TO THE PUBLIC.

THE MARYLAND NEWS SHEET will be issued daily from the office formerly occupied by the Daily Exchange, and will be, as its name implies, simply a "News Sheet." It will furnish the latest intelligence as derived from the despatches of the Associated Press, by which it will be supplied in common with the New York journals; from its exchanges, and from such reliable private sources of information as it may be able to command. Expressing itself no opinions, it will devote its editorial columns to such extracts from other journals as may be deemed of interest to the public.

BALTIMORE.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1861.

WAR AND OTHER NEWS.

The intelligence in regard to the operations of naval expedition comes to us in such a questionable shape that but little, if any reliance can be placed in its accuracy. Beyond the naked fact that the flotilla had made Port Royal harbor and engaged the batteries of the Confederates, we absolutely know nothing. The various reports that have been sent over the wires, purporting to have reached Fortress Monroe from Hatteras and Norfolk respectively, and to have emanated from a deserter at the one place and a steersman at the other, are altogether unworthy of credence. That a deserter should have crossed Pamlico Sound in a small boat from the mainland which is some twenty miles distant from Hatteras Island, is of itself a marvellous story; but that this deserter should also be accurately informed on the remote borders of North Carolina, and where there is no telegraphic communication, concerning the movements of a flotilla whose nearest point of operations was three hundred and fifty miles further down the coast is still more difficult of belief. The revelation which is said to have been made by the steersman of the boat, alleged to come out from Norfolk to Craney Island under a flag of truce, is without doubt of a like character. There is as little reliance to be placed in the account which is said to have been furnished by five deserters, who, we are told, reached Newport News also on Sunday, and fully corroborated the statement previously received. That the troops may have succeeded in landing on Port Royal Island, and in taking the little village of Beaufort is quite possible; but no tidings of that fact has yet reached us from any source that is entitled to credit.

It is worthy of remark, moreover, that the New York papers of yesterday morning contained essentially the same particulars as were furnished to the Baltimore papers at midday yesterday. Now, as the boat from Fortress Monroe only reached her wharf here at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, how does it happen that the New York papers were enabled to obtain on the evening previous the intelligence which she is alleged to have brought to this city the morning following, and which could not have been derived from any other source?

At a late hour last evening we received a despatch, dated Cairo, Ill., November 11, based on information said to be derived from a Southern source, confirming the previous report of the capture of the village of Beaufort and the three forts at Port Royal, Holton Head and Bay Point. It is also reported that an immense fleet was seen off Ship Island, opposite Mississippi City.

The Cincinnati Commercial publishes from a late copy of the Louisville Courier an abstract of Gen. Beauregard's report on the battle of Manassa or Stone Bridge. Its chief interest lies in the fact that it is the first official account from Confederate sources which has been published concerning that victory. The original plan of battle appears to have been changed more than once. First on account of the condition of the roads, which prevented the Confederates from assuming the offensive and giving battle to the Federal troops at or near Centreville; and in the second instance from the failure of General Ewell to receive the special order to advance on the right and attack the Federal reserves at Centreville as soon as the main body of the latter became inextricably engaged on the left. The programme of Beauregard being thus frustrated, he was compelled to strengthen his left wing with his reserves until the arrival of reinforcements from Winchester decided the varying fortunes of the day by a dashing charge, which broke the Federal line and threw the troops into confusion, when the rout became complete. The most remarkable statement in the report is that which relates to the number of troops engaged in the battle. General Beauregard puts down the whole number of effective men under his command on the 18th of July at 17,000, and on the 21st at 27,000, which includes the reinforcements brought up from Winchester and Fredericksburg. The Confederate loss in killed is said to have been 393 and the wounded 1,200. The Federal loss is estimated at 4,500. We also give from the same source the Confederate account of the battle of Romney.—This statement of the affair is to the effect that the Confederates at Romney were far inferior in point of numbers to the force opposed to them; that the march of General Kelley was so rapid and unexpected as to preclude the possibility of calling up reinforcements from Winchester, and that consequently the struggle was a brief one and the rout complete.

