[FOR THE BALTIMORE CLIPPER.]

Messrs. Editors—I was very agreeably surprised, by reading in your paper of yesterday a communication signed "Index," from which it would appear that the profits of a gas company were very great—and hurried to the office to ascertain why such small dividends were paid by the gas light company of Baltimore. The books of the company were submitted to my inspection, and from them it plainly appeared that your correspondent is in error in some very important particulars. For instance, he states the revenue from gas, &c. in such a company, at $194 764 00 per annum, whereas it did not exceed $55,781 17 in one of the most prosperous years which that company has ever had. So also with regard to the quantity of coal required—he estimates it at 49,329 bushels, whilst the amount actually used was shown to be 41,504 bushels. He is equally in error in regard to the cost of that article, which far exceeds his estimate. The nett profits, as shown by the books, were $22 223 18 for the past year, which sum only is applicable to the payment of dividends on a capital of $375,000, and to the cost of repairs necessarily incident to the prosecution of such a business.

As further evidence that he greatly errs in his estimate of the resulting profits, from the prosecution of such a business, I would refer to the market price of the stock, which has been below par for several years.

6-27-1t* A STOCKHOLDER & CONSUMER.

Messrs Editors: In passing along Gay street, at the corner of Front, my attention was attracted to a large crowd which had assembled, for what purpose I was at a loss to know. Idle curiosity, however, prompted me to dive into the throng, and, if possible, ferret out the cause of its meeting. I was astonished to behold an individual who had imagined he had been appointed by our worthy Mayor "Long and Dry Measurer," and that the civil process of presenting him with the various tools pertaining to said office was being performed by his numerous friends, who wished him long life, with a continuance in office until the next. 6t27-1t* Administration.

HANCE'S Compound Syrup of Horehound.

CERTIFICATE. Mrs. WILLIAMS, of Petersburg, Va. caught a very severe cold last fall, and thinking it would wear off in the course of time itself, neglected it to a very great extent. Finding, however, it did not leave her, she then tried various remedies, some of which subdued the cough in a measure, but none effectually cured it.

About a month ago, her husband thought she had better try a change of air, so she came to Baltimore, where she first became acquainted with the COMPOUND SYRUP OF HOREHOUND—the first bottle produced such relief, that before she had finished it she determined to purchase two bottles and return home. Price 56 cents per bottle

d12-y Corner Charles and Pratt sts., Baltimore.

FOR SALE. A Pennsylvania built WAGON, head tread, and three or four good work Horses, together with the Gears, which are in good order—as the owner has no use for them, they will be sold low.

FOR RENT. No. 2 WAREHOUSE, at the head of Buchanan's wharf, in Pratt street. Inquire of

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 25, 1841.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. Mr. Whiteford presented the petition of sundry citizens of Harford County, praying the passage of a law to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors in any election district in any County and in any ward in any city where a majority of the voters are opposed to such sales.

Mr. Presstman, from the committee on ways and means, made an unfavorable report upon the several petitions referred to them, praying that the banks of this State may be allowed to issue small notes for a limited time; which was read and ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Matthews made an unfavorable report upon the order requiring the Committee on Pensions to inquire whether the heirs of the late Major Alexander Roxburgh, an officer of the Revolution, be entitled to any thing under the resolution passed by the House of Delegates, March 25th, 1779. Concurred in.

Mr. Poultney made an unfavorable report upon the petition of sundry citizens of Baltimore City and the Counties of Baltimore, Cecil and Harford, relating to the protection of wild fowl in the waters of the Susquehanna and its tributaries; concurred in.

Mr. Jones, of Somerset, made a favorable report upon the bill from the Senate, supplemental to the act entitled an act concerning crimes and punishments, passed November session 1809, ch. 138; ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Presstman reported a bill for the relief of the devisees of Wm. Trimble, late of Baltimore County deceased. Passed, and sent to the Senate.

A message was received from the Senate, in which was contained the bill supplementary to the act, in aid of the construction of a State Armory and Town Hall in the city of Baltimore, and the building and improvement of the Hanover Market House in said City, which was read and referred to Committee on Lotteries.

Also a message proposing the appointment of a joint Committee, to wait upon his excellency the Governor and request his attendance in the Senate Chamber on Friday next, 26th inst. at 4 o'clock, P. M. to sign such laws as may be engrossed. Messrs. Ely and Manlsby were appointed on the part of the Senate and Messrs. Foreman and Willis on the part of the House.

On motion of Mr. Jones of Somerset, the House reconsidered the unfavorable report of the Committee on divorces upon the petition of Henry Elliott, praying to be divorced from his wife Celeste Elliot, and the substitute offered by Mr. Frazier, to divorce Henry Elliott from his wife Celeste Elliott.

The report and substitute excited considerable debate, and the order of the day was postponed until the report and substitute were disposed of. The substitute was rejected and the unfavorable report of the Committee concurred in.

The House then proceeded to consider the order of the day, being the bill entitled an act for the general valuation and assessment of property in this State and to provide a tax to pay the debts of the State.

SENATE. The bill releasing the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road from the payment of one million of dollars to Washington County, and suspending the suit for the same, was passed.

The bill from the House regulating the issue of licenses to hawkers and pedlars, was passed.

An unfavorable report was made upon the bill from the House to prevent obstructions in Smith's dock in Baltimore city.

MARYLAND COLONIZATION SOCIETY. We are happy in giving publicity to the following resolutions, favorable to the above society, adopted by the Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

To Dr. James Hall:

My dear Sir—It is made my duty to furnish you with the following resolutions of the Baltimore Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, adopted at its late session in this city.

Very respectfully yours,
THO. B. SARGENT, Secretary.

The committee to whom was referred the communication of Dr. Hall, (late Governor of Maryland in Liberia) have had the same under consideration, and beg leave to report the following resolutions—

1. Resolved, By the Baltimore Annual Conference in conference assembled. That we highly appreciate the objects of the Maryland State Colonization Society.

2. Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to all our Preachers laboring in that portion of the State of Maryland lying within the bounds of this Conference, to take up collections on or about the 4th of July, for the purpose of carrying out the plans of the Colonization Society.

3. Resolved, That in order to the suppression of the slave trade, and the illumination and salvation of the native tribes of Africa, it is highly expedient and absolutely necessary to colonize on the Coast of Africa (with their own consent) free persons of color from the United States.

4. Resolved, That in the judgement of this Conference, there is no analogy between the course of the British Government in the purchase and liberation, (by the payment of twenty million of pounds) of the slaves of the West India Islands, and the plans and purposes of modern abolitionists in the United States.

5. Resolved, That we disapprove of the agitation of the subject of abolition, and that we discountenance all such interference as is calculated to prejudice the minds of the free people of color against the benevolent objects of African Colonization.

6. And be it finally Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing resolutions be forwarded to the official papers of our Church, and to the papers of this city for publication.

105,600 Screw-bolts, 7½ inches long, and ¾ in diam. wt 1 lb. each, 105,600
105,600 Nuts for same, (1 7-8 sq'e, 9-16 thick,) wt. ½ lb each, 52,800
105,600 Washers, of a wedge form, 3½ inches long by 2½ wide, and ¼ inch average thickness, and weighing 9 16 lb. 59,136
105,600 Plates of rolled Zinc, same length and width, and 1 16 thick, weighing 10 to the pound, 10,560
844,800 Hook-headed Spikes, 4½ inches long, 7-16 square in the shank, and weighing 1½ oz. each, 824,716

The Sawed Lumber may be of white or yellow pine, with not more than an inch of sap on two edges of the stick; free from large knots, shakes or decay of any kind. A portion of the 4x8 scantling may be proposed for to be furnished, of white oak, under the same conditions as to quality. The points of delivery may be at Baltimore, Georgetown, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any other point upon the line of the road, and the proposal will state the places as well as times at which the Lumber will be furnished.

Proposers to which more than one of the places just named are accessible, will separately state their prices for delivery at each; so as to allow an option to the Company in regard to them should the proposal be accepted.

The Hewn Timber, intended for the cross-ties and support-blocks, may be of white oak, rock-oak or chesnut oak, or of chesnut. It must be sound wood, and straight in one direction. If the proposer prefers delivering it in the rough state, and does not wish to undertake the hewing of it to the required dimensions he can so word his proposal, and in that case the size of the sticks must be such as to permit them, when dressed, to be of the full dimensions specified, clear of bark and axe-kerf. If the timber is cut while the bark is loose, it must be stripped off before the delivery. The delivery may be made upon any point of the line, between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland, and the points between which it will take place must be stated. There are to every mile of track 31,680 feet board measure of 4x8, and 26,400 feet of 3x10 scantling, 1056 cross ties dressed to 4½ inches thick, and 302 dressed to 3 inches thick. Proposals will not be received for a less quantity of any of the kinds of timber, than will lay a mile of track.

The Castings for the chairs and plates will be of an easy pattern—they must be of strong and sound metal, and smoothly cast—the contractor furnishing the patterns. The screw bolts and nuts will be of sound, tough iron and made with exactness to the required form and size. The washers will be of bar-iron, rolled with the proper section, cut off and punched for the passage of the bolt. The zinc plates similarly made. The hook-headed spikes to be of iron of as good a quality as that of the screw bolts.

The Iron Fastenings just described may be delivered at Baltimore, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any point of the line of the road between the two latter places and the places and times of delivery will be stated in the proposals. There are to every mile of track 7656 lbs. of castings—1584 lbs. of bolts and nuts—591 lbs. of iron washers—105 lbs. of zinc plates, and 2247 lbs. of spikes. No proposal for a less quantity than will supply 10 miles will be received.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid thereon—reserving to the Company the option of paying the said four fifths in Baltimore City 6 per cent stock at par—or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to the contract.

If the materials contracted for or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered, and no estimates or payments shall be made or on account of materials delivered before the time specified for commencing the delivery of the same. The monthly payments shall be made at the Company's offices in Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh, Virginia, at the option of the contractor, and the final payments shall be made in Baltimore. The manner and times in which the materials shall be furnished on the different parts of the line will be specifically provided for in the contracts, and particulars will be given on application to the undersigned. It will be required that about one half of the whole quantity of materials shall be delivered as early as possible between now and the 1st of December next. A model of the rail and its supports and fastenings will be ready for inspection at the Company's office in Baltimore by the 20th current. The proposals will be directed under seal to the subscriber, either at Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh—and will be received up to the 15th of March proximo. By order of the President and Directors,

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT must be obvious to every one, that an Intelligence Office, when conducted under proper principles, and regulated upon an honest and equitable course, is of great convenience and utility to the citizens of a populous and thriving city like this. The subscriber, being aware of this fact, and with the knowledge that a degree of dissatisfaction has existed from the manner in which other offices of the kind have been heretofore conducted, he has therefore taken great pains to conduct his establishment in such a manner as to deserve public confidence, and be worthy of the public patronage.

PERSONS making application at this office for servants, or help of any other kind, will deposit, in advance, 50 cents each, for which they will have access to the records, properly kept for that purpose, and on which they find the names, residences, references, &c. of the servants or other help—in case that neither of them answers the desired purpose, the money will be returned. Yearly subscriptions received at $1.50 each.

AGENCY, HOUSES, FARMS, VACANT LOTS, GROUND RENTS, LANDS, &c. bought and sold on commission. SLAVES, for life or a term of years, bought or sold on commission, and the highest prices obtained. Persons having slaves, which they wish to dispose of, will do well to apply at this office before selling.

N. B. All letters addressed to this office (post paid) thankfully received and promptly attended to.

IMPORTANT TO THOSE AFFLICTED WITH COUGHS & COLDS.

RICH'D THOMPSON'S LIFE PRESERVER, a new and valuable remedy for the relief and removal of the most distressing Colds and Coughs.

The subscriber has been induced to offer this Medicine to the Public from his personal knowledge of its effects, and the testimony of those who have been the subjects of its operation. In no instance within his knowledge (and they have been many) has it failed to give immediate relief to the patient, and ultimately to remove the most distressing cough, brought on by taking cold. In cases of Consumption, nothing is promised beyond relief. This Medicine is equally applicable to Children. Agent for Baltimore,

CAUTION. If we examine the nature of the above diseases, and the situation of the parts affected, we must consider it a very important object to be able to obtain a remedy at once certain in its action, and at the same time composed of such ingredients as will prevent the possibility of discovery while using it. It is a fact well known to many, that most of the remedies offered for these diseases are composed of such nauseous drugs, as to render it almost impossible to continue their use without creating a sickness at the stomach or other unpleasant consequences. Such being the case there can be no doubt but such a remedy as Valier's French Pills, will meet the universal approbation, being entirely free from those objections; pleasant in their operation, and prompt in removing the disease. The proprietor would here remark, that the efficacy of these Pills in the disorders alluded to, are not based upon supposition; on the contrary, it is founded upon rational experience, having used them in a successful practice for upwards of two years, he feels confident of their superiority over the remedies hitherto employed.

100 DOLLARS REWARD
DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND,

For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Stictures, Diabetes or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. Also, of L. S. THOMAS, corner of Bridge and Forest streets—with full directions accompanying each bottle at $1 per bottle.

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and when lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

☞ The above Medicine may always be had in Baltimore of RICHARD NORRIS of WILLIAM, No. 254 Market street, who is the Sole Agent for this Medicine in that city. All orders coming to Philadelphia, must be directed to DR. SWAYNE,

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 26, 1841.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. Mr. Seidenstricker presented the memorial of John H. W. Hawkins and a Committee of the Marion Total Abstinence Society of Baltimore, praying for an act of incorporation.

Mr. George presented the memorial of Charles W. Glanding and 44 other citizens of Queen Anne's Co. praying the passage of a law to prohibit the sale of any intoxicating liquors in any election district in any county and any ward in any city where a majority of the voters are opposed to such sale—referred.

Leave was granted the committee on the militia to bring in a bill for the better regulation of the militia.

Mr. Willis reported a bill entitled an act for the better regulation of the Banking Institutions of this State. Read and made the order of the day for Friday 5th of March next, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. Dorsey reported a bill supplementary to an act to incorporate a Company to make a Turnpike Road from the District of Columbia to the city of Baltimore, passed Dec. 8, 1812. Read, passed and sent to the Senate.

Mr. Graves reported a bill to alter and amend the Constitution so far as relates to the loaning of the public money on credit to corporations.

Mr. Gaither reported a bill to incorporate the Marion Total Abstinence Society of Baltimore.

The bill to incorporate the Blacksmiths, Engineers, Mechanists, and Millwrights' Society of Baltimore, was passed.

The bill to incorporate the Baltimore Hebrew and English Benevolent Academical Association was passed.

The bill to incorporate the Rose Hill Improving Company of Baltimore, was taken up for consideration. The hour arrived, however, for taking up the order of the day before the house could decide upon the bill. The House then went into committee of the whole, and resumed the consideration of the bill reported by Mr. Bowie, relative to a direct tax.

SENATE. The bill to alter and regulate the mode in which the agents to represent the State in all joint stock companies in which the State has an interest, shall hereafter be appointed, was passed, yeas 11, nays 10.

The bill concerning the Franklin Rail Road Company was passed.

The supplemental bill incorporating the stockholders of the Franklin Bank of Baltimore, was passed—yeas 17, nays 3.

WHALE SHIPS LOST. The whale ship Friends, Capt. Brown, which arrived at New London on the 16th inst., with a full cargo of oil, received the information of the loss of the whale ships Samuel Wright, Coffin, of Salem; Hudson, of Sag Harbor; and Martha, Geography Bay, near S. W. Cape of New Holland, in July or August last, from the Governor of St. George's Sound, who received the intelligence by an overland mail. The following paragraph is from the London Shipping Gazette:

SWAN RIVER, July 21.—It blew a hurricane from the N. W. on the 8th inst., during which three American vessels were driven on shore and became total wrecks.

GOOD DIVIDEND. The entire cost of the United States Hotel at Boston, has been $197,000. The company who commenced were unable to finish it, and it passed to a new company for about one half its cost. The new company finished it, and placed in it furniture to the amount of 25,000 dollars. During the nine months it has been in operation, the present proprietors have realized 11 per cent. on the cost. It will probably pay 20 or 25 per cent. per annum hereafter.

DEATH OF JAMES G. BROOKS. The Albany Evening Journal states that James G. Brooks, Esq. extensively known in early life as a poet, and for the last fifteen years as the editor of different newspapers, died in that city, on Saturday morning last, after a long illness.

FROM METAMORAS. News from Metamoras via New Orleans to the 27th ult., has been received. Nothing important. The Comanche Indians near Saltillo had stolen 10,000 mules and horses and much other property. Gen. Arista was taking measures for the general defence, and calling on every town and village for their proportion of troops. 2000 volunteers had assembled. President Bustamente's message was read the 1st January. It is of the common stamp. It was proposed to make Tampico a free port. The Vera Cruz merchants oppose it.

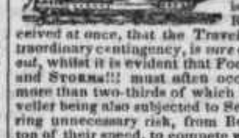
WRECK AND LOSS OF LIFE. A letter from Ocracoke, N. C., published in the Journal of Commerce, states that the schr. Bounty, of New York, Totten, master, was lost in a snow storm on the 14th. Notwithstanding almost superhuman exertions were made to save them, three of the crew perished. The master, Mr. Totten, the mate, and two of the crew are saved, badly frostbitten. They were two days and two nights on the wreck, and came ashore on a part of the quarter deck.

CATHOLIC BISHOPS. Papal Bulls have been received from Rome, appointing the Rev. Richard Whelan, Bishop of Richmond, Va., and the Rev. John J. Chanche, President of St. Mary's College, Baltimore, first Bishop of the new See of Natchez.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE!

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.



As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads, Head Winds and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of
STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office,
d12-tf PRATT STREET, Baltimore.

THE MARYLAND ARCADE
Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS!

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hat: Splendid Russia Hats at $3.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3.00; Clipt Nutria Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be Ironed over and put in shape free of charge.
fe4-3m* POLYDORE E. RILEY.

THE PROPRIETORS OF THE GAY-ST. CHAIR WARE ROOMS, would inform their friends and the public generally, that they have now on hand, a very splendid assortment of Parlour and other CHAIRS, comprising Mahogany, Maple, Walnut, and a variety of imitation wood colours. They would request persons, disposed to purchase, to give them a call, as their assortment is not surpassed if equalled by any establishment in the city.

They would also inform Shipping Merchants that they have on hand a large assortment of Cane and Flag-back KNOCK DOWN, suitable for the West Indies or South American market, among which is a large proportion of very rich colored white tops—all of which they are willing to sell on the most accommodating terms. fe1-d1f A. & J. B. MATHIOT.

CITY TAXES. An important ordinance in relation to the appointment of a city collector and prescribing his duties, passed both branches of the City Council on Friday last, of which the following is an outline:

Section 1, requires the collector to give bond in the sum of $25,000, for the payment to the register on the Monday of every week, of the whole amount of money collected during the week.

Sec. 2. The collector to enter upon his duties on the first Monday of March annually.

Sec. 3, prescribes the mode of removing the collector from office.

Sec. 4, authorizes the Mayor to suspend the collector when charged with official misconduct.

Sec. 5, provides for filling vacancy, in case of death, resignation, &c.

Sec. 6, successor to complete collections.

Sec. 7, relates to the procuring the necessary books, &c.

Sec. 8, tax bills to be left, &c.

Sec. 9, persons who pay their taxes before the first of July, to be allowed a deduction of 5 per cent.; before the first of August 4 per cent.; before the first of Sept. 3 per cent.; before the first of October 2 per cent.; before the first of Nov. 1 per cent.

Sec. 10. The payment of taxes to be enforced by distress or otherwise after the 31st December, and if the collector neglect to enforce payment on or before the succeeding March, to become personally responsible for the amount.

Sec. 11. Persons neglecting to pay the amount of their taxes by the first of January ensuing their levy, to be charged one per cent. upon the amount.

Sec. 12. Collector to receive in payment of taxes the orders of jevors upon the register when endorsed by that officer.

Sec. 13. Collectors authorized to appoint deputies and clerks, &c.

Sec. 14. Distress to be made in the name of the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, directed to such person as the collector may think proper, who shall have the fees now authorized by law. No distress until thirty days after delivery of the account for taxes.

Sec. 15. Collector to receive a salary of $2000 per annum, in lieu of fees and commissions.

Sec. 16. Assistants to be paid $650 per annum, except the one designated as assistant collector, who shall receive $750.

Sec. 17. City commissioners to add 3 per cent. on assessments for paving, new wells and pumps, to be collected by the city collector and paid to register.

Sec. 18. Collector to give public notice when his tax bills are prepared, the inducement for prompt payment, and the penalty for neglect.

Sec. 19. Collector to enforce payment of paving and pump taxes within sixty days of the warrant of assessment, or to become personally responsible.

Sec. 20, repeals conflicting ordinances.

INAUGURATION. On Thursday next General William H. Harrison will become the President of the United States. Great preparations are being made by the citizens of the District to have a grand parade on the occasion of his inauguration. To public manifestations of respect for the chief magistrate of the country there can be no objection; but care must be taken that these tokens of regard exceed not the limits of good taste and of republican simplicity. We know that the Hindoos are not the only people who worship the Rising Sun; and we would warn such devotees against substituting the object of their idolatry for their country. Although General Harrison must feel gratified at the confidence which has elevated him to the distinguished station which he is about to occupy, he can look calmly from the eminence upon which he stands to his congregated fellow citizens, without becoming dizzy, or believing himself to be an object to be Deified. That the General knows "a hawk from a handsaw" some of his flatterers are convinced; for he has had the good sense to turn in disgust from their highly wrought eulogiums and Deifying comparisons. He is too old a bird to be caught with chaff. Elected to the first office of his country by a large majority of his fellow citizens, he will feel the necessity of guarding himself against the influence of the interested, and of devoting his whole energies to the promotion of the general happiness. We believe him to be enlightened and patriotic, and that he will have the laudable ambition to terminate his public career as it was commenced, in the exertion to promote the honour and glory of his country.

FIREMEN'S BALL. The Firemen's Ball to come off this evening at the Assembly Rooms, will be a magnificent affair truly—there will be an array of beutiful bewitching nymphs, such as has seldom been seen in any assembly. From the known abilities of the gentlemen engaged in the management of this ball, there can be no doubt that it will give general satisfaction to all concerned. We will be there of course, to take notes and make observations of Cupids progress among the beaux and belles. Go ladies and gentlemen, don't be absent on any account.

BURNT TO DEATH. A fire took place in a small house in French alley, between Light and Charles streets, on Saturday night, about eight o'clock, when an old colored woman was burnt to death in the flames. Two yellow women, who lived in the same house, have been taken up, on suspicion of having set it on fire.

PRACTISING. On Saturday last, having some business in the neighborhood of Green Mount Cemetery, we had occasion to pass through Howard's Park. On approaching the woods, we were struck with an incoherent medley of frightful and alarming sounds, to describe or imitate which, would baffle the power of man. At intervals of about thirty seconds, could be heard, rising upon the damp atmosphere, and reverberating from bough to bough of the giant oaks which stud that romantic forrest, a yell, frightful to the very soul, and hideous as the scream of an untamed panther. Struck with novelty, and terrified with awe, we stopped short, and gave ear, for the purpose, if possible, of divining the mystery. Now would break forth a deep, hoarse, bass voice, pronouncing, in audible language, the words—"half—past—eleven—o'clock!" Then, for a moment, would reign dead silence. Again, would be heard, commencing, as if on B flat, and rising, by degrees, to G sharp, another voice, seemingly better modulated, saying, "'Tis past—twelve—o'—oko—clock—and—a—starlight—morn—ing." After the repetition of various sentences similar to the above, differing only in the number of the hour, there came forth a voice so positively shocking, as to make our whole frame nervous. It was worse than the screeching of a cracked fiddle—the squealing of a stuck pig—the sonorous notes of African "tum, tum," or the braying of a donkey. Finally, it died away upon the winds, saying, "past—twelve—o'—ho—clock, and—oha—yes—a—cloudy—morn—ing." After this closed, we were induced to advance a few steps towards the place from whence these wild, incomprehensible sounds proceeded. On reaching the summit of the hill, we saw, at a distance, a group of sturdy looking men, twenty or twenty five in number, some of whom had rattles, others spantoons, &c., all fixed up and ready for action. We paused a moment in wonder and surprise.—The thought, however, instantly struck us, that these might be the newly-appointed officers of the night watch, who had repaired thither for the purpose of practising, in order that they might be the better prepared to enter upon the discharge of their duties.

A few bailiffs and police officers were also seen in the distance, having blank pieces of paper in their hands, representing writs, and in the act of serving them upon a couple of loafers "hard by," whom they had hired, we opine, for the purpose of assisting them through, and carrying out the blank motions. Time grew late, and we left the scene of action much pleased that we had gotten additional information relative to the variety of character exhibited in human nature.

A MERCHANT NON-PLUSSED. A genteely dressed man, calling himself Walker, was taken to the police office yesterday, charged with obtaining money under false pretences. On Wednesday of last week, the accused stepped into the shoe store of Mr. Thomas Williams, on Market street, represented himself to be a southern merchant on his return from New York, where he had been purchasing goods—that he put up for the time being at Barnum's, &c.—and that Mr. Williams would oblige him much if he would lend him $3. The man talked reasonably and very plausibly, which induced Mr. Williams to comply with his request. He (Walker) offered his check on the Chesapeake bank for the amount; but Mr. W. wishing to be honorable with a fellow merchant, refused. The larkey stepped out and nothing further was seen of him until yesterday, when he was recognized by Mr. Williams' son, at Fairmount, and taken from thence to the police office, when, upon being taken before squire Gorsuch, was sent to prison. Deputy high constable Cook was of opinion that Mr. Walker had walked into more than one such act of swindling—so think we.

MORE REGULATING. We have heretofore noticed the bill introduced by Mr. Graves, of this city to regulate the Banks of Maryland—but this bill, as we have before stated, contains nothing in reference to the management of banks, but their resumption and continuance of specie payments. Mr. Willis, of the house of delegates has introduced another bill to regulate the banks, which we have not seen, but which we hope contains provisions to protect these institutions from fraud and mismanagement, and thereby to give greater security to note and stock holders. Recent events have shown that additional legal regulations are necessary to effect these objects, and we trust that the bill of Mr. Willis covers the whole ground. The principal losses sustained by Banks in their ordinary course of business, have arisen from what may be termed favoritism—that is, enormous loans to particular individuals. This is wrong, and a restriction in this particular might be advantageous.

FORCIBLE ARGUMENT. We were informed by one of our deputy sheriffs, that within a few months past he had entierly "lost the run" of a number of individuals who had previously been good customers to the state in her assault and battery department. He was astonished that these individuals should disappear so suddenly, without returning once, at least, to shake hands and bid farewell. A few evenings since, however, Mr. sheriff made a discovery of his old familiar faces. And where, reader, think you he found them? Why, attentively engaged in listening to a very excellent temperance address, which was being delivered in one of our churches, to a large and respectable body of people, nearly all of whom had subscribed to the temperance pledge. These facts, simple as they are, speak volumes.

INHUMANITY! On Thursday last two men were brought before the Aldermen at Philadelphia charged with quartering and burning a black man whom they were discovered in the act of kidnapping. Upon an investigation of the matter by the Aldermen it turned out to be a wooden man they had removed from his stand at a tobacco shop.

FRONT STREET THEATRE. Mr. Fenno's Benefit. Be it distinctly remembered that Mr. Fenno, a sterling actor, and much of a gentleman, proffers his benefit this evening. The performances will consist of the "Married Rake," a most excellent farce, and a drama of much merit, dramatized by Mr. Fenno, called "The Scourge of the Ocean," besides a number of songs, dances, &c.

"Old Joe Sweeny," one of the tallest kind of darkies and banjo-players in these parts, has very liberally volunteered his services in aid of Mr. Fenno this evening. Mrs. Hill will dance the "Highland Fling," which, of itself, is worth the price of admission. There may be expected the best of times, and we predict an overflowing house.

ATTEMPT TO BREAK JAIL. On Saturday last, about half past 12 o'clock, another attempt was made by the prisoners to break jail. They succeeded in getting out of room No. 3, by picking a hole through the wall. They then raised an iron grate which covered a sewer leading from the jail to the Falls. Nine of the prisoners got into this sewer, made their way to the outer end of it, and would have escaped in a few minutes, had they not been discovered by Mr. Westwood, one of the jail officers. While these were being arrested, a fellow named John Smith attempted to scale the wall, but was arrested by Mr. Wilcocks.

STOCKS. In the New York stock market, there was a buoyant feeling on Friday, and several descriptions advanced slightly. Illinois 6's improved ¼ per cent; Delaware and Hudson, 1¼; N. A. Trust, the same; Paterson Railroad, ½; Stonington, 1¼; N. Jersey, 1; Harlem, 1¼; and Long Island, ¼. United States went as low as 17¼, but closed at 18, which is a decline of ¼. The total amount of sales of all descriptions was 4,339 shares.

In Philadelphia, the sales were very limited at the first board. U. S. Bank, 17½, which fell to 15, and afterwards rallied, and closed at 16.

FLOUR. The following is the price of flour at the latest dates at the undermentioned places:—Cincinnati, $3 25 to $3 37½; Richmond, $4 50 to $4 62½; Norfolk, $4 87½ to $5; Philadelphia, $4 50 to $4 56; New York, $4 62 to $4 75, and Boston, $4 68 to $4 75.

SHOW ME THE MAN THAT PAT RILEY STRUCK. An individual named Patrick Reiley (though not Patrick Reiley, tavern-keeper) was brought before Justice Pennington on the 26th inst. charged with assaulting a person named Scott. The offender was released on giving security to keep the peace.

FIRE. Kemble's Steam Saw Mill at the foot of Market street, near the Rail Road Depot, in Newark, N. J., was burnt about eight o'clock on Tuesday evening. It is said that the fire originated in friction, and that the loss is upwards of $8000.

MECHANICS IN DEMAND. The Cleveland Herald says that carpenters, joiners and chairmakers of good moral character, may find a favorable location by applying immediately at the post office, Berea, Ohio.

THREATENING. Hugh McNulty was taken before Justice Pennington on the 26th inst. upon the accusation of threatening the life of a gentleman named Chase. Released on security.

INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS. A bill has passed the Legislature of Michigan appropriating the sum of $650,000 for the continuation and completion of the southern and central rail roads in that state.

AN APPEAL OF THE WASHINGTON TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.

The unexampled success which has crowned the exertions of the Washington Temperance Society of Baltimore, the extraordinary increase of members, and the general interest awakened in the cause of total abstinence from intoxicating drinks, have induced us to apply for a charter to the Legislature of Maryland, that we might enjoy all the privileges of incorporated associations, and maintain an attitude of becoming dignity before the public.

One cherished object is, the erection of an edifice of suitable dimensions for the accommodation of our own numerous and constantly increasing society, as well as for the convenience of other Temperance, Library, or Musical Associations, which may choose to occupy it.

The ground formerly occupied by Christ church, near Market street bridge, has been secured, and a more appropriate location, for a large public building, could not be desired.

We design to raise the money by stock, in shares of $10 each, for the particulars of which, and plan of the building, &c. we beg leave to refer to the advertisement of the Executive and Building Committees.

It is our earnest wish to dispose of this stock, and we appeal most confidently to the members of Temperance Societies generally, to aid us in this laudable enterprise. We shall furnish them with a most commodious place of meeting, and the very fact of many Societies convening at the same place, will tend greatly to concentrate our energies and redouble our influence.

We appeal to the various Literary Societies of our city, who at present, have but limited or very expensive accommodations. The rooms we design to furnish, will be admirably adapted to the purposes of such associations. We appeal to property holders and capitalists to come to our aid, believing that a safer investment of money could not be made. We appeal to the friends of public improvement, and to men of architectural taste, as we design to erect an edifice which will be an ornament to our city, consecrated as it will be to the cause of humanity, literature and science.

A spacious public building of this kind has long been wanted in our city. It has been with great difficulty that some of our literary associations could procure rooms sufficiently capacious for their lectures, during the present winter, and then only, at an enormous rent. We now propose to furnish halls for the accommodation of such institutions, and we conceive that we have a right to call upon them for encouragement. We invite all who feel interested in the promotion of morality and science in our city, to aid us in this praiseworthy enterprise, believing that incalculable benefits will thereby be conferred on us and our posterity. We further and lastly appeal to the Ladies of our city, they being so much interested in the cause we have espoused—a cause so fraught with blessings to themselves and the rising generation.

WM. K. MITCHELL, Pres't.

THE BUILDING COMMITTEE OF THE WASHINGTON TEMPERANCE SOCIETY beg leave to report—

That they have selected the scite for the Hall in the lot formerly occupied by Christ Church, adjoining Baltimore street Bridge, it being the most central situation in our city, and on one of the principal thoroughfares. We propose to erect thereon a plain and substantial building, on the most improved plan, suitable for the various societies and public meeting. It is contemplated that the main floor or Hall will be capacious enough to seat comfortably 3500 persons, other rooms for 1000 to 1500 each, leaving one room to be used for a Library and Reading Room, should it be advisable,—also, six stores fronting on Baltimore street, which is calculated will bring a rent of 1500 dollars—in addition to the receipts of the several furnished rooms, which we have every reason to presume one or more will be occupied every day or evening in the year by the various societies, and at a reasonable rent. On the building we purpose erecting a TOWER, with an ILLUMINATED CLOCK, and an ALARM BELL. Your committee are of the opinion that the Hall, after paying the interest of the stock, will leave a surplus in the hands of the society which will not only enable it to redeem the stock at an early period, but give them the means to establish a LIBRARY and READING ROOM, free of charge. All of which is respectfully submitted.

The undersigned, appointed by the Washington Temperance Society of the city of Baltimore as an Executive Committee, for the purpose of erecting and disposing of a sufficiency of stock to build a Hall in aid of the Temperance cause, do hereby present the following resolutions as the basis upon which they solicit aid in carrying out the noble and praiseworthy objects of the Society:

First. The stock shall be issued in shares of ten dollars each—one dollar of which to be paid at the time of subscribing, and the balance in instalments of not more than one dollar per month thereafter.

Second. On payment of the last instalment, transferable certificates of stock shall be issued in the name of the Washington Temperance Society of Baltimore, redeemable at her pleasure; bearing an annual interest of the nett proceeds of the Hall, to be divided annually; reserving all the surplus over and above six per cent. for the purpose of redeeming the stock.

Third. All moneys received by the Committee shall be deposited within twenty-four hours thereafter, in some safe chartered Bank in the city—as may from time to time be designated, and when so deposited, shall not be withdrawn, or any part thereof, unless by vote of the Committee; and no draft shall be valid unless signed by the President and Secretary, and endorsed by the Treasurer of this Committee.

Committee: Major E. Stansbury, David Carson, Wm. Reese, James McCurley, Christian Keener, David E. Thomas, Daniel Bixler, Robert Neilson, Geo. K. Quail, David Martin, Joseph Boun, Peter Wells.

No II.

☞ I regret that the agreeable surprise expressed by "A Stockholder and Consumer" at my calculations of the expenses and income of a Gas Company should have been converted into sorrow at finding the small dividends made by a similar company in the city of Baltimore. It seems that, on reading my former publication, he ran as fast as possible to that company to ascertain why it was that they paid such small dividends, and was satisfied when assured that I had made many mistakes in my estimates of the expenses of conducting a gas institution, and in the amount of receipts for gas. I did not mention the Gas Company of this city in my publication, yet "A Stockholder and Consumer" applies all my remarks to that company. Having thus gratuitously introduced the affairs of that company, I shall take the liberty of asking him a few questions, and of making another calculation. Does he not know that the price I allowed for coal was more than two cents above that paid by the Gas Company by contract? that the expenses allowed by me for manufacturing gas are greater than those paid by the company? and that the receipts of the company for the sale of coke, hauled with their own carts, are greater than I estimated? The gross amount of revenue as estimated in my communication in the Clipper of the 25th February, is $104,764.

I will now give a second estimate, for the correctness of the principal items of which I will refer to the consumers of gas. I assume that there are nearly twelve hundred consumers of gas in the city of Baltimore. How far this belief is founded on fact will be shown by reference to a set of books at the Company's office, kept by a person formerly in the employment of the Gas Company, and who for a number of years examined every metre, I believe, in the city, monthly. But I will say eleven hundred consumers. Of these

200 burn 5000 cubic feet at $4 per 1000—$20 per year,	$4,000
400 burn 12,500 c. f. or $50 per annum,	20,000
500 burn 37,500 c. f. or $150 "	75,000
Receipts for tar, lime and coke,	4,387
Public lights,	2,000
Gross receipts per annum,	$105,387

Should this statement not satisfy "A Stockholder and Consumer," as to the accuracy of my former estimates, there are still other facts which can be presented for his consideration and that of the public.

HANCE'S Compound Syrup of Horehound.

CERTIFICATE. Mrs. WILLIAMS, of Petersburg, Va. caught a very severe cold last fall, and thinking it would wear off in the course of time itself, neglected it to a very great extent. Finding, however, it did not leave her, she then tried various remedies, some of which subdued the cough in a measure, but none effectually cured it.

About a month ago, her husband thought she had better try a change of air, so she came to Baltimore, where she first became acquainted with the COMPOUND SYRUP OF HOREHOUND—the first bottle produced such relief, that before she had finished it she determined to purchase two bottles and return home. Price 50 cents per bottle.

Prepared and for sale by SETH S. HANCE,

FIFTH WARD COFFEE HOUSE.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Clipper.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27, 1841.

It is really surprising how much work Congress will do when they are forced to it. Last night, after I closed, the Naval Appropriation Bill was reported, and this morning it was passed with a slight amendment. Those members who had determined on making long speeches, were cried down by a simultaneous call of "question—question." This plan is almost as good as the practice of "coughing" (not cuffing) members down in the British House of Commons. If our legislators would spin their long yarns on the stump, and, when here, attend to business, Congress need never remain in session above three months in the year. This may appear strange, but, when we consider that the bill involving a great amount, for the pay and mileage of members, passed both Houses in twenty minutes, the idea of impracticability will vanish. Yesterday, on the re-assembling of the House, after the recess, about twenty members appeared. A call of the House was moved, when a common-sense man from Massachusetts wisely observed that more business would be done without a quorum than with one. He was right, for the call was not ordered, and a great deal of business was despatched; but when a quorum appeared, the effect of wine at dinner displayed itself in a most indescribable kind of eloquence.

Mr. Jones, the Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, who reported the Naval Bill, expressed himself much surprised at the loose charges made in relation to the ruinous and inefficient state of our navy. He shewed that we had 26 vessels in commission, which vessels were so judiciously arrayed, as to furnish ample protection to our commerce. Besides the vessels already in commission, he shewed that the frame timbers for the following vessels, were prepared, and ready to be put together at a short notice, viz: 15 ships of the line, 18 frigates, 15 sloops of war, 9 steamers, and 9 brigs and schooners.

Mr. Pickens protested against any legislation in anticipation of a war, for if that state of things existed, it would be our duty to appoint not two millions, but tens of millions. He contended that the small amount asked for in the bill was sufficient at present for all practical purposes.

The army bill was next taken up, when after the rejection of sundry proposed amendments, a long debate arose on an amendment making an appropriation for the service in Florida. The amendment was finally agreed to, and the bill passed.

The Indian appropriation bill was next taken up and passed.

In the Senate, after the disposal of some private business, the finance committee reported the general appropriation bill from the House with sundry amendments. Without coming to any conclusion thereon, the doors were then closed, and the Senate went into executive session.

[Reported for the Clipper.]

BALTIMORE CITY COURT.

Present—Judges Brice, Nisbet and Worthington.

Saturday, Feb. 27. The jury in the case of Henry Gunter came into court this morning with a verdict of not guilty. Messrs. Buchanan and Mayer ably and energetically conducted the case on behalf of the prisoner, and there is not the least doubt but their forcible arguments had the proper effect on the minds of the Jury. Counsel have seldom better acquitted themselves in any case than they have in this. We understand that the Jury were in their room until 3 o'clock this morning before they agreed.

The jury were finally discharged.

Matthias Johnson, negro, charged with an assault upon John Mumma, a white boy, about 14 or 15 years of age. He was declared guilty, and sentenced to be imprisoned one day.

John Peaster was charged with an assault upon a white lady. He was declared guilty, and fined $1 and costs.

Lloyd Stephens, negro, was charged with cruelly treating two horses in his charge, and with resistance to officer Seward in the discharge of his duty. Guilty. Fined $1 and costs, and sentenced to one months imprisonment in each case.

William Schaeffer, charged with an assault on a German. The parties compromised the case, and the court imposed a nominal fine of $1 and costs.

In the case of John Robinson, negro, convicted of enticing away the slave of Mrs. Hanna, the motion for arrest of judgment could not be sustained, and he was accordingly sentenced to be imprisoned in the Maryland Penitentiary until the 20th of April, 1844.

James Thomas, alias James H. Anderson, negro, convicted of murder in the second degree, by killing Wesley B. Cook, was sentenced this day by the court to be imprisoned in the Maryland Penitentiary until the 15th day of July, 1855.

The court adjourned until the 13th of March next.

N. B. In reporting the trial of Gunter, which appeared in Saturday's paper, the reporter inadvertently made a mistake in placing the name of Mr. Wm. Palmer, one of the witnesses, to the testimony of another individual. In the evidence as given, Mr. Palmer is made to appear as keeper of the engine house, which he is not—to know Plain, (the deceased) and to describe scenes at the tavern, of which he knew nothing. Gunter was a tenant of Mr. Palmer's, and he (Palmer) was called up merely to testify to his general character.

TAXING LUXURIES. The Louisville Advertiser says that "the Kentucky House of Representatives have added to a new tax bill upon carriages and gold watches, a proposition to tax 'other luxuries, such as whiskey, tobacco and hemp!'—Whiskey and tobbacco luxuries! One is an unmitigated curse, and the other an intolerable nuisance! Hemp a luxury? Why, it is an article of indispensable necessity, as long as the whiskey and tobacco are used."—N. Y. Com.

The Toronto Examiner states that Sir George Arthur has accepted an appointment to the deputy governorship of Upper Canada, with a salary of $4000 per annum.

A Monument is to be erected at Mount Auburn to the memory of Lieutenant Underwood, and Midshipman Henry, by the officers of the exploring squadron.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAIL ROAD.

PROPOSALS are invited for the following described MATERIALS to be used in the construction of the Railway Track between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland:

Sawed Lumber for Under-sills and String-pieces.

54,583 sticks of Sawtling, 4½x8 inches, and 20 ft. long, clear of stump shot, containing 2,273,000 feet, board measure.
54,500 do do 3x10 do do 3,725,000 feet.

Making together, 6,000,000 feet.

Hewn Timber for Ties and Bucks.

105,600 sticks, hewn flat on two opposite sides, to a thickness of 6½ inches, and width of 6 inches, and 7 feet long.
30,200 sticks, flattened in same manner to a thickness of three inches—width and length same as the preceding.

Cast Iron for Chairs and Plates

52,800 Middle do do 4 do 211,000
52,800 Bottom Plates, do 2½ do 165,000

Total lbs. cast iron, 765,000 lbs.

Wrought Iron for Fastenings

105,600 Screw-bolts, 7½ inches long, and ¾ in diam. wt 1 lb. each, 105,600
105,600 Nuts for same, (1 7 8 sq'e, 9-16 thick,) wt. ½ lb. each, 52,800
105,600 Washers, of a wedge form, 3½ inches long by 2½ wide, and ½ inch average thickness, and weighing 9 16 lb. 59,136
105,600 Plates of rolled Zinc, same length and width, and 1 16 thick, weighing 10 to the pound, 10,560
844,800 Hook-headed Spikes, 4½ inches long, 7-16 square in the shank, and weighing 4½ oz. each, 234,716

The Sawed Lumber may be of white or yellow pine, with not more than an inch of sap on two edges of the stick; free from large knots, shakes or decay of any kind. A portion of the 4½8 scantling may be proposed for to be furnished, of white oak, under the same conditions as to quality. The points of delivery may be at Baltimore, Georgetown, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any other point upon the line of the road, and the proposal will state the places as well as times at which the Lumber will be furnished.

Proposers to whom more than one of the places just named are accessible, will separately state their prices for delivery at each; so as to allow an option to the Company in regard to them should the proposal be accepted.

The hewn Timber, intended for the cross-ties and support-blocks, may be of white oak, rock-oak or chestnut oak, or of chestnut. It must be sound wood, and straight in one direction. If the proposer prefers delivering it in the rough state, and does not wish to undertake the hewing of it to the required dimensions he can so word his proposal, and in that case the size of the sticks must be such as to permit them, when dressed, to be of the full dimensions specified, clear of bark and axe-kerf. If the timber is cut while the bark is loose, it must be stripped off before the delivery. The delivery may be made upon any point of the line, between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland, and the points between which it will take place must be stated. There are to every mile of track 31,680 feet board measure of 4½x8, and 26,400 feet of 3x10 scantling, 1056 cross ties dressed to 4½ inches thick, and 302 dressed to 3 inches thick. Proposals will not be received for a less quantity of any of the kinds of timber, than will lay a mile of track.

The Castings for the chairs and plates will be of an easy pattern—they must be of strong and sound metal, and smoothly cast—the contractor furnishing the patterns. The screw bolts and nuts will be of sound, tough iron and made with exacts as to the required form and size. The washers will be of bar-iron, rolled with the proper section, cut off and punched for the passage of the bolt. The zinc plates similarly made. The hook-headed spikes to be of iron of as good a quality as that of the screw bolts.

The Iron Fastenings just described may be delivered at Baltimore, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any point of the line of the road between the two latter places and the places and times of delivery will be stated in the proposals. There are to every mile of track 7656 lbs. of castings—1584 lbs. of bolts and nuts—591 lbs. of iron washers—105 lbs. of zinc plates, and 2247 lbs. of spikes. No proposal for a less quantity than will supply 10 miles will be received.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid thereon—reserving to the Company the option of paying the said four fifths in Baltimore City 6 per cent stock at par—or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to the contract.

If the materials contracted for or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered, and no estimates or payments shall be made or on account of materials delivered before the time specified for commencing the delivery of the same. The monthly payments shall be made at the Company's offices in Baltimore Cumberland, or Martinsburgh, Virginia, at the option of the contractor, and the final payments shall be made in Baltimore. The manner and times in which the materials shall be furnished on the different parts of the line will be specifically provided for in the contracts, and particulars will be given on application to the undersigned. It will be required that about one half of the whole quantity of materials shall be delivered as early as possible between now and the 1st of December next. A model of the rail and its supports and fastenings will be ready for inspection at the Company's office in Baltimore by the 20th current. The proposals will be directed under seal to the subscriber, either at Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh—and will be received up to the 15th of March proximo. By order of the President and Directors,
BENJ. H. LATROBE, Esq. Loc. and Cons't.

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT must be obvious to every one, that an Intelligence Office, when conducted under proper principles, and regulated upon an honest and equitable course, is of great convenience and utility to the citizens of a populous and thriving city like this. The subscriber, being aware of this fact, and with the knowledge that a degree of dissatisfaction has existed from the manner in which other offices of the kind have been heretofore conducted, he has therefore taken great pains to conduct his establishment in such a manner as to deserve public confidence, and be worthy of the public patronage.

PERSONS making application at this office for servants, or help of any other kind, will deposit, in advance, 50 cents each, for which they will have access to the records, properly kept for that purpose, and on which they find the names, residences, references, &c. of the servants or other help—in case that neither of them answers the desired purpose, the money will be returned. Yearly subscriptions received at $1.50 each.

AGENCY. HOUSES, FARMS, VACANT LOTS, GROUND RENTS, LANDS, &c. bought and sold on commission. SLAVES, for life or a term of years, bought or sold on commission, and the highest prices obtained. Persons having slaves, which they wish to dispose of, will do well to apply at this office before selling.

N. B. All letters addressed to this office (post paid) thankfully received and promptly attended to.

COMMENT If we examine the nature of the above diseases, and the situation of the parts affected, we must consider it a very important object to be able to obtain a remedy at once certain in its action, and at the same time composed of such ingredients as will prevent the possibility of discovery while using it. It is a fact well known to many, that most of the remedies offered for these diseases are composed of such nauseous drugs, as to render it almost impossible to continue their use without creating a sickness at the stomach or other unpleasant consequences. Such being the case there can be no doubt but such a remedy as Vallier's French Pills, will meet the universal approbation, being entirely free from those objections; pleasant in their operation, and prompt in removing the disease. The proprietor would here remark, that the efficacy of these Pills in the disorders alluded to, are not based upon supposition; on the contrary, it is founded upon rational experience, having used them in a successful practice for upwards of two years, he feels confident of their superiority over the remedies hitherto employed.

VEGETABLE COUGH SYRUP. For the cure of Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Pain and Soreness in the Breast, Influenza, Consumption, Hoarseness, Difficult Breathing, Dyspepsia, and diseases of the Breast and Lungs generally.

This SYRUP is composed of Irish Moss, combined with such other articles as have been found best calculated to afford relief in the above named diseases, and in cases approaching consumption, attended with bleeding at the lungs—and never known to fail. Common Colds, which are generally the effect of obstructed perspiration, will yield to its influence in a few hours. When used in Asthma, Hoarseness, Wheezing, Shortness of Breath, it affords immediate relief. In Whooping Cough, it is without a rival For sale by

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND,
For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Strictures, Diabete or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. MORE PROOFS of the efficacy of Doctor SWAYNE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY.

To Dr. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

STANZAS.

Should all the ills which life attend,
Their shadows throw around my course;
Should sorrow's sting its anguish blend,
With every species of remorse:

Should tempests rage, and blights befal,
One used to every worldly good;
Should friends and kindred, mankind, all
O; press me, spurn me, all they could.

Oh! might my aching brow recline
Upon some bosom, whence there flowed
Such feelings as communed with mine,
And were on me, alone, bestowed.

My heart would then its griefs forget,
I'd banish every thought of care;
The evils which my path beset,
Would lose the power to harm me there.

From Graham's Magazine for March.

THE CIRCASSIAN BRIDE.

BY E. WETHERALD.

"She walks in beauty, like the nights
Of cloudless climes and starry skies."
BYRON.

Nerinda was the daughter of a shepherd, who dwelt in one of the charming portions of Circassia. If beauty was a blessing, Nerinda was blessed beyond the ordinary lot of mortals, for the fame of her loveliness had extended through the neighboring vallies, and at the early age of fourteen her hand had been sought by many, with an earnestness which showed her parents what a treasure they possessed in their eldest born. But no one had been able to obtain her.

Money is not so plentiful in the vales of Circassia, as in the mart of Constantinople; and few of the neighboring youths might venture therefore to aspire to her hand. There appeared, every day, less probability that the fair girl would be permitted to pass her life amidst scenes endeared to her by a thousand childish and tender recollections. Nerinda felt this, and her eye became less bright, and her step less buoyant, than when she trod the flowery turf a few short months before, a happy careless child, attending those flocks now abandoned to the care of the younger children. She became pensive and melancholy. Her rich color faded, and her parent saw with surprise and concern that the dazzling beauty on which so much depended, would be tarnished by the very means they were taking to preserve it. What was to be done? She must resume her old employment, since healthful exercise was of such consequence to her appearance; she could do so in the neighboring meadows without danger, accompanied by her sister Leila. Oh! how happy was Nerinda, when she received this unlooked for indulgence; with what haste did she braid and arrange her beautiful hair, and fasten on the veil without which she must not be seen; then joining her sister, she visited every spot endeared to her by memory, and at length, seating herself on a mossy bank which separated her father's possessions from those of a neighboring shepherd, began to arrange the many flowers she had culled into beautiful bouquets and chaplets, an occupation befitting one so young and lovely; but even whilst her hands were thus employed, it was evident her thoughts were far distant, for she fell into reveries so deep, that her sister, unable to arouse her from her abstraction, became weary of attempting it, and returned to her fleecy charge, leaving Nerinda to muse alone.

Nerinda believed herself alone, but immediately after the departure of Leila, a finely formed youth had crossed the stream, and stood at the distance of a few paces, gazing on her with a passionate tenderness which betokened the strength of his attachment. Almost afraid to disturb her meditations, yet anxious to obtain a single word, a single glance, he remained motionless; waiting, hoping that she might raise her eyes, and give him permission to advance. She raised them at length, uttered an exclamation of surprise, and in a moment the youth was at her feet. "Nerinda!" "Hassan!" were the first words that escaped their lips.

"Do I indeed see thee? and dost thou still love thy Nerinda?" said the maiden.

"Love thee?" replied the youth in an impassioned tone, "thy image is entwined with every fibre of my heart. They may tear thee from me, they may destroy me if they will, but while life remains I cannot cease to love."

'Alas,' said Nerinda, 'weeks have passed since I saw thee, and I feared—I—.' She stopped confused, for Hassan had seized her hand, and was pressing it to his lips with an energy which showed how well he understood what was passing in her mind.

"Oh! Nerinda,' said he, 'I have entreated, I have implored thy father to bestow thee on me, but in vain, for all the money I could offer was not one-tenth of the sum he requires; yet do not despair," he said, as the color faded from her cheek, "I still may hope if thou remainest constant."

"This very morning,' continued Hassan, 'I sought thy father; at first, he was unwilling to listen to me. At length, I prevailed on him to hearken, even if he refused his assent to what I proposed; but he did not refuse. Pleased with my anxiety to obtain thee, he has promised that if in two years I can gain the required sum, thou shalt be my wife; if I cannot, he will wait no longer, but part with thee to him who will pay the highest price.'

The voice of the youth faltered—he was scarcely able to continue,' 'in two days I am to take all the money my father can spare, and join the caravan which proceeds to the south; fear not,' said he, replying to the alarm expressed in her varying countenance, 'there is no danger, the caravan is large, and, if fortunate as a trader, I shall return before two years have passed to claim my plighted bride. Wilt thou be true?—may I trust thee?' were questions the lover asked, though he felt sure the answers would be such as he could desire, and when the assurance was given, he for the first time ventured to impress a kiss on those beautiful lips. Long did they thus converse, but at length they parted; Nerinda promising to come to the same spot on the next evening to bid him farewell.

They parted, Hassan vainly endeavoring to inspire Nerinda with his own hopes. She almost sank under the trial, and it was many days before she had strength to revisit the bank of turf, their accustomed trysting place. When she did, how changed did all appear; the flowers were still blooming around; the stream flowed on with its accustomed murmur; the birds carolled sweetly as of old; where then was the change? Alas! it was in her own heart; joy and happiness has fled with Hassan, and melancholy had taken their place.

Two years and six months had passed since the departure of the youth, and there seemed little probability of his return; even his venerable father mourned him as dead, when a company of traders entered the mountains. One of whom was an old acquaintance in the valley. He renewed his solicitations to the father of Nerinda, that she might be placed under his charge; offering the highest price, and promising that her future lot should be as brilliant and delightful as her past had been obscure. The shepherd was greatly disappointed by the non-appearance of Hassan, for he would have preferred keeping his daughter near him if he could have done so with advantage to himself, but, being poor, as well as avaricious, and imagining he should be perfectly happy if possessed of so much wealth as the trader offered, he consented to part with her who had ever been his chief delight, and the pride of his heart.

Language cannot paint the consternation of Nerinda, when she learned her father's determination. The delay of Hassan she accounted for by supposing he had not yet acquired the full amount necessary for his purpose, and hoped that after a while he would return to call her his. Now all hope was at an end. Hassan might still come, but she would be far distant, perhaps the wife of another. Her mother and sister, too, shared her grief, for they thought it would be impossible to live without Nerinda; but all entreaties and lamentations were in vain—the shepherd had made the bargain, and would abide by it; and she was hurried to the caravan in a state little short of insensibility.

And where was Hassan? He had determined in the first place to proceed with the caravan to Mecca, whither it was bound, and laying out the money he possessed in merchandise, to trade at the different towns on their route. Before they arrived at the holy city he had consequently so greatly increased his store, that he felt no doubt he should be able to return before the time appointed; but meeting soon afterward with a heavy loss, he was thrown back when he least expected it, and at the end of two years had not more than half the amount required. To return without it was useless, and he set about repairing his loss with a heavy heart. Six months passed in this endeavor, at the end of which time he found himself rich enough to return, but it was necessary he should proceed to Constantinople to settle some business, and join a caravan which was going toward his native country. His anxiety increased every day: of what avail would be his wealth, if she, for whose sake it had been accumulated, was lost forever?

The day before the one fixed for his departure from Constantinople, a company of traders arrived, bringing with them Circassian slaves. He happened to be passing by the slave-market, and impelled by sudden curiosity, entered the room. He had scarcely done so when he was struck by the graceful figure of one of the girls, which reminded him of Nerinda. He felt almost afraid to have her veil removed, then remembering that it would be impossible for her to recognize him in his present dress, and determining to suppress his emotions whatever the result, he made the request, which was instantly complied with. It was indeed Nerinda, but how changed! She stood before him pale as marble, with downcast eyes, looking as if no smile would ever again illumine those pensive features; once only a faint color tinged her cheek as he advanced toward her, then instantly gave place to more deathly paleness. The price was soon agreed upon, for the trader was now as anxious to get rid of his fair slave as he had been desirous to obtain her; having resigned the hope of making an immense profit in consequence of the continual dejection and grief she indulged, which had greatly impaired her health and beauty. Hassan ordered the trader to send her to his apartments immediately.

When he entered the room to which she had been conducted, he gently raised her veil. She looked up, and recognized him instantly; her joy was as unbounded as his own, but was displayed in a different manner. She threw herself into his arms and sobbed and wept. She was, however, at length able to listen tranquilly to the account of his adventures, and to relate her own.

The remembrance of his aged parent, doubly endeared by absence, and of his joyous childhood, were still alive in the breast of Hassan; and after a few days spent at Constantinople, he proposed to return to his native valley.

They set out, the health and beauty of Nerinda improving, in spite of the fatigues of their journey. The joy with which they were greeted was unbounded. All had given Hassan up for dead, and Nerinda was regarded as lost to them forever. Even her father had repented of his avarice, and would willingly have returned his gold, could he have once more had Nerinda by his side. Her mother and sisters hung around her with tears of joy; and the whole valley welcomed her return with glad rejoicings.

The young couple took up their residence with Hassan's father; many a visit did they pay to that bank of turf, the scene of their former meetings, and never did they look on that spot without feeling their bosom swell with emotions of gratitude to that kind Providence who had disposed all things for their good, and had watched over and protected them, even when they believed themselves deserted.

The Turk considers his wife as inferior to himself, but he loves her; he is pleased even with her whims, and would rush down forty cataracts to avenge an insult that has been offered.—St. Louis Daily Pennant.

It would be a much more forcible evidence of his affection, were he to rush up forty cataracts. N. O. Native American.

If, after rushing down and up one, he attempted a second descent, then would his devotedness be unquestionable.

VOL. III. NO. 144.] TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 2, 1841. [PRICE ONE CENT.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 27, 1841.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. The House was in session quite late yesterday, considering the early hour they now meet. The tax bill is still under consideration, and if they do not make greater progress than they have for the last three or four days, they will hardly be able to decide upon it before the time fixed for ending the session.

Mr. Causin, chairman of the committee on corporations, to which was referred the bill for an extension of the charters of the Frederick County and of the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank, requested that the bill be referred to the committee on ways and means.

Mr. Dalrymple obtained leave to bring in a bill to apprentice out the children of widowed white women in certain cases.

Mr. Gantt reported a bill entitled an act for the relief of the Annapolis and Elk Ridge Rail Road Company, which was ordered to be printed.

The House are at present in committee of the whole busily engaged in the consideration of the Tax Bill. They have at length got through the first section, in the discussion of which they have been engaged for the last day or two. This section designates the kind of property to be taxed, and it is but right that the committee should deliberate on what is perhaps the most important section of the bill.

SENATE. The bill to provide for the discharge of debtors from custody except in certain cases, was reported unfavorably upon and read a second time.

The bill authorising the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore to license Wood Hucksters was passed.

Mr. Scott reported a bill to prevent the collection of excess in wharfage in Baltimore.

CAPTURE OF A SLAVER. We have been favored with the subjoined extract from a letter to a gentleman of this city, dated St. Croix, Dec. 30.

I beheld, this morning, in company with several gentlemen, one of the most horrible sights my eyes ever encountered. An English brig-of-war which cruises in the vicinity of Porto Rico, while running from St. Thomas to this island, observed at a considerable distance a small dirty looking craft, which would not have been suspected as a slaver but from the number of men seen upon her deck. After a short chase the brig came up to her, and from her appearance the commander of the brig was satisfied she was no slaver, but concluded that after having taken the trouble of giving her a chase they might as well search her.—On opening the hatches they found the hold crammed with negroes from 8 to 12 years old, stark naked, with their heads shaved.

The crew of the slaver was immediately taken on board and the slaver manned and carried into this port.

This morning after breakfast, we engaged a boat and went alongside the slaver, and conversed some time with the lieutenant in command, on the subject of his vocation.

Several of the little sufferers were very ill, and one died last night. They were all placed around the sides of the vessel, and as we approached, they grinned and waved their hands at us, apparently quite happy and pleased with having their liberty on deck.

I do not regret that I took the trouble to see them, but I never desire to see another such horrible sight. The cargo belongs to a Spaniard in Porto Rico, whose loss will be 60,000 dollars. The brig has just fired a salute, which has been answered from the fort, and she is departing for Porto Rico, whence the slaver will be sent to Havana, where I suppose these unfortunate creatures will be apprenticed to Spanish masters.—N. Y. American.

CITY COUNCIL.

FIRST BRANCH, March 1. The Branch met pursuant to adjournment. Present, Mr. Snyder, President, and all the members.

Mr. Peregoy presented the petition of Solomon W. Wilson, praying a remuneration for sweeping Holland street. Referred to joint committee on markets.

Mr. Pinkney offered a resolution requiring that the joint committee on the harbor prepare an ordinance regulating the inspection of wood. Laid on the table.

Mr. J. S. Brown called up bill No. 18, being an ordinance relative to the opening of Vine-st., between Cove and Poppleton street. The bill was passed. A resolution relative to a part of the same street, was called up by Mr. Dallam, and passed.

A message was received from the Mayor, approving and signing a resolution in favor of William Russell. Also, to change the name of Long Lane.

Mr. Dallam, of the joint committee on streets, presented the report and resolution relative to the petition of Richard Phillips, praying for a special appropriation in consideration of services rendered by him in lettering streets. Laid on the table.

Mr. DeLoughrey offered the report and resolution of the joint committee on health, relative to the stagnant water near the Bel Air market, which were favorable.

Mr. Fields of the joint select committee on the division of wards, presented the report and resolution of said committee on said subject, which, upon being partly read, on motion of Mr. Cole, the further reading was postponed until the bill be printed.

Mr. Cole of the joint committee on markets, presented a report and resolution on the petition of John R. Wright and others, relative to changing the position of horses, &c., on Centre market. The resolution referred the aggrieved parties to the clerk of the market for redress.

Bill No. 12, being an ordinance relative to the opening and widening of streets, was returned from the Second Branch endorsed with proposed amendments. Laid on the table for further consideration.

On motion of Mr. Fenby, the above bill was called up, and the amendments as made by the Second Branch were concurred in.

Mr. Myers offered a preamble and resolution relative to city stock cancelled, being $183,495 18. The preamble and resolution were concurred in.

On motion of Mr. Brown, the Branch adjourned until to-morrow afternoon at half past three o'clock.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Commanders on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'sburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads and Storms!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the travellers being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 2, 1841.

AN EXHIBITION. The combined efforts of the reverend clergy and of the temperance Societies are exerted for the improvement of the religious, moral and social condition of our citizens, and these efforts have no doubt been signally successful: yet we have occasionally public exhibitions of the most loathsome character. One of these was witnessed on Sunday morning last, to the annoyance of the neighborhood in which it took place, and that of individuals on their way to places of worship. A woman, probably not above thirty years of age, amused a large concourse of young men and boys at the corner of Pitt and Exeter streets, for about two hours. She was drunk—but could keep her feet and use her tongue—and such a tongue—if the most horrible imprecations and blasphemous expressions could entitle any one to a seat on the ducking stool, she deserved at least an extra plunge in the falls.—She kept undisputed possession of the ground, the police officers either not knowing of the occurrence, or fearing to encounter the tongue and arms of the drunken virago.

And this woman was probably once a modest, timid maiden, who would shrink from the intrusive gaze of man, and offer up her petitions to the throne of grace to be preserved from temptation. Alas, now how fallen—a loathed and obscene and blaspheming object; the scorn of the virtuous and the sport of boys: and to intemperance she owes her present degraded and despised condition.

We hope that our police will prevent a repetition of such shameful exhibitions, particularly on the sabbath. They have a most injurious and demoralizing effect, for they familiarize the ears of children to the grossest and most indecorous language.

"Vice is a monster of such frightful mien,
That to be hated needs but to be seen;
We first endure, then pity, then embrace."

CONGRESS. As but two days more remain for the present Congress to continue in session, it will probably be as much as can be expected if the necessary appropriation bills be passed. Other matters, private and public, will have to lay over for the want of time. Had members discharged their duties—had they opened their eyes and closed their mouths instead of the reverse, the clerk's table would not now be loaded with a mass of unfinished business, but many of the important bills brought forward would have been disposed of. In parting with the members of the present Congress, we have to express no regret at their dissolution, for we think that they have most shamefully disregarded the interests of the country and their own duty—and have degraded the dignity of their stations by personal brawls, contemptible harangues and disorderly conduct. If they were to be tried after their political death as the kings of Egypt were after their natural, few would escape condemnation.—Towards men who have wilfully sacrificed interests which they were bound to guard and protect, we cannot mince our language. Plain terms are suitable to palpable offences; and as we call "a spade, a spade," so shall we use equally significant words to express our indignation of the want of honor and honesty in those who have abused the confidence which was reposed in them.—There are a few of the members who should be exempted from censure, and to whom the expression, "Well done, thou good and faithful servants" may be applied: to the balance we would say, "Depart ye workers of iniquity into everlasting" retirement.

SPRING BUSINESS. This is a season of preparation. At the commencement of spring, our mercantile community are engaged in laying in and arranging their assortments of goods suitable to the coming season, and in expectation of being able to receive and meet the orders of country merchants and others. From the local advantages possessed by our city—the direct and rapid communication from the interior by the means of internal improvements—the merchants of Baltimore have a right to anticipate an extensive demand for goods, and have, therefore, made commensurate exertions to accommodate customers.—We have no doubt of their ability to supply all goods that may be required by western and other merchants, and of as good quality and as low a price as they can be obtained elsewhere.

As to our mechanics, they rank equal to any in the Union; and merchants and traders who require articles in the mechanical line, need be under no apprehension of disappointment by coming to Baltimore to make their purchases. In short, we believe that all articles which may be required in an extensive country store, whether of dry goods, hardware, or hats, boots, shoes, saddles, &c., &c., can be had in this city on as advantageous terms as they can be purchased in any other city. We may, therefore, expect an active spring business.

☞We have been requested by Mr. Woodside, superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, to state, for the information of all persons who intend to go to Washington on Thursday next, that it is indispensably necessary for them to procure their tickets at the Pratt-street depot on Wednesday, in order to secure seats, and avoid any disappointment. The strictest punctuality will be observed in the starting of the different trains.

A DIFFERENCE. The notes of the U. S. Bank were at a discount of 15 per cent. at New Orleans on the 20th ult. Four days previous they were at a premium of 2¼ to 3 per cent.

COLLECTOR OF NEW YORK. It appears from the National Intelligencer of yesterday, that Jesse Hoyt, Esq. collector of the port of New York, has resigned, and that John J. Morgan, Esq. was on Saturday last, nominated and confirmed in his stead.

The New York Times has the following article, which may explain some of the causes of this extraordinary movement.

"THE COLLECTOR. There have been whispers in Wall street for some days past of a defalcation in the Custom-house. Whether the circumstances warrant the use of the word defalcation, we cannot say; but certain it is that Mr. Hoyt, the Collector, retains in his hands a large amount of money, the produce of seizures and of fees, which he refuses, to place to the credit of the Government. A correspondence is said to have taken place between the Collector and the President, the result of which is understood to be a determination on the part of Mr. Hoyt to resign.

"The grounds upon which Mr. Hoyt reserves the money in question are variously stated. We believe, however, that he claims a portion of it for extra services, and as fees properly accruing to the Collector, under unrepealed portions of the revenue law of 1799, and another portion as a fund to protect himself against loss in case certain seizures, made on behalf of the Government, should be decided to be illegal. The sum total retained by Mr. Hoyt amounts, if we are correctly informed, to about two hundred thousand dollars."

We have never distrusted the honesty of Mr. Hoyt, and therefore presume that he considers himself legally justified in the claim he has set up for extra services. The law may be ambiguous in its terms, but we believe that Mr. Hoyt is the first collector who has claimed additional compensation under his interpretation of it. It is important that all laws regulating the receipt and disbursement of public money, and the pay of officers engaged in these duties, should be made so explicit as not to admit of misconstruction. Collectors should be released from personal responsibility in the case of illegal seizures, so as to leave no pretext for their withholding large sums of the public money under pretext of indemnifying themselves. The treasury of the United States should be made directly, instead of indirectly, responsible in all such cases.

We think that Mr. Hoyt would have acted more properly, had he complied with the direction of the secretary of the treasury and placed the whole funds in his hands to the credit of the United States, and referred his claim to additional compensation to the decision of Congress. We dislike the practice of seizing on the public money and leaving government to recover it by suit.

STRANGERS. Our city is full of strangers, and new faces are seen in all our streets—but they are generally but birds of passage, as they are wending their way to Washington, to be present at the inauguration of General Harrison. We hope that the old General will not be squeezed to death; but we apprehend that if he shake the hand of each visitant his right arm will be useless for some days. We suppose that office-hunters will be particularly cordial in their grasp, and we advise the General to discharge this part of his business by deputy. We received a communication a day or two since which advises General Harrison to give as answer to all personal applications, that the applicant shall spell his name backwards. It is not a bad idea, and the reply would be appropriate to many by whom he will be teased.

To accommodate the numerous visiters the rail road are running "double teams," and we think that it would not be bad policy to have some of the cars fitted up for lodgers, as we do not think it possible that the immense concourse of people can be accommodated with bed and board in Washington.

STEAM DUCK. We have had a hearty laugh over a small pamphlet, printed in Louisville, (Ky.) entitled "The Great Steam Duck, or a concise description of a most useful and extraordinary invention for aerial navigation." It is well written, and is apparently designed to burlesque an invention for the same purpose, termed "the American Eagle," by Mr. Richard Oglesby Davidson.

The pamphlet is accompanied by an admirable pencil representation of the Steam-Duck in full flight—and the author estimates her passage through the air at the rate of two hundred miles per hour! We had rather travel on the earth with the snail's pace, than through the air at the presumed velocity of the Steam Duck.

So far as this pamphlet is designed to ridicule visionary projects for navigating the air, it is capital; for it is certainly time lost to indulge in such speculations.

ASSAULT. A fellow named George Curlett, while passing up Market street opposite Holliday, yesterday about one o'clock, deliberately attacked an individual named James Tweedle, knocked him down and beat him considerably.—After satisfying himself with this person, he attacked another named Holston, a sailor, without the least provocation, and beat him unmercifully. There being no regular police officers present, the aggressor made his escape. The assaulted party was captured, after a long chase, by Mr. Spence, recently a police officer, and taken before squire McDonald, when, upon the evidence of Mr. Johnson, was released. A warrant has been issued for Curlet. A more disgraceful and bloodthirsty outrage we have seldom witnessed. It is to be hoped the offender will be brought to justice.

FIRE AND LOSS OF LIFE. An old colored woman was burned to death in Philadelphia on Friday evening last. She was long confined to her bed and was not able to effect her escape.

ANOTHER. Another aged colored woman had fallen asleep opposite a fire in the Western Hotel, market st. Philadelphia, and falling forward on a log fire became entangled in the grate and before she could be extricated, was so much injured that she died on Sunday.

MURDERED. We learn by the Philadelphia Chronicle that on Monday night last a white man was murdered in the vicinity of Economy, on the Beaver road. The circumstances are these:—The unfortunate sufferer travelled down the Beaver road in company with a negro man, and both were in a two horse wagon.—At about nine o'clock last night they arrived at Piles' Tavern, adjoining Mr. Sheel's residence, and this morning the negro returned toward Pittsburgh with the wagon and horses. Shortly after the wagon left Mr. Piles' house, some straw thrown from the wagon was discovered to be covered with clotted blood; and at an early hour this morning news reached Mr. Piles' that a white man was found murdered upon the road near to Economy. The negro is represented to be small in stature, wore a cap and the horses in the wagon are bay.

FRONT STREET THEATRE. Mr. Fenno's benefit at Front street last night was good—very good—excellent. He acquitted himself in admirable style, and gave general satisfaction. Mrs. Hill danced the "Highland Fling" to perfection. Old Joe Sweeney did his part just about as sleek as though he had been Sambo himself.

To-night, the bill present a very pleasing attraction. Mr. Ward is straining every nerve with a determination to compete with any establishment of the kind in America. He deserves patronage, and we are happy to perceive, through perseverance, is securing it.

BRAHAM'S CONCERT. This distinguished vocalist was honored, on Saturday night last, with a large and highly fashionable audience. The hall of the Assembly Rooms was full. He is certainly master of his profession. He gave general satisfaction, and received unbounded applause.—Mrs. Franklin is likewise a very sweet vocalist, and took well. There seems to be a general wish that Mr. Braham would repeat his concert. Doubtless he will comply with so unanimous a desire.

THE EVERGREEN. The March No. contains the commencement of two new stories, viz: "Old St. Paul's," a new romance, by W. Harrison Ainsworth; and "George St. George Julian," a new romance, by the author of "Stanley Thorn," besides the continuation of "Master Humphrey's Clock," "Stanley Thorn," and "The Tower of London." Price $2 per annum, in advance.—Received from Mr. Taylor, agent, 12, North st.

STEAMBOAT SUNK. The steamboat Swan, on on her passage from New York to Philadelphia on Saturday last, run on the rocks at New Brighton, about nine miles from New York, and immediately filled and sunk. The passengers (120 in number) were all saved, and all the baggage being on the forward deck, was removed without injury.

SHIPWRECK AND LOSS OF LIFE. We learn by the New Orleans Picayune of the 18th ult. that a pilot boat schooner was upset at the mouth of Perdido River, near Pensacola, on the 12th ult. The captain, mate, Judge Jordan, son and nephew of Pensacola and a Mr. Young succeeded in reaching the shore in a small boat. Five discharged Florido soldiers were on board and all lost.

ASHORE. The Philadelphia Ledger says that on Sunday morning, in a heavy fog, the steamboat Burlington, on her passage down, ran ashore on the Pennsylvania side of the river, about eight miles above this city. Her passengers were taken off and brought to the city by the steamboat Bolivar. The Burlington was safely got off on Saturday afternoon.

THREATENING. A man named Dennis Ardican was yesterday arrested by police officer Myers, and brought to the police office, charged with entering the house of Mr. John Evans and threatening to take the life of his son. He was required to give security in the sum of $100 to keep the peace for six months.

WRECK OF A FERRY BOAT. The N. Y. Tattler says:—We learn that the steamboat Swan, one of the New Brighton and Amboy ferry boats, ran on the rocks, this morning, in the fog, off New Brighton. The boat sunk in two minutes—but no lives, it is believed, were lost.

TROUBLE IN THE EAST. It is rumored in New York that Mr. Hoyt, collector, is about to resign in consequence of a correspondence which has taken place between him and the President concerning certain $200,000 which Mr. H. has received and refuses to pay the government.

CAPT. CLELLAND. This gallant sailor, commander of the Brittania, was, near the close of the last voyage, presented with a piece of plate, by the passengers, accompanied with highly complimentary encomiums on his gentlemanly conduct and able seamanship.

SMALL NOTES. In compliance with the request of the Mayor and City Council, the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road Company have issued scrip orders for the fractional parts of a dollar. In the absence of silver change these orders will form the safest currency that we can have.

BLACK HAWK. The bones of this celebrated Indian, which were stolen some time ago from the grave, have been returned to the Governor of Iowa. A phrenologist has taken a drawing of the skull—destructiveness, combativeness, firmness, and philoprogentiveness are, it is said, very strongly developed.

A NEW LAW. At Sylvain's benefit in Havana it was announced that Elssler would dance, which she did not: the consequence was a small bit of a row, and a new law prohibiting the use of canes, umbrellas, &c. in applauding in the theatres.

SOMERSETTING. At the Bowery, N. Y., on Friday night, for a wager of $1,000, the great vaulters, Dale and McFarland, tried their skill to its utmost, which resulted in Dale throwing 59 somersets, and McFarland 48.

WASHINGTON, March 1, 1841.

General Harrison arrived last evening, and has taken up his quarters at Mr. Seaton's, our Mayor.

This morning the cars brought in a full complement, and from every other direction

"They come—they come."

The hotels are filled to overflowing, and the keepers of private boarding houses now have an opportunity of redeeming some of their losses. Almost any price is given for board, and people jump at the idea of a berth in a garret. The office seekers are teazing members of Congress almost to death, and scarcely five minutes [illegible] but one or other is tapped on the shoulder, and told "he is wanted," to sign a paper or something of the kind. I presume there are an hundred applicants for every place. So ninety-nine must go back with long faces.

In the House of Representatives the fortification bill, reported some days ago, was taken up in committee of the whole.

A regular battle took place between the northern and southern members, in which the old quarrel about the "north having all the appropriations," was brought up.

Mr. Albert Smith, of Maine, made a long and loud appeal to the House on the defenceless condition of his state, and insisted that the north should be taken care of as well as the south.

Mr. Wm. Cost Johnson made a general appeal on the defenceless state of our whole coast, and the scarcity of cannon as compared with the number possessed by other nations. He said it was of no use to erect new fortresses unless we had a proper supply of cannon.

In the course of the debate, allusion was made to an angry correspondence which was said recently to have taken place between the British minister and Mr. Forsyth, on the case of McLeod, and which threatened immediate war.

Mr. Pickens, chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, said he had sent to the department for information on the subject, and it was with pleasure that he stated there was not the slightest shadow of foundation for such a rumor. No correspondence had taken place, that would at all increase the difficulties previously existing, nor were the features of the McLeod case at all named since the last correspondence which had been laid before the House.

In the Senate, a call having been made on the committee on foreign relations for copies of any recent correspondence on the above subject, Mr. Buchanan, the chairman, moved to be discharged from the further consideration of the call, and, in doing so, stated, in a most emphatic manner, that no correspondence of angry character had taken place.

McLEOD. The following extract from a letter to the Rochester Daily Advertiser, is at least an honorable testimonial in favor of McLeod, now confined on a charge of being one of the Caroline murderers:

"I must say one good thing of McLeod: he was deputy sheriff under Alexander Hamilton, and when our countryman, James Morrean, was sentenced to be hung for aiding the patriots, the sheriff used every possible effort to induce McLeod to hang him, but he said he would rather resign his office. Hamilton, after Dr. Porter had shown him how to adjust the rope so as not to torture Morrean as Deputy Sheriff Woodruff was tortured at Fort Henry, hanged him himself, went home to his family, took ill, and lingered for some time, till death closed his sufferings."

CAUGHT AT LAST. A pettifogging lawyer named Cornelius Jerhume was committed on Friday last at New York to stand his trial for several charges of swindling poor clients. "Murder will out."

SUDDEN DEATH. A Mr. Gibson was killed a few days ago in Fairfield, Tenn. by being thrown out of his buggy. He with another gentleman was making trial of a young horse.

POST-OFFICE—a place where you stand shivering half an hour for the purpose of asking a gruff fellow through a hole when he expects a letter from your grand-mother.

SUICIDE. The body of a negro man was found a few days ago in the river near Pittsburg, Pa. It is supposed that he is the man who murdered Mr. E. Jones, near Economy on Monday last.

FREIGHT. At a meeting of the Philadelphia merchants, engaged in the western trade, held on Tuesday last, it was agreed to raise the price of freight to Pittsburg from $2 50 to $2 75 per cwt.

KILLED. A little child was run over by a furniture wagon on Friday last in Philadelphia, and killed instantly. The driver was not in fault.

GONE. The Patchogue Bank, the New York New Era says, failed on Wednesday last, and shut up its doors, it is supposed, forever.

EXECUTION. A slave belonging to the late Col. Whitaker was hanged in Louisiana on the 13th ult. for the murder of his wife.

INQUESTS. Five inquests were held in Philadelphia on Saturday and Sunday last. In three cases, death was occasioned by burning.

CENSUS OF MIDDLE FLORIDA. The census of Middle Florida, just completed, shews the following result: White males and females, 10,731; colored males and females, 26,515, of which only 82 are free.

ABOLITIONISM. A meeting of the Abolition State Convention of Michigan, convened at Jackson on the 10th ult., for the purpose of forming an anti-slavery society. About one hundred delegates were present.

A BIG 'UN. The Phila. Standard says a gentleman was robbed in that city of his pocket book containing $4000 in silver.

[FOR THE BALTIMORE CLIPPER.]

Messrs. Editors—Your correspondent "Index" may be assured that the person from whom he derived the pretended information in regard to the profits of a gas company, or of the gas company, has deceived him. The statements he makes are false in every particular: False as to the quantity of coal required, which is nearly 50 per cent. greater than he states it to be—false as to the price, which is 20 per cent. higher—false as to the income derived, or derivable, from the sale of gas and residuum, which is overrated 90 p. ct.—false as to the rate of production—false as to the quantity of gas used—false as to the number of consumers—false as to the price paid by them—and of all these falsehoods your correspondent could have convinced himself in less time than it took him to write either of his communications.

From the description of "Index," the person from whom he derives the erroneous estimates, which he so complacently retails, is readily recognized as one recently discharged from the employment of the gas company. That individual never was entrusted with a "sett of books," and could not have kept them if he had been. He is profoundly ignorant of the process of manufacturing gas—the mechanism of a meter—and the business of the company. "Index" may be assured that no further notice of his communications will be taken by the friends of those, whose interests and character he covertly assails, unless he has some better authority to offer. mh2 1t M.

FAIR AT THE MUSEUM.

☞The Ladies of the BENEVOLENT SOCIETY attached to St. Andrew's Church, have been favored with the use of the MUSEUM for the purpose of holding their ANNUAL FAIR—the proceeds of which will be applied to the extinguishment of the Church debt. HANCE'S Compound Syrup of Horehound.

CERTIFICATE. Mrs. Williams, of Petersburg, Va. caught a very severe cold last fall, and thinking it would wear off in the course of time itself, neglected it to a very great extent. Finding, however, it did not leave her, she then tried various remedies, some of which subdued the cough in a measure, but none effectually cured it.
About a month ago, her husband thought she had better try a change of air, so she came to Baltimore, where she first became acquainted with the COMPOUND SYRUP OF HOREHOUND—the first bottle produced such relief, that before she had finished it she determined to purchase two bottles and return home. Price 56 cents per bottle.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

FROM TEXAS. By the arrival of the steam packet ship Neptune, at New Orleans on the 19th ult., we have Texas dates to the 17th ult. The news by her is of little importance. Congress adjourned on the 4th.

The duties have been raised from 15 to 45 cents ad valorem on all articles in the former tariff, excepting coffee, sugar, salt and steel, which still remain at 15 per cent.

