SUFFERINGS OF THE PEOPLE OF ENGLAND.

WANT AND PAUPERISM OF THE WHITE TOILERS—A FINE CHANCE FOR ABOLITION CHARITY.

From the London Times, April 19.

The almost incessant rain has abated; the sky is clear and bright; the spring flowers are out in spite of the cold, and the bloom is on every shrub and fruit-bearing tree. So far there never was a pleasant Easter. But while the seasons run their course, there is one season that is not returning.—A population of millions is now suffering as much as if the sun had respectered shorn of half its beams, or nature had suddenly shown signs of decay. A terrible cotton dearth deprives countless hands, through populous districts and crowded cities, of the means of earning bread. It is all the same as if the grain had perished by blight, or the root by rot; for, though the food is in the country, or within purchaseable distance, the means of purchase are not to be found; and people perish, as was said in the days of "Protection," in the midst of full granaries and piles of provisions. An inscrutable Providence ever varies the dispensation. It was once a fiscal system; then it was a bad harvest; then it was an over-stocked market; then it was the periodical rebellion of labor against capital.—Ingenious men endeavored to forecast the next shape of calamity, and imagined a quarrel with the United States in which they would endeavor to starve us out and humble us to terms by withholding their cotton. The Americans themselves grew proud of our dependence. But that has now happened which neither happened before nor so much as occurred to any prophet of ill. The cotton crop has been shut up on the soil that bore it by the disruption of the States themselves; and for once we are the "baser nature" that

"Comes
Between the pass and fell incensed points
Of mighty opposites."

The myriads who a few years ago were reading with tears the tragic tale of negro suffering and wrong, little thought that they would one day exchange a sentiment for an actual participation in that story. The American Abolitionists, having preached to them in vain, now enforces a reluctant consistency, and denies them slave grown cotton. The result is a national disaster. It does not seem to abate, and no one could say what pass it will come to. For a time there was hope, founded chiefly on the difficulty of supposing that so strange a state of things could last long. The war was to end soon by the mere process of exhaustion. The blockade was to be set at nought. There was to be a European intervention. There might be a circuitous traffic. Perhaps the calculations were wrong. Perhaps the stocks were larger, or India more productive. But all these expectations have had their day, and the result is now before us. There is a dearth of cotton. The mills are passing day by day from full time to short time, from short time to closing. The mill owners are tired of working their machinery to no profit, or maintaining those who can give no return. The amount of the suffering overwhelms private benevolence. The operatives have exhausted their savings, run out their credit, sold their furniture, and at last sunk their pride, and presented themselves before Boards of Guardians and relieving officers. This, however, is not the most miserable result. A letter we published some days ago from "A Lancashire Lad" described the sad straits to which the poor factory girls are reduced and the appeals to which they are driven. There cannot be a heart in these islands that will not feel for a group of girls wanting nothing but a day's work, and reduced to breathe in an under tone to the casual passer-by—'Cannot you do something to help us?' Cannot we do something to help them? Were there the least hope of that miserable war in the States ending within the few months that wise men assigned to it, we should be only too glad to let things take their course. But we see no such hope, and have to look the calamity in the face. * * * * * * *

In the Union of Ashton-under-Lyne there are now about five thousand receiving relief, compared with half that number in the bad times four years ago, and little more than a third last year. In the Union of Blackburn there are more than ten thousand receiving relief, compared with less than half that number four years ago, and little more than a quarter last year. The Bolton Union is somewhat less dependent on cotton, and matters are only about 25 per cent. worse than last year. In Burnley Union more than twice as many are receiving relief as last year, and a good many more than in the bad times four years ago. In Bury Union there are nearly twice as many "paupers" as there were a year ago; in Chorley Union half as many again; in Chorlton Union a third more; in Haslingden Union about twice as many; in Liverpool 22,000, against 14,000 last year, in Macclesfield Union a quarter more than last year; in Manchester township near 13,000, or more than twice as many as last year; in Oldham Union three-quarters more than last year; in Preston Union about 11,500, or between two and three times as many as last year; in Rochdale Union twice as many as last year; in Salford Union, three-quarters more; in Stockport Union three times as many. In these Unions alone there are not less 50,000 more persons receiving relief than there were this time last year, when manufacturers were already reducing their produce, and keeping their mills open more for kindness than profit. These 50,000 persons have been driven from their only employment to the hard necessity of demanding relief over and above the applicants of a period which might be called one of anxiety and approaching distress. Yet we are assured those 50,000 additional paupers do not at all represent the number made absolutely destitute by the dearth of cotton; and there are behind them many thousands as badly off, whom nothing will induce to come forward and parade their misery to the world.

