Perhaps the most important and decidedly the most interesting dwelling in this small town the Black House is three storeys in height at the S. elevation, facade, with an A frame roof running E-W, and is with the exception of a rear addition, of brick construction.

The dwelling is six bays in length at the S. elevation 1st floor level. The two doors, & transomes make up the second and fifth bay from the SE corner with the main door at the 5th bay. On the 2nd level are six window and at the third level are six eyebrow windows. All 1st. + 2nd. level windows are two over two sash while those of the third level are one to one pane casements. There is a three quarter centerted porch of Victorian date with plain posts and jig saw brackets.

From the W end the ~~to~~ roof is in a catslide having a rear frame extension to the N. (rear) elevation. The 1st + 2nd level windows are 6/6 sash and the third level 2/2 sash.

At the ~~to~~ N. elevation the frame addition extends 3/4 the length from the NW corner the remaining 1/4 being a two storey frame porch.

All windows and door openings have jack arches. The exterior brickwork is laid in an English bond. There is a fuel cellar.
