Wit and Humor.

A LAUGHABLE STORY.

The Mobile Register is responsible for the following mirth provoking incident:

For twenty-three years, old Jake Willard has cultivated the soil of Baldwin county, and drawn therefrom a support for himself and wife. He is childless. Not long ago Jake left his house in search of a missing cow. His route led him through an old worn out patch of clay land, of about six acres in extent, in the center of which was a well, twenty-five or thirty feet deep, which at some time, probably, had furnished the inmates of a dilapidated house near by with water. In passing by this spot an ill wind lifted a Jake's 'tile' from his head and in it tumbled.

Now Jake had always practised the virtue of economy and he immediately sat about recovering the lost hat. He ran to the well and finding it dry at the bottom, he uncoiled the rope which he had brought for the purpose of capturing the truant cow, and after several attempts to catch the hat with a noose, he concluded to save time by going down into the well himself. To accomplish this he made fast one end of the rope to a stump hard by, and was quickly on his way down the well.

It is a fact, of which Jake was no less oblivious than the reader hereof that Ned Wells was in the old dilapidated building aforesaid, and that, an old blind horse, with a bell on his neck, who had been turned out to die, was lazily grazing, within a short distance of the well.

The devil himself or some other wicked spirit put it into Ned's cranium to have a little fun, so he quickly slipped up to the horse and unbuckled the bell-strap, approached with slow measured ting-a-ling to the edge of the well.

"G—d dang that old blind horse!" said Jake, "he's a coming' this way sure and ain't got no more sense than to fall in here. Whoa, Ball."

But the continued approach of the 'ting-a-ling' said just as plainly as the words that 'Ball' wouldn't whoa. Besides Jake was at the bottom, resting, before trying to 'shin' it up the rope.

"Great Jerusalem," said he, "the old cuss will be a-top of me before I can say Jack Robinson. Whoa! G—d dang you, Whoa."

Just then, Ned drew up to the edge of the well, and his foot kicked a little dirt into it.

"Oh, Lord!" exclaimed Jake, falling upon his knees at the bottom. "I'm gone now, whoa—Now I lay me down to sleep, w-h-o-a, Ball—I pray the Lord my soul to—w-h-o-a, now. Oh! Lord, have mercy on me."

Ned could hold in no longer, and fearful that Jake might suffer from his fright, he revealed himself.

Probably Ned didn't make tracks with his heels from that well. Maybe Jake wasn't up to the top of it in short order, and you might think he didn't try every night for two weeks to get a shot with his rifle at Ned.

THE TWO BABIES.

A good story is related of our honest, good natured old friend S——. "In the course of human events," S——'s wife was blessed with a baby, which of course was a most wonderful child. S—— was in raptures, as he was in duty bound to be, and bragged considerably about his boy among his friends. One day, as he was going home to dinner, he was overtaken near his door by a waggish neighbor, whom he invited to see the prodigy.

P—— demurred, alleging that he was in somewhat of a hurry—was no judge of the article, etc., but S—— would not listen.

"Oh, come in," said he, "and I'll show you something that will open your eyes; come, come along, don't be afraid."

Thus urged, P—— consented, and in they walked. Mrs. S—— was apparently absent, but in one corner stood the cradle, in which was ensconced and fast asleep S——'s future hopes.

"There," said he, gently drawing down the quilt, "there's a boy for you!"

Saying which, he gently lifted the slumberer out of his warm nest, and holding him out in both hands, continued—

"Talk about your boys—let 'em get up and beat this. What dy'e think of him—isn't he a specimen? Can'll do pretty well for new beginners, won't it, eh?"

At this moment Mrs. S—— entered from a side room.

"Why, S——!" said she, "that isn't our baby—it's Mrs. So and So's." (their next-door neighbor.) "She wanted me to take care of it a moment while she went out."

S—— was completely bewildered.

"Isn't this ours?" he inquired, innocently, looking first at his wife and then at P——, who stood ready to burst with laughter.

"No," said Mrs. S——, decidedly. "Here is ours," she continued, bringing from an adjoining room another infant wonder.

