

Consists of a stone dwelling house containing about fourteen rooms, in good condition, has oil burner furnace, electric lights, water in the house, hot and cold, bath room, medium size barn, cow barn, two silos, two tenant houses, hog pen, wagon shed attached to barn, stream of water running through the meadow. Both farms in good state of cultivation. Toll house is small brick house containing about four rooms and little lot to it.

What do you know about the entrance to the Zimmerman farm?

There is a lane going from the state road to the first farm and extends on back to the second farm and has been an open lane as long as I knew anything, about forty or fifty years.
