11. Location by dates and volume numbers On metal shelves in the vault of the Register of Wills' office.
(Buildings and rooms or vaults)

5. Indexing (cont'd).

12. ~~Subtitle divisions by dates and volume numbers~~ Inventories, there is a separate index in the front. The Inventories for 1766 has the index in the back. Bonds (1698-1783) has a separate index filed in the front of the book. The wills are indexed separately in two books (18" x 11" x ½") in typescript. There is a general index to all the records of the Orphans' Court which is kept in the front office and which is made up by the Campbell System.. Very few of the individual volumes have indexes in good condition due to frequent handling.

13. Other information There are quite a number of discrepancies in the indexes due to loss of sheets from the original volume indexes.

OFFICE MEMORANDUM

WORKS PROGRESS ADMINISTRATION
OF MARYLAND

DATE November 29, 1937

TO Mr. B. Louis Goodyear FROM Gilbert H. Eyre

BE BRIEF

Find enclosed reports on Marriage Licenses and J. P. Dockets which you requested me return to you for additional volumes found.

I find no reports for the County Surveyor.

The correction for Marriage License should go on report #1 - an addition of 1 volume.

The Co. Surveyor has no office here. He is not on the levy list. He collects his own fees and keeps all his records as private property.

OFFICE MEMORANDUM

OF MARYLAND

DATE February 12, 1937.

TO Mr. Gilbert H. Eyre

FROM Jesse. T. Mower

BE BRIEF

We have completed checking the Colonial Records for Prince George County at Upper Marlboro. These old records are in very poor condition and so fragil that some of them are crumbling when handled. All the records for the Colonial Period are now located in the vault of the Clerk of the Circuit Court, except the Register of Wills Recrods which are located in that office.

We had to check through about a thousand volumes in a room in the basement of the Court House. The coal dust was about an inch thick. Some of the records were water soaked account of water on the floor but not the colonial records.

The records for Prince George County are now in the third court house that has been in this county, one of which was burned. The records have also been moved several times during wars to Baltimore for protection.

We did not meet anyone else working any records.

We are now back in Montgomery County and will continue our work here until completed.

MEMORANDUM

October 9, 1937

TO: All State Directors of the Historical Records Survey

FROM: Luther H. Evans, National Director

SUBJECT: Circular Letter 28. Cross References.

The purpose of cross referencing is to show the relation of the various records to each other and to complete a series. One system of cross referencing, which originated in Texas, breaks down various miscellaneous material filed together and different types of records kept in the same book into independent units with proper descriptions for each unit. The purpose of this system is to free the inventories from the accidents of the county officials' recording methods. It enables one to trace a series through its various guises and to assemble in one entry all the information concerning an entire series, no matter how haphazardly or within how many other records it has been kept.

There is some danger of carrying this system of cross referencing to extremes. Some states have attempted to break down the different subjects of a single record and set up an artificial entry for each. This should not be done. It should clearly be kept in mind that the purpose of the artificial entry is to break down a volume or file which actually contains a number of distinct records, in order that each record may be listed under the proper office or subject heading, or correlated with other parts of the same series.

There are several different situations to take into consideration and different forms of entries. These will now be illustrated and described.

First, the master entry must show everything the set of volumes or files contains even though they are distinct records. In the master entry must be shown the title and entry number of the artificial entry, or the entry where the distinctly different record is described. If the dates of a record vary from those of the set in which it is contained, such dates must be shown. Here is an entry which contains a number of distinct records:

1. MINUTES OF COMMISSIONERS COURT, 1875--. 16 vols. (A-P). 1846 to December 28, 1875 lost in courthouse fire. Record of business transacted at commissioners' meetings, showing term of court, names of commissioners and presiding judge, name and nature of the order and subject matter of the different actions. Contains: Minutes Board of Equalization, entry 3; Oath of Board of Equalization, entry 4; Affidavit of Commissioners Court to Treasurer's Report, entry 10; Minutes of Accounts Allowed, 1875-92, entry 12; ~~Road Minutes, 1875-93, 1901--, entry 16~~; Report of Jury of View, Roads, entry 22; Election Minutes, 1875-1903, entry 23; Record of Election Returns, 1875-85, entry 24; Commissioners Court Docket 1875-92, 1901--, entry 28; Incorporation of Towns, entry 31; Articles of Incorporation, 1906--, entry 36. Arr. chron. Hdw. 1875-1917; typed 1918--. 640 pp. 17 3/4 x 11½ x 2. C.C., office.

