MUSICAL MOMENTS

Washington Missionary choir appears at Berea Temple

By ADAH K. JENKINS

One of the important choral events of the pre-holiday season was a concert given Sunday by the Washington Missionary A Capella Choir at the Berea Temple Seven Day Adventist.

Forty singers, directed by Glenn Cole, acquitted themselves exceedingly well in a program of religious music of various periods.

It was plain from his spoken introductions to each number that Mr. Cole is a musician of extensive background and his choir sang with a genuine appreciation of the works they presented.

Beginning with a plain chant of the medieval period the program progressed to "O Come Let Us Worship" by Palestrine, Italian reformer of Catholic liturgical music in the 16th century.

It was sung with an almost detached, other-world atmosphere that was exalted as well as mystical.

A small group of Madrigal Singers from the Washington Missionary College gave a group of religious works that might have been styled as "motets."

They were by Gibbons, Tollis and Morely, all English writers of the 16th century. Altho rendered with taste, marred only by an occasional deviation from pitch, the similiarity of the compositions made them somewhat monotonous.

The international Christmas England and Russia by the Madrigal group were a high light of the evening. Holft's "Christmas Day" with its medley of familiar carols and the soprano descant, was especially enjoyable.

• • • •

THE BAROQUE Period was represented by a Bach gem "Jesu, Priceless Treasure" followed by Schutz's (of the Renaissance German School) "Psalm." The Brahms' "Magdelena" with its rich harmonies and interweaving of melodies was a compelling example of the Romantic tradition, combined with best of the Classic period of Bach and Beethoven.

Arkhangelsky's "Blessings of Peace" showed the influence of the Russian Orthodox Church liturgy, beautiful in a rugged strength and at times age-inspiring. "Sing Ye 'All Noel'" by the contemporary Composer, York, had the flavor of the medieval English good cheer.

The Washington singers concluded the concert with a beneficiary folk song, full of rollicking diction, "The Lord Bless You and Keep You." The event was sponsored by The Bykota Service Club of Berea Temple; N. Montgomery, president, O. Scott, secretary and S. Scribner, treasurer.

EVENT OF THE MONTH: The final appearance of Dr. Massimo Freccia as conductor of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra at the Lyric last Wednesday.

This outstanding conductor who guided the destinies of the orchestra, making a signal contribution to the musical life of the city, received a standing ovation from the audience and the players at the conclusion of Strauss' opera "Elektra."

This exotic one-act opera lost none of its superb drama in concert form.

Gifted soloists imported for the occasion and experienced local vocalists in the minor roles gave a stirring performance.

As impressive as the singing was, the Strauss score really made the orchestra almost "steal the show." The Symphony greatly enlarged, played the very difficult score with grand effect.

A few muffed entrances in the strings were lost in the passionate lyric passages, the realistic sound effects, as the orchestra built up climax after climax in the tragic Greek story.

Sonja Barbieri, from Yogoslavia, was highly adequate in the title role of Elektra, who revenged her father's murder by her mother.

Some felt her dependence upon the printed page lessened her dramatic effect. Ellen Faull, as the sister, was in splendid form, using a fine voice with a high degree of confidence and freedom.

• • •

THE ROLE of Elektra's mother was given a compelling rendition by Evelyn Sachs of New York. She is an experienced operatic singer and conveyed in a gripping fashion the tortured mind of the guilty murderess.

Joshua Hecht, also of New York, who began his operatic career in Baltimore and has appeared in numerous productions here, gave a masterly reading of the leading male role, as the brother of Elektra.

Among the local singers was Frank Whitmore, baritone.

Following the concert, a number of music lovers met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Terrell, who entertained in honor of their cousin Rudolf Schaar and Mrs. Schaar, of New York. Mr. Schaar, with whom Miss Sachs, of the "Elektra" cast, studied the role, appeared in Baltimore some years ago as accompanist for Aubrey Pancke.

Mrs. Schaar is remembered also as the Japanese singer of the One World Quartet (interracial, intercultural) that gave several concerts in Baltimore about eleven years ago.

Both of these musicians have been making a noteworthy contribution for some years to better human relations through music.

THE PIANO Teachers Activities Group presented students of beginners level in a recent concert at Coppin State Teachers College, which was filled to capacity to hear the young performers.

