Seventh week reveals many homes lack tubs

For seven weeks AFRO reporters have been visiting homes in various sections of the city to determine whether the city's bathtub regulation, which requires that each dwelling unit have either a shower or a tub, is being observed.

The survey covered the 400 and 500 blocks Cross St., 1100 block Russell St., 900 and 1100 blocks Denver St., and the 500 and 600 blocks Houser St.

"I have been using a tub tub for over 27 years," said a member of the family at 426 Cross St.

They pay $8 per week and the landlord is listed as Jacob Sborofsky, 501 Cross St.

A resident at 531 Houser St., said she heated her water with a coal and wood stove.

"Me and my children take a bath in an old time dish pan," she said.

They pay $5.70 a week and their landlord is listed as Frank Olson.

'Love nest pastor' held for court

A Baltimore Baptist minister came to court here Tuesday evening charged with abducting a 12-year-old girl to Newark, N.J. for immoral purposes.

The Rev. Monte Carlos De Bresciuse, who is also known as Charles F. Briscoe, was held without bail for action of the grand jury by Magistrate Linwood G. Koger Sr.

The minister had been arrested in company with the junior high school pupil in a Newark apartment about 3 a.m. Nov. 7.

In Tuesday's hearing before Magistrate Koger, in the North Eastern District, the girl testified she had been intimate with the accused man in Newark.

* * *

THE ACCUSED minister had lived rent-free in the home of the girl and her minister father for about half a year before he and the girl disappeared on Oct. 29.

The child's father was with Newark police when they made the arrest.

Detective Capt. W. Bailey said the couple had lived for years at 67 14th St. in Newark where they were arrested in the early morning.

The Rev. Mr. De Bresciuse was arrested on a Newark warrant charging him with impairing the morals of a minor and a Baltimore charge of abduction.

* * *

AT A preliminary hearing in Newark the Rev. Mr. De Bresciuse had been held without bail for a grand jury on a fugitive warrant.

Baltimore officials requested that he be extradited.

He was returned to Baltimore on Jan. 20 and the hearing was immediately scheduled.

* * *

THE GIRL, now 13, identified here Tuesday that the minister met her as she left school with her clothes.

She said he indicated he wanted her to go some place in Baltimore with him but later that night they ended up at a station and went to Newark.

The Rev. Mr. DeBresciuse told Magistrate Koger he became interested in the child after her father once whipped her when she paid him too much attention.

He said the father once looked in his room for the girl but she was hidden behind a dresser.

The girl denied this. Her father also denied he ever whipped his daughter about affection shown the defendant.

* * *

THE REV. Mr. De Bresciuse said he was born in France and at one time Newark authorities were checking to see if he might be in this country illegally.

However, Sgt. Violet Hill Whyte, veteran Northwestern District policewoman, said she had learned that minister was born in Towson, Md.

The girl was reported missing by her father when she did not return home from school, Houston Junior High No. 181.

A 10-year-old brother of the girl told his parents he saw the Rev. Mr. De Bresciuse leave the house with clothing belonging to his sister.

He father said the defendant became a member of his church last July upon recommendation of another pastor.

Sometime after this he moved in with the minister and his family, the father said.

The girl's mother worked to help support the family but the father said the Rev. Mr. De Bresciuse did not, "but would help out by cleaning up around the house and helping at the church."

$200 looking for a place to go

MELVIN R. LEE, 2407 Annor Ct., received a civilian award from the Police Department for causing the arrest of three men attempting to burglarize a supply firm.

Roger J. Johnson, realtist, filed a petition in Circuit Court No. 2, this week, asking that he be directed to whom to pay $200 of a down payment he received on a house he sold.

He pointed out that he has no material or other interest in who gets the money, he just wants to get rid of it.

The suit is directed against Henry J. Weber of 5714 Harford Rd. and Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Bosch of 3209 Carlisle Ave.

Mr. Johnson explains the dilemma this way:

He says that he and Mr. Weber were engaged jointly by Mr. and Mrs. Bosch to procure a purchaser for the Carlisle Ave. property.