The appropriation bill, as it is called, after being reduced to $500,000, passed both houses of Congress. At the former session, appropriations to the amount of $2,200,000 were passed.

After the 1st of March next, the government is to make no further issues, excepting what is received by the public revenue.

In future all fees of public officers are to be paid in Texas money, instead of what is called par funds, as has been customary heretofore.

The treaties with England and the Netherlands have been ratified. The former is of a purely commercial character.

All fears of a Mexican invasion had died away. A force of 1000 Mexican soldiers had crossed the Rio del Norte, but they were in pursuit of Cumanches.

The amount due to the government from defaulting officers—chiefly tax-collectors is estimated at $1,000,000. A good round sum for the Swartwouters.

The army has been disbanded with the exception of Col. Cook's command.

The Navy is laid up in ordinary, and there is to be but one ship and schooner in service for harbor duties.

DEATH BY FREEZING. A man named Conrad Valhyder, supposed to be about 80 years of age, came to his death on the night of the 10th ult.—The deceased lived by himself in a small house in Hancock, Delaware county, N. Y., and had been for a long time addicted to habits of intemperance.

LET OTHER PEOPLE'S LETTERS ALONE. Joseph Bank, baker, of Wilmington, Mass. was on Thursday last arrested and held to bail in $800, in the U. S. court, on a charge of having stolen from the post office in that town a letter addressed to Widow Sally Chandler. There was no pretence that the letter contained any money; but the whole thing appeared to be a gossiping transaction.

Total lbs. cast iron, 765,000 lbs.

Wrought Iron for Fastenings

105,600 Screw-bolts, 7½ inches long, and ¾ in diam. wt 1 lb. each, 105,600
105,600 Nuts for same, (1 7 8 sq'e, 9-16 thick,) wt ¾ lb. each, 52,800
105,600 Washers, of a wedge form, 3½ inches long by 2½ wide, and ¼ inch average thickness, and weighing 9 16 lb. 59,125
105,600 Plates of rolled Zinc, same length and width, and 1 16 thick, weighing 10 to the pound, 10,560
644,800 Hook-headed Spikes, 4½ inches long, 7-16 square in the shank, and weighing 4½ oz. each, 224,716

The Sawed Lumber may be of white or yellow pine, with not more than an inch of sap on two edges of the stick; free from large knots, shakes or decay of any kind. A portion of the 4x8 scantling may be proposed for to be furnished, of white oak, under the same conditions as to quality. The points of delivery may be at Baltimore, Georgetown, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any other point upon the line of the road, and the proposal will state the places as well as times at which the Lumber will be furnished.

Proposers to whom more than one of the places just named are accessible, will separately state their prices for delivery at each; so as to allow an option to the Company in regard to them should the proposal be accepted.

The hewn Timber, intended for the cross-ties and support-blocks, may be of white oak, rock-oak or chesnut oak, or of chesnut. It must be sound wood, and straight in one direction. If the proposer prefers delivering it in the rough state, and does not wish to undertake the hewing of it to the required dimensions he can so word his proposal, and in that case the size of the sticks must be such as to permit them, when dressed, to be of the full dimensions specified, clear of bark and axe-kerf. If the timber is cut while the bark is loose, it must be stripped off before the delivery. The delivery may be made upon any point of the line, between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland, and the points between which it will take place must be stated. There are to every mile of track 31,680 feet board measure of 4½x8, and 95,400 feet of 3x10 scantling, 1056 cross ties dressed to 4½ inches thick, and 302 dressed to 3 inches thick. Proposals will not be received for a less quantity of any of the kinds of timber, than will lay a mile of track.

The Castings for the chairs and plates will be of an easy pattern—they must be of strong and sound metal, and smoothly cast—the contractor furnishing the patterns. The screw bolts and nuts will be of sound, tough iron and made with exactness to the required form and size. The washers will be of bar-iron, rolled with the proper section, cut off and punched for the passage of the bolt. The zinc plates similarly made. The hook-headed spikes to be of iron of as good a quality as that of the screw bolts.

The Iron Fastenings just described may be delivered at Baltimore, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any point of the line of the road between the two latter places and the places and times of delivery will be stated in the proposals. There are to every mile of track 7556 lbs. of castings—1584 lbs. of bolts and nuts—591 lbs. of iron washers—105 lbs. of zinc plates, and 9247 lbs. of spikes. No proposal for a less quantity than will supply 10 miles will be received.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid thereon—reserving to the Company the option of paying the said four fifths in Baltimore City 6 per cent stock at par—or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to the contract.

If the materials contracted for or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered, and no estimates or payments shall be made or on account of materials delivered before the time specified for commencing the delivery of the same. The monthly payments shall be made at the Company's offices in Baltimore Cumberland, or Martinsburgh, Virginia, at the option of the contractor, and the final payments shall be made in Baltimore. The manner and times in which the materials shall be furnished on the different parts of the line will be specifically provided for in the contracts, and particulars will be given on application to the undersigned. It will be required that about one half of the whole quantity of materials shall be delivered as early as possible between now and the 1st of December next. A model of the rail and its supports and fastenings will be ready for inspection at the Company's office in Baltimore by the 20th current. The proposals will be directed under seal to the subscriber, either at Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh—and will be received up to the 15th of March proximo. TO THE PUBLIC.

IT must be obvious to every one, that an Intelligence Office, when conducted under proper principles, and regulated upon an honest and equitable course, is of great convenience and utility to the citizens of a populous and thriving city like this. The subscriber, being aware of this fact, and with the knowledge that a degree of dissatisfaction has existed from the manner in which other offices of the kind have been heretofore conducted, he has therefore taken great pains to conduct his establishment in such a manner as to deserve public confidence, and be worthy of the public patronage.

PERSONS making application at this office for servants, or help of any other kind, will deposit, in advance, 50 cents each, for which they will have access to the records, properly kept for that purpose, and on which they find the names, residences, references, &c. of the servants or other help—in case that neither of them answers the desired purpose, the money will be returned. Yearly subscriptions received at $1.50 each.

AGENCY. HOUSES, FARMS, VACANT LOTS, GROUND RENTS, LANDS, &c. bought and sold on commission. SLAVES, for life or a term of years, bought or sold on commission, and the highest prices obtained. Persons having slaves, which they wish to dispose of, will do well to apply at this office before selling.

N. B. All letters addressed to this office (post paid) thankfully received and promptly attended to.

COMMENT. If we examine the nature of the above diseases, and the situation of the parts affected, we must consider it a very important object to be able to obtain a remedy at once certain in its action, and at the same time composed of such ingredients as will prevent the possibility of discovery while using it. It is a fact well known to many, that most of the remedies offered for these diseases are composed of such nauseous drugs, as to render it almost impossible to continue their use without creating a sickness at the stomach or other unpleasant consequences. Such being the case there can be no doubt but such a remedy as Vallier's French Pills, will meet the universal approbation, being entirely free from those objections; pleasant in their operation, and prompt in removing the disease. The proprietor would here remark, that the efficacy of these Pills in the disorders alluded to, are not based upon supposition; on the contrary, it is founded upon rational experience, having used them in a successful practice for upwards of two years, he feels confident of their superiority over the remedies hitherto employed.

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

☞ The above Medicine may always be had in Baltimore of RICHARD NORRIS of WILLIAM, No. 234 Market street, who is the Sole Agent for this Medicine in that city. All orders coming to Philadelphia, must be directed to DR. SWAYNE,

REMINISCENCES.

Days of childhood, scenes of pleasure,
Recollection brings to view;
Fai hful memory loves to treasure
Every spot my childhood knew.
O'er each verdant hill, and mountain,
Ling'ring by the fain would dwell;
Sipping from each gushing fountain,
Sporting on each flow'ry dell.

Rambling through green wood and valley,
Bathing in the silvery tide;
Thence o'er fields, behold her dally;
Or o'er the frozen mill-pond glide.
Sadly now I see her musing,
'Round some lov'd one's grass-clad tomb;
With her tears the turf suffusing,
From affection's sacred womb.

Thus the blended past comes o'er me,
Like a pleasant evening's dream;
All its glowing scenes before me,
Beautiful as ever seem.
By-gone hours of bliss revealing,
Hours that rolled in pleasure's train;
Sweet rememb'rance o'er me stealing,
Rings back many a scene again.

Those bright hours the past has numbered,
Never more can they return;
Friends that childhood's path encumbered,
Only now in memory burn.
Would those scenes could be reacted,
Golden hours again appear;
Would my life had been contracted,
To sweet childhood's gay career.

From the Amaranth.

COLONEL NATHAN COLE.

BY CALEB CLAMBAKE.

"You see," said the Colonel, stretching his legs to their utmost length, and performing all the little et-ceteras connected with a hearty yawn, "I hadn't no notion of bein' elected no-how you could fix it, but Major Stokes said it was as easy as natur', so takin' his advice, on election mornin' I got a small kag of whiskey, and two tin ladles. The Major stationed himself right by its side, and invited my friends to help themselves jest as soon as they had voted. There wa'nt much opposition to me, and I reckon I went in nigh unanimous."

"You have had some experience in that way before," said I. "If I mistake not you were at Camp Dupont."

"Oh! yes! you see afore I took to farmin' in this portion of the people's favor, I myself in Connecticut, that is when I was to hum. But I had some business in Philadelphy, during the last war, and jest at that time the rumor was that the British war a comin' up to the city. All the folks leavnmost war goin' to Camp Dupont, and I volunteered to go tew.

"We had a leetle about the slickest troops, and about the cu-test officers, you ever did see. There was Colonel Biddle, who'd been in the reg'lar army, with an eye like a hawk, and there was Colonel Raguet, and besides that Colonel Browne, who bein' a lawyer, and in the habit of cross-questionin' witnesses, had got an eye not much behind Biddle's, in pint of power. It wa'nt for its brightness nyther, for it wa'nt very bright—but it had a dead kind of a coldness that seemed to push like a bagonet right into your bosom.

"We had a great time fixin' up tents, and gittin' under disciplin rightly, and a good many curious incident happened, mind I tell ye. Our tent would hold five inside, and one in the outer riggin'. Now sleeping outside of a damp night, aint exactly what its cracked up to be, and as there war jest five on us in mess we had arranged it rale comfortable. One night, however, Sergeant Jones comes down to us and says he—'I've got another chap for you, and he'll be along here to sleep presently.' We were in the darndest pucker you ever did see, but there wa'nt no use grumblin', and about bed-time along came our new comrade.

"We had fixed on our line of proceedin' long afore he come, and so we asked him to take a drink, and make himself to hum. He took a swig out of our canteens, and we took a swig out of his'n, and so we got as thick as thieves.—D'rectly sez I to him, sez I. 'Being' as how you're a stranger, we wont cast lots for the 'rangement of beds to-night. You'll take my inside place, and I the out.' He guv a host of thanks, which I received with an air of conscious generosity, and when he stopped talkin' I shoved in my car agin. Says I, oh! there's one thing, I'd amost forgot to tell you. Joe Lukens that lies next to you is apt to have very dangerous fits in the night, and growls and bites considerably.—You'll find the bucket o' water right opposite to you, and you must watch out to give him a drink. You'd better let him have it as quick as possible, for he's pretty violent when he gits a fit on, and if he don't git what he wants, he bites like blazes.

"'I think,' sez he, 'I'd rayther sleep outside.' 'Bless me, no!' says I, 'I couldn't think of givin' a stranger the wust bunk in the tent, 'taint soldier-like.' After a great deal of blatherin' of one kind or other, we all got to bed. But it wa'nt to sleep by a long chalk. We laid there patiently awaitin' for the man with the fits, and a listenin' to the breathin' of our new comrade half kept in. D'rectly Joe Lukens began to move, 'Nigh-urr-urr-ugh!' said he. Our neighbor snatched the ladle half-filled from the bucket.—Joe suck'd the water from it greedy, and then fell back apparently recovered. Our comrade now slicked himself down to sleep thinkin' all over, but he hadn't closed his eyes afore Joe began a growlin agin. Up he rises, and another ladle full of water travelled down Joe's gullet.—This kind o' work went along several times, till all parties begin to git tired of it, and Joe thought he'd end it with a touch of tragedy. So just arter the chap had got asleep cleverly, he did commence the most savage growlin' you ever did hearn tell on. His next-door neighbor waked right up, and raisin' himself in his middle listened. By-meby the noises come thicker and thicker—when all at once Joe bobbed his head forred, and made a trial to bite. The way the chap did skeet was raly awful. He made one jump, head on end and split right out of the tent door.—'Mercy on me,' says he, comin' to where I lay, and wipin' the sweat off his forehead with his coat sleeve, 'do let me have your berth. You can stand that fellow, perhaps, but darn my skin if I can.' 'But,' says I, "its mighty bad sleepin' out here.' 'Never mind,' ses he, 'I wouldn't stay inside for a week's furlough.' 'At last I changed placed with him, and slept warm and comfortable the hull night. Next mornin' our friend got quartered somewhere else, and we didn't see no more of him 'ceptin on parade.

"Well, we expected to have a real nice time. Every body was filled with patriotic ardor, and all that kind of thing. But, somehow or other, we hadn't been settled down a week afore the hull lot on us got as sulky as cats."

"How did that happen?" inquired I.

"That's a leetle tew hard for me. I rayther guess it was 'cause the strings of disciplin' were pulled tew tight. People had'nt ben used to bein' snubbed about, and they thought their officers should'nt oughter to use 'em in that way. Nobody didn't do nothin' but grumble. 'We know jest as much,' says they, 'about military affairs as any officers. Who made the pesky critters so wise?' In short, every fellow was so well contented with himself, that if the generals had taken and sot two clarks to take down the names of them that was rale contented, and them that know'd everthin', the consequence would have been this. Whoever attended to the fust branch or department wouldn't a scarcely had his pen siled, but the last critter would a worn his'n down to the stump* Joe! fill my glass with that mixtur', it is fust rate, raly."

"Hang it! where did you get the receipt for this?" exclaimed I, taking at the same time my segar from its resting-place, and suffering the smoke to curl from the corners of my mouth, upwards and outwards, like a bunch of white silk floating in the air—"its not the worst of drink any how. You must write it out for me. I like to encourage domestic manufactures, especially in regard to luxuries."

"Talkin' of domestic manufactur's minds me of Deacon Stokes' champaigne factory, down to Wallinford. The Deacon does make the slickest I ever did see, and all out of crab-apple cider tow. It's said to be superior to any imported.—He manufactures other wines tew; and I'm told by competent judges, that this Madeira is more genuine than if it war brought from the Island."

"And now to my own story. You see I used, whenever I could git liberty, to slip out to the neighborin' farm-houses to look arter the gals. [illegible] in them parts. Among the rest on 'em was one called Kitty Lang. She was jest about as slick a one as you'd see anywhere—tall, rosy-cheeked, and lively—could clear five feet at a jump.—None of your city gals with pale, sallow faces, consisted up till the critters look like wasps! the nitasty things! I wonder how the Venus in the Museum would look with whalebones around her. Oh, git out!

"Kitty and I soon scraped up acquaintance; for in them days I used to be a spry chap, and a reg'lar snorter among the gals. For a quiltin' or a huskin' or anythin' of that kind, I went ahead of all the chaps about; and at a cut and shuffle or a breakdown, I did shy the shirt-collar of all natur'. Kitty had a lot of fellers a runnin' arter her, but there wa'nt none on 'em she'd touch with a ten-foot pole. Nobody thought I had a chance, but I guess I showed 'em. It minded me of a parcel of boys a playing shinney. Arter about forty or fifty chasin' the ball, an' every one thinkin' he'd git a knock at it, some little chap'll snap it, hollos out 'Poods!' and then give it a knock, sendin' it clear to hum. I beat the hull on 'em hollow, come in A—number one.

"The other chaps got mighty wrothy. Some on 'em talked of lickin' me like blazes, but others agin said it twa'nt of any use, for she wa'nt worth takin' any trouble for. This minded me of our old nigger help, February Iceberg. He was tarnation fond of 'possum. I 'spose there wa'nt nothin' anywhere that he liked as much as a right fat 'possum, and one day, a goin' through the woods, he caught one asleep. He staked him down, slit the critter's nose and brought him hum. He made a great to do about it, and arter havin' him cooked, invited all the niggers in the neighborhood to a kind of blowout. Somebody or other stole the 'possum, however, and when they come to look for it, 'twant there. Feb, as we all called him, though his right name was February in full, rolled up the whites of his eyes, and looked blacker than ever. At last, he bust right out. 'There's one thing, bless the stars, can be said. Its jest as well he's stolen as not, for all the doctors do say, that 'possums mighty unhealty!'"

"Something," interrupted I, "like my teacher. Poor old fellow! he's dead now. When I was a shaver about fifteen, I used to write rhymes and all that kind of thing. Well, my tutor had a confounded pretty sister. Egad! the blood tingles through my face now, old as I am. She was rather short, perhaps too stout—but her lips—Jove! what a pair. Ripe, rich, and pulpy, they seemed as if they'd burst from the skin that held them in. Well, you see, I wrote a despairing sonnet to her charms, and alluded a little harshly to her brother. He saw it, and though I was a great favorite with him before, I lost caste. Sometime after, my father asked him how I succeeded in my studies. Hang me! if he didn't tell him I wasn't fit for anything except a blacksmith. Sour grapes! you see that he couldn't make me like him. But go on. How did you make out with the lady?

"Well, I was jest goin' tew tell it, if you hadn't stopped me. Your interruptions twist and turn my story, till it's as full of ups and downs and stickin's-fast, as a clay pike in Franklin county.

"There was one rival I had, who was the doctor o' the neighborhood. He hadn't oughter ben one, however. If his father had made him a carver it would have been much better. He might have made many a handsome wooden head, whereas he only showed one ugly one to his friends and relatives. I see'd him one evenin' when I'd got a leave of absence, a footin' it like all natur' down to my gal's father's. I was a goin' there myself, but I fetched a full halt, countermarched and entered camp agin. Thinks I, I'll give the poor devil a chance. I couldn't git out of camp agin for more than a week, and about three days ater the time I speak of, who should I see comin' straight to our tent but Doctor Walters.

"'How de dew, Mr. Sherman!' says he. 'How de dew?' says I. 'Pretty well,' says he, 'how are you?' 'why,' says I, 'I keep as well as common. How's Miss Kitty?' 'Oh! hang her!' says he, 'she's a tatlin' forward minx.' 'La!' says I, 'dew tell. How you talk. You aint in rale airnest, are you?' 'If you don't say anythin' about it,' says he, 'I'll tell you what she said about you.' 'Well,' says I, 'out with it!'

"So he up and told the most tarnation lot o' stuff you ever did hearn tell on. He said, that she said, that I was despot mad in love. Well thinks I, I am a leetle. She said, that I'd written several pieces of rhyme to her, with my name at bottom, and her'n a' top. 'Well,' says I, right out, 'that is a darned lie anyhow. If I ever did write any, and I won't say whether I did, or not, I never put my name and her'n both—and if I had, she's a tarnal mean critter to show 'em. Darn her pictur', says I agin, gittin' right wrothy, 'I wouldn't have her of a gift. Look at her sister, the sickly lookin' thing. I guess she's jest of the same natur'.' 'And,' says he, 'she said she wouldn't have nothin' to do with you. She never gave you any encouragement.' 'She what?' says I, 'well, this beats ginger beer all hollow. She didn't, didn't she! Why the almighty lyin' critter. The conceited thing. To be sure she didn't say she ever liked me; but if looks and actions, sich as nobody with any gumption could mistake, didn't tell a plain tale, why darn me! use me up for saggage meat! Never mind! I'll fix her!' After a few more words, we parted: I went my way, and he went his'n.

"After a few days I got leave of absence, and I streaked, straight on one eend like a second-hand flash of lightnin' to old Mister Langs. In I walks, and there was Kitty, her sister and another gal. I saw that they were monstrous cold. I wondered why, for I thought that thing oughter come from me. Directly out bust Kitty, like a steam-ingin' lettin' off its surplus. She told me, that I'd said she was this, and she was that, that she did 'tother first and then the other arterwards. I was struck all in a heap, and raly didn't know what to say till I thought about the Doctor. "Hallo! thinks I, I know now at whose hullsale and retail factory this thunder storm was made, and I can fix it at once. So I related the hull matter jest as it stood, and mentioned what had ben told to me. Well, she denied her share without any reservation, and seemed about half-satisfied with [illegible] parted."

"No! the tarnal critter. I found out that she said arterwards that she believed the doctor's story before mine, and as I thought that was rayther insultin' I never put my foot on that quarter of the big farm agin. The best of the joke, however, was, that this very critter of a doctor had put mischief with his lies atween her sister and her old man, jest afore their marriage, and was known for several scrapes of the like natur'."

"Why didn't you cowhide the doctor?" asked I.

"Him! Why it would have ben ten and sixpence thrown away. He wasn't worth it; and as for 'em both, one the convicted liar, and the 'tother is jest as bad;—because the receiver's as bad as the theif, the best thing to be done with them was to give 'em the silent contempt they deserved."

"Well said, well said!" rejoined I, "the slanderer, the mean tattler, who, retailing conversation adds to what he obtains till it is swelled from a pigmy to a giant, is the loathsome toad among men. Capable alone of secreting venom, he loves the dark dampness, the nooks and crannies. When he approaches the light, he terrifies the timid, but is despised and scorned by the honest of heart. The thief may steal from necessity, the murderer may become so through unguarded passions, the incendiary may be incited by revenge, but the one we speak of has no excuse. Classed if a man with the seducer, and if a woman with the harlot, the name is a byword, and the reputation a curse."

"Them's my sentiments, to a vulgar fraction!" said the Colonel. "Hand me a cigar, and push that chair forred so I can roost my shanks on its back. We all have our troubles and I believe if we were to count our ages by the happy days we git, there wouldn't be many on us over a year old!"

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE IN PORTO RICO. By an arrival at New York on Sunday, from Porto Rico, we learn that the town of Mayaguez, in that island, was almost totally destroyed by fire on the 30th of January. We understand that six hundred houses were destroyed, and that the loss is estimated at from two to four millions of dollars. We were unable to ascertain any further particulars.

ANOTHER OUTRAGE BY A BRITISH CRUIZER. A letter received by the editor of the Salem Observer, states that the brig Cherokee, Captain Webb, of that port, was overhauled by her Britannic Majesty's brig of war Curfew, and after a full examination of the Cherokee's papers, her hatches were torn open, under pretence of searching for slaves!

SEDUCTION. A wretch named Isaac Shepperd was arrested in Philadelphia for having caused the ruin of an interesting young girl, the daughter of a respectable citizen of Southwark.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owners. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE!

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	" Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	" Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	" Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	" Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	" Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	" Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection through, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads, Weather and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being used to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap to the Bay route to Weldon; and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.

THE MARYLAND ARCADE
Against the WORLD for CHEAP HATS!

THE Subscriber takes this method of informing his friends and the public generally, that he has now on hand a large and general assortment of HATS of his own make, which he is determined to sell low for cash. His prices are uncommonly low for the quality of the Hats: Splendid Russia Hats at $2.50; fine Short Nap Silk Hats, made on Russia bodies, warranted water-proof, for only $2.50; Fur Hats, from 1.50 to $3.00; Cliptt Nutria Hats $4; Clipt Beaver Hats 4.50; White Russia Hats, at from 2.50 to $3.50. He would invite the public to call and examine his Hats, for he is confident there is no Hats in the city to compare to his at the above prices. All Hats purchased of me will be ironed over and put in shape free of charge.

THE PROPRIETORS OF THE GAY-ST CHAIR WARE ROOMS, would inform their friends and the public generally, that they have now on hand, a very splendid assortment of Parlour and other CHAIRS, comprising Mahogany, Maple, Walnut, and a variety of imitation wood colours. They would request persons, disposed to purchase, to give them a call, as their assortment is not surpassed if equalled by any establishment in the city.

They would also inform Shipping Merchants that they have on hand a large assortment of Cane and Rush KNOCK DOWN, suitable for the West Indies or South American market, among which is a large proportion of very rich colored white tops—all of which they are willing to sell on the most accommodating terms. se1-dtf A. & J. BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 3, 1841.

EDITORIAL CORPS. It appears that this respectable body is fully and ably represented at Washington city, and it is proposed that they shall dine together some day during the week. This is right; for there is no class of citizens whose labors are more fatiguing and incessant, or who enjoy fewer hours of relaxation. We wish them a merry time; and if wit, sentiment and liberal feeling, can add to the pleasures of the festive board, the editorial dinner will contribute to the "feast of reason and the flow of soul," as well as to the gratification of the animal appetite.

The occasion may not be inappropriate to make a few general observations in reference to the editorial corps. It has often struck us with astonishment that there should not exist with editors, as with the members of other professions, an esprit de corps. The editor holds a respectable and a responsible situation; for, if he possess talents and sound judgment, he exerts more influence in the formation of public sentiment than any other individual in the community. His opinions are read, quoted and adopted—and he stands responsible to the country for the power which he thus wields.

Taken as a body, editors are liberal to a fault. It is true some few may be differently classed; but they are not more numerous than can be found among other professions. Highly, however, as we prize the editorial corps, we cannot shut our eyes to their faults—the greatest of which is their deterioration of the profession by the personal detraction of each other and of the candidates and distinguished men of opposite politics. This is a lamentable abuse, and diminishes the power for good which they would otherwise possess. It is a practice that should be "reformed altogether," and we doubt not that it would be, could a convention of editors be held. There is another error which is too generally committed—the unjust clamor against the apointment of editors to office. Such appointments deserve condemnation when made without merit, moral and intellectual, and merely as reward for supposed services: but an editor has the same claim to preferment as any other individual of equal qualifications; and we can see no justice in his exclusion because of the profession which he follows. In all matters affecting the public interests, he has to bear his full share, at least, of the "heat and burthen of the day," and should, therefore, stand upon a perfect equality with other citizens, in the distribution of offices. The prejudice against editors owes its origin to the cause above stated, viz: their personal abuse of each other. We wish to see the newspaper press purged of all such impurities, that the editorial profession may receive that consideration in public opinion to which it is entitled. It requires talents, care, prudence and indefatigable labor. It is a perpetual coinage of the brain, which carries with it the wear and tear of the physical system. And shall it be said, that a class of citizens thus sedulously engaged, and poorly compensated, shall be excluded from any public station because of their calling? This would be alike subversive of the fundamental principles of our government and of common justice. Let editors, then, cease to speak of each other in contumelious terms, and admit that men can honestly differ, and they will soon be as much respected for the legitimate exercise of their talents as they are now condemned for their misapplication.

EXTRA SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE. It will be seen by the proceedings, that it is proposed to hold an extra session of the legislature. There are few occasions which would justify this measure, and we hope that it may not be found necessary upon the present occasion. It is true the legislature is engaged in a measure of the most important character, requiring great deliberation and mature judgment, and of absolute necessity. The tax bill must be passed; and, if the time which will intervene between this, and the period for the constitutional termination of the session be insufficient to mature the details of the bill, so as to make the taxes about to be imposed conform to the injunctions of the constitution, an extraordinary session will be indispensable. But we hope that members will apply themselves zealously to this measure, and let divorce bills and other matters of minor importance lay over to the next regular session. An extra session will require considerable additional expense, which under existing circumstances, should be saved if possible.

☞We understand that the People's Tippecanoe Inauguration Ball, advertised in this day's Clipper, and to be given at Carusi's, will be a splendid affair, the different Tippecanoe Clubs of Baltimore having sent their flags to decorate the Saloon, which, with the other embellishments, will surpass any thing ever given in Washington. Those wishing jo will do well to observe that there will be two balls on that evening—one called the "Inauguration Ball," tickets $10; the other, "The People's Tippecanoe Inauguration Ball," tickets $5, including supper, music, &c. Economy being the order of the day, Carusi's Saloon will, of course, be the place "where all the world will congregate." As the city will be over-crowded, it is advisable to procure tickes of admission at Samuel Carusi's music store, 84 Baltimore street.

"Trip it on the light fantastic toe,"

FRONT STREET THEATRE. The Manager, it will be seen, has effected an engagement with Mr. Sweeny, the Banjo player, for three nights only, who will appear this evening and sing several popular songs.

IMPORTANT. We consider the following, from the National Intelligencer of yesterday, of considerable importance, inasmuch as it may tend to allay the belligerent feeling which exists to a considerable extent in this country. It is not only the interest, but we believe, the inclination of the government and the people of the United States to preserve amicable relations with Great Britain, if it can be done consistently with duty and the preservation of national honor; and we are rejoiced that the anticipations of a rupture are not likely to be realized.

The United States and Great Britain. We earnestly congratulate our readers on the information, concerning the relations between the U. States and Great Britain, which they will find exactly stated in the report of yesterday's Senate proceedings. Considering the rumors that have been in circulation, nothing could be more interesting to the whole country at the present moment than these disclosures in the Senate, unless perhaps it be the chart of the principles of the new administration which may be expected in the Inaugural Address of the President elect.

We learn from the statement of Mr. Buchanan that, in regard to the boundary question, the governments of Great Britain and the United States have agreed upon the main points of a convention for the final adjustment of that question; and that, in the opinion of the Executive, there is every reason to look with entire confidence to a prompt and satisfactory termination of the long negotiation upon this question.

We learn, further, with great pleasure, that there is no foundation for the rumor that an angry correspondence has recently taken place between Mr. Fox and Mr. Forsyth, in any correspondence, the character of which would justify a call for its publicity.

The remarks of Mr. Clay, whose wisdom and experience in our foreign relations stamp every thing he says on that subject with a more than common impress, are no less important than acceptable. Happy must it be accounted that upon the very interesting and important matter the leaders of the party coming into power and of that which is about retiring entertain opinions upon it between which there is hardly a discernible shade of difference.

The statement of the Chairman of the Senate's committee on foreign relations, the reader cannot fail to perceive, has all the effect of a counterblast to the martial appeal made the other day by the distinguished Chairman of the committee on foreign relations in the other House. The effect, mark! We do not say the intention, as we are not in the counsels of the honorable Senator from Pennsylvania or of the administration whose confidence he enjoys,

FIREMEN'S BALL. The third anniversary ball given by the members of the New Market Fire Company at the Assembly Rooms on Monday night, was well attended by ladies and gentlemen. We were pleased to see good order and good feeling manifested by all present. The ladies entered into the spirit of the dance, exhibiting at the same time no ordinary degree of beauty. A number of the members from various fire companies in the city, dressed in firemen's costume, were there—all went off satisfactorily and well. The horupipe, by Mr. Spies, was very cleverly executed, and received much applause. The ball closed about 3 o'clock, after which we presume those bright eyes languished into sweet repose.

[illegible] Mr. Goodwane, the well-known professor of [illegible] has elicited warm commendations from all who have had an opportunity of witnessing its practical demonstration, has re-opened his academy in this city. Under Mr. G.'s instruction, his pupils invariably attain, by an expeditious process, a free, bold, legible, and well-formed handwriting. It is in the power of the pupil, with a little attention, in every instance, to convert the most illegible scrawl into as pretty a specimen of penmanship as can be desired. We wish Mr. Goodwane much success.

REVOLUTION IN SOUTH AMERICA. The whole country of New Granada is involved in a civil war. Fifteen provinces out of twenty have declared for a federal government, and have collected and sent troops toward Bogota to compel the Central Government there to come to terms.—The government has concentrated all its forces near Bogota, and is determined not to yield to the wishes of the revolted provinces. Gen's. Herran and Tomas Mosquera are carrying on the operations for the government: Gen's. Garmona and Pinores, Col. Gonzales and others for the provinces. Panama will separate from the rest of New Granada.

"SOUND THE ALARUM." Amongst the "illustrious strangers" who arrived in the cars yesterday afternoon from Philadelphia were Frank Johnson's band. They struck up a tremendous tra-le-ra and boong dum dardy at the depot, and for a while "the heavens were hung with black." We presume the "Grays" will arrive in this evening's train.

[illegible]E INAUGURATION. It is said that about 1500 [illegible]ers arrived in the Philadelphia train of cars [illegible]erday afternoon. Amongst them were plen[illegible] of imperials and mustaches, and "dem foine" was heard in various parts of Baltimore street during the evening. Wonder how many of these "birds of passage" will return with a flea in their ear? We only ask for information.

BODY FOUND. The body of Mr. Jacob Bringman, who was supposed to have been murdered, about four miles from the city, was yesterday morning found about fifty yards from his wagon, horribly mutilated. The suspicions of his friends have been too fully verified.

JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT. Mr. Van Buren, it is said, will fill the vacancy on the bench of the Supreme Court of the United States, occasioned by Judge Barbour's death. Mr. Jones, Mr. Tucker and Mr. Mason, of Virginia, are all spoken of as the successor.

ALL PRESENT. The President elect arrived in Washington city on Sunday evening last, as also the Vice President, (John Tyler.) All the heads of departments are also in attendance—so that the present incumbents will no sooner "step out of their shoes," than their successors will step into them.

OUTRAGEOUS ASSAULT. On Monday night last, between nine and ten o'clock, a most unprovoked assault was made upon Mr. Columbus E. Durham, of this city. Mr. Durham had closed the store in which he is engaged, at the corner of Baltimore and Charles streets, and gone out for the purpose of ascertaining (as he had been in the habit of doing) whether or not the window shutters were secure. While thus engaged, a young man named H. Ridgely stepped up, and, as he thought, rudely drew his hand over his face; upon which Mr. Durham told him his conduct was ungentlemanly. In a moment after this, young Dr. Jacob Houck came forward, and observed that he would assume the quarrel. This had hardly been said until a brother of H. Ridgeley's came from the opposite corner of the street, having in his hand a large stick or cane, with which he attempted to strike Mr. Durham—making several efforts. At this juncture, Mr. Durham retreated to the store of Mr. Winchester, and warned the parties not to pursue him at the peril of their lives. Regardless of consequences, however, they did so, some one of them exclaiming with an oath, "draw your knife, you d—d," &c. Mr. Durham, finding his life in imminent danger, drew a pistol, having a revolving barrel, and snapped it at Ridgley. It missed fire; he snapped it again, and the ball took effect in young Ridgley's shoulder, producing a considerable, and, we are told, pretty dangerous wound. The wounded person was immediately taken to Dr. Hall's, where, upon examination, it was found impossible to extract the bullet. We have been informed by a gentleman who was in company with Mr. Durham at the commencement of the affray, that the attack was one of a most aggravated and unprovoked character. It is said that there were five persons engaged in the assault, though the names above mentioned are all that we could learn. There is nothing gained by bravado, nor is the use of deadly weapons justifiable under any circumstances, except in desperate self-defence. The reader is left to judge of the above case.

WASHINGTON, March 2, 1841.

For the satisfaction of the thousands who are thronging towards this city, I announce that the weather still continues good tempered, and the sun himself seems fully conscious that something extraordinary is about taking place, for he has undrawn his cloudy curtains and is looking down upon us in the full blaze of his glory. Success to him, and may his shadow never grow less.

The cars arrived from your city this morning with a full cargo, stowed away on the high pressure system. Owing to the difficulty in getting board, I rather think some of them will wish they had staid at home. Paying $5 for the privilege of leaning against a post is no joke these hard times.

General Harrison is getting an abundance of presents. One is giving him a Tippecanoe hat, another offers him a pair of boots, and I understand that a patriotic old lady of [illegible] has volunteered to present him with a pair of stockings.

Last evening, after I closed, the fortification bill was reported with sundry trifling amendments, passed and sent to the Senate.

This morning two hours were devoted to the consideration of private bills, and I assure you there was a great deal of talking, but as for the bills passed—

"O no, we'll never mention them."

The House then went into committee of the whole and took up the bill for the support of the West Point Academy, which was reported to the House without amendment and passed.

The Senate has passed the House bill making appropriation for the civil and diplomatic expenses of government for 1841, with numerous additional amendments. The poor clerks are anxiously awaiting its passage, as until then they cannot receive their salaries. As the amendments will have to be concurred in by the House, I think the bill will not pass to-day.

BALTIMORE MARKET, March 2. Flour. The market continues extremely inactive, and exhibits a slight decline upon last week's quotations. The transactions in Howard street Flour have for the last few days been limited. Some sales were made yesterday at $4.31 from stores.—This may be regarded as the quotation price at present. Wagon price $4.25. City Mills standard quality $4.62½; extra $4.87½.

Grain. A number of vessels have arrived with grain since the final opening of the navigation.—We note sales to-day of prime Red Maryland Wheats at 88a90 cents; Yellow Corn 40a42 cts.; White do. 39a40 cents. Rye, no sales. Maryland oats, 28 cents. Cloverseed $5a$5.25.

Provisions. This market is dull. There has been a decline in Mess Pork. We quote at $13.50. Mess Beef $12.50; No. 1 $10.50; Prime $8.50a$9. There has been but little doing in Bacon. We quote Baltimore cured hams at 10a11 cents; sides 8 cents. Sales of prime western assorted have been made at $7½; and Frederick county at 7¼ cents. In butter and lard we have not heard of any transactions. The quotation price, however, does not vary from last week. Beef Cattle. We note last sales at $7a$8 per 100 lbs. Live hogs plenty. We quote at $5.50a$7.75 per 100 lbs.

Whiskey, in hhds. 21 cents; and in bbls 23c. Exclusive of bbls. 18 cents.

"RIVERS OF BLOOD." A discussion was in progress last week at the Marlborough Chapel, in Boston, between a Cayenne Pepper practitioner of Philadelphia, and one Dr. Watson, who uses mercury and the lancet. This "Doctor Watson," in the course of his remarks, stated that in a period of four years and a half, he had taken from the citizens of Boston and vicinity, one hundred barrels of blood, and had administered forty-nine pounds of mercury!

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

ANNAPOLIS, March 1, 1841.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. The Speaker announced a message from the Senate containing the bill to prohibit any corporations or individuals from issuing any paper intended to circulate as money or currency, agreeably to request made some days since to return said bill.

On motion of Mr. Graves, the above bill was reconsidered and recommitted.

Mr. Legrand delivered a voluminous minority report from the Committee on Internal Improvement. Six hundred and sixty-six copies were ordered to be printed.

Mr. Graves, from the Joint Committee on the Library, reported favorably upon the memorial of David Ridgely Esq. relative to a work to be prepared by him for the use of the public schools of the State.

On motion of Mr. Prestman, the House took up the bill to incorporate the Rose Hill Improving Company of Baltimore. The bill was rejected by a vote of 26 yeas to 31 nays.

Mr. Bowie submitted the following preamble and resolution:

Whereas, it is now manifest that the business of the present session of the Legislature cannot be completed, before the time limited by the Constitution for its close, and whereas the business yet to be acted upon relates to the finances of the state, and of the preservation of the faith and credit of the State. Therefore,

Resolved by the General Assembly of Maryland, That his Excellency the Governor be, and he is hereby requested to issue his proclamation, convening the Legislature on the 12th inst.

The preamble and resolution were adopted, 35 to 24, and sent to the Senate.

The House then resolved itself into a Committee of the whole on the Tax Bill. After some time spent in Committee of the whole, the Speaker resumed the Chair and the Chairman reported that the Committee had the said bill under consideration, and having made some progress therein, had directed him to ask leave to sit again, which was granted.

Mr. Bowie, chairman of the committee on ways and means, submitted a resolution that the commissioner of Loans be authorised, under the direction of the Treasurer of the Western Shore, to borrow for twelve months on a pledge of the Bank stock of the State, one hundred and fifty thousand dollars at a rate of interest not exceeding six per cent. to pay the interest on the public debt due the first day of April next.—The resolution was assented to. The House took a recess until four o'clock.

SENATE. Mr. Howard obtained leave to report a bill to enlarge the bounds of prison for debtors.

Also reported a bill for the relief of John Busk and Harriet J. Busk, which passed.

CITY COUNCIL.

FIRST BRANCH, March 2. The Branch met pursuant to adjournment. Present, H. Snyder, president, and all the members except Mr. Dryden.

The bill relative to the collection of taxes was returned from the second branch with proposed amendments, which, on motion of Mr. Pinkney, was laid on the table.

A report and resolution of the joint committee on claims, on the petition of Rebecca Jaiquet, was received from the second branch, endorsed 'concurred in.'

A report of the joint committee on markets, relative to the petition of Solomon Wilson, was handed in by Mr. Cole, which was unfavorable.

Mr. J. T. Brown presented the report of the joint committee on bridges, relative to the situation of Monument-st. bridge, which was unfavorable.

A message was received from the second branch, [illegible] relative to the petition of Henry McElderry and others. Also a report and resolution of the joint committee on markets, relative to report of said committee. Also a report from the joint committee on health, on a communication from the health department. Also a report and resolution from the committee on fire companies, relative to the petition of the elders, deacons and trustees of the German Reform Church. Also a report on the petition of Jacob Boyer. All of which were concurred in. Another message was received from the second branch, being a report on the petitions of Duff Green, Benjamin Hardesty, George H. Stewart, and Peter Sauerwein—all of which were concurred in, excepting that of Mr. Sauerwein. On motion of Mr. Keyser, a committee of conference was appointed to reconsider the petition last named. Also an ordinance relating to Henry-st.; and a supplement to an ordinance, entitled an ordinance to preserve the health of the city of Baltimore—both of which were laid on the table.

A message was received from his honor the Mayor, addressed to both branches of the City Council, convention assembled. On motion of Mr. Bender, a committee was appointed to invite the members of the second branch into convention. The following is the result of the proceedings:

APPOINTMENTS. Solomon Conaway, superintendant of sweeps.

George King, justice of the night watch for Middle District.

The branch adjourned until to-morrow afternoon at half-past 3 o'clock.

WATCH REPORTS. In the Eastern District last night no disturbance of the peace.

Middle District.—Negro Dennis Dashiell, intoxicated. Negro Frank Jones brought in, charged by Priscilla Coxton with breaking open her house in Potter street and stealing two pair of pantaloons and a silver pencil case. Committed to jail by Justice Gorsuch. Isaac Barton, colored, brought in by the police; Mary Bentley and Julia Ann Barton, do. in the morning the three commited to the Alms-house as vagrants, by Justice McDonald. Tom Johnson, Bill McKinley, Pat Murray and Adolph Ehler, applied for lodgings.

THE MAIL ROBBERY AT ROCHESTER, N. Y. We learn by the Philadelphia Ledger that an examination is now taking place at Rochester into the charge made against Henry C. Gilbert of robbing the mail. Some bills which had been marked privately never reached their destination, but were afterwards found in circulation and traced to Gilbert as the person who had passed them. He was assistant postmaster at Gaines, Orleans county.

THE NEW WORLD comes so us this week particularly interesting. It contains a number of very beautiful wood cuts, besides an immense variety of choice reading matter. We will remark that it is of an extra size. It can be obtained at the office of Mr. Taylor, agent, No. 12 North street, near the Post office.

MARRIED,

On the 11th of February, by the Rev. Mr. Tippet, JOSEPHUS L. KURT to Miss MARGARET A. WILDERMAN, all of this city.

On Monday evening, 1st inst. by the Rev. Mr. Stevenson, LOUIS H. BROWNE, of this city, to Miss ELLEN, second daughter of William Lowrey, esq. of Baltimore county, formerly of London.

On Monday, 1st instant, by the Rev. John Sharpley, CHAS B. JONES, of Vicksburg, Mississippi, to ARAMINTA LOCKWOOD, of this city.

DIED,

On the 27th ult. G. W., the infant son of J. H. and Sarah Wiseock.

Yesterday morning, about half past seven o'clock, after a lingering and most painful illness, which he bore with the most Christian fortitude and resignation, Gen. JOSHUA MEDTART, in the 48th year of his age.

[FOR THE BALTIMORE CLIPPER.]

No. III.

☞ The Lion roused. "A Stockholder and Consumer," feeling perfectly satisfied with my second estimate of the receipts by a gas company, has retired from the field, and is substituted by Mr. M. who is readily recognized as the Superintendent of the Gas Company in Baltimore. M. is not content with denouncing the whole of my statements as false, but endeavors to destroy the character of the individual lately dismissed from the employment of the Company. Why is M. so queasy at my estimates when I made no mention of the Baltimore Gas Company in the first, and in the second only to the consumers of gas for the correctness of the principal items of my estimate, and to the books in possession of the Company for the number of consumers? The attempt of M. to injure the character of the man to whom he alludes will be abortive. I have known him for many years, and have the greatest confidence in his integrity. It may now suit the purpose of M. to represent him as ignorant and not trustworthy, but his being employed by the gas company for several years to take down the statements of the Indexes, upon which the accounts were made out, proves that they had confidence in his ability to comprehend the meter, whilst his presence at the gas works certainly afforded him ample opportunity of becoming familiar with the prices of materials and the process of manufacturing gas. As he had to visit the consumers to note the state of the indexes, he would be likely to know not only the number of consumers, but the am't each would be charged according to the meter. He did not retain the statements of the several meters in his head, and therefore kept a book in which they were entered; and this, M. well knows. That the gas company was satisfied with his conduct, and that M. in particular had confidence in him, can be shown by the certificate which M. voluntarily gave him a few months since.

In my next publication, I shall endeavor to give to the public the information promised in my first number, with diagrams and explanations, showing the construction of the meter, and how it may be regulated so as to defraud the consumer. INDEX.

PATENT BRIDGE.

☞ There was exhibited at our office on Saturday, a model of a bridge, called the "Patent Puzzle Key Bridge," which possesses advantages not to be found in any similar invention we have seen. The bridge is simple in construction, built entirely of timbers, and white piers or supporters will not be required within half a mile of each other, loads of any weight may pass over it without any danger. There is not a single mortice in the whole construction, and any single piece of timber can be taken out with perfect ease, repaired or made new, and replaced again without interfering with the business on the road. It is worthy the attention of those making rail or other roads where long bridges are required, and those desirous of witnessing the same, can have an opportunity of doing so, by calling at the residence of Mr. Wm. Trimble, south High st. O. T., the model of the bridge can be seen. The patentees are Messrs. Price and Phillips, of Cockeysville, Baltimore county. mh3-1aw2w

☞ A Lecture on BIBLE HISTORY will be given by JOEL W. JONES, Esq. on FRIDAY EVENING, 5th inst. at half past 7 o'clock, at the Methodist Protestant Church, Pitt st. before the "Teachers Association of the Pitt street Sabbath School." This Lecture will be free, and a continuation to a course of Lectures to be given on the same evening of each week.

Tickets may be had (after Friday, 5th inst.) at Rob't Hill's, No. 75 Baltimore-st.; John C. Street, No. 21 Baltimore-st.; and Wm. O. Towson's, Baltimore st. east of the Bridge. Tickets for the whole course, admitting a lady and gentleman, $1—a gentleman and two ladies $1.50—single lecture, lady and gentleman, 25 cents. mh3-3t*

The Fair will commence on THURSDAY EVENING, 4th March, and is intended to be continued throughout the whole of FRIDAY, SATURDAY, and MONDAY following. The ladies of the Society having obtained for the time the exclusive control of the Museum, have appropriated the "Gallery of Paintings" for the display of the great variety of Fancy and Useful Articles, which have been provided—but a ticket for the Fair (25 cts.) will admit the holder to all parts of the Museum and to the promenade on the roof.

300 PRIZES OF $1000 EACH.

☞ The unprecedented popularity of the State Armory and Town Hall Lotteries, and the constantly increasing demand for Tickets, has induced the Commissioners to announce for the drawing, on THURSDAY, the unsurpassed attraction of no less than 300 Capital Prizes in a single Scheme.

And when it is remembered that the proceeds of this truly grand and magnificent Lottery is destined to be spent in our own city, its interest is increased. Remember—THURSDAY is the day!

INCREASE OF WARDS. The following bill, to lay off the city of Baltimore into fourteen wards, is now before the city council, and is published for the information of the citizens, that, if deemed incorrect in any particular, such suggestions may be made to members of the council as will enable them to make the bill as perfect as possible. We have not examined it with sufficient attention to advance an opinion. It is a bill that should not be hastily passed, as it is right that the people should be afforded the opportunity to ascertain the proposed lines of division before it be too late to have them changed.

Be it enacted and ordained by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, That from and after the passage of this ordinance, the city of Baltimore shall be divided into fourteen wards, bounded and described as follows, that is to say:

The First Ward to comprise all that part of the city contained within the following bounds: Beginning on the centre line of Fell's Point Market-st., with the water of the harbor; and thence along the line of said street, to the centre line of Fleet-st; and thence, westwardly on said line, to the centre line of Bond-st.; thence, on said street, Northwardly, to the centre line of East Baltimore-st.; and thence Eastwardly, with said line and the Philadelphia road, to the East line of the city; and thence, with said line Southwardly, to the water of the harbor; and thence, with said water, to the place of beginning.

The Second Ward to comprise all that part of the city contained within the following bounds: Beginning on the centre line of Fell's Point Market street, and the water of the harbor; and thence northerly, binding on said line, to the centre line of Fleet street; and thence westwardly with said line, to the centre line of Bond-st; and thence northerly with said line, to the centre line of East Baltimore-st; and thence westwardly on said line, to the centre line of Harford-st; and thence southerly on said line, to the city dock; and thence with said water, easterly to the place of beginning.

The Third Ward to comprise all that part of the city contained within the following bounds: Beginning on the centre lines of East Baltimore and Canal-sts; thence northerly on the Centre line of Canal-st. to Pitt-st; thence on the centre line of said street westwardly to Aisquith-st;—thence northerly on the said line, to the centre line of the Harford Turnpike Road; thence eastwardly on said line, to the east line of the city—and thence on said line southerly, to the centre line of the Philadelphia Road; and thence, westwardly, on said road and East Baltimore st., to the place of beginning.

The Fourth Ward, to comprise all that part of the city within the following bounds:—Beginning on the centre lines of Pitt street and Jones' falls; and thence on the centre line of Pitt-st. easterly, to the centre line of Canal-st.; and thence on said line southwardly, to the centre line of East Baltimore-st.; and thence eastwardly to the centre line of Harford-st.; and thence southerly, on said line to the water of the city dock; and thence on said water, westwardly, to the centre line of Jones' Falls; and thence northerly on said line, to the place of beginning.

The Fifth Ward, to comprise all that part of the city within the following bounds:—Beginning on the centre lines of Pitt-st. and Jones' Falls; and thence, northerly, on said line, to the centre line of Hillen-st.; and thence, eastwardly on said line, to the centre line of Monument street; and thence, eastwardly, on said line, to Aisquith-st. and thence, southerly, on said line to the centre line of Pitt-st.; and thence, westwardly on said line, to the place of beginning.

The Sixth Ward, to comprise all that part of the city within the following bounds:—Beginning at the intersection of Hillen street and Jones' Falls; and thence on Jones' Falls, northwardly, to the limits of the city; and thence on said line, eastwardly, to the Harford road; and thence on said line, to the centre line of Monument street; and thence on said line, westwardly, to the centre line of Hillen-st.; and thence, westwardly, to the place of beginning.

The Seventh Ward, to comprise all that part of the city within the following bounds:—Beginning at the Belvidere bridge over Jones' Falls; thence along the centre of Jones' Falls to the mouth thereof at the north side of the basin; thence, westwardly, along the north side of the basin to Gay-st.; thence along Gay-st. to East Baltimore street; thence, westwardly, on said street, to Belvidere or north street; thence, north along said street, to the place of beginning.

The Eighth Ward to comprise all that part of the city which is contained within the following bounds:—Beginning at the Belvidere bridge on Jones' Falls; thence southwardly, along the centre of Belvidere or North street, to Baltimore-st; thence eastwardly, along the centre of Baltimore st. to Gay-st; thence, south, along the centre of Gay street, to the north side of the basin, to Pratt-st; thence, west, along the centre of Pratt to Hanover-st; thence, north, along Hanover-st to Baltimore-st; thence, west, along Baltimore to Liberty-st; thence, north, along Liberty-st. to Mulberry-st; thence along Mulberry-st to Cathedral-st; thence, north, along Cathedral-st, to the city limits; thence, east, to Jones' Falls; thence along Jones' Falls, to the place of beginning.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE,

BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAIL ROAD.

PROPOSALS are invited for the following described MATERIALS to be used in the construction of the Railway Track between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland:

Sawed Lumber for Under-sills and String-pieces.

54,583 sticks of Scantling, 4½x8 inches, and 20 ft. long, clear of stump shot, containing 2,275,000 feet, board measure.

54,500	do	do	3x19	do	do 2,725,000 feet,

Making together, 5,000,000 feet.

Hewn Timber for Ties and Blocks.

105,000 sticks, hewn flat on two opposite sides, to a thickness of 4½ inches, and width of 6 inches, and 7 feet long.

39,208 sticks, flattened in some manner to a thickness of three inches—width and length same as the preceding.

Cast Iron for Chairs and Plates.

52,800 Middle	do	do	4	do 211,200
52,800 Bottom Plates,	do	do	2¾	do 145,000
Total lbs. cast iron,				765,000 lbs.

Wrought Iron for Fastenings.

105,600 Screw-bolts, 7½ inches long, and ¾ in diam. wt 1 lb. each,	105,600
105,600 Nuts for same, (1 7 8 sq's, 9-16 thick,) wt. ½ lb. each,	52,800
105,600 Washers, of a wedge form, 3½ inches long by 2½ wide, and ¼ inch average thickness, and weighing 9 16 lb.	59,136
105,600 Plates of rolled Zinc, same length and width, and 1 16 thick, weighing 10 to the pound,	10,560
844,800 Hook-headed Spikes, 4½ inches long, 7-16 square in the shank, and weighing 5½ oz. each,	294,716

The Sawed Lumber may be of white or yellow pine, with not more than an inch of sap on two edges of the stick; free from large knots, shakes or decay of any kind. A portion of the 4½8 scantling may be proposed for to be furnished, of white oak, under the same conditions as to quality. The points of delivery may be at Baltimore, Georgetown, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any other point upon the line of the road, and the proposal will state the places as well as times at which the Lumber will be furnished.

Proposals to which more than one of the places just named are accessible, will separately state their prices for delivery at each; so as to allow an option to the Company in regard to them should the proposal be accepted.

The Hewn Timber, intended for the cross-ties and support-blocks, may be of white oak, rock-oak or chesnut oak, or of chesnut. It must be sound wood, and straight in one direction. If the proposer prefers delivering it in the rough state, and does not wish to undertake the hewing of it to the required dimensions he can so word his proposal, and in that case the size of the sticks must be such as to permit them, when dressed, to be of the full dimensions specified, clear of bark and axe-kerf. If the timber is cut while the bark is loose, it must be stripped off before the delivery. The delivery may be made upon any point of the line, between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland, and the points between which it will take place must be stated. There are to every mile of track 31,680 feet board measure of 4½8, and 26,400 feet of 3x10 scantling, 1056 cross ties dressed to 4½ inches thick, and 302 dressed to 3 inches thick Proposals will not be received for a less quantity of any of the kinds of timber, than will lay a mile of track.

The Castings for the chairs and plates will be of an easy pattern—they must be of strong and sound metal, and smoothly cast—the contractor furnishing the patterns. The screw bolts and nuts will be of sound, tough iron and made with exacts as to the required form and size. The washers will be of bar-iron, rolled with the proper section, cut off and punched for the passage of the bolt. The zinc plates similarly made. The hook-headed spikes to be of iron of as good a quality as that of the screw bolts.

The Iron Fastenings just described may be delivered at Baltimore, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any point of the line of the road between the two latter places and the places and times of delivery will be stated in the proposals. There are to every mile of track 7656 lbs. of cast-ings—1584 lbs. of bolts and nuts—591 lbs. of iron washers—195 lbs. of zinc plates, and 2247 lbs. of spikes. No proposal for a less quantity than will supply 10 miles will be received.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid thereon—reserving to the Company the option of paying the said four fifths in Baltimore City 6 per cent stock at par—or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to the contract.

If the materials contracted for or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered, and no estimates or payments shall be made or on account of materials delivered before the time specified for commencing the delivery of the same. The monthly payments shall be made at the Company's offices in Baltimore Cumberland, or Martinsburgh, Virginia, at the option of the contractor, and the final payments shall be made in Baltimore. The manner and times in which the materials shall be furnished on the different parts of the line will be specifically provided for in the contracts, and particulars will be given on application to the undersigned. It will be required that about one half of the whole quantity of materials shall be delivered as early as possible between now and the 1st of December next. A model of the rail and its supports and fastenings will be ready for inspection at the Company's office in Baltimore by the 28th current. The proposals will be directed under seal to the subscriber, either at Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh—and will be received up to the 15th of March proximo. By order of the President and Directors,

COMMENT. If we examine the nature of the above diseases, and the situation of the parts affected, we must consider it a very important object to be able to obtain a remedy at once certain in its action, and at the same time composed of such ingredients as will prevent the possibility of discovery while using it. It is a fact well known to many, that most of the remedies offered for these diseases are composed of such nauseous drugs, as to render it almost impossible to continue their use without creating a sickness at the stomach or other unpleasant consequences. Such being the case there can be no doubt but such a remedy as Vallier's French Pills, will meet the universal approbation, being entirely free from those objections; pleasant in their operation, and prompt in removing the disease. The proprietor would here remark, that the efficacy of these Pills in the disorders alluded to, are not based upon supposition; on the contrary, it is founded upon rational experience, having used them in a successful practice for upwards of two years, he feels confident of their superiority over the remedies hitherto employed!

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,

MY MOTHER'S VOICE.

Oh! sweeter than upon the flute,
The music that fair fingers make;
Sweeter than lays of lyre or lute,
That die along the moonlit lake;
My mother's voice, that woke my ear
In childhood, to affection's feeling;
When, at her knee, I lean'd to hear
The moral truths she was revealing.

Oft in the scenes of solitude,
Where Nature's quiet things rejoice;
In glen and grove, and lofty wood,
I hear that holy, heavenly voice;
And when from yon high hall above,
The stars, like angels' eyes, are peeping;
Then comes that gentle voice of love,
Upon my ear, when I am sleeping.

And when to weep I am inclined,
And sorrow preys upon my soul;
Oh! when despair hath seiz'd my mind,
And I have drained the damned bowl;
That voice hath cried—"Beware, my son,
Yield not thy spirit up to sorrow;
Thou canst not, shalt not be undone—
'Twill be a fairer day to-morrow."

Oft, when in Pleasure's flowery arms,
I sipp'd the sparkling wine-cup's wave;
Rev'ling in all her radiant charms,
That soft persuasive voice to save,
Stole on mine ear—Oh! whilst thou art,
In mirth's gay hall, thy revels keeping;
Thy mother, with a breaking heart,
The errors of her son is weeping."

Dear mother—weep, oh! weep no more,
Thy minstrel son all sin hath spurn'd;
His wild career at last is o'er,
To virtue's path he hath return'd;
No longer shalt thou sigh for me,
And light shall be thy sorrow's measure;
No more thou'lt taste of misery,
But much, my mother, much of pleasure.

Three years, three long and lingering years,
Have pass'd, my mother, since we met;
But time thy image more endears,
As every sun doth rise and set:
Oh! could I clasp thee to my heart,
This moment to thy fond arms rushing;
Language could not my joy impart,
Or feelings from my bosom gushing.

Baltimore, March, 1841. MILFORD BARD.

THE RESCUED KNIGHT.

A TALE OF THE CRUSADES.

It was starlight on Galilee. The placid lake lay at the feet, slumbering as calmly as an infant, with the wooded shores, and the tall cliffs around, reflected darkly in its surface. Scarcely a breath disturbed the quiet air. Occasionally, a ripple would break on the shore with a low, measured harmony, and anon a tiny wave would glisten in the starlight, as a slight breeze ruffled the surface of the lake. The song of the fisherman was hushed; the voice of the vine-dresser had ceased on the shore; the cry of the eagle had died away amongst his far-off hills, and the silence of midnight, deep, hushed, and awe-inspiring, hung over Galilee.

A thousand years before, and what scenes had that sea beheld! There, had lived Peter and his brethren; there had our Saviour taught; upon those shores had his miracles been wrought; and on the broad bosom of Gennesserat he had walked a God. What holy memories were linked in with that little sea. How calm and changeless seemed its quiet depths! A thousand years had passed since then, and the apostles and their children had mouldered into dust, yet the stars still looked down on that placid lake unchanged, shining the same as they had done for fifty centuries before.

On the shore of the lake, embowered in the thick woods, stood a large old, rambling fortified building, bearing traces of the Roman architecture, upon which had been engrafted a Saracenic style. It enclosed a garden, upon one side of which was a range of low buildings, dark, massy, frowning, and partly in ruins, but which bore every evidence of being still almost impregnable.

Within this range of buildings, in a dark and noisome cell, reclined, upon a scanty bed of straw, a Christian knight. His face was pale and attenuated, but it had lost, amid all his sufferings, none of his high resolve. It was now the seventh day since he had lain in that loathsome dungeon, and the morrow's sun was to see him die a martyr, for not abjuring his religion.

"Yes!" he muttered to himself, "the agony will soon be over; it is but an hour at the most, and shall a Christian knight fear fire or torture? No: come when it may, death should ever be welcome to a de Guiscan; and how much more welcome when it brings the glories of martyrdom.—But yet it is a fearful trial. I could fall in battle, for there a thousand eyes beheld us, but to die alone, unheard of, with only foes around, and where none shall ever hear of my fate. Oh! that indeed is bitter. Yet I fear not even it. Thank God!" he said, fervently kissing a cross he drew from his bosom, "there is a strength given to us in the hour of need, which bears us up against every danger."

The speaker suddenly started, ceased, and looked around. The bolt of his door was being withdrawn from the outside. Could it be that his jailor was about to visit him at this hour? Slowly the massy door swung on its hinges, and a burst of light, streaming into the cell, for a moment dazzled the eyes of the captive; but when he grew accustomed gradually to the glare, he started, with even greater surprise, to behold, not his jailor, but a maiden, richly attired in the oriental dress. For an instant the young knight looked amazed, as if he beheld a being of another world.

"Christian!" said the apparition, using the mongrel tongue, then adopted by both Saracens and Franks in their communications, but speaking in a low, sweet voice, which, melting from the maiden's tongue, made every word seem musical, "do you die to-morrow?"

"If God wills it," said the young knight firmly, "but what mean you?—why are you here?"

"I am here to save you," said the maiden, fixing her eye upon his, "that is," and she paused and blushed in embarrassment, "if you will comply with my conditions."

The young knight, who had eagerly started forward at the first part of her sentence, now recoiled, and with a firm voice, though one gentler than he would have used to aught less fair, exclaimed—

"And have you too been sent to tempt me?—But go to those from whom you came, and tell them that Brian de Guiscan will meet the stake rejoicing, sooner than purchase life by abjuring his God."

"You wrong—you wrong me," hastily interposed the maiden, "I come not to ask you to desert your God, but to tell you that I also would be a Christian. Listen—for my story must be short—my nurse was a Christian captive, and from her I learned to love your Saviour. I have long sought to learn more of your religion, and I am come now," and again she blushed in embarrassment, "to free you, sir knight, if you will conduct me to your own land. I am the daughter of the Emir, I have stolen his signet, and thus obtained the keys to your cell."

"It is enough, fair princess—my more than deliverer," said the knight eagerly, "gladly will I sell my life in your defence."

"Hist!" said the maiden in a whisper, placing her finger on her lips, "if we speak above a murmur we shall, perhaps be overheard—follow me," and turning around, she passed swiftly through the door, and extinguishing her light, looked around to see if she was followed, and flitted into a dark alley of overhanging trees.

Who can describe the emotions of de Guiscan's bosom, as he traversed the garden after his guide? His release had been so sudden that it seemed like a dream, and he placed his hand upon his brow as if to assure himself of the reality of the passing scene. Nor were the sensations, which he experienced, less mixed than tumultuous. But over every other feeling, one was predominant—the determination to perish rather than to be retaken, or, least of all, to suffer a hair of his fair rescuer's head to be injured.

Their noiseless, but rapid flight toward the lower end of the garden, and thence through a postern gate into the fields beyond, was soon completed, and it was only when, arriving at a clump of palms, beneath which three steeds, and a male attendant, could be seen, as if awaiting them, that the maid broke silence.

"Mount, Christian," she said in her sweet voice, now trembling with excitement; and then turning toward her father's towers, she looked mournfully at them a moment, and de Guiscan saw, by the starlight, that she wept.

In a few minutes, however, they were mounted; and so complete had been the maiden's preparations, that de Guiscan's own horse, lance and buckler had been provided for him. But on whom would suspicion be less likely to rest than on the Emir's daughter?

They galloped long and swiftly through that night, and just as morning began to break across the hills of Syria, they turned aside into a thick grove, and, dismounting, sought rest. The attendant tied the foaming steeds a short distance apart, and, for the first time, the princes and de Guiscan were alone since his escape.

"Fair princess," said the young knight, "how shall I ever show my gratitude to you? By what name may I call my deliverer?"

"Zelma!" said the maiden modestly, dropping her eyes before those of the knight, and speaking with a certain tremulousness of tone that was more eloquent than words.

"Zelma!" said de Guiscan astonished, "and do I indeed behold the far-famed daughter of the Emir, Abel-kek, she for whom the Saracenic chivalry have broken so many lances? Thou art indeed beautiful, far more beautiful than I had dreamed. The blessed saints may be praised, that thou wishest to be a Christian."

"Such is my wish," said the maiden meekly, as if desiring to change the conversation from her late act, "and I pray that, as soon as may be, we may reach some Christian outpost, where you will place me in charge of one of those holy women, of whom I have heard my nurse so often speak; and after that, the only favor I ask of you, sir knight, is, that, should you ever meet my father, Abel-dek, in battle, you will avoid him, for his daughter's sake."

"It is granted, sweet Zelma," said de Guiscar, enthusiastically. But the attendant now returning, their conversation was closed for the present.

Why was it that de Guiscan, instead of retiring to rest, when, having formed a rude couch for Zelma, he persuaded her to take a short repose, kept guard for hours, busy with his own thoughts, but without uttering a word? Was it solely gratitude to the fair Saracen which forbid him to trust her safety even for a moment to her attendant, or had another and deeper feeling, arising partly from gratitude, and partly from a tenderer source, taken possession of his soul?—Certain it is, that though the young knight had gazed on the bright eyes of his own Gascony, and even even the fair-haired maidens of England, yet never had he experienced toward any of them, such feelings as that which he now experienced toward Zelma. Hour after hour passed away, and still he stood watching over her slumbers.

It was late in the afternoon when the little party again set forth on their flight. De Guiscan, when the road permitted it, was ever at the bridle reins of Zelma, and though his keen eye often swept anxiously around the landscape, their conversation soon grew deeply interesting, if we may judge by the stolen glances and heightened color of Zelma, and the eager attention with which the young knight listened to the few words which dropped from her lips. How had their demeanor changed since the night before! Then the princess was all energy, now she was the startled girl again. Then de Guiscan followed powerless as she led, now he it was upon whom the little party leaned for guidance.

"Pursuit, the saints be praised, must long since have ceased," said de Guiscan, "for yonder is the last hill hiding us from the Christian camp. When we gain that we shall be able to see, though still distant, the tents of my race."

The eye of the maiden sparkled, and giving the reins to their steeds, they soon gained the ascent. The scene that burst upon them was so grand and imposing that, involuntarily, for a moment, they drew in and paused.

Before them stretched out an extensive plain, bounded on three sides by chains of hills, while on the fourth, and western border, glistened far away the waters of the Mediterranean. Rich fields of waving green; sparkling rivers, now lost and now emerging to sight; rolling uplands, crowned with cedar forests; and, dimly seen in the distance, a long line of glittering light, reflected from the armor of the Crusaders, and telling where lay the Christian camp, opened out before the eyes of the fugitives.

"The camp—the camp," said de Guiscan joyously, pointing to the far-off line of tents.

The maiden turned her eyes to behold the glittering sight, gazed at it a moment in silence, and then casting a look backward, in the direction of her father's house, she heaved a deep sigh, and said calmly:

"Had we not better proceed?"

"By my halidome, yes!" said de Guiscan with sudden energy, "see you troop of Saracens pricking up the mountain side in our rear—here—in a line with that cedar—"

'I see them,' said Zelma, breathlessly, 'they are part of the Emir's guard—they are in pursuit.'

'On—on,' was the only answer of the young knight, as he struck the Arabian on which the maiden rode, and plunged his spurs deep into his horse's flanks.

They had not been in motion long before they beheld their pursuers approaching, better mounted than themselves, sweeping over the brow of the hill above, in a close, dense column.

'Swifter—swifter, dear lady,' said the knight, looking back.

'Oh! we are beset,' suddenly said Zelma, in a voice trembling with agitation, 'see—a troop of our pursuers are winding up the path below.'

The knight's eyes following the guidance of the maiden's trembling finger, beheld, a mile beneath him, a large company of infidel horse, closing up the egress of the fugitives. He paused an instant, almost bewildered. But not a second was to be lost.

'Where does this horse path lead?' he said, turning to the attendant, and pointing to a narrow way, winding among precipitous rocks, toward the left.

'Then, in God's name let us enter it, trusting to heaven for escape. If it come to the worst, I can defend it against all comers, provided there is any part of it too narrow for two to attack me abreast.'

'There are many such spots.'

'Then the saints be praised! In, in, dear lady—in all.'

Their pace was now equally rapid until they reached a narrow gorge, overhung by high and inaccessible rocks, and opening behind into a wide highway, bordering upon a plain below.

'Here will I take my position, and await their attack,' said de Guiscan. 'How far is the nearest Christian outpost?'

'A league beneath.'

'Hie, then, away to it, and tell them de Guiscan escaped from a Saracen prison, awaits succor in this pass. We cannot all go, else we may be overtaken. Besides, you may be intercepted below. If you live to reach the crusaders, I will make you rich for life. By sundown I may expect succor if you succeed. Till then I can hold this post.'

The man made an oriental obeisance, and vanished, like lightning, down the acclivity.

'Here they come,' said de Guiscan, 'they have found us out, and are swooping like falcons from the heights.'

The maiden looked, and beheld the troop of Saracens defiling down the mountain, one by one—the narrowness of the path forbidding even two to ride abreast.

'Allah il Allah!' shouted the foremost infidel, perceiving the knight and galloping furiously upon him as he spoke.

Not a word was returned from the crusader.—He stood like a statue of steel, awaiting the onset of the fiery Saracen. As the infidel swept on his career, he gradually increased his distance from his friends, until a considerable space intervened between him and the troop of Moslems.—This was the moment for which the young knight hak so anxiously waited.

'Allah il Allah!' shouted the infidel, waving his scimeter around his head, as he came sweeping down upon the motionless crusader.

'A de Guiscan! a de Guiscan!' thundered the knight, raising the war-cry of his fathers, as he couched his lance, and shot like an arrow from the pass. There was a tramp—a wild shout—a fleeting as of a meteor—and then the two combatants met in mid-career. Too late the infidel beheld his error, and sought to evade that earthquake charge. It was in vain. Horse and rider went down before the lance of the crusader, and the last life-blood of the Saracen had ebbed forth before de Guiscan had even regained his position.

The savage cry of revenge which the companions of the fallen man set up, would have appalled any heart but that of de Guiscan. But he knew no fear. The presence of Zelma, too, gave new strength to his arm, and new energy to his soul. For more than an hour, aided by his strong position, he kept the whole Saracen force at bay. Every man who attacked him went down before his lance, or fell beneath his sword. At length, as sunset approached, the Saracens hemming him in closer and closer, succeeded in driving him behind a projecting rock, which, though it protected his person, prevented him from doing any injury to his assailants, who, meanwhile, were endeavoring, by climbing up the face of the rock, to attack him from overhead. He found that it was impossible to hold out many moments longer. He turned to look at the maiden: she was firm and resolved, though pale.

'We will die together,' said she, drawing closer to his side, as if there was greater protection there than where she had been standing.

'Yes, dear Zelma, for that is, I fear me, all that is left for us to do.'

'Hark!' suddenly said the maiden, 'hear you not the clattering of horses' feet—here—in the rear!'

'Can it be your attendant returned?'

'Yes—yes! it is—praised be the Christian's God.'

'I vow a gold candlestick to the Holy shrine at Jerusalem!'

On, like a whirlwind, came the host of the Christians, over the plain beneath, and through the broad highway, until, perceiving their rescued countryman still alive with his charge, they raised such a cry of rejoicing that it struck terror into every Moslem's heart. In a few moments all danger to the fugitives was over.

The infidels, now in turn retreating, were pursued and cut off almost to a man, by a detachment of the Christian force; while another party of the succorers bore the rescued fugitives in triumph to the Christian outpost.

In the parlor of the —— convent, at Jerusalem, a few months later De Guiscan awaited the appearance of Zelma. Since the day when they had together reached the Christian outpost, he had not beheld that beautiful Saracen, for she had seized the first opportunity to place herself under the instruction of the holy abbess of the —— convent at Jerusalem. During that separation, however, de Guiscan had thought long and ardently of his rescuer. In the bivouac; amid the noise of a camp; in the whirl of battle; surrounded by the beautiful and gay; wherever, in short, he went, the young knight had carried with him the memory of the fair being who, at the peril of her life, had saved him from the stake. Their hurried conversation in the palm grove was constantly recurring to his memory. Oh! how he wished that he might once more behold Zelma, if only to thank her anew for his life. But constantly in the field, he had not been at leisure to visit Jerusalem, until a summons came from France, informing him of his father's death, and the necessity that he should immediately proceed homeward, to preserve the succession to his barony. He determined to see Zelma once more, if only to bid her farewell forever.

As he was swayed thus by his emotions, he heard a light step, and looking up, he beheld the Saracen princess.

'Zelma!' he ejaculated.

'De Guiscan!' said the maiden, eagerly advancing, but checking herself as instantly, she stood, in beautiful embarrassment, before the knight.

Both felt the difficulty of their relative positions, and both would have spoken, but could not. At length de Guiscan said,—

'Lady! I have come to thank you again for my life, before I leave this land forever.'

'Leave Jerusalem—Palestine forever!' ejaculated Zelma.

A bright, but long-forbidden hope lighted up the countenance of the young knight, and perceiving the renewed embarrassment with which the speaker paused, he said:

'Dear lady! I am going to my own sunny land far away; but I cannot depart without telling you how deeply I love you, and that I have thought of you, only of your sex, ever since we parted. Oh! if not presumptious, might I hope?'

The still more embarrassed maiden blushed, but she did not withdraw the hand which the young knight had grasped. He raised and kissed it. The next moment the trembling, but glad girl, fell weeping on his bosom. She, too, had thought only of him.

The proudest family in the south of France, to this day, trace their origin to the union of Zelma and de Guiscan.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

ANNAPOLIS, March 2, 1841.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. Mr. Weast presented the petition of sundry citizens of Washington County, praying that a law may be passed to authorise the Banks of this State to issue notes of one two and three dollars.

Mr. Nesbitt presented the memorial of the Board of Commissioners of Washington County, counter to the memorial of the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road Company praying to be released from the payment of the one million of dollars forfeited to said County under the act of May, 1836, chap. 195. Referred to Committee on Grievances and Courts of Justice.

Mr. E. A. Lynch submitted the following order: Ordered that this House during the remainder of the session will take a recess from two until four o'clock. The order was adopted.

Mr. E. A. Lynch reported a bill entitled an act to receive as a part of the territory and domain of this State parts of the County of Washington in the district of Columbia. Read and ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Tuck reported a bill entitled an act for the relief of lunatic paupers. Also reported a bill entitled an act to repeal certain portions of the act passed Dec. Session 1830, ch. 185, entitled an act to prevent unnecessary expenses and delay in prosecuting appeals from Courts exercising equity jurisdiction in this State.

Mr. Jones of Somerset reported a bill, entitled an additional supplement to the act entitled an act for the more effectual protection of public worship in this State, passed Dec. session, 1824, ch. 35.

Which were severally read and ordered to lie on the table.

The House then went into Committee of the whole on the tax bill. They are at the 11th section.

SENATE. The resolutions for an extra session were rejected, yeas 4, nays 13.

The resolution authorising the Commissioner of Loans to borrow money to pay interest on the public debt, was passed, yeas 11, nays 5.

SESSION OF MONDAY EVENING.

At 4, P. M. the Governor attended in the Senate Chamber, and signed the engrossed bills from No. 1 to 93, inclusive.

On motion of Mr. Prestman, the report and resolution relative to the University of Md. were taken up and adopted.

Mr. Maxwell obtained leave to report a bill, entitled an act to insure the completion of the Susquehanna Canal and of the Tide Water Canal.

The supplement to the act to incorporate the Jennings' Valley Rail Road and Turnpike Company was passed.

THE COLUMBIA. The steamship Columbia was detained at Boston till the 2nd in consequence of the non arrival of Government despatches from Canada. She takes out 9980 letters and 1788 packages of newspapers.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 4, 1841.

THE DAY. Were we given to moralizing, the events which are to transpire to-day would afford us an ample field—for on this day the party which has swayed the destinies of the Union for the last twelve years, yields its power to its more successful competitor. Like actors, as one passes off the stage the other enters to play his part, and in like manner to give place to another. This change is rapturously hailed by one portion of the community and deeply regretted by another.—Time only can reveal whether the bright anticipations of the one, or the fearful apprehensions of the other shall be realized. The real patriots of both parties will indulge the pleasing hope, that the progress of the in-coming administration may be attended by sunshine and prosperity.—We confess that we have no gloomy forebodings, or we believe that those who to-day assume power will admit no influence that can militate against the interests of their country. The new president possesses a vigorous and well-disciplined mind, with long experience in public affairs, and his patriotism is undoubted. That such a man, elevated by the free suffrages of his fellow citizens, to the highest office in their gift, should use the power thus conferred, to the prejudice of his country, is not to be suspected. Surrounded by able and distinguished advisers, we have the utmost confidence that all his measures will be dictated by wisdom, and have but one object, the common good. We do not look at him with the jaundiced eye of party, nor condemn him in advance for measures which may exist only in our own imagination. He is entitled, like his predecessor, to a fair trial; and if it shall be found that he has wantonly encroached upon the rights of the people, or sacrificed their interests, our voice shall not be withheld in his condemnation. This is the measure which we desire to have meted to all public men, without reference to their party appellation. A magnanimous adversary, however he may be disposed to strike, will never refuse to hear; and it is especially necessary in a republican government that there should be a generous forbearance towards those to whom is entrusted the guidance of public affairs. It is the right and the duty of the people to keep a vigilant eye upon their officers, and to be prompt to recall them to their legitimate course upon the least disposition to deviate from it. So far as parties exercise this guardianship of the people's rights they are serviceable—but when they indulge in unmitigated hostility to all measures of their opponents, without discrimination, they degenerate into faction, and subvert the very principles they profess.

General Harrison comes into power at a rather unauspicious moment. The general derangement in monetary concerns; the losses sustained by the community in consequence; the heavy debts under which many of the states are laboring—have made the people sensitive and irritable—and an anxious eye is turned to the national government in the hope that a system will be devised which will give greater stability to the currency, and thereby relieve the people from the ruinous disparity in the value of paper money. This may be found impracticable; nor do we know that the effort will be made. Independent of the above causes of dissatisfaction, other matters will create solicitude. The public voice seems to proclaim the necessity of entering upon a system of national defence, for which object large appropriations will be required. The treasury being empty and the nation somewhat in debt, ways and means will have to be devised to procure the funds necessary to meet expenditures. The most obvious and just mode of effecting this will be to lay a duty upon all articles of luxury. The Israelites could as easily "make bricks without straw," as the government can erect fortifications and build steamboats without money—the first measure, therefore, that will engage the attention of congress at the extra session, will probably be a revision of the tariff.

To-day will be held as a jubilee in Washington city. The banks and stores (we presume) will be closed, and the military, citizens and strangers march in procession to the front of the Capital, where the inauguration is to take place. The day will be closed by two balls and an illumination. Altogether it will no doubt be a splendid spectacle—but we should be as well satisfied were there less parade.

Our proximity to the seat of government will cause thousands of our citizens to be present at the inauguration; and the whole number of visiters will be so great as to render it doubtful whether all can be accommodated. We understand that in some cases from eight to ten persons have now to occupy one room.

ARRIVAL. The National Greys, of Philadelphia, a very handsome military corps, under the command of Captain Peter Fritz, arrived in this city yesterday afternoon, by the cars, and proceeded on their way to Washington, for the purpose of doing honor to the inauguration of Gen. Harrison. They marched under a new and beautiful flag, which had been unfurled, for the first time, upon the occasion of their leaving Philadelphia. The Chronicle compliments them thus: "The Greys are a good specimen of our Philadelphia soldiers, and we feel quite persuaded that, whether in the civic procession, or the battle field, they will never disgrace either their banner or their city."

MISSING VESSEL. The ship Louisiana, Capt Marsden, sailed from Rio de Janeiro on the 9th Feb. 1840, and has not since been heard of. It is supposed that the vessel and all on board were lost.

GHOSTS. We overheard a conversation a few evenings since, and a grave one, too, upon the above frightful subject. One of the parties asked the other, seriously, what idea he had formed relative to the precise appearance, or conformation of a ghost. "I think," was the reply, "that a ghost looks like a corpse—pale in the face, with set, glassy eyes, long bony arms and hands, large protruding teeth, and having a covering similar to a white sheet." This description appeared to make the cold chills run all through the person to whom it was addressed. His eyes glistened, his hair stood upon end—he seemed, actually, to be awe-struck. He, however, differed from his friend, as to the precise figure, modus operandi, &c. of ghosts. "The idea," he remarked, "that I have always formed of a ghost, is, that it looks like a great codfish, with wings, flying slap bang through the air, smarter than a streak of lightning. I don't know how it is, but this is my notion of a ghost, and I can't beat it out of my head." Are you a Yankee? inquired a third person, who was "hard by." "I am," was the reply. "Well, then, I can account for your taking up so queer an opinion relative to the configuration of ghosts. You came from Cape Cod—did you not?" "Well, I rather guess it warn't far from thare." "What was the first thing you remember having seen when a baby, that made the most serious impression upon your mind?"—"Well, I guess now, when I come to think, it was a codfish. One night, when I was a leetle bit of a critter, less than Uncle Zebe's big punkin, brother Levi had been out fishin', and come home with a 'tarnel great codfish, and laid it down hull length sprawlin' on the harth of the old kitchin fire-place. It was a leetle dark and a leetle light, though more dark than not dark. I was standin' in the passage, and the kitchen door was open—(or rather crawlin', for I had eat sich a bustin' supper, that I could hardly stand;) I saw that great critter, with its big eyes and shinin' scales. It wa'nt dead, for every once in a while, it would give a twitch with its tail. It looked for all the world like what marm talked about when she used to tell of the Salem witchcraft." "First impressions are lasting—are they not?"—"Well, I'm swan if I don't think they ain't."—"This, then, accounts for your believing a flying codfish to be the representative of a ghost, while a prolific fancy added the wings." The conversation finally changed to a less frightful subject, and we made our exit.

