"We are Americans and as Americans we would speak to America" — Frederick Douglass

A sense of humiliation

It's a strange situation that a city as large as Baltimore should have a newspaper as old and normally sensible as the Baltimore Evening Sun and yet be so reactionary when it comes to race relations.

In the area of civil rights, the Sun is as fuddy duddy as a pair of high button shoes.

Never to be forgotten was the response to a speech the Sun's editor delivered at Morgan State College, in which in so many words he told students they were racially inferior.

"Nuts to you," was the apt rejoinder he drew.

* * *

THE BALTIMORE City Council two weeks ago refused to pass a resolution that would have permitted Marian Anderson or Ralph Bunche to get a cup of coffee or a night's lodging in the first restaurant or hotel they approached.

Cheering thousands of fans bore Lenny Moore out of Memorial Stadium on their shoulders last Sunday in adulation for scoring the winning touchdown against the 49ers.

These same admiring fans probably would have been shocked at the fact that there isn't a restaurant within six blocks of the stadium that under the law would be required to serve Lenny a cup of coffee.

* * *

WE ARE CONVINCED that people wouldn't do such horribly mean things to other people if they saw clearly what they were doing.

In voting as they did, 11 members of the City Council actually did not realize that they were supporting continued violation of a law as ancient as the hostelry business itself.

Rooted deep in the old English law is the tradition that no traveler can be refused a meal or a bed in a public inn.

If members of the City Council clearly understood what they were doing and if the Sun understands what a horrible thing it is doing when it commends lawmakers of the Council for what they did, they would be ashamed of themselves.

There isn't a decent human being in Baltimore, white or black, who upon sober reflection doesn't feel a sense of humiliation at the Council's backward step in rejecting the Dixon civil rights bill.

Mrs. Santa needs help

This year, with the assistance of its readers, the AFRO is once again conducting its Mrs. Santa Claus Project for the benefit of needy families.

In the past, hundreds of families have been assisted through this project and this year, judging by the volume of letters already received by Mrs. Santa, the list of families seeking help will be larger than ever.

Unless they receive assistance from the outside, these families will have little to look forward to on Christmas Day.

Somewhere in this city on Christmas morning there may be a child who will awake to find Santa has passed him by again, or perhaps there will be a mother whose heart will ache because her child does not have a coat, or there may be an elderly couple, alone and friendless, who will sit down to a meager meal and pretend that it is a holiday banquet.

Thankfully, however, there are people in Baltimore who care about their neighbors and through their assistance the Mrs. Santa Claus Project will bring smiles on Christmas Day, where there might be tears.

No matter how small the gift, may be there is somewhere it can be used to make someone happy.

To make it convenient to contribute small gifts a number of collection points have been set up around the city and this edition carries a complete list of such sites.

The procedure for donating larger gifts, such as baskets, which are urgently needed, is detailed in the story appearing on page one of this edition.

By following the letters from the needy families which will be published in this and other pre-Christmas editions of the AFRO, our readers will learn of the desperate plight of many of these families.

Through your help or the help of your club, church or business firm, Mrs. Santa Claus can help those who need help the most and those who have given can enjoy their Christmas knowing they have extended a helping hand to someone who needed it.

Fourth District figures

There is a total of 54,172 registered voters in the Fourth Councilmanic District. Of these, 30,696 are colored and 23,476 are white.

Republicans number 15,754. A total of 12,593 is colored and 3,161 are white.

Democrats number 37,239. White Democrats total 19,783. Colored Democrats number 17,456.

The figures show that white colored voters outnumber white by some 7,000 in the District, colored Democrats are still outnumbered by white Democrats by 2,327.

Registration books are again open. Our job if we are ever to win recognition comparable to our population in the district is to register more Democrats.

Next March when the primary is scheduled is too late. The time to get busy is right now.

Schools and fires

The tragic school fire in Chicago serves to remind us that Baltimore schoolchildren, too many of them, are studying today in old, dilapidated buildings which might well be fire hazards.

Certainly, one of those would be the 116-year-old school at Druid Hill Ave. and Biddle St., now known as a junior high.

Thirty-seven years ago (1921) the Strayer report recommended it be abonded for public school use. But it is still school for 200 boys enrolled in special opportunity classes.

