nearly on a level with the balloon, and w small distance. It was fleecy, white as or like a vast volume of curled and wre steam.

At 4.45 min. temp. 80 dg. Barom. 23.1.
At 4.53 do. do 73 dg. do. 22.
At 5. 5 do. do. 70 dg. do. 21.2.

This was the highest elevation reached this trip, being considerably upwards of miles from the earth. It was barely possi at this height, to distinguish the largest bo from other objects; the houses of ordin size could not be seen at all; and the lit streams seemed to be slender silver thread winding along the dark green earth. T woods were dark green, and the lighter gre of the fields had a tinge of yellow.

At 5 hours 15 minutes, temperature 74 d grees, barometer 22.7. I was lowered far by letting off gas, for I could not see head on account of the clouds floating befo me; and which, being wafted by the sa wind, could not be overtaken.

I could now see beneath these clouds, what I supposed to be a moderate distance, long, narrow stripe of ocean, and thought prudent to come down more rapidly becau the accelerated velocity of the motion led to perceive an increase of wind, and gave reason to dread being carried off to sea.

At 5.25, thermometer 77 dg. barom.
To descend rapidly became abs sary, for I was near to the only be seen ahead of me, all beyond was forest, apparently extending to the ocean. the balloon came near to the earth, the rand ly flitting objects, and the roaring noise of wind, now heard for the first time, assured of a difficult landing. I threw out an anch into a field of long marsh grass, but altho it caught, the fastening was torn away by balloon when it paused for a moment, and le the pressure of the wind. The swinging a chor, arrested by a dead tree, was drawn to its limbs, and catching hold there, tore a the whole top of the tree, and came with it the ground, and then tore away the broad si of the car, leaving me no support on that sid As soon as I lost the anchor, the balloon dra ged me along, sometimes touching the ear sometimes bounding 40 or 50 feet into the air Saplings, dead trees and stumps intervened and were either overthrown or threw me again into the air. Two reasons kept me the balloon—I was unwilling to lose it, a the rapidity of the motion made escape dan gerous. At length, as I came near to a cedar swamp, I was compelled to choose between drag through the woods, and the hazard of leap. I chose the latter alternative, and the distance of eight feet, jumped to the earth

The balloon relieved from my weight, ro again rapidly into the air, and sailed off the ocean, leaving me in a marsh, at the di tance of five miles, as I afterwards learned from the nearest habitation. I alighted half-past five o'clock, and luckily taking proper direction, reached the house of M David D. Reamer, the manager of Hone Furnace, Burlington county, who kindly a sisted me in cleansing my wounds and bro me to Pemberton, where I spent the night.

The only things which deduct from the i mense enjoyment of this aerial voyage, are th disappointment of losing my old companio the balloon, and my fine barometer and com pass. The two latter were tossed out durin the drag, and the other has gone out to sea probably beyond the chances of recovery. am happy to add that my injuries are not of very formidable character, although from th nature of the ground, I had reason to appre hend a much more serious issue.

I do not feel discouraged however, by these mishaps; but I hope so soon as I can obtain a new balloon, to make another ascent from Philadelphia, and add new contributions to the sciences of aerostation and meteorology.

I am very respectfully, yours, &c.
JAMES MILLS.

FURTHER FROM LIBERIA.

In our morning edition, we announced th death of Rev. Matthew Laird and wife, Mi sionaries of the Western Foreign Missionary Society, who arrived in the Colony on the 31st December. We have now the painfu duty to add the death of Rev. John Cloud Missionary of the same society, and Rev. S.
O. Wright, of the Methodist Missionary So ciety. The wife of the last named gentle man died in February last. Her death has been before announced. Among the em grants by the Jupiter, which arrived at the Colony on the 31st December, there had bee no deaths except a woman of seventy fi years, and two children under 12. Mr.
Mrs. Spaulding, Methodist Missionaries, to leave Liberia on the 12th May in the Argus for Boston. Their object is, to pr cure a reinforcement and recruit their hea They are soon to return to the Colony, as also Mr. Temple, a coloured Assistant Mi sionary, who has arrived in the schr. Edgar at this port. Mr. Jones, who has also arrived in the Edgar, is about to proceed to Kentucky for his family. The general health of the Colony is good. We have had the pleasure of an interview with Messrs. Temple and Jones, and are happy to state that they are in excellent spirits in regard to the Colony, and I think it the best place for the coloured man which the world affords. Mr. Temple has not fully recovered from the effects of the fe ver.