FINANCIAL PROSPECTS. It is unfortunate for this country, that its financial condition is dependant upon the fluctuations of the money market in London. This arises from the extraordinary quantity of state and other securities which have been sold or hypothecated in that metropolis. The following extract from the New York correspondent of the National Intelligencer, on this subject, will be found to possess interest:—"The public mind continues painfully interested in the financial condition of the country. Never was there more anxiety to hear from Europe, to know what is to be the effect of the action and reaction of the third suspension in Philadelphia. If the bills drawn by the U. S. Bank of Pennsylvania on the house of Morrison, come back, the reaction will be terrible, it is feared. If American stocks come back upon our market, here again is alarming reaction. If, too, American stocks in good credit keep low as they are, or go lower, what new stock, even were it that of a new U. S. Bank, with the Federal Government to back it, could be taken up? Our banks are impregnable. Suspension is not dreamed of; but we are isolated as to the rest of the Union. Our trade is about to be sadly cut up. The hopes of revenue from us must fall short beyond all anticipation: for though goods are plenty here, yet they must go back; first, because they cannot be sold, and next, to take advantage of the coming reduction of duties. In this state of things, all eyes are upon Washington, the Inaugural, the reported extra session, &c., &c."

APPRENTICES' LIBRARY. The effort is now being made to establish this praiseworthy institution on a permanent basis. The association has been regularly organized by the appointment of officers, and about 400 volumes have been contributed. To render the Library worthy of the object in view, an agent is now engaged in soliciting donations of books, or annual subscribers at one dollar. Apprentices are generally destitute of the means of procuring books for themselves, and hence the necessity of receiving aid from the public. Access to a well assorted library may contribute to render active, energies which would otherwise lie dormant and inutil. The young mind is ductile and easily susceptible of impressions; it is therefore important that education should be commenced before vice can have control—for "just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined."

We commend the Apprentices' Library to the favorable consideration of the public, and hope that a sufficient patronage will be procured to enable the association to carry out their undertaking successfully.

U. S. BANK STOCK. This stock has become almost valueless for present use. In New York it is sold for $17 1-4 a 17 1-3; and in Philadelphia at $18 a 18 1-2. The extreme lowness of the price is probably owing to the uncertainty of the legislation of Pennsylvania. Should the legislature of that State grant time to the Banks, (including the U. S. Bank,) we have no doubt that the stock will rise in value, as it must be intrinsically worth more than is now paid for it. But if further time be refused, it has been intimated that the institution will be removed to New York, where it will operate under the free banking law.

CONSECRATED. The Savannah Georgian of the 25th ult., states that a Jewish Synagogue was consecrated in that city on the day before, by the Rev. Isaac Leeser, of Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON, March 3, 1841.

The rush of visiters to this city this morning is truly tremendous. The extra trains of cars poured their contents into the avenue like a host of warriors going to battle. A continual cloud of dust has been kept up the whole day, and there is no knowing what is to come next. With the additional numbers brought by the cars this evening and to-morrow, we shall be able to beat any city of the Union as to population.

The House last evening concurred in the amendment of the Senate to the bill making appropriation for the civil and diplomatic expenses of the government, and the bill was signed this morning by the President.

To-day, the amendments of the Senate to the navy bill were taken up and concurred in. One of the amendments appropriated $5,000 for the preservation of the curiosities and specimens which may be brought by the exploring expedition.

The Senate amendment to the West Point bill, the Indian bill and other bills were also considered and concurred in.

We are now doing business fast, and it would do you good to see how the talking members are put down.

The weather is truly delightful, and the broad waters of the Potomac are reflecting back in a smile of radiance the glorious light of the luminary above. There is every prospect that the weather will continue fine. The various log cabins and other places of refreshment are filled almost to suffocation.

PRESIDENT HARRISON'S GRAND INAUGURATION MARCH. We have before us a copy of this production, the composition of Mr. Henry Dielman, a gentleman who ranks with the best of his profession in this city. The title page represents a view of the Capital, the multitude and the process of inauguration: it is executed by E. Weber & Co. of this city, and does them infinite credit. We are no musician, but a friend at our elbow who is, informs us that the march is "perfect in all its parts," and highly effective. It is to be performed by the Marine Band at Washington to-day, and also at Mr. Hewitt's proposed Concert, at what period we are not prepared to say.

For sale at the several music stores.

HORRID MURDER. The Wayne county Record, published at Centreville, says that a horrid murder was committed near that village on Sunday evening, 21st ult. Miss Rachel Whittaker left the house of her brother, where she resided, about an hour before sunset, on Sabbath evening, to take a walk, and was found on Monday afternoon lying in the woods, one fourth of a mile from her residence, with her skull broken in four different places. The instrument used is supposed to have been a club. A young man named George Kem has been arrested on suspicion of being the perpetrator of the horrid deed.

MALICIOUS FUN. Some poor, pitiable rowdies, in order to have what they called a little fun, went through Sharp street, night before last, breaking bell handles, ringing bells, pulling off knockers from doors, &c. For the space of several squares, hardly a house escaped their dirty trickery. One gentleman, when he got up in the morning, and went to his door, found his bell handle stretched out, and looking, in his own language, "precisely like a goose neck."

FRONT-ST. THEATRE. Mr. Ward has succeeded in engaging Old Joe Sweeney for a few nights more. This evening he will go a strong game upon the "Blue Jackets Forever," and show in his old fashioned style how to increase the navy. Old Joe is a popular actor and gathers the people around him from all quarters. Our word for it, Front street will be crowded to night.

POCKET PICKED. Walton Gray, Esq., had his pocket picked when at the Holliday-st. Theatre, on Tuesday night last, of a pocket book containing $75 in Railroad notes. Gentlemen who are careless enough to carry money thus in their coat skirts while in public promiscuous crowds, ought not to complain, if the slippery-fingered gentry would steal the coats from their backs.

EXTRA SESSION. The resolution requesting the Governor to call an extra session of the Legislature, which passed the House of Delegates, has been rejected by the Senate; so that the House will have to work hard to get through with the general tax bill.

☞ The alarm of fire last night about half-past 7 o'clock, proved to be false. The engine companies with their apparatus assembled in front of No. 101½ Market-st., a house occupied by Mr. Griffith as an upholstery. After playing for a time they returned home without making the least discovery of fire.

☞ We have been requested by the Secretary of the Washington Temperance Society, to state that, in consequence of not being able to procure the use of the Fayette-st. Church to hold their meeting advertised in yesterday's Clipper, there will not be any meeting this evening.

POLICE OFFICERS. In another column will be found a list of the newly appointed police officers. We have no doubt but they are able energetic men. May they live long and purify our city of all corruptibility in the shape of loafers.

REMOVAL. David Herring, Esq. Warden of Baltimore City and County Jail, was on Tuesday removed from office by the newly appointed Visitors of that Institution, and James Disney, Esq. appointed to fill the vacancy.

LAUNCH. A splendid ship, called the Agnes, of 500 tons, intended for an Amsterdam packet, was launched at New York on Monday.

FIREWOOD. Oak wood was retailing yesterday morning at $4,50 per cord, and Pine at $3,50.

MARRIED,

On the 23d ult by the Rev. Mr. Sargent, Mr. EDWARD G. PEARCE to Miss PRISCILLA M. URIXTON, all of Baltimore county.

At Washington, on the 28th ult. Mr. RICHARD H. SEDWICK to Miss MARY A. SILENCE.

DIED,

On Wednesday evening, 23d ult. Mrs. ANN WALTON, consort of Edward Walton, and eldest daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Kytch.

To the Editors of the Clipper:

GENTLEMEN—The following communication was rejected by the men of the Sun office. I presume you have no objection to insert it in your independent paper. MECHANIC.

To the Editors of the Sun:

As you have thought proper to bring forward, editorially, NELSON POE, Esq. for Postmaster of Baltimore, accompanying his nomination with a flaming article of preferment, will you permit me to inform you that Mr. THOMAS E. TILDEN, a Mechanic, is also an applicant for that office. Yes, sir, he is a mechanic! I hope you nor your correspondent will faint or permit your nerves to be disturbed, at my naming a Mechanic in opposition to a Lawyer, for that responsible office. I have charity enough to believe that you were not aware that Mr. Tilden was an applicant, when you stated that the appointment of Mr. Poe to this office would give more satisfaction to the citizens than any other man named. Mr. Tilden is a mechanic and a gentleman, in the true sense of the word. Mr. Tilden has stood up to the rack when there was no fodder. His friends think it very ungenerous in you to attempt to drive him from the rack now when it is full. He is in every way qualified for the office—he is a plain unassuming man—his character is beyond impeachment, either in public or private life—he is honest, industrious, and a temperance man, which should be a great recommendation to him. The mechanics of this city were not aware that your patriotism led you so far as to prefer a Lawyer to a worthy mechanic—for, if I mistake not, the principal part of your subscribers are mechanics. I hope you will give this a place in your (central) paper—also try and state facts in your editorials, if possible. A MECHANIC.

LEVIATHAN NEW WORLD. This is the most magnificent sheet that has yet been published. Its contents are of the most rich and varied description, and it is illustrated with numerous engravings, executed expressly for the occasion, in the highest style of the art. The following are a few of its contents, to give them all would fill a newspaper. THE FUNERAL OF NAPOLEON.

Being the fullest and most graphic account of the obsequies of the late Emperor that has yet appeared, prepared at great expense, expressly for the purpose, and completed in a style worthy of the importance of the subject, as a matter of permanent history. It is illustrated by splendid engravings of the Imperial Eagle, and of the Emperor in his coffin, surrounded by his Generals, Prince de Joinville, &c.

SEVEN ORIGINAL PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE BIBLE;

Occupying three columns of this immense sheet, and forming a gallery of sacred pictures of the most elevating interest. They represent the following scenes: Daniel in the Lion's Den; Rocky Valley in the Vicinity of Petra; Jockbed; a View in Petra; Defile in Idumea; Death of Sampson; Group of Modern Oriental Watch Towers; Ancient Rotunda at Thessalonica.

CULTIVATION OF AMERICAN COTTON.
Illustrated by two appropriate engravings.

LA DANSE;

Memoirs of Taglioni & Cerito, the celebrated dancenses.

THE SOULS OF THE DROWNED;

A Legend of Sea, translated from the German, by W. Henry Farm, from the Metropolitan Magazine for February.

HEADS OF THE PEOPLE;

The Pawnbroker, by Douglass Jenott, illustrated by an engraving, and The School master, by Wm. Howitt, also illustrated by a splendid engraving.

A SEA CHASE;

A Thrilling Incident in the World of Adventure.

THE OLD WORLD AND THE NEW;

Their Flowers, Birds and Insects.

THE DRUNKEN SEA;

An Allegory, by James Henry, M. D.

THE SHAKER LOVERS.

An original story, written expressly for this sheet, by the popular author of "Ray Martin," and "The Green Mountain Boys"

This is merely a "small sprinkling" of what this enormous sheet contains. It measures more than FORTY SQUARE FEET, and is filled with matter of the most valuable and entertaining description, as much as could be compressed into two or three clever sized volumes. Price 12½ cents.

WM. TAYLOR, Agent.

HANCE'S Compound Syrup of Horehound.

CERTIFICATE. Mrs. WILLIAMS, of Petersburg, Va. caught a very severe cold last fall, and thinking it would wear off in the course of time itself, neglected it to a very great extent. Finding, however, it did not leave her, she then tried various remedies, some of which subdued the cough in a measure, but none effectually cured it.

About a month ago, her husband thought she had better try a change of air, so she came to Baltimore, where she first became acquainted with the COMPOUND SYRUP OF HOREHOUND—the first bottle produced such relief, that before she had finished it she determined to purchase two bottles and return home. Price 56 cents per bottle

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

CITY COUNCIL.

FIRST BRANCH, March 3, 1841. The branch met pursuant to adjournment. Present—Mr. H. Snyder, President, and all the members.

On motion of Mr. Dallam, the branch resumed the consideration of the amendments proposed by the Second Branch to bill No. 15, which were read and concurred in. The branch also resumed the consideration of a bill entitled an ordinance relating to Henry street, between Hamburg and Cross streets. Read a second time and concurred in.

Mr. Hanson called up a supplement to an ordinance relating to the health of Baltimore, which was not passed. Mr. H. also offered a resolution of inquiry, requesting that the city commissioners be instructed to report the probable cost of white-washing, painting, furnishing carpets, six new desks, and chairs for the two council chambers. Passed.

Mr. Fields called up bill No. 19, being an ordinance for the division of the city of Baltimore into fourteen wards, which, after being amended, was laid on the table.

A message was received from his honor, the Mayor, approving and signing an ordinance for the appointment of a collector of the city of Baltimore and prescribing his duties. The communication also stated that the bill had been signed to prevent delay in the public business, and that it was signed with the conviction of the utter impossibility of the collector complying with the requirements of the 1st and 10th sections of the ordinance, and with a belief that the 11th section is calculated to do harm; stating also that a longer time should be given the collector to fully discharge his duties.

On motion of Mr. Fields, a message was sent to the Second Branch inviting its members into convention, for the purpose of confirming the appointment of collector. The following gentleman has been confirmed to that office.

City Collector—John B. Seidenstricker.

On motion of Mr. Dallam, the Brauch adjourned until to-morrow afternoon at half past three o'clock.

In the Middle District, Benedict Lee was imprisoned for being drunk. Eliza Ann Blake, colored and Wm. McKinley, applied for lodgings; the latter left for the police to send to the Almshouse. George Baker was brought in at a ¼ past 12, found lying in the street intoxicated. In the Western District, Minerva Starr was brought in by the police for being drunk and riotous. Jas. Hindle and Jacob Jackson applied for lodgings. Jacob, a German, was picked up at a ¼ past 11, for being in a state of intoxication and wallowing in the streets.

☞The second enormous iron shaft, constructed at Ridgely's Forge on the Gunpowder by Messrs. H. Abbott & Co. for the Russian steam ship Kamschatka, building at New York, was brought to this city yesterday. Like the former shaft, which we noticed some days ago, it was drawn by sixteen horses on a very strong wagon with eight wheels. The diameter of the shaft is 18½ inches, its length 22 feet 8 inches, and its weight about 18,000 lbs.—American.

BURNT TO DEATH. We learn by the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser, that on Tuesday evening last a Mrs. Thatcher and her child were burnt to death in the following shocking manner: The child having fallen into the fire, and the mother being beastly intoxicated, in her endeavor to rescue the child her clothes caught fire, and both perished before any assistance could be rendered them.

DRUNKARD'S DEATH. A man named Olmstead died suddenly in New York on Monday, after being engaged in a boxing match. The circumstances created considerable excitement, but after a careful post mortem examination, it was ascertained that his death was producee by excitement and intemperance.

DIFFICULTY AMONG THE MILITARY. On the occasion of General Harrison's visit to Petersburg, the democratic officers of the Petersbuag Greys, refused to turn out with their company to receive the General, and have since resigned. A meeting has been held, and other officers elected in their stead.

N. Y. TARIFF. At a meeting of the board of underwriters in New York on Tuesday last, it was decided that each company should settle the rate of insurance with the applicants, thus repealing the tariff premiums.

SENTENCE OF DEATH FOR FORGERY. Sentence of death has been passed by the Law Court of Appeal at Charleston, upon a George W. Jones, for the crime of making, but not issuing or uttering, a forged check on the Bank of Charleston.

A CASE OF CONSCIENCE. A book was found a few days ago, on the steps of a book store in Hartford, (Conn.,) in which was a note, stating that it had been stolen from the store by the writer, whose conscience having reproached him for the act, he was compelled to return it.

THE STEAMSHIP MISSISSIPPI. The vessel which is now being built at the Navy Yard, Philadelphia, will soon be ready for launching. The workmen are driving ahead as fast as possible, and as many are engaged as can work to advantage.

We learn that in Richmond, an "Anti-borrowing-your-neighbour's-newspaper-every-day-and-thus-cheating-the-printer-out-of-his-honest-and-hard-earned-dues-Society," is about to be formed.

In some parts of England, the owners of estates set out trees in the shape of letters so as to spell out their own names, and thus retain a living and growing proprietary mark upon their lands.

A BALDHEAD EAGLE, six feet eight inches from tip to tip, was recently taken alive, near Hightstown, (N. J.,) by Mr. Eli Dye.

COUNTERFEIT fives on the Bank of Syracuse have made their appearance in New York, and will no doubt also appear in these "diggins."

MORE SUSPENSION. The Georgia Railroad Company suspended specie payments on the 23d ult. i. e. it has "burst up."

A COOL EXCUSE. A gentleman was, the other day, looking attentively at some amusing caricatures, in the window of a print shop, when, on a sudden he felt some one at his pocket. As there was only one person standing near him, he instantly turned round upon him, and, looking him full in the face, said, "Your hand, sir, was in my pocket!" "Was it, sir?" the other very calmly replied; "I really beg your pardon, if it was; but the weather is so very cold, one is glad to put one's hands anywhere!"

The ship Franklin, at New Bedford, from New Zealand, confirms the reported loss of the whale ships Acasta, of Stonington, and Shylock, of Sippican. The Acasta foundered in a gale the latter part of August, about 50 miles from land, and the crew were taken off by the Java, of Fairhaven, and arrived at the Bay of Islands about the 1st of Sept. The Shylock was wrecked on Turtle Island, one of the Fejee group. The insurance on the above vessels, in New Bedford and Fairhaven, amounts to $48,000.

RUMOR. A rumor has been afloat in Louisville, that Col. Frank Johnson has been appointed postmaster of that place.

DROWNED. A youth named John Dawson fell into a mill-pond while fishing, at Lynchburg, a few days since, and was drowned.

DEAD. Mr. Priest, who was run over by the Mechanics' Fire Engine, in Louisville, a few days since, died on Wednesday last.

COTTON FACTORY—For Sale or Rent.

FOR Manufacturing Cotton WADDING & LAPS. The Machinery of the above Factory is propelled by a first rate Four horse Steam Engine. I will sell for cash, or on a liberal credit on approved endorsed notes. This is a rare chance for an industrious person with a small capital—the Factory is well established, and has a good run of customers—possession can be had in March. Inquire of T. W. BETTON, d22-tf No. 151½ Baltimore street.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAIL ROAD.

PROPOSALS are invited for the following described MATERIALS to be used in the construction of the Railway Track between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland:

Sawed Lumber for Under-sills and String-pieces.

54,583 sticks of Scantling, 4½x8 inches, and 20 ft. long, clear of stump shot, containing 2,275,000 feet, board measure.
Making together, 5,000,000 feet.

Hewn Timber for Ties and Blocks.

105,500 sticks, hewn flat on two opposite sides, to a thickness of 4½ inches, and width of 6 inches, and 7 feet long.
30,200 sticks, flattened in some manner to a thickness of three inches—width and length same as the preceding.

Cast Iron for Chairs and Plates.

23,800 Middle do do 4 do 211,000
Total lbs. cast iron, 765,500 lbs.

Wrought Iron for Fastenings.

105,600 Screw-bolts, 7½ inches long, and ¾ in diam. wt 1 lb. each, 105,600
105,600 Nuts for same, (1 7 8 sq'e, 9-16 thick,) wt. ¾ lb. each, 59,400
105,600 Washers, of a wedge form, 2½ inches long by 2½ wide, and ¼ inch average thickness, and weighing 9 16 lb. 59,136
105,600 Plates of rolled Zinc, same length and width, and 1 16 thick, weighing 10 to the pound, 10,560
844,800 Hook-headed Spikes, 4½ inches long, 7-16 square in the shank, and weighing 4½ oz. each, 224,716

The Sawed Lumber may be of white or yellow pine, with not more than an inch of sap on two edges of the stick; free from large knots, shakes or decay of any kind. A portion of the 4½x8 scantling may be proposed for to be furnished, of white oak, under the same conditions as to quality. The points of delivery may be at Baltimore, Georgetown, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any other point upon the line of the road, and the proposal will state the places as well as times at which the Lumber will be furnished.

Proposers to whom more than one of the places just named are accessible, will separately state their prices for delivery at each; so as to allow an option to the Company in regard to them should the proposal be accepted.

The Hewn Timber, intended for the cross-ties and support-blocks, may be of white oak, rock-oak or chesnut oak, or of chesnut. It must be sound wood, and straight in one direction. If the proposer prefers delivering it in the rough state, and does not wish to undertake the hewing of it to the required dimensions he can so word his proposal, and in that case the size of the sticks must be such as to permit them, when dressed, to be of the full dimensions specified, clear of bark and axe-kerf. If the timber is cut while the bark is loose, it must be stripped off before the delivery. The delivery may be made upon any point of the line, between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland, and the points between which it will take place must be stated. There are to every mile of track 31,680 feet board measure of 4½x8, and 26,400 feet of 3x10 scantling, 1056 cross ties dressed to 6½ inches thick, and 352 dressed to 3 inches thick. Proposals will not be received for a less quantity of any of the kinds of timber, than will lay a mile of track.

The Castings for the chairs and plates will be of an easy pattern—they must be of strong and sound metal, and smoothly cast—the contractor furnishing the patterns. The screw bolts and nuts will be of sound, tough iron and made with exactness to the required form and size. The washers will be of bar-iron, rolled with the proper section, cut off and punched for the passage of the bolt. The zinc plates similarly made. The hook-headed spikes to be of iron of as good a quality as that of the screw bolts.

The Iron Fastenings just described may be delivered at Baltimore, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any point of the line of the road between the two latter places and the places and times of delivery will be stated in the proposals. There are to every mile of track 7535 lbs. of castings—1584 lbs. of bolts and nuts—501 lbs. of iron washers—105 lbs. of zinc plates, and 2247 lbs. of spikes. No proposal for a less quantity than will supply 10 miles will be received.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid thereon—reserving to the Company the option of paying the said four fifths in Baltimore City 6 per cent stock at par—or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to the contract.

If the materials contracted for or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered, and no estimates or payments shall be made or on account of materials delivered before the time specified for commencing the delivery of the same. The monthly payments shall be made at the Company's offices in Baltimore Cumberland, or Martinsburgh, Virginia, at the option of the contactor, and the final payments shall be made in Baltimore. The manner and times in which the materials shall be furnished on the different parts of the line will be specifically provided for in the contracts, and particulars will be given on application to the undersigned. It will be required that about one half of the whole quantity of materials shall be delivered as early as possible between now and the 1st of December next. A model of the rail and its supports and fastenings will be ready for inspection at the Company's office in Baltimore by the 20th current. The proposals will be directed under seal to the subscriber, either at Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh—and will be received up to the 15th of March proximo. By order of the President and Directors,
BENJ. H. LATROBE, Esq. Loc. and Con'r.

COMMENT. If we examine the nature of the above diseases, and the situation of the parts affected, we must consider it a very important object to be able to obtain a remedy at once certain in its action, and at the same time composed of such ingredients as will prevent the possibility of discovery while using it. It is a fact well known to many, that most of the remedies offered for these diseases are composed of such nauseous drugs, as to render it almost impossible to continue their use without creating a sickness at the stomach or other unpleasant consequences. Such being the case there can be no doubt but such a remedy as Vallier's French Pills, will meet the universal approbation, being entirely free from those objections; pleasant in their operation, and prompt in removing the disease. The proprietor would here remark, that the efficacy of these Pills in the disorders alluded to, are not based upon supposition; on the contrary, it is founded upon rational experience, having used them in a successful practice for upwards of two years, he feels confident of their superiority over the remedies hitherto employed.

VEGETABLE COUGH SYRUP. For the cure of Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Pain and Soreness in the Breast, Influenza, Consumption, Hoarseness, Difficult Breathing, Dyspepsia, and diseases of the Breast and Lungs generally.

This SYRUP is composed of Irish Moss, combined with such other articles as have been found best calculated to afford relief in the above named diseases, and in cases approaching consumption, attended with bleeding at the lungs—and never known to fail. Common Colds, which are generally the effect of obstructed perspiration, will yield to its influence in a few hours. When used in Asthma, Hoarseness, Wheezing, Shortness of Breath, it affords immediate relief. In Whooping Cough, it is without a rival For sale by

To Dr. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT must be obvious to every one, that an Intelligence Office, when conducted under proper principles, and regulated upon an honest and equitable course, is of great convenience and utility to the citizens of a populous and thriving city like this. The subscriber, being aware of this fact, and with the knowledge that a degree of dissatisfaction has existed from the manner in which other offices of the kind have been heretofore conducted, he has therefore taken great pains to conduct his establishment in such a manner as to deserve public confidence, and be worthy of the public patronage.

PERSONS making application at this office for servants, or help of any other kind, will deposit, in advance, 50 cents each, for which they will have access to the records, properly kept for that purpose, and on which they find the names, residences, references, &c. of the servants or other help—in case that neither of them answers the desired purpose, the money will be returned. Yearly subscriptions received at $1.50 each.

AGENCY. HOUSES, FARMS, VACANT LOTS, GROUND RENTS, LANDS, &c. bought and sold on commission. SLAVES, for life or a term of years, bought or sold on commission, and the highest prices obtained. Persons having slaves, which they wish to dispose of, will do well to apply at this office before selling.

PRESIDENT HARRISON'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS,
March 4th, 1841.

Called from a retirement which I had supposed was to continue for the residue of my life, to fill the Chief Executive office of this great and free nation, I appear before you, fellow-citizens, to take the oaths which the Constitution prescribes, as a necessary qualification for the performance of its duties. And in obedience to a custom coeval with our Government, and what I believe to be your expectations, I proceed to present to you a summary of the principles which will govern me, in the discharge of the duties which I shall be called upon to perform.

It was the remark of a Roman Consul, in an early period of that celebrated Republic, that a most striking contrast was observable in the conduct of candidates for offices of power and trust, before and after obtaining them—they seldom carrying out in the latter case the pledges and promises made in the former. However much the world may have improved, in many respects, in the lapse of upwards of two thousand years since the remark was made by the virtuous and indignant Roman, I fear that a strict examination of the annals of some of the modern elective Governments, would develope similar instances of violated confidence.

Although the fiat of the People has gone forth, proclaiming me the Chief Magistrate of this glorious Union, nothing upon their part remaining to be done, it may be thought that a motive may exist to keep up the delusion under which they may be supposed to have acted in relation to my principles and opinions; and perhaps there may be some in this assembly who have come here either prepared to condemn those I shall now deliver, or, approving them, to doubt the sincerity with which they are uttered. But the lapse of a few months will confirm or dispel their fears. The outline of principles to govern, and measures to be adopted, by an Administration not yet begun, will soon be exchanged for immutable history; and I shall stand, either exonerated by my countrymen, or classed with the mass of those who promised that they might deceive, and flattered with the intention to betray.

However strong may be my present purpose to realize the expectations of a magnanimous and confiding People, I too well understand the infirmities of human nature, and the dangerous temptations to which I shall be exposed, from the magnitude of the power which it has been the pleasure of the People to commit to my hands, not to place my chief confidence upon the aid of that Almighty Power which has hitherto protected me, and enabled me to bring to favorable issues other important, but still greatly inferior trusts, heretofore confided to me by my country.

The broad foundation upon which our Constitution rests, being the People—a breath of theirs having made, as a breath can unmake, change, or modify it—it can be assigned to none of the great divisions of Government but to that of Democracy. If such is its theory, those who are called upon to administer it must recognise, as its leading principle, the duty of shaping their measures so as to produce the greatest good to the greatest number. But, with these broad admissions, if we would compare the sovereignty acknowledged to exist in the mass of our People with the power claimed by other sovereignties, even by those which have been considered most purely democratic, we shall find a most essential difference. All others lay claim to power limited only by their own will. The majority of our citizens, on the contrary, possess a sovereignty with an amount of power precisely equal to that which has been granted to them by the parties to the national compact, and nothing beyond. We admit of no Government by Divine right—believing that, so far as power is concerned, the benificent Creator has made no distinction amongst men, that all are upon an equality, and that the only legitimate right to govern is an express grant of power from the governed. The Constitution of the United States is the instrument containing this grant of power to the several departments composing the Government. On an examination of that instrument, it will be found to contain declarations of power granted, and of power withheld. The latter is also susceptible of division, into power which the majority had the right to grant, but which they did not think proper to intrust to their agents, and that which they could not have granted, not being possessed by themselves. In other words, there are certain rights possessed by each individual American citizen, which, in his compact with the others, he has never surrendered. Some of them, indeed, he is unable to surrender, being, in the language of our system, unalienable.

The boasted privilege of a Roman citizen was to him a shield only against a petty provincial ruler, whilst the proud democrat of Athens could console himself under a sentence of death, for a supposed violation of the national faith, which no one understood, and which at times was the subject of the mockery of all, or of banishment from his home, his family, and his country, with or without an alleged cause; that it was the act, not of a single tyrant, or hated aristocracy, but of his assembled countrymen. Far different is the power of our sovereiguty. It can interfere with no one's faith, prescribe forms of worship for no one's observance, inflict no punishment but after well ascertained guilt, the result of investigation under rules prescribed by the constitution itself. These precious privileges, and those scarcely less important, of giving expression to his thoughts and opinions, either by writing or speaking, unrestrained but by the liability for injury to others, and that of a full participation in all the advantages which flow from the Government, the acknowledged property of all, the American citizen derives from no charter granted by his fellow-man. He claims them because he is himself a man, fashioned by the same Almighty hand as the rest of his species, and entitled to a full share of the blessings with which he has endowed them.

Notwithstanding the limited sovereignty possessed by the people of the United States, and the restricted grant of power to the government which they have adopted, enough has been given to accomplish all the objects for which it was created. It has been found powerful in war, and, hitherto, justice has been administered, an intimate union effected, domestic tranquility preserved, and personal liberty secured to the citizen. As was to be expected, however, from the defect of language, and the necessarily sententious manner in which the constitution is written, disputes have arisen as to the amount of power which it has actually granted, or was intended to grant. This is more particularly the case in relation to that part of the instrument which treats of the legislative branch. And not only as regards the exercise of powers claimed under a general clause, giving that body the authority to pass all laws necessary to carry into effect the specified powers, but in relation to the latter also. It is, however, consolatory to reflect, that most of the instances of alleged departure from the letter or spirit of the constitution, have ultimately received the sanction of a majority of the people. And the fact, that many of our statesmen, most distinguished for talent and patriotism, have been, at one time or other of their political career, on both sides of each of the most warmly disputed questions, forces upon us the inference that the errors, if errors there were, are attributable to the intrinsic difficulty, in many instances, of ascertaining the intentions of the framers of the constitution, rather than the influence of any sinister or unpatriotic motive.

But the great danger to our institutions does not appear to me to be in a usurpation, by the government, of power not granted by the people, but by the accumulation, in one of the departments, of that which was assigned to others. Limited as are the powers which have been granted, still enough have been granted to constitute a despotism, if concentrated in one of the departments.—This danger is greatly heightened, as it has been always observable that men are less jealous of encroachments of one department upon another, than upon their own reserved rights.

When the Constitution of the United States first came from the hands of the Convention which formed it, many of the sternest republicans of the day were alarmed at the extent of the power which had been granted to the Federal Government, and more particularly of that portion which had been assigned to the Executive branch. There were in it features which appeared not to be in harmony with their ideas of a simple representative Democracy, or Republic. And knowing the tendency of power to increase itself, particularly when exercised by a single individual, predictions were made that, at no very remote period, the Government would terminate in virtual monarchy. It would not become me to say that the fears of these patriots have been already realized. But, as I sincerely believe that the tendency of measures, and of men's opinions, for some years past, has been in that direction, it is I conceive, strictly proper that I should take this occasion to repeat the assurances I have heretofore given of my determination to arrest the progress of that tendency, if it really exists, and restore the Government to its pristine health and vigor, as far as this can be effected by any legitimate exercise of the power placed in my hands.

I proceed to state in as summary a manner as I can, my opinion of the sources of the evils which have been so extensively complained of, and the correctives which may be applied. Some of the former are unquestionably to be found in the defects of the Constitution; others, in my judgment, are attributable to a misconstruction of some of its provisions. Of the former is the eligibility of the same individual to a second term of the Presidency. The sagacious mind of Mr. Jefferson early saw and lamented this error, and attempts have been made, hitherto without success, to apply the amendatory power of the States to its correction.

As, however, one mode of correction is in the power of every President, and consequently in mine, it would be useless, and perhaps invidious, to enumerate the evils of which, in the opinion of many of our fellow-citizens, this error of the sages who framed the Constitution may have been the source, and the bitter fruits which we are still to gather from it, if it continues to disfigure our system. It may be observed, however, as a general remark, that Republics can commit no greater error than to adopt or continue any feature in their systems of government which may be calculated to create or increase the love of power, in the bosoms of those to whom necessity obliges them to commit the management of their affairs. And, surely, nothing is more likely to produce such a state of mind than the long continuance of an office of high trust. Nothing can be more corrupting, nothing more destructive of all those noble feelings which belong to the character of a devoted republican patriot. When this corrupting passion once takes possession of the human mind, like the love of gold, it becomes insatiable. It is the never-dying worm in his bosom, grows with his growth, and strengthens with the declining years of his victim. If this is true, it is the part of wisdom for a republic to limit the service of that officer, at least, to whom she has intrusted the management of her foreign relations, the execution of her laws, and the command of her armies and navies, to a period so short as to prevent his forgetting that he is the accountable agent, not the principal—the servant, not the master. Until an amendment of the Constitution can be effected, public opinion may secure the desired object. I give my aid to it, by renewing the pledge heretofore given, that, under no circumstances, will I consent to serve a second term.

But if there is danger to public liberty from the acknowledged defects of the Constitution, in the want of limit to the continuance of the Executive power in the same hands, there is, I apprehend, not much less from a misconstruction of that instrument, as it regards the power actually given. I cannot conceive that, by a fair construction, any or either of its provisions would be found to constitute the President a part of the legislative power. It cannot be claimed from the power to recommend, since, although enjoined as a duty upon him, it is a privilege which he holds in common with every other citizen. And although there may be something more of confidence in the propriety of the measures recommended in the one case than in the other, in the obligations of ultimate decision there can be no difference. In the language of the Constitution, "all the legislative powers" which it grants "are vested in the Congress of the United States." It would be a solecism in language to say that any portion of these is not included in the whole.

It may be said, indeed, that the Constitution has given to the Executive the power to annul the act of the legislative body by refusing to them his assent. So a similar power has necessarily resulted from that instrument to the Judiciary; and yet the Judiciary forms no part of the Legislature. There is, it is true, this difference between these grants of power: the Executive can put his negative upon the acts of the Legislature for other cause than that of want of conformity to the Constitution, whilst the Judiciary can only declare void those which violate that instrument. But the decision of the Judiciary is final in such a case, whereas, in every instance where the veto of the Executive is applied, it may be overcome by a vote of two-thirds of both Houses of Congress. The negative upon the acts of the Legislative, by the Executive authority, and that in the hands of one individual, would seem to be an incongruity in our system. Like some others of a similar character, however, it appears to be highly expedient; and if used only with the forbearance, and in the spirit which was intended by its authors, it may be productive of great good, and be found one of the best safe guards to the Union. At the period of the formation of the Constitution, the principle does not appear to have enjoyed much favor in the State Governments. It existed but in two, and in one of these there was a plural Executive. If we would search for the motives which operated upon the purely patriotic and enlightened assembly which framed the Constitution, for the adoption of a provision so apparently repugnant to the leading democratic principle, that the majority should govern, we must reject the idea that they anticipated from it any benefit to the ordinary course of legislation. They knew too well the high degree of intelligence which existed among the People, and the enlightened character of the State Legislatures, not to have the fullest confidence that the two bodies elected by them would be worthy representatives of such constituents, and, of course, that they would require no aid in conceiving and maturing the measures which the circumstances of the country might require. And it is preposterous to suppose that a thought could for a moment have been entertained, that the President, placed at the Capital, in the centre of the country, could better understand the wants and wishes of the people than their own immediate representatives, who spend a part of every year among teem, living with them, often laboring with them, and bound to them by the triple tie of interest, duty, and affection. To assist or control Congress, then, in its ordinary legislation, could not, I conceive, have been the motive for conferring the veto power on the President.—This argument acquires additional force from the fact of its never having been thus used by the first six Presidents—and two of them were members of the convention, one presiding over its deliberations, and the other having a larger share in consummating the labors of that august body than any other person. But if bills were never returned to Congress by either of the Presidents above referred to, upon the ground of their being inexpedient, or not as well adapted as they might be to the wants of the People, the veto was applied upon that of want of conformity to the Constitution, or because errors had been committed from a too hasty enactment.

There is another ground for the adoption of the Veto principle, which had probably more influence in recommending it to the convention than any other. I refer to the security which it gives to the just and equitable action of the Legislature upon all parts of the Union. It could not but have occurred to the convention that, in a country so extensive, embracing so great a variety of soil and climate, and, consequently, of products, and which, from the same causes, must ever exhibit a great difference in the amount of the population of its various sections, calling for a great diversity in the employments of the People, that the legislation of the majority might not always justly regard the rights and interests of the minority. And that acts of this charcter might be passed, under an express grant by the words of the Constitution, and, therefore, not within the competency of the judiciary to declare void. That however enlightened and patriotic they might suppose, from past experience, the members of Congress might be, and however largely partaking in the general, of the liberal feelings of the People, it was impossible to expect that bodies so constituted should not sometimes be controlled by local interests and sectional feelings. It was proper, therefore, to provide some umpire, from whose situation and mode of appointment more independence and freedom from such influences might be expected. Such a one was afforded by the Executive Department, constituted by the Constitution. A person elected to that high office, having his constituents in every section, State, and sub-division of the Union, must consider himself bound by the most solemn sanctions, to guard, protect, and defend the rights of all, and of every portion, great or small, from the injustice and oppression of the rest. I consider the veto power, therefore, given by the Constitution to the Executive of the United States, solely as a conservative power. To be used only, 1st, to protect the Constitution from violation; 2dly, the People from the effects of hasty leislation, where their will has been probably disregarded or not well understood; and, 3dly, to prevent the effects of combinations violative of the rights of minorities. In reference to the second of these objects, I may observe that, I consider it the right and privilege of the People to decide disputed points of the Constitution, arising from the general grant of power to Congress to carry into effect the powers expressly given.—And I believe, with Mr. Madison, "that repeated recognitions under varied circumstances, in acts of the legislative, executive, and judicial branches of the Government, accompanied by indications in different modes of the concurrence of the general will of the nation, as affording to the President sufficient authority for his considering such disputed points as settled."

Upwards of half a century has elapsed since the adoption of our present form of government. It would be an object more highly desirable than the gratification of the curiosity of speculative statesmen, if its precise situation could be ascertained, a fair exhibit made of the operations of each of its Departments, of the powers which they respectively claim and exercise, of the collisions which have occurred between them, or between the whole Government and those of the States, or either of them. We could then compare our actual condition, after fifty years' trial of our system, with what it was in the commencement of its operations, and ascertain whether the predictions of the patriots who opposed its adoption, or the confident hopes of its advocates, have been best realized. The great dread of the former seems to have been, that the reserved powers of the States would be absorbed by those of the Federal Government, and a consolidated power established, leaving to the States the shadow, only, of that independent action for which they had so zealously contended, and on the preservation of which they relied as the last hope of liberty. Without denying that the result to which they looked with so much apprehension is in the way of being realized, it is obvious that they did not clearly see the mode of its accomplishment. The General Government has seized upon none of the reserved rights of the States.—As far as any open warfare may have gone, the State authorities have amply maintained their rights. To a casual observer, our system presents no appearance of discord between the different members which compose it. Even the addition of many new ones has produced no jarring. They move in their respective orbits in perfect harmony with the central head, and with each other. But there is still an under current at work, by which, if not seasonably checked, the worst apprehensions of our anti-federal patriots will be realized. And not only will the State authorities be overshadowed by the great increase of power in the Executive Department of the General Government, but the character of that Government, if not its designation, be essentially and radically changed. This state of things has been in part effected by causes inherent in the Constitution, and in part by the never-failing tendency of political power to increase itself. By making the President the sole distributor of all patronage of the Government, the framers of the Constitution do not appear to have anticipated at how short a period it would become a formidable instrument to control the free operations of the State governments. Of trifling importance at first, it had, early in Mr. Jefferson's administration, become so powerful as to create great alarm in the mind of that patriot, from the potent influence it might exert in controlling the freedom of the elective franchise. If such could have been the effects of its influence, how much greater must be the danger at this time, quadrupled in amount, as it certainly is, and more completely under the control of the Executive will, than their construction of their powers allowed, or the forbearing characters of all the early Presidents permitted them to make? But it is not by extent of its patronage alone that the Executive Department has become dangerous, but by the use which it appears may be made of the appointing power, to bring under its control the whole revenues of the country.—The Constitution has declared it to be the duty of the President to see that the laws are executed, and it makes him the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States. If the opinion of the most approved writers upon that species of mixed Government, which, in modern Europe, is termed Monarchy, in contradistinction to Despotism, is correct, there was wanting no other addition to the powers of our Chief Magistrate to stamp a monarchial character on our Government, but the control of the public finances. And to me it appears strange, indeed, that any one should doubt that the entire control which the President possesses over the officers who have the custody of the public money, by the power of removal with or without cause, does, for all mischievous purposes at least, virtually subject the treasure also to his disposal. The first Roman Emperor, in his attempt to seize the sacred treasure, silenced the opposition of the officer to whose custody it had been committed, by a significant allusion to his sword.

By a selection of political instruments for the care of the public money a reference to their commissions by a President would be quite as effectual an argument as that of Cæsar to the Roman Knight. I am not insensible of the great difficulty that exists in devising a proper plan for the safe-keeping and disbursement of the public revenues, and I know the importance which has been attached by men of great abilities and patriotism to the divorce, as it is called, of the Treasury from the banking institutions. It is not the divorce which is complained of, but the unhallowed union of the Treasury with the Executive Department which has created such extensive alarm. To this danger to our republican institutions, and that created by the influence given to the Executive through the instrumentality of the federal officers, I propose to apply all the remedies which may be at my command. It was certainly a great error in the framers of the Constitution, not to have made the officer at the head of the Treasury Department entirely independent of the Executive. He should at least have been removable only upon the demand of the popular branch of the Legislature. I have determined never to remove a Secretary of the Treasury without communicating all the circumstances attending such removal to both Houses of Congress. The influence of the Executive in controlling the freedom of the elective franchise through the medium of the public officers can be effectually checked by renewing the prohibition published by Mr. Jefferson, forbidding their interference in elections further than giving their own votes; and their own independence secured by an assurance of perfect immunity in exercising this sacred privilege of freemen under the dictates of their own unbiassed judgments. Never, with my consent, shall an officer of the People, compensated for his services out of their pockets, become the pliant instrument of Executive will.

There is no part of the means placed in the hands of the Executive which might be used with greater effect, for unhallowed purposes, than the control of the public press. The maxim which our ancestors derived from the mother country, that "the freedom of the press is the great bulwark of civil and religious liberty," is one of the most precious legacies which they have left us. We have learned, too, from our own as well as the experience of other countries, that golden shackles, by whomsoever or by whatever pretence imposed, are as fatal to it as the iron bonds of despotism. The presses in the necessary employment of the government should never be used "to clear the guilty, or to varnish crimes." A decent and manly examination of the acts of the Government should be not only tolerated, but encouraged.

Upon another occasion, I have given my opinion, at some length, upon the impropriety of Executive interference in the legislation of Congress. That the article in the Constitution making it the duty of the President to communicate information, and authorizing him to recommend measures, was not intended to make him the source of legislation, and, in particular, that he should never be looked to for schemes of finance. It would be very strange, indeed, that the constitution should have strictly forbidden one branch of the Legislature from interfering in the origination of such bills, and that it should be considered proper that an altogether different department of the government should be permitted to do so.—Some of our best political maxims and opinions have been drawn from our parent Isle. There are others, however, which cannot be introduced in our system without singular incongruity, and the production of much mischief. And this I conceive to be one. No matter in which of the Houses of Parliament a bill may originate, nor by whom introduced, a minister, or a member of the opposition, by the fiction of law, or rather of constitutional principle, the Sovereign is supposed to have prepared it agreeably to his will, and then submitted it to Parliament for their advice and consent. Now, the very reverse is the case here, not only with regard to the principle, but the forms prescribed by the Constitution. The principle certainly assigns to the only body constituted by the Constitution (the legislative body) the power to make laws, and the forms even direct that the enactment should be ascribed to them. The Senate, in relation to revenue bills, have the right to propose amendments; and so has the Executive, by the power given him to return them to the House of Representatives, with his objections. It is in his power, also to propose amendments in the existing revenue laws, suggested by his observations upon their defective or injurious operation. But the delicate duty of devising schemes of revenue should be left where the Constitution has placed it—with the immediate representatives of the People. For similar reasons, the mode of keeping the public treasure should be prescribed by them; and the farther removed it may be from the control of the Executive, the more wholesome the arrangement, and the more in accordance with Republican principle.

Connected with this subject is the character of the currency. The idea of making it exclusively metallic, however well intended, appears to me to be fraught with more fatal consequences than any other scheme, having no relation to the personal rights of the citizen, that has ever been devised. If any single scheme could produce the effect of arresting, at once, that mutation of condition by which thousands of our most indigent fellow-citizens, by their industry and enterprise, are raised to the possession of wealth, that is the one. If there is one measure better calculated than another to produce that state of things so much deprecated by all true republicans, by which the rich are daily adding to their hoards, and the poor sinking deeper into penury, it is an exclusive metallic currency. Or if there is a process by which the character of the country for generosity and nobleness of feeling may be destroyed by the great increase and necessary toleration of usury, it is an exclusive metallic currency.

Amongst the other duties of a delicate character which the president is called upon to perform, is the supervision of the government of the Territories of the U. S. Those of them which are destined to become members of our great political family, are compensated by their rapid progress from infancy to manhood, for the partial and temporary deprivation of their political rights. It is in this district only, where American citizens are to be found, who, under a settled system of policy, are deprived of many important political privileges, without any inspiring hope as to the future. Their only consolation, under circumstances of such deprivation, is that of the devoted exterior guards of a camp—that their sufferings secure tranquility and safety within. Are there any of their countrymen who would subject them to greater sacrifices, to any other humiliations than those essentially necessary to the security of the object for which they were thus separated from their fellow-citizens? Are their rights alone not to be guarantied by the application of those great principles, upon which all our constitutions are founded? We are told by the greatest of British orators and statesmen, that, at the commencement of the war of the Revolution, the most stupid men in England spoke of "their American subjects." Are there, indeed, citizens of any of our states who have dreamed of their subjects in the District of Columbia? Such dreams can never be realized by any agency of mine.

The people of the District af Columbia are not the subjects of the people of the states, but free American citizens. Being in the latter condition when the constitution was formed, no words used in that instrument could have been intended to deprive them of that character. If there is any thing in the great principles of unalienable rights, so emphatically insisted upon in our Declaration of Independence, they could neither make, nor the United States accept, a surrender of their liberties, and become the subjects, in other words the slaves, of their former fellow citizens. If this be true, and it will scarcely be denied by any one who has a correct idea of his own rights as an American citizen, the grant to congress of exclusive jurisdiction in the District of Columbia, can be interpreted, so far as respects the aggregate people of the United States, as meaning nothing more than to allow to congress the controlling power necessary to afford a free and safe exercise of the functions assigned to the general government by the constitution. In all other respects the legislation of congress should be adapted to their peculiar position and wants, and be conformable with their deliberate opinions of their own interests.

I have spoken of the necessity of keeping the respective Departments of the Government, as well as all the other authorities of our country, within their appropriate orbits. This is a matter of difficulty in some cases, as the powers which they respectively claim are often not defined by very distinct lines. Mischievous, however, in their tendencies, as collisions of this kind may be, those which arise between the respective communities, which for certain purposes compose one nation, are much more so; for no such nation can long exist without the careful culture of those feelings of confidence and affection which are the effective bonds of union between free and confederated States. Strong as is the tie of interest, it has been often found ineffectual. Men, blinded by their passions, have been known to adopt measures for their country in direct opposition to all the suggestions of policy. The alternative then, is, to destroy or keep down a bad passion by creating and fostering a good one; and this seems to be the corner stone upon which our American political architects have reared the fabric of our Government. The cement which was to bind it, and perpetuate its existence, was the affectionate attachment between all its members. To insure the continuance of this feeling, produced at first by a community of dangers, of sufferings and of interests, the advantages of each were made accessible to all. No participation in any good, possessed by any member of an extensive confederacy, except in domestic government, was withheld from the citizen of any other member. By a process attended with no difficulty, no delay, no expense but that of removal, the citizen of one might become the citizen of any other, and successively of the whole. The lines, too, separating powers to be exercised by the citizens of one State from those of another, seem to be so distinctly drawn as to leave no room for misunderstanding. The citizens of each State unite in their persons all the privileges which that character confers, and all that they may claim as citizens of the United States; but in no case can the same person, at the same time, act as the citizen of two separate States, and he is therefore positively precluded from any interference with the reserved powers of any State but that of which he is, for the time being, a citizen. He may indeed offer to the citizens of other States his advice as to their management, and the form in which it is tendered is left to his own discretion and sense of propriety.

It may be observed, however, that organized associations of citizens; requiring compliance with their wishes, too much resemble the recommendations of Athens to her allies—supported by an armed and powerful fleet. It was, indeed, to the ambition of the leading States of Greece to control the domestic concerns of the others, that the destruction of that celebrated confederacy, and subsequently of all its members, is mainly to be attributed. And it is owing to the absence of that spirit that the Helvetic confederacy has for so many years been preserved. Never has there been seen in the institutions of the separate members of any confederacy more elements of discord. In the principles and forms of government and religion, as well as in the circumstances of the several cantons, so marked a discrepance was observable, as to promise any thing but harmony in their intercourse or permanency in their alliance. And yet, for ages, neither has been interrupted. Content with the positive benefits which their union produced, with the independence and safety from foreign aggression which it secured, these sagacious people respected the institutions of each other, however repugnant to their own principles and prejudices.

Our confederacy, fellow-citizens, can only be preserved by the same forbearance. Our citizens must be content with the exercise of the powers with which the constitution clothes them. The attempt of those of one state to control the domestic institutions of another, can only result in feelings of distrust and jealousy, the certain harbingers of disunion, violence, civil war, and the ultimate destruction of our free institutions. Our confederacy is perfectly illustrated by the terms and principles governing a common copartnership.—There a fund of power is to be exercised under the direction of the joint councils of the allied members, but that which has been reserved by the individual members is intangible by the common government or the individual members composing it. To attempt it finds no support in the principles of our constitution. It should be our constant and earnest endeavor mutually to cultivate a spirit of concord and harmony among the various parts of our confederacy. Experience has abundantly taught us that the agitation by citizens of one part of the union of a subject not confided to the general government, but exclusively under the guardianship of the local authorities, is productive of no other consequences than bitterness, alienation, discord, and injury to the very cause which is intended to be advanced. Of all the great interests which appertain to our country, that of union, cordial, confiding, fraternal union, is by far the most important, since it is the only true and sure guaranty of all others.

In consequence of the embarrassed state of business and the currency, some of the states may meet with difficulty in their financial concerns. However deeply we may regret any thing imprudent or excessive in the engagements into which states have entered for purposes of their own, it does not become us to disparage the state governments, nor to discourage them from making proper efforts for their own relief; on the contrary, it is our duty to encourage them, to the extent of our constitutional authority, to apply their best means, and cheerfully to make all necessary sacrifices and submit to all necessary burdens to fulfil their engagements and maintain their credit; for the character and credit of the several states form part of the character and credit of the whole country. The resources of the country are abundant, the enterprise and activity of our people proverbial; and we may well hope that wise legislation and prudent administration, by the respective governments, each acting within its own sphere, will restore former prosperity.

Unpleasant and even dangerous as collisions may sometimes be, between the constituted authorities or the citizens of our country, in relation to the lines which separate their respective jurisdictions, the results can be of no vital injury to our institutions, if that ardent patriotism, that devoted attachment to liberty, that spirit of moderation and forbearance for which our countrymen were once distinguished, continue to be cherished. If this continues to be the ruling passion of our souls, the weaker feelings of the mistaken enthusiast will be corrected, the Utopian dreams of the scheming politician dissipated, and the complicated intrigues of the demagogue rendered harmless. The spirit of liberty is the sovereign balm for every injury which our institutions may receive. On the contrary, no care that can be used in the construction of our government; no division of powers, no distribution of checks in its several departments, will prove effectual to keep us a free people, if this spirit is suffered to decay; and decay it will without constant nurture. To the neglect of this duty, the best historians agree in attributing the ruin of all the republics with whose existence and fall their writings have made us acquainted. The same causes will ever produce the same effects; and as long as the love of power is a dominant passion of the human bosom, and as long as the understandings of men can be warped and their affections changed by operations upon their passions and prejudices, so long will the liberty of a people depend on their own constant attention to its preservation. The danger to all well established free governments arises from the unwillingness of the people to believe in its existence, or from the influence of designing men, diverting their attention from the quarter whence it approaches, to a source from which it can never come. This is the old trick of those who would usurp the government of their country. In the name of Democracy they speak, warning the people against the influence of wealth and the danger of aristocracy. History, ancient and modern, is full of such examples. Cæsar became the master of the Roman people and the Senate under the pretence of supporting the democratic claims of the former against the aristocracy of the latter; Cromwell, in the character of protector of the liberties of the people, became the dictator of England; and Bolivar possessed himself of unlimited power, with the title of his country's liberator. There is, on the contrary, no single instance on record of an extensive and well established republic being changed into an aristocracy. The tendencies of all such governments in their decline is to monarchy; and the antagonist principle to liberty there is the spirit of faction—a spirit which assumes the character, and, in times of great excitement, imposes itself upon the people as the genuine spirit of freedom, and like the false Christs whose coming was foretold by the Saviour, seeks to, and were it possible would, impose upon the true and most faithful disciples of liberty. It is in periods like this that it behooves the people to be most watchful of those to whom they have intrusted power. And although there is at times much difficulty in distinguishing the false from the true spirit, a calm and dispassionate investigation will detect the counterfeit as well by the character of its operations, as the results that are produced. The true spirit of liberty, although devoted, persevering, bold, and uncompromising in principle, that secured, is mild and tolerant and scrupulous as to the means it employs; whilst the spirit of party, assuming to be that of liberty, is harsh, vindictive, and intolerant, and totally reckless as to the character of the allies which it brings to the aid of its cause. When the genuine spirit of liberty animates the body of a people to a thorough examination of their affairs, it leads to the excision of every excrescence which may have fastened itself upon any of the departments of the government, and restores the system to its pristine health and beauty. But the reign of an intolerant spirit of party amongst a free people, seldom fails to result in a dangerous accession to the executive power introduced and established amidst unusual professions of devotion to democracy.

The foregoing remarks relate almost exclusively to matters connected with our domestic concerns. It may be proper, however, that I should give some indication to my fellow citizens of my proposed course of conduct in the management of our foreign relations. I assure them, therefore, that it is my intention to use every means in my power to preserve the friendly intercourse which now so happily subsists with every foreign nation: and that, although, of course, not well informed as to the state of any pending negotiations with any of them, I see in the personal characters of the Sovereigns, as well as in the mutual interest of our own and of the Governments with which our relations are most intimate, a pleasing guaranty that the harmony so important to the interests of their subjects, as well as our own citizens, will not be interrupted by the advancement of any claim, or pretension upon their part to which our honor would not permit us to yield. Long the defender of my country's rights in the field, I trust that my fellow citizens will not see in my earnest desire to preserve peace with foreign powers any indication that their rights will ever be sacrificed, or the honor of the nation tarnished, by any admission on the part of their Chief Magistrate unworthy their former glory.

In our intercourse with our Aboriginal neighbors the same liberality and justice, which marked the course prescribed to me by two of my illustrious predecessors, when acting under their direction in the discharge of the duties of Superintendent and Commissioner, shall be strictly observed. I can conceive of no more sublime spectacle—none more likely to propitiate an impartial and common Creator than a rigid adherence to the principles of justice on the part of a powerful nation in its transactions with a weaker and uncivilized people, whom circumstances have placed at its disposal.

Before concluding fellow citizens, I must say something to you on the subject of the parties at this time existing in our country. To me it appears perfectly clear, that the interest of that country requires that the violence of the spirit by which those parties are at this time governed, must be greatly mitigated, if not entirely extinguished, or consequences will ensue which are appalling to be thought of. If parties in a Republic are necessary to secure a degree of vigilance sufficient to keep the public functionaries within the bounds of law and duty, at that point their usefulness ends. Beyond that, they become destructive of public virtue, the parents of a spirit antagonist to that of liberty, and, eventually, its inevitable conqueror. We have examples of Republics, where the love of country and of liberty, at one time, were the dominant passions of the whole mass of citizens. And yet, with the continuance of the name and forms of free Government, not a vestige of those qualities remaining in the bosom of any one of its citizens. It was the beautiful remark of a distinguished English writer that "in the Roman Senate, Octavius had a party, and Anthony a party, but the Commonwealth had none."—Yet the Senate continued to meet in the Temple of Liberty, to talk of the sacredness and beauty of the Commonwealth, and gaze at the statues of the elder Brutus and of Curtii and Decii. And the people assembled in the forum, not as in the days of Camillus and the Scipios, to cast their free votes for annual Magistrates or pass upon the acts of the Senate, but to receive from the hands of the leaders of the respective parties their share of the spoils, and to shout for one, or the other, as those collected in Gaul, or Egypt, and the Lesser Asia, would furnish the larger dividend. The spirit of liberty had fled, and, avoiding the abodes of civilized man, had sought protection in the wilds of Scythia or Scandinavia, and so, under the operation of the same causes and influences, it will fly from our Capitol and our forums. A calamity so awful, not only to our country, but to the world, must be deprecated by every patriot; and every tendency to a state of things likely to produce it immediately checked.—Such a tendency has existed—does exist. Always the friend of my countrymen, never their flatterer, it becomes my duty so say to them from this high place to which their partiality has exalted me, that there exists in the land a spirit hostile to their best interests—hostile to liberty itself. It is a spirit contracted in its views, selfish in its object. It looks to the aggrandisement of a few, even to the destruction of the interest of the whole. The entire remedy is with the people. Something, however, may be effected by the means they have placed in my hands. It is union that we want, not of a party, for the sake of that party, but a union of the whole country for the sake of the whole country—for the defence of its interests and its honor against foreign aggression, for the defence of those principles for which our ancestors so gloriously contended. As far as it depends on me, it shall be accomplished. All the influence that I possess, shall be exerted to prevent the formation, at least, of an Executive party in the halls of the Legislative body. I wish for the support of no member of that body to any measure of mine that does not satisfy his judgment and his sense of duty to those from whom he holds his appointment; nor any confidence in advance from the People, but that asked for by Mr. Jefferson, "to give firmness and effect to the legal administration of their affairs."

I deem the present occasion sufficiently important and solemn to justify me in expressing to my fellow citizens a profound reverence for the Christian Religion, and a thorough conviction that sound morals, religious liberty, and a just sense of religious responsibility, are essentially connected with all true and lasting happiness; and to that good Being who has blessed us by the gifts of civil and religious freedom, who watched over and prospered the labors of our Fathers, and has hitherto preserved to us institutions far exceeding in excellence those of any other people, let us unite in fervently commending every interest of our beloved country in all future time.

Fellow citizens: Being fully invested with that high office to which the partiality of my countrymen has called me, I now take an affectionate leave of you. You will bear with you to your homes the remembrance of the pledge I have this day given to discharge all the high duties of my exalted station, according to the best of my ability; and I shall enter upon their performance with entire confidence in the support of a just and generous People.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 5, 1841.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE. We refer the reader to another column for the items of foreign news brought by the steamer President, at New York. It appears that the affair of McLeod had been brought before parliament, and had caused some excitement.

QUICK TRAVELLING. The express steam car brought the Inaugural Address of President Harrison to this city from Washington in one hour and a quarter!

INAUGURAL ADDRESS. The address of President Harrison, which we publish to-day, will be read with deep solicitude. It is written in a neat, plain and intelligible style, containing nothing of fustian or bombast; no effort at mystification. The principles laid down in this message as those by which the President means to be governed in his official duties, are patriotic, purely American, and unexceptionable. On all the leading points of policy upon which parties have differed—on the exercise of the veto power—the interference with state institutions, (slavery,)—he is explicit and satisfactory. Indeed, there is no important measure upon which he has not touched, or upon which he has been equivocal. Throwing aside all party predilections and considerations, we think that this message must give universal satisfaction.

We will briefly notice the principal topics of this address.

He is in favor of keeping the executive and legislative powers distinct, as designed by the constitution; repudiating all attempts of the former to arbitrarily interfere with or control the acts of the latter.

He will require public officers not to interfere with elections, further than to give their votes.

He reiterates his determination, under no circumstances, to become a candidate for a second term; and thinks that the constitution should be so amended as to forbid serving a second term.

He is for confiding the custody of the public funds to the care of congress, and premises never to remove a secretary of the treasury without assigning his reasons to congress.

He thinks an exclusively metallic currency impracticable—and, if possible, beneficial alone to the wealthy and injurious to the poor.

There are only three cases in which he would consider himself justified in using the veto power: 1st. To protect the constitution from violation.—2dly. The people from the effects of hasty legislation, where their will has been palpably disregarded, or not well understood; and, 3dly, to prevent the effects of combinations violative of the rights of minorities.

He makes a strong appeal in behalf of the citizens of the District of Columbia, and urges the propriety of giving them their proper weight and influence.

To the South his declarations on the subject in which they are so peculiarly interested, will be highly acceptable.

His general observations on republican systems of government—their tendency to degenerate into monarchies—and the necessity of an untiring vigilance of a free people to guard their rights from encroachment or violation—exhibit sagacity, mature reflection and the purest spirit of patriotism.

He rebukes, in just and forcible language, the inveterate party spirit which exists—admonishes us to harmony—and promises that, whatever other parties may prevail, there shall never be an executive party during his administration.

On the whole we think it an admirable address—and one to which no exception can be taken but by those, (if there be such,) who are resolved to be captious. It breathes the American spirit which we wish to see universally prevail.

FINALE. The country should rejoice that the twenty-sixth congress is defunct. It will be long remembered for its disorder and violence; for its much talking and little action. It was a disgrace to the nation; and every man, of whatever party, who has a proper regard for the honor and interest of his country must thank God that the constitution has put a period to its existence.—May we never witness a repetition of the disreputable scenes which have dishonored the house of representatives during the two last sessions.

We copy the following account of the close of the session from the National Intelligencer of yesterday morning:

The end of the session. The twenty-sixth congress of the United States expired, by the limitation of the Constitution, last night; and the two Houses have adjourned sine die.

We shall in our next give our readers as full an account as the duties and occupations of this day will allow us to do, of the Acts which have passed during the session; from which alone can our readers ascertain, with any certainty, the business perfected before the adjournment.

In general terms, it may be stated that all the annual appropriation bills were passed. So that the car of Government will continue in motion along its accustomed course. And this comprises nearly all the legislation of Congress at the present session for the common defence and general welfare.

Not more than one in twenty of the bills reported by committees at this session have been acted upon; and very few of those which laid over from the preceding to the late session have been enacted into laws.

Very few of the mass of private bills, chiefly for the pay of just claims upon the Government, have passed. Within the last three days, about a dozen only, instead of some hundreds, which might have been, were disposed of.

In the Senate yesterday, the Vice President (Hon. R. M. Johnson) having retired from the Chair on the preceding evening, Hon. Wm. R. King, of Alabama, was elected President pro tempore of the Senate. The votes were, for Mr King 16; for Mr. Southard 9; for Mr. Huntington 2; and one vote each for three other Senators.

In the course of the day the bill which had passed the House of Representatives for extending for the term of five years the act of 1838 concerning Navy Pensions came up for consideration; and, after debate, was, on motion of Mr Buchanan, ordered to lie on the table (virtually rejected.) Mr. Walker afterwards moved a reconsideration of this vote; and the Senate refused to reconsider it by a vote of 23 nays to 17 yeas.

In the House of Representatives, yesterday, an effort was made by Mr. Crabb to take up the bill which had passed the Senate to reorganize the judicial courts of the United States; and the motion received 93 yeas and 72 nays. Two-thirds of the votes being required, in the beautiful state of order which now prevails in the House, to enable it to take up any business, the motion failed, and the bill was lost.

Mr. Pickens, in the course of the day, made an appeal to the House to take up the bill to refund duties collected on the French ship Alexandre, at Newport. They were collected by mistake, and it is a point of national honor and faith to restore them. But he failed in his object through the operation of the rules giving priority to other business.

Last evening, the bill from the Senate providing for the payment of the claim of the State of Maine, for the services of her militia, after being so amended as to provide also for paying a similar claim of the State of Georgia, was passed by the House, and returned to the Senate for concurrence in the amendment.

REPEAL OF THE UNION. By an advertisement in another part of our journal, it appears that this subject, so interesting to politicians, and especially to Irishmen and their descendants, will be brought this evening before the Lyceum. As there are many persons who do not well understand the subject, we recommend them to attend on this occasion, as they will be likely to hear both sides of the question fairly stated, and thus become enabled to form a correct judgement respecting its merits. Those who have attended the various repeal meetings lately held, should avail themselves of the means of freeing themselves from the charge of being one-sided politicians.

FIRE. A fire broke out yesterday morning, about half past two o'clock, in the carpenter shop of Mr. J. Bean, situated on Saratoga street, between Liberty and Park streets. The flames communicated to a small brick and two frame buildings adjoining, which were entirely destroyed. The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary.

HOLLIDAY STREET THEATRE. Mr. Burton, the distinguished and popular comedian, takes a benefit at Holliday-st. Theatre this evening.

In yesterday's paper we erroneously stated the price of admission to be $1—it should have been Boxes 75 cents—Pit 50 cents.

FRONT STREET THEATRE The splendid new nautical drama of "Blue Jackets, or How to increase the Navy," will be repeated this evening, together with a favorite Farce. "Old Joe Sweeny" will also delight the audience with his incomparable performances on his Banjo.

GUILTY. John White was tried on the 25th ult. at Louisville, for the murder of James Gwatkin and John Flinn, and found guilty of murder in the first degree.

RE-OPENING OF
GOODWANE'S ACADEMY,
No. 160½ BALTIMORE STREET.

WRITING

MANNER OF EXECUTION. Off hand Penmanship by the action of the whole arm, as also a swift, finished, business style, by the fore arm and hand, adapted to letters, bills, orders, notes, sales, receipts, and finished journal entry.

Taught with certainty in TEN LESSONS OF ONE HOUR EACH.

Ladies will be attended to exclusively at their respective hours. They write in separate apartments.

 REMEMBER improvement guaranteed, and additional lessons given free of expense, say, ten, twenty, or thirty, if desired. What can be fairer?

AN ADDRESS. Whatever be the opposition which success encounters—whatever be the malevolence which merit awakens, the fact of Goodwane's triumph in his peculiar department, if not unquestioned, is beyond doubt unquestionable.

Malignant rivals may misrepresent, and sectional jealousy wrest and pervert the best and purest intentions, but the professional knowledge and integrity, and consummate ovation of the present system of penmanship, have been too long confessed to require any labored eulogy from friends, or any advocacy against interested opponents.

The hour has been when foemen might avail:
That hour has passed. Triumphant have I been,
Triumphant wish to be; and, whate'er betide,
Still to my own true knowledge true, I'll rest
My cause upon my merit.

LEVIATHAN NEW WORLD. This is the most magnificent sheet that has yet been published. Its contents are of the most rich and varied description, and it is illustrated with numerous engravings, executed expressly for the occasion, in the highest style of the art. The following are a few of its contents, to give them all would fill a newspaper. THE FUNERAL OF NAPOLEON.

Being the fullest and most graphic account of the obsequies of the late Emperor that has yet appeared, prepared at great expense, expressly for the purpose, and completed in a style worthy of the importance of the subject, as a matter of permanent history. It is illustrated by splendid engravings of the Imperial Eagle, and of the Emperor in his coffin, surrounded by his Generals, Prince de Joinville, &c.

SEVEN ORIGINAL PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE BIBLE;

Occupying three columns of this immense sheet, and forming a gallery of sacred pictures of the most elevating interest. They represent the following scenes: Daniel in the Lion's Den; Rocky Valley in the Vicinity of Bozra, Arabia[illegible]; a View in Petra, Built in Idumea; Death of Sampson; Group of Modern Oriental Watch Towers; Ancient Rotunda at Thessalonica.

CULTIVATION OF AMERICAN COTTON.

Illustrated by two appropriate engravings.

LA DANSE;

Memoirs of Taglioni & Cerito, the celebrated dauseuses.

THE SOULS OF THE DROWNED;

A Legend of Sea, translated from the German, by W. Henry Farm, from the Metropolitan Magazine for February.

HEADS OF THE PEOPLE;

The Pawnbroker, by Douglass Jenott, illustrated by an engraving, and The School master, by Wm. Howitt, also illustrated by a splendid engraving.

A SEA CHASE:

A Thrilling Incident in the World of Adventure.

THE OLD WORLD AND THE NEW:

Their Flowers, Birds and Insects.

THE DRUNKEN SEA;

An Allegory, by James Henry, M. D.

THE SHAKER LOVERS.

An original story, written expressly for this sheet, by the popular author of "May Martin," and "The Green Mountain Boys."

This is merely a "small sprinkling" of what this enormous sheet contains. It measures more than FORTY SQUARE FEET, and is filled with matter of the most valuable and entertaining description, as much as could be compressed into two or three clever sized volumes. Price 12½ cents.

ARRIVAL STEAM SHIP PRESIDENT.

SIX DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

The steamer President sailed from Liverpool on the 10th of February, and arrived at New York, after a very boisterous passage, on Wednesday morning, bringing very important news, a summary of which we give below:

The President brings about fifty passengers, and a cargo valued at £500,000.

At a council held on the 6th ult. the Queen decreed that the name of Prince Albert be inserted in all the prayer books, and read in all churches.

The Duke of Wellington was seized with sudden indisposition in the House of Lords on the 5th ult. but had so far recovered from his attack as to leave no doubt of his being able shortly to resume his usual habits. His illness was attributed to his exposure to the severity of the weather.

The receipt of New York papers in London by the packet ship Cambridge, with the correspondence between Mr. Fox and Mr. Forsyth, with regard to the arrest of McLeod, caused much talk and considerable excitement.

The Times predicts the most serious national consequences from this affair, which was brought before Parliament on the 8th ult. by Lord Stanley and the Earl of Mountcashell.

The former asked Lord Palmerston whether the government had taken any, and, if so, what steps, for the protection and liberation of Mr. McLeod?

Lord Palmerston replied that the Government had sent certain instructions, but, till the conclusion of the correspondence was received, it would be impossible to send final instructions, and that he was not prepared, at that time, to state formally what those instructions were.

The Earl of Mountcashell asked similar questions of Lord Melbourne in the House of Lords, to which similar answers were given, stating also that Her Majesty's Ministers would take those measures which in their estimation would be best calculated to secure the safety of Her Majesty's subjects, and to vindicate the honor of the British nation.

Other Parliamentary matters are not particularly interesting or important.

On the night of the 7th inst. Chamberwell old Church was totally destroyed by fire—loss about £10,000.

Sir Astley Cooper, the eminent surgeon, lies dangerously ill, and little hope is entertained of his recovery.

FRANCE. The news from France is not of much interest. The works on the fortifications were carried on with great activity.

Political circles, are much agitated by diplomatic notes addressed to the French cabinet to Lord Palmerston, in which, it is said, a disavowment is insisted on in strong and unequivocal terms.

OVERLAND MAIL FROM INDIA.

AFFAIRS IN CHINA. By an extraordinary express from Marseilles, news was received in London on the 6th inst., from China, India and Egypt, with dates from Alexandria to Jan. 23, Bombay to Jan. 1st. Calcutta to Dec. 15th, Macao to Nov. 3d, and Chusan to Oct. 27th.

The state of affairs in China remain unchanged since the last advices; and gloomy apprehensions as to the final result of the proposed negotiations were entertained. Both in China and India the conduct of Admiral Elliot is commented upon in most severe terms. The negotiation with the Emperor of China does not appear to have made any progress, nor the approach of Admiral Elliot to the Chinese capital to have, as yet, produced any other result than the dismissal of Commissioner Lin from the governorship of Canton, and the appointment, as his successor, of Ke-shan, who is commissioned to settle matters, and is supposed to be as much opposed to intercourse with foreigners as Lin.

Admiral Elliot was still at Chusan, which place had been found extremely unhealthy. Out of 3650 British troops landed there, only 2036 were fit for duty, chiefly owing to bad diet and want of fresh meat. The number of deaths is stated at ten per day!

The Admiral was expected to leave for Canton about the middle of November. The British Naval force consisted of twenty sail of pennants exclusive of steamers.

MEMORIAL OF LIN TO THE EMPEROR. Lin, in a memorial to the Emperor, among other things, confesses his crimes and begs for mercy; at the same time he asks the Emperor to be firm in the present crisis; after suggesting that the Chinese ought to build ships after European models, and cast cannon, he goes on to say, that the English forces at Chusan have been so much bewildered and reduced by death and sickness, that they will soon be obliged to evacuate it, and submit.

INDIA. The intelligence from India is generally pacific, and no event had occurred since the last dates of much political importance.

EGYPT. From Alexandria we have received the confirmation of the news of the arrival of Commodore Napier, empowered by Admiral Stafford to offer the original treaty for the Pasha's acceptance, which was immediately agreed to. Two days afterwards a steamer arrived at Alexandria with Meyloum Bey and Admiral Mather on board, who came to claim the fleet, which was formally made over on the 11th ult., and finally sailed for Marmora on the 21st ult.

Ibrahim Pasha had quitted Damascus for Gaza, and preparations were being made for embarking his troops for Egypt.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

ANNAPOLIS, March 3, 1841.

The Senate last evening rejected the bill to abolish imprisonment for debt, yeas 5, nays 10. Also rejected the bill defining what shall not be Usury. Also rejected the bill for reducing into system the laws and regulations concerning last wills and testaments. Also passed the resolution for the repeal of the Sub Treasury law. And also passed the resolution for the erection of Steam Batteries.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. The House when they met yesterday afternoon, at four o'clock agreeably to an order adopted in the morning, immediately resolved into a Committee of the whole on the tax bill; they adjourned after having advanced to the 15th section.

In the House to-day Mr. Legrand presented the memorial of the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore praying an alteration in the charter of said City—referred to Balt. City Delegation.

Mr. Prestman presented the memorial of the managers of the House of Refuge for Juvenile Delinquents, praying that an act may be passed to enable them to pay over to the manual labour school for indigent boys certain funds unappropriated in their hands.

Mr Sutton presented the petition of eighty-seven citizens Mechanics and others, of the Town of Havre de Grace in Harford County, praying a supplement to the act of 1838, giving to Mechanics of the City of Baltimore a lien upon buildings erected by them.

On motion of Mr. Legrand leave was granted the Committee on Corporations to bring in a bill to incorporate the St. Joseph's Beneficial Society of Baltimore.

Mr. Legrand also reported a bill to incorporate the [illegible] Beneficial Total Abstinence Society of Fell's Point; read, passed and sent to the Senate.

Mr. [illegible] also reported a bill relating to Balto. City; read, passed, and sent to the Senate.

Mr. Gallagher made a favorable report upon the bill from the Senate, for the benefit of John Busk and Harriet J. Busk, his wife, of Baltimore City.

Mr. Maxwell reported a supplement to an act to insure the completion of the Susquehanna Canal and Tide Water Canal passed December Session, 1838 chapter 416. Mr. Graves moved to lay said bill on the table, for the purpose of moving that said bill be printed, which motion was rejected.

Mr. Gallager called for the order of the day. The House then resolved into a Committee of the whole on the tax bill. They have progressed as far as the 29th section.

The Agents to represent the State in Joint Stock Companies are WM. C. JOHNSON, SAMUEL SPRIGG TENCH TILGHMAN and ALLEN B. DAVIS.

CITY COUNCIL. First Branch, March 4. The Branch met pursuant to adjournment. Present—H. Snyder, president, and all the members except Messrs. Burns and Dryden.

Mr. Hanson presented a petition signed Messrs. Egerton and Morris, relative to the wharfage on grindstones. Referred to the joint committee on the harbor.

Mr. Deloughery, of the joint committee on health, to whom was referred the petition of George Suter, praying permission to erect a slaughter house, reported unfavorably.

Mr. Peregoy presented a minority report on the petition of Mr. Suter, with a resolution favorable to his building a slaughter house.

A message was received from the Second Branch, being a report and resolution from the joint committee on fire companies on the reports of the several fire companies, which was concurred in. Also, a report from the joint committee on bridges, relative to the erection of a bridge across Chatsworth run, which, on being read a second time, was dissented from. On motion of Mr. Keyser, a joint committee of conference was appointed to reconsider this latter subject.

Mr. Dallam called up bill No. 19, relative to the division of the city into 14 wards, which was passed as previously amended.

The conference committee reported favorably upon the report and resolution of the minority relative to the petition of George Suter for the erection of a slaughter house. After a little more debating than we have yet heard on any one subject introduced into the Council, the resolution was rejected.

A communication was received from the City Commissioners, stating that it will cost $600 to repair the City Council chambers as spoken of yesterday. On motion of Mr. Keyser, the branch adjourned until Monday afternoon next at half past three o'clock.

WASHINGTON, March 4, 1841.

At day-break twenty-six cannons roared and announced to the anxious thousands that the commencement of a new administration had dawned upon them. At various points artillery roared again in response, and in a short time the whole city was awake, and the streets thronged with the living stream that has been flowing in upon us for the last few days.—Marshals, with their blue sashes, were dashing along on horseback, calling their companies to muster. Military officers were hurrying to and fro, with glistening swords and waving plumes, and men, women and children, on horseback, in carriages and on foot, were moving in every direction. To give an adequate description of the scene is impossible.

By ten o'clock the various uniform companies moved from 4½ street to the quarters of the President elect, when the old hero came forth amidst tremendous cheering, and was taken into the line of procession, which was arrayed as follows:

AIDS—CHIEF MARSHAL—AIDS.

UNIFORM COMPANIES.

THE PRESIDENT ELECT AND HIS SUITE,

With seven Citizen Marshals on his right, and the United States Marshal for the District of Columbia, with his six Deputy Marshals, on the left of the President elect, so posted as not to interfere with the line or order of procession.

THE SENATE COMMITTEE.

EX-PRESIDENTS OF THE U. STATES.

THE JUDICIARY.

FOREIGN MINISTERS.

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS ELECT AND EX-MEMBERS

Governors and ex-governors of the different States and Territories, and Members of the different Legislatures of the same.

The Corporate Authorities, Tippecanoe Clubs, Associations, Students of Colleges & Schools, and citizens of Georgetown, Alexandria and county, and of Washington city and county, D. C. fh the order of precedence named.

The above, after moving with banners flying and music through various parts of the city, was marched down Pennsylvania Avenue, to the south gate of the eastern yard of the Capitol. After a brief halt, it was then marched into the eastern yard, and formed into a solid column, faced to the west, and its right resting upon the northern gate of the yard.

The Senate convened at eleven, and first in order entered the diplomatic corps, with the judges of the Supreme Court.

At half past eleven, the Vice President with the committee of arrangements entered, and was by the latter conducted to the chair.

The oath was then administered to the Vice President by the President of the Senate pro tem.

The oath of office was then administered to the new members of the Senate.

At a few minutes before twelve, the Hero of Tippecanoe appeared, and being met at the entrance of the Senate chamber, by the committee, was conducted to the seat prepared for him.

Soon after twelve o'clock, the whole assemblage left the Senate, and proceeded to the eastern portico of the Capitol, where—O heavens what a sight! * * *

After the Inaugural Address had been read, the oath of office was administered to the President of the United States by the Chief Justice, after which the members of the Senate, preceded by the Vice President, Secretary and Sergeant at Arms, returned to the Senate chamber.

The grand procession before described, then moved through the northern gate in the same order they entered the yard, and up Pennsylvania Avenue in front of the White House.

The whole then passed by sections of two into the front door, when, being received by the President, they passed out, without halting, through the south door and were dismissed.

The Grand Balls come off to-night, but of them I will speak to-morrow.

APPOINTMENT OF JUDGE. The National Intelligencer states that the nomination of Mr. DANIEL, as Judge of the Supreme Court, was confirmed by the Senate about 12 o'clock on Wednesday night, after all the whig senators but one had retired. The selection of judges should be without reference to their partizan principles, for, if such considerations are to determine the qualifications for judicial appointments, we shall soon have the judiciary corrupt and worthless. There was no immediate necessity for the appointment that has been made, and it is following an example which has been universally condemned; but it is in the nature of parties to "feel power and forget right." Partizan judges and preachers are out of place, and will never be tolerated by public opinion; or, if unfortunately the period ever arrive when they will be popular, the destruction of liberty will not be distant.

SEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE MARYLAND STATE BIBLE SOCIETY. A copy of this report has been handed us. It contains a full account of the proceedings of said society, its financial operations, &c. for the past year. It makes a fair exhibit of the extent and progress of the bible cause under the auspicious influence of concentrated action, and also affords a strong and salutary proof of the great good that has been effected through the instrumentality of Bible Societies. Reports from the different Auxiliary Societies, acting in conjunction with the above show that their members have been active and energetic, and that a large number of Bibles, through their untiring exertions, have been furnished to the poor and destitute. The report contains an appeal to the benevolent of all denominations, asking simply for the means to accomplish more fully, the great object of spreading the book of life. It is hoped the call will not be made in vain.

MCLEOD. McLeod is to be removed from Lockport to Albany for trial. This is perfectly correct, as there is so much excitement at the former place, as to make it doubtful whether he could have an unprejudiced trial. It is said that he is to be first tried on the civil suit brought by the owners of the Caroline; and the issue of this suit will probably have a considerable influence in determining his innocence or guilt of the criminal charge.

COMMENCEMENT. The first graduation of medical pupils in Missouri took place at St. Louis on Tuesday 26th ult.

COMMENT. If we examine the nature of the above diseases, and the situation of the parts affected, we must consider it a very important object to be able to obtain a remedy at once certain in its action, and at the same time composed of such ingredients as will prevent the possibility of discovery while using it. It is a fact well known to many, that most of the remedies offered for these diseases are composed of such nauseous drugs, as to render it almost impossible to continue their use without creating a sickness at the stomach or other unpleasant consequences. Such being the case there can be no doubt but such a remedy as Vallier's French Pills, will meet the universal approbation, being entirely free from those objections; pleasant in their operation, and prompt in removing the disease. The proprietor would here remark, that the efficacy of these Pills in the disorders alluded to, are not based upon supposition; on the contrary, it is founded upon rational experience, having used them in a successful practice for upwards of two years, he feels confident of their superiority over the remedies hitherto employed.

VEGETABLE COUGH SYRUP. For the cure of Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Pain and Soreness in the Breast, Influenza, Consumption, Hoarseness, Difficult Breathing, Dyspepsia, and diseases of the Breast and Lungs generally.

This SYRUP is composed of Irish Moss, combined with such other articles as have been found best calculated to afford relief in the above named diseases, and in cases approaching consumption, attended with bleeding at the lungs—and never known to fail. Common Colds, which are generally the effect of obstructed perspiration, will yield to its influence in a few hours. When used in Asthma, Hoarseness, Wheezing, Shortness of Breath, it affords immediate relief. In Whooping Cough, it is without a rival For sale by

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT must be obvious to every one, that an Intelligence Office, when conducted under proper principles, and regulated upon an honest and equitable course, is of great convenience and utility to the citizens of a populous and thriving city like this. The subscriber, being aware of this fact, and with the knowledge that a degree of dissatisfaction has existed from the manner in which other offices of the kind have been heretofore conducted, he has therefore taken great pains to conduct his establishment in such a manner as to deserve public confidence, and be worthy of the public patronage.

