THE NEW RESTING PLACE—This is the site in Carroll County that has been designated as the new Laurel Cemetery. It is located some 22 miles from Baltimore and 14 miles from Westminster. The stones here are reportedly over the same remains that they were at the old cemetery. However, a number of remains which were not identified, have been buried in a section set aside for "unknowns." When queried about the presence of corn stalks on the ground, a workman on Saturday told an AFRO reporter that the field would be cleared after the stones have been set in place. He also said that grass would be planted in the spring and a picket fence installed.

Off The Beaten Path

BY ELIZABETH M. OLIVER

What happens to youngsters after they graduate from high school? After ten years, where are they?

One of the most revealing surveys is one made last Sunday night as the members of the Douglass High February, 1949 class held a get-together to make plans for their reunion in February, 1959.

No longer unsophisticated teen-agers, 48 of them gathered at the meeting and wrote down their occupations.

Out of the class of 224 youngsters who earned diplomas in February, 1949, the 48 persons who answered the roll call Sunday listed 13 occupations.

Eleven are local public school teachers, however the largest group, 14 young women, listed the most important career of all— that of homemaker or housewife.

SIX GRADS turned out to be office workers, three are Post Office workers, two are studying in institutions of higher learning.

Other occupations listed included a member of the Air Force; a laboratory technician; an accountant; a secretary, a writer, a therapist, an industrial worker; and a Baltimore Transit Co. driver.

Among unusual occupations was that of a graduate who is a sports writer for a Portland, Oregon newspaper. He is Walter Fredericks who was not present at Sunday's meeting.

Mr. Frederick was president of the class.

AS MEMORIES of high school days were recalled, the classmates took a moment to note that sorrow had also come to their group.

Irvin Bean, a popular grad who yearned to become a professional vibraphonist, was cut down by tragedy this year. His death was ruled a homicide.

According to the year book The Survey of February, 1949 young Bean predicted worldwide friendship among all peoples would be forthcoming as the years went by.

His classmates recalled him as friendly, always smiling and a talented musician.

His hobby was playing the vibraphone and at his death Bean was employed as a member of a local orchestra.

ALSO tenderly remembered by the February, 1949 classmates is another student who died this year.

He was Arthur Jerome Payne Jr., son of the Rev. Arthur J. Payne, Sr., pastor of Enon Baptist Church.

Young Payne had married and was the father of two children before he was fatally stricken with asthma.

The graduates dedicated their year book to the late Mrs. Iradell B. Williams, whom they selected for "her faith in God, her fellow men and in the thousands of young people whom she taught."

AT THE time the February, 1949 graduates went forth from Douglass never to study in high school again, Miss Hermoine E. Wharton was vice-principal along with Harry R. Parker, also vice-principal.

Ralph Reckling was principal.

A favorite teacher who acquainted the grads with Shakespeare is Mrs. Thelma Lawrence who has been confined to the hospital with an extended illness for most of 1958.

Class officers included Mr. Fredericks, president; Randolph Byrd, vice-president; Brenda Felton secretary; Cianning Jackson, III, treasurer.

Mr. Byrd was not present to record his occupation, however, Miss Felton is now Mrs. Burley, a housewife, who resides at 1133 N. Carrollton Ave.

Mr. Jackson, III, resides at 2326 Longwood St., is a computor machine operator.

Hiram Ammons, the class artist who designed the February, 1949 Survey, is a graduate student at the Maryland Institute of Art and a former Douglass art teacher.

IN THEIR new home now are local attorney Christopher Foreman, his wife, Thelma, the Elementary School No. 120 teacher, and their son Chris, Jr., who is six years old.

The fabulous abode is located at 3113 Leighton Ave. and in the 4th District, Chris emphasizes.

The pretty house features a simple "mad" club cellar, built in book cases and cupboards everywhere, a vast living room back and front yards with lovely shrubbery.

SUNDAY at 7:30 p.m. Sharp Street Methodist Church will be the scene of a family night of fellowship and song.

Under the direction of the Rev. Daniel Ridout, members of the Great Hymns Choir will sing old familiar hymns and beautiful sacred songs which are slated to usher in the yuletide season in a joyful way.

Mrs. Lillie Mae Jackson is chairman while Mrs. Pearl Shipley is president of the Board of Management which sponsors the evening of song.

THE Dunbar Evening School Thanksgiving basket party for the unfortunate turned out in an unusual way.

On Tuesday night when members of the committee gathered at the school it was discovered that there were many more than 50 baskets.

