'PAL JOEY' OPENS AT ROYAL THEATRE

Rita Hayworth, Frank Sinatra and Kim Novak — a glittering array of star power share stellar honors in "Pal Joey," now at the Royal. Second attraction is "No Time to Be Young", exciting drama of Youth in Revolt.

The tenderly tough saga of night club entertainer Joey Evans, who has a way with women, has been brought to the screen with all the exciting color of the original, and the wide - ranging motion picture camera gives it a vastness and richness it never has on the stage.

Miss Hayworth, one of the loveliest women on the screen, is seen as the beautiful socialite who responds to the power appeal of "Pal Joey." And, to round out the perfect casting that marks "Pal Joey," there's Kim Novak as the beautiful chorine who gets under the egotistical, Joey's skin to teach him that he has a heart after all.

'ROGUE COP' OFFERED AT HARLEM

"Rogue Cop," no punches pulled drama of a police detective who accepts graft from racketeers only to find that easy money doesn't spell an easy life, gives Robert Taylor the dynamite - edged type of role he made memorable several years ago in a picture titled "Johnny Eager."

The new M - G - M offering, co - starring Janet Leigh, George Raft, Steve Forrest and Anne Frances now playing at the Harlem, opens with a tense killing in a telephone booth and closes with a gripping gun battle, and there is never a moment in between in which the action doesn't hold the spectator on the edge of his seat.

Taylor enacts Chris Kelvaney, who, by playing the game both ways — on one side as a detective, on the other as the confidant of crime syndicate operator Dan Beaumont (George Raft) — has come a long way in contrast to his younger patrolman brother Eddie (Steve Forrest.)

The latter plays it straight, and in consequence when he refuses to "play ball" with the syndicate, is liquidated.

DARING ROBBERY PORTRAYED AT REGENT

A daring robbery of $10,000,000 in gold from a government train by one of the coolest and most imaginative of criminals in history motivates "Plunder Road," a Regal Films production now at the Regent Theatre. Gene Raymond is the leader of the bandits and his coastars in this Twentieth Century - Fox release are Jeanne Cooper and Wayne Morris.

Produced by Leon Chooluck and Laurence Stewart and directed by Hubert Cornfield, the picture rises in tension as the gang of criminals makes a daring and ingenious getaway through a far - flung mesh of government agents.

"Plunder Road" gives veteran Gene Raymond a new kind of role as "Eddie," the arch criminal who masterminds the crime and plans with his sweetheart, played by Jeanne Cooper, one of the most unusual hiding places for the gold ever devised.

Wayne Morris, who rode to great popularity overnight in his performance of "Red Galahad" and has made a solid career for himself as a leading man, turns to a character role as "Commando," a vicious killer in "Plunder Road."

BRIGITTE BARDOT HELD OVER AT MET

The highest - paid actress in the history of the French film industry ($150,000 a picture), Brigitte Bardot has risen from comparative obscurity to become the phenomenon known in fan magazine shorthand as BB with a short space of time.

At 23, she has 20 films behind her and a schedule ahead so crowded that it could see her through the age of 25 with no vacations.

Soon she will be making pictures for Hollywood.

"And God Created Woman" has been particulary responsible for her sensational rise.

The Kingsley International release is being held over for the 5th smash week at the Met Theatre gives the U.S. public its first real glimpse of the BB power at work.

TWO BIG HITS AT HARLEM

IN "ROGUE COP," Robert Taylor returns to the tough-guy type of characterization of "Johnny Eager," a gangster film which proved one of his greatest successes. The new M-G-M picture tells a gripping story of a big city's underworld, with Taylor enacting a police detective who tries to play both sides of the fence until his own brother is made a victim of racketeers.

Equity says two hotels will cooperate

Actors Equity Association has recommended that members of theatrical touring companies visiting Baltimore book reservations at either the Congress or Saint James Hotels.

Angus Duncan, executive secretary of Equity, said that these hotels have agreed to eliminate segregation.

The recommendation came several months after an Equity member in the cast of "Shadow of My Enemy" was unable to eat in the local downtown area.

A report of the experience was forwarded to Equity—the leading theatrical association in the country, and it in turn contacted the mayor, governor, president of the Baltimore Hotel Association, the NAACP and city and state legislators.

* * *

IN RESPONSE, Governor McKeldin said:

"I can only tell you that I sincerely regret the embarrassment caused the members of Actors Equity and hope that you and they will understand that it does take time to change the customs of more than a century and a half."