PERSONS making application at this office for servants, or help of any other kind, will deposit, in advance, 50 cents each, for which they will have access to the records, properly kept for that purpose, and on which they find the names, residences, references, &c. of the servants or other help—in case that neither of them answers the desired purpose, the money will be returned. Yearly subscriptions received at $1.50 each.

AGENCY. HOUSES, FARMS, VACANT LOTS, GROUND RENTS, LANDS, &c. bought and sold on commission. SLAVES, for life or a term of years, bought or sold on commission, and the highest prices obtained. Persons having Slaves, which they wish to dispose of, will do well to apply at this office before selling.

THERE'S A STAR IN THE WEST.

There's a star in the west that shall never go down,
Till the records of valor decay;
We must worship its light though 'tis not our own,
For liberty bursts in its ray;
Shall the name of a Washington ever be heard
By a freeman, and thrill not his breast?
Is there one out of bondage that hails not the word
As the Bethlehem star of the west?

"War, war to the knife, be enthrall'd or ye die!"
Was the echo that waked in the land;
But it was not his voice that prompted the cry,
Nor his madness that kindled the brand;
He raised not his arm, he defied not his foes,
While a leaf of the olive remained;
Till goaded with insult, his spirit arose
Like a long baited lion unchained.

He struck with firm courage the blow o[f the brave,
But signed o'er the carnage that spr[ead;
He indignantly trampled the yoke of[f the slave,
But wept for the thousands that b[led
Though he threw back the fetters w[h headed the strife,
Till man's charter was fairly res[tored,
Yet he pray'd for the moment wh[n freedom and life
Would no longer be pressed by [the sword.

Oh! his laurels were pure, and [his patriot name
And be seen in all annals, the [foremost in fame,
By the side of a Hofer and [Tell.
Revile not my song, for the [wise and the good
Amo[ng] Britons have nobl[y] confessed,
That his was the glory and [ours was the blood
Of the deeply stained fi[eld] of the west.

SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

THURSDAY, MARCH 4, 1841.

The Senate convened in pursuance of notice from the President of the United States.

Mr. King, of Alabama, having been sworn in upon his appearing upon re-election to a new term, was then elected President pro tem. of the Senate.

From Maine, the Hon. George Evans.
From Illinois, the Hon. Samuel McRoberts.
From Rhode Island, the Hon. James F. Simmons.
From Michigan, the Hon. William Woodbridge.
From New Jersey, the Hon. Jacob W. Miller.
From Louisiana, the Hon. Alexander Barrow.
From New Hampshire, the Hon. Levi Woodbury.
From Georgia, the Hon. John McPherson Berrien.
From Kentucky, the Hon. James T. Morehead.

SENATORS: Called by the People of the United States to preside over your deliberations, I cannot withhold the expression of the high estimate I place on the honor which they have conferred upon me. To occupy the seat which has been filled and adorned—to say nothing of my more immediate predecessors—by an Adams, a Jefferson, a Gerry, a Clinton, and a Tompkins, names that, although belonging to the dead, still live in the recollection of a grateful country, is an honor of which any man would have just cause to be proud. But this honor is greatly augmented by the consideration of the true character of this body—by the high order of moral and intellectual power which has distinguished it in all past time, and which still distinguishes it—by the dignity which has, for the most part, marked its proceedings, and, above all, by the important duties which have devolved upon it under the Constitution. Here are to be found the immediate representatives of the States, by whose sovereign will the Government has been spoken into existence. Here exists that perfect equality among the members of this Confederacy which gives to the smallest State in the Union a voice as potential as that of the largest. To this body is committed, to an eminent degree, the trust of guarding and protecting the institutions handed down to us from our fathers, as well against the waves of popular and rash impulses on the one hand, as against attempts at Executive encroachment on the other. It may properly be regarded as holding the balance in which are weighed the powers conceded to this Government and the rights reserved to the States and to the People. It is its province to concede what has been granted—to withhold what has been denied, thus in all its features exhibiting a true type of the glorious Confederacy under which it is our happiness to live. Should the spirit of Faction—that destructive spirit which recklessly walks over prostrate rights, and tramples laws and constitutions in the dust—ever find an abiding place within this Hall, then indeed will a sentence of condemnation be issued against the peace and happiness of this people, and their political institutions be made to topple to their foundations. But while this body shall continue to be what by its framers it was designed to be, deliberative in its character, unbiassed in its course, and independent in its action, then may Liberty be regarded as entrenched in safety behind the sacred ramparts of the Constitution.

While I occupy this chair, Senators, I shall have frequent occasion to invoke your indulgence for my defects, and your charity for my errors.—I am but little skilled in Parliamentary law, and have been unused to preside over deliberative assemblies. All that I can urge in excuse of my defects is that I bring with me to this chair an earnest wish to discharge properly its duties, and a fixed determination to preside over your deliberations with entire impartiality.

THERMOMETER. The following proceedings in the New York Senate may be gratifying to our readers, particularly the scientific portion of them. We think that it would hardly be advisable to adopt the resolution offered by Mr. Root, unless the other states of the union would come into the measure, as the method of measuring heat should be uniform throughout the country.

Mr. Root rose to call the attention of the Senate to a subject that had somewhat engaged the attention of the Literature Committee, and which he

(Mr. R.) believed to be an important one. It related to the Thermometer. This instrument was unknown to the ancients, having been discovered, he believed, in Italy, about two centuries since. It was first used in England by adopting spirits as the medium, but soon after mercury was substituted. Fahrenheit, a native of Dantzig, fixed his zero at 32 degrees below the freezing point. Reaumur fixed his zero at that point, and then ascended 80 degrees to the point at which water would boil. Celsus, a Swede, began at the same point, but made 100 degrees before coming to the water-boiling point.

Now, there was this great difference between the thermometers in use throughout the world. England and America adopted Fahrenheit's as their standard. France uses that of Celsus, designated as the centigrade, while Germany has long used that of the Frenchman, Reaumur. It seemed to him (Mr. R.) to be very desirable that we should have some measure of heat and cold that would be understood by the unpractised, which was not now the case, nor could it be while we made use of Fahrenheit's. By being simply told that the thermometer was down to 0, but little information was conveyed to the inquirer, for there was no fact stated which would strike his mind. He might fancy it to be quite warm, while his experience would soon convince him that it was a bitter cold day. If told that it was thirty degrees above zero, did it inform him what relation that bore to the freezing point? Certainly not—it could not be understood by the unpractised.

Why Fahrenheit began his thermometer at 32 degrees below the freezing point was still a subject of dispute among the learned. Some suppose it was because that was the same distance from 0 as from the greatest degree of cold that could be produced by a mixture of snow and sal ammoniac. Others supposed it was because that was the greatest degree of cold which he observed while in Iceland. Wherever he might have obtained his standard, he (Mr. R.) thought it not a judicious one. Were the point of beginning placed at the freezing point, every schoolboy would understand it.

The remedy which had occurred to him (Mr. R.) was, to direct the Regents of the University to distribute the Centigrade Thermometer to all the Colleges and Academies throughout the State, and then require those institutions, when making their annual reports of observations upon the state of the weather, to make use of this thermometer as the standard. He thought that that would lead to its general adoption throughout this State, and that also the other states would follow. He believed the Centigrade Thermometer to be preferable to that of Reaumur. Mr. R. concluded by offering the following resolution:

Resolved, That the committee on Literature do inquire into the expediency of making provision by law to enable the Regents of the University to furnish each of the Colleges and Academies under their visitation with a centigrade thermometer, having zero at the freezing point, and one hundred degrees between freezing and boiling water; and also directing them to give instructions to the said Colleges and Academies, respectively, to keep and return the state or degree of heat and cold measured by that graduation.

The question was then put, and Mr. Root's resolution adopted.

ACTS OF CONGRESS. We copy from the National Intelligencer of yesterday, a list of the acts passed at the session of Congress which has just terminated, omitting those of a private nature.

Bills which originated in the House of Representatives.

An act to authorize a register to be granted to the schooner Amistad.

An act to confirm land patents.

An act making appropriations for certain fortifications of the United States for the year 1841.

Bills which originated in the Senate.

An act supplementary to an act to abolish imprisonment for debt in certain cases.

An act further to amend the act entitled an act to provide for taking the sixth census or enumeration of the inhabitants of the United States.

An act to confirm to the state of Indiana the land selected by her for that portion of the Wabash and Erie Canal which lies between the mouth of the Tippecanoe river and Terre Haute, and for other purposes.

An act to amend the act entitled an act to amend the act approved May 13, 1800, entitled, "An act to amend an act entitled an act to establish the judicial courts of the United States."

☞The bill for the settlement of the claims of the States of Maine and Georgia for the services of their militia, amounting together to about the sum of $458,000, passed both houses of Congress, and was enrolled and brought into the House for the signature of the Speaker just as the motion was made to close the session; which motion prevailing, it was not signed, and therefore did not become a law, although passed by both houses of Congress.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE!

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fred'ksburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection through, whilst it is evident that Poor! Rough Weather!! and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any runaways or bad servants.

ILLIBERAL. All men, and more particularly public men, are entitled to have their meaning construed according to the plain interpretation of language used; and it is illiberal in an editor or other person to infer that this or that is decided, where nothing of the kind is apparent.—A fault-finding disposition is apt to lead to misrepresentation. It is right that our public men should be deemed sincere in their declarations, the contrary is proved—otherwise, how can the intention it is likely to be fulfilled be known? Now that some party men, like the bribed, see with but one eye, and that not of the best vision; but opinions expressed from such net views and prejudiced impressions, are of little value. Nothing is seen in its true character presented in its genuine form. On the one side is beauty and perfection—on the other deformity. It is time that this detestable cause to be practised, and that the people should judge of their public men, not from miserable caricatures of political mountebanks acc ording to their real merits. It is the business to mingle in party strifes, but as citizens, feeling a lively interest in the welfare of our country and the reputation of our women, we shall not hesitate to condemn misrepresentation when perpetrated by any party.

Yesterday gave our candid impressions of the views of President Harrison's address. It is entire approbation—nay, we will go further, and say, that we have no recollection of having read any state paper since Washington's farewell address, which breathed a more purely patriotic spirit. It has every feature which should characterize an address from the president of a people to his constituents. Party men and party faction may torture; hypocrisy may insinuate and infer—but nothing can prevent the address of President Harrison from reaching the understandings and the heads of his countrymen. His appeal to their patriotism will be felt notwithstanding the disingenuousness of party commentators, and the ridiculous inferences of prejudiced politicians. We hail this day as the commencement of an "era of good feeling"—as the first spade used in digging the ditch. Ainsi soit il.

The case of this man, as we [illegible] yesterday, has been brought before the British Parliament, and briefly [illegible] excited considerable feeling. It seems to [illegible] statements of ministers, that it is evident, [illegible] moment contemplate further efforts to [illegible] McLeod; for which purpose [illegible] on the subject have been forwarded [illegible] minister, Mr. Fox. We may, [illegible] another application [illegible] the American Government [illegible], urging the intervention. The British [illegible] does not appear [illegible] to comprehend the [illegible] nations which exist between the General [illegible] ment and the States, or they would [illegible] impracticability of having the laws of [illegible] arrested in their course by the power [illegible] Executive. McLeod was arrested [illegible] with the crimes of arson and murder [illegible] within the jurisdiction of New York, [illegible] amenable to the laws of that State [illegible] by them he must be either condemned [illegible] or If the former, the sentence can be [illegible] annulled by the Governor of New [illegible] not by the President of the United [illegible] who crossed from our shores into Canada, [illegible] engaged in hostile operations, were arrested [illegible] the Canadian authorities, tried, and condemned [illegible] and are now undergoing punishment in Australia. To this, our Government offered no remonstrance, but, on the contrary, disavowed [illegible] acts. A band of Canadians, in retaliating, [illegible] our territory, murder our citizens, and [illegible] our property, and when a man is arrested, [illegible] with having participated in these offences, the Government of Great Britain interposes, [illegible] avows the act. This avowal, British statesmen affect to think, changes entirely the nature [illegible] offence, and releases the individual implicated from all responsibility. It furnishes just [illegible] of complaint by our Government, and of [illegible] to indemnity, but it cannot relieve McLeod. [illegible] will have to submit to the process of law [illegible] the decision of a jury. If found not guilty, [illegible] we hope he may be, if innocent,) the whole [illegible] will, possibly, there terminate. But, [illegible] should he be condemned and punished, will the British Government proceed in the matter to extremity? We think not, though the tone of some [illegible] speakers in Parliament (and particularly [illegible] Lynch) would seem to indicate otherwise.—[illegible] whatever may be the ultimate determination of [illegible] country, apprehensions of results can have [illegible] influence in deciding the case before the courts [illegible] New York. McLeod will have, we trust and [illegible] have, a fair and impartial trial, and the verdict [illegible] be given without reference to the interference of his Government.

MASTER HUMPHREY'S CLOCK. We have received No. 29 of this very popular work from Mr. [illegible] man, bookseller, Market-st. As usual, it is [illegible] of interest and good humor.

LOSSES BY BANKS. A correspondent in York, Pa., has sent us some judicious remarks on the report lately made by the Secretary of the Treasury as to the amount of losses sustained by banks, and thinks that "quite as legitimate an argument against the government of the country might be based upon the losses the people have sustained by continental money, and the depreciation of government and state stocks at different times, as that put forth on the strength of this report, against banking institutions." The resolution calling upon the Secretary of the Treasury for information which it was impossible that he could give, was as ridiculous as the reply giving merely conjectural estimates. No man can attain any thing like accuracy as to the amount of losses sustained by the depreciation and destruction of bank paper, and it is folly to base an argument against banking or other institutions, upon crude speculations or surmises. The people lost an immense sum in the depreciation of continental money, yet the achievement of the independence of the country is not to be regretted on account of that loss.

LOSS OF THE STEAMBOAT LAMPLIGHTER. The Tallahassee Star of the 22rd ult. gives the following account of this melancholy accident. The steamboat Lamplighter left Apalachicola on the 15th for Tampa Bay. The following day when near Dog Island the steamer broke her main shaft and was compelled to cast anchor, the sea running very high at the time. While in this condition a vessel was seen near the land, and Capt. Coss, of the Revenue service, with his brother, put off in a small boat to obtain help: on reaching [illegible] vessel the captain refused assistance, stating [illegible] was bound to land his passengers at Apalachicola that day. In the mean time the Lamplighter disappeared from her anchorage for ever. The probability is that she went to pieces, and all on board perished. There were thirty-five persons on board. Capt. Coss' wife and family were among the sufferers.

FAIR AT THE MUSEUM. The ladies of St. Andrew's Church are now holding their Fair at the Museum in the Picture Gallery. Their tables are very handsomely furnished with an extensive variety of useful and beautiful articles, besides a thousand queer notions such as cannot but please every taste. The inducements to visit the ladies on this occasion are of three distinct characters—first, an opportunity of seeing the various curiosities contained in the Museum; second, the benevolent object and pleasures of the Fair; and third, the beauties attached to the fair who visit and conduct the Fair. If such attractions will not draw an overflowing house, we know not who will. The principal object of the ladies in this praiseworthy enterprize is, we understand, to raise funds for the purpose of defraying some debt now hanging over St. Andrew's Church.—Such being the case, we are sure gentlemen cannot withhold their patronage.

OLD JOE SWEENY. This sable minstrel is to take a benefit at the Front street Theatre to-night, and with the most humane and philanthropic objects in view offers the suffering public a panacea for all the evils of hard times in a bill replete with humor and sentiment. Sweeny is a black star of the first magnitude, and in all probability has not his equal in the native instrument called the banjo—the performance on which he has reduced to a system, and through his skill it has been raised to an excellent stand amongst the instruments of the stringed genius. What Paganini was, and what Ole Bull is with Europeans, Sweeny is with us—he seems to hold intercourse with the evil one, who has taken up his residence in the interior of the banjo. Why should we look to Europe for perfection in the "divine art" when we have our Sweeny—the Sweeny who can bid a stringed gourd discourse so eloquently? Go one, go all to the benefit to-night, for we can assure you Sweeny is not only an adept at singing, dancing and playing, but a perfect gentleman in the walks of private life. This last compliment is worth all the rest.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS. The Philadelphia papers are quarrelling about who was first with the address. One says that their express was the fastest; that the rider had one button more on his coat than any of his opponents; that his two minute and a half filly had more hairs in her tail and carried it better than any other, and that the person in the green cab was behind time. Another had the address selling at every corner of the street in five minutes and forty-one seconds after its arrival, and seventeen and three-quarter minutes before any other paper; that they set the type and printed their extras in their own office, which is a ——. Another says they sold more extras than were printed altogether in Washington, where, by the bye, all the extras were printed.

BOYS, BE CAREFUL! Yesterday a young lad was brought to the police office, having been detected fingering an article of merchandise which he "hooked" from a store up town. The boy is quite young, and of respectable parentage. Let it be strongly impressed upon the minds of parents, that too strict an eye cannot be kept upon their children. They should not be permitted to run the streets in idleness under any circumstances. "As the twig is bent the tree's inclined." If, therefore, a youth be bent to roguery, unless he be speedily chastised and bent the other way, his future life, nine times out of ten, will prove a source of deep regret both to himself and friends.

EXPLOSION. A spirit gas lamp exploded in a drug store in Brooklyn on Tuesday last, and soon filled the house with flames, which was subdued without any damage. The spirit gas is not the same as the camphine oil, which article is perfectly safe.

WASHINGTON, March 5, 1841.

The weather, which has so good naturedly kept its temper hitherto, this morning let loose a little of its "reserved rights," in the shape of a fall of snow. We therefore look quite wintry, and the ladies are throwing aside their holiday dresses for those of "sterner stuff."

Our floating population is, I assure you, floating out of the city as fast as it came in; so that by Monday, I expect the city will have resumed its usual stillness.

The office-seekers are moving about in a very uneasy manner, wondering whether their services will be duly appreciated or not. Let them wait awhile, and spend what little money they have; they will then go back a little wiser, and in future know better than lose their time in office-hunting.

The Balls in honor of the Inauguration closed at daybreak this morning, after a most glorious night of enjoyment. General Harrison attended them all, and I presume he was pretty well tired of his day's work.

The splendid coach presented to the President by the Whigs of your city, is now exhibiting at the White House. The workmanship is admirable.

The Whig editors now in this city dined together this evening at Boulanger's. I tender them my thanks for an invitation: but although I am fond of a good dinner, it must have no party sauce in it. I am neutral, and therefore "couldn't come."

Captain France with his gallant Light Infantry has been escorting their noble visiters, the "Gveys," through the various streets and avenues this morning. They appear to be in excellent drill, and the evolutions they performed opposite my window met my decided approbation. I did'nt invite them in, because the baby was asleep, and you know these drums and trombones make "right smart" of noise.

The thieves and pickpockets are, I understand, about to wait on Harrison in a body, to tender him their thanks for the opportunity his Inauguration has afforded them for exercising their vocation. Of course, there will be a delegation to pick the old General's pocket the while, by way of compliment.

TO POETICAL CORRESPONDENTS. "Woman," by G. W. M., is upon our table, and will appear as soon as practicable.

The first verse of "Stanzas" by "Leonidas" is faulty, and the remaining three are not good—they are too much tinctured with love-sickness. We must therefore reject them.

Musical Crotchets No. 2 are, we think, too pointless. They are a falling off from the first. A question is asked, 'Was the place well aired?' (alluding to Braham's Concert at the Assembly Rooms,) and is answered by saying, 'Yes, we had a Franklin in the room.' What kind of a Franklin? a Dr. Franklin or a Franklin stove? The play upon words here is wanting, for it was not the province of a Franklin stove to air rooms. Air meaning a part of music and air to ventilate, therefore do not play in the above instance: they create discord instead of harmony.

The two stanzas addressed to "Mary" are a beautiful specimen of penmanship, but the word "plupolating," in the third line of the last stanza, would sound rather awkward in poetry. We can't divine its meaning. Mary will think more of the writer if he does not publish the verses.

"Midnight" has some pretty thoughts and shall appear.

"I love thee not," by "Leone," is an improvement. It expresses deep feeling, is an easy, flowing style, and shall be attended to in time. The piece addressed to ourself is too flattering.

"Gerald" has written a very pretty piece to our fair correspondent Emily. It is entitled to our respect, and at a convenient season will find a place in our columns.

CAUGHT NAPPING. Two young bucks, whose names we forbear mentioning further than the initials, which are R. G. and C. M. went, on Wednesday night last, to a house in Old Town, where they had probably been on previous occasions. They reviewed the door and found it on a jar. This being the case they determined to enter. The landlady had gone to Washington to witness the inauguration, and it was, therefore, for the time being, unoccupied. The two adventurers seeing this, thought they would take up lodgings, and so tumbled into bed—where, in a short time, Morpheus sealed their eyelids in profound slumbers. Thus they remained in happy dreams until morning, when "slumber's chain was broken" by the cold skeleton hand of a police officer, who arrested the parties and took them before squire McDonald, where they gave security for a second hearing.

A DECISION WANTED. There has been pending before the Baltimore County Court, for the last four or five weeks, a very important decision upon the subject of small notes, or as they have been termed, "shinplasters." We recollect distinctly that the Court promised its opinion upon this matter in the beginning of the week subsequent to the trial. Four or five weeks have now elapsed, and nothing has, to our knowledge, been said. We are merely an inquirer for information.

FIRE. The fire last night, about eight o'clock, proceeded from the chair factory of Messrs. Turner & Robinson, in Exchange Place, near South street. Our energetic firemen being promptly on the spot, prevented the flames from spreading. The damage sustained was trifling, the fire being soon extinguished.

GEORGIA ILLUSTRATED. This work contains a Series of Views, embracing natural scenery and public edifices, beautifully engraved on steel, with letter press historical and topographical sketches. The second part has just been received from Mr. N. Hickman.

No. IV.

Description of a Gas Measure or Meter—the causes of the variation in running—and the manner in which they may be constructed to defraud the consumer.

A Meter is a machine constructed principally of tin, consisting of an outside cylinder or case for holding water, with an inside cylinder or measure, hanging on a pivot or centre shaft, and being still smaller in size so as to admit of its turning round freely. This measure is divided into 4 compartments. The division extending across the measure at an angle of 10°, and to within a short distance of the centre. Each of these compartments have a receiving valve or slit on one side, or face of the wheel—and a discharging valve or slit on the opposite side. Each of these receivers run half the circumference of the wheel or measure in advance of the discharges. The face of the measure has an apron or shell attached to its outer edge, and then swells gradually until it projects about one inch from the face of the wheel; and then only leaves a passage to the receivers of about 1¼ in. in diameter at the centre. This cylinder or measure being hung in the outside cylinder or case, and the centre shaft passing out into the box on the front part of the case, connects with an upright shaft, which passes out of the box in a small tube, and is connected by a small wheel with the index on the outside above the box.—The whole of the case is then filled with water, about 1¼ inches above the centre, and the gas brought in at the box, passes down a small pipe, which conveys it under the shell, and then into the receivers as they rise out of the water—as soon as one compartment is entirely filled, its discharger rises out of the water, and permits the gas so measured to pass off in the pipes to the burners; consequently the wheel must then stand still until the gas is permitted to pass off.

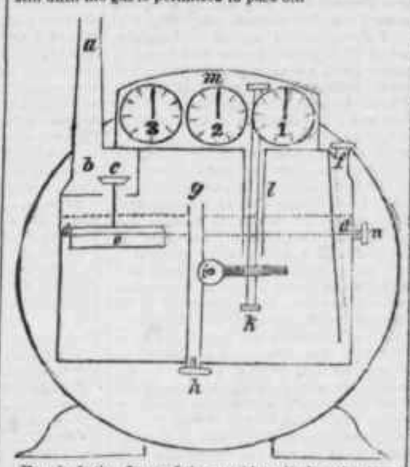

FIG. 1. Is the front of the outside cylinder of a three light meter, the inside of the box, and face of the index—a is the pipe by which the gas is conveyed into the box—b the valve box, and c the valve—d is the water line, and e a float resting on the water, attached to the valve by a small wire, and as the water is drawn out and the float sinks, it draws the valve down and shuts off the gas, and puts out the light. The valve being raised again by pouring in water at f, the gas flows in and spreads over the water in the box, and passes down the dry well g, in which if water collects it must be drawn out at h. i is an endless screw or boom on the end of the centre shaft, and k the upright and wheel which works in it, which passes out of the box through the tube l. The tube is attached to the plate above, and runs some distance below the surface of the water, which tube prevents the gas from passing up with the shaft. m is the box or hood surrounding the index. The index points out the hundreds and thousands of cubic feet, and by which the consumers are charged. No. 1 making a revolution, causes No. 2 to move one point. No. 2 making a revolution, causes No. 3 to move one point. So that the first counts the hundreds, the 2d the thousands, and the 3d the tens of thousands. Some meters have but one index or circle, these only register 10,000—but the one here represented 100,000; and then the hands all come to what they now stand at—consequently No. 1 would have to make 100 revolutions; No. 2, 10; and No. 3 but 1. The manner in which bills are made from the figures might be converted into the grossest frauds, and calls loudly for some legal action—to which I shall refer in a subsequent number. n is the side screw by which the water can be drawn off, until the valve closes.

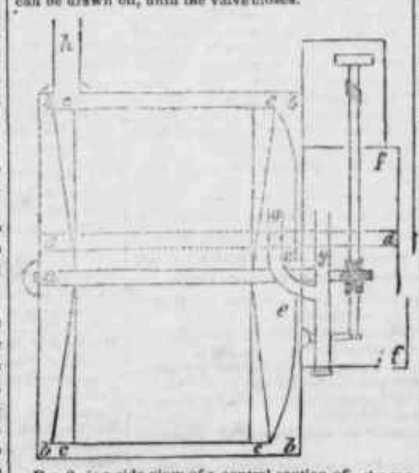

FIG. 2, is a side view of a central section of the meter. a is the centre shaft—b b b b the outside or case—c c c c the inside cylinder or measure the water line—e e is the apron or shell that is round and confines the gas to the face of the wheel, from which it can only escape by entering the receivers, and passing through the measure as it revolves round; and as the dischargers rise out of the water, the gas flows from the several compartments into the upper part of the case, and then out at the pipe h. The water being about 1¼ in. above the centre, completely fills the vacuum and permits the machinery to move with but little resistance, and prevents the gas from escaping through the centre, so that it can only approach the wheel or measure through the curved pipe or dry-well g. d d revolves

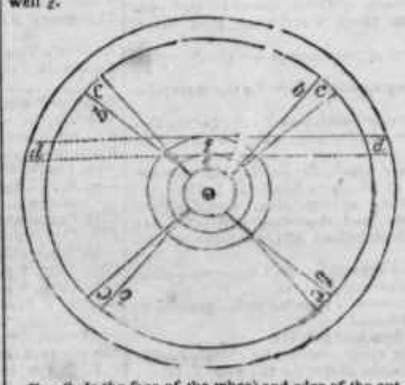

FIG. 3. Is the face of the wheel and edge of the outside cylinder or case, into which it is hung on the centre shaft a, in Fig. 2. The dotted circle is an opening through the centre, of about 1¼ inches in diameter, and if not covered with water, the gas will pass through without moving the wheel. b b b b is the edge of the divisions, and c c c c the valves or slits leading to the compartments. The receivers being about 1-8 of the circumference of the wheel in advance of the compartments, and the dischargers the same in the rear, on the opposite side of the wheel, makes one-half of the whole circumference; so that when the receivers dip under the water, the dischargers rise out; and two of those compartments filling, and two discharging, keep up a continual stream of gas.

Now suppose the wheel or measure to be 9 in. in diam. and averaging 4 in. in thickness, it would then contain about 254 cub. in. The water line d d, being near 1¼ in. above the centre, excludes the gas from all that part of the measure within the circle e, which circle contains about 37 cub. in. Deduct this from 254, and the area of the wheel filled with gas contains 217 cub. in., so that if the gearing at the end of the centre shaft, which connects the measure with the index, is so constructed as to cause the index to register 1 foot, whilst the measure or wheel makes 8 revolutions, then the consumer gets 1736 cub. in. for 1 foot registered, allowing 8 in. on every foot for good measure, for which the buyer never complains. Suppose you put in a pint and a half more of water, you then raise the water line in. to f, which excludes the gas from all that part of the measure within the circle f, which circle contains about 66 cub. in.; deduct this from 254 cub. in. and the area of the wheel filled with gas only contains 189 cub. in., so that the measure, making 8 revolutions, only gives the consumer 1512 cub. in. while the index is registering 1 foot; which might be considered a saving measure, at which the buyer always complains. This then might be considered a gain of 1-8; add still more water, as you make it 1-7. This must settle the question in the mind of every candid and disinterested person, with regard to the meaning to the number of cubic feet, when the exact height of the water is not known; and while the present system of dry well and valve exist, which permit the water to vary to a great extent, the variation of bills will not be decreased.

Now, I do not intend to censure any gas company or manufacturer of meters. But suppose the whole management of a gas establishment to be under the control of one or two individuals—and suppose those individuals to be considered by deeply interested in the concern, and not be as conscientiously scrupulous as might be desired—how easily would it be for them to have the measure taken down; to have the old wheel and screw taken out, and new ones inserted, so that seven revolutions of the measure would cause the index to register 1 foot; this would then be a gain of 1-8 more; which, altogether, would be a gain of at least ¼ without the least additional expense of manufacturing gas. The consumer would see that his bills are increasing, but would be ignorant of the cause. He might inquire of the agents of the concern, and be told, perhaps, there was a small leak, and advised to have some repairs, or to keep the water a little higher in the meter, or to have new burner put on, &c. A city, carrying on a concern of the kind, might want to take stock in some internal improvements, and require a little more money. They could purchase a lot of coal cheap for cash, and get a large discount besides, and then the indifferent materials might cause the consumer to burn much more of it to get light enough for his store, or for other purposes; and by reducing the wages of the laborers, they might increase the amount to near 1 3. A city might realize also an additional sum by fitting up pipes, &c. &c., which, together with the meter, will be [illegible] some further remarks concerning [illegible] give them in a subsequent number.

LEVIATHAN NEW WORLD.

This is the most magnificent sheet that has yet been published. Its contents are of the most rich and varied description, and it is illustrated with numerous engravings, executed expressly for the occasion, in the highest style of the art. The following are a few of its contents, to give them all would fill a newspaper. THE FUNERAL OF NAPOLEON.

Being the fullest and most graphic account of the obsequies of the late Emperor that has yet appeared, prepared at great expense, expressly for the purpose, and completed in a style worthy of the importance of the subject, as a matter of permanent history. It is illustrated by splendid engravings of the Imperial Eagle, and of the Emperor in his coffin, surrounded by his Generals, Prince de Joinville, &c.

SEVEN ORIGINAL PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE BIBLE;

Occupying three columns of this immense sheet, and forming a gallery of sacred pictures of the most elevating interest. They represent the following scenes: Daniel in the Lion's Den; Rocky Valley in the Vicinity of Petra; Jockthed; a View in Petra; Defile in Idumea; Death of Sampson; Group of Modern Oriental Watch Towers; Ancient Rotunda at Thessalonica.

CULTIVATION OF AMERICAN COTTON.
Illustrated by two appropriate engravings.
LA DANSE;
Memoirs of Taglioni & Cerito, the celebrated danseuses.
THE SOULS OF THE DROWNED;
A Legend of Sea, translated from the German, by W. Henry Farn, from the Metropolitan Magazine for February.
HEADS OF THE PEOPLE;
The Pawnbroker, by Douglass Jerott, illustrated by an engraving, and The Schoolmaster, by Wm. Howitt, also illustrated by a splendid engraving.
A SEA CHASE;
A Thrilling Incident in the World of Adventure.
THE OLD WORLD AND THE NEW;
Their Flowers, Birds and Insects.
THE DRUNKEN SEA;
An Allegory, by James Henry, M. D.
THE SHAKER LOVERS.

An original story, written expressly for this sheet, by the popular author of "May Martin," and "The Green Mountain Boys."

This is merely a "small sprinkling" of what this enormous sheet contains. It measures more than FORTY SQUARE FEET, and is filled with matter of the most valuable and entertaining description, as much as could be compressed into two or three clever sized volumes. Price 12½ cents.

POSITIVE PROOF

Petersburg, February 17, 1841.

Mr. BOOZ: Sir—Having a severe pain in my breast, and a most troublesome cough for the last 3 months, I used a great many medicines without finding any relief. I was induced to try your Compound Syrup of Horehound—before I had used the second bottle, my cough had entirely ceased, and now I feel quite well both of the pain and cough. Yours respectfully,
GEORGE G. BARRUM.

P. S. Send me fifty bottles.

Baltimore, February 26, 1841.

Mr. BOOZ: Sir—Having used your compound Syrup of Horehound with the greatest success, I do sincerely believe it to be the best remedy for a cough or cold now in use. Yours respectfully,
DANIEL KIRKLAND, Fell's Point, Baltimore.

The above Syrup may be had, wholesale and retail, at No. 9 FLEET STREET, between Market and Bond streets, Fell's Point—at CHARLES INGRAM'S, Pratt street, next door to the corner of South street—at No. 2 N. WRITING

MANNER OF EXECUTION. Off hand Penmanship by the action of the whole arm, as also a swift, finished, business style, by the fore arm and hand, adapted to letters, bills, orders, notes, sales, receipts, and finished journal entry.

Taught with certainty in TEN LESSONS OF ONE HOUR EACH.

Ladies will be attended to exclusively at their respective hours. They write in separate apartments.

, REMEMBER improvement guaranteed, and additional lessons given free of expense, say, ten, twenty, or thirty, if desired. What can be fairer?

AN ADDRESS. Whatever be the opposition which success encounters—whatever be the malevolence which merit awakens, the fact of Goodwane's triumph in his peculiar department, if not unquestioned, is beyond doubt unquestionable.

Malignant rivals may misrepresent, and sectional jealousy wrest and pervert the best and purest intentions, but the professional knowledge and integrity, and consummate ovation of the present system of penmanship, have been too long confessed to require any labored eulogy from friends, or any advocacy against interested opponents.

The hour has been when foemen might avail:
That hour has passed. Triumphant have I been,
Triumphant wish to be and, whate'er betide,
Still to my own true knowledge true, I'll rest
My cause upon my merit.

BRYSON GILL & SON,

DENTAL SURGEONS, N. W. corner of Hanover and Lombard streets, respectfully inform their Baltimore friends and the public in general, that in addition to their business of BLEEDING, CUPPING, and LEECHING, they continue to perform all operations in DENTAL SURGERY, viz: Extraction of Teeth and Stumps, Filling, Cleansing and Plugging, and the Insertion of Human and Porcelain TEETH, either singly or in entire sets. To such perfection are we enabled to replace the teeth which were lost, as completely to elude detection by the closest scrutiny. Their Dental Rooms are very tastefully furnished, and their Operating Chairs are of the latest improvement. They also have a very large and well selected assortment of Dental Instruments, which will enable them to give general satisfaction to those who may entrust their operations to their care—their operations warranted and prices moderate. They therefore beg leave most respectfully to solicit a liberal share of the public patronage. [s*] mh5-2t*

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

IMPORTANT BILL. From the title of the following bill, it was supposed to relate exclusively to auctioneers. A friend therefore applied for and procured a copy, with which he has politely furnished us. It will be seen, that the bill relates to factors, and not to auctioneers, and is of an important character. We submit it to our readers without comment.

A BILL entitled, a further supplement to an act to regulate sales by public auction.

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That no traders' license or other license, to be issued under the provisions of the existing laws, at any time after the passage of this act, shall be construed to authorise the person obtaining the same, to exercise within the limits of the city of Baltimore, the trade or occupation of a factor, in selling for commission or reward, any goods, wares, merchandises, produce or property of any description, belonging to any person not a resident of this state; which may have been transported into this State, from any other State, District, Territory, or country whatsoever.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That if any person not licensed and authorized in the manner hereinafter mentioned, shall, at any time after the passage of this act, sell, or attempt to sell within the city of Baltimore, any such goods, wares, merchandises, produce, or property of any other description, which shall or may have been deposited, to be sold by him as factor, or for a commission or reward, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be subject to presentment and trial by indictment, and shall, on conviction, be fined in a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, or imprisoned for a term not exceeding three months, or both, at the discretion of the court before whom such conviction shall take place; provided, nevertheless, that nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit any factor, now exercising his business under a trader's license issued before the passage of this act, from continuing his dealings as factor during the continuance of the term mentioned in such license.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That the Treasurer of the Western Shore shall be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed, to issue a license to any person who desires the same, authorizing him to act as factor in the city of Baltimore, for the space of one year from the date of such license, upon receiving from such person fifty dollars for such license, and upon being satisfied that such person hath entered into a recognizance to this state with two sufficient sureties in the sum of ten thousand dollars, conditioned for the payment of the duty or tax hereinafter mentioned, to the Treasurer of the Western Shore, and that he shall, in all things, well, truly, and faithfully behave and conform himself according to the true intent and meaning of this act, which said recognizance shall be taken by the Clerk of Baltimore County Court, and duplicates shall be made of the record of every such recognizance by the said clerk, one whereof shall be delivered by such factor within ten days after the record thereof to the said treasurer, and the other shall be retained by the said clerk, who shall be entitled to demand from the said factor a fee of one dollar therefor.

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That every factor licensed under the provisions of this act, shall pay to the Treasurer of the Western Shore, a duty, or tax of thirty cents, for every hundred dollars of the value of the goods, wares, and merchandises, produce, and property, whatsoever, which may be sold by him as factor as aforesaid.

SEC. 5. And be it enacted, That the provisions of the act to regulate sales by public auction, passed at December session, eighteen hundred and twenty-seven, chapter one hundred and eleven, and of a supplement to the said act, passed at December session, eighteen hundred and twenty-eight, chapter one hundred and forty-eight, in regard to the times and manner of accounting for and paying over the duties imposed by said acts, on the proceeds of sales made by public auction, and the penalties imposed thereby, for violations of the provisions of said acts, and the manner in which proceedings are to be instituted and conducted for punishment of such violations shall be, and the same are hereby declared to be parts of this act, in like manner as if the same were expressly incorporated herein.

BALTIMORE MARKET, March 5. Flour. In Howard street Flour there has been a gradual decline. Sales have been made during the week at different prices, from $4.37½ to $4.25. We give the latter as the quotation price. The wagon price has declined to $4.12. In City Mills there have been but few transactions. The very best is held at $4.87½, and standard at $4.62½.

Grain. We quote Red Maryland Wheats at 87½a90 cents; White do. 91a94 cents. Yellow Corn 41 cts.; White do. 39 cts. Rye, 47a48 cts. Cloverseed $5.12½. Oats, 24a27 cts., according to quality.

Provisions. Mess Beef $12.50; No. 1 $10.50, &c. agreeable to quality. Baltimore cured hams 10a10½ cents; sides 7½a8½ cents, western assorted 6½a7½ cents. hams do. 9a9½ cents; middlings 7a7½ cents. Western lard No. 1, 7a7½ cents in kegs; No. 2, 6½ cents. Western butter No. 1, 10a12 cents; No. 2, 8a8½ cents; No. 3, 6½a7½ cents.—Glades do. No. 1, 18a20 cents; No. 2, 14a18 cts.; No. 3, 9a12 cents. The provision market for the past week has been dull. There is a large amount on hands, and but very small demands. Mess Pork will hardly command $14. Beef Cattle range in price from $6.75 $8 per 100 lbs. Live hogs $5.62a $5.75 per 100 lbs.

Wagon Freights. To Pittsburg and Wheeling we quote at $2 per 100 lbs.

THEATRES. It is computed that the several theatres now in operation in New York, on Monday evening realized over $3000, which was pretty equally divided among the establishments in proportion to their expenses.

DEFALCATIONS. The Louisville Journal states that the tax-collectors of Missouri, for the year 1840, stand charged with defaults to the State to the amount of $43,000 63. The highest sum robbed, which either of these Sub-treasurers has, is stated at $28,441 45.

A NOVELTY. We saw yesterday at the Nursery of Mr. Feast, in N. Charles-st., a plant of rare qualities, called the Rhodundendron. It was imported from Asia, and is the first flower of the kind that has ever bloomed in this State. It is now in full bloom. The curious no doubt will be pleased to see it.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

ANNAPOLIS, March 4, 1841.

SENATE. On motion of Mr. Howard of Baltimore City, leave was granted to report a bill, which passed, relating to the removal of criminal cases from Baltimore City Court.

The bill for the despatch of business in Baltimore County Court was rejected.

The supplement to the act to vest certain powers in the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore passed Dec. Session 1838, chapter 414, was passed.

In the House yesterday afternoon, the bill for the inspection of Ground Black Oak Bark, was passed.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. In the House to-day Mr. Prestman presented "the memorial of sundry merchants and traders of Baltimore, praying that the Banks may be relieved from the penalties of suspension."

On motion of Mr. E. A. Lynch, leave was granted the Committee on Internal Improvement to bring in a bill to redeem the scrip issued by the President and Directors of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company for the prosecution of the Canal.

Mr. Weems submitted a resolution "That whenever the owners of the wharves fronting on Frederick street Dock have filed their assent in writing in the office of the City Commissioners of Baltimore City to have the said dock cleaned out, and shall have furnished to said Commissioners satisfactory assurance for the payment of their portion of the expenses thereof, the Treasurer of W. S. be and he is hereby authorised and directed to pay said Commissioners such sum or sums of money as may be necessary not exceeding in all five hundred dollars out of the tobacco fund, to be applied by them to deepening in front of the State's property on said wharf;" which was read, assented to and sent to the Senate.

Mr. Gantt, Chairman of Committee on Agriculture, to whom was referred the order of the House directing them to enquire into the expediency of abolishing the office of State Geologist and Topographical Engineer, delivered a report. The report recommends the continuance of the office of Geologist for two years with a salary of $1000, and that the office of Topographical Engineer be suspended for one year from the 10th of March 1841."

Mr. Holmes reported a bill "to repair injuries done on the Balt. and Susquehanna Rail Road" which was read and on motion of Mr. Seidenstricker was recommitted.

On motion of Mr. Tuck the House considered the resolution from the Senate in relation to the appointment of Agents to represent the State in all Joint Companies in which the State has an interest. The resolution was read and assented to by a vote of 40 to 14.

Mr. Jones, of Somerset, submitted a message which was read, assented to and sent to the Senate. The message proposes "that a joint letter be written by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Delegates, to Wm. C. Johnson, Samuel Sprigg, Allen B. Davis, Wm. U. Purnell and Tench Tilghman, informing them respectively of their appointment as Agents to represent the State in all Joint Stock Companies in which the State has an interest."

Mr. Causin from the Committee on Corporations reported a Bill relative to the Banking Institutions of this State.

On motion of Mr. Gallagher, the House took up for consideration the bill from the Senate for the benefit of John Busk and Harriet J. Busk his wife of Baltimore City, which was read, passed and sent to the Senate.

The House went into committee of the whole on the Tax-Bill, and have arrived at the 49th section.

SENATE. The bill incorporating the Franklin Total Abstinence Society of Fell's Point, and the bill relating to the city of Baltimore were passed.

Mr Ely reported a supplement to the several Militia Laws.

WATCH RETURNS. Eastern District—March 4. Mrs. Kell and Mary Hardy were imprisoned for improper behavior. Andrew Hale locked up on a charge of attempting to fire a house at the corner of Eden and Wilk streets. In the morning he was released by Justice Jones. 5th—Negro Eliza Hall imprisoned for intoxication, and a white man admitted to lodgings.

Middle District—March 4. Two white men and a female were brought in before watch hours. John Lindsay applied for lodgings. A black fur hat, with a crape on it, was found in Court House lane, and carried to the watch house. 5th—Two white women and a white boy, were brought in. High Constable James Young, of Philadelphia, imprisoned two fugitives from justice, for safekeeping until morning.—Isaac Cunningham, colored, was found drunk and asleep in the street; brought in and reprimanded.

Western District—March 4. Jacob Williams was locked up for disturbing the peace, and two loafers were admitted to lodgings. 5th—Mrs. Doyle and John Farring were locked up for disturbing the peace of their respective neighborhoods, while under the influence of rum. Three loafers applied for lodgings.

CENSUS OF NEW YORK. By the last census of the state of New York, it appears that there are in the state one hundred and thirty-one persons over the age of 100 years, of which 47 are white males, 25 females, 16 colored males, and 43 females. There are 995 white deaf and dumb, 62 colored do.; 891 white blind, 81 colored do. Insane idiots at public charge, white, 702, colored 48; insane idiots at private charge, white, 1470, colored do. 107. Total population of the state, $2.429.476.

AN EXCELLENT IDEA. We notice that the Police Office is now kept open until 12 o'clock each night. Strangers, therefore, and persons who wish to seek redress for wrongs, will always find the High Constable, J. Mitchell, Esq., or his Deputy, Mr. Cook, at any time between dark and midnight. We are pleased to see this, as it will do much in facilitating the ends of justice.

U. S. SENATOR. The Hon. William S. Archer, (Whig,) was elected Senator of the United States on Wednesday last, by the Legislature of Virginia, in place of Mr. Roane, whose term of service expired on the 4th inst.

AN APPEAL OF THE WASHINGTON TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.

The unexampled success which has crowned the exertions of the Washington Temperance Society of Baltimore, the extraordinary increase of members, and the general interest awakened in the cause of total abstinence from intoxicating drinks, have induced us to apply for a charter to the Legislature of Maryland, that we might enjoy all the privileges of incorporated associations, and maintain an attitude of becoming dignity before the public.

One cherished object is, the erection of an edifice of suitable dimensions for the accommodation of our own numerous and constantly increasing society, as well as for the convenience of other Temperance, Library, or Musical Associations, which may choose to occupy it.

The ground formerly occupied by Christ church, near Market street bridge, has been secured, and a more appropriate location, for a large public building, could not be desired.

We design to raise the money by stock, in shares of $10 each, for the particulars of which, and plan of the building, &c. we beg leave to refer to the advertisement of the Executive and Building Committees.

It is our earnest wish to dispose of this stock, and we appeal most confidently to the members of Temperance Societies generally, to aid us in this laudable enterprise. We shall furnish them with a most commodious place of meeting, and the very fact of many Societies convening at the same place, will tend greatly to concentrate our energies and redouble our influence.

We appeal to the various Literary Societies of our city, who at present, have but limited or very expensive accommodations. The rooms we design to furnish, will be admirably adapted to the purposes of such associations. We appeal to property holders and capitalists to come to our aid, believing that a safer investment of money could not be made. We appeal to the friends of public improvement, and to men of architectural taste, as we design to erect an edifice which will be an ornament to our city, consecrated as it will be to the cause of humanity, literature and science.

A spacious public building of this kind has long been wanted in our city. It has been with great difficulty that some of our literary associations could procure rooms sufficiently capacious for their lectures, during the present winter, and then only, at an enormous rent. We now propose to furnish halls for the accommodation of such institutions, and we conceive that we have a right to call upon them for encouragement. We invite all who feel interested in the promotion of morality and science in our city, to aid us in this praiseworthy enterprise, believing that incalculable benefits will thereby be conferred on us and our posterity. We further and lastly appeal to the Ladies of our city, they being so much interested in the cause we have espoused—a cause so fraught with blessings to themselves and the rising generation.

WM. K. MITCHELL, Pres't.

THE BUILDING COMMITTEE OF THE WASHINGTON TEMPERANCE SOCIETY beg leave to report—

That they have selected the scite for the Hall in the lot formerly occupied by Christ Church, adjoining Baltimore street Bridge, it being the most central situation in our city, and on one of the principal thoroughfares. We propose to erect thereon a plain and substantial building, on the most improved plan, suitable for the various societies and public meeting. It is contemplated that the main floor or Hall will be capacious enough to seat comfortably 3500 persons, other rooms for 1000 to 1500 each, leaving one room to be used for a Library and Reading Room, should it be advisable,—also, six stores fronting on Baltimore street, which is calculated will bring a rent of 1500 dollars—in addition to the receipts of the several furnished rooms, which we have every reason to presume one or more will be occupied every day or evening in the year by the various societies, and at a reasonable rent. On the building we purpose erecting a TOWER, with an ILLUMINATED CLOCK, and an ALARM BELL. Your committee are of the opinion that the Hall, after paying the interest of the stock, will leave a surplus in the hands of the society which will not only enable it to redeem the stock at an early period, but give them the means to establish a LIBRARY and READING ROOM, free of charge. All of which is respectfully submitted.

The undersigned, appointed by the Washington Temperance Society of the city of Baltimore as an Executive Committee, for the purpose of erecting and disposing of a sufficiency of stock to build a Hall in aid of the Temperance cause, do hereby present the following resolutions as the basis upon which they solicit aid in carrying out the noble and praiseworthy objects of the Society:

First. The stock shall be issued in shares of ten dollars each—one dollar of which to be paid at the time of subscribing, and the balance in instalments of not more than one dollar per month thereafter.

Second. On payment of the last instalment, transferable certificates of stock shall be issued in the name of the Washington Temperance Society of Baltimore, redeemable at her pleasure; bearing an annual interest of the nett proceeds of the Hall, to be divided annually; reserving all the surplus over and above six per cent. for the purpose of redeeming the stock.

Third. All moneys received by the Committee shall be deposited within twenty-four hours thereafter, in some safe chartered Bank in the city—as may from time to time be designated, and when so deposited, shall not be withdrawn, or any part thereof, unless by vote of the Committee; and no draft shall be valid unless signed by the President and Secretary, and endorsed by the Treasurer of this Committee.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAIL ROAD, }

PROPOSALS are invited for the following described MATERIALS to be used in the construction of the Railway Track between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland:

Sawed Lumber for Under-sills and String-pieces.

54,583 sticks of Scantling, 4x8 inches, and 20 ft. long, clear of stump shot, containing 2,375,000 feet, board measure.
54,500 do do 3x10 do do 3,725,000 feet.

Making together, 6,000,000 feet.

Hewn Timber for Ties and Blocks.

165,600 sticks, hewn flat on two opposite sides, to a thickness of 4½ inches, and width of 6 inches, and 7 feet long.

30,300 sticks, flattened in same manner to a thickness of three inches—width and length same as the preceding.

Cast Iron for Chairs and Plates.

52,800 Middle do do 4 do 211,000
52,800 Bottom Plates, do 2¾ do 145,000

Total lbs. cast iron, 765,000 lbs.

Wrought Iron for Fastenings.

165,600 Screw-bolts, 7½ inches long, and ¾ in diam. wt 1 lb. each, 165,600
165,600 Nuts for same, (1 7-8 sq'e, 9-16 thick,) wt. ¼ lb. each, 52,800
165,600 Washers, of a wedge form, 2¼ inches long by 2½ wide, and ¼ inch average thickness, and weighing 9 16 lb. 59,156
165,600 Plates of rolled Zinc, same length and width, and 1 16 thick, weighing 10 to the pound, 10,560
844,800 Hook headed Spikes, 4½ inches long, 7-16 square in the shank, and weighing 4½ oz. each, 234,716

The Sawed Lumber may be of white or yellow pine, with not more than an inch of sap on two edges of the stick; free from large knots, shakes or decay of any kind. A portion of the 4½8 scantling may be proposed for to be furnished, of white oak, under the same conditions as to quality. The points of delivery may be at Baltimore, Georgetown, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any other point upon the line of the road, and the proposal will state the places as well as times at which the Lumber will be furnished.

Proposers to whom more than one of the places just named are accessible, will separately state their prices for delivery at each; so as to allow an option to the Company in regard to them should the proposal be accepted.

The hewn Timber, intended for the cross-ties and support-blocks, may be of white-oak, rock-oak or chesnut oak, or of chesnut. It must be sound wood, and straight in one direction. If the proposer prefers delivering it in the rough state, and does not wish to undertake the hewing of it to the required dimensions he can so word his proposal, and in that case the size of the sticks must be such as to permit them, when dressed, to be of the full dimensions specified, clear of bark and axe-kerf. If the timber is cut while the bark is loose, it must be stripped off before the delivery. The delivery may be made upon any point of the line, between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland, and the points between which it will take place must be stated. There are to every mile of track 51,663 feet board measure of 4½x8, and 26,400 feet of 3x10 scantling, 1056 cross ties dressed to 4½ inches thick, and 302 dressed to 3 inches thick. Proposals will not be received for a less quantity of any of the kinds of timber, than will lay a mile of track.

The Castings for the chairs and plates will be of an easy pattern—they must be of strong and sound metal, and smoothly cast—the contractor furnishing the patterns. The screw-bolts and nuts will be of sound, tough iron and made with exactness to the required form and size. The washers will be of bar-iron, rolled with the proper section, cut off and punched for the passage of the bolt. The zinc plates similarly made. The hook-headed spikes to be of iron of as good a quality as that of the screw bolts.

The Iron Fastenings just described may be delivered at Baltimore, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any point of the line of the road between the two latter places and the places and times of delivery will be stated in the proposals. There are to every mile of track 7656 lbs. of castings—1584 lbs. of bolts and nuts—591 lbs. of iron washers—105 lbs. of zinc plates, and 2247 lbs. of spikes. No proposal for a less quantity than will supply 10 miles will be received.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid thereon—reserving to the Company the option of paying the said four fifths in Baltimore City 6 per cent stock at par—or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to the contract.

If the materials contracted for or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered, and no estimates or payments shall be made or on account of materials delivered before the time specified for commencing the delivery of the same. The monthly payments shall be made at the Company's offices in Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh, Virginia, at the option of the contractor, and the final payments shall be made in Baltimore. The manner and times in which the materials shall be furnished on the different parts of the line will be specifically provided for in the contracts, and particulars will be given on application to the undersigned. It will be required that about one half of the whole quantity of materials shall be delivered as early as possible between now and the 1st of December next. A model of the rail and its supports and fastenings will be ready for inspection at the Company's office in Baltimore by the 20th current. The proposals will be directed under seal to the subscriber, either at Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh—and will be received up to the 15th of March proximo. By order of the President and Directors,

AN ADDRESS. Whatever be the opposition which success encounters—whatever be the malevolence which merit awakens, the fact of Goodwane's triumph in his peculiar department, if not unquestioned, is beyond doubt unquestionable.

Malignant rivals may misrepresent, and sectional jealousy wrest and pervert the best and purest intentions, but the professional knowledge and integrity, and consummate ovation of the present system of penmanship, have been too long confessed to require any labored eulogy from friends, or any advocacy against interested opponents.

The hour has been when freemen might avail:
That hour has passed. Triumphant have I been,
Triumphant wish to be: and, whate'er betide,
Still to my own true knowledge true, I'll rest

SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

FRIDAY, March 5, 1841.

The Hon. W. S. Archer, appointed a Senator from the State of Virginia, appeared, was qualified, and took his seat.

On motion of Mr. Mangum, that the Senate proceed to consider the following resolution which was submitted yesterday.

"Resolved, That Blair & Rives be dismissed as Printers to the Senate for the Twenty-Seventh Congress."

It was determined by yeas and nays, as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Archer, Barrow, Bates, Bayard, Berrien, Choate, Clay, of Kentucky, Clayton, Dixon, Evans, Graham, Henderson, Huntington, Kerr, Mangum, Merrick, Miller, Morehead, Phelps, Porter, Prentiss, Preston, Rives, Simmons, Smith, of Indiana, Southard, Tallmadge, White, Woodbridge—29.

Nays—Messrs. Allen, Benton, Buchanan, Calhoun, Clay, of Alabama, Cuthbert, Fulton, King, Lian, McRoberts, Mouton, Nicholson, Pierce, Sevier, Smith, of Connecticut, Sturgeon, Tappan, Walker, Williams, Woodbury, Wright, Young, 22.

The resolution being thus brought under consideration, a debate rose upon it, which had not concluded, when a confidential Message being received from the President of the United States, the Senate went into Executive Session, and so continued sitting with closed doors until the usual hour of adjournment.

Among the gratifying incidents of Inauguration Day, was the assemblage of some of the surviving officers and soldiers of the late war, who were placed immediately in front of the President in the procession, and conducted by Gen. LESLIE COOMBS, of Kentucky, in the costume of a Kentucky volunteer, and such a one as Gen. Harrison himself generally wore while commanding on the northwestern frontier.

Tippecanoe, Mississinewa, and the Thames, River Raisin and Dudley's Defeat, Fort Meigs, and Fort Erie, Chippewa, Lundy's Lane, Bridgewater, Queenstown, &c. were all represented by the few veterans present; a majority of whom bore honorable marks upon their persons of their dangerous proximity to the enemy in war "long time ago."

After partaking of refreshments at the Presidential mansion, they returned to Gadsby's, and took leave of each other in a most feeling manner, after a brief address from General Coombs. It is to be regretted that the names of all present were not obtained in time for this notice. We have been enabled to obtain only the following list:

Gen. James Miller, of Massachusetts.
Major John G. Camp, of Virginia.
Col. Charles S. Clarkson, of Kentucky.
Col. John McElvain, of Ohio.
Major Thomas Stockton, of Delaware.
Major Bacon.
Dr. Pendergrast, of Kentucky.
Dr. J. Perrine, of Virginia.
Gen. John Payne, of Kentucky.
Major John Wilcock, of Pennsylvania.

DISGRACEFUL. Two of the Philadelphia fire companies have been lately enacting a series of disgraceful quarrellings. In a melee on Friday, one of the belligerants got dangerously wounded in the abdomen.

COWHIDING. A creature was cowhided in Broadway, New York, on Wednesday, for insulting a lady.

RESIGNED. Mr. Bancroft, the collector of Boston and Charlestown, resigned his office on Thursday, the 4th inst., at 12 o'clock.

AN APPEAL OF THE WASHINGTON TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.

The unexampled success which has crowned the exertions of the Washington Temperance Society of Baltimore, the extraordinary increase of members, and the general interest awakened in the cause of total abstinence from intoxicating drinks, have induced us to apply for a charter to the Legislature of Maryland, that we might enjoy all the privileges of incorporated associations, and maintain an attitude of becoming dignity before the public.

One cherished object is, the erection of an edifice of suitable dimensions for the accommodation of our own numerous and constantly increasing society, as well as for the convenience of other Temperance, Library, or Musical Associations, which may choose to occupy it.

The ground formerly occupied by Christ church, near Market street bridge, has been secured, and a more appropriate location, for a large public building, could not be desired.

We design to raise the money by stock, in shares of $10 each, for the particulars of which, and plan of the building, &c. we beg leave to refer to the advertisement of the Executive and Building Committees.

It is our earnest wish to dispose of this stock, and we appeal most confidently to the members of Temperance Societies generally, to aid us in this laudable enterprise. We shall furnish them with a most commodious place of meeting, and the very fact of many Societies convening at the same place, will tend greatly to concentrate our energies and redouble our influence.

We appeal to the various Literary Societies of our city, who at present, have but limited or very expensive accommodations. The rooms we design to furnish, will be admirably adapted to the purposes of such associations. We appeal to property holders and capitalists to come to our aid, believing that a safer investment of money could not be made. We appeal to the friends of public improvement, and to men of architectural taste, as we design to erect an edifice which will be an ornament to our city, consecrated as it will be to the cause of humanity, literature and science.

A spacious public building of this kind has long been wanted in our city. It has been with great difficulty that some of our literary associations could procure rooms sufficiently capacious for their lectures, during the present winter, and then only, at an enormous rent. We now propose to furnish halls for the accommodation of such institutions, and we conceive that we have a right to call upon them for encouragement. We invite all who feel interested in the promotion of morality and science in our city, to aid us in this praiseworthy enterprise, believing that incalculable benefits will thereby be conferred on us and our posterity. We further and lastly appeal to the Ladies of our city, they being so much interested in the cause we have espoused—a cause so fraught with blessings to themselves and the rising generation.

WM. K. MITCHELL, Pres't.

THE BUILDING COMMITTEE OF THE WASHINGTON TEMPERANCE SOCIETY beg leave to report—

That they have selected the seite for the Hall in the lot formerly occupied by Christ Church, adjoining Baltimore street Bridge, it being the most central situation in our city, and on one of the principal thoroughfares. We propose to erect thereon a plain and substantial building, on the most improved plan, suitable for the various societies and public meeting. It is contemplated that the main floor or Hall will be capacious enough to seat comfortably 3500 persons, other rooms for 1000 to 1500 each, leaving one room to be used for a Library and Reading Room, should it be advisable,—also, six stores fronting on Baltimore street, which is calculated will bring a rent of 1500 dollars—in addition to the receipts of the several furnished rooms, which we have every reason to presume one or more will be occupied every day or evening in the year by the various societies, and at a reasonable rent. On the building we purpose erecting a TOWER, with an ILLUMINATED CLOCK, and an ALARM BELL. Your committee are of the opinion that the Hall, after paying the interest of the stock, will leave a surplus in the hands of the society which will not only enable it to redeem the stock at an early period, but give them the means to establish a LIBRARY and READING ROOM, free of charge. All of which is respectfully submitted.

The undersigned, appointed by the Washington Temperance Society of the city of Baltimore as an Executive Committee, for the purpose of erecting and disposing of a sufficiency of stock to build a Hall in aid of the Temperance cause, do hereby present the following resolutions as the basis upon which they solicit aid in carrying out the noble and praiseworthy objects of the Society:

First. The stock shall be issued in shares of ten dollars each—one dollar of which to be paid at the time of subscribing, and the balance in instalments of not more than one dollar per month thereafter.

Second. On payment of the last instalment, transferable certificates of stock shall be issued in the name of the Washington Temperance Society of Baltimore, redeemable at her pleasure; bearing an annual interest of the nett proceeds of the Hall, to be divided annually; reserving all the surplus over and above six per cent. for the purpose of redeeming the stock.

Third. All moneys received by the Committee shall be deposited within twenty-four hours thereafter, in some safe chartered Bank in the city—as may from time to time be designated, and when so deposited, shall not be withdrawn, or any part thereof, unless by vote of the Committee; and no draft shall be valid unless signed by the President and Secretary, and endorsed by the Treasurer of this Committee.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAIL ROAD.

PROPOSALS are invited for the following described MATERIALS to be used in the construction of the Railway Track between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland:

Sawed Lumber for Under-sills and String-pieces.

54,583	sticks of Scantling,	4 1/2	8	inches, and 20 ft. long,	clear of stump shoe, containing 2,275,000 feet, board measure.
54,500	do	do	3x10	do	do 2,725,000 feet.

Making together, 5,000,000 feet.

Hewn Timber for Ties and Rocks.

115,000	sticks, hewn flat on two opposite sides, to a thickness of 4½ inches, and width of 8 inches, and 7 feet long.
30,000	sticks, hewed in same manner to a thickness of three inches—width and length same as the preceding.

Cast Iron for Chairs and Plates.

59,800	Middle do	do	4	do 221,600

	Total lbs. cast iron,			765,600 lbs.

Wrought Iron for Fastenings.

105,600	screw-bolts, 7½ inches long, and ¾ in diam. wt 1 lb. each,	105,600
105,600	Nuts for same, (1 7-8 sq're, 9-16 thick,) wt. ¾ lb. each,	52,800
105,600	Washers, of a wedge form, 2½ inches long by 2½ wide, and ¼ inch average thickness, and weighing 2 16 lb.	29,126
105,600	Plates of rolled Zinc, same length and width, and 1 16 thick, weighing 10 to the pound,	10,569
844,800	Hook headed Spikes, 4½ inches long, 7-16 square in the shank, and weighing 4½ oz. each,	224,716

The Sawed Lumber may be of white or yellow pine, with not more than an inch of sap on two edges of the stick; free from large knots, shakes or decay of any kind. A portion of the 4½8 scantling may be proposed for to be furnished, of white oak, under the same conditions as to quality. The points of delivery may be at Baltimore, Georgetown, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any other point upon the line of the road, and the proposal will state the places as well as times at which the Lumber will be furnished.

Proposers to whom more than one of the places just named are necessible, will separately state their prices for delivery at each, so as to allow an option to the Company in regard to them should the proposal be accepted.

The Hewn Timber, intended for the cross-ties and rupper-blocks, may be of white oak, rock-oak or chesnut oak, or of chesnut. It must be sound wood, and straight in one direction. If the proposer prefers delivering it in the rough state, and does not wish to undertake the hewing of it to the required dimensions he can so word his proposal, and in that case the size of the sticks must be such as to permit them, when dressed, to be of the full dimensions specified, clear of bark and axe-kerf. If the timber is cut while the bark is loose, it must be stripped off before the delivery. The delivery may be made upon any point of the line, between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland, and the points between which it will take place must be stated. There are to every mile of track 21,560 feet board measure of 4½8, and 26,400 feet of 3x10 scantling, 1056 cross ties dressed to 4½ inches thick, and 352 dressed to 3 inches thick Proposals will not be received for a less quantity of any of the kinds of timber, than will lay a mile of track.

The Castings for the chairs and plates will be of an easy pattern—they must be of strong and sound metal, and smoothly cast—the contractor furnishing the patterns. The screw-bolts and nuts will be of sound, tough iron and made with exactness to the required form and size. The washers will be of bar-iron, rolled with the proper section, cut off and punched for the passage of the bolt. The zinc plates similarly made. The hook-headed spikes to be of iron of as good a quality as that of the screw bolts.

The Iron Fastenings just described may be delivered at Baltimore, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any point of the line of the road between the two latter places and the places and times of delivery will be stated in the proposals. There are to every mile of track 7656 lbs. of castings—1584 lbs. of bolts and nuts—591 lbs. of iron washers—105 lbs. of zinc plates, and 2247 lbs. of spikes. No proposal for a less quantity than will supply 10 miles will be received.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid thereon—reserving to the Company the option of paying the said four fifths in Baltimore City 6 per cent stock at par—or in the stock orders of the Company at par, and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to the contract.

If the materials contracted for or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered, and no estimates or payments shall be made or on account of materials delivered before the time specified for commencing the delivery of the same. The monthly payments shall be made at the Company's offices in Baltimore Cumberland, or Martinsburgh, Virginia, at the option of the contractor, and the final payments shall be made in Baltimore. The manner and times in which the materials shall be furnished on the different parts of the line will be specifically provided for in the contracts, and particulars will be given on application to the undersigned. It will be required that about one half of the whole quantity of materials shall be delivered as early as possible between now and the 1st of December next. A model of the rail and its supports and fastenings will be ready for inspection at the Company's office in Baltimore by the 20th current. The proposals will be directed under seal to the subscriber, either at Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh—and will be received up to the 15th of March proximo. By order of the President and Directors,

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORR'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND, For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Strictures, Diabets or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. VALLIER'S FRENCH PILL, FOR THE CURE OF SECRET DISEASES. One box of these inestimable Pills is worth all the Quack Medicines in the world.

CONSENT. If we examine the nature of the above diseases, and the situation of the parts affected, we must consider it a very important object to be able to obtain a remedy at once certain in its action, and at the same time composed of such ingredients as will prevent the possibility of discovery while using it. It is a fact well known to many, that most of the remedies offered for these diseases are composed of such nauseous drugs, as to render it almost impossible to continue their use without creating a sickness at the stomach or other unpleasant consequences. Such being the case there can be no doubt but such a remedy as Vallier's French Pills, will meet the universal approbation, being entirely free from those objections; pleasant in their operation, and prompt in removing the disease. The proprietor would here remark, that the efficacy of these Pills in the disorders alluded to, are not based upon supposition; on the contrary, it is founded upon rational experience, having used them in a successful practice for upwards of two years, he feels confident of their superiority over the remedies hitherto employed.

VEGETABLE COUGH SYRUP. For the cure of Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Pain and Soreness in the Breast, Influenza, Consumption, Hoarseness, Difficult Breathing, Dyspepsia, and diseases of the Breast and Lungs generally.

This SYRUP is composed of Irish Moss, combined with such other articles as have been found best calculated to afford relief in the above named diseases, and in cases approaching consumption, attended with bleeding at the lungs—and never known to fail. Common Colds, which are generally the effect of obstructed perspiration, will yield to its influence in a few hours. When used in Asthma, Hoarseness, Wheezing, Shortness of Breath, it affords immediate relief. In Whooping Cough, it is without a rival For sale by

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

☞The above Medicine may always be had in Baltimore of RICHARD NORRIS of WILLIAM, No. 254 Market street, who is the Sole Agent for this Medicine in that city. All orders coming to Philadelphia, must be directed to DR. SWAYNE,

For the Baltimore Clipper.

MIDNIGHT.

Another day has pass'd to rest,
Each shadow hath departed;
The sun hath set in the distant west,
And gone is the light that darted.
The trees are still to the very leaf,
And stand in silent sadness,
And there is heard no sound of grief,
To steal the notes of gladness.

Silence and stars, with silvery clouds,
Veils not the lovely moon;
And oh! how teeming memory crowds
On midnight's sullen noon.
It seems the sacred hour of thought,
The holy tranquil hour,
Then to the bowed hushed heart is brought
God's mercy and his power.

I love, when night is on the world,
To bend my heart in prayer,
That He in triumph may unfurl,
And write my mansion there.
Oh may those dazzling things beyond
Life's purest rays that rise,
Light quick the eye and loose the bonds
That still my spirit ties.

T. L. WISE.

SUICIDAL MUSINGS.

Well, well! has it come to this at last? Little did I think, when standing upon this same rock some six or eight years ago, with all the warm feelings of youth, health, and activity struggling within my bosom, that I should come to this sad end so soon, and ere I have numbered half my days; yet years of sorrow have done their work, and the iron tooth of time has already entered my vitals; my step is no longer elastic; and the bright glow of youth and health has faded from my cheek; my form is bent and tottering; 'tis not the same I saw reflected from the surface of that glassy lake so lately. Ah! and it also reflects dread images of the days gone by, when fortune didst gleam upon my path; but ere you pale moon has told another revolution, I shall be no more. Yes: die I must—my hour is come—my cup of misery is full—my last misfortune nerves me to the deed I have long contemplated.

All connected with me by the ties of blood are aware of my early trials, but none know the depth of misery my recent troubles have produced. In early life, misfortune set her seal upon my brow, and childhood's happy smile gave place to premature and life-sapping wrinkles.—As time rolled on, gloomily rolled the current of my troubled life, and fresh events sprang up to tire me of existence; but hope, with luring hand, held out happy prospects for the future, and bid me bear up under my many cares.

"O follow! round my path, she cried,
Life's fairest flowers appear;
Sweets by glad fingers scatter'd wide—
Felicity is here."

Alas! too happily unwise, I took bright hope for truth, and smothered, for a time, the canker-worm of care, and kept down the mighty hunger of the heart, in the vain expectation of surmounting my difficulties. A green spot now appeared—an oasis in the waste of years—and love—virtuous love—took possession of my soul, and to that feeling all others gave way—all selfish considerations vanished. I could at last have been happy in the possession of this "idol of my soul," but poverty—"that blight of human bliss," prevented the accomplishment of my holiest desires. Hope now almost forsook me; my energies became paralyzed; I no longer wished to live, and courted all dangers wherein death seemed to lurk; under "love's heavy burden, I nearly perished;" I lived but the wreck of my former self. I was now past redemption, and tried to extinguish in myself the sense of my present misfortune, by abandoning myself to dissipation of every kind; but "a change came o'er the spirit of my dream," and I was arrested in my headlong course to destruction by another gleam of hope; ever credulous and desiring, if possible, to extricate myself, I grasped the bait which was so treacherously held out to me, and embarked upon the tide of commerce. For a time, happy prospects cheered me; again love asserted her empire, and my crushed spirit revived itself. But of short duration was this sunny period; adversity's dark cloud again passed over me, and obscured forever the radiant beams of hope. All now was sad as death, and gloomy as the shades below; grim despair laid its icy hand upon me, and withered every kindly emotion of my heart. I had outlived hope, and longed for the last sad refuge of the grave.

The excessive anxiety of mind under which I labored produced a severe illness, which I fondly hoped would terminate my troubled existence. In this I was disappointed, and after a short sickness I recovered, in a measure, my bodily strength, and resolved to meet the responsibilities, in which, alone and uncounselled, I had involved myself. I had to work alone—my "troops of friends" had vanished with my earthly prospects; poor sycophantic dolts, I pitied and forgave them, for

"I have too deeply read mankind
To be amused with friendship; 'tis a name
Invented merely to betray credulity;
'Tis intercourse of interest—not of souls."

It is said there are two feelings common to all affectionate natures, that of extreme susceptibility to opinion, and that of extreme bitterness at its injustice, and notwithstanding I possessed a goodly share of "adversity's sweet milk," philosophy, I felt the truth of the assertion, and almost sunk, at that time, (would that I had) under the false charges that were brought against me, and the erroneous constructions that were put upon my actions.

But I found I could indulge those morbidly sensitive feelings no longer, I had other and more pressing matters to engage my attention, and with a feverish anxiety awaited the result of the measures which a few low, mean, vulgar, soulless individuals had commenced against me. The crisis arrived, I sheltered myself under the laws, and found bodily protection. But this dread alternative placed the seal upon the tomb of hope; my honest pride, that had thro' life supported my drooping spirits, now received its mortal wound; the last link that bound me to life was severed; the vital principle and incentive was gone; what more then had I to live for? Nothing!—so fare the well, cold world—I die another victim to the uncharitableness of thy decrees and cruel persecution.

More I could say, and ought to say perhaps; I should designate some of the authors of my misery; I should point them out in order that the unwary, the unthinking, and the inexperienced might shun them as pestilential objects. Probably the dying declarations of a ruined and heartbroken mortal—one, too, whose veracity in life was never questioned by those who knew him best, would be taken for truth, and those soulless beings who have embittered my existence, might be hurled from the false ground they now occupy. But malice and hatred are unchristian and unbecoming in one who now stands on the verge of eternity; besides, their own deeds will ere long bring them to punishment. For, most assuredly,

Time will unfold what plaited cunning hides,
Who cover faults, at last shame them deride.

So I shall leave them to their own vile thoughts. If this should fall into the hands of a friend, I shall expect him to Report me and my cause aright,

To the unsatisfied.

* * * * * *

'Tis an awful thing to die; but I have felt all—all but the bitterness of death; and can its pangs equal those I now feel? I doubt it—so part, ye dark waters and receive my troubled soul; an heavenly tribunal I feel ready to encounter. No friendly care watches over me now, though I have known maternal fondness in its highest and holiest degree. Alas! where is now that watchful eye? Gone! and I am alone. But

"Let friendship's faithful heart attend my bier, Heave the sad sigh and drop the pitying tear."

THE TYROLESE SONG.

To a deep-penetrating and far-seeing mind, there is a mystery in the origin of all realities, of all truths. Not that it cannot see clearly an individual truth by itself, but because all truths merge and disappear in one another to form one all-comprising mystery—truth; like the drops of water that swell into a sea, each merges in another just to part with its individual and acquire a universal character. Thus by manifesting variety in unity, truth shows to man that there is no greater mystery than itself. And thus a truth of little moment acquires a higher importance when it is lost in a greater one. Such a connexion have all realities; and is because of this connexion that nothing should be weighed slightly. There is indeed in nature nothing disconnected; the whole nature is but a circle of a chain one of whose numberless links is man, and whose centre is Deity. Each of these links acts and reacts upon each other, and thus they keep vibrating in mutual influence. Even man, whose vanity is flattered a little by the freedom of action he feels, is not exempt from this influence. He is permitted only the satisfaction of ever struggling against, but never to be master of, the current of influences. Though forcibly borne along with it, yet with the consciousness of will in his breast, he fancies he steers his course independently. Hence arises the difficulty of tracing back to their sources the peculiarities of his nature, as he is ever mirroring forth the outward world, and in his turn throws back upon it his own light.

But we are fast verging toward the abyss of metaphysics; we must return to the idea which occasioned these reflections. Anxious to have connected views of things, often does the mind pass from small to great objects, in the hope of tracing out distinctly the natural affinity which it believes them to possess; but bewildered by the magnitude of the task it is as often forced to acknowledge its incapacity. These were our thoughts while seeking for the origin of the Tyrolese song; but pursuaded that, with all things, this likewise has deeper meaning than man is permitted to illucidate, we left our thoughts free to take their own course.

Not disturbed by grovelling passions, living at peace with himself and like a brother with nature, man will necessarily give vent to those feelings expressive of hilarity. Highlands, by their variety of scenery, court man's admiration at all times, but particularly if his heart be not polluted; for the silent eloquence of nature in mountains addresses the most powerfully only the pure. With the purity of mountain air he inhales, so to say, the purity of soul. The rushing of the ravine, the rustling from the forest-clad mountain-tops will often invite him to join in the chorus. Under such circumstances, man utters his feelings in a striking and peculiar manner.

Thus situated, while tending her flock among the majestic Alps, the light-hearted shepherdess of Tyrol would burst into a joyous carol, and the frolicksome echo mockingly as it were, would repeat it in a thousand voices. Pleased with the effect, in her playfulness, she would mock the echo in her turn; or send it as a messenger to her lover separated from her by hills; and if the two echoes meet, it is as lip to lip. Thus she found the most expressive language of overflowing joy.

The Tyrolese song may be said to be a playful imitation of the Alpine echo. The sportive manner in which the same sounds are repeated, remind one of the thousand-mouthed echo of the Alps. This style of singing derides all rules of art, and criticism; it is as independent as the spirit of the highlander. In its execution it is contrary to the usual rules of singing; the singer constantly makes efforts to restrain the air in the throat and lungs; he may be said to gargle his song in the sweetest manner, as the sheet of water of a cascade falling furiously, sinks beneath the surface but to come up and be pushed aside before it vanishes in the stream, so do sounds in the Tyrolese song succeed each other.

Contentment produced this song; and in its turn it increases the songster's happiness manyfold; for a song always enhances the feeling from which it springs. Indeed it is so strongly marked by expression of contentment and simplicity that one can read in it the whole history of these people; since one prominent trait may give us a clue to their whole character in listening to them when they sing with all their naivette, one can hardly help exclaiming "what happy mortals! not a cloud ever darkens their horizon." If all the avenues to one's heart be not yet closed, he may be sure this song will take him by surprise; it will carry him along its wild and joyous path in spite of himself. Its power however, will not be always equally effectual upon him whose heart knows not contentment. This is the reason why this song would soon tire common people, while it is listened to with ever fresh delight by the Tyrolese, whom modern civilization has not yet despoiled of their simplicity of heart. May they long continue so! Yet we fear that soon the pest of modern progress that gilds the roofs of our houses, but empties our hearts of its greatest treasures, will sweep over their land; and then, farewell the Tyrolese song! Haggard faced envy, and the love of song dwell not together. When the former appears the latter retires bearing away her twin-sisters, modesty and purity. When a people become strangers to spontaneous effusions in song, their peace & happiness are gone forever. Contentment is the mother of spontaneous song; and the song is the only criterion of the true happiness of a people.

F. P. W.

FROM TEXAS. By the steam packet New York, Capt. John T. Wright, arrived at New Orleans on the 24th ult. from Galveston, we have dates to the 10th.

"Many of the general acts passed will have a tendency to encourage emigration, and to give a renewed impulse to the energies of our own citizens. Among these laws may be enumerated the acts to amend the execution laws; to create a system of bankruptcy; to authorise the Commissioner of the General Land-Office to issue patents; prohibiting forced sale of slaves under execution; for the relief of those who have taken the benefit of the insolvent laws of other countries; to incorporate the Texas Trading, Mining and Emigration Company; extending the time for the introduction of emigrants by Jonathan Ikin; granting land to emigrants, and the acts of limitations. To these may be added, should the same be approved by the President, "an act to provide for the collection of foreign debts," by screening emigrants, for four years, from the tender mercies of their foreign creditors. Although but few men can approve of the principles advanced in this law, still there can be no doubt, should it be allowed to go into operation, but that, in connection with the act donating land to settlers, it would have the desired effect of introducing into this country a hardy and industrious population, and people much of our fertile lands which are at present little better than a wilderness."

The Houston Morning Star, summing up the results of the acts of Congress, concludes that the liabilities of Texas, whether in "Treasury notes," or "bond," or "scrip," must take an upward direction; the demand for them will greatly exceed the supply—they are governed by the laws of trade, and must rise. Confidence will become strong, and business must revive.

☞ The commissioners for running the boundary line between Texas and the United States, have again met and resumed their labors. This line, it will be recollected, was nearly completed last year, when, from the appropriation failing, or from some other cause, the Texan commissioners were obliged to suspend operations.

One of the papers says the news from the west is all peace and quietness, at least as far as Mexico is concerned. Indians steal horses and commit massacres, as heretofore; but that is to be expected.

A brig, supposed to be the Magnet, from Liverpool, anchored at Galveston point on the 19th.

At Linnville, during the recent intense cold weather, the bay is represented to have been frozen over so hard that small loaded boats were shoved by hand on the ice a quarter of a mile from the shore.

Major James Norton, an old pioneer of Texas, died suddenly at Matagorda on the 4th instant, aged 53 years.

The schooner Caroline, bound from Linnville to Galveston, with dry goods and hardware, capsized in Labacca Bay, and Isaiah Bray and Nebert Jenkins, of Matagorda, were drowned.

The Austin Gazette says it is expected that Mr. Kennedy, the Poet, will be appointed British Consul General to Texas.

Arthur Ikin, Esq., has been appointed Texan Consul for the port of London.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT.
By and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

DANIEL WEBSTER, of Massachusetts, to be Secretary of State.

THOMAS EWING, of Ohio, to be Secretary of the Treasury.

JOHN J. CRITTENDEN, of Kentucky, to be Attorney General.

FRANCIS GRANGER, of New York, to be Postmaster General.

VESSELS OF WAR ON THE LAKES. The New York Advertiser, in speaking of the report of the building of vessels of war on the Lakes, says there is no foundation for the rumour and goes on to say—

"For Lake Superior there is a boat building for the government, at Chippewa, to be called the Minos. She is a moderate sized boat, and has two engines fifty horse power each. At Montreal there is a very substantial steam vessel building, by order of Lord Sydenham, which is intended to run to Quebec or to any of the lower ports of the province, to New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, or to England if necessary. Her engines will be of 250 horse power—two cylinders, each 56 inches, with six feet stroke. These boats are not intended for armed vessels, but will be fitted for war if occasion require. We cannot learn that any order has been given for a war steamer to be built on Lake Champlain."

In addition to the above we learn by the Montreal Herald that two additional vessels are to be put on the stocks in the shipyard, near that city, immediately, one to be kept in pieces, so as to put her up in ten days.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	" Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	" Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	" Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	" Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	" Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	" Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection through, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads, Weather and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office,
d12-tf PRATT STREET, Baltimore.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My way of business is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 9, 1841.

RESIGNATIONS. Resignations of office are flowing in upon the President from all directions, which disproves the assertion of Mr. Jefferson, when speaking of public officers, that "few die, and none resign." Some of those who have tendered their resignations, have probably acted from the motive which governed the man who decamped when he saw preparations making to kick him out. These resignations are confined to officers who have distinguished themselves for their interference in political concerns, and had, therefore, no reasonable prospect of being retained. We think that they have acted wisely, for we hope and believe that such interference, by public officers, will not hereafter be tolerated.