Although only one basket was expected from each class, some classes gave two and three.

Miss Anna Bennett, member of the publicity committee, announced that the result was more than 50 families were given baskets.

In each basket was a plump turkey, chicken or ham and food enough not only for a good Thanksgiving dinner but also for the week-end.

Credit for the success of the occasion goes not only to the 1,000 students of the night school, the principal, Henry W. Horsey, William Russell and William Hays, vice principals, but also to the committee:

Raymond Ridgeway, chairman; Mrs. Dorothy Chambers, co-chairman; and members, Mesdames Alma Adams, June Gould and Messrs Jesse Green, Robert White, Leonard Scott, and Raymond Puryear.

THE CHUMS Festive Harvest Ball was attended by 300 folks on Thanksgiving eve at the Unity Hall, Dundalk and it was a smart affair.

President of the group is Mrs. Ruth Paysour, Mrs. Doris Parker, secretary; Mrs. Mae Hawkins, vice-president; Mrs. Nellie Bowie, treasurer; Mrs. Dot Jones, business manager; members, Mesdames Beatrice Boyer, Hester Greenway, Doris Johnson, Leslie Smith, Velma Dorsey, Bernice Pembrook, Hilda Smith, Nina Scott.

SPEAKING ON the "full plate" side, the Eastern Star ladies served the most bountiful dinner we have ever witnessed.

More than 400 persons enjoyed turkey, dressing, gravy, parsleyed potatoes, sauerkraut, stewed tomatoes, green beans and large slices of ham — all this on top of a dinner plate plus hot buttered home made rolls, ice cream, cake and coffee, olives, celery, radishes, nuts and mints.

Up late the night before preparing 1,000 home-made pocket book rolls was Mrs. Ardella Scribner Fields, a staunch Eastern Star member and the town's only woman who operates her own bakery.

MOST DYNAMIC personality is Mrs. Edith Mosby, former grand worthy matron of the Eastern Star group, now point grand matron, and teacher at James Mosher School No. 144 for 25 years.

Smartly frocked in black lace with rhinestones sparkling at her ears, neck and wrists, Edith presided with efficiency over the sessions held at the Masonic Temple and Metropolitan Baptist Church Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Under her leadership the Myra Grand Chapter raised $17,259 this year for the new $125,000 Masonic Temple.

Edith's living room is simply loaded with gifts, tokens from members.

Most unusual gift was a sash of $15 in dollar bills from Mrs. Maggie Quille, District No. 1 Deputy.

Dr. Willard W. Allen, Masons, grand master gave her a large basket of flowers as did her sister, Mrs. Louise Coates. Mrs. Louise Coates. A corsage of yellow roses was from Past A corsage of yellow roses was from Past Grand Patron Lewis Martin, and a basket of red roses from Stanley Beckett.

Other gifts included silver, glassware, purses, jewelery, perfume, lamps, and dishes.

ON SUNDAY, Mrs. Mosby will present the Eastern Star $500 life membership deposit to the NAACP.

Active in civic and church affairs, Edith is in reality "on every boat that goes out." She was one of the speakers at the AFRO Summit Conference and has been a member of Shiloh Baptist for 11 years.

PART OF Edith's phenominal success as a fraternal leader and a beloved school teacher is her unusual ability to remember names and faces.

Once she hears your name she never forgets it, nor will she forget the time, place and circumstances under which she met you.

One of her final duties culminating a successful administration as head of the Eastern Star will be the presentation of sheets and gowns to Provident Hospital.

MOST BEAUTIFUL woman is Mrs. Lewis Martin, wife of the former grand patron of Eden, Md. A kiss and a yellow rose corsage were given Mrs. Martin by her husband as 500 guests and members looked on Tuesday.

His tribute was: "To my beautiful wife who is mother and sweetheart."

Mrs. Martin was stunningly crowned in black velvet with diamond earings, necklace and a diamond 5-pointed star at Sts.

and we serve notice that we are in this fight to the finish—if necessary to the Supreme Court," he added.

Paul J. Cockrell, the other NAACP attorney, said that if possible, restitution through the courts would be made to persons having deeds.

"However, we don't want to take the pecuniary aspect of this case," Mr. Cockrell said. "Here is something which involves fundamental rights," he added.

Urging that interests be combined under the NAACP, Dallas F. Nicholas said, "This case ought to be something which would weld people together. We aren't going to get anywhere with divided interests."