Following the receipt of this letter and others from various officials, individual hotel managers asked for a private conference with Mr. Duncan.

Following this meeting in Baltimore the executive secretary said:

"Two hotels (Congress and St. James) have announced their willingness to cooperate with Equity in eliminating segregation."

The Congress is located at 306 W. Franklin St. and the St. James at 330 N. Charles St.

THE SECOND concert in the annual series at Mt. Vernon Place Methodist Church was given by the Mt. Vernon Chamber Chorus on Wednesday, with Wilmer Hayden Welsh, conducting.

The integrated group of 15 voices was directed from the piano by Mr. Walsh. He organized the chorus two years ago.

The well organized program was applauded warmly by an audience that filled the attractive Mt. Vernon Room. The singers were well controlled and produced for the most part, full-bodied, resonant tones.

Another season with clearer enunciation of words and more contrast in dynamics should bring the Mt. Vernon Chamber Chorus to front rank among the community choral groups.

Soloists for the Bach Cantata No. 78 "Jesus, Thou My Wearied Spirit," were Mary Beck, soprano, Lisl Exiter, contralto o. Andre Moreau, tenor and Glen Haagensen, baritone.

Miss Exiter and Beck rendered the florid melody lines with ease and fluency.

Neither of the male singers handled his voice with flexibility although Mr. Moreau has considerable power and Mr. Haagensen sang with much expression.

* * *

MR. WALSH, who is organist and choirmaster of Mt. Vernon Place Methodist Church, can be relied upon to program arresting modern works. Among these were three songs by Paul Hindemith — "The Doe," "The Swan" and "Springtime."

In his distinctive fashion they were not pretentious, and indicated the break Hindemith made from the romantic and dramatic style that had been favored by Schubert, Wagner and other great German romanticists.

These are songs aimed for the listener and "Springtime" was especially vigorous with a syncopated rhythm.

Two Debussy songs were "Dieu! qu'il la fait non regarder" (God, how fair she is to see) and "Quant l'Aiouy le tabourin" (When I have been listening to the drum). Here were striking examples of the French composer's gift in creating mood with elegance and deceiving simplicity.

Miss Exler, as soloist in the latter song, gave a piquant interpretation, with a spirited accompaniment by the chorus.

The Third Chamber Concert will be held Wednesday, Feb. 26, with Bruce Bennett, pianist, and Andre Moreau, tenor.

CALENDAR — The Baltimore Music Teachers Association will present a piano recital by Virginia Reinecke on Sunday, February 9 at 3:30 p.m., 21 E. Mt. Vernon Place.

Miss Reinecke's background includes study at the Peabody Conservatory where as a scholarship student she received a teacher's certificate, cum laude, and an artist's diploma.

On a Fullbright Scholarship, she was graduated with highest honors.

Tickets are available by calling WI. 4-3323 or LI. 2-8251.

SUNDAY, Feb. 9 at 4 p.m. Fourth Annual Arts Festival at Temple of God Pentecostal Church, George and Ogston Streets.

The Music Committee of the church is sponsoring the program in commemoration of National Negro History Week.

Bishop Edward W. Stancil is general chairman; Mrs. Catherine Knight is co - chairman and Miss Nellie Watson secretary.

In addition to choral and vocal and instrumental solos, there will be reading of original poems by Ora Lova Jones, who has written a work for the occasion and by Lorraine Cephas.

Sunday Feb. 9th at 3:30 p.m. at New Metropolitan Baptist Church, Mosher and McCulloh Sts., annual Youth Day musical, with groups from five churches and from Crownsville State Hospital.

Bootleg suspect, companion jailed

"I'm a bootlegger."

This frank admission in Federal Court Wednesday by a 58-year-old defendant in an illicit liquor case brought him an 18-month prison term and advice to learn a new trade.

Judge W. Calvin Chesnut handed the sentence and words of wisdom to Joseph Williams, 500 block N. Stricker St.

According to John R. Hargrove, deputy United States attorney, Mr. Williams has had nine previous convictions for "bootlegging" in eighteen years.

* * *

A CO-DEFENDANT, Arthur T. McDaniel, 39, of the Stricker St. address, pleaded not guilty but was sentenced to four months imprisonment on conviction by Judge Chesnut.

Government agents said they found a 60-gallon still in operation at the Stricker St. address when they raided the 3-story house on Nov. 22.