No way daunted by the size of the audience they seemed to enjoy thoroughly such enchanting items as "In a Goldfish Bowl," "Windshield Wiper Story," "Oscar Octopus," "Pigtails Polka" and "Brazilian."

Altho the titles were imaginative and designed to catch and hold the interest of the young musicians, they are planned also to train the players in sound piano technics.

Pupils were from the studios of Mesdames Mildred Bryant, Alma Caswell, Gwendolyn Lassiter, Florence Carter, Gladys Davis, Katrine White, Frances Eubanks, Miss Maude LaForest and your writer.

Playing were: Rhoda Fields, Marsah Brown, David Williams, Rosina Mitchell, Rosina Mitchell, Shiela and Paula Brooks, Thelma Cole, Paulette Hill, Larry Lewis, Leila Duncan, Joseph Courtney, Clarence Simms, Sandra Lamont, Christine Giles, Marshal Henson, Cassandra Sprouill, Emile Julian, Pamela Carroll, Karen Bandfield, Yvonne and Cynthia Cousins, Carol Mitchell, Rita Bass, Kenneth Barnes, Cory Ellerbe and Maxine Gregory.

The teachers' group will present a program by students of intermediate levels early in the new year.

Good Old Days came 25 years ago

If you are an oldtimer, or a young oldtimer, you might be interested to note that it was just 25 years ago today (Friday) that they repealed the national Prohibition law.

Yup — they made it legal to drink the stuff out in public again, buy it out in public again.

Congress reversed itself in 1933, after passing the law on March 2, 1929.

• • •

DURING THE period when it was in effect, a lot of people (according to a lot of other people) made their own stuff, drank it — and sometimes sold it.

Well — you can still make it. Federal agents contend some people still do.

But, the government would appreciate collecting taxes on such beverages.—MAX JOHNSON

BIKE WINNERS—Carolyn Boyd, 1527 Druid Hill Ave., and John Moriarty, Bayside Beach, Pasadena, Md., won the two handsome bicycles given away in a safety contest by Rosenthal's Department Store, Eutaw and Saratoga Sts. The contest, open to all children of school age, was sponsored as part of Rosenthal's 60th anniversary celebration this year.

Triple shooting tip collects top money

A tipster picked up his telephone last week and called to say three persons had been wounded in shooting on Forest Park Ave.

The call was worth $5 in cash to the caller — top newslip money this week.

Another $5 check was paid to the tipster who provided information about a topflight entertainment star who was here in the city.

Tips on the death of the well-known street corner preacher; birth of a baby in a police car and the four children found alone ina house were worth $3 each.

• • •

THE INFORMATION about a man fatally injuring himself in a fall down a flight of steps netted the caller $2 and a similar amount went to the tipster who told us there was a fire at a print shop.

Just two $1 checks. One for the tipster on the death of a former Baltimorean in Chicago and the other for the tip on the classroom fire at School 119.

Each week the AFRO offers $50 for newstips and $50 for news pictures. To give a newstip, just call MU 5-6015 and say: "I have a tip." News photos must be brought to the City Desk, 628 N. Eutaw St.

Tip winners are selected on the basis of the value of their information, the promptness of the call and the type of information given. Any call could be a winner.

Fight to save 'neighborhood'

"The Fight to Save a Do Neighborhood" will be the subject of a talk by Dean Richard M. Bray at a meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. of Neighbors, Inc., in the Brightwood Park Methodist Church at Eighth and Jefferson Sts., NW.

Dean Bray, director of general and special studies at American University, will discuss his experiences in the project to rejuvenate the Adams-Morgan area of northwest Washington.

Neighbors, Inc., has a membership of more than 200 since its inception this year.

It was organized to discover the means by which changing neighborhoods could retain their character rather than slipping back into completely segregated areas.

Miss Ella Browne's kin get her estate

The $5,168.86 estate of Miss Ella R. Browne, retired school teacher who died here, Feb. 2, this year, has been divided among seven grandnieces and grandnephews.

The estate was administered by Mrs. Katharine O. Johnson of 2351 Druid Hill Avenue, whose final account has been filed in Orphans Court.

Deducted from the $5,168.86 were administration costs, taxes and debts amounting to $2,079.35.

The beneficiaries were: Mary D. Brown, Andrew Dorsey, Robert Dorsey, Isabelle Hillian and Raymond Dorsey, each of whom received $408.26; and Calvin Dorsey and Delores Millow, who received $408.25 each.

