The American Farmer.

The first number of the American Farmer was issued on the 2d of April, 1819. It may now be considered as an established National Work, adapted to all the varieties of our climate, since many of the most eminent citizens in all the states contribute, by their patronage and their writings, to its circulation and its usefulness.

To make known all discoveries in the science, and all improvements in the practice of Agriculture and Domestic Economy—and to develope the means of Internal Improvements generally, constitute the chief objects to which the American Farmer is devoted It takes no concern or interest in any party politics, nor in the transient occurrences of the day.

The Farmer is published weekly, on a sheet the size of large newspaper, and folded so as to make eight pages—and to admit of being conveniently bound up and preserved in volumes.—Each volume will consist of 52 numbers, a title page and an index; and numerous Engravings to represent new implements, and approved systems of husbandry.

Each number gives a true and accurate statement of the then selling prices of country produce, live stock, and all the principal articles brought for sale in the Baltimore Market.

Terms of subscription $4 per vol but for the sum of Five Dollars, to be paid always in advance, the actual receipt of every number is guaranteed

As the Editor takes the risk and cost of the mail, should subscription money miscarry, he holds himself, nevertheless, bound to furnish the paper

All gentlemen who feel an interest in the circulation of a Journal devoted to these objects, and conducted on this plan are requested to transmit the name of subscribers—but ☞ in all cases the money must be remitted before the paper can be sent. It will, however, be returned, in any case, where the subscriber, on a view of the paper, not being satisfied, may think proper to return it to the Editor within 3 weeks.

An allowance of ten per cent. will be made, when claimed, on all monies received for and remitted to the Editor.

A few of the first volume, either in sheets or well bound, with a copious Index, remain on hand for sale.

Notes of the banks of North & South Carolina, Georgia and Virginia, generally, will be received at par. From subscribers residing in the states of Ohio and Kentucky, notes of the bank of Chilicothe will be received at par. and from such subscribers the notes of all other banks, which can be disposed of here at a discount of not more than ten per cent.

200 Dollars Reward.

Ran away from the subscriber, on the 20th ult. without the least cause, a negro, named CHARLES, 18 or 19 years of age, about 5 feet 5 or 6 inches high, a tolerable stout limbed fellow, and well made, but not active. He is a dark mulatto, with thick lips, rather flat nose, and round face, and when spoken to indicates cunning from his artful and insinuating manner. Charles had on when he absconded a grey close bodied coat with several holes in the sleeves, kersey pantaloons, coarse stockings, and an old fur hat much worn.—Charles will probably endeavour to get to the Eastern Shore of Maryland, where I purchased him, or to Charles county, where he has recently been I will give, if he is taken out of the state of Maryland, $200, if taken in Baltimore $100, if in the city of Washington or Annapolis $30, and if in Prince George's, $20, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. Charles has been accustomed to wait on me as a body servant, and is very artful.

PROPOSALS,

For publishing, in the City of Annapolis, A Periodical Work, to be entitled

THE RELIGIOUS AND LITERARY REPOSITORY.

To be edited by a society of Laymen members of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The leading views of the Editors are stated in the following note, by one of the persons, who will be actively employed in the selection of the matter for publication.

The Religious Magazines which have been heretofore published by members of the church, are, some of them, very useful as far as they go. My objection to them is, that they do not attempt to give us information, of which the laity, and indeed clergy, stand in much need, and which is with great difficulty to be obtained. In this country the laity have a considerable participation in the affairs of the church, and ought to possess an intimate knowledge of its history, constitution and laws. As church wardens, and trustees or vestrymen, as well as delegates to the convention, they have important and very solemn duties to perform, and with a knowledge of these duties, it ought to be the business of these magazines to furnish them. The subjects usually discussed in them have already been explained and enforced by pious and learned divines, with as much ability as could be expected from more modern writers, and a knowledge of what we are to believe and do in order to be saved," may be communicated to our readers as well by selections, as by any original matter which we might be able to offer to them. From the writings of approved divines, not always to be met with, even in possession of the clergy, we shall most frequently collect what it is deemed necessary to give on christian doctrine and duty. The magazine will aim to be useful, and desires no other reputation.

I am induced to hope that, besides furnishing the laity with useful information in regard to the duties which are imposed upon them, some hints, worthy of their attention, may occasionally be given to the clergy. While they act up to their ordination vows; endeavour to frame and fashion their lives according to the doctrine of Christ. to make themselves wholesome examples of the flock of Christ, and reverently obey their Bishops, following with a glad mind and well, their godly admonitions, they deserve, and there is in the laity of the church of Maryland generally, every disposition to honour and support them. If, however, at any time, any of them forget to pay due regard to their own solemn engagements, and instead of loving to dwell together in unity," a design should be manifested to introduce disorder and misrule into the church, to oppose its legitimate authority, or to assume powers which do not belong to them, then it is not only the right, but it becomes the imperative duty of the laity, to animadvert upon such conduct with unsparing severity.

Approving entirely of the forms prescribed, and of the doctrines agreed to by our Church, ☞ will be no part of the business of the Magazine to recommend or even to connive at, any new inventions, whether in tenets, or discipline or worship.

APPEAL

To the People of Maryland on the subject of the proceedings of the House of Delegates on the CONTESTED ELECTION OF CALVERT COUNTY.

