HAD EARNED UMPIRE'S SCORN.

Official Not Afraid of Being Hit by Such a Gutter.

Melancholy had been doing her best to mark the umpire for her own but up to the eighth inning she had not been able to leave a dent. He was not of the few whom nature seems to have especially fitted for the responsibilities thrust upon them in this life. Quick of speech, haughty and overbearing and wholly indifferent to the right of others, he delivered his decision in a way which almost invariably commanded respect even though it failed to carry conviction. But the penalty which he paid for success in his career, was a heavy one. His disposition was irretrievably ruined. He had become habitually sarcastic. A player on whom three strikes had just been called was speaking up with all the enthusiasm of a man who realized that this is a free country and the voice of the people as it ascends from the bleaching board is on his side.

"T'ree strikes nottin'!" was the loud laconic comment which caused the umpire to look upon him with a majestic glare and exclaim:

"What's dat?"

"I said t'ree strikes nottin', an' dat's whut."

The altercation proceeded until, in a paroxysm of indignation the player lifted his bat as a weapon.

"Look out!" shouted one of the players. "He's goin' to hit ye."

But the umpire never flinched.

"Don't ye have no fear," he said as he stood in statuesque defiance "After whut he's been doin' at the bat I don't feel that I'm runnin' no risks whatever. He may strike at me, but there ain't any mortal chance of his touchin' anything."—New York Times.

The Deepest Ocean Point.

The greatest ocean depth ever discovered was sounded only a short time ago, during the recent cruise of the Albatross in the Pacific. Professor Agassiz was in charge of the expedition, and near the island of Guam. There the beam trawl, attached to a steel cable, was lowered to the depth of 26,878 feet, five miles, almost as high as Mount Everest. By means of thermometers attached to the trawl it was found that the water at this depth bore the temperature of only 35 degrees, just a little above freezing point.

...ALTIMORE DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The district conference of the Baltimore Annual Conference opened Wednesday at Bethel A.M.E. church. After devotional exercises the presiding officer, Rev. Dr. J. T. Jenifer, preached the opening sermon. The remainder of the session was devoted principally to routine matter. Papers read at the afternoon were devoted principally to the various phases of church work and an interesting discussion followed.

At the session on Thursday Rev. Dr. A. L. Gaines preached in the evening; his sermon dealt with phases of the past and present achievements of the A. M. E. church and pointed out some of the things necessary for its continued success. A number of interesting papers were read at the morning session on Thursday morning. Among those taking part in the discussions were: Bishop James A. Handy, Dr. A. L. Gaines and Mr. ... A. Goines. The principal feature of the closing session, was a sermon by Rev. D. G. Hill, D. D., on "The Missionary Outlook of the Baltimore Conference and Some of Its Needs."

Y. W. C. A.—The attendance at the regular Sunday afternoon meetings of the Colored Young Women's Christian Association, is almost as large now, as it was during the more favorable seasons. The very excellent programs, possibly have something to do with it. The program for last Sunday's afternoon meeting, was as follows: scripture reading by Miss Evalyn Mackellson; addresses by Mrs. H. E. Frey and Miss Charlotte Hunter, also by Mrs. L. E. Wells, superintendent of the Mercy Hospital, Nashville, Tenn. A quartett by the Smith sisters, was one of the features of the service.
