MR. LOUIS GREY, JR.

Baltimorean active in student affairs at AU

By LEN LEWIS

On several occasions, a serious - minded freshman sociology student has had the coveted honor of representing American University at affairs of national interest, and expects to do so at least twice more.

Lorenzo C. Handy, who lives at 1710 Varnum St., NW, was selected as one of eight from his school to attend an October meeting of the Chesapeake Area of Colleges at Camp Plymouth, Md.

Also he flew with five others from AU to Kansas University, Lawrence, Kan., for the National Conference of Methodist Students.

• • •

FOUR TIMES he has sat in on the television series, "This We Believe," and anticipated being a panel member again Mar. 2 and 16.

Each time selection to the delegation to represent American U. has pleasantly surprised Baltimore - born Lorenzo.

The 19 - year - old freshman says he has found each opportunity an enlightening one and relishes being a spokesman at anytime for a university as large (5,720 students) and as influential as American University.

The responsibility has not awed him. Rather he and the other members of the delegation combined efforts upon their return to give comprehensive reports.

Usually the AU delegation makes known its data to the university's Methodist Student Movement.

Further Lorenzo reports on the activities to the church he attends here, Mt. Zion Church Methodist.

OUT OF the National Conference in Lawrence came resolutions sent to Congress calling for a ban of nuclear testing.

"The belief," Lorenzo says, "is that there can be no peace while testing and development of nuclear weapons persist."

• • •

OUR HOPE is that the United Nations will bring about an end to this testing, he says.

Norman Cousins, editor of "The Saturday Review," Dr. Harold A. Bosley, minister of the First Methodist Church and Bishop Fred P. Corson, bishop of the Philadelphia area of the Methodist Church, were speakers at the National Conference.

As well as being a member of the Methodist Student Movement, Handy belongs to the chorus and the college council at AU.

A graduate of Baltimore's Douglass High, Lorenzo is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris R. Handy.

U.S. now favored in Iran

"America is now the favored country by the people of Iran.

"But their favor changes fast and it is important that we work to stay in that position."

This challenging summation of the present stand of Iran was given Wednesday by Dr. Regina M. Goff, professor of history at Douglass College and former consultant to the ministry of education in Iran.

Dr. Goff was the noon-hour speaker Wednesday on the public program sponsored by Pratt Library.

She was presented by Richard Hart, chairman and moderator of the noon-hour talks and head of the library's literature department.

The time is now, now is the time

THIS STORY MEANS

- The administration's school aid program would offer over 40,000 scholarships.
- School grants would be as much as $150,000,000 yearly.
- As now proposed, the Federal Government would be placed in a position of financing school segregation.
- Hearings are now being held on the programs. Opponents of school segregation should ask to be heard.

WASHINGTON

If the Eisenhower school aid program is to be financed or aided by Federal tax dollars, the grants should be restricted to school districts which are complying with the Supreme Court school desegregation decisions.

Qualifying examinations, open to all students under the same terms and conditions, should be given at central points within the state and administered by an institute which specializes in giving such examinations.

State Commissions on Federal Scholarships in cities of the Deep South will not fairly consider a colored applicant, on the basis of ability and need, in competition with white applicants.

• • •

SINCE CONGRESSIONAL committees already have begun consideration of these programs, now is the time for interested individuals and organizations to write their Senators and Representatives, making known their views.

As has been pointed out previously, the Administration's program on science and education for national defense provides for the early identification of aptitudes and encouragement of able students.

The magnitude of the program is shown by the estimated costs for the testing and counseling and guidance features.

These would cost $16,275,000 in the first year, and increase to $24,800,000 in the fourth year.

Congress would authorize the appropriation of $7,500, for undergraduate scholarships for the first year of the program, and a like amount for new scholarships for each of three additional years.

• • •

BASED UPON the assumption that the scholarships will average $750 a year, the sums recommended will provide for 10,000 new scholarships each year.

These would reach a total of $40,000 in the fourth year of operation.

State Commissions on Federal Scholarships would select individuals for scholarships on the basis of ability and need, in accordance with approved state plans.

Persons awarded scholarships could pursue any course of study leading to an undergraduate degree at any accredited institution of higher education which would accept the applicant.

Thus, state-supported universities, and colleges in South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi could reject qualified colored students who had received Federal scholarships.

THE PROPOSED legislation is aimed at encouraging state and local school systems to correct the imbalance in education by strengthening the sciences and mathematics.

According to Lawrence G. Derthick, United States Commissioner of Education, only two states, New York and Texas, have full - time supervisors in the field of mathematics.

An article in the Alabama School Journal (October, 1957) states that only a few southern high schools "have more than a fraction of the science equipment needed for a well grounded program of science."

To stimulate immediate improvement in order to overcome the critical situation, the Administration bill would add $150,000,000 a year for grants to the states to assist local education agencies to expand and improve science, or mathematics in public high schools.

• • •

THESE FUNDS would be available for:

(1) Employment of additional qualified science and mathematics teachers;

(2) Increasing the salaries of such teachers;

(3) Science or mathematics laboratory equipment and minor remodeling of laboratories

(4) Otherwise expanding or improving science or mathematics teaching in public high schools.

However grave the educational problems may be, consideration of Federal aid to education cannot be divorced from the question of compliance with the Supreme Court decisions against racial segregation in public education.

Such segregation results in unequal educational opportunities and deprives the nation of a vari
