THIS old and well known Watering Establishment will be open for the reception of visiters on the 1st day of June next. The proprietors have made extensive preparations, and assure the public that no other place can offer superior inducements in the attention of the best Servants, the Bar, or the Table. The quality of the Water and its healthy and pleasant situation is so well known as to require no other exposition here. A daily conveyance of rail road and stage can be had from this city by way of York to York Springs, and travelling by stage by way of Hanover.

P. S. The proprietors have engaged the best Music.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

☞A fracas occurred in a public house a few evenings since, which proved both amusing and instructive to the bystanders, who laughed heartily at the jest. A dog belonging to a certain sporting character had taken the liberty of a roving commission, without consent or knowledge of his master, and happened to follow a young man visiting the above house, who treated him with a great degree of kindness. After some few days had elapsed the dog was claimed by a Frenchman, a boarder in the house, who told the young man if he did not give him up by fair means, he would make him. The young man expostulated with him, and told him he was aware who the dog belonged to, and as soon as an opportunity presented he intended returning the animal. This had no effect on the Frenchman, who demanded the dog as his property. The young man then referred him to a friend who was standing by for the validity of what he asserted; but Monsieur was under the impression his friend was of the same calibre as himself, when the following scene took place.

Friend. What, you call me a d—n rascal?

French. That is impos—you one d—n liar.

Here a fight ensued, which ended in the Frenchman being knocked down with a chair, and his antagonist standing over him a la Hercules slaying the lion, when the proprietor interfered and quelled the disturbance. The next morning brought forth a challenge from the aggrieved Monsieur. The challenged party having the right of choosing weapons, pitched upon a novel instrument to settle the affair. Harpoons and coffee for two was ordered for twelve o'clock the day following. The time arrived, but no Frenchman, he having, we understand, left the city in consequence of hearing that his antagonist was fatal with that instrument.

GAMBLING. Some time since a countryman arrived in this city, and thinking he had too much money and time to spare, went loitering about the city in quest of fun, frolic and glee:—He was brought up in the vicinity of the market house, where he engaged in conversation and social chat about the good things of this life. In the evening, one of the party prevailed on the good easy soul to visit the Front-st. Theatre.—After the performance, he was kindly invited to participate in a game of cards, which he did with some reluctance; but after drinking two or three potations of the kindly grape, he became quite easy of access, or otherwise his pockets, which they, good easy souls, took the advantage of, not knowing how the poor man was situated, or who was dependant on him for a support, nor, as we suppose, caring about the consequences. After robbing him of two or three hundred dollars, he became quite infatuated, and wished to pawn some valuable articles in his possession, which they readily accepted. After losing all he had about him, he left the house quite infuriated, but shortly returned with about five hundred dollars, when he engaged in playing again, and of course in a space of time losing the whole sum of money in his possession, and subsequently begging for a paltry sum to carry him to his wife and children, which he stated lived on the eastern shore, and was totally dependant on his daily labor for their support. They after some persuasion gave him a few dollars, and he departed with tears in his eyes. We are surprised that people visiting this city will not have more precaution about them, as occurrences of this kind happen every week or two in our city.

WATCH REPORTS. In the Eastern District on Thursday night, John Fred was apprehended and locked up, charged with assaulting Caroline Reaper. The accused was brought before Justice Jones, who not considering the charge as having been satisfactorily substantiated, ordered the prisoner to be released. In the Middle District a loafer was picked up in the street in a state of intoxication, and a colored girl imprisoned for stealing. In the Western District, two white men were found intoxicated and disturbing the peace, and conducted to the watch-house.

☞We learn that the Governor of Pennsylvania has notified the banks of that State that they are required to loan the Commonwealth a sum not exceeding five per cent. of their capital stock paid in, at an interest not exceeding five per cent. The Bank of Pennsylvania is to receive the payments in such currency as she may approve. If the banks should refuse to accede to the terms of the revenue act, this loan will be required to pay the interest on the public debt. They are notified sixty days in advance, in conformity with the bank law.

AN OUTRAGE UPON A FEMALE. Last evening a respectable young lady returning home was accosted by a person wearing the garb of a gentleman, who is well known to the community, and, in our opinion, should be well chastised for his ungentlemanly and cowardly conduct. Not being contented taunting in her from square to square, he actually followed her to her father's door, and came to the conclusion to take a decided stand, and could only be persuaded by one of the inmates that he was doing wrong. And this gentleman holds an enviable position in our church-going community. It is time that hypocrisy should be unmasked, and such disgraceful scenes should be handed over to justice.

GLENDWORTH. This individual is now undergoing trial in the Court of Sessions, New York, on the charge of having introduced illegal voters into that city from Philadelphia in the years 1838 and 1839. The only witness examined so far is Jonathan D. Stevenson, whose testimony is about the same as that contained in his statements published last fall.

The offence charged against Glendworth is one of great enormity, and, if he be guilty, we sincerely hope that he will be punished.

WRECK AND GREAT LOSS OF LIFE. On Tuesday, the 14th May, the Minstrel, Capt. Outerbridge, bound from Limerick to Quebec, was lost on Red Reef. Of one hundred and fifty-six persons on board, the following eight were the only ones who escaped:—Patrick O'Loghlin steward; Jas. Grady, and Thomas Enrich, seamen; and John Donoghue, apprentice. Passengers—Flaherty, shoemaker, and wife; Honoria Ringrose, and Collins.

The captain, mate, and nine of the crew are among the lost. Of the passengers, 47 were male adults, and 41 female. There were 10 infants on board who were lost, and 39 male and female persons between childhood and the age of 14.

MORE OF THE PRESIDENT. The Bulletin of the New York Courier and Enquirer of Wednesday, exhibited a notice, which stated that a letter from Montreal, dated the 22d, had been received in which it was said that Captain Dunn, arrived at Quebec from Liverpool, saw the President making for the Azores, when he, Captain Dunn, was two or three days from his port.

We, however, do not place any reliance in this report. The Montreal papers of the 22d, make no mention of it. In the Quebec shipping list, the barque Chieftain is reported as having arrived on the 20th, from Cork, but no other vessel is reported.

EXPEDITION. The barque Serene, Capt. Jos. L. White, left the wharf at Baltimore on the 14th of February for Rio de Janeiro, where she remained 26 days, during which her outward cargo was discharged, and a homeward cargo put on board. She arrived at the wharf in this city on Friday morning, the 28th inst., thus making the round voyage in the remarkably short period of 104 days, 4 of which she was becalmed.

DANGEROUS OCCURRENCE. Yesterday afternoon a carpenter somewhat intoxicated was engaged shingling a roof in the upper part of the city when missing his foothold went tumbling on a roof below attached to the main house, from thence upon the ground receiving no other injury than spraining his hand. After lying a considerable time he looked and exclaimed, did I fall or not!

SUFFOCATION. Two men engaged in the nocturnal vocation of attending to other persons houses, were very near meeting their death last evening from suffocation. They were found lying on the ground, and by the kindly interference of some gentlemen and the aid of Dr. Kinnerman were completely restored. This is a warning to those engaged in this business not to venture too far in such excessive warm weather.

A TOUGH CASE. Mr. J. Clark, a farmer, residing near Stoystown, Pa. has been arrested and held to bail in $10,000, on a charge of being the person described as one of the perpetrators of the late extensive forgeries upon the Girard bank of Philadelphia and others, viz. Mr. Draper. He has, it is true, a blemish in the right eye, and is much the appearance of Draper, but has proved to be nobody but himself.

SERIOUS CHARGE. Captain Childs, of the brig Carroll, has been arrested on the deposition of one of his crew, who charges that while the brig lay at Tobasco, the Captain connived at the removal of a black man, named Backus, on board a Texan slaver. It is further stated that the man Backus was severely assaulted by the mate of the vessel.

CALLING IN THE NOTES. The Frederick Citizen says—"The order of the Board of Directors, requesting all persons having notes of the Frederick County Bank to bring them in for special deposit with a twenty days, has been promptly responded to on the part of the people, and we understand that a large amount has already been brought."

☞As two negroes were washing some lumber on one of our wharves, one of them accidentally fell overboard, and from his inability to swim was in the last agonies of death, when his comrade plunged in at the risk of his own life, and rescued him from a watery grave. Such conduct is manly and noble in the extreme.

BODY FOUND. We learn that the body of Francis Clapp, son of Mr. Clapp, hatter, of this city, who was drowned some weeks since in the Chesapeake Bay, was found on Thursday morning on Miller's Island, where it had washed ashore. It was brought back to this city and deposited in the family vault.

☞Bennet, of the New York Herald, thinks that the great robbery of the Frederick County Bank, may have been effected by false entries, instead of false keys. Nick Biddle, is of the same opinion, no doubt, and probably Mr. Jaudon.

A PUBLIC DINNER was given on Wednesday, in New York, to N. P. Talmadge, the leader of the Conservative party. Nine [hundred persons, the Herald says, sat down to dine, and guzzled each man a bottle of champagne.

CUSTOM HOUSE ROBBED. Some burglar entered the Boston Custom House on Monday night, but succeeded in getting only about $20. A similar attempt was made to get into the Post Office, but it failed.

SUICIDE. A man by the name of Charles A. Brown formerly of the firm of Fife & Brown, of Boston, committed suicide on Monday, in Quincy, by cutting his throat. No cause is assigned for the act.

THE BANK OF PENNSYLVANIA, at its meeting on Thursday, agreed to accept the provisions of the Revenue Bill.

MR. STEELE'S BENEFIT. It will be seen by the bills that Mr. Steele, the dramatist, proposes a benefit at the little National to-night.—Let him have a bumper.

VALUABLE BUILDING LOTS,
On First and Washington-sts., Fell's Point.

IN PURSUANCE of a decree of Baltimore county Court, sitting as a Court of Equity, and by virtue of a special order of said Court, the subscriber, as trustee, will offer at public sale, on the premises hereinafter described, and to the highest bidder, on WEDNESDAY the second day of June, A. D., if not the next fair day thereafter, at the hour of half past four o'clock, P. M., the following described Leased parcel of Ground, situated on Fell's Point, in the City of Baltimore.

Beginning for the same at the corner formed by the intersection of the north side of Fleet st. and the east side of Washington street, and running thence northwardly bounding on the east side of Washington st. one hundred and twenty feet, thence eastwardly parallel with Fleet st. eighty four feet, thence southwardly parallel with Washington st. one hundred and twenty feet to Fleet st., and thence westwardly bounding on the north side of Fleet st. eighty four feet to the place of beginning it being the same property which by deed bearing date the seventeenth day of July in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and twenty-eight, and duly recorded among the land records of Baltimore County Court, in Liber W. G. No. 194, folio 152, &c. was conveyed by John Glenn, trustee, to the late John Lee. To meet the views of small purchasers who may be disposed to buy, it is proposed to divide the property into, say six 14 feet 1-6 on Fleet-st., with a depth of say 60 feet to an alley, and four lots on Washington street of about fourteen feet each, with a depth of eighty four feet. The property is remarkably well located for improvement, being near several of the large ship yards, and the spacious wharf lately completed by the Canton Company. As the parties interested are anxious to sell, bargains may be expected. A plan of the property as proposed to be divided will be exhibited at the sale, and in the mean time may be examined at H. W. Beel's auction room, Baltimore street.

Terms of sale as prescribed by the order of the Court, are, one-third in cash, balance in six and nine months with interest, the cash payments to be secured by approved endorsed notes and bearing interest from the day of sale. ROBT. PURVIANCE, Jr.
m18 eo2w Trustee.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Locke, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 92 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh30-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY,
No. 17 HARRISON ST.
"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. ml-tf

THE PROPRIETORS OF THE GAY-ST. CHAIR WARE ROOMS, would inform their friends and the public generally, that they have now on hand, a very splendid assortment of Parlour and other CHAIRS, comprising Mahogany, Maple, Walnut, and a variety of imitation wood colours. They would request persons, disposed to purchase, to give them a call, as their assortment is not surpassed if equalled by any establishment in the city.

They would also inform Shipping Merchants that they have on hand a large assortment of Cane and Slat-back KNOCK DOWN, suitable for the West Indies or South American market, among which is a large proportion of very rich colored white tops—all of which they are willing to sell on the most accommodating terms. se1-dtf A. & J. MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THIS perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of a most every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the excessive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cures of easy and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. BOOZ,

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2, 1840.

☞To DR. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I have had experience in the virtue of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,

E. PARRISH.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.

DR. WM. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been laboring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. Yours, respectfully, JOHN DYE.

We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, know our neighbour, Mr. Dye, sold him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true. Respectfully,

W. & S. B. ANDERSON.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

UNITED STATES MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH, Sunday's excepted.
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road.

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that in accordance with the New Mail Arrangement, the Boats composing their line, viz: ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, will, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 26th of May, leave the lower end of Spear's wharf daily, (Sunday's excepted,) at nine o'clock, A. M. for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va.

Passengers for Charleston will find the cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, on the wharf, on their arrival at Portsmouth, ready to convey them to Weldon, N. C., where they will always arrive in time to take the cars for Wilmington, from which point to Charleston is by the Steamboat, which leaves Wilmington immediately after the Passengers are delivered from the cars.

Passengers for Richmond, Petersburg, or intermediate points on James River, by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, will sleep on board the Bay Boat and be transferred to the James River Boat next morning.

The Steamboat Fox leaves the Black Water station on the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars from Portsmouth, for Edenton and Plymouth, N. C., and returns every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, delivering her passengers to the cars as they pass down from Weldon, enabling them to arrive in Baltimore next day, (Sundays excepted.)

RETURNING, one of the above Boats will leave Norfolk every night (Saturday being excepted) at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departing from Portsmouth.

Should the Boat get an early start from Portsmouth, Passengers for Philadelphia and New York will have the opportunity of being placed on board the Philadelphia Steamboat in the Patapsco River, and will arrive in Philadelphia the same night by 11 o'clock, after having travelled 200 miles in 20 hours, without as much fatigue as would be incurred in walking from the Hotel to the wharf.

☞No freight will be forwarded on the day it is left, unless it is alongside, prior to 8 o'clock, A. M.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

☞Bear in mind, that Passengers who go by the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, have 40 miles of Rail Road travelling through the DISMAL SWAMP at midnight, over one of the worst Rail Roads in America, and then are often compelled to lay over 17 hours at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 9 A. M., they proceed, without one moment's delay, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and often one day in advance of any other Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	12 P.M.	reach Baltimore	8 A.M.
" Baltimore	9 A.M.	" Washington	11 A.M.
" Washington	11½ A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	6 P.M.
" Fred'ksburg	6½ P.M.	" Richmond	11 P.M.
" Richmond	11½ P.M.	" Petersburg	1 A.M.
" Petersburg	1½ A.M.	" Weldon	6½ A.M.
" Weldon	7 A.M.	" Charleston	on the next morning.

Passengers by this Line not only reach Charleston ONE DAY SOONER than by the Bay boats but they avoid being compelled to remain all night at Weldon, on the Roanoke, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole southern country, where, by the Bay Line, they are often delayed seventeen hours.

Passengers for Richmond and Petersburg will find this Line far the most expeditious, arriving at Richmond to lodge, (as will be seen from the above Schedule,) on the evening of the day on which they leave Baltimore, being from 16 to 18 hours in advance of those taking the Bay Steam Boats.

☞This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. Fare lower than any other line. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of THOUGHTS.

On having recently received the most eloquent and touching letter I ever read, on the subject of my former habits. The letter was post marked Baltimore, May 14th, and signed with a Greek signature, "Philos Theon." Though in a lady's hand, he acknowledges that he was once addicted to the use of tobacco, and the damning bowl. Truly did his thoughts breathe and his language burn. I was melted to tears while I perused it over and over again, and I said to myself, if there is so much sympathy for me, I will, with the assistance of God, return to the path of virtue.—After I had wept freely over its contents, I was informed that the Washington Temperance Society had expressed great sympathy for me, determining still to retain me as a member, and I again determined to return to the paths of virtue. I now reside with Mrs. Dorsey, in South street, near Baltimore street, where any person wishing literary compositions will find me. Circumstances, beyond my control, have prevented me from leaving the city. The death of my pious sister has humbled me to the dust.

Oh! stranger, to my sorrowing soul
A feeling friend thou art;
But ah! thy language of the bowl,
Was a dagger to my heart.

Why should the Bard desire to live?
Since thoughts such pangs impart;
For what thro' life can now e'er give
One hope to his sad heart?

Yet in the lap of luxury,
The mournful minstrel sprung;
What is he now? Oh! misery,
Where is thy touching tongue?

But shall I yield this living soul
To ruin and despair?
And drown within the damning bowl
All, all, in life that's fair?

No, to the earth I'll dash the curse
Of fortune and of fame:
And with a giant nerve I'll nurse
The valued vital flame.

No more I'll taste the wine cup's wave,
Till love and life are o'er:
Fame, fortune, friends, all, all I'll save,
And be a man once more.

'Tis sad to see, oh! sad indeed,
Reason to ruin run;
'Twill bid the hardest bosom bleed,
To mark the fallen one.

Then shun, oh! shun the infernal bowl,
Taste not the wine cup's wave;
'Twill blast thy body and thy soul,
And give thee to the grave.

MILFORD BARD.

From the Lady's Book.

GENTILITY.—BY T. S. ARTHUR.

"Didn't I see you walking up the street with a young lady, yesterday, William?" said Anne Enfield to her brother, who had but a few days before returned from New York, after an absence of some months.

"Perhaps you did; I was in company with a young lady in the afternoon," replied the brother.

"Well, who was she? I did not see you until after you had passed the store I was in, and then I did not see her face."

"It was Caroline Murry; you know her I suppose."

"Caroline Murry! Why, brother! what were you doing in her company?" and Anne's face expressed unfeigned astonishment.

"Why, really, you surprise me, sister! I hope there is no blemish on her character. But what is the matter? I feel concerned to know."

"There's nothing much the matter, brother; but, then, Caroline Murry is not genteel. We don't think of keeping her company.

"Indeed! and you don't associate with her because she is not genteel. Well, if I am any judge of gentility, Anna, Caroline Murry is about as genteel and lady-like as any girl I know—always excepting, of course, my own dear sister."

"Why, brother, how you talk? You don't certainly pretend to compare her with Ernestine Eberly and Zepherine Fitzwilliams, whom you have seen here several times?"

"No I do not," replied the brother, emphatically.

"Well, they're what I call genteel; and Caroline Murray wouldn't be tolerated in the society where they visit."

"And why not, sister?"

"Hav'nt I told you? Because she is not considered genteel; that is the reason."

"But I don't understand what you consider genteel, Anne. If I know what gentility means, Caroline, as far as that is concerned, is in every way superior to Ernestine Eberly and Zepherine Fitzwilliams."

"Now, William, that is too bad! If any other man had said so to me, I would never have spoken to him again as long as I lived."

"But seriously, Anna, what do you mean by gentility?" asked the brother.

"That's a question more easily asked than answered; but you know, as well as I do, what is meant by gentility. Every body knows."

"I know what I mean by it, Anna. But it seems that we do not agree on the subject; for I call Caroline Murry genteel, and you don't; so you see that different things may be called by the same name. Now, what I wish to know is, what precise meaning you attach to the word? or, why you do not think Caroline genteel?"

"Why, in the first place, she don't go into genteel company. People of the first rank won't associate with her."

Here ensued a pause, and the brother said—

"Well, why won't they associate with her, Anna, I hope she has not been guilty of improper or immoral conduct."

"O, no! nothing of that. I never heard the slightest reflection on her character," replied the sister. "But, then, genteel young ladies don't work in the kitchen, like hired servants; and she does so besides this, call on her when you will, she is always doing something. Why, I am told that she has even been seen at the windows, fronting on the public street, with her head tied up, sweeping and making up the beds! And Clarissa Spiggler says that she saw her once, with the parlor windows open, sweeping and dusting like a servant! Nobody is going to associate, or be seen in the street with any one who hasn't the spirit to believe the the condition of a hireling. And, besides this, whenever she was invited to balls or parties, she never would stay later than ten or eleven o'clock, which every one knows to be vulgar. Somebody had to go home with her, of course; and the choice beau in the company was almost sure to have good nature and his politeness taxed for this purpose. Once I heard her say, that [illegible] the theatre an unfit place for an [illegible] she offended the whole company, [illegible] never been invited to a party among genteel people since."

"And is that all?" said William Enfield, taking a long breath.

"Yes, and I should think that was enough, in all conscience," replied the sister.

"So should I, Anna, to make me respect her."

"Why, William!"

"Why, Anna!"

"But seriously, William, you cannot be in earnest!"

"And seriously, Anna, are you in earnest?"

"Of course I am."

"Well, sister, I'm afraid my oldfashioned notions, for such I suppose you will call them, and your new fangled notions, for such I must call them, will not chime well together. All that I have heard you allege against Caroline Murry, raises, instead of lowering her in my estimation. So far as a gentle and truly lady-like deportment is concerned, I think her greatly superior to the two friends you have named as pinks of gentility."

Anna looked into the face of her brother for some moments, her countenance exhibiting a mingled expression of surprise and disappointment.

"But you are not going to walk with her in the street any more, I hope," she at length said.

"And why not, Anna?"

"Because, as I have said before, she is not gen—"

"Genteel, you were going to say—but that allegation, you perceive, Anna, has no weight with me; I do not consider it a true one."

"Well, we won't talk any more about it just now, for it would be no use," said the sister, changing her voice and manner; "and so I will change the subject. I want you to make a call or two with me this morning."

"On whom?"

"On Miss Eberly and Miss Fitzwilliams."

"It wouldn't be right for me to do so, would it? You know I don't consider them genteel," said the brother, with affected gravity.

"O, nonsense, brother! why will you trifle so?"

"But, seriously, Anna, I do not consider that those young ladies have any very strong claims to gentility; and, like you, I have no wish to associate with those who are not genteel."

"If you talk in that way, William, I shall get angry with you. I cannot hear my most intimate friends spoken of so lightly; and, at the same time, accused of a want of gentility. You must remember that you are reflecting upon your sister's associates."

"You must not, and I know you will not, get angry with me, sister, for speaking plainly; and you must do me the justice to believe that in speaking as I do I am in earnest. And, you must also remember, that, in saying what you did of Caroline Murry, you spoke of one with whom your brother has associated, and with whom he is still willing to associate."

Anna looked very serious at this, nor could she frame in her own mind a reply that was satisfactory to her. At last she said—

"But, seriously, brother William, won't you call on those young ladies with me?"

"Yes, on one condition."

"Well, what is that?"

"Why, on condition that you will, afterwards, call with me, and see Caroline Murry."

"I cannot do that, William," she replied in a positive tone.

"And why not, Anna?"

"I have already told you."

"I cannot perceive the force of that reason, Anna. But, if you will not go with me, I must decline going with you. The society of Miss Murry cannot be more repulsive to you, than is that of the Misses Eberly and Fitzwilliams to me."

"You don't know what you are talking about, William."

"That is my own impression about you. But come, now, sister, let us both be rational to each other. I am willing to go with you, if you will go with me."

"Yes, but, William, you don't reflect, that, in doing as you desire me, I will be in danger of losing my present position in society. Caroline Murry is not esteemed genteel in the circle in which I move, and if it should be known that I visit her, I will be considered on a level with her. I would do any thing to oblige you, but, indeed, I would be risking too much here."

"You would only be breaking loose," replied the brother, "from the slavery you are now in to false notions of what is truly genteel. If any one esteems you less for being kind, attentive, and courteous, to one against whom no suspicion has never dared to breathe a word, and whose whole life is a bright example of the pure and high-toned principles that govern her, that one is unworthy of your regard. True gentility does not exist my sister, merely in a studied and artificial elegance of behaviour, but in inward purity and taste, and a true sense of what is right, all exhibiting themselves in their natural external expression. The real lady judges of others from what they are, and neglects none but the wilfully depraved. True, there are distinctions in society, and there are lines of social demarcation—and all this is right. But we should be careful into what social sphere we are drawn, and how we suffer ourselves to be influenced by the false notions of real worth which prevail in some circles that profess a high degree of gentility. I hold that every one, no matter what may be his or her condition in life, fails to act a true part, if not engaged in doing something useful. But me put it to your natural good sense, which do you think the most deserving of praise, Caroline Murry, who spends her time in 'doing something' useful to her own family; or your friends, the Misses Eberly and Fitzwilliams, and those constituting their particular circle, who expect service from others, but never think of rendering any, and who carry their prejudices so far as to despise those who work?"

Anna did not reply, and her brother said—

"I am in earnest, sister, when I say, that you cannot confer a greater favour upon your brother, than to go with him to see Caroline Murry. Cannot I induce you to comply with my wishes?"

"I will go," she replied to this appeal, and then hurried away, evidently no little disturbed in her feelings.

In half an hour she was ready, and, taking her brother's arm, was soon on the way to Miss Ernestine Eberly's residence. That young lady received them with all the graces and fashionable airs she could assume, and entertained them with an occasional spice of envious and ill natured remark. Knowing that her brother was a close discriminator, and that he was by no means prepossessed in her friend's favour, Anna herself observed her more narrowly, and, as it were, with his eyes. It seemed to her that Miss Eberly never was so uninteresting, or so mal-apropos in what she said. The call on Zepherine Fitzwilliams came next in turn. Scanning her also with other eyes than her own, Anna was disappointed in her very dear friend. She looked through her, and was pained to see that there was a hollowness and want of anything like true strength or excellence of character about her. Particularly was she displeased at a gratuitous sneer thrown out at the expense of Caroline Murry.

And now, with a reluctance which she could not overcome, Anna turned with her brother towards the residence of the young lady who had lost caste, because she had good sense and was industrious.

"I know my sister's lady-like character will prompt her to right action in our next call," said the brother, looking into Anna's face with an encouraging smile.

She did not reply, yet she felt somehow or other pleased with the remark. A few minutes' walk brought them to the door, and they were presently ushered into a neat parlour in which was the young lady they were seeking. She sat near a window, and was sewing. She was plainly dressed in comparison with the young ladies just called upon; but in neatness, and in all that constitutes the lady in air and appearance, in every way their superior.

"I believe you know my sister," said Enfield, on presenting Anna.

"We have met a few times," she replied, with a pleasant, unembarrassed smile, extending at the same time her hand.

Miss Enfield took the offered hand with less reluctance than she had imagined she could but a few hours before. Somehow or other, Caroline seemed to her to be very much changed for the better in manner and appearances. And she could not help during all the visit, drawing contrasts between her and the two very dear friends she had just called upon; and the contrast was in no way favorable to the latter. The conversation was on topics of ordinary interest, but did not once degenerate into frivolity or censoriousness. Good sense manifested itself to almost every sentence that Caroline uttered, and this was so apparent to Anna that she could not help frequently noticing and involuntarily approving it. "What a pity," Anna once or twice remarked to herself, "that she will be so singular."

The call was but a brief one. Anna parted with Caroline under a different impression of her character than she had ever before entertained. After her return with her brother, he asked her this abrupt question.

"Which of the young ladies, Anna, of the three we called upon this morning, would you prefer to call your sister?"

Anna looked up, bewildered and surprised, into the face of her brother, for a few moments, and then said:

"I don't understand you, brother William."

"Why, I thought I asked a very plain question. But I will make it plainer. Which one of the three young ladies we called upon this morning, would you advise me to marry?"

"Neither," replied Anna, promptly.

"That is only jumping the question," he said, smiling. "But, to corner you so that there can be no escape, I will confess that I have made up my mind to marry one of the three. Now tell me which you would rather it would be."

"Caroline Murry," said Anna, emphatically, while her cheeks burned, and her eyes became slightly suffused.

William Enfield did not reply to the hoped for, though rather unexpected admission, but stooping down, he kissed her glowing cheek, and whispered in her ear,

"Then she shall be your sister, and I know you will love one another."

He said truly. In a few months he claimed Caroline Murry as his bride, and her good sense, and winning gentleness of character, influenced Anna, and effectually counteracted the false notions which were beginning to corrupt a good heart and to overshadow a sound judgment. It was not long before she was fully sensible of the real difference which there was between the characters of her two friends, and that of her brother's wife; and also between true and false gentility. Although Caroline Murry had been proscribed by a certain circle in which false pride, instead of principle, was the governing motive, she had still been esteemed among those who knew how to look beyond the surface. As the wife of Enfield, she at once took a position in circles where those who had passed her by as unworthy would have sought in vain for admission, and in those circles she shone as a bright particular star.

FIRE IN ERVING. On the evening of the 19th inst. the house of Miss Lucretia White, in Erving, Mass. was consumed by fire, together with most of the furniture and all the clothing of the family, except their night clothes, in which they escaped. Miss White was severely burnt in attempting to save her valuable papers, but which were destroyed. The physicians think she can be saved.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND,

For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Strictures, Diabetes or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. Also, of L. S. THOMAS, corner of Britton and Forest streets—with full directions accompanying each bottle at $1 per bottle.

☞For sale in Washington city by ROBERT PATTERSON, cor. 9th street and the avenue, and CHAS. C. STOTT, corner of 7th street and the avenue; and by H. WADE, on 7th street.

66½ BALTIMORE-ST. HATS AGAINST THE WORLD. No! Not all the World but the World of Hoosbugs!! Call at our Store and we will prove that we sell the cheapest Hats in Baltimore, in point of Beauty, Durability, and Fashion. Our prices are well known, and are as follows: Splendid Fashionable Russia Hats for $3.50, of the same quality as those selling elsewhere for $5. Also, fine fashionable Silk Hats at $2.50, warranted on Russia bodies, and generally selling elsewhere for $4 or no sale. And our old customers will please bear in mind that the well known KEEVIL removed from the Maryland Arcade some six months ago. So come one and all to 66½ Baltimore street, between Gay and Holliday-sts. for good and cheap Hats. Don't forget now!

W. H. KEEVIL & CO'S,
No. 66½ Baltimore-st., opposite Tripolett's alley,
And 4 doors W. of Bool's well known Auction Store.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

N. B. The trade supplied with HATS in the rough of all qualities. mh30-3m

FASHIONABLE BOOTS.

W. L. McCAULEY, Gentlemen's FASHIONABLE BOOT MAKER, No. 6 LOMBARD STREET, cor. of Franklin Lane, near South st., makes BOOTS at $3.50 per pair, and Boots them for $2.75, of the very best Leather and Workmanship. Being a Practical Boot Maker, and Inventor of the Pegged Cork Sole BOOTS, which have given so much satisfaction to the wearer, gentlemen may rely on getting good and handsome work. Give me a call, and I will endeavor to please, for my Boots shall be behind none in this or any other city. [ap21-tf] W. L. McCAULEY.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

MONDAY MORNING, MAY 31, 1841.

☞ It is said in a letter published in the United States Gazette, that Mr. Stevenson, the American Minister in London, was induced to recommend the return of the Mediterranean Squadron, by information in his possession, that "the British Government had transmitted instructions to the Admirals on the American station, ordering them, immediately upon receiving authentic information that McLeod, an officer of the British Army, had been executed, to proceed on the coast of the United States, and to set fire to, and burn down our cities and towns along the whole coast."

We think it hardly possible that the British government issued such instructions. There must be some mistake, as we doubt whether, if the instructions had been issued they would have been made known to our minister in London.—We should not too hastily give credit to such rumors, as they tend to produce a feeling of irritation. It is not to be supposed that Great Britain, if resolved on war with this country, would deviate from the form adopted among civilized nations, of issuing a declaration. We have no expectation that the McLeod case (whether he be acquitted or hanged,) will lead to a rupture between England and the United States. There may be some grumbling, but there will be no blows. England understands her interests too well to sacrifice them in revenge for the punishment of a worthless individual.

FREDERICK COUNTY BANK. The Frederick Herald of Saturday last contains a notification from the Cashier of this bank, that "the Directors are under the necessity of refusing to pay the notes in circulation, as also the deposites, with this exception, that in all cases where debts are due to the bank by depositors or note holders, their deposites or notes held by them at the time the bank was robbed, will be received from such debtors in payment of their respective debts. The debtors offering to pay with the notes of the bank, must offer proof satisfactory to the bank of their having held them at the time of the robbery."

To this course there can be no objection. It will effectually prevent the circulation of the notes stolen, and thus render them useless to the robber.

The cashier also requests that all persons who may be in possession of the paper of the bank, to bring it in for special deposite in the bank, or in case they prefer holding it in their own possession, communicate to the bank the amount, number and denomination of the notes held by them respectively, within twenty days from this date, or before the 15th day of June.

The Frederick Herald says: "The loss of the Frederick County Bank will fall heavily upon the people of this county. The universal confidence which was wont to be reposed in this institution—the security with which it has been guarded—the high character of its officers—and the caution with which it has always acted, had given it a high character in the public estimation, and its notes and its stocks were sought for with avidity. We have heard it said, that of the $175,000 capital, $134,000 were owned in Fredericktown and county. This must all prove an entire and a dead loss."

WHERE IS THE SCHOOLMASTER? According to the late census it appears, that there are 80,784 white persons over the age of 20 years in Georgia, who can neither read nor write. We cannot imagine how any person in this country can set down contented in such gross ignorance. It must be, in most cases, from choice; for, there are few persons who cannot learn to read and write if they have the disposition. They are called upon to vote—to participate actively in the political affairs of the country; and yet they neglect, or do not choose, to qualify themselves to act with judgment. They are satisfied to adopt the opinions of others, and to be ignorantly led in matters which it is their duty to understand. We hope the legislature of Georgia will vote for a supply of schoolmasters, that this evil may be remedied. We do not know that we could spare them from Maryland, as we have here a tolerable field for their labors.

THE STEAMER BRITANNIA. The rumor respecting the damage to this steamship is, we regret to state, confirmed. We learn from the St. John Courier of Saturday, that in approaching Halifax harbor on Tuesday afternoon of last week, she struck on "the Sisters," near Sambro Light, in a thick fog. She was immediately backed off, and proceeded up the harbor, when she was taken into the Dock Yard for examination, and after being lightened of her fuel, but little injury could be discovered, and the leakage had stopped, but it was not deemed prudent, nevertheless to continue on her voyage.

On account of greater facilities in repairing her; she was taken to St. John, where she arrived on Friday last, performing the run in 36 hours. She leaks but little and it is expected that when she is taken into her berth the necessary repairs will be completed in a few hours. She will return to Halifax immediately after being repaired, and proceed on her voyage to Liverpool.

SUPPOSED MURDERER ARRESTED. A man named Ritchie was on Thursday arrested in Philadelphia, accused of being accessary to the murder of a man named Westford, in Boston.

CONFLAGRATION. The National Theatre, in New York, burnt to the ground. From the Tattler of Saturday evening, we learn that the National Theatre of New York, is now in ruins.—It was discovered to be on fire at 7 o'clock in the morning, and at 8 o'clock, the work was complete. Two of the walls fell in, and injured some houses which were contiguous. Several buildings in the neighborhood of the Theatre were burnt to some extent principally upon the roofs. The weight of the conflagration was, however, confined to the Theatre. The books of the establishment were saved, as also an inconsiderable portion of the wardrobe, and stage property. There was no loss of life. The origin of the fire is said to be the act of an incendiary. A man by the name of George Shiers, an employee of the gas company, who assisted in lighting the house, and who had been heard to make threats, has been taken up on suspicion. Circumstances are strong against him. Much sympathy is manifested for Mr. Burton, the lessee and manager. His loss, it is said, will be heavy. The insurance is not stated.

MR. RUSSELL'S CONCERT. There is probably no concert singer in this country, who has arrived at as great a pitch of excellence, as the celebrated vocalist who has announced a concert for this evening, at the Saloon of the Assembly Rooms. The style of Mr. Russell is peculiar to himself alone, and there are few who can do justice to the numerous descriptive ballads that have emanated from his genius. The song of the "Maniac," for instance, is thrillingly effective; and, though it may be found in the musical library of every Miss who thrums on the piano, yet it is seldom that we meet with a parlor vocalist who will attempt to sing it. The touching beauties of the song, entitled "The Gambler's Wife," are likewise only to be displayed by the composer himself. "Some love to roam," "Ivy Green," and "The old arm chair," are well known, and deservedly popular.

We have every reason for believing that the hall will present a brilliant display of beauty and fashion, this evening, for Baltimore will not differ from her sister cities in this instance.

The Norfolk Herald of the 25th says, "The new steamboat, built expressly to test the utility of Lieut. Hunter's new plan of propelling vessels, by the steam engine, made an excursion on Tuesday, with Gen. Scott, the President and Directors of the Canal Company, and other citizens on board, and the result was a thorough conviction of the complete success of the plan, and of its capacity for supplying all the deficiencies of the steamboats heretofore in use. It can be used in ships of war, without rendering them more vulnerable—indeed, for harbor and coast defence, less so than they now are, as it dispenses with spars and rigging; and in canal boats, it is said, without causing any washing away of the embankments beyond what is done by the ordinary towboats.

"Of the speed, there is, as yet, no opportunity of forming a correct idea, for this boat being a mere experiment, it is believed that one constructed with more care and embracing improvements which have been suggested by its operations, would surpass her in that particular. We can say, however, that under all disadvantages, she has made from 8 to 9 miles an hour. We hope very soon to be able to furnish a fuller specification of this most important improvement in steam navigation."

UNGRATEFUL CREATURE. A family residing in the vicinity of Gay street, not long since, admitted into their house a poor old beggar woman, whose indigent situation excited both pity and sympathy. The unfortunate old lady was soon given a place at the family table, and made a common guest. Not many days had elapsed until the old beggar woman fully exemplified the fable of the snake and the farmer. After having remained a sufficient time to recruit, she betook herself to plunder; and finally Swartwouted with a considerable amount of jewelry, together with other articles of value. This was really the height of ungratefulness.

DISGUISE. A young woman was detected on Friday last, promenading the streets of this city, dressed in a man's clothes, with boots, and that monkey appendage mustaches. Some young men overhauled her, and after having torn the false hair from her upper lip, she cried for quarters, and was gallantly escorted home by two gentlemen. She is said to be a lady, but her delicacy is not very refined.

RAIL ROAD BRIDGE. A correspondent states, that the Rail Road Bridge near Elkton is in a dilapidated and dangerous condition, and thinks that a new one should be constructed. We hope that the company will see to this matter before any accident occurs, if the bridge be in the condition represented.

A young lady lately hung herself because a young man to whom she was engaged refused to marry her. Had she feared God as much as she appears to have loved man, she would have wiped her lover's last kiss from her lips, and been resigned to the loss of a heartless wretch. Girls should never get so deep in love that they must either marry or hang.

CONGRESS. From appearances there will be a general attendance of members to-day, and the President's message may be expected to-morrow, unless there should be some difficulty in the election of Speaker, which we do not anticipate.—We have made the necessary arrangements to have a regular report of the proceedings.

HIGH-SCREAMS. A lot of double-lunged negroes, the disciples of "poor old Moses," are singing their recitatives about our streets, and bellowing "le-le-le-moo, ice cream," at almost every corner. This, we take it, is a certain sign of the advent of warm weather, and these vocalists the ministers of cold comfort.

(Reported for the Baltimore Clipper.)

A CASE TO RECOVER A SUM OF MONEY. A case was tried before Justice Gorsuch, to recover a sum of money loaned by A to B and C. It was proven that B and C called at the house of A some time since and borrowed a sum of money, leaving a watch as collateral security, and at the same time giving their notes to be paid at specified times. The time rolled around, B and C called at the house of A, who had been confined by sickness, and settled their account with Millington Bank money some days after it was known the Bank had failed. A friend called to see A, who related to him the circumstances, showing him the money he had received; who upon examination told him (A.) that the Bank had failed. At this A. flew into a passion, remarking that he would put them where the dogs would not bark at them, if such was the case. Upon which he informed him that he was acquainted with B and C, and with his permission would act as a mediator in the affair, which was agreed to. The friend of A called on B and C and related the circumstances to them, remarking that they were likely to be held to account for passing money which was known to be worthless. Upon this they consented to assume the debt in current money, at the same time giving their separate notes at four and six months. The first note falling due was not paid, and of course protested. An action was brought by A to recover the money, but without effect. The counsel for the defendants proved that usurous interest had been exacted from his clients, and if the transaction was a continuous, which was acknowledged to be so—that the plaintiff was, of course, doing injustice in the eye of the law. Judgment was given in favor the defendants.

COLONIZATION CONVENTION.

Agreeably to public notice, a meeting of the friends of African Colonization of the 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th Wards, was held at the General Wayne Inn on Wednesday evening, 26th inst., when BEVERLY C. SANDERS, of the 11th Ward, was called to the Chair, and William P. Stewart, of the 13th Ward, appointed Secretary.

John L. Carey, Esq. explained the object of the meeting, and moved the appointment of a Committee to nominate five Delegates from each Ward, to represent them in the Maryland State Colonization Convention, which is to assemble in this city on Thursday, the 3d day of June next. The Chair appointed a Committee, who reported the names of the following gentlemen, who were unanimously adopted:

RIOTING AT CROTON WATER WORKS. The New York Sun says:—There have been symptoms of very serious disturbances amongst the laborers employed on the Croton Water Works for some weeks past, and officers McGrath, Huthwaite, Colville and Collins, have been stationed there for ten days past, for the purpose of preventing any such breaches of the peace as have been anticipated. On Monday night last, about 11 o'clock, the shanty of one of the laborers named Patrick McGinnis, was attacked by a number of men, who discharged against it a volley of stones, and were proceeding with axes to complete the work of destruction, when the officers came up, on which the cowardly ruffians fled. One of them, however, named Charles Gearty, was arrested and brought to the Tombs on Tuesday morning by officer Huthwaite. He was fully committed for trial.

SUICIDE. An inquest was held on Thursday last at the house of Patrick Ray, 91 Mulberry street, New York, on the body of Patrick Quin, who committed suicide by hanging himself with a strip of canvass. It appears that deceased, who was 23 years of age, had arrived only a few days with his brother from Ireland in the ship Patrick Henry. The brother of the unfortunate man deposed that he had been laboring under great mental depression from the period of leaving his native country; that he had frequently threatened to destroy himself, and that an offer made by his brother to send him home again was rejected in a gloomy and despoding manner.—Deceased was a very temperate man. Verdict according to the melancholy circumstances.

ACCIDENT AND PROVIDENTIAL ESCAPE.—Merchants look to your Falls and Tackels! A most miraculous escape occurred at Bokee's China store, on Saturday morning,—while lowering a crate of plate from the fourth story, the rope broke, and such was its impetuosity, that it went through the cellar door into the cellar, smashing the contents into atoms; and wonderful to relate, young Mr. Bokee, who was immediately under it, was providentially preserved.

SOMEWHAT WANTING. A large quantity of butter was taken from a poor old countryman at the Marsh Market on Saturday last, in consequence of its being too light, and afterwards sold at auction by the market-master. We could not but sympathize with the old man, who stood by with his head uncovered, his hairs whitened by the touch of time, looking as sorrowful as though he had lost his all. The law must, however, take its course.

ARREST OF CAPTAIN SNOW. This individual who is charged with having scuttled and sunk the schooner Mogul, on the high seas, was arrested in New York on Saturday last. He was placed in charge of the United States Marshall. He declares himself innocent.

DRIVER KILLED. Edward Crane, a driver for the Albany and Buffalo Towing Company, was killed at Palmyra, on the 21st inst. by the horses running away, whilst towing the boat George.

LATE FROM THE PACIFIC.—DEATH OF COMMODORE CLAXTON. The ship Natchez at New York from Valparaiso, whence she sailed on the 22d of March, brings intelligence of the death of Commodore Claxton, commander of the American squadron on the Pacific. He died at Talcahuana on the 7th of March, and his remains were conveyed in the frigate Constitution to Valparaiso, where she arrived on the 11th. The funeral took place on the 12th. The Natchez brings $102,000 in specie.

U. S. frigate Constitution, Captain Turner, sailed from Valparaiso on the 15th of March for Callao. Sloop of war Yorktown, Commander Aulick, arrived there on the 20th from Rio de Janeiro.

There is no political news of any consequence.

On Sunday the 14th, the prisoners in the Presidio rose upon the guard, overpowered them and escaped. The garrison, on hearing the alarm, seized their muskets and followed in pursuit for about a league. The prisoners not regarding the summons to stop, were repeatedly fired upon, and twenty-seven of them killed and seven wounded. Three of the soldiers were also wounded. About 20 of the prisoners were still at large on the 15th, but it was thought they would soon be taken.

[COMMUNICATION.]

ANOTHER HERO GONE. Commodore ALEXANDER CLAXTON, one of the Hero's of the last war, particularly in the battle between the Gurriere and the Constitution, when in command of the Midship Division—he was the only survivor of that brave band after that gallant action. His affable manners, gentlemanly deportment, and his uniform kindness to the Seamen, deserves some notice from his fellow citizens. It is therefore proposed that the flags of the shipping and public places, be hoisted throughout to day, half mast high, as a partial demonstration entertained for his gallantry as a sailor, and respect to his memory. NEPTUNE.

SPORTING A FINE FACE. There is an individual in this city of rather fair proportions externally, who, for some time has been in the habit of sporting his face at places of public accommodation. His mode of operating is, to call for such as he wants, guzzle it down and walk off without paying. A few evenings since he called at Boyd's. After helping himself and friends, was about to hunt the door, but was accosted with the salutation—"you have not paid your bill." Being a little confused he walked up to the bar and asked for credit, remarking that his face had been his friend all through life, and that he was sure it could not forsake him under such trying circumstances. Not having the rhino he was permitted to go his way, with the promise that he would not presume so much in future upon his fine face and more upon his pocket.

FIRES FROM LOCOMOTIVES. The house of William Meeker, at Williams' Farms, in the township of Elizabeth, N. J., was burnt on Friday, with most of its contents, with the adjoining carriage house. We infer from the Elizabethtown Journal, that the fire was communicated by the sparks from the locomotive of the Somerville rail road. No insurance.

On Monday of last week, a fire in the woods near Hollidaysburgh, Pa., destroyed above 1500 cords of wood prepared for the use of the Franklstown furnace. It caught from the sparks of a locomotive. On the same day the warehouse attached to the rolling mill of McBride, Bingham & Co., took fire from the same cause and was burned to the ground. The loss will be about $3,500.

☞ The young man calling himself Williams, with a half dozen aliases, who was arrested in St. Louis on the 19th, charged with being one of the late extensive bank forgers was brought out on the 20th and examined before Recorder Bowlin. The evidence not being sufficiently explicit he was released.

A WEALTHY CLERGYMAN. The Montreal Herald of Tuesday last says, that the property in the neighborhood of Kingston, belonging to the Rev. W. M. Herchimer, has been sold to the government for £30,000 sterling, being about $132,333.

FANNY ELSSLER—Important. The steamer Queen of the West, passed Vicksburg on the morning of the 16th, on her way to Louisville, having on board, the "divine" Fanny. It is said that it took only six state rooms to accommodate her.

☞ In the case of Antonia Pi, the Spaniard who was lately tried at New Orleans for shooting, with intent to kill, the jury "hung," and were finally discharged. The prisoner was remanded to jail.

A TUMBLE DOWN. A chimney attached to the foundry of Mr. Joseph Share, at the corner of Concord and Second streets, tumbled down on Saturday with a tremendous crash. Fortunately no serious injury was sustained.

HORRIBLE. A man named Joseph Longshore, in Newton, Bucks county, Pa., on the 21st inst., in a fit of delirium tremens cut open his body and mangled himself in a most horrible manner with a large knife. He died almost immediately

☞ Bernard Martin, a painter, while engaged painting a house in New Orleans on the 20th, fell from the third story and was so injured as to cause his life to be despaired of.

☞ More frauds are spoken of by the late N. Orleans papers, as having taken place in the Bank of Louisiana. When will this corruption cease?

NATHANIEL P. WILLIS, Esq. has accepted an invitation to deliver a Poem before the Lincoian Society of Yale College, at its approaching anniversary.

MR. VAN BUREN, it is intimated, will be invited to accept a nomination as Governor of New York.

☞ Mrs. Polly Chapin, wife of Mr. Zebulon Chapin, of Simsbury, Ct. was instantly killed by lightning, on Tuesday last.

☞ It will be seen by an advertisement in this days paper that Heisler & Co. No. 1 N. Calvert st., have been supplying their patrons with more splendid prizes. A gentleman at Winchester who sent for his ticket from that place, obtained a prize of 2000 dollars besides several Citizens who obtained prizes of 1000 dollars. The fact is it is only necessary to buy from Heisler's to obtain good prizes. m31-1t

ATTENTION—1st, 2d, 3d, 4th & 5th WARDS.

☞ A meeting will be held at White Hall on THIS EVENING, the 31st May, at 8 o'clock precisely, for the purpose of appointing delegates to represent those Wards in the State Colonization Convention to be holden in Baltimore on Thursday the 3d day of June next. m31-1t

☞ My attention having been called to the schedule and papers of said Freeman—I there find that he has petitioned for something like THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS, and that Reverdy Johnson and John Glenn are his securities in the sum of Six Hundred Thousand Dollars for his appearance at Court, and that Wm. H. Gatchell, as Attorney for General Insurance Co., has appointed John Glenn as permanent Trustee for said Insolvent, and John [illegible], as Trustee for United States Insurance Company, and in his disappointment as Trustee. Now [illegible] way the permanent Trustee has been appointed in Freeman's case! This is published for the information of the creditors—so that they may call a meeting forthwith, and look into the matter. Come up, ye creditors of Freeman, to the rescue, or where will this matter end? m31-1t A. HYAM.

WELL DONE OLD VIRGINIA.

☞ The splendid Prize of $2000, comb. 6 49, 70, we sent per letter to an old correspondent at Winchester, Va. A STOCK OF DRY GOODS,
SELLING OFF TO CLOSE BUSINESS!
AT No. 77 MARKET STREET.
This is no Humbug to catch Customers.

JOHN BERGER & CO. intending shortly to close their business, at No. 77 Baltimore street, think it due to themselves to state, that when they advertise SELLING OFF AT COST, it is not a mere sham so much in vogue now, to attract custom—but that having other objects in view, they are compelled to close up their business in a very short time, and to do so with as little sacrifice as possible, they now offer their well selected stock at Wholesale and Retail, at COST, for cash. Our Stock is bought mostly at auction, at the ruinous low prices at which goods have been sacrificed this season, and selling them at first cost! Purchasers may rest assured to get Bargains.

P. S. Any person wishing to enter the Dry Goods business and to procure one of the best "Retail" stands in town, will find it to their advantage to call and see us soon. Remember the name and No.

CONCERT.

MR. H. RUSSELL will give a GRAND CONCERT at the Assembly Rooms, Fayette street, on MONDAY EVENING, 31st inst. at 8 o'clock, on which occasion Mr. R will sing some of his latest compositions, that have met with great applause in New York, Boston, and Philadelphia.

PROGRAMME.—PART I.

Song—"Some love to roam, o'er the dark sea foam," Russell.
Song—"The Old Farm Gate," Russell.
"Where, where is that gate that used to divide,
The old shaded lane from the grassy road side."
Sea Song—"I'm afloat! I'm afloat on the fierce rolling tide!" Russell.
Song—"The Old Sexton,"—Words by P. Benjamin, Russell.
"Nigh to a grave that was newly made,
Leaned a Sexton old, on his earth worn spade;
His work was done and he paused to wait
The funeral train through the open gate;
A relic of bye-gone days was he,
And his locks were white as the foamy sea;
And these words came from his lips so thin,
'I gather them in! I gather them in!'" &c.
National Refrain—Our Native Song, Russell.
"Self-exiled from our place of birth,
To climes more fragrant bright and gay,
The memory of our own fair earth
May chance awhile and fade away;
But should some minstrel echo fail,
On chords that breathe Columbia's fame,
Our souls will burn, our spirits yearn,
True to the land we love and claim.
The high—the low—in weal or woe,
Be sure there's something coldly wrong
About the heart that does not glow
To hear its own—its Native Song."
New Ballad—My Mother's Bible, founded on a passage in every day life, (words by G. P. Morris,) Russell.
This book is all that's left me now!
Tears will unbidden start!
With faltering lip and throbbing brow,
I press it to my heart!
For many generations passed,
Here is our family tree!
My mother's hand this bible clasped—
She, dying, gave it me.
Ah! well do I remember those
Whose names these records bear!
Who round the hearth-stone used to close
After the evening prayer;
And speak of what this volume said,
In tones my heart would thrill—
Though they are with the silent dead,
Here they are living still!
Song—"The Mania."—words partly by Monk Lewis, Russell.

The above description of a Scene in a Mad House is founded on fact. "Some years since, a gentleman of large fortune was taken to a Mad House, and there confined seven feet under ground. The persons that accompanied him took oath to those entrusted with the care of the establishment to the fact of his being a maniac. The more the poor fellow implored for his release, the more forcibly were the keepers convinced of his madness. The treatment he received while thus confined, affected his reason and he became frantic, and shortly died from the effect. The strangers that carried him to the Mad House were supposed to have been hired by some brutal relatives, who, at his death, were to come in possession of his property.

PART II.

Song—Come brothers, arouse, arouse, Russell.
Song—The Old Arm Chair—(words by Eliza Cook,) Russell.
"I love it, I love it, and who shall dare
To chide me for loving that old Arm Chair."
Song Descriptive—The Gambler's Wife—(The words written expressly for Mr. Russell, by Dr. Reynold Coates,) Russell.
Dark is the night! How dark! No light! No fire!
Cold on the hearth the last faint sparks expire!
Shivering she watches by the cradle side,
For him who pledged her love! Last year a Bride.
Hark! 'Tis his footstep! No! 'tis gone!
Tic! Tic! How wearily the time rolls on!
Why should he leave me thus! He once was kind;
And I believed 'twould last! How mad! how blind!
Rest thee, my babe! rest on!—'tis hunger's cry!
Sleep! for there is no food!—the fount is dry!
Famine and cold their wearying work have done!
My heart must break!—and thou, my child—hush!
The clock strikes one!—&c.

This song is designed to represent the feelings of a young wife and mother, under circumstances sufficiently common to warrant the assertion that it is founded on fact, without exaggeration. It represents the Gambler's Wife and Child, deserted by their natural protector, in the extreme of poverty and starvation, for the pleasure of play. The fire expires—the energies of life sink from want of food, and the mother vainly strives to hope in the midst of despair, appealing to the past with the memory of the bride, while vainly endeavoring to sooth her child with the energy of a mother's love, until the infant dies in her arms, and her heart is broken. The current of her feelings is interrupted only by the peal of the clock, and at the third hour the scene closes; while Time strides onward in its monotonous march, regardless as the world of the issue.

Song—I love my dear old Wife—(A song written after the olden time,) Russell.
Ballad—We were boys together—(The words written by G. P. Morris,) Russell.
Song—Arm, brothers! arm! I've lost my child! the wolf is out—(A description of a Wolf Hunt) Russell.
Ballad—Woodman, spare that tree—(Words by G. P. Morris,) Russell.
Comic Italian Song—Largo al Factotum, Rossini.

CITY COURT.

Saturday, May 29th.

GREEN MOUNT CEMETERY CASE. This case, which has created some little feeling in the city, occupied the attention of the court a considerable part of the morning. The investigation was conducted vigorously both by the prosecution and the defence. It was proven on the part of the traversers, and also by some of the witnesses for the state, that the assault made upon the prosecutors by the traversers were provoked by their violent and abusive language. It was also made manifest by the testimony that the prosecutors at the time were laboring under the effects of intoxicating drink. His honor, Judge Brice, remarked, in closing the case. "that the prosecutors no doubt were the the aggressors, that their conduct was highly offensive, and richly merited chastisement, but unfortunately for the traversers they had the windward of them in law." He therefore subjected the traversers to a fine of fifty cents each, which was the smallest fine he could impose upon them.

We think it due to the lot holders in "Green Mount Cemetery," and the visitors generally, that the persons employed there, who were engaged in the transaction referred to above, should be dismissed. The evidence shewed them to be men of insulting manners and violent habits. It is too often the case that officials are overbearing and insulting, but in this case their conduct was disgraceful and highly reprehensible. We say again, the interest of the lot holders demands their immediate removal.

ROMANTIC SUICIDE. The correspondent of the Tribune states that on Saturday, the 17th, a singular suicide occured is Springfield, Ohio. Capt. John Staples had arrived in town to arrange the terms of a separation with his wife. He wished to see her, but the request was refused from prudential motives, excepting on conditions that his pride could not brook.

"His purpose was at once fixed. 'The Rubicon,' said he, 'is passed.' He spent the day in settling his affairs, conversing with his friends, &c. and attending divine service in the evening. At a late hour of the night he repaired to the Hotel, at which his wife had stopped; and entering softly stole to her supposed chamber, and quietly lay down across its entrance. When the Sabbath morning rose, there was he found, arrayed in a mourning dress, his feet tied together, and his hat with a nice crape, placed on his breast, expiring in deep groans. Beside him lay a small tin case, which had contained laudanum, but which had been drained to the dregs, also two letters, one addressed to his wife, the other to his attorney, containing directions for his funeral, and closing with a prayer that God would forgive him, and receive his spirit."

MATRIMONIAL RULE. If you wish to undertake any important enterprise, be sure and consult your wife. If she agrees with you fly into her arms—if she don't, then fly into a passion.

The above sage advice is from the Buffalo Times.—Did you ever accomplish anything by adopting either plan, in case of emergency? To fly into a passion with one's wife, seldom, if ever, does any good.

DANGEROUS PLAYTHING. We learn from the Salem Gazette that a boy of 14, named Timothy Reed, lately killed another, aged 11, in Westford, Mass., by playing with a double barrelled gun. Reed meant to frighten his playmate; one barrel was loaded and the other not. He put a cap on the wrong lock—snapped the gun, and killed the other, whose name was John Busce, instantly.

ROBBERY. The dwelling house of James C. Townsend, Esq. in New Haven, was broken open on the night of the 15th, and a portable desk containing certificates for several thousand dollars, and other valuable papers carried off. The act was committed by a lad 16 years old, who had formerly been in Mr. T's employ. He was arrested the next day while opening the desk, and taken before a Justice, when he confessed the crime, and was bound over for trial in June.

AN IMPRESSIVE SERMON. Died, in South Kingston, R. I., 9th inst. Rev. Henry Clark Hubbard, 73. Mr. H. was a Baptist clergyman for nearly forty years. On the day of his death, he entered the pulpit as usual, and selected as his text, the 5th verse of the 5th chapter of Matthew: "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." After repeating his text, he was seized with a fit, and fell on the pulpit floor, and soon after was a corpse!

There are more than 102 officers, 650 teachers, and 4,500 scholars, attached to the Brooklyn Sabbath School Union.

TRUSTEES SALE of valuable real estate in the city of Baltimore. By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court of Maryland, the undersigned as Trustee, will expose to sale at auction on WEDNESDAY, the ninth day of June next, commencing at 9 o'clock, A. M. on the premises

ALL THAT VALUABLE PROPERTY heretofore conveyed by William Russell to the trustees for the poor of Baltimore City and County, by indenture bearing date on or about the fifteenth day of June seventeen hundred and ninety-two, and recorded amongst the land records of Baltimore County Court in liber W. G., No. K. K., folio 4 &c., and which in said deed is described as follows, viz—Beginning for the same at the intersection of Biddle and Price sts., and on the west side of said Biddle street, and running and bounding on the west side of said Biddle street north forty-four degrees, east forty eight perches and the half of a perch, then north fifty two and one half degrees, west thirty four perches to a parcel of ground heretofore sold to a certain William Gibson by the said William Russell, then running and bounding on said ground south forty four degrees, west forty four perches to Price street, then bounding on said street south easterly thirty four perches to the place of beginning, containing nine acres and one half of an acre and thirteen square perches of land more or less.

The above property adjoins the Rose Hill estate and is in the neighborhood of the outer Depot of the Baltimore and Susquehana Rail Road; it lies beyond the limits of direct taxation and is exempt from the payment of City Taxes; the whole property will be divided into a large number of Lots of such dimensions as will enable those of moderate means to become purchasers. Madison street, which forms its Southern boundary, has been well paved along its entire front and beyond, and has been built upon up to Biddle st., which forms the Eastern Boundary, Morris Alley, Gibson street, Jordan Alley, and Gordon street, pass thro' it from east to west. A better opportunity than the present rarely occurs either for investment or speculation, especially when the very liberal terms of payment are taken into consideration.

The terms of sale prescribed by the decree are that the purchasers shall pay one-sixth cash, one sixth in ninety days, one sixth in six months, one-sixth in nine months, one-sixth in twelve months, and one-sixth in fifteen months from the day of sale, the credit instalments to be secured by notes with one or more sureties to be approved by the Trustee and to bear interest from the day of sale.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are ecfical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it a reality to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 22 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

F. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY,
No. 17 HARRISON ST.
"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per BOTTLE, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. m1-tf

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office is New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2, 1840.

☞ To DR. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I have had experience in the virtue of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,

E. PARRISH.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.

DR. WM. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been laboring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. Yours, respectfully, JOHN DYE.

We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, know our neighbour, Mr. Dye, sold him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true. Respectfully,

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

UNITED STATES MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH, Sunday's excepted.
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road.

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that in accordance with the New Mail Arrangement, the Boats composing their line, viz: ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, will, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 26th of May, leave the lower end of Spear's wharf daily, (Sunday's excepted,) at nine o'clock, A. M. for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va.

Passengers for Charleston will find the cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, on the wharf, on their arrival at Portsmouth, ready to convey them to Weldon, N. C., where they will always arrive in time to take the cars for Wilmington, from which point to Charleston is by the Steamboat, which leaves Wilmington immediately after the Passengers are delivered from the cars.

Passengers for Richmond, Petersburg, or intermediate points on James River, by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, will sleep on board the Bay Boat and be transferred to the James River Boat next morning.

The Steamboat Fox leaves the Black Water station on the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars from Portsmouth for Edenton and Plymouth, N. C., and returns every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, delivering her passengers to the cars as they pass down from Weldon, enabling them to arrive in Baltimore next day, (Sundays excepted.)

RETURNING, one of the above Boats will leave Norfolk every night (Saturday being excepted) at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departing from Portsmouth.

Should the Boat get an early start from Portsmouth, Passengers for Philadelphia and New York will have the opportunity of being placed on board the Philadelphia Steamboat in the Patapsco River, and will arrive in Philadelphia the same night by 11 o'clock, after having travelled 300 miles in 20 hours, without as much fatigue as would be incurred in walking from the Hotel to the wharf.

☞ No freight will be forwarded on the day it is lod, unless it is alongside, prior to 6 o'clock, A. M.

JNO. C. MOALE, General Agent,
m24-d Baltimore Steam-Packet Company.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

☞ Bear in mind, that Passengers who go by the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, have 40 miles of Rail Road travelling through the DISMAL SWAMP at midnight, over one of the worst Rail Roads in America, and then are often compelled to lay over 17 hours at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 9 A. M., they proceed, without one moment's delay, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and often one day in advance of any other Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	12 P.M.	reach Baltimore	8 A.M.
" Baltimore	9 A.M.	" Washington	11 A.M.
" Washington	11½ A.M.	" Fredericksburg	6 P.M.
" Fred'ksburg	6½ P.M.	" Richmond	11 P.M.
" Richmond	11½ P.M.	" Petersburg	1 A.M.
" Petersburg	1½ A.M.	" Weldon	6½ A.M.
" Weldon	7 A.M.	" Charleston on the next morning.

Passengers by this Line not only reach Charleston ONE DAY SOONER than by the Bay boats but they avoid being compelled to remain all night at Weldon, on the Roanoke, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole southern country, where, by the Bay Line, they are often delayed seventeen hours.

Passengers for Richmond and Petersburg will find this Line far the most expeditious, arriving at Richmond to lodge, (as will be seen from the above Schedule,) on the evening of the day on which they leave Baltimore, being from 16 to 18 hours in advance of those taking the Bay Steam Boats.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. Fare lower than any other line. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office,

TO KATE.

Say, where are the roses, fair Kate,
That threw their bright hue on thy cheek?
And where is the smile of thy lips,
That to the warm heart seemed to speak?
They are gone—they are faded away,
And the lily is reigning alone;
The lips where young joy seem'd to play,
Have lost the gay heart's lively tone.

The world is deceitful, fair Kate,
Hypocrisy lurks in its smile;
And young as thou art, thou hast learn'd
That Love hoods his features in guile.
The roses that grow on our path
Are tempting, and welcome us on;
We crush their bright leaves as we go,
And weep when we're prick'd by a thorn.

And though there's a cloud on thy brow;
The spirit of joy will soon light
The eye that beams gloomily now.
Were I but a score of years younger,
I'd smother with kisses each sigh;
But, Kate, I'm a lover no longer,
Let some one more fortunate try. CHIPS.

THE CASTILIAN CAPTIVE.

The thunders of Achmet Pacha's artillery ceased to shake the towers of Temaswar, which the rebel Suli Bey had long held out against the Porte. The fortune of the day had been decided by the fall of a part of the fortifications; and the young and fiery general of the Sultan's troops, bearing down all opposition, made himself master of the fortress, and pursued Suli Bey into his harem, whither in despair he had taken refuge.

The helpless and affrighted females crowded around their master with loud cries for protection, when they saw the hitherto inviolate portals of their apartments burst open by the fierce Achmet. The wretched Suli Bey, prostrating himself on the ground, buried his face in his garments, and awaited his fate in silence.

Achmet, whose first intention had been to plant his foot on his body and strike off his head, felt his arm arrested in spite of himself, by the glance of a dark eyed slave. The silent language in which the emotions of the soul are conveyed, is understood by all, and Achmet read in the eyes of Camilla such horror and detestation of the deed he was about to perform, that although he would not own to himself that her opinion was of the slightest importance, he suffered that look to change his purpose; and instead of becoming himself the executioner of Suli Bey, he beckoned his mutes to perform his will upon him.

The awful silence that followed this transaction was succeeded by the frantic outcries of the ladies of the harem, who, full of terror for their own safety, hastened to implore the mercy of their new lord. Achmet condescended to return his scymetar to its sheath and assure them of their security. No sooner did they perceive his gracious demeanor, than they began to address him with the most highflown terms of flattery, and each strove by every possible wile to attract his attention.

Achmet could not help being struck by the contrast Camilla presented, who stood proudly aloof with two of her country women. The haughty conqueror felt mortified that the fair Castilian did not join in the homage paid him by the other ladies, whom, by the superior richness of their dresses, he perceived had been considered as her superiors in the estimation of Suli Bey.

"Slave," said he approaching her, "wherefore is it that you have not joined with your companions in paying your duty to me."

"Because I owe you none," answered Camilla.

"Dare you thus reply to the conqueror of Temaswar? Do you not know that your very existence is in my hands?"

"I am aware of it," replied Camilla, raising a pair of radiant dark eyes to his face.

"Then why do you not fall at my feet and ask your life."

"It is not worth the trouble."

"You are a daughter of Frangistan, as I perceive by your rebellious spirit."

"I am."

"And a Christian?"

Camilla made the sign of the cross. Achmet spit on the ground.

"It must be confessed," said Camilla, reddening indignantly, "that you Turks are the most disgusting people under the sun."

"Slave!" cried Achmet, "if your anger did not become you so well, I would command my black eunuch Puffia to chastise you for your insolence."

"And even if you were to commit such an outrage, I could hardly think worse of you than I do at present," returned Camilla, bursting into tears.

"What is that you think of me?" asked the Pacha.

"That you are an unmanly ruffian, whom I hate but do not fear!" replied the fair Castilian, her eyes flashing through her tears as she spoke.

Achmet knew not how to answer the beautiful vixen. To conceal his perplexity, he turned to Antonia and Beatrice Manzares, her fellow captives.

"And ye, whom I perceive to be the countrywomen of this contumacious slave, are ye of a like spirit?"

They looked in great embarrassment from the Pacha to Camilla, and remained silent.

"How," exclaimed Achmet, angrily, "when I speak to the meanest of my slaves, am I not deemed worthy of a reply?"

"My cousins do not understand the odious jargon in which you address them, and [illegible] woman.

"Come, my Peri," he said, "it is my pleasure that you follow me to the banquet—nay, it is useless offering resistance to my will."

He then, with a sort of gentle violence, drew her from the darksome cell into an apartment richly carpeted, glittering with eastern magnificence, and fragrant with burning spices, flowers and essences.

"Come, my princess," said the Pacha, "let us eat, drink and be merry," placing her beside him on an embroidered sofa opposite to the banquet.

"I shall neither eat nor drink, for it is the vigil of St. Peter; nor am I disposed to sing or to be merry," said Camilla.

"Do you forget that I can force you to do as I command you?" returned Achmet frowning.

"No, you can neither force me to sing or to be merry; but I can tell you what you can do—you can order your Aga and black slaves to put a bowstring about my neck and strangle me as they did poor Suli Bey."

"Suli Bey, again!" exclaimed the Pacha furiously—answer me one question, did you love that wretched rebel?"

"No, I did not."

"Why then do you torment me with his name?"

"Because he is frequently in my thoughts."

"The other ladies of the harem have forgotten him, and I have succeeded to their love."

"Love, call you it," exclaimed Camilla;—"slaves that they are in mind as in person. They know not the meaning of the word!"

"Perhaps I am as ignorant of your sort of love as you seem to consider my women," replied Achmet thoughtfully.

"Oh! I doubt it not. I never heard of a Turk who had the least idea what love meant."

"You shall tell me then, fair creature, what it signifies, according to your ideas."

"It is," said Camilla, raising her bewitching eyes to his, "an interest so absorbing, that a lover will always prefer the happiness of his beloved to his own. All passions are swallowed up in this one engrossing emotion. He exists but for the happiness of loving, and would prefer dying with her, to living without her."

"I certainly never have loved after this fashion," said the Pacha, after a long pause; "yet nothing less will content me now. And you, Camilla, have you a lover in your own country?"

"Oh, many."

"One that you love thus?"

"No, I have not."

"I fear you are deceiving me."

"Holy Virgin! what a man is this that will not be satisfied with sincerity and plain dealing."

"Nay, Camilla, if you loved me"—

"My good Pacha, you must not flatter yourself into such a supposition. What title have you to my love?"

"I will strive to deserve it. I will restore your cousins to their liberty."

"For which I shall feel most grateful. But it is not one compliance, or two, or even twenty, that will entitle a man to my love."

"Oh, if you would teach me how to obtain it," said Achmet passionately.

"Come, I will encourage you a little. You are behaving pretty well at present. Yesterday I detested your very name. To-day you are almost endurable; and if you wish to leave an agreeable impression, you will permit me to retire."

"No, Camilla, I cannot part with you. You shall stay and enchant me with your presence."

"I shall do no such thing. If you force me to remain with you against my will, I shall say very disobliging things, and then we shall quarrel."

"Go, then, my Peri, but in your dreams to-night remember your adoring Achmet."

"I hope, if I dream at all, to be favored with a sweet vision of my native land, and return in slumber to the fair hills of Castile."

"Is your country then so dear to you?" asked Achmet, mournfully.

"My country?" said Camilla, her lovely eyes suffusing with tears, as the thought of home passed over her mind, "and shall I never behold your orange groves again, nor hear the rush of your mighty streams, but die like a transplanted flower in a foreign soil."

Such scenes as these were of daily recurrence during the time that preparations were making for the departure of Beatrice and Antonia; sometimes they did not end so placably.

"It is I that am the slave," would Achmet say, when the fair Spaniard made him feel too severely the chains that bound him, "the slave of your caprices, Camilla. Would that I had never seen you."

"Surely, Achmet, that was my misfortune, since I had not the slightest wish to become the victim of the lawless traffic in women that prevails in this disgusting country."

"By Mehomet! you never open your lips but with the design of saying something vexatious. Till I saw you I was happy—but you have made me the most miserable of men! I am wretched when absent from you, and when I am near you, your whole study is to torment me."

At other times, Achmet would sit in Camilla's apartment, listening to her guitar, his whole soul entranced in the pleasure of hearing and seeing her. One day, when he was thus occupied, Beatrice and Antonia entered, to bid farewell, as all things were ready for their departure.

When they offered their thanks to Achmet, he said, "Your gratitude is due to Camilla, who, when she might have used her boundless influence over me to obtain her own liberty, preferred making you happy."

"Because my love for them prevailed over every selfish consideration," said Camilla, with a significant glance.

"Ah, Camilla, I understand your allusion. Go—you are free. Return to Spain, that beloved country which you prefer to Achmet."

His voice faltered as he spoke. Camilla looked up—their eyes met—they both burst into tears.

"Ah!" exclaimed Beatrice, "you love one another; wherefore, then, should you part?"

The Pacha threw himself at Camilla's feet.—"Light of my eyes! will you leave me?"

"Achmet, I cannot share a divided heart."

"I swear to you, by Allah, that my harem shall be dismissed, and you shall be my only wife."

"Ah! Achmet, there is another thought," said Camilla, weeping, "you are a follower of the False Prophet, and I am a believer in the only faith whereby we may have eternal life."

"Camilla, you speak dark things, and [illegible] to be understood; but only promise to be mine, and I will hear you patiently in these matters, and if convinced, I will not cling to error."

It may be easily imagined that Beatrice and Antonia departed for Spain without Camilla, who became Achmet Pacha's bride; and who ere long had the happiness of informing her cousins by letter that he had become a secret and decided proselyte to Christianity.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND,
For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Strictures, Diabets or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. Also, of L. S. THOMAS, corner of Briton and Forest streets—with full directions accompanying each bottle at $1 per bottle.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 1, 1841.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

This important document will be delivered to both houses of Congress at 12 o'clock THIS DAY. There has, perhaps, never, since the organization of the government, been a message so eagerly looked for as the present, and in order to satisfy the demand, we have ordered a large number of extras, which will be brought to this city by express, and may be had at our counter immediately after its arrival, which we expect a few minutes after one o'clock.

LIST OF LETTERS. For some time past we have published the list of letters remaining in the Baltimore Post Office gratuitously. The copy was furnished to us by the late Postmaster simultaneously with that sent to the Republican office, and the large circulation of our paper made the publication extremely beneficial to the Post Office Department. A different arrangement having been made at the Post Office, we shall decline inserting the list of letters hereafter.—The law, or the department, allows compensation for printing them in one paper only, and the Patriot has been selected by the Postmaster of Baltimore.

☞The Rev. Mr. Cookman, (who was one of the passengers in the steamer President,) for sublime, startling and impassioned eloquence, was probably unsurpassed by any pulpit orator in this country. The N. Y. Commercial Advertiser, in alluding to a sermon delivered by the Rev. gentleman, in Washington, on the Sabbath previous to his departure for Europe, says: "It was a discourse upon the final judgment, and one of the most solemn, original and soul-stirring sermons, to which we ever listened. It glowed with gems of thought, clothed with diction of the noblest energy, worthy of the lofty poetical conceptions of Milton. His descriptions were so vivid and striking that he actually seemed to bring the whole scene of the judgment, in all its sublimity and grandeur, before the audience."

MARRIAGES. In France marriage is generally an arrangement between parents, and the parties come together without any previous attachment. And yet, says the author who makes this statement, married people are mostly happy. Hence he would have it inferred, that mutual love is not essential to domestic felicity. The French mode has this advantage for the ladies, that their parents can propose the match—so that a young lady has only to intimate to her father that she thinks she could live happy with such a young man, and the proposal is made. We presume that a number of our young ladies of an uncertain age would have no objection to follow this, as they do other French fashions. But we vote with the girls who go for "Love's young dream," and would fly from a window or jump a post-and-rail fence to come at the man of their affections. But still we would not advise them to take the flight or leap without having something to pay the toll on the journey of life. Love has a soft sound, but will be found a hard crust to gnaw.

STATE COLONIZATION CONVENTION. At a meeting of the citizens of the 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th wards of the city of Baltimore, held on Friday evening, the 28th inst. at the Light street Church, for the purpose of appointing delegates to the State Colonization Convention, to be held in the city of Baltimore, on the 3d day of June next, JAMES GOULD, Esq. was called to the chair and WM. BROWN, appointed Secretary.

The following gentleman were elected delegates from said wards to said convention.

Sixth Ward.	Benjamin C. Howard,
Robert Howard,	Wm. G. Harrison,
Samuel Rankin,	F. W. Brune, Jr.
Thomas Fenley,	Ninth Ward.
Samuel Brady,	Moses Sheppard,
Jno. B. Seidenstricker.	Col. John Berry,
Seventh Ward.	Christian Keener,
James Howard,	Aaron R. Levering,
Robert S. Hollins,	Henry Brice,
Alexander Nisbet,	Tenth Ward.
Jno. Stilson,	Dr. W. W. Handy,
Benjamin C. Ross,	Geo. W. Krebs,
Eighth Ward.	Joseph Turner, Jr.
Reverdy Johnson,	R. Linthicum,
John Nelson.	Francis Burns.

JAMES GOULD, Chairman.

OEO. WM. BROWN, Secretary.

FREDERICK COUNTY BANK. No further information in relation to the robbery of this bank has been received, nor does it appear that suspicion attaches to any particular person. Some editors have thoughtlessly or maliciously intimated that the robbery has been committed by some of the officers or directors of the institution. This is a most unjustifiable attack upon the characters of gentlemen who have always sustained unblemished reputations for honesty, and are entirely above suspicion. We at first thought the robbery was perpetrated by an old hand, but subsequent information has convinced us that the thief is new in the business.

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL. The interesting ceremony of laying the corner stone of the "Asbury and McKendree Sunday School," attached to the Methodist Episcopal Church, North Eutaw street, between Mulberry and Franklin streets, will take place this afternoon, at three o'clock. The Reverend Bishop Waugh, it is expected, will assist in laying the stone. Addresses will be delivered by the Reverend Messrs. Emory and Sewell.

COLONIZATION CONVENTION. The convention which is to be held on Thursday next in this city, on the subject of colonization, we hope will be fully attended. It is expected that most, if not all of the counties will be represented, and we trust that each ward of the city of Baltimore will have its delegates present.

Since the publication of the communication signed "Posterity," we have received several articles from correspondents on the subject of the removal of free persons of color from our state—two from a writer who signs himself "Ancestry," who condemns the whole scheme of colonization as utterly impracticable. We have not deemed it expedient to publish his views, because he occupies a ground which is not debateable. It is certain that the colored population cannot, under any circumstances, be admitted to an equality of rights with the white citizens of the state; and it would be sheer mockery to induce expectations which can never be realized. We are convinced that the interference of indiscreet friends has already been productive of injurious consequences to the colored people; and, as we really desire to promote their welfare, and to render them as comfortable as their condition will admit, we shall refuse to publish any thing which can only serve to their further degradation.

It is not expected that the Maryland Colonization Society can purchase up and remove all the colored population of the state. We presume that this was never contemplated. But it has been supposed possible, by establishing a colony in Africa, to prove to those who are free, that it would be of advantage to them to emigrate. We know that there are difficulties in the commencement of all colonies, and more particularly might we expect obstacles in colonizing on the coast of Africa, against which so many prejudices exist. But if it be shewn that the soil is good, the climate salubrious, and comfortable subsistence to the industrious certain, we shall be mistaken if the free colored people of this state do not seize the opportunity of emancipating themselves from a state of mental and moral degradation, to enjoy rights and privileges which they can never attain in this country. In the progress of time we have no doubt that trading vessels, navigated by colored people alone, will regularly ply between the colony and Baltimore; and when this direct and constant intercourse shall have been established, and the advantages of the colonists made manifest, it will be strange if there should not be an increased disposition to emigrate. We understand that it is the earnest desire of the society to procure a vessel, to commence this intercourse without delay; and we believe that there is sufficient interest felt on the subject to supply the necessary funds.

We need not speak of the ulterior benefits which would result from entire success in this undertaking. Great empires have arisen from smaller beginnings—and we have reason to hope that the colony might become the instrument, in the hands of Providence, of extending the knowledge of the Gospel, and the blessings of civilization over a large portion of the continent of Africa. Men are naturally disposed to better their condition; and the natives would hardly persevere in their barbarous customs, or wantonly remain in ignorance, if the opportunity of reform in the one, or improvement in the other case, were offered.

On the disposition of the colored people of this state to emigrate, we quote the following from a communication now before us: "I have talked with the most intelligent free colored population of this city, and who appear to be the most popular amongst that class of people, and they say, if the Colonization Society, or any other Society, will promise to pay the expenses of the colored people from this state, and allow them the privilege of selecting a place for themselves, that by 1844, there will not be one free colored person in Baltimore." The writer adds, "I think that this would be the best plan to effect a speedy removal, and the only one—the persons thus removed not to be allowed to return."

We have no doubt that the writer has had the opportunity of ascertaining something of the sentiments and feelings of the free colored population on the subject of colonization—and what he states proves that they have directed their attention to the matter. It is true that he does not agree with the plans of the Colonization Society; but this may arise from the want of proper information, and from the dread which some have of the climate of Africa. Great ignorance prevails in this particular. The natives are healthy, and the Maryland Colony, we understand, is exempt, to a remarkable degree, from disease. We can have no objection that the colored people shall choose a proper location for themselves; but we think that it would be to their interest to concur in the arrangements of the Colonization Society. Let them, however, address the Society, or the convention which is to meet on Thursday next, on the subject of their wishes. This they can easily do by the appointment of a committee, and we have no doubt that their representations will receive respectful attention.

We have dwelt somewhat on this subject because we think it important, and would have the public to give it proper consideration. The welfare of so many human beings, however they may differ with us in complexion, cannot be indifferent to a philanthropic and Christian people.

A NUISANCE. The Grand Jury at St. Louis has presented the jail at that place as a nuisance. If these sages had presented one department (that appropriated to the confinement of debtors,) as a nuisance, they would have acted more wisely. Rooms set apart for such purposes are beyond all question nuisances in the highest sense. The reason is obvious to every man of common sense and proper feeling. Prisons were intended for those who have outraged divine and human law, by the commission of criminal offences, not for the unfortunate debtor.

WASHINGTON, May 31, 1841.

The First Session of the Twenty-Seventh Congress was ushered in this day under the auspices of a bright sun, a clear blue sky, and a refreshing breeze, balmy as those which fanned the groves of Paradise, ere the curse of sin had fallen upon the earth.

In the House of Representatives, at noon, the Clerk proceeded to business by reading the proclamation of the late lamented President, by virtue of which Congress had assembled.

After the disposal of some business of an unimportant character, the roll was called, when 208 members appeared in their places.

A resolution was then offered by Mr. Hunt, of New York, that the House do proceed to organize, by the election of a Speaker in the usual mode, viz: by viva voce.

Mr. Lewis Williams made an ineffectual motion to amend by inserting the words "by ballot."

The resolution was adopted without amendment, and the House thereupon proceeded to vote.

Whole number of votes	221
Necessary to a choice	111. Of which,
Mr. White, of Kentucky, received	121
Mr. Jones, of Virginia,	84
Mr. Wise	8
Mr. Lawrence, of Massachusetts,	5
Mr. Clifford	1
Mr. W. C. Johnson	1

So Mr. White having received 121 votes, was declared to have been duly elected. He was then conducted to the Chair, and delivered a neat speech. Mr. W. is a good-looking man, tall, and of a dark complexion. I have no doubt but that he will give satisfaction.

The usual oath was then administered to the several members in attendance, after which, the House proceeded to the election of a Clerk. After several ineffectual votings, Matthew St. Clair Clarke, of this District, was duly elected. The other candidates were Mr. Mason, of Va., Mr. Hugh A. Garland, and Mr. F. O. J. Smith.

At the time this was closed, Mr. McKeon, of New York, was contesting the right of Mr. Tyler to be addressed as President of the United States.

A quorum appeared in the Senate, and a message was despatched to the House to that effect. The Senate then adjourned until eleven to-morrow. We may therefore expect the President's Message at about twelve o'clock.

The northern and eastern members are already beginning to groan about the hot weather.—One of them says he would have given twenty dollars if the session had not been called so early, while others are grumbling that it was called at all. This reminds me of the man who said he should have been rich had he been born a month later, while his companion swore it would have been many a dollar in his pocket if he had never been born at all. I wonder where he kept his pockets before he was born?

IMPOSITION BY HACKMEN. On last Saturday we had occasion to visit Washington city. When at the outer depot, two of the "big sticked" gentlemen, classically called constables, stepped into the cars, one of whom had a warrant in his hand, and arrested a gentleman, a passenger, at the suit of a hackman, for the paltry sum of fifty cents. The gentleman, it seemed, had been imposed upon in a similar way by a hackman of this city before, and determined he would not suffer himself to be so treated again. He had offered the driver what he had thought the legal price; it being refused, he told him he should have nothing, and so left him. We would further remark, that the "little brief authority man," in the discharge of his duties, did not exhibit a very palpable knowledge of Chesterfield.

More than once have we been complained to in relation to the impositions of hackmen. Not long since a lady of our acquaintance was most shamefully imposed upon by one of these individuals. He charged her fifty cents for conveying her not more than a square, and then because his account was disputed became insolent.

In relation to the case which came under our own observation at the cars on Saturday last, we will state that we have the name of the hackman in our possession, that of the gentleman said to be imposed upon, the warrant, &c. Now to be plain, if we find out that he has overstepped the limits of the ordinance, he shall be exposed. At a future time we shall touch upon this subject more minutely.

SHUTTING UP THEATRES. The National of New York is burned down—the Bowery is closed—the Olympic will be—and on Tuesday next the whole properties, wardrobe and stage scenery of the Park Theatre, are to be sold under a landlord's warrant, to pay up arrears of rent, amounting to eighteen thousand six hundred and eight dollars. John Jacob Astor and John K. Beekman are the kind hearted landlords.—Simpson, the manager, has lost eighteen thousand dollars the past year. A most amazing revulsion has certainly taken place in theatricals. The world is certainly growing pious.

FALLEN AT LAST. A short time since we noticed in an article under the head of horrors of intemperance, the dreadful situation of a personage who once moved in high life. He has since died, we learn, a most melancholy victim of the intoxicating draught. Nature at last gave way, and his spirit fled as if ashamed to keep company any longer with so loathsome a body.

A LARGE TURN OUT. Yesterday morning the number of ladies and gentlemen who promenaded Baltimore street, was greater than it has been upon any ordinary occasion for many weeks past. Whether the times are dull or not, one thing is certain that every face we saw looked cheerful. The ladies—don't talk—language is inadequate to a description of their beauty.

☞We are happy to have been the occasion of drawing from the accomplished editor of the United States Gazette the following admirable reflections. It is, indeed, true, that "we make room for posterity;" and day by day we drop from the stage of existence into eternity, leaving the space we occupied to be filled by posterity. What then, shall we mourn at this inevitable decree? It would be time unwisely spent. Far better would it be so to employ the brief period allowed as to be prepared to obey with confidence and resignation when we receive the summons to "make room for posterity." But we will not detain the reader longer from the article to which we have referred.

"MAKE ROOM FOR POSTERITY." The editor of the Baltimore Clipper, in reply to a correspondent using the signature "Posterity," says, "we make room for posterity."

"Well, just what our brother does, has been done before from time immemorial. Cain wandered to "make room for posterity." Israel sojourned in the desert and possessed Canaan to "make room for posterity." Æneas the pious wandered into Italy to "make room for posterity." Penn gathered the people of his faith together and sat peaceably down on the banks of the Delaware, to "make room for posterity." Men are elbowed from cities, and located in prairies, for that purpose. "The poor Indian," who had sat down quietly in his wigwam to smoke the pipe of peace, and see his semi-civilization prosper around him—he, too, is admonished that the whites need his land to "make room for their posterity." He goes reluctantly to the distant west, half pleased with the idea of hunting grounds that will afford "room for his posterity." The posterity of the Indian!—poor waning, tapering cone—its broad base the whole soil of the new world, its point lost in some peninsula that fades away into the distant Pacific. The deep foundations which our aged men are laying for habitations yet to rise, and the finished saloons and ornamented halls—what are these but "room for posterity."

We followed, only a few days since, into a richly ornamented burying ground, the body of one who, for years, had filled a large space in the public eye; and when they had lowered into the narrow resting and decaying place the coffin of the great man, and covered it partially with earth, our procession, turning to pass out, met another following a young maiden to her last earthly home. As we passed the mourning throng, marshalled into a funeral train, one whom we had long known shook his head in mournful recognition, and seemed to say of our errands thither: "we have come to 'make room for posterity.'"

"Room at thy hearth, O mother," said one of the sweetest poets of our time, as he started, full of filial affection, to place his new bride in a daughter's position. "Room at thy hearth." He came, and found ample room. The beloved one, the apostrophised mother, had passed away to "make room for her posterity."

All of us are crowding onward—all of us are passing away to "make room for our posterity." We are to be pressed close, like the gathered herbage, so that the whole harvest of our six thousand years will seem to occupy less space than the single generation that constitutes their posterity. Below the sod, we lie still and compact; the true equality of flesh and blood is understood and illustrated there, while above, ample space is demanded, and acres are required for a single living. The true democracy is in the grave: "there the rich and the poor lie down together," that they may "make room for their posterity."

Even we who write, and moralize as we pass along, look back at the troop that demand our place, and feel that we too have the duty to perform and the debt to pay, and gathering up our mantle with decaying energies, we hope there is room for us where there are "many mansions," and in that hope we prepare, like our professional brother, to "make room for posterity."

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND. John Prentiss, Esq. who, for eight years past, has discharged the duties of President of the collegiate department of this University, with distinguished ability and success, has resigned his situation on account of ill health, and is succeeded by Horace Morison, Esq. in whom the Faculty of Arts and Sciences express the utmost confidence.