Nothing but a deep-felt regard to the functions of duty, could induce the undersigned, Members of the House of Delegates, to make to you this present solemn appeal. Your voters placed them in that house. They took upon themselves the obligations of an oath to perform faithfully their duty as your representatives. By that oath they were bound to resist, by all constitutional and legal means, every invasion of the privileges of members returned to serve, every encroachment upon the rights as voters and freemen, every violation of the constitution. Their efforts in the house, being proved unavailing against the course of an overwhelming majority, impelled by party zeal, and regardless of justice and of law, they have, upon the most mature and serious reflection, felt that they would be justly chargeable with an imperfect fulfilment of their obligations to you, to their country and themselves, if they did not invoke your serious attention to the proceedings of the majority in the house of delegates, in relation to the late contested election of Calvert county.

Before they proceed to consider the facts presented in the votes and proceedings of the house of delegates, they beg leave (that you may better judge of the nature and tendency of those proceedings,) to call to your mind, that the following rights and privileges are guaranteed by the constitution and bill of rights to the freemen of Maryland.

1. By the bill of rights it is declared, that the right in the people to participate in the legislature is the best security of liberty and the foundation of all free government.

This benefit of this constitutional right is defeated, if the exercise of it is not maintained in its purity, by preserving inviolate the privileges of voters, and their delegates, duly chosen to express their will and protect their interests.

2. Every citizen of the age of twenty-one years, being twelve months a resident of this state, and six months a resident of the county, has a right to vote by ballot, for the person on whom he thinks fit to confer the high and honourable station of representative of the people.

This is the most valuable privilege of freemen; by it, all others are secured. By the constitution as established in 1776, the people were authorised to vote for their delegates, viva voce; but after the experience of twenty five years, they demanded and obtained the right of voting by ballot, which was considered a better security for their independence, as it enabled them to keep secret the votes of the persons for whom they voted.

3. By the bill of rights every freeman is entitled to the benefit of the common law. The most valuable & important part of the common law is the system of rules in relation to evidence; upon an adherence to them depends the due administration of the laws, and the security of life, liberty, reputation and property.

4. According to the bill of rights, no freeman shall be deprived of his liberties or privileges but by the judgment of his peers, or the law of the land.

This constitutional protection is destroyed, if the house of delegates at pleasure, deprive a citizen of the right of being represented in that body, by declaring him, without a hearing, unqualified to vote, and strip him of the safeguard of his independence, intended to be conferred by the privilege of the ballot; and if by illegal testimony they can deprive delegates, duly returned members by the constituted authorities, of their seats, and substitute in their stead their own political favourites, as representatives of a county, without the aid of an election by the people.

5. By the bill of rights, no man shall be compelled to give evidence against himself.

Even slaves are within the protection of this article of the constitution.

6. By the bill of rights even a slave, when charged with an offence against the laws of the state is entitled to counsel, to be confronted with the witnesses against him, to have process for his witnesses and to examine the witnesses for and against him on oath.

Whether these rights, guaranteed by the constitution and bill of rights of Maryland, have been violated, the undersigned delegates leave you to judge from the evidence now offered to you, to which they earnestly request your serious and undivided attention.

The judges of the late election, Calvert made return, that Lemuel Weems, Thomas Blake, Joseph Reynolds, (three federalists) had a majority of legal votes, that Daniel Kent and John Duke, (two democrats,) had each an equal number of votes, of course neither of them were returned. Messrs. Blake and Reynolds each the same number of votes, a majority of one only over Beckett and Kent.

In the beginning of the session Messrs. Beckett and Kent, claimed to the seat of government seated to the house of delegates, by memorial, by which they displaced the seats of Messrs. Blake and Reynolds, on the ground, that they received illegal votes. The memorial of delegates referred their claims to the committee of elections, the committee of elections, in considering the memorial, made report which concluded by recommending to the house the adoption of the following resolution:

"RESOLVED, That the house have the power to COERCE a witness to give evidence, when it was not a qualified and legal voter to give evidence of the place where whom he voted at said election.

The federal members contended, that this resolution violated the right of voting by ballot which was intended by the constitution to maintain the independence of the exercise of the privilege of voting by protecting every voter from any inquisition with respect to the names of the persons for whom they voted. They cited in support of their construction of the constitution a decision of the legislature of Pennsylvania, where the citizens have the same right of voting by ballot as in Maryland, in which it was decided that he could not be questioned as to the persons for whom he had voted.

They contended also, that if persons, alleged to be illegal voters, really were so, they could be compelled to tell for whom they voted, because their answers would be evidence against them in a prosecution for violating the law; and no man shall be compelled to give evidence against himself. They contended further, that if the house had the right to compel an illegal voter to give the names of the persons for whom he voted, that house was the proper and competent tribunal to determine a man's right to vote, if it were, that the citizen's privileges were thus to be tried, and whose rights were to be determined, ought to be made a part of the inquiry, and have all the protection of the constitution, which are secured to every citizen by the constitution.

Neither authorities nor precedents, however, were cited in support of the above resolution, the majority decided that the witnesses to tell for whom they voted.

In the case of contested election between Messrs. Beckett and Kent, the majority of the house of delegates, in