President Harrison, in his inaugural address, has laid down certain leading principles, to which he promises to adhere during his administration; and among these, and not the least important, is that in relation to public officers. He will require of them a faithful and punctual discharge of the duties attached to their stations, but will forbid their impertinent intermeddling with political affairs. He wants no "executive party," nor disciplined corps of office-holders to sustain his measures. The conduct of public officers has been a source of great complaint, and we are happy to find that, in future, they will be strictly confined to their official duties.

In order to carry out fully the principles avowed in the inaugural address on this subject, great care will be required in the selection of persons to fill the various offices which may be vacated. Here is the rock which the new administration must avoid. "Many will come, and but few be chosen." The utmost care should be taken to scrutinize the pretensions of candidates. Moral worth, integrity, and talents should overbalance presumptuous claims to reward for political services—claims that will be put forth by many who have neither influence nor merit, nor a single qualification to recommend them to favorable notice. We are disgusted with these clamorous pretenders, who, like Parthians, are willing to partake of the spoil, though they contributed nothing to the victory. The numerous defalcations under the late administrations, contributed to the defeat of Mr. Van Buren; and, if President Harrison wishes to go out of office with the same eclat that has marked his inauguration, he must be judicious in his choice of officers, particularly of those through whose hands large sums of the public money will have to pass. Among the receivers of public money, for the sales of lands, for instance, great abuses are said to exist, and losses to have been sustained. Removed to a distance from the seat of government, such officers have the opportunity of practising fraud almost without detection, and generally without punishment.—We hope that due caution will be exercised in the appointment of these and all other officers, so that the newly-coined word "absquatulated" may become obsolete.

"VIATOR, OR A PEEP INTO MY NOTE BOOK"—By David Hoffman, Esq. If there be other matter of a similar stamp remaining in the "note book" of the author, we advise him to take another "peep" into it, and draw forth the contents for public inspection. We have followed him through all the notes given in the present volume with great pleasure, and arose from the perusal gratified alike with the style and sentiments of the author. Mr. Hoffman writes with great fluency and propriety, always "using proper words in proper places." He exhibits vast research, and a perfect familiarity with the various topics which he has touched. If there be any objection to the work it is in the rather too profuse use of Latin, Italian and French terms. In reading a man likes to understand all that is said: it is therefore a fault which should be avoided, to make a volume designed for the perusal of all classes, suitable for the learned alone.

PARTIES. We see it suggested that the 2d of April, 1843, be designated for the holding a convention "to nominate a democratic candidate for the Presidency." The writer is resolved to "take time by the forelock," in prescribing party arrangements; but his haste, in this particular, may be pardoned, if he and others will only permit the people to enjoy a cessation of party strife until the period named by him. This, however, will not be the case, for the political drums will beat to arms at each succeeding local election.—We fancy that we already hear "the busy note of preparation" for the conflict in this state—for there will be another distribution of the loaves and fishes dependent upon the gubernatorial election; and, of course, we shall have a great buckling on of armor during the hot months.

PICKPOCKETS. These gentry were very industrious in Washington on the day of the inauguration, and numbers of gentlemen lost their pocket books, wallets, &c. Only two of the thieves have been apprehended, one of whom had "a curious ring on his finger, in which was contained an exceedingly sharp instrument, like the blade of a penknife, which would enable the wearer, on the touch of a spring, to cut out a pocket or pocket book with great facility, when the hand of the operator had been slyly introduced into the pocket of the intended victim." The papers contained repeated, but it seems, ineffectual cautions, to be guarded against the ingenuity of these sharpers.

☞The steam ship President will positively sail from New York on Wednesday the 10th, at two o'clock in the afternoon. Vandenhoff and daughter, as also Power, go passengers for the home country.

EDITORIAL FESTIVAL. The National Intelligencer contains a glowing account of the Whig editorial dinner given in Washington city on Friday evening last. About forty persons were present; and as editors are not generally overstocked with the good things of this life, we have no doubt that ample justice was done to the entertainment of "mine host." We are informed that there was some good, some indifferent, and some bad speaking on the occasion; but editors are not bound to be orators—and those were therefore excusable who could not make the tongue speak equal to the pen. It would, perhaps, have been as well for them to have forborne the infliction. Baltimore was fully represented at the convivial board; and, if we judge by the number of toasts given by some of her representatives, we should suppose that they felt a most lively interest in the proceedings.

We like the introductory comments of the National Intelligencer. Excellent sentiments may be conveyed in coarse language, or a good thing be done in a bad way—but the editors of the National Intelligencer are never guilty of this impropriety—what they undertake to do is done well; and in taking the editorial pen they never descend from the standing of gentlemen. Would that their example in this respect were universally followed: the editorial profession would become elevated, and the influence of the press be increased in proportion to its increase in respectability.

We have before expressed our disapproval of the proscription which would exclude editors from participating in the public offices—but "it is not the laboring horse that eats the oats," nor the conscientious and devoted politician who receives consideration from the party which he has been instrumental in placing in power. It has been too much the policy to consider editors in the light of hirelings (and some may justify the impression,) who are compensated by subscriptions and advertisements, but who have no right, whatever their qualifications, to aspire higher than to the slavery of the editorial desk. This low estimate of editors is the result of their own want of self-respect. Let their conduct towards each other be changed, and public opinion will also undergo alteration. We would have editors placed, in regard to public offices and all other matters, upon precisely the same footing with other citizens. If to be able to write well upon political or other subjects, is to exclude them from public confidence, then ignorance stands the best chance of preferment. We are glad to find that the remarks on this subject made by the editors of the National Intelligencer, coincide in spirit with those heretofore offered by ourselves, because we feel more assured that our view is not erroneous.

ARREST FOR FORGERY. Yesterday a man named David S. Keiffer, was arrested by high constable Mitchell, and taken to the police office, charged with attempting to pass a forged note on the Mechanics' Bank of Baltimore, to the amount of $750. The note purported to have been drawn by William Heald, in favor of G. Appold. Mr. Heald, who is a director in the bank, testified that the handwriting was not his. The accused stated that he obtained the note from agentleman named Godfrey Appold, a resident of Little York, Pa. The note was not discounted.—The prisoner was apprehended in the bank yesterday morning, where he had repaired for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not his claims had received a favorable consideration. He was committed to jail by James Barnard, Esq.

A KENTUCKIAN OUTDONE. A Kentuckian lately visited New Orleans, having eighty-two British sovereigns in his pocket, of which fact a swindler became aware, who warned the Kentuckian against the impositions likely to be attempted on him. The Kentuckian felt grateful for the stranger's friendship, and asked him where he could find a broker's office to get his gold changed. The sharper took him first one place and then another, and finally into a coffee house where he gave him a check on the Orleans Bank, which turned out not to be worth one red cent.

PHILADELPHIA FIRE COMPANIES. There has scarcely a fire or alarm taken place in Philadelphia that there has not been some fighting among the members of fire companies. At a fire on Saturday morning, the members of one were obliged to retreat and leave their engine to the mercy of the enemy. At an alarm on Saturday afternoon, the members of the Goodwill and Fairmount Fire Companies had a bloody combat, in which two men were so badly injured that their lives are in danger. Creditable, truly, to the city of brotherly love.

EXTRA SESSION. Doubts are expressed whether there will be an extra session of congress. It is said that three of the cabinet are opposed to the measure, but we know not upon what authority this assertion is made, nor do we attach much credit to it. We believe that there will be an extra session held, probably in the month of June; but we have no other foundation for this belief, than inference from events.

THE STEAM FIRE ENGINE, called the Exterminator, was tried in N. York, on Friday last. The quantity and force of water discharged were great, but did not reach more than fifty feet in height, and one hundred horizontally. It is considered an important auxiliary to the fire department of that city.

A MURDERED BODY FOUND. The body of a man who had been killed by a shot through the head, was recently discovered in Macon county, Alabama, concealed in a hollow tree.

THE BRITISH SCHOONER NILE, from Halifax, N. S. for N. York with a cargo of mackerel was abandoned on the 14th ult. she being in a leaky condition. Her crew were carried back to Halifax.

STEAMBOAT BURNED AND TWELVE LIVES LOST. The steamboat Creole, on her passage from Natchitoches to New Orleans on the 22d ult. with a cargo of cotton and about 70 passengers, caught fire and was burned to the water's edge. It is supposed that from ten to twelve passengers were either burnt or drowned. The names of four are ascertained. The others, in consequence of the register books being lost, were not known.

THE AFFAIR AT THE JAIL. It is hoped that such investigation will be made relative to the recent outbreak at the jail, the shooting of McCoy, &c., as will give more general satisfaction to the public than it has yet received. A matter of so serious a nature cannot be too closely canvassed. However abandoned men may be, it is hard to shoot them down like dogs, until the last effort is made for pacific subjugation.

KILLED BY AN ELEPHANT. One of the elephants of Humphrey & Lyons' Managerie killed his keeper near New Orleans on the 24th ult. and was at large during the following night. The animal became savage at some words which the manager said to another elephant travelling with them at the time. He first struck the man with his trunk and then crushed him to death in his mouth.

DISTRICT BANKS. The bill for the relief of the District Banks, which had passed the Senate, failed in the house for want of time. So also with other bills passed by the Senate. Important interests were thus sacrificed to long-winded, nonsensical speeches.

MIRACULOUS PRESERVATION. At Rochester, on Friday week, a small boy by the name of Battles, playing near Smith & Peacock's saw mill, fell over the precipice, a distance of 70 feet. He fell into a snow drift, and the only injury he sustained was the dislocation of his ankle!

☞The bill which provides for the division of the city into fourteen wards, passed the second branch of the city council yesterday, with proposed amendments. If these be approved by the first branch, the bill will then only want the signature of the Mayor to become a law.

PUBLIC MEETING. The citizens of Albany held a meeting at the city hall on Wednesday last, on the subject of convict labor. Some spirited resolutions were passed, concerning the injustice to mechanics, done by continuing the present system of prison labor.

STEAMBOAT DISASTERS. The steamboat Shylock was snagged in the Bigbee river on her passage to Mobile a few days since.

The steamer Swiss Boy has also been snagged on the Warrior River, near Erie—also, on her passage to Mobile, laden with cotton.

MR. BOOTH. This distinguished tragedian fully sustained his high reputation last night, at Front street, in the character of Sir Giles Overreach. He performs again to-night, the character of Sir Edward Mortimer, in the play of the Iron Chest.

A lady of Tarrytown being out in the evening, was accosted by a gentleman who offered to escort her home, to which she answered, "Get out, you brute!" He begged her pardon, when she immediately replied, "Ah! sir, I ask your pardon, for in a state of mental absence, I thought it was my husband!"

☞Julia Ann and Hannah Ann Brown, negresses, were yesterday taken to the police office, and committed to prison by Squire Barnard, charged with being runaway slaves, the property of Dr. William Hitch.

☞The alarm of fire yesterday afternoon about two o'clock, proceeded from the burning of the roof of a house next door to the Fulton House, on McElderry's wharf. The house was occupied by a Mrs. Carnes. Damages but small.

FATAL ACCIDENT. A man named Denning, a Scotchman, was killed at New Orleans a few days since, by falling on the deck of a ship from a part of the rigging.

The editor of the Richmond Star says—General Harrison has already kissed several beautiful young ladies. There is the consequence of being made President. Wish we were president for a spell.

THE FAIR. By referring to the advertisement it will be seen that the ladies have determined to continue their fair at the Museum to-day and to-morrow. We wish them much success.

DISASTER. The schr. Wm. Roscoe, Hinckley, from N. York for Boston, struck pot rock, in Hurlgate, on Thursday afternoon, and sunk in about twenty minutes.

BILLIARDS. A match at billiards was played at New Orleans on the 24th ult. for $500 a side. $5000 in Byebets changed hands on the occasion.

FIRE. A carpenter shop and two stables were consumed by fire in Philadelphia on Saturday morning. Loss about $1500.

DROWNED. A woman was drowned at Wilmington on Friday last, during the rush of the passengers to get on board the steamboat Ohio.

In China, an imperial proclamation is called a Chop. Commissioner Lin who has recently been removed from office by proclamation, may therefore be said to be chop-fallen.

STABBING. Two cases of stabbing came off in New Orleans last week, neither of which proved fatal.

RE-ELECTED. Jonas C. Heartt, whig, has been re-elected mayor of Troy, N. Y., by a diminished majority.

☞The Louisiana Legislature have determined to adjourn on the 15th inst.

[FOR THE BALTIMORE CLIPPER.]

No. V.

The manner in which the consumer may be defrauded in calculating the index; cost of gas fixtures; remarks on the gas meter and its machinery.

☞A city could impose on the ignorance, (in which they might keep the consumers,) in many ways through the medium of the index; for, if a person who was known to have an extensive knowledge of mechanics, and also had made the meter his constant study, and examines them daily for a protracted period, could not understand the mechanism of a meter—surely a merchant, who perhaps never gave it a thought, (except as regards the amount of money that it cost him,) could be entirely bindfolded. The bill might be rendered, with the states of the index on it, and appear to be a correct one—and yet the number of cubic feet, more than what the index had actually registered—for instance, the index, on the 1st of March, might be 25 6, which is 25,600. On the 1st of June it might have advanced 3000 feet, to 28 6—3000 would therefore be the exact remainder. Now suppose the bill to be carried out 4000, the consumer might complain, and perhaps on the same day it was rendered, one of the men connected with the concern might step in to examine the meter; he would see the error, but could say the index was taken correctly, for he might have a family to support, and if he meddled with such things as that, the city might abolish the office filled by him, by which means he would be thrown out of employment: For if the city found the consumers were getting their eyes opened, which operation might in a great degree affect a certain portable commodity known by the definition of dolls, and cash, or should any communications, which had formerly been promulged through that channel be rendered necessary, the consumer, by stepping to the office, could promptly have the napkin given another fold, and by going out of a very light place, would make the darkness appear more intense.

A city might also render a bill, without any statements of the index on it at all, and if the consumer objected to paying it, he could be warranted and the account sworn to, and sooner than incur legal action by application at court, where the measure by which any commodity is sold, would have to be recognized by the city before judgment could be rendered, he would pay the bill cost and all, and substitute CAMPHINE in its place.

A city might also realize a great amount of the filthy lucre by carrying on the fitting up of all the stores and dwellings within its exclusive jurisdiction.

Suppose a sheet of copper 8 feet long and 21 inches wide, cost $7.50; this would cut 9 strips 2¼ in. wide and 8 feet long; these being bent round an iron rod, and afterwards being brazed and drawn down to ¾ in. pipe, would each be over 11 feet long; say the whole sheet would make 100 feet of pipe—this would take a good workman about two days, so that in one week he would make 300 feet, allowing him a laborer one day to draw the pipe to the right size.

3 sheets of copper at $7.50 each, would be	$22 50
Pipe maker's wages, per week,	9 00
Fitter up, fitting pipes to brass works, and putting them up—1 week,	9 00
Laborer one day, drawing pipe,	75
Expenses—amounting in one week to	$31 25
300 feet of pipe, at 30 cts. per foot,	$90 00
$31.25 cts week's expenses deducted from this	31 25
Leaving a balance, for one week, of	$58 75

For an average of the brass work, I will take a batwinged burner, for as the article is the greatest demand should afford the least profit, I presume the city would just set a living price on that article. A good workman can make 30 of these in a day, and in one week 120: Workman's wages, $9 00
Apprentice boy to assist in casting, &c. p. week, 2 00
Allowance for old brass and copper, 10 00

Expenses for the week,	$21 00
120 bat-winged burners, at $1 25 each,	$150 00
Deducting a week's expenses from this,	21 00
Leaves a balance of	$129 00
To this add balance of pipe and fitting, &c.	$58 75
Would leave a nett am't, for 1 week,	$187 75
And for one year or 52 weeks,	$9,763 00
To this add nett am't in 1st No. on gas, &c.	$64,564 00
¼ of this for saving no standard for measuring gas,	16,141 00
Leaving a nett am't to the city, for 1 year,	$90,468 00

This might be considered a pretty fair business transaction, and also a systematical method of making money. But suppose there were only about 1100 or 1200 citizens of such a city, from whom this amount of money was collected, they might think it rather onerous, because their business did not justify expense; they would remember what the article once cost, and compare it with the present cost, and the conclusion to which their minds would naturally arrive, would be, that something was wrong, and the result of such conclusion would be investigation. They might find amongst them men both able and willing to carry out such investigation, provided they were legally endowed with the power; and as soon as they discovered that the city authorities had the power to assist them, they would demand it as a right that the city owed them; and if the measure that they believed to be incorrect, came under the restrictions of other measures heretofore recognized by the city, and were found to be false, let them share the fate of all other false weights and measures. The person or persons selling by such measure could not well object to a law of this kind, for after it was known that they are selling by a measure unconstitutional, they would not be able to collect money for such sales; and remains as yet a question, whether it would not be an indictable offence to impose such measure upon the public. A gas measure is a complete obstruction from the light; should the water get too low, by a leak or otherwise, the valve closes and puts out the light; raise the water a little too high, you overflood the dry well, and also put out the light; or, should the water become frozen, the wheel cannot turn, and consequently the gas cannot pass through; and many other causes producing the same effect. It requires power equal to a steam engine to put all the meters in the city in motion; the resistance of the water, together with the friction of the machinery is such a large number of meters, must be strikingly obvious; and the consequence is, that the light, instead of that steady, brilliant flame, is a dilling dancing affair, and requires extra gazometers to have it burn at all. But of all the obstructions the valve is the most objectionable, and may be designated an abominable nuisance, for no matter what may be the importance of the occasion: a church filled with a congregation, in the midst of their devotions; stores whose counters are filled with the most costly articles of trade and manufactures, and a large number of purchasers all anxious to be waited on in haste; or a theatre whose actors are performing the deepest and most interesting tragedy; the instant it closes out goes the light, and generally when most unexpected or the least prepared for. This requires some legal action, for I believe that this nuisance by legal action has been removed in one of our eastern cities. I shall, if called upon by the proper authorities, present a drawing for an improvement on the gas measure, so that the water may be kept to one exact height, and that a person may know it without taking off the joints, or removing the screws, at the most trifling expense. The consumer could not draw it out, nor a company put in too much without the consumer knowing it, and which will in a great measure prevent the obstructions caused by the dry well and valve, and also a drawing for an apparatus for the correctly testing of a meter, so that the consumer may see his measure tested, the same as he has to have the measure tested by which he sells; and when such improvements are made, and such restrictions imposed, as well as a competition in gas, then the citizens of a place like Baltimore, almost surrounded by coal beds, will be able to have an abundant supply of the purest quality of gas, generated in such great quantities from that article, and realize the great objects of its introduction, which was that of convenience and economy. It remains then with the consumers of gas in this country to say what they will have done, for gas companies are as equally dependent on you as you on them, and much more so; for there are other lights which are TOUGH to beat, besides those, too, which set in the WEST—or you can close your stores, in which case light is not at all in demand. mh9-1t* INDEX.

RE-OPENING OF
GOODWANE'S ACADEMY,
No. 160½ BALTIMORE STREET.

WRITING

MANNER OF EXECUTION. Off hand Penmanship by the action of the whole arm, as also a swift, finished, business style, by the fore arm and hand, adapted to letters, bills, orders, notes, sales, receipts, and finished journal entry.

Taught with certainty in TEN LESSONS OF ONE HOUR EACH.

Ladies will be attended to exclusively at their respective hours. They write in separate apartments.

 REMEMBER improvement guaranteed, and additional Lessons given free of expense, say, ten, twenty, or thirty, if desired. What can be fairer?

AN ADDRESS. Whatever be the opposition which success encounters—whatever be the malevolence which merit awakens, the fact of Goodwane's triumph in his peculiar department, if not unquestioned, is beyond doubt unquestionable.

Malignant rivals may misrepresent, and sectional jealousy wrest and pervert the best and purest intentions, but the professional knowledge and integrity, and consummate ovation of the present system of penmanship, have been too long confessed to require any labored eulogy from friends, or any advocacy against interested opponents.

The hour has been when females might avail:
That hour has passed. Triumphant have I been,
Triumphant wish to be: and, whate'er betide,
Still to my own true knowledge true, I'll rest
My cause upon my merit.

Petersburg, February 17, 1841.

Mr. Booz: Sir—Having a severe pain in my breast, and a most troublesome cough for the last 3 months, I used a great many medicines without finding any relief. I was induced to try your Compound Syrup of Horehound—before I had used the second bottle, my cough had entirely ceased, and now I feel quite well both of the pain and cough. Yours respectfully,
GEORGE G. BARRUM.

P. S. Send me fifty bottles.

Baltimore, February 26, 1841.

Mr. Booz: Sir—Having used your compound Syrup of Horehound with the greatest success, I do sincerely believe it to be the best remedy for a cough or cold now in use. Yours respectfully,
DANIEL KIRKLAND, Fell's Point, Baltimore.

HANCE'S Compound Syrup of Horehound.

CERTIFICATE. MRS. WILLIAMS, of Petersburg, Va. caught a very severe cold last fall, and thinking it would wear off in the course of time itself, neglected it to a very great extent. Finding, however, it did not leave her, she then tried various remedies, some of which subdued the cough in a measure, but none effectually cured it.

About a month ago, her husband thought she had better try a change of air, so she came to Baltimore, where she first became acquainted with the COMPOUND SYRUP OF HOREHOUND—the first bottle produced such relief, that before she had finished it she determined to purchase two bottles and return home. Price 56 cents per bottle.

ANNAPOLIS, March 6, 1841.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. The House last night, in committee of the whole, finished the consideration of the tax bill. It has been greatly amended, and is now in the hands of the printer.

Mr. Weast presented a petition from Washington County, praying an act to authorise the Banks of the State to issue small notes—referred.

Mr. Jones, of Somerset, presented the memorial of sundry citizens of Somerset and Dorchester counties, praying the passage of a law to authorise the citizens of this State to dredge for oysters in the Bays and Sounds of this State, wherever there are not less than two fathoms of water. Referred to a select committee.

Mr. Orrick submitted a message, which was adopted, requesting the Senate to return the bill relative to the inspection of Ground Black Oak Bark, intended for exportation.

On motion of Mr. Maccubbin, leave was granted the committee on corporations to bring in a bill to incorporate the Annapolis and Chesapeake Steam Navigation Company.

Mr. Sutton reported a bill entitled a supplement relating to the lien of mechanics and others upon buildings; passed at December session, 1838, chapter 205, which was passed, and sent to the Senate.

Mr. Holmes reported a bill entitled an act to repair injuries done on the Baltimore and Susquehanna Rail road, which was ordered to lie on the table.

On motion of Mr. Presstman, the House took up the report submitted by him relative to the Maryland Hospital. The report was concurred in, and the accompanying resolutions assented to.

Mr. Graves reported a bill to prohibit any corporation or individual from issuing any paper intended to circulate as money or currency, which was laid on the table by a vote of 34 yeas to 25 nays.

Mr. E. A. Lynch moved to take up the bill supplementary to an act to insure the completion of the Susquehanna Canal and of the Tide Water Canal, passed Dec. session, 1838, ch. 416.

The House agreed to consider said bill, and after having been amended, it was rejected by a vote of 26 to 35.

Mr. Presstman reported a bill supplementary to an act entitled an act to establish a House of Refuge for juvenile delinquents; and also to an act entitled an act to incorporate the Baltimore Manual Labor School for indigent boys.

A communication was received from his Excellency the Governor, in reply to the order adopted by the House yesterday, relative to an extra session, in which he refuses to comply with their request unless a resolution is passed by both branches of the Legislature.

The House then adopted a message asking the Senate to reconsider their vote relative to the call of an Extra Session, and also enclosing the communication just received from the Governor.

CITY COUNCIL.

FIRST BRANCH, March 8. The Branch met pursuant to adjournment. Present, Mr. Snyder, President, and all the members except Messrs. Pinkney, Donovan and Dryden.

Mr. Peregoy presented the petition of Thomas Hodgkins, which communication stated that the petitioner did, on the first of March, 1841, kill and consume with flames thirteen mad dogs in West Saratoga street, west of Cove. The petitioner prayed for a remuneration according to the "poison sausenger" law. Referred to the committee on claims.

On motion of Mr. Hanson, the communication from the city commissioners, relative to repairing the council chambers, was referred to the joint committee on ways and means.

Mr. Keyser called up the resolutions relative to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, demonstrating against any appropriations being granted at the present term in favor of that work. The resolutions were passed.

Mr. Cole presented the petition of Messrs. Bull & Tuttle, publishers of the Clipper, praying a remuneration for advertising done by order of the city authorities for city purposes, which, upon being read, was referred to the joint committee on claims.

A communication signed Jacob Deems, late Collector, was received through the Mayor, in which it was stated that there was yet remaining of taxes due the city, in his hands for collection, four hundred and six thousand five hundred and eighteen dollars and thirty cents. The communication also stated that Mr. Deems would relinquish the amount of bills now in his possession provided the corporation give him as a remuneration the amount of three thousand dollars. Referred to the committee on ways and means.

Mr. Gorsuch moved a reconsideration of the report of the committee on health, relative to the petition of George Suter, which was carried.—After some arguments the affair was laid on the table.

Mr. Peregoy presented the report of the committee on the almshouse, relative to the Baltimore county and city almshouse, which was favorable. Accompanying the report was a resolution requesting the trustees of the almshouse to inquire into certain expenses, and report the same to the councils. Laid on the table.

Mr. Gorsuch presented the report and resolution of the joint committee on police, relative to the appointment of two additional police officers, which was favorable.

Mr. Bender, of the joint committee on ways and means, submitted a report and ordinance to provide for defraying expenses of the city court; also, an ordinance for the prompt payment of auction expenses; also an ordinance to provide for the payment of expenses of public schools; also, an ordinance to provide for the interest of loans obtained by the city for the purpose of prosecuting works of internal improvements; also, an ordinance to levy and collect a direct tax for the repairs of highways and bridges in certain parts of Baltimore; also, an ordinance to levy and collect a direct tax for the year 1841. On motion of Mr. Bender, the reading of the ordinance was dispensed with until printed.

A communication was received from the Mayor, relative to the inspection of wood. Referred to the joint committee on the harbor.

Mr. Blakeney offered a resolution relative to the repairing of Belvidere bridge. Referred to the committee on bridges.

On motion of Mr. Gorsuch, the Branch adjourned until to-morrow afternoon at half past three o'clock.

INGRATITUDE. When Duchesnois, the celebrated French actress, died, a person met an old man who was one of her most intimate friends. He was pale, confused, awe-stricken. Every one was trying to console him; but in vain; "Her loss," he exclaimed, "does not affect me so much as her horrible ingratitude. Would you believe it, she died without leaving me any thing in her will—I, who have dined with her, at her own house, three times a week for thirty years.

From November, 1829, to November, 1840, there were published in Belgium 320 original works, viz: 218 in French, 92 in Flemish, 6 in Latin, and 4 in German. In 1832 the number was 360.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

SMALL NOTES.

The Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road Company having acceded to the request of the corporate authorities by issuing notes of the fractional parts of a dollar, the question arises, how long will the community countenance the irresponsible issues of individuals now afloat in the city, incurring thereby a constant risk of loss to themselves. It is presumed an amount of the company's issue will be in circulation in a few weeks (in connection with the small silver change afloat) sufficient for all necessary purposes. It is certain as long as the citizens continue to receive individual issues, so long will those individuals force them on the community, a new batch having made their appearance since the last suspension. Let the citizens then, one and all, resolve to discountenance this trash after the first day of April next, and receive nothing but the Rail Road issues. The consequence will be a safe and sound small note currency. The subject is one of importance both as regards the pecuniary interest of individuals, and the character of our city, and merits the serious consideration of the community.

R.

MUSICAL CROTCHETS.

(BY BEMBAR)—GROUP II.

"I have punched you," says Webb. "Yes, and to some tune," says the song.

"What makes you take so many airs upon you," says the bassoon. "Because the ladies caress and pat me so," says the piano.

"Won't you sing with me, daughter?" "No, Ma, I had rather cry." "Why so?" "Because I am a minor."

"I have gone ahead," says the tamborine when it bursted.

"Is your wife a proficient in music?" says the jew's-harp. "Yes, she tongues me," says the flute.

"I am open to correction," says the drum when the stick went through it.

"I am confined, and my case is a hard one," says the fiddle. "Ditto to match," says the fiddler's wife, when she found herself in the same predicament.

"I make a move that we may have good music," says the trombone. "You are a base (bass) affair at best," says the trumpet.

"Do you teach young ladies to play on the guitar?" says a gentleman to a French professor." "Oui, Mousieur, I shall be very much glad to teach de young lady, if you shall find her; but, in de city of Monuments, I can get noting to teach but de angel."

DREADFUL FATALITY. As the first dance at the ball, last evening, (says the Eastern Argus of the 5th inst,) was about commencing, the company was shocked by the instantaneous death of one of their number—Mr. Wm. Parker—who fell dead just as he had led his partner to the floor. He was taken directly to the office of Dr. Wood, in the Exchange building, but all life had departed.

GOOD IDEA. So numerous are the applications for divorce in the Legislature of Virginia, that one of the newspapers in the state suggests that the legislature pass "a general law, divorcing every couple in the state, with leave, to such as are disposed, to remarry."

COURTING SCENE. "Jonathan, does you love biled beef and dumplins?"

"Darned if I don't, Sewke—but a hot dumplin aint nothin to your sweet, purty, tarnal nice, red lips, Sewke."

"O ha! go way, you Jonathan."

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT must be obvious to every one, that an Intelligence Office, when conducted under proper principles, and regulated upon an honest and equitable course, is of great convenience and utility to the citizens of a populous and thriving city like this. The subscriber, being aware of this fact, and with the knowledge that a degree of dissatisfaction has existed from the manner in which other offices of the kind have been heretofore conducted, he has therefore taken great pains to conduct his establishment in such a manner as to deserve public confidence, and be worthy of the public patronage.

PERSONS making application at this office for servants, or help of any other kind, will deposit, in advance, 50 cents each, for which they will have access to the records, properly kept for that purpose, and on which they find the names, residences, references, &c. of the servants or other help—in case that neither of them answers the desired purpose, the money will be returned. Yearly subscriptions received at $1.50 each.

AGENCY. HOUSES, FARMS, VACANT LOTS, GROUND RENTS, LANDS, &c. bought and sold on commission. SLAVES, for life or a term of years, bought or sold on commission, and the highest prices obtained. Persons having slaves, which they wish to dispose of, will do well to apply at this office before selling.

N. B. All letters addressed to this office (post paid) thankfully received and promptly attended to.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE, BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAIL ROAD.

PROPOSALS are invited for the following described MATERIALS to be used in the construction of the Railway Track between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland:

Sawed Lumber for Under-sills and String-pieces.

84,583 sticks of Scantling, 4½x8 inches, and 20 ft. long, clear of stump shot, containing 3,275,000 feet, board measure.
54,500	do	do	3x10	do	do 3,725,000 feet.

Making together, 6,000,000 feet.

Hewn Timber for Ties and Bucks.

105,600 sticks, hewn flat on two opposite sides, to a thickness of 4½ inches, and width of 6 inches, and 7 feet long.

30,200 sticks, flattened in same manner to a thickness of three inches—width and length same as the preceding.

Cast Iron for Chairs and Plates.

52,800 Middle do	do	4	do	211,000
52,800 Bottom Plates,	do	2¾	do	145,000
Total lbs. cast iron,				765,000 lbs.

Wrought Iron for Fastenings.

105,600 Screw-bolts, 7½ inches long, and ¾ in diam. wt 1 lb. each,	105,600
105,600 Nuts for same, (1 7-8 sq'e, 9-16 thick,) wt. ½ lb. each,	52,800
105,600 Plates of rolled Zinc, same length and width, and 1 16 thick, weighing 10 to the pound,	10,560
844,800 Hook-headed Spikes, 4½ inches long, 7-16 square in the shank, and weighing 4½ oz. each,	224,716

The Sawed Lumber may be of white or yellow pine, with not more than an inch of sap on two edges of the stick; free from large knots, shakes or decay of any kind. A portion of the 4½x8 scantling may be proposed for to be furnished, of white oak, under the same conditions as to quality. The points of delivery may be at Baltimore, Georgetown, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any other point upon the line of the road, and the proposal will state the places as well as times at which the Lumber will be furnished.

Proposers to whom more than one of the places just named are accessible, will separately state their prices for delivery at each; so as to allow an option to the Company in regard to them should the proposal be accepted.

The hewn Timber, intended for the cross-ties and support-blocks, may be of white oak, rock-oak or chesnut oak, or of chesnut. It must be sound wood, and straight in one direction. If the proposer prefers delivering it in the rough state, and does not wish to undertake the hewing of it to the required dimensions he can so word his proposal, and in that case the size of the sticks must be such as to permit them, when hewed, to be of the full dimensions specified, clear of bark and axe-kerf. If the timber is cut while the bark is loose, it must be stripped off before the delivery. The delivery may be made upon any point of the line, between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland, and the points between which it will take place must be stated. There are to every mile of track 211,680 feet board measure of 4½x8, and 26,400 feet of 3x10 scantling, 1056 cross ties dressed to 4½ inches thick, and 302 dressed to 3 inches thick. Proposals will not be received for a less quantity of any of the kinds of timber, than will lay a mile of track.

The Castings for the chairs and plates will be of an easy pattern—they must be of strong and sound metal, and smoothly cast—the contractor furnishing the patterns. The screw bolts and nuts will be of sound, tough iron and made with exactness to the required form and size. The washers will be of bar-iron, rolled with the proper section, cut off and punched for the passage of the bolt. The zinc plates similarly made. The hook-headed spikes to be of iron of as good a quality as that of the screw bolts.

The Iron Fastenings just described may be delivered at Baltimore, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any point of the line of the road between the two latter places and the places and times of delivery will be stated in the proposals. There are to every mile of track 7656 lbs. of castings—1584 lbs. of bolts and nuts—591 lbs. of iron washers—105 lbs. of zinc plates, and 2217 lbs. of spikes. No proposal for a less quantity than will supply 10 miles will be received.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid thereon—reserving to the Company the option of paying the said four fifths in Baltimore City 6 per cent stock at par—or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to the contract.

If the materials contracted for or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered, and no estimates or payments shall be made or on account of materials delivered before the time specified for commencing the delivery of the same. The monthly payments shall be made at the Company's offices in Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh, Virginia, at the option of the contractor, and the final payments shall be made in Baltimore. The manner and times in which the materials shall be furnished on the different parts of the line will be specifically provided for in the contracts, and particulars will be given on application to the undersigned. It will be required that about one half of the whole quantity of materials shall be delivered as early as possible between now and the 1st of December next. A model of the rail and its supports and fastenings will be ready for inspection at the Company's office in Baltimore by the 20th current. The proposals will be directed under seal to the subscriber, either at Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh—and will be received up to the 15th of March proximo. By order of the President and Directors,
BENJ. H. LATROBE, Eng. Loc. and Cont'r.

COMMENT. If we examine the nature of the above diseases, and the situation of the parts affected, we must consider it a very important object to be able to obtain a remedy at once certain in its action, and at the same time composed of such ingredients as will prevent the possibility of discovery while using it. It is a fact well known to many, that most of the remedies offered for these diseases are composed of such nauseous drugs, as to render it almost impossible to continue their use without creating a sickness at the stomach or other unpleasant consequences. Such being the case there can be no doubt but such a remedy as Vallier's French Pills, will meet the universal approbation, being entirely free from those objections; pleasant in their operation, and prompt in removing the disease. The proprietor would here remark, that the efficacy of these Pills in the disorders alluded to, are not based upon supposition; on the contrary, it is founded upon rational experience, having used them in a successful practice for upwards of two years, he feels confident of their superiority over the remedies hitherto employed.

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

☞ The above Medicine may always be had in Baltimore of RICHARD NORRIS of WILLIAM, No. 254 Market street, who is the Sole Agent for this Medicine in that city. All orders coming to Philadelphia, must be directed to DR. SWAYNE,

Baltimore Clipper.

VOLUME IV.] WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 10, 1841. [NUMBER 1.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

SONG OF THE GONDOLIER.

A merry barque from Venice' tide,
The shore is floating near;
Then, loveliest, haste in it to glide,
With thy blest Gondolier.

The blushing moon shall guide our way,
Across the silvery sea;
While thy sweet voice shall round me play,
As thus I gaze on thee.

I'll sing my tale of love to thee,
As gaily on we steer,
And thou wilt whisper soft to me,
Thy happy Gondolier.

We'll build our cottage on the strand,
And bid old care afar,
And sail thro' life thus hand in hand,
Thee and thy Gondolier.

Baltimore, March. 1841. EMILY.

THE DOUBLE MARRIAGE.

BY THE COUNTESS D'AUTICHAMP.

The political dissensions that have agitated Spain for more than twenty years, have forced many families to leave their country, and seek a more tranquil home elsewhere. Bordeaux for instance, contains more than twenty thousand Spaniards; and in this city a happy sympathy exists between the indigenous population and strangers.

The Gascon character, quick, light, and resolute, blends easily with the violent passionateness of the Spaniard; and Castilian gravity equally accommodates itself with the vain frankness of the Bordelais. The demands of society and the interests of commerce have done the rest; and therefore have arisen frequent marriages, and bonds, which have all the permanency of friendship.

In 18— the Countess of Alcantara came to reside at Bordeaux It was not asked whether a political or any other cause obliged her to leave Madrid, where it appeared she was little known. She was rich, and by the retired way in which she lived, and the care she bestowed on a young infant, she was imagined to be a widow. Her beauty, however, caused her soon to be remarked; and after she had formed some acquaintances in the town, she found it difficult to withdraw from the pursuits that await a young woman, rich withal, of whom no duty, or no protector, seems to limit the admiration. The Countess, however, conducted herself with so much circumspection, that for three years not the remotest scandal was entertained on her account.—During that period she dressed herself in mourning, as well as all her household; but, a few months afterwards, she appeared to prefer the society of one of her more persevering admirers, a certain Count de Bougignon, rich, handsome, and five-and-thirty. On a certain day, as one spoke of love, and the other rejoiced at the happiness of being beloved—

'Ia,' observed the Count, using one of those charming diminutives which give so much grace to the Spanish language—'you love me, I know; why prelong what your poets and ours would call my martyrdom? You are a widow, and independent. What withholds you? Can it be your child? You know I love that sweet creature; and besides, mothers-in-law are alone to be feared; fathers never are. I love, and cannot be happy a single moment without you; and you must know, that to love you, and see you as often as I do, are things which must be obnoxious to your reputation.'

She blushed, and smiled, as though partially in disdain.

'Shall I shut my door on you?' said she.

'No, Ia; I ask to marry—'

The Countess took up a guitar, and played awhile; after which, throwing the instrument aside, she passed her delicate fingers through a string of castanets, and agitated them.

'Let us speak about something else,' said she, at last. 'Pray yield in this; you will oblige me. Isabella! Isabella! (addressing herself to the child) go and play in another room; you make too much noise. My friend,' said she again, 'these castanets—that guitar—have reminded me of Madrid, and of a story. It rains; we cannot to-day walk on the Allees de Tourny. I will tell it you. What say you?'

This mode of deferring her answer did not please the Count; but there was something so sweet in the voice of the Countess, something so attractive in her manner, that he submitted, and the young lady began thus:—

'There lived in Madrid, about four years ago, a government contractor, whose fortune was so large that his only daughter was the best match in the city. Dolores was also very beautiful.—A young cavalier—one of the flowers of the Spanish nobility, Don Antonio de Villa Real—fell deeply in love with her. I will not enumerate all the means he employed to make himself beloved by her; enough that she was not backward in returning his affection. The period of marriage was fixed and celebrated at Villa Real's own palace. The night was already advanced; Dolores had been led to the nuptial chamber, where her maids, after having taken off her rich vestments, and having put in their cases her rubies and diamonds, were dressing her in the night robe, when the door was abruptly opened, and every voice exclaimed—'Stop, Don Antonio! the bride is not yet in bed!'

'Alas! it was not Villa Real who entered: it was La Esmeralda, the premiere danseuse of Madrid. She was young, beautiful, (a dark beauty,) and capable of all the devotion and tenderness of love—a disinterested love, which requires but return of the sentiment. Woe, nevertheless, to him who deceives such an one. Your danseuses usually console themselves, and sometimes forgive; but ours invariably revenge injuries. Fancy this fond and ardent young woman, with her hair in disorder, her face wildly pallid, her eyes sparkling with fever and anger, and carrying in her arms, a child less than three months old, which, with extended arms and tears, implored its mother's breast!

'Esmeralda,' cried Dolores, who knew her, 'I am the bride! I am the Dona! and thou shalt have solid proof of my friendship.'

''It is you,' asked the danseuse, 'whom he marries!'

''That he has married, Esmeralda! But wherefore this visit, at such an hour?'

''The traitor!' said Esmeralda. 'Look at this child—it is his own! It is our child!' she added, sobbing violently. 'If you knew with what art he seduced me! if you knew how many oaths of love he made! I required nothing, I only asked to see him! He told me I should be his wife, that he never would forsake Esmeralda; I believed him. It was impossible to hide my shame from my mother; and he then behaved as a Castilian nobleman ought,—went to my mother, pacified my old father, renewed his oaths, and I was happy once more. Two months ago, when my child was born, he spent three days near my bed, without leaving me one moment. But the traitor loved you even then! I did not suspect that he was but near me to deceive me the better!'

''God forbid! God forbid!' exclaimed she, throwing herself back. 'Only this day—two hours ago—I heard he was married. I have seen the priest who united you. I had a wish to kill him—I abandoned myself to desperate thoughts; but I have prayed the Virgin and all the saints to aid me; I have embraced my child, and my anger has been calmed. Poor dear! what would have become of him? the father killed,—the mother dead! Take care of him; be his mother. if, after such a treacherous act, you can love Don Antonio, do so,—you will not find Esmeralda in your way. But by all the saints of heaven,—by that Virgin who, young and innocent as I was, abandoned me to a traitor, take care of my son!'

'At that moment there were three or four light knocks at the door; it was Don Antonio.

''Dolores! soul of my life! precious flower of my existence! open to your husband—to the man who so deeply loves you! Maria, Isolina, Seraphina, come, ladies, how long you are with the Countess!'

''Open not the door!' said Dolores, sternly.

'During Don Antonio's first words, Esmeralda had extended herself on an arm chair, and the child slipped from her knees on those of Dolores.

''Thou shalt not leave me, my child!' said the bride. 'Oh God! she is fainting away! help, help! for Heaven's sake!'

'The child was taken care of; the mother undressed and placed in the nuptial bed.

''Esmeralda,' said the bride, leaning over her, 'I have seen enough of him; you are not the only one he has deceived.'

''Do you find yourself ill, madam?' asked Antonio from without: and receiving no answer he returned to the ball-room.

'Esmeralda was expiring; a few minutes more, and the nuptial bed would contain a corpse; the unhappy wretch had poisoned herself. Dolores, leaning over her, wiped with her handkerchief the cold perspiration and the rime which covered her lips, her breath becoming shorter every moment.

"I told you, you would not find me in your way," said she, concentrating her strength, "I knew that I should die in his bed."

[illegible] ter!"

"You know the curiosity with which, at a Spanish wedding, people remark the most trifling incidents concerning the ceremony; they watch narrowly the moment when the bride leaves the ball-room, and the time for the spouse to join her. Don Antonio had been followed—some of the curious had seen him refused at the door of the nuptial chamber. The guests were laughing among themselves, and wished to know how the joke would end. The door was now wide open; the crowd precipitated itself into the room, and the first, of course, who approached the bed, was Don Antonio, who knew but too well the features of that livid face! Esmeralda was still alive; she saw her seducer, and the child's screams told but too well to those present the truth of this fearful scene.

"Miserable wretch!" said she, pointing at Antonio, "I forgive thee! but take care; my father will—must kill thee!"

"These were her last words. Ah me! in that cursed chamber were met two betrayed women, the one to die, the other to flee away forever!—When the first moments of excitement and commiseration were over, Dolores was universally inquired for; but she had gone, as well as the child. My friend, dost thou know who was that Dolores so cruelly betrayed in her first love?—''Twas I!''

"I took the child in my arms to a convent, where my father visited me next day; and we found ways and means to escape from my husband's power. He, however, never claimed me; and shortly after, I crossed over to France. It is now a year since the father of Esmeralda killed Don Antonio, as she had intimated. The child I have adopted. That child has saved me from a melancholy fate. But now, my friend, you want to marry me. I love you; but are you sure that you have not some remains of the affections of other days? Come, be sincere, and instead of marrying a widow, you shall possess an old maiden of twenty-nine."

The Count was thirty-five ere he knew the Countess; he had lived at Bordeaux, as most young men do. Rich, and good looking, he had twice had a journey to Paris to complete his education. Official affairs had sent him to Italy, where he had seen the beauties of Rome and Florence. He was not, like Don Antonio, able to swear that he had never loved before; but he could, at all events, say that he was free from any former engagement.

Ere long, he led the beautiful Dolores to the altar; and it is well authenticated, that no Esmeralda troubled the evening of their bridal.

CAPTURE OF THE ELEPHANT COLUMBUS. Yesterday we had a paragraph stating that an elephant had broken loose, killed a man, and was at large in the neighborhood of Algiers. We give below the following well written account of his capture from the New Orleans Picayune:

The Elephant Columbus. Attack on the Elephant by the Algerines—Great Consternation among the Natives—His Capture, and Arrival in this City.

On Wednesday last we spoke of the death of a young man, who was killed by an elephant in the neighborhood of Algiers on the previous day. This was the most melancholy part of the affair, as some of what followed partook of the ludicrous. After killing Crumb he got his dander up and chased his own keeper, who escaped with his life by taking refuge on a raft in the river.—His next exploit was to put his trunk under a mule, that forgot to leave his way, and place him, like certain politicians, astride the fence. He then moved on down to Algiers, in a pace much more quick than his usual gait. The shades of evening were falling, and as his huge form was seen approaching in the distance by the people of Algiers, various conjectures and opinions were formed as to what he was. One credulous old fellow said it was a black cloud which was to descend from the heavens two years before Miller's millenium; another said that it was the bones of the leviathan, which is exhibiting in this city, and that they were moved by a locomotive—he could distinctly discern through a telescope the trunk of the elephant, which he mistook for the safety-valve of a steam-engine. A Frenchman said it was an emblem of the pall that covered the bones of Napoleon as they were carried to the Hospital of the Invalides; and a negro said, "white folks might think as dey pleased, but I b'lieves it was a supernaturalized quadruped ob de African spechy."

Columbus' arrival soon dissolved their doubts, for it was not long before he reached the village. Disdaining to follow the twistings and turnings of the highway, he made a clean shoot through the country, breaking down fences and all opposition in his way, as easy as a cat would break a spider's web. They now found he was a monstrous, large, "sure enough" elephant, enraged and at large, and they felt much more terrified from his invasion than our citizens felt at the approach of the British in 1815. The round cotton bales would not stop him, and that neither beauty nor booty could arrest his career. A council of war was hurriedly held, at which it was determined that every one capable of carrying arms in the city should turn out to kill or capture the intruder.

The only debatable question was, what were the tactics to be adopted: if they met the enemy they were sure to be his instead of him being theirs. It was therefore concluded that the warfare should be conducted on Guerilla principles, now advancing and now retiring, as policy and prudence dictated. The plans of attack were conducted by a French corporal of the Imperial Guards, who pursued the British in their retreat from Corunna, and the retreat was covered by a countryman of his who was one of the ill-starred expedition to Moscow. They sallied out armed and equipped, sometimes chasing the elephant, and sometimes being chased by him, discharging their rifle balls at him when they could, and frequently by a mere hair breadth 'scape saving their lives from his fury. This skirmishing or running fight was continued till they drove him down the river some eight miles. He turned and pursued them up again, exposed to their fire whenever they got a chance to discharge their pieces at him. He again passed up through Algiers, and at length, fatigued from the exertions he had made, and loss of blood, he was driven into a yard and chained by his keeper.

[illegible] served me well and several parts of his body, but not one of them did him any serious injury. The Algerines gave three shouts of triumph and went home. Columbus was brought to this city on board the ferry boat last evening, and will be exhibited to-day.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE!

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection through, whilst it is evident that Poor Roads Weather!! and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon; and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

WEDNESDAY MORNING, March 10, 1841.

OURSELVES. We present our readers this morning with the first number of the fourth volume of the Baltimore Clipper, for which occasion we have procured a new and appropriate head for the paper, executed in handsome style by Mr. C. T. Hinckley, engraver on wood, who has a room in the office. We have adopted the Maryland Coat of Arms, as significant of our attachment to our native State, and of the increase and multiplication of patronage which has been kindly extended to us. The Clipper has a list of patrons that will compare with any other paper in this city for numbers and respectability—and it shall be our pride and pleasure to render the paper worthy of public approbation. It is conducted upon independent principles,

"Unaw'd by influence and unbrib'd by gain;"

Delighting at all times to bestow merited praise, but not afraid to censure whatever or whoever may deserve condemnation: dealing justly towards all, but scorning to call things by other than their right names.

Persons residing in the country who may have occasion for wood engravings, will be promptly furnished, by forwarding designs to Mr. Hinckley, at this office.

WEBB'S CAMPHINE LIGHT. As these are times when economy should be practised, we have made the experiment of using Camphine Light instead of Gas Light, and find it a saving of about two-thirds of the expense, whilst it furnishes us with a soft and brilliant light. We doubted whether the Camphine Light could be advantageously used in a printing office, but are now convinced of its superiority over Gas light, independent of the immense difference in expense. It is perfectly safe and requires little care or trouble.

We refer the reader to the advertisement of the agent, in to-day's paper, and would recommend tavern keepers, store keepers and others, who require steady and brilliant light, to make trial of the Camphine, and we are satisfied that they will be pleased with the experiment.

EDITORIAL DINNER. We like to help our editorial brethren along, and are, therefore, glad to herald their distinction. We are assured that some of them made eloquent and statesman-like addresses at the recent dinner in Washington, and regret that the National Intelligencer omitted to report them for public edification. Baltimore was nearly as well represented in this line as in eating and drinking; and we rejoice to learn that one of her typographical Representatives amused, instructed, and delighted his auditors for about half an hour. The egotism of claiming the whole merit of the whig victory in Maryland, was compensated by the wonderful display of eloquence, wit, humor, and classical taste which abounded in his speech.

"He scarce could ope
His mouth, but out there flew a trope."

He supposed that it was enough to have proved himself the lion in battle, without being offered up as the sacrificial lamb. He thought that he deserved a more distinguished post, office being the just reward of his merits. Men of superior abilities naturally feel self-confidence, which ignorant persons sometimes mistake for assurance; but the orator of whom we speak, is too unassuming to be suspected of arrogance; nor would he trumpet his own praises beyond their dessert.—From his fertile brain and brilliant imagination, we should as soon suspect him of an act of deliberate treachery, as of being deficient, at a pinch, for "thoughts that breathe, and words that burn," either in speech or print. We wish that he had omitted that part of his address that charged the whig party with ingratitude; but suppose that his indignant feelings resembled those of the man at the battle of North Point, who exclaimed against our troops for leaving him to do all the fighting—they could not be restrained; and he disdained concealment where his honor was touched.

He is said to be extremely happy in off-hand discussion, as none of the speakers could furnish a quid, without his being ready with a quo. We are happy to give this able writer and eloquent speaker a lift towards immortality.

WASHINGTON, March 9, 1841.

In the Senate to-day, the consideration of the resolution for the dismissal of Blair & Rives, as printers, was resumed. In the course of the debate, Mr. Clay thought proper to make some rather pointed remarks in relation to the personal character of Mr. Blair. On this, Mr. King rose, and, pointing towards Mr. Clay, said the character of Mr. Blair was as good as that of the Senator. Mr. Clay replied, that the man who would say so was guilty of a falsehood, and a coward, or words to that effect. Mr. King said he had nothing more to say, but took his seat and wrote a note, which was handed to Mr. Clay.—An answer was returned by the latter, and, without taking the question on the resolution, the Senate almost immediately adjourned.

FIRE. The fire yesterday morning, about 2 o'clock, originated in a house at the corner of Wilk and Spring streets, on the Point. The house was occupied by a man named Luckey Barrey. It was entirely consumed, together with its contents. One house adjoining was also burnt down, besides two other small buildings in the immediate neighborhood being considerably injured. A boy named George Adams met with a severe accident during the excitement.

FACTOR'S LAW. There are always two sides to a question. The bill requiring factors to pay $30 per annum license, and 30 cents per $100 for all goods sold belonging to persons out of the state of Maryland, has, as was to have been expected, excited some feeling among those whom it will particularly affect. But the bill is not to be considered in relation to individual interests alone, but as it may affect the general prosperity of the city. We think that it requires modification in one particular: the products of the soil should be exempted from its operation. With this amendment, it is at least questionable whether it will prove more injurious than beneficial to the community. A large portion of the goods which would be taxed under the bill, come into direct competition with the productions of our own mechanics and manufacturers, most of whom have to contribute to the support of government. The factor sells goods to an immense amount annually not belonging to citizens of this state.—The sale of these goods interferes prejudicially with the domestic industry of the city, and contributes nothing towards sustaining the state government. The factor pays a small license, but, unless he have real property, this is the extent of his contribution to the expenses of the state. It is certain that, unless the Legislature adopt some mode to raise a revenue indirectly, there will be a disproportionate burthen imposed upon real estate. Indirect taxes should not be levied upon articles which give employment to our rail roads and other works of internal improvement, or which tend to advance the general interests of the city.

We throw out these suggestions that the entire subject may be duly considered by all classes of society. We do not profess to be well acquainted with the effect which would be produced by the passage of the bill, and therefore desire to call the attention of those whom it may interest to the matter. It might be well for the mechanics and manufacturers to hold a public meeting to consult on the subject, and determine as to the policy which should be pursued. Our observations are not made in a spirit of hostility to factors, for we feel none; but the state exacts a license and duty from auctioneers, and it is questionable whether factors should not be placed on the same footing. A heavy tax will be required, and justice demands that the burthen shall be as equitably distributed as possible.

MEETING OF THE MERCHANTS AT THE EXCHANGE. Yesterday, at the hour appointed, and in obedience to a call in the morning papers, a number of merchants and traders met at the Exchange, for the purpose of taking into consideration a bill introduced into the legislature of this state, entitled, "A further supplement to an Act to regulate sales by public auction." On motion, Mr. Joseph P. Grant was appointed to the chair, and Mr. Charles R. Pearce secretary.

A committee of three, consisting of Messrs. John Wilson, John Landstreet, and John Boggs, were appointed to draft such resolutions as would express the sentiments of the merchants in relation to the bill now pending before the legislature. The following resolutions were reported,

Resolved, That, in the opinion of this meeting, said law (if not unconstitutional) will, if enacted, prove greatly injurious to the commercial and trading prosperity of this city and state.

Resolved, That its operation would be unequal and oppressive, and would strike fatally at the interests of this city by diverting its trade to rival cities, in adjoining states.

Resolved, That it would greatly discourage, if not entirely drive from our community, many of our young, active, and enterprising men of business, of moderate capital, from which class we must look, in a great degree, for the future prosperity of our city and state.

Resolved, That a committee of twelve be appointed by the chair to present these resolutions to our legislature, and use all proper exertions to carry into effect the object of this meeting.

The following gentlemen were then appointed to constitute the committee: Hugh Birckhead, Wm. G. Harrison, Alex. L. Boggs, Jno. R. Conway, John Clark, Saml. K. George, Jacob Meixsell, Thomas Wilson, John Landstreet, Samuel Jones, jr. C. D. Hinks, and Samuel D. Walker.

SMALL NOTES. An attempt is about to be made in the legislature of this state, to authorize banks out of the city of Baltimore to issue small notes. This would be a remedy for present grievances with a vengeance. Such small notes would soon find their way to Baltimore, and add to the present confusion. They would not be received in the banks, because, if the banks refuse rail road notes, which are known to be safe, they would hardly take the small notes of distant banks. We should thus have an increase of depreciated currency. We are tired of this patching, patching. We object to any bank being authorized to issue small notes; and, indeed, we think that it would be as well if some of the banks would issue no notes at all. The currency has, somehow or other, got into an unhealthy state, and must undergo purgation, to be restored to a sound condition. The late President endeavored to sever the government from the banks; and we think that a severance of the banks from the brokers, is equally as much needed. The action of the two is like placing the people between the upper and nether millstone. It is grinding, grinding, let them turn which way they will. But, not content with the "pound of flesh," they will take life also, unless there be a firm resistance. Small notes—we want no more of them. The people are already pressed until they are gasping, and here is a proposition to give the screw another turn. Let it be groaned out of existence.

FIRE. A fire broke out on Saturday morning in N. York at half past 3 o'clock, in the extensive packing establishment of Thomas Gardner, No. 252 Washington-st. The building, together with a large quantity of pork, was destroyed. Loss $5,000, upon which there was no insurance.

SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

MONDAY, March 8, 1841.

Mr. Merrick moved to take up the resolution submitted on Saturday, relative to going into the election of Sergeant-at-Arms and Doorkeeper.

The motion was opposed by Messrs. Buchanan, King, Sevier, Benton, Wright, and others, and advocated by Messrs. Merrick, Mangum, Smith, of Indiana, and Clay.

Mr. Benton moved to postpone the further consideration of the subject until the second Monday of the Twenty-seventh Congress; on which motion he asked the yeas and nays, which were taken, as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Allen, Benton, Buchanan, Calhoun, Clay, of Alabama, Cuthbert, Fulton, King, Linn, McRoberts, Nicholson, Sevier, Smith, of Connecticut, Sturgeon, Tappan, Walker, Williams, Woodbury, Wright, Young—20.

Nays—Messrs. Archer, Barrow, Bates, Bayard, Berrien, Choate, Clay, of Kentucky, Clayton, Dixon, Evans, Henderson, Huntington, Kerr, Mangum, Merrick, Miller, Morehead, Porter, Preston, Rives, Simmons, Smith, of Indiana, Southard, Tallmadge, White, Woodbridge—26.

The question having been taken on the adoption of the resolution, (modified so as to read "on Monday the 8th March, at 1 o'clock,") it was decided in the affirmative, as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Archer, Barrow, Bates, Bayard, Berrien, Choate, Clay, of Kentucky, Clayton, Dixon, Evans, Henderson, Huntington, Kerr, Mangum, Merrick, Miller, Morehead, Porter, Preston, Rives, Simmons, Smith, of Indiana, Southard, Tallmadge, Woodbridge, White—26.

Nays—Messrs. Allen, Benton, Buchanan, Calhoun, Clay, of Alabama, Cuthbert, Fulton, King, Linn, McRoberts, Nicholson, Sevier, Smith of Connecticut, Sturgeon, Tappan, Walker, Woodbury, Wright, Young—19.

The Senate then proceeded to ballot for Sergeant-at-Arms and Doorkeeper, when there were forty-six ballots thrown—necessary to a choice 24.

For Edward Dyer	- -	26
For Robert Bealle	- -	20

Mr. Dyer having been declared duly elected, was sworn in, and entered upon the duties of his office.

Mr. Mangum then moved to take up the following resolution, submitted by him on Thursday last.

Resolved, That Blair & Rives be dismissed as Printers to the Senate for the Twenty-Seventh Congress.

On this motion a debate of more than usual animation ensued, in which Messrs. Buchanan, Wright, Merrick, Bayard, Benton, Clay, Walker, and others participated.

Mr. Huntington rose at half past three o'clock to address the Senate, but, from the lateness of the hour, simply moved an adjournment, which motion prevailing, he will occupy the floor to-morrow.

THE NORTH EASTERN BOUNDARY. A report made by a committee of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, on the North Eastern Boundary Question has been unanimously adopted by that body. It completely annuls the famous report of Messrs. Mudge and Featherstonhaugh, and concludes with a series of very distinct resolutions.

These resolutions declare the right of the State of Maine, to the territory in question, and their determination in assisting Maine to maintain her rights.

INQUEST.—Child Poisoned with Gin. We learn by the N. York Sun, that on Sunday an inquest was held at 65 Marion-st. on the body of Ellen McElroy, aged 9 years, who died from intoxication by drinking a large quantity of gin. It appeared that a Mrs. Cregan, in the neighborhood, had very imprudently given the child about half a glass full of gin, and the little girl, being thus intoxicated, took occasion, in the absence of Mrs. Cregan, to help herself to a tumbler full of the poison, which she drained to the bottom.

SOMETHING NEW. The Utica Observer says that a new article for stuffing cushions, sofas, mattrasses, &c. has been lately manufactured in that city. It is made of common bass wood, cut into fine threads, and appropriately curled for that purpose. It is light and soft, and resembles a fleece of coarse wool; can be produced with great rapidity, and at a less cost than the cheapest of other articles now in use.

IMPOSITION. Some of the Boston newsboys in the streets on Saturday, were busily employed in selling, for General Harrison's Inaugural address, the Inaugural speech of Thomas Jefferson, to which was appended the signature of Wm. H. Harrison. The sheet purported to be "The Ledger Extra." The hoax was soon discovered, and an end was put to the vile imposition by the proper authorities.

FRONT STREET THEATRE. Notwithstanding the strong opposition, Mr. Ward is doing admirably. Booth is drawing full houses. The drama seems to be taking a new start in our city. "There is a tide in the affairs of men," so is there in the drama, and "when taken at the ebb leads on to fortune." The reader is referred to bills and advertisement for special information. Last night Front street spoke for herself.

THE NAIAD QUEEN. To attempt a description of this splendid spectacle would baffle our pen as much as its superlative grandeur has dazzled our eyes. It is drawing immense audiences. Last night the house, fore and aft, from pit to gallery was crowded. Old Holliday is coming up. We must therefore congratulate Mr. Walton.

FIRE. Between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in a carpenter's shop, in Lombard street, near Charles street, which destroyed the two frame houses on either side. The lateness of the hour prevented us from obtaining any further particulars.

COUNTERFEITERS CAUGHT. At Boston, on Thursday, a young man named Silas Day, who has been driving a successful business in that city in passing counterfeit money, was arrested, and $200 in counterfeit bills on various banks was found in his possession.

The Odd Fellows of Philadelphia are getting up a grand Ball, which will take place at the Musical Fund Hall, on the evening of the 25th instant.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

ANNAPOLIS, March 8, 1841.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. Mr. Orrick presented petitions of sundry citizens, praying the passage of an act interdicting the issuing of licences for the sale of intoxicating liquors, when a majority of the voters in any City, County, Ward or District are opposed to it.

Mr. Legrand made a favorable report upon the bill from the Senate, "relating to the removal of Criminal cases from Baltimore City Court," which was passed and sent to the Senate.

Mr. E. A. Lynch submitted an order, that the bill for the completion of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to Cumberland shall be the standing order of the House in the afternoon session from the hour of five o'clock until the same be disposed of. The House refused to adopt said order by a vote of 38 to 29.

Mr. Weast reported a Bill to authorise the Incorporated Banks of this State, out of the City of Baltimore, to issue small notes for a limited time—ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Jones, of Somerset, from the Committee on Ways and Means, to which were referred the amendments proposed by the Senate, to the bill reported by Mr. Gallagher, supplementary to an act, to vest certain powers in the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, &c. asked that said Committee be discharged from its further consideration. Concurred in.

Mr. Tuck, seconded by two other members, that voted in the majority, moved to reconsider the vote upon the order submitted by Mr. E. A Lynch in relation to the bill for the completion of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to Cumberland. The House agreed to reconsider by a vote of 38 to 25, but refused to suspend the rule and take up said order now.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the tax bill. Mr. Lecompte has offered a substitute for the 1st section. I am inclined to think that the bill is to undergo a second revision, and if such be the case the time spent in committee of the whole, was unnecessarily consumed.

SENATE. A bill was reported, relieving the Banks from the penalties of suspension, which passed, yeas 13, nays 8.

The resolutions in relation to the North Eastern Boundary, were unanimously assented to.

The bill to prevent the collection of excessive wharfage in Baltimore was passed, ayes 16, nays 2.

The bill repealing the act prescribing general regulations for the incorporation of Mining and Manufacturing Companies was rejected.

CITY COUNCIL.

FIRST BRANCH, March 9. The Branch met pursuant to adjournment. Present, H. Snyder, president, and all the members except Mr. Dryden.

Mr. Bender presented the petition of John Mittan, asking a special appropriation for services rendered the city in attending to the Richmond market. Referred to joint committee on claims.

Mr. Pinkney presented the petition of William Wallace, praying a remuneration for services rendered the city authorities, which was referred to the committee on claims.

Mr. Pinkney, of the joint committee on claims, presented a report and resolution on the petition of Messrs. Bull & Tuttle, relative to claims for advertising. The report was favorable, authorising the City Register to pay said claim.

The joint committee on claims presented an unfavorable report on the petition of Thomas Hodgkins, for killing mad dogs. Mr. Peregoy offered a substitute to the report favorable to the dog catcher, which was, after much argument, passed.

Mr. Pinkney presented the petition of Richard D. Lowman, which was referred to committee on claims.

Mr. Dallam reported an ordinance supplemental to an ordinance relating to the appointment of city collector. Referred to joint select committee on that portion of the Mayor's communication relating to taxes.

A communication was received from the Mayor informing the councils that he had approved and signed the ordinance providing for the division of the city into fourteen wards. This bill underwent a few trifling amendments in the Second Branch, but not materially differing from the ordinance as first reported by the committee.

Mr. Gorsuch called up bill No. 26, relative to the appointment of two additional police officers, which was passed.

Bill No. 26 was returned from the Second Branch, endorsed amended and will pass.

The resolution relative to the petition of Mr. George Suter to build a slaughter house, was called up by Mr. Gorsuch. The resolution was lost.

The branch adjourned until to-morrow afternoon at half-past 3 o'clock.

THE END OF THE WORLD. Rev. Mr. Miller is delivering another course of Lectures in Boston. The Journal states that if the lecturer's views are correct, he will never have an opportunity to deliver another course. The world will not last long enough for him.

☞ The Rev. George Cookman, chaplain to the Senate of the United States, has been appointed a delegate from the American Bible Society, to represent that body at the next anniversary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, in May next.

MONEY MATTERS AT NEW ORLEANS. At N. Orleans on the 23d, specie was at 3¼a4 per cent. premium, exchange on Philadelphia at par; U. S. Bank notes 8¼a10 per cent. dis., U. S. Treasury notes 3¼a4 per cent. premium.

EXCITEMENT. The election of members in the United Parliament takes place this month in the Canadas. There is some excitement in consequence thereof.

The Philadelphia Inquirer says the name of General Scott is suggested as a Special Minister to England to settle the Boundary difficulties—especially as Mr. Clay cannot be spared from home.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS.

Balance in the treasury, 31st Dec. 1840,		$1,901 63
From arrearages of direct tax,	120,000 00
For licenses granted by the city,	11,000 00
For licenses granted by the city court to keepers of ordinaries,	10,600 00
Tonnage and wharfage from harbor master, exclusive of commission,	18,000 00
Fees returned by the clerk and crier of the city court,	3,050 00
Theatrical performances,	1,400 00
Market rents,	16,000 00
Quarantine permits,	2,000 00
Dividends on turnpike road stocks,	673 00
Storage of gunpowder,	1,000 00

Interest refunded by steam tow boat company on $25,000,	1,500 00
Estimated receipt from $50,000 state of Md. 6 per cent. stock,	46,500 00
	$247,924 63
Balance to be provided for,	$147,532 15
A tax of 32 cents on the $100, upon $53,316,323, will produce	$170,612 23

The committee regret that they are not able to present a more favorable aspect of the finances of the city. After making the most liberal allowance as to the probable amount which will be received from arrearages of taxes, and from the ordinary sources of revenue to the city, and after increasing the permanent debt of the city by a sale of $50,000 of State of Maryland stock, which was given to the city in exchange for an equal amount of her own stock loaned to the Susquehanna Rail Road Company, the levy upon the property of the city, subject to direct taxation will be ninety cents in the $100.

If the expectations of the president and directors of our internal improvement companies are realized in two or three years, the city will receive a revenue from her investments, which will not only relieve her from a large portion of her present burthens, but will add greatly to the value of the real estate held by the city, as well as the property of her citizens by the inducements offered to persons disposed to trade with her, in the rapidity and cheapness attending the forwarding their produce to market, and sending home the articles they may think proper to purchase.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

DANIEL BENDER,
CHARLES M. KEYSER,
JAMES FIELDS,
Committee First Branch.
JOHN S. GITTINGS,
SAM'L. JONES, Jr.
W. J. WIGHT,
Committee Sec'd Branch.

AN APPEASE. Whatever be the opposition which success encounters—whatever be the malevolence which merit awakens, the fact of Goodwane's triumph in his peculiar department, if not unquestioned, is beyond doubt unquestionable.

Malignant rivals may misrepresent, and sectional jealousy wrest and pervert the best and purest intentions, but the professional knowledge and integrity, and consummate ovation of the present system of penmanship, have been too long confessed to require any labored eulogy from friends, or any advocacy against interested opponents.

The hour has been when firemen might avail:

Triumphant wish to be: and, whate'er betide,
Still to my own true knowledge true, I'll rest

Petersburg, February 17, 1841.

Mr. Booz: Sir—Having a severe pain in my breast, and a most troublesome cough for the last 3 months, I used a great many medicines without finding any relief. I was induced to try your Compound Syrup of Horehound—before I had used the second bottle, my cough had entirely ceased, and now I feel quite well both of the pain and cough. Yours respectfully,
GEORGE G. BARNUM.

P. S. Send me fifty bottles.

Baltimore, February 26, 1841.

Mr. Booz: Sir—Having used your compound Syrup of Horehound with the greatest success, I do sincerely believe it to be the best remedy for a cough or cold now in use. Yours respectfully,

ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAIL ROAD.

PROPOSALS are invited for the following described MATERIALS to be used in the construction of the Railway Track between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland:

Sawed Lumber for Under-sills and String-pieces.

54,583 sticks of Scantling, 4½x8 inches, and 20 ft. long, clear of stump shot, containing 2,275,000 feet, board measure.

Making together, 6,000,000 feet.

Hewn Timber for Ties and Blocks.

105,600 sticks, hewn flat on two opposite sides, to a thickness of 6½ inches, and width of 6 inches, and 7 feet long.
30,800 sticks, flattened in same manner to a thickness of three inches—width and length same as the preceding.

Cast Iron for Chairs and Plates.

52,800 Middle do do 4 do 211,000

Total lbs. cast iron, 765,000 lbs.

Wrought Iron for Fastenings.

105,600 screw-bolts, 7½ inches long, and ¾ in diam. wt 1 lb. each, 105,600
105,600 Nuts for same, (1 7-8 sq'e, 9-16 thick,) wt. ½ lb. each, 52,800
105,600 Washers, of a wedge form, 3½ inches long by 2½ wide, and ½ inch average thickness, and weighing 9 16 lb. 59,136
105,600 Plates of rolled Zinc, same length and width, and 1 16 thick, weighing 10 to the pound, 10,560
844,800 Hook-headed Spikes, 4½ inches long, 7-16 square in the shank, and weighing 4½ oz. each, 224,716

The Sawed Lumber may be of white or yellow pine, with not more than an inch of sap on two edges of the stick; free from large knots, shakes or decay of any kind. A portion of the 4½x8 scantling may be proposed for to be furnished, of white oak, under the same conditions as to quality. The points of delivery may be at Baltimore, Georgetown, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any other point upon the line of the road, and the proposal will state the places as well as times at which the Lumber will be furnished.

Proposals to whom more than one of the places just named are accessible, will separately state their prices for delivery at each; so as to allow an option to the Company in regard to them should the proposal be accepted.

The Hewn Timber, intended for the cross-ties and support-blocks, may be of white oak, rock-oak or chesnut oak, or of chesnut. It must be sound wood, and straight in one direction. If the proposer prefers delivering it in the rough state, and does not wish to undertake the hewing of it to the required dimensions he can so word his proposal, and in that case the size of the sticks must be such as to permit them, when dressed, to be of the full dimensions specified, clear of bark and axe-kerf. If the timber is cut while the bark is loose, it must be stripped off before the delivery. The delivery may be made upon any point of the line, between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland, and the points between which it will take place must be stated. There are to every mile of track 21,680 feet board measure of 4½x8, and 96,400 feet of 3x10 scantling, 1056 cross ties dressed to 4½ inches thick, and 592 dressed to 3 inches thick. Proposals will not be received for a less quantity of any of the kinds of timber, than will lay a mile of track.

The Castings for the chairs and plates will be of an easy pattern—they must be of strong and sound metal, and smoothly cast—the contractor furnishing the patterns. The screw-bolts and nuts will be of sound, tough iron and made with exactness as to the required form and size. The washers will be of bar-iron, rolled with the proper section, cut off and punched for the passage of the bolt. The zinc plates similarly made. The hook-headed spikes to be of iron of as good a quality as that of the screw bolts.

The Iron Fastenings just described may be delivered at Baltimore, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any point of the line of the road between the two latter places and the places and times of delivery will be stated in the proposals. There are to every mile of track 7656 lbs. of castings—1584 lbs. of bolts and nuts—591 lbs. of iron washers—105 lbs. of zinc plates, and 2247 lbs. of spikes. No proposal for a less quantity than will supply 10 miles will be received.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid thereon—reserving to the Company the option of paying the said four fifths in Baltimore City 6 per cent stock at par—or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to the contract.

If the materials contracted for, or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered, and no estimates or payments shall be made or on account of materials delivered before the time specified for commencing the delivery of the same. The monthly payments shall be made at the Company's offices in Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh, Virginia, at the option of the contractor, and the final payments shall be made in Baltimore. The manner and times in which the materials shall be furnished on the different parts of the line will be specifically provided for in the contracts, and particulars will be given on application to the undersigned. It will be required that about one half of the whole quantity of materials shall be delivered as early as possible between now and the 1st of December next. A model of the rail and its supports and fastenings will be ready for inspection at the Company's office in Baltimore by the 20th current. The proposals will be directed under seal to the subscriber, either at Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh—and will be received up to the 15th of March proximo. By order of the President and Directors,

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND
For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Strictures, Diabetes or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. VALLIER'S FRENCH PILL, FOR THE CURE OF SECRET DISEASES. One box of these inestimable Pills is worth all the Quack Medicines in the world.

COMMENT. If we examine the nature of the above diseases, and the situation of the parts affected, we must consider it a very important object to be able to obtain a remedy at once certain in its action, and at the same time composed of such ingredients as will prevent the possibility of discovery while using it. It is a fact well known to many, that most of the remedies offered for these diseases are composed of such nauseous drugs, as to render it almost impossible to continue their use without creating a sickness at the stomach or other unpleasant consequences. Such being the case there can be no doubt but such a remedy as Valier's French Pills, will meet the universal approbation, being entirely free from those objections; pleasant in their operation, and prompt in removing the disease. The proprietor would here remark, that the efficacy of these Pills in the disorders alluded to, are not based upon supposition; on the contrary, it is founded upon rational experience, having used them in a successful practice for upwards of two years, he feels confident of their superiority over the remedies hitherto employed.

To Dr. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT must be obvious to every one, that an Intelligence Office, when conducted under proper principles, and regulated upon an honest and equitable course, is of great convenience and utility to the citizens of a populous and thriving city like this. The subscriber, being aware of this fact, and with the knowledge that a degree of dissatisfaction has existed from the manner in which other offices of the kind have been heretofore conducted, he has therefore taken great pains to conduct his establishment in such a manner as to deserve public confidence, and be worthy of the public patronage.

PERSONS making application at this office for servants, or help of any other kind, will deposit, in advance, 50 cents each, for which they will have access to the records, properly kept for that purpose, and on which they find the names, residences, references, &c. of the servants or other help—in case that neither of them answers the desired purpose, the money will be returned. Yearly subscriptions received at $1.50 each.

AGENCY. HOUSES, FARMS, VACANT LOTS, GROUND RENTS, LANDS, &c. bought and sold on commission. SLAVES, for life or a term of years, bought or sold on commission, and the highest prices obtained. Persons having Slaves, which they wish to dispose of, will do well to apply at this office before selling.

THE WORM THAT NEVER DIETH.

The following lines were written on the night on which I signed the pledge, and became a member of the Washington Temperance Society, the first I have belonged to in Baltimore. I have since then thrown my pipe and tobacco into the fire, thus giving up the last and one of the worst of my habits; as the use of tobacco, according to Dr. Rush, is conducive to drinking, I have observed, that almost all men who use tobacco to excess, also drink ardent spirits. The only animal, besides man, that will chew tobacco, will also drink—that animal is the monkey: yet the monkey has more brain, in proportion to size, than any animal, except man. Alas! that the two wisest animals should prove themselves the greatest fools. Alas! that man should prove himself the greatest fool of all. Thank God! I have sacrificed my last habit, the use of tobacco.

They say, in Egypt's far-off clime,
There was an Asp in ancient time,
Which Cleopatra to her breast
Applied, and found that fatal rest,
Which Death to the distracted gives;
But, ah! there is a worm that lives
Upon Columbia's flowery shore,
More deadly than the Asp of yore;
More fatal than the Upas tree,
In Java's isle, or aught can be;
Not Prussic acid is more certain
To "douse the glim," and drop the curtain;
'Tis found in every lane of life,
The cause of bloodshed and of strife;
And should it bite you, Oh! 'tis sad,
Indeed it is, you go stark mad;
Your fame, your fortune and your friends
Forsake you, and then Death attends;
Cuts short your breath, and down below
Dooms you to everlasting woe.
In court and cottage, hovel, hall,
Among the great, among the small;
[P]overty and grandeur's door,
[T]he pompous and the poor,
[I]t is found—it crawls, unseen,
[C]onfirming sits with awful mien;
[D]well in pious hearts will steal,
[W]ish fancies to reveal.
[W]hen it to the pulpit go,
[S]prung its venom'd tongue of woe;
[A]nd by its dev'lish thrall undone,
[S]aint and sinner meet in one.
There is a magic in its bite
That's laughable, I own outright;
If doctor's bitten, after supping,
You'll find him soon engaged in cupping;
If 'tis the lawyer's fatal star,
You'll see him pleading at the bar;
The parson bitten, in the mind,
To spiritual things will be inclined;
The poet—Oh! God help the slur,
Becomes a sage Solomon.
This worm was in the apple given
To Eve, in her terrestrial Heaven;
It bit poor Noah in the grape,
For well we know he play'd the ape;
It bit Anacreon o'er his lyre,
Breathing the pure poetic fire;
And Alexander, great in form,
Fell by that wonder-working worm.
Oh! it hath slain more men, by far,
Than famine, pestilence and war;
The noblest, wisest of our youth,
Have perish'd by its venom'd tooth;
Reason in ruins oftimes lies,
To this dread worm a sacrifice.
Its bite produces a disease
Call'd rum-atism, if you please:
The reptile, sir, I need not name,
All know the STILLWORM's fatal fame.

DREAMING.

BY PEREGRINE PEPPERTON.

"As echo's voice returns the pleasing lay,
So is a dream the echo of a day:
The busy thoughts that round some object teem
Oft join in sleep to form the nightly theme,
Then bright ey'd fancy lifts her magic wand
While scenes unreal rise at her command."

Reader, have you an inclination to place confidence in dreams; is your mind led to believe that they predestinate events; do you rely upon the vague interpretations given them by the ignorant, as implicit truth? If so, I really pity the infatuation; yours must be alternate days of pleasure and sorrow; to-day, joy flits o'er thy brow, the sunshine of hope illumes thine eye and happiness aways its empire in thy mind: but how changed the scene to-morrow, misery is depicted upon thy countenance, melancholy seizes thy mind and solitude receives a transient votary.

Perhaps you may be a semi-believer, and rely only upon those dreams which are interpreted favorably; in this there is a preference, but here you expose your incredulity in the whole fabric, if any part is entitled to credence so must be the whole.

There certainly is a pleasurable sensation attending some dreams, but how soon does it vanish when we resume our wonted pursuits; fragments of them are recalled to the memory until at last they imperceptibly steal from the mind and are numbered among "the things that were."

The most trivial dreams may cause the greatest anguish of mind, and particularly when they assume a character similar to some real transaction which engrosses the mind in our waking hours.

The effects which sometimes ensue from the interpretations of dreams are more injurious than is generally supposed; many cases of indispositions in females (if their true origin could be discovered) are owing to this cause, and the following example, which was related to the writer as fact, will no doubt prove this position:

A love-sick miss dreamed that she was promenading in delightful groves—all was silence; a gentle zephyr wafted the air made sweet by the fragrance of lovely flowers—she was culling a bouquet—the sound of music fell upon her ear, how delightful!—in a rapture she bounded to the charming spot—she beheld a form, and confident it was her adored, embraced him and imprinted a kiss upon his rosy lips—the moon emerged from a cloud—she cast a second look at the musical gentleman and beheld in him a true representative of the sable race:—she shrieked, fainted and—awoke: her memory is now employed in retaining the dream—anxiously does she await welcome dawn of day—it arrives: she springs from her bed to the toilet and seizes the dream book—her eyes glance over the pages until she finds the desired index—she then reads—"to dream that you are walking in shady groves and view beautiful flowers—that you suddenly hear music and make advances to the spot from whence it proceeds, predicts that you will marry the performer and have six children, who will not prove very bright ornaments to society." The book fell from her hands; this was too severe a shock for her tender feelings, as the interpretation was decidedly personal; she recognised it as truth, and would not disclose it to her associates. Horrible situation—to marry a negro; amalgamation by predestination.

She would send a missive to her lover and beg him to say, if he ever was metamorphosed—if he is or was a negro; but this would prove an insult and she would not knowingly wound his feelings. What was to be done! her imagination was continually haunted by the person of the musical negro, as he appeared in the dream; she would resort to desperation—she would commit suicide, rather than marry a negro.

Poor deluded being to permit such thoughts to occupy her mind and conceal the effect when the cause could be so easily removed. Her appearance soon indicated that the worm of discontent was preying upon her mind, this attracted the notice of her mother, who insisted to have the cause disclosed; the daughter reluctantly complied, being fearful that it would also affect her mother, but her fears were soon suppressed. Duty and inclination dictated to her mother a course which would quiet her daughter's mind and remove forever the idle chimera already implanted there; and who, that has seen a mother's kindly influence exerted for her child—who, that has beheld her affection clinging to it in every condition of life—who will doubt but every word of her salutary advice, flowing as it did from the veins of maternal love, acted as a balm to the wounded mind and finally eradicated the disease. It was so—

"The joys of youth and health her eyes display'd,

And now, reader, I will be pleased to relate a flight of my own imagination while wrapped in the arms of Somnus, but if you already regret our short acquaintance and are disposed to bid me adieu, the feeling I assure you is mutual. I have told a tale as it was told to me, and this I will relate as it occurred to me.