Two negro men yesterday morning commenced quarrelling respecting rights as to the situation of a stand. Some words were given, from that to blows, when a third person interfered and got for his pains a blow from one of the party over the head, which proved on examination to be a dangerous cut.

A KNOCK DOWN. Two physical animals repaired to Howard's park yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of settling a dispute by fisticuffs. They went at it, spilled some surplus blood, and then returned to their wonted avocation. Such open public brutality should not be allowed to desecrate so beautiful a spot.

THREATENING. A white man, named Dill, was arrested at 12 o'clock, on Sunday night, and imprisoned in the Western District Watch house, charged with threatening to take the life of Emily Youngman. The accused was committed to prison by Justice Stewart.

MILITARY. Two military companies were out yesterday—the Eagle Artillerists, Capt. Branson; and the German Guards. They both presented a very handsome appearance, and enlivened our city with their fine soul-stirring music.

STEALING. A female named Sarah Sterling, was arrested on Sunday night at a house in Wilk street, charged with stealing thirty-five dollars, the property of Deitrich Ellenger. She was in the morning brought before Justice Jones, who committed her to prison.

THE LADIES' COMPANION. We have been handed the June number of this excellent monthly, by Mr. N. Hickman. It is handsomely embellished with engravings, and well filled with choice matter.

CARELESSNESS. A boy riding a horse in a furious manner though Camden st., yesterday morning, came near breaking his neck and running over some children in the street, who were unconscious of their danger.

There was an alarm of fire yesterday afternoon, which originated from a chimney on Conway st.

FRONT STREET.

A CARD. POSITIVELY THE LAST NIGHT BUT TWO. Mr JOSEPH FOSTER, Arranger and Producer of the Grand Spectacle of St. George and the Dragon, presents his respectful compliments to the ladies, gentlemen, and public generally of Baltimore, and in announcing his Benefit for THURSDAY EVENING, June 3d, ventures to assert that the selections made for the occasion will prove more attractive than any previous entertainment ever placed before the Baltimore public. The performances will commence precisely at half past 7 o'clock, with the magnificent spectacle of St. George and the Dragon—after which, Levi North, the pride of America and the most wonderful Equestrian in the world, will appear in two New Acts. The Grand Fairy Ballet of Cinderella will be performed by the surprising Juvenile Company, and the whole will conclude with (for this night only) a Comic Pantomime, of a strange and whimsical construction, embracing the introduction of three Harlequins, three Columbines, and three Pantaloons, with all the fun, laughter, and frolic attendant upon such a combination. Notwithstanding the variety of entertainments, they will be so arranged as to conclude about half past 11 o'clock. jel-3t

BOTTLING WINE.

THE SUBSCRIBER respectfully offers his services to the public to BOTTLE WINE, or any other liquors. An experience of nearly thirty years, during ten of which he had the sole management of the extensive cellars of David Barnum, Esq., at the City Hotel, with the advantage of the instruction and judgment of that gentleman, justifies him in assuring those who may feel inclined to avail themselves of his assistance, that their business shall be punctually attended to and faithfully executed. His terms will be moderate, and any orders left at the counting house of Thomas B. Adair, Esq., No. 6 Commerce-st., shall receive immediate attention.

SELLING OFF TO CLOSE BUSINESS!
AT No. 77 MARKET STREET.

This is no Humbug to catch Customers.

JOHN BERGER & CO. intending shortly to close their business, at No. 77 Baltimore street, think it due to themselves to state, that when they advertise SELLING OFF AT COST, it is not a mere sham so much in vogue now, to attract custom—but that having other objects in view, they are compelled to close up their business in a very short time, and to do so with as little sacrifice as possible, they now offer their well selected stock at Wholesale and Retail, at COST, for cash. Our Stock is bought mostly at auction, at the ruinous low prices at which goods have been sacrificed this season, and selling them at first cost! Purchasers may rest assured to get Bargains.

P.S. Any person wishing to enter the Dry Goods business and to procure one of the best "Retail" stands in town, will find it to their advantage to call and see us soon. Remember the name and No.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

MORE ABOUT THE BURNING OF THE NATIONAL THEATRE, NEW YORK. It is stated that not a vestige of the wardrobe was saved. Some of the banners and stage properties were got out by the property man, and the boxes, books and papers in the counting house were got off.

Mr. Burton is a very severe sufferer by this calamity; all his private wardrobe had been removed from Philadelphia within a few days, and some of it only arrived on Friday. He also loses all the dresses and scenery made for the Naiad Queen and Semiramis, besides other valuable property in the shape of books, MSS., music, &c.

Many of the performers are very severe losers, particularly Miss Cushman, who lost a large part of her valuable wardrobe. Messrs. Shaw and Howard also lost their stage ornaments and dresses.

The theatre was insured, but to what amount is not known. The whole loss is somewhere about $40,000. The house was re-built last summer, and has been opened but a few months. The owners will not be likely to erect another theatre on the spot.

The destruction of the building was attended with loss of life. One of the walls fell on the roof of a house of ill fame, kept by a Julia Brown, and killed one of the unfortunate inmates, a young girl about sixteen years of age, who, it is said, came from Philadelphia on Tuesday last, and resided in the neighborhood of Callowhill and Twelfth sts. Her name is Margaret ——.

WM. E. BURTON. The Philadelphia Spirit of the Times says, "we are really sorry for Burton. He is an indefatigable, industrious, original fellow, but he has always kept, as we have often told him, a few spirits around him, who by their own weight, would sink the best fortune into the gulph of ruin. What is Burton to do now? He has lost the National in New York. He has been ruined here, and the National in this city is now in the hands of the comic go-ahead Mitchell. Not only himself, but his large company are thrown out of employ on the world. He will try some new scheme, however, before long. And if he will only cast aside two or three parisites, we could name, who were growing rich all the time he was growing poor, by pocketing in various shapes, but illicitly, the major part of his earnings, he must and will yet succeed. Poor Burton."

FATAL ACCIDENT. On Tuesday last, Mr. Henry Lewis, a miner, engaged in the mines of Messrs. Thomson & Penman, at the York Farm, near Pottsville, was instantaneously killed by a vast volume of water bursting in from an old opening, with a force that carried every thing before it. Mr. Lewis was swept down the breast into the gangway, a distance of one hundred feet or more, and thence down the gangway, upwards of one hundred yards, where his lifeless body was found. He was about 36 years of age, and left a widow to mourn his sudden and shocking death.

DUEL AND SECOND KILLED. It is stated in a late St. Louis paper, that a duel was fought a short time since, at Springfield, Illinois, which resulted in the death of one of the seconds. We could not learn the names of the parties who were directly engaged in it. One of the principals backed out, and his second having taken his place, was shot through the head, which caused his death in a few hours.

MORRIS CANAL. The Pottsville Journal states that an attempt is being made to introduce into circulation a new emission of Post Notes, by the Morris Canal company, payable one year after date. Their notes payable on demand, have, to say the least, a doubtful credit—and we would therefore caution the public not touch the post notes.

THE GLENTWORTH CASE. The New York Mercury of the 30th, informs us that in the Glentworth case, the jury came into court at 12 o'clock, and said they could not agree. It being the last day of the term, the court had no further control over them, so both they and it went home. The labor of the week was thrown away.

THE SEASON. The Missouri Argus states that the farmers complain of drought, which if much longer continued will have a most injurious effect upon the crops of all kinds.

The present week has been rather remarkable for the extreme warmth of the weather. Still it is enjoyable and brings no indications of sickness.

A young man arrived here some days past and took lodging at the house of Mr. John Davis, in Pratt st. He had been there but a few evenings, before he discovered that he was minus to the amount of $150. No clue could be gained respecting the thief.

FROM FAYAL. The brig Harbinger arrived at Boston, on the 29th ult. from Fayal, whence she had sailed on the 11th, but heard nothing of the steamer President. This, therefore, destroys the glimmering ray of hope held out a few days since.

☞A man named Henry Stevens, deck hand, was lost overboard from the steamer Sarah Ann, a few days since, as she was coming into the port of Wheeling. He was native of Sweden.

The squadron of the King's Dragoon Guards, lately stationed at Niagara, have been removed to Kingston.

Susan McKeever and Ann Boot were committed to the Alms House by Squire McDonald, as vagrants.

M. DRUMPTER, the vocalist, is to give a Concert in Philadelphia on Monday next.

The Legislature of New York adjourned on Wednesday last.

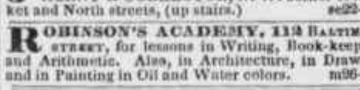
VALUABLE BUILDING LOTS,
On Fleet and Washington-sts., Fell's Point.

IN PURSUANCE of a decree of Baltimore county Court, sitting as a Court of Equity, and by virtue of a special order of said Court, the subscriber, as trustee, will offer at public sale, on the premises hereinafter described, and to the highest bidder, on WEDNESDAY the second day of June, if fair, if not the next fair day thereafter, at the hour of half past four o'clock, P. M., the following described LOT or parcel of Ground, situated on Fell's Point, in the City of Baltimore.

Beginning for the same at the corner formed by the intersection of the north side of Fleet st. and the east side of Washington street, and running thence northwardly bounding on the east side of Washington st. one hundred and twenty feet, thence eastwardly parallel with Fleet st. eighty four feet, thence southwardly parallel with Washington st. one hundred and twenty feet to Fleet st., and thence westwardly bounding on the north side of Fleet st. eighty four feet to the place of beginning it being the same property which by deed bearing date the seventeenth day of July in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and twenty-eight, and duly recorded among the land records of Baltimore County Court, in Liber W. G. No. 191, folio 152, &c was conveyed by John Glenn, trustee, to the late John Lee. To meet the views of small purchasers who may be disposed to buy, it is proposed to divide the property into, say six 14 feet lots on Fleet-st., with a depth of say 60 feet to an alley, and four lots on Washington street of about fourteen feet each, with a depth of eighty-four feet. The property is remarkably well located for improvement, being near several of the large ship yards, and the spacious wharf lately completed by the Canton Company. As the parties interested are anxious to sell, bargains may be expected. A plan of the property as proposed to be divided will be exhibited at the sale, and in the mean time may be examined at H. W. Beck's auction room, Baltimore street.

Terms of sale as prescribed by the order of the Court, are, one-third in cash, balance in six and nine months with interest, the cash payments to be secured by approved endorsed notes and bearing interest from the day of sale. ROBT. FURVIANCE, Jr. mh8 co2w Trustee.

NOTICE.



BALTIMORE & OHIO RAIL ROAD.

THE CHANGE in the hour of arrival of the Mail Train from Philadelphia, renders it necessarary that a corresponding change should be made in the departure of the Morning Cars for the west:

Notice is therefore hereby given, That on and after WEDNESDAY, 26th instant, the Passenger Train for Ellicott's Mills, Frederick, and Harper's Ferry will be despatched from the Depot in Pratt street, at half past 9 instead of 7 o'clock, A. M., the present hour of departure—of which travellers will take notice.

☞The Extra Train for Frederick will continue to leave at 3½ o'clock every evening, with which, as well as with the Morning Train, passengers from Washington can still connect at the Relay House. By order, m24-tf B. CHASE, Agent.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 22 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 22, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY,
No. 17 HARRISON ST.
"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, in its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. m1-tf

REMOVAL.

THOMAS M. CROUCH has REMOVED his Brush, Basket, and Wooden Ware Factory and Furnishing Store, from Baltimore street, to No. 6 CENTRE MARKET SPACE, (4th house from Baltimore street,) where he will be pleased to wait on his old customers and the public generally.

Persons commencing housekeeping, will find it to their advantage to call and select from my assortment of BRUSHES, BASKETS, TIN WARE, WOODEN WARE, &c. as I will make a liberal discount to those who make their general bill at my Store.

☞Mr. JOHN S. BRASHEARS has a Tin & Sheet-iron Ware workshop in the rear of the Store, and will make and repair all kinds of Tin and Sheetiron work, Spouting, Roofing, &c. in a workmanlike manner, at short notice. His friends and the public are invited to patronize him. ap1-tf

THE PROPRIETORS OF THE GAY-ST. CHAIR WARE ROOMS, would inform their friends and the public generally, that they have now on hand, a very splendid assortment of Parlour and other

CHAIRS, comprising Mahogany, Maple, Walnut, and a variety of imitation wood colours. They would request persons, disposed to purchase, to give them a call, as their assortment is not surpassed if equalled by any establishment in the city.

They would also inform Shipping Merchants that they have on hand a large assortment of Cane and Slatt-back KNOCK DOWN, suitable for the West Indies or South American market, among which is a large proportion of very rich colored white tops—all of which they are willing to sell on the most accommodating terms. se1--dtf A. & J. MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all serimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick Headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2, 1840.

☞To DR. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I have had experience in the virtue of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,
E. PARRISH.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.

DR. WM. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been laboring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. Yours, respectfully, JOHN DYE.

We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, know our neighbour, Mr. Dye, said him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true. Respectfully,
W. & S. B ANDERSON.

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. UNITED STATES MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH, Sunday's excepted.
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that in accordance with the New Mail Arrangement, the Boats composing their line, viz: ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, will, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 20th of May, leave the lower end of Spear's wharf daily, (Sunday's excepted,) at nine o'clock, A. M. for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va.

Passengers for Charleston will find the cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, on the wharf, on their arrival at Portsmouth, ready to convey them to Weldon, N. C., where they will always arrive in time to take the cars for Wilmington, from which point to Charleston is by the Steamboat, which leaves Wilmington immediately after the Passengers are delivered from the cars.

Passengers for Richmond, Petersburg, or intermediate points on James River, by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, will sleep on board the Bay Boat and be transferred to the James River Boat next morning.

The Steamboat Fox leaves the Black Water station on the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars from Portsmouth, for Edenton and Plymouth, N. C., and returns every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, delivering her passengers to the cars as they pass down from Weldon, enabling them to arrive in Baltimore next day, (Sundays excepted.)

RETURNING, one of the above Boats will leave Norfolk every night (Saturday being excepted) at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departing from Portsmouth.

Should the Boat get an early start from Portsmouth, Passengers for Philadelphia and New York will have the opportunity of being placed on board the Philadelphia Steamboat in the Patapsco River, and will arrive in Philadelphia the same night by 11 o'clock, after having travelled 300 miles in 20 hours, without as much fatigue as would be incurred in walking from the Hotel to the wharf.

☞No freight will be forwarded on the day it is left, unless it is alongside, prior to 8 o'clock, A. M.

JNO. C. MOALE, General Agent,

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

☞Bear in mind, that Passengers who go by the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, have 40 miles of Rail Road travelling through the DISMAL SWAMP at midnight, over one of the worst Rail Roads in America, and then are often compelled to lay over 17 hours at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 9 A.M., they proceed, without one moment's delay, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and often one day in advance of any other Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	12 P.M.	reach	Baltimore	8 A.M.
" Baltimore	9 A.M.	"	Washington	11 A.M.
" Washington	11½ A.M.	"	Fredk'sburg	6 P.M.
" Fred'ksburg	6½ P.M.	"	Richmond	11 P.M.
" Richmond	11½ P.M.	"	Petersburg	1 A.M.
" Petersburg	1½ A.M.	"	Weldon	6½ A.M.
" Weldon	7 A.M.	"	Charleston on the next morning.

Passengers by this Line not only reach Charleston ONE DAY SOONER than by the Bay boats but they avoid being compelled to remain all night at Weldon, on the Roanoke, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole southern country, where, by the Bay Line, they are often delayed seventeen hours.

Passengers for Richmond and Petersburg will find this Line far the most expeditious, arriving at Richmond to lodge, (as will be seen from the above Schedule,) on the evening of the day on which they leave Baltimore, being from 16 to 18 hours in advance of those taking the Bay Steam Boats.

☞This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. Fare lower than any other line. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of VOLUME IV.] WEDNESDAY MORNING, JUNE 2, 1841. [NUMBER 70.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States.

FELLOW CITIZENS:—You have been assembled in your respective halls of legislation under a proclamation bearing the signature of the illustrious citizen, who was so lately called by the direct suffrages of the people, to the discharge of the important functions of their Chief Executive office—upon the expiration of a single month from the day of his installation he has paid the great debt of nature, leaving behind him a name associated with the recollection of numerous benefits conferred upon the country, during a long life of patriotic devotion. With this public bereavement, are connected other considerations which will not escape the attention of congress. The preparations necessary for his removal to the seat of government, in view of a residence of four years, must have devolved upon the late President heavy expenditures, which, if permitted to burthen the limited resources of his private fortune, may tend to the serious embarrassment of his surviving family; and it is therefore respectfully submitted to Congress whether the ordinary principles of justice would not dictate the propriety of its legislative interposition. By the provisions of the fundamental law, the powers and duties of the high station to which he was elected, have devolved upon me; and in the dispositions of the representatives of the States and of the people, will be found, to a great extent, a solution of the problem to which our institutions are, for the first time subjected.

In entering upon the duties of this office, I did not feel that it would be becoming in me to disturb what had been ordered by my lamented predecessor. Whatever, therefore, may have been my opinion originally as to the propriety of convening Congress at so early a day from the period of its adjournment, I found a new and controlling inducement not to interfere with the patriotic desires of the late President, in the novelty of the situation in which I was so unexpectedly placed. My first wish, under such circumstances, would necessarily have been to have called to my aid, in the administration of public affairs, the combined wisdom of the two houses of Congress, in order to take their counsel and advice as to the best mode of extricating the Government and the country from the embarrassments weighing heavily upon both. I am then most happy in finding myself so soon after my accession to the Presidency, surrounded by the immediate representatives of the States and people.

No important changes having taken place in our foreign relations since the last session of Congress, it is not deemed necessary on this occasion, to go into a detailed statement in regard to them. I am happy to say that I see nothing to destroy the hope of being able to preserve peace.

The ratification of the treaty with Portugal has been duly exchanged between the two governments. This government has not been inattentive to the interest of those of our citizens who have claims on the government of Spain, founded on express treaty stipulations; and a hope is indulged, that the representations which have been made to that government on this subject, may lead ere long, to favorable issues.

A correspondence has taken place between the Secretary of State and the Minister of Her Britannic Majesty accredited to this government, on the subject of Alexander McLeod's indictment and imprisonment, copies of which are herewith communicated to Congress.

In addition to what appears from these papers, it may be proper to state that Alexander McLeod has been heard before the Supreme Court of the State of New York, on his motion to be discharged from imprisonment, and that the decision of that Court has not yet been pronounced.

The Secretary of State has addressed to me a paper upon two subjects interesting to the commerce of the country, which will receive my consideration, and which I have the honor to communicate to Congress.

So far as it depends on the course of this government our relations of good will and friendship will be sedulously cultivated with all nations.—The true American policy will be found to consist in the exercise of a spirit of justice, to be manifested in the discharge of all our international obligations to the weakest of the family of nations, as well as to the most powerful. Occasional conflicts of opinions may arise, but when the discussions incident to them are conducted in the language of truth, and with a strict regard to justice, the scourge of war will for the most part be avoided. The time ought to be regarded as having gone by when a resort to arms is to be esteemed as the only proper arbiter of national differences.

The census recently taken shows a regularly progressive increase in our population. Upon the breaking out of the war of the revolution our numbers scarcely equalled 3,000,000 of souls, they already exceed 17,000,000, and will continue to progress in a ratio which duplicates in a period of about 23 years. The old States contain a territory sufficient in itself to maintain a population of additional millions, and the most populous of the new States may even yet be regarded as but partially settled, while of the new lands on this side of the Rocky mountains, to say nothing of the immense region which stretches from the base of those mountains to the mouth of the Columbia river, about 270,000,000 of acres, ceded and unceded, still remain to be brought into market. We hold out to the people of other countries an invitation to come and settle among us as members of our rapidly growing family, and for the blessings which we offer them, we require of them to look upon our country as their country, and to unite with us in the great task of preserving our institutions and thereby perpetuating our liberties. No motive exists for foreign conquests—we desire but to reclaim our almost illimitable wilderness, and to introduce into their depth the lights of civilization. While we shall at all times be prepared to vindicate the national honor, our most earnest desire will be to maintain an unbroken peace.

In presenting the foregoing views, I cannot withhold the expression of the opinion, that there exists nothing in the extension of our empire, over our acknowledged possessions, to excite the alarm of the patriot for the safety of our institutions. The Federative system, leaving to each State the care of its domestic concerns, and devolving on the Federal Government those of general import, admits in safety of the greatest expansion; but, at the same time, I deem it proper to add, that there will be found to exist, at all times, an imperious necessity for restraining all the functionaries of this Government within the range of their respective powers, thereby preserving a just balance between the powers granted to the Government and those reserved to the States and to the People.

From the report of the Secretary of the Treasury you will perceive that the fiscal means, present and accruing, are insufficient to supply the wants of the Government for the current year. The balance in the Treasury on the 4th day of March last, not covered by outstanding drafts, and exclusive of trust funds, is estimated at $860,000. This includes the sum of $215,000 deposited in the mint and its branches to procure metal for coining and in the process of coinage, and which could not be withdrawn without inconvenience—thus leaving subject to draft, in the various depositaries, the sum of $645,000. By virtue of two several acts of Congress, the Secretary of the Treasury was authorised to issue, on and after the fourth day of March last, Treasury notes to the amount of $5,413,000, making an aggregate available fund on hand of $6,058,000.

But this fund was chargeable with outstanding Treasury notes redeemable in the current year, and interest thereon to the estimated amount of $5,280,000. There is also thrown upon the Treasury the payment of a large amount of demands accrued in whole, or in part, in former years, which will exhaust the available means of the Treasury, and leave the accruing revenue, reduced as it is in amount, burthened with debt, and charged with the current expenses of the Government.

The aggregate amount of outstanding appropriations, on the 4th day of March last, was $33,429,616 50, of which $24,210,300, will be required during the current year, and there will also be required, for the use of the War Department, additional appropriations to the amount of $2,511,132 98, the special objects of which will be seen by reference to the Report of the Secretary of War. The anticipated means of the Treasury are greatly inadequate to this demand. The receipts from customs for the last three quarters of the last year and the first quarter of the present year, amounted to $12,100,000. The receipts for lands for the same time to $2,742,430 60, showing an average revenue from both sources of $1,236,870 per month. A gradual expansion of trade, growing out of a restoration of confidence, together with a reduction in the expenses of collecting and punctuality on the part of collecting officers, may cause an addition to the monthly receipts from the customs—they are estimated, for the residue of the year, from the 4th of March, at $12,000,000. The receipts from the public lands, for the same time, are estimated at $2,500,000, and from miscellaneous sources, at $170,000, making an aggregate of available funds within the year of $15,315,000, which will leave a probable deficit of $11,406,132 98. To meet this some temporary provision is necessary until the amount can be absorbed by the excess of revenues which are anticipated to accrue at no distant day.

There will fall due within the next three months Treasury notes of the issues of 1840, inchargeable in the same period for arrearages for taking the 6th Census, $294,000, and the estimated expenditures for the current service are about $8,100,000, making the aggregate demand upon the Treasury, prior to the first of September next, about $11,240,000.

The ways and means in the Treasury, and estimated to accrue within the above named period, consist of about $694,000, of funds available on the 28th ultimo, an unissued balance of Treasury notes authorized by the act of 1841, amounting to $1,955,000, and estimated receipts from all sources of $3,800,000, making an aggregate of about $6,450,000, and leaving a probable deficit on the first of September next, of $4,845,000

In order to supply the wants of the Government, an intelligent constituency in view of their best interests, will without hesitation, submit to all necessary burthens. But it is, nevertheless, important so to impose them as to avoid defeating the just expectations of the country growing out of pre-existing laws. The act of the 2d March, 1833, commonly called the Compromise act, should not be altered, except under urgent necessities, which are not believed at this time to exist. One year only remains to complete the series of reductions provided for by that law, at which time provisions made by the same law, and which then will be brought actively in aid of the manufacturing interests of the Union, will not fail to produce the most beneficial results.—Under a system of discriminating duties, imposed for purposes of revenue, in union with the provisions of existing laws, it is to be hoped that our policy will in future be fixed and permanent—so as to avoid those constant fluctuations which defeat the very objects they have in view. We shall thus best maintain a position, which, while it will enable us the more readily to meet the advances of other countries calculated to promote our trade and commerce, will at the same time leave in our own hands the means of retaliating, with greater effect, unjust regulations.

In intimate connection with the question of revenue, is that which makes provision for a suitable fiscal agent, capable of adding increased facilities in the collection and disbursement of the public revenues, rendering more secure their custody, and consulting a true economy in the great multiplied and delicate operations of the Treasury Department. Upon such an agent, depends, in an eminent degree, the establishment of a currency of uniform value, which is of so great importance to all the essential interests of society, and on the wisdom to be manifested in its creation much depends. So intimately interwoven are its operations, not only with the interests of individuals, but of States, that it may be regarded, to a great degree, as controlling both. If paper be used as the chief medium of circulation, and the power be vested in the Government of issuing it at pleasure, either in the form of Treasury drafts or any other; or, if Banks be used as the public depositaries, with liberty to regard all surpluses from day to day, as so much added to their capital, prices are exposed to constant fluctuations, and industry to severe suffering. In the one case political considerations directed to party purposes may control, while excessive cupidity may prevail in the other. The public is thus constantly liable to imposition. Expansions and contractions may follow each other in rapid succession—the one engendering a reckless spirit of adventure and speculation, which embraces States as well as individuals—the other causing a fall in prices, and accomplishing an entire change in the aspect of affairs. Stocks of all sorts rapidly decline, individuals are ruined, and States embarrassed—even in their efforts to meet with punctuality the interest on their debts. Such unhappily is the condition of things now existing in the United States. These effects may readily be traced to the causes above referred to.

The public revenues being removed from the then Bank of the U. States, under an order of a late President, were placed in selected State Banks, which, actuated by the double motive of conciliating the Government and augmenting their profits to the greatest possible extent, enlarged extravagantly their discounts, thus enabling all other existing banks to do the same. Large dividends were declared, which stimulating the cupidity of capitalists, caused a rush to be made to the Legislatures of the respective States for similar acts of incorporation, which by many of the States, under a temporary infatuation were readily granted—and thus the augmentation of the circulating medium, consisting almost exclusively of paper, produced a most fatal delusion. An illustration derived from the land sales of the period alluded to, will serve best to show the effect of the whole system. The average sales of the public lands for a priod of ten years prior to 1834, had not much exceded $2,000,000 per annum. In 1834, they attained in round numbers to the amount of $4,000,000, in the succeeding year of 1835, they reached $16,000,000, and the next year, of 1836, they amounted to the enormous sum of $25,000,000—thus crowding into the short space of three years upwards of seventy-three years' purchase of the public domain. So apparent had become the necessity of arresting this course of things, that the Executive Department assumed the lighly questionable power of discriminating in its funds to be used in payment, by different classes of public debtors. A discrimination which was doubtlessly designed to correct this most ruinous state of things, by the exaction of specie in all payments for the public lands, but which could not at once arrest the tide which had so strongly set in. Hence the demands for specie became unceasing, and corresponding prostration rapidly ensued under the necessities created with the banks, to curtail their discounts, and thereby to reduce their circulation. I recur to these things with no disposition to censure pre-existing administrations of the Government, but simply in exemplification of the truth of the positon whicl I have assumed. If, then, any fiscal agent which may be created, shall be placed without due restrictions, either in the hands of the administrators of the Government, or those of private individuals, the temptation to abuse will prove to be resistless. Objects of political aggrandisement may seduce the first, and the promptings of a boundless cupidity will assail the last. Aided by the experience of the past, it will be the pleasure of Congress so to guard and fortify the public interests, in the creation of any new agent, as to place them, so far as human wisdom can accomplish it, [illegible] Within a few fore the country. The charter of the Bank of the United States expired by its own limitations in 1836; an effort was made to renew it which received the sanction of the two Houses of Congress, but the then President of the United States exercised his veto power, and the measure was defeated. A regard to truth requires me to say, that the President was fully sustained in the course he had taken by the popular voice. His successor to the Chair of State unqualifiedly pronounced his opposition to any new charter of a similar institution; and not only the popular election which brought him into power, but the elections through much of his term seemed clearly to indicate a concurrence with him in sentiment on the part of the people. After the public moneys were withdrawn from the United States Bank, they were placed in deposite with the State Banks, and the result of that policy has been before the country. To say nothing as to the question whether that experiment was made under propitious or adverse circumstances, it may safely be asserted that it did receive the unqualified condemnation of most of its early advocates, and it is believed was also condemned by the popular sentiment. The existing Sub-treasury system does not seem to stand in high favor with the people, but has recently been condemned in a manner too plainly indicated to admit of a doubt. Thus, in the short period of eight years, the popular voice may be regarded as having condemned each of the three schemes of finance to which I have adverted. As to the first, it was introduced at a time (1816) when the State Banks, then comparatively few in number, had been forced to suspend specie payments by reason of the war which had previously prevailed with Great Britain. Whether, if the United States Bank charter which expired in 1811, had been renewed in due season, it would have been enabled to continue specie payments, during the war, and the disastrous period to the commerce of the country which immediately succeeded, is, to say the least, problematical; and, whether the United States Bank of 1816 produced a restoration of specie payments, or the same was accomplished through the instrumentality of other means, was a matter of some difficulty at that time to determine,—certain it is, that for the first years of the operation of that bank, its course was as disastrous as, for the greater part of its subsequent career, it became eminently successful. As to the second, the experiment was tried with a redundant Treasury, which continued to increase until it seemed to be the part of wisdom to distribute the surplus revenue among the States—which, operating at the same time with the specie circular, and the causes before adverted to, caused them to suspend specie payments, and involved the country in the greatest embarrassment. And as to the third, if carried through all the stages of its transmutation, from paper and specie, to nothing but the precious metals, to say nothing of the insecurity of the public moneys, its injurious effects have been anticipated by the country, in its unqualified condemnation. What is now to be regarded as the judgment of the American people on this whole subject, I have no accurate means of determining but by appealing to their more immediate representatives. The late contest, which terminated in the election of General Harrison to the Presidency was decided on principles well known and openly declared; and while the Sub-treasury received in the result the most decided condemnation, yet no other scheme of finance seemed to have been concurred in. To you, then, who have come more directly from the body of our common constituents, I submit the entire question, as best qualified to give a full exposition of their wishes and opinions. I shall be ready to concur with you in the adoption of such system as you may propose, reserving to myself the ultimate power of rejecting any measure which may, in my view of it, conflict with the Constitution, or otherwise jeopardize the power of the country—a power which I could not part with even if I would, but which I will not believe any act of yours will call into requisition.

I beg leave particularly to call your attention to the accompanying report from the Secretary of War. Besides the present state of the war which has so long afflicted the Territory of Florida, and the various other matters of interest therein referred to, you will learn from it that the Secretary has instituted an inquiry into abuses, which promises to develop gross enormities in connection with Indian treaties which have been negotiated, as well as in the expenditures for the removal and subsistence of the Indians. He represents also other irregularities of a serious nature that have grown up in the practice of the Indian Department, which will require the appropriation of upwards of $200,000 to correct, and which claim the immediate attention of Congress.

In reflecting on the proper means of defending the country, we cannot shut our eyes to the consequences, which the introduction and use of the power of steam upon the ocean are likely to produce in wars between maritime states. We cannot yet see the extent to which this power may be applied in belligerent operations, connecting itself as it does with recent improvements in the science of gunnery and projectiles; but we need have no fear of being left, in regard to these things, behind the most active and skilful of other nations, if the genius and enterprise of our fellow-citizens receive proper encouragement and direction from Government.

True wisdom would, nevertheless, seem to dictate the necessity of placing in perfect condition those fortifications which are designed for the protection of our principal cities and roadsteads. For the defence of our extensive maritime coast, our chief reliance should be placed on our Navy, aided by those inventions which are destined to recommend themselves to public adoption—but no time should be lost in placing our principal cities on the sea board, and the lakes, in a state of entire security from foreign assault. Separated as we are from the countries of the Old World, and in much unaffected by their policy, we are happily relieved from the necessity of maintaining large standing armies in times of peace. The policy which was adopted by Mr. Monroe, shortly after the conclusion of the late war with Great Britain, of preserving a regularly organized staff, sufficient for the command of a large military force, should the necessity of one arise, is founded as well in economy [illegible] wisdom. Provision is thus made, upon system of discipline, [illegible] which can readily be ly. All that is re[illegible] both promptly and efficient- maintain a sufficient [illegible] in time of peace is to fortifications, to meet any [illegible] of men to guard our and to encounter the first [illegible] olden contingency, chief reliance must be placed on the [illegible]itia; they constitute the great body of national guards, and, inspired by an ardent love of country, will be ready at all times, and at all seasons, to repair with alacrity to its defence. It will be regarded by Congress, I doubt not, at a suitable time, as one of its highest duties to attend to their complete organization and discipline.

I cannot avoid recurring, in connection with this subject, to the necessity which exists for adopting some suitable measure, whereby the unlimited creation of Banks by the States may be corrected in future. Such results can be most readily achieved by the consent of the States, to be expressed in the form of a compact by themselves, which they can only enter into with the consent and approbation of this Government. A consent which might, in the present emergency of the public demands, justifiably be given by Congress, in advance of any action by the States, as an inducement to such action upon terms well defined by act of tender. Such a measure addressing itself to the calm reflection of the States would find in the experience of the past, and the condition of the present, much to sustain it—and it is greatly to be doubted whether any scheme of finance can prove for any length of time successful, while the States shall continue in the unrestrained power of creating banking corporation. This power can only be limited by their consent.

With the adoption of a financial agency of a satisfactory character, the hope may be indulged that the country may once more return to a state of prosperity—measures auxiliary thereto, and in some measure inseparably connected with its success, will doubtless claim the attention of Congress. Among such a distribution of the proceeds of the sales of the public lands, provided such distribution does not force upon Congress the necessity of imposing upon commerce heavier burthens than those contemplated by the act of 1833, would act as an efficient remedial measure, by being brought directly in aid of the States. As one sincerely devoted to the task of preserving a just balance in our system of Government by the maintenance of the States in a condition the most free and respectable, and in the full possession of all their power, I can no otherwise than feel desirous for their emancipation from the situation to which the pressure on their finances now subjects them. And while I must repudiate, as a measure founded in error, and wanting constitutional sanction, the slightest approach to an assumption by this Government of the debts of the States, yet I can see in this distribution adverted to, much to recommend it. The compacts between the proprietor-states and this Government expressly guarantee to the States all the benefits which may arise from the sales. The mode by which this is to be effected addresses itself to the discretion of Congress as the trustee for the States, and its exercise, after the most beneficial manner, is restrained by nothing in the grants or in the Constitution so long as Congress shall consult that equality in the distribution which the compacts require. In the present condition of some of the States the question of distribution may be regarded as substantially a question between direct and indirect taxation. If the distribution be not made in some form or other, the necessity will daily become more urgent with the debtor-states for a resort to an oppressive system of direct taxation, or their credit, and necessarily their power and influence, will be greatly diminished. The payment of taxes often the most inconvenient and oppressive mode, will be exacted in place of contributions for the most part voluntarily made, and therefore comparatively unoppressive. The States are emphatically the constituents of this Government, and we should be entirely regardless of the objects held in view by them, in the creation of this Government, if we could be indifferent to their good. The happy effects of such a measure upon all the States would immediately be manifested. With the debtor States it would effect the relief, to a great extent, of the citizens from a heavy burthen of direct taxation, which presses with severity on the laboring classes and eminently assist in restoring them to prosperity. An immediate advance [illegible] would take place in the price of the [illegible] lands, and the attitude of the Sta[illegible] would become once more, as it should [illegible] be, lofty and [illegible]. With States as it should [illegible] be, lofty and [illegible]. With States as it should [illegible] be, lofty and [illegible]. With States those articles which enter into the general consumption of the world, thereby augmenting the demand from other quarters, and thus calling for additional labor, it were needless to inquire. The highest considerations of public honor, as well as the strongest promptings of humanity, require a resort to the most vigorous efforts to suppress the trade.

In conclusion, I beg to invite your particular attention to the interest of this District; nor do I doubt but that in a liberal spirit of legislation you will seek to advance its commercial as well as its local interests. Should Congress deem it to be its duty to repeal the existing Sub-Treasury law, the necessity of providing a suitable place of deposit for the public moneys which may be required within the District, must be apparent to all.

I have felt it due to the country to present the foregoing topics to your consideration and reflection. Others with which it might not seem proper to trouble you at an extraordinary session, will be laid before you at a future day. I am happy in committing the important affairs of the country into your hands.—The tendency of public sentiment, I am pleased to believe, is towards the adoption, in a spirit of union and harmony, of such measures as will fortify the public interests. To cherish such a tendency of public opinion is the task of an elevated patriotism. That differences of opinion, as to the means of accomplishing these desirable objects, should exist, is reasonably to be expected. Nor can all be made satisfied with any system of measures; but I flatter myself with the hope that the great body of the people will readily unite in support of those whose efforts spring from a disinterested desire to promote their happiness—to preserve the Federal and State Governments within their respective orbits—to cultivate peace with all the nations of the earth on just and honorable grounds—to cultivate obedience to the laws—to entrench liberty and property in full security—and, continuing the most rigid economy, to abolish all useless expenses.

JOHN TYLER.

WASHINGTON, June 1, 1841.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JUNE 2, 1841.

OUR EXTRA—THE CLIPPER A-HEAD!

☞Yesterday about 8 minutes after 1 o'clock, according to previous arrangements, our copies of the President's Message were delivered to us at the corner of Gay and Lombard streets, and in two minutes from that time they were distributed from our counter to hundreds of anxious readers. We were the first in the city to furnish the message to the public! A certain bragging establishment, who say they are always "wide awake" (!) was at least ten minutes behind us. The race between our own express and that employed by the Government was a tight one, at least that portion of it witnessed by us in Lombard street. N. R. Woodward drove the extraordinary, and kept the track nobly all the way to the Canton depot, beating the Government express THREE MINUTES. When they passed through Lombard street, the fire flew and the rein-ends sang, whip up, "Go it, Woodward!" "Another mile, another mile," and "Huzza! for the Clipper!" was the general shout, when our bundle was thrown out, knocking over half a dozen notary publics and custom house officers. Mr. Woodward arranged the whole affair handsomely—he is hard to beat! and did'nt care about killing a dozen or two of little pigs.

The express was one hour and five minutes on the road from Washington to this city, and was carried from the Depot through the city to Canton by Mr. Woodward in the short space of 8 minutes.

We return our thanks to Mr. Woodside, Superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road, for his polite attention in granting us all the facilities in his power to accomplish our purpose.

PRESIDENT TYLER. The question was raised in the house of representatives on Monday last, whether Mr. Tyler is the President of the United States, or only acting President, and it was, in our opinion, very properly decided that he is the President. This vote, we hope, will put the question at rest.

In the case of the vice-president no action has been had, but we presume the subject will be brought up for consideration. Mr. Southard is understood to have taken his seat in the Senate as president pro-tem.; but we presume that it will be found indispensable to "define his position." We have heretofore expressed our conviction that he is the vice-president, and cannot hold his seat as a senator; and our reasons for this opinion were given to the reader. The more reflection we bestow upon the subject, the more are we strengthened in our belief that the position which we have assumed is correct.

THE ORGAN. We yesterday received No. 4 of a new paper printed weekly in New York, entitled "The Organ of the Washington Temperance Benevolent Society, and its Auxiliaries." From its contents it seems that the Temperance cause is making rapid and steady progress. The deputies from the Baltimore Society appear to have produced an extraordinary effect wherever they lectured; and the establishment of numerous temperance societies has been the consequence. Their zeal in carrying on the work of moral reformation is worthy of all praise, and we hope that they will persevere, for they are engaged in the high and holy labor of imparting consolation to the afflicted—health to the diseased—and content and cheerfulness to desponding and desolate wives and children. Let them not "be weary in well-doing," but persist in their exertions until they shall, if it be possible, have banished drunkenness from the land. Then may they each be prepared to say with one of old, "Lord now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, for mine eyes have seen thy salvation."

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE. The President commences his message by a reference to the melancholy circumstance which has placed him in his present situation; and, in this connexion, recommends legislative interposition in behalf of the family of the lamented General Harrison. In respect to our foreign relations there has been no change—all wears an amicable aspect. In speaking of the extensive territory of the United States, and the rapid increase of population, the President expresses the opinion, "that there is nothing to excite the alarm of the patriot for the safety of our institutions," but he recommends that all the functionaries of this government be restrained within the range of their respective powers, so as to preserve "a just balance between the powers granted to this government and those reserved to the states and to the people."

The report from the Treasury department shows a deficit for the current year, and for which provision will have to be made of $11,406,132 98. The President is opposed to any change in the compromise act, but is in favor of levying discriminating duties. A considerable space is occupied in the examination of the subject of a fiscal agent. The three agents heretofore employed by government, viz: the national bank, the state banks, and the sub-treasury, have all been condemned by the people, and the President leaves it to the wisdom of Congress to devise a mode for the safe-keeping of the public funds, promising to sanction whatever they may enact, provided it be not unconstitutional. He recommends that the states enter into a compact in relation to the banking system, so as to prevent the ruinous multiplication of these institutions.

The President expresses himself very decidedly in favor of a distribution of the proceeds of the sales of the public lands among the states; and points out the happy effects which would result from the measure.

It seems, from the message, that the Secretary of War has instituted inquiries into abuses connected with the Florida war, Indian treaties, irregularities in the Indian department, &c. which promise to develope gross enormities—and a present appropriation of $200,000 is found necessary.

The message recommends the "placing in perfect condition those fortifications which are designed for the protection of our principal cities and roadsteads"—and is favorable to the policy recommended by Mr. Monroe, of having a regularly organized staff sufficient for the command of a large military force!" The President thinks that "a new system of accountability may be found to be indispensibly necessary" in the navy, and will hereafter communicate the views of the Secretary of the Navy on the subject.

The liabilities of the Post Office Department beyond its means, are stated at $500,000; but the recent lettings of mail contracts at reduced rates of compensation will afford some relief.

In regard to appointments to office, the President invites, on the part of the Senate, a just scrutiny into the character and pretensions of every person whom he may nominate to them for public office. His remarks on this subject are honorable and patriotic.

He thinks that additional legislation may become necessary on the subject of the slave trade, and recommends a law for the District of Columbia, which he refers to the favorable consideration of Congress.

On the whole, the message will probably prove satisfactory to a large majority of the people; for we believe that on the measures which he recommends, in explicit terms, the great body of the nation is agreed.

CONTENTMENT. The editor of the Republican has quietly withdrawn his spoon from the public dish, and resolved to abstain from the use of "government pap." As he appears to have a "contented mind," which is "a continual feast," more substantial diet would seem to be unnecessary in his case; but others have not so dainty an appetite—and we confess that a taste of the same "government pap" which our neighbor has resigned with such philosophic indifference, would not nauseate our stomach; but access to the dish will be debarred "so long as Isaac the Jew sitteth at the king's gate." If a Roman emperor could consume as much food as would suffice for a dozen men, we must not be surprised to find a man in these days who can swallow the whole "government pap" at a gulp, and still cry "give, give."

We are pleased to see our neighbor "back out" with so much grace, but are sorry that we could not step into his shoes, for the sake of variety. But we are like the old female scribbler who could never "comb Pat butter'd too soon and too late," and so we must partake of our neighbor's feast, "a contented mind."

In truth we may well be contented—for the extraordinary circulation of the Clipper, and the valuable increase of advertising patronage, leave us little to desire, except to render our paper still more deserving of public support. We do not wish to be classed among the idle boasters, who have to give a fresh assurance every day lest they should be disbelieved, and therefore do not keep up a perpetual blast with our trumpet—but our bark is riding triumphantly on the top of the wave, with luggage well secured; crew disciplined and active; and every thing in trim order. If we cannot, like Joshua, say to the Sun, "stand thou still," we can remain on the field long after that orb shall have receded from our view.

MR. RUSSELL'S CONCERT. The Concert given by Mr. Russell on Monday night, was, as we predicted, a brilliant affair. The room was crowded in every corner with beauty and fashion, and every song received well merited applause. This celebrated vocalist is to give another concert on to-morrow evening, which we have every reason for believing will be as fully attended as the first.

WASHINGTON, June 1, 1841.

In closing my last, I remarked that a discussion had arisen in the House, touching the right of Mr. Tyler to be styled President of the United States.

Mr. McKeon, on the usual joint resolution being offered for waiting on the President, etc., offered an amendment proposing to strike out the word "President," and substitute "Vice President, acting as President." On this amendment Mr. McKeon founded a long speech, in which he attempted to show that the constitution never contemplated that the Vice President under such circumstances should become the actual President of the United States; but that he should still be considered as Vice President, performing the duties of the former.

Mr. Wise replied, and contended that Mr. Tyler was bona fide President of the United States, by election, by the constitution, and by the act of God. The question being put on the amendment, it was negatived without a count.—The resolution was then concurred in.

This morning Mr. Adams made a flaming abolition speech, on a proposition by him to rescind the standing rule which prohibits the reception of abolition papers. He denounced it as a foul blot upon the record, and hoped that no time would be lost in removing it. After the venerable gentleman had expended his ammunition, on motion of Mr. Wise, the subject was, for the present, laid on the table.

A very amusing discussion then arose on a resolution offered by Mr. Pickens, who at this session has been squeezed into a corner of the Hall where he can scarcely be seen or heard. The resolution asks that the seats shall be distributed by lot, "that every man may have "equal rights."

Several amendments were offered, one of which was, that the desks be removed altogether, and that we have benches, similar to those in the English house of Commons; but finally, on motion of Ir. W. C. Johnson, the whole subject was laid on the table.

A brief discussion took place in the Senate, touching the propriety of addressing Mr. Tyler as President of the United States. After some legal and constitutional arguments, a motion by Mr. Alin, for substituting "Vice President" was negatived by a large vote.

The President's Message, was then received, in both branches, and the usual number of copies ordered to be printed.

Many of the poor clerks are still trembling lest they should be turned out of employment. Why should they tremble? I am afraid that very few who ask themselves this question, will not attribute their present fear to a misapplication of money in time past. The necessaries of life are few, and industry secures them to every man. It is the deliancies of life that empty the purse; the gratification of pride, and the indulgence of luxury, that make a man poor. What the better are those now thrown upon the world in debt, for the fine clothes they have worn or the parties they have given? Who thinks the better of them for all such nonsense? Let those who are still capable of being benefitted learn better, and trying to borrow some. When a man has saved himself a competence for his old age by a little sacrifice of personal vanity, of what consequence can it be to him, whether he sported a gold watch or wore a superfine coat years ago.

P. S. In the House, Mr. Graham has given notice of a bill to repeal the Sub Treasury law.

GENTLEMEN, DON'T HURRY YOURSELVES. The "divine" Fanny Elsler arrived in this city by the Frederick cars yesterday, and took lodgings at Barnum's Hotel. She is in excellent health and spirits and leaves this morning at 9 o'clock for Philadelphia. We have urged her to tarry a while with us—but she will not listen to the cruel thing! She says she is "too much 'fraid ze gentlemens vill make de beast of demselves," by dragging her carriage; an act of folly which, though it gratified her vanity, met with her disapproval. Fanny has cause to be in good spirits, her exquisite grace has had a wonderful magnetic influence on the purses of the southerners.

FLAT! Last evening extra handbills were circulated round the city announcing the arrival of Fanny Elsler, who had condescended to accept of a seat in the boxes of the Front street Theatre, and would appear at night, not on "the light fantastic toe," but as a Lady proposed! As much as we admire the grace and beauty of the dancer, we cannot but express our disapprobation of the "gag" system pursued by those who conduct an establishment styled the American Theatre. We hate adulation, it matters not who the idol may be—the stylish like graces of the dancer, we admire, but let her keep within her proper sphere.

AN UNGENTLEMANLY TRICK. A lady who teaches a school in Paca street, has had her sign pulled down two or three times, and the last time, which was on last Friday week, carried off, by a young man who visited the neighborhood. Now be it understood, that the name of this unprincipled fellow is known, and he shall be publicly exposed if he does not desist, and return the sign he has taken, or another as good in its place.

MR. FOSTER'S BENEFIT! This indefatigable actor, it will be seen, advertises for a BENEFIT at the Front street Theatre to-morrow night, when will be presented for the last time the grand spectacle of St. George and the Dragon, together with a variety of other entertainments. We shall not forget friend Foster. He is a sterling actor, and must have a bumper.

TO THE PUBLIC.

☞At a Special Meeting of the NEW MARKET FIRE COMPANY, convened pursuant to public notice, on Monday Evening, May 31, 1841, for the purpose of taking into consideration the recent outbreaks among the firemen of the city, and the injurious attempt to fix upon this company the charge of having provoked the same, by certain anonymous scribblers in the Clipper and Argus, the following proceedings were had:

WHEREAS, for some time past, no good feeling has existed towards the New Market Fire Company by the members of several other fire companies, and on all occasions of disorder or breach of the public peace at fires, however created, the hue and cry is immediately raised against this company, whether guilty or not, and by this course a growing prejudice has been awakened in the community against a body of firemen whose chief aim consists in their usefulness, and appearing at fires: And whereas, this company is entirely guiltless of such imputations, and entertain a belief that, unless as a body they disclaim all connexion with the commotions at fires, that many well disposed persons may infer from our silence, that we are the guilty party, and believing it to be our duty fully to state the facts in relation to these and other false accusations made against the New Market Fire Company—Therefore,

Resolved, That the anonymous communication in the Argus, over the signature of "Justice," charging the New Market Co., "after sending their apparatus home by a parcel of boys, with arming themselves with stones and other missiles, had expended fire arms, and entering Mr. Murray's tavern to await the return of the Independent, for an attack, which they did, by not only throwing stones, but by firing pistols," is wholly destitute of truth, and unworthy the character of any individual claiming to be an honorable fireman.

Resolved, That the New Market Fire Company having invested the President with the summary power of striking from the roll of the Campany, all disorderly or riotous firemen; therefore we respectfully invite all good citizens upon any occasion of a breach of the peace at fires, to report to the President the name of any member of the said Fire Company who may have been directly or indirectly implicated in such disturbances, to the end that he or they may be peremptorily dismissed from all connections with the New Market fire Company.

Resolved, That this Company fully appreciates the truth, that the efficiency of firemen depends almost entirely upon the harmony and good feeling which should ever prevail among men engaged in the same laudable objects, and we are determined to support the President in the enforcement of the powers with which he is invested of purging the Company of disorderly members whenever the occasion should require it.

Resolved, That the above statement of facts be published in defence of the New Market Fire Company.

Resolved, That the practice adopted by some of the members of other fire companies, whom, when engaged in disturbances of the public peace, at fires and other places, in making use of this company's name, is mean and disreputable in the lowest degree. And in all cases, hereafter, when this company shall have sufficient evidence of the same, the parties so offending will be dealt with according to law.

Resolved, That the Directors of this company, be instructed to act as a committee of conference; to meet with similar committees from other companies, for the purpose of reconciling any difficulties that may exist between the members of this and any other fire company.

SALE OF PROPERTY ON PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE. On Saturday Afternoon, 5th inst. at 4 o'clock, I will sell on the premises for cash, without reserve, that valuable piece of Property, fronting 21 feet on the east side of the Avenue, between Union and Preston streets, 4th door north of Union, running back 140 feet to an improved 20 feet alley, fronting on the alley 17 feet, subject to a ground rent of $17 per annum. The improvements consist of a very convenient two story Brick DWELLING, capable of accommodating a large family. A part of it if desired could, at small expense, be converted into a store or other business place. The neighborhood is populous, which would make it a good stand for a Grocery. The lot is handsomely improved with shrubbery, flowers, and very choice fruit. Persons desirous to purchase, can have every information on application at my Auction Rooms.

CONCERT.

MR. H. RUSSELL will give a GRAND CONCERT at the Assembly Rooms, Fayette street, on THURSDAY EVENING, 3d inst. at 8 o'clock, on which occasion Mr. R. will sing some of his latest compositions, that have met with great applause in New York, Boston, and Philadelphia.

PROGRAMME.—PART I.

Song—"Our way across the Mountain, ho!" Russell.
New Song—"The Old Night Lamp," (from Scenes of a desolate bed chamber,) Russell.

Of secret sorrow and lonely woe."

Song—"The Old Bell," Russell.

Weep—for a spirit fled!—
The solemn word is spoken!
Weep—for the silver thread
And Golden bowl are broken!
A warrior lived—a Christian died!—
Sorrow should slumber in our pride!
Go—bring his battle blade!
His helmet and his plume!
And be his trophies laid
Beside him in the tomb!
Where files of time-marked veterans,
With martial tramp and muffled drum.
Give to the earth his frame!—
'Twas born but to decay;—
Not so his deathless name!
That cannot pass away!
In youth, in manhood, and in age,
He dignified his country's page.
Green be the willow bough
Where sleeps the hero now
In consecrated ground,
His monument his fame endears—
His epitaph—A NATION'S TEARS.

National Refrain—Our Native Song, Russell.
The National Air of Yankee Doodle will be introduced.

"Self-exiled from our place of birth,
To climes more fragrant bright and gay,
The memory of our own fair earth
May chance awhile and fade away;
But should some minstrel echo fall,
On chords that breathe Columbia's fame,
Our soul's will burn, our spirits yearn,
True to the land we love and claim.
The high—the low—in weal or woe,
Be sure there's something coldly wrong
About the heart that does not glow
To hear its own—its Native Song."

Song—"The Old Sexton,"—Words by P. Benjamin, Russell.

"Nigh to a grave that was newly made,
Leaned a Sexton old, on his earth worn spade:
His work was done and he paused to wait
The funeral train through the open gate;
A relic of bye-gone days was he,
And his locks were white as the foamy sea;
And these words came from his lips so thin,

Song—"The Maniac"—words partly by Monk Lewis, Russell.

The above description of a Scene in a Mad House is founded on fact. "Some years since, a gentleman of large fortune was taken to a Mad House, and there confined seven feet under ground. The persons that accompanied him took oath to those entrusted with the care of the establishment to the fact of his being a maniac. The more the poor fellow implored for his release, the more forcibly were the keepers convinced of his madness. The treatment he received while thus confined, affected his reason and he became frantic, and shortly died from the effect. The strangers that carried him to the Mad House were supposed to have been hired by some brutal relatives, who, at his death, were to come in possession of his property.

PART II.

Song—Rockaway"—words by J. H. Sharpe, Russell.

"On old Long Island's sea girt shore,
Many an hour I've wiled away."

New Ballad—My Mother's Bible, founded on a passage in every-day life, (words by G. P. Morris,) Russell

This book is all that's left me now!
Tears will unbidden start!
With faltering lip and throbbing brow,
I press it to my heart!
For many generations passed,
My mother's hand this bible clasped—
She, dying, gave it me.
Ah! well do I remember those
Whose names these records bear!
Who round the hearth-stone used to close
After the evening prayer;
And speak of what this volume said,
In tones my heart would thrill—
Though they are with the silent dead,
Here they are living still!

Song Descriptive—The Gambler's Wife—(The words written expressly for Mr. Russell, by Dr. Reynolds Coates,) Russell

Cold on the hearth the last faint sparks expire!
Shivering she watches by the cradle side,

Hark! 'Tis his footsteps! No! 'tis gone!
Tic! Tic! How wearily the time rolls on!
Why should he leave me thus? He once was kind;
And I believed 'twould last! How mad! how blind!

Rest thee, my babe! rest on!—'tis hunger's cry!
Sleep! for there is no food!—the fount is dry!
Famine and cold their wearying work have done!
My heart must break!—and thou, my child—hush!
The clock strikes one!—&c.

This song is designed to represent the feelings of a young wife and mother, under circumstances sufficiently common to warrant the assertion that it is founded on fact, without exaggeration. It represents the Gambler's Wife and Child, deserted by their natural protector, in the extreme of poverty and starvation for the PLEASURE of play. The fire expires—the energies of life sink from want of food, and the mother vainly strives to hope in the midst of despair, appealing to the past with the memory of the bride, while vainly endeavoring to sooth her child with the energy of a mother's love, until the infant dies in her arms, and her heart is broken. The current of her feelings is interrupted only by the peal of the clock, and at the third hour the scene closes; while Time strides onward in its monotonous march, regardless as the woe of the issue.

Ancient Ballad—"Fine old English Gentleman, all of the olden time,"—Melody by Martin Luther Ballad—Woodman, spare that tree—(Words by G. P. Morris,) Russell

Song—The Old Arm Chair—(words by Eliza Cook,) Russell

"I love it, I love it, and who shall dare
To chide me for loving that old Arm Chair."

Comic Italian Song—"O, concete gia meglio di me." Rossini

Describing a person entering a Cafe, and address a deaf waiter, who brings every dish but the one asked for.

FRONT STREET.

A CARD. POSITIVELY THE LAST NIGHT BUT TWO. Mr JOSEPH FOSTER, Arranger and Producer of the Grand Spectacle of St. George and the Dragon, presents his respectful compliments to the ladies, gentlemen, and public generally of Baltimore, and in announcing his Benefit for THURSDAY EVENING, June 3d, ventures to assert that the selections made for the occasion will prove more attractive than any previous entertainment ever placed before the Baltimore public. The performances will commence precisely at half past 7 o'clock, with the magnificent spectacle of St. George and the Dragon—after which, Levi North, the pride of America and the most wonderful Equestrian in the world, will appear in two New Acts. The Grand Fairy Ballet of Cinderella will be performed by the surprising Juvenile Company, and the whole will conclude with (for this night only) a Comic Pantomime, of a strange and whimsical construction, embracing the introduction of three Harlequins, three Columbines, and three Pantaloons, with all the fun, laughter, and frolic attendant upon such a combination. Notwithstanding the variety of entertainments, they will be so arranged as to conclude about half past 11 o'clock. je1-3t

DYSPEPSIA BISCUIT, BREAD, &c.

THE SUBSCRIBER takes this method of informing the citizens of Baltimore, who have been disappointed in getting his DYSPEPSIA BISCUIT, that he is now prepared at his BREAD AND MALT YEAST FACTORY, Gay street Bridge, to furnish Dyspepsia Biscuit, wheat and rye Bread, Tea Biscuit, Rusk; Butter, Water and Medford Crackers. As to the quality of the above articles, to Families who have tried them, he thinks it unnecessary to say any thing; but to the Citizens generally, he will only say:—give them a fair trial, and he is sure of a continuation of that liberal encouragement he has heretofore received As he does not keep a horse and cart, or send any bread out, housekeepers will find it to their advantage to send for their bread, &c. as the expense of sending out is added to the loaf.

☞ MALT YEAST, fresh every day.

SELLING OFF TO CLOSE BUSINESS!
AT No. 77 MARKET STREET.

This is no Humbug to catch Customers.

JOHN BERGER & CO. intending shortly to close their business, at No. 77 Baltimore street, think it due to themselves to state, that when they advertise SELLING OFF AT COST, it is not a mere sham so much in vogue now, to attract custom—but that having other objects in view, they are compelled to close up their business in a very short time, and to do so with as little sacrifice as possible, they now offer their well selected stock at Wholesale and Retail, at COST, for cash. Our Stock is bought mostly at auction, at the ruinous low prices at which goods have been sacrificed this season, and selling them at first cost Purchasers may rest assured to get Bargains.

P.S. Any person wishing to enter the Dry Goods business and to procure one of the best "Retail" stands in town, will find it to their advantage to call and see us soon. Remember the name and No.

TRUSTEES SALE of valuable real estate in the city of Baltimore. By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court of Maryland, the undersigned as Trustee, will expose to sale at auction on WEDNESDAY, the ninth day of June next, commencing at 9 o'clock, A. M. on the premises

ALL THAT VALUABLE PROPERTY heretofore conveyed by William Russell to the trustees for the poor of Baltimore City and County, by indenture bearing date on or about the fifteenth day of June seventeen hundred and ninety-two, and recorded amongst the land records of Baltimore County Court in liber W. G., No. K. K., folio 4 &c., and which in said deed is described as follows, viz—Beginning for the same at the intersection of Biddle and Price sts., and on the west side of said Biddle street, and running and bounding on the west side of said Biddle street north forty-four degrees, east forty eight perches and the half of a perch, then north fifty two and one half degrees, west thirty four perches to a parcel of ground heretofore sold to a certain William Gibson by the said William Russell, then running and bounding on said ground south forty four degrees, west forty four perches to Price street, then bounding on said street south easterly thirty four perches to the place of beginning, containing nine acres and one half of an acre and thirteen square perches of land more or less.

The above property adjoins the Bosc Hill estate and is in the neighborhood of the outer Depot of the Baltimore and Susquehana Rail Road; it lies beyond the limits of direct taxation and is exempt from the payment of City Taxes; the whole property will be divided into a large number of Lots of such dimensions as will enable those of moderate means to become purchasers. Madison street, which forms its Southern boundary, has been well paved along its entire front and beyond, and has been built upon up to Biddle st., which forms the Eastern Boundary, Morris Alley, Gibson street, Jordan Alley, and Gordon street, pass thro' it from east to west. A better opportunity than the present rarely occurs either for investment or speculation, especially when the very liberal terms of payment are taken into consideration.

The terms of sale prescribed by the decree are that the purchasers shall pay one-sixth cash, one sixth in ninety days, one-sixth in six months, one-sixth in nine months, one-sixth in twelve months, and one-sixth in fifteen months from the day of sale, the credit instalments to be secured by notes with one or more sureties to be approved by the Trustee and to bear interest from the day of sale.

GEO. GORDON BELT, Trustee.

VALUABLE BUILDING LOTS,
On Fleet and Washington-sts., Fell's Point.

IN PURSUANCE of a decree of Baltimore county Court, sitting as a Court of Equity, and by virtue of a special order of said Court, the subscriber, as trustee, will offer at public sale, on the premises hereinafter described, and to the highest bidder, on WEDNESDAY the second day of June, if fair, if not the next fair day thereafter, at the hour of half past four o'clock, P. M., the following described Lot or parcel of Ground, situated on Fell's Point, in the City of Baltimore.

Beginning for the same at the corner formed by the intersection of the north side of Fleet st. and the east side of Washington street, and running thence northwardly bounding on the east side of Washington st. one hundred and twenty feet, thence eastwardly parallel with Fleet st. eighty four feet, thence southwardly parallel with Washington st. one hundred and twenty feet to Fleet st., and thence westwardly bounding on the north side of Fleet st. eighty four feet to the place of beginning, it being the same property which by deed bearing date the seventeenth day of July in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and twenty-eight, and duly recorded among the land records of Baltimore County Court, in Liber W. G. No. 194, folio 152, &c. was conveyed by John Glenn, trustee, to the late John Lee. To meet the views of small purchasers who may be disposed to buy, it is proposed to divide the property into, say six 14 feet lots on Fleet-st., with a depth of say 60 feet to an alley, and four lots on Washington street of about fourteen feet each, with a depth of eighty four feet. The property is remarkably well located for improvement, being near several of the large ship yards, and the spacious wharf lately completed by the Canton Company. As the parties interested are anxious to sell, bargains may be expected. A plan of the property as proposed to be divided will be exhibited at the sale, and in the mean time may be examined at H. W. B

THE FIRE AT THE NATIONAL. The magistrates in New York are busy taking depositions in relation to the mysterious burning of the National Theatre. In addition to Shiers, another person named Thomas Hurd has been arrested on suspicion of setting fire to it.

An inquest was held on the body of a young girl, killed by the falling walls. Her name was Margaret Yager, and she belonged to Philadelphia.

The Herald says, some very important information has been obtained in the course of the investigation as the cause of the fire. Among the singular features of the calamity, it says, is that of the late lessee's property and effects being all removed before the fire, whilst all the loss falls on the shareholders and Burton, who is sufferer to the extent of $25,000. It is also a little singular that the incendiary attempt should be made on the day following the salary day at the theatre, Thursday, when nearly every claim was discharged.

Burton had not a cent of insurance on his property in the theatre. Where shall be given his compensatory benefit? He deserves one.

SUICIDE. David Leonard of New Orleans put an end to his life on the 23d ult. by taking laudanum. The romance of the affair is this:—He married—the union proved an unhappy one—a separation ensued; he resorted to intemperance as an oblivious antidote for his misfortunes; was arrested by the police, put into the calaboose, and branded as a vagabond. An accumulation of evils finally prompted him to act as his own executioner.

A memorandum was found on him which he had written after taking the fatal drug. In it he told that he had done the deed; accounted for the cause of it; blamed his wife for having deserted him, but avowed that he forgave her, and would love her to the last moment of his life. "Farewell one, I love thee still!"

BOARD OF NAVAL SURGEONS. The following gentlemen appointed by the Secretary of the Navy, convened in Philadelphia yesterday, for the examination of Assistant Surgeons, candidates for promotion, and of persons desirous of being appointed assistants in the Navy.

W. P. C. Barton, M. D. President, of Philadelphia; Bailey Washington, M. D. of Washington; Samuel Jackson, M. D. of New York; B. F. Bache, M. D. of Ohio; G. R. B. Horner, M. D. of Philadelphia.

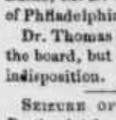
Dr. Thomas Harris was appointed a member of the board, but declined serving in consequence of indisposition.

SEIZURE OF AMERICAN FISHERMEN. The Portland Advertiser of the 27th, contains a letter from Capt. Smith, late master of Fishing Schooner Pioneer, which was captured by the British, and sent to Yarmouth, N. S. The captain states he was taken while fishing, full four miles from land, and that on his arrival at Yarmouth, the collector refused to have any thing to do with the schooner. The capt. and crew were then taken on board the cutter to be conveyed home.

AN AMERICAN SCHOONER CAPTURED BY A BRITISH VESSEL. A letter in the Portland Advertiser from Capt. Smith of the fishing schr. Pioneer, says he was boarded off the banks by the "Two Sisters" of Halifax, a prize crew put on board and the vessel sent into Yarmouth, Nova Scotia.

ARRESTED. Adeline Maynard and Caroline Stephens, negroes, were yesterday arrested by W. A. Swift, constable, charged with stealing a blue jacket, a vest, a silk handkerchief and a hat, the property of a sailor. The accused were committed to prison by Squire Jones.

☞We learn that the Directors of the Girard Bank, Philadelphia, have resolved, without a dissenting voice, to decline the provisions of the Relief Bill.



TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Moie Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 22 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY,
No. 17 HARRISON ST.
"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and efficient in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per BOTTLE, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

☞Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. m1-tf

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow-citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an imparity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. HOOZ,

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From Captain PARRISH, who commenced to use them when diseased in August, 1839.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 2, 1840.

☞To DR. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I have had experience in the virtue of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,

E. PARRISH.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.

DR. WM. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been laboring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. Yours, respectfully, JOHN DYE.

We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, know our neighbour, Mr. Dye, sold him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true. Respectfully,

W. & S. B. ANDERSON.

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

STOCK FACTORY.

T. W. BETTON'S GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING STORE and STOCK FACTORY, No. 151½ Baltimore street, opposite the Citizens' Bank, Baltimore, respectfully informs his customers and the public generally, that he still continues to manufacture STOCKS, COLLARS, SHIRTS, and LINEN BOSOMS, of every description. He would particularly call the attention of dealers to the above named articles, at wholesale or retail, before they purchase elsewhere, and from his long experience in that business, he hopes to give general satisfaction. His assortment consists, in part, of the following Stock of Goods, viz:

Stocks, Collars, Linen Bosoms, plain and ruffled
Linen, Cotton, and Fancy SHIRTS
Worsted, Silk, Linen, and Cotton DRAWERS
Worsted, Flannel, Silk, and Cotton UNDER SHIRTS

UNITED STATES MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH, Sunday's excepted.
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that in accordance with the New Mail Arrangement, the Boats composing their line, viz: ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, will, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 26th of May, leave the lower end of Spear's wharf daily, (Sunday's excepted,) at nine o'clock, A. M. for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va.

Passengers for Charleston will find the cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, on the wharf, on their arrival at Portsmouth, ready to convey them to Weldon, N. C., where they will always arrive in time to take the cars for Wilmington, from which point to Charleston is by the Steamboat, which leaves Wilmington immediately after the Passengers are delivered from the cars.

Passengers for Richmond, Petersburg, or intermediate points on James River, by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, will sleep on board the Bay Boat and be transferred to the James River Boat next morning.

The Steamboat Fox leaves the Black Water station on the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars from Portsmouth, for Edenton and Plymouth, N. C., and returns every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, delivering her passengers to the cars as they pass down from Weldon, enabling them to arrive in Baltimore next day, (Sundays excepted.)

RETURNING, one of the above Boats will leave Norfolk every night (Saturday being excepted) at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departing from Portsmouth.

Should the Boat get an early start from Portsmouth, Passengers for Philadelphia and New York will have the opportunity of being placed on board the Philadelphia Steamboat in the Patapsco River, and will arrive in Philadelphia the same night by 11 o'clock, after having travelled 300 miles in 20 hours, without as much fatigue as would be incurred in walking from the Hotels to the wharf.

☞No freight will be forwarded on the day it is lost, unless it is alongside, prior to 8 o'clock, A. M.

JNO. C. MOALE, General Agent,
m24-d Baltimore Steam-Packet Company.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

☞Bear in mind, that Passengers who go by the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, have 40 miles of Rail Road travelling through the DISMAL SWAMP at midnight, over one of the worst Rail Roads in America, and then are often compelled to lay over 17 hours at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 9 A.M., they proceed, without one moment's delay, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and often one day in advance of any other Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	12 P.M. reach	Baltimore	8 A.M.
" Baltimore	9 A.M.	" Washington	11 A.M.
" Washington	11½ A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	6 P.M.
" Fred'sburg	6½ P.M.	" Richmond	11 P.M.
" Richmond	11½ P.M.	" Petersburg	1 A.M.
" Petersburg	1½ A.M.	" Weldon	6½ A.M.
" Weldon	7 A.M.	" Charleston	on the next morning.

Passengers by this Line not only reach Charleston ONE DAY SOONER than by the Bay boats but they avoid being compelled to remain all night at Weldon, on the Roanoke, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole southern country, where, by the Bay Line, they are often delayed seventeen hours.

Passengers for Richmond and Petersburg will find this Line far the most expeditious, arriving at Richmond to lodge, (as will be seen from the above Schedule,) on the evening of the day on which they leave Baltimore, being from 16 to 18 hours in advance of those taking the Bay Steam Boats.

☞This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. Fare lower than any other line. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office,
m24-tf PRATT STREET, Baltimore.

SPLENDID NEW LOOKING-GLASS PLATES, PORTRAIT, PICTURE, & LOOKING-GLASS FRAMES, &c. &c.

JUST RECEIVED, by the subscriber, per the Clementine and Europe, from Bremen, the most extensive & superior assortment of GERMAN LOOKING GLASS PLATES ever offered in this market—embracing all the sizes in demand. He has also as good an assortment of FRENCH PLATES as can be found in the city. The public may rest assured that the above are of THE VERY BEST ORDER OF GLASSES, and that they will be sold, wholesale or retail, as cheap as the same quality can be purchased at any other establishment in the United States.

He is extensively prepared to manufacture every variety of Looking-glass, Portrait, and Picture FRAMES (gilt or mahogany) in a style, combining every desirable excellence, which defies competition.

☞Country merchants and others, in want of any thing in his line, will find it for their interest to call upon him before purchasing elsewhere.

SONG.

Why will you wear that woeful brow,
And look so sullen and so sad?
I feel no pangs of sorrow now,
And when I smile you must be glad.
I feel no want of lovers yet,
And they who seek me must obey,
Else soon some other swains I'll get,
And turn the old ones all away.

And still I would not you should go,
Yet why, in faith I cannot tell,
Though did you but the reason know,
They say you never would rebel.

You do not speak—nay then begone,
For know I only bade you stay,
That while they left me here alone,
You might talk the time away.
And me you would obey, because
My favor won you some applause. AVON.

From the Ladies' Companion for June.

THE MASKED BRIDE.

BY MRS. CAROLINE ORME.

"Her beauty hangs upon the cheek of night,
Like a rich jewel in an Ethiop's ear."—Romeo & Juliet.

The level beams of the sun were sleeping on the bosom of the Rhine, which was blue and unruffled as the summer sky which it mirrored, save here and there, a long, scintilating line of light was merged in one of those sparkling expanses, where it seems as if thousands of diamonds were fluttering with a rapid and ever changeful motion. Carlos Gonsalvo, a young Spanish gentleman who had been refreshing himself at an inn, discernable in the distance, stood on the margin of the river, which in that place spread into an area of some magnitude, smooth and level, with his eye fixed on a castled tower, which rose from the verge of a bold precipice, and which, although on the same shore, was by an abrupt bend of the river brought nearly opposite to him. The tower, which had been built at a remote period, appeared singularly picturesque as it shot up against the ruddy western sky, and the young traveller felt an unaccountable, yet irrepressible desire to view it more nearly. A skiff, moored at a little distance afforded him the means of gratifying his inclination, and in a few minutes he was gliding lightly over the water. On arriving at the rock he found that it was so high and steep as to be inaccessible. He spent considerable time in trying, if possible, to find some point where he might scale the precipice, but without success. The last vestige had now departed, and he was thinking of returning, when a light from the tower cast a bright gleam along the waters. On turning to see from what part of the building it proceeded, he found it came from an open lattice window, at which stood a young girl so beautiful, as to, at once, put to flight all thoughts of returning to the inn. She had the dark, lustrous eyes of the daughters of his own sunny land, but the "cheek of cream," glowing with a slight rose tint, which gleamed through the rich mass of golden curls, that, secluded as she was in her lonely tower, she suffered to fall as graceful nature willed, must, so imagined the young Spaniard, have ripened beneath some sky less fervent. It was only for a moment that he had an opportunity to gaze at her, for, probably on account of observing his boat, she withdrew from the lattice. He lingered in the vain hope that he should obtain another glance of her, for more than half an hour, and then, slowly and reluctantly commenced propelling his boat towards the point whence he had started. Often did he look back to her window, from which, much to his chagrin, the light soon vanished. Once he thought that he saw the gleam of a snowy white hand and arm, or of a white handkerchief waving at the lattice—but this must have been the illusion of an excited fancy, as no object could have been discernable through the gloom that rested so heavily upon that side of the tower.

All the intelligence that Gonsalvo was able to gather from the host of the inn concerning the tower, was, that it belonged to a Spanish nobleman, whose name he had forgotten, who inherited it in right of his wife, a German lady.

"But who are the living inhabitants?" said Gonsalvo, impatiently interrupting him, as he commenced relating a ghost story connected with the old tower—"that is, what ladies—what females inhabit it?"

"Why, there is old Maggy, the—"

"I care nothing about old Maggy—the lovely creature I saw there to-night, who is she?"

"Oh! you must mean Maggy's daughter. I think, but I never thought her any thing more than common, and since she has got on the wrong side of forty—"

"The wrong side of forty? Why the lady I mean, must be on the right side of twenty."

The host shook his head as he replied—"Your eyes must have deceived you, sir, or it must have been the apparition of the young lady who was murdered more than a hundred years ago, by a cruel uncle, for the sake of obtaining her fortune."

Finding that he was unable to obtain the information he desired, his next care was to secure an apartment which commanded a view of the tower, and to his great delight, the lady's lattice was again brilliantly illuminated. The night was calm and beautiful, and so still, that the "floating whisper," heard only when all sounds of animated nature, and the lightest breeze even is hushed, and which fancy might deem the mingled breathings of the sleeping flowers, filled the air with its mysterious and dreamy melody. A light slumber stole over him, and the lady of the tower seemed hovering near, when a strain of delightful music

"Came like a stream of rich distilled perfume,
And stole upon the air."

Fortunately his apartment was on the first story, otherwise his limbs might have been entangered, for, feeling convinced that such entrancing music could proceed from no other place than the chamber of the lovely unknown, he sprang from the window, and with all the speed of which he was capable ran to the shore of the river. Here, owing to the sudden bend of the stream, and the projecture of the precipice on which the tower was situated, he was within a comparatively short distance of it, and could not only distinctly hear a female voice, which was accompanied by a guitar, but could without difficulty distinguish the words. A few strains closed the song that she was then singing, but after a short prelude on the instrument, her voice again came over the waters, singing the subjoined stanzas—

"The star of Love looks down,
And sees its own bright beam,
Deeply and softly mirrored
In the bosom of the stream!
And the stream though bright before
With a fuller radiance glows,
And sends forth glad, sweet music
As onward still it flows.

The star of Love has now,
Withdrawn its brilliant light,
And its cheering smile no longer
Makes the mournful river bright;
And its voice has now a tone
Of sadness in its flow:
Oh, star so softly radiant,
Why did'st thou cease to glow?

And there was one most fair,
Who lived in days gone by,
How'ring 'tween youth and childhood,
When Love's deceiving eye
Met hers—and flowers sprung up
And in her young heart bloomed—
Love turned away—the blossoms
To an early death were doomed."

It was well that the fair minstrel grew weary, as otherwise Gonsalvo might have spent the night by the river's brink, at the risk of endangering his health. After remaining a long time unchecked by a single additional note, he slowly returned to the inn.

The next morning before sunrise, he was in the boat, directing its course towards the tower—"For certainly," thought he, "she must be an early riser, as nothing but the balmy morning air could have produced that soft, rich bloom upon her cheek." He was not wrong in his conjecture, and the lady, who could not have anticipated seeing any person at so early an hour, soon after he had steered his boat under the shadow of an overhanging cliff, threw open the lattice and seated herself near it. Gonsalvo, who had now an opportunity to obtain a distinct view of her features, found her even more lovely than he had thought her the night preceding. Though so well screened by the deep shadow of the cliff, an inadvertent plash of an oar betrayed his proximity, and she would have instantly withdrawn, had not an earnest and imploring gesture induced her to remain, as she imagined that he must have something of great importance to communicate. He rowed his boat under her window, where without raising his voice above its natural tone, she could distinguish what he said. He then, urged on by the impetuosity of the passion, which had already taken such deep root in his heart, after informing her of his name and rank, avowed his love, and entreated hers in return. Her varying complexion evinced considerable agitation as she listened to him, which he interpreted as a favorable omen.

"I have already heard of you many times," said she, when he had ceased speaking, "and I have likewise heard of what you appear to have forgotten, that you are betrothed to Theresa, daughter of the Marquis de Nevada."

The face of Gonsalvo became crimson, as he listened to these words, and it was some time before he replied. "I confess," he at length said, "that what you have heard is true, but when I consented to become thus entangled, in compliance with the earnest wishes of my father and hers, I knew nothing of love except its name."

"Have you ever seen the lady?"

"Never. Her mother having died in her infancy, she always resided at a distance with an aunt, which has given my friends an opportunity to deceive me with respect to her person. Fortunately, about a week since, I fell in with a friend, who told me that which made me determine never to fulfil the engagement, even before I beheld you."

"Is what he told you a secret?" said the lady.

"By no means. As good fortune would have it, he happened to obtain a sight of my betrothed, whom he declares to be absolutely frightful. She is not only hunchbacked, but her features are hideous, and her skin yellow and shrivelled, which I suppose must have been occasioned by disease, as my father has often told me that she is not twenty."

The lady could not help laughing at this description, but almost instantly assuming a serious air, she solemnly assured him that she would never consent to be in any way instrumental to his breaking his engagement. It would be useless to repeat his many passionate appeals to her generosity, for although she would not deny that had they met under happier auspices, she might have listened to his suit, she told him that now it would be in vain to attempt seeing her again. She bade him adieu with emotion she could not disguise, and this was the only solace of poor Gonsalvo the subsequent week, during which he became perfectly satisfied by his repeatedly baffled attempts to obtain another interview, that the resolution of the lady was not to be shaken.

"I might, at least," thought he, "have ascertained her name, and then should I be so fortunate as to get released from this hated engagement, I could write to her."

At length his impatience became insufferable, and he resolved one morning, even at the hazard of incurring the displeasure of the unknown lady, to ride to the old tower and make some inquiry of the inhabitants respecting her. He was informed that she had taken her departure that very morning by break of day, in company with a gentleman, handsome and richly dressed, but not a word more could he learn, and he found to his vexation, that old Maggy, as well as her husband, could keep a secret. When he returned to the inn, a letter was handed him, which he found to be from his father. It requested him to hasten home, as the Marquis de Nevada had gone for his daughter, and it was thought best by his friends as well as hers, that the marriage should be immediately solemnized. As there was nothing now to attract him to the spot where he was, he commenced his journey without delay, though he felt determined never to fulfil his engagement. His father received him with the greatest joy. "You have," said he, the moment they were alone, "saved yourself from ruin; for the uncle of Theresa, who is a member of the Inquisition, having received a hint that you intended to elude the engagement with her, has already marked you for a victim."

"I am ready to meet his anger," replied the son. "I had rather suffer torture, and even death, than to do such violence to my affection as to marry his niece."

"The following letter from Theresa caused him to alter his mind:—

"I am aware, Gonsalvo, of the repugnance you feel relative to fulfilling the marriage contract existing between us, entered into several years ago by our parents, from pecuniary motives, and to which, at that time, we both consented. I moreover know the cause of your unwillingness to fulfil it, being intimately acquainted with the lady of the tower, who wishes you to be informed that the sentiments she expressed to you during your interview with her, have undergone a change. By breaking the engagement with me, you cannot secure her. I understand that you have received an account of my personal defects, which I hope, should we meet, you will find was exaggerated. If you can prevail on yourself to comply with the earnest wishes of our friends, that your feelings may not receive too great a shock at the moment of our meeting, I beg that you will consent for me to hide those features beneath a mask, which appeared so hideous to your friend, 'till after the performance of the marriage ceremony. Immediately after its conclusion, I give you my word, should it be your wish, to retire to a convent, to remain for life. Weigh well what I have written, and resolve not to brave the vengeance of my vindictive uncle. THERESA."

Gonsalvo read and re-read this epistle, which was written in a very delicate, lady-like hand. He felt flattered by its tone of submission, which he contrasted with the unbending resolution of the lady of the tower, and he caught himself wondering whether she might not prove a termagant. The threats of the uncle, likewise, had their proper weight in turning the scale. Before he slept, he despatched a note to Theresa, informing her of his readiness to fulfil the engagement upon the conditions she had named, and that his father had suggested, that as the marriage had already been considerably delayed, the ensuing day, if it met the approbation of her and her friends, would, in his opinion, be a proper time for it to take place. By the messenger who conveyed his note, an answer was returned that the lady and her friends would be in readiness to receive him and his retinue at the proposed time.

Early the following morning, Gonsalvo, attended by a numerous cavalcade, set out for the residence of the Marquis de Nevada, which displayed a style of magnificence suitable to his great wealth. They proceeded immediately to the family chapel. Gonsalvo recognized the bride by her mask, who was attired in a travelling dress, ready to step into the carriage in waiting, which was to convey her from the chapel to the convent, should it be the wish of the bridegroom. He was agreeably disappointed by perceiving, contrary to the description given by his friend, that far from being hunchbacked, her form was uncommonly fine. As his eyes wandered over the assemblage, they were arrested by a little hunchbacked woman, apparently upwards of forty, with a crooked nose, small black eyes, and a yellow shrivelled skin. So completely did she correspond with the description he had received of his intended bride, that he was resolved to inquire her name, but was prevented by being required to take his station before the altar. He was much agitated himself, but Theresa trembled so excessively, as to awaken his compassion, and he mentally determined that unless on removing her mask she disclosed a countenance still more repulsive than the little crook-nosed, yellow skinned female, who had kept her small black eyes fixed upon him ever since he had been in the chapel, that he would not mention a word about her going to the convent.

The ceremony was concluded, the mask was removed, and the lovely lady of the tower stood before him. Gonsalvo, who had been fortifying his mind, so as to behold without recoiling, a countenance similar to that of the hunchbacked lady, with difficulty suppressed a cry of mingled surprise and joy. When he had recovered himself, he pointed to the little personage, who had for the last half hour attracted so much of his attention, and inquired who she was.

"Oh, that," said the bride, with an arch smile, "is Theresa de Nevada, my aunt!"

PALACE BUILT OF ICE. In the year 1740, the empress Anne of Russia caused a palace of ice to be erected upon the banks of Neva. This extraordinary edifice was fifty-two feet in length, sixteen in breadth, and twenty feet high, and constructed of large pieces of ice cut in the manner of free-stone. The walls were three feet thick. The several apartments were furnished with tables, chairs, beds, and all kinds of household furniture of ice. In front of this edifice, beside pyramids and statues, stood six cannons, carrying balls of six pounds' weight and two mortars, entirely made of ice. At a trial from one of the former, an iron ball, with only a quarter of a pound of powder was fired off, the ball of which went through a two-inch board, at sixty paces from the mouth of the piece, which remained completely uninjured by the explosion. The illumination in this place at night was astonishingly grand.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 3, 1841.

INFAMOUS. Reader, suppose A and B to be neighboring merchants, both in the habit of supplying a particular house with goods. This house directs a letter to A and B jointly for goods to the amount of $100 each. The letter is received by A who forwards his portion, but he withholds it from B, whereby he loses the sale of his goods. Now, we ask whether A could, under such circumstances, be considered a fair-dealing and honest man? would not public opinion stamp his conduct with infamy? We think that every honorable man will answer in the affirmative. Now precisely this conduct we charge upon the proprietors of the Sun. An advertisement of the races at Washington was sent from that city directed to the Clipper and Sun, and received by us at the depot. It was immediately copied and sent to the office of the Sun. On the succeeding evening an advertisement similarly directed was received by the proprietors of the Sun, who withheld it from us, whereby we lost the amount of publication. The sum of money thus meanly withheld from us is too trifling for consideration. It is of the principle we would speak. To fair and honorable competition we have no objection. The exertions of newspaper proprietors in this way are beneficial to the public; but every well-regulated mind will revolt at an attempt by one proprietor to defraud another of his right. It is the first instance that has come to our knowledge where a letter directed to two offices, has been withheld by either—and we hardly supposed it possible that the profession contained a single member of so mean, despicable and dishonorable a mind, or so malignant a heart, as to be guilty of the trick. Under all circumstances, and however politically opposed to each other, proprietors of newspapers have heretofore invariably abstained from the disreputable and dishonest conduct of withholding advertisements from each other, and more especially when directed jointly as the one in question. And why is it that this hostility towards this office exists on the part of the proprietors of the Sun? Have we not the same right to publish a newspaper as themselves? They boast of an extensive patronage—we care not if they send their paper into every house in the city; nor if they be lining their purses with gold: the citizens of Baltimore have the right to bestow their support where it may please them without offence to any, and we shall be the last to make objection—but when the proprietor of one paper, from envy of another's success, intercepts patronage destined for that other, from the malicious motive of taking so much from his pocket—we say that it is an outrage which calls for public condemnation. We had rather go in rags than soil our consciences by so villanous an effort to inflict injury on a neighbor. Many a man has been lodged in the penitentiary for a less criminal act.

HON. HENRY CLAY. We are glad to find that this distinguished Senator has expressed himself in favor of retrenchment in the expenditures of Government, not only as regards those which may be considered of magnitude, but in more minute particulars. The condition of the Treasury requires that the most rigid economy shall be practised; and we think that the example of retrenchment at head-quarters may have a beneficial influence on the community. It is certain that every thing, public and private, has been conducted on too expanded a scale. The public funds have been wasted in extravagance, or abandoned to peculators, who have helped themselves at pleasure and with impunity. It is time that this system should terminate; it is, therefore, gratifying to find, that, whilst the departments are subjecting their dependences to a searching operation, with a view to the suppression of mal-practices, a spirit of economy is also about to be introduced into Congress. Independent of the amount which may be saved in the articles of stationery, printing, &c. a sum of no small magnitude can be economized by the suppression of long, nonsensical speeches; and we hope that the members of the House will not fail to take this into their consideration. Let them go to work in earnest, and they will soon finish the business necessary to be done. But if they imitate the last House, they will hardly terminate the extra session before the commencement of the regular one. We expect better things of the present House, though we are sorry to see that eternal bone of contention, abolition petitions, brought forward already. In this Mr. Adams certainly exhibits more zeal than discretion, because he cannot possibly effect any good purpose. Whatever may be the right in the matter, an extra session in warm weather, is not the proper time to force the question upon the consideration of the House.

A REAL TORNADO OF HIMSELF. A commission was recently taken out in the Niagara Circuit to examine certain witnesses in Canada, to prove that McLeod was not one of the party that destroyed the Caroline. The Honorable Mr. Elmsley, one of the witnesses refuses to testify, declaring that "the only way in which he can consent to aid McLeod, is in assisting to give such a thundering rap at the door of the dungeon where he lies incarcerated, as will at once convince the republicans that the demand for the liberation of a British subject, unjustly detained in prison, comes from the British nation."

NATIONAL BANK. We have now no doubt that the fiscal agent which it will be proposed to substitute for the sub-treasury will be a national bank. Mr. Clay has openly avowed himself favorable to the measure, and we think that the prevailing disposition in both houses is to adopt it. But then the question arises, will the President sanction it? He is not explicit upon this point in his message, but we have never entertained a doubt on the subject since he issued his address to the people of the United States, on assuming the duties of President. Had he been resolved to veto a Bank bill he would have made his intention known in unequivocal terms: but, by referring the subject of a fiscal agent to the consideration of Congress, with the promise that he will approve any constitutional measure which may be adopted, he leaves it to be inferred that he does not exclude a national bank from the projects which ought to be considered. The President was formerly hostile to such an institution upon constitutional grounds—so was Mr. Madison, Mr. Clay, and other distinguished statesmen; and we think it not unlikely that the mind of the President has undergone a change similar to that in the gentlemen just named: hence we do not believe that he will offer any obstacle to the passage of a well-digested Bank bill.

