Oranges score in more than glass of breakfast juice

The golden, tangy sweet orange has been symbol of eating treats since grandmothers were knee-high.

But how its role has changed! Once it was in the "precious" class, scarce and expensive in most parts of the country at this time of year.

Today, with a luscious orange as near as the nearest fresh produce market, the homemaker can design them into all sorts of dishes.

• • •

FOR instance, the orange's freshness and zest is a perfect flavor foil for the richness of turkey, goose or ham. Try a sauce composed of fresh oranges and currant, guava or apple jelly.

In the department that makes a gourmet's dream of leftover turkey is a salad that combines diced cooked turkey with fresh orange sections, chopped nuts and chopped onions all mixed with heavy cream.

Oranges and honey can also star in a delightfully novel glaze for ham. And on the dessert side, an orange cream or simply broiled oranges are fine possibilities.

• • •

AN IMPORTANT plus in orange ideas this time of year is, of course, Mary Maidens, Ruth Carter, Theodosia Stokes, Ada Woodland, Francis Lee, Anna Bishop, Johnston, and June Thorne.

Olive, salami

Sandwich a ripe olive-cream filling between slices of salami, cheese filling between slices of salami, and you have an unusual and tempting appetizer.

Serve "Ripe Olive - Salami Cubes" on toothpicks.

Ripe Olive - Salami Cubes are made with three slices large salami, one (three-ounce) package cream cheese, Mayonnaise to moisten, three tablespoons chopped ripe olives and salt.

Remove rind from salami. Blend together remaining ingredients. Put salami slices together with olive filling. Cocktail sandwich fashion. Chill thoroughly.

Cut into cubes with sharp knife and serve on picks.

USE THE FLAVOR brightness of fresh oranges to dispel the left-over turkey blues. In this salad diced turkey is combined with fresh orange sections, chopped nuts and heavy cream for a gourmet dish.

Sugar crinkles winter dessert

Youngster's love to watch "Currant Sugar Crinkles" being made. They puff up during baking and then settle down to such interesting "wrinkled" tops.

And, what good eating! Currants have a flavor all of their own plus a tangy - sweetness that's most appealing. You'll be making these often.

• • •

MAKE CURRANT sugar Crinkles with one cup currants, one cup soft shortening (half butter or margarine), one and one - half cups sugar (half brown, firmly packed), one egg, one teaspoon vanilla, two and one - half cups sifted all - purpose flour, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon soda, two teaspoons cream of tartar, and sugar.

Rinse and drain currants. Cream shortening, sugar, egg and vanilla together. Sift in flour, salt, soda and cream of tartar and mix well. Stir in currants.

Shape into balls about one inch in diameter and roll in sugar.

Place on ungreased baking sheet about two inches apart. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 8 to 10 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool.

Makes about four dozen.

Cranberry ice

Like to serve the family a light dessert after heavy winter meals?

Try Carnation Cranberry Freeze. Delicious! Carnation Evaporated Milk mixes perfectly with the pleasant tartness of cranberry juice for a refreshing dessert.

And Cranberry Freeze is easy on the Christmas budget, too, because it's made with Carnation — the milk that whips. Nice to serve when friends "drop in" during the holidays.

• • •

CARNATION CRANBERRY Freeze (about 2 quarts) is made with one cup undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk, two tablespoons lemon juice, one and one-half cups diced marshmallows, two cups berry sauce, one cup well-drained canned crushed pineapple, and one - fourth teaspoon salt.

Chill Carnation in refrigerator tray until soft crystals form around edges of tray (15-20 minutes). Whip very stiff (about one minute). Add lemon juice. Whip very stiff (two minutes longer).

Combine marshmallows, cranberries, pineapple and salt. Fold into whipped Carnation. Place in refrigerator trays. Freeze two to three hours or until firm.

COOKING IS FUN

Try a turkey scramble sandwich from leftovers

By FANNIEJOE REID

I'll just bet that you, as I, have a hunk of turkey stuck away in the freezer, your family having declared war against another bite of the fowl.

But I also bet that they will declare a truce if you use the meat in a turkey scramble sandwich for lunch.

To make this delicacy, melt two tablespoons butter or margarine in a skillet. Add a fourth cup of chopped onion and brown lightly.

Now beat six eggs. Add a fourth cup of milk or cream, a half teaspoon of salt, a dash of pepper and a cup of cooked chopped turkey.

Pour into a skillet and cook over low heat until eggs are thickened, stirring gently.

Spread 12 slices of toasted enriched bread with butter or margarine. Spread egg mixture on six slices of toast and top with remaining toast.

Makes six sandwiches.

Incidentally, a make-it-yourself sandwich bar really solves the problem of what to serve your evening guests.

Provide a variety of cold ham, turkey and a favorite salad-type filling.

Be sure to have a good selection of breads, the more the merrier the better.

In addition to white bread, serve crusty Vienna bread, dark rye bread, - like baking whole wheat bread, sesame seed sandwich buns and hot brown-and-serve French rolls.

• • •

ANY DAY, now, you will see a rash of advertising selling you on the idea of using more green peas.

We have a surplus of the little vegetable and your Government is putting on a special campaign to have them used up. This works to our advantage, because both canned and frozen peas will be selling at a good price.

Gourmet green peas is a new recipe to add to your collection.

Subtly - flavored enough for an epicure but simple to prepare — that describes "Gourmet Green Peas."

Instant minced onion gives the dish its mild, perfectly-balanced onion flavor. Measure this new moisture - free onion from its container as you do salt and pepper. There's no tearful peeling and chopping.

• • •

GOURMET GREEN PEAS are made with two tablespoons butter, two cups coarsely - chopped lettuce, two tablespoons chopped fresh parsley, one tablespoon instant minced onion, or, one - fourth cup finely-chopped raw onion, one (10 ounce) package frozen green peas, one-half teaspoon salt, one - half teaspoon sugar, and one - eighth teaspoon coarsely-ground pepper.

Melt butter in a saucepan, add lettuce, parsley and onion. Cover and cook over low heat three minutes or until lettuce begins to wilt. Add peas and seasonings.

Cover and cook over low heat about 10 minutes, or until peas are barely tender. Serve in sauce dishes with pan juices and additional butter, if desired.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

• • •

HOMEMADE desserts are always welcome, never more so than when the weather is blustery and cold. "Peach Cream Torte" makes a cheering end to a meal or evening of fun. Golden-tinge peaches are baked in a rich torte - type crust under a glaze of eggs and sour cream. Top generous servings of that golden beauty with cream or ice cream.
