DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (If known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Frame house, clapboard covered, 2½ stories, ~~three bays by two~~. L shaped, three bays by two with a wing running east along the south wall 2 bays by 1. The house faces west. The roof ridgeline runs north-south with eaves about 8" to 10" wide. A gable over the front center has a round-topped window 2 lights over two, windows on the second floor have 6 lights over 6, the first floor 2 over 2. Perhaps the gable was added at the time the downstairs windows were changed from the older form of 6 over 6 to 2 over 2, between the wide time-span of about 1890 and 1910. The porch has cut-wood decoration at the top of each post, and a fancy wood railing decorates the edge of the porch. Trees and shrubbery help protect this house from its severely transportation-oriented surroundings.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (Include Personages, Dates, Events, Etc.)

Here is another variation on the simple frame house found in Harford's country towns and farms, built in the late 19th century. It may be the fifth of a row of six houses on a dead-end street if it dates as far back as Martenet's Map of Harford County of 1878. Styles changed very slowly, almost imperceptibly, and this kind of house is still found in all the small towns and on many farms in Harford County, built anywhere from 1860 to about 1910.

It probably serviced on this heavily traveled highway with its back porch almost in the railroad right-of-way because of the abnormal demand for housing near the Proving Ground, and also in part because the highway moved too fast for conversion of residences into commercial use. though commerce is found on both sides and across the road