They secured Vernon L. Johnson as buyer and he was accepted by Mr. and Mrs. Bosch and made a $400 down payment on the property, $200 of which is in Mr. (Roger) Johnson's possession.

* * *

BEFORE THE sale could be consummated, however, Mr. (Vernon) Johnson became involved with the law.

He was sentenced on an assault charge when he became involved with an officer in Siegel's Market on North Ave., after being accused of larceny of a tube of shaving cream.

He received a suspended sentence of a year.

NOW, SAYS the real estate dealer, he has received claims from Mr. Weber, Victor L. Johnson and the Borchs.

He is willing, he says to return the money to such persons as should be lawfully entitled to receive it.

However, he is unable to decide, who to give it to, so he asks that the court make the decision.

He, however, wants a reasonable fee out of the $200 for his attorney, Milton B. Allen.

Dr. Long stumping for votes

"My name is Clarence Long. I'm running for the United States Senate, I'd like to shake your hand."

This greeting has been personally extended to some 13,000 people as Dr. Long, professor of economics at Johns Hopkins University, stumps the state seeking election to the senate.

He is running on an 11-point platform.

* * *

UNDER THE heading of Integration, the Democratic candidate says:

"Prepare the way for integration with great care so that colored children will be treated with kindness and good humor when they enter integrated schools. What ever the Federal Courts decree, that is the law and must be enforced."

Further explaining his stand, Dr. Long told the AFRO:

"I view it as a man driving a car over a rocky road. I you go too fast you may get a broken axle, but you've got to keep driving toward the goal with deliberate speed."

He said that in his campaigning he has found that integration seems to be a dead issue."

GOP lawyers elect Rifman

The Republican Lawyers' Club of Maryland, Inc., a statewide organization, has elected Avrum K. Rifman, as president.

Among those appointed by the president to coordinate the Club's activities with D. Eldred Rinehart, Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Maryland, and to assist him in the coming senatorial and gubernatorial elections were Harry O. Levin, W. A. C. Hughes Jr., Linwood C. Koger, and Senator Harry A. Cole.

Catonsville man discovers boy, 10 in can of trash

Imagine the surprise of James Randall, 11 Winters Ave., Catonsville.

When he reported to work on Thursday morning at a Frederick Rd. grocery he went to move a can of trash and inside found a ten-year-old boy.

The blonde youngster, identified himself as John Paul Brawnna. He said he had run away from his home in the 500 block Paca St. because he was "disgusted with school work." He and a companion walked from Baltimore to Catonsville and John said he crawled in the can when it got dark. Mr. Randall turned the youngster over to police who returned him to his home.

HOLD IT HIGH— Members of the "Mary Dobkin Athletic Club," 1323 Harford Ave., proudly display a part of the gear they were given on the TV program of "Over the Rainbow" Saturday night. Here are Vincent Day, Eugene "Pudgy" Hoffman, Dennis McLean, Tommy Owens, Miss Dobkin, director and founder of the recreational club, John Sicca and Joseph Wallace.

Douglass senior is candidate for mayor

By DAISY WILSON

Miss Carolyn Ford, a senior at Douglass, appeared on a recent local TV panel discussion with members of the Model Youth Council.

She has been nominated by her class as a candidate to run for mayor of the city.

Miss Ford is among five other school representatives who are participating in the election, which will take place on Feb. 14.

* * *

EDITORS of the February 1958 Douglass "Survey" were installed last week.

Members are: Mary Walker, editor-in-chief; Janice Flack, associate editor; Ida Robinson, managing editor; Josephine Davis, assistant managing editor; Loretta West, assistant managing editor; Montague Walston, advertising editor.

A Valentine Dance is being planned by the Douglass Student Council for the afternoon of Feb. 14.

The dance will be held in the school cafeteria.

Coppin sophs presents play

With all members of the class participating, the sophomores of Coppin State Teachers College presented the recent assembly program, an original play based on the progression of the 12 months of the calendar.

Each month was personified by a simple character, then an episode was presented which was typical of the month or season.

The play was written by Norma Wade, a member of the sophomore class, to whom much credit is also due for the direction of a production involving so large a cast.