New school construction has not kept pace with the increased school enrollment in many sections of the county. Baltimore is no exception. School officials report there are a number of old buildings now in use they would like to abandon, but they lack the funds.

Meantime, Dr. John H. Fischer, superintendent of schools and Fire Chief Michael H. Lotz report that every human precaution, including unannounced fire drills, is taken at all times to assure safety in our schools.

We're glad to know this, but we will feel a whole lot better when 100-year-old school buildings like that occupied by School No. 131, and condemned for school use 37 years ago, are a thing of the past.

An eye on Dec. 28

The western division title safely tucked in their belts, the incomparable Baltimore Colts took off Tuesday afternoon for the final two scheduled encounters of the season in California.

Victories over the air-happy Los Angeles Rams and again over the pesky San Francisco 49ers will not add to the Colts' prestige or change the standings one whit.

For these reasons, the majority of their million-odd fans back home are concerned with a game slated for the last Sunday in December. This is the date of the championship affray.

Yet to be determined is whether our Colts will have to beat the New York Giants or the Cleveland Browns to become undisputed champions of the football world.

* * *

THERE IS ONE school of Colt backers who would like for it to be the Giants.

They are still smouldering over that defeat the Giants hung on the Colts at a time they were crippled with injuries.

They would like to prove to the world that it couldn't happen with a healthy Johnny Unitas at quarterback and a robust L. G. Dupre slashing off right tackle.

And it would be much easier for thousands of Colt backers to journey to New York than it would be to Cleveland.

But there is another segment which just as earnestly hopes the Cleveland Browns will be the Dec. 28 foe.

For one thing they are irritated by Cleveland Coach Paul Brown's disdainful statement that he doesn't need to scout the Colts, since, he says, the Colts play "our kind of football."

That was a crack at Colt Coach Weeb Ewbank, a graduate of the Brown coaching ranks.

* * *

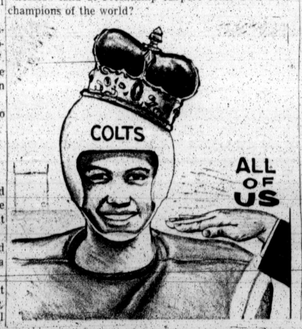
FOR ANOTHER, they are confident that the Colt defensive stalwarts have the tools and the will to stop such Cleveland carriers as the great Jim Brown and Bob Mitchell.

And they want to have visual support for their argument that Lenny Moore is a faster, more sure-footed and more elusive runner than Bob Mitchell, a fact some Cleveland fans are prone to dispute.

Moreover, they are unhappy over the fact that the smart money boys rate the Colts only three points better than the Browns. This is far too conservative, they say. Eight or ten would be nearer the true difference.

But one thing is certain.

If long-frustrated Baltimore fans can react as joyously as they did Sunday over winning the division title what in the world will happen when our beloved "hosses" land at Friendship Airport come Dec. 29, as champions of the world?



How You Can Share With Those Less Fortunate

Noteworthy

By HERBERT MANGRUM

More than 37,000 fans were in deep freeze at Memorial Stadium Sunday when the Colts lassoed the Western Conference title in the National Football League.

What a comeback for a team who only seven years ago, while in Dallas, had to almost pay the oil rich Texans to attend their games.

* * *

A GOOD EXAMPLE of the shape the team found itself in at that time was cited by Buddy Young on his radio show this week.

His story is that before game time, the coach, during his pep talk, announced that there was no use in announcing the player's names over the public address system.

"There are so few people here today," the coach is alleged to have said, "that after the game we will all go up in the stands and meet each one."

Now look what's happened. Each Colt player is in a position to rake in scads and scads of dough.

And then there's always that little extra change they can pick up by endorsing razor blades, soda pop and what have you.

* * *

THERE'S a beauty shop in the 600 block of E. Biddle St. that could do with a bit of public relations work.

In the window they have posted this sign:

"Famoushair stylsit from Chicago. Specialing in one two and three special hair dodes. Call for app."

* * *

AND THEN THERE'S that confusing billboard near Jerseys Garden State Parkway. It says:

"Men make the best husbands." That's all, nothing more.