It will depend in a great measure upon the manner in which a national bank may be organized, whether it will prove a blessing or a curse. If such an institution must be established, it should be limited and restricted, if it be possible, so as to render it incapable of being wielded for or against the government—and should be placed, as far as practicable, out of the reach of stock-jobbers and speculators. It cannot be held to too rigid a responsibility. We confess that we are fearful of the result; and yet we know not what other fiscal agent can be adopted when the sub-treasury act shall have been repealed, unless we resort to the state banks, which, we presume, cannot be contemplated in their present condition.

PUBLICATIONS. We have received from Mr. N. Hickman, agent,

The Knickerbocker for June. We have so frequently spoken in praise of this periodical that it may suffice to say that the present number equals in interest those which have preceded it. The work is worthy of patronage.

Bentley's Miscellany, for May. This number contains the continuation of Guy Fawkes, and various other matters in the perusal of which an hour or two can be passed very agreeably. It is edited by W. H. Ainsworth, illustrated by Cruikshanks and other artists.

History of the French Revolution, by M. A. Thiers. This History will be comprised in sixty numbers of 28 pages each—price 12½ cents per number. Besides the strictly historical details, it will also embrace a variety of anecdotes and notes from authentic sources. The present is a specimen number. An impartial and correct history of the extraordinary events during the revolution in France will be favorably received by the public, and the distinguished talents of the author afford the assurance that the work has been written with care and ability.

From Messrs. Knight & Colburn.—No. 6 of Barnaby Rudge by Boz, with illustrations.—The celebrity of the author will insure ready readers for his productions, and Barnaby Rudge will pass through many a fair hand, and rivet the attention of many a sparkling eye.

From Mr. Taylor, North street.—The Dollar Magazine—Edited by N. P. Willis and H. H. Weld; both excellent writers. The man who subscribes for this magazine will get his money's worth.

MR. FOSTER. The benefit of this gentleman takes place at the Front street Theatre to-night, when a variety of novel entertainments will be presented to the public, amongst them the grand drama of "St. George and the Dragon," and the juvenile pantomime of "Cinderella." Had Mr. Foster no claims on the public, the bill would be sufficient to insure a full house. He is industrious and indefatigable in the discharge of his duty—there is, in all probability, no person in the country more capable of producing dramatic spectacles than himself, and the public have had convincing proof of his tact in the production of the Naiad Queen, Napoleon and St. George, pieces which required immense labor and expense to bring out in proper style. We have every reason for believing that Mr. Foster's benefit will prove at once flattering and profitable to him, and agreeable to those who visit the Theatre.

SHINPLASTERS. Mr. John Clark has favored the public with a new and beautiful issue of shinplasters, of the denominations of one and two dollars. They are made redeemable in rail road orders, or their equivalent in Baltimore Bank Notes. This is certainly an act of kindness in Mr. Clark, for which the citizens of Baltimore should be grateful. Those who are in possession of rail road orders, and doubt the responsibility of the security pledged for their redemption, can exchange them for Mr. Clark's new currency!—This is truly the age of humbug, shinplasters, robbed banks, and unpunished rogues. But, if the public will tolerate individual notes as a currency, Mr. Clark has as much right as another to issue them, especially as he has, so far, redeemed them on presentation. We are opposed to the whole system, as liable to great abuse and imposition. "A burnt child dreads the fire."

MR. RUSSELL. This celebrated vocalist is to give another Concert at the Saloon of the Assembly Rooms to-night. The hundreds that attended his last Concert were delighted with his songs, and have expressed their admiration in the warmest terms. We have been informed that the "Requiem" announced for this evening is a fine piece of composition, and is sung with thrilling effect by the composer.

WASHINGTON, June 2, 1841.

Last evening, on motion of Mr. Adams, a resolution was adopted providing for the appointment of a committee consisting of one member from each state, on the part of the House, to act with a similar committee on the part of the Senate, in devising the best means of expressing the deep sorrow of Congress for the death of the late President. Also that so much of the President's Message as refers to that melancholy event, be referred to the said committee.

This morning, the Speaker announced the names of the following gentlemen appointed to act on the Committee on the part of the House, viz: Messrs. Adams, of Mass.; Fessenden, Maine; Alberton, N. H.; Tillinghast, R. I.; T. W. Williams, Conn.; H. Everett, Vt.; Greig, N. Y.; W. C. Johnson, Md; Talliafero, Va.; Campbell, S. C.; L. Williams, N. C.; Dawson, Ga.; Pope, Ky.; A. V. Brown, Penn.; Mason, Ohio; E. D. White, La.; Miller, Missouri; Wallau, Ia.; Cross, Ark.; Rodney, Del.; Sergeant, Penn.; Ayerigg, N. J.; J. M. Howard, Michigan.

Mr. Cooper of Penn. then rose, and in a most impressive manner, announced the death of his late colleague, the Hon. Chas. Ogle of that State.

The House then passed the usual resolution for wearing crape for 30 days, and then adjourned, to meet again at eleven A. M. to-morrow.

The Senate has been engaged for some hours in balloting for Chairmen of the Standing Committees.

On Foreign Affairs—Mr. Rives, of Va.
On Finance—Mr. Clay.
On Naval Affairs—Mr. Mangum.
On Military Affairs—Mr. Preston.
On Commerce—Mr. Huntington.
On Manufactures—Mr. Evans.
On the Militia—Mr. Phelps.
On Agriculture—Mr. Linn.

KICKING IN THE FACE. Yesterday afternoon, an express extraordinary was sent in from Howard's Park to the Police Office, bearing despatches to those in authority there, that a Mr. F. S. had wilfully, maliciously and ungallantly gotten into a quarrel with his lady-love, had kicked her unmercifully in the face, and in all probability had endangered her life. Officers were immediately sent out, who found the parties, though not so hostile as they had expected to find them. The woman's face, it is true, had been horribly mangled, but a change had come over their vengeance. They settled their dispute amicably, and were found wending their way homeward, arm in arm, talking love, romance and every thing that the poet could fancy as being congenial to uninterrupted affection.

BRADDEE, THE MAIL ROBBER. Our correspondent at Pittsburg informs us that this notorious individual was brought out for trial on the 29th ult. and given up by his securities; the testimony having alarmed them. Several witnesses on the part of the Government were examined, the strongest of which, was Thayer. He come out and told all—said that Braddee told him the precise way and manner he robbed the mail, and that when he got on a mail bag it made his knife laugh!

An old gentleman near Morganstown, (Va.) was examined, and proves that he received a sum of money from Braddee, which money was produced in Court, and identified by a witness from St. Louis, as the very money he had mailed a few days before the robbery. The testimony is quite sufficient to convict him—and more is still to come.

LIEUT. HUNTER'S EXPERIMENT. It is stated in the Norfolk Beacon of the 1st, that Lieut. Hunter, of the U. S. Navy, after having made two successful excursions to and upon the Dismal Swamp Canal in the boat recently constructed at the Gosport Navy Yard, for the purpose of more fully testing the principle of horizontal submerged water wheels, has left our harbor under orders from the Secretary of the Navy, for Washington city.

The opinion is prevalent that this improvement will be of the most eminent naval and military advantage. The Beacon remarks: "We expect to be enabled shortly to spread before the public, the most ample testimony in relation to this triumph of American genius.

SUPPOSED TO BE LOST. The Boston Transcript informs us that the schooner Hernandez, Capt. John Lewis, sailed from Cuba on the 26th of April, having on board as passengers Mr. Philo N. Martin, by whom she was chartered and freighted, Mr. Charles Abernethy, lady, two children, nurse and maid, of Connecticut; and fearful is the apprehension that all have perished, as she had no more than twelve days water or provisions and was spoken nine days out three hundred miles to the eastward of the Gulf Stream and in the latitude of Delaware. Nothing has been heard of her.

POLICE. An individual calling himself Thomas Rogers, was on Tuesday arrested and brought before Justice Barnard, charged with having in his possession some of the money belonging to the Frederick County Bank. The circumstances which led to his arrest were hardly of a nature, we should suppose, to justify his detention, but as considerable feeling exists in this community in relation to the robbery of the bank in question, the magistrate deemed it advisable to commit him to prison for further examination.—Patriot.

KILLED HIMSELF. A man named Christain Easterday, of this city, put an end to his life yesterday morning by stabbing himself. He was an Englishman, about 32 years of age, and a gunsmith by trade. An inquest was held over the body by Seth Pollard, coroner. Verdict of the jury according to the facts of the case.

FUNERAL OF COM. CLAXTON. A correspondent of the Boston Transcript, dated Valparaiso, March 12th, thus writes:

"I this day attended the funeral of Com. Claxton, who died on board the Constitution last Sunday on her passage from Talcahuana. It was a splendid funeral. There was a detachment of Marines from the Constitution, and also from H. B. M. ship President. Most of the officers of the different vessels here attended, and all the foreign residents, besides many Chilians of distinction. There were also about two hundred sailors from the Constitution. Minute guns were fired from the different vessels in the harbors, and all the vessels had their colors half mast. After the old gentleman was buried the American Marines fired three rounds over his grave, and then fell back, and the English Marines came forward and fired three more. They both looked and behaved remarkably well. After they had gone through with the firing the band struck up a quick march, and then all marched out and 'left him alone in his glory.'"

For the Baltimore Clipper.

Messrs. Editors:—I would through the means of your valuable paper, respectfully call the attention of the Board of Health to the condition of an alley, running from Mulberry towards Franklin street, between Green and Paca. The mud is about a foot deep in it—and some of the occupants of buildings in the alley have built up a pig sty, which during this hot weather is a great nuisance to the neighborhood. Is there no remedy for these evils? I hope the gentlemen of the board will pay some attention to this matter. Yours,

CARLOS.

STATE COLONIZATION CONVENTION. In order that our citizens may be generally made acquainted with the fact, we will state for their information, that the Maryland State Colonization convention, will convene this day, at 11 o'clock, A. M. at the Light street Church. It is hoped that this all-absorbing subject will, upon the present occasion, receive an impetus which will cause it to march onward in glorious triumph.

STEAMBOAT DISASTER. The steamer Maryland was burnt to the water's edge, recently at the mouth of Licking river. The flames made such rapid progress, that four men, who slept on board, narrowly escaped with their lives, by jumping overboard and swimming ashore. The boat, of course, is a total loss. She was built at Brownsville, Pa. four years since at an expense of $17,000.

GOOD THINGS IN SEASON. We have an abundance of strawberries, cherries, peas, &c. &c. in market now; and the vegetable market, generally speaking, is rich and tempting. The fine warm weather we have recently had has had a tendency to invigorate the young plants and ripen the early fruit. Let Nature alone, and she will manage her affairs rightly.

EFFECTS OF LOVE AND COWARDICE. Two young squibs belonging to Clear Spring, Washington County, Md. crossed over into Virginia, on Tuesday last, with their respective friends, for the purpose of settling by cowardly combat a love-sick affair. The difficulty was settled without spilling any useless blood, and the boobies permitted to go back to their mammas.

ROBBERY. A lady from the Island of Jamaica, putting up at Jones' Hotel, Philadelphia, was robbed of $3000 worth of Jewelry, on Thursday the 27th. The articles were taken from the room she occupied. Two of the servants were arrested on suspicion of having committed the larceny, but after a hearing were discharged, there being no evidence at all against them.

HORRIBLE. A writer in the Glasgow Argus, who signs himself "A Clergyman of the established Church of Scotland," asserts that "it is no exaggeration to say, because it can be demonstrated, that the Corn Laws bring to a premature grave at least 20,000 persons annually in Great Britain."

CHEAP TRAVELLING. There is considerable competition now between the two rail road and steamboat lines from Boston to New York. The fare for the whole distance via Stonington is only $2. By way of the Norwich and Worcester Rail road, $3. A person may now go from Hartford to Boston via New York for four dollars.

FIRE IN WORCESTER. The Boston Transcript states the hat store of J. B. Tyler & Co. the shoe stores of Larkin & Bemis and J. B. Southgate & Co. and the tailor shop of Francis W. Eaton, in Worcester, Mass. were destroyed by fire on Sunday night.

BENJAMIN AMES, who was lately tried at St. Louis, for the murder of Daniel Brady, has been found guilty of murder in the fourth degree. The prisoner was discharged on bail until the following day, when his sentence was to be pronounced by the court.

☞ The beautiful Fanny departed yesterday morning for Philadelphia. There were plenty of the mostache and imperial around the cars.—We have been informed that she will dance at the Front-st. Theatre in July next. She had better go farther north.

MURDER. The body of Mr. Hiram Noble, of Berlin, Ct. was found on the Berlin Turnpike last week, bearing evidences of his having been murdered and robbed.

THE MASSACHUSETTS TEMPERANCE SOCIETY have an office, where drunkards picked up in the streets are conveyed and taken care of, and means adopted for their reformation. The reformed inebriates amount to 1,600.

ACCIDENT. A youth 15 years of age, son of the Rev. Mr. Jno. Beattie, of Buffalo, was drowned while bathing in the canal at Lockport on Thursday.

THE SHIP NEVA, which left Liverpool on the 8th of April, saw on the 13th of the same month, in lat. 50.34, long. 12.53, a large steamship standing S. E. [Probably the Caledonia, which arrived at Liverpool on the 15th.]—Jour. of Com.

A CARD. POSITIVELY THE LAST NIGHT BUT TWO. Mr JOSEPH FOSTER, Arranger and Producer of the Grand Spectacle of St. George and the Dragon, presents his respectful compliments to the ladies, gentlemen, and public generally of Baltimore, and in announcing his Benefit for THURSDAY EVENING, June 3d, ventures to assert that the selections made for the occasion will prove more attractive than any previous entertainment ever placed before the Baltimore public. The performances will commence precisely at half past 7 o'clock, with the magnificent spectacle of St. George and the Dragon—after which, Levi North, the pride of America and the most wonderful Equestrian in the world, will appear in two New Acts. The Grand Fairy Ballet of Cinderella will be performed by the surprising Juvenile Company, and the whole will conclude with (for this night only) a Comic Pantomime, of a strange and whimsical construction, embracing the introduction of three Harlequins, three Columbines, and three Pantaloons, with all the fun, laughter, and frolic attendant upon such a combination. Notwithstanding the variety of entertainments, they will be so arranged as to conclude about half past 11 o'clock. je1-3t

MEMORANDA.

The ship Gustava, Capt. Riemers, of and for Bremen, which left this port on Sunday last, was run aground the next morning, about 7 o'clock, on the elbow of the middle ground about 10 miles distant from Cape Henry, the weather fine and the wind fair, and ebb tide. A pilot boat soon after came alongside—the pilot of the Gustava (Mr. Foster) jumped on board of her and deserted the ship in that situation, although desired to remain. Capt. Riemers induced one of the other pilots to come on board and take the ship into the Roads. Capt. R. then proceeded to Norfolk, to get hands to repair the rudder, which was the principal damage sustained, and the ship would probably proceed on her voyage after a few days detention. The conduct of Mr. Foster (the pilot) on this occasion is severely censured by Capt. Riemers, and also by the passengers on board the ship.

Brig Erie, Gunby, from Baltimore bound to Rio de Janeiro, went to sea 30th ult.

The Semi Annual examination of the Students of this Institution, took place on the 8th ult., in presence of the Trustees, and a number of literary gentlemen.

The Trustees have again the pleasure to express their approbation of the general management of the School under its talented principal, and that they take this occasion to say, that the Institution deserves a full share of public patronage. The discipline of the School is strict, yet enforced by mild measures.—Every attention is paid to the morals, improvements and comfort of the pupils. The health in Bel-Air in which the Academy is situated, is unsurpassed by that of any other location in the State, and the moral department of the inhabitants is all that can be desired by the most fastidious.

The duties of the School were resumed on Monday the 31 of May last. The scholastic year is divided into two sessions of five months and one week each.

CONCERT.

MR. H. RUSSELL will give a GRAND CONCERT at the Assembly Rooms, Fayette street, on THURSDAY EVENING, 3d inst. at 8 o'clock, on which occasion Mr. R. will sing some of his latest compositions, that have met with great applause in New York, Boston, and Philadelphia.

PROGRAMME.—PART I.

Song—"Our way across the Mountain, ho!" Russell.
New Song—"The Old Night Lamp." (from Scenes of a desolate bed chamber,) Russell.
"Many a tale doth the night lamp know,
Of secret sorrow and lonely woe."
Song—"The Old Bell," Russell.
"For full five hundred years I've swung in my old grey turret high."
Song—"The Wreck of the Mexico," (a description of the wreck of the vessel.) Russell.
REQUIEM on the Death of Gen. Harrison—
By desire—words by G. P. Morris, Russell.
Weep—for a spirit fled!—
The solemn word is spoken!
Weep—for the silver thread
And Golden bowl are broken!
A warrior lived—a Christian died!—
Sorrow should slumber in our pride!
Go—bring his battle blade!
His helmet and his plume!
And be his trophies laid
Beside him in the tomb!
Where files of time-marked veterans,
With martial tramp and muffled drum.
Give to the earth his frame!—
'Twas born but to decay;—
Not so his deathless name!
That cannot pass away!
In youth, in manhood, and in age,
He dignified his country's page.
Green be the willow bough
Where sleeps the hero now
In consecrated ground,
His monument his fame endears—
His epitaph—A NATION'S TEARS.
National Refrain—Our Native Song, Russell.
The National Air of Yankee Doodle will be introduced.
"Self exiled from our place of birth,
To climes more fragrant bright and gay,
The memory of our own fair earth
May chance awhile and fade away;
But should some minstrel echo fall,
On chords that breathe Columbia's fame,
Our souls will burn, our spirits yearn,
True to the land we love and claim.
The high—the low—in weal or woe,
Be sure there's something coldly wrong
About the heart that does not glow
To hear its own—its Native Song."
Song—"The Old Sexton,"—Words by P. Benjamin, Russell.
"Nigh to a grave that was newly made,
Leaned a Sexton old, on his earth worn spade;
His work was done and he paused to wait
The funeral train through the open gate;
A relic of bye-gone days was he,
And his locks were white as the foamy sea;
And these words came from his lips so thin,
'I gather them in! I gather them in!'" &c.
Song—"The Maniac"—words partly by Monk Lewis, Russell.

The above description of a Scene in a Mad House is founded on fact. "Some years since, a gentleman of large fortune was taken to a Mad House, and there confined seven feet under ground. The persons that accompanied him took oath to those entrusted with the care of the establishment to the fact of his being a maniac. The more the poor fellow implored for his release, the more forcibly were the keepers convinced of his madness. The treatment he received while thus confined, affected his reason and he became frantic, and shortly died from the effect. The strangers that carried him to the Mad House were supposed to have been hired by some brutal relatives, who, at his death, were to come in possession of his property.

PART II.

Song—Rockaway"—words by J. H. Sharpe, Russell.
"On old Long Island's sea girt shore,
Many an hour I've wiled away."
New Ballad—My Mother's Bible, founded on a passage in every day life, (words by G. P. Morris,) Russell.
This book is all that's left me now!
Tears will unbidden start!
With faltering lip and throbbing brow,
I press it to my heart!
For many generations passed,
Here is our family tree!
My mother's hand this bible clasped—
She, dying, gave it me.
Ah! well do I remember those
Whose names these records bear!
Who round the hearth-stone used to close
After the evening prayer;
And speak of what this volume said,
In tones my heart would thrill—
Though they are with the silent dead,
Here they are living still!
Song Descriptive—The Gambler's Wife—(The words written expressly for Mr. Russell, by Dr. Reynold Coates,) Russell.
Dark is the night! How dark! No light! No fire!
Cold on the hearth the last faint sparks expire!
Shivering the watches by the cradle side,
For him who pledged her love! Last year a Bride.
Hark! 'Tis his footsteps! No! 'tis gone!
Tic! Tic! How wearily the time rolls on!
Why should he leave me thus? He once was kind;
And I believed 'twould last! How mad! how blind!
Rest thee, my babe! rest on!—'tis hunger's cry!
Sleep! for there is no food!—the fount is dry!
Famine and cold their wearying work have done!
My heart must break!—and thou, my child—hush!
The clock strikes one!—&c.

This song is designed to represent the feelings of a young wife and mother, under circumstances sufficiently common to warrant the assertion that it is founded on fact, without exaggeration. It represents the Gambler's Wife and Child, deserted by their natural protector, in the extreme of poverty and starvation, for the PLEASURE of play. The fire expires—the energies of life sink from want of food, and the mother vainly strives to hope in the midst of despair, appealing to the past with the memory of the bride, while vainly endeavoring to sooth her child with the energy of a mother's love, until the infant dies in her arms, and her heart is broken. The current of her feelings is interrupted only by the peal of the clock, and at the third hour the scene closes; while Time strides onward in its monotonous march, regardless as the world of the issue.

Ballad—Woodman, spare that tree—(Words by G. P. Morris,) Russell.
Song—The Old Arm Chair—(words by Eliza Cook,) Russell.
"I love it, I love it, and who shall dare
To chide me for loving that old Arm Chair."
Comic Italian Song—"O, concete gia meglio di me." Rossini.

Describing a person entering a Cafe, and addressing a deaf waiter, who brings every dish but the one asked for.

SELLING OFF TO CLOSE BUSINESS!
AT No. 77 MARKET STREET.
This is no Humbug to catch Customers.

JOHN BERGER & CO. intending shortly to close their business, at No. 77 Baltimore street, think it due to themselves to state that when they advertise SELLING OFF AT COST, it is not a mere sham so much in vogue now, to attract custom—but that having other objects in view, they are compelled to close up their business in a very short time, and to do so with as little sacrifice as possible, they now offer their well selected stock at Wholesale and Retail, at COST, for cash. Our Stock is bought mostly at auction, at the ruinous low prices at which goods have been sacrificed this season, and selling them at first cost! Purchasers may rest assured to get Bargains.

P. S. Any person wishing to enter the Dry Goods business and to procure one of the best "Retail" stands in town, will find it to their advantage to call and see us soon. Remember the name and No.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

MORE OF THE McLEOD CORRESPONDENCE. By the politeness of Hon. E. J. Porter, of the Assembly, we have been favored with the whole of the correspondence transmitted to that body by the Governor in reference to McLeod. The most important part of it, viz. that wherein the Governor vindicates the rights and honor of the State has already been prescuted to the public. But in looking over all the documents we find two or three other points worthy of notice.

In the first place with regard to the visit of Gen. Scott at the time the trial was to have taken place at Lockport—some objections were made to it on the ground that it was an improper interference on the part of the federal government. We stated at the time that beyond all doubt he was ordered to the frontier for the purpose of being ready to repel any invasion that might be attempted from Canada with a view of releasing the prisoner by force. It now appears that this opinion was strictly correct. The gallant General was the bearer of a letter from the Secretary of War to the Governor stating that he was authorised to call for such portion of the militia of the State as would enable him to carry out his instructions. And from those instructions, which were also submitted to the Governor, it appears that "the President was apprehensive of an attempt to invade a portion of this state from the adjoining British Provinces.

There is one other point to notice in which we regret to say the Governor appears to much less advantage than in his able letter to Mr. Forsyth. It is in relation to Mr. Spencer's acting as counsel for the accused while holding the office of United States District Attorney. We were surprised at the remarks of some newspapers upon this subject, and thought they exhibited a very childish degree of squeamishness. We did not suppose that the Governor had told the President of the naughty attorney. But it seems that he did, and complained of its presenting the unseemly aspect of a conflict between the Federal Government and that of this State. To this complaint President Tyler very coolly replies that, so far as he is informed, Mr. Spencer acts entirely in his private capacity as a practising attorney of the state of New York, in consequence of a retainer, which dates back previous to his appointment as District Attorney, and that in this he is sure the Governor will see nothing unseemly, &c. Mr. Spencer will not, therefore, be turned out of office in consequence of the assaults made upon him in this respect. The reply of the President is a severe, though probably not intended, rebuke, which would somewhat wound the sensitiveness of a vain man. Whether the Governor is exposed in this respect is not for us to say. But we regret that he thought it necessary to complain upon such frivolous grounds of Mr. Spencer, whose appointment to the office which he holds has been received with approbation by all parties.—N. Y. Sun.

KEOKUK KILLED. By a passenger in the steamboat Sarah Ann, says the St. Louis Argus, we learn that the Chief of the Sauks and Fox Indians, Keokuk, was killed by Nashieskock, (Black Hawk's son,) a few days since. The difficulty originated relative to the distribution of the monies paid the Indians by the General Government. There has been a deadly feud existing in that tribe for some time and a great jealousy of Keokuk.

CAUGHT HIM NICELY. A burglar in attempting to plunder the store of Davis & Cary, Commission Merchants, New York, was nicely caught, just when in the act of breaking open the iron chest, and taken to his own place, the prison. He gave his name as Frederick Watson—stated that he did not know how he got into the store. He may have thought probably that he was taking a part in Somnambula.

BURNING OF THE NATIONAL THEATRE. It is said that numerous affidavits have been taken in New York as to the facts and circumstances attending the burning of the National. One of the persons now under arrest is anxious to turn state's evidence, and disclose fully the facts. It has not as yet been determined as to the propriety of admitting the proposed disclosures.

THE RELIEF BILL. We understand that some eminent members of the Philadelphia Bar have, at the solicitation of various of the City Banks, given written opinions on the question of the constitutionality of the Relief Bill: and that they have concurred in the opinion that it was UNCONSTITUTIONAL, and that the notes authorized by it are Bills of Credit, within the prohibition of the Federal Constitution.—Ledger.

A BREAK. On Friday night the "tide lock" on the Delaware and Raritan canal gave way.—In consequence of this accident, its navigation has been interrupted ever since. Upwards of 100 vessels, it is said, have accumulated, awaiting the opening of the canal; the repairs are nearly concluded.

ARRIVALS FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES. The Journal of Commerce says 17,887 passengers had arrived at that port from foreign countries since the 1st of January last. During the whole of last year there arrived no less than 62,797 passengers from foreign countries. Year before last, 48,152.

WHEAT IN MICHIGAN. According to the census, Michigan, in 1839 produced five hundred and fifty thousand more bushels of wheat than the five states of Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont together.

FEARFUL APPREHENSION. The ship William Brown, of Philadelphia, which sailed from Liverpool on the 16th March for Philadelphia, has been out 76 days, without having been heard from.—Considerable anxiety is manifested for her safety.

The Norfolk Herald says that "the announcement of the sailing of the Brandywine on the 26th, in one of the New York papers, was premature; we learn that she will probably not sail earlier than the 8th or 10th of June."

SHIP LAUNCH. A large ship of 650 tons burthen will be launched from the ship yard of Messrs. John A. Robb & Co., lower end of Thames street, F. P. this morning, at 11 o'clock.

ARRESTED. The thief who robbed the ticket office in Beverly, a few days ago, has been arrested. He is said to be a lad about 14 years old.—He entered the office by climbing into a window.

☞The trial of the St. Louis murderers, commenced in the criminal court at that place, on the 29th ult.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 20 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation,

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever and ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From Captain FARRISH, who commenced to use them when diseased in August, 1839.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 2, 1840.

☞To DR. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I have had experience in the virtue of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,

E. FARRISH.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.

DR. WM. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been laboring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. Yours, respectfully, JOHN DYE.

We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, know our neighbour, Mr. Dye, said him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true. Respectfully,

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

UNITED STATES MAIL LINE,

DAILY TO THE SOUTH, Sunday's excepted.

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that in accordance with the New Mail Arrangement, the Boats composing their line, viz: ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, will, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 26th of May, leave the lower end of Spear's wharf daily, (Sunday's excepted,) at nine o'clock, A. M. for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va.

Passengers for Charleston will find the cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, on the wharf, on their arrival at Portsmouth, ready to convey them to Weldon, N. C., where they will always arrive in time to take the cars for Wilmington, from which point to Charleston is by the Steamboat, which leaves Wilmington immediately after the Passengers are delivered from the cars.

Passengers for Richmond, Petersburg, or intermediate points on James River, by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, will sleep on board the Bay Boat and be transferred to the James River Boat next morning.

The Steamboat Fox leaves the Black Water station on the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars from Portsmouth, for Edenton and Plymouth, N. C., and returns every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, delivering her passengers to the cars as they pass down from Weldon, enabling them to arrive in Baltimore next day, (Sundays excepted.)

RETURNING, one of the above Boats will leave Norfolk every night (Saturday being excepted) at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departing from Portsmouth.

Should the Boat get an early start from Portsmouth, Passengers for Philadelphia and New York will have the opportunity of being placed on board the Philadelphia Steamboat in the Patapsco River, and will arrive in Philadelphia the same night by 11 o'clock, after having travelled 300 miles in 20 hours, without as much fatigue as would be incurred in walking from the Hotel to the wharf.

☞No freight will be forwarded on the day it is lost, unless it is alongside, prior to 8 o'clock, A. M.

JNO. C. MCALE, General Agent,

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.

GREAT SOUTHERN

UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,

DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

☞Bear in mind, that Passengers who go by the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, have 40 miles of Rail Road travelling through the DISMAL SWAMP at midnight, over one of the worst Rail Roads in America, and then are often compelled to lay over 17 hours at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 9 A. M., they proceed, without one moment's delay, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and often one day in advance of any other Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	12 P.M.	reach Baltimore	6 A.M.
" Baltimore	9 A.M.	" Washington	11 A.M.
" Washington	11 A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	6 P.M.
" Fred'ksburg	6 P.M.	" Richmond	11 P.M.
" Richmond	11 P.M.	" Petersburg	3 A.M.
" Petersburg	5 A.M.	" Weldon	6 A.M.
" Weldon	7 A.M.	" Charleston on the next morning.

Passengers by this Line not only reach Charleston ONE DAY SOONER than by the Bay boats but they avoid being compelled to remain all night at Weldon, on the Roanoke, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole southern country, where, by the Bay Line, they are often delayed seventeen hours.

Passengers for Richmond and Petersburg will find this Line for the most expeditious, arriving at Richmond to lodge, (as will be seen from the above Schedule,) on the evening of the day on which they leave Baltimore, being from 15 to 18 hours in advance of those taking the Bay Steam Boats.

☞This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. Fare lower than any other line. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of

STOCKTON, FALLS & CO.
Adjoining the Philadelphia Rail Road Office,

VOLUME IV.] FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 4, 1841. [NUMBER 72.

ARRIVAL OF THE ACADIA AT BOSTON.

FIFTEEN DAYS LATER.

Boston, June 2d, 4 o'clock, P. M.

The British Royal Mail Steamship Acadia, arrived at the Cunard wharf this morning, at 1 o'clock, and took us somewhat by surprise.

She has proved herself worthy of her fame; having made the passage in thirteen days and a half. She left Liverpool on the 19th and has had good weather most of the time; having seen only one iceberg.

The steamship Columbia arrived at Liverpool on the 15th, having made the passage in 15 days.

THE STEMSHIP PRESIDENT HAD NOT ARRIVED, and no certain tidings had been obtained from her. Every breeze from the broad Atlantic, to the anxious watchers, gave signs of woe that all was lost. Every hope was abandoned to despair.

THE STEAMER PRESIDENT. The schooner Corsair, capt. Morisey, has arrived at Halifax, from Fortune Bay, N. F. in seven days. The Corsair reports that six days before sailing, a boat belonging to Fortune Bay arrived there from St. Pierre, the skipper of which reported that a vessel from France arrived at that Island, which had picked up the captain and sixteen seamen of an American steamer, and had reported that fifty-six other persons, who had been in the steamer, were lost; the said vessel had foundered in consequence of running foul of an iceberg; the skipper stated that he had seen the captain of the steamer at St. Pierre.

LONDON, May 18.

THE PRESIDENT STEAMSHIP. Up to yesterday (Sunday) afternoon, no tidings of the steamship President, Lieutenant Roberts, R.N. commander, had been received by the British and American Steam Navigation Company, at their office in Billiter-square, Billiter-st.

The following reports have been received:

"Cove of Cork, May 12.

"The Columbia Packet, Capt. Garrett, from Montevideo, which place she left on the 27th of Jan. for Antwerp, has come in here, and Capt. Garrett reports that 10 days since, 2d inst. in lon. 18, he saw at some distance a large steamer, bound for the eastward, and which appeared to him to be disabled, as she was going very slowly and could hardly keep way with his vessel. As night came on he lost sight of her, and two days afterwards experienced a heavy gale to the eastward. The apparently disabled ship was so far from him that he cannot describe her appearance further than she was a large steamer."

Captain Garrett had not heard that the President was missing until asked by the gentleman (George Wright, Esq.) surveyor to Lloyd's who was good enough to favor us with these particulars.

An advance of from 1 1-2 to 2d per lb. has taken place in tea in the London market.

GREAT BRITAIN. The business in the manufacturing towns still continues dull, and a great many workmen were out of employ.

The principal subject of excitement was the proposed repeal of the corn laws; but no definite action was had on the subject in Parliament.

Lord John Russell has announced his scale of corn duties to be substituted for the present protecting law. It is as follows:

On wheat 8s. per quarter.
On rye 5s.
On barley 4s. 6d.
On oats 3s. 4d.

FRANCE. The Court of Peers closed on Tuesday its secret deliberation on the affair relative to the attempt against the King's life on the 15th of October.

Two corporals belonging to the 25th Regiment, quartered at Kysees, near Agen, fought a duel a few days ago with swords. They wounded each other at the same moment so severely that one died on the spot, and the other's life is despaired of.

SPAIN. News from Madrid to the 8th had been received. The Chamber assembled on that day for the election of a Regent, and Espartero was chosen on the first ballot.

Some serious disturbances had taken place in Zamora in consequence of the resistance of the population to the collection of the municipal taxes. Brigadier general Zurbano, an ex-smuggler, and formerly a brigand of the Ebro, had marched from Valladolid to put down the insurrection.

On the 2d was celebrated the anniversary festival of the rising of the Spaniards against the French in 1803.

ALGIERS. The Toutanuais of the 9th instant, brings intelligence of fresh massacres committed by the Arabs in the environs of Algiers.

CHINA. An express in anticipation of the overland mail, arrived in London on the 6th ult. from which we learn that the China difficulty is still unsettled. Capt. Elliot is severely censured by the English opposition papers for his dilatory conduct.

The trade had not been re-opened on the 3d of February, as agreed upon, and every thing was still in uncertainty. Keshen and Capt. Elliot were humbugging one another; but it is said the Canton authorities were not pleased with the arrangement and there was a rumor of Keshen being about to be superceded.—Some think that a final settlement will not be obtained without further hostilities.

The smuggling of teas was active and easy, the article bad and dear. Two ships for London were nearly laden with them.

LOSS OF THE WILLIAM BROWN.

DREADFUL SHIPWRECK. Havre, May 10.—The Louis Philippe, New York packet ship, has this moment arrived. Information having reached the town that some shipwrecked seamen were on board, the report became general that they belonged to the President, and the excitement was beyond all description. On the arrival in dock, however, a strong body of the gendarmerie were in waiting, and immediately took into custody the mate and eight of the crew of the ship William Brown, bound from Liverpool to Philadelphia, which was sunk by an iceberg in the latter part of last month. It appears, when the vessel struck, thirty-three passengers, the mate, and eight of the crew took to the long boat; the captain, three of the crew and eleven passengers took to the jolly boat; all the rest sunk with the vessel. The boats parted in the night. Some days after the mate and crew determined, (as they say,) in order to lighten the boat to throw seventeen of the passengers overboard, which they accomplished, and some of the most horrid and revolting scenes took place.—Some clung to the sides of the boat, praying for mercy; but their hands were cut off, and they were pushed into the deep. Fifteen ladies and two men remained in the boat. One hour after this massacre the Crescent fell in with the boat, and saved the survivors of this horrid deed. The passengers remained on board the Crescent; the crew arrived in the Ville de Lyon; they are now under examination before the American consul. The result I will not fail to communicate to you; but you may rely on what I have already stated. The jolly boat has not been heard from. The dates of the Ville de Lyon have been anticipated by the Acadia.—Morning Post.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

EXTRAORDINARY FIELDS OF ICE. An extract of a letter written by Capt. Hoskins, commander of the Great Western, states that extraordinary fields of ice have been seen in various parts of the Atlantic. Some of them were a mile in length and 200 feet in height.

MR. POWER, it is said, had $30,000 in specie on board the President when she left America, being the product of land which he had bought from time to time with his earnings in this country, and which he had sold previous to his departure, with the intention of consolidating his pecuniary means in the English funds.

A DEFAULTER. The Glasgow Herald quotes from the Edinburgh Post a report of the disappearance of a government official, a defaulter of £10,0000. His income was £2000 a-year.

THEFTS. Several servants in post offices in London have recently been committed for purloining letters containing money.

NARROW ESCAPE. On the 18th of April, as the Princess Wilhelmina of Prussia was playing with her governess at a window of the palace, she overbalanced herself and fell out, but was providentially caught by a journeyman shoemaker, who, observing her danger, ran rapidly and she fell into his arms.

DEATHS. Admiral Sir Lawrence Halsted, G. D. B., died on Thursday, 6th May, at Plymouth, at an advanced age, after a glorious career of upwards of sixty years in the service of his country.

The Right Rev. Robert Carr, Bishop of Worcester, died on Saturday, 8th May.

Thomas Barnes, Esq. for many years well known as the principal editor of the London Times, died during the second week in May.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET, May 15. To-day's demand for cotton has been very dull, only about 1,500 bags of all kinds having been sold. Prices are without alteration.

Monday, May 17. To-day's sales of Cotton amount to 2500 bags. There has been a larger attendance of the trade than usual, but they have shewn no inclination to buy more than their immediate necessities require. Prices are without alteration.

MANCHESTER, May 14. As it is quite impossible to give correctly the price of Cloth or Yarns, we can only say that, low as things were on Tuesday, the gloom then existing, if any thing, increased, as well as prices further receded. Goods are now so pressed upon the market, that the decline is uncertain, though, since Tuesday se'night, it may be stated at 2 1-2 to 5 per cent.

HAVRE COTTON MARKET. By the French papers of the 14th and 15th inst. which came to hand this morning, we see that cotton at the Havre market on Thursday and Friday last, was again of heavy sale though prices were pretty well maintained. The transactions during those two days were restricted to 180 bales Louisiana at 78f to 110f; 77 Georgia at 90f to 100f; 20 Mobile at 101f. and 24 bales of Florida at 91f.

FOREIGN MARKETS. The accounts from the South of Europe represent the Wheat trade as excessively dull at the principal ports in the Mediterranean. A letter from Ancona, dated the 21st April, states that the price of Wheat had there fallen to 3os. per qr. free on board, and even at this low figure few buyers could be found. The freight to England was 3s. 9d. per qr. for wheat, and 10 per cent. primage. Indian Corn was procurable there at equal to 16s. per qr. free on board. At Trieste, on the 21st ult., there was nothing whatever doing in Grain for export. At Dantzic, on the 1st inst., an improved inquiry had been experienced for Wheat at about former rates.

LONDON TRADE REPORT.

MONDAY EVENING. In produce there was little passing to-day, buyers for the most part waiting for the large public sales declared for this week; prices, however, were firm for most articles. The arrivals were to a fair extent. The deliverances from the warehouses of goods, keep to a fair extent.

TEAS. The demand was dull to day for free teas but prices were steady. Company's Congou was however lower, 1s. 8 1-2d. taken for cash.

FALSE PRIDE.

Messrs. Editors:—Happening the other afternoon to stroll a short distance from the busy city, in order to enjoy the fresh breeze and the quiet so peculiar to the country, I had indulged for some time in the contemplation of Nature in all her beauty, when my attention was called off from a subject so elevating to one of every-day life, by a conversation between two ladies, both of whom seemed too much interested to notice the proximity of a third person, and a stranger. The elderly lady was censuring her companion for receiving attention from a gentleman who had the misfortune to have learned a trade, by which he was enabled to support himself genteely without running in debt, and also to indulge himself in the innocent and social pleasures of polite society. The young lady defended with warmth the character of her friend, although she insisted his attentions were not particular.

This conversation, Messrs. Editors, which I had heard, or rather overheard, led me to reflect deeply upon the subject of PRIDE. I would ask you if in any part of the world a man ought not to be respected and entitled to the name of gentleman if his character and conduct is such as befit that name, without any regard to the means he may choose to adopt for his support, or even to the possible obscurity of his birth? This, we know, is not the case in Europe; but in our Republic, are not the contrary sentiments at once unjust, disgraceful to our nature and a libel upon our government?

We admit the pleasure of following some of the liberal or learned professions, as also the superior one of tracing our descent from an illustrious source; but if a man is debarred these, is it not of itself sufficient, without making them a subject of reproach, and the mill-stone that is to drag him down, and forever prevent him from obtaining a standing in those circles which he is perhaps better fitted to adorn, than many whose hereditary standing is all that gains them admission?

In fine, is not the humble hod-carrier, who toils unceasingly at his laborious task, and limits his expenses to his daily wages, more truly honorable and deserving of respect, than the merchant who lives far beyond his income, and at last defrauds his creditors LEGALLY, by taking the benefit of the insolvent act? It may be said, that all persons engaged in business are liable to sudden and unexpected losses—losses impossible to foresee—such of course command our warmest sympathy—but when one who is only NOMINALLY a merchant or professional man, contracts debts which he knows his income does not justify, we contend that he is far beneath the lowest mechanic whom he may have defrauded, and for whom he affects so much sovereign contempt.

ONE WHO IS NOT A MECHANIC.

The steamship Caledonia, Capt. McKellar, left Boston at 2 o'clock, on Tuesday afternoon, for Halifax and Liverpool, with 101 passengers, of whom 18 will stop at Halifax, and all the vacant berths will be occupied by passengers who will be taken on board there. She carries out TEN THOUSAND TWO HUNDRED letters and six bags full of news-papers. Among the passengers are Bishops Doane and Mead, who are travelling in pursuit of health.

GOOD. We recommend the following to the attention of our readers:—Non-conductors of newspapers, who talk so wisely about the manner in which they ought to be conducted, might possibly find it to their advantage to treasure up in their memory the words following:—"No one understands how a newspaper should be conducted so well as some modest individuals who never managed a paper in all their lives. They understand all about it."

SALE OF THE PARK THEATRE. This Theatre and properties, says the New York Tattler, were on Tuesday last put up at auction—but few persons were present, and the whole business was got through with, as Zeke Jones might say, in pretty considerable darned short order, no doubt by previous arrangement. Two bidders only appeared, Mr. Blake, the treasurer, and the agent of Messrs. Astor & Beekman, the proprietors, to whom the whole concern was knocked down for $4000. It is expected that the house will open with Fanny Elssler, in about three weeks from this, but under whose management is not known.

NARROW ESCAPE. A colored girl, while walking near the canal in the vicinity of Richmond, having a small child in her arms, was accidentally precipitated into the water, together with her charge. As fortune would have it, a young man who was near enough to see the perilous situation of the girl and child, immediately sprang to their relief, and was instrumental in saving the lives of both.

RELIGIOUS TOLERANCE. The Court of Sessions in the City of New York, is composed of three Judges, one a Protestant, the second a Catholic, and the third an Israelite.

A BOSTON WIDOW. The Boston Post states that a fashionable widow in that city says she thinks of suing some gentleman for a breach of promise, in order that the world may know that she is in the market.

☞ The dead body of a man was found on the 30th ult. not far from Richmond, Va. From all appearances he had been murdered. A severe stab was discovered in the neck.

A BUSINESS COURT. During the session of the New York Supreme Court, which terminated on the 3d ult. a Calendar containing more than 300 cases was disposed of.

TRUSTEES SALE of valuable real estate in the city of Baltimore. By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court of Maryland, the undersigned as Trustee, will expose to sale at auction on WEDNESDAY, the ninth day of June next, commencing at 9 o'clock, A. M. on the premises

ALL THAT VALUABLE PROPERTY heretofore conveyed by William Russell to the trustees for the poor of Baltimore City and County, by indenture bearing date on or about the fifteenth day of June seventy-n hundred and ninety-two, and recorded amongst the land records of Baltimore County Court in liber W. G., No. K. K., folio 4 &c., and which in said deed is described as follows, viz—Beginning for the same at the intersection of Biddle and Price sts., and on the west side of said Biddle street, and running and bounding on the west side of said Biddle street north forty-four degrees, east forty eight perches and the half of a perch, then north fifty two and one half degrees, west thirty four perches to a parcel of ground heretofore sold to a certain William Gibson by the said William Russell, then running and bounding on said ground south forty four degrees, west forty four perches to Price street, then bounding on said street south easterly thirty four perches to the place of beginning, containing nine acres and one half of an acre and thirteen square perches of land more or less.

The above property adjoins the Rose Hill estate and is in the neighborhood of the outer Depot of the Baltimore and Susquehana Rail Road; it lies beyond the limits of direct taxation and is exempt from the payment of City Taxes; the whole property will be divided into a large number of Lots of such dimensions as will enable those of moderate means to become purchasers. Madison street, which forms its Southern boundary, has been well paved along its entire front and beyond, and has been built upon up to Biddle st., which forms the Eastern Boundary, Morris Alley, Gibson street, Jordan Alley, and Gordon street, pass thro' it from east to west. A better opportunity than the present rarely occurs either for investment or speculation, especially when the very liberal terms of payment are taken into consideration.

The terms of sale prescribed by the decree are that the purchasers shall pay one-sixth cash, one sixth in ninety days, one sixth in six months, one-sixth in nine months, one-sixth in twelve months, and one-sixth in fifteen months from the day of sale, the credit instalments to be secured by notes with one or more sureties to be approved by the Trustee and to bear interest from the day of sale.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND,

For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Strictures, Diabetes or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the uretha of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance! One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. Also, of L. S. THOMAS, corner of Briton and Forest streets—with full directions accompanying each bottle at $1 per bottle.

FASHIONABLE BOOTS.

W. L. McCAULEY, Gentlemen's FASHIONABLE BOOT MAKER, No. 6 LOMBARD STREET, cor. of Franklin Lane, near South-st., makes BOOTS at $3.50 per pair, and Foots them for $2.75, of the very best Leather and Workmanship. Being a Practical Boot Maker, and Inventor of the Pegged Cork Sole BOOTS, which have given so much satisfaction to the wearer, gentlemen may rely on getting good and handsome work. Give me a call, and I will endeavor to please, for my Boots shall be behind none in this or any other city. [ap21-1(] W. L. McCAULEY.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 4, 1841.

☞FOREIGN NEWS. We are especially indebted to the polite attention of the editors of the Philadelphia Daily Chronicle, for copies of Boston, New York and Philadelphia extras, containing all the late interesting foreign intelligence by the steamer Acadia, at Boston, fifteen days later from England, which were forwarded to us by last night's train of cars. See steamship head on our first page.

NATIVE AMERICAN SOCIETIES. It would seem, from some comments in the St. Louis Pennant, that we have been mistaken in the object of these associations, and that they have no design to exclude foreigners from the benefit of naturalization. We drew our inference entirely from the articles which we read in the Pennant, and are happy to learn that they were erroneous. The editor of that print may rest assured that we would not be guilty of intentionally misrepresenting his views, or those of the associations which he advocates; and we are gratified that he acquits us on this score. In his last paper he has a long editorial on this subject, in which he states, that the establishment of the St. Patrick, St. Andrews, St. George and German Societies, is for political purposes; and that they are brought to bear, as combinations, upon elections. We know nothing of the operations of these societies out of the city of Baltimore; but here their object has always been understood to be very different; and we are certain that they have never undertaken to act as political bodies. They are composed of men of different political sentiments, who unite for laudable and humane purposes. We stated heretofore, that they assist emigrants who may require aid. To this the editor of the Pennant replies:—"What 'assistance' does the emigrant require, beyond what is granted by our laws, and shared alike by himself and the natives of the country?" We think that a little reflection would have convinced the editor that there are a variety of ways in which an emigrant may require assistance on his arrival in this country. If he possess the funds to purchase lands, and be desirous to settle down as a cultivator of the soil, information as to the most advantageous location may be necessary to his future prosperity, and this, we believe, is furnished by these societies. If the emgirant be a mechanic, or desire employment of any description, the society of his countrymen aid him in procuring work. If he need funds, it is possible that they furnish him to a limited extent, so as to prevent his suffering. In all this we can discover nothing censurable—but on the contrary, it is praiseworthy and humane. It is doing as we would be done by.

But the editor of the Pennant objects, that Germans settle in communities, and perpetuate their language and their prejudices. We think it natural that they should be disposed to settle where they can make themselves understood; and we cannot see cause of alarm in this proceeding. Few come among us with such strong prepossessions in favor of the government and laws of Fatherland, as to be hostile to our institutions—for they would scarcely leave home and all its endearments, and venture upon an unknown and distant scene, if they were not borne down by the hand of oppression. It is generally to escape from the tyranny of rulers, that men are induced to emigrate.

We should condemn the societies which have been mentioned, were they to be converted into political bodies; but even in that case, we should apprehend no danger to the republic—for they never could co-operate so as to become formidable. They would pull adverse ways; and the influence of one would destroy that of the other.

The Pennant contains a notice from the Native American Society of Missouri, stating that certain descriptions of naturalized citizens, will be admitted to full membership. Why not then, strike out the word "Native," and let these associations be simply American? This would unite all who are in favor of maintaining the republican institutions of the country; and remove the odium of a distinction, which has too exclusive a character. An American Society, thus composed of all denominations of citizens, could effectually overcome combinations for anti-republican purposes; and with such an association we would cheerfully unite ourselves.

We act upon broad principles which cannot be shaken by the facts detailed in the Pennant. The misconduct of a few, should not bring the condemnation of the whole. The editor of the Pennant may be right in his censure of the particular acts to which he refers, and yet the principles we maintain remain unimpaired.

CORRESPONDENCE. The National Intelligencer of yesterday contains the correspondence between Mr. Fox, British Minister, and Mr. Webster, Secretary of State, on the McLeod affair.—The letter of the latter covers the whole ground in discussion, and lays down the law as applicable to the present condition of McLeod, as an offender against the laws of the land; but, as between the two governments, relieving McLeod from individual responsibility. It is an able document, and will do Mr. Webster and the country credit. It will be read with great pleasure by those who desire to see the rights and honor of the country maintained with dignity and firmness.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Clipper.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 3d, 3½ P. M.

The news by the steamer Acadia has just arrived, the particulars of which you will receive by the papers. The President steamer is unquestionably lost, and none are left to tell the melancholy tale.

By this arrival we also receive the melancholy intelligence of the loss of the ship William Brown, on her passage from Liverpool to this port.

The jury in the case of Eldridge came into court this morning and stated that it was impossible for them to agree upon a verdict.—They were accordingly discharged by his honor judge Barton. It is believed there were for conviction 8, for acquittal 4. The supposition is that a requisition will be made by the governor of New York, and that he will be sent there for trial on other charges.

Two fires occurred here this morning, but not much damage was done by either. The first was in Third street above Chesnut, and the other near Front and Pine streets. Respectfully, yours, C.

STEAMER PRESIDENT. Every expedient is adopted in these days to raise the wind. Yesterday a man came to our office, who represented himself as having been a seaman on board the President. He stated that, after being out thirteen days, struggling against a severe storm, which commenced on the second day after her departure, she struck against an iceberg, on the banks of New Foundland, at about two o'clock in the morning, and went down in 8 or 10 minutes. Himself and another hand let down and jumped into a boat, into which they also took a lady. The rest of the crew and passengers perished. After being in the boat about 48 hours, they were rescued by the brig Nero, from London to Philadelphia, and arrived at the latter port three days since, from whence he came to Baltimore on foot. This is his story; but on being closely interrogated, we proved it to be entirely false; for he stated, among other things, that the President was lost during the past month. He was intoxicated, and we presume, fabricated the story to levy contributions, as he asked pecuniary aid.

HYPOCRISY. We have heard of Satan preaching against sin—but that does not exhibit as much hypocrisy as the newspaper editor who affects to be the regulator of the public morals—who dwells on the enormity of "assignation houses," and pretends to have discovered that there is little or no virtue among the wives and daughters of Baltimore—and yet is detected in an act, of which a pickpocket would be ashamed. Under the guidance of such a being we are not likely to have public morals improved, or common honesty respected. It would be something new under the Sun, to have the most abandoned profligates recognised as the mentors of Society. It would be to reduce morality and virtue to a par with villainy and debauchery.

A MUSICIAN TURNED LAWYER.—A DISCORD AMONG THE HARMONISTS. A case was yesterday brought before Squire McDonald, the purport of which is as follows:

Mr. N. was engaged to perform in a certain orchestra, by Mr. M. at the salary of $9 per week. M. proved treacherous to his bargain, for which N. called him to an account before the august tribunal of justice. A Mr. D. well known in the musical world, perceiving the injustice which was about to be practised upon Mr. N. very politely proffered his services as his counsel, and plead the case with no ordinary degree of tact. "This, your Honor," said the counsellor D, "is a plain case, and harmonizes with every principle of law and justice; I have only to regret that M should be so flat. This, gentlemen, has caused the discord between the two parties. In order to keep pace with time these days, a man must have a sharp look-out. This, as you are aware, is perfectly natural." Various other arguments were introduced by the learned gentleman to show the justness of his client's claim. The decision was given, according to the arguments of metamorphosed attorney general D.

"LOOK BEFORE YOU LEAP." As the driver of a cart was in the act of leaping carelessly from it, yesterday morning, in Pratt street, opposite the head of the Basin, he lost his balance, and was precipitated under the wheel which passed over both his legs, but, fortunately for him, the cart being light, he escaped any more serious injury than some severe bruises and contusions received in the fall. He will doubtless, take care next time to pay more regard to the maxim which heads this article.

RAILROAD TOLLS. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company have now under consideration the propriety, as well as expediency, of reducing the present rate of tolls on certain portions of the road between this city and Winchester, with the laudable desire, as we are pleased to learn, of securing to Baltimore the receipts of much valuable produce at present diverted to other markets.—Patriot.

DESPERATION. The Philadelphia Chronicle of yesterday, in the most unequivocal terms, charges the agent of the Philadelphia Ledger and Baltimore Sun with throwing their extras containing the President's Message off the express car, while on their way to Philadelphia. This exposes an act of villainy too contemptuous for language to express. We shall publish the exposition of the Chronicle to-morrow.

NATHANIEL P. WILLIS, Esq. has accepted an invitation to deliver a poem before the Linonian Society of Yale College, at its approaching anniversary.

An intemperate man named Levi Clough, living at Lowell, Mass. hanged himself the other day, while intoxicated.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN.

STATE COLONIZATION CONVETION. The delegates from the different counties of the State and the city of Baltimore to the State Colonization Convention assembled yesterday morning in Light street Church, when, on motion, DANIEL MURRAY, Esq. of Anne Arundel county, was called to the chair, and BRANTZ MAYER, Esq., of this city, appointed secretary. The different counties were then called over, and the delegates from each handed in their names as the call proceeded. After the call of the roll, the following letter was read from the Rev. Bishop WAUGH:

Baltimore, June 3, 1841.

J. HALL, Esq.

Sir—I have received your note of the 31st ult. informing me of my appointment to represent the ward in which I reside, in the State Colonization Convention, which will this day assemble in the city. Various considerations, not important to be stated, have induced me to decline the honor of taking a seat in the Convention as a ward delegate, but feeling, as I do, a great interest in the cause of African colonization, and having seen an invitation to the clergy af all the denominations throughout the state of Maryland, to attend the Convention, "and take part in its deliberations as acting members thereof," I will, as far as may be practicable, do myself the pleasure to take a place with my brethren of the ministry who may be in attendance at the Convention, not for any political purpose, but expressly to participate in those deliberations which relate to an enterprise which, in the language of the President of the Maryland State Colonization Society, "claims a high stand among the great moral and religious improvements of the day, and by its operations will be materially instrumental in advancing the great work of evangelizing one of the most important sections of the world." Will you, sir, do me the favor to have this note read at the time of the organization of the Convention. Very respectfully, yours,

B. WAUGH.

A committee of one from each city and county having been appointed to nominate officers for the Convention, that body adjourned until 4 o'clock, p. m.

The Convention re-assembled at four o'clock, when the proceedings were opened with prayer by the Rev. Mr. Wilson, after which the committee appointed in the forenoon reported the following named gentlemen as the permanent officers of the Convention:

President. John Nelson, Esq. of Baltimore city.

Vice Presidents. Rev. John Mines, of Montgomery; Otho Scott, Esq. of Harford; John G. Chapman, Esq. of Charles; Dr. A. C. Thompson; of Dorchester; Gen. Thomas Emory, of Queen Anne's; Gen. T. Tilghman, of Talbot; A. B. Pigman, Esq. of Alleghany; Wm. H. Tuck, Esq. of Prince George's county.

Secretaries. Brantz Mayer and Hugh Davey Evans, Esqs. of Baltimore city.

A communication, in printed form, addressed to the President and members of the Convention by the Board of Managers of the Maryland State Colonization Society, was then presented by J. H. B. Latrobe, Esq. and read by one of the Secretaries. This communication developes some startling facts in regard to the rapid increase of the colored population in this state. For instance, in 1790, the proportion of the free colored population to that of the white was, in Baltimore city, as one to every thirty-seven; in 1840 the ratio was as one to every four and a half; in Harford the population has increased since 1790 from one to every fourteen to one to every four and three-fourths; in Montgomery, from one to every thirty-nine to one to every six and three-fourths. We have not room to give an abstract here of the relative proportion in the other counties, but may remark that the increase shewn in the report throughout the state since the year 1790, is so great as fully to justify the society in calling upon the citizens of the state generally to treat this important subject with the attention it demands.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Chapman, that the communication should be referred to a committee of one from each county and city, with instructions to report on the subject at the sitting of the Convention to-morrow morning. The resolution was seconded by J. H. B. Latrobe, Esq. in a speech of much eloquence and ability, in the course of which several pleasing facts were given illustrating the happy and prosperous condition of the colony at Cape Palmas, founded by the Maryland State Colonization Society. The resolution was carried. The committee was then appointed by the chair.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Yellot, of Harford, requiring each member of the Convention to assist in increasing the circulation of the Colonization Journal, which, after some remarks by the mover and Mr. Latrobe, was carried.

Mr. Thomas Wilson, of Baltimore city, then rose, and after stating to the Convention that the ladies of Baltimore had established a school in Liberia which they support entirely by their own exertions, that they a felt deep interest, he believed, in the proceedings of this Convention, and he therefore moved that the galleries of the church be appropriated to the use of the ladies, and that they be invited to attend the deliberations of this Convention, which motion was unanimously carried, so that we trust to-day to see the galleries graced with the presence of many of our fair readers.

Upon motion, the Convention then adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock.

SPLENDID LAUNCH. We witnessed yesterday morning the launch of a magnificent ship called the Isabella, from the yard of Messrs. Robb & Co. She is a splendidly built vessel of nearly 700 tons burthen, cut for the fastest kind of sailing. Messrs. Alexander Brown & Sons are the owners.—She will be commanded by Capt. Graham. We defy the world to beat our Baltimore mechanics.

FOSTER'S BENEFIT last night at the Front street Theatre was a rusher. The house was crowded from pit to gallery. This is doing the right thing. Foster is deserving, and knows well how to reciprocate favors.

WHIG STATE GUBERNATORIAL CONVENTION. The delegates composing the Convention charged with the duty of nominating a Whig Candidate for the Gubernatorial Chair of Maryland, met yesterday morning in the spacious Saloon of the Law Buildings in this city. The meeting was called to order by Chas. H. Pitts, Esq., upon whose motion, Gen. THOMAS EMORY, of Queen Anne's county, was chosen as Chairman; and, upon motion of Gen. S. C. Leakin, WM. H. WATSON, Esq., of Balt., was appointed Secretary.—The roll having been called, it appeared that each county and city was fully represented. A motion was made and carried, that a committee of one from each county and city in the State should be appointed to nominate officers to preside over the deliberations of the Convention.—The committee having retired, returned and reported to the meeting that they had selected as permanent officers of the Convention, the following named gentlemen, viz:—GOV. SAM'L SPRIGG, of Prince George's county, President; Gen. I. HOLLINGSWORTH, of Washington county, and Gen. TENCH TILGHMAN, of Talbot, as Vice Presidents, and WM. H. WATSON, Esq., of Balt., and ALPHEUS BEALL, Esq., of Alleghany, as Secretaries, which selection met the unanimous approval of the Convention. After the officers had taken their seats, some little discussion took place as to the number of delegates each county was entitled to have, some one or two of the counties, it appeared, not being fully satisfied whether their representation in the Convention was to be regulated by the number of delegates to which they were entitled at the last session of the Legislature, or the number they will be entitled to at the next session by their increase of population, empowered their delegates to present this question before the Convention, and, if necessary, to fill up the delegation. The mooted point was settled by a resolution that the ratio of representation from each county and city should be considered as determined by the ratio of representation in the last House of Delegates, including the senator. The Convention, then, upon motion to that effect, proceeded to the choice of a candidate, by ballot; and, upon counting the ballots, it was found that WM. CABT JOHNSON, Esq., had received a majority of the whole number of votes cast over the other gentlemen balloted for: Messrs. Richard Potts, John Lee and R. H. Archer; and Mr. Johnson was then declared the unanimous choice of the Convention. Mr. Johnson is at present a representative in Congress from the fifth congressional district, and is a gentleman who has greatly distinguished himself.

Upon motion, the thanks of the members of the Convention were tendered to the officers of the convention for the manner in which they had presided over its deliberations; and the usual resolution of publication having been passed, the Convention terminated its sitting by adjourning sine die.

OUT OF EVIL COMETH GOOD. On the night of the 19th ult., as the reader may remember, an altercation took place at a grocery and liquor store in Columbia street, between James Clifford and James Chesten, which resulted in the latter being shot in the face and severely wounded in several places by the former. The wounded party, as we have subsequently learned, was, in consequence, prostrated upon a bed of sickness for some time, during which he suffered the most excruciating pain. Having time during his illness for reflection, and being made fully sensible that his painful condition was the result of indiscretion, he determined, if Providence permitted his recovery, that he would abandon forever the great agent of his misery. That he would first cause a final separation between himself and the intoxicating bowl. Accordingly after having been almost miraculously rescued from the jaws of death, by the interposing hand of his physician, he went on Wednesday night last, and joined a Temperance society, pledging his faith that he would no longer be a slave to that which had the power of producing so much pain. We learn farther that since the occurrence alluded to, a number of small groggeries in the neighborhood have ceased disposing of liquor, and that those who conducted them have come forward and pledged their honor to temperance. Small incidents sometimes are the means of glorious results. Frequently good springs out of evil. Would that every similar warning could be made as efficient an instrument in arresting the progress of intemperance.

PREMATURE. The Sun of yesterday morning conveys some blundering intelligence relative to the mail arrangements which is altogether unauthorized and therefore untrue. Our Postmaster has received no such orders from the Department. We are aware that it has been contemplated to despatch the Great Southern Mail eastward, immediately upon the arrival of the Washington cars in this city, but no orders to that effect have yet been given to the Postmaster of Baltimore.

CARELESSNESS. If people have locks and keys to their doors, they should lock the doors and put the keys in their pockets, or some safer place. At least so thought one of the watchmen of the Middle District, for he did, on Wednesday night, what the carelessness of some one had left undone; locked the door of Mr. Williams' cabinet shop, and secured the key.

MR. RUSSELL'S CONCERT given last night, at the Assembly Rooms, was the most comfortable crowd of beauty and fashion we have seen for some time. He received thunders of applause.—The audience were, indeed, perfectly enraptured. Mr. Russell has made a decided hit in Baltimore. His merits, however, are unquestionable.

BOUND OVER. Leonidus Calvin, a sable son of Neptune, was yesterday bound over by Squire Jones, for threatening the life of Gillie Ellen, one of the dark complexioned fair.

FORTUNE'S FAVORITES—HEISLER & Co.

☞ Well do these fortunate venders deserve the above title—as the smiles of thousands, who have had their pockets filled for a small outlay at their Lucky Office, can amply testify. In one single week, over $30,000 in Prizes were paid to those who adventured with them. The amount of Prizes, on an average, sold by HEISLER & CO. overpays the amount of all tickets sold by them, and some weeks a clear profit of ten thousand dollars and upwards have fallen into the pockets of the people. On Saturday last, a gentleman from Winchester Va. pocketed $2580 by a small outlay, and on Tuesday last, a lady purchased a ticket comb. Nos 25, 27 30, which came up a prize of $1020. A stream of good luck always attends their office, and those who wish to partake should be careful to purchase at no other place, but only of Fortune's Favorites,

A STOCK OF DRY GOODS,

SELLING OFF TO CLOSE BUSINESS!
AT No. 77 MARKET STREET.

This is no Humbug to catch Customers.

JOHN BERGER & CO. intending shortly to close their business, at No. 77 Baltimore street, think it due to themselves to state that when they advertise SELLING OFF AT COST, it is not a mere sham so much in vogue now, to attract custom—but that having other objects in view, they are compelled to close up their business in a very short time, and to do so with as little sacrifice as possible, they now offer their well selected stock at Wholesale and Retail, at COST, for cash. Our Stock is bought mostly at auction, at the ruinous low prices at which goods have been sacrificed this season, and selling them at first cost! Purchasers may rest assured to get Bargains.

P. S. Any person wishing to enter the Dry Goods business and to procure one of the best "Retail" stands in town, will find it to their advantage to call and see us soon. Remember the name and No.

SALE OF PROPERTY ON PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE. On Saturday Afternoon, 5th inst. at 4 o'clock, I will sell on the premises for cash, without reserve, that valuable piece of Property, fronting 21 feet on the east side of the Avenue, between Union and Preston streets, 4th door north of Union, running back 140 feet to an improved 20 feet alley, fronting on the alley 17 feet, subject to a ground rent of $17 per annum. The improvements consist of a very convenient two story Brick DWELLING, capable of accommodating a large family. A part of it if desired could, at small expense, be converted into a store or other business place. The neighborhood is populous, which would make it a good stand for a Grocery. The lot is handsomely improved with shrubbery, flowers, and very choice fruit. Persons desirous to purchase, can have every information on application at my Auction Rooms.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Clipper.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3, 1841.

In the House of Representatives this morning, Mr. Barnard asked that certain resolutions offered by him on yesterday, providing for the appointment of select committees to consider the principal subject embraced in the message, might be taken up and adopted. After some debate of a constitutional character, the question was put, and decided in the negative.

The resolution of Mr. Wise in relation to the rules of the House, and which resolution had been laid on the table, was then called up. It requires that the Rules of the last House be observed for the next ten days, and that meanwhile a committee be appointed to revise them.

Mr. Adams had moved to ammend by adding "except the 21st (abolition) Rule, which is hereby rescinded;" and the question being on the amendment,

Mr. Wise took the floor against the amendment, and replied to the speech of Mr. Adams on Tuesday. He (Mr. W.) denied that the North was oppressed by the South, as urged by Mr. Adams, and contended that it was just the reverse. The petitions of the North, with the exception of those interfering with the institutions of the South, said Mr. W., are none of them refused; therefore the charge of the gentleman that nine-tenths of the Northern petitions are refused, is true only as far as it relates to that class of petitions. Mr. W. concluded by stating his belief that the present party in power would never consent to the rescinding of the rule in question.

Mr. W. C. Johnson followed against the amendment, and stated that he had received a letter from Mr. Tyler, when the latter was a candidate for the Vice Presidency, in which he expressed his approval of the 21st rule. Therefore, said Mr. J., if this bill be unfortunately rescinded, it cannot be laid to the charge of the Executive.

Mr. J. then most strenuously urged the necessity of postponing all such matters until another time, as the present session had been called for the despatch of other and extraordinary business.

Pending this debate, a communication was received from the Secretary of the Treasury, which among other matters set forth that in his opinion a fiscal agent might be appointed, of such a nature as to be without any constitutional objections.

Mr. Wise offered a resolution calling on the Secretary for his plan, but after taking the question the House adjourned to Monday.

In the Senate a resolution was introduced by Mr. Clay for the repeal of the Independent Treasury law. The learned Senator then gave his views at some length in favor of his proposition, and against the present mode of collecting the public monies.

Mr. Calhoun followed, and defended the present system, and then without taking the question, the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, when the debate will be resumed.

THE WATER CANAL. The Susquehanna Advocate contains a list of eighty-five arrivals of Canal boats at the Basin at Havre-de-Grace, from the 24th to the 30th ult. inclusive, with the following estimate of the different kinds of produce with which they were freighted:—Flour 3818 bbls; Whiskey 536 do; Wheat 12,743 bushels; Rye 1062 do; Corn 2600 do; Oats 1545 do; Flaxseed 31 do; Tobacco 236,746 lbs; Leather 4956 do; Bacon 46,415 do; Lard 4544 do: Butter 560 do; Cheese 519 do; Live Stock 13,400 do; Sundries 8428 do; Lumber 131,600 feet; Bark 62½ cords; Nails 905 kegs; Coal 1186 tons; Pig Iron 502 do; Blooms, Bar Iron and Castings 75 do; Rags 8348 lbs; Hardware 1800 do; and 9000 Staves.

Relative to the increase of business done on th ecanal the Advocate remarks:—"Thousands and thousands of tons of coal and iron will seek this place the coming season, and be transhipped to the place of consumption. The coal and iron business alone will, in a short time, give this place an importance in these branches of trade, which cannot be excelled by any city or port in the United States. Havre-de-Grace must and will become a city."

THE INVESTIGATION relative to the burning of the National Theatre, New York, is still in progress. Thomas Hurd was brought up, and under partial promise of immunity, offered to make disclosures as to the cause of the fire, the names of the parties who induced the commission of the act, &c. Evidence seems to be very strong against Hurd. He, it seems, was seen to go into the Theatre a short time before the flames broke out, by a female named Olivia Swift, who declares herself almost positive as to his identity. The Tattler remarks that the investigation will be continued from day to day until the mystery is fully solved.

The Montreal Transcript states that the gross number of emigrants that had landed at Quebec, on the 25th instant, was 9,000—and twenty more ships were at that time reported. Of these 5,500, as near as may be, had reached Montreal up to Thursday evening. One male emigrant had died on the passage up, on board of the Canada steamer. They still complain from Quebec, that many of those who plead destitution, refuse work at three shillings per day.

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it really to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 92 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY, No. 17 HARRISON ST.

"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office is in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From Captain PARRISH, who commenced to use them when diseased in August, 1839.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 3, 1840.

☞ To DR. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I have had experience in the virtue of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,

E. PARRISH.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.

DR. WM. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been laboring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. Yours, respectfully, JOHN DYE.

We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, know our neighbour, Mr. Dye, sold him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true. Respectfully,

W. & S. B. ANDERSON.

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

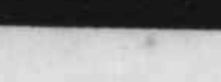
UNITED STATES MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH, Sunday's excepted.
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,



THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that in accordance with the New Mail Arrangement, the Boats composing their line, viz: ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, will, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 26th of May, leave the lower end of Spear's wharf daily, (Sunday's excepted,) at nine o'clock, A. M. for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va.

Passengers for Charleston will find the cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, on the wharf, on their arrival at Portsmouth, ready to convey them to Weldon, N. C., where they will always arrive in time to take the cars for Wilmington, from which point to Charleston is by the Steamboat, which leaves Wilmington immediately after the Passengers are delivered from the cars.

Passengers for Richmond, Petersburg, or intermediate points on James River, by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, will sleep on board the Bay Boat and be transferred to the James River Boat next morning.

The Steamboat Pox leaves the Black Water station on the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars from Portsmouth, for Edenton and Plymouth, N. C., and returns every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, delivering her passengers to the cars as they pass down from Weldon, enabling them to arrive in Baltimore next day, (Sundays excepted.)

RETURNING, one of the above Boats will leave Norfolk every night (Saturday being excepted) at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departing from Portsmouth.

Should the Boat get an early start from Portsmouth, Passengers for Philadelphia and New York will have the opportunity of being placed on board the Philadelphia Steamboat in the Patapsco River, and will arrive in Philadelphia the same night by 11 o'clock, after having travelled 300 miles in 20 hours, without as much fatigue as would be incurred in walking from the Hotel to the wharf.

☞ No freight will be forwarded on the day it is left, unless it is alongside, prior to 8 o'clock, A. M.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

☞ Bear in mind, that Passengers who go by the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, have 40 miles of Rail Road travelling through the DISMAL SWAMP at midnight, over one of the worst Rail Roads in America, and then are often compelled to lay over 17 hours at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 9 A. M., they proceed, without one moment's delay, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and often one day in advance of any other Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	12 P.M.	reach Baltimore	8 A.M.
" Baltimore	9 A.M.	" Washington	11 A.M.
" Washington	11½ A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	6 P.M.
" Fred'sburg	6½ P.M.	" Richmond	11 P.M.
" Richmond	11½ P.M.	" Petersburg	1 A.M.
" Petersburg	1½ A.M.	" Weldon	6½ A.M.
" Weldon	7 A.M.	" Charleston on the next morning.

Passengers by this Line not only reach Charleston ONE DAY SOONER than by the Bay boats but they avoid being compelled to remain all night at Weldon, on the Roanoke, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole southern country, where, by the Bay Line, they are often delayed seventeen hours.

Passengers for Richmond and Petersburg will find this Line far the most expeditious, arriving at Richmond to lodge, (as will be seen from the above Schedule,) on the evening of the day on which they leave Baltimore, being from 16 to 18 hours in advance of those taking the Bay Steam Boats.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va. Fare lower than any other line. For further information and Through Tickets, apply at the office of CONVERSATION COMPARISONS.

Man is the rugged, lofty pine,
That frowns o'er many a wave-beat shore,
Woman's the slender, graceful vine,
Whose curling tendrils round it twine,
And decks its rough bark sweetly o'er.

Man is the rock, whose towering crest,
Nods o'er the mountain's barren side:
Woman's the soft and mossy nest,
That loves to clasp its sterile breast,
And wreath its brow in verdant pride.

Man is the cloud of coming storm,
Dark as the raven's murky plume,
Save where the sun-beam, light and warm,
Of woman's soul and woman's form,
Gleams brightly o'er the gathering gloom.

Yes, lovely sex! to you 'tis given,
To rule our hearts with angel sway,
Blend with each woe a blessful heav'n,
Change earth into an embryo heav'n,
And sweetly smile our cares away.

AN EXTRACT FROM MY JOURNAL. No. 3.

"Who would not brave the battle fire—the wreck
To save the monarch of her peopled deck."

THE BRITISH QUEEN—A SCENE ON BOARD.

It was in the month of November, 1840. The British Queen, one of the largest and strongest steam ships, had been laboring for some days against storms and heavy seas. The waves had been rolling mountains high; the cross seas were breaking on her bows, and the high wind was dead ahead, and every minute the vessel "shipped a sea," pouring tons of water even to the quarter deck. All that skill and activity could effect upon the part of our generous commander,* joined to the tremendous power of our mighty steam engines, could scarcely succeed in preserving our course. The torrents of rain that were thrown down from the lowering sky upon our decks, added to the melancholy gloom of our prospects.

Flushed with the hope of a short passage, we had left the English shores a few days before, amid shouts of joy and with confident anticipations; how changed the scene which a succession of storms, head winds and high seas had brought with them. The anxious looks of the passengers, as the noble vessel rode upon the mountain waves and pitched forward, with a tremendous jar, as if for the last time; or as the foaming water broke upon her prow, threatening to tear asunder every timber in the ship, were living evidences that it was a trying time with all who had trusted themselves on the "great deep." Our commander had been pacing with hurried steps the poop deck for three days successively, (interrupted only by the occasional hour's sleep which nature required,) applying ever and anon the glass to his watchful eye, and looking from time to time at the still cloudy horizon. It was about noon of the fourth day of storm and head winds, that one of the more seaworthy passengers thought he descried at a distance a vessel under "bare poles." The captain's glass added to the information that she had a portion of a sail tied to the mast as a "signal of distress." This news spread among the passengers, and the tidings that a wreck was to be seen at some miles to the windward, were speedily conveyed to the state rooms. In a few minutes all who could summon up strength sufficient were on the upper deck, straining their vision to make out the character of the vessel, and to determine whether any living being was on board the unfortunate wreck. Few remained below—the intense interest excited on board drove away sea sickness, and engrossed every other feeling; the upper deck was crowded. As we moved on, the commander thought he perceived somebody on board waving—judging from the appearance of the head dress, through his telescope, he concluded that this being was a female, and the only living creature on board. For a moment he deliberated with himself whether it would be prudent—indeed, whether it would be safe, with the sea running at that time and a strong wind blowing from the quarter in which the wreck lay, to risk the lives of half a dozen of the best sailors and some of the ship's officers in so dangerous an enterprise, as the doubtful experiment of rescuing a single individual. He who has never been at sea, can have but little conception of the feelings elicited by the appearance of a sail in sight, after some days absence from land, with nothing but the sky and endless ocean to look upon. A deep sense of the mutual and imminent danger to which they are both exposed at every moment, binds them together in sympathy, and they feel as if some safety were derived from their momentary proximity; with longing eyes each passenger follows the bark as she separates from his vessel, and is lost in the distance, and a cast of melancholy shades his brow, as he turns his back upon the last glimpse of her shadow. How much slighter must be the impression he can fancy to himself of the intense anxiety, the deep and oppressive interest which every man on board must feel, when the sail in sight is the sad remnant of a wreck, dashed about at the mercy of wind and wave, with every sea breaking over the lost bulwarks, and washing from the decks every thing valuable to the safety of the unfortunate individuals who may yet be struggling for life. He sees the poor shipwrecked mariner, by the last exertion of his remaining strength, still hoping, make an effort to wave his signal of distress, and prudence, nay humanity, forces him to hesitate whether he ought to risk so fearfully the valuable lives of seven men for the doubtful preservation of one person. His duty almost forbids it!

The hesitation was but momentary: the rising of the steamer on the top of the next wave, satisfied the Captain that there was another human being yet alive on board the wreck, and he ordered the gangway to be cleared, and the life boat lowered. With what noble rivalry did the sailors press towards the weather side of the ship in their desire to be selected to man the Life Boat. The boat was manned; the second officer of the ship jumped on board, and with practised skill she was lowered into the water and cleared in safety. We were about two miles distant from the wreck. The wind was still blowing, the sea raging, and the storm but slightly abated. Not a yard of canvass was to be seen, except one double reefed topsail, required to steady the enormous steamer. The steam itself was suffered to escape, from time to time, as we moved round the wrecked vessel, keeping at about the same distance. As the small boat gradually moved onward, toward the destined object, by the powerful exertions of the sinewy sailors, plying with might and main at their oars, it was lost ever and anon from the sight of the solicitous passengers, as the waves rose and fell. It was painful to behold the anxiety with which those on board watched the Life Boat struggling on. The whole soul of each individual seemed to be wrapt up in the safety of the risked crew, as he leant over the side of the ship and followed with strained eye, their movements. Intensity of pent-up feeling was marked on the countenance of all, a dead silence prevailed, and there was not one amongst that assemblage of passengers, whose feelings were not pure and holy, during the dreadful time of uncertainty from the lowering of the Life Boat to its safe arrival within reach of the wreck, and whose prayers were not silently offered up for the safe and successful return of our bold mariners. By dint of exertion the wreck is made, and then came, as we afterwards learned, the most difficult part of the duty. The poor, unfortunate wretches on the wreck, excited into exertion by the returning hope of safety, passed towards the side in which the Life Boat was coming, and prepared by one desperate and last effort of remaining strength, to jump, in a body on board. To avoid this, which would have inevitably capsized the Life Boat, the ship's officer was obliged to pass under the lee-bow and forbid them through his trumpet, from attempting any such rash movement, under pain of being left to their fate. One by one they were received on the boat; to us, on the steamer, it was the work of an instant, and we saw her leaving the wreck behind nearing the steamer. She approached, and we began to distinguish the men on board.—Five minutes more, and the stifled feelings of an hour's most intense anxiety, burst forth in one loud and universal shout of joy, as five, thin, emaciated and strengthless men were safely placed on the ship's deck. One of them, younger than the rest, the only one whose strength was not completely exhausted, unwilling to wait for the lowering of the steps, and too impatient of once more gaining comparative safety, climbed up the side of the ship. He too was the first to jump on board the Life Boat, and the first who left the steamer at New York. They were carried on the backs of some of our sailors into the forward cabin, and consigned to the care of the ship's doctor. We once more took up our course, and steered for the shores of America.

When the men had sufficiently recovered to be able to converse, they reported themselves to be the captain and four of the crew of the brig Margaret, of Leith, bound from New Brunswick to Scotland, and laden with lumber. They had been lashed to the rigging for fifty-two hours, without food, without raiment, and almost without hope—exposed to every wave that broke over the lost bulwarks, and raging from the unquenched thirst that parched their deeply furrowed tongues. Four of the crew had been drowned when the brig was thrown on her beam ends, by the wave that caused her wrecking.—These unfortunate men added, that two vessels had passed very near to them on the day previous, during the height of the storm—that they had in vain made their signals of distress, which had been unheeded either from incapacity or an unwillingness to risk any thing for their assistance. The captain (poor fellow!) told us that they had in consequence given up all hope, until they saw, at a great distance, the enormous bulk of the large steamer bearing toward them—then a ray of hope burst upon him, and he said to his almost lifeless crew, "My boys, there is a Life Boat for you."

*Lieutenant Roberts, who left New York in command of the unfortunate President—and may God grant his safe arrival in England, in despite of all politics.

A SHOCKING MURDER OF A WOMAN BY HER HUSBAND. An atrocious murder was committed in New York on Tuesday last. The Sun says:—About two o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Coroner was summoned to the corner of 28th street and 3d avenue to an antemortem examination on the body of a Mrs. Russell, who was lying in articulo mortis from a blow with an axe with which she had been struck by her husband, Patrick Russell! On his arrival Dr. Archer found that the information was too true, and the ill-fated woman quite insensible; she was immediately removed to the Bellevue Hospital, and the operation of trephining the skull, which had been horribly fractured in the region of the temporal bone, was performed by Dr. Hyslop in the presence of the Coroner. No hopes however were entertained of the woman's recovery.

It appears that the brother of Mrs. Russell, from whom her husband rented the house which he occupied, had frequently threatened to turn them out of doors, and that Russell had swore that he would kill his brother in law or his wife. About 12 o'clock, Russell ordered two of his nephews who lived with him to leave the room in which he and his wife were, and on their doing so, the wretch immediately seized an axe, and without saying a word, with it felled his wife to the ground! His nephews heard the blow, and supposing that he was breaking the windows, rushed into the apartment, and found the unfortunate woman weltering in her blood, and apparently lifeless. The inhuman murderer immediately made his escape, but was shortly after arrested by some persons who resided in the neighborhood, and conveyed to the upper police office, when he was fully committed.

A BEAUTIFUL SIGHT. Seldom, if ever, was there seen from the heights of Wilmington a more imposing or beautiful sight in the way of shipping in the Delaware, than was exhibited opposite this city last evening—52 sail consisting of Ships, Barques, Brigs, Schooners and Shallops, with all their sails set—were counted by many of our citizens, which with a large brig coming up the Christiana, with other small craft at the same time and all reflected upon by the bright and beautiful rays of a setting sun—presented at one view a scene of life, business and beauty rarely witnessed by our citizens.—Delaware Republican.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE BOARD OF MANAGERS OF THE MARYLAND STATE COLONIZATION SOCIETY. In our report yesterday of the proceedings of the State Colonization Convention, we were compelled, from want of room and time, to omit any particular notice of the highly interesting document, the title of which we have placed at the head of this article; and we therefore propose to examine it more minutely to-day. The report sets out the declaration that the Board of Managers deemed it advisable, (after performing the duty enjoined upon them at the last annual meeting of the State society, held at Annapolis, of appointing a day for the meeting of the present Convention then determined on, and publishing an Address to the people of the State,) to reiterate the facts given at the Annapolis meeting, and to lay before the Convention such other views as have arisen in the interval. Among other things, it is stated that this society is entirely unconnected, at this time, with the American Colonization Society, and that the experience of many years has wrought the conviction that an independent state society would prove more efficient, so far as Maryland is concerned, than the other—that more good could be effected by the concentration, within her own limits, of the efforts of the advocates of colonization in the state, than by any aid afforded by a society bound to aid equally the other states of the union. Further, it was judged better that, when the time should arrive that they would witness that consummation to which the efforts of the colonizationists are directed, the voluntary emigration of the free people of color, Maryland should have an established colony of her own, where emigrants from her borders might resort, without dependence upon colonies where it might become necessary "to apportion the right of immigration." Other reasons also existed—the consideration that the subject was one belonging exclusively to the slave-holding states, any extraneous interference with which was to be deprecated, and that little harmony of action could be hoped for in a society, among the members of which such a difference of views existed as among the northern and southern portions of the general society. These views, the Board state, have induced the state society to adopt and pursue for the last ten years the policy of independent state action upon all matters relative to the colored population of the state.

In February, 1834, the Society purchased the territory of Cape Palmas, since known as "Maryland in Liberia," to which all the emigrants from this State have been sent. The geographical position of this place, it is stated, is considered of great importance, is laid down as being "at the southern extremity of the southwest coast," and as "the point made by all vessels passing to and from the Niger, and the shores of the great Bights of Benin and Biafra." The latest accounts, up to the 12th of March last, give the most favorable views of the happiness and prosperity of the colonists. Coffee, sugar and cotton have been successfully cultivated—the two former so fully as to promise to become staple articles of export. Besides these, the soil will produce any of the vegetables of the tropics; and cattle, game and fish abound throughout the colony. The population is estimated at rather above five hundred emigrants, all of whom went from this state. The officers of the colony are all persons of color, and, so far, have discharged their duties with great propriety. Several schools are maintained by the missionaries, in addition to the one maintained by the society, and one maintained by an association of ladies in this city. The laws for the government of the colony, are stated to consist of "a charter, closely resembling that granted by King Charles to Rhode Island—an ordinance taken mainly from Nathan Dane's ordinance for the government of the northwest territory—and a remedial code prepared with great labor and learning by Hugh D. Evans, Esq. of Baltimore, including forms for processes and instruments likely to be wanted." Under these the colonists enjoy the advantages of a properly regulated form of government. One feature of the charter is given as particularly worthy of notice, that it empowers the government to legislate for the prohibition of the use of ardent spirits; thus embodying in the constitution of the nation, the temperance principle; and it is well deserving of remark and commendation that the colonists themselves cherish with especial care this salutary provision of their constitution. Although surrounded by tribes of natives, an unbroken peace has been maintained with them from the first founding of the settlement, without any diminution of that influence enjoyed by the emigrants in consequence of their superior civilization. Much credit is given by the board to the Missionaries stationed at the colony for the great aid they have rendered in bringing about and preserving the present prosperous state of affairs.—The funds of the Society consist of the State appropriation of $10,000 per annum, together with the contributions of those individuals who are able and willing to aid the cause. The Society have expended in all, up to the first of December last, $127,525 07, of which $76,139 91 have been paid out of the State Colonization fund, while $32,351 62 have been contributed by individuals and by the gain of the trade of the colony. The present debt of the Society is about $8,000, which is inclusive of all probable demands up to the 1st of July, 1841, excluding any advantage which may be derived from the trade of the colony in paying the expenses accruing in Africa.

The communication proceeds to shew that notwithstanding the success of the State Society in the establishment of the colony of "Maryland in Liberia," the great practical advantages of Colonization in this State are yet, in a great measure, to be realized—that the prejudices of the colored race against Colonization, arising from misrepresentations in regard to the colony, or, perchance, with some, from the idle hope of enjoying future social and political equality in this country, must be removed—and that it is necessary that the pecuniary means of the Society should be augmented to enable them to transport more emigrants and make required improvements in the colony before that voluntary emigration can be looked for which may be regarded as the full fruition of the hopes of the friends and advocates of Colonization. The present Convention having been called to accomplish these purposes, the Board express their earnest hope that the deliberations of the Convention will result in producing such a concert of action throughout the State as will awaken the citizens generally to a conviction of the important character of the objects entertained by the Society, and induce them to contribute to its funds, while, at the same time, it may so operate as to remove the prejudices of the free colored population upon this subject. As one of the greatest aids in removing those prejudices the Board suggest the establishment of a regular trade between this State and "Maryland in Liberia."