I was labouring under a serious attack of indisposition, attended with a constant and severe fever, which of course produced restless nights. In vain did I close my eyes for sleep, a drowsiness would come over me, but from the intense agony I was suffering, it would soon depart. In this situation I remained for three days and nights, the fourth night the fever had partially subsided; I appreciated this as a kind favor, and if real gratitude ever inhabited a heart, it had then found a heritage in mine; I attempted to return thanks to the most-high for this better change of my condition, but ere I could compass words I was in the embrace of and during the night dreamed as follows:—

Methought I was married and that my wife had died suddenly—that I had entered a room to attend her obsequies and part with her forever; a violent shudder now agitated my entire frame, had it been caused by an actual occurrence, its shock could not have been more sensibly felt. Methought I heard the minister repeat in an awful tone the ceremony for the dead, and while all were engaged in prayer I advanced towards the coffin—as I passed the window I inadvertently cast my eyes to the clouds, even, thought I, they are hung in mourning, they mingle their grief with mine—silently did I gaze upon that countenance still lovely in death; I was wrapped in a complete reverie. A person now approached and informed me, he wished to close the coffin, with my hand I beckoned him away. Now came the time which caused the heart to bleed, which made the very soul sink within me—to take the last fond look, the last farewell; my God, exclaimed I, can it be! 'tis even so;—no more will that form now cold in death receive the partner of her bosom, as she was wont, [with the cheering smile, the confiding look and pleasing converse—no more will these cheeks, once ruddy with the bloom of health, bear the smile of affection to the heart—no more will those lips, rosy in life, now pale in death, consciously receive the fond kiss, which they would once so gladly return—no more will that voice, the cadence of which fell so sweetly upon the ear, enliven the associates of her early days; I kissed her, and exclaimed, farewell! forever,—swooned and awoke.

Zounds and murder, take this fire from my back! cried I. This was rather a severe remedy, I thought, to relieve a man who had swooned at the loss of a wife; but my good nurse soon appeared and informed me, that a blister had been applied to my back during sleep, and which, in connexion with the existing fever, was doubtless the cause of this strange hallucination of mind.

Dreams can justly be attributed to a disordered state of our physical or mental powers, and their origin can generally be traced to one of these causes or perhaps a combination of both. If, in our daily intercourse, a subject is presented, which is likely to affect our interest, our minds will naturally rest upon it; it is paramount to every other consideration, and consequently must engross both our sleeping and waking hours. We sleep, but it is still in our imagination, and probably we behold in our phantom a consummation of all that we could desire; we feel confident that it is as represented, and base our prospects upon the result, but how illusive; we awake, and it is a dream.

That, which was yesterday a supposition, has been painted to our imagination as fact, and the analogy is so striking, as to implant a doubt in our mind, that the circumstances have not actually transpired; but its origin is easily traced and our doubt is removed.

The futility of relying upon dreams, either by their reasonings, arguments or compositions, is exposed by an author in the following extract—the truth of which can doubtless be attested by every reader: "In dreams we seem to reason, to argue, to compose; and in all these circumstances, during sleep, we are highly gratified, and think that we excel. If, however, we remember our dreams, our reasonings we find to be weak, our arguments we find to be inconclusive, and our compositions trifling and absurd."

PRESENTATION OF FOREIGN MINISTERS.—The members of the Diplomatic Body, now in Washington, and accredited to the government of the United States, were received by the President yesterday, at 2 o'clock. Mr. Fox, the British Minister, on being presented by the Secretary of State, made to the President the following address:

SIR: I have the honor to address you in the name of the Diplomatic Body accredited to the United States of America. We hasten, sir, to congratulate you upon your accession to the high office of President of this Republic, which the confidence of your fellow-citizens has conferred upon you. We speak the true sentiments of our respective governments and countries, in offering this testimony of regard and respect for your person and for your station. We rejoice, sir, to have heard from your own lips, in your Inaugural Address, the declaration of a virtuous desire to promote the relations of national friendship and peace between the United States and Foreign Powers; and we are happy to recognise, in your personal character and qualities, the strongest assurance that the efforts of your Government will be faithfully directed to accomplish so wise and noble a purpose.

To this address the President of the United States made the following reply:

SIR: I receive with great pleasure the congratulations you have been pleased to offer me in the name of the distinguished diplomatic body now present, the representatives of the most powerful and polished nations with whom the Republic which has honored me with the office of its Chief Magistrate has the most intimate relations—relations which I trust no sinister event will, for ages, interrupt.

The sentiments contained in my late address to my Fellow-citizens, and to which you have been pleased to advert, are those which will continue to govern my conduct through the whole course of my administration. Lately one of the People, the undisputed sovereigns of the country, and coming immediately from amongst them, I am enabled, with confidence to say, that in thus acting I shall be sustained by their undivided approbation.

I beg leave to add, sir, that both from duty and inclination I shall omit nothing in my power to contribute to your own personal happiness and that of the friends whom, on this occasion, you represent, as long as you may continue amongst us.

The other Ministers, with their Secretaries, and the persons attached to their respective Missions, were then successively presented to the President. The Minister of Russia, we learn, was prevented from being present, by indisposition, which, we are happy to be able to say, is not serious.—Nat. Intel.

THE SUPREME COURT. For some days past we have not been enabled, owing to the bustle of the times, to lay before our readers the usual account of the daily sittings of the Supreme Court. They are all brought up, however, to-day.

The reader will perceive that yesterday the decision of the Court was rendered in the case of the United States, appellant, vs. the Amistad, &c. and that the judgment of the District Court of Connecticut in that case was affirmed in every respect, except as to sending the negroes back to Africa: they are by the decision discharged as free men.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

ANNAPOLIS, March 9, 1841.

A bill was reported supplemental to the act incorporating the Mining and Manufacturing Company of Hibernia.

A bill was reported supplemental to the act to authorise the New Castle and French Town Turnpike Company to make a Rail Road from French Town on Elk River in a direction towards New Castle.

The resolutions for limiting the Presidential Service to a single term were adopted.

The majority of the select Committee made a favorable report upon the resolutions for an extra session. The resolutions were, however, rejected, yeas 9, nays 9.

The resolution in favor of the Medical Faculty of the University of Maryland was adopted, yeas 10, nays 9.

The Senate remained in session quite late yesterday evening.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. Mr. Weast presented the petition of sundry citizens of Washington County, praying that the Banks of this State may be allowed to issue small notes.

The bill from the Senate, to amend the Constitution of Maryland; and also the bill relating to the administration of justice, were severally passed and returned to the Senate.

The Clerk of the Senate returned the supplement to the act for taking testimony in all applications for divorce.

The House resumed the consideration of the bill from the Committee on ways and means, for the general valuation and assessment of property in this State, and to provide a tax to pay the debts of the State.

To-morrow is the day appointed for ending the session, and the House as yet have not advanced further in the consideration of the above bill than the 2d or 3rd section. It seems destined to undergo, in the House, a second and equally as rigid scrutiny as when it was under consideration in committee of the whole.

SENATE. P. S. The Senate have just re-considered and passed by a vote of 12 to 8, the resolution for an extra session, to be held any time after the 15th of April.

The resolution relative to the ground rent on the State Tobacco Warehouses No. 3 and 4, was passed.

The supplement to the charter of the Mining and Manufacturing Company of Hibernia was passed.

ACCIDENT. By the Providence Journal, we learn that three persons were wounded, one mortally, last Thursday afternoon, at Peacedale, South Kingstown, while engaged in firing a salute. They neglected to sponge the gun after firing it, and while ramming down the cartridge it took fire, when it reached about a third the length. One of them, Elias Crumb, was so badly wounded that he expired the same evening. The other two received but slight injury.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE!

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'hsburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Fogs! Rocks Weather!! and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also Cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

THURSDAY MORNING, March 11, 1841.

RUMORS. We pay little regard to the many idle rumors of the day, which somebody has set afloat, but for which nobody will vouch. One of the reports says, that President Harrison has had to peremptorily forbid illegal payments which were being made at the treasury, by the incumbents under the late administration. Another states, that Mr. Fox, the British minister, has demanded the instant release of McLeod; and, in case of refusal, will ask for his passports. It is probable that Mr. Fox has had a correspondence with the Secretary of State on McLeod's case, in compliance with new instructions; but we disbelieve that it is of the character represented.—The opinion appears to prevail that McLeod is innocent of the offence with which he is charged. If so, his acquittal will remove this bone of contention. We have not the remotest expectation that the government of the United States will interfere, whatever may be the tone of the communications made by Mr. Fox—and knowing that the President is powerless in the business, we do not suppose that Mr. Fox will press the point.

MR. CLAY AND MR. KING. The difference which took place between these gentlemen in the Senate on Tuesday last, and the reported probability of a duel between them, created great anxiety in this city during yesterday. We hope that the matter has been amicably settled, for we are confident that the friends of the parties in Washington have made every exertion to promote a reconciliation. As far as we have learned particulars, Mr. King was certainly the aggressor, and should have the magnanimity to retract his error. This occurrence proves the wonderful and dangerous influence of party spirit, and the necessity of endeavoring to restrain it within more moderate limits. If it be not curbed the time will arrive, when party violence will compel members to "legislate with pistols in their belts." We hope, however, that the raging of the political storm will gradually subside, and calm and tranquillity be again restored.

Since the above was in type the report has been received from Washington, that by the intervention of friends the difficulties between Mr. Clay and Mr. King have been amicably arranged.

☞We have received from Francis Gallagher, Esq. the report of the select committee to whom was referred resolutions of the states of Maine, Indiana and Ohio, in relation to the North Eastern Boundary. The report is accompanied by maps of the disputed and adjacent territory, and concludes with resolutions approving the claim made by the state of Maine. We think that the report will satisfy any impartial person that the views of Great Britain on the subject are erroneous.

We have also received from John C. Legrand, Esq. "the minority report of the committee of internal improvements, on the subject of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal," for which we are indebted.

OFFICIAL NOTICE. A notice from the Department of State, dated the 8th inst. says: "Information has been received at this Department from the United States Consul at Laguayra that, by decree of the President of Venezuela, dated 9th of January, 1841, permission is granted for the free admission, or without payment of duties, of the following articles into the port of Laguayra, viz: Indian corn, beans, rice, and other edible vegetables—the permission to continue 8 months from the date of said decree."

THE BANKS. These institutions have petitioned the legislature to be relieved from the penalties incurred by their suspension of specie payments. As there will be an extra session of the legislature, we think that it would be advisable to defer action upon these petitions until that period. Thorough reformation is wanted in the banking system, and we hope that the legislature will hold on to the power it possesses until opportunity be afforded for ample investigation.

PRINTER TO THE SENATE. The Senate is still engaged in discussing the resolution to dismiss Messrs. Blair & Rives from the office of printers to the Senate. We have no doubt that the resolution will pass, as the majority seems resolved to oust them. We presume that not a single vote would be changed if the discussion were to be continued for six months; it would, therefore, save time and money to take the question at once.

FAIR AT THE MUSEUM. We are authorised to state that in consequence of the inclemency of the weather, the Fair at the Museum will continue open this evening.

CALIFORNIA. A writer in the National Intelligencer advocates the purchase by the United States of Upper and Lower California, and urges many considerations in favor of the measure.

"Events now occurring in the East (says he,) are likely to open a more extended commerce than the world ever saw, and American statesmen should be prepared to secure a just share of its benefits to the Union; and much of that commerce should be carried on straight across the Pacific to the Western shores of America, and thence inland."

The idea has been suggested by some writers, of forming a connexion between the Pacific and Atlantic oceans by means of a canal, or canals and rail-road, but the practicability of this measure has not been demonstrated although it appears plausible. It would certainly be of vast importance to the United States to have a more direct communication with India than the circuitous route around Cape Horn, and if the opinions of the writer above mentioned be correct, this can be accomplished by pursuing a direct western course. He says:

"The trade from China and the East Indies with the valley of the Mississippi would then as naturally flow from the West as the trade from Europe now does from the East. Computing time by the present regulated rate of travel by the improved modes of conveyance by land and water, Cincinnati, Louisville, and St. Louis are only three weeks apart from China by a direct western route."

We are not prepared to admit that the distance between China and our western cities would be lessened to the extent here stated; nor is it necessary that the fact shall be established to form a sufficient inducement to the purchase of the Californias. If rail road or canal communication can be effected with the Pacific in the course designated by the writer, the acquisition urged by him would be extremely desirable. But there are other considerations stated, which would have great influence in the decision of the question of purchase.

"The Government of Mexico (continues the writer) is inadequate to maintain her sway over distant provinces. She has suffered Texas to become an independent nation. The position which Texas now occupies cuts off Upper California and threatens the peninsula, but as yet she is too young to strike.

"Russia and England are now otherwise engaged. Will the United States suffer to pass without one effort an opportunity for purchase, which, if once lost, may possibly throw her back a century in commerce, and involve her in a few years in a doubtful war, not with Mexico alone, but with Mexico, Russia, and England?

"The dearest peaceful purchase is more ecomical than the cheapest war. England, Russia, and Texas, all evince a desire to occupy the coasts of the Pacific, but neither now permanently possesses them. The infancy of Texas and the present diversion of the European Powers afford an opportunity which may never again occur."

FROM MONTEVIDEO AND BUENOS AYRES. By the brig Susan, from Montevideo, Buenos Ayres papers to the 26th December have been received. The only news of importance is the account of a battle between the troops of Gov. Rosas and Gen. Lavelle, and the defeat of the latter. The battle took place on the 28th Nov. at Los Quebrachitos near Coronda, where after a conflict lasting seven hours Gen. Lavelle retreated with a loss of 1500 men killed, among the rest Col. Baltar, Toribio Talera, Captain Uriarte, Rufino Varela, &c. &c. &c., 700 prisoners, including the officers and civilians, 2 colours, 6 pieces of artillery, and a great quantity of arms, 75 carts, 5 carriages, a multitude of families, a considerable number of horses, all the baggage, correspondence, &c., captured.

DARING ROBBERY. A gang of five men recently entered the house of the Rev. Mr. Anderson, at Waterloo, U. C., and after threatening him with assassination, robbed the premises of every article of value which fell in their way, including money, watches, fowling pieces, &c. After loading themselves heavily with plunder, the whole decamped towards the Niagara river, where a boat had been kept ready for a retreat.

SANDWICH ISLAND BIBLE. The President of the Massachusetts Senate, on Thursday of last week, communicated to that body a letter from Samuel T. Armstrong, a member of the American Board of Foreign Missions, accompanied with a copy of the Bible, printed in 1838, in the Island of Oahu, one of the Sandwich Islands, in the native language of those Islands, presented by Mr. A to the Commonwealth.

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO CANAL. The City Council of Baltimore has passed, with but one dissenting vote, in each branch, the following resolutions, in relation to the contemplated appropriation to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal:

Resolved by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore, That they have observed with alarm the effort now making in the legislature to procure a further appropriation of two and a half millions of dollars to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.

Resolved, That at a moment like the present, of unparalelled financial embarrassment to the State, when she is forced to tax her utmost resources to meet the interest of the debt already existing, any addition to that debt even for objects of acknowledged general utility, would be inexpedient, hurtful to the public credit and highly injurious to the interests of property holders throughout the State, and especially in the city of Baltimore.

Resolved, That the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, being a work calculated exclusively, with the exception of a small section of the State, for the promotion of a foreign interest, which cannot be so promoted without a corresponding sacrifice of the interests of the city of Baltimore and other portions of the State, any increase of the public debt for the benefit of that work, in the present state of general alarm and embarrassment, is especially to be deprecated.

Resolved, That in view of the heavy share of the burden of the public debt which devolves to her, the city of Baltimore is called upon to remonstrate against an increase of that burden, for an object which is in direct conflict with her interests.

Resolved, That in case the legislature shall deem it expedient to make a further appropriation to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, it be respectfully urged that no such appropriation be made which shall not, at the same time, provide for the commencement and completion of the Maryland canal from Washington city to Baltimore.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to our senator and delegates in the legislature, signed by the Mayor and the Presidents of the two Branches of the City Council.

We have repeatedly advocated the course recommended in these resolutions. The State of Maryland is not at present in a condition to pursue a work requiring so large an appropriation; and if it were, its first duty would be, to make the connecting link between Baltimore and the District of Columbia. We hope that not another dollar will be applied to the continuance of the Canal to Cumberland until the whole work shall have become the property of the State. The individual stockholders, we presume, would have no objection to dispose of their unproductive stock at a moderate price, and the general government should relinquish to Maryland the stock it holds, or contribute towards the completion of the Canal. We cannot see the justice or propriety of taxing the people of Maryland exclusively for an object the benefits of which are to be equally participated in by others. In fact the taxes which will be absolutely necessary without this addition, will be as much as can be borne in this State—and, as further appropriations to the Canal can be dispensed with for the present, we hope that none will be made.

We trust that the opinions of the council as expressed in their resolutions, will have their proper influence with the members of the legislature. We are sure that they embody the sentiments of a large majority of the citizens of Baltimore, by whom a very large proportion of the taxes must be paid.

WATCH RETURNS—Eastern District, March 9. Three white men came in at 8 o'clock, soliciting lodgings. Ellen Donelly was locked up for street walking. Thomas Wilson applied for permission to repose by the stove. Zedekiah Owens applied for lodgings at the early hour of 2 A. M. Wm. Haney was locked up for assaulting Abraham League—giving security for his appearance at the City Court, he was discharged by Justice Jones.

Middle District. Thirteen colored stars were brought in for rioting, eight males and five females. Two white men solicited lodgings. A colored woman was brought in by her mistress before watch hours, and left for the Police.

Western District. Benedict Lee was again arrested for his vile habit of getting drunk and disturbing the peace. Thomas Higgins and John Pierpont, were imprisoned for similar conduct. Two loafers applied for lodgings.

John Hollingsworth and Benjamin Mahony were taken up charged with stealing from Mary Briggs ten dollars worth—committed for further examination by Squire Gorsuch.

Emily and Chas. Scott, negroes, were taken up charged with an assault and battery upon Cheesman Roberts—released on security.

Edward Cooley was committed to the Almshouse.

RIOT IN THE ROCHESTER ALMS HOUSE. On the 2d inst. the paupers who had been kept in the Rochester Alms-house all winter, now that spring is coming, "resolved to quit," first kicking up a dust. On the day mentioned, first getting their steam up by means of whiskey, they made a sortie on the keeper, whom they worsted, and the ringleaders decamped, taking all they could lay hands on.

The leaders were retaken with the property in their possession, and sent to jail.

MURDER. A negro man was murdered on Saturday night last in Richmond, by one of three notorious ruffians, named John English, Charles Cook, and Henry C. Smith, by being stabbed in the shoulder with a large knife, inflicting a wound four inches deep. The three above named per[sons] are in York co[unty] custody.

An Abaco Smack arrived last evening bringing the Captain and crew.

The weather for the last five or six days past has been remarkably cold, to much so, as to occasion the falling of the Thermometer as low as 55 degrees which at no previous period has ever been known to be lower than 59.

NASSAU, Feb. 26. The American ship Globe, F. A. Jameson master, of Bath, from New Orleans bound to Portsmouth, N. H. with a cargo of 1200 bales cotton, got on shore at Beakers Key on 17th inst.—cargo mostly saved, vessel a total wreck.

The American schooner Hope, of and from Baltimore, Jacob Galt, master, bound to Havana, with an assorted cargo, was wrecked on Sunday last the 21st inst. at Stirrups Key, Berry Islands, part of the cargo saved.

The brig Rinaldo, Parsons, from Boston, was wrecked on Eleathean about the 16th ult.—vessel and cargo lost, saved sails, rigging, &c. Crew saved and arrived at Nassau.

Seven of the crew of the ship Globe, and three of the Rinaldo's, came passengers in the Abigail & Eliza.

There is nothing later than the 17th January, of the mortality said to be prevailing at Jamaica; which, it is stated, carried off near 100 men in the 82d Regiment, with three officers.

CRIMINAL STATISTICS. During the months of January and February, the following convictions and sentences were obtained and passed by the Courts of General and Special Sessions of the city of New York, viz: Convicted and sentenced to the State Prison, 22 males and 6 females; to the Penitentiary, 72 males and six females; to the City Prison, 22 males and 10 females; and to the House of Refuge, 7 males—Total, 123 males and 25 females—or 148 in all.

GRANITE. By the recent Geological survey of the state of New York, it has been discovered that there is in that state, within fifty-five miles of New York, on the bank of the Hudson river, a sufficient quantity of granite for all building purposes, equal to that found in any other section of the country. The arch of the Croton Water Works at Sing Sing is built with the stone procured in that quarter.

An honest Dutchman said he "did not see how all de peepel got a liffen in de cetee; dey all stant or wask about, and don't work once." ANOTHER STEAMBOAT SUNK. The steamboat Renown was snagged and sunk a few days since at Moore's Bluff, on the Little Bigby river. She was on her downward passage, to Mobile, and had some cotton on board, though not a full cargo. This is the fourth boat which has been sunk in that vicinity within two weeks past.

A clever female French writer says that women should not set beside the man whom they wish to conquer, but opposite him. "Attack a heart by full front, not by profile," is her expression.

TOM HUGHES. This man, who was the slave of Mr. Dang, and who was convicted of robbing that gentleman of a large sum in the city of New York, has been liberated, his term of sentence having expired.

In Boston there were 27 deaths.

ANOTHER ROYAL PLEDGE. It was currently reported in London at the last dates, that the little princess would have a brother or sister to play with, before the expiration of the present year!

A WESTERNISM. A correspondent of the St. Louis Pennant says, he has been for a long time paying his addresses to a young lady, whom he "loves as hard as a cannon can shoot."

PHRENOLOGICAL. The wife of Mr. Cornelius Bumps, of Richmond, Va., lately presented her husband with three little bumps, all girls. He should indeed be a happy man.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE IN BANGOR. On the 4th inst. a Pattern Shop, Machine Shop and Foundry in Bangor were destroyed by fire. Loss $15,000 to $20,000. No insurance.

NAVAL. Com. Josiah Tatnall has been ordered to the command of the U. States sloop of war, Fairfield, now fitting for sea at the Navy Yard, Brooklyn.

A TEMPERATE STATE. There are two hundred and six distilleries in the State of New York, which annually produce 2,710,110 gallons of liquor.

POPE'S ESSAY ON MAN. Mr. Abijah Pope, of Juniata, has been found guilty and fined $2.20 for an assault and battery on Philemon H. Mann.

VALUE. The value of woollen goods manufactured in the State of New York the past year, is estimated to be $3,419,224.

AN ILLUMINATION. Providence, R. I., was illuminated on the evening of the 4th inst., in honor of the inauguration of General Harrison.

COMMUNICATION.

☞SPARRING. The Sparring Exhibition to come off THIS EVENING, at LUTZ'S, near the Gay street Bridge, will, I doubt not, be a splendid affair, as a considerable amount of talent is engaged for the occasion. Those who are fond of the manly art of Self-defence, will have a treat. Besides, it is for the Benefit of Mr. O'CONNELL, who has, and still is suffering from a protracted indisposition, which has rendered him, for a long time, incapable of doing any business. It is hoped this appeal to his friends will meet a warm-hearted response. [mh11-1t*] ERIN.

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a thorough overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.

Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.

Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.

Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

JNO. C. MOALE,

General Agent Baltimore Steam-Packet Company.

Passage (and fare on board) to Weldon, $14 00
Passage and fare to Richmond, 10 00

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,

AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 22 Market street, P. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

HANCE'S Compound Syrup of Horehound.

CERTIFICATE. MRS. WILLIAMS, of Petersburg, Va. caught a very severe cold last fall, and thinking it would wear off in the course of time itself, neglected it to a very great extent. Finding, however, it did not leave her, she then tried various remedies, some of which subdued the cough in a measure, but none effectually cured it.

About a month ago, her husband thought she had better try a change of air, so she came to Baltimore, where she first became acquainted with the COMPOUND SYRUP OF HOREHOUND—she first bottle produced such relief, that before she had finished it she determined to purchase two bottles and return home. Price 56 cents per bottle.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

A COUNCIL SKETCH—(BY SNAPS.)

The poet hath heard a debate in the F. B. of C. C——l, on a resolution offered by Mr. P. to remunerate Mr. H. for killing and burying thirteen mad dogs.

Sir P. arose, and gravely said,
That the dog-catcher should be paid;
He therefore would sustain the bill,
'Twas justice now and would be still.
Dogs may snarl and bark and bite,
But barking much don't make things right—
The man you all can surely see,
Has killed the dogs—and here's his plea:—
Our laws do plainly on their face,
Wage war against the canine race,
Then every pointer, bull or pup,
That strolls the streets should be used up—
Here with the rights that I've been granted,
I'll war, for justice sure is wanted.

Another P., the biggest P.,
Arose, and spake his mind quite free.
Now, hark you, Mr. President,
To me this matter has been sent;
The man I find was not employ'd
To kill the dogs he has destroy'd;
He was a common volunteer,
Who gather'd in from far and near
Bulls, pups, lap-dogs, for all that I know,
Then killed the critters for the rhino—
I therefore have his claims assailed,
And think that they should be cur-tailed.

Sir K., a liberal man is he,
And ditto is his friend Sir B.
K. thought that H. should have his dues,
And he for one would not refuse
To give the petty sum required,
For of the matter he'd grown tired.
He made a move that H. be granted
The quid pro quo his honor wanted—
B. thought his friend's a clever notion,
Arose and seconded the motion.

Sir G., a squire of much repute,
Got up and quickly followed suit;
He made a speech, perhaps the best,
His eye flash'd fire, he smote his breast,
Out rolled the words in accents free—
A mighty, mighty man is G.,
For scarcely had he said his last,
Until the self-same bill was passed.

[Reported for the Baltimore Clipper.]

CITY COUNCIL.

FIRST BRANCH, March 10. The Branch met pursuant to adjournment. Present, H. Snyder, Esq. and all the members.

Mr. Hack presented the petition of John Richter, praying for permission to erect an additional story to his house in Vine-st.; referred to joint committee on fire companies. Also, the petition of John Feast, praying for the payment of a claim against the city of $85.62 for services rendered. Referred to committee on claims.

Mr. Peregoy called up the resolution of the committee of the alms-house, inquiring for certain information from the trustees of that institution, which was passed.

Mr. Bender, of the joint committee of ways and means, submitted a report and bill, entitled a supplement to an ordinance relating to the public debt of the city. Read and laid on the table.

Mr. Bender called up bill No. 20, being an ordinance for defraying expenses of City Court, and for the city poor in the poor house of Baltimore. The bill, after being slightly amended, was passed. Bill No. 21, an ordinance to provide for paying expenses of courts, coroners, jails, &c. was also called up and passed. Bill No. 22, an ordinance to provide for the payment of expenses of public schools in Baltimore was likewise called up, amended and passed. Also, bill No. 23, an ordinance to provide for the payment of interest on taxes obtained by the city for the purpose of prosecuting internal improvements—amended and passed. Also, bill No. 24, being an ordinance to lay out and collect a direct tax for the purpose of defraying expenses of bridges and highways, which was amended and passed. Bill No. 25 was also called up, being an ordinance to lay and collect a direct tax for the purpose of defraying certain expenses of the city of Baltimore for the year 1841—amended and passed.

Mr. Hanson called up a resolution on the journal, relating to the inspection of wood, which on being read, was passed.

Bill No. 27, being an ordinance making certain appropriations for the year 1841, was called up by Mr. Bender, which, after being slightly amended, was passed.

Mr. Pinkney, of the joint committee on claims, presented a report and resolution on the petition of John Mittas, which were favorable. Mr. Holter offered a substitute requiring that $27 be paid out of the city treasury on application of the petitioner. The yeas and nays being called, caused the substitute to be lost. The previous resolution was passed.

A message was received from the Second Branch, being a report and resolution on the claims of Messrs. Bull & Tuttle. Concurred in. Also, a report relative to the Alms-house. Concurred in. Also, a concurrence in a report upon the petition of John Hodgkins, for killing mad dogs.

Mr. Keyser moved a reconsideration of the resolution relative to licensing wood hucksters.—Mr. Gorsuch opposed the reconsideration. He accused the committee, whose duty it was to report upon the subject, of cowardice. Mr. K. arose and stated that he saw nothing to make him nervous. Mr. Hanson being one of the committee also, arose and stated that he 'feared no man,' and looking very sharply at Mr. G. remarked that there was nothing in his presence so frightful. The motion to reconsider was lost. Mr. Cole offered an amendment, which was not agreed to. The question was taken upon the original bill and carried without any challenge having been passed. Pistols not called for. The coffee will be taken at the contemplated supper. On motion of Mr. Fields, the Branch adjourned until to-morrow afternoon at half past three o'clock.

A Gascon was vaunting in very bombastic style of himself, and leveling his pretensions of every other person with the utmost contempt, when a listener said 'Pray sir, what may yours be?' 'O,' replied the Gascon, 'I am but a cork cutter, but then it is in a very large way.' Indeed, replied the other, 'then I presume you are a cutter of bungs!'

 REMEMBER improvement guaranteed, and additional lessons given free of expense, say, ten, twenty or thirty, if desired. What can be fairer?

AS ADDRESS. Whatever be the opposition which success encounters—whatever be the malevolence which merit awakens, the fact of Goodwane's triumph in his peculiar department, if not unquestioned, is beyond doubt unquestionable.

Malignant rivals may misrepresent, and sectional jealousy wrest and pervert the best and purest intentions, but the professional knowledge and integrity, and consummate ovation of the present system of penmanship, have been too long confessed to require any labored eulogy from friends, or any advocacy against interested opponents.

The hour has been when foemen might avail:
That hour has passed. Triumphant have I been,
Triumphant wish to be: and, whate'er beside,
Still to my own true knowledge true, I'll rest
My cause upon my merit.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAIL ROAD.

PROPOSALS are invited for the following described MATERIALS to be used in the construction of the Railway Track between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland:

Sawed Lumber for Under-sills and String-pieces.

54,083 sticks of Scantling, 4½x8 inches, and 20 ft. long, clear of stump shot, containing 2,275,000 feet, board measure
54,000 do do 3x10 do do 3,795,000 feet,

Making together, 6,000,000 feet.

Hewn Timber for Ties and Bucks.

165,600 sticks, hewn flat on two opposite sides, to a thickness of 4½ inches, and width of 6 inches, and 7 feet long.
20,200 sticks, flattened in same manner to a thickness of three inches—width and length same as the preceding.

Cast Iron for Chairs and Plates

52,800 Joint Chairs, weighing 7½ lbs. each, 409,000 lbs.
52,800 Middle do do 4 do 211,000

Total lbs. cast iron, 765,000 lbs.

Wrought Iron for Fastenings.

105,600 Screw-bolts, 7½ inches long, and ¾ in diam. wt 1 lb. each, 105,600
105,600 Nuts for same, (1 7-8 sq're, 9-16 thick,) wt. ½ lb. each, 52,800
105,600 Washers, of a wedge form, 3½ inches long by 2½ wide, and ¼ inch average thickness, and weighing 9 16 lb. 59,136
105,600 Plates of rolled Zinc, same length and width, and 1 16 thick, weighing 10 to the pound, 10,560
844,800 Hook-headed Spikes, 4½ inches long, 7-16 square in the shank, and weighing 4½ oz. each, 224,716

The Sawed Lumber may be of white or yellow pine, with not more than an inch of sap on two edges of the stick; free from large knots, shakes or decay of any kind. A portion of the 4½x8 scantling may be proposed for to be furnished, of white oak, under the same conditions as to quality. The points of delivery may be at Baltimore, Georgetown, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any other point upon the line of the road, and the proposal will state the places as well as times at which the Lumber will be furnished.

Proposers to whom more than one of the places just named are accessible, will separately state their prices for delivery at each; so as to allow an option to the Company in regard to them should the proposal be accepted.

The hewn Timber, intended for the cross-ties and support-blocks, may be of white oak, rock-oak or chesnut oak, or of chesnut. It must be sound wood, and straight in one direction. If the proposer prefers delivering it in the rough state, and does not wish to undertake the hewing of it to the required dimensions he can so word his proposal, and in that case the size of the sticks must be such as to permit them, when hewed, to be of the full dimensions specified, clear of bark and axe-kerf. If the timber is cut while the bark is loose, it must be stripped off before the delivery. The delivery may be made upon any point of the line, between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland, and the points between which it will take place must be stated. There are to every mile of track 31,680 feet board measure of 4½x8, and 26,400 feet of 3x10 scantling, 1056 cross ties dressed to 4½ inches thick, and 302 dressed to 3 inches thick. Proposals will not be received for a less quantity of any of the kinds of timber, than will lay a mile of track.

The Castings for the chairs and plates will be of an easy pattern—they must be of strong and sound metal, and smoothly cast—the contractor furnishing the patterns. The screw bolts and nuts will be of sound, tough iron and made with exactness as to the required form and size. The washers will be of bar-iron, rolled with the proper section, cut off and punched for the passage of the bolt. The zinc plates similarly made. The hook-headed spikes to be of iron of as good a quality as that of the screw bolts.

The Iron Fastenings just described may be delivered at Baltimore, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any point of the line of the road between the two latter places and the places and times of delivery will be stated in the proposals. There are to every mile of track 7656 lbs. of castings—1584 lbs. of bolts and nuts—591 lbs. of iron washers—105 lbs. of zinc plates, and 2947 lbs. of spikes. No proposal for a less quantity than will supply 10 miles will be received.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid thereon—reserving to the Company the option of paying the said four fifths in Baltimore City 6 per cent stock at par—or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to the contract.

If the materials contracted for, or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered, and no estimates or payments shall be made or on account of materials delivered before the time specified for commencing the delivery of the same. The monthly payments shall be made at the Company's offices in Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh, Virginia, at the option of the contactor, and the final payments shall be made in Baltimore. The manner and times in which the materials shall be furnished on the different parts of the line will be specifically provided for in the contracts, and particulars will be given on application to the undersigned. It will be required that about one half of the whole quantity of materials shall be delivered as early as possible between now and the 1st of December next. A model of the rail and its supports and fastenings will be ready for inspection at the Company's office in Baltimore by the 20th current. The proposals will be directed under seal to the subscriber, either at Baltimore, Cumbertand, or Martinsburgh—and will be received up to the 15th of March proximo. By order of the President and Directors,

COMMENT. If we examine the nature of the above diseases, and the situation of the parts affected, we must consider it a very important object to be able to obtain a remedy at once certain in its action, and at the same time composed of such ingredients as will prevent the possibility of discovery while using it. It is a fact well known to many, that most of the remedies offered for these diseases are composed of such nauseous drugs, as to render it almost impossible to continue their use without creating a sickness at the stomach or other unpleasant consequences. Such being the case there can be no doubt but such a remedy as Vallier's French Pills, will meet the universal approbation, being entirely free from those objections; pleasant in their operation, and prompt in removing the disease. The proprietor would here remark, that the efficacy of these Pills in the disorders alluded to, are not based upon supposition; on the contrary, it is founded upon rational experience, having used them in a successful practice for upwards of two years, he feels confident of their superiority over the remedies hitherto employed.

VEGETABLE COUGH SYRUP. For the cure of Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Pain and Soreness in the Breast, Influenza, Consumption, Hoarseness, Difficult Breathing, Dyspepsia, and diseases of the Breast and Lungs generally.

This SYRUP is composed of Irish Moss, combined with such other articles as have been found best calculated to afford relief in the above named diseases, and in cases as approaching consumption, attended with bleeding at the lungs—and never known to fail. Common Colds, which are generally the effect of obstructed perspiration, will yield to its influence in a few hours. When used in Asthma, Hoarseness, Wheezing, Shortness of Breath, it affords immediate relief. In Whooping Cough, it is without a rival For sale by

To DR. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT must be obvious to every one, that an Intelligence Office, when conducted under proper principles, and regulated upon an honest and equitable course, is of great convenience and utility to the citizens of a populous and thriving city like this. The subscriber, being aware of this fact, and with the knowledge that a degree of dissatisfaction has existed from the manner in which other offices of the kind have been heretofore conducted, he has therefore taken great pains to conduct his establishment in such a manner as to deserve public confidence, and be worthy of the public patronage.

PERSONS making application at this office for servants, or help of any other kind, will deposit, in advance, 50 cents each, for which they will have access to the records, properly kept for that purpose, and on which they find the names, residences, references, &c. of the servants or other help—in case that neither of them answers the desired purpose, the money will be returned. Yearly subscriptions received at $1.50 each.

AGENCY. HOUSES, FARMS, VACANT LOTS, GROUND RENTS, LANDS, &c. bought and sold on commission. SLAVES, for life or a term of years, bought or sold on commission, and the highest prices obtained. Persons having slaves, which they wish to dispose of, will do well to apply at this office before selling.

MY SISTER'S GRAVE.

Dear sister, thou art sleeping there,
In all thy youthful bloom;
Yet hear, Oh! hear a brother's prayer,
Now breath'd beside thy tomb.
Thy spotless soul will soar above,
Nor longer be earth's slave;
While prayers for thee thy brother's love,
Will offer o'er thy grave.

Thy blooming virtues are imparl'd,
Where love with all accord,
And blessings of a better world,
Will be thy bright reward.
Thy tender years were free from care,
Nor anguish ever gave,
And harmless as that emblem* there,
Yet weeping o'er thy grave.

Dear sister, still thy angel form,
Appears before my sight,
In all its glowing beauty warm,
Through darkest shades of night.
I yield for thee, my sister dear,
That love kind heaven gave,
'Twas breath'd—and then a silent tear,
Fell trembling on thy grave.

THE CRAYON PAPERS.

Broek; Or, the Dutch Paradise.

BY GEOFFREY CRAYON.

It has long been a matter of discussion and controversy among the pious and the learned, as to the situation of the terrestrial paradise from whence our first parents were exiled. This question has been put to rest by certain of the faithful in Holland, who have decided in favor of the village of Broek, about six miles from Amsterdam. It may not, they observe, correspond in all respects to the description of the Garden of Eden, handed down from days of yore, but it comes nearer to their ideas of a perfect paradise than any other place on earth.

This eulogium induced me to make some inquiries as to this favored spot, in the course of a sojourn at the city of Amsterdam, and the information I procured fully justified the enthusiastic praises I had heard. The village of Broek is situated in Waterland, in the midst of the greenest and richest pastures of Holland, I may say, of Europe. These pastures are the source of its wealth, for its dairies, and for those oval cheeses which regale and perfume the whole civilized world. The population consists of about six hundred persons, comprising several families which have inhabited the place since time immemorial, and have waxed rich on the products of their meadows. They keep all their wealth among themselves; intermarrying, and keeping all strangers at a wary distance. They are a 'hard money' people, and remarkable for turning the penny the right way. It is said to have been an old rule, established by one of the primitive financiers and legislators of Broek, that no one should leave the village with more than six guilders in his pocket, or return with less than ten; a shrewd regulation, well worthy the attention of modern political economists, who are so anxious to fix the balance of trade.

What, however, renders Broek so perfect an elysium, in the eyes of all true Hollanders, is the matchless height to which the spirit of cleanliness is carried there. It amounts almost to a religion among the inhabitants, who pass the greater part of their time rubbing and scrubbing, and painting and varnishing: each housewife vies with her neighbor in her devotion to the scrubbing-brush, as zealous Catholics do in their devotion to the cross; and it is said, a notable housewife of the place in days of yore, is held in pious remembrance, and almost canonized as a saint, for having died of pure exhaustion and chagrin, in an ineffectual attempt to scour a black man white.

These particulars awakened my ardent curiosity to see a place which I pictured to myself the very fountain-head of certain hereditary habits and customs prevalent among the descendants of the original Dutch settlers of my native state. I accordingly lost no time in performing a pilgrimage to Broek.

Before I reached the place, I beheld symptoms of the tranquil character of its inhabitants. A little clump-built boat was in full sail along the lazy bosom of a canal, but its sail consisted of the blades of two paddles stood on end, while the navigator sat steering with a third paddle in the stern, crouched down like a toad, with a slouched hat drawn over his eyes. I presumed him to be some nautical lover, on the way to his mistress. After proceeding a little farther, I came in sight of the harbor or port of destination of this drowsy navigator. This was the Brocken-Meer, an artificial basin, or sheet of olive-green water, tranquil as a mill-pond. On this the village of Broek is situated, and the borders are laboriously decorated with flower-beds, box trees clipped into all kinds of ingenious shapes and fancies, and little 'lust' houses and pavillions.

I alighted outside the village, for no horse nor vehicle is permitted to enter its precincts, lest it should cause defilement of the well-scoured pavements. Shaking the dust off my feet, therefore, I prepared to enter, with due reverence and circumspection, this sanctum sanctorum of Dutch cleanliness. I entered by a narrow street, paved with yellow bricks, laid edgewise, and so clean that one might eat from them. Indeed, they were actually worn deep, not by the tread of feet, but by the friction of the scrubbing-brush.

The houses were built of wood, and all appeared to have been freshly painted, of green, yellow, and other bright colors. They were separated from each other by gardens and orchards, and stood at some little distance from the street, with wide areas or court-yards, paved in mosaic, with variegated stones, polished by frequent rubbing. The areas were divided from the street by curiously-wrought railings, or balustrades, of iron, surmounted with brass and copper balls, scoured into dazzling effulgence. The very trunks of the trees in front of the houses were by the same process made to look as if they had been varnished. The porches, doors, and window-frames of the houses were of exotic woods, curiously carved, and polished like costly furniture. The front doors are never opened, excepting on christenings, marriages, or funerals; on all ordinary occasions, visitors enter by the back door.—In former times, persons, when admitted, had to put on slippers, but this oriental ceremony is no longer insisted upon.

A poor devil Frenchman, who attended upon me as cicerone, boasted with some degree of exultation, of a triumph of his countrymen over the stern regulations of the place. During the time that Holland was overrun by the armies of the French republic, a French general, surrounded by his whole etat major, who had come from Amsterdam to view the wonders of Broek, applied for admission at one of these taboo'd portals.—The reply was, that the owner never received any one who did not come introduced by some friend. 'Very well,' said the general; 'take my compliments to your master, and tell him I will return here to-morrow with a company of soldiers, 'pour parler raison avec mon ami Hollandais.' Terrified at the idea of having a company of soldiers billeted upon him, the owner threw open his house, entertained the general and his retinue with unwonted hospitality, though it is said it cost the family a month's scrubbing and scouring, to restore all things to exact order, after this military invasion. My vagabond informant seemed to consider this one of the greatest victories of the republic.

I walked about the place in mute wonder and admiration. A dead stillness prevailed around; like that in the deserted streets of Pompeii. No sign of life was to be seen, excepting now and then a hand, and a long pipe, and an occasional puff of smoke, out of the window of some 'lust-haus' overhanging a miniature canal; and on approaching a little nearer, the periphery in profile of some robustious burgher.

Among the grand houses pointed out to me, were those of Claes Bakker, and Cornelius Bakker, richly carved and gilded, with flower-gardens and clipped shrubberies; and that of the Great Ditmus, who, my poor devil cicerone informed me, in a whisper, was worth two millions; all these were mansions shut up from the world, and only kept to be cleaned. After having been conducted from one wonder to another of the village, I was ushered by my guide into the grounds and gardens of Mynheer Broekker, another mighty cheese-manufacturer, worth eighty thousand guilders a year. I had repeatedly been struck with the similarity of all that I had seen in this amphibious little village, to the buildings and landscapes on Chinese platters and teapots; but here I found the similarity complete; for I was told that these gardens were modelled upon Van Bramm's description of those of Yuen min Yuen, in China. Here were serpentine walks, with trellised borders; winding canals, with fanciful Chinese bridges; flower beds resembling huge baskets, with the flower of 'love lies bleeding' falling over to the ground. But mostly had the fancy of Mynheer Broekker been displayed about a stagnant little lake, on which a corpulent little pinnace lay at anchor. On the border was a cottage, within which were a wooden man and woman seated at table, and a wooden dog beneath, all the size of life: on pressing a spring, the woman commenced spinning, and the dog barked furiously. On the lake were wooden swans, painted to the life, some floating, others on the nest among the rushes; while a wooden sportsman, crouched among the bushes, was preparing his gun to take deadly aim. In another part of the garden was a dominie in his clerical robes, with wig, pipe, and cocked hat; and mandarins with nodding heads, amid red lions, green tigers, and blue hares. Last of all, the heathen deities, in wood and plaster, male and female, naked and bare-faced as usual, and seeming to stare with wonder at finding themselves in such strange company.

My shabby French guide, while he pointed out all these mechanical marvels of the garden, was anxious to let me see that he had too polite a taste to be pleased with them. At every new nick-nack he would screw down his mouth, shrug up his shoulders, take a pinch of snuff, and exclaim: "Ma foi, Monsieur, ces Hollandais sont forts pour ces betises la!"

To attempt to gain admission to any of these stately abodes was out of the question, having no company of soldiers to enforce a solicitation. I was fortunate enough, however, through the aid of my guide, to make my way into the kitchen of the illustrious Ditmus, and I question whether the parlor would have proved more worthy of observation. The cook, a little wiry, hook-nosed woman, worn thin by incessant action and friction, was bustling about among her kettles and sauce-pans, with the scullion at her heels, both clattering in wooden shoes, which were as clean and white as the milk-pails; rows of vessels, of brass and copper, regiments of pewter dishes, and portly porringers, gave resplendent evidence of the intensity of their cleanliness; the very trammels and hangers in the fire-place were highly scoured, and the burnished face of the good Saint Nicholas shone forth from the iron plate of the chimney-back.

Among the decorations of the kitchen, was a printed sheet of wood-cuts, representing the various holyday customs of Holland, with explanatory rhymes. Here I was delighted to recognize the jollities of New Year's day; the festivities of Pass and Pinkster, and all the other merry-makings handed down in my native place from the earliest times of New-Amsterdam, and which had been such bright spots in the year, in my childhood. I eagerly made myself master of this precious document for a trifling consideration, and bore it off as a memento of the place; though I question if, in so doing, I did not carry off with me the whole current literature of Broek.

I must not omit to mention, that this village is the paradise of cows as well as men: indeed you would almost suppose the cow to be an object of worship here, as the bull was among the ancient Egyptians; and well does she merit it, for she is in fact the patroness of the place. The same scrupulous cleanliness, however, which pervades every thing else, is manifested in the treatment of this venerated animal. She is not permitted to perambulate the place, but in winter, when she forsakes the rich pasture, a well-built house is provided for her, well painted, and maintained in the most perfect order. Her stall is of ample dimensions; the floor is scrubbed and polished; her hide is daily curried and brushed, and sponged to her heart's content, and her tail is daintily tucked up to the ceiling, and decorated with a riband!

On my way back through the village, I passed the house of the prediger, or preacher; a very comfortable mansion, which led me to augur well of the state of religion in the village. On inquiry, I was told that for a long time the inhabitants lived in a great state of indifference as to religious matters: it was in vain that their preachers endeavored to arouse their thoughts as to a future state: the joys of heaven, as commonly depicted, were but little to their taste. At length a dominie appeared among them, who struck out in a different vein. He depicted the New Jerusalem as a place all smooth and level; with beautiful dykes, and ditches, and canals; and houses all shining with paint and varnish, and glazed tiles; and where there should never come horse, or ass, or cat, or dog, or any thing that could make noise or dirt; but there should be nothing but rubbing and scrubbing, and washing and painting, and gilding and varnishing, for ever and ever, amen! Since that time, the good housewives of Broek have all turned their faces Zion-ward.

DENSE FOG. There has been a dense fog on the coast of the Gulf of Mexico for some days. A gentleman who arrived at New Orleans in the Natchez, says: "There is a solid block of fog on the coast 40 miles deep, and so dense that no object can be discerned at a few rods' distance.—Many vessels are off the bar bound in; their bells were heard in every direction, and, in some instances, they were heard speaking with trumpets, but no one was in sight of the other.

COULDN'T AGREE. The jury in the case of W. H. Williams, indicted by the state of Louisiana, for bringing into the state 26 slaves, (purchased by him in the state of Virginia,) contrary to law, and agreements made between Virginia and Williams, could not agree, when the case was tried in New Orleans on the 27th ult.

DEATH OF DR. COLTON. It was announced to the Virginia Legislature on Tuesday last, that Dr. Colton, the delegate from Elizabeth city and Warwick, had died at his lodgings the previous night, after a long and painful illness. The House adopted the usual testimony of respect, and immediately adjourned. His funeral took place on the same evening.

FATAL DUEL. A duel was fought at New Orleans on the 21st ult. between a Frenchman and a Creole. The former was killed by the first shot.

COWHIDING. A young gentleman cowhided another in N. Orleans a few days since, while using the lash with one hand he held a pistol in the other to keep the spectators at bay, until he satisfied himself.

RECIPE FOR THE LADIES. Cream may be frozen by simply putting it into a glass vessel, and then placing the whole in an old bachelor's bosom.

☞ The Treasurer of New York had a cash balance in his hands on the 1st of January, 1841, of $174,176 08.

ARRIVAL. Fanny Elsler arrived in New Orleans on the 28th ult. by the steamship Natchez, and took apartments in the St. Charles Hotel.—She realized $20,000 for eight nights' performance, and $10,000 on the night of her benefit, at the Tacon Theatre.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.

GREAT SOUTHERN UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,

DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedules:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M. reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M. "	Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M. "	Fredricksburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M. "	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M. "	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M. "	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M. "	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M. "	Charleston at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads, Weather!! and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon; and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

FRIDAY MORNING, March 12, 1841.

THE TIMES. We are too apt, generally, to attribute our embarrassments and misfortunes to any other than the right cause. We look abroad, instead of at home. A man will make a display of silver plate, lounge on costly ottomans, and give parties which cost some three or four hundred dollars each, and yet complain of hard times and the scarcity of money. With such men, the most prosperous times would be hard; for, as they always spend more than they earn, they must necessarily be constantly in debt. We do not speak at random when we say, that nearly one-half of the money that is usually spent by what are termed fashionable persons, could be saved without inconvenience; and the misfortune is, that the spirit of imitation is so great, that the same extravagant disposition extends throughout society. Franklin's precepts and examples have ceased to have influence, and most persons disregard the cost of the whistle, provided it can be purchased on credit. It is the abuse of credit that produces so much evil and such loud complaints against the hardness of the times. Bank accommodations are made to supply what ought to be procured by productive labor; and men resort to expedients to sustain a fictitious style, instead of living comfortably by the reduction of expenses. This introduces vice and immorality, particularly among the younger portions of society; for the youth who has been raised in luxury, and with a contempt for honest industry, will not relinquish his habits, though they have to be maintained at the expense of reputation.

The frog in the fable, being envious of the size of the ox, foolishly thought that he could swell himself to his dimensions, and burst in the experiment. In like manner, persons of moderate circumstances, who attempt to maintain an equal style with their more wealthy neighbors, are sure to fail in the effort, and to bring ruin, if not disgrace, upon themselves and families. The extraordinary disposition to display, which so universally prevails, would be a just subject of ridicule, if it were not productive of more melancholy results; but much of the distress and misery that exists, can be traced to this source. It is an easy thing to get into debt; and many take advantage of the facility to launch into folly and extravagance. The pride of dress, the desire to be in the fashion in all things, become a passion which must be gratified, though bankruptcy be the consequence. To clothe a fashionable son or daughter, is now an expensive undertaking; and yet the humblest parents have the ambition that their children shall make a figure. The ambition is laudable, but the mode of gratification is wrong. "An honest man is the noblest work of God;" and the most desirable figure is that which can walk proudly conscious of his independence by his own industry. Every parent should be anxious to give to his children such training and such principles as will enable them to occupy this enviable position.

PHILADELPHIA LEDGER. If we were, in compliance with the injunction, "to answer a fool according to his folly," we should deal harshly with the editor of the Ledger, who has taken occasion to give us a short lecture on currency, a subject upon which he seems to fancy himself fully equal to Mr. Woodbury. If low abuse could compensate for fair argument, we should fear to encounter the "learned Theban" of the Ledger—but as we are not in the habit of descending to the level of every one who may throw dirt at us, we must be excused from a controversy with said editor. Whenever we may stand in need of advice on the currency or any other subject, we shall at least seek it from those who can give it in decent language. Notwithstanding the "fog" by which he supposes us to be enveloped, our vision is not so obscured that we cannot see precisely where "the shoe pinches." "What is one man's meat is another's poison;" and so we dismiss him to his kennel.

☞ The first number of the fourth volume of the Baltimore Clipper, one of the very best papers in the country, came to us yesterday, considerably improved, with new heads, &c.

The above complimentary notice is from the Philadelphia Chronicle, a handsomely printed and well conducted paper; a paper whose approbation will outweigh the censures of a dozen such vehicles as the Philadelphia Ledger. We are happy to inform our friends of the Chronicle, that the citizens of Baltimore duly appreciate our exertions to render the Clipper acceptable; and that they have extended to us a patronage unexampled for the short time that the paper has been published.

THE "HOME." James Pallaire, the owner of the unfortunate steamboat Home, has commenced suit against the different insurance companies in New York, with which he had effected insurance on that vessel. Against the American Insurance Company for $10,000. The defendants in the other cases are, the Atlantic Insurance Company for $10,000; the Jackson Marine Insurance Company for $10,000, and the New York State Marine Insurance Company for $5,000. The trial commenced on Wednesday, and it is probable will occupy the court for ten or fifteen days.

PARDON. William Gwynn Jones was pardoned by President Van Buren, a few days before his presidential term expired, and was released from the Penitentiary some day last week. Mr. Jones has been in confinement about six years.

LOTTERIES. It will be seen by the legislative proceedings, that a bill to regulate the drawing of lotteries in this state, has been reported by Mr. Nisbet. We have heretofore spoken of the necessity of some legislative regulation on this subject; and whilst Mr. Nisbet has his hand in, we hope that he will embrace a most material part of the lottery system, viz: the formation of the schemes, and the deduction that is to be taken from adventurers. Under the present arrangement, the gross discount upon the lottery schemes is from thirty to forty per cent., whereas the law never designed that the discount should exceed fifteen per cent. The paltry sum received by the state treasury offers no justification for this palpable injustice; and we have no hesitation in asserting that a fair system could be more productive to the state, and advantageous to lottery dealers. If Mr. Nisbet will carefully examine the full scheme of any lottery, he will soon see the deception which is practised. We presume that the legislature would not knowingly countenance unfairness; and members cannot be fully aware of the principle upon which lotteries are drawn under the contract with the state.

This subject will, we hope, be brought forward at the extra session; and we consider it the duty of the legislature to give it an attentive examination. If lotteries must be drawn by authority of the state, the benefits of them should be confined, as far as practicable, to our own citizens.

ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT AT THE UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND. We yesterday attended the Annual Commencement of the Faculty of Physic at the above institution. There were present a large number of ladies and gentlemen to witness the imposing ceremonies. After a short prayer by the Rev. Dr. Wyatt, the students (twenty-four in number,) were regularly called up, and received from the President their respective diplomas. Degrees of honor were also conferred upon four gentlemen, not members of the institution. Some of the graduates were particularly flattered. We observed upon two occasions, after the parchment had been received by the newly adopted sons of Esculapius, beautiful bouquets descend from among the fair auditory, and fall blushing at the devoted shrine of young ambition.

A very beautiful and appropriate address to the graduates was delivered by Wm. E. A. Aikin, Dean. It contained much wholesome advice, and no doubt left an impression on the minds of those to whom it was particularly addressed, which will be lasting even as life. The Rev. Mr. Hamner pronounced a benediction, when the imposing scene closed, and the auditory dispersed much delighted. The names of the graduates will be given in the regular report of the Faculty.

THE POSTMASTER GENERAL. Our correspondent "Jupiter" pays some high compliments to Mr. Granger, the new Postmaster General, which are no doubt well deserved, but which we decline to repeat lest it be thought that we are among the "thousand and one" applicants for the office of Postmaster of Baltimore.

The communication of "Jupiter" contains one fact which is worthy of record. He says that the clerks of the post office, on being paid for past [illegible] "not a dissenting voice dared to stand against them." He who pays his debts as soon as he has the means, is the next best to him who never purchases on credit.

"Jupiter" thinks that the "Metropolitan Lyceum will, ere long, present to the world some bright and daring spirits. Mr. McCarty, for instance, is destined to fill a high and important trust." We are rejoiced to hear of improvement, and hope that Mr. McCarty and other members of the Lyceum may receive the credit due to their literary excellence. And, as intellectual competition is honorable, we would respectfully suggest, that the Lyceums of the District challenge those of Baltimore to a discussion, each side selecting a given number of debates. What think you of this proposition, "Jupiter?"

POLITICAL CONVENTIONS. The administration and opposition members of the legislature have had meetings, and recommended that conventions be held for the nomination of candidates for Governor of the State of Maryland, at the election to take place next fall. The convention of the administration, or whig party, is to be held in Baltimore on the first Thursday in June next; and that of their opponents, in the same city, on the second Thursday in May next. There will be an abundance of aspirants on both sides, for, wherever there is honey there will be flies.—We hope that respectable and intelligent gentlemen may be nominated on both sides, so that the people of Maryland may not be ashamed of their governor whichever party may succeed.

NEW YORK CITY. U. S. SHIP POTOMAC. The following letter from the U. S. Consul at Montevideo, to the Editors of the American, contains the gratifying assurance that the Potomac has received no injury whatever by having been aground in the river Plate:

CONSULATE OF THE UNITED STATES,
MONTEVIDEO, Dec. 30th, 1840.

Gentlemen:—Fearing that reports may be circulated in the United States, calculated to alarm the public for the safety of the United States Ship "Potomac," Lawrence Kearny, Esq. Commander, bearing the broad pendant of Commodore Ridgely, I beg leave to state that she got under way from the outer roads of this harbour on the 13th inst. having an experienced branch pilot on board, and proceeded up the river for the purpose of watering, and that she grounded the same day on the banks of San Gregoria, about eighteen leagues to the westward of the Mount.—Captain Kearny immediately dispatched a boat to Buenos Ayres with the information of the circumstance to the Commodore, and another to this Consulate, when vessels were sent from each place without delay to his assistance. The guns, shot, spars and all heavy articles, were placed on board the said vessels, which raised the ship and prevented her from straining. The tide being very low, she remained a ground until the 24th inst. when the river became high and she was hove off, and I am happy to say, (using Captain Kearney's own words) "without having sustained the slightest injury." During the time she was a ground, the weather remained uncommonly mild, and the river remarkably tranquil. We look for the return of the "Potomac" so soon as the wind changes, which is now blowing strong from the eastward.

Very respectfully, your ob't ser't,
R. M. HAMILTON,
U. S. Consul.

To the Editors of the American, Baltimore.

WATCH RETURNS. Eastern District—March 11. All was quiet last night in this District. Four white men applied for lodgings at the watch-house, and were accommodated.

Middle District.—Jas. Hinds, Jas. Thompson and Henry Sybrat, were admitted as lodgers. Jane Beachan and John Gallagher were locked up for intoxication and riotous conduct. Negro John Frank was brought in ¼ past 12, being drunk and noisy.

Western District.—Margaret McGregory applied for lodgings. A sorrel horse was found going at large in Baltimore street, at half past one, with saddle and bridle on, and carried to the watch house.

REDUCTION OF TOLLS. The Philada. North American states that the following reductions in the tolls on the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal have been made to take effect after the 16th inst. On flour, from 5 to 3 cts. per bbl.; on drugs (not enumerated,) groceries (not enumerated,) wool, white lead and paints, from 50 to 40 cts. per 1000 lbs.; on pig iron, from 22½ to 18 cts. per 1000 lbs.; on plaster, from 30 to 20 cts. per ton; on rough marble, stone and manures, from 25 to 20 cts. per ton. The toll on sugar and coffee is continued at 25 cts. per 1000 lbs.

FRIENDS OF IRELAND. At a meeting of the friends of Ireland, held in Philadelphia on Tuesday evening last, 56 gentlemen were elected members, and one hundred dollars were paid to [illegible] March inst., two hundred pounds sterling should be transmitted to Daniel O'Connel, to be by him handed over to the Repeal Association of Dublin, accompanied by a list of the names, residences, and birth-places of the subscribers to this fund.

LEGISLATURE OF NEW YORK. On Saturday, the Senate was occupied all day with a debate upon the bill appropriating $75,000 towards the completion of the Lunatic Asylum. It was alleged in the course of the debate, that the State had been grossly defrauded by its agents in this matter. The bill was recommitted to the Committee on Finance.

NOMINATIONS. The Whigs of Fairfield county, Conn., have nominated the Hon. Thomas B. Osborne for re-election to Congress. The opposition have put in the field Mr. Pomeroy, the publisher of the Republican Farmer, at Bridgeport.

More than 1700 ladies attended the great Inauguration Whig Ball in Faneuil Hall, Boston, on the evening of the 4th. There were sixty sets of cotillions up at a time, including 480 persons. The day was also celebrated in Boston by the discharge of cannon morning and evening, the display of flags, banners, &c.

REWARD OFFERED. Gov. McNutt has offered a reward of three hundred dollars for Benjamin Morgan, the murderer of Isler, and one hundred dollars for Trokey, his accomplice, who escaped from the jail in Adams county.

FRENCH PACKET. The largest merchant vessel in the French service was lately launched at Bordeaux. She is named the Louis XIV., and is intended to trade between Marseilles and the United States. She is built so as to carry a cargo of 2,600 bales of cotton.

ILLEGAL VOTING. A man named Henderson was tried before the court of sessions on Tuesday last, in New York, for having voted at several different wards during the late election. The jury found him guilty. We are not aware of the penalty in such case.

CANAL REPORT. The Canal commissioners of the state of New York report, that there has been expended during the past year, the sum of $5,011,023 45.

ORDINATION. We learn that on Sunday next, the Rev. Dr. John J. Chance will be ordained Bishop of Tennessee, at the Cathedral, and the Rev. Mr. Hughes, of New York, will preach on the occasion.

The Red Back Notes of New York are getting into disrepute. They are issued by the free banks, and form three-fourths of the circulation among the laboring population of the state.

LATE & IMPORTANT FROM FLORIDA

The steamboat Gen. Taylor, Capt. Peck, arrived on Saturday night from Florida. We hasten to lay before our readers the following letter from an esteemed friend, giving an account of a recent skirmish with the Indians.

[Savannah Republican.

FORT RUSSELL, E. F. March 2d, 1841.

Gentlemen—I hasten to inform you ere the express starts for Pilatka, of the re-appearance of the Indians this evening at Orange Creek, within three miles of this Fort. Lt. Albertis, of the 2d Regiment of Infantry, who was detached from Fort Russell some few days since to garrison Fort Brooke, about five miles distance, was startled about eleven o'clock this morning by hearing the wild cry of the Indian Bandits in the direction of Fort Russell. Taking with him twenty-four men of his small command, Lt. A. immediately left Fort Brooke, and following the direction of the cries, encountered the Indians in force at Orange Creek Hammock, only three miles from Fort Russell. On perceiving the Indians, Lt. Albertis opened a heavy fire upon them, which continued for an hour; but as the Indian force continued to increase, numbering about one hundred, and Lieut. Albertis having fired away all his ammunition, he was compelled to retreat back to Fort Brooke, bearing with him five of his men severely wounded. Having deposited the wounded in a block house, together with the females of the post, and established a guard with orders to fight or die should the post be attacked during his absence. Lieut. Albertis again issued forth, accompanied by only seventeen men, with the determination to cut his way through the Indians in order to communicate to Capt Barnum, the commander of Fort Russell.

On arriving once more at Orange Creek, the Indians emerged from the hammock, and offered Lieut. Albertis battle, in the broad pine barren. That officer, with bravery almost unparelled, with only seventeen men, again fought the enemy nearly an hour, and at times although hemmed in by him, made his way through the whole force of Alex. Tustenugge to the post of Fort Russell, losing along the gauntlet of fire only one man—The commanding officer of Fort Russell immediately left in pursuit of the enemy. Our wagons have already brought into Fort Russell 2 killed, 1 Coporal and 1 Private—6 wounded, 1 Sergent, 1 Corporal and 4 Privates, and one is missing.

Killed—Corporal Lang, Co. G., 2d Inf.; Private Hook, Co. H., 2d Inf.

Wounded—Norman Luke, Orderly Sergeant, Co. K., 2d Inf; Corporal Hanford, Co. K.; Privates Holmes, Co. K.; Newton, do.; Bowden, do; McQuilling, do. Missing—Private Merrick.

The loss of the enemy cannot be ascertained, as the Indian warriors were seen to drag off their dead and wounded as fast as they fell. Yet my word for it, Alex. Tustenugee at the head of his hundred warriors, while contemplating his slain, cherished at this moment feeling most bitter against Lieut. Albertis and his "seventeen men."

P. S.—No Indian news from Tampa. The Indians come in here not yet gone West.

The Governor of South Carolina has pardoned George W. Jones, who was under sentence of death for the crime of forgery. The criminal will suffer a very long term of imprisonment, for larceny, for which offence he has been publicly whipped.

THE DAYS OF HUMBUG AND QUACKERY are nearly over in this country, for unless the article placed before the public is found to be all it pretends, its life is short; it is really amusing to look over the papers for the last ten years, and see the very many resurrection and death exterminating panaceas that have appeared, lived their butterfly life and are heard of no more; but such is not the case with the celebrated Hunter's Red Drop, as time has and will show. Every Medical man (for few others are acquainted with the subject, not even the patient,) will tell you that hydrophobia itself would be preferable to a certain class of delicate disease treated with milk and water remedies; that instead of thoroughly curing, only palliates and dries the disease from sight to appear at a future day, to make dreadful havoc in the system of the poor patient, and finally end a suffering and loathsome existence. What person, however lost to morality and virtue, but would shrink with horror from the bare thought of entailing a short and miserable existence on their offspring, and now where is the remedy with power to thoroughly, effectually, promptly and permanently exterminate the rank virus of this disease from the system, to fill the erring victim with gratitude, thanks and joy, and a steady determination not to go astray again. We fearlessly answer; it is the genuine Hunter's Red Drop, only that will do it without injury to the system, or any restrictions whatever. To be obtained at the office, No. 17 Harrison-st. the only place in this city where the Genuine Medicine can be obtained. Price $1 per vial. Advice gratis. mh12-2t

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE street, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Lock, of Ohio, on "Webb's Camphine," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clear, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed Joshua Atkinson Agent, No. 22 Market street, F. F., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent.

For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 22, 1840.

Dear Sir—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that Webb's PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 26 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

HANCE'S Compound Syrup of Horehound.

CERTIFICATE. Mrs. Williams, of Petersburg, Va. caught a very severe cold last fall, and thinking it would wear off in the course of time itself, neglected it to a very great extent. Finding, however, it did not leave her, she then tried various remedies, some of which subdued the cough in a measure, but none effectually cured it.

About a month ago, her husband thought she had better try a change of air, so she came to Baltimore, where she first became acquainted with the COMPOUND SYRUP OF HOREHOUND—the first bottle produced such relief, that before she had finished it she determined to purchase two bottles and return home. Price 50 cents per bottle.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

ANNAPOLIS, March 10, 1841.

SENATE. After I closed my letter yesterday, the following business was transacted in the Senate:

The resolution from the House, appointing Directors on the part of the state in the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road Company, was assented to.

Leave was granted, and a bill reported, to authorise the Tide Water Canal Company to issue toll notes to a limited amount on the pledge by mortgage of its works and property—laid on the table.

The bill to regulate the mode of appointing Lottery Commissioners was passed—yeas 10, nays 8.

The report and resolutions from the House, relative to the Public Lands, were adopted.

The resolution in relation to the Maryland Hospital was rejected.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. In the House to-day, Mr. Jones, of Somerset, submitted the following resolution: Resolved by the General Assembly of Maryland, That John Spear Smith, Robt. Purviance, Sen., Wm. S. Winder, Wm. G. Harrison and Sheppard C. Leakin be, and they are hereby appointed Directors on behalf of this State in the Baltimore and Susquehanna Rail Road Company.

Resolved, That the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Delegates address a joint letter to each of the above-named gentlemen, informing them of their said appointment. The resolutions were assented to, and sent to the Senate.

Mr. Gantt submitted a resolution, appointing John Johnson, John Miller and Thomas Lansdale State Directors in the Annapolis and Elk Ridge Rail Road Company. The resolution was assented to and sent to the Senate.

Mr. Poultney offered an order, which was adopted, that the unanimous thanks of this House be presented to the Hon. Charles S. Ridgely, for the able and impartial manner in which he has discharged the duties of Speaker.

Mr. E. A. Lynch submitted a message requesting his Excellency the Governor to attend in the Senate Chamber to sign and seal such laws as have been passed.

The resolution in favor of the Medical Faculty of the University of Maryland was passed.

A message was received from the Senate, requesting the House to return the resolution relative to the Maryland Hospital, which had been rejected yesterday.

Mr. Welch reported a bill to pay the Visiters of the Jail from Baltimore County, which was passed and sent to the Senate.

Mr. Nesbitt reported a bill to regulate the drawing of Lotteries in this State—referred.

The House then resumed the consideration of the unfinished business of yesterday, being the bill from the Senate entitled an Act to repeal certain parts of the act entitled an act for the promotion of Internal Improvements—passed December Session, 1835, ch. 395.

The bill passed by a vote of 44 to 16. [This bill, we believe, provides for the repeal of the clause which subjected the Baltimore and Ohio Rail road Company to the penalty of one million of dollars, payable to Washington County, in default of the road's passing through that county.]

The House then took a recess.

[Reported for the Baltimore Clipper.]

FIRST BRANCH, March 11, 1841. The branch met pursuant to adjournment. Present Mr. H. Snyder, President, and all the members except Mr. Dryden.

Mr. Hanson presented the petition of William McDonald, praying for a renewal of lease on Bowley's wharf. Referred to joint committee on harbor.

Mr. Burns presented a petition signed E. W. Warner and others, counter to the petition of John Sikes, relative to opening Scott-st. Referred to committee on streets.

Mr. Keyser, of the committee on fire companies, presented a report and resolution relative to the Vigilant, Howard, Deptford, and Patapsco fire companies, praying for a special appropriation, which was unfavorable.

Mr. Fields offered a resolution to grade and make passable a portion of Eden-st. Laid on the table.

Mr. Bender called up the report of the committee on the petition of R. Phillips. The resolution accompanying it was passed.

Mr. Holter, of the committee on water, reported favorable, relative to the reservoir on Fell's Point.

Mr. Pinkney of the joint committee on claims, reported favorably on the petition of the Messrs. Barneys.

A message was received from the Second Branch, being a report on the petition of George Suter, Richard Phillips, John Mattan and Chas. Milton, all of which were concurred in.

Mr. Bender called up bill No. 30, being a supplement to an ordinance relative to the public debt of the city, which upon being read was passed. It was also returned from the Second Branch, and will pass.

Mr. Pinkney presented the report and resolution of the joint committee on claims, relative to the petition of John Feast, which was unfavorable.

Mr. Keyser, of the joint committee on fire companies, reported favorably on the petition of John Richter.

Mr. Dallam called up bill No. 29, relative to the appointment of City Collector, and prescribing his duties, which after having been amended, was passed.

Mr. Pinkney, of the joint committee on claims, reported favorably on the petition of William Wallace.

Mr. Gorsuch offered a resolution relative to putting fenders on the roof of the Middle District watch-house, which, upon being read, was laid on the table.

Mr. Cole offered a resolution stating that a message be sent to the Second Branch, proposing that when the councils adjourn on to-morrow evening, they adjourn until Monday next, and that when they adjourn on Friday afternoon of next week they adjourn sine die.

A message was received from the Second Branch, being ordinances 20, 21 and 22, endorsed and will pass.

On motion of Mr. Blakeney, the branch adjourned until to-morrow afternoon at half-past three o'clock.

A NOVEL SPECULATION. The Wheeling Times says—"When the steamer Utica was coming up to the landing on Friday last, full of passengers, a stranger in the city went to one of the stage offices and engaged thirteen seats, paying for them on the spot. He then sold them out at from five to ten dollars advance.

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 2 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

JNO C. MOALE,
General Agent Baltimore Steam-Packet Company.

Passage (and fare on board) to Weldon, $14 00
Passage and fare to Richmond, 10 00
Passage and fare to Norfolk, 8 00

RE-OPENING OF
GOODWANE'S ACADEMY,
No. 160½ BALTIMORE STREET.

WRITING

MANNER OF EXECUTION. Off hand Penmanship by the action of the whole arm, as also a small, finished, business style, by the fine nib and hand, adapted to letters, bills, orders, notes, sales, receipts, and finished journal entry.

Taught with certainty in TEN LESSONS OF ONE HOUR EACH.

Ladies will be attended to exclusively at their respective hours. They write in separate apartments.

 REMEMBER improvement guaranteed, and additional lessons given free of expense, say, ten, twenty, or thirty, if desired. What can be fairer?

AN ADDRESS. Whatever be the opposition which success encounters—whatever be the malevolence which merit awakens, the fact of Goodwane's triumph in his peculiar department, if not unquestioned, is beyond doubt unquestionable.

Malignant rivals may misrepresent, and sectional jealousy wrest and pervert the best and purest intentions, but the professional knowledge and integrity, and consummate erection of the present system of penmanship, have been too long confessed to require any labored eulogy from friends, or any advocacy against interested opponents.

The hour has been when foemen might avail:
That hour has passed. Triumphant have I been,
Triumphant wish to be and, whate'er betide,
Still to my own true knowledge true, I'll rest
My cause upon my merit.

POSITIVE PROOF in favor of BOOZE'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF HOREHOUND.

Petersburg, February 17, 1841.

Mr. BOOZE: Sir—Having a severe pain in my breast, and a most troublesome cough for the last 2 months, I used a great many medicines without finding any relief. I was induced to try your Compound Syrup of Horehound—before I had used the second bottle, my cough had entirely ceased, and now I feel quite well both of the pain and cough. Yours respectfully,
GEORGE G. BARRUM.

P. S. Send me fifty bottles.

Baltimore, February 26, 1841.

Mr. BOOZE: Sir—Having used your compound Syrup of Horehound with the greatest success, I do sincerely believe it to be the best remedy for a cough or cold now in use. Yours respectfully,
DANIEL KIRKLAND, Fell's Point, Baltimore.

☞ The above Syrup may be had, wholesale and retail, at No. 9 FLEET STREET, between Market and Bond streets, Fell's Point—at CHARLES INGRAM'S, Pratt-street, next door to the corner of South street—at No. 2 N. Howard-st.—and at James Jones, corner of High and Pratt streets. Price 37½ cents per bottle. mh9-1m

LOOK OUT!!
"Caution" is the Parent of Safety.

AN ATTACK of the "PILES" may be positively prevented by using (when the premonitory symptoms are felt) the celebrated HAYS' LINIMENT. There are more than one thousand people in this city, and in the United States an immense number, who have suffered beyond endurance by this dreadful complaint, who keep themselves wholly free from attacks by applying this Liniment when they feel any symptoms of its approach—of this there is the most perfect proof.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAIL ROAD.

PROPOSALS are invited for the following described MATERIALS to be used in the construction of the Railway Track between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland:

Sawed Lumber for Under-sills and String-pieces.

54,563 sticks of Scantling, 4½x8 inches, and 24 ft. long, clear of stump shot, containing 2,273,000 feet, board measure.
54,500 do do 3x10 do do 3,225,000 feet.

Making together, 6,000,000 feet.

Hewn Timber for Ties and Blocks.

105,600 sticks, hewn flat on two opposite sides, to a thickness of 4½ inches, and width of 6 inches, and 7 feet long.
50,300 sticks, flattened in same manner to a thickness of three inches—width and length same as the preceding.

Cast Iron for Chairs and Plates.

52,800 Middle do do 4 do 211,000
52,800 Bottom Plates, do 2¾ do 145,000

Total lbs. cast iron, 755,000 lbs.

Wrought Iron for Fastenings.

105,600 Screw-bolts, 7½ inches long, and ¾ in diam. wt 1 lb. each, 105,600
105,600 Nuts for same, (1 7-8 sq'e, 9-16 thick,) wt. ½ lb. each, 52,800
105,600 Washers, of a wedge form, 3¼ inches long by 2½ wide, and ½ inch average thickness, and weighing 9 16 lb. 59,136
105,600 Plates of rolled Zinc, same length and width, and 1 16 thick, weighing 10 to the pound, 10,560
844,800 Hook-headed Spikes, 4½ inches long, 7-16 square in the shank, and weighing 4½ oz. each, 224,716

The Sawed Lumber may be of white or yellow pine, with not more than an inch of sap on two edges of the sticks; free from large knots, shakes or decay of any kind. A portion of the 4½x8 scantling may be proposed for to be furnished, of white oak, under the same conditions as to quality. The points of delivery may be at Baltimore, Georgetown, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any other point upon the line of the road, and the proposal will state the places as well as times at which the Lumber will be furnished.

Proposers to whom more than one of the places just named are accessible, will separately state their prices for delivery at each; so as to allow an option to the Company in regard to them should the proposal be accepted.

The Hewn Timber, intended for the cross-ties and support-blocks, may be of white oak, rock-oak or chesnut oak, or of chesnut. It must be sound wood, and straight in one direction. If the proposer prefers delivering it in the rough state, and does not wish to undertake the hewing of it to the required dimensions he can so word his proposal, and in that case the size of the sticks must be such as to permit them, when dressed, to be of the full dimensions specified, clear of bark and axe-kerf. If the timber is cut while the bark is loose, it must be stripped off before the delivery. The delivery may be made upon any point of the line, between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland, and the points between which it will take place must be stated. There are to every mile of track 31,680 feet board measure of 4½x8, and 26,400 feet of 3x10 scantling, 1056 cross-ties dressed to 4½ inches thick, and 302 dressed to 3 inches thick. Proposals will not be received for a less quantity of any of the kinds of timber, than will lay a mile of track.

The Castings for the chairs and plates will be of an easy pattern—they must be of strong and sound metal, and smoothly cast—the contractor furnishing the patterns. The screw-bolts and nuts will be of sound, tough iron and made with exactness to the required form and size. The washers will be of bar-iron, rolled with the proper section, cut off and punched for the passage of the bolt. The zinc plates similarly made. The hook-headed spikes to be of iron of as good a quality as that of the screw bolts.

The Iron Fastenings just described may be delivered at Baltimore, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any point of the line of the road between the two latter places and the places and times of delivery will be stated in the proposals. There are to every mile of track 7656 lbs. of castings—1584 lbs. of bolts and nuts—591 lbs. of iron washers—165 lbs. of zinc plates, and 2247 lbs. of spikes. No proposal for a less quantity than will supply 10 miles will be received.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid thereon—reserving to the Company the option of paying the said four fifths in Baltimore City 6 per cent stock at par—or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to the contract.

If the materials contracted for, or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered, and no estimates or payments shall be made or on account of materials delivered before the time specified for commencing the delivery of the same. The monthly payments shall be made at the Company's offices in Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh, Virginia, at the option of the contractor, and the final payments shall be made in Baltimore. The manner and times in which the materials shall be furnished on the different parts of the line will be specifically provided for in the contracts, and particulars will be given on application to the undersigned. It will be required that about one half of the whole quantity of materials shall be delivered as early as possible between now and the 1st of December next. A model of the rail and its supports and fastenings will be ready for inspection at the Company's office in Baltimore by the 20th current. The proposals will be directed under seal to the subscriber, either at Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh—and will be received up to the 15th of March proximo. By order of the President and Directors,

COMMENT. If we examine the nature of the above diseases, and the situation of the parts affected, we must consider it a very important object to be able to obtain a remedy at once certain in its action, and at the same time composed of such ingredients as will prevent the possibility of discovery while using it. It is a fact well known to many, that most of the remedies offered for these diseases are composed of such nauseous drugs, as to render it almost impossible to continue their use without creating a sickness at the stomach or other unpleasant consequences. Such being the case there can be no doubt but such a remedy as Vallier's French Pills, will meet the universal approbation, being entirely free from those objections; pleasant in their operation, and prompt in removing the disease. The proprietor would here remark, that the efficacy of these Pills in the disorders alluded to, are not based upon supposition; on the contrary, it is founded upon rational experience, having used them in a successful practice for upwards of two years, he feels confident of their superiority over the remedies hitherto employed.

VEGETABLE COUGH SYRUP. For the cure of Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Pain and Soreness in the Breast, Influenza, Consumption, Hoarseness, Difficult Breathing, Dyspepsia, and diseases of the Breast and Lungs generally.

This SYRUP is composed of Irish Moss, combined with such other articles as have been found best calculated to afford relief in the above named diseases, and in cases approaching consumption, attended with bleeding at the lungs—and never known to fail. Common Colds, which are generally the effect of obstructed perspiration, will yield to its influence in a few hours. When used in Asthma, Hoarseness, Wheezing, Shortness of Breath, it affords immediate relief. In Whooping Cough, it is without a rival. For sale by

To Dr. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT must be obvious to every one, that an Intelligence Office, when conducted under proper principles, and regulated upon an honest and equitable course, is of great convenience and utility to the citizens of a populous and thriving city like this. The subscriber, being aware of this fact, and with the knowledge that a degree of dissatisfaction has existed from the manner in which other offices of the kind have been heretofore conducted, he has therefore taken great pains to conduct his establishment in such a manner as to deserve public confidence, and be worthy of the public patronage.

PERSONS making application at this office for servants, or help of any other kind, will deposit, in advance, 50 cents each, for which they will have access to the records, properly kept for that purpose, and on which they find the names, residences, references, &c. of the servants or other help—in case that neither of them answers the desired purpose, the money will be returned. Yearly subscriptions received at $1.50 each.

AGENCY. HOUSES, FARMS, VACANT LOTS, GROUND RENTS, LANDS, &c. bought and sold on commission. SLAVES, for life or a term of years, bought or sold on commission, and the highest prices obtained. Persons having Slaves, which they wish to dispose of, will do well to apply at this office before selling.

TO M—— L.——.

I ask not if around thee throng,
Those whose wealth has made them proud;
Nor if to thee, the power belong,
To summon forth a servile crowd.

I ask not if the voice of fame,
With echo loud, and graceful song,
Has spread afar, thy courted name,
The hills and valleys all among.

'Midst fortune's smiles, if thou dost bask,
And can command both wealth and ease,
Oh! this is what I ne'er will ask,
I scorn to give one thought to these.

What I would ask is this alone,
No other pledge I claim of thee,
May I call thy heart my own,
And wilt thou be ever true to me? S——.

MARY HART.

The following narrative was derived from an officer of General Wellborn's corps, who was in battle with the Creek Indians, as below narrated, and an eye witness of the remarkable events here recorded. The whole affords but another proof, that truth is indeed often stranger than fiction.

The Creek war of 1836-'7 was a most barbarous one, and continued nearly two years. The Creek population comprehended in the treaty for emigration westward, was twenty-two thousand souls, about two thousand of whom (warriors) broke the treaty, and commenced hostilities in May, 1836, by an attack on the town of Roanoke, in the night, butchering its inhabitants, putting them to flight, and pillaging and setting fire to their habitations. The terrors of an affrighted population, once exposed to Indian barbarities, can hardly be conceived. Rumor follows quick upon the heels of rumor; yet no story can exceed the horrors of Indian warfare, as it is impossible for language adequately to depict its realities. It is stated of a man in flight with his family from a supposed pursuit of Indians in this war, that having got fresh intelligence of alarm by the less hasty flight of others who had overtaken him, he took up his boy from behind his wagon, tossed him in, and ran forward to whip up his team, when lo! at the place of stopping, he found that the violence of his action to save his son, had killed him by breaking his neck!

When General Jesup had reported the Creek war at an end, and drawn off his troops into Florida to act against the Seminoles, contrary to the remonstrances of the inhabitants of Alabama, who assured him that the Indians were not all subdued, but that some hundreds were still lurking in their hiding places, the war broke out afresh, with increased barbarity; and the governor of Alabama, the hon. Clement C. Clay, now Senator in Congress, was forced to act with great vigor in mustering fresh troops for the exigency, by enlisting citizens of the state into the service of the United States. General William Wellborn received the command, and acquitted himself with great valor and honor, to the end of the war.