Now, what is to be done? Leeds suffers; Sheffield suffers; even Birmingham suffers—there are three thousand more "paupers" there than last year at this time. At Coventry there are near three times as many; such Unions as Stoke-upon-Trent and Ecclesall Bierlow are suffering considerably. Enterprise is flagging at many other places; for people do not know how soon the flood may reach them, be they ever so much out of the cotton district. But the other day 200 persons were starved to death, or more mercifully suffocated in a coal-pit. With the wives and children, here were about 600 persons thrown on the public benevolence.—The details won for them a deep and peculiar interest, and £70,000 flowed in with scarcely an invitation. Probably a hundred times that number of victims are now suffering only a more protracted form of the same tortures, and we are almost afraid to plead for them, there are so many scruples and difficulties. Has not cotton produced a wealth and an aristocracy of its own? Has it not been stated, without contradiction, that five millions, and, indeed, much more, have been made by this very rise in prices which we call the cotton dearth?—Have not some of the mill owners themselves laid up stocks, and then sold them at a great profit—may, even for exportation to New York? * * * * Would that something would inspire a millionaire or two to address themselves to the noble and necessary work of supplying helpmeets for all these scattered and solitary Adams! But we cannot wait for this. We must look ahead and watch the peril in our course. Here is a fearful mass of destitution that may any day prove too great for the local resources. It must not be too soon adopted by the State, but it may be too late, and meanwhile it must not be forgotten by any whom it may concern:

INCREASE OF DISLOYALTY IN THE BORDER STATES.

From the Boston Courier.

The unhappy condition of sentiment growing up in the Border States may be judged about, by the following passage from the Henderson (Ky.) Weekly Mail, a thoroughgoing Union sheet:

"We think the time of Congress could be much better spent, at this time, than in the discussion of slavery issues. If that body shall longer continue in session, and give out many more signs of Abolitionism, the whole ground of contest will have to be fought over again. The army is passing South through blood, and at enormous expense, it is true; yet a vast amount of disloyal sentiment is left behind, and the stock is increasing at a fearful ratio in this quarter, owing to the gross folly and wickedness of the treasonable Abolitionists of the North and Northwest. When the leading Republicans disclaim abolition motives and sympathy with the Abolitionists, and yet act in perfect harmony with them, the loyal men of the South distrust, very naturally, their sincerity.

"The time is now at hand when the whole energies of the friends of the Union and the Constitution should be blended in the common cause—when men should decide upon the naked question of Union or Dissolution. The Abolitionists of the North and Secessionists of the South both pull the same string, and declare for dissolution. The tendency of the action of both is to Abolitionism. The object of each is disunion."

To this we add a brief account of the speech of Senator Davis, of Kentucky, delivered May 1. We make this extract from the Washington correspondence of the New York World, but intend to give hereafter the speech of Mr. Davis in full. The World correspondent writes:

"Senator Davis, among his numerous speeches, delivered a vigorous one in the Senate to-day, saying that while he did not wish to make a threat, he would say that if the confiscation bill passed Congress, all the people in the South, without regard to sex, would so resist it with every means in their power as to neutralize its effects everywhere. He called earnestly on the Republican Senators to adhere to their pledges made during the last session in the passage of a resolution against any interference with slavery in the States."

RELIABLE NEWS.

BALTIMORE, March 29, 1862.

Mr. Geo. Pearson—Dear Sir: Being troubled with a severe SORE THROAT and COLD (which settled on my lungs), I tried your MEDICATED TAR DROPS, and can speak very flatteringly of their having relieved me in a few hours, and curing me in three or four days. I cheerfully recommend your justly celebrated Tar Drops to all similarly affected, who will find them pleasant, simple, very efficacious, and the cheapest remedy I ever used. Yours, very truly,

FOR BOARDERS AND VISITORS.
The undersigned respectfully announces to his friends and the public, that he has again taken possession of the PARADISE HOUSE, and will conduct it in the same manner as when formerly under his control.
It is needless to describe the location, as it is generally conceded to be unequalled by any other in the State, for beauty of scenery, general convenience and healthfulness; and being 500 feet above tide-water, it affords a full view of the City, Bay and surrounding landscapes.
This Delightful Retreat is situated on the Frederick turnpike, 3½ miles from the Baltimore city limits.
OMNIBUSES pass the door every few minutes, fare 10 cents. The Baltimore and Catonsville Railroad will soon be completed, which, connecting with the City Passenger Railroad, will offer easy access from all parts of the city.
Persons desirous of securing Choice Rooms would do well to make early application to

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE.
DISTILLERY OR LAGER BEER BREWERY.
That valuable property known as the "SOUTH SIDE DISTILLERY," situated a few rods beyond the city limits. The main building is three stories high, 105 by 48 feet, it contains an ENGINE OF SEVENTY HORSE POWER of superior construction, 4 pair of Burrs, Vats &c., &c.; and machinery has been applied wherever required to dispense with manual labor. The capacity of the works is from 1,000 bushels to 1,400 bushels daily, with water privileges sufficient for an enlargement to 5,000 bushels. The water for cooling purposes is never over 50°. No expense has been spared to make it complete in every particular. The premises, on which the Distillery Buildings are erected, comprises FOUR ACRES OF GROUND, embraces within it Pens for feeding 4,000 Hogs, constructed in the most approved manner, two three story BRICK DWELLINGS and a STONE STABLE for 12 Horses.
The whole property is admirably adapted for a "LAGER BEER BREWERY," with capacious Cellar room and every facility for extending the same to any extent. Or can at a small expense be converted into a FLOURING MILL, with power sufficient to grind 200 to 250 barrels of FLOUR daily.
The property will be sold low and on the most accommodating terms. For further particulars, apply to