We have been thus particular in noticing the leading points of the communication from the Board of Managers, because we regard the matters contained therein as of great and growing interest to this community, requiring the earnest consideration and aid of the citizens, not only of our own State, but of the whole country. We subjoin the table shewing the population of the white and free colored population in the several counties in this State in 1790 and 1840:

SUIT TO RECOVER A REWARD FOR THE ARREST OF A PRISONER. A suit was yesterday decided by Thomas Hanson Belt, esq., in reference to a claim made by a constable of the city against the warden of the jail, the circumstances of which are as follows: A prisoner by the name of Augustus Brown, who escaped sometime since from the jail in this city, was arrested and brought back to the city by Henry Worthington, one of the city constables; for which service the said Worthington claimed twenty dollars as a reward and five dollars as expenses; and, upon the refusal of Mr. Disney, the warden of the jail, to pay the claim, this suit was instituted. Upon the trial of the case it was contended by the defendant that Brown was actually arrested first by police officer Duvall, who had been despatched after him under an order from the Mayor; and to prove this fact, Mr. Magraw, from Havre-de-Grace, was examined, who testified that he himself pointed out Brown to Duvall, who proceeded to arrest him, but that while in the very act, Worthington came up and took the prisoner out of his hands, declaring that he was his captive. On the other hand, Brown himself, summoned on the part of the plaintiff, swore positively that Worthington was the first who arrested him, while he was leaning on the rail of the steamboat prior to her leaving for the other side. So far the case had proceeded some days ago, and had been adjourned over until yesterday, when Mr. Henry Cliffe, late clerk of the jail, was summoned on the part of the plaintiff, to settle another disputed point, viz: whether or not any reward had been offered for the arrest of Brown. From the evidence of Mr. Cliffe, it appeared that he was not aware of any reward having been offered in the case then under consideration; but it had always been a rule, which was sanctioned by the board of visiters of the jail, to pay a reward for the arrest and return of a prisoner who had escaped. The reward, when taken at any distance from the city, was usually twenty dollars, in addition to the actual cost of bringing the party back. He did not, however, know what conclusion the present warden had come to upon that subject, as he was no longer clerk of the institution. He received Brown from the hands of Worthington, and receipted for him, but left the office shortly after. At that time W. said nothing to him of reward. Here the examination of witnesses closed; and justice Belt, regarding, as we understood him, the apparent discrepancy which existed between the testimony of Brown himself and that of Magraw, as easily reconciled by the supposition that Worthington might first have captured Brown and afterwards left him for a short space to procure necessary assistance, and that, in his absence, the prisoner might have again been captured by Duvall, gave judgment in favor of the plaintiff for the full amount claimed, from which decision Mr. Disney declared his intention to appeal.

BALTIMORE MARKET, JUNE 4.

FLOUR.—The market for this article during the past week has been rather dull and subjected to a slight decline on last week. We quote Howard street, standard brands, at $5. Wagon price $4.87½. We note sales of Susquehanna at $5—the stock on hand is light. City Mills we quote at $5a5.12½. Rye Flour, $3.37½a3.50.

GRAIN. We quote Pa. reds at 112 a 114 cts. We note sales of white corn at 54 a 55 cts. Rye, Pa. 59 a 60 cts. as per quality. Oats, Md. 38 a 40 cts.; Virginia, do. 33 a 34 cts.

BEEF CATTLE we quote $7.50a$8 per 100 lbs. Live Hogs have been selling at $4.50 per 100 lbs. The article is dull.

PROVISIONS.—There is no alteration to note in the prices of Provisions which remain nominally the same as at the close of last week; the market being well stocked, with little or no demand. Sales of assorted Bacon have been made at 6a6½c on time, Sides 6a6½c, Hams 8a9c., Shoulders 5a5½c.; Mess Pork $12; Mess Beef $12½; Baltimore cured Hams have been sold at 10c.; packed Beef $12.50, &c. as to quality; Western Lard in kegs 7½a8c. In Butter there is very little doing, and no regular quotation price can be fairly obtained.

HEALTH OF NEW ORLEANS. It is stated in the Picayune of the 26th ult. that the city of N. Orleans, thus far in the season, has been remarkably healthy. This may be the case, but we would not advise persons to embark for that region at present. There is policy in all things.

☞A young Creole accidentally shot himself near New Orleans, a short time since. He had been out hunting, and carelessly rested his head upon the muzzle of his gun, resting the other end on the ground. In this position it went off, and blew his head to atoms. How frequently do we hear of accidents resulting from this kind of carelessness, and yet persons will persist.

WRATHY. Bennett of the N. Y. Herald is wrathy because the reporters for his paper were on Monday last excluded from the usual seats and facilities appropriated to such a purpose, by the hon. Sam. Southard, president pro tem. of the United States Senate.

"Round the idea of one's mother the mind of a man clings with a fond affection. It is the first deep thought stamped upon our infant hearts, when yet soft and capable of receiving the most profound impressions, and all the after feelings of the world are more or less light in comparison. I do not know that even in our old age we do not look back to that feeling as the sweetest we have through life. Our passions and our wilfulness may lead us far from the object of our filial love; we learn even to pain her heart, to oppose her wishes, to violate her commands; we may become wild, headstrong, and angry at her counsels or opposition; but when death has stilled her monitory voice, and nothing but calm memory remains to recapitulate her virtues and good deeds, affection, like a flower beaten to the ground by a past storm, raises up her head and smiles amongst her tears.—Round that idea, as we have said, the mind clings with fond affection; and even when the earlier period of our loss forces memory to be silent, fancy takes the place of remembrance, and twines the image of our dead parent with a garland of graces, and beauties, and virtues, which we doubt not that she possessed."

LOOK OUT FOR SWINDLERS. A gentleman purchased a lot of valuable goods of a firm in Washington street, yesterday, and directed them to be sent to the Worcester Rail-road depot, to the care of the baggage-master. When the cartman got near the depot, a lad said to him that the owner of the goods wanted them sent to the Providence Railroad depot, immediately, which was obeyed by the cartman. When he arrived at the Providence depot he enquired for the owner, and another lad told him he saw him a few moments before, and a person was soon after pointed out as the owner, whom the cartman knew was not the purchaser, and declined leaving the goods with him. He finally left them in charge of the baggage master, who took proper care of them until the real owner called and proved them to be his property. The swindler had told the baggage master of the Providence depot, before the cartman arrived, that there would be some goods sent for him, and named the store where they were purchased. It is needless to add, that the owner did not give any orders to change the original direction.—N. Y. Courier.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 5, 1841.

THE OCEAN. This splendid sheet is presented to the reader to-day full of the richest kind of intelligence. With the President's Message, it contains the late Foreign News by the Acadia, together with a variety of choice Tales, Local Intelligence, &c. Copies can be had at the counter, in wrappers or otherwise—price 6 cents.

THE SUN. When men are detected in a dishonorable action, they cannot escape from responsibility by attributing their conduct to oversight or accident. The thief caught with his hand in a person's pocket, might, in like manner, plead accident as an apology for his crime. The proprietors of the Sun, (that bright luminary which sheds its rays over "assignation houses" and like haunts,) acknowledge themselves guilty of having pocketed a letter addressed jointly to the Clipper and the Sun, but plead in extenuation of the mean act, that it was "accidental." If this were an isolated case of misconduct on their part, we might be disposed to accept their apology—but their malignant feelings towards this establishment have been manifested upon other occasions, and their rancor was increased on the day on which they withheld our letter by the fact, that we had received and distributed a large portion of our copies of the President's Message before their snail-paced messenger arrived. This was gall and wormwood to them; and they sought the petty and contemptible revenge, so perfectly in character with their whole conduct, of withholding an advertisement directed to this office. They say that they cannot "bandy infamous epithets" with us—we are too obscure. But they can be guilty of infamous practices, and by such means gain what they no doubt consider an enviable notoriety. That they are more notorious than we either are, or wish to be, we readily concede—for we had rather pass reputably and humbly through life, than to have the finger of scorn and contempt pointed at us as we pass the streets. We desire not the notoriety of the culprit—nor to have that kind of eclat which attends the slanderer of female reputation. What we earn we wish to earn honestly, and with unsoiled fingers—nor shall we ever be guilty of the baseness of assailing individual character that we may be paid for publishing a defence. Our morality has been learned in a different school, and teaches us that such conduct is criminal in the sight of God and man.

In order that the citizens of Baltimore may have a better knowledge of the true characters of the proprietors of the Sun, we copy from the Philadelphia Chronicle, the statement of a transaction in relation to the transmission of the President's message from Baltimore to Philadelphia. It may be necessary to state that the proprietors of the Sun are also the owners of the Public Ledger in Philadelphia.

Whilst on this subject we will enquire by what authority the United States' express conveyed extras for the Sun concern exclusively? and why it was, that the officers of the Baltimore and Philadelphia Rail Road Company permitted an agent of that concern to proceed in the car to Philadelphia, whilst the agent of another paper was denied the privilege? Is that company under the control of the proprietors of the Sun? whence this partiality? Application was made to the proper officer in Baltimore for the same privilege which had been granted to the Sun, but it was peremptorily refused. This needs explanation; for, if it shall be found that any of the officers of that company have lent themselves, knowingly, to this act of injustice, they shall hear from us in language that shall not be misunderstood. It will be seen by the statement from the Philadelphia Chronicle that their bundle of extra messages was placed on the car at the Canton depot; that Mr. Abell, of the Sun, commanded it to be thrown off; that an agent of the Sun went on in the car; and that the Chronicle extras were left behind near Wilmington, and did not reach their destination, whilst those for the Public Ledger were duly received. Were the Chronicle extras thrown off the car? and by whom? It is due to the character of the company that this shall be ascertained and explained. If done by the conductor, he was guilty of an act for which he should be dismissed: if by the agent of the Sun, the public should be made acquainted with the fact. There seems to have been foul play practised by some one, and we demand that the actor shall be exposed.

In our intercourse with the proprietors of other newspapers, we have never failed to observe that courtesy which has been customary with the profession—and we hope we shall not be tempted to deviate from it on any account, more especially from the base motive of inflicting pecuniary injury on another, or dishonorably to add to our own gains. If a new era is to commence among newspaper proprietors, and they are to be assimilated in practice to the felons in the penitentiary—if the usual liberality and courtesy observed amongst them, are to give place to injustice and low-bred chicanery, we shall beg leave to remain adherents of the old school, and hold ourselves aloof from an association which could only bring disgrace and infamy.

From the Philadelphia Daily Chronicle.

THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED—Double Dealing and Foul Play. As we predicted, the very lowest species of chicanery was resorted to, for the purpose of concealing the "extras" [illegible] the day must arrive, when circ[illegible] press train on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Rousham, whom we despatched to Washington for the express purpose of forwarding the Message to us, arrived from Baltimore yesterday, and by him we learn the proceedings that were resorted to by our envious neighbors. For the kindness and attention of Dr. Woodside, Superintendent of the Baltimore and Washington Rail Road, in allowing our agent to come over that portion of the line, we are under great obligations; and to Messrs. Ball & Tuttle, of the "Baltimore Clipper," we know not how to express our acknowledgments, for their gentlemanly aid in farthering our purpose—with them we are not personally acquainted, but cannot regard them in any other light than true and firm friends. The way they managed matters for us, is the strongest proof of their gentlemanly conduct and kindness of disposition. The following which we copy from the Clipper, will give an idea of the way things were done in Baltimore.

Mr. Rousham, who rode in the express wagon with Mr. Woodward, says he never rode behind such a horse, and beside a more expert driver—they went through Lombard street, Baltimore, at the rate of a mile in two minutes—leading the train of expresses—some six or eight in number.

The foregoing will show the public that we did not promise without having used the necessary precaution to effect matters perfectly; and the shameful beat by the "extraordinary" express of Woodward, doubtless caused the disappointment we experienced.

When arrived at Canton, Mr. Rousham deposited his bundle on the tender of the locomotive; when Mr. ABELL, one of the proprietors of the Public Ledger, and Baltimore Sun, gave orders—with what authority we know not—to the firemen, to "throw that bundle off." Now, we ask Mr. Newkirk, President of the line, why this Abell, a man of no character, but entertaining one of the most contemptible and grovelling minds that ever disgraced a Newgate convict, should be allowed to give such an order to a man in the employ of the company over which he presides? We would, also, inquire of Mr. Newkirk why the agent of the Ledger was allowed to come on to this city with the express, and Mr. Rousham positively denied that privilege by Mr. Crawford, the superintendant at the lower end of the line?

These questions we put thus publicly to Mr. Newkirk, from the fact that we personally waited upon him, and asked for whatever privileges others might possess; all of which, he, in his usual gentlemanly and obliging manner, acquiesced in. Does the fault, then, rest with Superintendant Crawford contrary to the wish of Mr. Newkirk?—if so, why is such a man allowed to disabuse his station, and thus tax us with a loss and the public with an enormous extortion, such as that demanded for copies of the "Message," by our neighbor.

We doubt not but the bundle would have been "thrown off" had not Mr. Rousham, personally demanded of this Abell, why he "dared to use such an expression." And, although Mr. Rousham saw the car start with the "messages," they never arrived in this city, but were "thrown off" at, or near Wilmington, as he learnt is coming on yesterday, at the instigation of Abell's agent, who, the Ledger yesterday in a portion of its edition, said "came through."

The rascality and meanness of the whole tribe of persons connected with the Public Ledger of this city, is beyond all precedent—they have not a mite of honorable feeling in their carcases—will resort to anything dishonorable to gain their end, and extort money with a greater gusto than did Shylock—a specimen of which was exhibited on Tuesday afternoon. And the fact, that in a portion of their edition of yesterday, they omitted part of their notice of the receipt of the Message, goes to prove what trickery they will resort to.

The twaddle in that paper yesterday, about arriving in this city ahead of other expresses, was very well when no others were run—had our package arrived, we should have beaten them as we did on the occasion of Harrison's Inaugural—and worse than they were beaten by our Express through the streets of Baltimore on Tuesday. We shall allude to this matter again.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN.

STATE COLONIZATION CONVENTION. The Convention met this morning, at 10 o'clock, and the proceedings having been opened with prayer by the Rev. Mr. Hamner, Mr. Chapman, from the committee appointed yesterday, handed in the report of the committee, accompanied by several resolutions. The report and resolutions were then read by the Secretary; and each resolution being put to vote as it was read, the two first passed without opposition. The third resolution having been read also, and about to be put upon its passage,

Mr. Chapman arose and stated that it was the result of a compromise between those members of the committee who were unfavorable to a compulsory removal of the free colored population of the State, and those who were unfavorable to that measure.

We have not room to give a full abstract of the speeches pro. and con. in reference to this long debated third resolution; but will content ourselves with saying, that after elaborate and eloquent arguments had been advanced on both sides, the Convention adjourned, without taking the question, until five o'clock, P. M.

The following are the resolutions submitted by the Committee.

Resolved, That this Convention look to the removal of the free colored people and manumitted slaves of Maryland, with their own consent, to Africa, as the legitimate object of the Colonization system.

Resolved, That the idea that the colored people will ever obtain social and political equality in this State is wild and mischievous; and, by creating among them hopes that can never be realised, is at war with their own happiness and improvement.

Resolved, That while it is most earnestly hoped that the free colored people of Maryland may see that their best and most permanent interests will be consulted by their emigration from this State; and while this convention would deprecate any hasty departure from the principle which makes colonization dependent upon the voluntary action of the free colored persons themselves,—yet, if regardless of the experience which all past time affords of the impossibility of the harmonious existence in the same land of two independent races that cannot amalgamate—regardless of what has been done in anticipation of the result, to provide them with an asylum—they continue to persist remaining in Maryland, in the vain hope of enjoying here an equality of social and political right—they ought to be solemnly warned that, in the opinion of the Convention, the day must arrive, when circumstances that cannot then be controlled, and which are now maturing, must deprive them of the freedom of choice, and leave them no alternative but removal.

Resolved, That the progress of Colonization enterprise under the direction of the State society has been thus far highly satisfactory; and that the present condition of the Colony at Cape Palmas, affords a happy earnest of the future prosperity of the Africo American commonwealth, on the western coast of Africa, and that the same now offers a home for the free colored people of this State, more desirable than any other place in this country or abroad.

Resolved, That the obligations of the people of Maryland to sustain and cherish the Colony planted by their authority, in the Western coast of Africa, is of a binding nature, and that this Convention recognise the same in their full extent.

Resolved, That the plan of independent State action, with regard to colonization adopted by the State society, pre-eminently recommends itself to all slaveholding States, whose interest and dignity alike require them to repudiate and prevent all extraneous interference with the subject of their colored population.

Resolved, That the establishment of direct commercial intercourse between Baltimore and the Colony at Cape Palmas, is a matter of great importance; and that the delegates to this Convention from the different points of the State pledge themselves to aid the efforts that may be made in their respective counties to procure a regular packet to run between the two points.

Resolved, That for the purpose of diffusing intelligence, raising funds, promoting emigration, and generally keeping alive that interest and active effort in the cause of colonization, which circumstances show to be associated with the public welfare, it be recommended to the people of the State to form, for these purposes, associations auxiliary to the State society, in every town, village and neighborhood.

Resolved, That the delegates to this Convention will use their best exertions to promote the formation of the auxiliary associations above mentioned, and to procure, in each county, at least one hundred members to subscribe five dollars annually for the purposes of the society.

Resolved, That the Board of Managers be requested to aid forthwith through their agents, in the formation of the auxiliary associations in question, and to take measures to distribute through the state as early as practicable, the information that has been laid before this convention.

This resolution was opposed by the Rev. Mr. Emory, who, in a speech of much warmth and eloquence, treated it as inconsistent in its provisions, with the original objects of the Society.—The remarks of Mr. E. led to an animated and able discussion on either side, in which several members of the Convention participated—those members opposed to the resolution contending that the declarations made in it were at variance with the original plan of the State Colonization Society and the friends of that great cause, inimical to its prosperity, and calculated to array against it the great body the free colored population of the State, a result which they considered was to be feared and deprecated. The friends of the resolution on the other hand, contended that there was no threat held out in the language of the resolution, that it contained only an earnest appeal to the free people of color, not to suffer themselves to be blinded and misled by the sophistry and delusive reasoning of the enemies of colonization, awakening vain hopes that the day would arrive when they would be permitted to enjoy the same immunities and privileges as the whites—and warning them that, if they disregarded the advocacy of their true friends, the colonizationists, the time must arrive when circumstances would arise which would compel them to abandon the country, however contrary to their wishes. It was contended that the time had fully arrived for some united, strong and decisive effort, upon the part of the friends of colonization, towards the carrying into effect the great object which they had at heart—the removal of the free people of color from this state.

IN THE AFTERNOON, the Convention re-assembled and was called to order, in the temporary absence of the President, by the Rev. Mr. Mines, one of the Vice Presidents. As soon as the Convention was organized, Mr. Chapman moved to strike out of the third resolution the word "hasty," which was carried.

Mr. Richard Lemmon, of Baltimore, then offered the following substitute for the original resolution, which substitute he advocated in a few brief, but impressive and eloquent remarks:

Resolved, That while it is most earnestly hoped that the free colored people of Maryland may see that their best and most permanent interests will be consulted by their emigration from this state; and while this Convention would deprecate any departure from the principle which makes colonization dependent upon the voluntary action of the free colored people themselves, yet, if regardless of what has been done in anticipation of such result, to provide them with an asylum, they continue to persist in remaining in Maryland in the hope of enjoying here an equality of social and political rights, they ought to be solemnly warned that, in the opinion of the Convention, the day must arrive, when circumstances that cannot then be controlled, and which are now maturing, will deprive them of the freedom of choice, and leave them no alternative but removal.

After Mr. Lemmon had concluded his remarks, the question was taken on the substitute, and, the President not being able to decide upon the first vote, a division was called for. While this call was pending, John H. B. Latrobe, Esq. rose and made a short and earnest speech in favor of the substitute; and, upon the vote being taken again, the substitute was carried.

The fourth, fifth and sixth resolutions were then read and passed without debate. Upon the reading of the seventh resolution, at the suggestion of the Rev. Mr. Emory, that, as it was a resolution of considerable importance, J. H. B. Latrobe, Esq. President of the Board of Managers of the Maryland State Colonization Society, was called upon to re-state to the Convention some facts heretofore mentioned by him, in reference to the prosperity, &c. of the colony, which he did in a lucid and able address, in the course of which he recapitulated many pleasing facts. The address was received with loud applause.

The resolution was then passed without opposition, as were also the eighth and ninth resolutions submitted by the committee.

Upon the reading of the tenth and last resolution, H. B. Pigman, Esq. of Alleghany, offered a substitute for it: when Mr. Chapman, in a few remarks contended for the passage of the tenth resolution, and the adoption of Mr. Pigman's substitute as a distinct proposition. Mr. P. argued to this view, and withdrew the substitute, after which the tenth resolution was passed. After the passage of this resolution Mr. Pigman offered the following resolution, which was carried without question.

Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to the Colonization Society of Maryland, to despatch its agent, or other person, at least twice during a year, to the several auxiliary Colonization Societies which may be formed throughout the state, as a means of engaging the interest of the people of the state in behalf of Colonization.

Mr. Tuck offered the following resolution, which was carried:

Resolved, That for the diffusion of information among the people of color of this state, of the design of the Colonization scheme, and of the condition and prospects of the colony already established at Maryland, in Liberia, agents or missionaries should be employed, at the expense of the state society, from among those emigrants who have already settled there, and realized the hopes which inspired them in seeking an independent government and a happy home in the land of their fathers.

Rev. Mr. Emory then offered the following resolution, which he supported with some remarks, in the course of which he said he was authorized to subscribe upon the part of Dr. Lawrence, of Anne Arundel county, the sum of fifty dollars, toward carrying out the object of this resolution.

Resolved, That a subscription be opened forthwith for the purchase of a packet to ply between this place and Maryland in Liberia.

Rev. Mr. Henshaw offered the following:

Resolved, That the Ministers of the Gospel of the different denominations be requested to take up collections in aid of the funds of the Maryland State Colonization Society, in their respective places of worship, on Saturday, 4th of July next.

Mr. Carey offered the following:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to draft an address to the people of Maryland, on the subject of Colonization,

The committee consists of John L. Carey, Richard H. Lemmon and B. Mayer, Esqrs.

On motion of R. Lemmon, Esq. of Balt., the thanks of the meeting were returned to the officers for the ability with which they had presided over the deliberations of the Convention, and, after a prayer from the Rev. Mr. Henshaw, the Convention adjourned sine die.

CASE OF REPLEVIN. A some what singular case was decided by Squire Gorsuch on Wednesday afternoon. A lady purchased a pair of blinds from a blind maker of this city, the price of which was eight dollars, four dollars of which was paid at the time the articles were delivered. Some few days since the fair purchaser, who had been for some time boarding, determined to change her boarding house; and, having settled with her landlord in full, called a day or two afterwards for her blinds which she had left behind her when she removed, but the proprietor of the house refused to give them up, without assigning any reason for such a course on his part. A day or two afterwards the lady called upon the blind maker to pay him the balance due him, when, to her surprise the first things she saw were the identical blinds belonging to herself. Upon asking how they came there she was told that her former landlord had brought them there; and, stating that they were his, that he had no use for them, and wished to return them, had actually induced the maker of them to return him three dollars, out of the four paid on them. The lady then went to Squire Gorsuch and got out a writ of replevin for her property, but the officer was unable to identify more than one of the blinds, upon which he levied. The blind maker ruled trial for Wednesday afternoon but failed to appear, either in person or by counsel, the magistrate gave judgment in favor of the lady for the recovered blind and four dollars damages.

IMMODERATE DRIVING. George Spencer and Charles McLaughlin, whites, and Jacob Brown, were yesterday arrested and brought before Squire Jones, to answer for a violation of ordinance No. 13, section 4, approved May 25th, 1838, relative to immoderate driving, and, in consideration of its being a first offence, and the parties ignorant of the ordinance, they were fined each one dollar and costs. They will, probably, have more regard for the lives of their horses and the passers by in future.

ODD FELLOWS. Yesterday a very large number of the members of this order turned out to pay the last tribute of respect to the mortal remains of Gotlieb F. Buhre, who was attached to the Wm. Tell Lodge. The ceremonies were peculiarly solemn and imposing. Mr. Buhre had also been a member of the German Guards, a military corps, which company attended his funeral in full uniform.

☞A colored man, calling himself Brown, was arrested in New Orleans, on suspicion of having been one of the St. Louis murders. Upon examination he was, however, found to be innocent.

The real Brown, who had been previously arrested upon the same charge had his trial on the 25th ult., and like Madison, was convicted of murder in the first degree.

A MISERABLE SWINDLER. A fellow named Harwarth, advertised to exhibit the picture of "Death on the Pale Horse" some time since at St. Louis, for the benefit of the widow of young Kimball, the fireman who was accidentally killed at the late lamentable fire in that city. After getting the money into his hands, he absconded with the widow's mite. The finger of scorn should be pointed at the villain all over the land.

GOING AHEAD!

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.

GREAT SOUTHERN

UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,

DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

☞ Bear in mind, that Passengers who go by the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, have 40 miles of Rail Road travelling through the DISMAL SWAMP at midnight, over one of the worst Rail Roads in America, and then are often compelled to lay over 17 hours at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 9 A. M., they proceed, without one moment's delay, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and often one day in advance of any other Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	12 P.M.	reach Baltimore	8 A.M.
" Baltimore	9 A.M.	" Washington	11 A.M.
" Washington	11½ A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	6 P.M.
" Fred'ksburg	6½ P.M.	" Richmond	11 P.M.
" Richmond	11½ P.M.	" Petersburg	1 A.M.
" Petersburg	1½ A.M.	" Weldon	6½ A.M.
" Weldon	7 A.M.	" Charleston on the next morning.

Passengers by this Line not only reach Charleston ONE DAY SOONER than by the Bay boats but they avoid being compelled to remain all night at Weldon, on the Roanoke, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole southern country, where, by the Bay Line, they are often delayed twenty-four hours.

Passengers for Richmond and Petersburg will find this Line far the most expeditious, arriving at Richmond to lodge, (as will be seen from the above Schedule,) on the evening of the day on which they leave Baltimore, being from 16 to 18 hours in advance of those taking the Bay Steam Boats.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va.

Fare to Richmond,	$10.00
Fare to Petersburg,	10.50
Fare to Weldon,	12.50

CONCERT.

MR. H. RUSSELL will give his FAREWELL CONCERT at the Assembly Rooms, Fayette-st. on MONDAY EVENING, 7th instant, at 8 o'clock, on which occasion Mr. R will sing some of his latest compositions, together with a New Song, written by J. H. Hewitt, Esq. entitled "THE DRUNKARD."

PROGRAMME.—PART I.

Song—'I love, I love the free,' Russell.
'The wild stream leaps with headlong leaps.'

Song—'The Old Farm Gate,' Russell.
'Where, where is that gate that used to divide
The old shaded lane from the grassy road side.'

Song—'In the days when we went gipseying, a long time ago'—arranged by Russell.

Song—'The Old School House,' Russell.

Song—Arm, brothers, arm! I've lost my child! the wolf is out. A description of a Wolf Hunt, Russell.

Song—Come brothers, arouse, arouse, Russell.

And the night breeze come sighing so faintly and cool;
Hark! hark! there's a rap—now the iron hinge creeks,
And the drunkard reels in with the flush on his cheeks.

Once more—oh! once more goes the cup to his lips,
And bright glow his eyes while the poison he sips,
And he laughs, loudly laughs—for the jocund and free,
Have gathered around him in mad revelry!

Now tottering—now reeling—now low on the earth,
The reason hath left him that dawned at his birth;
The image of God lies besotted and low,
And he drowns in oblivion the shrill cries of woe.

That home—that sad home! where the night lamp burns dim
The wife of the drunkard waits lonely for him;
She hugs to her bosom her pale, starving child
And lulls him to rest with her melody wild
The hearth hath no fire," &c. &c. &c.

PART II.

National Refrain—Our Native Song, Russell.

The National Air of Yankee Doodle will be introduced.

"Self-exiled from our place of birth,
To climes more fragrant bright and gay,
The memory of our own fair earth
May chance awhile and fade away;
But should some minstrel echo fall,
On chords that breathe Columbia's fame,
Our souls will burn, our spirits yearn,
True to the land we love and claim.
The high—the low—in weal or wo,
Be sure there's something coldly wrong
About the heart that does not glow
To hear its own—its Native Song."

Ballad—We were boys together. The words written by G. P. Morris, Russell.

Song Descriptive—The Gambler's Wife—(The words written expressly for Mr. Russell, by Dr. Reynold Coates,) Russell.

Cold on the hearth the last faint sparks expire!
Shivering the watches by the cradle side,
For him who pledged her love! Last year a Bride.

Hark! 'Tis his footsteps! No! 'tis gone!
Tic! Tic! How wearily the time rolls on!
Why should he leave me thus! He once was kind;
And I believed 'twould last! How mad! how blind!

Rest thee, my babe! rest on!—'tis hunger's cry!
Sleep! for there is no food!—the fount is dry!
Famine and cold their wearying work have done!
My heart must break!—and thou, my child—hush!
The clock strikes one!—&c.

This song is designed to represent the feelings of a young wife and mother, under circumstances sufficiently common to warrant the assertion that it is founded on fact, without exaggeration. It represents the Gambler's Wife and Child, deserted by their natural protector, in the extreme of poverty and starvation, for the PLEASURE of play. The fire expires—the energies of life sink from want of food, and the mother vainly strives to hope in the midst of despair, appealing to the past with the memory of the bride, while vainly endeavoring to sooth her child with the energy of a mother's love, until the infant dies in her arms, and her heart is broken. The current of her feelings is interrupted only by the peal of the clock, and at the third hour the scene closes; while Time strides onward in its monotonous march, regardless as the world of the issue.

Song—'Nature's Fine Old Gentleman," Russell.

"He worships God with inward zeal and serves him in each deed,
He would not blame another's faith, nor have one martyr bleed;
Justice and mercy for his code—he puts his trust in Heaven,
His prayer is, 'if the heart means well, may all else be forgiven.'"

Song—'A life on the Ocean Wave,' Russell.

Song—The Old Arm Chair—(words by Eliza Cook,) Russell.

"I love it, I love it, and who shall dare
To chide me for loving that old Arm Chair."

Song—"Let us be gay,"—a laughing chorus—Bride's Band, Russell.

Comic Italian Song—Largo al' Facotum della cita, Rossini.

☞ TICKETS 50 CENTS each, to be had at the principal Music Stores, and at the door on the evening of performance.

A STOCK OF DRY GOODS,
SELLING OFF TO CLOSE BUSINESS!
AT No. 77 MARKET STREET.

This is no Humbug to catch Customers.

JOHN BERGER & CO. intending shortly to close their business, at No. 77 Baltimore street, think it due to themselves to state that when they advertise SELLING OFF AT COST, it is not a mere sham so much in vogue now, to attract custom—but that having other objects in view, they are compelled to close up their business in a very short time, and to do so with as little sacrifice as possible, they now offer their well selected stock at Wholesale and Retail, at COST, for cash. Our Stock is bought mostly at auction, at the ruinous low prices at which goods have been sacrificed this season, and selling them at first cost! Purchasers may rest assured to get Bargains.

P. S. Any person wishing to enter the Dry Goods business and to possess one of the best "Retail" stands in town, will find it to their advantage to call and see us soon. Remember the name and No.

The s

WASHINGTON, June 4, 1841.

When the English fleet was bearing down upon the French, off Trafalgar, a sailor who was devoutly kneeling by the side of his gun, was asked by an officer if he was afraid.—"Afraid!" replied the tar, "No, I was only praying that the enemy's shot might be distributed in the same proportion as the prize money, the greatest part among the officers." The sailor was about right, and many of our legislators here are also kneeling by their political guns and making the same prayer.—They think those who got up the extra session at this hot time of the year, and who will get the greatest benefit by it, ought to have a proportionate share of the heat. Well, every man in this country can enjoy his own opinion.—The other morning a member from the North told me he was determined to be cooler, and accordingly left off his flannel shirt. Silly fellow, instead of being cooler, he caught a hot fever, and a quack is experimenting upon him and his purse at the same time.

The House was not in session to day; and from the specimen of disorder we had yesterday on the abolition subject, it is evident that members had better go home at once, than continue such scenes. If there be a majority against the discussion of that exciting topic, and we know there is, then why not arrest its agitation at once? Surely some plan can be devised to proceed direct to the business for which Congress has been convened.

In the Senate this morning, Mr. Clay of Kentucky, from the committee on Finance, to whom had been referred a resolution, directing that committee to consider the propriety of repealing the Sub-treasury law, reported a bill to that effect.

The bill repeals the Sub-Treasury law, with the exception of that portion of it which makes it felony to embezzle the public money.

The bill being read a first time was ordered to a second reading.

A debate then arose on the propriety of confining the action of the Senate during the present session, to the business for which Congress was more especially convened. It is understood that on Monday a resolution will be offered designating what particular business shall receive attention.

The Senate then adjourned until Monday; whereon a would be poet of this city was guilty of the following couplet, for which he undoubtedly deserves a tin medal,

I see how the case is,
They're off to the races.

A MIRACLE OF HONESTY. The Boston Mail tells the following. At a party the other evening, several gentlemen contested the honor of having done the most extraordinary thing. A reverend D. D. was appointed to be the sole judge of their respective pretensions. One produced his tailor's bill, with a receipt attached to it; a buz went round the room that this would not be outdone, when a second proved that he had arrested his tailor for money lent to him. The palm is his, was the universal cry; when a third observed, 'Gentlemen, I cannot boast of the feats of either of my predecessors, but I have returned to the owners two umbrellas that they had left at my house.' 'I'll hear no more,' cried the arbiter, 'this is the very ne plus ultra of honesty and unheard of deeds; it is an act of virtue of which I never knew any person capable. The prize is yours.'

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.
☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.
N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 92 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.
P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.
Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY,
No. 17 HARRISON ST.
"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.
This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.
Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.
It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.
☞ Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.
N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. m1 tf

REMOVAL.

THOMAS M. CROUCH has REMOVED his Brush, Basket, and Wooden Ware Factory and Furnishing Store, from Baltimore street, to No. 6 CENTRE MARKET SPACE, (4th house from Baltimore street,) where he will be pleased to wait on his old customers and the public generally.
Persons commencing housekeeping, will find it to their advantage to call and select from my assortment of BRUSHES, BASKETS, TIN WARE, WOODEN WARE, &c. as I will make a liberal discount to those who make their general bill at my Store.
☞ Mr. JOHN S. BRASHEARS has a Tin & Sheet-iron Ware workshop in the rear of the Store, and will make and repair all kinds of Tin and Sheetiron work, Spouting, Roofing, &c. in a workmanlike manner, at short notice. His friends and the public are invited to patronize him. ap1-tf

THE PROPRIETORS OF THE GAY-ST. CHAIR WARE ROOMS, would inform their friends and the public generally, that they have now on hand, a very splendid assortment of Parlour and other

CHAIRS, comprising Mahogany, Maple, Walnut, and a variety of imitation wood colours. They would request persons, disposed to purchase, to give them a call, as their assortment is not surpassed if equalled by any establishment in the city.
They would also inform Shipping Merchants that they have on hand a large assortment of Cane and Slatt-back KNOCK DOWN, suitable for the West Indies or South American market, among which is a large proportion of very rich colored white tops—all of which they are willing to sell on the most accommodating terms. se1—dtf *A. & J. MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow-citizens.
The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.
All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cures; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From Captain PARRISH, who commenced to use them when diseased in August, 1839.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 2, 1840.

☞ To DR. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I have had experience in the virtue of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,
E. PARRISH.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.

DR. WM. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been laboring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. Yours, respectfully, JOHN DYE.
We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, know our neighbour, Mr. Dye, sold him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true.
Respectfully,
W. & S. B. ANDERSON.

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

UNITED STATES MAIL LINE.
DAILY TO THE SOUTH, Sunday's excepted.
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that in accordance with the New Mail Arrangement, the Boats composing their line, viz: ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, will, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 26th of May, leave the lower end of Spear's wharf daily, (Sunday's excepted,) at nine o'clock, A. M. for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va.
Passengers for Charleston will find the cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, on the wharf, on their arrival at Portsmouth, ready to convey them to Weldon, N. C., where they will always arrive in time to take the cars for Wilmington, from which point to Charleston is by the Steamboat, which leaves Wilmington immediately after the Passengers are delivered from the cars.
Passengers for Richmond, Petersburg, or intermediate points on James River, by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, will sleep on board the Bay Boat and be transferred to the James River Boat next morning.
The Steamboat Fox leaves the Black Water station on the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars from Portsmouth, for Edenton and Plymouth, N. C., and returns every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, delivering her passengers to the cars as they pass down from Weldon, enabling them to arrive in Baltimore next day, (Sundays excepted.)
RETURNING, one of the above Boats will leave Norfolk every night (Saturday being excepted) at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departing from Portsmouth.
Should the Boat get an early start from Portsmouth, Passengers for Philadelphia and New York will have the opportunity of being placed on board the Philadelphia Steamboat in the Patapsco River, and will arrive in Philadelphia the same night by 11 o'clock, after having travelled 200 miles in 20 hours, without as much fatigue as would be incurred in walking from the Hotel to the wharf.
☞ No freight will be forwarded on the day it is left, unless it is alongside, prior to 8 o'clock, A. M.

OFFICIAL DOCUMENT.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY ON THE FINANCES, &c.

In obedience to the directions of the act of Congress of the 10th of May, 1800, supplementary to the "Act to establish the Treasury Department," the Secretary of the Treasury respectfully submits the following report:

1. Of the public revenue and expenditures.

The receipts and expenditures for the year 1840 were as follows:

The available balance in the Treasury on the 1st of January, 1840, (exclusive of amount deposited with the States, trust funds, and indemnities, and the amount due from banks which failed in 1837,) was, as appears by the books of the Register of the Treasury.		$3,663,083 60
The receipts into the Treasury during the year 1840 were, from—
Customs	$13,499,502 17
Lands	3,292,285 58
Bond of the Bank of the United States	1,774,513 80
Miscellaneous and incidental sources	283,258 23
Banks which failed in 1837	748,629 55
Treasury notes issued	5,589,547 51
		25,187,736 84
Making		$28,850,820 44
The expenditures in the same year were, for—
Civil list, foreign intercourse, and miscellaneous	$5,492,030 98
Military department	10,866,236 45
Naval department	6,031,088 88
Public debt	11,982 77
Add outstanding warrants issued prior to 1st January, 1841	1,416,334 28
Treasury notes redeemed, including interest	4,045,802 05
		27,863,475 41
Leaving a balance in the Treasury on the 1st of January, 1841, of		987,345 03
The receipts from the 1st of January to the 4th of March, 1841, were—(say)
From Customs	*1974,836 46
Lands	386,148 56
Miscellaneous and incidental sources	31,349 65
Banks which failed in 1837	18,000 00
Treasury notes issued per act of the 31st March, 1840	1,110,611 08
Treasury notes issued under act of 15th of February, 1841,	673,681 32
Bond of the Bank of the United States,	17,913 00
		4,212,540 07
Making, with the balance in the Treasury, January 1, 1841,		5,199,885 10
The expenditures for the same period were—
Civil list, miscellaneous, and foreign intercourse,	$943,517 14
Military department	2,273,097 11
Naval department	759,349 60
Public debt	3,612 70
Treasury notes redeemed, including interest	*647,590 09
		4,627,166 00
Leaving the balance in the Treasury on the 4th of March, 1841,		572,718 46
The balances of appropriations outstanding on the 4th of March, 1841, were—(Statement A)
Civil, foreign intercourse, and miscellaneous	$5,237,234 28
Military,	15,991,895 15
Naval	6,910,268 69
Public debt	6,387 30
Treasury notes issued prior to the 1st of January, 1841, and outstanding on the 4th of March, 1841	3,873,220 00
Do. issued under the act of 1840, from 1st January to the 4th of March, 1841, which may, and most of which probably will, be presented in payment of public dues during the year 1841	1,110,611 08
Interest estimated at about	200,000 00
Making in the aggregate		$33,429,616 50
Of this there will be required for the services of the current year		24,210,000 00
Additional appropriations required by the War Department for the year 1841, viz:
Fortifications & works of defence	$1,435,500 00
For armaments of fortifications and ordnance stores	220,000 00
For payment of arrearages and current expenses, and taking care of public property on roads, harbors rivers, &c.	40,199 12
For arrearages for preventing and suppressing Indian hostilities	825,637 86
		2,521,336 98
Making		26,731,336 98
The actual and estimated means under the existing laws to meet these demands are, viz:
The available balance in the Treasury on the 4th March, 1841 —(See statement B)	646,803 12
Treasury notes authorized under the act of 1840, issued after the 3d of March, 1841	413,592 72
Treasury notes authorized by the act of 1841 to be issued after the 4th of March, 1841	5,000,000 00
Receipts from customs estimated at	12,000,000 00
Receipts from public lands	2,500,000 00
Miscellaneous sources	170,000 00
		20,730,395 84
Leaving unprovided for, of the demands for the present year, the sum of		6,000,941 14
There will also be receivable for public dues in the present year, or payable in 1842, Treasury notes the issues of the present year, viz:
Issued under the act of 1841, prior to the 4th of March,	$673,681 32
Do. do. 1840, after the 3d of March	413,592 72
Do. do. 1841, to be issued after the 4th of March, and included in the estimate of ways and means	5,000,000 00
		6,087,274 04
Making an aggregate of debt and deficit, to be provided for in this and the ensuing year, of		12,088,215 18
This estimate is founded on the assumption that all the moneys in the public depositories can be at once made available, and that any and all of the demands upon the Treasury can be satisfied, so long as money to a sufficient amount remains in any or all the depositories. But that is by no means the case; while the power to issue Treasury notes exists, there should be at all times, for the convenience of the Treasury, a sum equal to $1,000,000 in the various depositories subject to draft. When that power is expended, the sum should be increased to not less than		4,000,000 00
Which sum, added to the above, makes the estimated deficit		$16,088,215 18

But the undersigned feels it his duty to call the attention of Congress to the more immediate demands of the public service, and the means by which those demands are to be supplied.

The sums which will be required from the 1st of June to the 31st of August next are estimated as follows, viz:

For the payment of Treasury notes which will fall due within that time, and the interest thereon, about		$2,736,900 00
Balance for taking the the sixth census		294,000 00
For the civil list, miscellaneous, and foreign intercourse		1,309,308 37
Military service		4,591,098 00
Naval do.		1,844,000 00
Public debt		6,387 00
Expenses of the extra session of Congress		350,000 00
Making about		11,151,693 37
The ways and means in the power of the Treasury, and which will probably accrue under existing laws, are as follows:
1. Funds in the Treasury (as per statement C)	$644,361 16
2. Treasury notes authorized by the act of 15th of February, 1841	1,505,943 91
3. Estimated receipts from the customs	3,000,000 00
Do. do the lands	700,000 00
Do. do miscellaneous sources	50,000 00
Making		5,900,305 07
And leaving a deficit of		5,251,388 30
To which add the sum recommended to be kept in the Treasury to meet any emergencies of the public service, viz:		4,000,000 00
Making an aggregate of		9,251,388 30

In another part of this paper the views of the Department as to the mode of providing for the above deficit, together with the residue of the existing public debt, will be presented.

From the year 1816 to 1837, a period of twenty-one years, the revenues constantly exceeded the expenditures. The average annual surplus during that time was $11,464,226 87, (see tables 1 and 2,) making an aggregate excess of $240,745,764 27. Of this there was applied to the extinction of the national debt $208,792,127 44 and there was under the provisions of the act of the 23d of June, 1836, deposited with the States $28,101,644 91, and there remained on the 1st of January, 1837, in the Treasury of the United States, including the fourth instalment due to the States, a surplus of		17,109,473 26
There were, also, outstanding debts due and falling due to the Treasury, arising from other sources than those of the ordinary revenue, and and which were paid between the 1st of January, 1837, and 4th of March, 1841, the amount of (see statement D)		9,124,747 00
There were, also, issued within that period, and outstanding on the 4th of March, 1841, Treasury notes to the amount of		8,613,712 40
Making the aggregate available means which were in the Treasury on the 1st of January, 1837, and which came into it prior to the 4th of March, 1841, over and above the current revenue		31,882,732 66
From which deduct the amount (less the trust funds) remaining in the Treasury on the 4th of March, 1841		572,718 46
And there appears an excess of expenditure over the current revenue of		$31,310,014 20

It is proper to remark that the entries on the books of the Register of the Treasury do not always show the true dates of the receipts and expenditures. An item involved in the above statement (table D) will serve to illustrate this fact. The sum of $512,136 47 was, on the 2d and 31st of October, 1840, paid by the Bank of the United States on its last bond to William Armstrong, superintendant at Fort Gibson, by order of the Secretary of War. Though this sum was in fact received and expended on those days, it did not find its way into the office of the Register until the 4th of March, 1841, on which day it appears on his books both as a receipt and an expenditure.

Thus and to this extent, within the last four years, were the expenditures pushed beyond the amount of the revenue. They were made to absorb the surplus in the Treasury and the outstanding debts due to the United States, so that the Treasury was, on the 4th March, 1841, exhausted of its means and subject to heavy and immediate liabilities. It was already burdened with a debt incurred in time of peace, and without any adequate resources except the authority granted by law to augment that debt.

As yet no provision has been made to reduce this debt or to check its constant and rapid increase. We find it, therefore, as far as past legislation and financial arrangements characterise it, a permanent and increasing national debt.—The temporary expedients by which it has been sustained do not at all vary its essential character.

The attention of Congress is respectfully invited to the necessity of early and effectual measures to prevent its further augmentation. The obvious remedy is to increase the revenue as far as may be without unreasonably burdening commerce, and to reduce the expenditures within the limits of strict economy.

But as it may not comport with the views of Congress to go into a revision and adjustment of the customs so long before the act of March 2, 1833 comes to have its final and permanent operation, the undersigned would respectfully recommend, as a temporary measure, the levy of a duty of 20 per cent. ad valorem on all articles which are now free of duty, or pay a less duty than 20 per cent. except gold and silver and the articles specifically enumerated in the 5th section of the act of March 2d, 1833.

If this measure be adopted, it is estimated that there will be received into the Treasury from customs, in the last quarter of the present year, about $5,300,000; in all of the year 1842, about $22,500,000; and in the year 1843, after the final duction under the act of March 2, 1833, about $20,870,000. The details of this estimate will be found in the accompanying paper, marked E, and enclosures.

It is believed that, after the heavy expenditures required for the public service in the present year shall have been provided for, the revenues which will accrue from that, or a nearly proximate rate of duty, will be sufficient to defray the expenses of Government, and leave a surplus to be annually applied to the gradual payment of the national debt, leaving the proceeds of the public lands to be disposed of as Congress shall think fit.

The general principles on which the final revision of the tariff is to rest are perhaps simple and easy to be apprehended, but the work of revision itself, in its adaptation and detail, must be a work of time. It should be done on calm reflection and careful deliberation, with a view to reconcile, as far as possible, the conflicting opinions, and to promote all the various interests of the whole People of these United States. And it may be important, in that adjustment, not only to reciprocate on fair and equal principles and in a liberal spirit, the concessions which may be accorded to our commerce by foreign nations, but also to do justice to our own citizens by meeting in a like equal spirit any heavy exactions or prohibitions which foreign nations may think fit to impose upon the importation of our staple productions.

Some legal provisions are also required to correct inequalities between the duties upon sugar and molasses, and the drawbacks upon refined sugar and rum, manufactured or distilled from foreign materials. The relation between the duties and the drawbacks was adjusted by the acts of January 21st, 1829, and May 29th, 1830, since which the duties have been diminished, while the drawbacks remain the same. And a provision of law declaring that all non-enumerated articles which bear a similitude to any enumerated articles chargeable with duty, shall pay the same rate of duty with the article it most resembles, would save a large sum annually to the revenue, and prevent much annoyance and litigation between the importer and the officer charged with the collection of the customs.

OF THE PUBLIC DEBT.

But it is not expected that any modification of the revenue laws will be operative to supply the immediate wants of the Treasury, and to pay the debts which fall due in the present and in the ensuing year. A further loan is necessary to effect these objects, and the only questions that can arise are as to the modes of procuring the loan, the character of the securities, and the assumed duration of the debt.

It would, in the opinion of the undersigned, be unwise to charge upon the commerce or the resources of the country, in any form, the burden of paying at once, or at all hastily, the national debt. Before that is done, measures of restoration and relief are required. The currency of the country should be restored, and commerce and industry relieved from their present state of embarrassment and depression, and a benign and liberal policy on the part of the General Government should call forth once more the hardy industry and active enterprise of our people, and the vast resources of our country.

If we assume the period of from five to eight years as that in which this debt can be paid without inconvenience and embarrassment—and the time appears to be short enough—we have one of the most essential elements on which to form our judgment as to the best and most convenient mode in which the loan can be kept up, and the credit of the Government sustained.

In the inception and during the progressive increase of a national debt, the issues of Treasury notes, though dangerous and delusive, have yet their advantages. They need not be issued faster than the actual wants of the Treasury require; and the power to issue any given sum is, for all effective purposes of immediate expenditure, a fund in the Treasury available to that amount. But, when the debt has acquired its maximum and ceases to accumulate, or when it becomes larger than the amount necessary to be kept on hand to meet the current wants of the Treasury, these advantages disappear. This mode of loan then becomes to the Government what the sale in market of new promissory notes, for the purpose of raising money to take up old promissory notes, is to an individual. It is the issue of Treasury notes to take up other Treasury notes year after year in succession; and, under those circumstances, it is inconvenient and expensive.

But the raising of money by the issue of Treasury notes is objectionable, because it is deceptive; by this means a heavy debt may be raised and fastened permanently upon the country, the amount of new issues being involved with the payment of the old; while the People, and even those who administer the finances, may not be impressed with the fact that a national debt is created or in process of creation.

Therefore, in the opinion of the undersigned, when a national debt does exist, and must continue for a time, it is better that it should be made a funded debt, according to our ancient financial usage. It is then sheltered by no cover, and is the subject of no delusion. It is open, palpable, true; the eyes of the country will be upon it, and will be able at a glance to mark its reduction or its increase; and it is believed that a loan for the requisite amount, having eight years to run, but redeemable at the will of the Government, on six months' notice, could be negotiated at a much less rate of interest than Treasury notes. Much expense would also be saved in dispensing with the machinery of the issue and payment and cancelling of Treasury notes.

It is therefore respectfully recommended that a sum sufficient to pay the debt at present existing, and such as will necessarily accrue in this and the ensuing year, be raised on loan for the time, and on the condition above suggested.

On keeping and disbursing the public moneys.

The undersigned would respectfully invite the attention of Congress to the present mode of keeping and disbursing the public moneys; and also to the subject of the creation or employment of a fiscal agent to be charged with the performance of these and other duties. The subject is one of great importance, both to the Government and to the community. Such agent or depository ought to unite, in the highest practicable degree, the safety of the public funds, and convenience and economy in their administration; and it should, if possible, be so selected or framed as to exert a salutary influence over the business and currency of the country.

The mode of keeping and disbursing the public money, provided by the act of July 4, 1840, will be found, on comparison with that heretofore chiefly used by the Government, eminently deficient in all these essential requisites. The financial history of the United States, especially for the last twelve years, furnishes abundant proof that the public money is unsafe in the custody of individuals, and that their official bonds are no sufficient security for its safe-keeping and faithful application. Within the period above named many receiving officers connected with the Treasury Department have become defaulters to the Government. The aggregate loss from that cause within that period, as shown by the books of the Department, amounts to $2,620,500, but a small part of which will probably be recovered from their bonds. It is true that, in any system which can be adopted, some part of the public money must, in the process of collection, pass through the hands of individuals, and be subject to their defalcations; but the act of July 4, 1840, extends and continues the risk beyond the period of collection, and it subjects large masses which, in the fluctuations of commerce, sometimes accumulate, to the same dangerous custody.

Not only is the public money in the hands of individuals more exposed to loss from ordinary defalcations than when deposited in a well-regulated bank, but the Government is also liable to the risks of fire, robbery, and other casualties, occurring either in deposite or transmission, from which it is entirely protected when a well-regulated bank is the depository and fiscal agent.

The present system is also, in many respects, cumbrous and inconvenient. Its tendency is to centre the disbursements of the public moneys at some of the Eastern cities, chiefly at New York. That being the great commercial emporium of the United States, is the point at which funds are the most valuable, and, therefore, the most sought; hence those who are entitled to payments out of the public Treasury claim them there. It is true there is a general discretion in the head of the Department to refuse or grant the favor of such payments according to its convenience; but when the currency is deranged, and the premium on exchanges is high, this discretion involves discrimination to a large amount among creditors equally entitled. It then becomes a dangerous discretion, and one that ought not to exist. But, under the present system, it cannot be avoided, save in a few cases, without discharging every public liability at the most favored point. This would at once centre all the disbursements at a few of the Eastern cities, and involve the Treasury in the risk and expense of transporting the public funds from the various points of collection to the places of disbursement.

An item of less importance, but still worthy of consideration, in settling on a permanent and economical arrangement, is the direct expense of the present system, including the cost of the buildings for the deposite of the public money, and the salaries of the officers and their clerks who receive and disburse it. No portion of this risk, inconvenience, or expense need to be incurred where a well-regulated bank is made the fiscal agent.

But the present system is also, in the opinion of the undersigned, injurious to the business and currency of the country. Instead of permitting the credit and the finances of the Government to lend their indirect but efficient aid in sustaining the credit and regulating the currency of the country, it brings into direct hostility those important interests. In the progress of the system a sufficient amount of gold and silver to supply the wants of the Treasury must be withdrawn from circulation and locked up in vaults, leaving no representative to supply its place in the general circulation.

A large amount, also, in the hands of those who pay to or receive from the Treasury, is equally withdrawn from general circulation, and made to flow through those channels alone which lead into and out of the public coffers. The other avenues of commerce and intercourse are thus deprived of their proportion of the precious metals.

Within the fifty-two years during which our constitutional Government has existed, we have had, for two periods of twenty years each, a bank chartered by Congress as a depository of the public moneys and as a fiscal agent. We have had, also, at two intervals, amounting to about nine years, State banks employed for like purposes; and, during the remainder of the time, the funds of the Government have been kept and the finances administered partly by banks and partly by individual officers and agents. The losses sustained by State banks, as depositories, during the first period of their employment, extending from 1811 to 1816, agreeably to a statement prepared by the Secretary of the Treasury in 1833, and revised and republished in 1837, were $1,000,676. In the latter period, from 1833 to 1837, though no actual loss is believed to have occurred, yet the Treasury and the country suffered inconvenience and embarrassment from the fiscal arrangements with those numerous and disconnected institutions. But, during the forty years that the two banks of the United States were the depositories of the public money and the fiscal agents of the Government, no loss whatever was sustained, nor any delay or any expense incurred in transmitting or disbursing the public moneys, so far as the agency of those institutions extended. Then, as regards the wants of the Treasury merely, the safety of the public funds, and economy in their administration, experience has demonstrated the superior utility of a bank constituted and adopted by Congress as a fiscal agent. It has also proved to us that the active business of the country, its currency, its credit, its industry, and its commerce, are intimately connected with and dependent upon the financial arrangements of the General Government. If they be wise and beneficent, they indirectly, but efficiently, promote those great interests of the people; if constant and uniform in their action, they give to those interests confidence and stability.

Since the removal of the public deposites from the Bank of the United States in 1838, the Government has had no permanent fiscal agent and no definite financial system. All has been experiment, transfer and change. The business of the country has yielded to the unsteady impulse, and moved forward with wild irregularity; at one time stimulated to excessive action, at another sunk into lethargy. And, in providing for the wants of the Treasury, it is surely important to look, to the wants and welfare of the community, from the products of whose industry the Treasury is supplied.

And as regards those great interests, we find the testimony of past years is no less distinct and strong in favor of a moneyed institution chartered by the General Government, and possessed of its confidence and credit. The period embracing the last ten years of the existence of the late Bank of the United States as the fiscal agent is fresh in the memory of us all, and is looked back to as a period of great public prosperity; and though other causes did, doubtless, co-operate to produce that favorable condition of things, yet one of the governing principles on which depended the steady advance of the country in commerce, in industry, and in substantial wealth, was the existence of a fiscal agent established by the General Government, and charged with the equalization of exchanges, and the regulation of the currency.

In the present condition of our country, the relief to be anticipated from such an institution cannot be immediate, but must be the work of time. The business of the country would, however, in the opinion of the undersigned, steadily and certainly revive under its influence.

In whatever point of light the undersigned is able to view this subject, he is irresistably led to the conclusion that such fiscal agent, so framed as to possess those important functions, is alike essential to the wants of the Treasury and of the community. Such an institution should be framed with deliberation, for it must have high duties to perform, and extensive interests to promote; and it should be granted with care, for it will be liable to great and dangerous abuses. As the fiscal agent of the Government, and as effective regulator of the currency in a widespread community, it should be steady and uniform in its action, and fixed and stable in its character.

The undersigned has no doubt of the power of Congress to create such an institution. Experience has proved its necessity to carry out other expressly granted powers; it has been excercised and recognized by the Legislative and Executive departments of the Government during four-fifths of the whole period of our national existence, and it has received the uniform sanction of our highest judicial tribunal.

Yet that power has been questioned by many wise and patriotic statesmen whose opinions are entitled to consideration and respect; and in a measure like this of high political import, which, if wisely conceived and cordially concurred in, must have a great and enduring influence on the prosperity of the country, it is important, as far as possible, to obviate objections and reconcile opinion.

If such an institution can be so conceived in principle and guarded in its details as to remove all scruples touching the question of constitutional power, and thus avoid the objections which have been urged against those heretofore created by Congress, it will, in the opinion of the undersigned, produce the happiest results, and confer lasting and important benefits on the country.

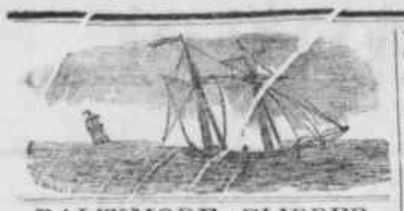
The undersigned, therefore, respectfully recommends the creation of such fiscal agent, and the repeal of the act of July 4th, 1840, providing "for the collection, safe-keeping, transfer, and disbursement of the public revenue," except the penal provisions thereof, which will probably require revision and modification.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

T. EWING,
Secretary of the Treasury.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, June 2, 1841.

*This item, and the item of expenditure for the payment of Treasury notes from 1st of January to 4th of March, 1841, include about $500,000 of Treasury notes which were issued at the Department on account of customs during that period, but for which the warrants were not issued until a subsequent period.



BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 7, 1841.

☞ The length of the very interesting report of the Secretary of the Treasury, published entire as our first page, has compelled us to leave out a number of articles prepared for this day's paper, together with a large number of advertisements.

TREASURY REPORT. We publish this official document in extenso, not only because it is the first which has emanated from the present Secretary, but from the conviction that it will be considered by our readers an important paper at this particular moment. It shews a deficiency in the treasury of upwards of thirty-one millions of dollars, and proposes the levying of certain duties as indispensable to the finances of the country.—The Secretary recommends that the present debt, together with such sum of money as may be further required for present purposes, be funded, redeemable at the pleasure of government on giving six months' notice. But the most important feature of the report is, the recommendation of a National Bank. The Secretary thinks that this is a more secure, convenient and less expensive fiscal agent than any other that has been used or suggested. He thinks that it can be so organized as to obviate constitutional objections. It seems, from this report, that upwards of two millions of dollars have been lost under the operation of the sub-treasury system.

The recommendation of a National Bank will, of course, give rise to animated discussions in Congress, and in the public press—but we have no doubt that the measure will be adopted, either at the present or next regular session of Congress. People have become wearied with the present condition of things, and will be willing to resort to almost any expedient which they may suppose will afford relief, in preference to remaining under their present depression. We must wait for the details of the Secretary's plan—and if he can suggest such a bank as will relieve the country from its present depreciated and worthless paper currency—equalize exchanges—secure the public funds from depredation—and at the same time be perfectly free from all political interference or influence; it will no doubt receive the sanction of Congress and a large majority of the people. The constitutional objection to a national bank, we consider of little validity. It is time that such scruples should be relinquished. The right of Congress to establish a bank of this character, has been settled by judicial decisions and by long practice, and admits of no argument. The expediency of the measure is another affair—for it is not always sound policy to exercise an undoubted right. But we must see the plan before we either censure or approve it. Congress must do something on the subject of the currency, or fail to meet public expectation.

PHILADELPHIA, WILMINGTON AND BALTIMORE RAIL ROAD. It is stated in the Penitentiary Organ (heretofore called the Sun,) of Saturday last, that Mr. Cohen, Vice-President of the above named Company, gave permission for an agent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, to go on in the express car. We doubt the truth of this assertion, because, on being applied to by the junior editor of the Clipper, to allow the agent of the Chronicle to go in said car with his extras, Mr. Cohen expressly stated, that he had nothing to say in the business, as the arrangement was entirely under the control of the Post Office Department; but he did intimate that a bundle placed on the car would be safely forwarded. When the agent of the Chronicle arrived at the depot, and saw the agent of the Public Ledger admitted on the car, he solicited like permission, but was denied by Mr. Crawford. He then placed his extras on the car, when a command was distinctly given to "throw off that bundle," as will appear by the annexed statement of Mr. Woodward. Now who gave this order? Was it Mr. Crawford? if not, was it given by the agent of the Ledger? Will Mr. Crawford inform us? If there had been no agent of the Ledger with the car, would not the whole of the bundles have been taken safely to Philadelphia by the agent of the Post Office, or the conductor? Of this there can be no doubt—but the extras for the Chronicle alone failed of reaching their destination. Did not those who were with the cars see them placed on it? did they not hear what was said, and know their destination? and yet they were kicked aside on the road, and no one knows any thing of the matter.

"Who finds the heifer dead, and bleeding fresh,
And sees fast by a butcher with an axe,
But will suspect, 'twas he that made the slaughter."

Who was the most interested in arresting the progress of the Chronicle extras? They were thrown aside, and who profited? The proprietors of the Public Ledger. And who are they? The same individuals who pocketed a letter addressed to the proprietors of the Clipper, for the despicable purpose of injuring them. It was their agent who was on the car, and we leave the public to determine likelihoods and probabilities as to why the Chronicle extras miscarried.

But we have a higher object in view than commenting on the Penitentiary Organ, its proprietors and agents. If they are to be credited, (and he who would detain a letter destined for another is not only unworthy of belief, but to be outside of the walls of the Penitentiary,) the Vice President of the Rail Road Company in Baltimore, has been guilty of partiality and duplicity. This we cannot believe without we have superior authority to that of the menial wretches who say they acted under Mr. Cohen's authority. The Rail Road Company was not organized for such petty purposes, nor should we suppose it possible that any officer in its employment would degrade himself by aiding so filthy a vehicle of slander and defamation as the Penitentiary Organ, to the exclusion of other papers. Now, we ask the question distinctly—was an agent from that concern authorized to go on with the U. S. express, whilst the agent of another paper was forbidden? We pause for a reply.

The following statement has been furnished by Mr. Woodward:

"On the 1st day of June 1841, the undersigned, agreeably to an arrangement with Messrs. Ball & Tuttle, publishers of the Baltimore Clipper, conveyed by express, from the outer Depot of the Baltimore and Ohio and Washington Rail Roads, to the Depot at Canton, of the Philadelphia and Baltimore Rail Road, a bundle of extras containing the President's Message, intended, as I was informed, for the publishers of the Philadelphia Daily Chronicle. Mr. Rousham, agent for the Chronicle, having the extras in charge, was with me. When we stopped at the Depot Mr. R. took the said bundle of extras and threw them on the express car. At this juncture I heard some individual expressly and distinctly say "THROW OFF THAT BUNDLE." Some expostulation then ensued between Mr. Rousham and Mr. Crawford, agent of the Rail Road Company. Mr. R. asked permission to go on with his bundle, but was peremptorily refused. The bundle, however, for the Chronicle was finally placed on the car when the locomotive was put in motion and bore it off. Of the facts stated above I am confident and would be qualified, to them at any time.

N. R. WOODWARD."

MARYLAND COLONY IN AFRICA. In a letter addressed to the navy department by Commander W. K. Latimer, of the U. S. ship Cyane, dated 16th May, 1841, we find the following pleasing account of the condition of the Maryland Colony in Africa; and we wish that the information contained in this extract could be communicated to every free person of color in the state. They will no doubt be made acquainted with the proceedings of the Colonization Convention which has just closed its session—and they will there discover sufficient to indicate to them that their true policy is to close with the propositions of the Maryland Colonization Society without delay.—If they can comprehend "the signs of the times," they will need no argument to induce them to adopt that course which policy and interest alike dictate. If any of them have ever entertained the delusive idea that the period will arrive, when they will be permitted to enjoy an equal participation of rights and privileges with the white population, they cannot too speedily renounce the absurd notion, and prepare to seek those rights and privileges in another clime. By their best friends this advice will be given, and it should be taken into their most serious consideration. Many of their brethren have tried the experiment of removal to the Maryland Colony, and are now in the full enjoyment of free institutions; perfect liberty and equality; and abundant prosperity and happiness. And such will be the happy lot of those who may voluntarily follow in their footsteps.

"I arrived at Cape Palmas, town of Harper, on the 11th of March. This, unlike the coast after leaving Cape Mesurado, is a bold promontory, on which the town is situated; has a fine prospect of the sea to the southeast, and an extensive view of the country to the northwest. We were received with great hospitality and kindness by the Governor and colonists, and by the families belonging to the different missionary societies, who are exerting a most happy influence with the natives in disseminating the Christian faith, the effect of which is already very apparent.

"This colony is exclusively under the control of the Maryland Society. Governor Russworm, who presides over the colony, is a colored gentleman, and a man of liberal education and great intelligence, and the most perfect harmony prevails throughout the colony, and a more judicious selection could not have been made. The population consists of about five hundred emigrants, most of whom are engaged in agriculture, and to which may be ascribed the great prosperity and rapid advancement of the colony. It renders them entirely independent, is the surest source of wealth, and will secure to them, at some future day, mercantile advantages on a more solid basis. Their products are sugar-cane, rice, corn, cotton, and tobacco, (the two latter as yet are not raised in great quantities, but of a very superior quality) bananas, plantains, cassada, sweet potatoes, and all garden vegetables in abundance and of an excellent kind. I visited their farms and found their houses comfortable, the soil rich, and, with but little labor, it yield an abundant crop. The emigrants are cheerful, their countenances beaming with pleasure, and all seem perfectly contented with their situations and delighted with their adopted country.

"There are four schools in the colony for the education of the children of the emigrants, and great attention is paid to their improvement: the children of the natives are also admitted to the schools. I witnessed at the school under the direction of the Rev. Mr. Wilson, of the Presbyterian mission, a very interesting examination of his native pupils, some of whom have been at school near four years, and speak and read English perfectly well.

"I was informed by Governor Russworm that in the last year about thirteen thousand gallons of palm-oil, at an average of thirty-seven cents per gallon, and about one thousand bushels of rice, at at one dollar per bushel, had been disposed of to the traders on the coast, and that he was making arrangements to introduce the calm-wood in large quantities, which can be readily had at some distance interior from the settlement, and is purchased from the natives at thirty-five or forty dollars a ton, and sold to the traders at sixty and and sixty-five dollars per ton.

"This colony has been settled less than seven years, and a stranger visiting it will be convinced of the rapid improvement they have made, and be assured of its future prosperity."

GIVING UP ITS DEAD. In consequence of the funeral salute fired on Thursday last at New York, by the U. S. vessels in port, in honor of Commodore Claxton, five dead bodies came to the surface in the river and bay.

NAVAL. The U. S. ship Delaware, 74, says the Norfolk Herald of the 4th, was towed down to Hampton Roads this morning, by the steamer Poinsett.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN.

LAUNCH. A splendid barque called the Cornelia, was launched from the ship yard of J. W. Richardson, F. P., on Saturday afternoon last.

THE MILFORD BAND was, on Saturday last, again committed to the alms house, by Justice McDonald.

DRUNKENNESS. John Floyd and Daniel Collins were brought in to the Middle District Watch House, on Friday night—found lying drunk in the street.

BOY DROWNED. A boy about 14 years of age, named Samuel Harvey, while swimming in Union Dock on Saturday morning last, about 11 o'clock, accidentally got under a raft and was drowned.

INSANITY. Henrietta Sultzer, was found by one of the watch of the Middle District, wandering about the streets in a state of insanity, and, after being lodged in the watch house until morning, was taken to the alms house.

TEMPERANCE. About two hundred persons signed the total abstinence pledge in St. Patrick's church, F. P. yesterday morning, after an eloquent address by the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Dolan.

MORE CARELESSNESS. Why do people have locks and keys to their doors. Common sense says to secure them. Why then did those who closed the printing office of Mr. John D. Toy, in St. Paul's street leave the door unlocked and the key in it, until one of the city watch secured it?

BOUND OVER. Eliza Williams, colored, was arrested and brought before Squire Pechin, charged upon the oath of Peter Hick, with threatening to do him personal injury, and required to give security to keep the peace for six months, which she did and was discharged.

ALL CONVICTED. The four colored men who committed the late awful tragedy at St. Louis, have been found guilty of murder in the first degree. This shows that the guilty cannot go unpunished.

The Acadia brought about 10,500 letters of which all for the south were forwarded by the steamboat mail for New York on Wednesday afternoon. The postage on those for New York city was about $1500, and on those for New Orleans about $350.

MR. DIELMAN'S CONCERT. It will be seen by a notice in to-days paper that Mr. H. Dielman, so favorably known in this city as a professor of music, having secured the services of Mr. H. Russell, the distinguished vocalist, will give a grand Concert on Thursday evening, 10th inst.

MORE NEWS AT HAND. The next steam arrival from England will be the Great Western, now 13 days out. The agents of the British Queen in New York city have received advices by the Acadia, that a day has not yet been fixed for her to leave Liverpool. It was supposed she would sail about the 1st of June.

AMALGAMATION. Samuel McClain, white, (shame on him! that we have to record it,) was arrested and brought to the watch house in the Middle District, on Thursday night, charged with making love to a fair daughter of the sable race, who was nothing loth to mingle African blood with that of the Anglo Saxon. The woman having also been arrested, these turtles were accommodated with separate lodgings in the watch house until morning, when the man was discharged and the woman sent to her master. Should they be disposed to mate again, they had better seek a spot where the city watch will not overhear their billing and cooing.

FIGHT AND SUBSEQUENT DEATH OF ONE OF THE PARTIES. On Saturday night last, Andrew Freeburger was arrested and taken to the Middle District Watch House, charged with beating Francis Walker so severely as to endanger his life. From all the evidence taken before Squire King it appears that some persons in the neighborhood of Light and Lombard streets, had got into a drunken spree, when Walker, who had joined them, boasted of his ability to whip any of the party. This challenge was taken up by Freeburger, when Walker made a blow at him, which the former caught in one hand, while, with the other, he stretched Walker with great violence upon the pavement, from which he was unable to rise again. Upon being told that Walker was dead Freeburger attempted to escape, but was caught by one of the watch and carried to the watch house. From this evidence he was committed by Squire King for assaulting and endangering the life of Walker. The latter died before morning, when a coroner's inquest was held over the body, the verdict of which we have not learned, but presume it was in accordance with the facts stated in the above evidence.

CITY COURT, Saturday, June 5, 1841.

John Cook, colored, charged with assault and battery upon Emily Quin, also of sable complexion, was put upon his trial. Emily had a strong tale to tell of outrage and violence, all of which, however, was contradicted by the testimony of another colored woman, who swore that the parties were both drunk, and that the fair Emily struck the first blow, upon which evidence the court acquitted the traverser.

James Gifford charged with an assault and battery upon Ralph Carlisle. From the testimony of Carlisle himself it appeared that he was in the house of an acquaintance named Corbin, when Gifford came in and asked Corwin if he knew Ralph Carlisle. Corwin replied in the affirmative and pointed him out, when Gifford requested him to walk to the door. Upon reaching the curbstone, Gifford charged Carlisle with having written a letter of an insulting character to a young lady, which charge Carlisle denied. Some words then ensued, when Gifford caught hold of the witness, and struck him a severe blow upon the left arm with a small cane he held in his left hand. Some one interfered and Gifford leaving him, said, "I would kill you for half a cent."

Corbin called, testified to the same effect nearly as Carlisle; but stated he did not see the blow, he heard it, however, and saw the mark raised on the arm of C. by the blow. He heard some angry words and a disclaimer on the part of Carlisle of having committed the offence with which he was charged; but when he reached the door Gifford was some distance from Carlisle. He heard, however, the expression of the former, "I would kill you for half a cent."

Upon the part of the traverser, Mr. Gifford, no witnesses were called; but, with the permission of the Court, he stated, that a young lady of his acquaintance had told him that a black woman, who lived in a house belonging to Carlisle's brother, had come to her with a message from Carlisle, proposing to her to give him a meeting at the house of this colored woman, who is the proprietor, it seems, of a house of assignation. The young lady was greatly distressed at being made the subject of such a gross insult; and, sympathising in her distress, he determined to seek out Carlisle whom he did not personally know. He found C. in the manner before related, charged the offence upon him, which was denied, and Carlisle was about to turn and leave him, when he seized him and struck him the blow which constituted the assault complained of. He further stated that the black woman in question would have proved the fact that Carlisle was the sender of the message, but her evidence, of course, was not available. When asked privately if the young lady herself could throw no further light upon the subject, he replied that he would sooner pay the fine, whatever it might be, than subject her to the mortification of coming to Court for such a purpose. We conceive it due to Mr. Gifford to state this, as it evinced a feeling of delicacy highly creditable to him. As the assault was not denied, the traverser was fined five dollars and costs.

William Robinson, keeper of the seamen's temperance house, on Fell's Point, was next arraigned before their honors, upon a charge of having committed two separate assaults upon the person of Capt. Mitchell, who, at the time of the assault complained of, was a boarder in his (Robinson's) house.

Capt. Mitchell was first called, and gave in his testimony, from which it would appear that, on the morning of the assault complained of, he had, along with other boarders in the house, taken his seat at the breakfast table, when Robinson told him that he had a serious charge to make against him. Upon his inquiring what it was, R. said that he (Mitchell) had been guilty of taking improper liberties with one of the colored women in the house, and of making propositions repugnant to virtue and decency to her. Mitchell denied the charge, and asked Robinson if he believed it. He replied that he did, and desired him to quit the house. Mitchell then declared that whoever had asserted such a thing told a palpable falsehood or lie, he did not remember which. Robinson then raised his hand to strike him, but instead of doing so, caught him by the shirt collar, and twisting it such a way as nearly to choke him, threw him upon the settee, and twice knocked his head against the wall, he, (Mitchell) being unable to defend himself from a long continuance of ill health. Some of the boarders interposed, and Robinson let him alone, and walked out the back door. Complaint followed him out and asked if such treatment were right, even supposing the charge to be true. He then took out a warrant against Robinson, which was served by a regular officer, after which R. came up and ordered him to take his trunk and leave the house. He was not able to carry the trunk, and not obeying the command of Robinson at once, that person collared him and pushed him with great violence out upon the pavement, throwing his trunk after him. He then started to get some of his clothing from up stairs, when Robinson again collared and dragged him through the office into the street.

Wm. Kickham, sworn; did not see the fight. He, however, had seen Mitchell attempting to take improper liberties with one of the colored girls in the kitchen—when he went into the room he asked Robinson if Mitchell was not a married man, to which Robinson replied in the affirmative. Witness then remarked if it was his house he would put him out, at the same time stating what his conduct had been in the kitchen.

James McDade, sworn; heard the charge and the order to quit the house. Mitchell did not go, when Robinson took hold of him and put him out, with his clothes, without, however, using more force than was necessary to accomplish that purpose.

Robinson, the traverser, by permission, stated that, a day or two after Mitchell had came to his house to board, some one or more of his colored servants complained of improper and disgusting propositions having been made to them by Mitchell. Believing the charge to be true he determined to expose M. the next morning, and then send him away. He accordingly made the charge, as before stated, which Mitchell denied. In the course of the dispute Mitchell gave him the lie once or twice. He then ordered him out of the house; and, upon the order having been repeatedly given, and Mitchell not obeying it, he had attempted to put him out. In the struggle M. fell on the settee and his head struck the wall once, but not oftener. He subsequently put him out, with his trunk, using, however, only necessary force.

Wm. H. Watson, esq. sworn; had known Capt. Mitchell for better than a year. He could not be willing to believe him on his oath, as he had heard him admit things which, if true, went far to prove him guilty of false swearing. His general character on the Point, for veracity, was not good. At the same time he, the witness, would say to the court that Capt. Mitchell and himself had formerly some business relations together, and had not parted in the best terms. He had no feelings of hostility to that individual, and would be sorry to say any thing to do him injustice—but justice to Capt. Mitchell, the Court and himself, he had deemed it necessary to make this statement.

William Brown, sworn; he was present and heard Robinson order Mitchell out—he did not go. Robinson then attempted to put him out. Mitchell did not resist much, but fell upon the settee, striking his head against the wall in the fall. This was the only blow his head received. Robinson repeatedly ordered him out; and only used such efforts as were necessary to force him to go.

The Court considered that Robinson, as proprietor of the house, had a right to order any one out, and, as Mitchell did not go, he had a right to use such violence as might be necessary to put him out; and, as none of the witnesses examined had sustained the complaint of Mitchell, the traverser (Robinson) was declared not guilty; and Mitchell ordered to pay the costs.

——— McDuffee next came to the bar, having been committed to Jail upon the complaint of his wife. He said the whole cause of the quarrel between them was on account of his not wishing his wife's sister to live with her—that his wife lived in town, while he had been at work in the country, and only came to town a day or so before his wife had him arrested without reason. Upon his promise to go straight back to the country, and not meddle further with his wife, the Court let him off, making a far more lenient disposition of the case than, judging from her conduct, his "better half" would have done had the decision rest with her.

CONCERT.

MR. P. RUSSELL will give his FAREWELL CONCERT at the Assembly Rooms, Fayette-st. on MONDAY EVENING, 7th instant, at 8 o'clock, on which occasion Mr. R. will sing some of his latest compositions, together with a New Song, written by J. H. HAWES, Esq. entitled "THE DRUNKARD."

PROGRAMME.—PART I.

Song—'I love, I love the free,' Russell.
'The wild stream leaps with headlong leaps.'

Song—'The Old Farm Gate,' Russell.
'Where, where is that gate that used to divide
The old shaded lane from the grassy road side.'

Song—'In the days when we went gipseying, a long time ago'—arranged by Russell.

Song—'The Old School House,' written expressly for Mr. Russell by Park Benjamin, Russell.

Song—Arm, brothers, arm! I've lost my child! the wolf is out. A description of a Wolf Hunt, Russell.

Song—Come brothers, arouse, arouse, Russell.

And the night breeze come sighing so faintly and cool;
Hark! hark! there's a rap—now the iron hinge creeks,
And the drunkard reels in with the flush on his cheeks.

Once more—oh! once more goes the cup to his lips,
And bright glow his eyes while the poison he sips,
And he laughs, loudly laughs—for the jocund and free,
Have gathered around him in mad revelry!

Now tottering—now reeling—now low on the earth,
The reason hath left him that dawned at his birth;
The image of God lies besotted and low,
And he drowns in oblivion the shrill cries of woe.

That home—that sad home! where the night lamp burns dim
The wife of the drunkard waits lonely for him;
She begs to her bosom her pale, starving child
And lulls him to rest with her melody wild

The hearth hath no fire," &c. &c. &c.

PART II.

National Refrain—Our Native Song, Russell.
The National Air of Yankee Doodle will be introduced.

"Self-exiled from our place of birth,
To climes more fragrant bright and gay,
The memory of our own fair earth
May chance awhile and fade away;
But should some minstrel echo fall,
On chords that breathe Columbia's fame,
Our souls will burn, our spirits yearn,
True to the land we love and claim.
The high—the low—in weal or woe,
Be sure there's something coldly wrong
About the heart that does not glow
To hear its own—its Native Song."

Ballad—We were boys together. The words written by G. P. Morris, Russell.

Song Descriptive—The Gambler's Wife—(The words written expressly for Mr. Russell, by Dr. Reynold Coates,) Russell.

Cold on the hearth the last faint sparks expire!
Shivering she watches by the cradle side,
For him who pledged her love! Last year a Bride.

Hark! 'Tis his footstegs! No! 'tis gone!
Tic! Tic! How wearily the time rolls on!
Why should he leave me thus! He once was kind;
And I believed 'twould last! How mad! how blind!

Rest thee, my babe! rest on!—'tis hunger's cry!
Sleep! for there is no food!—the fount is dry!
Famine and cold their wearying work have done!
My heart must break!—and thou, my child—hush!
The clock strikes one!—&c.

This song is designed to represent the feelings of a young wife and mother, under circumstances sufficiently common to warrant the assertion that it is founded on fact, without exaggeration. It represents the Gambler's Wife and Child, deserted by their natural protector, in the extreme of poverty and starvation, for the PLEASURE of play. The fire expires—the energies of life sink from want of food, and the mother vainly strives to keep in the midst of despair, appealing to the past with the memory of the bride, while vainly endeavoring to sooth her child with the energy of a mother's love, until the infant dies in her arms, and her heart is broken. The current of her feelings is interrupted only by the peal of the clock, and at the third hour the scene closes; while Time strides onward in its monotonous march, regardless as the world of the issue.

Song—'Nature's Fine Old Gentleman," Russell.
"He worships God with inward zeal and serves him in each deed,
He would not blame another's faith, nor have one martyr bleed;
Justice and mercy for his code—he puts his trust in Heaven,
His prayer is, 'if the heart means well, may all else be forgiven.'"

Song—'A life on the Ocean Wave,' Russell.

Song—The Old Arm Chair—(words by Eliza Cook,) Russell.
"I love it, I love it, and who shall dare
To chide me for loving that old Arm Chair."

Song—"Let us be gay,'—a laughing chorus—Bride's Band, Russell.

☞ TICKETS 50 CENTS each, to be had at the principal Music Stores, and at the door on the evening of performance.

AMUSEMENTS.

NATIONAL THEATRE,

CORNER OF NORTH AND SARATOGA-STS.

THE PUBLIC are respectfully informed that this Beautiful Summer Establishment will open THIS EVENING, June 7th, with an efficient Company. First Night of St. Dollar and the Monster Rag'on; Or, the Seven Stamped Coins of Cash'endom—written expressly for this Theatre by S. S. STEELE. First Appearance of Mrs. PHILLIPS, (late Mrs. Rodgers.) First Appearance of Mr. PHILLIPS, of the Boston Theatres.

On MONDAY, TUESDAY, and WEDNESDAY, June 7th, 8th, and 9th, will be produced, with New Scenery and Dresses, a truly laughable Burlesque on ST. GEORGE & THE DRAGON, having been in Rehearsal the past week, entitled

THE DOLLAR & THE MONSTER RAG'ON;
Or, The 7 Stamped Coins of Cash'endom.

St. Dollar, of U. S. A.	Mr. LENNOX.
St. Ferdinand of Spain,	BRUNTON.
St. William of Germany,	JOHNSTONE.
St. Louis Philip of France,	WOODRUFF.
St. Vic. of England,	SINGER.

Clerkins,	JONES.
Dinah Key,	Master LENNOX.
Tabby,	Mrs. CAPORELLA.
Letha,	Miss PEICE.

The following is the succession of Scenery and Incidents:

BANK VAULT of the Source'ress Cash Grabber—Showing how the Source'ress did keep the noble knight St. Dollar, and his brothers in arms, the Coins of Christendoom, within her vaults for five years.

Smoky Scuttle knighted—Song "The Banks break Specie and I break Coal."

SECRET BANK BOOK—And how the Source'ress did show St. Dollar the rise, fall, and miserable end of those who dared to dispute the right of Banks to issue worthless Shinplasters.

[Chorus and Dance of the Cents.]

Enchanted Hall of Shinplasters—where were confined the six coins of Cashendom—the arming of St. Dollar by the Source'ress.

'Tis thy armor, forged of the cash of twenty broken banks,
No bowie knife can pierce it,
Nor is the sword-cane—'twas made by DAFFIN.

Source'ress' Doom:
"Dumbness shall be thy portion, till the race of Shinplasters be run.

Shaving of the Source'ress.

Releasing of the six coins of Cashendom, and their departure from the halls of Shinplasters on Arabian steeds, richly caparisoned—made for this occasion.

Chorus—"Sound the bright harmonious cash."

Song—Finale, 'Dead time of years coming, coming.'

Departure of St. Dollar in a Magnificent Steamboat.

BANKS OF THE SPOIL.

SCENE LAST. Grand Combat between St. Dollar and the Monster Rag'on. The Monster is overcome—appearance of the Snapping Turtle.

Combat—St. Dollar and Snapping Turtle. St. Dollar and the Stamped Coins of Cashendom victorious.

GRAND TABLEAU.

Previous to which, Kotzbue's celebrated play of

THE STRANGER.

Or, MISANTHROPY & REPENTANCE.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Clipper.]

WASHINGTON, June 5, 1841.

Neither house of Congress being in session today, the race course was crowded. I assure you it was hot work, and the spectators worked harder than the horses. The pickpockets made a good harvest, and the long faces pulled by the losers proved beyond doubt that the human physiognomy is gifted with a wonderful elasticity.

The heads of departments are beginning to find members of Congress extremely troublesome in bringing business from their constituents, the transaction of which keeps the clerks employed night and day. The worst of it is, that few members have sense enough to go off when they have given their orders, but stand talking about other matters. Now such dignitaries cannot very well be shewn the doors, but some plan ought to be devised to teach them manners. The clerks dread them as they would a boa-constrictor marching into the office.

A strong attempt will be made next week to adopt a new rule, under which no member who may be absent when his name is called shall be entitled to his $8 for that day. I hope the bill will be carried, as then our "disinterested" legislators would certainly shew a greater regard for their pockets than they do at present for the country. After all, the best rule is that of common sense—and common sense, as applied by congress itself to other people, dictates that one man should not be paid for lounging about, while another is attending to his business.

Great preparations are making by the temperance societies of this city for their celebrations on the fourth of July. Scores are joining daily.

This hot weather revives the apprehension of mad dogs, and the dog law will have to be put in force without delay, or the popularity of the Mayor will be endangered. It would be well also to give the hogs a benefit at the same time, or the city will be soon 'littered' over with them.

Now the Whigs have come into power, it is said they will contract with Mr. Espy, the rain merchant, for watering the avenue. They had better contract with some of our fire companies. Those noble fellows would like the sport; besides such daily exercise would prevent their engines from catching the asthma.

Every evening at Gadsby's, a harper, a flutist, and a guitarist make sweet music in the parlor for what they can get. They are worth hearing.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From Captain PARRISH, who commenced to use them when diseased in August, 1839.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 2, 1840.

☞ To DR. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I have had experience in the virtue of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,

E. PARRISH.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.

DR. WM. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been laboring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. Yours, respectfully, JOHN DYE.

We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, knew our neighbour, Mr. Dye, sold him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true. Respectfully,

W. & S. B ANDERSON.

NOTICE.

BALTIMORE & OHIO RAIL ROAD.

THE CHANGE in the hour of arrival of the Mail Trains from Philadelphia, renders it necessary that a corresponding change should be made in the departure of the Morning Cars for the west

Notice is therefore hereby given, That on and after WEDNESDAY, 26th instant, the Passenger Train for Ellicott's Mills, Frederick, and Harper's Ferry will be despatched from the Depot in Pratt street, at half past 9 instead of 7 o'clock, A. M., the present hour of departure—of which travellers will take notice.

☞ The Extra Train for Frederick will continue to leave at 3½ o'clock every evening, with which, as well as with the Morning Train, passengers from Washington can still connect at the Relay House. By order,

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the excessive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humours, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever and ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. BOOZ,

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it ready to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 22 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent

For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR.—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per BOTLE, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. m14-tf

REMOVAL.

THOMAS H. CROUCH has REMOVED his Brush, Basket, and Wooden Ware Factory and Furnishing Store, from Baltimore street, to No. 6 CENTRE MARKET SPACE, (4th house from Baltimore street,) where he will be pleased to wait on his old customers and the public generally.

Persons commencing housekeeping, will find it to their advantage to call and select from my assortment of BRUSHES, BASKETS, TIN WARE, WOODEN WARE, &c. as I will make a liberal discount to those who make their general bill at my Store.

☞ Mr. JOHN S. BRASHEARS has a Tin & Sheet-iron Ware workshop in the rear of the Store, and will make and repair all kinds of Tin and Sheetiron work, Spouting, Roofing, &c. in a workmanlike manner, at short notice. His friends and the public are invited to patronize him. ap1-tf

THE PROPRIETORS OF THE GAY-ST. CHAIR WARE ROOMS, would inform their friends and the public generally, that they have now on hand, a very splendid assortment of Parlour and other

CHAIRS, comprising Mahogany, Maple, Walnut, and a variety of imitation wood colours. They would request persons, disposed to purchase, to give them a call, as their assortment is not surpassed if equalled by any establishment in the city.

They would also inform Shipping Merchants that they have on hand a large assortment of Cane and Slatt-back KNOCK DOWN, suitable for the West Indies or South American market, among which is a large proportion of very rich colored white tops—all of which they are willing to sell on the most accommodating terms. se1—tf A. & J. UNITED STATES MAIL LINE,

DAILY TO THE SOUTH, Sunday's excepted.

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that in accordance with the New Mail Arrangement, the Boats composing their line, viz: ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, will, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 26th of May, leave the lower end of Spear's wharf daily, (Sunday's excepted,) at nine o'clock, A. M. for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va.

Passengers for Charleston will find the cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, on the wharf, on their arrival at Portsmouth, ready to convey them to Weldon, N. C., where they will always arrive in time to take the cars for Wilmington, from which point to Charleston is by the Steamboat, which leaves Wilmington immediately after the Passengers are delivered from the cars.

Passengers for Richmond, Petersburg, or intermediate points on James River, by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, will sleep on board the Bay Boat and be transferred to the James River Boat next morning.

The Steamboat Pox leaves the Black Water station on the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars from Portsmouth, for Edenton and Plymouth, N. C., and returns every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, delivering her passengers to the cars as they pass down from Weldon, enabling them to arrive in Baltimore next day, (Sundays excepted.)

RETURNING, one of the above Boats will leave Norfolk every night (Saturday being excepted) at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departing from Portsmouth.