Some time in the winter of 1836-'7, General Wellborn heard of an encampment of Indians on the banks of Pee River, near its confluence with Pee creek, between the Forks. With a company of two hundred and ten mounted men, he set off in search of the foe. Having discovered and reconnoitred their position, from the west bank of the Pee, without being observed, he left one hundred and twenty of his troops on the higher grounds, about half a mile from the river, at a point by which the Indians must retreat, if dislodged, with instructions to cut them off whenever they should be driven in upon them. With the remainder, ninety men, he descended the river a few miles, and crossed on a bridge below the confluence of the two streams, with a view to come round and attack the Indians by surprise.—Having made his way across Pee Creek, he found the access greatly impeded by low and wet grounds, it being a time of high water, and several lagoons, or channels running from one river to the other, and at this time flooded; cane-brakes and palmetto thickets were to be broken through, and various obstacles, peculiar to that wild retreat, interposed. Nevertheless, the bravery and determination of the troops surmounted all impediments, and they arrived at last on the bank of a lagoon, on the other side of which was the Indian encampment, themselves screened from observation by a grove of palmettos, and favorable grounds.

At this moment a firing was heard in the direction of the place where the one hundred and twenty troops had been left, and it was manifest, as none but women and children were to be seen on the opposite bank of the lagoon, that the Indians had discovered the whites on the west side of the Pee, and had themselves become the assailants. This was the more painful to observe, that the firing grew rapidly more distant, an indication that the Indians were victorious, and in pursuit.

General Wellborn instantly conceived the project, as retreat was impossible, of placing his men in line as near the bank of the lagoon as he could, for a desperate onset on the return of the Indians; and having given his orders, he retired to an eminence about a quarter of a mile, and showed himself to the women; who instantly raised the cry of "Esta-Hadka! Esta-Hadka!" "White man! White man!" pointing to General Wellborn, on the distant eminence. This alarm was rapidly conveyed by runners to the Indians now engaged on the other side of the Pee, and as soon as possible, some three hundred warriors or more came rushing back, flushed with victory, and full of vengeance. They seemed to know that they had routed the body of their opponents, and were eager to find the remainder. It was a critical moment when they stood upon the open ground, within gun-shot of General Wellborn's men, on the other bank of the lagoon, demanding of the women where they had seen the white man. The Indians knew that the lagoon was fordable, but their opponents did not. At the moment they were about to rush in, and at a given signal, a well-directed fire was poured in upon them from the whole line, and they fell back, with a shout of terror and discomfiture, into a pine wood, about forty rods distant, leaving many of their number dead upon the field.

It was evident that the fire told well, but no fear certain, that the foe would soon rally, and return with a confidence of victory. They knew there was no escape for the white man, and that they had driven from the field his strongest force. Violent speeches of the chiefs and warriors were heard, and understood. In about forty minutes, a hideous yell of onset rang through the forest, and the entire array of the Indian force leaped upon the bank of the lagoon, to cross and drive their assailants by closer fight. At that moment they received a second time the whole fire of General Wellborn's men from behind the palmettos, halted, staggered, and again fell back into the woods, leaving the ground strewed with their slain. Again the rallying speeches were heard, and General Wellborn saw that he and his men must transfer the action to the other bank, or perish before a superior force. Believing, from the demonstrations of the Indians, that the lagoon was fordable, he ordered two men, at different points, to make the attempt, and if they succeeded, the whole corps were to plunge in, form upon the opposite bank, and rush upon the foe.

It was but the work of a moment, and every man was in line. The conflict was desperate and bloody. Women fought and fell with the men. A single white man encountered a warrior and two of his wives, all three of whom were laid dead at his feet, by a necessity which he could not avoid, in self-preservation. The Indians fled across a bridge of trees which they had thrown over the Pee, fighting and falling in their retreat; and all that could, were soon out of the battle, leaving behind them camp and spoils, the wounded, the dying, and the dead. Seventy-three warriors, averaging six feet and two inches in height, were counted among the slain.

An old chief, Apothlo-Oholo, who afterwards escaped in the night, being entirely disabled by the shot he had received in various parts of his body, fell into the river, as he was attempting to cross the bridge of trees. He clung to the branches, and buried himself entirely under water, while the victors were crossing and re-crossing, during and after the action. He lived to recover of his wounds, joined his party, and afterwards made the following speech to General Wellborn, at Conchatto-Mecco's Town, when about to emigrate with his people:

'You are a Great Chief. I have fought you as long as I could. You have beaten me. You have killed and taken nearly all my people. I am now ready to go: the farther from you the better. We cannot be friends. I thank you for taking care of my women, children, and wounded warriors, and for sending them back to me. You are a Great Chief.'

In the sleeve of the coat of Apothlo-Oholo, after the battle, were found twenty-eight hundred dollars, in gold; and many spoils that had been taken from murdered white families, or pillaged from their deserted houses, were recovered. A roll of bank notes was also found. Most of the Indian ponies were left behind, and the whole of the next day was consumed in making arrangements for a vigorous pursuit of the routed Indians. Nine of the ninety engaged in this attack were killed. The carcasses of the Indians, we are sorry to learn, were left without burial. The exasperated feelings of the troops, themselves citizens of a commonwealth doomed to the horrible atrocities of an Indian war, with their families exposed, many of whom had already suffered, must stand as an apology for not paying to a fallen enemy the usual respect of civilized warfare. It was a scene of carnage, left to the face of the sun, and to the eyes of the stars.

[To be concluded in our next.]

SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

THURSDAY, MARCH 11, 1841.

After the Journal was read, the Vice-President announced to the Senate that he should vacate his seat during the day, in order that the Senate might have an opportunity of electing a President pro tem.

The Senate then proceeded to the discussion of the resolution dismissing Blair & Rives as printers to the 27th Congress, when

Mr. Berrien rose and addressed the body at some length in favor of the resolution, and in reply to the several arguments urged against its adoption.

Mr. Benton made a brief remark in reply, when the question was taken on the adoption of the resolution, and decided in the affirmative as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Archer, Barrow, Bates Bayard, Berrien, Clay, of Kentucky, Clayton, Dixon, Evans, Henderson, Huntington, Kerr, Mangum, Miller, Morehead, Merrick, Phelps, Porter, Preston, Simmons, Smith, of Indiana, Southard, Tallmadge, White, Woodbridge—26.

Nays—Messrs. Allen, Benton, Buchanan, Calhoun, Clay, of Alabama, Cuthbert, Fulton, King, Linn, McRoberts, Nicholson, Sevier, Smith of Connecticut, Sturgeon, Tappan, Walker, Woodbury, Williams—18.

Mr. Clay then rose and moved that the Secretary of the Senate be directed to deliver to Blair & Rives their official bond.

So the motion was carried.

The Vice-President then, in pursuance of the notice he had previously given, withdrew from the chair as presiding officer for the residue of the present session.

On motion of Mr. Clay, the Senate proceeded to ballot for President pro tem.

On the ballot forty-six votes were cast—of which number

Mr. Southard, of New Jersey, received 26
Mr. King, of Alabama, received 15
Scattering 2

Mr. Southard having been declared duly elected, was accompanied to the chair by Messrs. Clay and Preston, when he rose and addressed the Senate in substance as follows.

SENATORS: A custom which has existed since the establishment of the Government requires from me on this occasion, an acknowledgement of your confidence and respect. A feeling stronger than any law of custom demands the expression of my thanks. For eight years successively I have been a member of this body, associated with you in the obligations of duty, in the conflicts of opinion, and in the struggles of debate; with few exceptions, my conduct has been known to you all. Under such circumstances, I must be far less sensitive than I feel myself to be, in regard to the opinions of my associates, if I could receive such a proof of your confidence without the deepest sensibility and the most grateful feeling.

You have imposed upon me duties, to the discharge of which you may, I fear, discover that I am incompetent. Forms I have not studied; precedents I have never examined, and with the rules of order I have only made myself so far acquainted as to be able to keep myself within their limits. Experience in the duties of the Chair I have had none.

But my omission to learn is not without excuse; the dignified order and decorum which pervades this body, the skill and intelligence with which the business of this Chair has been administered, and that feeling of respect in which each member has his full share, have secured, within and without this Hall, a profound respect for its constitutional dignity and authority, and have left to the individual members, little desire to acquire a knowledge of technical rules. I must seek, then, in the conduct, character, and feeling of this body, an apology for any deficiencies which may be found in the execution of the trust with which I have been honored. In entering upon it, but for a short period, I have no promises to make, no pledges to give. The task required of me is not hard to be understood, though it may be found difficult in practice. I am aware, as you all are aware, that it demands a study of all the rules of order and modes of proceeding, legislative, executive, and, if need be, judicial; promptitude, decision, and firmness, which must not hesitate to apply the authority of the body without considering on whom its pressure may fall; but above and beyond all, an unwavering, unsleeping impartiality towards each and every member. A failure in the former may be overlooked or pardoned; but no mantle is broad enough to cover the latter.

Should I fail in the former, I know that I have a refuge in the generous confidence and liberality of generous men; but if I transgress in regard to the latter, you ought not to extend to me that charity which suffers long and forbears much.

I will not detain you with any remarks as to the importance of this body, or of its action in this Government. There is no act, on decision, here, however trival or unimportant it may appear at the moment, which does not, in its ultimate consequences, operate on the great and permanent interests of the nation, and which may not, at some moment, be made to bear on those free institutions in which we find our best, and may I not say last, hope of securing liberty to man. Let each of us, then, in our respective positions, look to it, that our own hands be pure, and our conscience clean, where the great interests of our common country are concerned.

On motion, the Senate went into the consideration of Executive business, and, after some time spent therein, the doors were reopened for a few moments, when the Senate adjourned.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE.

ANNAPOLIS, March 10, 1841.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. The House took up for consideration the bill from the Senate to alter and amend the Constitution so far as relates to the power of the Legislature to grant Lotteries, passed Dec. Session, 1839, chapter 31. The bill was passed by a vote of 32 yeas to 29 nays.

The House then considered the bill entitled an act to receive as a part of the territory and domain of this State parts of the County of Washington, in the District of Columbia. The bill was passed by a vote of 43 to 13, and also passed the Senate.

Mr. Gaither, from the committee on corporations reported a bill entitled an act to incorporate the Annapolis and Chesapeake Steam Navigation Company, which was ordered to lie on the table.

On motion of Mr. Tuck, the House took up the bill from the Senate supplementary to an act entitled an act to incorporate the Mining and Manufacturing Company of Hibernia. The bill was passed by a vote of 40 to 13.

A letter was received from the Hon. Wm. Cost Johnson, declining the appointment of Representative on the part of the State in any Joint Stock Company in which the State has any interest.

Mr. Jones, of Somerset, then offered a resolution, which was adopted, appointing John Van Lear Esq. of Washington County, Representative, in place of Wm. C. Johnson, Esq., who had declined an appointment. The resolution also passed the Senate.

Mr. E. A. Lynch, from the committee on Isternal Improvement, to whom was referred the subject of investigating the concerns of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, delivered a report stating that the committee had been diligently employed in the business entrusted to them, that the testimony which had been taken was voluminous, and that the efforts which have been made by a portion of the public press to anticipate the result of the investigation would render it desirable to report immediately; but the engagements of the Committee have been so incessant and laborious, that they have been unable to do so, A full report will be made as soon as the same can be prepared with the care which the importance of the inquiry demands.

SENATE. The supplement to the act providing for the inspection of ground black oak bark was passed.

The resolution appointing Directors in the Annapolis and Elk Ridge Rail Road and Baltimore and Susquehanna Rail Road Companies, were assented to.

An additional rule was made to the Senate's rules, which is that no application for a divorce will be entertained, unless the proof in the case is taken according to existing acts of Assembly.

The resolution in favor of the Maryland Hospital was reconsidered and referred to the committee on Finance.

NAVAL. The broad pennant of Commodore Shubrick was on Tuesday last transferred from the Delaware to the U. S. ship of the line Pennsylvania, Capt. Skinner, at Norfolk.

ACQUITTAL. Capt. McAdam has been tried in Montreal for the murder of Lieut. Farquhar, and has been acquitted. Verdict of the jury, "justifiable homicide."

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredericksburg	12 M.
" Fredericksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is out of a connection through, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads Weather!! and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

Congress. The impression is very general that an extra session of congress will be called, and we heard and seen it stated that it will be held early in June. As several states will have to elect members or go unrepresented in the extra session, it is probable that the president's proclamation will appear in the course of a few days.

Among the measures which will probably be submitted to the consideration of congress by the president, a correspondent of the American supposes that the following will be prominent:

1st. The repeal of the Sub-Treasury Law.

2d. The imposition of a tariff of duties sufficient to meet the expenses of the General Government.

3d. The adoption of a plan for the distribution of the proceeds of the Public Lands.

4th. The adoption of some plan or system for the safe keeping of the Public Moneys.

The latter, it is believed, has not been finally agreed upon, and it is not yet known whether a recommendation will be made for the establishment of a National Bank, or of some plan which will meet the approval of the people generally.

On the first of these subjects we shall say nothing. The expression of our sentiments might be deemed by politicians, a violation of our neutrality; so we let it pass. The second matter we hope will be strongly urged by the executive, and promply acted upon by congress. We have no idea that foreign agents and manufacturers shall be permitted to flood our country with their goods, at a nominal duty, whilst the agriculturalists and others of the union may be subjected to direct taxes for the support of government. We care not whether the measure be unpopular with this or that party or section of country, it is just and necessary, not simply as a protection to domestic industry, but as a source of revenue to the government. We despise the policy which would sacrifice the permanent interests of the nation to gratify partizan views. We are Americans in heart and soul, and disregard considerations of party in the free expressions of our sentiments. It is supposed that the measure suggested will be unpopular in the south. If this be admitted it should form no obstacle to its adoption; for national policy and interests are not to be controled by the peculiar and ultra notions of leading politicians in South Carolina. That state was among the first to claim and obtain the advantages of a protective tariff. She is now in the enjoyment of these benefits, but would selfishly deny to other interests a like protection. Some of her most distinguished men have become extremely sensitive on the subject of the tariff, and almost go into spasms whenever the word is mentioned. This is the extreme of folly. The great majority of the American people will decline to be driven in harness by a few southern politicians, however distinguished they may be for talents. The revenues of the government are inadequate to its wants, and on the question of increased duties or direct taxation there will be no difference of opinion.

The third proposition—the distribution of the proceeds of the public lands—we also hope will be embraced in the recommendations of the president. We have heretofore expressed our opinions so fully in favor of the distribution, or land bill, that we deem repetition unnecessary.

The fourth proposition involves the subject of the sub-treasury. If that be repealed, then it will become indispensable for congress to adopt some other system for the safe keeping of the public funds. And here the question will arise as to the creation of a National Bank, or the adoption of the state banks. We confess that our confidence in the prudent management of the latter has been so much shaken, that we should hesitate in making them the depositories of the public funds. One important object should be kept in view, the equalizing of exchange between different sections of the country. We doubt whether this could be effected by the state banks to any thing like the beneficial extent to which it was by the late Bank of the United States. Had that bank been sustained in its original character, we have no doubt that much of public and individual loss would have been avoided. The present humbled condition of the bank arises, in our opinion, from its having been converted into a state institution, with a capital too unwieldy for safe and judicious management in its restricted sphere.—On the question of creating a new national bank we should pause. Unless it could be so guarded as to prevent its controling or being controled by government, we would not wish to see it brought into existence. Although we have no belief in the interference of the late bank of the United States in the party concerns of the country, yet, if a new bank be created, it ought, if possible, to be placed beyond suspicion on this subject. It is possible that a course might be adopted by which perfect security would be given for the public deposites, and the benefits resulting from them be derived to the citizens of each state. This could be effected either through branches of a national bank, or state banks, to be operated on general account.

Appointments. The President seems resolued to give both the ins and the outs a breathing spell. It is said that he will proceed with great caution in creating vacancies as well as in filling them. This is all right. He is bound to act for the interests of the nation, and not for the gratification of individual ambition. He repudiates the "spoils system," and it is believed, will not dismiss a good officer, who has honorably discharged the duties of his station without improper interference in elections. This is the true republican ground, and we shall rejoice to see him take his stand upon it. Some, and perhaps, a great many of the public officers, will have to walk out of office. This will be a wholesome lesson to officious, intermeddling political officeholders, which will operate as a caution to their successors. We apprehend that there will not be so much difficulty in determining who shall go out, as who shall come in. The numerous applicants for every office that is likely to be vacated—we might say for every affice in the gift of government—and the pressing claims of each for preference, will puzzle the President and his secretaries to make their selection. We have no doubt that the claims of each applicant will be measured by Jefferson's standard, "is he honest? is he capable?" and that no man will be appointed who is not deemed perfectly qualified for the station he solicits.

Public good. We would again call the attention of the public to the advertisement of Mr. Baily, agent for Webb's Camphine Burners, at No. 109 Baltimore street. In consequence of the great increase in the expense of Gas Light, (being now four-fold what it was previous to the introduction of meters,) many of our citizens have turned their attention to the Camphine light as a substitute, and it has been adopted in many stores, taverns, &c., the proprietors of which are satisfied that they have obtained a more brilliant and beautiful light, at a greatly reduced cost.—Having used Gas Light until the first of March, and found an increase in our quarterly bills until they amounted to about three-fold, we have substituted Webb's Camphine Burners, one of which supplies the place of two gas burners, affording ample light for four stands in the printing office. The experiment has proved entirely successful; and what is still more agreeable, we have now a better light from the Camphine at $20 a quarter than we previously had from gas at $60 for the same period. We give these facts to the public from a sense of duty.

Dona Dolores Nevares de Goni. This lady, probably the most celebrated guitarist at present in this country, will, on Tuesday evening next, favor the lovers of music with a specimen of her skill. We have had the pleasure of hearing her perform a number of Spanish melodies, and can with safety say, that her skill is only equalled by her beauty. Her recent concerts in Washington were attended by the elite of that city—amongst them, President Harrison, who prefers the eloquence of music to the cry of office hunters. While at home, Senora de Goni was the favorite guitarista of Queen Maria Christina; and lately, in London, she performed in the presence of Queen Adelaide and a number of the members of the royal family.

We scarcely had a conception of the compass of the guitar until we heard the Senora. The execution of Vincent Schmidt, lately of this city, surprised and gratified many; but the neatness and expression of the lovely Spanish lady will delight even the most enthusiastic admirers of the skillful German. Senora de Goni will be assisted in her concert by Mr. Boucher, a vocalist of some standing in our city.

Extra Session. It is said that, in compliance with the request of both branches of the legislature, the Governor will call an extra session of the legislature of Maryland, to be held on or about the 24th inst. As there must be an extra session, we hope that it will be called for the earliest practicable period, as the tax bill, to be rendered available during the present year, should go into operation without delay.

Wesleyan Lyceum. A correspondent speaks in favorable terms of the discussion in this Lyceum on Monday night last. Its meetings are held in the session room of the Caroline street church. The speakers were Messrs. McAlear, Joyce, Boyd, Erickson, Gault, and Holtz, who are said to have acquitted themselves with great credit.

Nominations. The National Intelligencer of yesterday says: "The Senate, it is understood, have had before them some nominations to fill vacancies in different public trusts, and have confirmed some of them. The particulars, however, have not yet reached us."

Election of State Officers. The Legislature of New Jersey, in joint meeting on Monday, appointed Geo. P. Molleson Attorney General of the State, in place of Mr. Field resigned, and Daniel Elmer an Associate Judge of the Supreme Court.

Death of Doctor Rauch. The papers announce the death of the Rev. F. A. Rauch, D. D. President of Marshall College, Mercersburg, Pennsylvania.

Sudden Death. The daughter of Dr. Dungleson, one of the professors of the Jefferson College, was found dead in her bed on Wednesday night. Her sudden demise is attributed to a disease of the heart.

Good. The Boston papers suggest the propriety of the owners of the President hiring one of their steam ships to tow her to Liverpool, as that would be the most expeditious plan of getting her there.

Gen. Jackson's Birth-Day. The Charlestown democrats propose to honor Monday next, the anniversary of General Jackson's birth, by a salute of one hundred guns from Bunker Hill.

The following letter from the New York correspondent of the National Intelligencer, will be read with interest:

New York, March 10.

The steamer President is detained until to-morrow morning, in consequence of the storm.—She will depart freighted with but little more than disastrous intelligence in regard to our monetary affairs.

The city, too, is full of rumors in regard to the intelligence taken out, connected with the vexed questions between the two countries. The majority of people, in the general want of confidence created by political and financial difficulties, seem to be ripe for a panic, and jump at rumors and strange conclusions with an extraordinary avidity. In regard to the news sent to England by special messengers, you in Washington are wiser than the wisest of us, though many here look as wise as owls, and know more, by their looks, than President, Cabinet, and Ministers together.

The intelligence which goes out to England in the newspapers and letters is nevertheless gloomy enough, and disheartening to many who had hoped, long ere this, for the re-establishment of trade and confidence. Orders for goods will be countermanded, and, worse than all, the exhibition of the almost unparalleled condition of the stock market of the country. The stock-jobbing operations which have had such an effect upon this side of the Atlantic must have a worse upon the other, where the operations of the "Bulls" and "Bears" are not so well known as they are here. The decline to-day was, upon the average, one-half of one per cent. U. S. Bank went down to 15¼. Exchange on London, the rates of which were fixed yesterday, sold at 7¼a8 per ct. There was no demand for specie, and none of any consequence is to be shipped. The steamer will doubtless leave to-morrow, unless the storm should increase.

In addition to the panic in regard to foreign matters, we have a momentary one in reference to our local and State currency. The rates of exchange, which have been affected so much by the recent suspension of specie payments, have affected the value of other bills than those issued by the United States Bank. The brokers have gotten up a fever which will not last long, I hope, in reference to the "Red Back money," so called, and the consequence is, that this money, which makes almost the only circulation we have, is selling at a ruinous rate of discount. This, too, must be but a panic, as the circulation of the banks is not large, and the bill-holders are well secured by property left with the Comptroller.

There is no news of interest from the North or East. All eyes are turned to Washington, and will be until the Senate adjourns, vacancies filled, and new appointments made.

Watch Returns. Eastern District—March 12. A white man was locked up last night for intoxication. Wm. Hunter came in for lodging at 2 A. M.

Western District. John Leak was brought in for vagrancy, and in the morning committed to the Almshouse by Justice Stuart. Augustus Holten, col., was imprisoned, being drunk and disturbing the peace. Alexander Dungan was caught at 1 A. M creeping into a wagon at the Lexington market, and locked up. Three loafers applied for lodgings. All released in the morning.

Somerton Wrong. It appears that a great disparity has been discovered in New York between the bills rendered by merchants for supplies to the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and those rendered by the Navy Agent. A board consisting of Captain Percy, Messrs. Craven and Hart, are appointed to inquire into it. Let justice be done.

A Strike for Wages. The clerks in the departments of the Government of Texas recently, one and all, sent in their resignations on account of their salaries being two small to afford a living. Congress suspended all other business in great haste, and passed a resolution to increase their salaries.

Arrested. A young man named William Williams was arrested in Philadelphia on Thursday, on suspicion of being concerned in the murder of the sailor a few days ago, in the upper story of a house in Small street.

☞The New York Herald says the reason the President did not sail on Wednesday, was because of the storm. She draws eighteen feet of water, and it was therefore deemed a risky business to pilot her through a thick snow.

Trial Postponed. The trial of Robinson for the murder of Mr. Suydam has been postponed until Tuesday next. A motion was made to have it put off to June, which was overruled by the Court.

Suicide. A man named Wm. Peacock, a shoemaker, committed suicide in Philadelphia on Wednesday night last by taking laudanum. The deceased has been a man of very intemperate habits.

Somerset Herald. The proprietor of the Herald has signified his intention of disposing of his establishment, as he cannot devote sufficient attention to continue the paper as he would wish.

☞The steamship President left N. York on Thursday morning at ten, having been detained by the storm. She carries about thirty passengers, some freight, and no specie.

Backgammon. Tom Brown says a woman may learn one useful doctrine from the game of backgammon, which is, not to take up her man till she's sure of binding him.

One Angel, a doctor, has been tried in New Orleans for passing counterfeit money. Bad business for an angel.

Adroit robbery. A clergyman was robbed in Washington last Sunday, while he was performing divine service.

Sir John Harvey, it is currently reported in St. John's, N. B., is shortly to be succeeded by Sir W. G. Colebrooke.

Charles O'Malley. Nos. 19 and 20 of this entertaining work, with illustrations by Phiz, has been received from N. Hickman.

H. E. Bance, Esq. deputy sheriff of the District of Montreal, died very suddenly on the morning of the 5th inst.

CITY COUNCIL.

First Branch, March 12. The Branch met pursuant to adjournment. Present, H. Snyder, Esq. President, and all the members except Mr. Dryden.

A communication was received from the Mayor, approving and signing a resolution favorable to Messrs. Bull & Tuttle; also, approving and signing a resolution relative to Mr. Hodgkins.

Bill No. 31, an ordinance to prevent the filling of barrels, hogsheads and other water casks from the pumps attached to the reservoir at the Fell's Point market. The bill was passed.

Mr. Pinkney offered a resolution of inquiry, relative to bridges, which was laid on the table and afterwards withdrawn. Also, a report from the joint committee on claims, relative to the petition of Robert Hinkley and others, which was favorable.

Mr. Pinkney called up the report of the joint committee on claims, relative to the petition of Charles R. Barney and others, for a refund of money paid by them for paving beds of Holland and Cove streets, in front of Penn street. The report was laid on the table, to allow Mr. Holter, one of the committee of claims, to offer a majority report counter to the former, accompanied with a resolution, which was passed.

Mr Gorsuch, of the joint committee on police, reported upon the subject relative to the inspection of wood. The committee were discharged.

A communication was received from the Second Branch, being a concurrence of that body in the report and resolution of the committee on claims, relative to the petition of John Feast.—Also, in the report and resolution on the petition of John Richter. Also, an ordinance to prevent the filling of barrels and hogsheads as above stated. Also, a report and resolution upon the petition of Wm. Wallace. Also, a report and resolution upon the petition of Richard D. Long.

Mr. Gorsuch called up the resolution relative to putting fenders on the roof of the watch-house, which was passed.

Mr. Gorsuch offered a resolution requesting the city commissioners to examine a part of Necessity alley and report to this branch. On motion of Mr. Keyser, the resolution was referred to the city commissioners.

On motion of Mr. Bender, the branch adjourned until Monday afternoon next at half past three o'clock.

To the Editor of the Clipper:

☞In looking over your independent paper a few days ago, I noticed a card signed "A Mechanic," and was indeed much pleased with the doctrine therein set forth—for I fully agree with "A Mechanic" that the appointment of Mr. THOMAS E. TILDEN, a whole-souled mechanic, to the office of Postmaster of this city, would be but justice due the mechanics—the present worthy incumbent being one of that class. In fact, I know of no man, whose appointment to any office, would be more popular with the mechanical interest, and give more general satisfaction to the citizens of Baltimore, than that of THOMAS E. TILDEN as Postmaster of this city. I have heard it reported that Gen. Harrison has, or intends making Mr. Thomas Finley the Postmaster. It is true, that gentleman is high-minded and honorable—but, from his infirmities, is entirely incapable of fulfilling the arduous duties of that office. There are many offices in Washington that would suit Mr. Finley much better, they being entirely sinecure. If our President wishes to reward his personal friends and relations, I do hope he will not do so by placing any of them over the Mechanics' choice of this city, their interests having heretofore been most grossly neglected. Mr. Thomas E. Tilden is well qualified for the office of Postmaster, for he is an industrious, steady, active, and intelligent man, and should, by all means, be the next Postmaster for the city of Baltimore.

☞Forced by circumstances (over which I could not control) to avail myself of the advantages of the Insolvent Laws, I trust a discerning public will, in due time, appreciate the motive which compelled me to take refuge in such a course.

The many valuable Periodicals, of which I have acted as Agent for years, will be continued without interruption, and delivered with their usual promptness; and I take this occasion to ask of the Patrons of the various works to give their early attention to the terms of subscription.

Convinced the course I have taken was the only proper alternative, I again offer myself a candidate for public favor. N. HICKMAN,

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it really to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 22 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

PATENT BRIDGE.

☞ These was exhibited at our office on Saturday, a model of a bridge, called the "Patent Puzzle Key Bridge," which possesses advantages not to be found in any similar invention we have seen. The bridge is simple in construction, built entirely of timbers, and while piers or supporters will not be required within half a mile of each other, loads of any weight may pass over it without any danger. There is not a single mortice in the whole construction, and any single piece of timber can be taken out with perfect ease, repaired or made new, and replaced again without interfering with the business on the road. It is worthy the attention of those making rail or other roads where long bridges are required, and those desirous of witnessing the same, can have an opportunity of doing so, by calling at the residence of Mr. Wm. Trimble, south High st. O. T., the model of the bridge can be seen. The patentees are Messrs. Price and Phillips, of Cockeysville, Baltimore county. mh3-law2w

THE DAYS OF HUMBUG AND QUACKERY are nearly over in this country, for unless the article placed before the public is found to be all it pretends, its life is short; it is really amusing to look over the papers for the last ten years, and see the very many resurrection and death exterminating panaceas that have appeared, lived their butterfly life and are heard of no more; but such is the case with the celebrated Hunter's Red Drop, as time has and will show. Every Medical man (for few others are acquainted with the subject, not even the patient,) will tell you that hydrophobia itself would be preferable to a certain class of delicate disease treated with milk and water remedies; that instead of thoroughly curing, only palliates and drives the disease from sight to appear at a future day, to make dreadful havoc in the system of the poor patient, and finally end a suffering and loathsome existence. What person, however lost to morality and virtue, but would shrink with horror from the bare thought of entailing a short and miserable existence on their offspring, and now where is the remedy with power to thoroughly, effectually, promptly and permanently exterminate the rank virus of this disease from the system, to fill the erring victim with gratitude, thanks and joy, and a steady determination not to go astray again. We fearlessly answer; it is the genuine Hunter's Red Drop, only that will do it without injury to the system, or any restrictions whatever. To be obtained at the office, No. 17 Harrison-st. the only place in this city where the Genuine Medicine can be obtained. Price $1 per vial. Advice gratis. mh12-2t

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

A COUNCIL SUPPER.—(BY SNAPS.)

The poet hath attended a supper given by the fathers of the city, or in other words, the members of the City Council, and hath enjoyed himself much.

According to the previous motion,
Which was a bumper, first-rate notion,
The epicures did all agree,
To join and have a council spree,
Or if you please, a jovial supper,
And sure enough it was a whopper.
On Thursday night, at eight o'clock,
To Richard's went the chosen flock,
Prepared for prompt, immediate action,
On bills which gave great satisfaction;
Fifty strong were there assembled,
All of whom quite much resembled
Wise counsellors or men of state,
Who sure are destin'd to be great.

Some members, so report hath said,
Had eaten nothing but dry bread
For days before the wonted feast,
And that they had their stomachs greased;
Those liberal minds went for expansion
In all things of a small dimension;
They're fond of good things, fond of mirth,
And sure to have their money's worth.
A few there were for backing out,
Who had a kind of serious doubt,
That suppers might beset with sin,
And kinder-sorter suck 'em in;
They urged an excellent defence,
The argument of temperance.

The host produced no common board,
With plenty were the tables stored;
Terrapins, oysters, canvas-backs,
Trimmings, etc., and such nick-nacks,
Turkeys well roasted, turtle soup,
And pullets from the chicken-coop;
Yes, every thing that man could wish,
Of vegetable, fowl, flesh or fish,
Were placed before him all complete,
So that he could not help but eat.

The eating done, champagne was brought,
The corks went pop as quick as thought,
And ere the bubbles ceased to rise,
Its spirit peeped through many eyes.
Wit, sharp and keen, went round the board,
And if our head had been a gourd,
It surely would have been elated,
To see grave counsellors animated.

Come, fill your glasses, here's a toast—
"Our sixth ward member, friend and host,
May he live long to legislate,
In council-chamber or in state."

"Well now," says B., "I guess I'll try
And make to this some short reply:
I find you want from me a speech,
Then here's to one, to all and each,
Who now surround this festive table,
May they be always hale and able
To stand with boldness to the rack,
And take a good, substantial snack."

A rap was on the table made,
When Mr. C. arose and said—
"Here, by my coat and by my button,
I'll give a toast to member Hutton;
A man is he of judgment strong,
Whose vote is seldom ever wrong."

"I'm not accustomed much to speaking,
But sure as I'm alive and kicking,
I can't withstand this compliment,
Then here's to all, with one consent,
A good, fat supper every year,
Such as you see before you here."
This toast went off with much eclat,
And some were struck with silent awe,
To see the member stand so bold,
When from his lips the words were told.

Friend B. did kindly toast the Clipper,
"That's good," said J., "let's have a sipper,"
And so, in fashion, touched our glasses,
Then made some compliment'ry passes:
"Here's luck to you," said J. to B.,
"And while your bark is on life's sea,
May prosperous breezes still be given,
To waft you to some genial haven.

That story of the humming-bird,
Was told in spirit, word for word,
Each action suited to the point,
Which seem'd to nimble every joint
Of him who shew'd how great a pest
Was that thing call'd a hornet's nest;
Struggling then, 'mid hopes and fears,
He gain'd himself three hearty cheers.

Various sentiments were given,
In number more than thirty-seven;
Enjoyment reigned throughout the scene,
A modest though delighted queen;
'Till time stole on with steady pace,
And bade each guest his steps retrace
For that bright spot where pleasures beam,
The home of pure contentment's dream.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT,

By and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

AN APPEAL OF THE WASHINGTON TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.

The unexampled success which has crowned the exertions of the Washington Temperance Society of Baltimore, the extraordinary increase of members, and the general interest awakened in the cause of total abstinence from intoxicating drinks, have induced us to apply for a charter to the Legislature of Maryland, that we might enjoy all the privileges of incorporated associations, and maintain an attitude of becoming dignity before the public.

One cherished object is, the erection of an edifice of suitable dimensions for the accommodation of our own numerous and constantly increasing society, as well as for the convenience of other Temperance, Library, or Musical Associations, which may choose to occupy it.

The ground formerly occupied by Christ church, near Market street bridge, has been secured, and a more appropriate location, for a large public building, could not be desired.

We design to raise the money by stock, in shares of $10 each, for the particulars of which, and plan of the building, &c. we beg leave to refer to the advertisement of the Executive and Building Committees.

It is our earnest wish to dispose of this stock, and we appeal most confidently to the members of Temperance Societies generally, to aid us in this laudable enterprise. We shall furnish them with a most commodious place of meeting, and the very fact of many Societies convening at the same place, will tend greatly to concentrate our energies and redouble our influence.

We appeal to the various Literary Societies of our city, who at present, have but limited or very expensive accommodations. The rooms we design to furnish, will be admirably adapted to the purposes of such associations. We appeal to property holders and capitalists to come to our aid, believing that a safer investment of money could not be made. We appeal to the friends of public improvement, and to men of architectural taste, as we design to erect an edifice which will be an ornament to our city, consecrated as it will be to the cause of humanity, literature and science.

A spacious public building of this kind has long been wanted in our city. It has been with great difficulty that some of our literary associations could procure rooms sufficiently capacious for their lectures, during the present winter, and then only, at an enormous rent. We now propose to furnish halls for the accommodation of such institutions, and we conceive that we have a right to call upon them for encouragement. We invite all who feel interested in the promotion of morality and science in our city, to aid us in this praiseworthy enterprise, believing that incalculable benefits will thereby be conferred on us and our posterity. We further and lastly appeal to the Ladies of our city, they being so much interested in the cause we have espoused—a cause so fraught with blessings to themselves and the rising generation.

WM. K. MITCHELL, Pres't.

THE BUILDING COMMITTEE OF THE WASHINGTON TEMPERANCE SOCIETY beg leave to report—

That they have selected the scite for the Hall in the lot formerly occupied by Christ Church, adjoining Baltimore street Bridge, it being the most central situation in our city, and on one of the principal thoroughfares. We propose to erect thereon a plain and substantial building, on the most improved plan, suitable for the various societies and public meeting. It is contemplated that the main floor or Hall will be capacious enough to seat comfortably 3500 persons, other rooms for 1000 to 1500 each, leaving one room to be used for a Library and Reading Room, should it be advisable,—also, six stores fronting on Baltimore street, which is calculated will bring a rent of 1500 dollars—in addition to the receipts of the several furnished rooms, which we have every reason to presume one or more will be occupied every day or evening in the year by the various societies, and at a reasonable rent. On the building we purpose erecting a TOWER, with an ILLUMINATED CLOCK, and an ALARM BELL. Your committee are of the opinion that the Hall, after paying the interest of the stock, will leave a surplus in the hands of the society which will not only enable it to redeem the stock at an early period, but give them the means to establish a LIBRARY and READING ROOM, free of charge. All of which is respectfully submitted.

The undersigned, appointed by the Washington Temperance Society of the city of Baltimore as an Executive Committee, for the purpose of erecting and disposing of a sufficiency of stock to build a Hall in aid of the Temperance cause, do hereby present the following resolutions as the basis upon which they solicit aid in carrying out the noble and praiseworthy objects of the Society:

First. The stock shall be issued in shares of ten dollars each—one dollar of which to be paid at the time of subscribing, and the balance in instalments of not more than one dollar per month thereafter.

Second. On payment of the last instalment, transferable certificates of stock shall be issued in the name of the Washington Temperance Society of Baltimore, redeemable at her pleasure; bearing an annual interest of the nett proceeds of the Hall, to be divided annually; reserving all the surplus over and above six per cent. for the purpose of redeeming the stock.

Third. All moneys received by the Committee shall be deposited within twenty-four hours thereafter, in some safe chartered Bank in the city—as may from time to time be designated, and when so deposited, shall not be withdrawn, or any part thereof, unless by vote of the Committee; and no draft shall be valid unless signed by the President and Secretary, and endorsed by the Treasurer of this Committee.

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road.

THE BALTIMORE STEAM PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.

Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.

Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good night's rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

AN ADDRESS. Whatever be the opposition which success encounters—whatever be the malevolence which merit awakens, the fact of Goodwane's triumph in his peculiar department, if not unquestioned, is beyond doubt unquestionable.

Malignant rivals may misrepresent, and sectional jealousy wrest and pervert the best and purest intentions, but the professional knowledge and integrity, and consummate ovation of the present system of penmanship, have been too long confessed to require any labored eulogy from friends, or any advocacy against interested opponents.

The hour has been when freemen might avail:

LOOK OUT!!
"Caution" is the Parent of Safety.

AN ATTACK of the "PILES" may be positively prevented by using (when the premonitory symptoms are felt) the celebrated HAYS' LINIMENT. There are more than one thousand people in this city, and in the United States an immense number, who have suffered beyond endurance by this dreadful complaint, who keep themselves wholly free from attacks by applying this Liniment when they feel any symptoms of its approach—of this there is the most perfect proof.

The points of delivery may be at Baltimore, Georgetown, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any other point upon the line of the road, and the proposal will state the places as well as times at which the Lumber will be furnished.

Proposers to whom more than one of the places just named are accessible, will separately state their prices for delivery at each; so as to allow an option to the Company in regard to them should the proposal be accepted.

The hewn Timber, intended for the cross-ties and support-blocks, may be of white oak, rock-oak or chesnut oak, or of chesnut. It must be sound wood, and straight in one direction. If the proposer prefers delivering it in the rough state, and does not wish to undertake the hewing of it to the required dimensions he can so word his proposal, and in that case the size of the sticks must be such as to permit them, when dressed, to be of the full dimensions specified, clear of bark and axe-kerf. If the timber is cut while the bark is loose, it must be stripped off before the delivery. The delivery may be made upon any point of the line, between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland, and the points between which it will take place must be stated. There are to every mile of track 31,680 feet board measure of 4½x8, and 26,400 feet of 3x10 scantling, 1056 cross ties dressed to 4½ inches thick, and 302 dressed to 3 inches thick. Proposals will not be received for a less quantity of any of the kinds of timber, than will lay a mile of track.

The Castings for the chairs and plates will be of an easy pattern—they must be of strong and sound metal, and smoothly cast—the contractor furnishing the patterns. The screw bolts and nuts will be of sound, tough iron and made with exactness to the required form and size. The washers will be of bar-iron, rolled with the proper section, cut off and punched for the passage of the bolt. The zinc plates similarly made. The hook-headed spikes to be of iron of as good a quality as that of the screw bolts.

The Iron Fastenings just described may be delivered at Baltimore, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any point of the line of the road between the two latter places and the places and times of delivery will be stated in the proposals. There are to every mile of track 7656 lbs. of castings—1584 lbs. of bolts and nuts—591 lbs. of iron washers—105 lbs. of zinc plates, and 2247 lbs. of spikes. No proposal for a less quantity than will supply 10 miles will be received.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid thereon—reserving to the Company the option of paying the said four fifths in Baltimore City 6 per cent stock at par—or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to the contract.

If the materials contracted for, or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered, and no estimates or payments shall be made or on account of materials delivered before the time specified for commencing the delivery of the same. The monthly payments shall be made at the Company's offices in Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh, Virginia, at the option of the contractor, and the final payments shall be made in Baltimore. The manner and times in which the materials shall be furnished on the different parts of the line will be specifically provided for in the contracts, and particulars will be given on application to the undersigned. It will be required that about one half of the whole quantity of materials shall be delivered as early as possible between now and the 1st of December next. A model of the rail and its supports and fastenings will be ready for inspection at the Company's office in Baltimore by the 20th current. The proposals will be directed under seal to the subscriber, either at Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh—and will be received up to the 15th of March proximo. By order of the President and Directors,

To Dr. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences.

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,

WOMAN.

A life's fading garden, in sweet fragrance blooming,
A fair flower still lives, when all others are dead;
A bright star, night's darkness is brilliantly burning,
When every orb other, beside it, has fled:
That flower ne'er withers, in winter or storm,
That star's ne'er beclouded. 'Tis woman's fair form.

When hope's radiant beams on life's vista is fading,
And the future seems shrouded in darkness & gloom;
When sorrow man's loveliest prospects is shading,
And summer's fair flowers have lost their gay bloom
If woman's bright countenance beams but the while,
Man's loneliest desert, with beauty will smile.

When Death's gloomy vapors are rapidly falling,
And the world is receding forever from view;
When the untried future the soul is appalling,
And the heart can no longer time's objects pursue.
On the gloom of that hour, kind woman will shed
A halo of glory, to soothe e'en Death's bed.

I wonder if woman, in yon blest dominion,
Where pleasures unmingled forever abide;
Whilst soaring with angels on seraphine pinion,
Dost not man's felicities measurably guide.
If heav'ns bright glories fill not his whole heart,
Woman surely must fill the untenanted part.

MARY HART.

[CONCLUDED FROM OUR LAST.]

On the morning of the third day, a pursuit of the retreating foe was ordered, the trail of which led them down to the Pee, to the plantations of two brothers, Josiah and Robert Hart, about forty miles below the battle-ground above described. As they approached these settlements, it needed no prophet's ken to anticipate the fate of these unhappy families. The Indians, still counting scarcely less than two hundred warriors, came upon them the second night.

Josiah Hart had a wife, a son, and two daughters, the youngest of whom, MARY, was nine years of age. The family of Robert Hart, living about a mile from his brother, consisted of himself, two sons, a married daughter, and son-in-law. The log cabin of Robert, as is usual in that country, was built in two separate parts, with an open space or court between, over which the roof of the building extended, the door of each part being in the middle of this court, opposite to each other. Aware of the dangers to which he was exposed, Mr. Hart had 'chinked' the logs, before open and admitting of being fired through by the musketry or rifles of an enemy, leaving here and there a port-hole, through which the tenants might be able to repulse assailants. He was also provided with nine pieces of fire-arms, rifles, double-barrel and other, kept constantly charged, and ready for a sudden emergency. In one of these buildings, the whole family slept, their arms and ammunition, while the watch-dog kept his post without.

At the mid-hour of this fatal night, they were suddenly awakened by the earnest barking of the dog, and the simultaneous yells of the Indians.—The dog was soon silenced by the rifles of the savages; and the subsequent stillness without, except when interrupted by the occasional light tread or sudden bound of the wily foe around the house, reconnoitring, in preparation for the execution of his purpose, was fearful. Having failed in their usual stratagem of driving out the tenants of the house in affright, by the yells of their onset, in an opposite direction, where they would be sure to fall into the hands of a party in ambush, they sought opportunity to make an attack through the crevices of the logs which composed the walls of the building. Not succeeding in this, for the reason before mentioned, and not venturing yet to enter the court, for fear of a fire from within, which had not yet opened upon them, their next device was, to kindle a fire under the side of the dwelling, by which, if successful, they were sure of their prey. This, however, they could not well do in the dark, without becoming marks for an unseen hand.—Accordingly, the first attempt proved fatal to those engaged in it, and two or three Indians fell before the sure aim of the rifle from within the walls. Hour after hour, in painful suspense, passed away, with now and then a shot from either party, to little or no purpose, except that a chance ball from an Indian rifle found its way between the logs, and wounded Mr. Hart's daughter in the arm. Not daring to strike a light, they endeavored, as well as they could, to bind it up, and to staunch the blood. At length a lurid light cast upon the clouds, discovered to Mr. Hart that his brother's house was in flames, and a yell of triumph broke from the horde of savages by whom he and his children were environed, secure, though less successful hitherto, in accomplishing the same object. The flames rose higher, and threw upon this besieged habitation a flood of light, that compelled the besiegers to retire behind the out-houses for protection, as they would otherwise be exposed to the fire of Mr. Hart and his sons.

Day dawned at last, and a desultory fire was commenced, as chance invited, and as an Indian head was exposed to view. Several of the Indians fell. Exasperated by these failures, they resolved to set the house on fire at any hazard. They collected combustibles, chose their position, and rushed with fire and kindling-wood under the stick chimney of the house, where, as it happened, the rifles from within could not be brought to bear. The smoke was soon felt in the house, and not a moment was to be lost. Despair finds weapons; and by the concert of an instant, a bold device was projected, to strike through the frail chimney-back on the heads of the Indians, and by a sudden sortie, drive them from the field, to purchase to themselves an opportunity of escape to the Fort, about seven miles distant. It was done. Three or four Indians were killed, and the rest fled. In some two hours after, Mr. Hart and his children were all safely lodged in the Fort, having left their house to pillage and flames, to which it was doomed in the course of that morning, so soon as the Indians had mustered a stronger force, and returned to renew the attack. Plunder was all they had to enjoy.

About thirty-six hours after the Indians had quitted the plantation of the Harts, which they had left a scene of ruin and of carnage, and descended the river, little dreaming of being pursued by the party whose power they had felt two days before, General Wellborn and his men came in sight of the smoking ruins of Josiah Hart's habitation and out-houses. Not a living creature moved before their eyes, and every aspect was that of desolation. From a party in the advance, so soon as they approached the ruins, a cry of horror and vengeance arose, which broke the awful silence of the place; and each one, as he came near, was petrified at the spectacle which was presented. In a yard, a few rods from the house, lay the mangled and naked bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Hart, their son, and eldest daughter; and a little removed from them, the body of Mary, also naked, with her skull apparently broken in by a pine-knot, which lay by her side, covered with scattered hair and blood. She was lying upon her side, her person stabbed in several places, from head to foot, and the blood of each wound extending in unbroken coagulation to the ground, which had drank the crimson streams. The sight of Mary was not so fearful as that of the rest of the family, though sufficiently shocking. It was evident, that she had never struggled or moved, from the moment she was left in that position, thirty-six hours before. Save her wounds, her appearance was that of an innocent, marble repose.

The mutilated and mangled condition of the other members of the family was too horrible to be recorded. Mr. Hart had been pierced with many balls; Mrs. Hart with less; each had been shot; and all were covered and disfigured with ghastly wounds. The spectacle filled the men with absolute madness. They raved, stamped, ran to and fro, struck the trees and stones with their clenched hands, until the blood flowed from the blows, without seeming to feel the wounds they inflicted on themselves; and they cried 'Vengeance! Vengeance! Vengeance!' till all the region rang with it, and loud enough to wake the sleeping dead.

And it did awake the dead! Surrounded at this moment by a throng of these exasperated beholders, who were looking upon her innocent countenance, and raising these fearful cries, but not having yet presumed to touch this relic of mortality, little Mary Hart opened her eyes, turned up her face, and said, audibly and distinctly, 'How they did beat us!' and then closed her eyes, and turned back, clasped again in the same silent and death-like repose! The moment was awful, and the feelings of the spectators entirely changed. The innocent victim was carefully approached, tenderly lifted up, her wounds bathed, and the proper surgical applications attached.—On examination, it was found that life was not extinct; but she was so literally drained of her blood, that no symptom of reviving animation could be awakened. Wrapped in a blanket, she was carried on horseback in the arms of General Wellborn to the Fort, with little more sign of life than when first taken from the ground, and was committed to the charge of her uncle and his family, whose escape has already been narrated.

The troops started off in hot pursuit of the flying foe, and after two days' march overtook them in Florida. Thirty-nine of them were slain in the engagement that ensued; many prisoners were taken, with the booty from the pillaged houses of the Harts; and the rest took flight to the town of Conchatto Mecco, where they surrendered for emigration, and the Creek war was ended.

Mary Hart, by means of tender nursing, and the restoring powers of nature, gradually recovered. The indenture in the skull proved not to be a fracture, and she is now supposed to be as well as if the massacre had never happened.—She is at this time twelve or thirteen years of age, and sole heiress to a great estate.

PRESENTATION.

Yesterday, at half after two o'clock, his Excellency M. A. de Bodisco, the Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the Emperor of Russia to the United States, accompanied by the Secretary of Legation, M. de Stoeckl, was presented to the President by the Secretary of State.

M. de Bodisco delivered the following address, to which the President made the subjoined reply:

ADDRESS OF M. A. DE BODISCO.

I have the honor to present myself before you, Mr. President, as the Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of his Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias, to congratulate you upon your elevation to the Chief Magistracy of the confederation of the United States.

Called by the most flattering suffrages to preside over the destinies of seventeen millions of Americans, you enter, Mr. President, upon the exercise of your high functions at an epoch when all the foreign relations of the United States present themselves under a gratifying aspect, and the assurances that you have, of your own accord, given on the day of your inauguration, afford an additional guaranty for their duration.

I esteem myself happy, Mr. President, to be able to assure you that my august master the Emperor desires most sincerely the continuation of the friendly relations so happily established between Russia and the United States; and all my wishes, Mr. President, will be gratified if, with your amicable concurrence, it shall be reserved for me to draw still closer the bonds of the relations already existing.

I pray you, Mr. President, to be assured that it is my sincere wish to render myself constantly worthy of the esteem of the Chief Magistrate of the Union.

REPLY OF THE PRESIDENT.

I receive, sir, the congratulations which you offer me, in your capacity of Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the Emperor of all the Russias, upon my election to the Presidency of the United States, with great pleasure.

From the epoch which introduced the United States to the world as an independent nation, the most amicable relations have existed between them and the powerful and distinguished Monarchs who have successively swayed the sceptre of Russia. The Presidents, my predecessors, acting in behalf and under the authority of the People, their constituents, have never failed to use every proper occasion to confirm and strengthen the friendship so auspiciously commenced, and which a mutuality of interests render so desirable to be continued. I assure you, sir, that none of them felt the obligations of this duty more powerfully than I do, and you cannot in language too strong communicate to your august Monarch my sentiments on this subject. And permit me to add, that no more acceptable medium of communicating them could have been afforded than that of a personage who has rendered himself so acceptable, as well to the People as to the Government of the United States.—Ib.

SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

FRIDAY, March 12, 1841.

The resolution submitted yesterday by Mr. Rives, to grant extra pay to those persons connected with the Senate who had been pretermitted in a former resolution "making additional allowances," &c. was briefly discussed, and, on motion of Mr. Huntington, laid on the table.

The Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business, and, after some time spent therein, adjourned to Monday.

The following is a corrected list of the yeas and nays on the resolution dismissing Blair & Rives as Printers to the 27th Congress, and on the delivery of their bond (errors having unluckily occurred in the list published yesterday:)

Yeas—Messrs. Archer, Barrow, Bates, Berrien, Choate, Clay of Ken., Clayton, Dixon, Evans, Henderson, Huntington, Kerr, Mangum, Merrick, Miller, Morehead, Porter, Preston, Rives, Simmons, Smith, of Indiana, Southard, Tallmadge, White, Woodbridge—25.

NORTH CAROLINA. The Raleigh Register of Tuesday says:—Our banks have again suspended the payment of their liabilities in Specie. They have been compelled to this course, because their credits with foreign Banks from Philadelphia to this city, have become wholly unavailable for Specie purposes. Hitherto, a Draft on a Virginia or Philadelphia Bank, has answered the same purpose as Specie, and our Banks have thus been strengthened in their ability to meet their responsibilities; but now their Checks on the Virginia and more northern Banks, being paid in current notes only, they are no longer available as Specie payments.

In republishing the foregoing paragraph, the Richmond Compiler of Thursday adds:—Our Banks stand now pretty much alone. If they can continue to pay specie while there is no place whence they can draw specie to restore what they pay out, and what is worse exchange with New York five per cent. against us—and render the proper aid to trade at the same time, they will do wonders.

LATEST FROM TEXAS. The steam ship Savannah arrived at New Orleans on the 3d inst., bringing five days later news from Texas.

A flying report prevailed in Galveston that Mexico had recognized the independence of Texas: this is of course all "Elizabeth Martin."

Great preparations are being made in Houston to celebrate the 2d of March—the 5th anniversary of Texan Independence.

The following appointments of Foreign Ministers have been made by the acting President since the adjournment of Congress: Gen. T. J. Green to England; W. H. Dangerfield to France, and Judge Webb to Mexico. Mr. Mayfield has been appointed Secretary of State.

John Willis, consul for Marseilles, France.
Edwd. Peravay, Havre, France.
M. Theodore Barbey, Paris, France.
Arthur Iken, London, England.
Wm. Bryan, New Orleans, La.
John F. Cortes, Natchitoches, La.
Henry H. Williams, Baltimore, Md.
Jos. B. Brown, Key West, Fa.
Walker Smith, Mobile, Ala.
Thos. Lynch Hamilton, Charleston, S. C.
Thos. A. Dexter, Boston, Mass.
John H. Brower, New York.
Moses Patten, Bangor, Maine.
Benj. Drake, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Francis Gurney Smith, Philadelphia, Pa.
Calvin C. Jackson, Detroit, Mich.

Col. Wm. G. Cooke had returned to Austin, having traversed the route of the road, and established one post on Red river, a short distance above Coffee's Station, and another on the Trinity. He has been nominated by a large meeting in Austin, as a candidate for the Vice Presidency.

Santa Anna recently used the following language in a letter to Arista, in speaking of the termination of the war with the Federalists—"Having happily terminated this war, you can dedicate yourself more successfully to the new campaign against Texas, or at least secure our frontier against the Indians and those perfidious adventurers."

☞A resolution has passed both branches of the Legislature of Louisiana, ordering a geological survey of the state. It was introduced by Mr. Wadsworth. Another resolution has been introduced by the same member, providing for the opening of a public botanical garden.

☞An individual went to the box-office of the St. Charles, on the day of opening, and offered to take the whole of the first tier and parquette, and pay the price asked, $3 a ticket. This offer was of course refused.

DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	"	Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	"	Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is *sure of a connection through*out, whilst it is evident that Foul Roads Weather!! and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

LIME! LIME!! LIME!!!

THE subscribers respectfully inform their friends and the public, that they have on hand, and intend keeping a constant supply of superior Alum and Bottom LIME, (burned in a conical kiln, so highly recommended by our State Geologist, Professor DUCATEL,) and that they are prepared to sell the same at the kiln at 33 1-3 cents for cash, for first quality. As our object is to furnish a first rate article at the lowest possible price, we respectfully solicit a share of public patronage.

We have also on hand, about 5,000 bushels Oyster Shell and Air Slacked ALUM LIME, which we will sell on favorable terms, for farming purposes.

RAIL ROAD NOTES. A wiseacre in Philadelphia, who conceits that he is very knowing in currency matters, states, that the reason why the banks of this city will not take rail road notes is, that they are below par. Had the knowledge of the writer equalled his presumption, he would not have hazarded an assertion so at variance with truth. Rail road notes are at par in Baltimore in all ordinary transactions, and pass current in the purchase of property of every description, and in payment of all debts excepting those due to the banks. Before the last suspension by the banks, these notes were received by many of them at par; but when the suspension took place they were refused, and immediately fell to two per cent. discount for bankable purposes: so that the depreciation in the value of the rail road is attributable, not to any distrust of their goodness by the community, but to the action of the banks. It was a blow aimed at the interests of the citizens of Baltimore by their banks, and the policy of the measure can be comprehended by any person of ordinary understanding. The banks know that these notes are of superior value to their own—they know that they are received by all classes of the community; they therefore refuse them, to place them at a discount, that they may procure them through the agency of brokers, loan them out, and thus make a clever operation. All this is perfectly understood in Baltimore, because it is of daily practice; and it is of this that we complain. If the banks object to the reception of rail road notes—if they desire to suppress their circulation and compel them to be stocked, let them redeem their own notes, so as to substitute a small specie currency. But, so long as they refuse to do this, they have no right to discredit the currency which their own impudence has forced upon the people. Banish the rail road notes and what would then be the currency of Baltimore? We know what the banks would desire, viz: to substitute their own small notes, if the legislature would permit. But if this were not permitted then we should have another issue of irresponsible shinplasters. The rail road notes cannot be driven out of circulation—it is the interest of the people to keep them afloat—and it remains to be seen, whether the banks can continue their present unjustifiable course. The tax, in the shape of discount upon these notes, forced by the banks from merchants and all others who have business with them, is a heavy and oppressive burthen, and one to which the people ought not to submit. It has excited a great deal of indignant feeling, and if continued, will be apt to cause a movement which will render the banking institutions powerless for injury in this particular. If the question be, whether the banks or the people shall rule, it will be of easy decision.

WAYS AND MEANS. The committee of ways and means in the House of Delegates have had an arduous and delicate duty to perform in devising a suitable bill to supply the state treasury with the funds necessary to meet demands. The enormous sum necessary to be raised, has required the most careful investigation as to proper objects of taxation, so as to make the burthen fall as equally as possible upon every description of property. The able chairman of the committee has discharged this portion of his duty with distinguished ability, and made the bill comport, as nearly as practicable, with that provision of the constitution which requires that every one shall contribute toward the support of government in proportion to his worth in real and personal property. The impossibility of passing this and other similar bills during the period limited by the constitution for the session of the Legislature, has rendered it necessary to hold an extra session. This will afford the chairman and members of the committee, as well as members of the Legislature generally, the opportunity to prosecute their investigations and to ascertain public sentiment. There may be various objects properly subject to taxation, which have escaped observation, and we think that the license system could be extended with advantage. Capital should be reached in all its ramifications.

READING ROOM SOCIETY OF ST. MARY'S COLLEGE. We have been furnished with a copy of the Address delivered before this association on the 22d of February last, by Harry T. Hays, of Mississippi. The address is concise, able and patriotic, and cannot be read with other than feelings of admiration. In style and sentiment it does great credit to Mr. Hays, who has exhibited in a brief space, the character of Washington in all its attractive beauties, whilst he enforces with true patriotism, the necessity of adherence to the principles of the Father of his country. The society did but justice to the author in unanimously requesting a copy of the address for publication.

LOTTERIES. The act altering the constitution of Maryland so as to prohibit the legislature from making farther lottery grants, having been confirmed at the late session, the lottery system in this state must cease with the expiration of the present grants. This may be considered something gained by the opponents of lotteries, but it is nothing to boast of, for we believe that the grants now in existence will suffice to keep the lottery business in operation for twenty years to come, according to the present mode of drawing lotteries.

TO CORRESPONDENTS. Our poetical correspondents must be patient. We have received, during the last week, a number of very beautiful pieces, all of which have been carefully read and approved.

"Lines written on being present during the communion service, at one of the Churches in Baltimore," have many beautiful thoughts handsomely expressed. They have our approbation, and shall appear.

"Lines to Mrs. R.," by "Milford Bard," are upon our file for publication. There is one thing in the Milford's poetry, which, in itself, is well enough, but we would suggest that he omit using so frequently, the sentence—"Heaven's high halls."

"Intemperance," by G. W. M., are upon a common theme, but so cleverly written as to merit our approbation.

"To M. L.," by "S.," will probably interest the particular, more than the general reader.—The stanzas, however, are pretty, and shall have a place in our journal.

The notice of Mr. Hill—his dancing academy, &c. of Washington city, would be entitled to an insertion, if paid for. It is too much after the form of an advertisement, for publication under other circumstances.

"He don't like me," by our fair and esteemed correspondent Emily, shall be forthcoming.

"Lines to the Milford Bard, on seeing him take the pledge of the Washington Temperance Society," are beautiful, and shall be given to the public.

"Chinkapin" has made a very good "first attempt." He will hear from us.

"An Eye Witness" to the recent outbreak at the jail, is rejected. We cannot admit anonymous communications upon that subject.

"Female Society," a prose article, by O. L. C. contains some excellent remarks. The writer is very careless in punctuation. We shall give the effusion an overhauling, and publish it as soon as practicable, with proposed amendments.

CHRYSTAL FOUNT TEMPERANCE SOCIETY. We have before us the preamble and pledge of the above appropriately named society. Aside even from the grand object of this association there is a halo, a charm thrown round the very name, marked for its beauty, simplicity and romance. It at once signifies the laudable object of those who became initiated to membership. They pledge themselves to abstain from all intoxicating liquors, and as the name is ominous, will quench that thirst natural to man, as was designed by his Creator, by drinking from the Chrystal Fount.

We have been informed that one of the primary objects of this society is, that its influence may reach, and receive generally the support and encouragement of the Order of Independent Odd Fellows. These brothers in the great cause of charity have already been instrumental in producing an almost incalculable amount of good, and are, according to their own rule, pledged to temperance in all things; but if their concerted exertions are likewise given directly to the promotion of temperance by means of a temperance society, the boundaries of their present salutary influence may be much more widely spread and more generally felt. But six meetings of the "Chrystal Fount" have as yet been held, during which it has increased in numbers to 140. At the approaching annual temperance convention and procession it is believed they will make a very strong turn out. To so good a cause we can wish nothing but prosperity.

TELEGRAPHS. On the utility of telegraphs, we need make no comment. In time of war, they are essentially necessary, and even during peace, they may be very serviceable. In France, they have been adopted with the most beneficial effect; and the French system of telegraphs has been considered the most perfect in the world; but E. Gonon, who memorialized Congress at the late session on this subject, is said to have made discoveries and improvements in the system, which promise to render it entirely perfect, communications by telegraph being carried on by his method with wonderful rapidity and exactness.—He made experiments before the authorities of New Orleans, who highly recommend his system; and the Senate of the United States was so convinced of its superiority and usefulness, that they passed a bill appropriating $5,000 for experiments between Baltimore and Washington; but this bill was lost in the House of Representatives for the want of time. We hope that Mr. Gonon will again present the subject to the consideration of Congress at the extra session, and that the proposed appropriation will be made.

MCLEOD. It seems that the trial of this man is not to be removed to Albany, but is to take place this day at Lockport. He is an important character, having engaged the attention of the American and British governments and people, and having, perhaps, the decision of the question of peace or war dependant on his fate. He avows himself innocent of the crime with which he stands charged, notwithstanding previous contrary declarations which he is said to have made. We should not be surprised to find it proved that he had nothing to do with the affair of the Caroline, and that he has got into the power of the law by his own imprudent boasting. As his arrest and confinement have caused so great a sensation, and such momentous consequences seem to be involved in the issue of his trial, we have no doubt that the authorities of New York will be careful not to permit extraneous influences to operate against him.

ISTHMUS OF DARIEN. The great undertaking of making the canal across the Isthmus of Darien seems at length to be in a fair way to be accomplished through the medium of the Franco-Granadian Company, established in Paris. The necessary funds are already provided, and the work will be immediately commenced, and prosecuted to its completion.

TWO DROWNED BODIES FOUND. Yesterday morning the bodies of two white men were found drowned in the dock at Kerr's wharf, on the Point. One of the individuals had been employed by Mr. Harrison to watch some merchandise, on Gray's dock. During the night, he got into some difficulty with a seaman, and, while in the scuffle, fell overboard, and was drowned.

While some persons were grappling for the body of a pilot who has been missing for some days, and who, it is supposed, has been drowned, they accidentally hauled up the body of an individual, apparently a laboring man, who could not be recognized, and who, it is thought, has been in the water some eight or ten days. The face and features were much disfigured. The jury, in both cases, returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

A PUBLIC NUISANCE. It is counter to the city ordinances, for any person or persons to place, or cause to be placed on the public sidewalks, boards, boxes, barrels, or rubbish of any description, and there permit it to remain a longer time than twenty-four hours. Now, we will refer the street commissioners, or city police, to Fayette street, between Holliday and Gay streets. They will there find, in front of a cabinet maker's establishment, a large pile of boards, which occupy nearly the whole pavement. These boards have, to our knowledge, been in the same situation for the last three or four days. A gentleman of our acquaintance ran against them on Saturday night last, and was very seriously injured. If the nuisance is not removed to-day, we shall be heard from to-morrow.

GAS COMPANY. We had a visit on Saturday last from the President and principal agent of the Gas Company. They wished us to contradict a statement made in our paper of Saturday, in an article under the head of "public good," wherein we spoke of the comparative cost of Camphine and Gas light. We can find no reason to contradict anything we have said or any statement made in the article alluded to, but on the contrary are prepared, if necessary, to add further testimony to what has been already stated.

POLICE. Geo. Keever was brought up on Saturday charged with assaulting and beating his wife. Committed to jail by Squire Gorsuch.

William Steptoe was taken to the police office yesterday, charged by Archibald Johnson with unruly conduct towards himself and wife. Released on security of good behaviour by Squire Gorsuch.

SENTENCED. William Baker and Owen Newman were sentenced at New Orleans on the 3d inst. for passing counterfeit money. The former to five and the latter to two years imprisonment and hard labor.

A. Buel was also sentenced to two years imprisonment at hard labor, for larceny.

☞Fanny Elssler made her first appearance at the St. Charles Theatre, New Orleans, on the 6th inst. The seats were sold at auction at enormous prices. The Pic says the theatre was crowded from PIT to dome. She has made an engagement to dance twelve nights for $12,000.

AWFUL DEATH. A man named Giradeau was caught by the fly wheel of the engine of a ferry boat at New Orleans on the 1st inst. and dragged on the machinery. He was decapitated as clearly as if done by the guillotine. The Picayune of the following day says that it was a suicide.

TEMPERANCE AT LOWELL. On the question, "Shall the Mayor and Aldermen be instructed to grant no licenses for the sale of intoxicating drinks, during the ensuing municipal year?"—the vote was as follows: Yeas, 830; nays 365.

FATAL ACCIDENT. Mr. Joseph Renshaw, of German township, Franklin county, N. Y., was fatally injured a day or two ago, by the bursting of a threshing machine. He died almost immediately.

EX-PRESIDENT VAN BUREN arrived in this city on Saturday, on his way to Kinderhook, and took lodgings at Barnum's. Yesterday he attended divine service at Christ Church, in North Gay street.

☞The gross receipts of the Ladies' Fair which was lately held at the Museum, amounted to one thousand and sixty dollars and fifty-four cents. We congratulate the ladies upon their merited success.

MR. BRAHAM'S CONCERT. It will not be forgotten that the postponed concert of this distinguished vocalist takes place at the Assembly Rooms to-night.

GOING IT TOO STRONG. The Missouri House of Representatives passed a bill at its late session making it an indictable offence to pass or receive (!) a $5 or a $10 note after January, 1842.

U. S. DISTRICT CLERK. Mr. Frederick J. Betts, U. S. Clerk for the District of New York, resigned his situation, and his honor, Judge Betts, announced the appointment in his place of Chas. D. Betts, Esq.

COLLISION. The brig Sparkler had her bulwarks and bowsprit carried away, in the port of Philadelphia, on Friday, by coming against the brig Lexington.

EXTRA SESSION. The Governor of Maryland has issued his proclamation calling an extra session of the Legislature for the 24th instant.

☞John M. Gregory, Esq., has been elected councillor of state for the state of Virginia, instead of Col. Hopkins, resigned.

NAVAL. Com James Renshaw, who was removed from the command of the Navy Yard at Brooklyn, N. Y. by the late Secretary of the Navy, has been reinstated by the present incumbent. Commodore J. B. Nicholson, who was ordered to assume the command, has had his orders revoked, and is now on leave of absence. Purser S. Ramsey has been ordered to the U. S. ship Fairfield.

THE CLARION. An experiment trip was made on Thursday, by this vessel, constructed with Ericsson's propellers, upon a plan entirely new. The experiment was highly satisfactory, the ship running against the tide at the rate of six miles per hour, and fully answering all expectations in regard to her. She had on sails, although her masts and rigging were standing.

WON'T SUBMIT. Some excitement prevails in North Hempstead, L. I., in consequence of an attempt to collect a tax put upon the town by the auditors to pay the costs incurred by several private individuals in contesting the right to use a place for depositing manure. The people of the town deny the legality of the tax, and persist in refusing to pay it.

INQUESTS. Three inquests were held in New York on Friday—one on the body of a female named Jane Reilly who died of Delirium Tremens. Another on the body of an infant who died from an over dose of laudanum administered by its nurse. The other on a child found in a wooden box, evidently strangled.

FIRES. The valuable mills, known as the Buckstreet Mills, in Pembroke, New Hampshire, were totally destroyed by fire on the 7th inst.—Loss, 5 to $6000.

The packing-house belonging to the Bridgeton Glass Company, was entirely consumed by fire on Monday last, with its contents, about $5000 worth of glass.

SUICIDE. On Saturday morning last, Mr. Geo. Shoemaker, of Wissenburg township, Pa., committed suicide, by hanging himself in his own house. What makes the circumstance more melancholy, is that his wife lay at the time a corpse in the house, and was to be buried at 10 o'clock that day.

ANOTHER REVOLUTIONARY HERO GONE.—Died in Sand's Point, 27th ult. Capt Noah Mason, 84, a soldier of the revolution. Capt. Mason was at the time of his decease, the keeper of Sand's Point Light House, and had acted in that capacity for thirty-two years.

1st quarter,	$2,163,878 39
2d quarter,	1,544,881 47
3d quarter,	2,390,058 69
4th quarter,	1,458,622 74
	$7,557,441 29

FIRE AND LOSS OF LIFE. The house of Mr. Reuben Simons, near Port Huron, Michigan, was burnt with its contents on the evening of the 13th ult. Mr. John Markham, and one of Mr. Simons' children died of injuries received at the fire.—Several others were much hurt, but they were expected to recover.

FATAL CASUALTY. On Monday evening, as Capt. Linzey Riddell, of Nantucket, was retiring from a public meeting at Franklin Hall, by some mischance he was unfortunately precipitated down the staircase, and so vitally injured by the fall as to live but a few hours.

The Baltimore Clipper makes its appearance with a handsome and appropriate new head.—The Clipper is a sound and lively paper, and receives, we believe, a fair share of the patronage of the Baltimore public.—Planet.

Good—not only "a fair share of patronage," but the patronage of the fair.

THE "HOME" INSURANCE CASE is still progressing in the Superior Court. Nothing new, or of particular interest, has yet been elicited.—Several days must yet elapse before the case will be brought to a close.

PLANTERS AND MERCHANTS BANK STOCK. One hundred and thirty-six shares of Planters and Merchants Bank Stock were sold on the 4th inst. at auction, in Mobile, Ala., at 51, being an advance of 10½ on the last sale about ten days previous.

The House of Representatives of Louisiana have appropriated $3,000 in addition to $5,000 previously appropriated, to procure eight pieces of cannon for their battalion of artillery.

A NOMINATION. The Hon. John Banks, of Berks county, has been nominated by the democrats of Pennsylvania as a candidate for governor at the ensuing election.

KILLED. A labourer on the canal at Lockport, N. Y., was killed last week by the fall of a box of stones upon him.

"Where are the scissors," as the editor said when his ideas were dull, and the devil calling out for copy.

DIGNITY. On Thursday last, a fight occurred between two aldermen of the District of the Northern Liberties, Philadelphia.

WATCH RETURNS. Eastern District—March 13. Edward Flaherty and Andrew Fleming, applied for lodgings. John Kernan and negro Horatio Mills were brought in at 2 o'clock.

Middle District.—Andrew Washington and Benedict Lee applied for lodgings. Thomas Higgins was found in the street at 11 o'clock, intoxicated, and locked up. The door of Howland's dry goods store, in Baltimore street, was found open.

BANK STOCK. Two hundred and eighteen shares of the stock in the Bank of the State of Georgia, owned by the State, were sold by public sale, at Savannah, on the 22d ult. for $90 per share; five other shares sold at $90½. The sale was in obedience to an act of the Legislature, and with the object of discharging a State debt.

MARRIED,

THE SUPERIORITY of HUNTER'S RED DROP for the effectual cure of delicate diseases over every other medicine hitherto discovered, becomes every day more apparent, from its extraordinary demand and universal success in all parts of the Union, as well as Europe. It is acknowledged by physicians to be the great desideratum long sought for, viz: to obtain a remedy that while it eradicates every particle of disease from the system, in no wise impairs the constitution. Possessing these powers, it agrees with the most delicate stomach, strengthens the digestive organs, increases the appetite, and improves the general health. Equally adapted to both sexes, it may be used under all circumstances with perfect safety. A single bottle is always sufficient, even in inveterate cases when used as directed. It requires no restriction in diet whatever, and from its condensed form and easy mode of using it, is particularly adapted to the traveller as well as all others who wish to avoid exposure.

Price $1 per bottle. Sold only at the office No. 17 Harrison-st. Private Rooms attached. Advice gratis. mh15-1t

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it ready to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

CITY COURT. March 13.—George Curlett, was arraigned, charged with assaulting and beating two seamen on the 2d inst. in Baltimore st. It seemed that the seamen had been insulting ladies on the street. Curlett was only chastising them for their rudeness. The Court pronounced the gallant not guilty.

Israel Lincoln, charged with assaulting and beating George H. Fritz, at the corner of Bond and Thames streets, Fell's Point, was found guilty and fined $10 and costs.

Lloyd Stevens, colored, was fined $5 and costs for assaulting and beating an old negro named White. Stevens is now undergoing imprisonment on two other sentences.

Joseph Legar, charged with threatening the life of his aged mother, Elizabeth Legar, was convicted and sentenced to pay a fine of $5 and costs. His mother deposed to prisoner's being a drunken and riotous fellow, often striking her and threatening to burn her house down; and was never sober when he could procure intoxicating drinks.

Daniel Gordon was convicted of an assault on Mary German. It being in evidence that a pint of whiskey figured very conspicuously in the affair, the Court advised the prisoner to place himself within the pale of a temperance society.

Robert Gifford, indicted for firing a pistol loaded with buckshot and ball, into the window of Mr. Peduzi, on Fell's Point, and wounding in the neck an individual named Smith, entered into security in the sum of $500 to appear and answer at the next term. William U. Stewart, charged with participating in the same offence, was remanded to prison, in default of security.

A LAWYER AND A YANKEE. A native of the United States, some time ago, having employed a lawyer in this City to do some business for him, was leaving his office without offering him a fee, when the lawyer observed "My good Sir, you should give me a fee; you should act towards your lawyer as you do towards your horse,—you should give him a feed at starting, if you wish him to perform his journey smartly." "Well, squire," answered Jonathas, "I always use my lawyer, as I do my hogs when I want them to go to the other end of the yard: I put their feed there and they gallop to it." The answer was so ready and so drolly delivered, that the lawyer galloped (like the hog) to his feed, and was well fed by the client.—Montreal Herald.

A WIFE PACKED UP. In the correspondence from Algiers of the Toulonnais, the following singular story is related: During the Marshal's last expedition, one of our chasseurs found, near the tents of a tribe we were ravaging, a sack of considerable magnitude. Without seeking to know its contents, he fastened it on the crupper of his horse. Ere long, to his utter astonishment, he heard a human voice issue from his burthen, and dismounted to solve the mystery. On opening the sack, he discovered a beautiful female, between 16 and 17 years of age, and a valise containing about 10,000 francs. It appears that the young woman was the wife of an Arab, who had thus packed her up, with his money, as his two great valuables, but in his terror had abandoned them both. The soldier placed his living prize on one of the ammunition wagons, and divided the money with his comrades.

"Dat's a fack, Sip! now dat you has swept de cobwebs from my 'magination wid de brush ob your genus, I see de ting jus' in de same light."

The Northampton Courier states that Mr. Saml. Whitmarsh, who went out to Jamaica for the establishment of the silk business in that island, has succeeded in organizing a company, called the Jamaica Silk Company. The Company have made preliminary arrangements, and agreed to pay Mr. Whitmarsh $75,000 for his trees, and a further sum of $20,000 for other purposes.

GOSSIP. The Journal of Commerce advises somebody to start the story that the steamship President was detained by order of the government, and remarks that this would be quite as rational as half the rumors that have been in circulation for a day or two past.

AN APPEAL OF THE WASHINGTON TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.

The unexampled success which has crowned the exertions of the Washington Temperance Society of Baltimore, the extraordinary increase of members, and the general interest awakened in the cause of total abstinence from intoxicating drinks, have induced us to apply for a charter to the Legislature of Maryland, that we might enjoy all the privileges of incorporated associations, and maintain an attitude of becoming dignity before the public.

One cherished object is, the erection of an edifice of suitable dimensions for the accommodation of our own numerous and constantly increasing society, as well as for the convenience of other Temperance, Library, or Musical Associations, which may choose to occupy it.

The ground formerly occupied by Christ church, near Market street bridge, has been secured, and a more appropriate location, for a large public building, could not be desired.

We design to raise the money by stock, in shares of $10 each, for the particulars of which, and plan of the building, &c. we beg leave to refer to the advertisement of the Executive and Building Committees.

It is our earnest wish to dispose of this stock, and we appeal most confidently to the members of Temperance Societies generally, to aid us in this laudable enterprise. We shall furnish them with a most commodious place of meeting, and the very fact of many Societies convening at the same place, will tend greatly to concentrate our energies and redouble our influence.

We appeal to the various Literary Societies of our city, who at present, have but limited or very expensive accommodations. The rooms we design to furnish, will be admirably adapted to the purposes of such associations. We appeal to property holders and capitalists to come to our aid, believing that a safer investment of money could not be made. We appeal to the friends of public improvement, and to men of architectural taste, as we design to erect an edifice which will be an ornament to our city, consecrated as it will be to the cause of humanity, literature and science.

A spacious public building of this kind has long been wanted in our city. It has been with great difficulty that some of our literary associations could procure rooms sufficiently capacious for their lectures, during the present winter, and then only, at an enormous rent. We now propose to furnish halls for the accommodation of such institutions, and we conceive that we have a right to call upon them for encouragement. We invite all who feel interested in the promotion of morality and science in our city, to aid us in this praiseworthy enterprise, believing that incalculable benefits will thereby be conferred on us and our posterity. We further and lastly appeal to the Ladies of our city, they being so much interested in the cause we have espoused—a cause so fraught with blessings to themselves and the rising generation.

WM. K. MITCHELL, Pres't.

THE BUILDING COMMITTEE OF THE WASHINGTON TEMPERANCE SOCIETY beg leave to report—

That they have selected the seite for the Hall in the lot formerly occupied by Christ Church, adjoining Baltimore street Bridge, it being the most central situation in our city, and on one of the principal thoroughfares. We propose to erect thereon a plain and substantial building, on the most improved plan, suitable for the various societies and public meeting. It is contemplated that the main floor or Hall will be capacious enough to seat comfortably 3500 persons, other rooms for 1000 to 1500 each, leaving one room to be used for a Library and Reading Room, should it be advisable,—also, six stores fronting on Baltimore street, which is calculated will bring a rent of 1500 dollars—in addition to the receipts of the several furnished rooms, which we have every reason to presume one or more will be occupied every day or evening in the year by the various societies, and at a reasonable rent. On the building we purpose erecting a TOWER, with an ILLUMINATED CLOCK, and an ALARM BELL. Your committee are of the opinion that the Hall, after paying the interest of the stock, will leave a surplus in the hands of the society which will not only enable it to redeem the stock at an early period, but give them the means to establish a LIBRARY and READING ROOM, free of charge. All of which is respectfully submitted.

The undersigned, appointed by the Washington Temperance Society of the city of Baltimore as an Executive Committee, for the purpose of erecting and disposing of a sufficiency of stock to build a Hall in aid of the Temperance cause, do hereby present the following resolutions as the basis upon which they solicit aid in carrying out the noble and praiseworthy objects of the Society:

First. The stock shall be issued in shares of ten dollars each—one dollar of which to be paid at the time of subscribing, and the balance in instalments of not more than one dollar per month thereafter.

Second. On payment of the last instalment, transferable certificates of stock shall be issued in the name of the Washington Temperance Society of Baltimore, redeemable at her pleasure; bearing an annual interest of the nett proceeds of the Hall, to be divided annually; reserving all the surplus over and above six per cent. for the purpose of redeeming the stock.

Third. All moneys received by the Committee shall be deposited within twenty-four hours thereafter, in some safe chartered Bank in the city—as may from time to time be designated, and when so deposited, shall not be withdrawn, or any part thereof, unless by vote of the Committee; and no draft shall be valid unless signed by the President and Secretary, and endorsed by the Treasurer of this Committee.

Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.

Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

LOOK OUT!!
"Caution" is the Parent of Safety.
AN ATTACK of the "PILES" may be positively prevented by using (when the premonitory symptoms are felt) the celebrated HAYS' LINIMENT. There are more than one thousand people in this city, and in the United States an immense number, who have suffered beyond endurance by this dreadful complaint, who keep themselves wholly free from attacks by applying this Liniment when they feel any symptoms of its approach—of this there is the most perfect proof.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAIL ROAD.

PROPOSALS are invited for the following described MATERIALS to be used in the construction of the Railway Track between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland:

Sawed Lumber for Under-sills and String-pieces.

54,583	sticks of Scantling,	4½x8	inches, and 20 ft.	long, clear of stump shot, containing 2,275,000 feet, board measure.
54,500	do	do	3x10	do do	3,725,000 feet.
				Making together,	6,000,000 feet.

Hewn Timber for Ties and Blocks.

105,600	sticks, hewn flat on two opposite sides, to a thickness of 4½ inches, and width of 6 inches, and 7 feet long.
20,200	sticks, flattened in same manner to a thickness of three inches—width and length same as the preceding.

Cast Iron for Chairs and Plates.

52,800	Joint Chairs, weighing	7½	lbs.	each,	409,000 lbs.
52,800	Middle do	do	4	do	211,000
52,800	Bottom Plates,	do	2¾	do	145,000
				Total lbs. cast iron,	765,000 lbs.

Wrought Iron for Fastenings.