* * *

The owners of a novelty store at Liberty near Park Ave. have posted this bit of vital info:

"Dehydrated cats for sale."

WONDER WHY local citizens don't support high school football the way other cities do?

Attended an out of state high school game Thanksgiving Day that had an attendance record almost equal to the Colts.

Thought about a recent home game where there were just over 100 persons present.

Thanks for the story

Dear AFRO:

I wish to express my deepest appreciation to you for the very splendid pictures and story you gave my family and daughter, LaFaithia.

All our friends were very happy about the story. May I extend many thanks and best wishes for the continued success of a great paper.

RALPH AND ANN DOTY

(Ed. Note — A story and photos of Mrs. Doty and her daughter, 23-year-old LaFaithia Elliott, Baltimore dancer now appearing abroad, appeared in the AFRO on Nov. 29.)

THERE'S A lucky picture in this and every edition which is worth $5 cash to you if your head is circled in the oval. If you're in the lucky picture, all you have to do to collect is call at the AFRO City Desk BEFORE the next edition is out.

Thanksgiving photo

Dear AFRO:

We acknowledge receipt of the Thanksgiving photo (of a Covington Poultry Co. employee with a turkey) which the AFRO so generously publicized. I am also aware of the fact that this publicity, in the form of advertisement, could not have been afforded by our company.

I am very grateful that the AFRO selected our company for its Thanksgiving picture. I am offering my thanks and that of my employees to you and the AFRO for your kindness.

Funds for the blind

Dear AFRO:

A few months ago a small group of people came together to assist Mrs. Anna Mae Hunter to incorporate a foundation for the purpose of helping the blind people of our state. With the legal advice of an attorney, the Anna Mae Hunter Foundation became incorporated July 19, 1958.

Because of the generosity of many of the people of this community, a desirable home for the blind was found — (1321 N. Eutaw Place). The home was secured at a cost of $25,000. Funds are now needed to pay for the home.

The down payment is $3,000. The first part of the down payment (which is $1,000) is due January 1, 1959. We are appealing to AFRO readers to help us with a contribution whether it is large or small. PLEASE DON'T LET US DOWN. WE NEED YOUR SUPPORT.

Make your check or money order payable to Anna Mae Hunter Foundation, Inc. Mail your contribution to:

Opportunity Day

Dear AFRO:

All of us in the Urban League are sincerely grateful for the splendid "Equal Opportunities" editorial in the Nov. 22, 1958 issue.

It was good of the AFRO AMERICAN to commend the purpose of Equal Opportunity and to speak so generously of the work of the Urban League.

You are entirely correct in saying that we in the League fully share, with all other true Americans, the hope that the time is not too far distant when the practice of equal opportunity will characterize the life of this community each day in the year.

We look forward to the continued cooperation of the AFRO - AMERICAN Newspapers in the task of making that goal a reality in our time.

Donation challenge

Dear AFRO:

It is inevitable that non profit organizations must sooner or later ask their friends for money. This is the case with Fellowship House, but we think we have an interesting challenge to present to our friends at this time.

Last week I had an interview with Dr. Louis Kaplan, of the Baltimore Hebrew College. In the course of our conversation he mentioned that he felt that too often financial support for organizations such as Fellowship House comes mainly from the Jewish Community.

I agreed that this is true of many of our Houses, but that with a few exceptions, much of the support of the Baltimore Fellowship has come from the colored community and that some of our board members had told me that they preferred not to solicit until they were assured of more white participation.

Then Dr. Kaplan threw out this challenge. He will match dollar for dollar any funds we raise from the non-Jewish community between now and Dec. 15—up to $1,000!

Since our fiscal year is May 1 to April 30 and our general membership campaign should be at that time, we are hoping that a few individuals will accept this challenge without our having to make a general appeal to the public. We are confident that we can get the support of a few "large" donations so that we can quickly raise our $1,000 in order to receive his donation.

* * *

I CAN truthfully say that I am not ashamed to ask for money at this point. The response to all of our program ventures has been good. We have many new people involved in the varied projects and everything is on the upswing. There is still much more we can do, but we must have money.

But now it is not just a case of "holding together," which has been the plea for so long. We are really justifying our existence and I am confident that the community will be more and more aware of the work we are doing and can do in the future.