Another Southern paragraph covertly alludes to the departure for Europe through a Northern port of a distinguished naval officer in the Confederate service, with the intention of taking command of a superior vessel of war, which has been purchased and fitted out by the Confederate Government, most probably in England. No name is given, but the allusion evidently points to Capt. Raphael Semmes, of the Sumter.

The New York Tribune states that it is now thought that the action of Judge Freese, the Provost of Alexandria, with regard to sundry civil suits for debt brought before and decided by that functionary, will be confirmed by the Government. The editor says that although instructed a few days since to suspend the exercise of his civil functions, it is believed that the order was issued under a mistaken idea of the facts of the case. The same paper states that Governor Hicks will at once call an extra session of the newly elected Maryland Legislature for the purpose of "undoing the treasonable legislation of the last session," and that the seats of Mr. Yellott, of Baltimore, and those under arrest, will be declared vacant, and new elections ordered.

The President has officially recognized Frederick Kuhne, as consul of the Grand Duchy of Saxe Weimer, for the States of New York, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

SENSATION NEWS.—The following paragraph, copied from a letter written by the special correspondent of the New York Tribune at Old Point Comfort, and dated Nov. 8, shows in what manner the sensation despatches concerning war news are made up:

The report sent forward by telegraph that the Confederates were withdrawn from Big Bethel, Yorktown, and Norfolk, which information is said to have been obtained from negroes lately arrived within our lines, has not the semblance of truth about it. The opposite is the fact. A deserter from the Confederate camp in the neighborhood of Yorktown and Bethel, gives the number of troops at both places, and so far from withdrawing any, Gen. Magruder is in continual expectation of an attack by Gen. Wool's forces. The same is true of Gen. Huger, at Norfolk. I had supposed that the telegraphing of negro statements in regard to important matters had ceased. The Baltimore American, a few days since, gave a column of sensation stuff, communicated by a person who pretended to have reached Old Point through the Confederate lines, via Bethel, from Richmond, where he dined with Beauregard, Davis, and the rest. The whole thing was a deliberate sell by a chap who successfully played on our Baltimore friends the part of "a reliable gentleman by the Old Point boat," who figures so conspicuously and frequently in the columns of the press of that city.

APPOINTED.—Charles Spencer, of Connecticut, has been promoted to a third-class clerkship, in the office of the Fourth Auditor of the Treasury. Robert Ricketts, of this city, has been appointed to a second-class clerkship in the same office, made vacant by the promotion of Mr. Spencer.—Washington Republican.

A FAITHFUL DOG.—In connection with the burial of the killed of Fremont's body guard, a very interesting incident is related. Some soldiers, sent out to reconnoitre, discovered three dead and wounded men of the body guard in the woods, and sitting beside one of them a little dog of the terrier species. It had stayed for hours beside the wounded soldier.

LATEST FROM THE SOUTH.

From the Louisville Courier, (now published at Bowling Green, Ky.,) we make up the following summary of news:

General Beauregard's Official Report of the Battle of Manassas.

The Richmond Dispatch gives the following synopsis of General Beauregard's official report of the battle of Manassas, fought on the 21st of July last:

We have been favored with a brief synopsis of portions of Gen. Beauregard's report of the battle of Manassas, which has been forwarded to the War Department, and which will doubtless be published in a short time. Gen. Beauregard opens with a statement of his position antecedent to the battle, and of the plan proposed by him to the government of the junction of the armies of the Shenandoah and Potomac, with a view to the relief of Maryland and the capture of the city of Washington, which plan was rejected by the President. Gen. B. states that he telegraphed the War Department on the 13th of July of the contemplated attack by Gen. McDowell, urgently asking for a junction of General Johnston's forces with his own, and continued to make urgent requests for the same until the 17th of July, when the President consented to order Gen. Johnston to his assistance. General Beauregard goes on to state that his plan of battle assigned to General Johnston an attack on the enemy on the left, at or near Centreville, while he himself would command in front; but the condition of the roads prevented this.

