baltimore, dated the 29th ult.

"Juſt in the moment of cloſing this letter, I have been informed, by a gentleman from the ſouthward, that, yeſterday, captain Mowbray, in a veſſel from England, arrived at Port-Royal, Rappahannock river, after a very ſhort paſſage,* by which veſſel there are the moſt authenticated accounts of a war having abſolutely taken place between England and Spain, and that the captain had actually read the declaration of war previous to his leaving England.—How far this may be true, I cannot ſay; but, from ſeveral circumſtances, I am apt to give credit to it."

For the Maryland Gazette.

Annapolis, October 30, 1790.

ON Friday laſt the Old American Company of Comedians cloſed their performances here for this ſeaſon, having, with but one exception, deſerved and received the fulleſt approbation for their exertions to pleaſe an audience equally entitled to their beſt efforts, by a capacity to judge of theatrical merit, and by the moſt liberal indulgence, where that merit was not ſo ſtriking or complete—Pity it is, that being ſo well ſatisfied with the company in general, the Annapolitans ſhould at laſt have their indignation excited by the contemptuous and ungrateful behaviour of Mrs. Henry, who not only obſtinately refuſed to gratify them in the only way in which ſhe is ſuperiorly qualified to pleaſe, but had not even the complaiſance to offer any apology for denying their requeſt. But if we regret that our good humour ſhould at length have been tired out by the inſolence of this princeſs, we lament ſtill more feelingly that our diſpleaſure ſhould, even in appearance, have fallen on two performers ſo deſervedly poſſeſſed of our favour and eſteem as Mrs. Morris and Mr. Wignell, whoſe miſfortune it was to appear while the audience were bent on hearing Mrs. Henry ſing. It is more through a deſire to quiet the uneaſy ſenſations which ſo unuſual a reception muſt have occaſioned to thoſe victims of Mrs. Henry's ingratitude, than from any diſappointment we experienced by her refuſal, that the affair is noticed at all—Her behaviour might have met with ſilent deteſtation and contempt, but we cannot ſtifle the regrets we feel at its conſequences. As theſe, are, however, beyond a doubt, the ſentiments of the audience at large, we hope that Mrs. Morris and Mr. Wignell will no longer entertain an unpleaſing reflection on the ſubject, but will aſſure themſelves of applauſe and protection from the people of Annapolis equal to the very high claim their reſpective merits have given them.