I also want to add that the publicity the AFRO has been giving us is greatly responsible for the increase in attendance and I am most appreciative of your cooperation — for I fully realize how important this phase of public relations is to us.

(Miss) RUTH FEGLEY

THE AFRO'S CREDO

A newspaper succeeds because its management believes in itself, in God and in the present generation. It must always ask itself —

Whether it has kept the faith with the common people;

Whether it has no other goal except to see that their liberties are preserved and their lives enriched;

Whether it is fighting to get rid of slums, to provide jobs for everybody;

Whether it stays out of politics except to expose corruption and condemn injustice, race prejudice or compromise.

—JOHN MURPHY SR., 1920

If You Ask Me

By B. M. PHILLIPS

People, places, and things...

Now they're six: The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Williams (Ruth) have another boy.

Baby arrived Nov. 20 at Hopkins Hospital, weighed in at 8 pounds and 3 ounces, and has been named Mark Robert.

The Rev. Mr. Williams is pastor of Metropolitan Methodist Church.

* * *

Birthday hallos to Miss Pauline Blanchard, 1428 N. Parrish St. She celebrates on December 12.

The junior Raymond T. Carpenters (Gloria) will have their five-month-old son, Raymond Lewis, baptized on Sunday morning at Madison Ave. Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Reginald Daniels will officiate.

Godparents are Mrs. Doris H. Wilson of Washington, and Benjamin C. Whitten of our town.

* * *

LUCKY PEOPLE of the week: Mrs. Elva Matthews and Mrs. Josephine Rogers, case work supervisors with the Dept. of Public Welfare.

They escaped injury when that Baltimore-bound train came to an emergency stop just outside the 30th St. station in Philadelphia, had to change trains and were 75 minutes late arriving home, Monday evening.

Railroad officials report no one was seriously hurt although occupants of a dining car were shaken up.

Also lucky: Mrs. Fairlean Holcombe — AFRO classified clerk.

More people and things...

The dinner party the Baltimore Guardsmen gave Saturday was it! In other words they did it up right!

The occasion marked their 25th anniversary. The place was the very fabulous new Morgan Park home of Dr. and Mrs. William (Wilhelmina) Garnier.

With this ultra setting, the Guardsmen selected Waters Catering Co. which used its best silver and china to serve them.

Guests oohed and ahed from the minute they had the lobster thermador and beef tenderloin, et al, until the coffee was served for the men in the den, and Mrs. Garner poured for the ladies in the dining room.

Between admiring the glass wall of the huge living room, the tastefully furnished master bedroom area, the many grooms closets and powder rooms and enjoying the food, there was time for little else, except to note that the hostess sported a pale white dinner gown almost the color of the walls of the living area and how its chartreuse sash gave just the right effect.

Members who were present with their wives to whom they presented silver engraved bracelets were: Steve Moore, Clit Murray, Dr. Barnett Rhetta, John Wool, Howard Collins, Warren Weaver, James Wood, Charles Brown, William Harris, Robert Diggs, Paul Chester, David Mason, Richard Cummings, Harold Jennifer, Walter Edmonds, Al Moore, Edward Williams and Dr. Marcus Moore.

Mrs. Williams was absent because the youngster was ailing. Also ailing and absent: Mrs. Moore.

Out-of-town Guardsmen who came in later were:—Mr. and Mrs. Douglass Henderson of Philadelphia, and Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Strothers of New York.

The Strothers (she's the former Vivian Batson) had to leave early.

Word came that her cousin, Billy Hogans, was killed in an auto accident near his home in Manassas, Va., so they had to beat it back home because his mother was baby sitting with her 15-month-old youngster, Elbert II.

Mr. Strothers, by the way, is psychology-therapist with the bureau of mental health services in N.Y., and is studying for his doctorate at NYU.

At the Neptune Yacht Club's annual cabaret and dance Sunday evening at the Famous Ballroom, guests were just delighted with the "dreamy" music provided by the Norman Brooks Society Orchestra.

Among out-of-towners about: Mr. and Mrs. Leon Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Stacey White, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Humbles, all of Washington.

Also creating quite a bit of attention of partygoers—the Connie Johnsons — he's the Oriole pitcher.

