DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (If known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The house is 2½ stories with gabled dormers. There are two brick inside end chimneys. The exterior is covered by white shingle but was originally clapboard. The foundation is stone and there is a cellar. To the rear of the building is a wing (added) which has an inside chimney at the north end of it. The windows have plain trim with black shutters. Two small windows at the eastern end of the central block have 3/3 panes. The facade of the building has a one story porch which runs the entire length of the building. The chimneys also have corbeled caps.

There are numerous outbuildings that are painted barn red. Hand hewn timbers put together with mortise and peg construction is common. Two of these buildings have stone foundations. The barn appears to be very old perhaps older than the house. The walls of the barn are 8-12" thick. A windmill is also present. The roof was made of tin.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This home is quaintly situated on a small hill. It is typical of many farm houses in the area and could have been the home of a tenant farmer. Some of the outbuildings suggest an early 1800 date but more than likely the farm came into existence in the 1850's or 60's.