Should the Boat get an early start from Portsmouth, Passengers for Philadelphia and New York will have the opportunity of being placed on board the Philadelphia Steamboat in the Patapsco River, and will arrive in Philadelphia the same night by 11 o'clock, after having travelled 300 miles in 20 hours, without as much fatigue as would be incurred in walking from the Hotel to the wharf.

☞ No freight will be forwarded on the day it is left, unless it is alongside, prior to 9 o'clock, A. M.

JNO. C. MOALE, General Agent,

m24-d Baltimore Steam-Packet Company.

UNRIVALLED SPEED!

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.

GREAT SOUTHERN

UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,

DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

☞ Bear in mind, that Passengers who go by the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, have 60 miles of Rail Road travelling through the DISMAL SWAMP at midnight, one of the worst Rail Roads in America, and then are often compelled to lay over 17 hours at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 9 A. M., they proceed, without one moment's delay, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and often one day in advance of any other Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	12 P.M.	reach Baltimore	8 A.M.
" Baltimore	9 A.M.	" Washington	11 A.M.
" Washington	11½ A.M.	" Fredericksburg	6 P.M.
" Fred'ksburg	6½ P.M.	" Richmond	11 P.M.
" Richmond	11½ P.M.	" Petersburg	1 A.M.
" Petersburg	1½ A.M.	" Weldon	6½ A.M.
" Weldon	7 A.M.	" Charleston	on the next morning.

Passengers by this Line not only reach Charleston ONE DAY SOONER than by the Bay boats but they avoid being compelled to remain all night at Weldon, on the Roanoke, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole southern country, where, by the Bay Line, they are often delayed twenty-four hours.

Passengers for Richmond and Petersburg will find this Line far the most expeditious, arriving at Richmond to lodge, (as will be seen from the above Schedule,) on the evening of the day on which they leave Baltimore, being from 16 to 18 hours in advance of those taking the Bay Steam Boats.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va.

Fare to Richmond,	$10.00
Fare to Petersburg,	10 50
Fare to Weldon,	12.50

The following exhibits the genius and talent of a true poet, of one who is destined to render himself immortal by his inspiration. There is a moral to it, an inspiration, which should stir up the soul of every liberal minded and intelligent being:—Boston Transcript.

ADVANTAGE OF TAKING A NEWSPAPER.

I know two friends, as much alike
As e'er you saw two stumps;
And no phrenologist could find
A difference in their bumps.

One took the papers, and his life
Was happier than a king's;
His children all can read and write,
And talk of men and things.

The other took no papers, and
Was strolling through the wood,
A tree fell down upon his crown,
And hurt him as it should!

Had he been reading of the news
At home, like neighbour Jim,
I'll bet a coat this accident
Would not befallen him!

A DEATH BED SCENE.

Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath.
And stars to set—but all,
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, oh, Death!
MRS. HEMANS.

There is at all times something inexpressibly sad and mournful in witnessing the departure of a living soul for the world of shadows—there is but little connected with "the grave, the pall, the bier," which gives birth to cheering reflections. Philosophize as we may, about the relief furnished by death from the cares and anxieties of earth, and the comparative felicity of those who have succeeded to a heritage of immortality in heaven; still the survivor, in proportion to the strength of the attachment, will sorrow as one having no hope, or experience the chill benumbing influence which follows a renewal of the awful lesson that "it is appointed unto all men once to die." But there are times when death is peculiarly affecting, when around all that pertains to the closing scenes in the life of the departed, there is thrown a thick veil of bitterness and gloom, through which the slightest ray of hope may struggle in vain to penetrate.

A short time since, near the hour of midnight, we were walking down one of our most quiet and unfrequented streets. An hour before one of the guardians of the night had preceded us, and extinguished the bright flames of the gas, which since nightfall had struggled so ambitiously to emulate the wan queen of the night. It was by no means a dark evening—the moon rode full in the heavens, reflecting upon earth and earthly things more than earthly glory, bathing all objects, animate and inanimate, in a flood of spiritual radiance. We stopped and gazed upward upon the firmament,

"Bespangled with its isles of light."

While thus engaged in admiration of the perfection of Nature's handiwork, a slight movement on the sidewalk a few feet from us, attracted our attention. We gazed attentively and found it was a living and breathing being. Astonished beyond measure to find any thing warm with life, in so singular a situation, we stooped down and gazed earnestly into the face of the little sufferer. It lay upon its side panting with fear or some strange emotion, and as we attempted to touch it, it essayed to rise to its feet, and dash away to its home, from which, in the hour of its trial, it had heedlessly strayed. Its limbs, however, refused to perform their accustomed duty, the effort was too much for its frame, and the poor thing lay for a moment perfectly motionless. We looked upon the spectacle with strange emotions. It was apparent enough that the little wanderer was upon the verge of closing its earthly career, and desolate indeed were the last moments of its mortal existence. It was alone, deserted by its friends and kindred, literally dying in the ditch." Here indeed was one of those instances where the approaches of the grim monster were more than usually horrible and revolting. No kind word from the lips of love fell upon itsear, no hand of affection performed the last final offices, but upon one solitary stranger, accident had devolved the ultimate duty of the living to the dying. We laid our hand upon the region of its heart—a faint throb responded to the pressure. Carefully we raised the poor creature, thus breathing away its life, from the cold stone upon which it had fallen, and conveyed it to the green grass that grew luxuriantly near the inner edge of the banquette, and gathering a few scraps of loose cotton we formed a soft pillow beneath its head. These kindnesses were not unheeded—even in its last moments the frail sufferer yielded to the dictates of gratitude; feebly, as with extreme pain, even as the dampness of death gathered upon its brow, its eyes were unclosed, and it gave us one glance so full of acknowledgment for the slight favors we had extended it, that will haunt us "while memory holds a seat in this distracted globe." Sweet and peaceful were its dying moments.

"He faded, and so calm and meek,
So soft'y worn, so sweetly weak,
So tearless, yet so tender—kind,
And grieved for those he left behind:
With all the world a cheek whose bloom
Was as a mockery of the tomb,
As a departing rainbow's ray—
An eye of most transparent light
That almost made his death bed bright,
And not a word of murmur—not
A groan o'er his untimely lot."

One struggle and all was over—the pure spirit fled into eternity. A tear stood in either eye as we gazed upon the lifeless remains of the interesting stranger, although of his name and his race we were utterly ignorant; all we knew was that he died in silence, afar from friends and home, unhonored and unsung, though perchance not unwept. Our reflections as we bent o'er the dead, were most bewildering. Was it the victim of unrequited love that was stretched out silent upon its kindred clay before us, or still another sacrifice to female perfidy? Perhaps other sorrows, far beyond human ken, had thus cut him down in the bloom and beauty of his days. All speculation was idle, his secret, if any he had, had died with him.—Sadly and mournfully we straightened out his delicate limbs, already stiffening for the grave, plucked some tiny flowers upon which the dew of night glittered like diamonds, scattered them over him, and with one last lingering look, left him for "decay's effacing fingers,"—a prey to "darkness and the worm." Faithfully and minutely have we thus described the last moments of one of the fattest rats we ever beheld!—Pic.

RUSSELL'S CONCERT.

Be thou the first true merit to befriend,
His praise is LOST who stays till all commend.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Scarcely an author, prose or poetical, who has written upon the subject, that has not ascribed a most salutary effect in general to the powers of Music. The temporary influence in tranquilizing the feelings or in exciting the other emotions is of daily occurrence, and too well known to require illustration. The greatest of Nature's Imitators, the immortal Shakespeare, seemed to believe that he whose soul was not alive to these powers, and was so stoikish as to be incapable of enjoying the "concord of sweet sounds," was fit for all evil deeds and "not to be trusted." The character, then, of a community, is intimately connected with its cultivation of the musical powers of that community—and believing as we do, the truth of the principle that he whose ear and feelings are attuned to and pleased with musical efforts, will, for that reason alone, be a better member of society, we are gratified at every attempt to raise the standard of musical excellence, both vocal and instrumental.

We have been induced, Messrs. Editors, to the above remarks, by attending a concert on Monday evening, given by Mr. Russell, now in our city, and which I was gratified to find well attended by the elite of our city, a fact which, according to our theory, speaks volumes in favor of their hearts. Mr. R., whose voice is strong, sweet, harmonious, and highly cultivated, presented a rich and rare treat to the amateurs of vocal music. With raptures of delight I listened to the sweet accord of his deep-toned voice in some of the best selected pieces of the day, and

Such music! would I could forever hear,
For all his words were music to my ear.

I hope Mr. R. may be induced to continue longer in our city, and am satisfied that his efforts will receive the patronage they merit. But if our "fair ones" and amateurs should not agree with me in the estimate I have set on Mr. Russell's talents, I would say to them in the language held to the detractors of poor Jane Shore—

Faith, let the modest matrons of the town
Come here in crowds, and storm the singer down.

[Reported for the Baltimore Clipper.]

BALTIMORE CITY COURT.

MONDAY, JUNE 7, 1841.

Present—Judges Brice, Nisbet and Worthington.

The June session of this court for the trial of crimes and misdemeanors, commenced to-day.

Elias M. Stocksdale, who was only discharged by the court on Saturday morning last, after several months confinement in jail, for abusive conduct towards the family of Mr. Noah Walker, while in a state of intoxication, was brought into court to-day, having been arrested upon the complaint of Mr. Robert Bolton, charging him with threatening violence to him while inebriated, and delivered to the Warden of the Jail, upon a committment by Squire Snyder.

James Peregoy, indicted for rioting, was brought into court by his bail and given incharge of the Warden of the jail.

The following named gentlemen were this morning sworn in as members of the Grand Jury: Robert Purviance, Sr., Foreman, William J. Wight, Benjamin C. Ross, William Reany, John McColgan, John Creagh, John I. Gross, John Lynch, James L. Ridgely, John W. Walker, Richard Bradshaw, William A. Schaeffer, Mark Grafton, Jacob C. Small, Elias S. Griffin, Chas. M. Keyser, William Barnett, Noah Ridgely, John Brice, David W. Hudson, James Bacon, John Weaver, Joseph Owens, William Heald.

There being no arraignments before the court to-day, the gentlemen who compose the Petit Jury were discharged until Thursday morning next at 10 o'clock.

CONNUBIAL FELICITY. Henry Shutter was, on Sunday night, arrested and taken to the Western District watch House, charged with assaulting and beating his wife:

"Alas how light a cause may move,
Dissentions between hearts that love."

We have not room for the balance of the verse, nor is it necessary, as the offender was discharged in the morning, a sign, we presume, that his better half had forgiven him and taken him to her arms again.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT. The Opelousas Gazette of the 22d ult. says, that on the Monday previous Mr. Gilbert Sloane, of Bayou Boeuf, accidentally discharged a pistol, which nearly deprived his wife of life. Mr. S. was in the act of putting a new cap on his pistol, for the purpose of pursuing a runaway negro, when it accidentally exploded, lodging the contents in the face of his wife, the ball entered the upper lip, carrying away four of her teeth and lodged, it is supposed in the spine of her neck. Medical aid was immediately called in, and strong hopes are entertained of her recovery, but the ball has not been extracted.

On the 27th ult. a Mr. Price, residing near St. Louis was run over by the wheels of a wagon which he had been driving and was instantly killed.

PUBLIC LANDS. Our readers are aware that a public dinner was given on the 26th of last month, in New York, to Mr. Tallmadge, senator from that State. From the address delivered on that occasion, we extract the following on the subject of the distribution of the proceeds of the sales of the public lands among the States; a measure which we hope to see passed during the present session of Congress.

"Gentlemen, the next measure which I suppose ought to be brought forward at this extra session, is a bill to distribute the proceeds of the public lands. [Tremendous cheering.]

"Time will not permit me to dwell on this subject; but I will merely say, in general terms, that I deem this one of the most important measures that can be adopted at the present time. There has been an objection started by some against the distribution of the proceeds of the public lands, because in the present state of the revenue of the country, we require the proceeds of the public lands for the public defence. I say that for such defence of five millions of dollars distributed amongst the States, is worth more than $20,000,000 disposed of in any other way. [Cheers.] Such distribution will enable the States to go on with their internal improvements, and to sustain the State credit, and so be prepared for the national defence in time of war. [Cheers.] Let me illustrate this position for one moment, by referring to the system of internal improvements that has been carried out with such prosperous results in our state. Carry your recollection back to the period of the late war. If the improvements now in such successful operation had existed then, the Government would have saved in the course of a single campaign, more than the entire cost of their construction.—[Cheers.] What further have these improvements done for us? Why, they have furnished the means of ample and efficient defence in time of need. Look at Western New York. Look at what she was before the commencement of this system of internal improvement; look at your wheat growing country; look at the improvement of the Cayuga and Seneca lakes, and you will find that wheat was once only two shillings and sixpence a bushel, and lands, whose maximum value was then only $10 an acre, and much of it at but five, six or seven, now at $50, $60, $80 and on to a $100 an acre. Then suppose we were in a war, and it became necessary to levy a direct tax, and suppose the quota of New York be $500,000, why on the assessed value of real property in the State of New York one half mill tax would pay the $500,000. And this is all the result of your internal improvements. You have increased the value of property; you have given it twenty fold, ay, a hundred fold the value which it formerly had, and by the distribution of the proceeds of the public lands, you would be enabled to complete your works of internal improvement, and thereby you would do more good for the national defence than if you contributed a hundred millions to fortifications. I do not mean that there should be any withholding of what is necessary for the public defence. I would appropriate liberally. I would increase the Navy, and I would go into steamships, so that you may cope with other Governments. But give the proceeds of the public lands to the several States so that they may proceed with their internal improvements, and you will soon have the means to complete your national defence. [Cheers.]

O. K.—AWFUL CONDITION. A correspondent of the Fayette (N. C.) Observer, in noticing the census of that town says—"In the juvenile department I find 287 unmarried ladies between the ages of sixteen and thirty, and 406 between the ages of ten and sixteen. To counterbalance that, we have but 50 young men of a marriageable age, but ten out of that number are in a situation that would justify their 'taking the responsibility,' five out of that number have determined to lead a life of single blessedness, and the remaining five are not worth having." A "horrible state of society," truly.

There is to be a grand military encampment at Oakland, in Kentucky. The officers of the Louisville Legion have undertaken the necessary arrangements, and have extended invitations to all the military companies of the west, from Pittsburg and Wheeling, east, to the extreme Missouri frontier, and south as far as New Orleans. Forty companies are named as certain to come, and many more are expected. It will be a very imposing gathering.

The Fourth of July this year will come on Sunday. On which day should the celebration take place, Saturday or Monday?—Boston paper.

To us it is quite immaterial, though perhaps some of our numerous readers may have a preference. If Professor Espy will give us information we will choose the fairest day. Whatever day may be selected we should like to see a handsome military parade.

NOT MURDERED. Mr. Hiram Noble of Berlin, (Conn.) who was reported to have been murdered some time since, has, it seems, been laboring under mental derangement. He had been missing for some time, but returned a few days ago a perfect maniac.

AN IMPOSTOR. An Englishman who has been preaching for some time in Albany, and creating quite a revival, has been proven by late developments to be a most consummate scoundrel.

☞ The City Council of Philadelphia has appropriated a certain street exclusively to the sale of flowers.

DEFALCATION. It is stated in the Georgia Chronicle that the Rail-road Bank in Macon has been robbed to a large amount.

A London paper mentions that the "British Queen" steamer has been sold to the King of the Belgians.

TRUSTEES SALE of valuable real estate in the city of Baltimore. By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court of Maryland, the undersigned as Trustee, will expose to sale at auction on WEDNESDAY, the ninth day of June next, commencing at 9 o'clock, A. M. on the premises

ALL THAT VALUABLE PROPERTY heretofore conveyed by William Russell to the trustees for the poor of Baltimore City and County, by indenture bearing date on or about the fifteenth day of June seventeen hundred and ninety-two, and recorded amongst the land records of Baltimore County Court in liber W. G., No. K. K., folio 4 &c., and which in said deed is described as follows, viz—Beginning for the same at the intersection of Biddle and Price sts., and on the west side of said Biddle street, and running and bounding on the west side of said Biddle street north forty-four degrees, east forty eight perches and the half of a perch, then north fifty two and one half degrees, west thirty four perches to a parcel of ground heretofore sold to a certain William Gibson by the said William Russell, then running and bounding on said ground south forty four degrees, west forty four perches to Price street, then bounding on said street south easterly thirty four perches to the place of beginning, containing nine acres and one half of an acre and thirteen square perches of land more or less.

The above property adjoins the Rose Hill estate and is in the neighborhood of the outer Depot of the Baltimore and Susquehana Rail Road; it lies beyond the limits of direct taxation and is exempt from the payment of City Taxes; the whole property will be divided into a large number of Lots of such dimensions as will enable those of moderate means to become purchasers. Madison street, which forms its Southern boundary, has been well paved along its entire front and beyond, and has been built upon up to Biddle st., which forms the Eastern Boundary, Morris Alley, Gibson street, Jordan Alley, and Gordon street, pass thro' it from east to west. A better opportunity than the present rarely occurs either for investment or speculation, especially when the very liberal terms of payment are taken into consideration.

The terms of sale prescribed by the decree are that the purchasers shall pay one-sixth cash, one sixth in ninety days, one sixth in six months, one-sixth in nine months, one-sixth in twelve months, and one-sixth in fifteen months from the day of sale, the credit instalments to be secured by notes with one or more sureties to be approved by the Trustee and to bear interest from the day of sale.

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 8, 1841.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF WAR. We have not deemed it necessary to give this report in full to our readers, as it covers a large space; but subjoin such an abstract of its contents as may prove satisfactory.

The numerous establishments connected with the military service, are undergoing a regular course of inspection. In the general condition and disposition of the army there has been no material change since the last annual report from the department. The regular force stationed in Florida, consisting of eight regiments, and numbering, in the aggregate, by the last returns, five thousand and fifty-seven, it has been found expedient to continue in service in that territory. With the exception of a few incursion by small detachments of our troops in the fastnesses of the enemy, there has been a general cessation of hostilities. Four hundred and thirty one Indians, including about one hundred warriors, have surrendered and been transported to the place assigned them—but the Secretary expresses his regret "that but little hope can be justly cherished that this unhappy and wasteful war, which has already cost so great a number of valuable lives, and so many millions of public treasure, will be terminated without still further sacrifices. It appears that, after six months of negotiation, no access has been had to the principal and most powerful chief, or to any of his followers. Directions have accordingly been given for the most energetic and effective prosecution of the war the moment further negotiations shall appear to be useless. Steps have also been taken to increase the efficiency of the means now at the disposal of the officer in command; and, in the mean time, the retrenchment of every expenditure connected with the service, for purposes not essential in Indian warfare, has been earnestly enjoined."

"The many weighty considerations," says the Secretary, "which invite the immediate attention of Congress to the subject of the public defences generally, and particularly to the works absolutely necessary to the security of our great commercial emporiums, and the keys to our most valuable resources of every kind, must be so generally understood and appreciated that nothing this Department can urge could add anything to their force and conclusiveness. To say nothing of the destruction of property, and our weakened condition in a military point of view, attendant upon the carrying of any of our most assailable points, the penetration of our territory and the seizure of even one of our strongholds by a powerful enemy upon the sudden outbreak of war, it would seem to be equally the dictate of patriotism and wisdom to make due provision against the infliction of such insults to the national honor and character."

He then states the objections urged against the further progress of the works heretofore projected for the defence of our extensive sea-coast, arising from the application of steam to purposes of war; but expresses the conviction that these works should be completed.

"The array," says he, "of well-authenticated facts and results of past experience, and the well-sustained reasoning founded upon them, exhibited in the report of the board of officers referred to in the accompanying letter of the Chief of the Corps of Engineers, appear to be conclusive in favor of completing the system of defence therein recommended, so far, at least, as to place the country in what is denominated a good state of defensive preparation against any sudden occurrence of war. To this extent the completion of the works heretofore projected may be regarded as indispensable, however defective they may be as a perfect system of national defence. It will be seen from the estimates stated in the report alluded to, that to effect that object will require an appropriation of $9,693,547 upon the fortifications, and $2,493,000 for the armaments; making together the sum of $12,186,547. The obligation of the Government to apply this sum to the objects contemplated as speedily as the nature and due permanence of the several constructions will admit, is rendered imperative and absolute by every consideration of public safety and public honor.

"It is estimated by the Chief Engineer that the sum of $1,435,500 can be judiciously and most beneficially applied upon those essential works of defence during the remainder of the present year, in addition to the appropriations heretofore made for the same object. The expenditures to this branch of the public service have been more considerable in the current quarter than usual, and hence the additional appropriations asked for are larger than they would have been under ordinary circumstances. How this has happened will be explained by the fact that, soon after the accession of your immediate and lamented predecessor, all the means at the disposal of this Department were directed to be employed upon the fortifications and other works for the protection of the Atlantic frontier, in the manner deemed best calculated to produce the greatest possible efficiency in the shortest time. This course appeared to be called for by the unsettled and threatening aspect of our foreign relations. While the whole of the resources at the disposal of the Department for this service were thus ordered to be applied to such unfinished works as could be made available, in whole or in part, in a reasonable time, it is proper to state, in this connection, that directions were at the same time given to supply, without delay, the works already completed with their appropriate armament."

The governor of New York has transferred to the United States, certain works which had been constructed by the State on Staten Island, which are regarded as of great importance, and which are undergoing repair and improvement. An appropriation will be required to pay for the ground upon which these works are located; and an additional appropriation of $220,000 is asked from the ordnance department. The secretary calls the attention of Congress to the public armories, in which the department has deemed it necessary to dispense with the civil superintendency authorized by law, and to place them exclusively under the control of officers of the ordnance department. The defects and injury from the former system are pointed out by the secretary.

"Additional appropriations, to the amount of $825,637 86, are required by the Pay and Quartermaster's Departments for the service of the present year. The amount asked by the Quartermaster General appears to be indispensable. It is about the sum which Congress at the last session failed to appropriate, though included in the estimates, and understood to be in part for arrearages for the year 1840; and a large portion of the present demand may not be improperly set down to the same account. A portion of the sum required by the Pay Department is for arrearages of the year 1840, as will appear from the report of the Paymaster General.

"The agents and superintendents heretofore employed in the construction of the various improvements on the lakes, the sea coast, and in the interior, have been discharged, except such as have been retained at a small compensation, to guard some of the most important works remaining in an unfinished state, and the public property connected with them. In a few instances, it has been found expedient to employ an agent to take care of the property of the Government collected for the construction of these works, until Congress shall determine upon the question of continuing or abandoning them, where there was no fund out of which they could be paid. Some of these agents have been paid from the proceeds of the sale of a portion of the public property; others can be paid only by further sales or under an appropriation by Congress. It has also been ascertained that the expenditures upon several of these works have exceeded the appropriations made for their construction. These arrearages are generally due to contractors and laborers in no way responsible for this error; and provision should therefore be made for the payment of them. The amount necessary to discharge them, as well as to pay the expenses of the agents employed as above stated, appears from the report of the Chief of the Corps of Topographical Engineers to be $39,997 12."

The secretary will postpone until the next session of Congress, "the subject of the expediency of completing the Cumberland Road, and of improving certain harbors, and the navigation of certain great rivers."

The appropriation made for repairing the breach in the Potomac bridge, being inadequate to have the work done in a durable form, the subject is referred to the consideration of Congress. The department has also postponed the clearing out the Red River raft until fall, for reasons stated.

The secretary speaks of irregularities in the mode of drawing money from the public treasury, and in its application by the Indian Department; by which it is found difficult or impossible to settle the accounts of agents.

"As one irregularity, says he, is often the parent of another, so, under the usage of the Indian Bureau, by which large amounts of money have been held by disbursing agents, which should have reverted to the Treasury, these agents have had the means of loaning, and have actually loaned, large sums, within the last few years, to meet the necessities of the Treasury in other departments of the Government or other and distinct branches of the Indian department; and, in this manner, a system of accommodation has obtained without responsibility and unknown to the law.

"The evils of the practice, the subject of these remarks, will sufficiently appear when it is considered that they are precisely those which it was the object of the provision in the Constitution, prescribing the mode of drawing money from the Treasury, to guard against; and those also which were intended to be counteracted by the law of Congress requiring that unexpended balances shall revert to the Treasury at the expiration of two years.

"In the present condition of the accounts of disbursing agents, it is impossible to ascertain the precise amount of payments requiring appropriations by Congress for their final adjustment at the Treasury, but the amount is known, thus far, to exceed $200,000, and it will probably require $250,000, and possibly $300,000."

"The attention of the Department, (says the Secretary,) has been directed to the subject of Indian treaties, and particularly to the manner in which some of those recently made have been executed, involving the disbursement of large sums of money for the emigration and subsistence of Indians.

"The frauds that have been practised in the Southwest have been to some extent inquired into, but a full disclosure of all the facts has not yet been arrived at. Enough has, however, been brought to light to establish the conviction that certain contractors have realized the most enormous profits, the greater portion of which is believed to have been the direct fruit of gross fraud upon the Government or the Indians, practised by bribing some of the subordinate instruments in the public employment, or through the mismanagement of higher public agents, who can only screen themselves from the suspicion of a connivance in the frauds by submitting to the imputation of gross negligence, ignorance, or incompetency in the performance of their duty.

"From the involved character of these transactions and the difficulty of procuring full and precise information, it has been found impossible as yet to fix upon the point where these frauds commenced, or to ascertain the boundaries of responsibility among the numerous public officers and agents through whose direct or indirect instrumentality, connivance, or ignorance the contractors were able to consummate their unprincipled designs. This investigation has been prosecuted with the most painful reluctance, though persevered in under a paramount sense of duty; and enough has been disclosed to suggest an inquiry whether the guilty recipients may not be compelled to refund their iniquitous gains to the Treasury by process of law."

NAVY AND POST OFFICE REPORTS. The reports from the Secretary of the Navy and Postmaster General are given in yesterday's National Intelligencer. The former recommends "that a powerful squadron be kept afloat at home," with a view to the protection of our harbors and coasts from any sudden attack. This is an excellent suggestion, and will probably be promptly acted on by congress. He will recommend, at the regular session of Congress, a system of thorough reorganization of the Navy, so as to render that essential arm of national defence more effective.

The Postmaster General states, that there was due and unpaid to contractors, of ascertained balances, on the first of January last, the sum of $447,079, besides heavy demands for unliquidated claims. He says that the amount demanded for the transportation of mails by rail roads, is, in some cases, more than two hundred per cent. higher than is paid for coach service—and thinks that the facilities afforded by these roads for the private conveyance of letters, greatly diminish the post office revenue. In Boston alone, the decrease in postage receipts for the quarter ending 31st March last, was $3,195.

These facts are presented, he says, in no spirit of unkindness towards those to whose management these incorporations are entrusted, but that I have considered it due to our whole people to refer to this subject, as one which will ere long call for national and state legislation, unless a corrective be sooner applied by public opinion.

RIGHTS OF WOMAN. Mrs. Gove will deliver a lecture this evening, at the Lecture Room of the Universalist Church, on the "Rights of woman;" and, as a matter of course, she will have a crowded audience, for the ladies are no doubt anxious to hear their rights defined, so that they may be properly understood and exercised. So that Mrs. Gove does not teach them to rebel against their "liege lords," the men can have no objection to her lecture—but, if she should adopt the notion of General Gaines, that ladies ought to become practitioners of law, there will be some grumbling at the doctrine. We hope, at all events, that she will be liberally patronized; for we think that she not only designs to promote the welfare of her sex, but has, in the course of her lectures, given them such advice, as, if followed, would prove eminently serviceable.

OFFICE-SEEKERS. We are told that there is literally a "jam" of office-seekers in Washington; and that the departments are so filled with applicants as to impede the progress of business. General Jackson was overrun in a similar way, and is said to have relieved himself from importunity by declaring that that he would appoint no man who did not remain at home. We hope that President Tyler and the members of his cabinet will adopt the same rule, and dismiss the swarm of applicants to their homes. It is too bad to have a host of teasers constantly surrounding the secretaries, especially at a time when their attention is demanded by matters of a graver import.

FOURTH OF JULY. As this great national anniversary is rapidly approaching, we should like to see some movement made to commemorate it in an appropriate manner. The day ought not to permitted to pass unobserved; and we do hope, that, in whatever arrangements may be made to celebrate it, the battle axe of party will be laid aside, and that all will unite with patriotic feeling in doing honor to the birth-day of our national independence.

STATE CONVENTION. The opponents of the administration will hold a state convention on Thursday next, to nominate a candidate for Governor of Maryland. After which both parties will probably postpone active operations until after the dog days. This would be the better policy.

CONVICTED. By a letter received last night dated Pittsburg, June 4, we learn that Braddee, the great mail robber, has been found guilty of the offence for which he was indicted. Two of Braddee's gang, Strayer and Corman, came into court and plead guilty. Pernol's trial is yet to come on.

ANOTHER MURDER AT ST. LOUIS. We learn from the St. Louis Republican that an affray took place on the 28th ult. between Major Elias T. Langham and Mr. James Adams, growing out of a claim to Duncan's Island, when the Major drew a pistol and shot Adams through the head. The Major then surrendered himself and was committed to prison until morning, when he was admitted to bail in the sum of $5,000.

NEW YORK THEATRES. The Mercury says: with the Park and Franklin closed, the National burned down, and the company of the Olympic gone to Philadelphia, the Chatham, the Bowery, and Niblo, will have the whole field to themselves. It is stated, however, that Mr. Burton is in treaty for a hall, which he will open for a Vaudeville season.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN.

A GOOD CHANCE. For profitable information we refer the reader to the advertisement of Mr. W. M. Hopkins, which may be found in another column.

ASSAULT. Sam'l Perry was taken to the Eastern District watch house, on Sunday night, charged with assaulting and beating a Spaniard named Casilio. He was committed by Justice Jones.

MORE DRUNKENNESS. Adam Vance, Mary Furback, John Ellis and Richard Sterling were, on Sunday night, taken in the streets drunk, and lodged until morning in the different watch houses.

ATTEMPT. An attempt was made on Sunday morning last to fire a house in Marion st. between Howard and Eutaw sts. by kindling a fire in the cellar. Fortunately the plot was discovered before any serious damages were sustained. The incendiary made his escape.

DELICIOUS. Those spiced Soft Crabs sent to us yesterday by Messrs. Herring & House, No. 17, Market Space, were truly delightful, and were disposed of in short order. Those of our readers who desire to taste the delicacy, have only to send to the above firm to be gratified.

CHARGE OF FELONY. Mary Stuart, colored, charged with stealing a silver watch from Samuel Jones, was arrested on Saturday night, and carried to the Western District watch house. Committed by the magistrate of the night.

CHARGE OF INSANITY. Samuel Errington, charged by his father with being in a fit of insanity, and threatening the lives of his people, was arrested on the night of the 6th, taken to the watch house, and committed by the magistrate in the morning.

ASSAULTS AND BATTERIES. Mary Zudel, charged with assault and battery upon Bridget Glenn, was bound over yesterday by Justice Pennington, to appear at the present term of the city court, to answer to the charge. Five negroes were also arrested upon similar charges, and bound over by the same Justice.

MURDER MOST FOUL. On Saturday morning last an atrocious murder was committed at the North East corner of Baltimore and Harrison sts. The personage who perpetrated this terrible deed, did it by taking the object of his vengeance and deliberately dashing its brains out against the curb stone. The deceased was an unfortunate little pig which had been feloniously trespassing upon premises where it had no right to go.

CORKOLOGICAL SALUTE. Yesterday, about the time the military were passing the corner of Gay and Baltimore streets, the cork of a bottle of mead, excited to emulation by the military ardor evinced by the strong turn out of the different regiments, or by the heat of the weather, we will not say which, flew out of its proper sphere, striking a lady who was passing at the time in the face, and covering her dress with froth.

UNJUSTIFIABLE SEVERITY. We learn that on Sunday afternoon last, a small boy having been guilty of throwing water on the floor of a Sunday School house in the southwestern part of the city, one of the teachers, a gentleman of high standing in this community, chastised him so severely with a rattan, as to leave the marks of the weapon on his person. We forbear mentioning names from the fact that our information was not based upon the evidence of any one who was present; but, if the statement be true, we know of no cause which could justify a Sabbath School teacher, whose business it should be to promulgate the doctrines of love and mercy, in using such severity.

MILITARY. Yesterday a number of the companies, with their respective bands, attached to the 5th and 53d regiments, turned out to parade in obedience to orders. The day was uncomfortably warm, and from the meagre number of plumes and regimentals we infer that there were many who gave place to comfort instead of patriotism. Some of the principal officers were among the missing. There is no use in half doing things. Let us either have a good, brilliant, spirited parade or none at all. When the head officers neglect their soldiers, what are they to expect? Baltimore has the material for a splendid display of soldiery. Her patriotism, however, wants stirring up; and unless we have more energy and more determined perseverance we shall never have another turn out as of yore.

HIGHLY INTERESTING CASE. A case has been for some days past pending in Baltimore County Court, the result of which must be of considerable interest to the business portion of our community. At the instance of the Merchants' Bank of Baltimore a suit has been instituted against the Farmers' Bank of Virginia to recover $10,000—the alleged value of a check, drawn by John B. Steenbergen (with whose great speculations and subsequent failure our readers are all aware), upon the latter bank, marked good by the cashier, and subsequently deposited by Steenbergen with the Merchants' Bank, in connexion with other things, as collateral security for the payment of a loan made by that institution to him. The check was retained for some time in the hands of the Merchants' Bank; and, on being presented to the bank upon which it was drawn, payment was refused on the ground that there were no funds in the hands of that bank to meet it. Suit was then brought to recover the amount. The decision of the court upon several prayers made by the counsel on both sides, was given on Saturday, and the jury have since been engaged in listening to the eloquent arguments of those gentlemen. The counsel for the Merchants' Bank are Geo. Wm. Brown and Wm. Schley, esqs.; for the defendant, the Farmers' Bank of Virginia, J. V. L. McMahon and Reverdy Johnson, esqs. As soon as the verdict of the jury is rendered, we shall endeavor to lay before our readers a report of the case.

APPEAL OF THE NEPTUNE TEMPERANCE SOCIETY. OF FELL'S POINT.

☞For the purpose of more readily executing their benevolent design, the members of this Society have resolved to obtain a permanent interest in a suitable public building where they can hold their meetings more conveniently to themselves, and it is hoped, with increased advantage to the public. A literary association, known as the Franklin Institution, of Fell's Point, having determined to erect an edifice for their accommodation, the estimated cost of which is set down at three thousand dollars, proposed that the Neptune and Howard Temperance Societies join them in the enterprise, by each taking an interest equal to one fourth the cost, say seven hundred and fifty dollars. It is very properly presumed that the united efforts of three societies can with very little labor, and by an early day, raise the required sum.

Regarding economy as of essential importance it is designed that the building shall be so constructed as to render it ornamental to the eastern section of the city, and so arranged as to furnish ample accommodation for all the literary and moral purposes of which our community may require to assemble.

We now present ourselves to the public with an appeal to all the nobler feelings of our common nature, for aid in the proposed undertaking.

And by a resolution of the Association, the following gentlemen were appointed a committee to carry the above into effect:

A. B. Chamberlain	F. S. Littig
James C. Wheedon	John Williams
Dr. T. C. Murphy	David King
Capt. James Frazier	Capt. George Little
Wm. H. Watson	Archibald Parks, Jr.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Clipper.]

WASHINGTON, June 7, 1841.

In the House of Representatives this morning, as was expected, the abolition war was resumed.

The question came up on the resolution of Mr. Wise, in relation to the adoption of the rules of the last House, to which Mr. Adams had offered an amendment, viz: "excepting the 21st rule, which is hereby rescinded."

Mr. Wise, on leave, referred to a case some years ago, when the House had rejected an abolition petition, and in favor of which all the members from Massachusetts, except one, had voted.

Mr. W. C. Johnson also referred to some instances where he alleged that Mr. Adams himself had voted to reject an abolition petition.

Mr. Adams replied with some warmth, and charged, that Mr. J., by making the assertion, had endeavored to impose upon the House; "for," said Mr. A., "I did not vote to reject, but merely to postpone the consideration of that petition from one day to another.

Some cross-firing again took place between Messrs. Johnson and Adams, the latter of whom still persisted that the former had attempted to impose upon the House by the assertion he had made. Mr. A. then denounced the 21st rule as an abomination, and the essence of tyranny. He then replied at some length to the speeches of Messrs. Johnson and Wise of Thursday last, but more particularly to that of the former. Mr. Johnson had assented that he had received a letter from the Executive some time ago, approving the 21st rule. "Now," said Mr. A., "I demand that the letter be produced before the House."

Mr. Johnson said he had not the letter with him, but he would vouch for what he had stated; nay, he was authorized by the Executive to say that such were his views.

Mr. Adams contended that no member had any right to introduce into the House the views of the Executive. Such a thing, said he, was calculated to influence the votes of the House, which ought ever to remain free from any Executive bias whatever.

Mr. King, of Georgia, in a very powerful speech replied. He alluded in the most glowing language to the evils which would inevitably arise from the continual agitation of this subject, and warned Mr. Adams, that should the Union be dissolved, he would have the unenviable notoriety of sending his name down with the ruins. Mr. K. contended that the general government had no right to interfere in any way with the institution of slavery in the District or elsewhere; and rather than see such a violation of the constitution, he would rather see the country reduced to a second Sodom, covered with the ashes of desolation.—"Yes," said he "rather than see the constitution thus insulted by a set of fanatics, who fear neither God or man, I would rather see it torn into ten thousand tatters, and scattered to the four winds of heaven."

Mr. Fillmore followed, and after some remarks in relation to the past waste of time, moved the previous question, which was ordered.

The question was then taken on the amendment of Mr. Adams proposing to rescind the 21st Rule, and it was agreed to.

The question was then taken on the resolution of Mr. Wise as amended. The resolution authorized the appointment of a Committee to revise the rules, and provided that the rules of the last House shall be observed until said Committee shall report. As amended, it reads "except the 21st rule, which is hereby rescinded."

Mr. Wise then moved to lay his own resolution on the table.

In the Senate, on motion of Mr. Clay, a resolution was adopted, calling upon the Secretary of the Treasury to lay before that body a plan for the establishment of a fiscal agent to transact the financial concerns of government, as may be free from all constitutional objections.

The remainder of the day was taken up in a debate on a bill reported on Saturday, by Mr. Clay for the repeal of the Sub-Treasury law.

IMPORTANT DECISION. A case was on Saturday afternoon tried before Wm. A. Schaffer, esq., the result of which is of considerable importance to the owners and masters of vessels. It appears, from evidence given on part of plaintiff,—the Baltimore and Chesapeake Steam Towing Company of Baltimore,—that, some short time since, a seaman named Guthrie, belonging to the schr. Uwarkee, of Maine, then in the bay, called on one of the consignees of the vessel, and stated that the captain desired a lighter or steamboat to be sent to the assistance of the vessel, which was aground, and, being heavily laden with iron, could not be got off. The consignee immediately despatched a message to capt. Sanner, of the Relief, who, upon the reception of it, put his boat in readiness, and went in search of the schooner. Owing, however, to some misdirection as to where the schooner was, the Relief, after cruizing all night, only reached her by morning, before which time the captain and crew had succeeded in getting her afloat; and when the Relief got along side, capt. Sanner, upon hailing, was informed that his services were not required. After the Uwarkee arrived here, the Steam Towing Company rendered a bill to capt. Martin, who commanded her, for $40, being the value of the fuel consumed on the trip of the Relief in search of the schooner. Payment was refused, and this suit was then brought. After hearing the arguments upon both sides, squire Schaffer gave judgment against capt. Martin for the sum of $40 and costs.

The accomplice of Williamson, the burglar, who was engaged in the robbery of Davis, Palmer & Co's store, and the office of Gilbert & Sons, Boston, has been taken at Montreal, by officers Clapp, of that city, and Blayney, of Philadelphia. He is known as "Hawk-eye," alias Thompson, alias Seal.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From Captain Parrish, who commenced to use them when diseased in August, 1839.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 2, 1840.

☞ To Dr. Davies: Dear Sir—I have had experience in the virtue of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,
E. PARRISH.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.

Dr. Wm. Davies: Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been laboring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. Yours, respectfully, JOHN DYE.

We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, know our neighbour, Mr. Dye, sold him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true. Respectfully,
W. & S. B. ANDERSON.

☞ They will carry off the bile from the stomach.

Sold by G. Savage, General Agent for Washington; J. Thomas, and Mrs. Banks Georgetown; W. G. Cole, Hatter, and J. Brunner, Frederick; S. Church, Alexandria; J. Dennith, York; No. 34 Fayette street; and by T. MOORE, No. 74 Market street, General Agent for Baltimore. Price 25 cents per box, five for $1, or $2 per dozen. m22

NOTICE.

BALTIMORE & OHIO RAIL ROAD.

THE CHANGE in the hour of arrival of the Mail Train from Philadelphia, renders it necessarary that a corresponding change should be made in the departure of the Morning Cars for the west:

Notice is therefore hereby given. That on and after WEDNESDAY, 26th instant, the Passenger Train for Ellicott's Mills, Frederick, and Harper's Ferry will be despatched from the Depot in Pratt street, at half past 9 instead of 7 o'clock, A. M., the present hour of departure—of which travellers will take notice.

☞ The Extra Train for Frederick will continue to leave at 3½ o'clock every evening, with which, as well as with the Morning Train, passengers from Washington can still connect at the Relay House. By order,

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Locke, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.
☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.
N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 92 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.
P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 29 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.
Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY,
No. 17 HARRISON ST.
"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, when it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

☞ Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. m1-tf

Oh! strike those magic chords again,
And let them on the night breeze swell,
Their gentle numbers doth enchain
Each thought, and sense, with potent spell.

You may not know what feelings throng
This heart of mine—how dear they are—
What witching pow'r is in each song,
That floats upon your "light Guitar."

But touch the chords, while all a-round
So soft and still—at midnight's hour,
When not a harsh, discordant sound
Of noise, or strife, disarms their power.

And I will list, while pulses thrill,
And deep emotions crowd my breast,
And when they cease, will linger still
On the sweet language they express'd.

STANZAS.

Oh! songs there are than that more gay,
And some sweetly sad perchance;
Airs that drive all care away,
That well befit the sprightly dance;
And such I'll sing and play for thee,
But do not ask that song from me.

He loved to hear me sing it, when
His youthful heart was all my own,
And with its words return again
The thought that I am now alone,
The maid he loves will sing for thee
The song thou canst not hear from me. ELLEN.

From the Ladies' Companion for June.

THE RESCUE.

BY MRS. EMELINE S. SMITH.

The incident about to be related, is one of many similar ones, which occurred during the early settlement of America. Those who sought a home in the savage wilds, which then covered the land, wedded themselves to a life of peril and hardship. The dangers which continually threatened them, called forth all the heroic qualities of their nature, and their lives were marked by many a lofty deed of daring and devotion. Such deeds should not sink into oblivion, for they belong to the history of our country, and as such, should be recorded and remembered.

We would present a picture to the imagination of the reader. There is a broad and beautiful stream, with its deep, still waters, flowing on between banks covered by luxuriant foliage; and its bright surface dotted here and there with fairy little isles, where graceful shrubs and fragrant flowers bud and blossom undisturbed in wild and lonely loveliness. Bright-plumed birds, of many varieties, are winging their way over the quiet water, and the surrounding scene echoes with their tuneful minstrelsy. On the borders of the river, at the edge of a forest that stretches far away over hill and dale, stands the rude but picturesque dwelling of a backwoodsman; with the blue smoke curling up from its lowly roof, and its humble walls glancing out from the green foliage that surrounds them.—There are some indications of taste and refinement near the woodman's home, which give a cheerful appearance to that otherwise wild and lovely scene. A graceful vine curtains the lowly window, and many bright flowers, natives of a distant soil, shed their grateful perfume around. Near the door hangs a cage, containing a rare and beautiful bird, whose song of gladness breaks sweetly upon the stillness of that solitary place.

On a low seat at the entrance of the dwelling, is seen a young woman, caressing an infant. She has lost the blooming loveliness of early youth—her cheek is pale, and her brow wears that thoughtful expression which is imprinted by the touch of care; yet she is still beautiful in form and feature, and none may look upon her without admiration. As she bends over the child in her arms, her eye fills with that unutterable tenderness and love which are only seen in the eye of a mother, and which make the face of a beautiful woman almost angelic. Now and then she turns from the child, to send an anxious glance towards the forest, as if she watched for the approach of some one from that direction. She is momentarily expecting her husband. He left his home at morn; the hour appointed for his return has passed away, the shadows of the trees are lengthening in the rays of the setting sun, and yet he comes not. The fond wife begins to tremble for his safety—a fearful foreboding of some approaching calamity haunts her imagination.

She has reason to fear; for that portion of country was, at this time, the theatre of many a tragic scene. Sometimes the woodman, in penetrating too far into the pathless recesses of the forest, lost his way, and wandered for days in the dreary wilderness, suffering many miseries, and perishing at last by the pangs of hunger.—Sometimes a hungry beast of prey would cross the path of the wanderer, and doom him to a dreadful death. Sometimes the wily red man, who yet lurked about those lonely wilds, entrapped the white hunter, and, from a spirit of revenge, or the thirst for blood, sacrificed his victim with the most wanton and barbarous cruelty.

As the anxious wife thought of these things, her fears and forebodings became almost insupportable. Hushing the infant to sleep, she carried it into the dwelling, and deposited it in its cradle bed. She then hastened forth again, and wandered along the path that led to the forest, anxiously looking forward the while for her husband. She walked onward for some time, fondly hoping to see the object of her search, but her hopes were vain, and sending one more searching glance around, and seeing nothing but the gloomy shadows of the trees, she turned with a heavy heart to retrace her steps. As she was proceeding homeward, a sudden fear for her child, whom she had left alone, crossed her mind, and caused her to hasten forward. Drawing nearer to the dwelling, this fear became so intense, that it amounted almost to a conviction of some terrible calamity. Flying, rather than walking, she reached the house, and sprang to the cradle—it was empty, and the child no where to be seen! With frantic eagerness she rushed to the back door of the dwelling, which she had left closed, and which she now found was open. She was just in time to see a party of Indians making rapidly to the woods. Her heart whispered the fearful assurance that they bore away its treasure. Here was a trying situation for a timid and helpless woman—her husband afar off—perhaps in peril—her child—her first born and only one, torn away by the rude hand of a savage—dread night approaching, and no earthly arm to aid!

Without pausing for reflection, the mother flew along the path which the Indians had taken. Now and then she caught a glimpse of their forms as they moved rapidly through the trees, but as the twilight deepened, and surrounding objects became more indistinct, even that slight comfort was denied her, and she traced her gloomy pathway without knowing whether or not it would bring her nearer the object of her pursuit. Yet she paused not a moment in indecision, but hastened onward through the increasing darkness, unconscious of the uncertainty of her search, and the wildness of her expedition. She had but one thought—one hope; and that was to be near her child—to save it, if it could be saved, or perish with it, if perish it must. Strong in this determination, she pushed forward, thoughtless of fatigue, and fearless of peril. As the night advanced, the wind rose and sighed among the trees with a mournful and heart-chilling sound. The stars that had hitherto shed a faint light through the branches, were now veiled in black clouds, that seemed to presage a storm; and ever and anon the shrill croaking of a night-bird, or the prolonged howl of some beast of prey, was borne to the ear of the unhappy wanderer, waking fearful thoughts, and warning her of the dangers by which she was surrounded.

Those who have never roamed in a forest at midnight, can scarcely realize how much that is terrifying is connected with such a journey. At one time the howl of the hungry wolf will burst so suddenly and clearly on the ear that we can scarcely persuade ourselves the monster is not close at our side—at another, the falling of a decayed branch will produce such a loud and fearful sound, that we deem it the fatal plunge which must doom us to destruction. Now the wind will come with a fitful and moaning cadence, so like the human voice, that we, for an instant, believe it the wail of an agonized being—and again it will sweep by with a rushing sound like a troop of enraged monsters, bent on a mission of death. Sometimes an unseen, low-drooping branch will softly touch the shoulder, congealing the warm current of life with the idea that a spectral hand has suddenly arrested our progress; and again a black and blasted tree, with one or two sere branches protruding from its side, will, for an instant, still the pulsation of the heart, as we behold in it a frightful phantom, stretching forth its arms to grasp our shrinking forms.

All this, and more, must one feel and fear in a lonely midnight pilgrimage through the forest—and all this the mother endured as she pursued her almost hopeless enterprize. She had travelled far, very far, for the darkness of night, and the intricacies of the wood, had scarcely lessened the speed with which she commenced her walk, and she had been many hours on her way. Weariness was beginning to overcome her—hope was departing from her heart, and despair chilling all her energies, when she discovered afar off through the trees, a light. It was but a feeble glimmer, yet oh! how it irradiated the path of the wanderer. The instant she beheld it, hope sprang back to her heart, and strength invigorated her frame. That faint and far-off ray seemed the light of returning happiness, and she watched it as eagerly as the mariner watches the star which guides him over ocean's stormy waves. She now hastened onward with redoubled energy, and though her step sometimes faltered, and her heart sunk within her, as the light disappeared behind some intervening object, she still kept her eye steadily in the direction of the beacon, and soon gained a position where it shone brightly before her, and she could approach without losing sight of it again. As she drew near, she gazed upon the scene which that light revealed, with mingled feelings of astonishment, hope and fear.

There was a large fire built of the dried branches of trees, and around it lay the dusky forms of five or six Indians, reposing upon the ground.—Their appearance was savage and fearful in the extreme; each with his painted feathers lighted by the fitful glare of the fire, and his tomahawk and scalping-knife gleaming at his side. Near them were implements of hunting, and around the fire lay scattered bones and fragments of a recent rude and hasty repast. The whole scene was calculated to strike terror into the heart of the delicate being who gazed upon it.

But she scarcely saw the rude savages or their implements of death, for her whole soul was absorbed in contemplating a portion of the scene which we have not yet described, and which riveted her attention with a thrilling and magic power. Bound to a tree, was the form of her husband; and at his feet on the cold ground, lay her child. The father's face was pale, and stained with blood; the infant's was covered by its dress, and its form was motionless as if chilled by the cold hand of death. How felt the fond wife and mother when that sight of horror met her eye! Repressing by a mighty effort the shriek of agony that rose to her lips, and conquering, by the strength of a heroic soul, the almost irresistible desire she felt to rush forward, and clasp those dear ones to her aching heart, she stood gazing upon the scene with feelings which cannot be described. She saw with a throb of sudden joy, that her husband lived, but her heart grew cold again as she watched the motionless form of her child. She longed to fly to its side, and ascertain the truth, for the suspense that preyed upon her mind was terrible, but again her resolute mind restrained her, and she began to deliberate upon the situation of her husband, and devise means for releasing him.

The vivid light cast by the fire on all things near it, enabled the wife to note the scene distinctly. She saw, with a thankful heart, that the savages all slept, and that she could reach the side of her husband without passing near enough to awake them; but she also saw that he was bound by strong cords, which she could not hope in her wearied state, to unfasten, and she looked about for something to sever them. There was nothing, save the knive which the Indians wore at their sides. Looking more intently, she saw one of these had slipped from its place, and lay on the ground by its owner, so near, that his hand almost touched the hilt. A pang of intense fear shot through her frame, when she thought of approaching so close to the terrific form of the savage, but another look upon the pale face of the prisoner, re-assured her, and she determined to rescue him, or perish in the attempt. She could not approach the Indians without revealing herself to the eyes of her husband, and she feared, in that case, an exclamation of surprise would follow her appearance, and arouse the foe from their slumber. After pondering a moment upon the best mode of proceeding, she determined to steal softly to the back of the tree, place her hand upon the lip of the captive, whisper a few words of explanation, and implore him, not by the slightest murmur, to frustrate her plans. With a throbbing heart, she commenced her perilous undertaking. Noiselessly she made her way to the tree, and accomplished her purpose. There was no time for delay, yet one instant the mother turned to look upon her child, yearning to clasp it to her bosom, but not daring to lift the cloth which concealed its features, and assure herself whether or not it lived. A little while before, she would have given worlds to be able to do this, but now she felt that to behold it wrapped in the slumber of death, would unnerve her arm, and render her unfit for the further prosecution of her trying task. With a firmness that would have done honor to a stoic, she conquered the promptings of natural love, and hastened away. With a step as noiseless as the falling dew, she glided towards the slumbering savages; as she drew near her frame trembled so violently, she could scarcely support herself; and when she put forth her hand to take the knife, the beating of her heart was so audible, she feared it would awake the sleepers, and she pressed her hand convulsively upon it, to still its tumultuous throbbings. One terrible instant she thought the eyes of the Indian opened, and glared upon her, with a fierce and malignant expression; but this was mere fancy, for he still slept, and the next moment she was gliding away, with the knife firmly grasped in her hand. With a few rapid strokes she liberated her husband, and then bent down and uncovered the child. To her unspeakable joy, she found it in a slumber as sweet and peaceful, as though it had been hushed to rest upon its mother's bosom. With a prayer of gratitude upon her lips, she lifted it up from its rude resting place, turned to her companion, and motioned the way to their home. With rapid and noiseless steps they hurried away, speeding onward with tremulous yet hopeful hearts. Not a moment did the fond mother spare to caress her infant—not a word did she utter to greet her husband. The spell of a new found, uncertain happiness had settled upon her spirit, and she feared to break its thrilling charm. For a time they travelled thus in silence and darkness; moving, as near as they could judge, in the direction of their home, and anxious to be farther, still farther away from their enemies. At length weariness compelled them to rest awhile; and, as the dawning day began to shed a trembling light abroad, they crept into a thicket and sought repose.

The beams of the rising sun lighted the wanderers on their homeward pathway; and when that sun was sinking to repose, its parting rays fell calmly over the woodman's humble home, revealing a scene of bliss such as seldom visits the abode of man. How radiant with grateful joy was the face of the fond mother, as she clasped her recovered treasure closer to her bosom; how full of admiring love was the eye of the rescued husband, as it rested upon its fair preserver; and oh! how warm and fervent was the prayer, breathed in that hour for safety, bearing up to Heaven the deep devotion of thankful and happy hearts.

"Hudson, June 5, 1841.

"I hasten to give you an account of a most dreadful accident which has taken place in our city today. It has been the custom of the chief superintendant latterly, to let the cars go down the descent from the head of Warren street, without the engine or horse power, and always thinking that a man placed at the break of each car was sufficient for safety.

"But on the run down this morning the breaks did not perform as well as usual, and the consequence was that six large freight cars ran off the dock, and one lost. The amount of property lost cannot be ascertained exactly, but as near as can be found out, will not be less than $20,000; but that is not any thing where the loss of life is taken in consideration—for 5 persons who were known to be in the cars were lost—and how many more cannot be told. Two were taken out one mashed to a complete jelly. And on the other, all means were tried, but in vain, to resuse itate him."

LIEUT. HUNTER'S EXPERIMENT. The experimental steamer, Germ, Lieut. Hunter, arrived at Washington on last Wednesday. The Norfolk Beacon states that this little steamer is attracting great attention at the Metropolis of the Union. The President and Heads of Departments took a trip in her on the 7th down the Potomac as far as Mount Vernon, and the chief Naval Constructor has, as we learn, expressed the opinion that the invention is one of great national importance. A large steam frigate is to be immediately constructed on the plan. The Germ made the run from Alexandria to Washington City in forty minutes.

FATAL EFFECTS OF FOLLY. A young man at Buffalo in a boasting vein, one day last week, undertook to lift a small cannon, lying on the wharf; by so doing, he overstrained himself, and sustained such internal injury as to cause his death in a few days.

THE WHOLE CITY INVITED.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold, having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND, For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Strictures, Diabets or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the uretha of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. Also, of L. S. THOMAS, corner of Briton and Forest streets—with full directions accompanying each one at $1 per bottle.

☞For sale in Washington city by ROBERT PATTERSON, cor. 9th street and the avenue, and CHAS. C. STOTT, corner of 7th street and the avenue; and by H. WADE, on 7th street.

66½ BALTIMORE-ST. HATS AGAINST THE WORLD. No! Not all the World but the World of Humbugs!! Call at our Store and we will prove that we sell the cheapest Hats in Baltimore, in point of Beauty, Durability, and Fashion. Our prices are well known, and are as follows: Splendid Fashionable Russia Hats for $3.50, of the same quality as those selling elsewhere for $5. Also, fine fashionable Silk Hats at $2.50, warranted on Russia bodies, and generally selling elsewhere for $4 or no sale. And our old customers will please bear in mind that the well known KEEVIL removed from the Maryland Arcade some six months ago. So come one and all to 66½ Baltimore street, between Gay and Holliday-sts. for good and cheap Hats. Don't forget now!

W. H. KEEVIL & CO'S,
No. 66½ Baltimore-st., opposite Tripeletti's alley,
And 4 doors W. of Booth's well known Arcadian Store.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

N. B. The trade supplied with HATS in the rough of all qualities. mh30-3m

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

CORRECTION. From the manner in which the report of the secretary of the treasury is made, we were led into the error of stating in Monday's paper, that there is a deficiency in the treasury of thirty-one millions of dollars. From a more careful examination of the document we find, that the deficiency estimated by the treasurer for the present and coming year is $12,088,215. We make this correction with pleasure, and are glad to find that the treasury is in so much better a condition than we were induced to believe.

"STRIVE AND THRIVE." This is the title of a work written by Miss Howitt; but as none of our booksellers have furnished us with a copy for review, we are left to the full play of our imagination as to the contents of the book. It may be a love story, in which some sweet maiden has made "a dead set" at a young fellow, and by striving hard to win his affections has at last succeeded; or, it may be that the terms have a less romantic application. We think it certain that he who strives in earnest to attain an object, will be likely to thrive in his pursuit. We have seen the poor orphan, left in dependence, with no prospect before him but a life of labor and deprivation—we have seen this isolated being struggling against adverse fortune and the frowns and sneers of the world, succeed by hard striving in raising himself step by step, until at last he has so far thriven as to place himself among the distinguished men of the nation; respected for his high sense of honor and his irreproachable character, and admired for his great acquirements and surprising talents. To "strive" in his case, was to "thrive;" and we are sure that out of the eventful life of such a man, Miss Howitt would find abundant materials to weave an interesting and instructive story. And how many of the present day, fail and "fall into nought," because they do not "strive" with becoming energy.

The good book teaches us to "strive to enter in at the straight gate;" but he who has not sufficient resolution and perseverance to "strive" for those things which are required in this life, will hardly have the courage to "strive" for the better things of another. Trace back the successful man—the man who has carved out his own way through life; and you will not fail to discover that he has had to "strive" at every step of his progress.—And is there no merit in this exertion of one's energies? Most assuredly.—The man who is content to sit in idleness, or to depend for success upon expedients, which too frequently result in bankruptcy and dishonor, possesses no quality to elicit applause; no character upon which you can rely; no desire to "strive" to elevate himself by honest means, above the condition in which his destiny has cast him. Such a man is an object of contempt. He remains stationary or retrogrades, whilst the striving man passes by him triumphantly, amidst the cheers of his fellow-citizens, and with the approbation of his own heart. He has shewn how the willing mind and assisting hand can "strive and thrive."

HOUSE OF REFUGE. We have been favored by a friend with a copy of the annual report of the House of Refuge of Philadelphia. This report abounds with interesting details going to prove the highly beneficial effects of the system in the reformation of youth. In Baltimore the attempt to erect a similar establishment proved abortive, for what reason we have not clearly ascertained. Money, we believe, was subscribed by individuals, though probably totally inadequate to the purpose. The project should not be abandoned, for it is undeniable that a House of Refuge is as much needed in Baltimore as in any other city of the Union. An opportunity should be afforded to the youthful criminal to correct his habits and to reform his morals; neither of which can be accomplished so long as he is thrown into promiscuous intercourse with hardened felons, who instil into him principles which disqualify him for useful and honorable pursuits. The House of Refuge has been eminently successful in other places, and we hope yet to see the experiment tried in Baltimore.

THE LADIES. As we feel particularly solicitous that the ladies shall preserve their health, and thereby their beauty, they will pardon us for renewing advice, as old as the time of mother Eve, but unfortunately too much neglected at the present time. Health is attainable only through proper exercise; but as the weather is too warm for walking at the ordinary time of rising with the beau monde, if ladies will only change this bad habit of lying in bed in the morning, rise with the lark, and walk for an hour or two before breakfast, we will insure them good health, an excellent appetite, and an increase of beauty—provided that they adopt Mrs. Gove's advice as to lacing. They know that Eve is represented as having been a perfect beauty, and there can be no doubt that she was one of the loveliest works of God's creation—but then in her day, corsets had not been invented, and nature was not tortured. She had no steel or whalebone to compress her waist into a span, nor bustle of cotton or bran to deform her shape. Let the girls of the present day throw these instruments of torture aside, or be moderate in their use, take early exercise and inhale the invigorating morning air, and the tint of the rose will be substituted for the pale of the lily, and health and cheerfulness take the place of feebleness and ennui.

CONGRESS. The expectation generally entertained, that the present will be emphatically a business session of Congress, will, we think, be realized. In the Senate, particularly, the disposition prevails, to confine the action of congress to the particular business for which the session was called, and to proceed with all practicable despatch. For this purpose the speeches are few and concise; and yet, probably, matters are better understood than if members were to speak by the day. The house will be more prolific of debate; but still we think that members will be disposed to restrict themselves within reasonable limits, that the public business may be despatched. The only thing which we apprehend may cause delay, will be the discussions which may arise on the reception of abolition petitions. To prevent this, we hope that southern members will let these petitions be referred without opposition. It will do no injury; and the probability is, that there will be no inclination on the part of even the most violent abolitionists of the house to urge action upon them during the present session. We should deeply regret to see this exciting subject further agitated at present. The house has conceded the right of petition, and the friends of that course should be content. It must be evident to the most infatuated and unreflecting, that the subject of negro slavery is too delicate a matter to be introduced into and discussed by congress without danger. The southern states will never yield to the claim of interference, in any shape, by the national legislature, with a subject which is purely of a domestic character—and the fanatic who shall presume to attempt legislation in a case so palpably in opposition to constitutional rights, will incur a fearful responsibility. The ground is not debateable. The question of the reception of petitions is a different matter, upon which the best and most enlightened patriots may and do disagree. Much of existing excitement might, perhaps, have been avoided, had those petitions been received and referred, and permitted to take the ordinary course.

It will be seen by the following proceedings, that Mr. Clay is in favor of restricting the action of the extra session to certain subjects; and we think that it would be well for both houses of congress to have an understanding that they will adjourn after certain prominent measures shall have been adopted.

The resolutions offered by Mr. Clay were laid on the table.

Mr. Clay said that Senators would recollect that on the last meeting some conversation had passed as to introducing a resolution which should declare, in the outset, on what subjects it was proposed that Congress should act at the present extra session; he had since then turned his attention to the subject, and if no other gentleman had any resolution to offer, he would present the result of his reflection in the shape of the following resolutions:

Resolved, as the opinion of the Senate, That at the present session of Congress no business ought to be transacted but such as being of an important or urgent nature may be supposed to have influenced the extraordinary convention of Congress, or such as that the postponement of it might be materially detrimental to the public interest.

Resolved, therefore, as the opinion of the Senate, That the following subjects ought first, if not exclusively, to engage the deliberation of Congress at the present session:—

1st. The repeal of the sub-treasury.

2d. The incorporation of a bank adapted to the wants of the People and of the Government.

3d. The provision of an adequate revenue for the Government by the imposition of duties, and including an authority to contract a temporary loan to cover the public debt created by the last administration.

4th. The prospective distribution of the proceeds of the public lands.

5th. The passage of necessary appropriation bills; and

6th. Some modification of the banking system of the District of Columbia for the benefit of the people of the District.

Resolved, That it is expedient to distribute the business proper to be done this session between the Senate and House of Representatives, so as to avoid both Houses acting on the same subject and at the same time.

THE LATE PRESIDENT HARRISON. Mr. Bayard, from the select committee appointed to consider and report by what token of respect and affection it may be proper for the Congress of the United States to express the deep sensibility of the nation to the decease of their late President, made the following report:

The melancholy event of the death of WM. HENRY HARRISON, late President of the United States, having occurred during the recess of Congress, and the two Houses sharing in the general grief, and desiring to manifest their sensibilities upon the occasion of that public bereavement, therefore—

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled, That the chairs of the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives be shrouded in black during the residue of the session; and that the President pro tempore of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the members and officers of both Houses wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to transmit a copy of these resolutions to Mrs. Harrison, and to assure her of the profound respect of the two Houses of Congress for her person and character, and of the sincere condolence of the late afflicting dispensation of Providence.

NATIONAL THEATRE. For the last two nights the audience at the National have been delighted with the performance of a new drama, called St. Dallar, or the Monster Rag'on. It is an admirable burlesque upon the piece of St. George and the Dragon, and creates much merriment. It will be repeated this evening.

We learn that the Brandywine springs will be open in a few days ready for the reception of visitors. They will be under the superintendence of Col. Tence.

OFFICERS OF THE SENATE. On Monday last, Asbury Dickens was re-elected Secretary to the Senate for the present Congress, and the other old officers of that body were also re-elected.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN.

FIRE. A fire broke out last night a few minutes before 11 o'clock, in a three story brick warehouse, at the lower end of McElderry's wharf, occupied as a ship smithing establishment by Dull & Beacham, which was entirely consumed. The adjoining warehouse, occupied as a vinegar depot by Mr. Matthews, was injured in the upper story, the roof being entirely burnt off. The building on the lower side, known as the old steam mill, which has not been occupied for some time, was also considerably injured.

From the combustible material contained in the adjoining lumber and ship yards, and the quantity of sparks and coals that fell among them, it was feared that the fire would have been much more serious, but by the extraordinary exertions of the firemen it was extinguished with no other loss than above mentioned.

RUM CUSTOMERS. We have often heard the expression "rum customers" used without any particular application, but we think we can state a case in which the term will apply admirably. We were shewn, a day or two since, a curious account book, which had been left at the office of a certain magistrate in this city, for the purpose of having a warrant issued against a person indebted for drinking without paying for it. Upon examining this novel mode of book-keeping, which consisted of a number of entries on two sheets of paper, we were struck with the fact that the charges were all against a certain set or club of men, ten in number, all of whom, judging from the examination made, had patronized the establishment about an equal amount. It seems that they were in the habit of making the entries themselves generally, though sometimes they were made by the landlord. The party who was sued had, by the calculation of the justice, in about eight months, drank sixteen hundred and twenty-three glasses, amounting to over one hundred dollars, only about twenty dollars of which had been paid. Averaging the balance of the club at the same rate, these ten worthies had drank, in the short space of eight months, sixteen thousand two hundred and odd glasses. If they are not deserving the title of "rum customers," we do not know the meaning of the term.

THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH IN EXETER STREET. A member of the Methodist order, who is in the habit of attending the above church, has written us a long communication, complaining of the misconduct of various individuals who congregate in front of said church for the purpose, as he says, of "stigmatizing its reputation." All manner of outrages, low and vulgar, are indulged in by these unmanly fellows. They watch their opportunity and insult both ladies and gentlemen, when retiring from divine service. And not only that but their noise, swearing, &c., can be distinctly heard during religious services. If a female happen to be unprotected the scoffs and insults of these low vagabonds are certain to fall upon her. We really cannot but deplore such a state of things, and are sorry that a city standing so fair as Baltimore, should have so foul a blot upon the page of her history. Those who will wantonly molest the christian when serving his God, would violate the sanctity of His holy temple by midnight plunder. To this matter the attention of our police is respectfully invited.

MRS. WATSON'S CONCERT. Another rich treat is in store for the lovers of music, and the Saloon of the Assembly Rooms—if it fails in gas light, will this evening at all events be illuminated by the light of beauty. Mrs. Watson, the charming vocalist, probably the best female singer now in the country, assisted by Mr. Braham and Mr. Watson, is to give a Concert—and we advise those who live in hot houses to visit the Saloon, which is about as cool and comfortable a place as there is in the city. Mrs. Watson is in fine voice—and Mr. Braham is the Braham, which is sufficient.

We understand that Mrs. Watson, assisted by Mr. Braham, will, if properly encouraged, give a series of concerts in this city.

IMPROVEMENT. As this is the age of improvement, we would beg leave to suggest to those who wish a cheap, brilliant and economical LIGHT, to substitute CAMPHINE in preference to any other light now in use. Had the Musical Hall been lighted with Camphine on the occasion of Mr. Russell's Farewell Concert on Monday night last, the crowded audience of ladies and gentlemen would have been spared the agony of being left in almost total darkness during the performance.

ANOTHER VIOLATION. James Brown was arraigned before Squire King yesterday afternoon, upon a charge of huckstering wood in violation of an ordinance of the city, passed some short time since. This was a distinct case from the one above alluded to; and Brown found guilty, and sentenced to pay two dollars and a quarter for nine front feet of wood which had been permitted to lie upon the wharf beyond the time specified in the ordinance.

"LET THERE BE LIGHT." We do not know a more public place than the corner of Baltimore street and Tripolet's alley; and yet, perhaps, no fitter place could be selected for a "deed of darkness" than this very spot. Are we asked why? Because there is no lamp there, to throw light upon the proceedings of those who may congregate about that spot. Our city authorities should see to it.

COMMITTAL. Robert A. Scraggs was committed to jail by Squire King, in default of bail to keep the peace towards the citizens generally, and more particularly towards his mother, who, at the advanced age seventy, was threatened with personal injury by her scapegrace of a son.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Clipper.]

WASHINGTON, June 8, 1841.

Last evening after I closed, the resolution of Mr. Wise in relation to the adoption of the rules of the last House, was agreed to, with the amendment of Mr. Adams thereto, striking out the 21st rule.

The resolution was then adopted, authorizing the appointment of a select committee to consider the propriety of establishing a fiscal agent for the management of the financial affairs of Government.

The Senate re-elected Asbury Dickens as Secretary and Mr. Dyer as Sergeant at Arms.

A joint resolution was reported by the Select Committee on the death of the late President, recommending that the seats of members be for the whole session, shrouded with black, and members wear crape on the arm for 30 days.

This morning in the House, the names of members composing the Standing Committees, were announced. The following are the Chairmen:—

On Elections, Mr. Halstead—Ways and Means, Mr. Fillmore—Commerce, Mr. Kennedy—Public Lands, W. C. Johnson—Post Office, G. M. Briggs—District of Columbia, J. R. Underwood—Judiciary, D. P. Barnard—Revolutionary Claims, Mr. Hall—Public Expenditures, James Graham—Private Land Claims, J. Moore—Manufactures, Mr. Saltonstall—Agriculture, Mr. Deberry—Indian Affairs, J. Q. Adams—Military Affairs, W. C. Dawson—Militia, G. M. Keim—Naval Affairs, H. A. Wise—Foreign Affairs, Mr. Cushing—Territories, G. Dennis—Revolutionary Pensions, Mr. Taliafero—Invalid Pensions, Calvory Morris—Roads and Canals, Mr. Lawrence—Patents, Mr. Osborne—Public Buildings, Mr. Boardman—Unfinished Business, F. James—Accounts, O. Baker—Mileage, T. W. Williams—Select Committee on the Currency, J. Sergeant.

A memorial was presented from Mr. Smith, of Culpepper county, Va. setting forth that he is the rightful claimant to the seat now occupied by Mr. Linn Banks, of that State. The memorial was referred to the Committee on Elections.

The House then proceeded to the election of its officers, and after balloting in vain five times for a Sergeant at Arms.

Mr. Ingersoll gave notice that on to-morrow he would move a reconsideration of the vote, by which, on yesterday, the 21st rule was rescinded. So we may expect hot work again.

Mr. Adams reported a bill for the relief of the widow of the late President, which was read twice and committed.

In the Senate, this morning, the joint resolution in relation to the death of the President, was taken up, agreed to, and sent to the House for its concurrence.

Mr. Buchanan presented a petition from a Mr. Biddle, of Philaldephia, asking congress to establish a fiscal agent, with a capital of $200,000,000, according to a plan by him submitted. It was referred to the select committee on the subject.

The remainder of the day was occupied in a debate on the bill reported by the Finance Committee, for the repeal of the Sub-Treasury law.

WOOD HUCKSTERING. James Brown was, on yesterday, arrested and taken before G. W. King, Esq. charged with violating the city ordinance relative to huckstering wood. On the part of the corporation it was proven that Brown had actually sold a cord and a half of wood on the third day of June, but it was also shown, upon the part of the defendant, that the sale of said wood had been made under a power of attorney from a certain Capt. Ross, empowering the said defendant to sell the whole load of wood brought up in the vessel of Capt. Ross. Under this evidence Squire King gave judgment for defendant, and the corporation was nonsulted.

A special meeting of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce was held on the 7th instant, to take into consideration the Memorial from the New York Chamber of Commerce, in favor of a National Bank. Condy Raguet, Esq. was in the chair, and the whole subject was referred to a committee of five, with instructions to report at the next meeting.

SENTENCE. Ames, who killed a man in St. Louis, has been sentenced to pay a fine of $500, and be imprisoned 60 days.

CROPS. In the vicinity of this city, says the Cincinnati Times, the crops, with the exception of oats, never looked more promising. Rye, in particular, is quite forward and well filled.

KIDNAPPING. Benjamin Higgins, of the schr. Bellington, Boston, has been taken up on a charge of kidnapping. He was bound over in $500 to appear at the Municipal court.

☞Neil Thompson, an old man of 70, who was in jail at Batavia, Ohio, on a charge of arson, hung himself on the night of the 30th ult.

DUNCAN ROBERTSON, Esq. of Norfolk, has been recognised by the President of the United States, as Vice Consul of Sweden and Norway, for the State of Virginia.

EFFECT OF FRIGHT. Mr. Faught, the young man who had the encounter with the burglar in the store of Henry Barby & Co. at Boston, is, says the Post, a patient in the insane hospital, at Charlestown.

A PHYSICIAN KILLED. Dr. Amasa Towbridge, Jr. of Watertown, N. Y. was instantly killed on Tuesday last, by coming in contact with a team that had broken loose, and was running without a driver.

☞The amount of Canal Tolls received in New York, during April and May of the present year, is given as $444,993. Increase over last year, $95,889.

ARREST. Wm. Williams, charged with rioting in a house in Caroline street, was on Monday night, arrested and conveyed to the watch house. He was discharged in the morning.

CASH FOR NEGROES.

THE subscriber being permanently located in this city, is at all times wanting to purchase likely young negroes of both sexes, for which cash and the most liberal prices will be paid. Persons having such to dispose of will find it to their interest to call on me before they sell, as they may rest assured, by doing so they shall obtain their VALUE for them. The subscriber's establishment is located on Barford Avenue, in one of the highest and most healthy parts of the city, having a free circulation of air, and a yard for exercise through the day—must necessarily be more healthy than in the centre of the city, especially in hot weather. Servants will be received for safe keeping, and every attention paid to their comfort and cleanliness, at the low rate of 25 cents per day. Application to be made to me at my office in Calvert-st. Near Market-st., one door below Mr. Bloomer's hat store, or at my residence, or to my brother at Whitman's Eagle Hotel, Pratt-st., immediately opposite the Baltimore and Ohio Rail road Depot. The following is the succession of Scenery and Incidents:

BANK VAULT of the Source'eress Cash Grabber—Showing how the Source'eress did keep the noble knight St. Dollar, and his brothers in arms, the Coins of Christendom, within her vaults for five years.

Smoky Scuttle benighted—Song "The Banks break Specie and I break Coal."

Cash Grabber's vengeance—Smoky turned to a cent.

SECRET BANK BOOK—And how the Source'eress did show St. Dollar the rise, fall, and miserable end of those who dared to dispute the right of Banks to issue worthless Shinplasters.

[Chorus and Dance of the Cents.]

Enchanted Hall of Shinplasters—where were confined the six coins of Cashendom—the arming of St. Dollar by the Source'eress.

'Tis thy armor, forged of the cash of twenty broken banks,
No ball, nor bowie knife can pierce it,
Here is thy sword-cane—'twas made by DAFFIN.

Source'eress' Doom:
"Dumbness shall be thy portion, till the race of Shinplasters be run.

Shaving of the Source'eress.

Releasing of the six coins of Cashendom, and their departure from the halls of Shinplasters on Arabian steeds, richly caparisoned—made for this occasion.

Chorus—"Sound the bright harmonious cash."

Departure of St. Dollar in a Magnificent Steamboat.

BANKS OF THE SPOIL.

SCENE LAST. Grand Combat between St. Dollar and the Monster Rag'on. The Monster is overcome—appearance of the Snapping Turtle.

Combat—St. Dollar and Snapping Turtle. St. Dollar and the Stamped Coins of Cashendom victorious.

TRUSTEES SALE of valuable real estate in the city of Baltimore. By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court of Maryland, the undersigned as Trustee, will expose to sale at auction on WEDNESDAY, the ninth day of June next, commencing at 9 o'clock, A. M. on the premises

ALL THAT VALUABLE PROPERTY heretofore conveyed by William Russell to the trustees for the poor of Baltimore City and County, by indenture bearing date on or about the fifteenth day of June seventeen hundred and ninety-two, and recorded amongst the land records of Baltimore County Court in liber W. G., No. K. K., folio 4 &c., and which in said deed is described as follows, viz—Beginning for the same at the intersection of Biddle and Price sts.," and on the west side of said Biddle street, and running and bounding on the west side of said Biddle street north forty-four degrees, east forty eight perches and the half of a perch, then north fifty two and one half degrees, west thirty four perches to a parcel of ground heretofore sold to a certain William Gibson by the said William Russell, then running and bounding on said ground south forty four degrees, west forty four perches to Price street, then bounding on said street south easterly thirty four perches to the place of beginning, containing nine acres and one half of an acre and thirteen square perches of land more or less.

The above property adjoins the Rose Hill estate and is in the neighborhood of the outer Depot of the Baltimore and Susquehana Rail Road; it lies beyond the limits of direct taxation and is exempt from the payment of City Taxes; the whole property will be divided into a large number of Lots of such dimensions as willenable those of moderate means to become purchasers. Madison street, which forms its Southern boundary, has been well paved along its entire front and beyond, and has been built upon up to Biddle st., which forms the Eastern Boundary, Morris Alley, Gibson street, Jordan Alley, and Gordon street, pass thro' it from east to west. A better opportunity than the present rarely occurs either for investment or speculation, especially when the very liberal terms of payment are taken into consideration.

The terms of sale prescribed by the decree are that the purchasers shall pay one-sixth cash, one sixth in ninety days, one-sixth in six months, one-sixth in nine months, one-sixth in twelve months, and one-sixth in fifteen months from the day of sale, the credit instruments to be secured by notes with one or more sureties to be approved by the Trustee and to bear interest from the day of sale.

PHILADELPHIA

NO. 48½ BALTIMORE-ST., ONE DOOR FROM GAY. The subscriber having now on hand a general

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

BALTIMORE MARKET, June 8.

FLOUR.—We have no alteration to note in Flour since our last quotations. Sales of Howard-st., good common brands, we note at $5.—This may be regarded as the uniform price. The receipt price continues at $4.87½, with but limited receipts. Sales of City Mills have been made at $5 for cash, and $5.12½ on time. Susquehanna continues at $5.

GRAIN.—We quote Penn. white, red and mixed Wheats at 112a114c. as per quality; Md. white do. 106a109c.; Md. Rye 59a60c.; Penn. do. 61a63c.; Md. white Corn 56a57c.; yellow do. 57a59c. Md. Oats 40a43c.; Va. do. 34a37c.

PROVISIONS.—This market continues inactive, and sales are limited. Baltimore Mess Beef $12—No. 1, $9; Prime $8. For other descriptions of provisions the prices are as at our last quotations. We note sales of Western Bacon, assorted, of prime quality, at 6 cts.; 6 cts. for Sides; Shoulders 5 cts.; Hams 6a8 cts. We note sales of Baltimore cured Hams at 10 cts. There is but little doing in Lard: Western No. 1, in kegs, is held at 8½ cts.

CATTLE.—The supply of Beef Cattle on hand is quite abundant. We quote at $7a$8 per 100 lbs. Live Hogs are plenty, and can be had at prices ranging from $4.25 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.

DOMESTIC MARKET. At N. Orleans, Charleston and the South generally, Cotton has been in brisk demand, with but little variation in prices.

At Norfolk on Saturday, Corn was in demand at 55c. for best white. Flour $5.25, and market nearly bare. Staves of all descriptions were in brisk demand; pipes $40a42; R. O. hhds. 18a20; W. O. hhds. 30a32; bbls. 20; heading 30a32; shingles 3.50a5. Prime Pork $10a12; mess 12a14; prime Beef $7a9; mess 11a12; Bacon dull—hog-round 8a8½c; hams 9½a12½c; Lard 9a9½c.

For the Baltimore Clipper.

A NUISANCE. The numerous droves of half starved swine that prowl about our street, running at large, and forcing their way up our alleys and into our kitchens, have become an intolerable nuisance, and a disgrace to our city. It is no uncommon thing to find whole litters of pigs foraging about our back premises, and the old sow finally making battle, and disputing pugnaciously every inch of ground.

It is only a few days ago, that one of these voracious animals, seized a little girl who had a bit of bread and butter in her hand, and held on until knocked in the head.

The old plea, that hogs are the best scavengers, may hold good to a certain extent, but will not apply to the swarms now abroad amongst us; if the evil is not abated the citizens will have, in their own defence, to arm themselves with pitch-forks, and spit the invaders of their premises. Let the owners of grunters look to it.

A STICKER.

TREATISE ON ADVERTISING. The following from the "Eagle Eye," contains too much truth to be withheld from business men. We ask them to ponder it well, and then reflect that the Clipper has a wider circulation than any other paper in Baltimore.

"Advertising is like a travelling sign. No business man will hesitate to pay twenty dollars for a sign, where he would never think of paying half the sum for advertising. The one is a sign seen only by those who pass the store, and can see the goods that are for sale as well as the sign. The advertisement is a comprehensive sign, that comes under the eye of hundreds who will never see the sign over the door; yet some pretend to argue that because some men have done a good business without advertising, advertising is unnecessary.—They might as well argue that because some men have made money without industry, industry is unnecessary."

"The Great Western left New York on the 1st inst., at two o'clock in the afternoon, for Bristol, which she reached on the 4th, at eight o'clock in the evening, having performed the voyage in 13 days and 5 hours. The Columbia left Boston on the 1st inst. later in the afternoon than the Great Western left New York, called and remained at Halifax several hours, and was off Holyhead at six o'clock on the morning of the 15th, having made the passage in 13 days and 14 hours. Both vessels have thus proved themselves first rate steamers, and their race across the Atlantic, taking every thing into consideration, may fairly be considered, in the slang of the turf, a dead heat. The eastward passage of the Columbia occupied 15 days and 12 hours: that of the Great Western about the same."

ACCIDENT ON THE HARLEM RAILROAD. A passenger (name unknown) on one of the cars on the 6th inst. attempted to jump off while they were under full headway, for the purpose of recovering his hat, which had fallen from his head, and was thrown with great violence, falling in such a position that the cars passed over one of his arms, cutting it entirely off, also bruising his head, and so severely injuring him that it is feared he will not recover. The accident occurred a short distance beyond the Harlem River.

☞The "Brandywine" is still in New York Harbor, awaiting orders from Washington. Capt. Bolton, in consequence of indisposition, has been allowed a three months absence, and will leave the ship as soon as his successor is appointed. It is thought that Capt. Conner will take the command.

NAVAL. We understand that Lieut. H. Y. Purviance, has been detached from the Naval Rendezvous, on this station, and ordered to join the Brandywine, now under the command of Capt. Geisenger, at New York, destined for the Mediterranean. Lieut. W. C. Nicholson takes the place of Lieut. Purviance at the rendezvous.

The body of a Mr. Ellsley, who had been keeping a wood yard near the mouth of the Mississippi river, was lately found partly buried, bearing evident marks that it had fallen by the hands of a murderer. His partner in business has been arrested, charged with having committed the deed.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.
[From Captain PARRISH, who commenced to use them when diseased in August, 1839.]
PHILADELPHIA, June 2, 1840.
☞To DR. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I have had experience in the virtue of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,
E. PARRISH.
HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.
DR. WM. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been laboring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. Yours, respectfully, JOHN DYE.
We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, know our neighbour, Mr. Dye, sold him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true. Respectfully,
W. & S. B. ANDERSON.

BALTIMORE & OHIO RAIL ROAD.
THE CHANGE in the hour of arrival of the Mail Train from Philadelphia, renders it necessarry that a corresponding change should be made in the departure of the Morning Cars for the west:
Notice is therefore hereby given, That on and after WEDNESDAY, 26th instant, the Passenger Train for Ellicott's Mills, Frederick, and Harper's Ferry will be despatched from the Depot in Pratt street, at half past 9 instead of 7 o'clock, A. M., the present hour of departure—of which travellers will take notice.
☞The Extra Train for Frederick will continue to leave at 3½ o'clock every evening, with which, as well as with the Morning Train, passengers from Washington can still connect at the Relay House. By order,

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.
THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the excitative and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow-citizens.
The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.
All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 175 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. BOOZ,

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.
FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.
☞ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.
N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 22 Market street, P. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.
P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:
New York, March 23, 1840.
DEAR SIR.—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.
Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY,
No. 17 HARRISON ST.
"NO CURE NO PAY."
DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.
This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors; by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.
Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.
It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.
☞Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.
N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. m1-tf

REMOVAL.
THOMAS M. CROUCH has REMOVED his Brush, Basket, and Wooden Ware Factory and Furnishing Store, from Baltimore street, to No. 6 CENTRE MARKET SPACE, (4th house from Baltimore street,) where he will be pleased to wait on his old customers and the public generally.
Persons commencing housekeeping, will find it to their advantage to call and select from my assortment of BRUSHES, BASKETS, TIN WARE, WOODEN WARE, &c. as I will make a liberal discount to those who make their general bill at my Store.
☞Mr. JOHN S. BRASHEARS has a Tin & Sheet-Iron Ware workshop in the rear of the Store, and will make and repair all kinds of Tin and Sheetiron work, Spouting, Roofing, &c. in a workmanlike manner, at short notice. His friends and the public are invited to patronize him. ap1-tf

THE PROPRIETORS OF THE GAY-ST. CHAIR WARE ROOMS, would inform their friends and the public generally, that they have now on hand, a very splendid assortment of Parlour and other

CHAIRS, comprising Mahogany, Maple, Walnut, and a variety of imitation wood colours. They would request persons, disposed to purchase, to give them a call, as their assortment is not surpassed if equalled by any establishment in the city.
They would also inform Shipping Merchants that they have on hand a large assortment of Cane and Slatt-back KNOCK DOWN, suitable for the West Indies or South American market, among which is a large proportion of very rich colored white tops—all of which they are willing to sell on the most accommodating terms. se1—4tf A. & J. UNRIVALLED SPEED!
SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.
☞Bear in mind, that Passengers who go by the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, have 40 miles of Rail Road travelling through the DISMAL SWAMP at midnight, over one of the worst Rail Roads in America, and then are often compelled to lay over 17 hours at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 9 A. M., they proceed, without one moment's delay, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and often one day in advance of any other Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmasters General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	12 P.M.	reach	Baltimore	8 A.M.
" Baltimore	9 A.M.	"	Washington	11 A.M.
" Washington	11½ A.M.	"	Fred'ksburg	6 P.M.
" Fred'ksburg	6½ P.M.	"	Richmond	11 P.M.
" Richmond	11½ P.M.	"	Petersburg	1 A.M.
" Petersburg	1½ A.M.	"	Weldon	6½ A.M.
" Weldon	7 A.M.	"	Charleston	on the next morning.

Passengers by this Line not only reach Charleston ONE DAY SOONER than by the Bay boats but they avoid being compelled to remain all night at Weldon, on the Roanoke, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole southern country, where, by the Bay Line, they are often delayed twenty-four hours.
Passengers for Richmond and Petersburg will find this Line far the most expeditious, arriving at Richmond to lodge, (as will be seen from the above Schedule,) on the evening of the day on which they leave Baltimore, being from 16 to 18 hours in advance of those taking the Bay Steam Boats.
☞This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)
☞Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Raleigh, Va.

Fare to Richmond,	$10.00
Fare to Petersburg,	10.50
Fare to Weldon,	12.50

UNITED STATES MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH, Sunday's excepted.
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that in accordance with the New Mail Arrangement, the Boats composing their line, viz: ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, will, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 26th of May, leave the lower end of Spear's wharf daily, (Sunday's excepted,) at nine o'clock, A. M. for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va.
Passengers for Charleston will find the cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, on the wharf, on their arrival at Portsmouth, ready to convey them to Weldon, N. C., where they will always arrive in time to take the cars for Wilmington, from which point to Charleston is by the Steamboat, which leaves Wilmington immediately after the Passengers are delivered from the cars.
Passengers for Richmond, Petersburg, or intermediate points on James River, by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, will sleep on board the Bay Boat and be transferred to the James River Boat next morning.
The Steamboat Pax leaves the Black Water station on the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars from Portsmouth, for Edenton and Plymouth, N. C., and returns every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, delivering her passengers to the cars as they pass down from Weldon, enabling them to arrive in Baltimore next day, (Sundays excepted.)
RETURNING, one of the above Boats will leave Norfolk every night (Saturday being excepted) at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and luggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departing from Portsmouth.
Should the Boat get an early start from Portsmouth, Passengers for Philadelphia and New York will have the opportunity of being placed on board the Philadelphia Steamboat in the Patapsco River, and will arrive in Philadelphia the same night by 11 o'clock, after having travelled 360 miles in 20 hours, without as much fatigue as would be incurred in walking from the Hotel to the wharf.
☞No freight will be forwarded on the day it is left, unless it is alongside, prior to 8 o'clock, A. M.