And Mrs. Esther Gordon and Walter Rice, who wore at the same table and appeared to have that certain look in their eyes. They say, however, no date has been set.

People coming and going...

The Rev. and Mrs. Spencer Dobson (Estelle) are back from Ft. Jackson, S.C., where they went to visit their youngest son, Pvt. David Dobson, 22.

David was drafted in September just as he was about to begin his senior year in the school of music at Howard University.

At his army post, he is serving as an assistant to the chaplain. He must have been mighty proud to have his dad come, visit the post and speak at Thanksgiving and Sunday services.

* * *

One thing, his dad was proud of him and enjoyed the visits he had with the post chaplains, so says Mrs. Dobson, who is still finding it hard to believe her five boys and daughter are babies no more but young men and women. Time flies!

* * *

Congratulations to the newly-wed Charles Rileys—she's the former Naomi Williams, Social Security clerk. They were married on Saturday at the Temple of God Pentecostal Church.

Mr. Riley is a Pittsburgh barber.

The newlyweds are making their home at 1802 Braddish Ave.

Mrs. Basil Hall, Phoenix, Md. housewife, missed a Christmas bonus on Thursday morning. She was not listening to or watching 'Mr. Fortune,' the TV giveaway man, so she could not collect the $100 he had to give away.

Forgot to mention a week back that John and Mildred Speed were in New York for a brief visit and now back home.

Mr. Speed is proprietor of his own barber shop; and the Mrs. operates a Pine St. beauty salon.

Mrs. Nora T. Walker, has returned to her home in Burgess, Va., after undergoing surgery here. She recuperated at the Morgan Park home of her sister, Mrs. Louise Dolvey, and with loving sister care left feeling like new.

In Burgess, Mrs. Walker holds down a teaching post and keeps busy as the wife of Harvey J. Walker Sr., and mother and grandmother of three.

The Walker children are Harvey Jr., who is a Baltimore postal worker; twin daughters, Marcell, Va. state instructor now on sabbatical leave to study for her doctorate at the University of Michigan (math's her field, smart girls); and Mrs. Marjorie W. Payton, who is a teacher at Carver High here in Baltimore.

* * *

Wish I could find the right words to describe the oh so proud and proud expressions on the faces of two very important people at the Mills-Chapman wedding on Saturday.

Mrs. Cedric E. Mills, mother of the bridegroom; and Mrs. Norman Chapman, mother of the bride. (Marcia Chapman, who was pretty as a picture.)

And, somehow as I watched the bridegroom's dad, Father Cedric E. Mills, perform the ceremony, I had the feeling he was mighty proud too.

It isn't everybody who gets an opportunity to perform the ceremony which unites his only son and the girl of his choice.

* * *

Cutest thing at the wedding: Four-year-old Jeffrey Tarter, son of the Earl Tarters. He was the ringbearer.

You should have seen him stand straight as a ramrod and at attention during what to him must have been the long nuptial mass.

He was truly a little gentleman!

* * *

Darling too—Three-year-old Nina Thomas, daughter of the Junior Joseph Thomases of Dundalk, who was flower girl. Her coral party dress matched those of the seven bridesmaids.

James Moubarty, who served the 400-odd guests at the reception in the church hall, carried the coral and white over into the decorations for the four-tiered cake and the table. Very unique.

The newlyweds received oodles of gifts — silver, radios, linens, et al, but the gift item which caught every eye was the Hi Fi set, gift of Nathaniel Baxter family of N.Y.

MORE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL

Word is that the powers that be will go so far as to create a new commission to get Sammy Daniels off the Governor's Commission On Inter-Racial Problems.

Regardless of maneuvers on his behalf, Mr. Daniels will not be on the job after the Legislature adjourns the 90-day session in April.

* * *

WHAT'S IN STORE for Mrs. Charlotte Mebane, Mrs. Irma Dixon's campaign manager?

* * *

BARRETT SCHOOL for Girls will be integrated so all board members will be out.

This includes Emerson Brown, Vernon Green, Dr. U. G. Bourne, and Mesdames Lillian Lottier, Anita Williams and Gertha Winston.

Also slated to go is Mrs. Virgie Waters a member of the State Beauty Board, as well as Jesse Redden of the Undertakers' Board whose membership will be an entirely new one.

