WHAT A WRITER SAW

A short time ago I noticed him as he came into town, with his wagon full of vegetables, and chickens and eggs. He found a ready market for his produce, and I thought how happy his little ones would be when he returned home in the evening with toys and dresses and shoes and food for the morrow, and some clear money in his purse. I thought I could see his wife standing in the doorway to give him a cordial greeting on his return, so desirous was I that he should make the home ones happy and contented. I could almost see his cheerful face as he returned to his family after a day's absence. And I thought of the [illegible] to my work. But evening came and he passed by my window again. He had nothing. I thought he would have. The bed of his wagon was bare. No little shoes nor food for the morrow nor money in his purse. I date [illegible]. The man was drunk. He had chased and this chance [illegible] the [illegible] I could see the [illegible] appeal [illegible]

DANGER FROM ALCOHOL.

In pneumonia or in snake bite, when recovery takes place, an invasion of the parts affected by a large number of leucocytes or white blood corpuscles is invariably observed. Delcardo insists that this invasion is essential to recovery. Massert and Bordel demonstrated that alcohol, even in very dilute solution, drives away the white corpuscles or leucocytes, and if alcohol is circulated in the blood, even in very minute quantities, the leucocytes cannot push their way into the blood at all readily, and therefore cannot be transported to the seat of the disease. Alcohol thus prevents the white cells or leucocytes from coming to the attack and repel the invading organisms. The leucocytes are a kind of [illegible] police. The supposition is [illegible] dead that [illegible] attempt to prevent the [illegible] by [illegible] and [illegible] with their [illegible] after taking [illegible] increase [illegible] of [illegible]

CHIEF FACTOR IN NATIONAL DEGENERACY.

A wave of degeneracy is sweeping the land, and its development threatens the physical vitality of the nation. Within a period of 50 years the population of the United States increased 330 per cent, while the number of insane and feeble minded increased 950 per cent.

What is the cause of this degeneracy? A hundred different intermediate agencies may contribute to the undoing of the race, but back of them all stands alcohol as the chief degenerative factor. Statistics compiled by the leading insurance companies, and presented by Sir J. P. Whitaker in a report to the British parliament, show that out of every 1,000 deaths among the population at large 44 are due to alcohol. This would mean a [illegible] from alcohol in the United States of [illegible] a year.

How To Give Quinine To Children.
FEBRILINE is the trade mark name given to an improved Quinine. It is a tasteless syrup, pleasant to take and does not disturb the stomach. Children take it and never know it is Quinine. It is equally as good for adults who cannot take or bear Quinine. It does not nauseate nor cause nervousness nor ringing in the head. Try it the next time you need Quinine for any purpose. Ask for FEBRILINE in your next package. The name FEBRILINE is blown in bottle. 50 cents.