"THINK OF ME."

O think of me in joyous hours,
When in the festive hall you meet;
And when in beauty's blushing bowers,
Fair Fancy's lovely form you greet;
And when 'mid mirth and music met,
You listen to my minstrelsy;
Oh! lady, do not then forget;
But think—oh! think of me!

And when thy dark and dazzling eye
Shall be bedimm'd with sorrow's tears;
When darkness rests upon the sky,
And hope has fled from future years;
When friendship sighs within thy breast,
And thou shalt taste of misery;
When thy fond heart is all unblest,
Oh! think, then think of me!

And think of me, when fairy May
Shall scatter flowers upon the hills;
When thy gay form shall musing stray
'Mid blooming bowers, and rip'ling rills;
And when dread winter roars around,
And storms shall weep along the lea;
When leaves are scattered o'er the ground,
Oh! then, I'll think of thee.

WASHINGTON, May 10, 1841. E. F. B.

[From the Louisville Bulletin.]

ESSAY ON MAN AND WOMAN.

Man, in the superiority of his nature, feels himself elated above the vulgar world, and the scenes that are daily passing around him; he looks about him with an eye of haughty consciousness upon the things of earth, and feels pride in the knowledge that they were created for him; he scans the work of Nature with a scrutinizing gaze, and aims at the topmost pinnacle of ambition. In the impetuosity of youth, he rushes on with heedless steps and unerring gaze, towards that bourn from where he fancies the gem of his heart lies enveloped in the obscurity of the future, still onward he rushes with thoughtless phrensy, till some unforeseen barrier has blocked up the path of his eager, and dampened the raging flame of his ambition. Half discomfited and blighted with disappointment, he returns to the calmer scenes of life, where for a short time, he applies himself with apparent attention and satisfaction; he fixes his hopes upon a still more future period, and yet looks forward with eagerness to an eminence, which alas! he is never to gain.

After having thus spent his youth in fruitless attempts for greatness, not designed for him, he falls as it were in the scale of his estimation, and again plunges into the busy throng to drown the craving of his fruitful mind, and to bury the past, the dreary past, in utter oblivion. Woman, created for the comfort and solace of man, enters upon the active scenes of this life with far different feelings from those which actuate the opposite sex. She is a meek, calm and resigned creature, born to smile on the rugged asperities of the world—to administer balm to those immediately connected with her—to throw a hallowed spell around the sphere in which she moves—to cheer in the hour of affliction and to bind a halo of smiles on the brow of her bosom companion. She moves through the sun-lit path of youth, as a being of another world—created in beauty—clothed in the robes of innocence—fortified with the shields of virtue, and endowed with the inestimable boon of deep, intense and undying love. When the tempestuous waves of care and strife are dashing our frail bark upon the shoals of danger, and sweeping our fondest hopes onward to destruction—when the gloom of sorrow hangs menacingly over the path which we so oft have trodden in joy, who then is it that whispers words of ethereal solace, and pours balm into the bleeding bosom?

'Tis Woman! kind, gentle and unswerving woman! Though her nature is mild, and her body weak and fragile, compared with that of Man, yet she possesses mental qualities which support and bear her up in the most trying vicissitudes of life, and when Man has almost sunk in despair, she is still found cheering him onward to new exertions, and lighting that brow with a smile, which had been saddened with the deepest traces of care and gloom. Alas! and is this the kind and loving being who is too often made the victim of the dark and fiendish purposes of the opposite sex? The blush of shame should mantle on the brow when this question is answered in the affirmative. Man after having run the career of youth in fruitless resources after that which is not to be found, seeks happiness in the society of Woman—he smiles—he flatters—he whispers words of love—and woman, too confiding woman, believes, and too often she becomes a victim, when had she practised that virtue of her sex, dissimulation, she might have been adorned with the bridal robes.—Man was made to admire. Woman to please—Man to love—Woman to be loved. Man, born with a respect for the weaker sex, is endowed with a feeling which forbids him to make that freedom in the society of females, which is natural when among his own sex; he approaches a female with reserve and respect, he flatters with caution; but what is his astonishment, when he finds open and extended arms to receive him, where he expected but a cold and chilly smile? He gazes on the world, and deems the whole as a mass of the grossest deception—he feels that all are deceived—all deceive—he carees from his very heart, the veil which is unveiled to his view that startling sight, would rather have left hidden in the mantle of dissimulation; yet, according to the design of nature, he feels the need of a companion, and after having thinks he can be happy in the object of affection, he mar-rics. Time rolls away as light as the vision of a summer dream. The elysian fields of earth open to his delighted gaze; the sunbeams of Hope throw a lucid ray upon his care-worn brow, and he feels at last that he has attained the ne plus ultra of worthy happiness. Years roll around on golden axle, and harmony and affection unite, to throw a charm around the domestic scene which speaks to the weary bosom words of peace while sojourning on earth, and imparts to it a boon more precious than aught this world contains—a fervent hope in heaven.

But alas, too often this scene of bliss is to be changed, this union of hearts, is to be broken, those sacred bonds which were closed before the altar of Heaven are to be torn asunder, and the baleyon ray that clothed the world in splendor, is to be turned into the forbidding shade, of bleak and impenetrable gloom.

The trifling disputes which occasionally, perhaps unavoidably arise, between man and wife, in place of being timely forgiven and forgotten, are too often cherished up in the memory, but to be the means of casting a blight upon a great portion of their after lives—one soft word, spoken in time—one kind look that speaks forgiveness from the heart, might allay the petty grievances of life; when a cold look or harsh word but tends to dissolve the bonds of affection, and renders life miserable indeed. Again, after a few years of married life has passed away, the fickle mind of man becomes, in a degree, estranged from the endearments of home, he seeks in the society of others to pass away hours which might be spent in his domestic circle, were it not for the subtlety and baseness of his nature—he looks upon his wife, upon whose features the traces of age are beginning to be perceptible, with a cold and unfeeling gaze—he does not reflect, that age is also creeping upon himself, nor traces its impress upon his wrinkled forehead; too haughty in his disposition to look to self, he views with coldness the heretofore endearments of home—he beholds no longer in the personal charms of his fading wife, those undulating lines of beauty, which charm the sensual mind—he becomes neglectful of the duties and endearments which should fascinate him to the circle of his family; and ah! behold the consequences; night after night may be seen his patient and endearing wife, sitting over her midnight lamp, awaiting his return from the scenes of noisy revelling and intemperance. Hark! she hears a step on the pavement—her heart beats quicker—'tis his—he enters his home—and alas! alas! he rewards his still loving companion with harsh words, and the most cruel and unmerited contempt and indifference—she bears up against this unnatural reverse with a degree of fortitude remarkable in her sex—day after day she may sit at her window, and behold him passing by, without even exchanging one kind look with her, and in short he throws off the bonds which were tied in the presence of Heaven, and sealed with the most solemn vows, and departs from her FOREVER. That man is unworthy of being called by the tender appellation of Husband or Father.

The world now becomes the home of the unfaithful husband; he is admitted into the walks of society, while his innocent and harmless wife is shunned by all—he is sympathised with—she is unjustly censured—he seeks an oblivion in the busy scenes of the world, flattered, courted and fawned upon—she is doomed to drag out a miserable existence, shut out from the charm of society, looked upon with mistrust and contempt, with no kind voice to whisper a word of solace, to raise her suppressed spirits from the langor, into which they have fallen. The world, the cold and heartless world, forms a criterion, and he that is guilty and base, is received into the arms of society, while she the innocent victim, that has been abused and slighted, is cast off to weep unheard and unpitied, over the cruel reverse of fortune.

Reader, if in the above lines, there is aught that tends to portray the true character of Man or Woman—if there is aught that excites your sympathy for the latter, the writer has exceeded his most sanguine expectations, and though the attempt may be deficient in its literary qualities, yet it is presumed that it fails not to have its moral, and with these considerations, the writer feels highly compensated, for having, however feebly, endeavored to draw a contrast between Man and Woman.

ORION.

St. Louis, May 17, 1841.

EXECUTION. At Wilmington, N. C. last week a young man named Madison Johnson, was hung for the murder of Beasley. When brought under the gallows he addressed the people nearly an hour, in an unfaltering and audible voice—warning them, especially the young, against the evil practices of gambling, intemperance and night carousals, to which he attributed his ignominious and untimely death. He said he had been deaf to the good advice given him by his parents; and that the crime for which he was to pay the forfeit of his life, was committed under the influence of liquor and passion, and added, that if he had never indulged in the practice of drinking, he should then be free.

THE CASE OF GEN. GAINES. This important case which has been pending before the court at New Orleans, was closed on the night of the 31st ult. and given to the jury, which after having retired for several hours could not agree upon a decision. They were dismissed until the following day by the court. It is believed that no verdict will be obtained.

WHALES. Capt. Jewitt, of the steamboat Huntress, informs the editor of the Boston Transcript that on his last two trips to the Kennebec, both going and returning, he fell in with a large school of whales, not far from Cape Elizabeth, and the boat passed almost in the midst of them. He observed one about forty feet in length. They are of the humpbacked species.

FIRE. The Spencer Mills, at Hinsdale, N. H. were destroyed by fire on Monday night last. Loss $4000—Insurance $2500 at Springfield, Mass.

"14th. Left New York and arrived at Philadelphia. Just stepped on board Baltimore boat, tipstaff tapped me on the shoulder—old greg bill; offered to pay up, wouldn't settle, had to go to a magistrate. Detained till next morning, settled and left for Baltimore."

TRADE OF THE SCHUYLKILL. It is estimated that at least three hundred vessels, of all descriptions, have arrived in the Schuylkill since the commencement of May last.

☞ The New York packets are taking in cotton for Liverpool, at rates ranging from 1-4 to 3-8d. per lb.

☞ The passage in the evening boats between New York and New Haven has been reduced to the very low sum of one dollar.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND, For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Strictures, Diabets or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substances! One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N.B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $3.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 10, 1841.

☞We are extremely obliged to our attentive correspondent in Philadelphia, for his favor dated the 7th inst. The conductor having it in charge, however, was kind enough to drop it in the Post Office, after it was too late to be of any service to us. Its Baltimore Postmark is June 9th.

ABOLITION PETITIONS. The House determined on Monday last to reject the rule of the last session which forbade the reception of abolition petitions, and we presumed that the question was settled for the session—but by the proceedings of Tuesday it appears, that a motion has been made to reconsider the vote—and, what may seem somewhat extraordinary, this motion proceeded from Mr. Ingersoll, of Pennsylvania. We have always entertained doubts as to the propriety of excluding these petitions; for, in the first place we doubted the right of the House to adopt such a rule—and secondly, if the right were undeniable, we deemed it inexpedient that it should be exercised—for we were convinced that it would rather increase than diminish the number of such petitions, besides giving rise to much clamor.—Southern members should meet the question of abolition boldly; and by a strong report upon the subject, silence the fanatics who presume to interfere with Southern institutions, or shew them that their efforts would prove useless and abortive. We seriously believe, that the movements of the abolitionists have been highly detrimental to the colored population; and that the further prosecution of their schemes will prove further injurious to that class of people. Let the petitions be received: it will save time—take away the pretext for continuing to present them—and shew that the Southern people do not fear all the efforts that can be made. The great mass of the American people will stand by the South in the maintainance of her rights—and the abolitionists cease from their labors when they discover that they fail to produce excitement. We regret that the motion to reconsider has been made, and hope that it will fail. The renewal of the subject will cause an unprofitable consumption of time, and may give rise to a state of feeling which should be deplored. Congress should act promptly on the important measures which will be submitted, and then adjourn. This is expected by the people.

LECTURE ON THE SOCIAL INFLUENCE OF TRADE—by the Rev. George W. Bethune. This Lecture was delivered before the Mercantile Library Association in March last, and a pamphlet copy of it was politely presented to us yesterday by a friend, which we have read with attention. The lecturer justly attributes most of the improvements in the moral and social condition of mankind to the influence of trade. It is undoubtedly true that it has greatly contributed to the extension of civilization and the dissemination of the Christian religion. He illustrates in a very forcible manner, the importance of the merchant as the agent or factor of the producer and consumer, and shews that his agency is productive not simply of emolument to himself, but of great advantage to the community at large. The lecturer handles with severity the agrarian principle which would array the poor against the rich—notices the introduction, uses and benefits of specie and paper currency, the proper purposes and management of banks, and the abuses of these institutions; from whence he passes to the consideration of the dangers, temptations and duties of the merchant; which he exhibits in a masterly style.

It is an admirable Lecture, well calculated to enlighten the members of the association upon a subject which most of them are to make the study of their future lives. We understand that the pamphlet is on sale at most of the bookstores in this city—and, as it is well worthy of perusal by all classes of society, we commend it to their consideration.

THE RAIN KING. Where is Professor Espy? If he can obtain relief for us now is the time. Man and beast are gasping for breath, and anxiously looking towards the Heavens for water. Old maids have hardly strength to put on their paints and curls, and young maids can scarcely find breath to say "yes, sir," to a proposal of marriage. We hope that Professor Espy will hasten here and give us a shower, and we shall have no objection if he will add a good breeze. All nature is drooping from the intensity of the heat, and cries for "water—water." Our gutters—pa[ve]ments their green and sickly hue, and offensive effluvia, are sufficient to turn the stomachs of even[ing] droves. [The] must pet[ition] hands to [the] pumps.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE. On Monday last we gave an account of the temperance proceeding at the Ca[tho]lic Church, Fell's Point, on the preceding day, and our enterprising neighbors of the Organ, ga[ve] their readers the same information yesterday morning. What indefatigable and enterprising fellows they are—but it can hardly be expected that a mud machine can keep up with a Baltimore Clipper—especially when the crew on board such machine have to pause to lay in a car[go] of other people's letters.

☞In 7th ballot [for] Sergeant-at-[Arms] the House of Representatives, on the [13th], Mr. E. L. Townsend was elected Ser[geant-at-Arms].

FOURTH OF JULY. We have already expressed the hope that some arrangements will be made to celebrate the approaching fourth of July in an appropriate manner. In former times the military never failed to parade—but that spirit seems to have greatly subsided, and the uniform companies to have dwindled down to a small number. But even these patriotic few should not let the day pass without some manifestation of respect. If no preparations be made by the younger members of society to observe the coming anniversary in a suitable style, we are pleased to learn that the veterans, who so gallantly protected the "beauty and booty" of Baltimore in 1814, have it in contemplation to march in procession and dine together on that day at some suitable place.

☞The following extraordinary notice is translated from a Rio de Janeiro journal. The fair invalid supplicates for aid in the most pathetic terms; and we hope that her appeal has been properly responded to by the charitable:

Rosaria Maria de Conception, blind and suffering severely from erysipilas, is living in the greatest possible poverty. She beseeches her faithful benefactors by the love of God, and by his bloody death and passion, that they will remember her, sending any gifts they may have to her humble residence (beco do Fisco) Fisco alley, No. 7, and she will never cease to ask God to grant them eternal glory therefor.

THE SHIP WILLIAM BROWN. Extract of a letter dated, St. Peters, N. F., May 25: "I have the Captain of the ship Wm. Brown, of Philadelphia, here, and a girl and seven sailors, picked up at sea by a French vessel after being 6 days in the jolly boat. The sailors are in the hospital all frost bitten. The ship struck an iceberg, and sank almost immediately, with 33 persons, men, women and children on board."—Capt. Harris, of the Wm. Brown, is on board schr. Child Harold, and has sailed for Boston. Two of the crew have arrived at Castine.

THE U. S. BANK. This institution, says the Journal of Commerce, has funded more than half a million of its circulation—that is, it has withdrawn from the market that amount and placed them in deposite in the Bank, giving to the depositor a certicate bearing six per cent. interest, payable in the same funds as deposited, one year hence. Since this arrangement has been entered into, but few of them reach the hands of the brokers.

FATAL CASE OF POISONING. The Baton Rouge Gazette of the 22d ult., says that about thirty negroes were poisoned a day or two previous, by drinking water from a well in which a copper pipe, communicating with an engine, had been inserted. It is further stated that three of the negroes had since died from the fatal effects.

☞In relation to the accident, published yesterday, as having taken place at Hudson, relative to the cars running off the track into the river, the New York Sun says, "it is true that four cars were precipitated into the water, but, instead of a loss of $20,000 being incurred, the damage does not amount to nine hundred. Not a single life was lost."

SUDDEN DEATHS. No less than seven sudden deaths occurred in Philadelphia a few days since in the short space of forty eight hours. This should be a warning to persons how they expose themselves or drink cold water during the warm season.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN.

OH! THAT ICE CREAM. Last evening, just when we were in a comfortable perspiration, a servant stepped into our office, having two splendid glasses af ice cream in one hand, and a quantity of sweet cakes in the other. We looked, tasted, and then passed judgment. All hands came to the conclusion that they were delicious. If the reader doubts, we refer to the establishment of Mr. Norfolk, No. 70 Baltimore street, who will confirm our decision by furnishing just such cooling glasses.

DIELMAN'S CONCERT. To-night our townsman and distinguished musician, Mr. Dielman, gives a grand Benefit Concert at the Assembly Rooms. He will be assisted by Mr. Russell. As Mr. D. has done much for the elevation of musical taste in Baltimore, it is hoped the lovers of music will show how much they are willing to do for him in return this evening.

Mr. Russell, we learn, has consented to sing a celebrated negro song, which is said to be the best and most characteristic of the kind ever sung in this country.

LECTURE ON EDUCATION. We observe that S. F. Streeter, Esq., of this city, has been unanimously appointed to deliver a Lecture before the American Institute of Education, at their anniversary meeting to be held in Boston during the third week in August next.

We cannot but congratulate the members of the above distinguished Institute upon so happy a selection. We know Mr. Streeter well. For talents and erudition he holds an enviable rank, and will, we have no doubt, in discharging the duties assigned him, fully meet the anticipations of those to whom he is indebted for the honor conferred.

MORE DRUNKENNESS. We are weary of recording cases of intemperance; and, were it not that the publication of the names of the parties may have a salutary effect, we should blot out the record altogether. Barney Clarney and Joseph Derman were, on Tuesday night, taken to the watch house to sleep off until morning, the effects of their intemperance. Shame on them. Why do they not join some of the Temperance Societies.

SENT TO THE ALMS HOUSE. Francis and John Connelly, two white boys, were, on Tuesday night, taken to the Western District Watch House, having been found strolling the streets. They were sent to the Alms House. Here is another strong illustration of the necessity that exists for a House of Refuge.

BOUND OVER. William Patten was yesterday arrested and taken before Squire Pennington, charged with a violation of the peace. As William was somewhat noisy, the Justice committed him, but the prospect along the Falls had such a cooling effect upon him, that he soon became as cool as a summer's morning, and upon giving security, was shortly after released.

☞Rachel Hawkins and Ephraim Brown, both colored, were bound over yesterday in security to keep the peace.

ANOTHER. —— McDonald, white, was yesterday taken before Squire King, and required to give security to keep the peace. What the deuce do the people mean? Is the weather so exceedingly cool that they have to get their passion up to a white heat to keep their blood warm?

COTILLION EXCURSION. Those wishing to enjoy a delightful excursion to Houck's Pavillion, and thence down the Bay, are referred to the steamer Rappahannock, Capt. Fairbank, which will sail from Light-st. wharf this afternoon, at 4 o'clock. The entertainments will be of a choice character—Lots of dancing, lots of pretty girls, lots of good eatables, lots of fine sailing, lots of fresh breezes, and lots of choice music. Go, ladies and gentlemen, go, if for nothing else than to get out of this hot city.

INQUEST. An inquest was held yesterday afternoon, by T. Rice, Esq. over the body of a man named Jas. Longwell, who died very suddenly in the neighborhood of the store yard of Mr. Wright. The man it seems was overcome by heat and the jury decided accordingly.

[Reported for the Baltimore Clipper.]

BALTIMORE COUNTY COURT.

CASE OF THE MERCHANTS' BANK AGAINST THE BANK OF VIRGINIA. We alluded, on Tuesday, to the fact that a case had been, for some days, pending in the County Court, upon a suit brought by the Merchants' Bank of this city against the Farmers' Bank of Virginia, to recover the value of a certain check drawn upon the latter Bank, and marked good by the Cashier of that Institution. This case was brought to a close on Tuesday last by a verdict for the plaintiffs for the amount of their claim, $10,000, with interest from the 3d January, 1840. After the close of the argument before the jury, they deliberated about half an hour before rendering their verdict, which we refrained from noticing until we could give a full report. The questions, as well of law as of fact, which the case involved, were many, and accordingly interesting to the community, and were most elaborately argued by the Counsel of the respective parties. The case was briefly this: On the 4th June, 1839, John B. Steinbergen, (who, as we have before said, was at one time famous as a great beef monopolist,) without having any funds or assets of any kind in the hands of the defendants, the Farmers' Bank of Virginia, without their knowledge or authority, induced the then Cashier of that Bank, a Mr. Orrick, since deceased, to endorse as good his two checks of the date above named on said Bank for $10 000 each, drawn in favor of a man named Miller, the then accredited general agent of Steinbergen. One of these checks was afterwards cancelled by the Cashier at the drawer's instance, and another, for like amount, dated the 27th June, in the same year, was endorsed in its stead, under like circumstances, for Steinbergen by the same cashier. About the middle of December following, Miller having, before the 15th of the preceding June, absconded, and, as it was generally supposed, a large defaulter to Steinbergen, the latter, on the 7th December, applied to D. Sprigg, the Cashier of the Merchants' Bank, between which and Steinbergen many transactions to near a million of dollars had before taken place, to lend him, in his note in favor of Sprigg, as Cashier, for $17,000, payable with interest, that amount, he leaving with the Cashier, as collateral security for the note the said endorsed check for $10,000, of the 4th June, and a Rail Road bond of a chartered company of North Carolina, for the same amount, secured by the guarantee of that state—and Steinberger stipulating that he would, before or on the maturity of the note, pay the debt and redeem the check and the bond. The loan was made, and, as Sprigg stated, without his making any enquiry of Steinbergen as to the occasion of the endorsement of the check, or how it happened to be so long outstanding, or why Steinbergen purposed borrowing upon it, at interest, instead of cashing the check; or why he desired that it should not be sent to the defendants for payment, or why he himself wished to redeem it. Before the maturity of the note, the 25th of December, Steinbergen had lost his commercial credit altogether, and, on that day, failed to repay this loan, and requested, by a letter of the 26th, to Sprigg, that he should continue to retain the check until he could afterwards see him and arrange it. This was done, and afterwards, on the 24th January, 1841, when Steinbergen was notoriously insolvent, and proposing to execute a deed of trust of all his property for the payment of his debts, amounting to near a million of dollars, which he did on the following day, he gave an order of that date in favor of a Mr. Corcoran, in the form of a letter to Sprigg, authorizing and directing him, upon Corcoran's liquidating his, Steinbergen's, debt to the Bank, to hand over to Corcoran the said check and bond. The object of this order with both Steinbergen and Corcoran was, to secure the latter, to the extent of the surplus of these securities, after the discharge of the claim for which they were pledged to the plaintiffs, a debt of four thousand dollars owed by Steinbergen to Corcoran.

Upon the presentation of this order, at Sprigg's suggestion as the best mode of effecting this purpose, Corcoran gave his two notes, one at 10 days, and the other at a somewhat longer date, for the amount of the debt, interest being charged upon the debt up to the period when these notes were, respectively, to mature. These notes were then passed upon the books of the plaintiff to the credit of the account, by which it was balanced. In a day or two after, a copy of the account, as balanced, was enclosed by Sprigg to Steinbergen, with all his, Steinbergen's checks upon the Bank. No communication, except what was in writing, appeared to have been had between the plaintiff and Sprigg after the 26th December; and none at all of any kind after the said account was transmitted to Steinbergen. It appeared by the evidence of Mr. Sherrard, the present Cashier of the defendants, and who was their President during this transaction, that on the 25th of January, 1841, having protested the day before the fraudulent check of the 27th of June, he was in Baltimore, and being at the Banking House of the plaintiffs, and being shewn the said check of the 27th of June by Sprigg, was told by him that he presumed it was all right; that he at once informed Sprigg that it was not all right, that there was something wrong about it, and that it was a matter he did not understand, and he could not say that it would be paid by the defendants, but that they would decide upon it when it should be presented. It was after this conversation, and on the 28th of January, that the two notes of Corcoran were applied, as before stated, to the credit of the debt of Steinbergen, and it did not appear that Corcoran was informed by Sprigg, or any other agent of the Bank, of the said conversation, but, on the contrary, Sprigg stated in his evidence that he did not give said information, not having seen Corcoran between the 25th and 28th of January.

Mr. Sprigg stated that he had great confidence in Steinbergen, and knowing the endorsement of Orrick to be genuine, he had no suspicion at all that the check was not a good one when he received it on the 9th of December, but that he would not have taken it after his said interview with Sherrard. Several officers of either Bank and others were examined as witnesses, as to the question whether under the circumstances attending the taking of the check, they would have lent upon it without enquiry, and would not, on the contrary, have thought it prudent to have informed themselves of the actual character of the check. Their testimony was variant, some saying they would have suspected nothing, and others that they would. It was also in proof that the usage of Banks is to endorse checks when there are funds to meet them, and that in some instances, it had been done by the officers of the defendants', and that, when such checks are received in bank, they are sent in for collection the next day, if upon a city bank, or, if on a foreign bank by the succeeding mail.

There was other evidence that is not material for the full understanding of the questions decided by the court to state. The questions alluded to are these:

The plaintiffs contended that an endorsed check was always binding upon the Bank endorsing it, whether there were funds in hand or not to meet it, whether endorsed fraudulently or not, provided the holder obtains it in good faith for value, and without notice of the fraud. The defendants, on their part, insisted:

1st. That the check was absolutely void, it being admitted that it had been fraudulently endorsed, there being no authority given, or capable of being given—under its charter, to bind the Bank by any such endorsement.

2nd. That, if binding, it was in point of law over due on the 7th Dec., when received by the plaintiffs from the drawer, it having been then unreasonably out of time; and that, being over due, it was the right of the defendants to defend themselves against its payment in this suit, as they could have done if Steinbergen was the plaintiff.

3rd. That, if not over due, it was taken under circumstances calculated to excite the suspicions of a cautious and prudent man, that there either never were funds in the Bank to meet it, without they had afterwards been withdrawn by Steinbergen, and that his failure to demand it, and his stipulation with the plaintiffs that he would redeem it, connected with the other circumstances, were facts to awaken such suspicion.

4th. That, whatever might be the cases if Steinbergen's debt had not been paid by Corcoran, the transaction with Corcoran closed that debt, and the plaintiff's present title in the check was only as a security for his, Corcoran's notes, and, as Sprigg admitted that, after his interview with Sherrard, he would not have taken the check, his taking it afterwards, on the 28th, from Corcoran, as collateral to his note, was what a cautious and prudent man would not have done, and, independent of his purposes, which was not pretended to be fraudulent, was, in law, a fraud upon the defendants and Corcoran, and gave the plaintiffs no right to recover.

These several questions were presented in different forms, but are believed to be substantially the real questions in the case.

The court decided: That the check was not overdue, in the sense of the law, so as to let in, on that ground only, the merits of the original endorsement; but that it was for the jury to decide, from all the evidence, not whether it was taken by the plaintiffs' cashier fairly and without fraud; but whether, under such circumstances, a man of prudence and caution ought not to have suspected that there were no funds in the hands of the defendants to meet it, and, if so, that the defendants were entitled to a verdict. They also decided that, if Steinbergen's debt was paid by the discount of Corcoran's notes, and without an agreement between Corcoran and Sprigg, that the Bank, notwithstanding that payment, was to hold the check, with all the rights they had to it on the 7th of December, when they first got it, that then the defendants were also entitled to a verdict, if the jury should find that on the 28th of January, when the payment was made, and the check was agreed to be held by the Bank as a collateral for Corcoran's notes, it was under circumstances which, in prudence and caution, should have awakened the suspicion that there were no funds in the Bank to meet it.

They also decided that usage and the convenience of the community justified the endorsements of checks by the officers of Banks, when there were funds standing to the drawer's credit; or whether there were such funds or not; therefore, if an endorsed check gets into the hands of a holder for value, at any time after its date, and without circumstances of suspicion, it is obligatory upon the Bank.

Exceptions were taken to this opinion, and the case has gone to the Court of Appeals, at the instance of the defendants, the verdict of the jury having been, as before stated, against them.—The decision of that tribunal will finally settle, as far as this state is concerned, the interesting question stated in this report.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES. The County Court were engaged yesterday in the trial of a suit brought by Dr. Jamieson against the proprietors of the line of stages known as "the Peoples Line," for damages on account of an injury alleged to have been received some months ago by the upsetting of a stage belonging to that Company, in which he was a passenger, on his way from Wheeling, we believe, to this place. A portion only of the evidence was got through yesterday; but the case will, we presume be closed and placed in the hands of the Jury to-day.

UNITED STATES' DISTRICT COURT.

JUDGE HEATH.

There is a case at present pending in this Court, which has already excited considerable curiosity among our readers. We allude to the case of the Malek Adhel, claimed by Messrs. Harmony & Co. of New York, which vessel was sometime since sent to this port by Com. Ridgely for condemnation upon a charge of having been engaged in several piratical aggressions upon the high seas. The case was yesterday called for trial, when the U. S. District Attorney, Mr. Williams and Reverdy Johnson, Esq., retained by the U. S. as assistant Counsel, appeared for the Government, and Messrs. Nelson, McMahon and Meredith for the claimants. The counsel for the U. States declared themselves ready for trial; but, after some conversation, the case was postponed, at the instance of the claimants' counsel, until Friday, with the understanding, sanctioned by his Honor, the Judge, that it will be then tried, unless continued upon legal grounds.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Clipper.]

WASHINGTON, June 9, 1841.

In the House of Representatives this morning, Mr. Graham, of N. C., asked leave, in pursuance of previous notice, to introduce a bill for the repeal of the Independent Treasury Law. Objection being made from various quarters, leave was not granted.

Mr. Wood, of N. Y., asked leave to offer a resolution calling upon the President of the U. States for copies of all correspondence he may have in his possession relating to the imprisonment of certain American citizens by the British Government as prisoners of state at Van Dieman's Land. Leave being refused, the House proceeded with the execution of the order of yesterday in the election of officers. Mr. Townsend, of N Y., having been elected sergeant-at-arms, the next officer to be voted for was a door-keeper. On the first ballot, Mr. J. Follansbee was re-elected. There were nine other candidates.

The next officer to be chosen was an assistant door-keeper, and Col. Hunter was re-elected.

Mr. McCormick was then re-elected Post Master by acclamation.

The House then proceeded to ballot for Chaplain, and on the first ballot the Rev. Mr. French was elected.

A resolution was then offered by Mr. Sergeant that the House proceed to the election of a printer.

A long debate then arose as to whether the motion of Mr. Ingersoll, to reconsider the vote by which the 21st rule has been rescinded, did not take precedence.

In the Senate, notice was given by Mr. Clay, of Ky., that he would on to-morrow, or at the earliest opportunity, ask leave to introduce a bill providing for a distribution of the proceeds of the public lands among the States.

After the presentation of various memorials in favor of a General Bankrupt Law, a National Bank, etc., the consideration of the bill for the repeal of the sub-Treasury Law was resumed. The bill having been engrossed, the question was on its passage.

Mr Woodbury then took the floor and spoke at great length in defence of the sub-treasury law, and the financial policy of the late administration. The debate had not terminated when this was closed.

☞A large number of the scientifical gentlemen of New York assembled on the night of the 7th, to hear the farewell address of Mons. Vattemare. Gen. Tallmadge took the chair and Mr. Sloan was appointed secretary.

Mr. Reymond, President of the Mercantile Library Association, introduced Mr. Vattemare in some very happy remarks, after which Mr. Vattemare made a truly eloquent speech, interrupted with bursts of applause.

At the conclusion of Mr. V's. address, he presented a series of resolutions, which were unanimously adopted. They related to the stranger and his great enterprise.

The Resolutions, says the Tattler, were seconded by the Rev. Dr. Wainwright, who, though unprepared, made a brief and even thrilling address, which awakened the interests and aroused the attention of all present. He appealed to the audience in behalf of the objects contemplated by the benevolent stranger, who had addressed the meeting, and complimented Mr. V. in a strain of just and true eloquence, which found a response with all present. The meeting adjourned after Dr. Wainwright had closed—a Committee of the Library Association being appointed to act thereafter, by calling a meeting of the citizens to further the objects of the meeting.

A FRENCH GIRL'S AFFECTION. A French girl in writing to her father, now in this country, says: "would that Columbus had never discovered America, since it keeps you so long absent."

Such affection is too pure to be accompanied with so hard a wish. But dear little innocent, the thought of an absent parent may, for the time being, have overcome her better judgment.—Would that she could meet her father upon the unstained soil of Columbia. We know her heart would beat in unison with his, and with the spirit of American freedom.

EYE PROTECTORS. They have for sale in Philadelphia patent eye protectors, made of fine wire gauze. They are intended to guard the eye from sparks while travelling on rail roads. We would recommend these articles to the ladies especially, for they are almost certain to get SPARKS in their eyes when travelling, even if the locomotive is miles ahead.

The Columbia (Miss.) Democrat says, that recently a most atrocious murder was committed at Kosciusko, in that State. The perpetrator of the deed is said to be one William A. Walker, generally known by the name of "Buck Walker," a notorious blackleg. His victim was a Mr. Turpin G. Atwood, represented as being a very worthy citizen.

☞A Philadelphia paper informs us that the State of Delaware has made arrangements to remove the remains of Col. John Haslett from their resting place in that city, to the burial grounds of the Presbyterian Church in Dover. Col. H. commanded the Delaware Divisions at the battle of Princeton, where he fell. The ceremony will take place on the 3d of July.

COUNTERFEITERS. We learn by a correspondence of the Phil. U. S. Gazette, that two rogues have lately been engaged in circulating large amounts of counterfeit notes in Cumberland Co. N. J. on the Union Bank of New York. It seems however that they have absconded from that region for the purpose of locating for a short time in some other. Look out for them.

LOOK OUT!!
"Caution" is the Parent of Safety.

AN ATTACK of the "PILES" may be positively prevented by using (when the premonitory symptoms are felt) the celebrated HAYS' LINIMENT. There are more than one thousand people in this city, and in the United States an immense number, who have suffered beyond endurance by this dreadful complaint, who keep themselves wholly free from attacks by applying this Liniment when they feel any symptoms of its approach—of this there is the most perfect proof.

☞None genuine without the name of COMSTOCK & Co., written on the wrappers.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From Captain PARRISH, who commenced to use them when diseased in August, 1839.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 2, 1840.

☞To DR. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I have had experience in the virtue of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,
E. PARRISH.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.

DR. WM. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been laboring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. Yours, respectfully, JOHN DYE.

We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, know our neighbour, Mr. Dye, sold him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true. Respectfully,
W. & S. B ANDERSON.

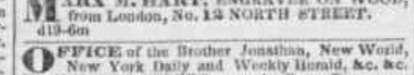
NOTICE.



BALTIMORE & OHIO RAIL ROAD.

THIS CHANGE in the hour of arrival of the Mail Train from Philadelphia, renders it necessary that a corresponding change should be made in the departure of the Morning Cars for the west:

Notice is therefore hereby given, That on and after WEDNESDAY, 26th instant, the Passenger Train for Ellicott's Mills, Frederick, and Harper's Ferry will be despatched from the Depot in Pratt street, at half past 9 instead of 7 o'clock, A. M., the present hour of departure—of which travellers will take notice.

☞The EXPRESS Train for Frederick will continue to leave at 3½ o'clock every evening, with which, as well as with the Morning Train, passengers from Washington can still connect at the Relay House. By order,

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Locx, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 22 Market street, F. F., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.
P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY,
No. 17 HARRISON ST.
"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

☞Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

UNRIVALLED SPEED!
SUMMER ARRANGEMENT
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE.
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

☞Bear in mind, that Passengers who go by the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, have 40 miles of Rail Road unrolling through the DISMAL SWAMP at midnight, over one of the worst Rail Roads in America, and then are often compelled to lay over 17 hours at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 9 A. M., they proceed, without one moment's delay, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and often one day in advance of any other Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	12 P.M. reach	Baltimore	8 A.M.
" Baltimore	9 A.M. "	Washington	11 A.M.
" Washington	11½ A.M. "	Fredk'sburg	6 P.M.
" Fred'sburg	6½ P.M. "	Richmond	11 P.M.
" Richmond	11½ P.M. "	Petersburg	1 A.M.
" Petersburg	1½ A.M. "	Weldon	6½ A.M.
" Weldon	7 A.M. "	Charleston	on the next morning.

Passengers by this Line not only reach Charleston ONE DAY SOONER than by the Bay boats but they avoid being compelled to remain all night at Weldon, on the Roanoke, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole southern country, where, by the Bay Line, they are often delayed twenty-four hours.

Passengers for Richmond and Petersburg will find this Line far the most expeditious, arriving at Richmond to lodge, (as will be seen from the above Schedule,) on the evening of the day on which they leave Baltimore, being from 16 to 18 hours in advance of those taking the Bay Steam Boats.

☞This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from the Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va.

Fare to Richmond,	$10.00
Fare to Petersburg,	10.50
Fare to Weldon,	12.50

UNITED STATES MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH, Sunday's excepted
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that in accordance with the New Mail Arrangement, the Boats composing their line, viz: ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, will, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 26th of May, leave the lower end of Spear's wharf daily, (Sunday's excepted,) at nine o'clock, A.M. for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va.

Passengers for Charleston will find the cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, on the wharf, on their arrival at Portsmouth, ready to convey them to Weldon, N C., where they will always arrive in time to take the cars for Wilmington, from which point to Charleston is by the Steamboat, which leaves Wilmington immediately after the Passengers are delivered from the cars.

Passengers for Richmond, Petersburg, or intermediate points on James River, by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, will sleep on board the Bay Boat and be transferred to the James River Boat next morning.

The Steamboat Fox leaves the Black Water station on the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars from Portsmouth, for Edenton and Plymouth, N. C., and returns every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, delivering her passengers to the cars as they pass down from Weldon, enabling them to arrive in Baltimore next day, (Sundays excepted.)

RETURNING, one of the above Boats will leave Norfolk every night (Saturday being excepted) at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departing from Portsmouth.

Should the Boat get an early start from Portsmouth, Passengers for Philadelphia and New York will have the opportunity of being placed on board the Philadelphia Steamboat in the Patapsco River, and will arrive in Philadelphia the same night by 11 o'clock, after having travelled 200 miles in 20 hours, without as much fatigue as would be incurred in walking from the Hotel to the wharf.

☞No freight will be forwarded on the day it is left, unless it is alongside, prior to 8 o'clock, A.M.

THE BEAM OF FRIENDSHIP.

Mellow's the light of the pale faced moon
When she reigns in a calm summers night;
Bright is the ray of the Sun's disk at noon,
Revealing nature's charms to the sight.

Clear is the stream that so chrystal-like flows
With trembling o'er its pebble paved bed;
Cheering the breeze that from mountain top blows,
To the traveller's slow weary tread

But brighter, and clearer and more cheering far,
To the wretch on whom fortune has frowned,
To the pure beam of that ne'er fading star,
Which in Friendship's sweet Heaven is found.

CARLOS.

THE STORY OF MANDRIN.

THE SMUGGLER CAPTAIN.

In the public records of Montbrison, a town in the south of France, near the banks of the Rhone, there is a most remarkable document, which has as remarkable a history. The paper is brief; it is a receipt, and originated in the following circumstances.

About the middle of the eighteenth century, or, to be more pointed, in the year 1764, Mandrin, the famous brigand, presented himself at the gates of Montbrison. He was accompanied by such a force, that no one dreamed of offering the slightest resistance. He took possession of the place in the same manner as the Duke of Nemours had done in the sixteenth century; but with this difference in favor of the brigand, that the latter exacted not one coin from the inhabitants, and caused a rigorous discipline to be observed by his band. One of them, who ventured to appropriate an article of the most trifling value, was publicly punished in the market-place.

After making various dispositions for security of his own safety and that of his men during their stay, and for relieving the inhabitants from fear, Louis Mandrin, elegantly attired in a rich court habit, according to the accounts of the old people of the place, betook himself, accompanied by two of his men in the dress of lacqueys, to the house of M. Palmaroux, receiver of taxes for the district. He entered with the greatest coolness into the dwelling in question, but at the same time with that urbanity of deportment which he knew well how to assume, and by which he took a pride in distinguishing himself from the vulgar bandits of the day.

'M. Palmaroux,' said he to the receiver-general, 'I am come to do myself the honor of supping with you.'

This speech was accompanied with a low bow, and an elegant wave of the hat—which was ornamented by a nodding plume of feathers.

'May I request to know, sir, to whom I am indebted for the honor of this visit?' answered M. Palmaroux, stammering through surprise and a suspicion that his free-and-easy visiter, though not known to him, was not of a very pleasant order of persons.

'A very simple question that is, and very easily answered, Mr. Receiver-general,' said the brigand; 'my name is Louis Mandrin.'

'Louis Mandrin!' muttered out the tax-gatherer.

'Pray, do not make a noise, M. Palmaroux,' said Mandrin; 'that would be imprudent; and do not be alarmed. You judge by report; it is wrong to do so. The only way to acquire a knowledge of people is to see them close at hand; and that is precisely the advantage which I meant to give you in coming thus to treat with you, glass in hand.'

'Treat with me!' cried M. Palmaroux; 'I do not comprehend what kind of relations there can be between you and me.'

The financier did not speak the exact truth here; for a certain tremulousness in his voice, and nervous agitation in his limbs, indicated that he had made a good guess at the business hinted at by his visiter. Mandrin did not allow him at any rate to remain long in the dark.

'Oh!' said the brigand, 'our treaty is not one that requires any discussion. It is a simple matter; 'conclude and sign!' You will find me perfectly honorable, and scrupulously regular in my transactions. What! I compromise the credit of an honest receiver! Nothing is farther from my thoughts. I am all for right and justice, and that is the reason that I usually travel with a few musquetoers about me; for you know, my dear Mr. Financier, it requires a certain degree of energy in this world of ours to make equity triumphant.—But we'll talk of business afterwards; let us first sup. Where are the ladies? Oh! they have concealed themselves, I wager. What nonsense! They told me that Madame Palmaroux is musical; I shall be enchanted to hear her. One of the disagreeable features of my profession is the deprivation of music. You would scarcely believe, my dear Palmaroux, how much I miss it. Your good lady'—

'Certainly, sir,' stammered out the receiver; 'but I fear—I fear my wife is indisposed'—

'To see me?' interrupted the bandit in his turn. 'Oh these confounded reputations! But I would soon reassure your lady.'

In fine, with not the best grace in the world, M. Palmaroux was necessitated to make his wife appear. Madame Palmaroux was a woman; and though she could not enter the presence of the famous brigand without fear and trembling, yet she took the precaution to appear as well-dressed as possible, reasoning with herself probably in some such way as this. 'Though one cannot help being frightened for a robber, it is needless making one's self a fright for all that.'

The supper was announced. Mandrin presented to Madame Palmaroux a very white hand, decorated with a variety of costly rings. In the supper-room, the brigand kept his two pretended lacqueys behind his chair. During the repast, the conversation was light and animating. The visiter of the receiver chatted of the court, theatres, romances, and Madame Pompadour, and dropt not a word regarding the motive of his visit. But, at the desert, he changed the conversation so markedly, that Madame foresaw what was coming. Her husband begged her to retire, but she requested to remain, imagining that the man who chatted so gaily with her would be accessible to her influence in the business about to be transacted. But she soon found that Mandrin had two characters, and that there were points on which he made no concessions.

'Well,' said Mandrin, swallowing a final glass of champagne, 'let us finish our business. How much, Mr. Receiver, have we in our treasury?'

'Ah! very little, M. Mandrin,' said Palmaroux; 'the people will not pay. They lock their chests against us, and beat our collectors.'

'Ah! that is very ill done, indeed,' said the bandit; but let us not lose time. How much have we exactly?'

'Perhaps from seven to eight hundred livres, more or less,' answered the receiver-general.

'Take care what you say, my dear M. Palmaroux,' said Mandrin, 'you know that accuracy is every thing in financial matters. And don't imagine that I come to you as a spoliator. By no means; I am not one of those rude sort of fellows. I intend to put into your coffer, in place of money, a good and valid receipt; one much more regular, I shall be bold to say, than most of those you receive. You understand, it shall be a quittance, signed by me, and sealed with my signet, with a hundred and fifty muskets at my back to give weight to the document. It will be a sterling receipt; every bank in the world would accept such a tender. Come, Father Palmaroux, without more words, what sum have you on hand at present?'

Something in the brigand's manner led Father Palmaroux to delay no longer. 'Upon my conscience, six thousand livres.' At these words, Mandrin took from his pocket a scrap of paper, and glancing at it, said, 'Six thousand seven hundred and ninety livres; that is the sum you have exactly. You see, my dear receiver, we are pretty well informed. But seven hundred livres is a a small matter in the conscience of a receiver-general.'

The bandit then turned to one of his lacquey attendants, and said 'Accompany Mr. Receiver to his office, and get from him the sum of six thousand seven hundred and ninety livres. You know that I never touch money, it soils the fingers; and I am very here 'alone.' I have also the quittance to write. I carry stamps always about with me. Regularity in every thing, that is my motto.'

And, in truth, the brigand drew from his pocket a small book, containing proper stamps, with writing materials. Having first carefully turned up a portion of the table-cloth to prevent any staining, he then wrote out a receipt in the following terms: 'I, the undersigned Louis Mandrin, having collected from the coffers of M. Palmaroux, receiver-general of taxes at Montbrison, the sum of six thousand seven hundred and ninety livres, taken against their will from the people of the district; and declare the said receiver duly freed of the said sum, and to be exempt from all recourse on the part of farmers-general or their agents; in notification of which I leave him the present receipt to serve as an available and valid discharge. LOUIS MANDRIN.'

After this exploit, Mandrin took a courteous leave of his host and hostess, and, soon after, of the town of Montbrison. Though Monsieur and Madame Palmaroux could not say much for the pleasure resulting from the visit paid to them, yet they afterwards spoke with wonder of the urbanity of the notorious robber.

After a life in which strange affectations of breeding, and even acts of direct generosity, were mingled with acts of violence and spoliation, chiefly in the department of smuggling, Mandrin was taken, condemned, and broken on the wheel. Sir Walter Scott, in alluding to the comparative apathy which he himself felt after the first shock of his misfortunes was over, compares his case with that of Mandrin, who when undergoing his final punishment, declared with his dying breath that he felt no pain, the first blows having so deadened his sensations, as to render the rest productive of no suffering.

THE PRESIDENT. As every item which contains a ray of hope in relation to this ill-fated vessel is of interest we give the following though we believe it a cruel hoax. We find it in the Mercury of New Bedford, Mass.:

"A wine bottle which had drifted ashore on the Horse Neck Beach, at the mouth of Buzzard's Bay, was picked up on Saturday last by Mr. John Devoll, of Westport, and was found to contain a slip torn from the side margin of a newspaper, upon which the following memorandum had been pencilled:

"Steam ship President, sole survivor the Steward—in a small boat Save me—20th May."

The fragment of paper upon which this is written is a strip about six inches long and one inch wide, and judging from the typography which is scantily indented upon both sides of one of the edges, as also from its corresponding texture, it appears to have been torn from the Philadelphia Gazette and Commercial Intelligencer, although we cannot identify it in this respect with certainty."

A NICE PARTY. Mathias Evans, John Wilson, Thomas Serint and Jno. W. Williams were arrested and taken to the Eastern District watch-house, charged with disorderly conduct in the streets and abusing the watchman on Wednesday night, or rather Thursday morning, at half past two o'clock. They had better been in their beds.

CHILDREN. The editor of the Boston Transcript seems to have a very fatherly affection for children and consequently devotes a portion of his columns to their special benefit. By the way his ideas are excellent as may be seen from the following paragraph:

"It is lamentable to observe the manner in which some people bring up their children, or rather suffer them to bring themselves up. They are permitted to go at large wherever and whenever they choose. And what is the consequence? They become idlers, and from idlers they are led away to all kinds of mischief and evil deeds, and the result is, they are soon candidates for prisons and houses of correction. The disobedience of the child and the crimes of the man are closely allied."

A truer sentence than the closing one of the above was never penned. The disobedience of the child is not only manifested in the crimes of the man, but it makes the child itself (an object formed for admiration) a thing to be hated.—While on this subject we will take the liberty of mentioning one thing, from which parents and guardians may learn something beneficial—it is this: Children are often taught to tell untruths by the example of their parents when attempting to correct them for misdemeanors. Frequently the most positive promises of reward are given, and threats of punishment made if the child persists in the violation of certain parental laws laid down. Under these circumstances we have known such promises to be openly violated by the child, and their fulfilment disregarded by the parent. Thus does the parent (though perhaps unintentionally) by the force of example, give palpable encouragement to the child to disregard the solemnity and beauty of truth. If parents will thus violate the sanctity of their own promises, can they expect their children to tell the truth or understand its utility.

A DREADFUL SCENE. The Detroit Advertiser of the 3d inst. says: "Yesterday afternoon a man by the name of Sampson, who resides in Hastings street, in the upper part of this city, murdered his wife with an axe. A little daughter who witnessed the horrid act, ran to give the alarm, was followed a short distance by the monster, but observing the approach of a man to whom the alarm had been given, he retired into the house, deliberately cut his own throat with a razor, threw himself by the side of his murdered wife, and in a few minutes expired. They have left three small children, one only three months old.

"When we crossed on the ferry, hurriedly washed in blood. Her head was dreadfully mangled, and his throat cut from ear to ear, and a large contusion appeared on his left temple, whether inflicted by himself or his victim we could not determine. The Coroner had not arrived when we left, and so much confusion prevailed in the crowd that had assembled that we were unable to learn any further particulars."

The parcel of ground known as 'Upton Court,, situated on the road leading to Ferry Point, and running out to the Port Warden's line in the Patapsco, containing 7¼ acres,—subject to an annual ground rent of $200,—was sold at public auction on the 8th inst. for $2258—purchaser, S. C. Leakin. At the same time ten small two story brick houses, five fronting on Schroeder and five on Amity st., were sold for $3,400.

NATIONAL COURTESY. The flags of the British steamer Acadia, and bark Treasurer, at Boston, were hung at half-mast on Friday, the day on which minute guns were fired, and the flags of national vessels hung at half-mast, in honor to the memory of Commodore Claxton.

THE DRUNKARD'S END. We learn that an intemperate man of the name of Warren, of East Hartford, was on Sunday found dead in a field, with his jug, which he had emptied, beside him.

The man Scott, recently arrested in St. Louis as the great forger, has been seen by Mr. Gwathney, cashier of the suffering Bank at Louisville, and pronounced not to be the man.

A clergyman having had one of his sermons printed was reading the proof when he came to a part where it was light, he marked on the margin "more ink here!"

The President's message was received in Cincinnati on the 3d inst. in 60 hours from Washington, a distance of nearly 600 miles. Unprecedented speed.

A HEROINE. The Lynchburg Gazette says: that a large Bear was killed on the 27th ult., in Franklin township, by the wife of Mr. Joseph Whitmore. Her only weapon it is said, was a broad-hoe.

NEW YORK CUSTOM HOUSE. We understand says the Star that Isaac S. Hone, Esq. has been appointed deputy Collector, in place of Mr. Ferguson removed.

GOING IT. The President's message reached Wheeling, Va., in twenty-one hours after its delivery at Washington.

The four negroes, convicted at the recent horrid murders at St. Louis, have been sentenced to be hung on the 9th of July.

The loss by the fire at Troy, is estimated at from $30,000 to $40,000.

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND, For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Strictures, Diabets or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substances? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard-sts. Also of L. S. THOMAS, corner of Bridge and Forest streets—with full directions accompanying each bottle at $1 per bottle.

66½ BALTIMORE-ST. HATS AGAINST THE WORLD. No! Not all the World but the World of Humbugs! Call at our Store and we will prove that we sell the cheapest Hats in Baltimore, in point of Beauty, Durability, and Fashion. Our prices are well known, and are as follows: Splendid Fashionable Russia Hats for $3.50, of the same quality as those selling elsewhere for $5. Also, fine fashionable Silk Hats at $2.50, warranted on Russia bodies, and generally selling elsewhere for $4 or no sale. And our old customers will please bear in mind that the well known KEEVIL removed from the Maryland Arcade some six months ago. So come one and all to 66½ Baltimore street, between Gay and Holliday-sts. And 4 doors W. of Bool's well known Auction Store.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Moleskin Hats at $3.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

N. B. The trade supplied with HATS in the rough of all qualities. mh30-3m

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 11, 1841.

"BE JUST AND FEAR NOT." Among the many moral admonitions given by the master poet, Shakspeare, there is none which should be more strictly observed than that which we have just quoted; and yet, perhaps, there are few injunctions less scrupulously complied with. The selfish man can scarcely reconcile it to his interests to deal justly in all respects with others, and yet he is quick to discover and to resent the slightest deviation from this great moral principle when practiced against himself. The greedy monopolist, whether in ordinary trade, or in the more liberal profession of publishing a newspaper, sees in every competitor an enemy, whom his avarice would induce him to destroy; regardless of the obligation to be just, or the Divine command to "do unto others as you would that others should do unto you;" and hence every artifice is resorted to, and all the baser passions brought into active operation, to accomplish the object in view. With such men honorable competition constitutes guilt, and the degree of criminality is increased with the successful progress of the competitor.—It is not enough with those who are actuated by these mean and sordid feelings, that they are themselves liberally supported by the public, but they repine at the prosperity of others, and endeavor to deprive their neighbors of a loaf which they cannot eat themselves. It is the "dog in the manger" principle upon which they act—but they forget that retributive justice never fails to overtake the violator of right.

In the Dispensations of Divine Providence it seldom occurs that the truly just man is permitted to suffer, for he is enjoined to "fear not." "Shadows, clouds and darkness" may obscure his path, and present impediments to his progress; but these obstacles will prove but temporary. By persisting in his upright course, the clouds will "dissolve apace," and the bright and cheering sunshine of prosperity open to his view. In all stations of life a rigid adherence to justice is essential; and, previous to entering upon any transaction we should never neglect to ask the question, "Is it just?" And, if it cannot be answered in the affirmative with honesty and sincerity, the measure should be abandoned as not only contrary to the Divine and moral law, but as likely to prove injurious to ourselves. The thief may console himself that he has retreated in security with his plunder—but his satisfaction is short-lived. An invisible hand guides him to [illegible] policy." The murderer may wipe the stain of blood from his hand, but it is transferred to his forehead. He cannot have the consolation breathed into his soul "fear not," for he has failed to "be just." And sa it is of all offences. They follow through life to plague us on our journey. They make the heart to wither and the head to droop. Let it then be indelibly impressed upon every mind, that it is a duty enjoined alike by religion and morality, to "be just," and that for compliance with this injunction, we have the assurance that we shall "fear not."

THE WILLIAM BROWN. The Childe Harold arrived at Boston on Monday evening, from Sydney, Cape Breton, with Captain Harris, of the William Brown, and Miss Eliza Lafferty, the female passenger. The other persons in the boat were Walter Parker, second officer, George Collison, Thomas Hoff, Charles Lake, Andrew Cregar, and Frederick Humphreys, seamen, and John Smith, boy. The William Brown was lost April 19th, and the boat was picked up on the 26th, in lat. 45 38, lon. 49½, by the French fishing schr. "La Mere de Famille," Capt. Labas, from Dieppe, and landed at St. Peters, May 6.

Capt. L. states that a few days before he picked up the jolly-boat he cruised along the edge of ice 188 miles South, before he cleared it, and then ran North West 150 miles before he could clear in that direction. He had been fifteen years in the trade to St. Peters, and never before met so much ice. The Childe Harold was supposed to have been lost, as she had not been so long heard from.

Capt. Damon states that he was eight days among the ice within 15 miles of St. Peters, and finally succeeded into getting into Louisburg, Cape Breton, where he was blocked in by ice ten days. A vessel came into Louisburg about the same time, which had been in the ice four weeks without a rag of sail set, unable to extricate herself.

☞The communication of G. B. M. relative to the assault and battery case, can only have a place in our paper as an advertisement, as we have heretofore had a report of the affair. Its publication we have no doubt would answer the ends intended.

MR. BURTON'S intention of fitting up the large room in the Washington Hotel, for the purpose of producing vaudevilles, has been unexpectedly protracted by the interference of the companies who have insured the building.

YOUTHFUL MURDERER. A colored boy named Charles Story, aged about 12 years, has been convicted in New Brunswick, N. J., of murder in the second degree.

TORNADO IN EAST JERSEY. A letter from East Jersey states, that that section of country has been visited with a terrific tornado. Great injury was done to the fruit and other vegetation.

PUBLIC OPINION. A Baltimore correspondent of the New York Herald, after speaking of the large daily papers of this city, describes the penny press in the following terms. His sentiments are but the echo of public opinion. A snake may hide itself in the grass for a time, but its serpentine course cannot remain undiscovered forever.

"Of the penny papers, the Sun was the first established (in 1837) by the proprietors of the Philadelphia Ledger, who were already making money in Philadelphia, and as the penny system was a new thing here, the Sun, aided by the Ledger, rapidly increased its circulation, and if its editors had not got so stiff, their paper would be liked much better, but the gullibility of the Baltimoreans is astonishing. They actually hold the 'Sun' up, now that they have found it out, as much as they did before. The Baltimoreans are Southerners, and, consequently are opposed to abolitionism; yet the editors of this journal are tainted with that fanatical spirit, in a great degree, but of late they have held their peace about it. They also pretend to be neutral, but if a close observer does not find that they lean to a certain side, then there is no 'Baltimore Patriot' for it to rail at. The 'Sun' also pretends to be high-minded, honorable, &c., and lectures the good people of Baltimore about their morality, and in a disgusting paragraph, in a late number, asserts that the 'leaders of the fashion in female society attend assignation houses.' The modest editor must have seen one there certainly, as he speaks from his own knowledge. Thus, you see, the editors of a paper that has a large circulation, are guilty of stealing* advertisements, which the 'Clipper' charges upon them, which they do not, cannot deny; and yet they boast of having a larger circulation than all the papers in Baltimore put together, than which there never was a greater falsehood. The 'Sun,' 'Ledger,' 'New York Sun,' and 'Boston Times,' are all united, and act in concert. They alternately praise each other, forward news, and do all in their power to sustain themselves, though the 'Sun' is often indebted to your enterprising agent for its latest news, which they never even credit him for. Your agent often furnishes them with a copy of the Herald before the mail arrives. It is strange that the Baltimore people will sustain such a nuisance. I say it is passing strange.

"The 'Clipper' was established in September, 1839, by J. H. Hewitt, under whose auspices it flourished until he withdrew, which was about three months since. He was witty, as well as otherwise talented. The proprietors are Messrs. Bull & Tuttle. The present editors are Samuel Barnes and Jno. Wills, Esquires, who are competent, and are making exertions to render the Clipper the best penny paper in the country. I understand they intend to enlarge shortly, and if [illegible] The Clipper is by far the best penny paper in the State of Maryland.

"The 'Argus' is a small, but well conducted and spirited paper. It was established last year; its editor is a young gentleman, who is talented, and is a sterling advocate of temperance. In last Thursday's paper, I noticed eight articles copied from the Herald of Wednesday; thus showing his good sense, and the usefulness of yourself. The Argus circulates about two thousand copies."

*The writer is here in error. We did not make the charge of stealing an advertisement, but of paragraphing one directed to the proprietors of the Clipper. There may be a legal, but there is no moral difference.

ANOTHER U. S BANK CASE. Bicknell's Reporter states that "application was made a few days since by Alexander Brown, to the Court of Common Pleas, to forfeit the charter of the United States Bank. The previous unsuccessful attempts to procure a forfeiture have been made under the Resumption Resolutions of 3d April, 1840. In this application, the proceedings are to be had under the law of 1835 creating the Bank, the institution having refused payment for its liabilities for ninety days, presenting precisely the case that Judge King alluded to in his late decision as one which must result in the attainment of the object sought by the applicant—an absolute forfeiture through the proclamation of the Governor on the presentation to him of the evidence of the facts alleged through one of the Judges of the Court named. We learn that demand for payment of the claim involved in this issue ($1400) was formally made on the 9th of Feb. and again on the 9th of May, and that the Bank now seeks to evade a compliance on the ground of their exemption from specie liability, by the acceptance of the late Revenue Law, which authorizes a suspension for five years. The case will be argued by Wm. D. Kelly, Esq. for the applicant, and by Mr. Cadwallader for the Bank, at the expiration of the ten days' notice."

HOUSE OF REFUGE. Scarcely a day passes that does not bring with it some evidence of the great necessity that exists for a House of Refuge in this city. On Wednesday night David Crumfull, white, and James Wilson, colored boy, were found sleeping in front of a store and conveyed to the watch house until morning. Here is another illustration, added to those daily given of the great need of some such institution as we have named at the head of this article.

STRANGE PLACE TO DIE. The dead body of a man, name unknown, was found a short time since on the roof of a three story house in Vicksburg. No one could divine how he came in such a situation.

UP TO 90°. The thermometer stood at 90° in Philadelphia on Wednesday last.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN.

FIRE. The alarm of fire last night between 11 and 12 o'clock, proceeded from the burning of the bark house, stable, small stone house and bark mill, belonging to the tannery of Messrs. Wm. & Thomas Johnson, situated at the western extremity of Saratoga-st. Upwards of one hundred cords of bark, which had just been laid in, was consumed. A large quantity of tanned leather was saved. The firemen, with their apparatus, were as promptly on the spot as the distance would allow, but the scarcity of water in the neighborhood rendered their duty extremely arduous.

We learn that there is an insurance on the property which will nearly cover the loss. The fire was first discovered in the bark house, and was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary.

VAN BUREN STATE CONVENTION. The Van Buren Convention for the nomination of a candidate to fill the Gubernatorial Chair of this State, held its meeting in the Saloon of the Law Buildings yesterday. The meeting was organized by calling H. G. S. Key, Esq., of St. Mary's, to the Chair, and the appointment of Geo. W. Sherwood, Esq., of Easton, as Secretary.

On motion a committee of one from each county and city was appointed by the Chair, to select permanent officers for the Convention.

The Committee having retired for that purpose, returned in a few minutes, and announced the following as their selection, which was unanimously confirmed by the Convention:

President.—Gen. Tobias E. Stansbury.

Vice Presidents.—H. G. S. Key, of St. Mary's; George Handy, of Somerset; Elias Brown, of Carroll; Solomon Hillen, jr., of Baltimore; R. B. Carmichael, of Queen Anne; Robert Wason, of Washington; B. H. Richardson, of Baltimore; Z. H. Worthington, of Anne Arundel.

Secretaries.—George W. Sherwood, of Talbot; John C. Legrand, of Baltimore; Henry Hobbs, of Annapolis; and George Collier, of Somerset.

After some debate upon different questions of interest to the Convention, that body adjourned over until four o'clock, when they again met, and proceeded to ballot for a candidate, when, upon counting the votes, it appeared that FRANCIS THOMAS, Esq., of Frederick county, was the choice of the Convention, having received a majority of the whole number of votes given over his competitors, J. T. H. Worthington, of Baltimore county, Charles S. Sewell and Jas. W. Williams, of Harford county.

The Convention then proceeded to the discussion of some resolutions of a private nature, in which they were engaged for some hours—after which, they adjourned sine die.

ASSAULT. On Wednesday afternoon, Thomas Gahagen was brought before Squire McDonald, upon a charge of committing an assault and battery upon —— Ahern. It appeared from the statement of Ahern, that a man named Riley had call-quor, desired Ahern to go to [illegible] with him and he would pay him, but that he had no money about him. Ahern accordingly accompanied him to Gahagen's, where the man demanded of the latter his trunk, &c. which Gahagen refused to deliver upon the ground that he was not sober, but if he would come when he was, he should have them. At this time Ahern was engaged in drinking a glass of beer, to pay for which he had handed the landlord a fifty cent note, and remarked to Gahagen that he thought Riley was sober enough then to receive his effects if he wanted them. Gahager expressed himself to the effect that he desired no interference on his part; and, after a few more words, rushed from behind the bar and assaulted him. In the course of the scuffle he lost a dollar note, and not having received any change from the fifty cents, he warranted Gahagen for the amount, at the same time he had him arrested for a breach of the peace.—The civil action was finally dropped by Ahern, and both parties were required by Squire McDonald to give security to appear at Court on Saturday, in the case of a breach of the peace.

MRS. WATSON'S CONCERT, on Wednesday night, was not so well attended as it deserved. Those, however, who were present enjoyed a rich treat in the powerful yet most skilfully managed tones of Braham's wonderful voice, and the brilliant, yet perfectly chaste singing of Mrs. Watson. Braham's "Scot's wha hae," &c. was splendidly sung; and would, it seems to us, have caused a thrill of courage and patriotic devotion in the soul even of the veriest coward or traitor on earth. Such a song, so sung, would be better to an army than the clang of a thousand trumpets. Mrs. Watson was, in all her pieces, fully effective, and the audience enthusiastically acknowledged the various beauties of her performances. We wish to hear these excellent artists again, and hope that the heat of the weather may be so far moderated as to give them a fair chance for an audience commensurate with their merits.

A BIT OF A QUARREL. We were attracted to a small crowd assembled in Gay street near our office yesterday afternoon. The assemblage was caused by a young Irishman and his wife, who had broken the connubial tie, and were quarrelling for the possession of two children, a boy and girl, beautiful, fat and healthy. The wife wanted them and John wanted them. We left the group as we found it, believing that the difficulties would be amicably settled after the street audience dispersed.

ARREST. Joseph Lafleur, charged with rioting and disturbing the peace and threatening the lives of his mother and brother, was arrested yesterday morning and brought before Justice Barnard. In default of security to keep the peace, he was committed to prison.—Margaret Burns and Louisa Watkins, were committed to the Almshouse as vagrants.

LETTER CARRIER EXTRA. Two cases were tried before Squire Walter on Wednesday afternoon, which made the persons aware of what few of them, we presume, knew before, the existence of a new channel for the carriage of letters from this country to Germany or from there here.—The trials were upon two suits brought, one by Julius Knopp and the other by Charles Sutlkoff, against a certain John Brinckard, to recover the value of fifty cents, current money, in each case, being the amount which the plaintiffs had paid the defendant as postage upon two certain letters received through his hands from Germany. From the evidence on the part of the plaintiffs it appeared that defendant had brought them the letters and offered them to them, at the same time stating that the charge for bringing them on was fifty cents each, and requiring payment of that amount before either was delivered. Finding him determined not to yield them up without the money was paid, they took the letters, paying the required amount; but Knopp, subsequently calling to mind the fact that he had often received letters from the same place through the Post Office in this city, for which he had always paid but eight cents, conceived that the money paid Brinckard had been extorted from him, and it was to recover the sums so considered to be extorted, that these two actions were brought.

Upon the part of the defendant the payment of the money was admitted, but a handbill was produced in the German language, which, upon translation, proved to be an advertisement setting forth that a certain Herman Bernard Lankee would travel backwards and forwards between this country and Germany, and take in charge letters or money, from persons in this country to their friends in the former place, at the rate of fifty cents per single letter, and five per cent. on all money entrusted to him—that any person wishing to send money or letters to Germany by him could leave them with Mr. John Brinckard, who would send them to him at a certain place he would be, and which he would make known to Brinckard—but nothing was said in the handbill relative bringing letters to this country. It was also contended for the defence that the fact that the plaintiffs had received opened and used the letters, knowing the rate charged upon them, was prima facia evidence of the existence of a contract for the payment of the carriage so charged.—Squire Walter considering that there was no evidence of a contract between the party bringing the letters over and those sending them that any charges should be paid on their receipt here—that there was no proof to shew that the plaintiffs ever contracted to pay the party who brought them—and the reception of the letters and payment of carriage charged upon them was not prima facia evidence of the existence of a contract between the plaintiff and Brinckard that he should be paid for them; and further, that although a man may be induced to pay money, yet, if paid in his own wrong, he has a right to sue for its recovery; and, if the evidence bear him out, to recover; and, believing that, in the present case, the proof clearly [illegible] the sums sued for in their own wrong—gave judgment yesterday afternoon for the plaintiffs for the amount claimed in each case—fifty cents and costs.

Although the sums here contested are trifling we have thought proper to give this full report of the case, to guard any of our readers who may be subjected to the chance, from similar impositions hereafter.

STREET STROLLING AND DRUNKENNESS. Mary Williams, Ann Maria Williams, and Sarah Saunders, were arrested and taken to the watch house, charged, the two former with street strolling, and the latter with drunkenness and disturbing the peace.

KILLED. On Wednesday when the cars were coming down Pratt street, they ran over a large hog killing it instantly.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Clipper.]

WASHINGTON, June 10, 1841.

The weather continues remarkably warm, and not a few members are casting an eye homewards. They had better send for their wives and families to come and die with them.

In order to beguile the tedium of political debate, the Marine Band have promised to attend the Capitol every Wednesday and Saturday evenings. That is a good plan, for music will do us more good than talking this weather.

The Senate appears to be determined to outstrip the wind in the way of business; for, at a late hour last night, the bill for the repeal of the Sub-Treasury Law was passed by a vote of 29 to 18. If they get along with it as fast in the House, there will be some hope of a speedy adjournment: but as every new member in the latter body appears desirous of making a speech, the bill will probably hang fire for some weeks.

In the House last evening after I closed, Mr. Ingersoll made a real thunder and lightning speech on his motion to reconsider the vote by which the 21st rule had, on motion of Mr. Adams, been rescinded. The latter gentleman rose several times in explanation, and asserted among other things, that if the North should be prevented from petitioning on the institutions of the South, then in case of a servile war in the South, the North would not be bound to obey a call by Congress to furnish blood and treasure for the support of these institutions.

In the House this morning, a number of memorials were presented and referred to appropriate committees.

The consideration of the motion of Mr. Ingersoll to reconsider the vote by which the 21st rule had been rescinded, then came up in order.

Mr. Ingersoll resumed and concluded his remarks, and was followed by Mr. Marshall, a new member from Kentucky.

In the Senate, the chief business was the introduction of a General Bankrupt Law by Mr. Henderson, which, after some debate, was read twice and referred.

BALTIMORE CITY COURT.

THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1841.

Present—Judges Brice, Nisbet and Worthington.

Upon the opening of the court this morning, the names of the petit jurors were called over, when the gentlemen summoned all answered to their names. The witnesses on the part of the State against Mary E. Patterson, indicted for keeping a house of bad reputation, were discharged until Saturday morning, at ten o'clock.

William Miller, indicted for felony, in stealing a watch, the property of Thomas M. Cooper, was brought up for trial and plead guilty. It appeared in evidence that the watch had been offered for sale at the store of Mr. J. F. Reeves, where an intimation had previously been left of such a watch having been stolen; and when the prisoner called with it, the watch was detained for a short time, when it was identified by the owner, and the prisoner arrested. When taken before Squire Schaeffer he acknowledged the theft, but plead necessity in extenuation.

Jacob Brown Thomas, colored, indicted for felony, in stealing, on the 26th February last, a certain quantity of tobacco and mustard, the property of George Campbell, was next arraigned, and plead not guilty. A jury having been sworn, evidence was produced on the part of the state to prove the theft and to identify the prisoner who committed the felony; and the jury returned a verdict of guilty of stealing the tobacco, but not the mustard.

Catharine Stevenson was next put upon her trial, charged with stealing certain articles of dry goods, the property of Robert Taylor, and plead guilty.

Elizabeth Wilson, indicted for stealing several articles of clothing from Robert Moore, was next brought up, and plead guilty to the charge.

John or George Henry Harris, alias Harrison, was placed in the bar, upon an indictment for breaking into a barber shop of Nathaniel Groom, with felonious intent. Not guilty.

John Tonick was next brought up on an indictment charging him with committing an assault upon Henry S. McDonnell, a police officer. The indictment contained three counts: First, for an assault and battery with intent to kill. Second, for an assault and battery upon a police officer. Third, for a simple assault and battery. The prisoner having no counsel, the court assigned Wm. S. Waters and J. E. Steuart, Esq'rs., to defend him; and, at the suggestion of the court, the case was postponed until to-morrow, to give those gentlemen time to prepare for the defence.

Alice Cooper, colored, indicted for stealing a piece of muslin from the store of Charles Jordan, was placed at the bar and plead not guilty. After a brief examination of the evidence on the part of the State, the case was immediately given to the Jury, who immediately returned a verdict of guilty.

BALTIMORE COUNTY COURT.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES. The case alluded to in our paper of yesterday, in which a suit was brought against the proprietors of the People's Line of stages for damages alleged to have been received by Dr. Jamieson of this city, while travelling in one of their stages, was not concluded yesterday. Several prayers were made by the counsel on either side, the arguments on which, before the Court, occupied the time until the hour of adjournment. We shall give the decision as soon as a verdict is returned by the Jury.

PROLIFIC. The Hartford Courier states that the wife of Mr. Elijah Brown, of Preston, in that State, recently gave birth to three boys—being Mr. B's 'second edition' of boys of three at a time. The first three were lettered with the names of Elijah, Elias, and Elisha.

The latter three she may call Shadrack, Meschack and Abednigo.

STEAMBOAT BURNED. The Vicksburg Whig of the 17th ult. says the steamer Ganges, which left this port on Friday last for New Orleans, with 150 bales of cotton, was burned to the water's edge on the same day, at the head of Palmyra island, while lying at a woodyard. No lives lost. The boat and cargo were insured.

FIRE. On Sunday morning, May 30th, the five principal buildings in the village of Lapeer, Michigan, were destroyed by fire. It commenced in the store and dwelling of Mr. O. M. Evans, which building was destroyed. Also, the store of Mr. Hart, and the post office, it being in the same building. The Exchange was likewise consumed. The whole loss is estimated at about $20,000.

A naval court-martial recently sat in Brooklyn, for the purpose of trying Henry Garbuth, leader of the band of the ship North Carolina, on charges of "disobedience of orders" and "mutinous conduct."

APPLICATION OF THE RULE. "LIKE PRODUCES LIKE."—A lady having the misfortune to have her husband hang himself on an apple tree, the wife of a neighbour immediately came to beg a branch of that tree, to have it grafted into her own orchard, 'for who knows' says she, 'that it may bear the same kind of fruit.'

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From Captain PARRISH, who commenced to use them when diseased in August, 1839.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 2, 1840.

☞ To DR. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I have had experience in the virtues of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,

E. PARRISH.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.

DR. WM. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been laboring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. Yours, respectfully, JOHN DYE.

We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, know our neighbour, Mr. Dye, sold him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true. Respectfully,

W. & S. B ANDERSON.

NOTICE.

BALTIMORE & OHIO RAIL ROAD.

THE CHANGE in the hour of arrival of the Mail Train from Philadelphia, renders it necessary that a corresponding change should be made in the departure of the Morning Cars for the west:

Notice is therefore hereby given, That on and after WEDNESDAY, 26th instant, the Passenger Train for Ellicott's Mills, Frederick, and Harper's Ferry will be despatched from the Depot in Pratt street, at half past 9 instead of 7 o'clock, A. M., the present hour of departure—of which travellers will take notice.

☞ The Extra Train for Frederick will continue to leave at 3½ o'clock every evening, with which, as well as with the Morning Train, passengers from Washington can still connect at the Relay House. By order,

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will there find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure, and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 175 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. BOOZ,

WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor Locke, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it ready to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 22 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 22, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh30-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY,
No. 11 HARRISON ST.
"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

☞ Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

UNRIVALLED SPEED!
SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

☞ Bear in mind, that Passengers who go by the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, have 40 miles of Rail Road travelling through the DISMAL SWAMP at midnight, over one of the worst Rail Roads in America, and then are often compelled to lay over 17 hours at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 9 A. M., they proceed, without one moment's delay, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and often one day in advance of any other Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	12 P.M.	reach Baltimore	8 A.M.
" Baltimore	9 A.M.	" Washington	11 A.M.
" Washington	11½ A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	6 P.M.
" Fred'ksburg	6½ P.M.	" Richmond	11 P.M.
" Richmond	11½ P.M.	" Petersburg	1 A.M.
" Petersburg	1½ A.M.	" Weldon	6½ A.M.
" Weldon	7 A.M.	" Charleston	on the next morning.

Passengers by this Line not only reach Charleston ONE DAY SOONER than by the Bay boats but they avoid being compelled to remain all night at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole southern country, where, by the Bay Line, they are often delayed twenty-four hours.

Passengers for Richmond and Petersburg will find this Line for the most expeditious, arriving at Richmond to lodge, (as will be seen from the above Schedule,) on the evening of the day on which they leave Baltimore, being from 16 to 18 hours in advance of those taking the Bay Steam Boats.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va.

Fare to Richmond,	$10 00
Fare to Petersburg,	10 50
Fare to Weldon,	12 50

UNITED STATES MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH, Sunday's excepted.
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that in accordance with the New Mail Arrangement, the Boats composing their line, viz: ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, will, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 26th of May, leave the lower end of Spear's wharf daily, (Sunday's excepted,) at nine o'clock, A. M. for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va.

Passengers for Charleston will find the cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, on the wharf, on their arrival at Portsmouth, ready to convey them to Weldon, N. C., where they will always arrive in time to take the cars for Wilmington, from which point to Charleston is by the Steamboat, which leaves Wilmington immediately after the Passengers are delivered from the cars.

Passengers for Richmond, Petersburg, or intermediate points on James River, by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, will sleep on board the Bay Boat and be transferred to the James River Boat next morning.

The Steamboat Fox leaves the Black Water station on the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars from Portsmouth, for Edenton and Plymouth, N. C., and returns every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, delivering her passengers to the cars as they pass down from Weldon, enabling them to arrive in Baltimore next day, (Sundays excepted.)

RETURNING, one of the above Boats will leave Norfolk every night (Saturday being excepted) at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departing from Portsmouth.

Should the Boat get an early start from Portsmouth, Passengers for Philadelphia and New York will have the opportunity of being placed on board the Philadelphia Steamboat in the Patapsco River, and will arrive in Philadelphia the same night by 11 o'clock, after having travelled 300 miles in 20 hours, without as much fatigue as would be incurred in walking from the Hotel to the wharf.

☞ No freight will be forwarded on the day it is left, unless it is alongside, prior to 8 o'clock, A. M.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT FROM ENGLAND,

EIGHT DAYS LATER.

ARRIVAL OF THE GREAT WESTERN.

That glorious steamship the Great Western, Capt. Hoskin, arrived last night at the dock, at eight o'clock. She was telegraphed at 5 P. M. thus making the run in 14 days. She brought us London, Liverpool and Bristol dates to May 27th, her day of sailing, and Paris dates to May 25th, inclusive.

The Great Western brought 42 passengers, and a large and valuable cargo.

The news is very important and exciting.

Trade of all kinds is dull in England; the cotton market exhibits a slight increase in the demand, but little change in price. Money was easier, and the funds very firm.

Nothing certain had been heard of the President, we give all the reports relative to her.

The Queen and family are all in fine health.

The principle topic of interest is the great movement in parliamentary tactics and struggle for place and power between the whigs and tories. It will be remembered that Lord J. Russell introduced a measure to reduce the duties on sugar from 63s. to 36., and moved that the house go into committee of the whole on the question. Lord Sandon opposed this with an amendment, which, after a debate of eight nights, was carried thus on the 18th of May:

For going into committee	281
Against it	317
Majority against ministers	36

Lord John Russell next day refused to resign, and said that he should reserve the great test question of the Corn Laws for the 4th of June. Sir Robert Peel immediately gave notice that, on the 27th of May, he should move that the House had no confidence in ministers. The duties on sugar are to remain as before.

THE GREAT EASTERN TREATY, which had only received the initials of the Five Powers, has now been fully settled by all five, and most cheerfully by France.

THE TEXAN LOAN. "La Presse" states, that the issuing of the Texan loan had been received with such general disapprobation and distrust, that the firm of J. Lafitte, which had undertaken to bring it out, and had inundated the country with its prospectuses, was obliged to abandon it. Standard.

Private accounts from Paris contradict the statement in "La Presse" newspaper, that the house of Lafitte & Co. have withdrawn from the Texan loan, and, on the contrary, affirm that they are proceeding with it, and are, indeed, bound by special contract to do.—Times.

HOUSE OF COMMONS—Monday, May 24—WANT OF CONFIDENCE IN MINISTERS.—At five o'clock the house was exceedingly crowded with members on both sides. Several peers occupied the end seats; and a general expectation prevailed that some important announcement was about to be made to the house. Sir Robert Peel was early in his place. Lord J. Russell, the chancellor of the exchequer, and one or two other members of the cabinet, entered the house a few minutes before five o'clock.

WANT OF CONFIDENCE IN HER MAJESTY'S MINISTERS. Shortly after five o'clock the speaker called upon Sir R. Peel.

Sir R. Peel rose amidst tremendous cheering, which having subsided, the most profound silence reigned throughout the house. The right hon. baronet said:—I rise, sir, to give notice, that, on Thursday next, I shall submit the following resolution to the house:—"That her majesty's ministers do not sufficiently possess the confidence of the house of Commons to enable them to carry through the house measures which they deem of essential importance to the public welfare; and that their continuance in office under such circumstances is at variance with the constitution." (The right hon. baronet sat down amidst the most tremendous cheers we ever heard, and which were several times renewed.)

From the London Standard, May 24.

THE PRESIDENT STEAMER. An article having appeared in this morning's Times relative to this unfortunate vessel, which is calculated to raise hopes of her safety, we have made some inquiry at the office of the British and American Steam Navigation Company, and have been favored with a correct copy of the extract of the log-book of the "Conde de Palma," which we insert below:—

"On April 23, at 4 P. M., in lat. 31 24 N., and long. by chronometer 40 43 W. of Greenwich, saw a very large steamer under canvass, without showing her colors, or making any signal, the paddle-wheels were not in motion, nor was any smoke issuing from the funnel. Next morning, the 24th, at six o'clock, saw her again under two square topsails (fore and main) and lateen sails, (fore and aft,) steering NNE. The wind was at East, with moderate weather. On the 26th the wind veered to the NW., blew strong, which would prevent said steamer reaching the Western isles. The steamer had three masts, of a dark colory not certain as to the color of her funnel. The nearest distance we were to the steamer were four English miles. They showed no signals at all indicative of anxiety to speak to us. She was proceeding at the rate of from three to four miles per hour. She made a good deal lee way. We did not communicate, but could easily have done so on both days. The NW. wind, which sprung up on the 25th, lasted for five days. We viewed the steamer through a telescope."

"We have received by express letters and papers from Lisbon, to the 17th inst. inclusive, which arrived at Falmouth, by the regular steamer with the Peninsular mails. The letter of our correspondent, which we subjoin, will be read with unusual interest, as it contains intelligence which may, perhaps, relate to the long missing President. If the vessel seen by the crew of the Portuguese ship were really, as is supposed, the President, there are still good grounds for hope; and the public, who have generally resigned themselves to the conviction of her loss, will be more agreeably surprised at even the possibility of her safety.

LISBON, May 17, 4 P. M.

The following is a transcript from the minutes of the log book of the Portugeese ship Conde de Palma, Captain Sabino Antonio de Calvo Almeida, which arrived at this port from Riode Janeiro, in 60 days on the 6th inst. A general hope is entertained here that the vessel in question must be the long missing steam packet President.

"On the 23d of April, at 3 P. M. being in lat. 29d. 29m. 18s. north, lon. 49d. 28m. west of Greenwich, wind at east, saw, at about five or six miles ahead, a vessel whose rig we could not well make out, steering the same course, NNE. The same wind continued throughout the night, with fine weather, but rather a rough sea. Early on the morning of the 24th, the same vessel was about six miles on the larboard quarter, when we could well perceive her to be a large steamer under all sail, making no use of her steam power. At noon, latitude by observation, 34d. 24m. 36s. longitude by chronometer 40d. 20m. she was fast falling to leeward; at 4 P. M. she was scarcely perceptible on the horizon; soon after the wind shifted to ENE, WE. NNW. N, WNW, and W, & blew strong with an agitated sea; this continued until the 3d of May, when the weather became finer, and the wind veered from W. to WSW and SW, which brought us on to the Tagus on the 6th inst.

N. B.—The steamer had three masts; did not know her color, or make any signal; nor did we show any. She was going on easily with all her sails set, making no use of her machinery, and was using every endeavor to beat to windward, but was making much leeway; the funnell was painted white, and we have a confused idea that the vessel was painted with a white streak.

The principal discrepancy between the two statements is the color of the funnel. The postscript of the article in the "Times" states the funnel to be white, whereas in the extract of the log we have given above, it is said "not certain of the color of her funnel." Our readers must judge for themselves, whether the vessel seen was or was not the missing steamboat, but the President had not a white funnel.

THE PRESIDENT. (Extract of a letter.) The following is what I consider to be the most favorable in the new hope opened to us by the steamer seen on the 23d, in lat. 25, lon. 40. The "Times" of this morning contains all that is known on the subject, except the certainty that the steamer then and there seen could not have been the Dee. On the same day the Dee spoke the Thompson, from Palermo to New York, (New York, I presume, in lat 41, lon. 42, compare this with the other, and there is no possibility of their identity.) This intelligence has been received from the agent of the Navigation Company of Liverpool, and will, I have not the least doubt, be confirmed by the log of the Dee, for which an application has been made to the Admiralty, as yet unanswered.—London Sun May 26th.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

JOSEPH BONAPARTE. The Count de Survilliers, Jos. Bonaparte, with his son-in-law, the Prince de Canino, and his son Lucien, and Mess. Mallard and Thibaud, secretaries, and a numerous suite, embarked at the Brunswick-wharf, Blackwall, yesterday afternoon, on board the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company's steamship Iberia, Mr. E. Cooper, commander, for Genoa.

WORDSWORTH. Dora, the only daughter of Wordsworth, the poet, was married last week at Bath, to Mr. Edward Quillinan, of Canterbury. The venerable poet has for some time past been residing in the city of Bath, principally for the benefit of his health.

SEDUCTION. Damages to the amount of £700 ($3111.11) have been recovered in the Nisi Prius Court, Dublin, from a gentleman of fortune, named Brown, by a Mrs. M'Grath, for the seduction of her daughter Charlotte, to whom the defendant had been introduced, and, after a persevering suit, succeeded in effecting her ruin.

The President had three months rations on board when she left New York; on the 11th of March; moreover her cargo partly consisted of a large quantity of flour.

ELOPEMENT.—Early on the morning of Thursday week, a beautiful and accomplished young lady, the daughter of a highly respectable gentleman, moving in the agricultural sphere of life, who resides not fifty miles from Knaresborough, and within half that distance of Plumtree, eloped with one of her father's ploughmen, and they were indissolubly united the same day in a neighboring town.—Doncaster Chronicle.

THEATRICALS.—Mr. and Mrs. Yates and Paul Bedford are playing "Sir Roger de Coverley" at Liverpool. Wallack is still at the Haymarket—so are Celeste, Ellen Tree, and Charles Kean.

THE CROPS.—The prospects of the farmer are of a most cheering description, for vegetation has made unusual progress considering the period of the year. The wheats still look promising, being both healthy and vigorous; and the oats are well planted and promising well. Barley sowing is now concluded and hitherto has brairded well.

The pastures continue still full of meat, and the young grass, particularly that part preserved for cutting, is most abundant—part is in fact already under the scythe—a circumstance very unusual at this period of the year. Potato planting has commenced under very favorable circumstances, and the land preparing for Swedish turnips works uncommonly well. On the whole, the prospects of an early and abundant crop, have seldom been so favorable. Fat stock has declined, but lean stock still keeps high, in consequence of the abundance of pasture.—New. Jour.

FRANCE. The French papers are barren of any news of importance. The works on the fortifications progress with increased activity.

The Chamber of Deputies have adopted the treaty concluded between France and Holland, under the administration of M. Thiers.

The budget of expenditures have voted by the Chamber of Deputies by a majority of 198 against 46.

The trial of Darmes and his accomplices commenced on the 24th ult.

SPAIN. Madrid, May 17. Senor Olozaga has failed to form a cabinet, and the Regent has charged Count Almodover with powers to try what he could do. At a Cabinet Council it had been resolved that the little "Highness" should be prefixed to the name of the Regent.

Letters from Corunna of the 14th inst. state that Madame Mina had been appointed governante of her Majesty Queen Isabella, and of her sister the Infants, at the special entreaty of their mother, Queen Christina, ex-Regent of Spain.

POLAND. Our advices from Warsaw are to the 5th of May. The Emperor Nicholas, on occasion of the marriage of his son, has conferred some favors on the inhabitants of the kingdom of Poland. All persons under sentence of death have their punishment commuted to imprisonment for life; the punishment of confinement in the house of correction, and ordinary imprisonments, fines and corporeal punishment, are, with the exception of some cases, entirely remitted.

LONDON MONEY MARKET, May 25. Consols opened this morning at 89⅞ 8 90 for money, and for the 6th July 90 1-2 3-8, same as they left off. Exchequer bills 8 10 premium; bank stock 168 169; India stock 168 169; India stock 251 253

Among the best informed, little fear is expressed of a short supply of the leaf during the present season, and even taking the present stock, which, including the late arrivals, is estimated at 20,000,000 lb, and comparing it with the average annual consumption in the United Kingdom, which is calculated at 24,959,520 lb, it gives very nearly a year's supply.