Matron gets $915 back from prison authorities

Judge John T. Tucker ruled on Nov. 26 that it is illegal for the Board of Correction to confiscate money found in possession of inmates of peani institutions.

Judge Tucker's decree was handed down in the case of a Northwest Baltimore matron who sought the aid of the Baltimore City Court to get back a sao of $915 she had on her person when she was committed to the Maryland State Reformatoryfor Women at Jessups, Md., in 1953.

She is Mrs. Viola Wilson who entered prison on Sept. 22, 1953 to serve four years for receiving stolen goods.

Secured by pins to her underclothing, Mrs. Wilson carried with her the money which reportedly represented her life savings.

IT WAS NOT until almost three years later, on May 22, 1956 that prison officials discovered the money and as punishment for having it, Mrs. Wilson was kept on rations of bread and water for portions of a week and confined to her room for a six-week period until July 7, 1956 when she was released.

In handing down his ruling, Judge Tucker agreed with prison officials that possession of money by a prison is bad from disciplinary standpoint but he added that in the case of Mrs. Wilson, prison officials acted illegally in confiscating the money.

The jurist stated that he found no proof that the money was used or intended to be used for illegal purposes.

Judge Tucker also ruled that court costs for the two years legal proceedings be paid out of the $915 due Mrs. Wilson.

Two matrons ask $40,000 for injuries

Two suits asking a total of $40,000 have been filed in Superior Court against property owners by two matrons who charge they received injuries in alleged defective dwellings.

The suits were filed on behalf of Mrs. Minnie Belle Baskerville, 700 block E. Eager St., and Mrs. Elva Stephenson, 2700 block Edgewood Rd., by Amos I. Meyers, attorney.

Mrs. Baskerville's suit names Charles and Mrs. Theresa Pitts, 2800 block Hillen Rd. as defendants. She asks $15,000 for a leg injury she allegedly received while a tenant in a house in the 1200 block E. Church St. on August 4, 1957.

Mrs. Stephenson seeks $25,000 for alleged injuries on Dec. 1955, when a portion of a wall fell in a home she was visiting in the 900 block W. Fayette St.

Mrs. Stephenson and Mr. Myers have named as defendants in the suit: Bernard and Samuel Green, 2200 block Winchester St.; Louis Gallant, 3800 block Sequoia Ave.; Edward Green, 3900 block Norfolk Ave., and Meyer M. Cardin, Equitable Bldg.

Youngster hit crossing street

David Morgan, 10, 900 block Franklintown Rd., was hit by a car Tuesday at Poplar Grove St. near Lafayette Ave.

The child was attempting to cross Poplar Grove from the southeast to the southwest side of the street.

He was taken to Lutheran Hospital and treated for injuries to his head and shoulders.

Nat Goods, 40, 300 block N. Franklintown Rd., has been charged with reckless driving in connection with the accident.

Robert Chase estate of $6,900 will go to widow and other kin

The estate of Robert S. Chase, who died at Perry Point Hospital, November 18, will amount to approximately $6,900 according to papers filed in Orphans Court, this week.

W. Emerson Brown, attorney, has been granted papers to administer.

Listed as heirs are his widow, Mrs. Mary Chase a city teacher of 2057 Bentalou St.; a brother, Reason Chase, and sister, Mrs. Catherine Chase Manns, both of 726 N. Carrollton Ave.

Mr. Chase, a brilliant Howard University graduate, was at one time a teacher in Md. — D. C. In later years, he was known as a street corner preacher.

Mrs. Ruth M. Burgess left a personal estate of approximately $100 according to her husband, Elmer A. Burgess, who filed for administration papers, this week.

Mr. Burgess is her only survivor. The wife died on Nov. 16, at their home, 2400 Montebello Terrace.

Two hundred attend confab sponsored by beauticians

WASHINGTON

Approximately 200 persons attended the sixth annual Mid Atlantic Conference of the National Beauty Culturists' League, Inc. last weekend.

The conference opened with worship service at Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church Sunday morning. A social session was held that same evening at the national home of the NBCL at 25 Logan Circle, NW.

Marcus Griffith, owner of the Beautyrama chain of beauty salons, was master of ceremonies. Mrs. Marion Jackson gave the main address. The latest hairstyles were presented by the Devore School of Charm. Hairstyles featuring a wide range of exotic colors from sapphire sits to ebony black were presented by Mmes. Grace La Savage. Musical selections were by Miss Doris Turner and Mrs. Beatrice H. Smith.