Miss V. Mae Gray, Coppin's art director, aided as class sponsor of the sophomores.

Officers of the class are: Hilda Bills, president, Norma Wade vice president, and Charlotte Mason, secretary.

Douglass night center opens registration for second semester

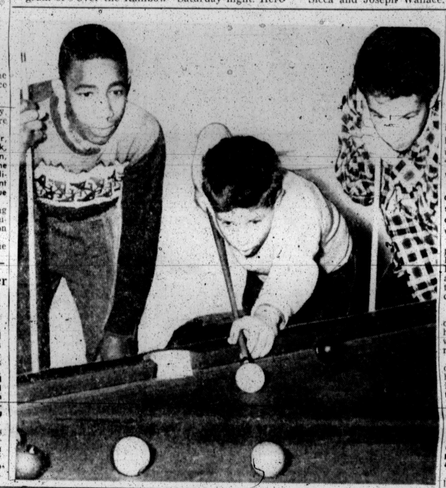
Registration for the second semester is now in progress at the Douglass Evening Center—located at Gwynns Falls Parkway and Pulaski Street.

Courses are being offered in academic and commercial subjects leading to the high school diploma and in home-nursing and dressmaking leading to certificates.

Tuition is free to residents of Baltimore. Guidance counselors are at the school from 7:30 - 9:30 from Monday through Thursday evenings to advise students and take registrations.

'Mary Dobkin Athletic Club' proves interracial recreation successful

By SHELIA SHIELDS



TAKING AIM are Joseph Johnson, 16, 825 N. Hoffman St., Buddy Parmer, 13, 3437 Ravenwood Ave., and Allen Byrd, 16, 1115 McAleer Ct. All are members of Miss Dobkin's interracial athletic club.

You'll have to speak louder if you want "A'nt Mary" to hear what you say about "loud uncouth teen agers" or the "impracticality" of interracial work-play groups.

Miss Mary Dobkin, 39 years old ("like Jack Benny," she says), 1128 Wilmer Ct., isn't deaf but she still won't hear a word you say.

You see, Miss Dotkin is the proud directress of the "Mary Dodkin Athletic Club," 1323 Harford Av., where children of all races play together with no thought at all of the race or the color of the other fellow.

* * *

FOR 18 YEARS, Miss Dobkin, or "A'nt Mary" as her boys call her, has dreamed of a haven where children could learn the real meaning of brotherhood.

Her dreams came true Saturday night when she and her boys were stars of "Over the Rainbow," a coast to coast television program produced by Ralph Edwards on NBC.

The show's sponsors presented Miss Dodkin with the recreational Hall on Harford Ave., which came fully equipped with athletic apparatus a single passenger stairway elevator, and the rent paid for a year.

Miss Dobkin has an artificial leg and goes about her duties in a wheel chair. She explains why she needs the elevator.

Some of the equipment given them on the show included 108 uniforms for their football, baseball and basketball teams, a pool table, hi-fi radio-phonograph, television set, piano, boxing ring, motion picture projector, refrigerator, gas range, freezer plus $1,000 for the Mary Dobkin Children's Fund!

* * *

TELLING HOW she felt on the night of the show, she says, "I saw the boys singing and I said, 'Can everybody hear this?' and Art Baker (the MC) said, 'Everybody in the whole country.'

"Then I said, 'You mean everybody in the whole nation?' and he said 'Yes.'

"It was only then that I started to realize what was happening."

"The End of the Rainbow" is a program similar to Ralph Edwards' "This is Your Life."

The person selected as subject of the show is unaware of what is going on until they are brought to the studio by friends on false pretense.

They are nominated by persons in their community.

The appearance of Miss Dobkin was a well kept secret and she recalls:

"Even the children kept it from me.

"I didn't know anything about it until ten minutes before I went on the air."

* * *

MISS DOBKIN began her fight against delinquency in 1939 with a group of Red Cross girls.

"After the eighborhood where she lived, she still carried out her recreation-l work using her home as headquarters.

A week-by recreation hall was used when her kids needed space for dances.