It should be noted that in each case where the dates of a record are not the same as those of the parent record they are specified; also that the cross references to artificial entries within the body of this entry are arranged in numerical order, although an alphabetical order by the titles of these entries would be just as satisfactory. Moreover, in each of the entries referred to, an integral relationship with this parent record is shown, and vice versa, no reference from any other entry in the inventory is made to this entry for the prior, subsequent or intermediate dates of the record without including in entry 1 a statement that it contains the cited material for the specified dates with the number of the entry in which this material is incorporated. That is, the cross reference always works both ways.

The following represents the entire first artificial entry for a record contained in the Minutes:

3. MINUTES BOARD OF EQUALIZATION, 1875---. In Minutes of Commissioners Court, entry 1.
Record of proceedings of commissioners court sitting as a board of equalization for the adjustment of tax assessments, showing name of applicant, date of hearing, disposition of petition.

It should be noted that the dates and information as to where the record is contained are given in the title lines.

The following is an entry for the Road Minutes, mentioned in entry 1, which for a period were recorded separately. The cross reference to prior and subsequent records contained in another series is given in the title line; thus:

Amendg 1890-1900 1900+ Case Records

16. ROAD MINUTES, ~~1890-1900~~. 1 vol. 1875-95, 1901--- in Minutes ~~of Commissioners~~ Court, entry 1.
Minutes of appointment of road overseers, defining of road boundaries and changes in roads by commissioners court. Arr. chron. Indexed alph. by names and subjects. Mdw. 300 pp. 16 x 12 x 1½. C.C., office.

Beginning with information on arrangement, all information relates to the one volume of the separate record.

Where the series is never recorded separately but parts of it are contained in two or more other records, the artificial entry is made in some such manner as the following:

221. RECOGNIZANCE AND BAIL BONDS, 1877--. 1877-1905, 1935-- in files in Criminal Cases, entry 231; 1906-32 in Bonds, entry 175.

Bonds to insure appearance of indicted persons at trial showing name of defendant or witness, date of trial, testimony, and case number.

In each of the parent entries (231 and 175) referred to, the exact dates for which this type of bond is contained are specified.

Artificial entries need not follow directly the parent entry, but should be assigned to their proper office or subject group. They should not intervene between the parent entry and its index entry.

You may find that material was kept separately for a period and in another record also. For example mortgage releases may appear in Mortgage Records for the period 1887--, but from 1911-- be kept separately also. In that case the title line of the mortgage releases would read:

67. RELEASE OF MORTGAGE RECORD, 1911--. 5 vols. 1887-- also in Mortgage Records, entry 61.

The statement in the Mortgage Record would be "Contains also Mortgage Releases, 1887--, entry 67."

In most cases an entry for miscellaneous unbound material would be made in the same manner as an entry for volumes having varied contents. For example:

73. DEEDS, 1836---. 2600 papers in 24 file boxes.
Original deeds, conveyances, and transfers, filed for record and unclaimed by owners, including bills of sale, releases, contracts, leases, agreements, deeds of trust, and mortgages. Contains: Petitions for Pensions, 1886, entry 41; Designation of Homesteads, 1903---, entry 75; Field Notes County Roads, 1892---, entry 78; Field Notes Private Surveys, 1850-90, entry 79; Right of Way Deeds, 1870---, entry 88; Deeds of Assignment, 1846-81, 1896---, entry 109; Applications to Practice Law, 1849-92, entry 290. No arr. No index. Hdw. and typed papers, and hdw. and typed on pr. fms. 11 x 5 x 14. 4 file boxes, 1836-46, D.C. bsmt. va.; 4 file boxes, 1847-1911, C.C. bsmt. va.; 16 file boxes, 1912---, C.C. 1st fl. va.

