BALTIMORE.

THURSDAY, APRIL 24, 1862.

From the New York Express.

GARRISON VS. PARSON BROWNLOW.

The Liberator (Garrison) thus indulges in a tirade against Parson Brownlow, the patriotic Unionist of Tennessee:

"A more coarse-minded, vulgar, abusive, pugilistic disputant it would be difficult to find. It is something to his credit, under such trying circumstances, that he refused to play the traitor; but this makes him neither a gentleman nor a Christian."

GARRISON VS. GEN. M'CLELLAN.

In the same column, the brave General, now before Yorktown, is thus attacked with a charge of treason:

"It was known there (at Richmond) when the corps d'armee had landed and were assembled at Fortress Monroe; it was known there when Gen. McClellan and his staff arrived at the Fortress, and it was known there when the march on Yorktown commenced, and what number of troops Gen. McClellan had wherewith to make the attack.—How is this to be accounted for? There is something inexplicable about this Gen. McClellan and all his movements."

And, with such men, Union men of the North are expected "to co-operate," to make a party.

THE NEGRO—CONFESSIONS OF A REPUBLICAN.

The Albany Evening Journal has the following:

"It must be confessed that the negro has played, thus far, an unexpected role in the drama of revolution. He has not manifested the alacrity to embrace the opportunities for freedom which we had anticipated. The most sanguine has, we presume, by this time abandoned the idea of his being a very essential auxiliary in the work of putting down the Slaveholders' Rebellion. Nothing, we take it, has been more clearly established by the history of the past few months, than that whatever is done to break the power of the oligarchy and destroy the political influence of slavery, must be done rather by the white men of the North than the blacks of the South. The latter may indirectly assist, but they cannot be relied upon as a 'constant quantity' in the fearful problem we are called upon to solve.

"We had expected a very different state of things. We doubted whether the Confederates would dare hazard the accidents of a war, menaced, as we supposed they were, with a 'foe in the rear,' in the shape of four millions of malcontented 'chattels.' We counted upon insurrections—terrible and wide-spread insurrections—among the servile population, as an inevitable and almost immediate consequence of a war between the Government and the secessionists. Indeed, in the earlier months of the rebellion, appearances seemed to justify such an expectation. The air was full of strange rumors. Hints of bloody outbreaks were dropped from oracular lips. Intimations of the ripening of long-concealed plots were daily given out. Prophecies that with the coming of the Christmas holidays, at farthest, we should witness extensive uprisings of the blacks, were rife.

"We counted upon this disposition of the negro to take advantage of the rebellion of his master to inaugurate a rebellion on his own behalf, as one of the chief elements of the weakness of the South. We argued that the people, confronted by the horror of a servile uprising, would gladly seek the protection of the Government against which they had so madly revolted. We supposed that, so far from continuing to resist, they would invoke the assistance of our troops, to save them from the fury of their own insurgents' chattels.

"But the result we anticipated has not come to pass. Slavery, so far from being an element of weakness, has been an element of strength to the Confederates. The blacks have failed, except in a few cases, to embrace the opportunities of freedom. They have failed, as a class, to prove that they very ardently covet a change of circumstances. It is true they have sought our camps in large numbers; but they have not exhibited anything like a settled purpose to strike for liberty. They have talked vainly about the 'Canaan of the North,' but they have not struggled very desperately to reach the promised land. It may be answered that they have received no encouragement from our Government; but the very fact that they have not taken the initiative, but waited for others to do the work of emancipation for them, is a strong presumption of their lukewarmness and want of moral courage.

"So deep has the canker of bondage eaten into the soul of the slave, that he is become half enamored of his chains! We have little to expect from him in the fearful struggle in which we are engaged. Whatever is done for him, must, for the present at least, be suggested by ourselves. We must not only show him the path but teach him how to walk.

"This is not a pleasant truth to learn; but we cannot know it too soon. We have counted far too much upon the negro, and far too little upon the stout arms of free men, as the capital agent in crushing out the rebellion."

Our Republican friends are thus learning a great deal—but at what cost to the country?

The Baltimore correspondent of the New York Post thus compliments the Baltimore Sun:

I thank the Baltimore Sun for reproducing in its editorial columns, this morning, what I said in one of my late letters respecting the Maryland delegation in Congress and their relation to the abolition of slavery bill for the District of Columbia. It has disseminated the important facts stated by me amongst its thousands of readers, and is not afraid to keep the public informed of the progress of the anti-slavery sentiments in the State. Indeed, since September last the Sun has done more to support the Government, and spread correct information in relation to slavery, the cause of the war, than all the professed Union papers in Maryland—not by hypocritical arguments, but by a fair and judicious publication of the news of the day. Again, I thank the Sun for its manly course. It used to be sympathetic with the rebellion, but is no longer so; and I honor it far more for its editorial silence on the subject, than I do the hypocritical and wavering course of its local contemporaries, whose courage in resisting the rebellion is measured by the distance of Jeff. Davis from Baltimore.