• • •

THE FIRST business session was held Sunday night. Presiding at the opening was the outgoing regional supervisor, Mrs. Ruth Valentine of Norfolk, Va. The principal report was delivered by Mrs. Cordelia Jennings, national corresponding secretary, for Mrs. Katie E. Whickam of New Orleans, who was unable to be present due to illness.

Mrs. Jennings reported the progress of the national membership drive for 10,000 new members. She said the Washington Chapters are setting a good pace and one of their members has an excellent opportunity to win the first prize, an all-expense-free trip to Europe.

Mrs. Jennings also presented the details for National Beauty Week which will be held February 9-15. The theme for this week will be "Use your professional beauty culturists. She can do more for you."

• • •

ONE OF the highlights of the beauty week campaign will be a fashion beautician contest in which the contestant can win a year of free beauty service.

Monday was devoted to a style clinic at the Cafeteria and Restaurant Workers Hall, 1438 You St., NW. Mrs. Rose Cooke of Philadelphia, Mrs. Carolyn Murray of Baltimore, Md. Mrs. Grace Chambers of Washington, D.C. and Mrs. Rose Davis of Baltimore, Md. were stylists and demonstrators.

• • •

THE NEW officers for the coming year are:

Mrs. Virgie Waters of Baltimore, Md., supervisor; assistant supervisor, Mrs. Annie Jackson of Washington, D.C.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Janie Saunders, Baltimore, Md.; recording secretary, Mrs. Virginia Dantzler, of Washington, D.C.; treasurer, Mrs. Edythe Myers, Baltimore, Md.; financial secretary, Mrs. Doris Ford, Richmond, Va.; assistant financial secretary, Mrs. Lucille Warren, Chestertown, Md.; chaplain, Mrs. Ethel Felder, Baltimore; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Margaret Ford, D.C., and assistant sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Ruth Matthews, N. Smallwood St.

On new Federal Court Grand Jury

The following persons were among those named this week to the Grand Jury for the U.S. District Court's December term.

James E. Jordan, 1900 block Regester St.; Sidney H. Brown, 3200 block Tioga Pkwy., and Herman J. Conway, 2100 block N. Smallwood St.

Plumber gets year in jail on two raps

James Rucker, a plumber was found guilty in Criminal Court last week and sentenced to one year in the House of Correction on a larceny after trust charge and 30 days, to run concurrently, on an assault charge.

The charges were lodged against Mr. Rucker by Wilber Driver, a businessman who hired the plumber for furnace repair work and Mrs. Ethel Mickey, 1900 block Ashburton St., who told police Rucker had beat her about the body and face.

According to Mr. Driver's testimony he gave Rucker a check for a sum of $165 to do a furnace repair and heating system job on an apartment house in the 2400 block Madison Ave.

Mr. Driver told the court that Rucker later admitted that he had used the money to do another contract job.

Mrs. Mickey did not testify, however police reported that they arrested Rucker while he was asleep in the Asburton St. apartment.

George Russell represented Mr. Rucker.

Gov. McKeldin puts new address on vote identification card

Many persons were present in the Supervisors of Elections office on Thursday when one of Maryland's most distinguished citizens arrived.

He was Governor Theodore R. McKeldin who was present to file a change of address as all good citizens should do when they plan to move.

Soon to become ex-governor of Maryland "just plain citizen" Gov. McKeldin and his wife Mrs. McKeldin will be at home at 103 Goodale Rd. in the Homeland section of the city sometime early in January, 1959.

On January 14 governor-elect J. Millard Tawes will be sworn in as the state's new chief executive and will move to Annapolis.

Early in November Mr. and Mrs. Tawes told the AFRO they plan to move in shortly after the McKeldins move out, "sometime around the 14th."

Accident victim says police report was inaccurate

A police report which said an accident victim was admitted to Union Memorial Hospital has been described as inaccurate.

Mrs. Mary L. Williams, 800 block Wilbert Ave., said that following the crash at Calvert and 21st St., she was taken to Union Memorial but received only superficial treatment.

Later, Mrs. Williams said, she was admitted to Johns Hopkins Hospital where she remained several weeks because of the seriousness of her injuries.

The report also incorrectly listed Mrs. Williams as being single, it was reported.
