THE DEATH OF BISHOP MEADE.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—The papers some two weeks since announced the death of that stern old soldier of the Cross, Bishop Meade, of Virginia; but what was his disease, or under what circumstances his death took place, these sad times did not permit us to hear. To-day, however, I am placed in receipt of a letter, giving me some particulars of his last moments, and I send you an extract, which will interest many of your readers. "He was," says Mr. Randolph, "except Mr. Macon and Chief Justice Marshall, the wisest man I ever knew—and how the dying words of such a man will be treasured up for time to come, it requires no prophet to foretell."

I must now speak of the death of that eminent Christian and our dear old Bishop Meade. He had been called to Richmond to consecrate the Bishop of Alabama; during the service he was taken ill and was removed to the house of John L. Macon, where he died. After exhorting his brethren (who were around him) in behalf of the Church, he turned to them and said, "tell the people of Virginia and the Southern Confederacy, that, realizing this solemn occasion, and with a full consciousness that in a few moments I shall be summoned before God, I have no reason to regret the position I have taken; indeed, I am now more than ever convinced that the world knows no more iniquitous war. It therefore becomes the people of the South, the young men especially, to struggle on firmly, relying upon God, and success will crown their efforts."

HOW COL. BISSELL'S ENGINEERS FORCED THEIR WAY TO GENERAL POPE.

A correspondent of the Rochester Union, with Col. Bissell at New Madrid, informs that journal how the steamboats were carried through the bayous and sloughs to the relief of Gen Pope. We quote:

Col. Bissell stated that he could by hand labor get steamboats and flatboats through the woods and bayous, and by that means land our forces nearly opposite New Madrid, and take all the enemy's works in the rear. Gen. Pope at once gave him a carte blanche, and he sent to Cairo for four steamboats, six flats, and such guns as could be spared. They sent four steamboats, with the barges, a quantity of lumber, &c., and one 8 inch columbiad and three 32-pounders. Tools we did not need, for the regiment carries everything, from the heaviest ropes and screws down to fine steel drills for unspiking guns. Our route is about twelve miles long, of which two miles were through thick timber, and the remaining ten through narrow, crooked bayous grown up full of brush and small trees. We have cut our way right through, the track being fifty feet wide, in which thirty feet are required for the hulls of the boats. The timber is cut four feet below the surface of the water. In one short stretch we cut seventy-five trees thus deep, not one less than two feet through. The machines were rigged from rafts and our lowest flats, and worked each by about twenty men.

In the first place three large launches went ahead to cut out and push out of the track the underbrush and drift wood, then the rafts followed, on which were the men who cut down and cut off the trees; then the saws, then two large barges, then one of the steamboats. Very large lines were provided to run from the capstan of the steamboats and haul out by snatch blocks what the men could not handle. Then followed the rest of the fleet, men being engaged all the time converting the flat boats into floating batteries. From the river to the levee the distance is about 500 feet; here the water was shallow and the route full of stumps; it took one whole day to pass this—then the cut in the levee. Here the fall was over two feet and the rush of water was tremendous. The largest boat was dropped through with five lines out ahead. Then a cornfield overflowed from a cut in the levee. Here was something of a channel cut by the swift water, and we got along well nearly a quarter of a mile to the which empties into the Mississippi at New Madrid. If you have never seen a Southern swamp you have no idea how thick and how impenetrable a New York elm swamp does not begin. It sometimes took twenty men a whole day to get out a half-sunken tree across the bayou. Such a place as that kept us back, as none of the rafts or flats could get by, and all had to wait. The water, after we got into the woods, was about six feet deep, with a gentle current setting eastward; tremendous logs had to be checked down with chains and lead lines.—Here we found some obstructions, caused by drift heaps, but cutting a one or two logs would start all down the current.

TIME DIFFERENCES IN THE UNITED STATES.—Boston time is, of course, considerably faster than that of all the leading cities of the United States. The figures given below indicate how many minutes slower the time is in the cities named than it is in Boston. New York 12 minutes, Philadelphia 16, Baltimore 22, Washington 24, Richmond 26, Charleston 35, New Orleans 76, Buffalo 30, Cleveland 42, Detroit 48, Cincinnati 53, Indianapolis 57, Louisville 57, Chicago 65, Cairo 70, St. Louis 76, St. Paul 88, San Francisco 207 minutes. This difference of time is quite important in these days, when the telegraph is so generally used.

RECONSTRUCTION.—The Postmaster-General has appointed J. W. Roseberry Postmaster at Manassas Junction, Prince William county, Va; and Henry C. Brooks Postmaster at Fairfax Court House, Fairfax county, Va. These two offices will hereafter, of course, be regularly supplied with the mails of the United States.—Washington Star.

RELIABLE NEWS.

BALTIMORE, March 29, 1862.

Mr. Geo. Pearson—Dear Sir: Being troubled with a severe SORE THROAT and Cold (which settled on my lungs), I tried your MEDICATED TAR DROPS, and can speak very flatteringly of their having relieved me in a few hours, and curing me in three or four days. I cheerfully recommend your justly celebrated Tar Drops to all similarly affected, who will find them pleasant, simple, very efficacious, and the cheapest remedy I ever used. Yours, very truly,
W. HARRISON HORNER,
No. 316 Baltimore st.

PEARSON'S MEDICATED TAR DROPS are prepared and sold by GEO. PEARSON, No. 5 N. Liberty street, Baltimore.

CAUTION.—On account of some parties having manufactured a spurious imitation, I have adopted a new label, and in future none will be genuine unless my signature is on each package. [s11-d] GEO. PEARSON.