* * *

AT BOYS' VILLAGE, Mrs. Violet Hill Whyte and Robert G. McGuire, members of the board, as well as Herman Curtis are due to be replaced since their terms are up as of June, 1959.

* * *

ALSO COUNT out Dr. Charles T. Woodland who is a member of the Advisory Council on Hospital Construction and Dr. Dwight O. W. Holmes who is a member of the State Board of Education.

AMONG THE Supervisors of Elections, only one will be allowed to remain under this new administration.

She is Mr. Marse Callaway. All others will be new and some surprises are in store here as appointments are made.

ALL BETS ARE on Dr. Bernard Harris to get back a post he held under Governor Lane 12 years ago — that of medical examiner for the State Athletic Commission.

* * *

PRETTY GOOD PLUMS are the Board of Liquor Licenses appointments coming up. There are three full - time inspectors jobs with only two of the open to be filled.

Come June 1 a new board member will be appointed to the Cheltenham School for Boys.

The present assistant states attorney will step down but who'll get it, we don't know yet.

* * *

BESIDES THE magistrate at Northwestern there will be posts for a magistrate at large and justices of peace.

* * *

CONSULT THE Maryland Manual on these:

The new state office buildings will need plenty of new workers in all capacities.

The State Department of Public Welfare is due to get board members and case workers as is the State Department of Health.

Offices on the State Parole Board now held by Republicans will go to Democrats.

The State Board of Motion Picture Operators is due a member.

The Department of Employment Security is scheduled to get stenographers and a new member of the Morgan State Board of Trustees is to be appointed.

We've been right on predictions so far but on these we may be wrong. (It's not likely however since anything goes in love and politics, and this ain't love.)

Some say that J. Harold Grade is being groomed to run for Mayor while others are certain Thomas D. Alexander, Jr. will be re-elected with flying colors.

Anyway, Senator Harry A. Cole seems to be on the wrong side to run for City Council and he can't switch to the Democratic party now.

* * *

WE TOLD YOU last week who will be the new Traffic Court magistrate and who will be new at Northwestern, but who will the new investigators at the Department of Motor Vehicles be?

The State Planning Commission will have a new member, so will the State Industrial Accident Commission and the Maryland Civil Defense Agency.

* * *

A HINT TO THE wise is sufficient.

Since governor - elect J. Millard Tawes pulled in more than 200,000 votes, it'll be hard to pressure him into naming anyone special.

Folk in the know predict that he is free to go ahead and look after his friends.

But here's the pay-off: Although he said he wanted but one term, word on the wind is that the governor - elect will change his mind.

* * *

THE LADIES GUILD of Provident Hospital will hold its annual cake bake and apron sale on Thursday, Dec. 11 in the hospital annex.

Mrs. Virginia Champ, president and Mrs. Ruth B. Murray, chairman, announce that dinner will be served at 5 p.m. with a special drawing at 9:30 p.m. by the Scholarship Committee.

* * *

INSTEAD OF GET - WELL greetings, how about pretty Christmas or Seasons Greetings cards to the shut-ins and the sick?

Imagine how they feel with a joyous yuletide coming in and they must face it alone and ill.

Whether you know these nice people or not, place the following names on your Christmas cheer list:

Mrs. Annie H. Coats, 2211 Linden Ave.; Elenora Coles, 1716 McCulloh St.; Sedonia Collins, N. M. Carroll Home; Mrs. Mahie Edwards, 1011 Tiffany Ct.; Mrs. Mario Flammer, 629 Smithson St.; Mrs. Gertrude Flippen, 535 N. Carrollton Ave.;

ALSO DON'T FORGET: Mrs. Nellie Frazier, Plaza Manor Homes, Furnace Branch, M1; Mrs. Lena Griffin, 210 Cold Spring Lane; Mrs. Ella Hammond, Henryton Hospital; Mrs. Estella Haynes, Maryland Baptist Home, 2801 Rayner Ave.; George Hester, 2101 Cold Spring Lane; Fanny Lewis, 2205 Druid Hill Ave.; Mrs. Anna Lindsey, 1707 McCulloh St.; Mrs. Luvenia Mason, 519 N. Carey St.; Mrs. Florence Menesee, 1902 Madison Ave.; John J. Miller, 1705 W. North Ave.;