Mrs. Etta V. Spencer, of 532 N. Gilmor St., told the meeting her nephew the late Robert Tucksen was buried in Laurel as late as July of this year. Mrs. Spencer, who has a deed to the burial lot, said her nephew died July 10.

Real estate broker, J. Arnett Frisby, brother of Herbert, made a motion from the floor that the meeting "recognize the NAACP as its legal department and cooperate in pursuing the matter in the courts."

The motion was passed without a dissenting vote.

From the audience a woman, who said she travelled from Washington for the meeting, contended that the bodies had not been removed from the ground.

She asked what proof, if any, the lawyers had relative to the removal of the bodies.

Answering her question Franklin to Weinberg said he had information that an estimated 3,000 to 4,000 bodies had been buried in Laurel. He estimated that 300 to 400 bodies had been removed to Elders-berry.

Herbert Frisby, former head of the science department at Douglass High School, was elected chairman of the group. Mary E. Barton, secretary to Mr. Cockrell, was appointed secretary.

Mr. Frisby said he will appoint a steering committee within a few weeks.

Cardinal O'Hara great even in little deeds of kindness

By MILDRED O'NEILL
PHILADELPHIA

The new Cardinal O'Hara is a humble, cordial person and one royal enough to radiate encouragement to the least of his subjects.

I was fortunate in meeting him when he administered Confirmation to my 9 - year - old son Colton, at St. John of the Cross Church in Roslyn, Pa.

The children had to memorize about 200 questions in preparation for Confirmation.

CARDINAL O'HARA, then Archbishop of the Philadelphia Diocese, was there to administer the Confirmation. At random he picked certain of the children to answer specific questions.

Colton happened to be among this select few. But alas, when the Archbishop called on Colton, my son was overcome with awe. He hesitated on one part of the answer and cast about in a state of appeal.

I became frozen in my seat with motherly apprehension.

But the gracious Archbishop came immediately to the rescue and prompted the youngster on the answer. With this encouragement, Colton completed his recitation with outstanding confidence and assurance.

I shall always remember this great man's kindness and thoughtfulness in helping my son out of a difficult situation.

The Cardinal has maintained personal contact with many parishes during his six years as Archbishop, by dedicating schools, churches, blessing convent cornerstone and conferring with priests and laity.

John Cardinal O'Hara said he will "count on the prayers of our people and the protection of the Mother of God" to assist him with the work in his new dignity as a member of the Sacred College of Cardinals.

He said that the news of his selection "made me numb—I just can't get over it."

His Eminence, John Cardinal O'Hara insisted that the honor was one that had come my personal reluctance.

I am grateful to His Holiness for the recognition given the Catholic life in the Archdiocese of Philadelphia."

News of the appointment came by phone from Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, in Chicago for installation of Archbishop Albert Meyer as head of the Chicago See.

Following is the text of a message cabled to the Holy Father, the new Pope John XXIII, by Cardinal O'Hara upon learning of his appointment to the Sacred College of Cardinals:

"Profoundly moved by the condescension of Your Holiness I kneel to offer humble thanks for the extraordinary recognition Your Holiness has given the sound Catholic life of the good people of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia.

"I dare not give thought to my own unworthiness. Taking heart from the courage of Your Holiness in accepting God's Holy Will I beg Our Blessed Lady to obtain from God the graces I need for the intensified pastoral work that will now be mine.

"As one of the Bishops deeply moved by the pastoral message of Your Holiness to our meeting in Washington, I pledge a new my sentiments of loyalty and devotion and humbly beg the Apostolic Benediction."

CARDINAL O'HARA
'Humble . . . Cordial'

John Cardinal O'Hara was born in Ann Arbor, Mich., on May 1, 1888 and educated at South Bend, Ind., Catholic University, Washington, D.C. and the University in Pennsylvania in Philadelphia.

HE WAS ordained Sept. 8, 1916 and appointed titular bishop of Milasa and military delegate on Jan. 15, 1940. He was named bishop of Buffalo, N.Y., March 16, 1945 and named archbishop of Philadelphia on Nov. 28, 1951.

The new Cardinal is scheduled to leave by plane from Boston to Rome and the Papal Consistory on Dec. 10 to the Church in the Archdiocese and to all the Catholics of America.

CARDINAL O'HARA said "The call to serve the Holy Father in the College of Cardinals carries with it grave responsibilities. The courage demonstrated by His Holiness in accepting much greater responsibilities helps me to overcome

Man dead, matron shot in Thanksgiving Day dispute

"They didn't get a chance to even eat a piece of our turkey."