THE TAX BILL IN DANGER.—The last advices from Washington are to the effect that it is seriously proposed to let the tax bill lie over until the next session of Congress. The delay in reporting it to the Senate, the immense interests engaged in throwing impediments in the way of the adoption of any burden of this kind, the reluctance of Congressmen to be identified with a measure involving so much local unpopularity, gives color to this alarming rumor. It has been determined to adjourn in May, which is near at hand, yet we are told the Senate committee will not report it before the close of this week. It must then be debated, amended, and sent back to the House, a process likely to take months rather than weeks, and yet the session is near its close. We do not like the bill under discussion. A far better one might have been framed in a quarter of the time with one-tenth of the labor. But, bad as it is, it is infinitely better than none at all.—Better for the country that we lost one of our grand armies than that Congress failed to pass a tax bill at this present session.—N. Y. World, April 22.

A SINGULAR PROPHECY.—The following circumstances, says the Richmond Whig, recently occurred at Pensacola, and its truth is vouched for by a trustworthy officer of the army:

A soldier in the Confederate service fell into a long and profound sleep, from which his comrades vainly essayed to arouse him. At last he woke up himself. He then stated that he should die the next afternoon at 4 o'clock, for it was so revealed to him in his dream. He said in the last week of the month of April would be fought the greatest and bloodiest battle of modern times, and that early in May peace would break upon the land more suddenly and unexpectedly than the war had done in the beginning. The first part of the prophetic dream has been realized, for the soldier died the next day at 4 o'clock, P. M. Will the rest be in April and May? Let believers in dreams wait and see.—Mobile Advertiser.

TABLE OF DISTANCES TO RICHMOND.—Taking Richmond as the centre, the following table shows at a glance the distance of different points in Virginia from there:

PETITIONS FROM THE PEOPLE OF SYRACUSE, N. Y., AGAINST NEGROES ENTERING THE STATE.—The town is in a broad grin to-day, over the petitions the Syracuse people are deluging the State Legislature with, asking that a law be passed prohibiting negro emigration into this State. Syracuse, you know, is the great Abolition headquarters of the Empire State. It is there where the Bloomer women most do congregate, and where young Africa always uttered the loudest shrieks. For Syracuse to be protesting now against a possible irruption of contrabands, then, is not the handsome thing. It savors of base hypocrisy, if not something even worse.—New York Correspondence Phil'a Inquirer, April 21.

SPANISH INTRIGUES IN HAYTI.—Recent advices from Port au Prince state that no little excitement has been caused throughout the Island, by the fact that the Spanish Government had demanded the restoration of the old boundary line between Hayti and St. Domingo. This question, it will be remembered, was settled some time since by the Haytians paying $25,000 in Spanish currency, and retaining possession of the disputed territory. The Spaniards now demand $100,000 indemnity, which President Jeffrard refuses to give, and intends to refer the matter to the arbitration of France and England.

The magnificent new Roman Catholic Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul, at New York, was consecrated on Sunday, with the usual ceremonies.—The address was delivered by Rev. Hugh McLaughlin, of Richmond.

Thomas Bolton, Esq., senior member of the well known house of Bolton, Ogden & Co., American merchants of Liverpool, died in that city on the 20th of March, at the age of 83 years.

RELIABLE NEWS.
BALTIMORE, March 29, 1862.
Mr. Geo. Pearson—Dear Sir: Being troubled with a severe SORE THROAT and Cold (which settled on my lungs), I tried your MEDICATED TAR DROPS, and can speak very flatteringly of their having relieved me in a few hours, and caring me in three or four days. I cheerfully recommend your justly celebrated Tar Drops to all similarly affected, who will find them pleasant, simple, very efficacious, and the cheapest remedy I ever used. Yours, very truly,
W. HARRISON HORNER, No. 316 Baltimore st.

FRONT STREET THEATRE.
MONDAY, APRIL 28th,
First appearance in this city of the
GREAT PRESTIDIGITATEUR
HERRMANN.
The Managers, Messrs. ULMAN & PALMER, of the Academy of Music, New York, would respectfully call the attention of the public to the appearance in Baltimore of
MONSIEUR HERRMANN,
Who is universally recognized as the
GREATEST LIVING PRESTIDIGITATEUR, and whose performances at the Academy of Music in New York, Philadelphia and Boston, where for four months he played to houses overflowing for the last four months, have been pronounced the most wonderful in their peculiar line.
The performance of Herrmann are entirely original and novel. Their distinguishing feature is the entire
ABSENCE OF APPARATUS,
All effects being solely produced by extraordinary
MANUAL SKILL.
During the interval of M. Herrmann's Programme will be given a
GRAND CONCERT
BY THE FULL ORCHESTRA,
and the celebrated Trio, from the Academy of Music, New York—
Messrs. SCHRIENER, Pianist,
LORIMER, Violinist,
WEDEMEYER, Violoncellist
who will be announced from the stage by M. Herrmann himself.