London Corn exchange, May 25. There was but little wheat offered for sale, and prices were much the same as Monday.

Liverpool Corn Market, May 25, p. m. In bond a large cargo of Odessa was reported to have been sold at 5s. United States flour in bond was steady at 29s. to 29s.

Liverpool Cotton Market, May 25. The demand for cotton to-day has been extremely limited; the descriptions purchased by the trade consist chiefly of American, about 1000 bales, with any material change.

Liverpool Cotton Market, May 26. Our market is exceedingly quiet at the same prices as yesterday; the sales are barely 4,000 bags.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Among the subjects of importance which must engage the attention of the present extra session of Congress, the "advice and consent" of the Senate will be in no wise more properly or weightily employed than in confirming the nomination of qualified and distinguished individuals to the various European embassies—some of which are now vacant and others likely to be so. The questions of great interest, which are now agitating the legislative bodies of both England and this country—the annual increase of commercial intercourse between the European and American nations, and the gradual diminution of distance of the Old from the New World by means of steam-ships, &c., call for the deliberate attention of the ratifying power in sanctioning appointments to stations, which are thus hourly increasing in importance and utility to the United States. Our citizens are spread in every direction over the Continent, engaged in the praiseworthy design of commencing and keeping up mercantile intercourse—agencies are every where established—the exportation in immense quantities of our tobacco to the different kingdoms—and the importation of the wares and manufactured articles of Germany and France, are some of the reasons why we require these stations to be filled by gentlemen, not alone acquainted theoretically with the Laws of Nations, with commercial operations, and with Treaty powers, but by those who are practical businessmen, who understand the every-day operations of practical life, and the effect of those operations.

The express desire of Mr. Stevenson to be recalled, will require such an appointment at the Court of St. James: and the present vacancy at the Court of Vienna (which has existed ever since Mr. Muhlenburg's return last year), urges upon the Executive a suitable nomination to this central and very important embassy. At this point is peculiarly needed a practical and able man. Happily within the limits of our own city have we in our distinguished and talented fellow-citizen, DAVID HOFFMAN, Esq., an individual pre-eminently qualified to fill this station, with honor to the country and with real utility to its citizens. His extensive and accurate knowledge of the Laws of Nations; his continual practice in the investigation of questions of Constitutional Law—his well known and well merited standing in this country as a profound jurist and scholar; and his intimate acquaintance with the policy of both the United States and Austria, recommend him strongly as the best qualified individual for this important mission. But the practical character of his whole life and of his works ought to be, in our view, an additional inducement to the Government, to endeavor to secure his valuable services abroad. The actual results of the great causes which he conducted with so much ability in the Supreme Court of the United States, during his life of professional activity—his "Course of Legal Study," &c., works well known and eminently practical—his knowledge of the languages of Europe shows that he has not been amongst those individuals who theorize all their days without being able to reduce their theories into practice, or bring their ideas to bear upon active life—but that his days have been "practically laborious, and his nights intensely studious."

We should be exceedingly gratified, in common, (we think we may add,) with a majority of the fellow-citizens of our State, if one so able, so distinguished, and so peculiarly qualified, could be induced to accept an appointment in which his talents would be so beneficially employed for the interests of his country. In sending abroad such men, as the ministers of our country, the government elevates its own standing on the Continent, and the character of the ambassador reflects credit on the citizens of the whole country. We hope that the President and Senate may see, (as we do,) in offering this appointment to our fellow-citizen, the true interests of the Union.

A PRACTICAL MAN.

THE WHOLE CITY INVITED.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

No. 66½ Baltimore-st., opposite Tripolett's alley, And 4 doors W. of Bool's well known Auction Store.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices? I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

☞FOREIGN NEWS. Under our steamship head on the first page will be found interesting intelligence brought by the Great Western, eight days later from England, received by last night's cars in advance of the mail.

ABOLITION PETITIONS. The motion made by Mr. Ingersoll, of Pa., to reconsider the vote by which the House agreed to receive abolition petitions, was rejected on Thursday last, by a vote of 110 for and 116 against it. We are glad of this result, for we think that it will have a tranquilizing effect. We should be content to adopt the suggestion of some members of the House, and refer these petitions to a committee composed entirely of Northern members, with Mr. Adams at their head; for we cannot, for a moment, entertain the idea, that intelligent men from the North have a desire to interfere with the institutions of the South—and a report from such a committee, adverse to the fanatical and disorganizing doctrines of the abolitionists, would probably abate their zeal in a fruitless cause, and prevent further impertinence. Mr. Adams is known to be hostile to the proceedings of the abolitionists, but a stern advocate of the right of petition. The House having consented to receive the petitions, we have no doubt that, if referred to a committee of which he was chairman, he would make a report, which, whilst it would vindicate the rights of the South, would silence those who dare to interfere with those rights.

It is high time that this subject should be put at rest—the further agitation of it will only produce exasperation. The door is now open to the abolitionists; and we hope that their thousand and one petitions may be forthwith thrust in—not that we would have the time of Congress occupied with them at the present session. But let them be referred to a select committee for report at the next session. The report cannot be otherwise than adverse; and this report should suffice for all time to come. Hereafter should the petitioners renew their importunity, their petitions can be quietly referred to a standing committee, and be permitted to "sleep the sleep of death." This is the course which we should recommend; and, if pursued, we think would be productive of the happiest consequences.

FIRE COMPANIES. It is painful to have so frequently to record disturbances at, or subsequent to, fires. At the fire which occurred on Thursday night last, we are informed, a brick-bat was thrown by some unknown person, which struck a member of the Independent Fire Company on the head and severely injured him. On returning from the fire the same company was assailed at the corner of Eutaw and Saratoga streets by a large assemblage of rioters, who attacked with brick-bats and stones, but retreated on the discharge of a few pistols from the company. Again at the corner of Howard street, the attack was renewed, and again the assailants were repelled by pistol shots. The aggressors wore no badges.

This is a sad condition of things, and demands the interference of the proper authorities. If firemen are to be thus assaulted when in the discharge of an important duty, it may easily be foreseen that they will either not turn out on occasions of fire, or that there will be bloodshed; for the firemen will protect themselves. We have heard, what we can hardly credit, that the watchmen are directed not to interfere with firemen's quarrels. We should suppose it to be the duty of every department of the police to interfere in all violations of peace and order, whenever they occur, without respect to who may be the aggressors.

Should the prevailing riotous disposition continue, it will become necessary to have severe legislative enactments passed, so as to inflict proper punishment on those who may assail fire companies when on duty.

GOVERNOR'S ELECTION. The Whig and opposition candidates are both bachelors, and both of an age when they should think of the holy state of matrimony: we hope, therefore, that the ladies will insist upon their providing themselves with a partner each, so that the government house may have its appropriate ornament. As they are likely to have work enough on hand, in electioneering, during the summer months, it is possible that the ladies whom they may select will be content with the promise now, and the fulfilment hereafter. But, before either presumes to assume the title of governor, he must enter into engagements to give some little responsibilities for good behaviour during his three years' service. So say the girls.

FANNY ELSSLER. The New York correspondent of the National Intelligencer announces the engagement of this dancerine at the Park Theatre—and adds, "She bids fair to be a great lion for a time." We presumed her to be a lioness, from the fact of her having a young lion some 18 or 20 years of age. So long as people have more money than brains, she and her cub need not apprehend the want of abundance of provender.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN.

GRATUITOUS INFORMATION. Our readers were apprized yesterday morning, of the occurrence of a destructive fire on the preceding night; and we did suppose that the noise made by the ringing of bells and the passage of engines, would have aroused the soundest sleepers; but it appears that the proprietors and agents of the Organ, who are so vigilant in seizing other people's letters, and in throwing aside the extras of other folk, were undisturbed in their nap—we therefore state, for the information of the readers of that print, that the Tannery of Messrs. Wm. & Thomas Johnson, at the western extremity of Saratoga street, together with a quantity of bark, were destroyed by fire on the night of Thursday last. We give this information gratuitously, as the sleepy-heads of the Organ may not yet have awakened.

☞The fire which took place about 2 o'clock yesterday morning as the firemen were returning from the tannery of Messrs. Johnsons, proceeded from the burning of a hotel in West Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard, known as the Baltimore House, previously in the occupancy of Mrs. Maddox, who fortunately vacated it only on the day previous. The building was nearly destroyed. The property belonged to Mr. Isaiah Mankin, who had it insured to a sufficient amount, we believe, to cover his loss.

FIRE AND INCENDIARISM. Last night a little after nine o'clock, a small frame stable belonging to Gen. Leakin, situated on South High street, was destroyed by fire. The engine companies were promptly on the spot, but not in time to arrest the flames, as hay had been put in the stable a few days since. It was unquestionably intentionally set on fire.

A NEW NOTION. We have received from the agents, a very neat silk handkerchief, on which is impressed in fast colors an excellent map of the United States, drawn from the latest surveys.—This odd but still useful notion is the offspring of Yankee ingenuity, being from the Tremont Printing Company, Boston. With such a contrivance a man may realize the story of the enchanted carpet in the Arabian nights; for, wherever he may be, he has only to slip out one of these "new inventions," and straightway he can run his nose, in the twinkling of an eye, into any State of the Union he chooses. For "go-ahead" people, this will prove a most useful and suitable article.

ASSAULTS. Gotlieb Summer, charged with an assault and battery upon Dorothea Greener, an elderly woman, was taken before Squire Snyder, and bound over to appear at the present term of the City Court. The same person was also bound over to appear at the present term of the court to answer to a charge of assaulting Elizabeth Steinback, a girl of twelve years of age.

Richard Davidge, colored, charged with assaulting and beating Charles Ranger, was committed to jail by D. H. McDonald, Esq.

VAGRANT. Margaret Barns was committed to the alms-house by Squire Barnard, as a vagrant.

WAVERLY NOVELS. From Mr. N. Hickman, Agent, we have received the first number of a new and cheap edition of these celebrated novels. The whole will be comprised in 25 numbers, and be furnished for $5. The reputation of these novels is so generally known and established, that we think it superfluous to do more than recommend this edition to public patronage. The number before us is legibly and neatly printed, though in type rather small for the eyes of elderly persons. It contains the whole of Waverly, the first of the series. Every library should contain the whole productions of Sir Walter Scott, with the exception of "Castle Dangerous" and "Count Robert of Paris," which exhibit the last glimmerings of his once brilliant mind—and prove that

"Too long the veteran lingered on the stage."

The edition now in progress is the cheapest, we believe, that has ever been published; and can be bound in volumes of convenient size, to suit the taste of the owner. The volumes of some editions are to unwieldy.

ODD FELLOWS. A funeral procession of the Washington Lodge of Odd Fellows passed our office yesterday afternoon, conveying to the tomb the body of one of their brothers, Mr. George Webb. The solemn music and the measured step were well calculated to awake serious emotions, and to send the imagination forward to that period when some friendly hand shall perform for us the kind services now discharged by the Odd Fellows for one of their late associates. But the scene awakened also other feelings.—There is something in these fraternal associations, which exalts human nature in our estimation.—In sorrow, sickness and want, the hand of benevolence is opened, and the ties of brotherhood recognized. Even in death the bond which united the deceased with his brethren is not dissolved. They gather around his corpse; and taking from the distressed family the painful necessity of making the funeral preparations, they never cease their assiduous attentions until the body is deposited in its mother earth. Nor does their friendship here cease if the family of the deceased be in distress; for they are taken under the special protection of the association, and the children are educated and raised to honor and usefulness. Such is the institution of Odd Fellows—such its benevolence and philanthropy.—And who is there who does not wish God speed to the association? If there be any, we are not among the number.

LIBEL SUIT. We understand that Mr. J. R. Clark has commenced a suit in the District Court for libel against Messrs. Rea & Beardsley, the publisher of the Bulletin, and Mr. T. R. Edson, engraver, of the firm of Rawdon, Wright, Hatch and Edson. The ground of the suit is an article which appeared in the Bulletin last August.

SUIT TO RECOVER THE VALUE OF AN ACCEPTED ORDER. This was a suit before Henry Snyder, Esq., to recover the value of an order to the amount of thirty-five dollars, accepted by the party upon whom it was drawn, in writing. The case is this: A drew an order in favor of B, upon C, for $45, payable in furniture, which order was accepted by C in writing: Subsequently upon a demand for payment, C refused to pay the demand; and this suit was then brought to recover the amount. Evidence was produced to shew that at least a portion of the furniture had been made, but that the delivery of it was refused.

For the plaintiff it was contended that, although C, the party accepting the order might refuse to pay said order to the drawer, if he had just cause against the drawer, yet he had no right to refuse payment to the demand, unless he could prove that B had been guilty of fraud in inducing the acceptance of such order drawn in his favor that the very acceptance of it found him C, to pay it unless he could plead the limitation act upon it—that this was not pretended, and that the written acceptance therefore bound him to pay it, in spite of any subsequent understanding between him and the drawer. It was admitted upon the part of B that A had warned C not to ratify the contract or fulfil the order if he had not already done it; but this it was contended did not release C from the obligation of the acceptance.

For the defence it was contended that the original contract between A and B rendered it proper and just that B should go upon A for the recovery of the amount; and that C had a perfect right to refuse to perform the contract between him and A, in case he did not consider himself justifiable in paying the order, any time previous to the delivery of the property into the hands of the party in whose favor said order was drawn—and that the remedy of B in such case was to be found in A.

Those were about the amount, as we understand them, of the arguments advanced on each side. For the plaintiffs, John C. Legrand, Esq.; for the defendant, Wm. P. Preston, Esq.

Judgment for plaintiff $45 and costs.

LIKE IS A BAD MARK. A black man was arrested and taken before Justice Pennington yesterday, at the instance of Benjamin Davis, of Petersburg, Va., who stated that he believed him to be a slave whom he had lost some three years since. It turned out upon examination of evidence that the negro arrested had been raised in the same neighborhood with the one who had been purchased by Davis, and that the likeness between them was so great that a gentleman stated on the part of the claimant, that he believed him to be the same person. The negro, however, produced his free papers, and, in compliance with the law upon the subject, brought the evidence of a respectable gentleman to prove his identity, and that he was the person named in the papers—upon the reception of which evidence he was, of course, discharged. The facilities which runaway negroes obtain in getting the papers of free negroes, and the many instances which are daily occurring of changing their names to suit the papers they obtain, render it necessary that every care should be taken to prevent their escape under such circumstances.

THE FIRE COMPANIES We have alluded in another article, to the difficulties among the fire companies on Thusday night, on their return from the fire in Saratoga street. Many of our citizens are, perhaps, under the impression that these difficulties occur from a want of energetic action on the part of the United Fire Department of this city, who have the direction of the affairs of the different companies, but such we are assured is not the case. Some of the companies have been heavily fined and the expulsion of some of the members ordered, with a direction to the other companies not to receive them within a twelve month after their expulsion. Much credit is due the Department for the determined course they have adopted in relation to these, so much to be lamented troubles among the firemen; and, should their salutary efforts to check disorder prove inefficient hereafter, the only remedy left will be for the Mayor of the City to exercise the powers vested in him by the ordinances of the Corporation, and close the doors of the Engine Houses to which the refractory members are attached.

CHARLES STREET SPRING. The City Spring at the corner of Charles and Camden streets is a cool and delightful retreat for the citizens of that vicinity, after they have got through the heat and fatigues of the day, in the present season, and would doubtless prove very inviting to them could they visit it with any hope of seeing its beauties or move along its shady walks without breaking their shins over the raised border of bricks which bounds the green plats. Can our city authorities do nothing to render it more attractive, or to do away with the evil complained of. We do not pretend to judge; but it seems to us that if a lamp or two were placed about the enclosure, there would be more light thrown upon the subject; and the people of that vicinity would be better enabled to appreciate the beauties of the retreat provided for them, we believe, by the city.

FACT. A countryman went into a store up town the other day and inquired if they sold any "hypocrites?" The lady in attendance told him she did not know what he meant, and asked him if he saw what he wanted. "Them's the very things there," cried he, pointing to some shams for bosoms; "them's the hypocrites."

☞We are pleased to learn, that Bishop Whittingham, of the Episcopal Church, has recovered from the indisposition with which he has been afflicted for some weeks.

☞J. M. Stewart, of Montgomery county, Md. has been appointed an additional commissioner to investigate the state of the New York Custom House. He is now in that city.

WASHINGTON, June 11, 1841.

Last evening after the cars left, Mr. Marshall (of Kentucky) followed Mr. Ingersoll against the rescinding of the 21st rule, and in favor of the motion to reconsider the vote by which it had been rescinded. Mr. M. is a relation of the late Judge Marshall, and is a man of the brightest talents. His speech was listened to with the most profound attention. The question was then taken on the motion to reconsider, and it was lost—yeas 110, nays 116.

Mr. Wise then called up the motion of Mr. Fornance to reconsider the vote by which the resolution in relation to the appointment of a committee on the rules, with Mr. Adams' amendment thereto, had been agreed to.

The resolution having been read, Mr. Wise consented to defer his speech until this morning, after which the House adjourned.

This morning Mr. Hunt gave notice that he would, at the earliest opportunity, bring in a bil authorizing the payment of the fourth instalment of the surplus revenue to the States.

Mr. Wise then took the floor on the motion to reconsider the vote by which the resolution in relation to the rules had been agreed to, but after speaking an hour, he fainted and was carried out of the House.

By general consent, as a matter of courtesy, the further consideration of the subject was postponed until to-morrow.

The House then proceeded to the election of a printer, whose compensation is to be at the rate of 20 per cent. less than the prices fixed by the joint resolution of 1819. On the first ballot, Messrs. Gales & Seaton were elected. The House then adjourned.

In the Senate, after a tedious debate relating to the removal of General Arbuckle, the consideration of the motion to refer that part of the President's message relating to foreign affairs, was resumed. Mr. Choate defended the letter of Mr. Webster to the British Minister in the McLeod case, and replied to the strictures of Mr. Buchanan on that subject.

BALTIMORE MARKET, JUNE 11.

FLOUR.—We have no alteration to note in Flour since our last quotations. Sales of Howard-st., good common brands, we note at $5.—This may be regarded as the uniform price. The receipt price continues at $4.87½, with but limited receipts. Sales of City Mills have been made at $5 for cash, and $5.12½ on time. Susquehanna continues at $5.

GRAIN.—We quote Penn. white, red and mixed Wheats at 112a114c, as per quality; Md. white do. 106a109c.; Md. Rye 59a60c.; Penn. do. 61a63c.; Md. white Corn 56a57c.; yellow do. 57 a59c. Md. Oats 40a43c.; Va. do. 34a37c.

PROVISIONS.—This market continues inactive, and sales are limited. Baltimore Mess Beef $12—No. 1, $9; Prime $8. For other descriptions of provisions the prices are as at our last quotations. We note sales of Western Bacon, assorted, of prime quality, at 6 cts.; 6 cts. for Sides; Shoulders 5 cts.; Hams 6a8 cts. We note sales of Baltimore cured Hams at 10 cts. There is but little doing in Lard: Western No. 1, in kegs, is held at 8½ cts.

CATTLE.—The supply of Beef Cattle on hand is quite abundant. We quote at $7a$8 per 100 lbs. Live Hogs are plenty, and can be had at prices ranging from $4.25 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.

WHISKEY.—Hhds. 24 cents; bbls. 25 cents. The wagon price for barrels is 20c., exclusive of the barrel.

MESSRS. EDITORS: We shall soon receive the annual visit of our National Birthday—that day which is so dear to every American citizen—the remembrance of which is so ardently cherished by every true patriot. Its commemoration should not be neglected, but on the contrary should be celebrated in a manner worthy of the day, and that too with a spirit characteristic of the sons of the sires of '76. Therefore, in order that the coming anniversary may not pass unhonored, it is proposed that early meetings be called to make arrangements for a military and civic Procession, to take place on Monday the 5th July.

A SUBSCRIBER.

SENTENCE OF BRADDEE. The court, on Monday, overruled the motion for a new trial, and sentenced the prisoner to ten years imprisonment on the first count of the indictment. Some doubt was felt as to the power to sentence upon the other two counts, upon which he was found guilty, and that question was held over for consideration.

☞News from Florida, dated at St. Augustine, states that Wild Cat had been in Fort Prince—had invented the officers to a dance at his camp. He had twenty-one warriors with him, and says he is not going to Tampa Bay. This is the substance of the news.

☞PEITZ, the convicted murderer in Carroll county, Md., has been further respited. No day has been fixed for his execution. The opinion is that he is insane. If so, his punishment might be commuted to imprisonment in the penitentiary.

☞Two gentlemen named Stryker and Barry were seriously injured in Brooklyn on the 10th inst. by being thrown from a carriage. Barry had his leg broken while the other sustained severe internal injury.

The St. Louis Gazette of the 3d says—The weather is dry and hot. The crops are backward—the fields parched—and the farmer's prospect at this moment far from encouraging.

ARRESTED. Two young men named Ralph Bell and Richard Simpson have been arrested and imprisoned in St. Louis for passing counterfeit money

PETER CHARLEVILLE, the man with whom two of the St. Louis murderers boarded, has been imprisoned on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

There has been quite a hurricane in Galveston, Texas. Several houses were blown down and other damage sustained.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

☞Mr. SBRIGLY will deliver a discourse TOMORROW MORNING, on the text—Jeremiah xlix. 23—"There is sorrow on the sea."

The members of the Murray Institute will meet in the Session Room of the Church NEXT TUESDAY EVENING, at 8 o'clock, for the discussion of the subject postponed from last Thursday evening. je12-1t*

☞Dr. McMANUS gives thanks, for himself and family, to the members of the different Fire Companies, for their untiring and successful exertions in saving the property which he occupies from destruction, yesterday morning. Their success, in this instance, is another testimonial, added to the many others, of their distinguished usefulness as citizens when their services are needed. je12-1t*

THE ALMS HOUSE.

"Give unto Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's."

Mr. EDITOR—As an old Baltimorean, a tax-payer, and a curious man, I am always searching into every thing which concerns the public. I am a frequent visitor to the Baltimore city and county Alms house, and was there on Friday, the day appointed for prayer and fasting throughout the United States. I found that respect was paid to the memory of the President there, as well as elsewhere. The room appropriated to preaching was hung in black, the columns covered with black by being twisted around them, the cap being entirely covered with black, and also the pulpit. In a few moments the bell rung and the tidy inmates of the house came in two and two, the men with crapes on their arms, and the women wearing black aprons. The little children, all dressed alike, clean, fat, and rosy, came last, marching in procession, with crapes on their arms.

The care taken for the comfort of the inmates, particularly for the aged, infirm, and the women and children, by the worthy Proprietor, Col. JAS. L. MAGUIRE, is worthy of all praise. The whole of the expense for mourning was paid out of his own pocket, and not a penny from the public purse. His liberality cannot be too highly appreciated. He is, beyond the shadow of a doubt, the best keeper of the Alms house that I have known since its establishment, and I am an old citizen of Baltimore. Seldom have I seen a happier group of faces than I beheld on Friday, as they marched in to hear the word of God expounded. They all seemed cheerful and smiling.

The mode which he adopted to shew respect to the memory of the brave defender of the frontiers, and the Washington of the West, met my approbation. He has gone down to the grave covered with a garland of glory, and sleeps on the pillow of fame. His memory should be honored, as his name will forever live on the pages of history. Ages cannot obliterate it. The tooth of time cannot touch the eternal scroll upon which it is inscribed in letters of gold.

But to the subject: The Joint Committee of the 1st and 2d Branches of the City Council paid Col. Maguire the highest compliment, after examining every part of the Alms-house, in doing which he attended them and gave every facility. They speak of the cleanliness, the quality, and preparation of the food, as being good, and that the accounts were properly arranged and correctly kept. The late trustees gave him their thanks, and spoke in decided approbation of his management of the establishment. What more can he ask to cheer him in his retiring, than the decided approbation of both parties. He will cherish with pride while living, and carry to his grave the glorious consciousness of having done his duty, and of having acted uprightly. An honest man is truly the noblest work of God.

I have written these observations, not to flatter Col. Maguire, but to let the public know a thing or two of matters that so nearly concern them. The Col. is on the point of leaving the Institution. She transit home.

APPRENTICES LIBRARY.

The Directors of the Apprentices Library announce, that the LIBRARY will open for the issue of BOOKS, in the room over the Patapsco Engine House, North street, on FRIDAY EVENING 18th inst., at 8 o'clock, and will, until further notice, be open at the same hour every Friday Evening.

BOOKS will be loaned to apprentices and other youths free of charge, under regulations which will be made known at the Room. By the terms of the Constitution members of the association are also entitled to the use of the Library, at such charges as may from time to time be required by the Directors. This is at present fixed at 25cts per quarter. The subscription of membership in one dollar per year.

In announcing the opening of the Library, the directors avail the motives of the occasion to return their thanks to those citizens by whose liberality they have been enabled to progress thus far in the work they have undertaken. They acknowledge with gratitude the receipt of 100 dollars, through Wm. C. Law, esq. Their thanks are also particularly due to H. Leroy Edgar, esq. Rev. Mr. Burnap, Otis Spear, esq. Hon. J. P. Kennedy, J. D. Armstrong, esq. Dr Dunbar, Rev. Mr. Adams, and Gen. W. Andrews, esq. for pecuniary assistance and valuable donations in books.

The present collection of Books, nearly 600 vol. although sufficient to justify the Directors in commencing operations, would doubtless soon be found insufficient for those for whose use they are intended. They trust however, that the claims of this interesting portion of the community will be liberally responded to. Persons desirous of presenting Books are requested to leave them with Otis Spear, Green street, Woods & Crane, Charles near Market street, at the Public School Asquith-st., O. T., with Peter Leary, Thames street, P. P., or at the Library room, on any Friday evening, or in leave their address at the room when the books will be sent for.

At Port Deposite, on the 3d inst., JOHN WELLS, formerly a resident of Baltimore in the 41st year of his age.

On the 5th inst., at his residence, White Hall, My Lady's Manor, Baltimore county, Major DIXON STANSBURY, in the 58th year of his age, leaving a wife and six children to bemoan his loss.

The deceased entered the army at the commencement of the late war with England as a lieutenant, and was with General Hull at the disastrous affair of Detroit, where he was taken prisoner with the rest of his brothers in arms. On his exchange he rejoined his regiment, and continued in the service up to the conclusion of the war, and it is but doing justice to his memory to say that he proved himself a brave, patriotic and enterprising officer, and won for himself the respect and admiration of his brother officers, while by his humane attention to his men he gained their love.

He served his native county twice as one of her representatives in the General Assembly of this State, in which situation he proved himself not only an intelligent legislator, but ardent friend of popular rights.

As a husband, a father, neighborand master, his conduct was such as any good man might copy with profit and, indeed, the whole term of his life, whether in the relation of peace or war, was made up of those ennobling traits of character which lend a charm around and challenge the respect of the good and the virtuous.

As the Major now sleeps with his fathers, the writer of this feeble tribute to his memory, tenders to his bereaved wife and orphans the full measure of his heartfelt sympathy, and invokes them to bear with their loss as becomes christian hearts, bowing in submission to the will of the great I Am, who worketh all things for good. E.

On Friday morning 11th inst Mrs. REBECCA P. PATTERSON, wife of Wm. Patterson, esq. in the 35th year of her age.

[Reported for the Baltimore Clipper.]

BALTIMORE CITY COURT.

FRIDAY, JUNE 11, 1841.

Present—Judges Brice, Nesbit and Worthington.

State vs. John Torrick, indicted for an assault with intent to kill Henry S. McDonnell—for assaulting Henry S. McDonnell in his character as a police officer—and for assaulting McDonnell as a citizen. The trial of this case came on today.

Henry S. McDonnell, (sworn.) Upon the night of the 6th April, witness saw several women running out of a house in Caroline street, the prisoner following with his sword in his hand.—Torrick went to the corner and the women followed and threw stones at him. Torrick then crossed the street to where two other women with a man were standing, and held his sword drawn over the man. Witness crossed the street and told him to put up his sword or he would get into trouble. Prisoner then ran and witness followed, prisoner calling to him to come on, and striking behind him with the sword, until he reached the neighborhood of White Hall, when he turned and rushing upon witness, said "you son of a b—h I'll kill you," and made a thrust at witness, which the latter warded off with his stick; several blows then passed on either side, in the course of which witness received a cut across the head and an injury to one hand. He at last succeeded in getting the better of him and prisoner started to run, when watchman Hand, who had just come up, pursued, overtook, arrested him and took him to the watch house. On his cross examination, he stated that he did not make known to prisoner that he was a police officer, not having time.

Mr. Hand, (watchman.) On his examination states that while passing White Hall, on his way to the watch house, he saw two men engaged, as he supposed, in fencing. Directly afterwards he heard some boys cry for help—ran to the spot, and found prisoner striking forcibly at McDonnell with his sword—prisoner ran and he followed and succeeded in seizing him; witness also heard the threat against McDonnell—when he arrested the prisoner he thought he had been drinking, and so charged upon the prisoner, which the latter denied. Upon being asked if he believed the prisoner at the bar to be the man whom he arrested, he identified him positively.

Capt. Riggold, (sworn.) Witness stated that he knew the prisoner well. He had served in the 3d Regiment of Artillery in Florida until his time was out, when he came here, and on the 3d January last went to the Fort and enlisted again. Witness was absent, and saw him for the first time on the 28th February. From that time up to the 6th of April, when the witness left the Fort for Washington, the prisoner had been acting as baker to the post, and had always discharged his duty in that respect as well as in that of a soldier. Capt. Riggold further stated that on his return from Washington, he was informed by the Sergeant that a recruit in town had borrowed Torrick's sword to take to Washington, and that T., finding he had done wrong in lending it, had gone to town, on the night of the assault complained of, to get his sword again.—(This testimony being objected to as irrevelant, Capt. R. stated that he mentioned it because it had been charged in a paper of this city, the Patriot, we believe, that the officers at the Fort acted wrong in permitting recruits to bring swords to town.) No such liberty was allowed. He would have no objection, after what had passed, to take back the man from his previous good character.

The jury after having been out about two hours, returned into Court with a verdict of not guilty on the first and third counts of the indictment, but guilty on the second count, viz: of assault and battery upon Henry S. McDonnell, a police officer.

State vs. —— King. This was an indictment for an assault and battery upon David McDonald. From the evidence on the part of the State it only appeared that the traverser had interfered between McDonald and a man named Lincoln, who were engaged in a fight, but the State failed to prove that he had done so with any further intention than that of separating the combatants.—The State's counsel therefore abandoned the case.

State vs. —— Lincoln, indicted for an assault and battery upon David McDonald. In this case the evidence on the part of the State proved the traverser to have been guilty of the assault complained of, and the Court so decided.

State vs. William Hatfield, indicted for rioting and assault and battery, in having on the 26th of April, while engaged with sundry others in a riot, thrown a stone by which a child was struck and severely injured.

From the evidence on the part of the State it appeared that, on the day of the funeral procession in honor of the late president, William D. Hatfield and another person passed along in the neighborhood of the corner of Orleans and Eden Streets, on which corner Wm. A. Pierce, one of the witnesses for the State was standing with others, conversing about the procession, when Hatfield stopped and said something about the mourning which some of the persons in that vicinity had caused to be placed across the street, some conversation growing speedily into a violent political altercation, and terminating finally in a row among some of them. In the course of this, Hatfield was pushed off the pavement, immediately after a brick was thrown which passed thro' the window of William A. Pierce's house, and struck his child near the eye, severely injuring it. A great deal more was stated in the evidence not particularly applicable to the case; but one of the State's witnesses stated that he saw Hatfield throw the stone—Hatfield's back being to him at the time.

For the defence it was proven by —— Harney, one of the lieutenants of the watch that, passing at the time the stone was thrown, he saw the man who threw the stone, and, upon that individual quitting the crowd and going off, he followed him, and kept in view with intention of getting aid to arrest him, but the man escaped him. He, however, was close enough in pursuit to recognise him, and states positively that the traverser was not the man. Other witnesses were also produced whose testimony went to establish the same fact.

Further evidence was then produced by the State, which went to show that Hatfield had during the evening, made violent threats against Pierce; but it did not establish the fact of his being the person who threw the stone. It was proved, however, that when the declaration was made that the child was killed, some one in the crowd said—"Hatfield you have killed the child," to which a voice replied:—"I don't care a damn if I have"—but whether the first remark was addressed to the traverser or his brother the witness could not state.

Another witness for the State testified that he saw the person who followed Pierce to his porch, and that he soon after saw the same person raise his hand and make a motion, immediately after which the crash was heard, and the outcry heard that the child was killed, upon which the person said he did not care, &c.—but he could not identify the traverser as the person.

The cases were then submitted to the Jury without argument. The Jury without leaving the box, found him guilty of riot but not guilty of assault and battery.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From Captain PARRISH, who commenced to use them when diseased in August, 1839.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 9, 1840.

☞ To DR. DAVIES: DEAR SIR—I have had experience in the virtue of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,

E. PARRISH.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.

DR. WM. DAVIES: DEAR SIR—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been laboring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. YOURS, respectfully JOHN DYE.

We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, know our neighbour, Mr. Dye, sold him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true. Respectfully,

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THIS perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—exciting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humours, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever and ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the Life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will there find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cures and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's principal office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are doubtful as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clear, brilliant, and economical light, will find it really to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 22, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

☞ Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

N. B. All sold elsewhere under the name of Hunter is a base fraud. Call and read certificates. m1 tf

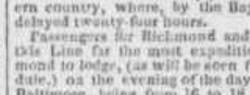
UNRIVALLED SPEED!
SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

☞ Bear in mind, that Passengers who go by the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, have 40 miles of Rail Road travelling through the DISMAL SWAMP at midnight, over one of the worst Rail Roads in America, and then are often compelled to lay over 17 hours at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 9 A. M., they proceed, without one moment's delay, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and often one day in advance of any other Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	12 P.M.	reach Baltimore	6 A.M.
" Baltimore	9 A.M.	" Washington	11 A.M.
" Washington	11½ A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	6 P.M.
" Fred'sburg	6½ P.M.	" Richmond	11 P.M.
" Richmond	11½ P.M.	" Petersburg	1 A.M.
" Petersburg	1½ A.M.	" Weldon	6½ A.M.
" Weldon	7 A.M.	" Charleston	on the next morning.

☞ 24 hours in advance of any other Line.



Passengers by this Line not only reach Charleston ONE DAY SOONER than by the Bay boats but they avoid being compelled to remain all night at Weldon, on the Roanoke, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole southern country, where, by the Bay Line, they are often delayed twenty-four hours.

Passengers for Richmond and Petersburg will find this Line far the most expeditious, arriving at Richmond to lodge, (as will be seen from the above Schedule,) on the evening of the day on which they leave Baltimore, being from 16 to 18 hours in advance of those taking the Bay Steam Boats.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va.

Fare to Richmond,	$19.00
Fare to Petersburg,	16.50
Fare to Weldon,	12.50

UNITED STATES MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH, Sunday's excepted.
Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that in accordance with the New Mail Arrangement, the Boats composing their line, viz: ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, will, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 26th of May, leave the lower end of Spear's wharf daily, (Sunday's excepted,) at nine o'clock, A. M. for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va.

Passengers for Charleston will find the cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, on the wharf, on their arrival at Portsmouth, ready to convey them to Weldon, N. C., where they will always arrive in time to take the cars for Wilmington, from which point to Charleston is by the Steamboat, which leaves Wilmington immediately after the Passengers are delivered from the cars.

Passengers for Richmond, Petersburg, or intermediate points on James River, by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, will sleep on board the Bay Boat and be transferred to the James River Boat next morning.

The Steamboat Fox leaves the Black Water station on the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars from Portsmouth, for Edenton and Plymouth, N. C., and returns every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, delivering her passengers to the cars as they pass down from Weldon, enabling them to arrive in Baltimore next day, (Sunday's excepted.)

RETURNING, one of the above Boats will leave Norfolk every night (Saturday being excepted) at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departing from Portsmouth.

Should the Boat get an early start from Portsmouth, Passengers for Philadelphia and New York will have the opportunity of being placed on board the Philadelphia Steamboat in the Patapsco River, and will arrive in Philadelphia the same night by 11 o'clock, after having travelled 269 miles in 20 hours, without as much fatigue as would be incurred in walking from the Boat to the wharf.

☞ No freight will be forwarded on the day it is left, unless it is alongside, prior to 6 o'clock, A. M.

THE DEPARTED.

Their voices all silent now and still,
Their places are all vacant now around;
And lonely desolation, drear as chill,
Is left the melancholy blank to fill,
Where erewhile joy and friendly greeting crowned us.
Alas! the ties that to the earth hath bound us!
Day after day the golden links are broken;
And ah, too oft when dearest joys have found us,
The words of parting and farewell are spoken!
Still they are passing from us! THE DEPARTED
Are daily joined by others still departing!
And scarcely has the last friend fairly started,
Leaving sad-eyed many's all broken hearted,
Before we find another neighbor starting!

PHARMA.

THE GENERAL'S STORY.

A VERY INTERESTING NARRATION, ENTITLED THE CROSS OF A COMPANION OF THE BATH.

My early home is worthy of remembrance, not for its splendors, save those which nature had shed around it; but for its quiet beauty, and the happy days passed therein. There dwelt my father and myself, more like brothers in our occupations, than father and son. Few neighbors had we. I was a shy, quiet boy; and beyond my father, the old housekeeper and two blood red Irish setters, I cared nought for company. But there came into the village to reside a gentleman and his only daughter. She was but little younger than myself and we became playfellows.—None but the young and innocent could enter with any pleasure into the details of our lives. Wandering hand in hand through the dim woods that backed both cottages, (the two dwellings stood near to each other,) or creeping down the river side, where we happy children opened our little basket, and dined under the shade of a beautiful sycamore, or, in winter, listening with wondering eyes and doubting ears to old Mabel's stories over the fire in her little sanctum, dignified by the title of the "housekeeper's room." So we passed three or four years—such happy years.

But my father unexpectedly succeeded to an estate, and he began to find out that it was necessary that I should see the world.—See the world! My happy world had hitherto lain among God's best works, with the beauties and sublimities of nature, with all that could exalt the heart and purify the mind. See the world; alas! the pleasant volume of early life was about to be closed forever, and new pages to be filled. How? My father had acquired some interest in the army, and I was to be a soldier!

Well might Katherine say, as we sat together for the last time under the old sycamore tree by the calm river side, "How often, Gerard, amid the hollow din of the world, will you look back upon the happy hours we passed together in these green and peaceful solitudes."

Before I left home, there came into the neighborhood a rival. He was one of those dark hair'd, sallow looking people, whom men call cadaverous and women interesting. As I heard him talking, in a low but earnest voice, to Katherine, on the first evening I ever saw him, and watched her eyes turned on him with interest and wonder, I knew he would be my rival. Deep in worldly experience, he made her listen to him. He had such "strange eventful histories" to relate, that she, poor credulous girl, was thus taught by him to think of him,—one great step gained towards winning a woman. He too was a soldier, and had made good way for his years.

Katherine and I parted at the little garden gate the evening before I started with my father for London. Poor simple innocent things we were, breaking our hearts at parting, and never dreaming of forming any engagement beyond vowing to love one another as long as we lived.

For some time we continued to correspond, but at last the correspondence flagged on Katherine's part. At last, too, came the news, from her father to mine, of her marriage with Captain Lindsay. Young as I was, I had resolution not to dwell upon the intelligence. I banished it as much as possible from my mind; not by dissipation, such a remedy had been worse than the disease, but by applying my mind to the study of my profession, (for I had entered the army.)

I heard occasionally of my lost love from others. Her husband was a brave and distinguished officer. I was glad of that; for though I knew that Katherine was not one ambitious of distinction, I could not have borne to hear that she had married one on a par with common men. Once some friend of mine introduced her name. He had seen her. Major Lindsay was abroad, and she was visiting her father in the well remembered valley where we had lived. I fancied her wandering, with her boy, among the glens and fragrant meadows, through which, in our childhood we had often scrambled together.

My friend also gave me some insight into the history of her marriage. She had been misled with regard to me—the old scheme with which determined men of doubtful principles are familiar had been adopted. She was told that I had become changed in all things since my departure from the place which we two had named in sport the 'happy valley.' Then her youth and inexperience. In short, I loved her with such pure and unselfish love, that I was willing to make excuses for her to others and myself.

Lindsay and I once met; not as of yore, in the happy valley;' not among green aisles and ancient oaks; not by the gliding river; not where the nightingale's chimes filled the summer evenings with delicious melody; neither on the household hearth, beside the blazing fire.

but under the walls of an Indian fortress which the British troops were storming. He was in command of the brigade to which my regiment belonged. The senior Colonel had just fallen, and the command had devolved on Colonel Lindsay. We recognised each other immediately but in that moment of carnage, amid the roar of artillery, the groans of the wounded and the dying, and the savage yells of the besieged, we two rivals held out our hands to each other in token of peace; and, clasping them together silently for a moment, exchanged, in the depths of our hearts, an eternal farewell. Lindsay turned from me; then raising his cap, while his drawn sword gleamed like a brand in the Indian sun-light, he uttered the words, 'Victory, my lads, or death!' In another moment he was veiled from my sight by the thick smoke that again rolled from the guns of the enemy's fortress. And at the head of that glorious and conquering brigade he fell!

After the engagement I searched for the body; but it had been taken away, and I learned that his servant, who had faithfully followed him through the campaign, had himself removed it for the purpose of interment.

My rise in the army, during this season of war, had been rapid. Wounded and in ill health, rich too (for my share of prize-money had been considerable,) I returned to England. I wrote to my beloved village, to make inquiries of Mrs. Lindsay, but her father had been long since dead, and she, of course, forgotten. How long doth the memory of the poor widow dwell in the hearts of the absent. My father, too, had been dead many years. I had no home, no ties; so, establishing myself in the neighborhood of St. James's, I spent the greater part of the day at the club.

The only attendant on me at my breakfast was a young girl, and she was also the only person I ever saw in the house, except when, in passing up and down stairs, I met a pale, slender youth, who occasionally expressed a hope from his mother that I was comfortably accommodated. My bills were regularly brought back by my young hand maiden, signed and receipted by 'H. Lane.' Mrs. Lane, my landlady, was said to be in bad health, and unable to see any one. I caught a glimpse of her one evening, through an open door, but the hour being dusk, I could distinguish nothing but the mournful widow's cap. Sometimes I heard a light slow footstep, but always avoiding intrusion into the privacy of delicate and unprotected woman, I scrupulously kept out of the way.

One night I had returned from the club rather later than usual, and, to my surprise, found young Lane in my sitting-room, waiting for me. He was very pale, and in great agitation. On the table lay an open morocco case, on the white satin lining of which gleamed a Cross of the Companion of Bath. "What is the meaning of this?" enquired I, amazed. The boy sobbed terribly, as I looked at him enquiringly. There was (in spite of his shabby jacket, over which the tears fell in torrents,) something in his air and in the outline of his head that reminded me of one I had seen before.

"Sir," said the boy at last, "my name is not Lane, but Lindsay, and that cross belonged to my father. Will you buy it? or will you lend my mother the money to pay her rent to-morrow, and keep that as a pledge of payment of the debt?"

I poured forth a torrent of questions, and gathered intelligence that filled my heart with alternate feeling of doubt, pity, and delight.—London, that had to me been hitherto a wilderness, contained all on earth that could make me happy. My lost love was under the same roof with me.—The poor landlady of my lodging, in her faded black dress, and mournful widow's cap, had more charms for me than the fair and bright haired maiden of the 'happy valley.' How feelings change even the outward aspect of things! My dark dull lodging was at once transformed into a brilliant temple of Hope. Even Colonel Lindsay's faithful servant, Lane, who had clung to the widow and her son in their misfortunes, did not grieve when told that the order belonging to his late master must be returned to the King, who had bestowed it, since it had been the means of bringing help to 'the mistress.'

It was necessary that the cross should be returned immediately. Herbert Lindsay and his mother had not been made aware of this necessity; indeed how should they? living in obscurity, and under an assumed name!

The spring sun lit up St. James's street, and its throng of carriages, as young Lindsay and I stepped into mine to proceed to the levee. I looked up at the windows of the house, and standing back in the recess of one of them, yet visible to my eyes, was his mother, pale and weeping with excess of agitation.

The good King looked somewhat surprised at the young slight boy whom I presented to his Majesty's notice. As Herbert Lindsay resigned his father's order into the hands of his sovereign, he seemed scarcely able to subdue his tears, but, with a bow of deep reverence, and with eyes weighed down by emotion, he passed onward to the ante-room, where I joined him soon after, to say that the kind King rejoiced in the opportunity of repaying Colonel Lindsay's services by presenting his son with a commission.

My old love and I married. I bought a place in the country, not far from a garrison town; for, though we retain our childish affection for fair meadows and green woods, I had a hankering after the gay attributes of my profession; and, as we sit under a sycamore, (for we rejoice in one here,) on the lawn, of a summer's evening, she dreams old dreams aloud, and I listen complacently to them, and to the distant sound of drums beating the retreat at sunset. Sometimes we gather a young party, who love to hear this warlike music, softened as it is in its progress over hay fields and sheltered hedgerows, and often when so gathered round me, they bid me tell them (for they are all friends not acquaintances,) my early history and my happy marriage: and on these occasions I also sometimes humor their whims, by wearing the honors I have gained; and perhaps, among the most admired and most precious, from the associations connected with it, is the Cross of a Companion of the Bath.

State Bank—Branch at Montgomery. We have learned on unquestionable authority, that frauds of the most singular and ingenious description on the Bank at this place, have been brought to light by the Board of Directors now in session. Some of the money fraudulently acquired, was obtained falsely representing the character of paper offered for discount, and recommending the notes of individuals, knowing them to be unsafe, and cheeking out the amounts discounted for the benefit of those originating the scheme, etc.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Clipper.]

WASHINGTON, June 12, 1841.

In the Senate to-day, the Secretary of the Treasury in accordance with instruction, communicated his plan of a fiscal agent for managing the affairs of the General Government. It was ordered to be printed. So next week I presume we shall have hot work. The Rev. Mr. Tuston was elected chaplain.

In the House, the first business in order was the motion to reconsider the vote by which the House, but temporarily adopted the rule of the last House, except the 21st.

Mr. Wise appeared in his seat, but not being sufficiently strong to resume his remarks, the subject was by general consent postponed until Monday next.

A great part of the day was then taken up in the presentation of petitions. A very stormy scene took place on the presentation of a petition by Mr. Mattock, of Pa. asking for the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia and in Florida. Finally the question of reception was laid on the table, by a vote of 155 to 25. So large a vote will, I apprehend, shew that the House, although it has consented to a repeal of the 21st rule, yet will not waste much time on such petitions, at the present session of Congress. The motion to lay on the table wade by Mr. Everett, a staunch abolitionist.

Mr. Briggs presented a petition for the enactment of a uniform system of bankruptcy. He moved a reference of it to the Committee on Judiciary, with instructions to report a bill to that effect. The motion was agreed to by a vote of 93 to 89. The vote being so close, shews there is but little chance for the passage of such a bill at the present session.

Among the great number of memorials subsequently presented was one from citizens of Baltimore, asking a revision of the tariff on foreign cigars, and the removal of the duty from foreign manufactured tobacco. A debate arising, the memorial was ordered to lie on the table one day in accordance with the rules.

The Committee appointed to revise the Rules, on leave, reported sundry resolutions. The resolutions provide that at the present session there shall be no action on any business, except such as may be referred to the committee on Ways and Means, the committee on Accounts, Elections, and select committees on the currency. Also, that all petitions which do not refer to matters especially alluded to in the President's Message, shall, on presentation thereof, be laid on the table and no action had thereon at the present session, except, if Congress shall think proper, such as may relate to a general bankrupt law.

After some debate, the resolutions were agreed to—yeas 106, nays 60.

LATER FROM AFRICA. The New York Advertiser has received files of African papers to the 19th March, from which it extracts the following:

"Captain Jackson, of the British schooner Guineaman, was tried before Governor Roberts and a jury for trading with the natives, within the limits of the Colony, contrary to an ordinance of the agent and council. He was convicted and fined $273. Jackson protested against the judgment, and threatened to bring the matter before the Government and Parliament of England.

"A fight occurred between Lieut. Seaguin, of the British cruiser Termagant, and a Spanish slaver. The slaver sunk one of the cruiser's boats, and compelled the lieutenant to haul off. The commander of the slaver was seen to prevent his men from firing on the boat while her crew were picking up the men of the dingy, and he also launched a boat for the use of the lieutenant after the fight was over.

"The brig Mentor, Taylor, arrived from Philadelphia on the 27th March, after a passage of 34 days. Dr. W. H. Taylor, one of the missionaries, died at Monrovia on the 3d February.

"The Liberia annual conference commenced its session at Monrovia on the 14th Jan., and continued until the 20th. It appears that the number of members belonging to the Methodist Church in Africa is 922, and 401 children attached to the Sabbath Schools."

HORRIBLE MURDER. A young lady received an invitation one day last week, purporting to come from a young man to whom she was engaged to be married, to visit a family of her acquaintance at Green River, Mass. Mrs. Lane, a widow lady of that place, invited her to her house and offered her a glass of beer, which upon tasting she refused to drink. By the urgent persuasions of Miss Lane, the daughter, she was however induced to swallow the beer, which was found to contain a large quantity of corrosive sublimate. There is but little hope that she will survive.—The effect was so sudden that in a very few moments her tongue was so swollen as to protrude from her mouth. It is said that Mrs. Lane was desirous that the gentleman to whom the lady was engaged should marry her own daughter, and that she resorted to this murderous scheme to accomplish her purpose. Both mother and daughter have been committed to jail.—N. Y. Tribune.

STEAMBOAT BLOWN UP. The following is an extract of a letter, received in Charleston S. C. dated Harrisburg, June 7th 1841.

"Sad news has been received from the Duncan M'Rae, 4 miles below Johnson's Landing, she has blown up—she sunk in a few minutes. The Engineer is safe, the two firemen will die."

No further particulars are mentioned but it is to be feared the disaster is a melancholy one.

The Legislature of Connecticut adjourned on the 10th inst.

THE WHOLE CITY INVITED.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND, For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Strictures, Diabets or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 14, 1841.

"MARK, HOW A PLAIN TALE SHALL PUT THEM DOWN." It is fortunate for us that "hard words break no bones," otherwise the proprietors of the Penitentiary Organ would have demolished us on Saturday last, "marrow, bones and all." We acknowledge, with all humility, our inability to cope with them in vulgarity of style, or in the use of abusive epithets; nor do we regret our inferiority on this score, as it arises from a difference of education, association and moral feeling. We have not been trained in the Billingsgate school, nor ever been guilty of acts which should render us fit companions for felons. When we shall have become thus degraded, we may consent to use the weapons with which the proprietors of the Organ are so familiar; but until then, we shall be pardoned for maintaining our self-respect, and preserving some regard for the good opinions of our readers.

We are not surprised that the proprietors of the Organ should express displeasure at our moral reflections. It is natural; for no one likes to hear or read his own condemnation—and yet our anxiety to reform the reprobate is so sincere, that we cannot refrain from stringing together a few moral precepts for his consideration, though they may prove ineffectual. Ministers preach weekly to the convicts in the Penitentiary, and yet, possibly, without softening the hearts or amending the principles of the more hardened criminals.—So may our moral lectures fall like seed on the rock, and take no root. But, as perchance some may fall on good ground, and produce fruit, we must be content to submit to the waste for the sake of that which may be saved.

The Organ men have taken a deal of trouble to little purpose; and have piled affidavit upon affidavit to disprove what was never asserted by us. In law there is a difference between evading the truth and its direct falsification, but in ethics we doubt whether like discrimination will be admitted. Now what have the proprietors of the Organ proved? Simply that no extras, with the heading of the Philadelphia Chronicle were printed at either the National Intelligencer or Madisonian offices in Washington—and upon this slender foundation they pretend to have built a tower of strength. But we shall shew that their edifice stands on a base of sand. For this a plain narrative will suffice, and here it is. Mr. Rousham, agent for the proprietors of the Philadelphia Chronicle, called at this office when a joint arrangement was made to procure the message. He proceeded to Washington and engaged at the Madisonian office the required number of copies for both papers—those for the Clipper were first struck off when he ascertained that the additional number for the Chronicle could not be printed in time for the car. He therefore proceeded to the car with the Clipper bundle, and whilst on the car on its way to Baltimore, and in the presence of the agent of the Philadelphia Ledger, opened and divided the bundle, placing them in separate wrappers. On reaching the depot on Pratt street, he got into Mr. Woodward's buggy taking the bundles with him. On reaching the corner of Gay street and Exchange Place he threw off that which belonged to the Clipper, and reached the depot at Canton a few minutes before the mail agent. Here the Ledger agent again appeared on the car, but the same permission was refused to Mr. Rousham, who thereupon placed his extras on the car, requesting that they should be carried to Philadelphia where they would be called for. This was in the presence of said Ledger agent, whom Mr. Rousham mistook for Abell. An order was given to "throw off that bundle," and Mr. R. declared it to have proceeded from Abell, but a gentleman who knew parties better has since stated that the order was given by another person, whom we could name. In the hurry it was impossible for Mr. Rousham to label his bundle.

Now the whole evidence adduced by the Organ is designed to prove that no extras were printed with the head of the Philadelphia Chronicle, and thence they would have it inferred that none for that paper were forwarded. We presume that it would have been a matter of indifference to the readers of the Chronicle what heading the extra had, provided it contained the message.—And yet such is the subterfuge resorted to by the Organ.

Mr. Reid, the agent of the Philadelphia Ledger, and one of the reporters of the Organ here, states, in his affidavit, "that when asked by the person having the locomotive in charge, to whom the package belonged he replied that he did not know." It seems, by the same affidavit, that the packet was "examined and found to contain 'extras' of a Baltimore paper;" upon which it was determined by the rail road agent to leave it at Wilmington. To the conduct of the rail road agent we take no exception—under the circumstances, he naturally inferred that there had been a mistake. But we have a few words to say to Mr. Reid, and we regret that he should have placed himself in his present position. He saw an express run from the Pratt street depot to that at Canton—he saw the bundle placed on the cars, and must have heard what was said by Mr. Rousham. Now is it possible that he could have supposed that the proprietors of the Clipper would have paid an express to take their extras to the Canton depot, and to have employed an agent to insist on going with them to Philadelphia? We will not impeach his good sense by the supposition. He knew then, that we had not sent them there by mistake, and yet he permitted them to be thrown aside under that impression. How came he to feel so much interest as to examine the bundle for the superscription? Did he not recognise in the individual who placed them on the car at Canton, the same man who came with him from Washington? Did he not see the package divided after starting from Washington; and, if so, did he not know that the papers were the Baltimore Clipper extra? and lastly—and we ask him to answer this question as if at the final bar—Did he not hear the order given to throw the extras off? and, if he did, by whom was thrt order given?

We have already shewn by the certificate of Mr. Woodward, that he heard the order given. Mr. Crawford, the rail road agent, has denied that he gave the order, and we know of no other person who had the authority. The order was given, and who felt so much interest in preventing the transmission of the extras as to take that trouble? who were the parties who were to benefit by the failure of these extras to reach their destination? The persons who employed Mr. Reid.

We have said that we regret the position which Mr. Reid occupies—but "he who seeks the strife must take the blows." We have wished to avoid connecting him with this controversy; but he has sought to intermingle in it, and self-defence requires that the blow which he aims shall be warded off, be the consequences what they may.

We have thus given a succinct narrative of facts, and we leave conclusions to the reader.

As to the intimation that any one connected with this office wrote the letter to the editor of the New York Herald, an extract from which we published on Friday, we hold it in utter contempt. We should despise ourselves could we thus imitate the example of the Organ proprietors. Indeed, we had almost as soon be convicted of the meanness of pocketing a letter belonging to another person. As "good wine needs no bush," neither do the proprietors of the Clipper require the aid of dishonorable means to secure them a fair reputation or an honest support.

APPRENTICES LIBRARY. We hail with unbounded delight the progress of this praiseworthy institution. Indeed we are proud of its advancement as it has been a favorite subject of our editorial columns for the last eighteen months. Before any direct action was taken in the matter we, seeing its necessity and practicability, suggested the idea, which we are pleased to learn was subsequently acted upon by a small band of our energetic citizens in conjunction with a number of juvenile aspirants for knowledge. The elements of ambition once agitated, directing the mind to this commendable and virtuous enterprize; its course was onward, until from a small beginning hath sprung up a noble, a sublime structure. The apprentices have been untiring in their efforts—they have gone forward, not like boys but like men, breasting the storms of adversity, conquering every obstacle, and now the prize of their high calling is awarded them.

It will be seen by an announcement in another column that the directors will open the rooms for the issue of books on Friday evening next, and that they will thus continue to be opened at the same hour of every Friday until further notice.

The liberal donations by several of our distinguished citizens towards the above institution is an excellent precedent for others to come forward and imitate their example.

A subscription list has been left in charge of the junior editor of this paper, upon which he will be happy to receive the names of all who desire the welfare and intellectual advancement of apprentices.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN.

DROWNED IN THE SPRING GARDENS. On Saturday evening about 7 o'clock, a young man named Burdel was drowned at the above place.—He had gone out in company with some of his acquaintance in a boat for the purpose of bathing. When a short distance from the shore near Mr. Regleien's Fish House, he plunged from the boat into the water, and sunk to rise no more with life. After a diligent search of near an hour and a half, his body was found. Efforts were made to restore life, but without effect. The deceased was a native of Freeburg, Switzerland, and had been in this country but three weeks. We learn he was a young man of fortune, and highly esteemed by those with whom he had become acquainted. He was buried yesterday afternoon in the German Catholic grave-yard.

THE BLIND DOG—CRUEL. On Friday last some unfeeling person threw a poor old blind dog into the Falls near the bridge on Baltimore st. The animal, we are told, swam about all day, all night and part of the succeeding day, endeavoring to make its way out, but being blind was unable to accomplish its object. Finally, worn down with fatigue and exhaustion it sank down, although but a dog, to pay the debt of nature. Life to this poor animal, doubtless was sweet, and he who could place it in a situation so cruel, might gain a lesson, ameliorating to his own heart, even from the humiliating obedience of a faithful dog.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT. Mr. George Bevan, dry goods merchant in Hanover street, while out riding on Friday morning last was very severely injured by being thrown from his horse. In falling Mr. B's head struck the curb stone which unfortunately produced a concussion of the brain.

He was taken home and remained in an insensible state for a number of hours. Hopes however are entertained of his recovery.

☞We learn that an attempt was made on yesterday morning, to escape from the Penitentiary, by one white and two colored convicts, but their movements were happily discovered in time to prevent them carrying their designs into final execution.

FIRE. A fire was discovered yesterday morning in a house situated on Lexington street, beyond Poppleton street. The flames were confined to the stairs and stairway. A correspondent informs us that some disgraceful conduct took place after the fire was extinguished. We should be pleased to see "Eye Witness."

SALE OF REAL ESTATE. Was sold on Tuesday and Wednesday last, by C. E. Cook, auctioneer, a farm on the Liberty road, 42 acres, property of the late Col. Clem, for $4050. Do. 45¼ acres woodland at $38½ per acre. Do. 18 lots on Market, Cove and Fayette streets—the lowest at $770, and the highest $1200.

[Reported for the Baltimore Clipper.]

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

We alluded, a day or two since, to the fact that the case of the brig Malek Adhel, sent into this port for condemnation, upon a charge of piratical aggressions upon the high seas, would be tried on Friday, the 11th inst., unless it was continued upon legal grounds. It was accordingly brought up on Friday, when John Nelsen, Esq., of counsel for the claimants, (Messrs. Harmony & Co., of New York,) moved a continuance of the case upon an affidavit from a clerk in the house of the claimants, which affidavit set forth that certain evidence of importance to them could not now be obtained, the parties not being here. This motion was overruled by the Court upon the ground that the affidavit did not set forth the facts expected to be proved by the absent witnesses. Two other motions were made for a continuance of the case, and argued at considerable length by the learned counsel on each side—both motions were, however, overruled by the Court, and the case proceeded to trial on Saturday. The charge states the aggressions to have been made upon the following named vessels. 1st. the British vessel Madras—2nd. the American vessel Sullivan—3rd. the American vessel Emily Wilder—4th upon a vessel name unknown, belonging to Portugal—5th upon the British vessel Albert.

John Myers, 1st mate, was called. He stated that he was not first mate when he joined the vessel on the 3d of June—Peterson was the first mate. On the Friday after he joined her, Peterson came on board and hauled the vessel out in the stream. On Sunday the Captain ordered Peterson to go on shore in consequence of a quarrel between them, Peterson being intoxicated. Witness then became first mate; and W. R. Crocker, one of the crew, was promoted to the situation of second mate. On Tuesday, 31st June, took a pilot, got under way about 10 or 11 o'clock, and went to sea. On the 4th or 5th day out the Captain said the chronometer would'nt speak, he having forgotten to wind it up. On the 6th of July they saw a vessel standing to the northward the brig being to the eastward, five or six miles apart. They ran down to the first, hove back the main topsail, and fired a cartridge. They then hailed the vessel, asking where she was from and were answered from Savannah bound to Liverpool, ordered her to send her boat aboard, the boat came alongside accordingly, four men and an officer being in her. Capt. Nunez asked if they had a chronometer, to which the officer replied that he did not know, but he would go aboard and see. He accordingly went on board and returned in about half an hour with a chronometer, which they took on board, and while they were regulating the chronometer of the brig, her captain and four men went on board the other vessel, which proved to be the Madras, of Hull. After remaining there a short time, they returned, and the party belonging to the Madras, took their chronometer and returned to their own vessel.

While the crew of the Malek Adel were securing their boat, the Madras made sail. As soon as the boat was secured the M. A. ran to leeward some distance and fired another blank cartridge, but not in the direction of the Madras—and then proceeded on their course. About the 9th or 10th of July, saw a vessel standing to westward, the brig, at the time, standing east. The Captain said he would run after the vessel in sight and catch her, as he wanted to send a letter to N. York. They accordingly made sail after her, but, finding that they did not come up with her very fast, a blank cartridge was fired from the M. A. but this passing apparently unnoticed, on the part of the other vessel, the Capt. ordered the men to load the gun with shot, which was done and the gun again fired, when the other vessel hove to. The vessels were then about half a mile apart. Both vessels shewed the American flag at first, but, when the second gun was fired, the Captain of the Malek Adhel ordered the Mexican or Columbian flag to be hoisted. Upon hailing the other vessel she proved to be the brig Sullivan, from Liverpool bound to Charleston, having the name "Sullivan, New York," on her stern. She was hailed and ordered to send a boat aboard.—While the boat was approaching, the Captain of the Malek Adhel told Martin, (named as Peter Roberts in the shipping articles), to tell the crew not to speak any English while the boat was alongside. This charge was given first in Spanish then in English. When the boat arrived alongside they asked where the M. A. was from. Martin replied, the Captain speaking to him in Spanish, from Vera Cruz bound to Barcelona, and out 45 days.

The Captain of the M. A. then stated to the officer in the boat that they were in want of lamp oil, to which the latter replied that he did not know whether they had any on board or not, but he would go and see, but upon reaching their own vessel, they hoisted up their boat and proceeded on their course. At that time the M. A. had lamp oil sufficient to last for twelve months. After the other vessel proceeded on her course, sail was made upon the Malek Adhel also; and, running her to leeward of the other, Martin, who generally acted as gunner, fired a ball cartridge at her. Martin belonged to Malaga, and spoke Spanish. At the time of the second shot, they were about one-eighth of a mile apart—within hailing distance. Each vessel then kept on her course. The witness did not see where the ball struck.

Two or three days after the affair with the Sullivan, they spoke the "Two Brothers," and passed her.

The next vessel they spoke was the "Vigilant," of New Castle, which vessel was under English colors. She was hailed and ordered to send her boat aboard the M. A. The boat was sent, when Captain Nunez asked if they had a chronometer—they said they had not, and further stated that they were out of water and wanted bread. They were supplied with two small barrels of water and some bread, and the Malek Adhel then proceeded on her course.

Two days afterwards they fell in with the Sao Domingo. The Captain of the M. A. being acquainted with the passengers on board of her, asked them to dine with him, which they did.—After they left the vessel Capt. Nunez told witness that the Captain of the other vessel had been a slaver, and was just returning from a prosperous voyage. The vessel was a Portuguese, belonging to Zara, one of the Western Islands. The vessels parted company the next day, and, two or three days after, the M. A. went into Fayal. Capt. Nunez said his intention in going there was to get his vessel repaired, and his chronometer rated. They remained at Fayal some five or six days, during which time one carpenter was employed, who did some little work and examined to find a leak, the vessel having leaked at sea, but not while in Fayal. The vessel leaked as badly after she left Fayal as she did before. While at Fayal they took in some provisions for the crew, and two men as passengers, and a cabin boy. The names of the men were Silvie and Curry. The boy is here, but the last witness saw of the two men was at Rio. Witness did not know whether the Captain knew the passengers before he saw them at Fayal. They got under weigh from Fayal on Tuesday and came to anchor to wait until Wednesday, on which day a party was to come on board. Capt. Nunez knew nothing of the usages of an American vessel before they left New York. Witness always worked the vessel.

They left Fayal in company with the whaling vessel Minerva from New Bedford. Nunez went on board of her and took the chronometer to have it rated, having had nothing done with it at Fayal. Nunez knew nothing about managing a chronometer. He remained on board the Minerva five or six hours, after which the M. A. proceeded on her course. The next day they saw a vessel standing to westward with all sails set, going directly before the wind. The M. A. was at that time standing to the Southward. Nunez ordered chase to be made, and, finding that she proved too fleet for the M. A., a blank cartridge was fired at her, but, as she still persisted in her course, Nunez ordered one of the guns to be shotted and fired at her. She then hove to, the M. A. being about a mile astern. When she came up they hailed the chase, and were answered that she was the Emily Wilder, from Palermo bound to Boston. She was ordered to send her boat aboard with their chronometer, which was done and the Chronometer of the M. A. rated by it. They then went to their vessel again, asking no questions except where the M. A. was from, to which Nunez answered that she was from N. York, bound round Cape Horn. The M. A. then stood to the southward until the 4th August, prior to which time the Captain said he was going to Rio. Witness told him it was a bad place to go to. On the 4th of August Nunez came on deck about half past seven. Nunez told witness that he did not want him to do any more work on board the vessel. That night the Captain had the watch from 8 until 12—witness heard a noise on board, went up and saw a vessel close ahead on the weather bow. Nunez hailed her and told them to heave to, which they did and the M. A. did the same. This was about 10 o'clock at night—they were hailed again and ordered to send the boat alongside with the Captain and his papers. They replied they could not, as the boat leaked and the night was dark. Nunez then got angry and ordered the gun to be double shotted. It was done, and the gun fired towards the vessel. Martin directed the gun—this was within close hailing distance. Curry then hailed in English and told them to send their boat. The Captain of the other vessel answered in Portuguese or Spanish—Curry said to witness that the answer was that they might sink their brig but they could not come on board. Nunez then told the crew to lower their own boat and go on board the other brig—Curry, Crocker, 2nd Mate, Peter Roberts or Martin, Jno. Grey and Gill or Smith went on board. Curry and Crocker had each a pair of pistols, they were buckled in a belt round the body.

The boat returned in about three quarters of an hour with Curry, the captain of the other vessel and three of her men—Curry and the captain came on board, the men remaining in the boat alongside. The captain handed captain Nunez a tin box, containing, as witness believes, the papers of his vessel, which were taken below by Curry and Captain Nunez—the other captain remaining on deck. Witness saw them down the companion way examining the papers. In about a quarter of an hour they came on deck and handing the captain of the other brig his papers, told Curry, in English, to tell the captain he must pay $20 for shot and $10 for a keg of oil which had been knocked over by the recoil of the gun. Nunez also directed Curry to examine if there was a gun and powder on board of the other vessel, and, if there was, to spike the guns and bring the powder on board the M. A.—also, to bring on board any sweetmeats he might find in the other vessel. Curry then went on board with them, and returned in about half an hour with that part of the M. A's crew who had gone on board the other vessel at first. They brought with them a jar of sweetmeats, a dog, and $20 for the shot. After the boat was secured, Capt. Nunez put witness on duty again. The M. A. then proceeded on her course.

About the 10th or 12th Aug. fell in with another vessel standing to the northward—the M. A. to the southward—the other vessel soon after altered her course and went in the same direction. Soon after the maintopsail of the M. A. was hove back, and the vessels ran foul of each other. Captain got enraged, and told them to shot the gun and fire at them, which was done—a second, a third, a fourth, and a fifth shot was fired, by which time they had expended their powder. Nunez then said something to Martin which witness did not understand, but Martin told the crew he would give five hundred dollars to the volunteer who would go and bring the captain on board. He desired witness to go, who replied that he did not like it. He was told not to be afraid and a dirk handed him, which he threw on deck, stating his fear of going alongside in the boat, as the crew of the other vessel might throw something into the boat and sink it. M. said they wanted to get the captain to give him twenty-five lashes. Nunez then told Martin to take two men and go on board, which he did, and, after remaining half an hour, returned and told Nunez he had better send the chronometer to the other vessel and have it rated. Witness took it and rated it. The captain of the other vessel enquired why he had been fired upon. Witness said it was by the captain's order. He asked where the M. A. was bound, to which witness replied "God knows." When witness got back he told Nunez what had passed, who only laughed; this vessel was the Albert, an English vessel, bound to Rio.

The M. A. then proceeded on her course, and made the Brazils the 20th or 21st August—the land was north Cape Antonio. When they reached Bahia, Curry, Silvie and the Captain went on shore, and staid until next day, when they came on board and the captain ordered witness to get ready to discharge the cargo as he intended to repair there. Some of the crew refused to work until they saw the American Consul—when the captain asked who wished to see the Consul it was found that they all did, including witness.—They accordingly went on shore and witness saw the Consul, who asked him relative to the charges against the brig. Witness remained at Bahia until after the Enterprize came there and seized the Malek Adhel, in which vessel he, with others, was sent here.

After the examination of this witness the court adjourned until Monday.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

[Reported for the Baltimore Clipper.]

BALTIMORE CITY COURT.

SATURDAY, JUNE 12, 1841.

Present—Judges Brice, Nisbet and Worthington.

Cornelius Gibson, who had enlisted in the government service, was discharged upon application to the Court, on the ground of minorship.

A jury was sworn to inquire into the fact as to whether Wm. Henry Kiddall was a lunatic or not, and if so, whether he was a pauper, and, as such, entitled to support at the public expense, legislative provision having been made for lunatic paupers. The facts, both of his being a lunatic, and unable to take care of himself, and of his being unable to provide for his own support, were fully proven, and the jury returned a written verdict to that effect. The unfortunate object of the application was directed to be sent to the Hospital.

The witnesses in the case of Mary Toodle were discharged until Saturday morning next, at 10 o'clock.

State, vs. John Bacon, indicted for an assault and battery upon Jos. Christopher, watchman.—The traverser plead guilty. The evidence of the physician who had attended the complainant was produced to shew the extent of the injury received. From the testimony of Christopher himself and of Chaney, another watchman, that the two were in the act of taking a drunken man home who had been shortly before talking to the traverser, when, after they had proceeded about twenty yards, Chaney looking back, saw traverser in the act of striking Christopher with a large stick, which blow stunned him—Chaney warded off another blow aimed at himself, and knocked traverser down, and overpowering him, took him off. The stick was produced in Court. It was a hickory stick, about four feet is length, and two inches in diameter, and had apparently been used as the prop-stick of a cart.

On the part of the traverser, evidence was brought to shew that, when not in liquor, he was a peaceable citizen; and that he had amended his conduct in regard to his former intemperate habits.

The Court recommended that the traverser should make compensation to Christopher for the injury inflicted upon him; and that, upon learning the settlement between them, the fine imposed by their Honors would be regulated accordingly.

State vs. John Linton. This case was continued by the State until next Saturday, for the purpose of getting time to produce white witnesses, the complainant being colored, and the traverser white, and the witnesses summoned on the part of complainants being all colored.

State vs. Gotlieb Summer, indicted for assault and battery upon Dorothea Greener. The complainant was an aged German woman, unable to speak English, but her daughter, an interesting child of some eleven or twelve years of age, interpreted for her. The traverser was also unable to speak English, but witnesses were produced on his side who could—and, it appearing doubtful whether the woman did not strike the first blow, the case was dismissed.

John Turrick, convicted yesterday of an assault and battery upon Henry S. McDonnell, a police officer, was fined $1 and costs, which was promptly paid and the prisoner discharged.

State vs. William Downs, charged with assaulting and knocking down Peter Duff, and assaulting —— McCann. The parties, it appeared, were on their way to a "wake" when the fuss occurred; and the testimony of the different witnesses excited no little degree of amusement in the Court room, crowded as it is generally on Saturday.

State vs. Mary C. Patterson, indicted on two counts for keeping a bawdy house, and for keeping a disorderly house. The evidence of the first witness on the part of the State went to show that persons of both sexes were seen visiting the house at all hours day or night—that the house bore the reputation of being a bawdy house, but not noisy. On cross examination it was elicited that the traverser kept an eating house, and that the witness, who lived next to the traverser, had previously some difficulty with her, on account of some injury done, accidentally, to the traverser by witness' children. The second witness testified that he had also observed the visiters who frequented the house—they never went together in the day time, but generally met near there, and separated immediately upon leaving the house—the house was situated in Market alley, near the Lexington market—traverser supplied the market people with coffee—had followed a lady from there until she reached her own house; stopped her and charged her with the character of the house where she had been, which, after some denial, she admitted, and begged him not to expose her to her friends. Another witness gave about the same evidence and illustrated it by several cases—he was actuated in his course in this matter by the fact that he had property in the neighborhood and children growing up and wished to have the house broken up—the ages of the women visiting the house were from sixteen to thirty; and many of them were respectable in their appearance. He had conversed with at least a hundred persons, all of whom were of opinion that the house was one of ill fame. Another witness stated the fact that he had himself known one case since the commencement of the prosecution—that a young lady, of respectable parentage, who, through the machinations of an individual in whom she trusted, had been lured aside from the path of virtue, but whose friends deemed her entirely reformed had been in the habit of visiting the house of the traverser for several months, which, being lately discovered by her mother, she had discarded her; and now she was added to the list of those who are without the pale of respectability. Other witnesses were examined whose testimony went to prove that the reputation of the house was bad.

Upon the part of the traverser, evidence was offered that the house occupied by the traverser was a small house—that the gentleman who owned the house, hearing the reports in reference to it, made it his business to endeavor to find out if it was so; and had come to the conclusion that the reports were untrue—that the traverser was an industrious woman, who made her living by selling coffee, ice-creams, &c., that market persons were in the habit of staying there all night. Some witnesses testified that the house bore no further bad reputation than that given to it by the talk of some persons in the neighborhood, many of whom were among the states' witnesses—several witnesses for the defence also testified that they had been in the house at different hours during the day and night; and never saw any thing improper.

Before any further testimony was taken, the Court adjourned until Monday, 10 o'clock, A. M.

WONDERFUL CASE OF SUICIDE. A man in Boston, named Savage, went on Thursday last, purchased some arsenic, carried it home, shewed it to his wife, told her he was going to take it, asked for a tumbler to mix it, and after having gotten one with the consent of his wife, mixed the poisonous draught, drank it down and was in eternity in the space of two hours afterwards. He assigned no cause for the rash act.

POLICE REPORT. Thomas Bond was yesterday arrested and committed to jail on a charge of breaking open the door of Isaac Hartzburg's house in the neighborhood of Fleet and Caroline streets, with the intention of assaulting the occupant. When the police officers who arrested him reached the corner of Wilk and Caroline streets, Bond laid down and resisted the attempt to carry him further. Some of the by-standers were called upon to assist the officers in handcuffing him, which, to their shame, the most of them not only refused to do, but one man went so so far as to kick the handcuffs out of the officers' hands. One person alone lent the required aid; and the officers then succeeded in handcuffing Bond and taking him to the police office, from thence, in spite of his violent resistance, he was transferred to jail, where the individual who was so ready to abet him in his rebellion against the civil authorities, should be sent to keep him company.

Eliza Bowyer, col'd, was yesterday arrested charged with rioting in Guilford alley. Upon giving security to keep the peace, she was released.

Vagrant. Mary Kendrick, charged with being a common vagrant, was yesterday sent to the Alms House.

Assault. Mary Jackson, charged with assaulting Mary Ellen Johnson, was, on Friday night, taken to the western district watch house, and committed by Justice Stewart.

IMPORTANT DECISION. A heavy case was decided in the St. Louis Court on the 3d inst. It is thus stated in the Gazette,

Messrs January and Dunlap had sued D. D. Page, Abner Hood, Alonzo Child and others, guarantors of a debt of some $45,000, contracted for that amount of Illinois bonds, made over to the Clinton Bank of New York, in execution of a contract with the Farmers' and Mechanics' Insurance Company here, of which the defendants were directors.

The decision was against the plaintiffs—on the ground of a want of power to contract on the part of the defendants—it being similar to that taken in the case of the same plaintiffs against the Company in a suit formerly mentioned by us.

LATEST FROM FLORIDA. The troops were suffering from sickness; very few men in the 1st Infantry were fit for duty. That regiment had been stationed at Sarasota, which post it was compelled to abandon, and it is now stationed at Cedar Keys.

Fort Pleasant, in Middle Florida, which was last season very healthy, is this season very sickly.

At Fort King there are four companies, 106 of whom are sick. Of five companies stationed at Micanopy, 106 are on the sick list. These posts last season were very healthy. At Fort McComb and Fort Fanning, the troops were also very sickly. The other posts continue as healthy as usual.

CALAMITOUS FIRE. On Thursday afternoon, at shortly after three o'clock, a fire broke out in New York in a block of wooden buildings in Stanton street, near Pitt. Six were burned on Stanton street, four on Pitt, and three in the rear.—They were mostly occupied by poor German families, who have lost nearly their all. It was rumored that a child had perished in the flames.

DECISION AGAINST THE U. S. BANK. The U. S. District Court decided on the 10th inst. in Philadelphia (Judge Atwood), in a suit to recover in specie $10,000, deposited while the Bank had conspicuously posted up a notice that the Bank would not hold itself liable to pay in any other funds than such as were current at the time the deposite was made, that the notice was of no sort of consequence, being contrary to the charter.

A WARNING. The District Attorney at New York has received directions from the Post Office Department, to proceed against persons who write upon the margin of newspapers with the object of saving the expense of letter postage. Many such papers have been stopped in the Post Office. The offender is liable to a fine by the Post Office laws, when the fact can be proven upon him, which is generally a very difficult matter.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From Captain PARRISH, who commenced to use them when diseased in August, 1839.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 2, 1840.

☞To DR. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I have had experience in the virtue of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,

E. PARRISH.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.

DR. WM. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been labouring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. Yours, respectfully, JOHN DYE.

We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, know our neighbour, Mr. Dye, sold him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true. Respectfully,

W. & S. B. ANDERSON.

NOTICE.

BALTIMORE & OHIO RAIL ROAD.

THE CHANGE in the hour of arrival of the Mail Trains from Philadelphia, renders it necessary that a corresponding change should be made in the departure of the Morning Cars for the west.

Notice is therefore hereby given, That on and after WEDNESDAY, 26th instant, the Passenger Train for Ellicott's Mills, Frederick, and Harper's Ferry will be despatched from the Depot in Pratt street, at half past 9 instead of 7 o'clock, A. M., the present hour of departure—of which travellers will take notice.

☞The Extra Train for Frederick will continue to leave at 3½ o'clock every evening, with which, as well as with the Morning Train, passengers from Washington can still connect at the Relay House. By order,

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr. Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description, Sick headache, heartburn dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cure; and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS, AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are sceptical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 20, 1840.

DEAR SIR—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have turned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,

"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.

GREAT SOUTHERN

UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,

DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

☞Bear in mind, that Passengers who go by the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, have 40 miles of Rail Road travelling through the DISMAL SWAMP at midnight, over one of the worst Rail Roads in America, and then are often compelled to lay over 17 hours at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 9 A. M., they proceed, without one moment's delay, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and often one day in advance of any other Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	12 P.M.	reach	Baltimore	8	A.M.
" Baltimore	9 A.M.	"	Washington	11	A.M.
" Washington	11½ A.M.	"	Frederickst'g	6	P.M.
" Fred'ksburg	6½ P.M.	"	Richmond	11	P.M.
" Richmond	11½ P.M.	"	Petersburg	1	A.M.
" Petersburg	1½ A.M.	"	Weldon	6½	A.M.
" Weldon	7 A.M.	"	Charleston on the next morning.

☞24 hours in advance of any other Line.

Passengers by this Line not only reach Charleston ONE DAY SOONER than by the Bay boats but they avoid being compelled to remain all night at Weldon, on the Roanoke, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole southern country, where, by the Bay Line, they are often delayed twenty-four hours.

Passengers for Richmond and Petersburg will find this Line far the most expeditious, arriving at Richmond to lodge, (as will be seen from the above Schedule,) on the evening of the day on which they leave Baltimore, being from 15 to 18 hours in advance of those taking the Bay Steam Boats.

☞This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va.

Fare to Richmond,	$10.00
Fare to Petersburg,	10 50

UNITED STATES MAIL LINE,

DAILY TO THE SOUTH, Sunday's excepted.

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that in accordance with the New Mail Arrangement, the Boats composing their line, viz: ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, will, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 26th of May, leave the lower end of Spear's wharf daily, (Sunday's excepted,) at nine o'clock, A.M. for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va.

Passengers for Charleston will find the cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, on the wharf, on their arrival at Portsmouth, ready to convey them to Weldon, N. C., where they will always arrive in time to take the cars for Wilmington, from which point to Charleston is by the Steamboat, which leaves Wilmington immediately after the Passengers are delivered from the cars.

Passengers for Richmond, Petersburg, or intermediate points on James River, by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, will sleep on board the Bay Boat and be transferred to the James River Boat next morning.

The Steamboat Fox leaves the Black Water station on the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars from Portsmouth, for Edenton and Plymouth, N. C., and returns every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, delivering her passengers to the cars as they pass down from Weldon, enabling them to arrive in Baltimore next day, (Sundays excepted.)

RETURNING, one of the above Boats will leave Norfolk every night (Saturday being excepted) at 10 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departing from Portsmouth.

Should the Boat get an early start from Portsmouth, Passengers for Philadelphia and New York will have the opportunity of being placed on board the Philadelphia Steamboat in the Patapsco River, and will arrive in Philadelphia the same night by 11 o'clock, after having travelled 300 miles in 20 hours, without as much fatigue as would be incurred in walking from the Hotel to the wharf.

☞No freight will be forwarded on the day it is left, unless it is alongside, prior to 8 o'clock, A. M.

THE FISCAL AGENT. Our columns yesterday having been pre-occupied, we postponed until to-day the outline of a Fiscal Agent, or National Bank, as furnished by the Secretary of the Treasury. It is now given below. This project contains two propositions: First, that of the thirty millions of which the capital of the Bank is to consist, six millions be subscribed by the United States; ten millions, (or the amount of the fourth instalment due by the general government to the States,) by the States; and the balance by individuals. Second: the United States to subscribe ten millions and individuals twenty millions: the Bank in neither case to divide more than six per cent. among the stockholders, but the surplus profits above that amount, when they exceed two millions of dollars, to go into the treasury of the United States We doubt whether individuals can be induced to invest their capital under such restrictions. They will naturally expect an equal dividend of whatever profit may be made by the institution.

If it be resolved to have a National Bank, we should prefer that the States should have an interest in it, as we think that it would be more likely to preserve it free from corrupting influences, and because the people at large would derive the benefits arising from the deposits of the public money.

The Secretary has very properly endeavored to interpose guards to protect the institution from the abuses of the present Banking system. Time only can tell whether they will be sufficient.—We are glad to see that he is opposed to long accommodations, and that he subjects individual accounts to inspection and publication. He also prohibits officers of the Bank from obtaining loans; but experience has shewn, that this restriction cannot be enforced.

The treasury project contains, of course, mere suggestions—the outline of what he supposes would constitute a proper Fiscal Agent. But the filling up of this outline is the most important, and to the bill which will be introduced the people should look with more care.

PLAN OF A FISCAL BANK OF THE U. S.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
June 12, 1841.

To the President of the Senate of the U. States:

SIR: In obedience to the directions of the Senate, contained in their resolution of the 7th inst., the Secretary of the Treasury has prepared, and herewith submits, a plan of a Bank and Fiscal Agent.

In the general plan and frame of said institution, he has endeavored to free it from the constitutional objections which have been urged against those heretofore created by Congress, and as far as practicable, without impairing its usefulness, to guard in its details against the abuses to which such institutions are liable. And he now respectfully submits it to the Senate, with the hope that, in the process of consideration and enactment, it may become what he did not presume to promise, but which he earnestly deires to see in the possession of the nation, a Bank and Fiscal Agent, free from constitutional objections, and adapted to the wants of the country and convenience of the government.

It is proposed to incorporate a Bank in the District of Columbia, by the name of the Fiscal Bank of the U. States, having a capital of 30 millions of dollars, with power to establish branches or offices of discount and deposite in the several States with the assent of the States; that the government subscribe one-fifth part of the capital; and on the supposition that it is the purpose of Congress hereafter to direct that the fourth instalment, appropriated by the deposite act of June 23, 1836, shall be paid into the treasuries of the several States, it is also proposed that a subscription to that amount be made in the name of the United States, for the use of the States respectively; the stock to be assigned to, and become the property of, such States as shall accept the same, in the manner and in the proportions, and subject to all the conditions provided and imposed by that act.

And for the amount of the six millions to be subscribed by the United States on their own account, and also for the amount to be subscribed for the use of the several States, it is proposed that a stock be created, bearing an interest of five per cent. per annum, redeemable at the pleasure of the government at any time after fifteen years.

In case Congress should not see fit to make such a provision as is proposed for paying to the States the fourth instalment under the deposite act, it may be well worth while to consider whether the States might not be permitted to take the stock of the Bank according to their respective amount of population, to the extent of ten millions in all, issuing therefor stock of their own, bearing such interest, and reimbursable at such periods as might be prescribed; the dividends on the shares thus held by the States, respectively, to be applied, in the first place, to the payment of the interest on their stock; with a further provision, if thought necessary, that, in case the proceeds of the public lands should be assigned to the States, those proceeds should be applied to the reimbursement of the principal of their debts or stocks created or issued for the purposes aforesaid.

If the opinion of the Secretary, it is desirable that the States should be permitted to take an interest in one of the foregoing modes, or some other mode, in the new institution; but, if Congress should think otherwise, then it is recommended that the Government of the U. States subscribe for ten millions of stock, leaving twenty to be subscribed by individuals.

It is proposed that the affairs of the Bank be managed by seven directors, two of them to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and five to be elected by the stockholders, at their annual meeting. A president to be chosen by the directors out of their own body.

That the branches be managed by not more than seven, nor less than five directors, two of them to be appointed by the States in which the branches may be situated, if such State be a stockholder, and the rest to be appointed by the directors of the Bank.

It is proposed that the Bank be the fiscal agent of the Government. That the public moneys be deposited in it; and when there that they be deemed and taken to be in the Treasury of the United States, and that the deposites be not removed except by law, and that the notes of the said Bank be received in the payment of public dues, and that payments made by the Treasurer of the United States may be by checks on said Bank.

That the said Bank receive the funds of the United States; that it transmit them from one part of the Union to another, and distribute them for the payment of public creditors, and perform the duty of pension agent free of charge.

The ordinary powers and privileges of banking institutions being conferred on it, and the ordinary liabilities and duties imposed in order to prevent over-banking, excessive issues, fluctuations in the price of stocks, and consequent speculations therein, and to secure the bill holders and other creditors of the Bank from danger of loss, it is proposed—

To limit the dividends to six per cent. per annum, but if they fall short in any year, the deficiency, with interest thereon, to be afterwards made good—and when a surplus accumulates, exceeding two millions, the excess to be passed to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States.

That the amount of debts which it may at any time owe, shall not exceed twenty millions over and above its deposites. That the debts at any time due to the bank shall not exceed the amount of its capital and seventy-five per cent. thereon; and that when the amount of its bills in circulation shall exceed three times the amount of specie in its vaults, no new loan shall be made.

That it shall not deal in any thing except coin, bullion, promissory notes, and inland bills of exchange.

That it shall take no more than six per cent. upon loans.

That it shall discount no promissory note, and purchase no bill of exchange which has more than one hundred and eighty days to run, or make any loan for a longer time.

That no debt shall be renewed.

That it shall not at any time loan the United States more than three millions of dollars, nor any State more than 100,000 dollars, nor either for a longer time than one hundred days, unless authorized by law.

That it shall contract no debt for a longer time than one year.

That it shall issue no note of a less denomination than ten dollars.

That the officers of the institution shall not be permitted to borrow money from, or contract, any debt therein, in any manner whatever; a note or bill of which such officer, as maker, drawer, endorser, or acceptor, is forbidden to be discounted. The directors of the branches not to be considered officers within the meaning of this provision.