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mitchell, 2304 W. Lanvale St.; Mrs. Mamie Mitchell, 1836 McCulloh St.; Mrs. Mary Mitchell, 2117 Division St.; Mrs. Bessie Mobley, 503 Blum St.; Mrs. Marie Moody, 1507 Holmes Ave.; Mrs. Jeanetta Newman, 512 N. Arlington Ave.;

Mrs. Florina Owens, Maryland Baptist Home, 2801 Rayner Ave.; Edwin M. Peck, 1905 Druid Hill Ave.; Mrs. Mary Pratt, 2015 E. Chase St.; Mrs. Esther Richardson, 1942 Penrose St.; Mrs. Alexina Short, 704 N. Arlington Ave.; Mrs. Laura Smith, 1809 Druid Hill Ave.;

Mrs. Laura Thompson, 2541 W. Lanvale St.; John Tillman, 1010 Clifton Ave. (formerly of 2305 Madison Ave.); Mrs. Gladys Tolbert, 707 N. Fulton Ave.; Robert Trust, N. M. Carroll Home; Mrs. Anna Walker, 641 N. Carey St.; Mrs. Olie Wilson, 715 N. Mount St.

* * *

MRS. SUSIE JACKSON, 74, 1319 Fremont Ave., was found dead in her home a week ago Wednesday.

She had been a member of Sharp Street Church for more than 50 years and was buried from there on Dec. 3, just one month after her 100th birthday.

Mrs. Jackson counted many of her fellow church members among her friends and there were many good neighbors who loved her, but she died without any surviving close of kin.

* * *

THE LONG - AWAITED reception for the Rev. and Mrs. Julius Carroll is tonight (Friday) in the Sharp Street Church community building dining room.

The Rev. Mr. Carroll was assistant pastor and worked along with the Rev. Edward Carroll, his brother, until his appointment at Washington's Randall Methodist Church this fall.

* * *

A NEW BALTIMORE citizen for the year 1959 will arrive on the scene perhaps December 25, Christmas Day or it could be New Years Day, 1959.

Anyway, expected within the next three or four weeks is the Robert R. Watts new baby, the third kiddie for Bob and Jacqueline.

Already there is Rodney, 13 and Jacqueline, 2nd, age 3.

* * *

TO MAKE THE circle complete, go back to the beginning of the colum and just for fun, see what top spot will S. Edward Smith's reward come appointment time.

I know, but let's save something for the next time - next week - when we'll fill in all the holes with Democrats.

Great Southern Temple and Monumental Elks No. 3 members will hold memorial services for deceased members Sunday at Ames Methodist Church.

Guests on the occasion will be members of deceased Elk families.

All La Platta, Md. citizens will turn out Sunday to attend the Charles County Citizens Committee testimonial honoring attorneys Tucker R. Dearing and Mrs. Juanita Mitchell for their accomplishments in civil rights.

The affair will be held in the Pomonkey high School auditorium with Luther H. Stuckey as chairman.

"GOOD LUCK TO YOU" — Photo made at Montebello State Hospital on Tuesday shows Mrs. Anne Beadenkopf, 3200 block of N. Charles St., receiving a merit certificate from Mrs. Lillie M. Jackson, president of the Baltimore NAACP. Mrs. Beadenkopf, an ardent NAACP worker and well-known here as an artist, left the hospital on Friday to go to Doylestown, Pa., where she will make her home. She had been confined to Montebello Hospital and earlier in other hospitals for treatment of injuries suffered in a fall near her Charles St. home last May 4.

Former tenant seeks $70,000

James Kenneth Easley Jr., 500 block N. Carrollton Ave., has filed suit in Superior Court with Christopher Foreman as his attorney to collection $20,000 damages from Mrs. Nellie Patterson, the 500 block N. Carrollton Ave., identified in court papers as her former landlady.

Mr. Easley alleged that Mrs. Patterson caused him to be falsely arrested in June and charged with theft of $300 from her apartment.

Although completely freed of the charges, Mr. Easley told the court that he suffered humiliation, mental agony, and injured reputation.
