Wife wins divorce on desertion charge

Charging that she was deserted Mrs. Margaret Williams of 2922 Grantley Rd., has won a divorce from Elvin Williams, address unknown, according to court records.

The wife said that they were married in 1940 and that he left her in 1952.

"He said he was tired of married life and the responsibility," Mrs. Williams said.

She was given custody of their three daughters and an order for $30 for support of the children was placed against him.

LEON DICKERSON of 1816 W. North Ave. who won a divorce from Mrs. Thelma Dickerson, was charged with the support of their 14-year - old son, though he testified that he does not know where the mother and child are.

He said that Mrs. Dickerson left him in 1950 and took the child.

He also said that he thinks they live at 1734 Druid Hill Avenue at some times and in Philadelphia at other times.

The couple married in 1943.

Judge praises cop who nabbed robber

"You are a brave, vigilant and courageous police officer and a real credit to the Department."

That was the comment of Judge Anselm Sodaro in Criminal Court on Monday when he praised a tan patrolman, William Young, of the Eastern District, for bringing a holdup suspect to justice.

Minutes later the defendant, George (Funger) Wallace, of the 100 block Colvin St., heard himself sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary for armed robbery involving less than $10.

The 26-year-old construction worker, who appeared in court with his arm in a sling, was convicted of robbing a restaurant in the 1500 block of E. Fayette St. last September.

Following the robbery Wallace was shot in the arm by Patrolman Young as he fled from the scene. The officer was off-duty at the time.

* * *

MISS IDA SNOWDEN of the 1800 block N. Caroline St., cashier at the restaurant, stated that when the holdup man enter d the building armed with a pistol, he ordered her "to give it to me."

Police later learned that Wallace had been armed with a a weapon that would not fire.

In a statement introduced in court the defendant said that he decided to pull a holdup after visiting a neighborhood bar.

Patrolman Young stated that while enroute to work in a taxi cab he noticed a commotion as he rode past the restaurant.

* * *

HE SAID that when he saw an armed man running he chased him to Dallas St. where he fired two warning shots and then a third which struck Wallace in the arm.

Records were produced by prosecuting attorney Frank J. Marcelino which indicated that Wallace had been in and out of jail on sentences imposed by five judges of the Supreme Bench.

Charges of pointing a gun at Patrolman Young and assault on Miss Snowden were dropped by the State.