Annexed is a letter from Rev. Mr. Finley, Colonial Agent, to R. S. Finley, Esq.

MONROVIA, May 10, 1834.—Mr. Temple, the last of the band of Presbyterian Mission aries who landed in Africa the 1st of January last to try its perils, will hand you this note, and communicate more at length the tidings which my pen is loth to speak.

Mr. T. will, I trust, do good while at home.
He is desirous of ordination and expects to return very soon. The vessel sails in about two hours, and time is short. Our losses do not dishearten me. I trust the church will not be discouraged. God is about to try us, but I hope some good will be found, and faith which shall not tremble though a thousand fall.

From Liberia papers received at this Office.

MONROVIA, Jan. 29.—Native Coffee Trees.
Professor Wright in the Colonization debate, between him and Mr. Finley, was positive that coffee trees were not indigenous, to this part of the coast, but came from an African island. If the professor would take the trouble to pay us a visit, we would show him a dozen varieties of the coffee plant, in our immediate vicinity, growing spontaneously in our woods.

GRAND BASSA SETTLEMENT.—Recent accounts from Edina, represent this settlement in a most flourishing condition; and so industrious had the settlers been, that 15 shingled houses had already been erected.—The recent purchase of the Devil's bush, had given great satisfaction to all parties, and but little time would elapse, when that spot, so long consecrated to the unhallowed rites of Moloch, would be covered with christian inhabitants.

MONROVIA, Feb 25.—Houses for New Emigrants—Two extensive buildings (one of which is nearly completed) are now erecting in a pleasant part of the town for the reception of new comers.

Erection of a Light House on Measurado.

It is proposed to erect a Light on Cape Measurado, for the benefit of our infant commerce. The want has long been felt, and several ship masters have wondered that a small tax had not been levied before now, to defray the expenses of the same.

ERECTION OF A SAWMILL.—Measures are in train for the erection of a Sawmill on the creek nearly opposite Millburg, on the St.
Paul's River. It is a pity we have not one of our steam mills in operation for sawing lumber, as the natives have lately adopted the commendable plan of rafting down logs suitable for sawing, to our water's edge, and now they have adopted the plan themselves, there will be no difficulty in keeping them so employed, if suitable encouragement is held out.

Price of Rice and Coffee in the Settlement.
From a perusal of a late number of the Genius of Universal Emancipation, which has been politely furnished us by the editor, a person would be led to believe that our colonists really paid at the rate of 25 cents per pound for rice, and 60 cents for coffee.

We assert without fear of contradiction, that we have never known rice, (in times of the most scarcity, which is during the rains, before the new rice is fit for cutting,) to sell for more than $2.50 per bushel. To arrive at a fair rate, at which rice should be quoted will be, to put it down at $1.60 cents the bushel; as during the season when all prudent persons should lay in their rice, it can be purchased for $1 per bushel, and often for less.
Estimating a bushel at 68 pounds, it would then give nearly 2½ cents per pound instead of 25. A wide difference. Coffee grows wild around us, and if a little encouragement was given out to the natives, might be purchased at a moderate rate, at least enough for home consumption.

Our colonists have not paid much attention to the culture of this important berry, but we know one family, who have for years, raised more than enough for their own consumption from trees of their own planting. We have never seen 60 cents per pound paid for coffee yet, and we are doubtful if it has ever been.

TAKES this method to thank her friends for their patronage since her School has been in operation: She finds her duties so multiplied by having a few little girls under her par-to attend to such a number of scholars as she now has. The large boys she is certain will be better situated elsewhere; and it must be understood, if she continues to teach any who are writing on paper and ciphering, after the expiration of the present quarter, it must be at an advanced price, with such exceptions as society think proper to make. The small child-having satisfied me that he has resided two years in
