DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Frame cottage, clapboard and board and batten, L shaped, 1½ stories. The low-pitched roof ridgeline runs east west, the house faces north, 4 bays x 1, with windows and doors altered at the back. Upstairs windows, small, are little above floor level, (See also HA 146) downstairs vary in size from hinged single sash to double-hung 6 lights on 6.

An interior fire place, apparently large, is now replaced by a poorly-built and installed central heating plant using the same central chimney.

The wing running south along the west wall is one story, a lean-to roof sloping down to the east from the wing ridge. This part is board and batten. One south window and one north window each have a strange little narrow portico shelter.