Even without the convenience of a club house, the ball teams she organized fought their way to eight trophies which are now proudly displayed in the new clubhouse.

Membership in the club requires that a boy be between theages of nine and 16.

Former members over 16 can qualify as counselors.

At present, membership is filled, with 350 members. "And since the club started so modest so badly, they began collecting membership dues Monday.

THE DUES ARE $1 a year and when the kids can't afford the dollar, "A'nt Mary" gives them membership, anyway.

"I'm not going turn anyone away," says Miss Dobkin, "but we have dances every Saturday night and the boys bring the girls.

"No girls are allowed without escorts.

Naturally, team work is stressed by the club members and their directress. The boys are pulling in the extra features like shelves, themselves.

Beside Miss Dobkin, there are three other volunteer workers.

They are Al Turner, a teacher at the Glenn L. County School; Dick Ross, athletic director of the Maryland Training School for Boys and Stanley Stoffberg, 18-year-old volunteer.

* * *

SPEAKING of "my boys," "A'nt Mary" says:

"Their conduct amazes me. All I have to do is say 'Boys' and everything is quiet."

Before any of the 350 members come into the hall, "A'nt Mary" asks, "Did you do your homework?"

All of them answer "Yes, A'nt Mary," of course.

They can't come in if they haven't.

"Maybe the boys feel the way they do about "A'nt Mary," because they know the way she feels about them.

"I had a very unhappy childhood," she says.

"I had nothing to look forward to and I want to make it different for these kids.

* * *

"I SPENT most of my life in a hospital. I never went to school. . . . You know, I've had 111 operations. I was six-year-old when I had the first one."

She recalls that her legs were frostbitten when she was a child and one of them had to be amputated, but "I'm trying to save the other one," she says hopefully.

Not only does the courageous recreational directress urge sports participation, but other phases of entertainment as well.

Four members of her club formed a quartet and call themselves "The Fells." They sang on the Saturday night show (seen from coast to coast, mind you.)

"The Fells" are Frank Johnson, Clifton Springs, Johnny Tarrington and Alonzo Adams.

The "Mary Dobkin AC" has learned that together, they can weild a powerful force against delinquency and intolerance.

No 'ivory towers' for these top students at Morgan State

If you think that scholars are stodgy folks stuck in secluded "Ivory Towers," perish the thought!

Rapidly setting a new pace for vigorous community action are the top scholars of Morgan State College, who are members of Alpha Kappa Mu, National Honor Society for general scholarship.

Under the leadership of Dr. Samuel Myers and Dr. Richard T. McKinney, faculty sponsors, Morgan's Pi Lambda Psi Chapter of the organization which has 59 chapters across the country is developing a unique program on the cornerstone of action and more action.

* * *

MORE THAN anything else, Morgan's Alpha Kappa Mu'ers are selling scholarship that once highly respected high guy in the collegiate scheme of things who's lost so much ground in recent years.

Pi Lambda Psi Chapter is trying to retore scholarship to a place of respectability by developing among all students of the college, especially those of high scholarship potential, a real interest in academic achievement.

In carrying out this "selling" campaign, the chapter annually sponsors an honors day on the campus. At this time, the organization gives each student who has made the Dean's List for two consecutive semesters a certificate.

Students who have made an honor average for one semester are given a button.

It invites the members of all the eight other honor societies on Morgan's campus to participate in the annual honors day.

* * *

HONOR STUDENTS who are potential Alpha Kappa Mu members get a special treatment from the select scholars.

These students are taken to cultural activities as guests of the honor society. Several, for example, were guests of Morgan's Alpha Kappa Mu at the Marian Anderson concert at the Lyric Theatre here last week.

Attending cultural activities is important to Alpha Kappa Mu members. Each month, members of the chapter attend legitimate plays, concerts and the like, and interweave cultural activities into their regular business agenda.

* * *

THE MORGAN scholars also try to interest top students of the college in doing post-graduate work. Early in December, for example, the chapter sponsored a seminar during which Dr. Albert N. Whiting, Assistant Dean of the College, explained techniques of applying for fellowships. Approximately sixty juniors and senior honor students attended the seminar.