To prevent or expose any fraud or indirection in the management of the institution; to prevent, also, large and improper loans to individuals, to the injury of the stockholders and the public, and to prevent, likewise, false imputations when such irregularities do not exist, it is proposed that the books of the institution, including the accounts of all individuals therein, be at all times open to the inspection of the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States; to a committee of either House of Congress, to each of the directors of the Bank, and to a committee of the stockholders, with power to make public whatsoever they think fit.

It is proposed to provide that the branches shall not issue notes or bills adapted to, and intended for, circulation; but may sell drafts, not less in amount than fifty dollars, for the purpose of transmission and exchange.

That the bank shall not suspend specie payment—that it shall not pay out any thing but coin or bullion, or its own notes. That its existence as a corporation continue for twenty years—but that it be allowed to use its corporate name for two years longer in settling up its affairs.

That no other bank be established by Congress during the existence of the charter.

And providing that it shall not be deemed an infringement of the privileges granted by the charter, if Congress shall order the said corporation to place offices of discount and deposite wherever the same may be necessary for the collection, safe-keeping and disbursement of the public revenue.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

T. EWING,
Secretary of the Treasury.

RECIPE FOR GETTING MONEY FROM A USURER. M. Cretecorps is a villainous looking old man. Never did a face more plainly bear the stamp of avarice and usury, and seldom could his have been seen to greater disadvantage, for he was now excited by anger, which rarely adds to beauty.

Judge—What is your complaint, M. Cretecorps, against M. de Linage, whom you have cited before this court?

Cretecorps—For the restitution of 200 francs, which he has swindled me out of.

M. de Linage, who was a handsome and well dressed young man, smiled disdainfully.

Judge (to complainant)—Do not be insolent, that will only injure your cause; confine yourself simply to a statement of facts.

Cretecorps—You should know that I have several times obliged M. de Linage by getting a friend of mine to lend him money, for I have no money of my own.

M. de Linage (laughing)—Oh, the old story.

Cretecorps—This friend of mine has generously advanced him from 5,000 to 6,000 francs upon my recommendation.

M. de Linage—Generously! Yes, at an interest of 25 per cent.—(Laughter.)

Cretecorps—That is your affair, not mine. I am only the agent for a capitalist.

M. de Linage—Who, doubtless, would be anonymous in that matter.

Cretecorps—Be that as it may, M. de Linage never having repaid his loans, he refuses to lend him any more. Not that he is afraid of losing his money. No. For M. de Linage will inherit a large fortune from his uncle, and there is no doubt of his paying ultimately; but it is a tedious thing to wait for a dead man's shoes. But to proceed. The other day I received a note from M. de Linage, begging the loan of 200 francs. I refused. But on the following day, what think you I saw in the newspaper? Why the following paragraph:—

"We learn with regret that M. the Count de Linage, the head of a noble family, is so ill that no hopes are entertained of his recovery. He is indeed at the last extremity, and yesterday received the last offices of religion at the hands of his priest. The Count, we learn, has made a will, by which he leaves the whole of his immense fortune to his nephew, M. de Linage."—(Laughter.)

Judge—You read that in the newspapers, do you say?

Cretecorps.—Oui, Monsieur, in a little paper which was sent me by a person who also owes me money. I had no sooner read the paragraph than I dressed myself and went to M. de Linage. I said to him, "I yesterday refused to lend you the 200 francs you wanted to borrow, but on reflection I am now willing to accommodate you." (Laughter.) "Hold your tongue," said he, putting one hand on my mouth and the other on the money. (Much Laughter.) "Let us not trouble his last moments—Adieu, mon ami—leave me. I am much affected."

Judge—Very naturally.

Cretecorps—Natural, indeed; and I was fool enough to go away without ever taking a receipt for the money. In accompanying me to the door the servant said to me, "The poor Count cannot last out the day." "Good," said I; "we shall get reimbursed for all our arrears." (Much Laughter.) Well, I went down stairs, and in passing along the boulevard, whom should I meet, mon Dieu!—why, the old Count himself, whom I supposed almost in the agonies of death, but who was, on the contrary, complacently smoking his cigar, and cocking his glass at the girls like a young fellow of 20!" (Tremendous laughter, in which the voice of M. de Linage was heard above all the rest.)

Judge—How is this?

Cretecorps—Why, Monsieur, it was a trick of the nephew, M. de Linage, who had got the paragraph inserted in the paper for the express purpose of getting my money. (Renewed laughter.)

After questioning M. de Linage, who said it was only a joke to outwit his money-lender, the Judge ordered the repayment of the 200 francs, by instalments of 50 francs per month.

Cretecorps (on taking his departure)—I will never again believe the death of your uncle till I hear his mass celebrated at the end of the year. (Laughter.)

AN HONEST MAN.

A circumstance was related to us a few days since, which, for its novelty, if nothing else, is worth giving publicity. During the prevalence of the malignant fever in this city, in the summer of 1819, and which proved so destructive to human life, a laboring man, who resided on Fort Hill, was attacked with the disease, and died in a few hours. His wife also died the following day of the same complaint. The alarm became general, and most of our citizens who possessed the means, retired into the country until the epidemic abated.

It happened that a mechanic of Boston was indebted to the laboring man who died so suddenly, but as the poor fellow left little or no property, his estate was not administered upon, nor could the creditor learn that he had left any children or legal heirs to whom it would be proper to pay the money. The amount due was for labor performed, and amounted only to six or seven dollars. This sum, however, was credited to the estate of the deceased party, on the book of the mechanic, as a debt honestly due, to be paid whenever called for by any one legally authorized to receive it. So matters have remained for more than twenty years.

One day last week, this same mechanic, who had some years since retired from business with a handsome competency, the fruits of a life of honest industry, chanced to be in a neighboring town, and hearing of the marriage of a son of an old friend, who resided on the adjoining estate, inquired whom he had married. On being told, he made further inquiries as to the young woman' family and connexions, and soon became satisfied that she was the daughter and only child of the laboring man to whose estate he had been so long indebted. He immediately called upon the young woman, (who was but two years old when her parents died) stated the circumstances, and insisted on her receiving the amount of the debt and interest. She of course knew nothing about the matter, and rather declined accepting the amount under such peculiar circumstances. The mechanic, however, was not to be foiled in this manner. He insisted on discharging the demand, saying that the lapse of time which had passed since the debt was incurred, made it none the less honestly due. Besides, he wanted to "settle his books," and how could he do so without paying an account so long due, and which he had the means in his pocket of discharging? On the whole, he thought he should "feel better" after settling an honest debt, and begged the daughter of his old creditor, as a personal favor, to accept the money. The young woman finally consented, and the demand, after standing twenty-two years, was paid upon the spot, principal and interest. A nobler instance of high moral integrity never fell under our observation.

The mechanic alluded to was Mr. JOSEPH BOND, formerly a well known blacksmith of this city. With the retiring habits and extreme diffidence often attendant on true greatness, he will doubtless shrink from this public notice of an action which stamps his name in all time to come as "God's noblest work—an honest man."

We wish to pass no fulsome eulogy on any man. But in these days of bank robberies and wholesale swindling among the "higher classes" of society, it is pleasant to find one green spot on which the eye may repose, and thus enable us to think a little better of frail, but much wronged, human nature. Such actions as we have here related, require no eulogy. They speak for themselves. Would to Heaven they were more frequent. We desire, however, to place this noble act of a Boston mechanic before all classes of our fellow-citizens, and to hold it up to the imitation of both rich and poor. Perhaps some, when this statement meets their eye, may be induced to follow the example of this worthy mechanic, and "go and do likewise." Our word for it, they will not only "feel better" while living, but, when they come to die, it will smooth their dying pillow, and be a richer legacy to their children than gold or silver, though piled mountains high.—Boston Transcript. H.

INVALUABLE

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold, having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his representations in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

DR. STORM'S SPECIFIC COMPOUND,

For the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleets, Stricture, Diabetes or difficulty in making water, and all other unnatural discharges from the urethra of either sex.

In no case has this medicine been known to fail, to effect a permanent cure, and too, in the shortest possible time. Should this medicine fail to effect a cure where it has been taken according to directions, return the empty vial and get back the money. Why then spend both time and money with such quack nostrums as cannot be depended upon; when, for $1, you can purchase a pleasant, sure, and speedy cure, composed solely of vegetable substance? One hundred dollars will be paid to any one who will produce a medicine to equal this compound, or who will prove that it contains any mineral substance whatever.

N. B. This Medicine can be had of JAMES P. WILLIAMSON, corner of High and Green street, (O. T.) of T. J. PITT, Market Space, Fell's Point, and by J. W. W. GORDON, cor. of Pratt & Howard sts. Also, of L. S. THOMAS, corner of Briton and Forest streets—with full directions accompanying each bottle at $1 per bottle.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 15, 1841.

CONGRESS. Whilst the Senate of the United States is progressing rapidly with the public business, the House of Representatives is proceeding with its usual "jog-trot" pace. Every inch of ground is disputed in the house be the business what it may—and motion after motion is made with the quickness of "the pewterer's hammer," until it is difficult for any man to tell what question is before the house. If the speaker were not a remarkably clear-headed man, he would be totally confused by the proceedings—but he sustains himself admirably, and members seldom venture to take an appeal from his decisions. The ground taken by Mr. Clay in the Senate is that which ought to be adopted in the house also.—The people look for action on the part of their representatives; and by confining the attention of members to one subject at a time, as advised by Mr. Clay, they will not only act more speedily, but more intelligently, upon each matter. It is not expected that, at the extra session, the whole concerns of the country will undergo supervision. Congress has been convened for specified objects, which should be disposed of with all practicable despatch. This, Mr. Clay thinks, can be effected by the last of July. We think that, with proper industry, it could be sooner done—but, unless the house get out of its present snail-pace, the first of September will be likely to find Congress in session.

We think it evident, from present appearances, that bills will be passed during the extra session, to charter a National Bank—to distribute the proceeds of the sales of the public lands—and to lay a duty on articles of luxury. These are all important measures, upon the justice and propriety of which, however, there are very few members of congress who have not made up their minds for or against: long discussions, therefore, in favor or in opposition, will not be necessary, unless members are resolved to speak against time.—The subject of a general bankrupt law has also been introduced; but we doubt whether there will be time to mature so important a matter. It is much wanted, and would no doubt be productive of great good; but it is a measure which requires to be well digested. We hope that the land business and the tariff may receive the first action of congress; and if a Fiscal Agent of unexceptionable features can be devised, it should receive prompt attention. Then, if time permits, the bankrupt bill might be acted on. Matters of minor consideration should be postponed to the regular session.

COLORED POPULATION. We insert with pleasure, the following communication, from one who seems anxious to accept the offer of the Maryland Colonization Society. We have no doubt that many of his brethren will embrace the earliest opportunity to emigrate to a land where they will have the full enjoyment of religious, social and political rights.

The writer asks for information which will, no doubt, be cheerfully communicated by the Colonization Society, when prepared to answer the question propounded.

To the President and Managers of the Maryland State Colonization Society:

Sincerely believing your Society to have in view the best interests of the colored population of this State, and that a friendly regard to our race yet in bondage, (as their manumission must depend upon their emigration; for I believe that it is your design in the true spirit sincerity to accomplish this end;) should induce on our part a willingness to emigrate not only that our own interests should be subserved and the manumission of our brethren be obtained, but that we might carry the blessed light of divine revelation to the African.—Believing this, will you be so good as to inform us when you expect to have a vessel up for Liberia, and mention any particulars that may be of use, and you will oblige those who are ready to become EMIGRANTS.

ABOLITIONISM. We are informed by the most respectable authority, that there is a man in Baltimore, who is engaged in lecturing privately in favour of abolition. We have his name and his occupation, and shall publish both if he do not desist from his improper practices. He avowed his purposes and his principles a few days since at the Alms House, and was then cautioned to restrain his tongue—and we now renew the advice publicly, as Baltimore is no field for his labours.

SMALL POX. The National Intelligencer of yesterday states that there have recently been some few cases of small pox in Washington, though they were principally confined to the colored population.

A small wooden house was erected on the alms house square, by order of the board of health, for the purpose of placing those afflicted with the frightful malady, but, as we learn, was pulled down on the evening of the same day, and entirely demolished by some persons living in the neighborhood. The affair is to undergo legal investigation.

LOOK OUT. A female correspondent, has sent us a communication in which she complains that a certain medical gentleman, (the initial letters of whose name is not very low down in the alphabet,) is in the habit of insulting the ladies in Pearl street—and she wishes us to apprize him that, if the practice be not discontinued, he may expect something not so agreeable as smiles.—So Doctor, we would advise that you "let the girls alone," unless you feel disposed to dance a whip-hornpipe.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Clipper.]

WASHINGTON, June 14, 1841.

This morning we are doing business amidst a heavy shower of rain accompanied by thunder and lightning.

In the House of Representatives, the first business in order was the motion to reconsider the vote by which the resolution had been adopted, appointing a committee to revise the rules.

Mr. Wise having recovered from his sickness took the floor and resumed his remarks from Friday last. He gave the abolitionists a severe lecture on the inconsistency of their conduct, and shewed that, abolitionists as they were, they would not suffer their white servants to sit at table with them. By way of a gentle hint to the members from Massachusetts, he referred to the history of that State, from which it appeared that in former times its citizens had sold and exported Indians, just the same as the negroes are now sold. Rhode Island was also as bad, and, said Mr. W., these northern abolitionists had need do something in these latter days to wipe out their sins of old. Mr. W. complained most bitterly that in the standing committees of the House, the abolitionists were in the majority. They had the power to do as they pleased on the Post Office Committee, and on the Committee on Foreign Relations, and Claims. This he argued was a great piece of injustice to the south.

Mr. W. then alluded to what some of his colleagues had said, viz: that the best way to allay the abolition excitement was to receive the petitions. This, he maintained, was not the proper course. Petitions had been received for forty years, and still the excitement was not allayed. He had heard of curing the bite of a mad dog by the hair of the dog, but he had never before heard of curing agitation by agitation,

Mr. W. is still speaking, and when he will close it is impossible to say.

In the Senate, a great number of memorials were presented, asking the establishment of a National Bank, the enactment of a General Bankrupt law, and on a variety of other matters.

The consideration of the motion to refer that part of the President's message relating to Foreign Affairs to the committee on that subject, was then resumed.

Mr. Preston took the floor, and defended at great length the letter of Mr. Webster to the British Minister, in relation to the McLeod affair.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT. We find in the National Intelligencer that, "on last Thursday evening, as Lieut. Maguire, of this city, was riding with his lady in a buggy, and descending Capitol Hill, on the south side thereof, the swingletree of the carriage got loose and came in contact with the horse's hind legs, causing the animal to kick with great violence, so as to break to pieces the dasher and strike Mrs. Maguire with great severity on the bosom. The lady was so severely injured by these blows that she became insensible; and, though immediate assistance was rendered by Dr. Kearney, her recovery was considered very doubtful during the whole of Thursday night.—We are, however, happy to learn from the surgeons in attendance upon Mrs. Maguire, that on Friday last they thought that she would recover from this painful accident."

THE DEPUTATION—REMAINS OF GEN. HARRISON. The Cincinatti Gazette of the 9th, states that the joint Committee appointed by the citizens and by the City Council, left here to-day in the steamboat Pilot, for Washington. They will probably be gone three or four weeks, when we expect to do the last honors to our departed friend and fellow citizen. We hope and expect that suitable arrangements will be made before that time, in public meetings, for the reception and interment of the body. It will be buried, we understand, at North Bend, on some elevated spot, which will strike the eye, while it is quiet and retired.

AN EDITOR GONE. We learn by the Philadelphia papers that Willis G. Clark, Esq. late editor of the Philadelphia Gazette, has paid the last debt of frail human nature. He was a gentleman of high literary distinction, a sweet poet and a prose writer of sterling merit. He died of pulmonary consumption, having been confined to his room for a long time by the disorder. His death will be regretted by those who knew him best.

A WONDERFUL WONDER. The Richmond Star says:—"A gentleman, for whose word we will vouch, has just returned from Charlottesville, and informs of the extraordinary fact that there is living near that place, a negro woman, aged one hundred and thirteen years, who is now having a growth of her third set of teeth. She already has three white, sound and handsome new front teeth—a most extraordinary circumstance, but of its truth there is no doubt."

SERIOUS HOAX. The Boston Times announces the death of a tailor in that city, presuming the certainty of his death from the fact that he had promised said editor a coat at a particular time if living. The coat did not come. The inference therefore was that he had "kicked the bucket."

The Branch Bank of Alabama, at Huntsville, refuses to receive Tennessee money on deposite. This course is adopted because the Nashville brokers kept running up the Huntsville money and then running it down, for purposes of speculation.

The trial of the Messrs. Foster, of Nashville, upon the charge of shooting Mr. J. G. Harris, editor of the Nashville Union, resulted in their acquittal. The jury were not out more than ten minutes.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN.

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND. A case was tried one afternoon last week before Squire King, the particulars of which are somewhat singular, shewing the transaction to have been not a little fraudulent. For the present we suppress the names, trusting that the parties will be more circumspect in future in their dealings. D became the holder of a promissory note drawn by E, which note he desired to negotiate. For this purpose he applied to F, a somewhat active street broker, who told him that he could negotiate the note in the purchase of coffee, to which the holder agreed. Some few days afterwards, the holder of the note was met by another street broker, whom we shall designate as G, who, in the course of conversation, expressed his doubts as to whether the other member of his profession could perform what he had undertaken, stating, at the same time, that he himself could do it. Meeting shortly after this with F, the holder of the note (D) related what had passed between himself and G, advising F to associate G with him in the negotiation. This was, we believe, done; and, in the course of a short time, a return was made to D of a certain quantity of coffee, purchased at [illegible] and a half cents per pound. The commissions, usual in such cases, were paid, and the transaction apparently closed here. Not long after D was met by G, the associate broker in the negotiation, who said to him "F has treated you wrong—he purchased that coffee at twelve cents and returned it to you as bought at twelve and a half—thus saving to himself the coffee paid for by the difference. Not at all pleased, D sought out F and charged him with his trickery, which he immediately denied, but said that it was G who had purchased the coffee, and who had returned it as bought at twelve and a half cents, when, in point of fact, the original price was eleven cents per pound, thus making a difference of one cent in each pound, amounting to forty dollars difference in the whole quantity of coffee purchased. D immediately sued G for the amount, and the case coming before Squire King for trial, F was summoned as an evidence. Upon the taking of his testimony, G admitted the fact that the one cent difference in each pound had been made, but broadly charged upon the witness that he was a participant in the nefarious affair to the full half of the coffee thus kept back, and called upon him to acknowledge it and repay that half, as he was willing to do in regard to the other. This acknowledgment, however, F refused to make, and judgment was rendered against G for forty-five dollars and costs.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION. James Todal, Evan Holston and a negro man, were arrested on Saturday night on suspicion of breaking into a stable on Strawberry alley. From their statement, upon examination, suspicion fell upon a certain man named Wilcox, a stranger, who lodged upon the Crossway in Wilk street—he was accordingly arrested about three o'clock on Sunday morning. No sufficient proof being found against the others, they were discharged, and Wilcox committed for further examination.

WONDERFUL ESCAPE. On Saturday the 13th inst., while Mr. Morriss, editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer, with his two little daughters were taking a ride in a carriage, the horse took fright, ran off, threw out Mr. Morriss and passed on at a tremendous rate with the two children, until the carriage came in contract with a pile of wood when it upset. The children and their father, we are happy to learn, escaped without any serious injury, though their situation was painfully perilous.

GIVING A HORSE SODA WATER. Last evening about nine o'clock, a young blood, wishing to show the extent of his superlative greatness, mounted his charger and rode into an apothecary establishment at the corner of Baltimore and South streets, for the purpose, as he said, of giving his horse some soda water—the animal being in all probability, what his rider was not, opposed to strong drink. The hero, we learn, rode in at one door and out at the other. A large crowd were attracted to witness the strange procedings, or, in other words to see a fool on horseback.

We are requested to state, that on Saturday night last, between the hours of seven and ten o'clock, whilst in Caroline street, the Reel of the New Market Fire Company, which was accompanied by a few members only, was forcibly taken possession of by some rioters.

DRUNKENNESS. Frederick Elede, ——Thompson, and John Thompson, were arrested and taken to the watch-house, the two latter on Saturday, and the former on Sunday night, found drunk in the streets.

VAGRANT. John Carter, having no means of support, was yesterday taken to the Police office, and committed to the Alms House by Justice Barnard.

ASSAULT. Charles W. Hugg, charged with assaulting and beating his wife, was yesterday arrested by one of the Police, and committed to jail by Squire Gorsuch.

AN ODD CALCULATION. An English paper states that the owner of an ambulating menagerie lately calculated that, if all the ferocious animals which are now confined in Europe were let loose in an immense forest, it would contain 225 lions, 289 tigers, 302 leopards, 270 panthers, 67 elephants, 10 rhinoceroses, 2,700 wolves, 78 rattlesnakes, 216 boa constrictors, 1,040 hyenas, and 96 crocodiles.

☞The bail of Glentworth has been reduced from $6000, to $1000.

[COMMUNICATION.]

☞We yesterday morning made a call at SCHÆFFER'S, and found him, as usual, with a fresh budget of good news from fortune's wheel. He found, on the receipt of the Virginia drawing, that one of his old customers had drawn a prize of $7,000, and another a prize of $200. There is no mere puff in this statement, and those who are sceptical may satisfy themselves by calling at No. 156 and seeing the prizes. ☞Something quite important besides may also be learnt from his advertisement in another part of this paper. je15

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

☞Having observed in the Sun on Monday morning, 7th inst. the report of the proceedings of the City Court in the case of Wm. Robertson, keeper of the Seamen's Temperance Home on Fell's Point, and myself, I find the facts of the case are erroneously stated, and it is astonishing that the Judges on the Bench would permit a reckless Lawyer to become evidence against his client, and that for the worst of all purposes, to destroy his character—that he may not be believed on his oath. Now, to give the judges of the City Court, and the public, an opportunity of judging how I have been treated by this would be Lawyer, Wm. H. Watson, I will briefly state—that I became acquainted with him by boarding with his mother on Fell's Point in 1839 and '40. Having occasion for professional services, and naming it to my landlady, she recommended her son as a NOBLE LAWYER, and sent her servant to show me where he resided. He attended to my case before a magistrate, and told me that his charge was $10 but as I boarded with his mother he would only charge me $5—this was the 12th Dec. 1839. The next day I was put in jail at the suit of Benj. Buck & Son for a suit of sails for the brig Germ, which was contracted for by Philip T. Dawson, consignee, and with A. V. Spreckelson's bill, shipchandler, also contracted for by said Dawson, and John Glenn counsel in both cases. On the 14th, the said Watson came to the jail in company with a professional gentleman, Samuel J. Handy, esq. (who is certainly a gentleman,) and introduced him as very competent to take charge of such an intricate case, not feeling himself competent, being so young a member of the Bar, to undertake such a case by himself. I then told them my situation, that I was a poor man, had a wife and seven children in Bermuda, and very short of means, having expended nearly all I had on the brig. They then agreed to take my case by my paying them fifty dollars each, at the termination of the same. Watson particularly observed that he would stand or fall by me, as I had been vi laimously treated—he then said that they would want a little money to commence on. I then gave each of them sixteen dollars in specie and took their receipts, which I now have in my possession. On leaving me, Watson told me he would take me out on Monday, 10th, under a writ of habeas corpus. I heard no more from him until the 21st, which fully appears from his letter below. On the evening of the 23d he came to the jail with a clay and took me down to his mother's. On the 24th, Glenn put the same two libels on the brig and locked her up fore and aft, with what little property I had in her belonging to myself, and turned the mate ashore. A short time after, not knowing where to find Glenn, the Marshal had the kindness to go with me—(here I would take occasion to say he is all kindness, to one in distress.) In this interview with Glenn I received a good deal of abusive language, and he would not give me my duds. During the three months the vessel has been waiting trial myself and mate have been on our beam ends without a shot in the locker, so that I was compelled to abandon this "Noble Lawyer," who finally ruined me in the District Court on the day of trial, by admitting the accounts of Buck and Spreckleson, instead of defending me. When the Court was in session, said Watson requested me to go to my lodgings and bring the original letter of Instructions—by the time I got back, these two cases were disposed of, and were about to dispose of the third, when I stepped him. Poor Glenn was sick, and Gatchel acting for him. From what this said Watson did in the City Court on last Saturday, and in the United States Court on Tuesday and Wednesday last to injure me, it is evident that he was, and is acting as a tool for Glenn, in the whole transaction of the Germ—at the same time receiving my money to the amount of forty dollars. Not wishing to tire the patience of the public, I must come to a close. I will for this time leave this Watson to the judgment of the reader BENJAMIN GIBBS MITCHELL.

NOTE. The day after the cases were disposed of as above, I employed John Nelson, esq. a worthy member of the Bar, to join Mr Handy, who was very sick, to undo the wrong that Watson had done, but it was too late.

[No. 1. Watson's Letter to me.]

BALTIMORE, 21st December, 1839.

Dear Sir—Mr. Handy and myself appeared in Court this morning in your behalf, and the case has been ordered to be continued until Monday. There are three libels against the vessel, issued at the suits of Berges heimer, Cathcart & Heilman. Be firm and patient, and we must succeed—public sympathy is aroused in your favor, as it always is in such cases.

Respectfully yours, WM. H. WATSON.

[No. 2. Delivered by Watson himself.]

BALTIMORE, March 5, 1840.

Capt. Benj G. Mitchell—I have received unbottled information that your consignees are most tremendously frightened, and it becomes you now to remain very circumspect, do not say any thing to any body, for fear you may commit yourself, thus lessening your chance of recovering heavy damages. If the subject be broached by any person whatever (except your counsel) decline peremptorily speaking on the subject. These rules, laid down for your government, must be obeyed strictly. Yours, WM. H. WATSON.

NOTE. The above communication was received the day before the trial of the Brig commenced, and here I feel it a duty incumbent on me to remark, for the good of ship owners and especially aged ship masters, to be aware of consignees that would appear in Court as evidence against their captain, and to condemn his vessel, which they afterwards purchase for $1050, when the bills already in their possession for repairs, amount to $3500—the poor mechanic receiving about 30 cents in the dollar, when they should, according to the owner's instructions to their captain, have received their money, on presenting their bill, for which the owners would have received a credit, from 3 to 5 per cent. for cash. This tool of a Lawyer was not employed to defend the brig, but to bring an action of damages for false and malicious imprisonment and debt. I think John Glenn must have good law books, for I understand that he is going now to take advantage of the limitation act because his tool did not bring the action before the expiration of twelve months and a day, which to us as sharp as the one that the old captain keeps at hand in his cabin to cut away the mast in case hogets have upon his beam ends. Will thank the editor to furnish twenty five copies to distribute through out the British West Indies, Quebec, Halifax, New York, and New Orleans.

BENJ. G. MITCHELL,
24 years, off and on, master of a vessel in the British Merchant service.

N. B. I would also inform the public, that the noble Lawyer, Watson, followed me from the City Court, with his persecutions, on the Monday following, into the District Court, where I had a libel case pending against the schooner Manchester, for my wages, as seaman, as I had to ship in that capacity to enable the owner, John Edmondson, to clear the vessel, as, being a British subject, I could not appear as master until I got to Cape Henry—I then took charge of said schooner, shaped my course for Antigua, and made the land ahead, after encountering many heavy gales, which generally prevail in the month of September, with head winds, in those latitudes, we made the passage in fifteen days—and here I take the opportunity of informing the merchants, ship owners, [and especially the underwriters,] that there was not a man on board said vessel that knew how to take a declination out, or to work an observation. On making the Island of Antigua, which was in the night, blowing a strong gale the next morning, could not obtain a pilot, the owner's son, who was on the papers as master, told me not knowing at what moment a hurricane might come on, as it looked very much like it, to pilot the vessel in, as I had been sailing out of that Island for five years, I must be well acquainted, and if I succeeded in getting in safe, he would pay me the highest pilotage—his word is all I have received, and (by the oath of Speddin, the owners' sailmaker) I have lost my wages. What has induced this ROYAL LAWYER to hunt me down like a blood hound, to destroy my character, and beggar my wife and seven children, I am at a loss to know; however, if the affidavit of Mr. Kemp be true, that he drove his own father out of this city on political grounds, he certainly cannot pursue me on the same grounds, as I am a Scotchman, and not entitled to a vote in America—if it be vengeance, WHAT IS THE LORD'S, and he is [illegible] for my destruction, he [illegible] before the Honorable Judge

Heath, swears that I am a wealthy man, and at the same time wants me taken up as a vagrant for going to New York to libel a vessel without any just cause, receiving $500 from the owners of the Germ for delivery of register, and their receiving from the owner $100—when the fact is, that when the owner of the schooner, Samuel Dunnie, Esq., now in this city, came to New York, Captain John Collins and myself submitted the matter to arbitration—the award which I now hold, calls for $332 taking into consideration the suffering of the owner, through the misconduct of his Captain, I signed a release for him and the vessel forever, and sent it to him by Captain Golsten, my arbitrator, for which release the said owner paid him $118 50, which just about paid all my expenses, myself being very sick at the time, and could not attend to it. I sincerely hope and pray, that the Lord will bless the Honorable Judge Heath, and grant him what he promised unto King Solomon, that he may be a terror to evil doers, and a praise and honor to those who do well; not forgetting at the same time the three worthy gentlemen at the bar, viz: Mr. Preston and Mr. Legrand, my counsel in this case, (not yet paid,) and also my former counsel, Mr. Handy, in the case of the brig Germ—The fact is, that I wrote to the Judges of Baltimore City Court on the Monday after I was imprisoned, to allow me a new hearing, that the two sailors brought up by Robertson might be indicted for perjury, and to grant me a jury trial, through the State Attorney, (not the deputy,) and concluded by begging the favor of them, as it was not in my power to have the said letter published, that they would have it done for the benefit of the public at large. I now request their Honors to furnish the editors of the Sun with said letter, or return it to me. Being incarcerated in prison, and penniless, a gentleman, who had never seen me, having read the report of the case in the City Court, was induced to come up to the jail to visit me, and I sincerely believe that it was by the direction of the Almighty, who has never ceased being my protector from my childhood, especially through the trackless Ocean, since the year 1810 up to the present time. Although I have escaped many times from being taken by pirates, privateersmen, and robbers on land, that in my old days I should fall into the hands of land sharks. I must have died in a few days in the situation I was in at the jail, if this gentleman had not come to me, paid the Court charges and fees, amounting to about twenty two dollars, and had me released. I humbly pray that the Lord may bless him in his basket and store, that he may be happy here and hereafter. I would mention his name, but he has strictly forbidden my doing so. je15 1t* BENJ. G. MITCHELL.

NOTICE—To Southern Travellers.

☞ The Great Southern Mail, due at Weldon, N. C. at half past 6 o'clock, A.M. on the 7th of June, did not arrive there until 5 o'clock, P. M.

Passengers for the South, therefore, who went by way of Washington, Fredericksburgh, Richmond, and Petersburgh, had over at Weldon all night, "one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country." Passengers who have travelled the route via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road have not laid over at Weldon a SINGLE TIME since the Spring run commenced. je11-4t

SHERIFFALTY.

To the Voters of the City & County of Baltimore.

☞ Encouraged by offers of support from numerous friends, the undersigned is induced to present himself to the voters of Baltimore city and county as a candidate for the office of SHERIFF, at the ensuing election. Should he be so fortunate as to receive their preference, he can promise that the important and responsible duties incumbent on him, shall be discharged with strict fidelity and attention.

F. B. SCHÆFFER,
(SUCCESSOR TO BARKER & CO.)
156 BALTIMORE STREET.

IT IS NO USE! THEY CANT GET PAST US!! Last week we had the pleasure of selling a prize of $2,000, besides three of $1,000 each, two of $500, and many of $100. So it may be said the only safe place to risk your money is at this office. In fact prizes come so thick that it is scarcely a risk at all, and you have only to put forth the hand and get a handsome one.

TO DAY, Md. State Lottery, class 43. Capitals of 20,000, 5 000, &c. Tickets $3—shares in proportion.

On TUESDAY, 15th June, will be drawn the Alexandria Lottery. Capital $9,000. Tickets $3—shares in proportion.

WEDNESDAY, Maryland Consol. Lottery will be drawn in Baltimore. 1 Capital Prize of $10,000, &c. Tickets $3—shares in proportion.

THURSDAY, will be drawn Alexand. Lottery, class 24, 75 numbers, 13 ballots. Capitals $10,000, 10,000, 4,000, 2 669, &c. Tickets $3—shares in proportion.

On FRIDAY, 18th inst, the Maryland State Lottery will be drawn in Baltimore. Capitals 2 of $10,000, &c. Tickets $4]—shares in proportion.

On SATURDAY, 19th inst. Virginia State Lottery, class P. 75 Numbers—13 Ballots. Capitals $35,000, 10,000, 6,000 5,000, &c.

Tickets $10—shares in proportion.

☞ For Lucky Tickets, apply to

F. B. SCHÆFFER,
Successor to BARKER & Co.
156 Baltimore street, corner of St. Paul's-st.

Where more prizes have been sold and paid than at any other office within the United States.

☞ Orders for Tickets, in any Lotteries under the management of D. S. GREGORY & Co., thankfully received and promptly attended to—and the result of the drawing sent immediately after it is received. To insure a prize, you must address

BALTIMORE CLIPPER.

SPORTING A HANDERCHIEF.—Not many evenings since, an individual having a keen eye, a glib tongue and an independent countenance, stepped into a refreshing establishment, and with much sang froid said to the host:—

"Swa, I want some liqua—I am really, Swa, in a state of unaskowatable internal torment."

Mr. R. pleased with the idea of serving so fine a looking customer, set out his very best.

"You keep nothing, of course, Swa," said M. Dandirimbo, "but the real ginawine," at the same time applying the cork of a bottle to his nostrum.

"Nothing, Sir, nothing. Here you will find a variety all of my own importing."

"I discover, Swa, upon this, a beed very similan to that which I have been in the habit of using at the Astwa House. It pleases moy fancoy. Some sugwa, crackwas and sigwas, if you please Swa."

"Certainly—William, John, Patrick, wait upon this gentleman."

The etceteras were brought, and Monsieur delighted himself amid the curling smoke of his regalia, by sipping, with a fashionable grace, the exhilerating imported first proof stingo. After the cravings of his refined epicurean taste had been fully satisfied, he walked up to the bar with all the airs and independence of a Spanish Count, thus addressing the host:

Swa, I am no common gentleman—dukes and lawds have been my companions; but I, swa, for once, find that the needful of my pocket has, as has been remarked by Shakspeare, taken to itself wings. But, swa, (taking from his pocket a handkerchief,) heaw is an article worth twice the amount I have consumed of yours. Allow me, swa, to say I will pledge it with you, swa, until we have the extreme happiness of meeting again. The commotions of my appetite, swa, have forced me to this extreme. Too much sporting, swa, has caused me, upon this occasion, to sport that handkerchief. Believe me, I am a personage of honor, as you will find upon further acquaintance.

The host not wishing any further honorable civilities from Monsieur Dandirimbo, politely refused the acceptance of his kind offer, at the same time requesting him to use the handkerchief for the support of his nose, and not to sport it again in obedience to demands of his alcoholic appetite.

We learn that this fashionable sporter is yet in our city, and may be seen frequently moving in what the elite call "high life." A night or two ago, having no handkerchief, he offered his neck stock, after he had guzzled down a grog—contrary to his expectations, it was taken, and he was compelled to walk to his staying place without any.

BALTIMORE CITY COURT.

MONDAY, JUNE 14, 1841.

State vs. Mary C. Patterson. This trial was continued to-day. Several witnesses were examined on the part of the State this morning.—The testimony of these witnesses was to the same effect as that of the State's witnesses on Saturday, except that several of the witnesses had been in the house, once or more, but they said they had never seen any thing wrong in the house.

The officer who arrested the traverser, called on the part of the State, testified that he saw nothing improper in the house at the time, except that the traverser used a great deal of profane language in regard to the charge upon which he told her the warrant had been granted.

Upon the part of the traverser evidence was brought that she was a hard working woman, who kept an eating house, supplying the market with coffee, &c.—according to their evidence they had all repeatedly been in the house at different times and never saw any thing about it wrong, nor any person, except the traverser, her daughter and the servant, unless it was some of the market people who went there for their meals.

Miss Patterson, a young lady of about nineteen, was one of the witnesses called by the defence. Was the daughter of traverser, who kept a house for the sale of refreshments, such as coffee, cakes, ice cream, &c. A number of persons were in the habit of coming there to eat. She herself was generally there—always there at night.—Knew nothing of any thing improper in the conduct of her mother's house—no person had ever been permitted to visit there for improper purposes.

The officer who arrested the traverser was recalled by the Court, and asked as to her denial of the charge, when he stated that she said it was untrue—that she had a grown up daughter who was visited by respectable young men; and she supposed had given rise to the report.

It is not a little singular that, in the testimony adduced, sixteen witnesses were examined on one side, and sixteen on the other.

After eloquent addresses from the gentlemen on each side, the case was given to the jury; and, as it was considered after the regular hour of adjournment, his honor Judge Brice, directed them to seal their verdict, and bring it into court to-morrow morning.

P. S. We learn the Jury agreed upon their verdict between five and six o'clock.

UNITED STATES' DISTRICT COURT.

MONDAY, JUNE 14, 1841.

CASE OF THE MALEK ADHEL. The examination of more witnesses in this case, occupied the time of the Court until the hour of adjournment. The witnesses examined were Wm. R. Crocker, the second mate; Benjamin Dill, seaman; and John Gonsalvez, who, it seems, started as a passenger, but was set to work after the vessel sailed. Their evidence not varying in any material point from that of Myers, the first mate, published before, we do think it necessary to report it. Before any further witnesses were examined the Court adjourned.

BALTIMORE COUNTY COURT.

MONDAY, JUNE 14, 1841.

The case of Dr. Jamieson vs. the People's Line of Stages, for damages for an injury received by the upsetting of one of their stages, and which we alluded to some days since, after being argued before the Jury on Saturday and part of to-day, was closed, and the Jury rendered a verdict for the Defendants.

MRS. POWER. The foreign correspondent of the New York Sun, states that a report was current that Mrs. Power, wife of Tyrone Power, had died from over anxiety on account of her husband.

DAVIES' FAMILY PILLS.

[From Captain PARRISH, who commenced to use them when diseased in August, 1839.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 2, 1840.

☞ To DR. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I have had experience in the virtue of your Pills, sufficient to recommend them as a superior cathartic and excellent carminative, and also as a family medicine that every one should be in possession of. There is no doubt that if persons and families generally were acquainted with their efficacy, they might save many a dollar now paid for doctor's bills. Yours respectfully,

E. PARRISH.

HARPER'S FERRY, August 11, 1840.

DR. WM. DAVIES: Dear Sir—I am happy to inform you and the public, that I have been cured of that dreadful disease the Rheumatism, by taking your Family Pills. I had been laboring under that disease for more than a year, during which time I tried the skill of our best physicians without effect; at length I was induced to try your medicine—I found relief after taking half a box, I continued to take them until I had taken five boxes; my age is 71 years, and I consider that none but the old and rheumatic persons know how grateful I feel to the medicine that has restored me to health. Yours, respectfully, JOHN DYE.

We, the undersigned, are agents at Harper's Ferry for the sale of Dr. Davies' Family Pills, know our neighbour, Mr. Dye, sold him the pills of which he speaks so highly, and believe his statement to be substantially true. Respectfully,

W. & S. B ANDERSON.

MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS
AND VEGETABLE BITTERS.

THE perfectly safe, unerring and successful treatment of almost every species of disease by the use of MOFFAT'S LIFE MEDICINES, is no longer a matter of doubt, as a reference to the experience of many thousand patients will satisfactorily prove. During the present month alone, nearly one hundred cases have come to the knowledge of Mr Moffat, where the patient has, to all appearance, effected a permanent cure by the exclusive and judicious use of the Life Medicines—some eight or ten of these had been considered beyond all hope by their medical attendants.—Such happy results are a source of great pleasure to Mr. M. and inspire him with new confidence to recommend the use of his medicines to his fellow citizens.

The Life Medicines are a purely VEGETABLE preparation. They are mild and pleasant in their operation, and at the same time thorough—acting rapidly upon the secretions of the system—carrying off all acrimonious humors, and assimilating with and purifying the blood. For this reason, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, the Life Medicines will give relief in a shorter space of time than any other prescription; in Fever-and-ague, Inflammation, Fevers of every description Sick headache, heartburn, dizziness in the head, pains in the chest, flatulency, impaired appetite, in every disease arising from an impurity of the blood, or a disordered state of the stomach, the use of these medicines has always proved to be beyond doubt greatly superior to any other mode of treatment.

All that Mr. Moffat asks of his patients is to be particular in taking them strictly according to the directions. It is not by a newspaper notice, or by any thing that he himself may say in their favor, that he hopes to gain credit, it is alone by the results of a fair trial. Is the reader an invalid, and does he wish to know whether the life medicines will suit his own case? If so let him call or send to Mr. Moffat's agent in this place, and procure a copy of the Medical Manual, designed as a domestic guide to health, published gratuitously. He will here find enumerated very many extraordinary cases of cures and perhaps some exactly similar to his own. Moffat's medical office in New York, 375 Broadway, and for sale by the Agents. JAS. WEBB'S PATENT BURNERS,
AND CAMPHINE OIL.

FOR SALE AT No. 109 E. BALTIMORE STREET, between South and Calvert streets, where Burners of every description can be obtained. Those who are neglical as to its safety or economy, would, I trust be perfectly satisfied by examining the opinion of Professor LOCK, of Ohio, on "WEBB'S CAMPHINE," or by referring to the Journals of the Franklin and American Institutes, of Philadelphia and New York. All those desirous of obtaining a clean, brilliant, and economical light, will find it greatly to their advantage by calling on the subscriber. The public may be assured of one fact, that we require no meters to ascertain the amount of Camphine consumed, as they register correctly and in plain English.

☞ ASTRAL LAMPS ALTERED.

N. B. We have appointed JOSHUA ATKINSON Agent, No. 32 Market street, F. P., where all orders will meet with immediate attention.

P. AUGUSTUS BAILEY, Agent
For the Proprietors.

The following letter to the Agent, exhibits the superiority of the Camphine over Gas or Oil light, in brilliancy and cheapness:

New York, March 23, 1840.

DEAR SIR.—I received yours of the 19th instant, and proceed, as you request, to inform you that WEBB'S PATENT LAMP, in my opinion, is much superior to any Lamp now in use—the Camphine produces better light than Gas or Oil. I have burned Oil for five years, Gas for eleven, and Webb's Camphine for 20 months. I have a better light in my bar-room with five of Webb's burners than I had in the same room with eleven gas lights. In fact, I light my whole house at less expense with the Camphine than it cost me to light my bar-room alone with gas. I recommend it as being the cheapest and best light now in use.

Yours respectfully, THOMAS RILEY,
mh10-tf Fifth Ward Hotel.

BALTIMORE LOCK DISPENSARY,
No. 17 HARRISON ST.
"NO CURE NO PAY."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP. This long established and highly valuable medicine is now no novelty. It has been before the public for a long time, and by its merits alone, has it risen to a degree of estimation not enjoyed by any other medicine, for the certain cure of the Syphilitic disease. Prompt and effectual in action, yet harmless to the constitution, is its well established character, having never failed to give entire satisfaction in all the many thousand cases, where it has been used as directed.—These absolute and undeniable facts speak trumpet-tongued to the afflicted, and are the basis of a well founded hope of the philanthropist, that this unequalled medicine may circulate far and wide for the benefit of the human race.

This medicine gives the prodigal a chance to repent. Thousands have been saved and radically cured, after suffering under the hands of impostors, by this medicine, and who with grateful hearts are ready to attest to its value, and have allowed themselves to be referred to.

Persons residing at any distance, can have medicine sent to them, packed secure from observation.

It was out of pure motives of philanthropy, that this medicine was first made public; the price always to remain $1 per Bottle, to be within the reach of the most unfortunate.

☞ Letters addressed, (post paid) describing the case, mode of living, &c. will be promptly attended to. Direct No. 17 Harrison street.

UNRIVALLED SPEED!
SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.
GREAT SOUTHERN
UNITED STATES' MAIL LINE,
DAILY TO THE SOUTH.

☞ Bear in mind, that Passengers who go by the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, have 40 miles of Rail Road travelling through the DISMAL SWAMP at midnight, over one of the worst Rail Roads in America, and then are often compelled to lay over 17 hours at Weldon, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole Southern country.

TRAVELLERS FOR THE SOUTH, are informed that, by taking the Cars at Baltimore for Washington at 9 A. M., they proceed, without one moment's delay, via Washington, Fredericksburg, Richmond, Petersburg, Weldon, and Wilmington, N. C. to CHARLESTON, S. C., reaching Charleston the second morning after leaving Baltimore, and often one day in advance of any other Line—the Companies on the route being bound by the Postmaster General to make the following quick Schedule:

Leave Philadelphia	12 P.M.	reach Baltimore	8 A.M.
" Baltimore	9 A.M.	" Washington	11 A.M.
" Washington	11½ A.M.	" Fredk'sburg	6 P.M.
" Fred'ksburg	6½ P.M.	" Richmond	11 P.M.
" Richmond	11½ P.M.	" Petersburg	1 A.M.
" Petersburg	1½ A.M.	" Weldon	6½ A.M.
" Weldon	7 A.M.	" Charleston on the next morning.

☞ 24 hours in advance of any other Line.

Passengers by this Line not only reach Charleston ONE DAY SOONER than by the Bay boats but they avoid being compelled to remain all night at Weldon, on the Roanoke, one of the most unhealthy places in the whole southern country, where, by the Bay Line, they are often delayed twenty-four hours.

Passengers for Richmond and Petersburg will find this Line far the most expeditious, arriving at Richmond to lodge, (as will be seen from the above Schedule,) on the evening of the day on which they leave Baltimore, being from 16 to 18 hours in advance of those taking the Bay Steam Boats.

☞ This is much the nearest, quickest, and cheapest route to the interior of Virginia, North and South Carolina—at Petersburg, Va. commences the route by way of Raleigh, N. C.—145 miles of Rail Road from Petersburg to that city. Stage Lines branch off from Raleigh Rail Road to the old Piedmont Line, to Milton Danville, &c., and to Knoxville, (Tenn.)

☞ Passengers for the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road pay through to Petersburg, Va.

Fare to Richmond,	$10.00
Fare to Petersburg,	10 50
Fare to Weldon,	12.50

Via the Chesapeake Bay and Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road,

THE BALTIMORE STEAM-PACKET CO. announce to the public that in accordance with the New Mail Arrangement, the Boats composing their line, viz: ALABAMA, Captain Sutton; GEORGIA, Captain Coffey; and JEWESS, Captain Holmes, will, on and after WEDNESDAY, the 26th of May, (save the lower end of Spear's wharf daily, (Sunday's excepted,) at nine o'clock, A.M. for Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va.

Passengers for Charleston will find the cars of the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road Company, on the wharf, on their arrival at Portsmouth, ready to convey them to Weldon, N. C., where they will always arrive in time to take the cars for Wilmington, from which point to Charleston is by the Steamboat, which leaves Wilmington immediately after the Passengers are delivered from the cars.

Passengers for Richmond, Petersburg, or intermediate points on James River, by leaving Baltimore on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, will sleep on board the Bay Boat and be transferred to the James River Boat next morning.

The Steamboat Fox leaves the Black Water station on the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars from Portsmouth, for Edenton and Plymouth, N. C., and returns every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, delivering her passengers to the cars as they pass down from Weldon, enabling them to arrive in Baltimore next day, (Sundays excepted.)

RETURNING, one of the above Boats will leave Norfolk every night (Saturday being excepted) at 9 o'clock, and cross over to Portsmouth where she will wait the arrival of the Cars from Weldon, and depart for Baltimore as soon as the passengers and baggage are on board, arriving here in about 14 hours after departing from Portsmouth.

Should the Boat get an early start from Portsmouth, Passengers for Philadelphia and New York will have the opportunity of being placed on board the Philadelphia Steamboat in the Patapsco River, and will arrive in Philadelphia the same night by 11 o'clock, after having travelled 300 miles in 20 hours, without as much fatigue as would be incurred in walking from the Hotels to the wharf.

☞ No freight will be forwarded on the day it is left unless it is alongside, prior to 6 o'clock, A.M.

THE ABSENT STEAM SHIP.

She comes not yet!
Though anxious hearts,
And weeping eyes are watching for her.
Hope says her sails are bravely set;
Whilst every wave she lightly parts—
But Fear cries out, the seas are o'er her.
God of Heaven, protect her!
God of Heaven, direct her!

She comes not yet!
Though time and tide
Give by their fleeting, fearful token;
Though mothers' cheeks are pale and wet,
While sires in vain their sorrows hide,
And children's sleep is sadly broken.
God of Heaven, protect her!
God of Heaven, direct her!

She comes not yet!
Though Summer comes,
With laughing waves, and rainbows glowing—
Though swallows seek their sunny homes,
Though fishers fearless ply the net,
And rock weed is richly flowing.
God of Heaven, protect her!
God of Heaven, direct her!

She comes not yet!
But prayers have sprung
To Him, whose arm is in the thunder;
And she may now with isles have met,
Where charity is warm and young,
Whilst we cry out with fear and wonder,
God of Heaven, protect her!
God of Heaven, direct her!

ABBY.

THE AMBITIOUS MATRONS.

(From the Italian.)

BY W. J. BUCKMINSTER.

It is said that when Alboino reigned in Verona, the matrons wished to sit in the senate and decide upon the affairs of the kingdom with the senators and the king.

"Why," said they, "ought the men alone to be reputed worthy of this honor, though they are ignorant and cowardly, while we, though well informed and courageous, are entirely excluded? It must be said that we ladies have really been fools never to aspire to a participation in the government: but the time is now come in which our sex must attain to this honor which has never been granted to it in any generation. Indeed, Alboino shall not have a moment of peace until he grants us this privilege. We ought to torment him until he permits us to take our places on the senatorial seats."

With such declarations they raised quite a tumult, and running to the door of the royal palace clamored so much that Alboino indicated plainly he would have them all hung rather than be any more troubled by them. But the more angry they perceived Alboino became, the more loudly they clamored. At length, the king, not knowing what to do, sent for the queen to interpose. Having given a hearing to some of the matrons, and having learned their pretensions and their reasons; she was so transported by their eloquence that she truly thought great wrong had been done to her sex in refusing to admit the matrons to the privileges which they wished to obtain.

The queen dismissed them and ran to the apartment of her husband, who came to meet her. She no sooner saw him than she began to murmur and say, that truly the matrons had a thousand reasons—and they should have been permitted to sit in the senate and discuss the affairs of the kingdom with the men.

"What, then!—are we women considered as so many fools? Indeed, if we should sit in your councils of state, you would not make so many foolish decisions, because we should take so much pains before the edicts went forth, that they would never be proclaimed unless they were just and perfect—that is to say—approved by us."

"Oh, fools!" exclaimed Alboino at this discourse, taking huge strides and stamping his feet furiously. "I will have you all shut up in a tower, and there you will learn to govern from a jailor."

"What tower? What jailor?" cried the queen, turning and flying, frightened. But in flying she looked back from time to time, and repeatedly exclaimed: "Yes, we will sit in the senate, or we will turn the seas and the mountains upside down."

Alboino remained to give orders that all the matrons should be bound, when behold, Bertoldo entered. He was the jester of the court whom nature had endowed with great talent, and he had often given his lord most useful advice. On entering he began to laugh immoderately. The king having inquired why he laughed thus, he replied, "I am laughing at these ladies who, seeing thy simplicity, have grown so bold that they have rendered thee almost distracted. If I were in thy place I would not be deterred from making them all silent and ashamed."

"How would you do," demanded Alboino.

"If you will consent," replied Bertoldo, "to employ an artifice which I will tell thee, thou wilt be able in a few hours, without using violence or shedding blood, to liberate thyself from their importunate and foolish ambition."

The king begged to be informed what the artifice was, promising him a large reward, if by his means he were relieved from so great uneasiness. Bertoldo ran quickly to the market, bought a little bird and put it in a little box, which he consigned to the king, telling him the design. Alboino sent for the queen, deposited the box in her hands and commanded her to give it to the matrons, promising them on the part of the king, that if they would bring it back again the next day as they had received it, without opening it, the privileges which they demanded should be granted to them.

The queen took it and could not find a moment by herself to examine what was within. Soon all the matrons returned in a crowd to the door of the palace, clamoring. She was obliged to call two of them before she had any opportunity of satisfying her own curiosity. The queen confided the little box to them, enjoining upon them what the king had directed. The two matrons departed full of joy, saying, the directions should be implicitly obeyed; but they had not finished descending the steps, when they stopped a little, looking at each other and laughing foolishly, "What can it be?" said one; "I should like to know," said the other, "but I dare not open it."

Coming to their companions they showed the little box with great mystery, explaining the orders of the king. All the ladies crowded together, rose on tiptoe thrusting their heads forward; some wanted to touch the box, others wished to shake it a little. One cried, "What can it be?" another "Oh! what can it be?" "Let me touch it." "Oh! gently, there may be an egg it." "Perhaps it may be a mouse." "Do you hear any thing move?" "Oh! yes, this is truly worthy of a king—to order the ladies not to open a little box which is not worth two-pence." "Perhaps he believes we are so silly that after opening it, we should not know how to shut it again." "Do not you see this is a mockery?" "Come let us open it a little and let us see!" "Oh! no, no," said the one who held it in her hand; but at the same time she raised the cover a very little. "Ah! why are you afraid?" said another, "give it to me and you will see how it is done." "Hold fast! permit me to do it, I am the oldest, I can satisfy all your curiosity, give it to me, I will raise the cover very gently and if I see any thing in it that moves, I will shut it again quickly."

In the meantime she who held the box being more curious than the others, opened it entirely. The bird flew away, and the matrons remained like so many simpletons.

After a short silence, "Well" said one of the most daring, "Is there any thing to trouble us? Here was a little bird, and it is gone. It will not be very difficult to buy another and carry it to Alboino in the same box."

At these words all the matrons leaped for joy; but one, assuming a serious and melancholy countenance, exclaimed, "Alas! who saw what sort of a bird it was? If we carry another back to the king and he discovers our deception, then indeed, he will have reason to punish us. It is better, since we have been so foolish, to confess our error and implore his pardon." There being, however, different opinions, they resolved to defer the decision till the following day. When the time had arrived they met together, and after a long discussion, resolved upon the best plan, a thing truly rare in the ladies of that time.

They went to the palace and presenting themselves to the queen, recounted the sad event of the bird entreating her protection. She was much displeased to see that the hope of sitting in the senate was entirely lost, without reflecting that she herself, if there had been an opportunity, would have opened the box before them, she began to scold loudly and reproach them for their curiosity. The unhappy ladies wept, scratched their faces and tore their hair. At length the queen, being a kind hearted lady, recovered from her anger and attempted to console them. She herself went with them to Alboino to entreat his pardon.

The queen led the way with the empty box; the matrons followed, holding each other by the hand, with downcast and fearful eyes. When the king saw the little box empty he could scarcely refrain from laughing; but he restrained himself and broke forth into invectives. The queen gradually pacified him and succeeded at length in obtaining his pardon. The matrons were so much mortified that they dared speak no more of the senate or of government. The sagacity of Bertoldo was praised for more than two days; but after that no one ventured to speak of it.

HORRIBLE MYSTERY. From a private correspondence of the National Intelligencer, dated New Orleans, June 6th, 1841, we learn the following astounding facts:

"A dreadful act of either mutiny or piracy has been committed off the Balize, which ought to be known forthwith to the Department, and I therefore hasten to address you the present, though I have but a few minutes for the mail.

"The ship Charles cleared a few days since for Havre, and on Friday, the 4th instant, was fallen in with by one of our tow-boats, about forty miles from the Balize, without any body on board, and fresh traces of blood on her deck and cabin. She had twenty-three cabin passengers, (some of them ladies,) principally our French shopkeepers, going to make their annual purchases in France, and all of them, as usual, no doubt, with considerable sums of specie, and I presume, not less, together, than $100,000, probably much more. The long-boat was missing, but the jolly-boat was alongside, with a dog in it, and a box of sardines. These circumstances and the fact that all the sailors' clothes were missing, lead some to think it was mutiny and piracy by the crew.

"There is, as you may suppose, great excitement in the city. The ship has just come to the levee, and I have not time to ascertain further particulars. She is not injured, and was left even with her sails set. The revenue cutter at the Balize I presume has started in pursuit. And it is suggested here to arm two or three steamboats and obtain volunteers to proceed out and sweep the Gulf round the neighborhood.

"I write in haste. Very truly.

"WM. L. HODGE."

MINISTERIAL ANECDOTE. A few years since, an aged clergyman in the western part of this country, speaking of the solemnity attached to the ministerial office, said that during the whole term of forty or fifty years that he had officiated therein, his gravity had never been but once disturbed in the pulpit. On that occasion, he noticed a man directly in front of him leaning over the railing of the gallery with something in his hand, which he soon discovered to be a huge quid of tobacco just taken from his mouth. Directly below sat a man asleep, with his head back and his mouth wide open. The man in the gallery was intensely engaged in raising and lowering his hand taking an exact observation, till, at last, having got it right, he let fall the quid, and it went plump into the mouth of the sleeper below! The whole scene was so indescribably ludicrous, that for the first and last time in the pulpit, an involuntary smile forced itself upon the countenance of the preacher.—Conn. Courant.

CAPTURE OF A PIRATE. A letter dated Balize, June 1st, 1841, from W. R. G. Taylor, boarding officer of the Balize, to the editor of the N. O. Picayune, mentions the seizure of a piratical vessel and her entire crew by that efficient officer. On approaching the black schooner a man jumped overboard from her and swam toward the Balize, crying for Capt. T. to protect him. He was taken on board by the Captain. His name was Thompson, and had, according to his statement, been kidnapped in Mobile. The account is long and interesting. The captured vessel and prisoners were to be taken to New Orleans. The following curious document was found in a chest belonging to the piratical Captain.

The seizure was made on the 30th of May.

"ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT. We, the undersigned, being the children of nature, have lawfully and wholly as much right to enjoy here, in all her stores, as any other who is of woman born; but being deprived of all those blessings by the artful designs of those who possess in more than superabundance the stores that were intended for all, we are compelled to come forward, protest against all the world, and thus obtain our rights. From this day we declare war against the world, and with the same treatment as her children would use now were we in their possession, we will use them; as no quarters are offered us, none can be expected. We do, and have formed a constitution this day, for the better regulation of ourselves, knowing it to be for our mutual benefit, and as order and safety may be concerned, we are bound to ourselves and to one another. Our tie is cemented with blood, and nothing less than blood will propitiate and atone for any of us who act contrary to our laws. Death being the warrant knell of all those, who in time of action, shall through cowardice, negligence or disaffection yield, cause others to yield, or cry for quarters.

"Article 1st. It is the captain's absolute right of determination in all questions, concerning fighting, chasing or being chased, what course to pursue.

"Article 2d. The captain has the power of appointing officers for the different departments of the ship.

"Article 3d. It is the captain's duty at all times to preserve peace and order, and in case of mutiny, or the appearance of one, to take what course he should think best; the captain having the entire command during the voyage.

"Article 4th. It is the duty of all on board to obey the commands of the captain relating to the navigation of the vessel, her coming to action and the preservation of good order; such authority is necessary to the safety of the whole.

There is other important information contained in the letters and papers forwarded which we are not now at liberty to use. Further and more extraordinary developments will be made in the course of a day or two. Enough has been discovered, however, to show that a most infamous scheme has been nipped in the bud.

THE PRESENT AND PAST. The subjoined we find in the Providence Journal.

The Present. The President's Message was transmitted from Philadelphia to New York in 4 hours and 45 minutes, and from N. York to Boston in 15½ hours, making 20½ hours from Philadelphia, and had not the boat been detained by fog, it would probably have been accomplished in 17 or 18 hours.

The Past. In 1729 the mail run between New York and Philadelphia once a fortnight during winter and once a week during summer. The first stage between the two places commenced running in 1756, and occupied three days.

Benjamin Franklin, Postmaster General, gives notice in 1755, "that to aid trade, &c. the winter Northern mail from Philadelphia to New England which used to set out but once a fortnight, shall start once a week all the year round—whereby answers may be received to letters between Philadelphia and Boston in three weeks, which now requires six weeks."

The first stage between Boston and New York commenced on the 24th of June, 1772, as a "useful, new and expensive undertaking," to start on the 12th, and to arrive either to, or from either of the above places on the 25th, making thirteen days' travel, now accomplished in as many hours.

In 1770, a stage run between this place and Boston, leaving Providence on Monday morning, at seven o'clock, and arriving in Boston on Tuesday evening; leaving Boston on Friday morning, and arriving here the following evening.

INDIAN TROUBLES. Information from Upper Mississippi, received at St. Louis represents the Sioux and Chippowas to be at war and that several skirmishes have occurred, resulting in death on both sides.

The Liberty (Mo.) Star of the 28th ult. says: We are informed by a gentleman living in Andrew county, that several parties of Pawnees were supposed to be gathering with the design of attacking the Cawa and Iowas, divided by the Missouri river from the settlements. Should the Pawnees take vengeance, it is to be feared that the Cawa and their allies will be driven across the river and compelled to seek refuge in the settlements.

The editor of the Plaquemine Gazette, after computing the area of Louisiana at 30 millions of acres, thus allots the different soils: "Sugar 250,000 acres, rice 230,000, cotton 2,400,000, making in all not quite 3,000,000 of acres. A great portion of the remaining 27,000,000 is yet in a wild, uncultivated state. The soil in being adapted to the raising of sugar, cotton, or rice, and the climate not being suitable for the cultivation of small grain, it is considered of little value, except for its timber." The editor of the Courier thinks that the estimate for sugar, rice and cotton, not more than half large enough.

TEMPERANCE ANECDOTE. It is said that there are in London and the suburbs fifty total abstinence societies, with 20,000 members, of whom 3000 are reclaimed drunkards; in the country ninety societies, with 40,000 members, of whom 6000 are reclaimed drunkards; in Scotland 180,000 members; and in Ireland 5,500,000.

CONSUMPTION AND BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS CURED. Mr. Wm. Sheppard, residing in Beaver county, Pa. near the state line, relates as follows: "In the month of May last my wife was taken with Bleeding from the Lungs, coughing, night sweats, hectic fever, &c. She had taken a violent cold; having previously given symptoms of the approach of Consumption, I felt much alarmed and made immediate application to a physician. Under his treatment she became worse, instead of better, until the first of June, when I heard from an intelligent man of DR. SWAYNE'S SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY, and from his earnestness in recommending it I was induced to try one bottle. The effect exceeded my utmost expectations—she felt immediate relief. I then mounted my horse and rode to the office, No. 41 St. Clair street, Pittsburg, where it is kept for sale, and procured six bottles more, which I am happy to say has effected a perfect cure. Please publish this certificate, with my name in full, that others may know where to find the greatest blessing on earth.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The price of HATS again lowered. TOWSON is now selling in Eutaw street, one door north of Lexington street, his superior Hats at the following low prices—fine short Nap Mole Skin Hats at $2.50, fine Brush Hats $2.50; Fur Hats from $1.50 upwards. It may be asked how such Hats can be sold (if as represented) at such very low prices; I answer in the first place, I manufacture very extensively, and am able to purchase materials by the quantity much lower than if I bought by the small; and secondly, I sell for cash, and do not have to charge those who pay a high price, to make up for those who do not pay, as the natural result of the credit system. I think my Hats the best as now offered ever sold in this market for the price. Persons will please call and look at my hats before purchasing elsewhere. Remember TOWSON, one door from Lexington street.

CASH FOR NEGROES. The highest cash prices will at all times be given for Negroes of both sexes, that are slaves for life, and good titles. My office is in Pratt street, between Sharp and Howard streets, and opposite to the Repository—where I or my agent can be seen at all times. All persons, having Negroes to sell, would do well to see me before they dispose of them, as I am always buying and forwarding to the New Orleans market. I will also receive and keep Negroes at twenty-five cents each, per day, and forward them to any Southern port, at the request of the owner. My establishment is large, comfortable and airy, and all above ground; and kept in complete order, with a large yard for exercise; and is the strongest and most splendid building of the kind in the United States. And as the character of my house and yard is so completely established, for strength, comfort and cleanliness, and it being a place where I keep all my own, I will not be accountable, for the future, for any escapes of any kind from my establishment.

THE PATENT COFFEE CLEARER. THOSE who are fond of a "GOOD CUP OF COFFEE" are requested to try the above article, which will be found to be of unsurpassed utility in settling Coffee. It is also much cheaper and more handy than any thing else which is used for the same purpose—a small piece, thrown into the pot when boiling, will make it as transparent as amber—so as to settle at retail. ☞ We are requested to state that the Baltimore, Firemen's, and Merchants' Fire Insurance Companies close their offices at 5 o'clock, P. M.

THE FISCAL AGENT. In the establishment of a National Bank, or Fiscal Agent, we think it desirable to prevent, if possible, those fluctuations in the prices of its stock, which have proved so ruinous in other institutions. We would place the stock beyond the reach of brokers, and thus prevent the swindling operations which are continually going on in other stocks. This will not be effected by the Fiscal Agent recommended by the Secretary of the Treasury; for, as there will be individual stockholders, there will necessarily be variations in the price of stock; and, with all the guards and restrictions which may be interposed, we fear that they will prove ineffectual to prevent monopoly and speculation under the Secretary's scheme, should it go into operation. But we greatly doubt whether the stock would be taken with the limitation as to interest fixed by the Secretary. Nor can we see the justice of that limitation. If the U. States subscribe six millions, the States nine, and individuals fifteen; it would seem to be rather unfair that the excess of dividends beyond six per cent. should go exclusively into the Treasury of the General Government. The larger stockholders should certainly participate in the profits of the institution. This objection will hold against either of the Secretary's propositions.

We do not profess to be financiers, but we think that a Bank could be so organized as to remove constitutional scruples, and be productive of great benefit. Here is our projet.

Let the capital be, say fifty millions, of which the General Government shall subscribe for ten. Let the other forty millions be apportioned among those States which think proper to become subscribers, and for which they shall issue bonds bearing five per cent. interest. The profits of the institution shall be distributed as in other banks, being applied in the first instance to the payment of the interest on the State bonds—the principal of these bonds shall be paid by the fourth instalment due by the General Government to the States, and by the application of the land fund from year to year until the whole bonds shall have been liquidated. Every State, being a stockholder, shall have the privilege of a Branch. The regulations of the principal Bank and branches, mode of appointing directors, &c. we shall not consider, as they would be better attended to by the committee to whom the subject will be referred. We would make the stock not transferable, nor would we permit it to be pledged. This would give to it a permanent and unchangeable value, and afford a perpetual source of revenue to the States, as well as to the General Government. The public deposits would be thus productive of benefit to the States, instead of being made profitable to private capitalists.—Besides, such an institution with its State branches, would form an additional bond of union.

There would be another and very great advantage derived from the proposed scheme, viz: the State branches would be able to restrict private banking within legitimate limits, and restore a sound currency.

We doubt whether a single State would decline to become a stockholder on the conditions mentioned. It would be so obviously their interest to connect themselves with the institution that we are convinced they would wave all objections.

We think that it would be impossible to make a political engine of the institution, for or against the General Government, either of which would be dangerous to public liberty. We shall have a National Bank of some sort, and it is a matter of great interest to have it organized in the most unexceptionable manner. If others can suggest a better mode of organization, so as to afford greater security against brokers and speculators, and more security to the rights of the people, we hope that they will present their views in time for action.

POTOMAC PAVILLION, Piney Point. This cool, healthy and beautiful retreat is now open for the reception of visiters, as will be seen by reference to the advertisement in another column. The facility of reaching the Pavillion, its pleasant and refreshing location, and the assiduous attentions of the landlord to afford every gratification to the visiters, will no doubt render it a place of fashionable resort during the warm season. Those who have visited it in former seasons have expressed the highest satisfaction—and we are sure that visiters during the present summer will be alike pleased. We recommend to all those who design to retire from the heat of the city to give the Pavillion a trial, as we are confident that they will be delighted with the scenery and with their accommodations.

BUSINESS. The Pottsville Miners Journal says: The coal business is now fairly under way, and great activity is displayed on all sides. Boats are loading and departing rapidly, and as we expected, there is a fair demand for coal. We quote freights at $1.37. They are much too high, as we can see no reason to justify such an advance. The boatmen in the end would find it more to their interest to be contented with less profits.

TO CORRESPONDENTS. Numerous communications both prose and poetical have accumulated on our hands. We have no time at present for criticism. We shall merely notice each separate piece so that the writers may know their destiny.

Mimo is refused, simply because the rhyme is not good. To M. C. will do. The Impromptu has some virtues. The Observer is refused—we shall attend to the Organ ourselves. The notice by Carlos, touching the Patrick Henry Lyceum is very good, but it came to hand too late. We agree with the writer that the institution alluded to is one of much merit. To ———, is approved. We have several pieces from Emily which shall receive attention in due time. H. L. is on hand and shall be published. Contee has not been careful in counting fingers. S. is approved. The Sleeping Infant by J. W. L., M. D. shall have a place. To R. M. K. S. by L. is positively shocking and therefore rejected. Melnotte will gain admittance.

Tara's communication has not been overlooked. It shall have a place. Also, Cornelius. Do. W. G. L. The Greek Mother has been read and approved. We have looked over L's communication and think well of it. Atkinson has our approbation and thanks for his two last productions.

Lines written upon seeing Miss *, a young and beautiful Quakeress, at the Baltimore Lyceum, are devoid of poetry. G. would agree with us on seeing them in print. Thus have we briefly passed through our file of accumulated poetical and rhymical productions. "So much for Buckingham."

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. The house has been more than two weeks in session, and has not yet adopted rules for its government. The time is chiefly occupied with calling the yeas and nays, disputes upon points of order, and such like important matters. Really, gentlemen, if you do not make better progress in the public business, you will not get through your labors before the coming frost. Where are the business men of the house—the common-sense members—that they do not put their shoulders to the wheel, and try to get the machine in motion? A bill to pay their per diem is passed by members with the rapidity of a steam engine; and this seems to be the only measure upon which they agree not to differ. It is never out of order, and goes through its several readings without the slightest objection. But, when a bill to benefit the people, or to pay an honest debt, is proposed, a dozen members are on their legs at once, and the "thrice told tale" of each must be repeated, before there can be any action.

We hope that the number of representatives will not be increased under the new census, as it will add to present troubles, and prolong the first session of every congress until the second session commences. Indeed, we should be glad to see the number considerably reduced. It would save expense, and have the public business transacted in much less time.

PARTY SQUABBLES. The Republican of yesterday gives an amusing account of the proceedings of a meeting said to have been held at White Hall on Friday evening last. It may be a faithful sketch of what took place; or the editor may have indulged a little in fancy. It not unfrequently occurs, that those who unite in the chase, quarrel about the division of the carcase. We remember to have read the story of two young friends, who, having fired at the same animal, had nearly come to blows on the dispute whose ball had struck nearest the animal's heart—but it is too bad for brother politicians to fall out about such trifles. If the Whigs have killed the Van Buren party, they should not fight over the body; much less should they wrangle about the spoils.

IMPORTANT TO BANKERS AND BROKERS. An action of some importance was decided a day or two ago, before the Superior Court of New York. Mr. William Fitch, a broker, instituted a suit against Mr. Benjamin K. Hobart, a porter in the Phœnix Bank, under these circumstances: A trunk containing $500 in silver was deposited by a clerk of the plaintiff in the bank, with orders to the porter not to deliver it except to himself or order. That some days subsequent he called for the trunk, but it could not be found, nor has any thing been since heard of it. After a patient examination of the case, the jury, under the charge of the Court, rendered a verdict for the defendant.

A DISAPPOINTMENT. A. A. Adams, the actor, recently engaged at the Chatham Theatre, New York, went a few days since to see some of his friends off who were about departing in the Boston steamboat. He tarried a little too long on board and was borne off contrary to his wishes. He was to have appeared that night for the benfit of Mr. Thorn. The audience were somewhat out of humor at first, but on learning the facts became satisfied.

NAVAL. The U. S. Gazette of yesterday states that the Naval Board for the examination of Midshipmen of the date of 1835, convened at the Naval Asylum on the previous morning. The board consists of Commodores Biddle, Ballard, Conner and Read. Commodore Biddle acting as President, and Commodores Ballard, Conner and Read as the examiners. There are at present about twenty-five or thirty Midshipmen awaiting their examination.

RIOT AT DETROIT. The Buffalo Commercial of Thursday last says, "We have a painful rumor of popular violence and destruction of property at Detroit, a day or two since, growing out of indignation at certain transactions of the State Bank of Michigan. We hope the report is exaggerated, and in the absence of papers or other authentic information, refrain from any more specific statement."

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Clipper.]

WASHINGTON, June 14, 1841.

Last evening the House remained in session until after dark, amidst the greatest noise and confusion I ever heard.

After Mr. Wise had concluded his speech, which lasted nearly the whole day, a number of members claimed the floor. After some disputing, Mr. Botts was assigned the floor, and he moved the previous question, on the motion to reconsider the vote by which the rules of the last House, except the 21st, had been temporarily adopted, and by which the select committee on the rules had been appointed.

On the vote being taken, the motion to reconsider prevailed—yeas 106, nays 104—and thus the House was unorganized, and adjourned in the most glorious confusion.

This morning the Speaker stated for the information of members, that the vote on the above resolution having been reconsidered, they were precisely in the same spot they were before the resolution was adopted; that is, with no rules to govern them save the general parliamentary law.

Mr. Rayner, of N. C., having the floor, then commenced a long speech, setting forth the evils of abolition agitation, and the necessity of checking its further progress. He travelled over the same ground that Mr. Wise had travelled over in his six hours' speech of yesterday, and over which others have journeyed during the last two weeks. Hence a sketch of them would afford no great interest to your readers, unless they desired a literary emetic.

In the Senate, after the presentation of memorials, Mr. Thomas Allen, of the Madisonian, was elected printer by 26 votes.

The motion to refer that portion of the President's message relating to McLeod to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, was then taken up.—Mr. Buchanan gave his views on the subject at great length, and attacked the course taken by Mr. Webster in his letter to Mr. Fox.

The debate was still pending when this was closed.

The weather is now charming, and cool as the refreshing breezes, when they chase each other through the flowering wilderness.

To-morrow evening the Marine Band again favor the ladies with their company. It is a most delightful recreation.

A telegraph has been erected, by way of experiment, on the Senate Chamber, to communicate with others on the way to Baltimore. When finished we shall learn the news of the fall of beef in twenty minutes.

P. S. Mr. Rayner has concluded, and the House is now in a stormy debate on a point of order.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN.

LAWLESS CONDUCT. Thomas Kelly was arrested and taken before Justice Pennington yesterday, charged with having, in connection with others, made an assault with stones, &c., upon the carriage of Mr. Henry Schwartze. It appears that there is a gang of boys, some fourteen or fifteen in number, who infest the vicinity of the West Baltimore street road, annoying, in various ways, the neighborhood, as well as the passers by. The carriage of Mr. Henry Schwartze comes to town daily to bring in the elder Mr. Schwartze, the President of the Neptune Insurance Company, and then returns again to his place. It was on its return that the assault complained of was committed, and considerable injury done to the carriage. Kelly was one of the gang. Yesterday morning the carriage came in as usual, when Mr. H. Schwartze mounted his horse and followed at a little distance to see if another attempt would be made. He saw the boys preparing for that purpose, and, riding up, he secured Kelly. The rest escaped. The father of the offender was sent for, and, in consideration of his youth, being but twelve years of age, security being given for his future good behaviour, he was released.

A NUISANCE. That offset in the sidewalk fronting the Assembly Rooms on Fayette-st. is, in our opinion, a nuisance demanding attention. We allude to the wooden pavement immediately at the entrance. There are abrupt offsets on each side of the door to the depth of three or four inches, each answers as a complete stumbling block, not only for the blind, but to those who have good eyes. At a moderate calculation we have seen within the last two years not less than two hundred persons caused to tumble down upon the hard bricks, by being tripped when passing over the place alluded to, some of whom, from appearance, suffered much injury. A stranger is almost certain to blunder, especially if it is the least dark, not expecting to be so suddenly precipitated. We have been very frequently complained to by both ladies and gentlemen (those who have been sufferers) in relation to this place and asked why we did not direct attention to it, as it is not only a common but a very dangerous and insufferable nuisance. This hint it is hoped will be sufficient to induce those who have the control of matters to remedy the evil as speedily as possible.

ACCIDENT. As the watchmen of the Eastern District were conveying to the watch house, Thomas Clark, charged by a German female with having violated the rules of delicacy in his conduct towards her; and also the woman herself, charged by Clark with having struck him in the face with a brick, the latter runaway up Strawberry alley, and, coming in contact with an idle cart, with the body on edge and the standards in, a sharp pointed piece of iron ran into his shoulder. Medical aid was procured, and he was conveyed home, the accident not being considered very dangerous.

COMMITTED. Thomas Chartres, charged with disturbing the peace and resisting the police officer in the execution of his duty, was yesterday taken before Squire Barnard, and, in default of security, committed to jail.

A DISH OF RIPE STRAWBERRIES. Yesterday we were presented with a box full of the most smiling, tempting vegetables in the shape of ripe strawberries ever witnessed by the eye of mortal man. It is not altogether modest to be too selfish, but we really wished for some rich cream in order to know how the crimson tempters would look and taste when smothered in it. To put joking aside they were a choice article, imported directly from the farm of Mr. John Gibson, on the York Road, five miles from Baltimore. We are instructed to say that the season for them is nearly over, and that the price is fifty cents per quart.

MR. PERRY'S BENEFIT. It will be seen by the bills that this young and promising Baltimore tragedian proffers his benefit at the National Theatre, to-night. He will appear as Sir Edward Mortimer, in the Iron Chest, and likewise sustain the character of William Tell. Mr. Perry, has talents for the stage which may, if properly applied, cause him to swim on the top of the wave. His friends, no doubt, will take an active part in his behalf. The bill is a good one and if carried out will afford an agreeable evening's entertainment.

BOUND OVER. Jacob Greener and Dorothy Greener were each, upon the complaint of Gottlieb Summer, bound over to keep the peace, by Squire Snyder. The same Justice also held the said Gottlieb Summer to bail to keep the peace, upon complaint of the aforesaid Jacob Greener.

Samuel Ellenger, was also bound over by the same magistrate, upon the application of Ludwig Bass, to keep the peace.

John Smith and —— Smith, his wife, charged with a breach of the peace, were severally held to bail by Squire Gorsuch, and gave the requirrd security.

STONE THROWING. A boy was yesterday arrested by one of the city constables, while in the act of throwing stones in the street, and taken to a magistrate's office, where he received a severe reprimand, and was then, in consideration of it being a first offence, released. The practice of stone throwing in the streets is highly pernicious, and we are glad to see a disposition manifested to check it, by prompt punishment of the offender.

ARREST ON SUSPICION. Isaac Johnston, col'd. was yesterday taken before A. H. Pennington, Esq., on suspicion of having stolen a pocket book the property of Brice J. Worthington, containing rail road notes to a trifling amount, and two quarter tickets in a lottery. The evidence adduced not being sufficient to warrant the detention of the boy, he was released.

ASSAULT. Adrean Marshall, charged with assaulting and beating James W. Davis, on Sunday last, was yesterday arrested and taken before Justice Pennington, when, upon giving security for his appearance at the City Court on Saturday, he was released.

DRUNKENNESS AGAIN. Hugh Gallither, white, was found drunk, on Monday night, and taken to the Western District watch house.

MURDER AT ALBANY. A man named Hughes, at Albany, so much wounded his wife with a pistol on the 13th inst. that her life was entirely despaired of when the steamboat left. It seems that she had left him about two years since—that her husband from the time had determined to kill her, and for said purpose carried the pistol with which he committed the act for more than a year. Finally meeting her on board a steamboat, he without ceremony presented the deadly weapon, and shot her through the head. The monster has been fully committed for trial.

SUICIDE. A stranger who took a room on Saturday morning at Tammany, New York, was found dead the next day in his apartment, having committed suicide with a pistol. His name is not known positively but was given at the bar as Ralph Tucker. A gold watch and seals, with the initials A. G. T. were found on his person.

YELLOW FEVER ON THE HUDSON. The Poughkeepsie Eagle states that a decided case of genuine yellow fever occurred last week near Hughsonville, in the town of Fishkill, which proved fatal. The case was attended by all the concomitants of that dreadful disease, such as black vomit, &c. The deceased had spent the winter in New Orleans.

DULL TIMES FOR LAWYERS. It is a fact worthy of remark, says a N. Y. paper, that the Court of Common Pleas have disposed of all the cases on their calendar, and are now actually without business.

☞ J. S. Harrison, son of the late President, and Dr. J. Thornton, also a relative, both residing at North Bend, with a part of the committee to remove the remains of the departed hero, have arrived at Washington, D. C.

Brig. Gen. Armistead, U. S. A. has arrived in Washington city from Florida. He states that sickness prevails to an alarming extent among the troops now in that region.

The Catholic church in Monroe, Perry Co. O., was recently set on fire by incendiaries and burned to the ground.

Thomas H. Benton, was lately nominated to the Presidency by a number of his friends who met at convention in Philadelphia county.

FINE PROSPECT. Between forty and fifty steamboats were lying at the wharf of St. Louis, on the 5th inst.

☞ We, the undersigned, Plaintiffs in two actions brought before JOHN WALTER, esq., for the recovery each of fifty cents current money, demanded of them by John Brinker for bringing two letters from Germany by an individual named Lasse, one for Julius Knop and the other for Charles Suihkopf, and on which judgments were rendered on the evening of the 10th June, 1841, in favor of the plaintiffs, and on the 11th June a report was made of them in the Baltimore Clipper—and, as we learn the facts as stated in said newspaper are said not to be true, we do, under the solemnity of our oath, say that every particular, stated in said report, is strictly true. We have further learned, with regret, that the Magistrate, before whom the cases were tried, has been grossly abused and insulted by Lewis Muller and a person named Stahl, for the judgment he gave, and also for his conduct in those cases towards the defendants. We again say under our oaths, as above referred to, that the Magistrate was, during and pending the trial of these cases, patient, obliging and courteous towards all parties, interested or otherwise, in the actions aforesaid. Although said Muller offered the Magistrate a great insult in our presence for his expressing his dissent as to what Muller considered prima facia evidence; and we further say, that Mr. Stahl was summoned as an evidence in the matter on the grant of the defendants, by request of Muller, after he and Muller came to the office at the commencement of the trial, but was not sworn, nor was he offered to be sworn on the part of the defendants. BALTIMORE, June 14th, 1841.

State of Maryland, City of Baltimore, to wit:
On this 14th day of June, 1841, before me, the subscriber, a Justice of the Peace of the State of Maryland, in and for the City of Baltimore aforesaid, personally appeared, Julius Knop, Charles Suthkopf, John Charles Henry Storch, and Ernst Dreyer, and made oath on the Holy Evangely of Almighty God, that the matters and things stated in the within certificate are justly and strictly true, to the best of their recollection and belief. Sworn before,
D. H. McDONALD.

I DO HEREBY CERTIFY, That I was present on the 9th instant, during the trial of the two cases against John Brinker, as mentioned in the aforegoing, and read the statement as published in the Clipper of the 11th, and am well satisfied that a more correct statement to an that published could not be given. I am well satisfied that there was nothing garbled in it: that was not an execution issued until the 11th, about o'clock in the morning; though the plaintiffs demanded the issues on the evening of the 10th.

THE POTOMAC PAVILLION,

PINEY POINT.

THE SUBSCRIBER respectfully informs his friends and the Public that he has resumed the management of this popular Bathing Place, and that it is now open for the reception of company.

Piney Point, on which the Pavilion is situated, is a clear open cape, (though wooded in the rear on the north and east,) jutting into the Potomac near its mouth, where the river is eight or ten miles wide, in full view of the Chesapeak bay. The bathing is very fine, the water being nearly as salt as that of the ocean, and the air is pure. It possesses the advantage of the greatest abundance of the largest oysters, of soft and hard crabs, and all the varieties of excellent fish with which the waters of the Chesapeake abound.

There are a spacious Ball Room, Billiard Room, Bowling Alley, Quoit Yards, &c., the whole fronting the river to the south, within a hundred yards of the clean white beach. There are provided, also, two beautiful and commodious yachts, under the charge of an experienced and skilful seaman. There are bathing houses for those who prefer them to the open surf; also a substantial wharf for the steamboats to come up to, instead of landing and taking off passengers in the small boats, as heretofore; which, moreover, enables visiters to bring carriages and horses, if they choose.

☞Besides the salt water luxuries above named, every thing will be supplied for the table which the markets of the District, Baltimore, and Norfolk can afford, to which the steamboat lines furnish regular access; and the house will be amply provided with the best wines and other liquors.

The establishment has been well, thou plainly, furnished throughout, including new mattresses and bed furniture. The establishment is sufficiently large to accommodate 200 visiters.

The steamers which ply between the District and Baltimore and Norfolk furnish to the inhabitants of those cities regular opportunities for visiting and departing from the Pavilion.

The subscriber has procured the aid of efficient and attentive assistants for the Bar and other departments of the establishment.

It is determined that moderate charges shall constitute one of the advantages of the establishment; to this shall be added the most zealous efforts to please, and the subscriber trusts that these efforts, united to the experience acquired by him as keeper for several years of a public house, will enable him to give satisfaction to all who may favor him with a visit.

P. J. HEPBURN.

Price of board $1 25 per day, children under twelve years of age and servants half price.

N. B.—Families desirous of spending a considerable portion of the season will be taken on more moderate terms.

☞The Columbia steamer, Capt. Guyther, leaves Baltimore every Saturday evening at 4 o'clock, arriving at Piney Point early next morning.

MEDICAL AID.

THE SUCCESS that has attended the treatment of many thousand cases of Venereal Complaints for twenty five years past, induces the subscriber to inform the public that he may be seen daily, and consulted on all cases of the kind, recent and chronic, and on diseases of the urinary organs generally—such as Gonorrhœa, Gravel, Gleets, Strictures, &c. His treatment is speedy, safe, and certain—the medicines are so mild that the most delicate may take them without restriction in diet or occupation. Many persons, who have tried all the lauded quack nostrums of the day, are frequently calling on the subscriber to have the injuries they have sustained by their use relieved. In recent cases a thorough cure will be guaranteed for three dollars. Gonorrhœa Medicines will be furnished at one and two dollars a bottle, according to size, a large one generally cures in a few days. PILLS may be had at a dollar per box. The Vegetable Anti-mercurial CORDIAL is one dollar and fifty cents per bottle—this Medicine is the greatest purifier of the blood in the world. It renews and regenerates old and shattered constitutions, and, it may be said, is literally working wonders. Apply at

APPRENTICES LIBRARY.

The Directors of the Apprentices Library announce, that the LIBRARY will open for the issue of BOOKS, in the room over the Patapsco Engine House, North street, on FRIDAY EVENING 18th inst., at 8 o'clock, and will, until further notice, be open at the same hour every Friday Evening.

BOOKS will be loaned to apprentices and other youths free of charge, under regulations which will be made known at the Room. By the terms of the Constitution members of the association are also entitled to the use of the Library, at such charges as may from time to time be required by the Directors. This is at present fixed at 25cts per quarter. The subscription of membership in one dollar per year.

In announcing the opening of the Library, the directors avail themselves of the occasion to return their thanks to those citizens by whose liberality they have been enabled to progress thus far in the work they have undertaken. They acknowledge with gratitude the receipt of 100 dollars, through Wm. C. Shaw, esq. Their thanks are also particularly due to B. Seroy Edgar, esq. Rev. Mr. Burnap, Ous Spear, esq. Hon. J. P. Kennedy, J. D. Armstrong, esq. Dr. Dunbar, Rev. Mr. Adams, and Geo. W. Andrews, esq. for pecuniary assistance and valuable donations in Books

The present collection of Books, nearly 600 vol. although sufficient to justify the Directors in commencing operations, would doubtless soon be found insufficient for those for whose use they are intended. They trust however, that the claims of this interesting portion of the community will be liberally responded to. Persons desirous of presenting Books are requested to leave them with Otis Spear, Green street, Woods & Crane, Charles near Market street, at the Public School Asquith-st., O. T., with Peter Leary, Thames street, P. P., or at the Library room, on any Friday evening, or to leave their address at the room when the books will be sent for.

The friends of the institution are invited to call and examine the Library. R. CONNOLLY Sec'y.

☞According to a publication through public print, a portion of the Beef Butchers of Baltimore met at Bazaar Hall, for the purpose of taking into consideration the high price of cattle; the meeting was organized by calling John J. Pentz to the chair, and Samuel Kimberly to act as secretary. On motion, it was resolved, that a committee be appointed, to consist of five, when the chair announced the following persons to constitute said committee.

JOHN J. PENTZ,
MARCUS WOLFE,
LEON DYER,
JACOB BLANKARD,
HENRY KIMBERLY.

On motion, it was resolved, that this meeting stand adjourned till next WEDNESDAY EVENING, at 3 o'clock, inviting all others to attend, for the names of the Butchers present will be published, and the public will have an opportunity to judge who are opposed to the present monopoly

On motion, it was agreed, that these proceedings be published in the Clipper and Sun; the meeting then adjourned. JOHN J. PENTZ, Chairman.