It was then decided to receive the attack of the enemy behind Bull Run. After the engagement at Blackburn's Ford, on the 18th, General Beauregard was convinced that General McDowell's principal demonstration would be made on our left wing, and he then formed the idea of throwing forward a sufficient force by converging roads to attack the enemy's reserves at Centreville, so soon as the main body of the latter became inextricably engaged on the left. Late in the day, finding that General Ewell, who was posted on the extreme right of our line, had not moved forward in accordance with the programme and the special order which had been sent to him, General B. despatched a courier to General Ewell to inquire the reason why the latter had failed to advance, and received a reply from General Ewell, stating that he had not received any such order. The enemy's attack having then become too strong, on the left, to warrant carrying out the original plan, as it would take three hours for General Ewell's brigade to reach Centreville, it became necessary to alter the plan, change front on the left, and bring up our reserves to that part of the field. This movement was superintended in person by General Johnston, General Beauregard remaining in person to direct the movements in front.

At the time when Gen. Kirby Smith and Gen. Early came up with their divisions and appeared on the right of the enemy, our forces on the left occupied the cord of the arc of a circle, of which the arc itself was occupied by the enemy—the extremes of their lines flanking ours. The appearance of Smith's and Early's brigades, and their charge on the enemy's right, broke the lines of the latter and threw them into confusion, when shortly afterwards the rout became complete.

Gen. Beauregard acknowledges the great generosity of General Johnston, in fully according to him (Gen. B.) the right to carry out the plans he had formed with relation to this campaign, in yielding the command of the field after examining and cordially approving the plan of battle, and in the effective co-operation which General Johnston so chivalrously extended to him on that eventful day.

He remarks that the retreat of our forces from Fairfax, immediately previous to the engagement of the 18th, is the first instance on record of volunteers retiring before an engagement and with the object of giving battle in another position.

The numbers under his command on the 18th July are set down at 17,000 effective men, and on 21st to 27,000, which includes 6,200 of Johnston's army, and 1,700 brought up by Gen. Holmes, from Fredericksburg.

The killed on our side in this ever-memorable battle are stated in the report to have been in number 393, and the wounded 1,200.

The enemy's killed, wounded and prisoners, are estimated by Gen. Beauregard at 4,500, which does not include the missing.

Death of R. H. Flournoy.

From the Memphis Appeal, November 26.

It became generally known in the city yesterday that young R. Hall Flournoy, a great favorite among those who knew him, on account of his intelligence and amiability, had fallen a victim to the chances of war. On Monday week, the 21st, in an engagement with the enemy, near Fredericktown, Madison county, Mo., his company, under the command of General Jeff. Thompson, was ordered to lie down. General Thompson passing by soon after, young Flournoy, with Captain Neville, stood up. Captain Neville's hand was on Flournoy's shoulder, when a bombshell from the enemy struck Flournoy in the breast, and carried away the under jaw of Capt. Neville. Both were instantly killed. J. G. Flournoy, of the firm of Flournoy & Crawford, father of the deceased, yesterday received a letter from General Jeff. Thompson, communicating the said circumstances of his son's death while in battle in the service of his country.

Details of the Engagement near Romney—Colonel M'Donald Supposed to be Taken Prisoner.

Correspondence of the Richmond Enquirer.

WINCHESTER, Va., Oct. 27.—An engagement took place yesterday (Saturday) between Col. August McDonald's Cavalry, about two hundred in number, and about two hundred militia, under Colonel Monroe, and a body of Yankee troops, variously estimated at from three thousand to five thousand. Our little force was obliged to retreat before superior numbers. The fight commenced three or four miles from Romney, whither our troops had gone to meet the enemy. After fighting some time it was found that they could not keep back the Hessians, and a retreat towards Romney followed, the enemy pursuing. Our army wagons blocked up the road, and the artillery could not pass, and it was consequently captured, with wagons, tents, baggage, &c.; and we regret to add that Colonel McDonald, it is believed, fell into the hands of the pursuers. When last seen, he was on horseback, with the enemy but a short distance in the rear. Some of his friends fear that he has been killed, as the Hessians, it has been stated, exhibited no disposition to take prisoners, but rode up to teamsters and killed them with their sabres. Major O. R. Funsten escaped. He was thrown from a horse, but was carried off in a carriage, and has reached this place, in a bruised condition. Some 20 or 30 of the cavalry have reached Winchester, from whom we obtain these particulars.