Where the number of different records within the miscellaneous file is very large, however, the following treatment is suggested in order to facilitate reference:

332. OLD PAPERS, 1837-1930. 5 file boxes.
Miscellaneous original instruments. The papers have been grouped under subject classifications and listed with their exact year dates. Numbers are supplied for the purpose of reference to other documents of the same nature found elsewhere.

i. Abstracts of judgment, 1879, 1884, 1886-87, 1891. See entry 215.
ii. Administrator's bond for minor, 1883. See entry 628.
iii. Administrator's petition to commissioners court, 1889.
iv. Affidavits of facts, 1846, 1849, 1885, 1887, 1891, 1899. See entry 557.

This listing is continued through all the items and ends with the usual information regarding arrangement, indexing, size, and location.

Because of the numbered breakdown, the reader may be guided readily from the title lines of other entries to the relevant portion of entry 332, as illustrated by the following example:

565. CIVIL APPEAL BONDS, SUPERSEDEAS BONDS, 1915--. 1 file box.
1885-88 in Old Papers, entry 332, viii.

Cross referencing should also be used to show related records which are not actually parts of the same series. This is done by means of "see also" references under subject headings and cross references from entry to entry by means of a third paragraph. The third paragraph below the body of the entry should be indented five spaces for the first line. If the paragraph consumes more than one line, the second and succeeding lines should begin at the margin of the page. The third paragraph should be separated from the body of the entry by only one space.

15

The distinction between "related" cross referencing and the "Texas system" of cross references should be clearly understood. The latter is used only to complete a series, the former where there is merely a relationship in subject between two or more records. The third paragraph cross reference should briefly explain the relationship as "For other welfare records, see entry 14", or "For prior records see entry 17". In using "prior" and "subsequent" in third paragraph cross referencing it is to be assumed that the record to which the reader is referred is a distinct series, although it contains similar information and supplements the dates of the record from which reference is made.

16

Relationship between records can also be shown with "see also" references under subject headings. If a record placed under one subject heading is related in subject to another group rather than to any individual entry therein, a "see also" reference is made under the other subject heading or headings. In giving "see also" references under subject headings and sub-headings only the number of the entry need be given. In giving a "see also" reference from a sub-heading it should follow the sub-heading on the same line and be placed in parentheses. A "see also" reference from a subject heading should be placed under the subject heading.

The Irregularity of the Dates in the first three books is explained by the fact that they are written in from front and back and small booklets inserted in the others

The second book has been copied into the third book, with exception of one year May 1st 1817 to May 1st 1818.

The overlap of dates between the third & fourth book is explained by the Licenses issued from Dec. 11, 1879 being copied into the fourth book.

Prince Georges County Circuit Court: WPA Indexes

Included here are two indexes and some miscellaneous reports. The revised index is created from the preliminary index. Many of the WPA inventory reports/ records listed in the preliminary index were revised or "checked" then rewritten. In most cases the preliminary report and the revised report are filed together for the Circuit Court. Preliminary reports that have no revised copy are filed with the indexes as miscellaneous. In addition, some of the entries listed on the preliminary index also pertain to other agencies like the Board of Education, for example and can be found in there respective folders listed for that agency.

OK

We know that Chattel Records are kept separate, 1871--, yet you report "records prior to 1903 in Land Record." → should be, 1871

Your address to the Land Record does not list Chattel Records.

Please explain the meaning of the above quoted statement. – Chattel Records prior to 1903 are not in general Indexes

Prior to 1871 they are indexed in Land Records as mortgages

1788-1793

It is impossible to determine at this time whether court was held during any of these missing years, or if the records have been lost. I understand from the Clerk of the Court that the older records have been moved on several occasions; the present court house being the third. The records have been moved on one or two occasions to protect them from invading armies in time of war.

The Book listed year 1819 we hesitated about putting it with Dockets, but after starting to work the Court Procedures and Judgments we feel that since the main part of the book is a Docket with a small portion minutes in the back, and since we have minutes and Docket in the same book of that year in the Judgment Survey we are listing it here 18 X 12 X 3 is the size. nothing like the regular Docket.