A 12-year-old son was speaking sadly Thanksgiving night, after his mother was seriously wounded and a man shot to death earlier in the afternoon at a tavern in the unit block N. Poppleton St.

The wounded mother of three children is Mrs. Hattie mant Ave., who is in Franklin Square Hospital with bullet wounds in her left shoulder and left side.

The dead man is William Sedgwick, 2000 block W. Saratoga St., Southwestern District police report.

However, a relative told the AFRO that Mrs. Glover and Mr. Sedgwick were married about a year and a half ago.

AT AFRO presstime, Southwestern District police were looking for a former suitor of the matron for questioning.

The shooting occurred about 2:55 p.m., as Mrs. Glover and Mr. Sedgwick sat together at the bar in the tavern, according to Patrolmen John Mox, Sr., and Charles Faulkner.

They reported that man entered and talked with Mrs. Glover for several minutes, before pulling an automatic pistol from his pocket and shooting Mr. Sedgwick in the chest first and then firing several shots at Mrs. Glover.

Mr. Sedgwick was pronounced dead at University Hospital. Mrs. Glover is reported in serious condition at Franklin Square.

Children and neighbors of Mrs. Glover gave her blood transfusions, shortly after she was admitted in the hospital.

Robert W. Barnes

Robert W. Barnes, 49, 1530 N. Caroline St., was buried yesterday (Thursday) after services at Grace Memorial Baptist Church, where he was an active member for more than ten years.

A native of Philadelphia, Pa., Mr. Barnes came to Baltimore in 1941. He worked as a chemical operator at Edgewood Arsenal for 12 years.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barnes Sr. (Mary) of Culpepper, Va.

SURVIVING ARE his wife, Mrs. Mamie Barnes, a daughter, Mrs. Muriel B. Quarles and a grandson, John R. Quarles Jr.

Also two sisters, Mesdames Dorothy Homes and Edna Lewis of Philadelphia.

The Rev. David C. Moore, acting minister of Grace Memorial, officiated at the services and the Rev. J. R. Butler delivered the eulogy.

Burial was at Carver Memorial Park.

Honor Mrs. German

Mrs. Violet W. German, 828 Chauncey Ave., an employee in the dietetic department of the United States Public Health Service Hospital, recently received a certificate and a check for $100 in recognition of her sustained superior work performance.

She began her employment with the hospital in 1936 as a ward maid and later transferred to dietetics. She was recently promoted to food service supervisor.

Mrs. German is a member of John Wesley ME Church and the Queen of Sheba Chapter, OES, PHA.

Also receiving awards on the same program were A. check, chief cook, and Mrs. A. O'Hara, maintenance clerk.

Mrs. Emma Gibson buried in Virginia

By E. S. McDANIEL

Mrs. Emma Gibson of 819 J St., Sparrows Point died at Johns Hopkins Hospital after a long illness.

The funeral was held at the Provident Baptist Church in Remington, Va., on Saturday, with the Rev. Carlton O. Cooke, pastor of Union Baptist Church, Sparrows Point, presiding.

The Rev. E. W. Tyler, pastor of Provident Church, assisted with the services. Burial was in the church cemetery.

A three car-cortege accompanied the body to Virginia. Among the close friends who went with the family were Mrs. Estelle Flourney, Mrs. Minnie Craigway, Mr. and Mrs. Doward Patterson Sr., Edward Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Boutward, and Mrs. Hattie Oliver.

Mrs. Gibson was born in Fouqua County, Va. on Jan. 10, 1900. She was a faithful member of the Union Baptist Church for many years.

Her survivors include her husband, William Gibson, a daughter, Mrs. Christine Baker of Buffalo, N.Y., and other relatives.

Robert W. Jones

Robert W. Jones, 35, 1600 block Pennsylvania Ave., was found dead Sunday afternoon by Thomas Whittington, manager of a Pennsylvania Ave. hotel where Mr. Jones was a permanent resident, police have reported.

Mr. Whittington reportedly told police he had been requested by Mr. Jones' sister, Mrs. Nora Shorter, to call her brother.

Mr. Jones was found lying on the floor of his room with his head on a pillow.

A native of Baltimore, Mr. Jones was born Nov. 22, 1923.

Mr. Jones is survived by his father, Emory Garrett; his mother, Mrs. Dorothy Franklin, and his sister, Mrs. Shorter.