Although directly from the scene of the engagement, they bring reports, containing discrepancies as to details. I aim to give what I believe to be the most reliable. It is believed we had about 20 killed, and a number wounded. A large number of the enemy were killed, the artillery making roads through them.

The enemy are, no doubt, once more in Romney, and some of our citizens fear they may extend their visit to Winchester—forty-two miles being the distance—but I have no such fears.

A militia force left here this morning in the direction of Romney, to check them if they should have the temerity to advance in this direction.—The cars have gone to Charlestown to bring some troops from that place to go also towards Romney. Of course, our people regret that the enemy have, for once, "stolen a march" on our men, and given the invaders some cause to "crow."

Is it Semmes?

A Richmond correspondent of the Savannah News says a certain noted captain, well known in Savannah and Charleston, will soon turn up in England, and subsequently on the high seas, as a master of a large and powerful privateer, carrying the flag of the Confederate States. It is not necessary to state in what manner and by what means the Yankee blockade has been thus contemptuously violated. A gentleman of distinguished family, well known in Georgia, accompanied the captain referred to, and will, no doubt, worthily represent his State on the deck of a privateer.

The Confederate Account of the Wildcat Fight.

The editor of the Nashville Patriot gives some account of the repulse of Zollicoffer. He says of the march upon Wildcat:

"The splendid brass band of the 15th Mississippi regiment struck up, and the soldiers with high hopes and buoyant spirits kept merry time to its 'delightful measures.' That morning we received several new recruits—the Kentuckians flocking to our standard."

Capt. Henry Ewing, of Nashville, says of the fight at Wildcat:

We lost in killed, 11; wounded, 42; we took 20 prisoners, and killed a good many of the enemy, though we do not know the number.

The Nashville Patriot says of the retreat of Zollicoffer to Cumberland Gap:

We have seen and conversed with the Sheriff of Knox county, Mr. Crippen, who arrived here yesterday from Knoxville. He states that Colonel Churchwell, last Sunday night at 12 o'clock, despatched from Cumberland Gap, to Lieut. Luttrell, at Knoxville, to send all the ordnance and ammunition and forces there to the Gap, in the quickest possible time—authorizing him to press into service anything necessary to facilitate the transportation. Gen. Zollicoffer was expected at Cumberland Gap Monday or Tuesday.

This movement indicates that General Zollicoffer did not consider his force sufficiently large to hold Camp Buckner at Cumberland Ford, and falls back upon the Gap as a stronger position.

News from New Orleans.

The New Orleans Bee—date not given, but very late—has an article on the capture, by the Federal fleet, of the Joseph H. Toone, and several other vessels on the Gulf coast. The Bee says:

The Joseph Toone had a cargo of arms and munitions of war, valued at $40,000, that would have been worth four or five times that amount had she run safely into Barataria.

The Charleston Mercury, of Oct. 28th, has the following:

Late from the Coast.

The steamer General Clinch, Captain Dexter, arrived here yesterday from a Southern port. Captain D. was informed by a gentleman at Field's Point, Combahee, that an iron cannon, which had been rifled, and while being tested at Otter Island, on Saturday last, exploded and killed six men, supposed to be soldiers.

The Cotton Crop

The Greensboro' Beacon says that the cotton crop of that section, especially on the sandy lands, is rather better than was expected some weeks ago. The present impression is, that it will not vary much from that of last year.

"In Rapids parish," says the Alexandria Democrat, "the planters in the cotton-picking line have done a good week's work, while our sugar planters have been steaming and rolling away on half-matured cane, with a poor yield."

The Sugar Crop.

The Plaquemine Rice Planter says:—We understand that several sugar planters have commenced grinding. The quality of the new sugar is said to be fair. It would appear that the cane yields very little.

The Pointe Coupee Echo of the 19th says:—During the week a number of the sugar planters have commenced grinding, and are now making good sugar. The yield of the cane is about an average one.

The West Baton Rouge Planter of the 19th says: Sugar making progresses steadily, the yield usually being fair, and in some places excellent. All the sugar that we have seen is excellent.