This will - rounded program of activity is being conducted by the six current members of Pi Lambda Psi. They are: Almyra Lige of Newark, N.J., president; Thelma Moore, Baltimore, Md., vice president; Clara Anthony, Baltimore, Md., secretary; Robert Reed, Charlottesville, Va., treasurer; Leroy Anderson, Hains City, Fla. and Morris Thrower, Baltimore, Md.

New members of junior or senior classification who have attained a scholastic average of honor rank for at least four consecutive semesters will be inducted into the chapter during the spring.

PTA stages skit at No. 162

Parents and teachers of Elementary School, No. 162 combined forces Tuesday night to present an original skit to members of the PTA.

The skit, "Today's Children Use the TV, Movies, Radio and Comics," had parents and teachers and students as the characters.

The characters were: Mrs. Claudine Smith, Mrs. Gilbert Tyler, Mrs. Frances Washington, Mrs. Sarah Harper, Mrs. Jessie Mae Matthews, Mrs. Lorraine Williams.

All were parents of the school.

The cast of children included: Alfreda Pinkney, Claudine Smith, Gilbert Tyler, Ronald Williams, Barbara J. Neal, William Brown, James Matthews and Phyllis Green.

The teachers were Mrs. Ethel Davis and Mrs. Jacqueline Spencer.

* * *

ANOTHER FEATURE of the parent - teacher meeting was a talk by Miss Peggy Sullivan, the school service consultant of Enoch Pratt Library.

Her subject was "How Community Factors Influence the Growth" and "The Library in Your Community."

Mrs. Vivian H. Bundy is principal and Mrs. Charlotte H. Harper is vice principal of the school at Barre and Warner Sts.

$2,000 to polio fund

PORTSMOUTH, Va. — The Order of Eastern Star of the State of Virginia recently presented the March of Dimes with a $2,200 check, making a total of $6,300 to the organization in honor of the OES late grand patron, Dr. W. F. Clarke.

Terrier teaches safety to pupils at School 111

Recently at the Frances Ellen Harper School No. 111, Sunny, a white - haired, eight-year-old fox terrier, was the star teacher on a safety program which emphasized specific safety rules.

The dog demonstrated safety pitfalls which most children encounter daily. Lieutenant Swiss of the Fire Prevention Bureau of the Fire Department and Officer Weisberg of the Motorized Division of the Baltimore City Police Department participated in the program.

Sunny made his entrance in a special convertible car, wearing a coat bearing his name. He showed that the street was a dangerous place in which to play.

He took the ball from some children who were playing in the street and refused to play with them or let them play as long as they were in the street or behind parked cars.

Members of the school safety patrolman, served as the children not to play with guns. Two boys walked to the center of the act and were playing with guns.

Sunny made them drop their guns and chased them out of the room. When they returned and tried to get their guns, Sunny would not let them pick them up.

Sunny also pulled a boy who was riding double from a bicycle to show the pupils that he knew it was wrong to ride double.

* * *

LIEUTENANT SWISS spoke to the children on fire safety. He emphasized the danger of playing with empty fuel containing back into a burning house, fainers and the danger of pu-

Romaine Chase, a girl safety patrolman, served as the honor guard and kept Sunny on a lease while he was not on the stage.

Other children who took part in the program were Captain Kenneth Blount, James Thompson, William Robinson, Robert Tutman, Timothy Gibson, Gregrery Johnson, Ronald Robinson, Vernon Blackstow and Sidney Willis.

The dog's trainer, Dr. George E. Brunson, was formerly a school principal, and superintendent in Southern California and Arizona before he made a special study of child psychology with particular emphasis on child safety.

Dr. Frank Bennett, safety specialist in the Baltimore Public Schools, arranged the program and Earl S. Britt, safety advisor of the school and member of the Safety Advisory Committee, served as master of ceremonies.

Last week, Dr. John H. Fischer, superintendent of Baltimore Public Schools, awarded to Mrs. Edith Thomas, principal a certificate from the Baltimore Safety Council for the outstanding work that she is doing in safety education.