105,600	Screw-bolts, 7½ inches long, and ¾ in diam. wt 1 lb. each,	105,600
105,600	Nuts for same, (1 7 8 sq're, 9-16 thick,) wt. ½ lb. each,	52,800
105,600	Washers, of a wedge form, 3¾ inches long by 2½ wide, and ½ inch average thickness, and weighing 9 16 lb.	59,136
105,600	Plates of rolled Zinc, same length and width, and 1 16 thick, weighing 10 to the pound,	10,560
844,800	Hook-headed Spikes, 4½ inches long, 7-16 square in the shank, and weighing 4½ oz. each,	234,716

The Sawed Lumber may be of white or yellow pine, with not more than an inch of sap on two edges of the stick; free from large knots, shakes or decay of any kind. A portion of the 4½8 scantling may be proposed for to be furnished, of white oak, under the same conditions as to quality. The points of delivery may be at Baltimore, Georgetown, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any other point upon the line of the road, and the proposal will state the places as well as times at which the Lumber will be furnished.

Proposers to whom more than one of the places just named are accessible, will separately state their prices for delivery at each; so as to allow an option to the Company in regard to them should the proposal be accepted.

The Hewn Timber, intended for the cross-ties and support-blocks, may be of white-oak, rock-oak or chesnut oak, or of chesnut. It must be sound wood, and straight in one direction. If the proposer prefers delivering it in the rough state, and does not wish to undertake the hewing of it to the required dimensions he can so word his proposal, and in that case the size of the sticks must be such as to permit them, when dressed, to be of the full dimensions specified, clear of bark and axe-kerf. If the timber is cut while the bark is loose, it must be stripped off before the delivery. The delivery may be made upon any point of the line, between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland, and the points between which it will take place must be stated. There are to every mile of track 31,680 feet board measure of 4½8, and 26,400 feet of 3x10 scantling, 1056 cross ties dressed to 4½ inches thick, and 302 dressed to 3 inches thick. Proposals will not be received for a less quantity of any of the kinds of timber, than will lay a mile of track.

The Castings for the chairs and plates will be of an easy pattern—they must be of strong and sound metal, and smoothly cast—the contractor furnishing the patterns. The screw-bolts and nuts will be of sound, tough iron and made with exactn ss to the required form and size. The washers will be of bar-iron, rolled with the proper section, cut off and punched for the passage of the bolt. The zinc plates similarly made. The hook-headed spikes to be of iron of as good a quality as that of the screw bolts.

The iron Fastenings just described may be delivered at Baltimore, Harper's Ferry, Cumberland, or any point of the line of the road between the two latter places and the places and times of delivery will be stated in the proposals. There are to every mile of track 7056 lbs. of castings—1584 lbs. of bolts and nuts—591 lbs. of iron washers—165 lbs. of zinc plates, and 2247 lbs. of spikes. No proposal for a less quantity than will supply 10 miles will be received.

Monthly estimates will be made of the quantities of each kind of materials so delivered and four fifths of the value at the contract prices will be paid thereon—reserving to the Company the option of paying the said four fifths in Baltimore Clay 6 per cent stock at par—or in the stock orders of the Company at par; and also reserving the option of paying for the remaining fifth in like manner, when the delivery of the whole quantity contracted for shall have been completed according to the contract.

If the materials contracted for, or any part of them are not furnished at the times required, the Company may dissolve the contract and retain the one-fifth due on any which may have been already delivered, and no estimates or payments shall be made or on account of materials delivered before the time specified for commencing the delivery of the same. The monthly payments shall be made at the Company's offices in Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh, Virginia, at the option of the contactor, and the final payments shall be made in Baltimore. The manner and times in which the materials shall be furnished on the different parts of the line will be specifically provided for in the contracts, and particulars will be given on application to the undersigned. It will be required that about one half of the whole quantity of materials shall be delivered as early as possible between now and the 1st of December next. A model of the rail and its supports and fastenings will be ready for inspection at the Company's office in Baltimore by the 20th current. The proposals will be directed under seal to the subscriber, either at Baltimore, Cumberland, or Martinsburgh—and will be received up to the 15th of March proximo. By order of the President and Directors,

100 DOLLARS REWARD.
DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND.
For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Strictures, Diabets or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the ureths of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. CONSUMPTION! CONSUMPTION!!

To DR. SWAYNE.
Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences.
Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.
☞ The above Medicine may always be had in Baltimore of RICHARD NORRIS of WILLIAM, No. 254 Market street, who is the Sole Agent for this Medicine in that city. All orders coming to Philadelphia, must be directed to DR. SWAYNE, SPLENDID NEW LOOKING-GLASS PLATES. PORTRAIT, PICTURE, & LOOKING-GLASS FRAMES, &c. &c.

JUST RECEIVED, by the subscriber, per the Clementine and Europe, from Bremen, the most extensive & superior assortment of GERMAN LOOKING GLASS PLATES ever offered in this market—embracing all the sizes in demand. He has also as good an assortment of FRENCH PLATES as can be found in the city. The public may rest assured that the above are of THE VERY BEST ORDER OF GLASSES, and that they will be sold, wholesale or retail, as cheap as the same quality can be purchased at any other establishment in the United States.

He is extensively prepared to manufacture every variety of Looking-glass, Portrait, and Picture FRAMES (gilt or mahogany) in a style, combining every desirable excellence, which defies competition.

☞ Country merchants and others, in want of any thing in his line, will find it for their interest to call upon him before purchasing elsewhere.

PANTHER FIGHT. The Washington (Ark.) Telegraph says that a young man by the name of John Keller, about 18 years of age had an encounter with four of these dangerous animals at one time, and resulted in his killing three and putting the fourth to flight. The engagement was a very close one, as the gun was considerably disfigured by the marks of the panther's teeth.

A LONG PROBATION. The Louisiana House of Representatives has passed a resolution in favor of an alteration of the Naturalization Laws, so that every foreigner shall reside twenty-one years in the United States before he can be naturalized.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for NEGROES, of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

ORE CLIPPER.

ORNING, March 16, 1841.

...ER. We were surprised at read-...rican of yesterday morning, the ...rk on the case of McLeod: "The ...ow appears to be, to liberate Mc- ...his government offers to stand re- ...e him." The same paper quotes the the editor of the New York American, ...: "The New York American expresses ...pe that the President, under the advice of ...cabinet, will feel it his duty to demand from the Governor of that State, the immediate liberation of McLeod, not as a compliance with the requisition of the British minister, but as a necessary assertion of the constitution and paramount authority of the General Government."

The ground taken in this matter by Mr. Forsyth, in his correspondence with Mr. Fox, is the true ground, and must be maintained at all hazards. The offence for which McLeod has been committed, is against the laws of New York, and is a crime for which he, individually, and not his government, must stand responsible. The jurisdiction of New York over the case, is supreme, and is uncontrolable by the President, or even Congress. If authority be assumed by the General Government to release McLeod, the sovereignty of New York must be overthrown, and the rights of the states be merged in the power of the central government. If this authority be sufficient to release McLeod, it will be found strong enough to arrest the operation of all state laws, and thus, by a consolidation of power, subvert our republican institutions. If McLeod is to be released because the British government thinks proper to assume the responsibility of his acts, then will it be in the power of any foreign government to send amongst us agents for all purposes, even to the raising a servile insurrection, and, by avowing responsibility for the criminal acts of such agents, save them, when detected, from the punishment due to our violated laws.—This doctrine is unsound, and strikes at the very root of state independence. It is totally inadmissible, and will not be approved of by any state in the Union. We do not think that the present administration will swerve from the principles set forth by the late Secretary of State. McLeod is under trial for violating the laws of New York. If that state has the right to enact these laws, she has the right and the power to enforce them. With the local operation of those laws, the General Government cannot interfere; and it would be unexampled and dangerous for the attempt to be made.

The New York American hopes that the Pre... from the Governor of New York the release of McLeod, "as a necessary assertion of the constitutional ..." In this ...ority of the General Government is not "paramount;" nor is there any grant of power in the constitution which would sanction the demand required by the New York editor to be made. However desirable it may be to have the controversy on this subject amicably settled between the two governments, there should be neither usurpation nor yielding on the part of our government. McLeod must stand his trial, or be released by the authorities of New York. If tried and convicted, it will be with the Governor of that State to carry the sentence into effect, or to pardon him, as he may deem expedient. We care not what demand has been made, or what threats, if any, used by the British minister; we are persuaded that President Harrison will not take a step in the business not clearly and unequivocally sanctioned by the constitution.

Were McLeod to be released in compliance with the demand of the British minister, it would exhibit a pusillanimity which would disgrace us in the eyes of the world. It would enable the British government to interfere at all times in our local concerns, and arrest the process of law, by assuming the responsibility of the crimes committed. Suppose that an American were to take the life of the Queen of England, would the government of that country consider it a sufficient exoneration of the guilty individual to have the offence assumed by the government of the United States? Not the criminal would be put to death, and further redress sought from this country.—And where is the difference? McLeod (if guilty) comes within our limits, kills one or more American citizens; destroys American property; is arrested and confined; and when about to be tried for these crimes, the British government interposes and demands that he shall be set free, because his acts were authorized by his superiors. If the President had the power, we should deny the propriety of yielding to this request. The wanton invasion of our territory, by British authority, presents a grave question for discussion between the two governments. That is a distinct affair, not connected with the offence committed against the laws of New York. The actors in that aggression did not come openly as the authorized agents of England, nor were their acts avowed by that government until it was found that McLeod's life was in jeopardy. Those concerned in the destruction of the Caroline and in the murders committed, were looked upon by our people as midnight marauders and assassins, who acted upon their own responsibility; and this opinion would not have been contradicted, had those supposed to be concerned escaped arrest. We never should have known that this infamous assault upon our rights was made by order of the British government. The avowal seems to have been an after-thought to save an individual who was supposed to have done Britain some service by the assassination of American citizens.

We repeat the expression of our conviction that the new demand of the British minister will be met in the same spirit as the former, and that the President will not, under any circumstances, attempt to interpose the authority of the general government to arrest the course of legal proceedings in New York. We are convinced that such attempt would be futile, as the governor of that state would feel himself bound to resist the interference.

We do not wish to excite prejudice against McLeod; on the contrary, we hope that he will have a fair trial; and we are even disposed to believe that he is innocent. But trial he should have, were England to send all her ships of war to back the demand made by her minister. On this point we would not yield a hair's breadth.

EX-PRESIDENT. Mr. Van Buren, Mr. Forsyth, and Mr. Poinsett, arrived in Baltimore on Saturday last, and depart this morning. The ex-President and Mr. Forsyth attended divine service at Christ Church on Sunday morning, where they heard an impressive and eloquent discourse from the Rev. John Johns. During yesterday Mr. Van Buren was called on by numbers of our citizens, who were desirous to pay their respects to him.

It was the first time that we ever had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Van Buren, and we were glad to find him apparently in the enjoyment of robust health. We hope that he may enjoy that tranquillity and happiness in private life which are seldom found in the elevated station which he has just quitted.

We could but muse at the difference between going into and out of office. The man about to assume authority and having the power to bestow office and favor, is borne on the shoulders of the shouting multitude—his every look watched—his every word noted and lauded: flattered and fawned on, he might conceive himself to be a demi-god did not the infirmities of nature remind him of his humanity. But change the scene, and view him retiring from power. Where are now the thronging crowds who rejoiced in his triumph and danced around him as their favored idol?—Voila! Their faces are averted or their backs turned on him. He retires almost solitary and alone. His services are forgotten and his person neglected. Being no longer possessed of the power to give, the interested herd shrink from his presence, and decline "to do him reverence." We do not say that this is precisely the case with Mr. Van Buren; but he would not be exempt from the common fate, were there not hopes that his star may once more be in the ascendant.

We profess to be a plain republican people; but courtiers are as abundant here as in the courts of Europe—and here, as there, "kissing goes by favor." The meritorious are sacrificed by the artful every where. Bonaparte, it is true, looked to merit alone, and hence the ablest of his generals were indebted for their stations to no other influence than that which arose from their ...ers to exercise the discrimination of Napoleon, the country would be better served.

ELLSLER AND SARSAPARILLA. These are the two greatest puffs of the day—at least so we should judge from the tone of the New Orleans papers. It seems that immediately on the arrival of the "Divine Fanny" at New Orleans, Dr. Stillman presented her with a bottle of sarsaparilla, a box of pills, and two copies of the Medical Journal. The illustrious danseuse swallowed the two former, but she could not digest the latter. The effect was astonishing: the first dose enabled her to kick an inch and a quarter higher than usual, and she asked if one of the ingredients was not hops. The second dose made her turn five pirouettes more than usual, and it is said that her stomach turned too. The third dose made her limbs so flexible, and increased their plumpness to such a degree, that she doubled her attraction, and the fourth gave them such elasticity, that she was prevented from jumping, for fear that when she made a leap, she never would be able to come down again! Great is the power of sarsaparilla—but greater by far, oh! beautiful Fanny, thy magnetic qualities. The people of New Orleans will find out too soon, that thou art the prime mover of the specie claws!

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN GOVERNMENTS. A little incident was told us yesterday, which most strikingly illustrated the difference between a republican and a monarchial form of government. A young Scotchman was desirous of seeing Mr. Van Buren, but remarked to a friend that the honor must of course be denied him. In our country, he observed, so humble an individual as myself stands but a slim chance to gain admittance into the courts of honor—we must obey our king and stand aloof. Through persuasion, however, he was induced to call upon the ex-President, a man who had just retired from an office the most distinguished in the world. He shook hands, and was received by his Excellency with courtesy. He retired from his honorable interview, fully convinced of the truth expressed by the bard of his native isle, that

"The rank is but the guinea's stamp,
The man's a gowd for a' that."

And that in this country

"The honest man though e'er so poor
Is king o' man for a' that."

ATTENTION, POLICE. We have been complained to by persons who reside in the neighborhood of St. James' Church, O. T. that there are a number of unruly boys in the habit of collecting in that vicinity on Sundays, who engage in ball-playing, throwing marbles, pitching cents, and caroming to the very great annoyance of the peaceable citizens. This is sufficient for a hint.

THE LITTLE BEGGAR GIRL.—An Incident.—There lives in our city a merchant, who for years past made it an established rule to keep in his store a barrel of herrings, which he always kept open for the accommodation of the poor. An interesting little beggar girl made her acquaintance with our generous merchant. She was admitted to all the privileges of the herring barrel, and consequently paid it daily visits for a long time, taking home with her the quantity that best suited her own taste. One day the litte visitant repaired to the store of her benefactor looking unusually melancholy. She did not partake of the herrings as she had been accustomed to do, but stood with tears in her eyes, looking steadfastly at a very fine, freshly-cut ham, that had been hung up on a nail to the ceiling of the store.—The store-keeper observed the sadness manifest upon his pensioner's countenance, and inquired the cause. After looking down modestly, the little innocent again raised her head, looked into the merchant's face, through a pair of swimming eyes, and remarked, with a faltering, artless voice, "Indeed, kind sir, marm has got tired of fish, and so has me—can't you have the goodness to gim me some of that 'ere ham, jis' for a change?" "Yes, honey, you can have some with pleasure," was the reply; "beggars, you know, should not be chosers, but modesty, virtue, and artlessness are always sure of their reward."—The gentleman ordered his clerk to give her a good piece of ham: she smiled, courtesied, thanked him for his kindness, wiped the tears from her eyes, and tripped home with a joyful heart.

MUSICAL CROTCHETS—No. III.

BY REBRAB.

"Stick to me, and I will get you a fortune," says the hautboy. "I will never leave you while I have breath," says Ribas.

"You cannot say your tone is anything to be compared to mine."

"I could if I was a lyre," says the tea kettle.

"Sloman," says Miss Dolce Piano, "sing that one verse to me about Tucker, and mind, not too quick."

"I will sing it to a T," says the wag, "and as slow as any man; and that one verse shall be forty (forte.) So here goes—"

"A miser once wanted a bridge for his fiddle,
The price was eleve—he thought it a diddle;
So he made a long pause—and then offer'd a fip;
The vender said 'take it, if in specie you'll tip;'
"Ho! ho!" says the scraper, "I'm a wide-a-wake one; You've tried to do Tucker, but you cant Tuck it on."

"Who sung that so low?" (solo) says the director. "It was a base voice," screams Alto.

"Have you taken any steps to provide for your family?" says a dancing master to a drunken harper. "Yes, I have taken measures," says the sot.

"I—I—I am go-go-going to-to-to s-sing," says a stammering lady. "If you are don't expect me to accompany you," says the guitar.

"Miss D. you are my double," says C. sharp. "That may be true," says Miss D. "yet you are only a flat to me."

Corno dolce pianissimo—what does that mean?" says the pupil. "It means soft's your horn," says the teacher.

THE STORM. The Harrisburg train of cars for Philadelphia, were on Friday night detained several hours in consequence of several large trees having fallen across the track. One tree fell across the engine and broke it, and threw the cars off the track. The passengers were consc...

FURTHER EFFECTS OF THE STORM. A good deal of damage was done both to the Camden and Amboy and the Woodbury Rail Roads, by the storm on Friday evening. A portion of the embankment at Kinsorn, three miles below Bordentown, was washed away, and caused several hours delay to the passengers. The Woodbury Rail Road suffered most, near Trenton.

MADAME DE GONI. This lady, it will be seen, is to give her first Concert at the Assembly Rooms to-night. She is truly a Spanish lady, which comprehends every thing refined and affable. Her performances on the guitar are neat and peculiar, and there is but little doubt that her first Concert will win her many admirers.—She is to be assisted by her husband, Signor De Goni, Signor Dannas, and Mr. Boucher.

SUPPOSED INCENDIARISM. The remains of several of the persons who perished in the late destructive fire in Quebec have been discovered; also some of the show boxes in which were contained gold, silver, jewelry and precious stones, all of which were missing, which leads to the suspicion that the shop was robbed and then set fire to, to avoid discovery.

FIRE. A destructive fire broke out on Sunday evening in Philadelphia in some stables, which spread with great rapidity to several buildings in the neighborhood, all of which were with their contents consumed. Several horses were burned, two of which belonged to Mr. Steel.—The fire was the work of an incendiary.

STORM IN NEW YORK. The Philadelphia Chronicle says, we learn by a passenger that during the storm on Friday night, the chimney attached to the banking house of the Bank of the State of New York, was blown over, and so great was the weight that it fell through the roof, floors, &c. down to the basement story.

ASSAULT. Benjamin Richardson, a colored man, was yesterday arrested by officer McKewen, and taken before Squire Keplinger, charged with assaulting Mary Ann Butler, a colored girl. Released on security to keep the peace.

☞The Universal Yankee Nation, a newly established paper from Boston has been handed us by Mr. Taylor, agent, No. 12 North st. Also the Dollar Magazine, a very neat and cheap work. We refer the reader to Mr. Taylor for farther particulars.

SHIP ASHORE. A large ship is reported to be ashore on Sandy Hook; her name has not been ascertained yet, and great fears are entertained relative to the fate of the crew.

☞The lecture before the Mercantile Library Association this evening will be delivered by Professor Ducatel.

MORE PROOF THAT BOOZ'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF HOARHOUND & BONESET is the best and surest remedy for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Coughs, Croup, Spitting of Blood, Night Sweats, Consumption, Asthma, &c.

Baltimore, March 15, 1841.

Mr. BOOZ. Dear Sir—A child of mine having a dreadful croup, I called in medical aid—in spite of which my child was fast expiring, when your compound Syrup of Hoarhound and Boneset was recommended to me by a friend—the child has taken two bottles and is now perfectly recovered. Thus, by your valuable Syrup has my child been snatched from the hand of death. Should any person be desirous of seeing me, let them call at the corner of Fleet and Market streets, Fell's Point, and I will testify personally to the above facts. Yours truly,

THOMAS DUNAHOE.

P. S. I can give more references and shew more certificates of persons, establishing the reputation of my Syrup, than can be shown in favor of any similar medicine. Remember—I warrant every case, and return the money to any person it does not relieve. Be sure and ask for Booz's Compound Syrup of Hoarhound and Boneset. Wholesale and retail at No. 9 FLEET STREET. Orders promptly attended to.

JAMES BOOZ.

☞The above Syrup may be had, wholesale and ...at 9 FLEET STREET, between Market and Bond streets, Fell's Point—at CHARLES INGRAM'S, Pratt street, next door to the corner of South street—at No. 2 N. Howard-st.—and at James Jones, corner of High and Pratt streets. Price 37½ cents per bottle mh16-1yA

THE SUPERIORITY of HUNTER'S RED DROP for the effectual cure of delicate diseases over every other medicine hitherto discovered, becomes every day more apparent, from its extraordinary demand and universal success in all parts of the Union, as well as Europe. It is acknowledged by physicians to be the great desideratum long sought for viz: to obtain a remedy that while it eradicates every particle of disease from the system, in no wise impairs the constitution. Possessing these powers, it agrees with the most delicate stomach, strengthens the digestive organs, increases the appetite, and improves the general health. Equally adapted to both sexes, it may be used under all circumstances with perfect safety. A single bottle is always sufficient, even in inveterate cases when used as directed. It requires no restrictions in diet whatever, and from its condensed form and easy mode of using it, is particularly adapted to the traveller as well as all others who wish to avoid exposure.

Price $1 per bottle. Sold only at the office No 17 Harrison-st. Private Rooms attached. Advice gratis.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Locke, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSIAH ATKINSON Agent, No. 93 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 22, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

CITY COUNCIL.

FIRST BRANCH, March 15, 1841. The Branch met pursuant to adjournment. Present, H. Snydes, Esq., president, and all the members except Mr. Dryden.

A petition was presented by Mr. Cole, signed Robert McEldowney and a large number of other merchants, praying that some measures be taken by the councils which will prevent the exposing of goods on the sidewalks, in front of stores. Referred to the joint committee on police.

Another and very important petition, signed John A. Roach and upwards of 300 other persons, was presented by Mr. Cole, relative to the appointing of an inspector of gas, whose duty it shall be, to prevent, if possible, imposition by that company on the consumers. On motion, the subject was referred to the joint select committee, consisting of Messrs. Barnet, Hook, and Krebs, of the Second Branch, and Messrs. Cole, Dallam, and Hanson, of the First Branch.

A petition was presented by Mr. Keyser, signed A. La Rock, John Glen, and Wm A. Ichleberger, praying for an enlargement of the bridge across Chatsworth street run. Referred to the joint committee on bridges.

A message was received from the mayor, being a communication signed Thomas Stousburg, A. Pindell, Thomas Lane, and Wm. Skinner, harbor masters, praying for an increase of commission on port tonnage. Referred to the committee on the harbor.

Mr. Peregoy offered a resolution relative to the erection of an eddy in Jones's Falls, to prevent timber, &c. from lodging in said stream. Referred to the committee on bridges.

Mr. Dallam, of the joint committee on streets, reported favorably relative to the Baltimore and Havre de Grace Railroad. The committee were discharged.

Mr. Cole presented the petition of George Millemon, praying for interest on money due him by the city. Referred to the joint committee on claims.

A message was received from the mayor, addressed to the Presidents and members of both branches of the city council in convention assembled. The branches went into convention, and confirmed the following nominated gentlemen to the following offices:

Visiter of the jail for Baltimore city and county—James Smith.

Mr. Fields called up a resolution for grading and making passable a part of Eden street, from Gough to Bond street. The resolution was passed.

The resolution providing for the removal of obstructions in Amity street, was returned from the second branch dissented from.

Mr. J. T. Brown called up the resolution of the joint committee on bridges, relative to the bridge over Jones' Falls, on Gay street. A substitute was offered by Mr Peregoy, to repeal the act which has been passed by the councils, authorizing the taking down of the stone bridge in Gay-st., and substituting, in its stead, a wooden one. After a considerable argument on both sides of the question, the branch adjourned until to-morrow afternoon, at half past three o'clock.

WATCH RETURNS. Eastern District—March 14. A negro found drunk in the street. Mr. Brooks was locked up at half past 12 o'clock, at the request of his family, for being riotous in his own house. 15th—Maria Green imprisoned for intoxication. John Gill applied for lodgings. Henry Turner, Michael Doyle, and negro Ann Gill, were locked up for being drunk and noisy.

Middle District.—March 14. James Harney and Catharine Mack, brought in at 10 o'clock for lodgings. Three others were imprisoned for intoxication, and two loafers admitted to lodgings. 15th—Eliza Blake, colored, brought in, being drunk and riotous, reprimanded.—John Lentrem, charged with 'flinging a brick at the door of Mr. Brachen's house, and breaking it open,' was brought in, but no prosecutor appearing in the morning, he was released. Gracy Tolson, found in a destitute condition, in the street, sent to the Alms-house. Negro George Johnson was imprisoned at the request of his master.

Western District.—March 14. Thomas Freeman came in for lodgings. Joseph Howard was found in the street in a very destitute condition. 15th.—William McPherson and a colored woman were locked up at an early hour by the police. Two white men solicited lodgings.

BALTIMORE CITY COURT.

Present—Judges Brice and Worthington

MONDAY, MARCH 15, 1841.

John Stewart, a negro slave, was put upon trial, charged with an assault with intent to commit violence on Sarah Jane Gordon, a white girl about 14 years of age. The particulars are not proper for publication. He was declared guilty, and sentenced to be sold out of the state.

The Grand Jury came into Court this morning, and informed them that they had finished their labors. They were finally discharged with the thanks of the Court.

James Wilson, alias Indian Jim, convicted at the February Term 1840, of enticing, aiding and assisting Lloyd and Nicholas Howard, two negro slaves, the property of Nicholas Dorsey, Esq., to abscond from their owner, was this day sentenced by the Court to be confined in the Penitentiary until the 30th of August, 1843.

The Court then adjourned until the first Monday in June next.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

WASHINGTON, March 13, 1841.

Gentlemen: Should you be disposed, you can give these few incoherent lines a place in your invaluable little sheet otherwise unoccupied.

The penny press already shines very bright in the galaxy of literature: And for the easiness of access to its columns, from all quarters, it is getting to be the most powerful engine for the diffusion of useful and practical knowledge. A man who does not take a paper at all, will from the cheapness of this press, be induced to take one: or else he is hooted at by all, as too grovelling and sordid to live: a man who cares neither for the welfare of others nor himself (in a literary point of view.) There is a good deal of news to be gleaned in the Federal City at this time: but alas! I fear there are too many rumors mixed with it, for me to vouchsafe more than one half what I hear.

I visited the "Literary and Debating Society" on its last night of meeting. I heard the subject, "does the British government partake more of a Republican than of a Despotic form" debated with considerable verbosity by Messrs. Dowe, Dimetry and Willson.

This Society has organized a committee to take subscriptions, of our citizens, for the erection of a suitable hall to hold their subsequent meetings in: and in this they are to be aided, I understand, by the committee appointed by the Metropolitan Lyceum for the same desirable object. By the by, I attended this Society a few evenings since, when they had "were the Roman conquests justifiable" under consideration. In this debate, I could but admire the amazing progress of some of its members in Roman history, and in ancient lore. In the discussion of this subject, Messrs. Hoover, McCarty and Allen, took a conspicuous part and showed great tact in debate, (for I may say novices in the art of oratory.) But to the subject of procuring a hall for these institutions:—I think I would be justifiable in saying that the generous, literary, and magnanimous people of Washington, will not be deaf to the appeal on behalf of the institutions noticed. They must recollect the insight they derive from the establishment of these institutions: that they are like beacons to direct our course in debates and fire the mind with a laudable ambition for the attainment of this most essential of qualifications—an education.

There are a great many rumors afloat in regard to the British Minister's recent course—one says, he has in obedience to his government's orders, asked for his passports. This I hope is unfounded, I wish it may be so.

I recently attended a Soiree given by Mr. Fill, at his dancing academy. It was conducted with a good deal of that courtesy which characterises this gentleman, and gave general satisfaction to all. I am with sentiments of respect, yours, &c.,

DOMESTICUS.

STOLEN PROPERTY RECOVERED. A few days ago, it was noticed in this paper as a most singular and audacious piece of villany that a clergyman of this city had been robbed of his horse and gig in open daylight while he was performing Divine service on the previous Sunday. We are glad to learn that the sufferer alluded to (the worthy Pastor of St. Matthew's Church) has recovered his horse and gig—the former almost driven to death, the latter a good deal worse for wear. The audacious villain had driven away the spoils into Montgomery county, and had thought it prudent to abandon them at or near Brookeville.—We understand that hopes are entertained that the thief may yet be overtaken, or caught in or about the Monumental city.—Nat. Int.

MORE DEAD BODIES FOUND. We learn that two dead bodies, one a white boy and the other a yellow man, were found yesterday in the Spring Gardens. They were so disfigured as not to be recognized.

SPECIE. The English mail packet Sheldrake, from Tampico for Jamaica, with $9,000,000 in specie, touched at Havana on the 17th.

TRADE OF HAVANA. As an item showing the growing trade of the port of Havana, the fact is stated that on the 21st ult. there were bound for foreign ports, 1 ship, 4 polacres, 17 brigs, and 11 schooners—in all 33.

EMIGRANTS. A report made to Congress by the State Department shows, from returns not entirely complete, that one hundred and fifteen thousand two hundred and six persons came into the United States by sea during the year 1840.

ACCIDENT. In Springfield, while a son of Mr. Isaac Dunlap, who resides a few miles from the city, was playing with a loaded gun, and while he had the muzzle in his mouth, it discharged, and the contents passed through his head and killed him instantly.

MORE STEAMERS. A bill has passed the lower House of the New Providence Legislature "to promote and encourage Steam Navigation, between England and that Colony, for the conveyance of mails and passengers."

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT must be obvious to every one, that an Intelligence Office, when conducted under proper principles, and regulated upon an honest and equitable course, is of great convenience and utility to the citizens of a populous and thriving city like this. The subscriber, being aware of this fact, and with the knowledge that a degree of discredit-ful action has existed from the manner in which other offices of the kind have been heretofore conducted, he has therefore taken great pains to conduct his establishment in such a manner as to deserve public confidence, and be worthy of the public patronage.

PERSONS making application at this office for servants, or help of any other kind, will deposit, in advance, 50 cents each, for which they will have access to the records, properly kept for that purpose, and on which they find the names, residences, references, &c. of the servants or other help—in case that neither of them answers the desired purpose, the money will be returned. Yearly subscriptions received at $1.50 each.

AGENCY. HOUSES, FARMS, VACANT LOTS, GROUND RENTS, LANDS, &c. bought and sold on commission. SLAVES, for life or a term of years, bought or sold on commission, and the highest prices obtained. Persons having Slaves, which they wish to dispose of, will do well to apply at this office before selling.

N. B. All letters addressed to this office (post paid) thankfully received and promptly attended to.

DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—if therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good night's rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

To Dr. SWAYNE.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced, by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE!

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	" Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	12 M.
" Fred'ksburg	12 M.	" Richmond	5 P.M.
" Richmond	5 P.M.	" Petersburg	7 P.M.
" Petersburg	7 P.M.	" Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	" Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	" Charleston	at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection through, whilst it is evident that Fogs! ROUGH WEATHER!! and STORMS!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞ The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolinas—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

LINES

A house of worship—and I enter'd in
With feelings aw'd, and reverently bow'd,
For I was thinking of the Son of God:
In humble guise, on Judea's sacred coast,
No pompous pile, no splendid building rose
For him to preach the word of life therein.
Meekly and mild upon the earth he stood,
The arch above him, Heaven's own azure blue,
No studied diction, fraught with flowing tropes,
Amus'd the sense or pleas'd the critic's ear—
With simple truth, and yet with words of pow'r,
He spoke to fallen man—discoursed of love,
Of Christian love, and fellowship below,
Of deeds of mercy, abstinence and prayer,
To fit them for his Father's house on high.
Thou meek and lowly Saviour! can it be
That these are thy disciples?—yonder chaste
And splendid altar, 'round whose marble base
A fair and gracious group are bowing low,
Is rear'd to thee?—That holy man of God,
In dress superb, is minister of thine,
And now performs the ritual of the Church
In memory of thee? Ye must renounce
The vanities and pomps, in solemn voice he cried,
Of this vain world—the devil and his works
Must have no entrance here! Are ye at peace,
In charity and fellowship with all?
For if ye eat and drink unworthily,
Ye seal the condemnation of your soul.
The pensive audience heard the dread appeal,
And deep and oft the loud responses rose.
I gaz'd upon the fair communicants
Array'd in silken robes of glittering pride,
And ask'd my heart, Ah, tell me what are these,
But pomps and vanities of this vain world?
And then methought my eye could single out
Some that were not in charity with all,
E'en tho' they took the consecrated bread,
And press'd with awe the chalice to their lips!
Some feeling rankled in the bosoms fair,
That savor'd not of love, but mark'd contempt,
For those whose only fault, perchance, was this—
The world's neglect, and fortune's frowns to bear!
And these the world call pious, greatly good,
The meek disciples of the lowly lamb,
The beacon lights to gild our moral path,
And lead our wayward footsteps up to Heav'n!
May God forgive the bitter thoughts that rise,
That deem them stumbling blocks the Church within,
Rocks of offence, that cause the good to err,
Professors loud, not doers of the Word!
But I am wrong, that in ungracious mood,
Imbibe the spirit I have just condemn'd,
And weak myself, presume the weak to judge.
Oh! may the prayer of mild, forgiving love,
Breath'd forth in anguish from thy dying lips,
Still find acceptance at the throne of God—
Father forgive!—They know not what they do!

GOD SEEN IN ALL HIS WORKS.

A Tale from the German.

In that beautiful part of Germany which borders on the Rhine, there is a noble castle, which as you travel on the western banks of the river, you may see lifting its ancient towers on the opposite side, above the grove of trees about as old as itself. About forty years ago there lived in that castle a noble gentleman, whom we shall call Baron ——. The baron had only one son, who was not only a comfort to his father, but a blessing to all who lived on his father's land.

It happened on a certain occasion that this young man being from home, there came a French gentleman to see the baron. As soon as this gentleman came into the castle, he began to talk of his Heavenly Father in terms that chilled the old man's blood; on which the baron reproved him, saying, 'are you not afraid of offending God who reigns above, by speaking in such a manner'—The gentleman said that he knew nothing about God, for he had never seen him. The baron did not notice at this time what the gentleman said, but the next morning took him about his castle and grounds, and took occasion first to show him a very beautiful picture that hung on the wall.—The gentleman admired the picture very much and said, 'whoever drew this picture knows very well how to use his pencil.'

'My son drew that picture,' said the baron.

'Then your son is a very clever man,' replied the gentleman.

The baron then went with his visiter into the garden, and showed him many beautiful flowers, and plantations of forest trees.

'Who has the ordering of this garden?' asked the gentleman.

'My son,' replied the baron; 'he knows every plant, I may say, from the cedar of Lebanon to the hyssop on the wall.'

'Indeed,' said the gentleman, 'I shall think very highly of him soon.

The baron then took him into the village, and showed him a small neat cottage, where his son had established a school, and where he caused all young children who had lost their parents, to be received and nourished at his own expense. The children in the house looked so innocent and so happy, that the gentleman was very much pleased, and when he returned to the castle, he said to the baron:

'What a happy man you are to have so good a son.'

'How do you know that I have so good a son?'

'Because I have seen his works, and I know that he must be good and clever if he has done all you have shown me.'

'But you have never seen him.'

'No, but I know him very well, because I judge of him by his works.'

'True,' replied the baron, 'and this is the way I judge of the character of our Heavenly Father. I know him from His works, that He is a being of infinite wisdom, and power, and goodness.'

The Frenchman felt the force of the reproof, and was careful not to offend the good baron any more by his remarks.

A woman who was convicted recently at Dublin Sessions Court of stealing a purse, earnestly begged the Recorder to sentence her to be transported. She said she had only returned from Sidney ten days. Her wish was granted, and she left the dock shouting "Hurrah for Sidney and its bright blue sky!"

Inquests. Four inquests were held in New York on Sunday. All were victims of intemperance.

FEMALE SOCIETY—TEMPERANCE.

It is much to be regretted that there are so few young gentlemen who participate to any great extent in the society of the respectable and virtuous of the other sex. There are many causes which tend to produce habits calculated to drive the young man from the society of ladies, one of these causes is the fastidiousness of many ladies in the selection of their male acquaintance. Not content with equality of station in society, many go so far as to make objections to shape, dress, voice and features: these, with the exception of dress, are irremediable, and therefore to reject the society of any young man on such account is ridiculous. Dress if genteel is better than dandyism; and manners if polite and well bred are preferable to foppery—intelligence will easily supply the place of large whiskers, mustache and imperiale, and sensible and rational conversation will readily fill that of exquisitism, and leave something to boot. If, therefore, ladies would banish their predilections and display less preference for the two latter as well as numerous other absurdities, and encourage sterling worth, divested of useless appliances, they would not only enhance their own enjoyments, but display much discretion. They would eventually produce more happiness among themselves, and encourage young gentlemen to court their society more extensively.

The triumphant advancement of the cause of temperance must necessarily work an entire change in the pursuits of many young men during their leisure hours, and lead them to seek out new resorts. Lyceums and literary associations will, to some extent, supply this want, and will furnish abundant employment of the most instructive character—but this will not suffice. This kind of occupation is too confining—the mind wants more variety, and cannot suddenly relinquish old pursuits of an active nature and tie itself down to one species of recreation. What then can offer greater inducements to the young man at a loss how to spend a part of his leisure time, and pledged to shun the places where he formerly resorted, and which perhaps he still has a yearning for from long and intimate association, than the society of the respectable, virtuous and intelligent of the other sex? and he will avail himself of the pleasures to be derived from intercourse with such society, if he knows that he will be received and welcomed there if deserving. To the young ladies, then, of our city, belongs the privilege of leading their assistance in consummating this glorious and humane enterprise, the benefits flowing from which will not be confined entirely to either sex—and apart from personal interest, they will have the proud satisfaction of feeling the triumph of higher, nobler, purer and more philanthropic motives, over considerations of a merely selfish nature. It remains, therefore, for them to aid in the glorious work of reformation, and I have no idea their character if they do not heartily co-operate in a work so congenial to the peculiar province and nature of woman, and fraught with such vast advantages and benefits to society in general.

Messrs. Editors: I felt somewhat surprised on looking over the proceedings of the City Council, (in your paper of Tuesday morning) to find that a petition had been presented proposing the regulating of the measurement and inspecting of Gas. The report stated that the petition contained the signatures of upwards of three hundred consumers. Why was the petition not circulated amongst all the consumers? There are more than three times that number of consumers of gas in this city, and I have not the least doubt that more than three-fourths of them would have seized the opportunity of subscribing to a memorial that embraces in its appeals to the city authorities such all-important and momentous objects as the measurement and inspection of gas. I, for one, should have embraced that opportunity, and I know of many others that would have done the same.

A cause so just and so long neglected will meet with the decided approbation of every candid and disinterested person, and draw forth the praise and gratitude of the sufferers in behalf of its projectors.

The consumers of gas have long considered themselves imposed upon, and the prospect of some legislative action on this subject adds new vigor to the hope, that justice will soon take place. We shall soon see whether the rights and interests of the many will be set at naught, or the arbitrary power of soulless corporations strengthened or encouraged.

If the petition had been started by a regularly appointed committee or meeting of the consumers of gas, it would have presented such a front that no array of monopoly could resist. I have the greatest confidence in our city authorities, and believe that they will see that all contracts for light and opening the pavements will be strictly complied with.

Ye Tower.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

Notice to whom it may concern. If those whose duty it is to notice such matters, would take the trouble to examine the trees planted in Eastern City Spring lot, they would find them full of a sort of small hulls, or shells, if you please, hanging perpendicularly on the branches of the trees, and waving to and fro like so many little bells with every breeze.

These hulls contain the eggs of a small fly, which, in the spring season, propagates the worm which has of late years been so destructive to the shade trees in various parts of our city.

Now I am not much of a botanist, but here it seems to me the old adage ("an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure") would hold good, and if these hulls were carefully taken off and burnt, it would be the means of saving the foliage of the trees, and thereby accomplish the object for which they were originally planted.

On a former occasion it was found necessary to destroy these worms with tobacco juice, and a pretty considerable sum was allowed by our council to the spring keeper for extra services. Now, this expense might be saved by nipping the evil in the bud, and the visiters to the spring would, during the summer season, find those places pleasant retreats.

If this precaution is now neglected, you will see the disagreeable phenomenon of having our trees strip of their foliage in mid-summer, and looking as barren as in the dead of winter.

An Observer.

CITY COUNCIL.

First Branch, March 16. The Branch met pursuant to adjournment. Present, Mr. Snyder, President, and all the members except Mr. Dryden.

A petition was presented by Mr. DeLonghrey, signed Robt. Holloway, in favor of John Rogers, for repairs done at the Independent Engine House—Referred to the joint committee on claims.

The substitute to the resolution of the committee on bridges, offered by Mr. Peregoy on Monday, counter to the ordinance authorizing the stone bridge across Jones' Falls on N. Gay-st., to be taken away and a wooden one substituted, came up in order.

Mr. P. rose and made some remarks in support of his substitute. He was followed by Mr. Keyser, who contended that the corporation was in good faith bound to remove the bridge; that the lives and property of our citizens called loudly for it; and that in case of another inundation, the city would be bound to make good all damages. Mr. P. rejoined. He seemed to be unwilling that so much money should be expended, while so substantial a bridge was yet standing. Mr. DeLonghrey made quite an eloquent speech in favor of taking away the stone bridge. Mr. Cole on the day previous made a very strong defence of the report of the committee of which he was chairman. H. Snyder, Esq., chairman, opposed strongly the substitute, and sustained most eloquently the original report of the committee.—Also Mr. Dallam. Mr. Holter got up and sustained the substitute—was of opinion that the stone bridge was no obstruction to the free passage of the water in the Falls, and that it ought not to be taken down. Mr. Fields arose to state his reasons for voting for the substitute, which were, that he had at one time seen a large body of water go through the area of the bridge without producing any serious injury. The yeas and nays being called upon the substitute, were, yeas 11, nays 12. On the original resolution of the committee, the yeas were 12, nays 11.

A communication from the city commissioners was received, relative to the condition of a part of Light street. Referred to the committee on streets.

The report of the committee on streets on the report of the city commissioners, in relation to the Baltimore and Havre de Grace Railroad, was returned from the second branch concurred in.

Mr. Pinkney, of the committee on claims, reported favorably upon the petition of Robert Holloway.

The resolution relative to grading a part of Eden-st. was returned from the second branch dissented from.

Mr. Hanson, of the joint committee on the harbor, reported unfavorably relative to the petition of the harbor masters for an increase of commissions on the collecting of tonnage.

Ordinance No. 23, to provide for the payment [illegible] returned from the second branch, with proposed amendments. On motion, was laid upon the table; afterwards taken up, and concurred in.

The report and resolution of the joint committee on fire companies, on the petition of the Vigilant, Howard, and other fire companies for an appropriation, was returned from the second branch with an amendment proposing to refer so much as relates to the Patapsco Fire Company, to the joint committee on education. The amendment was agreed to.

Bill No. 32, being an act for the improvement of Jones' Falls, was called up by Mr. Bender.—On motion of Mr. Holter, the enacting clause was stricken out, which, of course, killed the bill ere its intrinsic virtues had an opportunity to be made manifest.

Mr. Dallam, of the joint committee on streets, reported favorably upon the petition of John Sikes and others, relative to the closing of Scott street.

On motion of Mr. Pinkney, the branch adjourned until to-morrow afternoon at half-past three o'clock.

Sound made visible. An English paper gives the following notice of an "important discovery," which, if true, would seem to surpass even that of Mr. Daguerre. It is, indeed, no less than a plan of rendering the vibrations of sound permanently visible!

"A most ingenious and valuable discovery has just been made by Mr. Southworth, of Cheetham street, Manchester, by means of which an individual, although unacquainted with the art of writing, is enabled to take down the speech even of the most rapid speakers; and, what is yet more surprising, in such a way as to indicate the peculiar emphasis with which it may be delivered. As the inventor has not yet secured a patent, all that we are at present enabled to state is, that it bears some analogy to photogenic drawing. It is well known in the latter case that, when a substance properly prepared is presented to objects illuminated by the rays of the sun, it receives a distinct and faithful impression of them, which is afterwards rendered permanent by suitable chemical agents. So also the present discovery consists of a piece of mechanism as susceptible of the impression of sounds as the tympanum of the ear, which impression remains permanent, and is as perfectly legible as the clearest typography."

We shall expect to see soon a machine by which, on turning a crank, a man's thoughts may be taken down with wonderful accuracy, with or without his concurrence, and thus paragraphs, items, moral essays, and philosophical disquisitions, to say nothing of a great variety of nonsensical speculations, may be fabricated ad libitum.—Boston Mercantile Journal

Monument to Highland Mary. Measures are at last about to be taken in earnest for the erection of some memorial over the ashes of Burns' first and purest love. This object seems to have been taken up by different parties, unknown to each other. On Friday last Mr. Weir received a letter from W. S. Carruthers, Esq. of Dormont, Dumfriesshire, dated "Arthington Hall, Otley, Yorkshire," in which the writer nobly expresses his intention to erect a monument to the memory of Highland Mary, at his own expense, and requests Mr. Weir to take the necessary steps for that purpose. Under these circumstances, there is little doubt that something will be done to mark the last resting place of Mary Campbell.—Glasgow Chronicle.

☞A frame house, No. 117 Walker-st. N. Y., also two frame houses in Jersey city, and an India rubber factory in New Brunswick, were destroyed by fire on Saturday night last.

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
The ONLY LINE carrying the GREAT MAIL, and the only DAILY LINE!

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 4 P. M., they proceed, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and one day in advance of the Bay Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	8 A.M.	reach	Baltimore	2 P.M.
" Baltimore	4 P.M.	"	Washington	6 P.M.
" Washington	5 A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	12 M.

" Petersburg	7 P.M.	"	Weldon	1 A.M.
" Weldon	1 A.M.	"	Wilmington	1 P.M.
" Wilmington	1 P.M.	"	Charleston at 5 the next day.

As this Line carries the Great Mail, (which cannot be delayed,) and is almost entirely a Rail-Road Line, it will be perceived at once, that the Traveller, unless in some extraordinary contingency, is sure of a connection throughout, whilst it is evident that Foggs, Rough Weather, and Storms!!! must often occasion delay in a Route, more than two-thirds of which is by the Bay—the traveller being also subjected to Sea-sickness, and incurring unnecessary risk, from Boats being urged to the top of their speed, to compete with the more DIRECT ISLAND ROUTE.

☞The above line will be found not only the most certain and expeditious, but the most attractive, as it passes through the Seat of Government, and in sight of Mount Vernon by daylight, and through Fredericksburg, Richmond, and Petersburg, the largest and most flourishing towns in Virginia. It is also cheaper to Richmond, and as cheap as the Bay route to Weldon: and travellers have no expense or trouble with their Baggage.

☞This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. communces the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton, Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, March 17, 1841.

Does the author of a note which we received through the post office, signed "A Merchant," on the subject of railroad notes, think that we are so silly as to enter into the controversy he seems to invite? Is he acquainted with the operations of all the banking institutions of this city, that he undertakes their defence in the gross? We can inform him that we have information directly the reverse of what he states, but shall not designate sources for obvious reasons. Can "A Merchant" deny that the depreciation of the railroad notes is the effect of their being refused by the banks?—Will he assert that their being at a discount is not a heavy loss to the community? We have asserted, and we now repeat, that the action of the banks in regard to the railroad notes, is illiberal, unjust, and oppressive; and this, neither "A Merchant" nor other partizan of the banks can deny. We do not wish to work any injury to the banking institutions; but we do maintain that the railroad notes are of equal value with those of any bank in Baltimore, under present circumstances, and their circulation is now indispensable; for, without them, we should have no currency below five dollars, excepting individual shinplasters.—Banks exist by toleration, and should be cautious how they adopt any measure prejudicial to the public interests. We know that arrangements were made by some of the banks to receive rail road notes previous to the present suspension, and we should like to know why they have been annulled. We have spoken on the subject plainly and boldly, and exerted ourselves for what we believed were the interests of the people. To ourselves, it is of no great importance whether the banks accede to or refuse the wishes of the people; and it was our intention to have concluded our comments on the matter with the publication of Monday, leaving the people to act or not in the premises, as they might think proper. We have deviated from our intention merely to bestow a passing notice on the writer before mentioned, and have now only to reiterate our perfect confidence in the correctness of every statement which we have made, and our ability to substantiate every fact as given, were we at liberty to use the evidence in our possession.

We have carefully avoided implicating all the banks in our censures—at least, such has been our intention, because we believe that some of them are honorably conducted, and do not resort to petty financiering.

Economy. We have seen it stated, that orders to an immense amount have been forwarded to England for goods which will be imported this spring. These orders have probably been given in anticipation of some action by the general government which will restore confidence, regenerate the currency and revive trade. Whatever may be the motive, we doubt whether the effect of such large importations will prove beneficial either to individuals or the country. The debt already due to England is enormous and embarrassing, and its further increase will add to existing difficulties. But were these considerations waved, we should be unfavorable to such enormous importations, as they tend to promote the present expensive and luxurious mode of living, to encourage speculation and to depress productive industry.

The most effectual mode of obtaining relief from monetary difficulties, and of restoring confidence in business transactions, is to practice the most rigid economy in all departments of life.—We would not have men imitate the mean and pernicious policy of Cato, the Censor; but to retrench in those expenditures which are not indispensable to comfort; and above all, to avoid running in debt. If every man were to come to the determination to pay cash for all household articles alone, there would be an immense saving and a favorable reaction. But the idle, the dissipated and the imprudent, disdain to be restricted in what they term their enjoyments, by prudential considerations, and debts, insolvency and misery are the result.

Industry and frugality lead to independence and happiness—but unfortunately the first has given place to speculation, by which sudden fortunes are expected to be achieved; and the second is considered low and mean-spirited. Too many are willing to stake their future prospects, if not their lives, "upon a cast," and if the hazard goes adverse, they are plunged into irretrievable ruin. A spirit of recklessness is thus introduced and rendered fashionable; and plodding industry, which is content with less show, but more solid comfort, is regarded with contempt. We should like to see the conviction general, that, as man was destined by his Creator "to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow," labor is not disreputable. If such were the case, we should not have the children of the laborious spurning the occupations of their fathers, and imitating all the extravagance, vice and folly of the fashionable world. Working men would again rise into consideration, and merit would form the only requisite recommendation to public or private favor.

☞The man of the Philadelphia Spirit of the Times says he reasoned with an inebriate a few days since on the vile habit he had of drinking spirits. "Why," he said in reply, "water is dangerous, very dangerous—it drowns people; gets in their chests, and into their heads, and then, too, it makes that infernal steam that's always blowing a feller up."

Senate. The National Intelligencer of yesterday says: "The Senate ended its Extra Session yesterday, adjourning sine die after passing upon all the business which the President desired to lay before them.

"Public rumor and private letters having spread far and wide the information of an unfortunate personal collision which occurred in debate in the Senate, one day last week, between Senator Clay of Kentucky and Senator King of Alabama, it gives us pleasure to state that a reconciliation of the difference between these gentlemen, after reciprocal explanation, through the intervention of Mr. Preston, took place in the presence of the Senate. This termination of the difference, putting an end to a painful suspense, was received by Senators with great satisfaction, and by the crowded galleries with irrepressible tokens of the sincerest satisfaction."

Mr. Clay and Mr. King. Every friend of humanity should rejoice to learn, that the difference between these gentlemen has been finally and amicably settled. It is to be regretted that these personal controversies should so often occur in our legislative halls; for whatever may be the difference of gentlemen on political subjects, courtesy should prevent discussions from degenerating into personal altercations. It is certainly setting a very bad example for the leading men in the country to call each other to the field, and tends greatly to encourage the practice of dueling, a practice condemned by the laws of God and by the injunctions of humanity. We believe that few duels would take place were friends to interfere, as in the present instance. To Mr. Preston is the country mainly indebted for the happy termination of this unhappy dispute—and well does he deserve the benediction "blessed is the peacemaker."

Report from the State Treasurer. We learn by the Philadelphia Ledger that the State Treasurer has reported to the Legislature, in accordance with a resolution calling for such information, the amount that may be expected to be realized before the first of August next, from the sources of revenue specifically appropriated to the internal improvement fund. The actual amount for 1840 was $459,987 29, the estimated increase in canal and rail road tolls for the present year is $50,000; estimated amount from State tax under act of June, 1840, $25,000. So that the amount likely to be received applicable to the payment of interest on the improvement loans due first of August, will be $534,987 29.

The weather. The weather, for the last four or five days, has been so changeable, and generally so cool, as to have kept those within doors, who had no absolute necessity to go out.—Almost every day we had snow or rain—sometimes both. This weather has been unfavorable to business, particularly with those merchants who rely for cash sales upon what is termed "shopping;" the ladies being unable to shew themselves in the streets.

The Niagara (U. C.) Chronicle says: "On Saturday last, Mr. Henry Minor was crossing the Grand River, a short distance below the dam at Dunnville, in a sleigh, with thirty bushels of wheat, accompanied by his wife and child, when the ice gave way, and melancholy to relate, all were lost excepting Mr. Minor himself. The body of the child has not yet been found."

The tables turned. A beautiful young girl was prosecuted on Monday in Philadelphia by an individual in whose employ she was, for a petty larceny alleged to have been committed in July last. The defendant, while the case was being heard, preferred a charge against the prosecutor of having assaulted her with intent to violate her person. This took place in the presence of the prosecutor's wife, who was present in the office.

Forgery. A forged certificate of deposite on the Commercial Bank of New Orleans, for $2,680, was, on Monday last, presented to a broker in Philadelphia. The broker, in order to compare signatures, left his office for a few minutes. In the mean time, the person who presented the certificate, became alarmed, and "absquatulated."

A fortune teller in trouble. A woman named Lydia Liliberti was committed to prison in New York, on Friday, for imposition upon the public credulity. She had brought some young ladies into awkward dilemmas, by imposing upon their credulity with stories of young men who were dying with love of them, but who, in fact, had never seen or heard of the ladies at all.

The Appeal. We refer the reader to the appeal of the Washington Junior Temperance Society, which will be found in another column. This society, we are happy to perceive, is growing rapidly in numbers. It now numbers over 300. We wish it prosperity.

Distressing. A little child in Philadelphia, while playing, caught its foot in the carpet, and fell upon the points of a pair of scissors, forcing them through the ball of one of its eyes, the sight of which is destroyed forever.

Nomination. A Philadelphia paper nominates Commodore Charles Stewart as a candidate for the next presidency. We presume that the writer goes upon the principle that "turn about is fair play" between the army and navy.

Lost overboard. Henry McDonald, a native of England, was lost overboard on Saturday the 6th inst. off the Capes of the Delaware, from the brig Atalanta, from New York, bound to Philadelphia.

First arrival. The steamboat Cleopatra arrived at Hartford, (Conn.,) on last Tuesday week, from New York, being the first boat of the season.

☞The office of the Eastern Shore Whig, with all its contents, was burnt to the ground on Saturday morning last.

BALTIMORE MARKET,
March 16, 1841.

Flour. There has been a slight improvement in the store price of Howard-st. Flour. This, however, has been caused, it is thought, more from a temporary scarcity than from any substantial rise in the market. We quote Howard street at $4.37½. Holders are firm at this price. The receipt price continues at $4.12½. We quote City Mills at $4.50. The stock on hand is very light.

Grain. There has been a slight improvement in Wheats. We quote red Wheat at 85a90 cts., and White 90a92 cents. The last sales of Rye were made at 48a50 cts. White corn, 39a40 cts.; yellow, 42a43 cts. We quote Oats at 25a26 cts. Cloverseed, $5.

Provisions. This market continues without any material alteration or much animation. Mess Beef, $12.50; No. 1, $10.50; Prime, $8.50a$9. Western Bacon, assorted, 7a7½ cts. Hams, do. 9 a9½ cts. Middlings, 7½ cts. Frederick county cured Bacon, of assorted quality, 7½ cts. Baltimore cured Hams, 10a10½ cts. Middlings, do. 8a 8½ cts. Western Lard, in kegs, No. 1, 7 cts.—There have been but few transactions in Butter. Glades, No. 1, 18a20 cts.; No. 2, 14a18 cts.; No. 3, 9a14 cts., according to quality. Western, No. 1, 10a11 cts.; No. 2, 8a8½ cts.; No. 3, 7a7½ cts.

Cattle. There is a fair supply of Beef Cattle. Prices are without much change. We quote last sales at $6a7.75 per 100 lbs. according to quality. Live hogs command from $5.50 to $5.75 per 100 lbs.

Whiskey. We quote hhds. at 21 cts., and bbls. 23 cts., as at last quotations. Wagon price exclusive of bbl., 19 cts.

Consecration. The interesting spectacle of the Consecration of the Right Rev. Dr. Chanche, to the Bishopprick of Natchez, on Sunday last, drew together an immense concourse at the Cathedral. The ceremony was performed by the Most Rev'd. Archbishop, assisted by the Right Rev. Dr. Fenwick, Bishop of Boston, and the Right Rev. Dr. Hughes, coadjutor of New York, who preached on the occasion. It is not our intention to give an outline of his eloquent discourse; suffice it to say, it was in his usual happy style, and gave complete satisfaction to his large and respectable audience.

We are informed that the rich and elegant vestment worn on the occasion by the newly consecrated Bishop, was presented by the Students of St. Mary's College, as a token of their affection, and a memento for their late much beloved President. The whole ceremony was one, replete with interest, and all who witnessed it were highly gratified.—Patriot.

Watch Returns. Eastern District.—March 15. No disturbance of the peace.

Middle District.—Two white men and a negro woman were brought in and imprisoned for wandering in the streets in a state of intoxication. A white man and black woman applied for lodgings.

Western District.—Joseph Howard was taken out of the street last night and locked up. A colored man named George Harris, charged with entering the barber shop of James Grooms, at the Western Hotel, with a felonious intent, was brought in at half past ten, and in the morning committed to jail by Justice Stuart. Clement Johnson was imprisoned for disturbing the peace.

Education in Pennsylvania. There were 232,410 pupils, in the different literary institutions of Pennsylvania, during the past year. Of this number, 1,839 pupils are in colleges and universities; 1,430 in female seminaries; 2,465 in academics; 21,968 in the public schools of Philadelphia, and 254,908 in the common schools throughout the State. In the cause of elementary education at least, it must be admitted that the Keystone State is doing well.

From New Grenada. The New York Herald says: "By the Nueva Grenada, Captain Martinez, we have received late advices from Columbia.

"Troubles continued. The government troops under Herran, sixteen hundred in number, and the Federalists, twenty-three hundred strong, under Carmora, were every day expected to have a battle. It was thought they would fight at La Cruz, a short distance from Port Ocana.

"Those small South American republics will ever be in war."

Canadian Commerce. The number of vessels cleared from the ports of Montreal and Quebec to Great Britain, during the year 1840, was 1079—tonnage 399,449, giving employment to 15,227 men. The principle articles of export were pot and pearl ash, 24,107 bbls; flour, 298,761 bbls; wheat, 141,931 minots, and lumber in great quantities.

Cincinnati. The annual exports of Cincinnati are estimated by the Chronicle at $9,000,000, viz: pork and beef, in all forms, $3,000,000; flour, $1,200,000; whiskey, $700,000; manufactured articles of all kinds, $3,000,000; and the residue miscellaneous articles of produce.

Withdrawal. Mr. Jenifer has published an address to his late constituents, in which he declines to become a candidate for re-election. Mr. Jenifer is a gentleman of fine talents, and represented his district with entire satisfaction to his constituents.

Licenses. A bill has been brought before the Legislature of Pennsylvania requiring applications for licenses to sell rum, to be published in the newspapers for a certain length of time, which was negatived in the House on Saturday Yeas 38, nays 41.

Fire at Exeter. We learn that the court house in Exeter, N. H. was destroyed by fire on Thursday night, with all its contents, including an armory, and the apparatus for the exhibition of the "Conflagration of Moscow."

APPEAL OF THE WASHINGTON JUN'R TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.

☞The Washington Junior Temperance Society would appeal to the employers of the city to encourage their apprentices, and parents and guardians, their children and wards, in the great cause of Temperance, which is the cause of humanity, consequently the cause of every youth. They would appeal thus to them, presuming they have a regard for the welfare of those under their charge, and requests that their influence be used in encouraging them to enroll themselves in the Temperance army, which proud to boast of, is constantly receiving new recruits.

They appeal to the Ladies, who are always identified with every good cause and anxious for its prosperity, to lend us their countenance, and aid and assist us to exterminate the entire force and battalions arrayed against humanity under King Alcohol. The mothers and daughters of the revolution gave their smiles, countenances and support to our fathers, who went out into the battle field to avenge their country's wrongs. Mothers and daughters of the moral revolution now going on in our city, come up to our help, give us your services in any way; they will indeed be acceptable.

They appeal to the Youths of Baltimore, who are intelligent, industrious, and who doubtless are anxious to preserve a character without reproach, to come forward and attach their names to the pledge which they have adopted—to sign this declaration of independence—to absolve allegiance from the tyrant, by discountenancing the pernicious liquid in any shape, form or base. They are not so presumptuous as to declare that the youths of our city are intemperate; no, far be it from them to make the charge; but they want them for the example it exhibits, which is as powerful, if not more so, than the clearest precept. They would appeal to them to come up and attach themselves to the Society, and enlarge the number of those who now intend to form the glorious procession on the 5th April—a movement that will strike terror into the hearts of the moderate drinker and the habitual drunkard. They now number over 300 firm, staunch and immoveable in the good cause, and wish to see thousands flocking to the standard of Peace and the battlement of safety. Come up, and it will be seen that 'the Temperance Reformation, which is to dram shops a stumbling block, and to the moderate drinker foolishness, is the power of wisdom and principle to the salvation of those in danger."

Pres't W. J. T. Society.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 92 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent

For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMPS, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

A HOAX WITH ITS MORAL; or a tale founded on things that might be. In order to give locality to our hero, we shall place him in a city distinguished for its monuments, beautiful ladies, commerce, office-seekers, and numerous other things too tedious to mention. Our hero may as well have a name, so we shall call him Jerry Solicitous. Jerry was an individual who had not forgotten the important study of human nature. He lived during the last war—fought in it—and, indeed, bled a little for his country. He had also entered into the political arena, toiled hard for his party, and harder for self-interest, for which he was not to blame. Every man does justice to himself and family, if he takes care of "number one." Jerry had looked with a quizzical eye upon the various marchings, counter-marchings, secret movings, &c. of inflated expectants. One thing which attracted the attention of our hero more particularly than any thing else that had recently come within the compass of his observation, was the fact that he had witnessed a large number of persons, who, for some cause or other, had forsaken their legitimate occupations, and turned their attention to another, more humble in its bearing. Almost every place I enter, says Jerry, I find men of good reputation, who always bore unblemished characters, having divers recommendations from distinguished individuals, attesting the merit of their past conduct, lives, &c. These read, they would present to their friends a long preamble, stating what they had been—what they had done—what they were deserving of—and upon what basis their general character and reputation were founded. The paper was generally headed—"To his excellency the President of the United States." Then came the preamble, too tedious to read, and the signatures, too numerous to count. I observed, also, that responsible gentlemen would affix their names to these papers, frequently for the purpose of getting rid of the pest, and almost universally without reading the long, tiresome preface. This gave me an idea that I could play off a grand hoax—so at it I went. I procured ten pages of foolscap paper—sealed them together—and on the first three, wrote, in rather a difficult hand to read, a long rigmarole of stuff, to look at which would tire the patience of Job. It commenced by politely addressing William Henry Harrison, and imploring him for the office of ———; then, in the two succeeding paragraphs, advanced my claims—stated that I was the son of a great man; had done this, that, and the other, in the election campaign, and was, in reality, intrinsically meritorious. I made it my business to go round among my friends, and even those who knew nothing about me, and get them to subscribe to my petition. I would unrole the document, they would glance at the tedious preamble, turn from that to the signatures, fix their eyes upon some which they knew could not have been placed there carelessly, and upon the strength of that, affix their own names without asking me any hard questions. Thus I succeeded in getting to my roll not less than three hundred good substantial fellow-citizens.

The sequel of this story is soon told. Jerry had studied human nature, and had learned how easily men might be duped, and led into error.—He therefore placed, near the close of the preamble to which he had gained so large a number of signatures, a sentence which expressly stated that the Chief Magistrate of the United States should, in their (the signers') opinion, be hung, or exchange places with Queen Victoria, and that no man whose name was found attached to the petition of Jerry Solicitous, was capable of discharging the duties of any responsible office.

The moral to be drawn from the above hoax is, that men should not act precipitately in important matters; that they should know who they recommend to office; and that their names carelessly given, may promote an unworthy object, hoax the President himself, and finally throw a formidable stumbling block in the way of a triumphant and glorious cause.

MORE PROOF THAT BOOZ'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF HOARHOUND & BONESET is the best and surest remedy for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Coughs, Croup, Spitting of Blood, Night Sweats, Consumption, Asthma, &c.

Baltimore, March 15, 1841.

MR. BOOZ. Dear Sir—A child of mine having a dreadful croup, I called in medical aid—in spite of which my child was fast expiring, when your compound Syrup of Hearhound and Boneset was recommended to me by a friend—the child has taken two bottles and is now perfectly recovered. Thus, by your valuable Syrup has my child been snatched from the hand of death. Should any person be desirous of seeing me, let them call at the corner of Fleet and Market streets, Fell's Point, and I will testify personally to the above facts. Yours truly,

THOMAS DUNAHOE.

P. S. I can give more references and shew more certificates of persons, establishing the reputation of my Syrup, than can be shewn in favor of any similar medicine. Remember—I warrant every case, and return the money to any person it does not relieve. Be sure and ask for Booz's Compound Syrup of Hoarhound and Boneset. Wholesale and retail at No. 9 FLEET STREET. Orders promptly attended to.

JAMES BOOZ.

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT must be obvious to every one, that an Intelligence Office, when conducted under proper principles, and regulated upon an honest and reputable course, is of great convenience and utility to the citizens of a populous and thriving city like this. The subscriber, being aware of this fact, and with the knowledge that a degree of dissatisfaction has existed from the manner in which other offices of the kind have been heretofore conducted, he has therefore taken great pains to conduct an establishment in such a manner as to deserve public confidence, and be worthy of the public patronage.

PERSONS making application at this office for servants, or help of any other kind, will deposit, in advance, 50 cents each, for which they will have access to the records, properly kept for that purpose, and on which they find the names, residences, references, &c. of the servants or other help—in case that neither of them answers the desired purpose, the money will be returned. Yearly subscriptions received at $1.50 each.

AGENCY. HOUSES, FARMS, VACANT LOTS, GROUND RENTS, LANDS, &c. bought and sold on commission. SLAVES, for life or a term of years, bought or sold on commission, and the highest prices obtained. Persons having Slaves, which they wish to dispose of, will do well to apply at this office before selling.

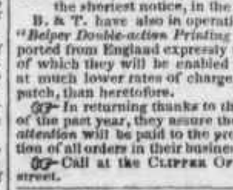
DAILY SOUTHERN MAIL,

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,



THE BALTIMORE STEAM PACKET CO. announce to the public that the boats of their line consisting of the ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Corey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, having undergone a through overhaul during the past winter, are now in complete order; therefore the daily line to the South via NORFOLK and PORTSMOUTH will be resumed on Monday the 15th of March, and run in accordance with the following schedule until changed by the Post Office Department.

Leaving Baltimore daily at 4 o'clock, P. M.
Arrive at Portsmouth, at 7 " A. M.
Leaving Portsmouth, at 8 " A. M.
Arrive at Weldon, at 4 " P. M.
Wait there until 1 o'clock, A. M. for the Petersburg train.
Leave Weldon at 1 o'clock, A. M.
Arrive at Wilmington at 1 o'clock, P. M.
Leave Wilmington immediately and arrive in Charleston next morning to breakfast.

It will be seen by the above schedule that in order to render the connexion certain, it is only necessary for the Cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road to arrive at Weldon prior to 1 o'clock, A. M. whereas they uniformly arrive before dark—it therefore a detention should take place at any point between Baltimore and Weldon, not occupying more than NINE HOURS, the traveller can by no possibility lay over at any point north of Wilmington. RETURNING, one of the above boats will leave Norfolk every night at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departure from Portsmouth. The passengers having enjoyed all the comforts of a good nights rest, and partaken of as good fare as could be provided in the very best Hotel in the Country.

Travellers bound to Richmond or Petersburg by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday or Friday, sleep on board the bay boat, are transferred to the James River boat next morning, and arrive at their place of destination the same day by 3 or 4 o'clock, P. M.

Dear Sir—The time has been, when I would not recommend a medicine advertised in the public prints over my own signature; I now feel different—I feel it my duty to inform the afflicted where they may find relief. I was reduced by a protracted COUGH for six months, to a mere skeleton; no rest at night; soreness and pain in my breast, side, &c. Suffice it to say, I used your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which in a few weeks relieved me effectually. I am certain that, had it not been for your medicine, I should now be in the silent grave. Let no person delay, but procure your Syrup and be relieved of their COUGHS and COLDS, as they are dangerous companions, and often lead to dangerous consequences.

Your friend, ABRAHAM SKINNER,
Crawford county, Pa.

Baltimore Clipper.

PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY BY BULL & TUTTLE, No. 7 NORTH GAY STREET, BALTIMORE, Md.

VOLUME IV.] THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 18, 1841. [NUMBER 8.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

HE DONT LIKE ME.

He romps about with sister Fan,
And praises Clara's bright blue eyes,
He sings duetts with cousin Ann,
But when he looks at me—he sighs.
What can the matter ever be!
I am afraid 'he dont like me.'

The other morning in my walk
I met the handsome Charles Du. P.
And while engaged in pleasant talk,
Pray who but him I chanced to see:
And oh! so angry then look'd he,
I felt quite sad 'the dont like me.'

Ah! here he comes—since he's so rude,
I'll change my conduct altogether—
He need not be so cross, for I
Am sure that I dont like him either,
I'll be as cool as I can be—
I wonder why 'he dont like me.'

Ah! dearest, are you all alone,
For once kind fate is in my favor,
Then listen to my tale of love,
And do not cast me off forever.
That blush, that smile—ah! say you'll be
The bright star of my destiny!
The coaxing soul—how sly is he,
I cant refuse—now he likes me!

Balt. March. 1841. EMILY.

How many are thy faults, vain man,
Thy virtues—oh! how few,
And yet, how rigidly we scan
The acts that others do.

Without a thought, we quick condemn
The friends we most should cherish;
And elevate the worst of men,
The worthy leave to perish. P. A. B.

BOB PENTLAND,

OR, THE GAUGER OUTWITTED.

By Wm. Carleton.

That the Irish are a ready-witted people, is a fact to the truth of which testimony has been amply borne both by their friends and enemies. Many causes might be brought forward to account for this questionable gift, if it were our intention to be philosophical; but as the matter has been so generally conceded, it would be but a waste of logic to prove to the world that which the world cares not about, beyond the mere fact that it is so. On this or any other topic, one illustration is worth twenty arguments, and, accordingly, instead of broaching a theory, we will relate a story.

Behind the hill, or rather the mountain of Altnaveenan, lies one of those deep and almost precipitous vallies, on which the practised eye of an illicit distiller would dwell with delight, as a topography not likely to be invaded by the unhallowed feet of the gauger and his red-coats. In point of fact, the spot we speak of was, from its peculiarly isolated situation, nearly invisible, unless to such as came very close to it. Being so completely hemmed in and concealed by the round and singular projections of the mountain hills, you could never dream of its existence at all, until you came upon the very verge of the little precipitous gorge which led into it. This advantage of position was not, however, its only one. It is true, indeed, that the moment you had entered it, all possibility of its being applied to the purposes of distillation at once vanished; and you consequently could not help exclaiming—"what a pity that so safe and beautiful a nook should have not a single spot on which to erect a still-house, or rather on which to raise a sufficient stream of water to the elevation necessary for the process of distilling." If a gauger actually came to the little chasm, and cast his scrutinizing eye over it, he would immediately perceive that the erection of a private still in such a place was a piece of folly not generally to be found in the plans of those who have recourse to such practices.

This absence, however, of the requisite conveniences was only apparent, not real. To the right, about one hundred yards above the entrance to it, ran a ledge of rocks, some fifty feet high, or so. Along their lower brows, near the ground, grew thick matted masses of long heath, which covered the entrance to a cave about as large and as high as an ordinary farm-house.—Through a series of small fissures in the rocks which formed its roof, descended a stream of clear soft water, precisely in body and volume such as was actually required by the distiller; but, unless by lifting up this mass of heath, no human being could for a moment imagine that there existed any such grotto, or so unexpected and easy an entrance to it. Here there was a private still-house made by the hand of nature herself; such as no art or ingenuity of man could equal.

Now it so happened that about the period we write of, there lived in our parish two individuals so antithetical to each other in their pursuits of life, that we question whether throughout all the instinctive antipathies of nature we could find two animals more destructive of each other than the two we mean—to wit, Bob Pentland, the gauger, and little George Steen the illicit distiller. Pentland was an old, staunch, well-trained fellow, of about fifty years or more, steady and sure, and with all the characteristic points of the high-bred gauger about him. He was a tallish man, thin but lathy, with a hooked nose that could scent the tread of a distiller with the keenness of a slow hound, his dark eye was deep-set, circumspect and roguish in its expression, and his shaggy brow seemed always to be engaged in calculating whereabouts his inveterate foe, little George Steen, that eternally blinked him, when almost in his very fangs, might then be distilling. To be brief, Pentland was proverbial for his sagacity and adroitness in detecting distillers, and little George was equally proverbial for having always baffled him, and that, too, sometimes under circumstances where escape seemed hopeless.

The incidents which we are about to detail occurred at that period of time when the collective wisdom of our legislators thought it advisable to impose a fine upon the whole townland in which the still-head and worm might be found; thus opening a door for knavery and fraud, and, as it proved in most cases, rendering the innocent as liable to suffer for an offence they never contemplated, as the guilty who planned and perpetrated it. The consequence of such a law was, that still-houses were always certain to be erected either at the very verge of the neighboring districts, or as near them as the circumstances of convenience and situation would permit. The moment, of course, that the hue-and-cry of the gauger and his myrmidons was heard upon the wind, the whole apparatus was immediately heaved over the meering to the next townland, from which the fine imposed by parliament was necessarily raised, whilst the crafty and unoffending district actually escaped. The state of society generated by such a blundering and barbarous statute as this, was dreadful. In the course of a short time reprisals, law-suits, battles, murders, and massacres, multiplied to such an extent throughout the whole country, that the sapient senators who occasioned such commotion were compelled to repeal their own act as soon as they found how it worked. Necessity, together with being the mother of invention, is also the cause of many an accidental discovery. Pentland had been so frequently defeated by little George, that he vowed never to rest until he had secured him; and George on the other hand frequently told him—for they were otherwise on the best terms—that he defied him, or as he himself more quaintly expressed it, "that he defied the devil, the world, and Bob Pentland." The latter, however, was a very sore thorn in his side, and drove him from place to place, and from one haunt to another, until he began to despair of being able any longer to outwit him, or to find within the parish any spot at all suitable for distillation with which Pentland was not acquainted. In this state stood matters between them, when George fortunately discovered at the hip of Altnaveenan hill the natural grotto we have just sketched so briefly. Now, George was a man, as we have already hinted, of great fertility of resources; but there existed in the same parish another distiller, who outstript him in that far-sighted cunning which is so necessary in misleading or circumventing such a sharp-scented old hound as Pentland. This was little Mickey McQuade, a short-necked little squat of a fellow with bow legs, who might be said rather to creep in his motion than to walk. George and Mickey were intimate friends, independently of their joint antipathy against the gauger, and, truth to tell, much of the mortification, and many of the defeats which Pentland experienced at George's hands, were, sub rosa, to be attributed to Mickey. George was a distiller from none of the motives which generally actuate others of that class. He was in truth an analytic philosopher—a natural chemist never out of some new experiment—and we have reason to think might have been the Kane or Fraraday or Dalton of his day, had he only received a scientific education. Not so honest Mickey, who never troubled his head about an experiment, but only thought of making a good running, and defeating the gauger. The first thing, of course, that George did, was to consult Mickey, and both accordingly took a walk up to the scene of their future operations. On examining it, and fully perceiving its advantages, it might well be said that the look of exultation and triumph which passed between them was not unworthy of their respective characters.

"This will do," said George, "Eh, Mickey, don't you think we'll put our finger in Pentland's eye yet?" Mickey spat sagaciously over his beard, and after a second glance gave one grave grin which spoke volumes. "It'll do," said he; "but there's one point to be got over that maybe you didn't think of; an' you know that half a blink, half a point, is enough for Pentland."

"What is it?"

"What do you intend to do with the smoke when the fire's lit? There'll be no keepin' that down. Let but Pentland see as much smoke risin' as would come out of an ould woman's dudeen, an' he'd have us."

George started, and it was clear by the vexation and disappointment which were visible to his brow that unless this untoward circumstance could be managed, their whole plan was deranged, and the cave of no value.

"What's to be done?" he inquired of his cooler companion. "If we can't get over this, we may bid good bye to it."

"Never mind," said Mickey. "I'll manage it, and do Pentland still." "Ay, but how?"

"It's no matter. Let us not lose a minute in settin' to work. Lave the other thing to me; an' if I don't account for the smoke without discoverin' the entrance to the still, I'll give you lave to crop the ears off my head."

George knew the cool but steady self-confidence for which Mickey was remarkable, and accordingly, without any further interrogatory, they both proceeded to follow up their plan of operations.

In those times when distillation might be truly considered as almost universal, it was customary for farmers to build their out-houses with secret chambers and other requisite partitions necessary for carrying it on. Several of them had private stores built between false walls, the entrance to which was only known to a few, and many of them had what were called Malt-steeps sunk in hidden recesses and hollow gables, for the purpose of steeping the barley, and afterwards of turning and airing it, until it was sufficiently hard to be kiln-dried and ground. From the mill it was usually conveyed to the still-house, upon what were termed Slipes, a kind of car that was made without wheels, in order the more easily to pass through morasses and bogs which no wheeled vehicle could encounter.

In the course of a month or so, George and Mickey, aided by their friends, had all the apparatus of keeve, hogshead, &c. together with still-head and worm, set up and in full work.

"And now, Mickey," inquired his companion, "how will you manage about the smoke? for you know that the two worst informers against a private distiller, barrin' a stag, is a smoke by day an' a fire by night."

"I know that," replied Mickey; "an' a rousin smoke we'll have, for fraid a little puff wouldn't do us. Come, now, and I'll show you."

They both ascended to the top, where Mickey had closed all the open fissures of the room, with the exception of that which was directly over the fire of the still. This was at best not more than six inches in breadth and about twelve long. Over it he placed a piece of strong plate iron perforated with holes, and on this he had a fire of turf, beside which sat a little boy who acted as a vidette. The thing was simple but effective.—Clamps of turf were at every side of them, and the boy was instructed, if the gauger, whom he well knew, ever appeared, to heap on fresh fuel, so as to increase the smoke in such a manner as to induce him to suppose that all he saw of it proceeded merely from the fire before him. In fact, the smoke from the cave below was so completely identified with and lost in that which was emitted from the fire above, that no human being could penetrate the mystery, if first made previously acquainted with it. The writer of this saw it during the hottest process of distillation, and failed to make the discovery, although told that the still-house was within a circle of three hundred yards, the point he stood on being considered the centre. On more than one occasion has he absconded from home, and spent a whole night in the place, seized with that indescribable fascination which such a scene holds forth to youngsters, as well as from his irrepressible anxiety to hear the old stories and legends with the recital of which they generally pass the night.

In this way, well provided against the gauger—indeed much better than our readers are yet aware of, as they shall understand by and bye—did George, Mickey and their friends proceed for the greater part of the winter without a single visit from Pentland. Several successful runnings had come off, which had of course turned out highly profitable, and they were just now preparing to commence their last, not only for the season, but the last they should ever work together, as George was making preparations to go early in the spring to America. Even this running was going on to their satisfaction, and the singlings had been thrown into the still, from the worm of which projected the strong medicinal first shot as the doubling commenced—this last term meaning the spirit in its pure and finished state. On this occasion the two worthies were more than ordinarily anxious, and certainly doubled their usual precautions against a surprise, for they knew that Pentland's visits resembled the pounces of a hawk or the springs of a tiger more than any thing else to which they could compare them. In this they were not disappointed. When the doubling was about half finished, he made his appearance, attended by a strong party of reluctant soldiers—for indeed it is due to the military to state that they never took delight in harrassing the country people at the command of a keg-hunter, as they generally nicknamed the gauger. It had been arranged that the vidette at the iron plate should whistle a particular tune the moment that the gauger or a red-coat, or in fact any person whom he did not know, should appear. Accordingly, about eight o'clock in the morning they heard the little fellow in his highest key whistling up that well-known and very significant old Irish air called "Go to the devil an' shake yourself"—which in this case was applied to the gauger in any thing but an allegorical sense.

"Be the pins," which was George's usual oath—"be the pins, Mickey, it's over with us—Pentland's here, for there's the sign."

Mickey paused for a moment and listened very gravely; then squirting out a tobacco spittle, "Take it aisy," said he; "I have half a dozen fires about the hills, any one as like this as your right hand is to your left. I didn't spare trouble, for I knew that if we'd get over this day, we'd be out of his power."

"Well, my good lad," said Pentland, answering the vidette, "what's this fire for?"

"What is it for, is it?"

"Yes; if you don't let me know instantly, I'll blow your brains out, and get you hanged and transported afterwards?" This he said with a thundering voice, cocking a large horse pistol at the same time.

"Why, sir," said the boy, "it's watching a still I am; but be the hole o' my coat if you tell upon me, it's broilin' upon these coals I'll be soon."

"Where is the still then? An' the still house, where is it?"

"Oh, begorra, as to where the still or still house is, they wouldn't tell me that."

"Why, sirra, didn't you say this moment you were watching a still?"

"I meant, sir," replied the lad with a face that spoke of pure idiocy, "that it was the gauger I was watchin', an' I was to whistle upon my fingers to let the boy at that fire on the hill there above know that he was comin'."

"Who told you to do so?"

"Little George, sir, an' Mickey M'Quade."

"Ay, ay, right enough there, my lad—two of the most notorious schemers unhanged they are both. But now, like a good boy, tell me the truth, an' I'll give you the price of a pair of shoes. Do you know where the still or still house is? Because if you do, an' wont tell me, here are the soldiers at hand to make a prisoner of you, an' if they do, all the world can't prevent you from being hanged, drawn, and quartered."

"Oh, bad cers may seize the morsel o' me knows that, but if you'll give me the money, sir, I'll tell you who can bring you to it, for he told me yesterday mornin' that he knew, an' offered to bring me there last night, if I'd steal him a bottle that my mother keeps the holy water in at home, tal he'd put whiskey in it."

"Well, my lad, who is this boy?"

"Do you know Harry Neil, or Mankind, sir?"

"I do, my good boy."

"Well, it's a son of his, sir; an' look, sir: do you see the smoke farthest up to the right, sir?"

"To the right? Yes."

"Well, 'tis there, sir, that Darby Neil is watchin'; and he says he knows."

"How long have you been watching here?"

"This is only the third day, sir, for me; but the rest, them boys above, has been here a good while."

"Have you seen nobody stirring about the hills since you came?"