The Plaquemine Rice Planter also says:—It has been raining again this week—Thursday night without cessation—thus putting back our planters in taking off their crops. The sugar made will be much less than anticipated.

Sickness in Camp.

The editor of the Clinton Patriot, who has just visited Camp Moore, Tennessee, says there are quite a number of cases of measles in the camp.

The yellow fever is also prevailing at East Baton Rouge.

The Coast Defence of Georgia.

The Attakapas Register says that four gunboats for the protection of the coast of St. Mary and adjacent parishes against the forays of the Federals, are nearly ready for service.

Virginia Races.

In the two-mile race on October 25, over the Fairfax course, near Richmond, both heats were won by Doswell's Ninette. Time, 3.51½, 3.48. The track was very heavy, and there was a large attendance.

UNAVAILING PRAYER.—If you ever made a prayer in your life, get down on your knees to-night and implore the Hand that is over us all that, ere another Sabbath has blessed the world, Charleston, the hot-bed of secession, may be laid desolate with fire and sword. The prayer of the righteous availeth much.—Lafayette (Ind.) Journal.

A correspondent of the Indianapolis Journal, who says he has been a constant attendant of prayer meetings praying for our troops and their success, complains that, while he and other good men pray, the soldiers themselves neutralize their pious efforts by their profanity and dissipation.—He charges that our troops get drunk, play cards, and actually go into battle with curses on their lips. He is in despair and wants to know what can or should be done. While he and other Christians are wrestling with God to draw from Him blessings on our armies, the Devil is wrestling with the soldiers themselves, and is getting into their good graces rapidly.—Cincinnati Commercial.

It is said one cause of the success of the Union ticket in Baltimore was General Dix's late speech.—Cincinnati Commercial.

NIAGARA FALLS FOR SALE.—It would seem from the following advertisement in a New York paper that Niagara Falls is to be put to some practical use, without injuring its recommendations to sight-seers:

"Niagara Falls Water Power for Sale—Capitalists and Manufacturers.—This immense water power is now ready for immediate occupation, together with one hundred acres of land, embracing one-quarter of the village, on which to locate mills and manufactories.

"The stipulations for price of power will be one-half that at Lowell, Mass., and the quantity almost unlimited.

"Should the demand warrant it, the American Falls can be readily stopped and its great volume be discharged through the bank below its present site, for mill purposes, under a head and fall of 200 feet.

A POOR RICH MAN.—There is said to be a man in Chicago, worth some $80,000 in real estate, who nevertheless has to labor for a livelihood, his real estate being wholly unproductive, and worse than that, unsaleable. This Chicago case is not the only one of the kind that might be mentioned.

BALTIMORE COAL COMPANY'S COAL. REDUCTION IN PRICE.
I am now receiving regularly my supplies of this celebrated COAL, and am enabled to offer it to consumers at very LOW PRICES. In view of the present unsettled state of affairs, and the possibility of shipments being cut off, I would recommend consumers of Coal to lay in their supplies at once.
As no Cumberland Coal is now coming to this market, I would recommend the use of my Coal as a substitute for steaming and other uses. I shall keep a large supply constantly on my wharf.
R. W. TYSON, Sole Agent, No. 38 Second street.
For the quality of the Baltimore Company's Coal for steaming purposes, I respectfully refer to the following parties:
Messrs. Dougherty, Woods & Co., Baltimore Steam Sugar Refinery; Samuel T. Pearce, Esq., Agent Cromwell's Line Steamers; A. L. Huggins, Esq., Boston Line Steamers. Messrs. H. Abbott & Son, Canton Rolling Mill.
" Murray & Hazlehurst, Vulcan Works;

LOUISIANA SMOKING TOBACCO.
Of this most excellent tobacco we have now received the last invoice that will ever reach here during the continuance of the war.
This tobacco, a production of Louisiana, we can pronounce, without hesitation the finest of all that have ever been tried in the Pipe.
It ever retains its richness of flavor, no matter how old, as it never gets dry, and is therefore equalled by no other, being superior even to the finest HAVANA CIGARS, as it consumes slowly in the pipe.
We may therefore safely recommend it as not alone the best, but the cheapest of all tobacco.
Try it; we warrant satisfaction.