"Well, I declare," said S——, looking first at one and then at the other, "who'd have thought I could have made such a mistake?"—Harper's Monthly.

A SWEET WIFE.

Mrs. X——, who resides in our senatorial district, had a neighbor, who was represented to be quarrelsome in his family, making his home anything but a pleasant abode. She, however, having heard that his wife was a good deal of a vixen, thought that the wife might be blamed for the unpleasant state of affairs in the household. So, full of charity and the doctrines of the law of kindness, Mrs. X—— visited her neighbor's house, with the benevolent intent of reconciling the differences existing there, and addressed the better half something in this style:—"Now, you know," said she, "how much pleasanter it would be if you and your husband would live together without quarreling; both you and your children would be happier; and instead of being a reproach to the neighborhood you might become honored members of society. And it may be," she continued, "you are not altogether blameless in this matter. Suppose you try and see what the law of kinkness practiced toward your husband will do in effecting a reconciliation. It certainly can do no harm, and you may succeed in touching the tender chords of his heart, and he may renew his old affection. Try it," she urged, "and if you do not succeed you will at least heap coals of fire on his head," and so on.

All this was listened to, when this reply was made:—

"I don't know about your coals of fire, I've tried boiling hot water, and it didn't do a bit of good!"—Harper's Monthly.

☞ An exchange tells a good story of an innocent countryman who chanced to be in one of our cities on Sunday, and concluded to go to church. Arrived there, he waited outside for a moment when, to his profound surprise, the organ struck up, from which he concluded some sort of a "shave down" was about to commence. Just at that moment, a gentleman invited him to walk in and take a seat. "Not 'xactly, mister, I don't used to no such doin's on Sunday, and besides, I don't dance."

☞ A schoolmaster in one of the neighboring towns, while on his morning walk, passed the door of a neighbor who was excavating a log for a pig trough. "Why," said the schoolmaster, "Mr. ——— have you not furniture enough yet?" "Yes," said the man, "enough for my own family, but I expect to board the schoolmaster this winter, and I am making preparations."

A Card to our Customers.

NOW is the time to buy your Hardware.—Every thing is advancing at such a rate there is no telling where it will get to. As usual we are selling at the lowest rates the market will afford. We can and do sell lower than retailing in the city and therefore every one should deal at home.

Those indebted to us for long standing bills would do well to attend to them at once. We cannot practice the virtue of forbearance much longer, and you need not be surprised to see a stranger coming to see you pretty soon, unless you come to see us.

Hurry up and see how glad you can make us Every little helps. Very respectfully, Poco-Metalic Paint.

THE experience of the past season warrants the conclusion that the above is the cheapest and best Paint for several purposes, and especially for the bottom and decks of Vessels.—It is said to be, by those who have tried it, fully equal, if not superior to the celebrated Patent Paint, for the bottoms of vessels, in preventing them from fouling, and in its durability it has no superior. Its cost is only about ½ that of the Patent Paint, and in this particular it should recommend itself to vessel owners. We mention the names of vessel owners and masters below, all of whom have tried it, and who will take pleasure in giving any information with regard to it that may be desired. They all speak of it in the highest terms:

Capt. ED. LEONARD,

P.S.—Wanted to purchase 1000 bushels prime white wheat, 1000 bushels corn and twenty tons good Timothy Hay, to be delivered and paid for as wanted. W. T. K.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

THIS is to inform my friends that I do not intend to raise the price on making

Coats, Pants, and Vests,

But I must request and demand the CASH DOWN for all my work, as I have to pay the Cash now for everything, and especially to my workmen.

What do you think of it my friends? All right say all—paying the cash down at the old prices, is better than paying more on time, as money is plentiful. I am in for that says the public generally. J. S. shall do my work and I will pay him the cash, for he has credited me many a time, and he must now have the cash, for I like old prices.

☞ Don't forget that little balance you owe, if you please, and when you want any cutting or making done, don't forget to call at the old stand opposite the Union Hotel.
